A BEAT THAT FAILED

HOW THE PLANS OF AN ENTERPRIS-ING EDITOR WERE UPSET.

The Climax to the Great Dobbins-Domino Match Race as It Developed In the Office of One of the Metro politan Afternoon Dailies.

"I never read of a close finish in a big running race nowadays that I'm working in a New York newspaper of-Shaving, 156. Hairculting, 25c. working in a New York newspaper office," said an old time telegrapher who is now employed in Washington.

"It was back in the days when the great Domino was the star colt of the Keene stable and, with one exception, was acknowledged as the greatest twoyear-old of the season.

"The exception was Richard Croker's flier Dobbins. These two youngsters finally met in the Futurity, and, although the Keene colt won, with Dobbins third, the latter's owner was not satisfied with the result, and a match was speedily arranged at the Futurity distance for $10,000 a side. "Now, the paper I worked on was an evening sheet, and it was the ambition of the managing editor's life to beat the opposition evening paper and get the news of a big event like this on the

"The other fellows had beaten us on the Futurity story a few days before, and the managing editor made no seeret of the fact that he was going to get even.

"Accordingly he laid all of his plans a day ahead, and, although we did not know at the time what they were, we felt sure by the way he strutted around on the morning of the race that he had he winning combination up his sleeve. "Along about noontime of that day the editor, the most nervous man I ever met, called me into his office and told me that, as the match race was the fifth event on the card, he wanted me to have one of the other operators take the result of the fourth race, and he also wanted me to get a wire in good working order and prepare to get the result of the fifth race.

"The scheme was to have two presses set and all ready to start. One of them was to have the big front page headline read 'Dobbins Wins the Big Match,' and the other just the same, except that Domino's name appeared in the place of Dobbins'. The Dobbins extra was on press No. 1 and the Domno extra on press No. 2. Whichever orse won, the managing editor was to all out No. 1 or No. 2, and the press would be started in quicker time than it takes to ten of the arrangement.

"I couldn't help but inwardly smile s I watched the managing editor striding nervously about, waiting for the start, just like a man who had thousands of dollars wagered on the chance of one of the racers.

"Suddenly the key of my instrument and looked anxiously at me, but it proved to be only the operator at the other end testing. Learning this, he reumed his walk up and down the room. He was too dumfounded to move for two or three seconds, but when he saw all of the men who were about to jump to their places ready to throw together a new scare head, while others hustled around to find the stereotypers, who almost to a man had gone out of the building, he came to in a jiffy and was the same old hustler. "Everybody took hold and worked harder probably than he ever worked before or since, and although we didn't beat the opposition paper, as we were so certain of doing, we were on the street only a minute or so behind it. We afterward learned that they had made exactly the same arrangements to beat us and had been fooled in pre-

ion of wood against wood windmills of the old construction gave on a large scale some disastrous examples. When the force of the wind increased the niller was obliged to bring each of the sails in succession to the ground in order to unclothe it, but when sudden squalls came on this was impracticable, and the mill in extreme cases ran away—that is, could not be stopped. Everything was now done to increase not reminded of a famous punctured | the grip of the wooden brake round the scoop in which I figured when I was great wheel on the driving shaft, and water was poured copiously over them, but in spite of all this flames would sometimes burst out from the intense friction and the mill be probably burned down as the result. The beautiful machinery of the modern windmill, by which the miller controls the action of the sails from the interior of the building, has reduced this danger to a minimum.-Notes and Queries.
