THE UNION—IT MUST BE PRESERVED.

FRIDAY MORNING, DEC. 12, 1834.

We beg leave to call the attention of the public to the sale of the property belonging to the New Orleans Building Company, which is to take place this day, at 12 o'clock, at the Exchange Coffee House, consisting of 14 valuable three story brick stores with granite fronts, and 10 valuable vacant lots, situated at the triangle, at the junction of Delord and Louisa streets. This property, though extremely valuable, will probably sell low, and afford capitalists and speculators an excellent opportunity of making profitable investments.

☞ The proceedings of the general and bull committees came too late for insertion in our number of to-day. They shall appear in our next.

Peleg Sprague, one of Nicholas Biddle's big guns in the United States senate, has resigned his seat in that body, in consequence of some compunctions of conscience occasioned by his late defeat for the gubernatorial chair in Maine. Pity that Southard and Frelinghuysen would not follow in suit. But they are old offenders, and are not to be affected in this way.

At a recent election in the town of P. in the state of Massachusetts, where the hark whigs had a triumph, great exertions were made to obtain all the negro votes, and were so entirely successful that they felt it their duty after the election to give their colored friends an entertainment. The necessary funds were forthwith subscribed and the negroes held a swiggery by themselves, after the most approved fashion. The next morning, Cæsar, one of their number, who measured six feet two in his stockings, encountered Gen. F——, a distinguished Whig leader, who had been chiefly instrumental in defraying the expenses of the swiggery. After they had shaken hands and passed the compliments of the day, Cæsar began to expatiate upon the proceedings of the preceding evening, and in the course of the conversation informed the General that he was toasted with rapturous applause. Ah! Cæsar! and what was the toast, asked the General impatiently. I tell you Massa, replied Cæsar, I gib de toast, and it was as follows:—Gen. F——, de nigger's friend—he hab a white face, but a black heart!

What do the slave-holders here think of all this? the allies of the whigs in the North are the negroes! Shame shame!! shame!!!

The Mississippian of the 28th ultimo, contains the protest of the democratic party of the people of Mississippi, recently convoked and held at Jackson, the seat of government of that state. It is signed by the most influential and respectable men, and no doubt embodies the sentiments of the freemen of our sister commonwealth. It is written in powerful and energetic language, and speaks in a manner that must make the recusante quake for the consequences of their reckless disobedience to the supremacy of the public will. The following will give the reader an idea of the tone of this document, which we regret the limits of our paper will not permit us to give it entire:

"The democracy of the state of Mississippi, deeply mortified at the coalition of their said representatives in congress with their political enemies, the anti-republican or bank party, and unwilling to submit in tame silence to the disgrace of being transmitted to posterity in the public records of congress and the annals of their country, arrayed on the side of the quondam federalists, nullifiers and the advocates of an aristocratical monied corporation, in the war waged against republicanism in the eventful period of 1833—do now, before the world, solemnly protest against the acts of their said senators and were tentatives in congress, as the acts of faithless public agents, done in violation of the public sentiment of the People of Mississippi, and at no time countenanced, encouraged, or justified by them, and consequently without excuse or palliation. In exercising the republican privilege of protesting against the proceedings of their public agents, the democracy of Mississippi do not claim the power of displacing those agents from office, however delinquent, misguided, or weak-minded they may be until the regular term of service for which they were elected expires; nor do they claim the right of annulling the acts of those agents duly commissioned by them, although those acts may be against their will and interests, until they can constitutionally and legally do so, by electing other agents more trustworthy. They claim the privilege of protest against the acts of public servants, as a constitutional and democratic measure, from which their public servants, if injustice be done them, can always appeal to the ballot box. The democracy of Mississippi believe, that the method of procedure by protest of constituents, whether of the majority or the minority, against the acts of their representatives, to be a peaceful, just, and democratical procedure, and they would deprecate all acts of violence, whether coming from the majority or minority, such as were lately put in force against a democratic representative from the state of Maine, by the minority or bank portion of his constituents, as anti-republican, and unworthy of an enlightened and free people."

The world can now judge of the integrity and faithfulness of those public servants who, in our national legislature, waged a war of uncompromising bitterness against the venerable patriot at the head of our government; and who opposed with a recklessness and illiberality perhaps unequalled in legislation, indiscriminately, all his public acts, casting upon his fair and spotless reputation the most disorderly and unmerited slanders. Justice is about to be done, and those pensioned calumniators will ere long receive the reward of their treachery and baseness. From Maine to Mississippi, the voice of an indignant and outraged people is heard, consigning them to infamy and degradation, and proclaiming aloud that popular rights and popular feelings cannot be infringed with impunity by any set of men, let their talents or the confidence that may have once been reposed in them, be ever so great.

The following is the application of the convention to the senate of the United States, to cause the protest to be entered upon the journal of the proceedings of that body:

Entertaining these views, the democracy of the state of Mississippi, in convention assembled, respectfully request of the senate of the United States, to cause this, their protest, to be entered on the journal of their proceedings, to the end, that that important branch of the federal government, may know, that if the sovereign people of Mississippi could have been present during the recent session, they would not have voted as the senators from Mississippi voted; they would not have voted that the President had acted in derogation to the laws and constitution, without specifying what laws or what part of the constitution he had violated; they would not have voted a condemnatory sentence on any public officer or any private citizen, without giving him an opportunity to be heard in his defence, and without having some specific accusation against him—specific as to time, place, and circumstance. They would not have voted to reject the President's protest; because, by doing so, they would have rejected the privilege of appeal from ex-parte trial. They would not have voted to admit those persons to appear as witnesses, accusers and prosecutors, whom the constitution has expressly appointed to act in the capacity of judges in all cases relating to the trial of the chief magistrate of this confederacy. They would not have voted to reject the protest, because the right of protest and remonstrance, is one of those unalienable and sacred rights, essential to the very existence of our republican institutions.

The protest is understood to be from the pen of Dr. Sam'l A. Cartwright of Natchez, a gentleman distinguished for the soundness of his political principles. The authorship reflects the highest credit upon him, and will in after times remain a monument of his unflinching devotion to those principles upon which the greatness and glory of our country, and the happiness of the people, can alone be based.

The Hon. John H. Eaton, accompanied by his lady and daughter, arrived at Pensacola on the 1st instant, on his way to Tallahassee, to enter upon his duties as governor of Florida.

The citizens of Pensacola, anxious to manifest their respect for his public character and private worth, assembled in town meeting on the same day, for the purpose of adopting measures expressive of their sentiments. The following are the proceedings:

"To His Excellency John H. Eaton, Governor of Florida.

Sir—The undersigned committee, in behalf of the citizens of Pensacola, have the honor to congratulate you on the safe arrival of yourself and family within the limits of the Territory of Florida; and to testify the high respect and esteem which they entertain for your public and private character, by inviting you to partake of a public dinner, at such time as may suit your convenience.

The undersigned have the honor of tendering to you their personal respects and to remain,

Most respectfully,
Your ob't serv'ts,
ROBERT MITCHELL,
BYRD C. WILLIS,
FRANCISCO MORENO,
JOS. E. MURRELL,
HANSON KELLY,
WALTER GREGORY,
WM. H. CHASE.

Pensacola, Dec. 1, 1834.

PENSACOLA, Dec. 1, 1834.

Gentlemen—Your letter requesting me to partake of a Public Dinner, with the citizens of Pensacola has been received, and my thanks and acknowledgements are due for the friendly expressions it contains.

My arrival in Florida, at an earlier period, has been retarded by several causes; and amongst them not the least was, the extreme hazard of venturing from a Northern to an extreme South in climate, during the fall months. On account of this delay, it becomes matter of [illegible] had wea[illegible] and made [illegible] of my family, has already [illegible] inconsiderably prolonged. The vessel that takes me to Tallahassee, waits in your port for a fair wind, and will be ready to depart the moment that a favorable breeze shall spring up. This state of uncertainty puts it out of my power to avail myself of the polite invitation which in behalf of the citizens of Pensacola you have presented.

With an earnest wish entertained for the prosperity of your town, and the health and happiness of its citizens, I am,

With great respect,
Your ob't serv't,
J. H. EATON.

To Messrs Robert Mitchell, Byrd C. Willis, Francisco Moreno, Joseph E. Murrell, Hanson Kelley, Walter Gregory, W. H. Chase, committee.

Extract of a letter from Mobile, written day before yesterday:

"In consequence of a rumor which was a few days ago in circulation here, of an express to Montgomery, with later and favorable intelligence from Liverpool, there was considerable excitement amongst Cotton dealers, but as the following mail brought no confirmation, the market soon relapsed into its former dull state."—[Daily News.

We have a file of the Smyrna "Star in the East," published by the Rev. Mr. Brewer, American Missionary, to September 16th. An Army of 60,000 men is assembling at Konieh, (Iconium) and the Turkish fleet is nearly ready for sea."—[Jour. of Com.

TRIAL OF THE PIRATES.

The Court opened at Boston a 9 o'clock, A. M. on Monday, and the trial was continued. Mr. Child stated that there were several points of the testimony on which he had not yet sufficiently commented. He addressed the court and jury for half an hour. When he sat down, at a quarter before 10, Mr District Attorn y Dunlap rose to address the jury in behalf of the government. He continued with great eloquence and force of reasoning from that hour till half past 3 P M, at which hour he sat down, resting his case. The court remarked that as there appeared to be some co fliet of opinion between the counsel on both sides, it would be necessary for the court to reserve a little time in especial reference to this subject. The court was thereupon adjourned to Tuesday, at which time it is presumed the court will charge the jury.

In the course of the argument, Mr. Dunlap made a material distinction between the guilt of Costa the white cabin boy and the black, and the rest of the prisoners. He considered it as highly probable that that Costa, (he being only 15 years of age when the robbery of the Mexican was committed) was an apprentice, and that the cook, (an African) was a slave and that consequently neither of them ought strictly to be held responsible to the utm st rigor of the law. He instanced the case of the trial of the famous piratical Ca. tain Kidd, to illustrate his position. In that case, it was proved that three of his crew were idented apprentices and were acquitted by the jury in England, while Kidd and all the rest of the crew were convicted and executed.—Courtinal.

From the Richmond Enquirer.

The Prospect!—The Coalition in the Senate will renew the Panic System this winter, under a thousand disadvantages. Scarcely was this country ever in a more prosperous condition, than it is at the present moment. The Revenue of Uncle Sam will exceed the estimate—so that the panic prediction of Mr. Webster is dissipated at once. —The N. York Canals have been uncommonly active and productive. Thus, that panic manœuvre of Mr. Ewing is exploded. Ships are building—commerce is displaying her dwelling canvass—the exchange of our own productions for those of foreign nations is brisk, without leading to an excess of importations.—The Manufacturers are recovering from the panic. Money has poured in rich streams in to the U. States—our own Mint is coining our own beautiful gold, in considerable quantities, and improving the monetary circulation of the country. The State Banks are firm—The last winter's panic is over.

And when we cast our eyes to the Farmers, the "chosen People of God," we read their prosperity in the value of their products. Cotton is rising—tobacco selling for fine prices, abroad and at home.—Corn bears an excellent price. So does a spirit of improvement never prevailed in Agriculture, as at the present moment. The Farms are rapidly improving—Marl, lime, plaister, the clover system, shedding their kindly influence all around them. Our Colliers are reviving—and our coal called for, almost as fast as it can be raised from the Mine.

Yet are we to witness another attempt to get up a panic—to undercut all these advantages, we shall hear the Senate at that pitch of pressure—we shall hear of Banks being again threatened with ruin.—Indeed, the locusts of faction has already begun to sound in New York—and how does the New York Times meet it?

"And on the strength of those lying charges, a new crusade against the safety fund banks of this State is half predicted and openly recommended. Fortunately for the good people of this State, the threat is as impotent as it is malignant, and if the U. S. Bank is desirous to wind up its affairs, not merely in Utica and Buffalo, but also in this city, it can be accommodated at once without any inconvenience to the business of the State. Let it make over all the obligations which it holds against the citizens of this State (fair business transactions and all) with its own endorsement or guarantees, and the safety fund banks of this State can, with perfect safety to themselves, pay them off, and enable it to withdraw from our borders in the course of sixty days. Cotton is rising in England, and the prospect is, that we shall again realize many millions from the present crop, beyond what was anticipated early in the season. Since the passage of our gold bill, which for a season deprived the English of a principal market for their silver, the latter article has declined in price in the London market, and could not be exported from this country at the present rate of exchange, without a loss of at least four per cent. Exchange on England is declining in price, and it is now anticipated that we shall receive further shipments of specie from that country, and it is not improbable, that in the course of a short time they can be made as advantageously in silver as in gold. Our prospects for a season of abundance and ease in the money market, were never so flattering as at present, and it is a source of consolation to know, that it is not in the power of Mother Bank or her satellites greatly to mar those prospects. Mr. Biddle is not a fool if many of his underlings are, and he well knows that it is not a favorable time to produce a pressure, when his loans are constantly diminishing in amount, notwithstanding the greatest exertions to keep the money out. The United States Bank loans money at six per cent, but we will undertake to negotiate a loan for her at five per cent, and get the money from the safety fund Banks, which will tank the old lady for her custom, if she will take an amount sufficiently large to make it any object."

Great Fire in Asia.—A terrible fire broke out on the 6th of Sept in a barber's shop in Aidin in Asia Minor. All the bazaars in the town, together with 10,000 shops, with all the merchandize they contained, were reduced to ashes.—N Y Jour. of Commerce.

STRIKE THE HARP.

Strike the gay harp, see the moon is on high,
And as true to her beam as the tides of the ocean;
Young hearts, when they feel the soft light of her eye,
Obey the mute call and heave into motion!
Then sound the notes—the gayest, the lightest
That ever took wing when the heaven look'k brightest!
Again! again!
Oh, could such heart-stirring music be heard
In that city of Statues described by romances,
So wakening its spell, even stone would be stirr'd,
And statues themselves all start into dancers.

Why then delay with such sounds in our ears,
And the flower of Beauty's ow garden before us?
While stars over head have the song of their sphere,
And listening to ours, hang wondering o'er us.
Again, that strain! to hear it thus sounding,
Might even set death's cold pulses bounding!
Again! again!
Oh! what a bliss, when the youthful and gay,
Each with eye like a sun beam and foot like a feather,
As dance the hours to the music of May,
Thus mingle sweet song and sunshine together.

FELLOW CITIZENS!

I HAVE come among you and remained quietly with you, because I have a high degree of confidence in your integrity, and a perfect consciousness of my own innocence.

I have not slandered you in my addresses at the North. Fifteen thousand people who have heard my statements are my witnesses. But as it has been thought by some that my former denial was not sufficiently explicit, sentiments of respect for you have led me to the conclusion that to repeat that denial in terms which cannot be misunderstood. Allow me then to say that I have never, either during the last summer or at any other time, at Hartford, or elsewhere, in public or in private said "of the Catholics in New Orleans the men are almost without exception atheists, they regard religion as intended only for women and servants, and do not give themselves any trouble on the subject—the Protestants can hardly be said to be in a better state."

I repeat it, I have never used the language of the above quotation, nor said anything equivalent thereto.

Fellow Citizens, do not think this little Card obtrusive. It is a matter of deep and sincere regret to me that the repose of the community should be at all disturbed on my account. I know your character too well to apprehend any injustice, and have sufficient confidence in my own integrity to cause me to feel perfectly at ease in your hands.

With sentiments of gratitude for a thousand favors, I subscribe myself your most obedient and humble servant,

JOEL PARKER.

New Orleans, 12th December, 1834.

The undersigned, a committee of the Presbyterian Church, deem it advisable to annex to Mr Parker's Card, the following certificate which has been forwarded from Boston. It refers to the same discourse in substance that was delivered at Hartford which was repeated in Boston before any excitement was heard of,

ISAAC LITTLEFIELD,
THOS. M. BURGESS,
JOHN S. WALTON.

December 11.

Having heard the public statement of the Rev. Joel Parker respecting New Orleans in regard to its moral and religious state, we, the subscribers are free to say, that we have rarely if ever, heard statements made with so much careful, kind, and respectful regard to the character and feelings of those who were the subjects of them, as was manifested by Mr Parker in his communications here.

There was no denunciation of Catholicks or other sects; no opprobrious epithets, no disrespectful mention of any portion of the citizens; but while the moral wants of that community were clearly stated, there were facts and circumstances also mentioned, which set forth in a strong light, the noble, generous, and high minded qualities which characterize the citizens of New Orleans.
