who she had been ordered on duty. The squadron was increased by the Pinckney and Porpoise, the St. Albans, and soon after by the John Adams, and the steamship Mississippi.

The Secretary visited all the naval establishments, both those of Pensacola and Memphis, and they are generally in excellent order.

It is recommended that the Naval Asylum at Philadelphia, at which are now more than a hundred sailors, be never enlarged, but that new power should be given to the Secretary to purchase spots near the Ocean where the aged seamen can watch ships as they come and go, and have all familiar objects in sight.

The conditions in a fruitless expenditure, the Secretary has refused to accede to. There is no board ship, and suggests that Midshipmen in the intervals of sea duty, may be collected together on shore and located in a school, the idea was carried out by organizing a School at Fort Stevens, at Annapolis, under the direction of Commodore Caldwell.

It is recommended that the plates of all the Charts engraved by order of Congress, be deposited in the National Observatory building.

The grant of a large sum for the establishment of a well furnished and efficient Navy Yard at Philadelphia, is a most desirable measure.

The subject of Lake Defences is reserved for a special communication.

The care of the fisheries and plantations of the West, he thinks, should be transferred to the Land Department, which alone has the proper means of ascertaining titles.

The balance of appropriations with rigid economy, he believes for next year completed, no increase in the force employed during the present year.

The Navy is praised for its excellence and efficiency, and the able and skillful officers, and the ships, capable only to be promoted, and his position is illustrated by the following remarks:

"Age and more claims precedence—though that claim is unavailing by the constitution, and unassisted by law. Seniority demands promotion, and the oldest are the best."

OUR CAUSE.

Mr. WILLEY.—From the result of our September meeting, the fact appears that we are not in this place well equipped for the work before us.

It is not in our power to do more than produce one man whose sympathy for the cause we have no doubt will give him the support of all our friends.

In the Senate a motion to refer the subject of French spoliation prior to 1801 to a select committee prevailed, 22 to 21. Committee: Fairfield, Dayton, Dix, Mangum, Sturge.

The following is Mr. Douglas's resolution in this House of Representatives, for the admission of Texas into the American Union:

Resolved, That the territory properly included within the limits of the Republic of Texas, which might be retroceded to be called the State of Texas, with a republican form of government, to be adopted by the people of Texas, in conformity to the provisions of said joint resolution: Therefore, the Senate be and they are authorized to concur in the passage of the following resolution: That the State of Texas be admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original States, in all respects whatsoever.

Resolved, That, until the representation in Congress shall be apportioned according to an enumeration of the people of the United States, the State of Texas shall be entitled to choose two representatives.

Resolved, That, until the representation in Congress shall be apportioned according to an enumeration of the people of the United States, the State of Texas shall be entitled to choose two representatives.
