because he did not think it the interest of the city to hav these posts, for in the event of the company becoming hankrant, they would be altogether unperviceable Mr. Caldwall said, that the committee had examined the proposals of the company, and had found that those te had been offered on very moderate terms, for the lamps would cout 60 per cent. less than those which the city was d able the price at a later period. He would observe to the council, that the company were no longer making an experiment, and that they did not stand in need of the assistance of the council for success. The citizens, aware of the advantages of the gas light, were encouraging the company. The company were called upon for two thousand lamps, which they were unable to furnish immediately. He would add, that it was in the power of the company to deprive the city of the immense advantages which they offered, for they had their charter, and it could not be taken from them. He could not repeat this too often. The council should be apshould the city decline this measure, it might happen she at $35 per lamp. He did not feel fearful in saying, that the time approached when the council would not be able to recure these advantages.

Mr Bermudez presented an amondment, that the lamp and the posts should remain with the company in the event of its bankruptcy.

Ms Bermudes considered this reason as of the highe These could not but result to the corporation great advantages by adopting the report. He preented this amendment, in order that there should be no opposition to its adoption. The city was a stockholder in this company, and had a great interest at the prespecity of the work. In roply to the member from the 2nd wards who pretends that the corporation would less a great deal in the case of the bankruptcy of the company, he would say, that the posts in that event might be used for the oil mps, and that the city would be the gelacr since they cost but $40, whilst the present lamps cost $100. He honed that members would withdraw their opposition.

Dr. McFarlune said, that it was not until after the mos strict enquiry that the Committee made their report. He had no objection to vote for the amendment of the member from the 4th ward, and would besides present an additional amendment, that the conductors of the gas should be the property of the city, in the case of the bankruptey of the company.

Mr Grailhe said that the amendment of the member intentions of the house-it was of opinion, that before his measure, the Council should reflect, for although he did in no wise suppose that the company intended to cheet the city, yet netwithstanding should the sompony fall into a state of insolveney, the consequence would be most disastrous for the corporation. And to what end would these lamps sorve, should the company cease to circulate the gas. He thought that the corporation should have a special mortgage open the machinery and works. LOUISIANA ASSEMBLY. TWELFTE LEGISLATURE -- First Service, Thursday, Feb 1904, 1825. SENATE.

Mr. Hos from the special committee to whom had been referred the petition of the Pontchartrain rail read company presented a report to allow that company to extend its spher of operations in making routes to lake Borges and waters in that direction, similar to that made from the city to take Pontchartraie; to augment the present capital to the amount of shares requests to construct said branches; to extend the duration of the charter of 25 years from the passing of this act; to allow every stackholder a vote on every share of the for of shares being malimited to terresee the rates of tells on the different router; and permitting the prevident of the company to exercise at lake Borgne the of Mr Jenney thinks it preferable that the 568th article shall be altered so as to agree with the 128th-that is, at present using. He assured the council, that what he said that the judgment of parish courts, shall not be final on was for the interest of the city, for if she refused the ad- any sum exceeding fifty dollars, should a party choose to vantages now offered by the report, she would have to pay appeal to the district court. He thinks the smaller sum more eligible, because every citizen should have the right of a trial by jury, should he demand it. The conritution of the United States, sporifies that a citizer may have appeal over twenty dollars; and the laws of Louisiana should not deny the privilege of such appeals at least, when over fifty dollars.

Mr Nichelas considered that it would answer every pur pose much better, were the reference not made merel to the two specified articles of the code of practice, as was done in the bill, although the contents of those artiprehensive lest the company should change their mind.— eles have been above specified to render more intelligible the debate; but that the change should appear on the would have to pay twe-thirds more. This was not a calcu- face of the bill, without compelling reference to the code lation in words, but a calculation in ciphers. The oil lamps of practice. He had no objection to the amendment of now cost the city $100 for each, the gas lamps are offered at the member from Concordia; but thought it better 543, the lighting costs $45, and it is proposed to do it by gas should be specifically expressed, that the decision of parish judges shall not be final on any sum exceeding fifty

Mr Labauve considers this amondment will render the parish courts comparatively useless, as it will bring all suits exceeding fifty dollars, into the district courts -To allow appeals under one hundred dollars, he believes will be appressive to the parties; as the costs and fees may equal the demand of the original suit or judgment awarded.

Mr Jenney presented an amendment in accordance with the suggestion of the senator from St James, which he further advocated. Parish courts have been principally established, to enable the recovery of small semi in a summary and cheap manner, without a formal trial by a jury; but as these courts are under the control of one person, without responsibility, he thinks that a beson who believes himself aggrieved by the decision o this irresponsible judge, should not be denied a trial by jury, when the sum exceeds fifty dollars at the utmos ;.-These who think they can obtain justice equally from the parish courts, will not apply to the district courts, although the decision may not be final over fifty dollars. even when their suits may be for sums between 50 and 100 dollars; nor will the parties willingly or frequently appeal from the decisies of the parish courts, accept when they consider themselves evidently aggrice'ed .-Pable aggreried, would be injustice. Besides the adjute a hitigation will set be principally concentrated in the district courts have already cognizance of the fee courts, nor the basiness of these courts, be embar raseed, for the district courts have already cognizance of all sums exceeding sifty dolfars; and the amentiment does not propose that the parish courts shall not have cognizance of any sum between fifty and an hundred dolfars.

The amendment was adopted—that the decision of parts in the courts is not final, in any suit exceeding fifty dolfars, the court of the bill was read, enseting that when appeals shall have been made from a magristrate or justice of the peace, to a court, or from one judicial that the case on a speal shall be tried solely on those made.

EQUALITY is one of the articles of the republican creond it is because corporations and monopolies milital against this principle and not because they may immediate against this principle and not because they may immediately affect the interests of the middling and poorer classes, that they are opposed by such as hold these decrines. The interest would in time however, inevitably suffer and finally be destroyed. The "rich capitalists" would soon lesgue to gether and regulate the price of labor, and the times a much destred by some, when men should be compelled to labor for a sheep's head and pluck a day, would be realised among us. We may experience no great inconvenience of evil, from the present limited samber of corporations; but hat they are necessarily hostile to republican institutions, in a truth which needs no illustration. They tend to the concentration of wealth and power, in a few hands—render inequality more unequal, and result in enslaving the many to
