INTRODUCTION

---

1. PURPOSE

This manual presents all Order of Battle information pertinent to the Aggressor Armed Forces up to 31 December 1950.

2. SCOPE

The manual presents information in two general classifications: identifications, of types likely to be significant as indicators of Aggressor ground and air strength and dispositions (pars. 5-317 incl.); and reference data, a collection of information arranged by subject (pars. 318-334 incl.).

a. Identifications. Types of identifications with detailed information concerning each, are grouped as follows:

- (1) Major ground organizations (pars. 5-167 incl.). These army units are army groups, armies, corps, and divisions of all types. Components and commanders, where known, plus history of the units, are included.
- (2) Identified ground units (pars. 168-248 incl.). Army ground units smaller than division size are listed in this section by type of organization under two main headings—divisional and nondivisional (GHQ). Rifle, airborne, tank, artillery, signal, cavalry, rocket, supply, propaganda, and other types of units are assembled in order. In the case of units assigned to major organizations, such details as code numbers, home designations, and home centers are omitted from these paragraphs, but may be found in paragraphs 5-167 incl.
- (3) Major air organizations (pars. 249-293 incl.). These air units are air armies, corps, and divisions of all types. Components and commanders, where known, plus history of the units, are included.
- (4) Identified air units (pars. 294-310 incl.). Air units smaller than division size are listed in this section by type of organization under two main headings—divisional and nondivisional (GHQ).

- (5) Index of aggressor officers (pars. 311 and 312). This section consists of an alphabetical roster of selected commanders of the Aggressor Armed Forces, with data regarding their age, branch, rank, command, decorations, and past history.
- (6) Armed forces postal system (pars. 313-317 incl.). This section contains the latest available data concerning the postal system employed by Aggressor. Captured letters have been invaluable as an aid in identifying Aggressor code numbers.

b. Reference Data.

- (1) This portion of the manual (pars. 318-334 incl.) contains compilations found to be helpful in the identification and location of Aggressor units. Tables show the tactical organization of the St. Lawrence campaign and the units assigned to occupation duties in the Caribbean area; other tables show the latest known assignments of major units in the Aggressor nation. Information regarding the expansion of Aggressor and changes in territorial organization since its formation are shown on successive maps of the Aggressor Nation. It is stressed that if the numbering of the tactical components coincides with the numbering of the territorial organization, it is the exception rather than the rule.
- (2) Lists of corps areas, divisional stations, and home centers for the Armed Forces are keys to Aggressor security and mobilization, and to the origin of units. More specific keys to the origin, however, are the lists of home centers and home designations. The latter are often identified through captured documents and prisoner of war interrogations. Actually, one of the most direct keys to the identity of units is the list of codes—both names and numbers.

3. KEYS TO IDENTIFICATION

Order of battle is concerned with the strength, equipment, location, disposition, organization, and movement of armed forces. The key word SELDOM, derived from the first letters of the six words used to describe the elements with which order of battle is concerned, may be an aid in remembering the main components of order of battle. Practical work in order of battle is based to a large extent on the identification of units. Aids in identifying Aggressor Armed Forces units are—name of unit, commander's name, home designation, code number, code name and number. For example, the Aggressor soldier may refer to the 4th Rifle Regiment in the following ways: by its name (4th Rifle Regt), by the commander's name (HERO Force), by the home designation (MU-49 Force), by the code number (10558 Unit), or by the code name and number (RULI 10558).

a. Commanders' names are very useful keys to the identification of units. Personal names have been used informally to designate units in the Aggressor Armed Forces since their origin. Not only divisions and regiments, but also (task) forces, squadrons, companies, detachments, and frequently even platoons and squads are referred to by the name of the commander. Personal names are constantly encountered in all sources of information relating to the Aggressor Armed Forces, such as diaries, notebooks, personal mail, and results of prisoner of war interrogation.

b. Since their origin, the Aggressor Armed Forces, for security reasons, have referred to units by code numbers. These numbers fall into two classes; namely, the home designation, and the code number.

(1) Home designation applies to brigades and units of smaller size stationed in a replacement station in Aggressor. The home designation number is actually attached to the station and each unit formed at that station receives its home designation number. For example, the 4th and 34th Rifle Regiments received the home designation "MU-49" when organized at Tetuan in Aggressor. This home designation remains with the unit in all future assignments. Many units continue to use home designations as code.

(a) The location of the station appears in the "Home Center" column. An integral part of the home designation are letters representing the location of the corps area having jurisdiction over the unit. The first letter of the two letters which are integral parts of the home designation represents the location of the corps area whose number is designated by the second letter. There are six different locations represented by the various first letters of the home designation. These are—B for the Benelux countries; F for France; G for Germany; I for Italy; M for Morocco; and S for Spain. For the key to the meaning of the second letter which represents the number of the corps area, see paragraphs 324-326.

(b) Aggressor is known to have 43 divisional stations, divided as follows: Numbers 1-12 are located in Army Group West; numbers 13-27 are located in Army Group East, and 28-43 are located in Army Group North. For maps and lists of territorial organizations and expansions, see paragraphs 318-326.

(2) A detailed discussion of the code number system used by Aggressor can be found in paragraph 334. Individual code numbers are assigned to nearly all units having separate identities, such as divisions, major divisional components, and separate, nondivisional (GHQ) units.

c. Code names are given only to army groups, armies, corps, divisions, and separate (GHQ) brigades. All units, organic to a division, share the code name of the parent unit. Nondivisional (GHQ) units other than brigades use the code name of the unit to which they are detached by their respective (Army or Air) High Commands; further detachment (suballotment) does not change this code name. Code names of major organizations appear to be permanently assigned. Separate (GHQ) units change code names, however, when their High Commands recall them and detach them anew. Code names are usually single words, and are selected under no identifiable system.

4. USE OF INFORMATION

The basic elements of Order of Battle of the Aggressor Armed Forces are presented in this manual in several compilations. The various arrangements of information are intended as cross references or guides in identification of units. Their use is discussed briefly below.

a. The following elements are given where known or applicable: name of unit; commander; code name and number; organizational association; divisional station and home center; T/O strength; and location.

b. This information, when available, is linked with known units and commanders in paragraphs 7-310 and paragraphs 318-334. For example, detailed information on the 12th Rifle Division is presented in paragraph 69. Information on units within the division, including their connection with the Division, also is given in the list of units by type of organization in paragraphs 168-206. In that chapter (par. 168) will be found the 12th Division's rifle regiments, the 54th, 62d, and 151st. The other components of the Division are listed in chapter 3 with other units of the same type.

c. When the user of this manual has only the code number of an Aggressor unit, he may find that number in the list of code numbers in paragraph 334. When known, the unit bearing that number is listed by name. The code numbers in the Army Group Reserve (R) block are allotted to the various Replacement Training Army units; but thus far no such units have been identified.

d. Home designations, divisional stations, and home centers, while less definite than other forms of identification, are often of value in piecing clues together. When the home designation of a unit is learned, it can in some cases be determined that the unit is one of several bearing the same home designation number. This knowledge narrows the field. Usually the location of the identified unit will be known, and the field can be further narrowed by ruling out organizations (in the number group) known to be elsewhere. By elimination, then, the identity of the unit can be tentatively established, or reduced to a choice among two or three specific units. In some cases the home designation number, in connection with the list of divisional stations and home centers, will provide confirmatory evidence when linked with other indications of identity.

e. Personnel (T/O) strength is shown at the head of the first table of each type of division. These figures are useful as rough indications of normal T/O strength. They must be weighed in the light of reinforcements or casualties, and the established fact that the strength of Aggressor units in the line often differs from the T/O strength.

f. The date following an officer's name is the date of appointment to the indicated assignment, or the earliest known date on which the officer assumed command.

g. The use of parentheses to inclose a unit designation indicates the unit's nonexistence because of a change of identity, absorption, annihilation, or for other cause, and therefore indicates that a certain code name, number, home designation or assignment no longer applies to it. Parentheses inclose only the name of a subordinate unit when only the subordinate unit is nonexistent.

h. Throughout this manual, the data in any given column refers directly to the item on the same line in the basic column on the left hand side of the page.

i. In this edition, question marks are used singly (?) to show lack of the particular information usually shown in that space. Two question marks (??) indicate probability of information shown, and three question marks (???) indicate possibility.

j. For identification of Aggressor abbreviations see SR 320-50-1, FM 21-30, and FM 30-102.

CHAPTER 2

MAJOR GROUND ORGANIZATIONS

---

Section I. DISCUSSION

5. GENERAL

This chapter is a catalog by type of large Aggressor units down to and including divisions. It contains information, when available, on commanders, composition, divisional stations, codes, home centers and designations, chronology of pertinent data on location, engagements, and circumstances having a bearing on the unit's character or combat value. It should be remembered, however, that locations and commanders are subject to frequent changes. In addition, it is stressed that there is no permanent assignment of divisions to corps or of corps to Armies in the Aggressor Ground Forces, see chapter 9.

6. NOMENCLATURE AND NUMBERING

a. Nomenclature.

(1) Beginning in the summer of 1949, and continuing through early 1950, Aggressor reorganized its Armed Forces, primarily because of territorial and Armed Forces expansions, and to a lesser extent for security reasons. The following are major changes in Army units (FM 30-102): Standard Infantry, Light, Motorized, Fusilier, and Armored Divisions were reorganized and redesignated. The term "Infantry" was changed to "Rifle." The term "Armored" was changed to "Tank." The term "Fusilier" is no longer used by itself, that is, Fusilier Division, but now is combined with the name of the type of division designated as a fusilier division, that is, Fusilier Rifle Division, Fusilier Tank Division, etc. The elite designation "Fusilier" may be bestowed on all but airborne divisions, which are already in the elite class (FM 30-101). Instead of being retained under permanent assignments to Armies and Corps, nondivisional (GHQ) units late in 1949 were all brought under Army High Command (GHQ) control, and are now detached to subordinate organizations for specific missions (incl. training) both in Aggressor and overseas.

(2) All Aggressor units are identifiable by the branch designation in the title. For types of Aggressor Army units, see FM 30-102.

b. Numbering System. A certain pattern is noticeable in the numbering of Aggressor Army units, although no rule can be followed in its entirety; and because many exceptions seem to have occurred as a result of inactivation, conversion to other types of units, or for other less common causes.

(1) Divisions.

- (a) Rifle Divisions are generally numbered in the 1-100 series.
- (b) Cavalry, mechanized and tank divisions are considered for tactical purposes as belonging to the same branch, and for that reason do not bear the same numbers. For example, if there is a 10th Cavalry Division, there can be no 10th Mechanized Division.
- (c) Fusilier-type divisions may carry the same numerical designation as standard divisions of the same category, that is, 6th Fusilier Cavalry Division and 6th Cavalry Division.
- (d) However, airborne divisions and fusilier divisions do not bear the same numerical designation.

(2) Organic divisional units.

- (a) Organic units (reconnaissance, engineer, signal, service, etc.) carry generally the division number plus 100 in rifle divisions, plus 300 in mechanized, tank, and cavalry divisions, and plus 400 in artillery divisions. This varies whenever divisions of different types carry the same unit numbers and may be determined by referring to paragraphs 58 through 167.
  - (b) Organic rocket battalions carry the division number plus 300 or 400; mortar regiments carry the division number plus 400 or 500. However, the mortar regiment of the artillery brigade of the rifle division bears generally the division number plus 100, because of the fact that these regiments were assigned originally as separate units, and were absorbed later by the artillery brigade.
  - (c) Organic anti-aircraft regiments of tank and mechanized divisions carry the division number plus 300.
  - (d) Medical battalions of airborne divisions bear the division number.
- (3) Corps. Corps are designated by Roman numerals. The XII Corps, originally motorized, was later redesignated the XII Armored Corps. Armored, mechanized, airborne, and artillery corps constitute a separate series; thus, since there is a IV Mechanized Corps, there cannot be a IV Armored or Airborne Corps.
- (4) Armies. Armies are designated by writing out the number in full letters, that is, FIRST Army.
- (5) Army Groups. Army groups create "named" forces comparable to United States "Task Forces" or former German "Kampfgruppen" for specific assignments or missions.

- (6) Nondivisional (GHQ) troops. Nondivisional (GHQ) troops originally were assigned numerical designations in the 600 series. However, increasing need for additional numbers has caused the use of other series.

Section II. ARMY GROUPS

7. ARMY GROUP WEST

a. Basic Elements.

Commander: Marshall CARMONA, Carlos (1/50)
COFS: Gen of Corps HEINECIUS, Ramon (1/50)
Hq Location: St. Lawrence area (forward), Caribbean area (main), Madrid (rear)
Code: CERBECO—10000

b. History. Formed in 1945. Designated early in 1946 as headquarters for the expeditionary force which landed in California. Marshal AQUINALDO proved an inspired leader. The ill-fated Florida campaign of 1947, in spite of heavy losses, is now labeled a brilliant strategic feint in view of successes in the St. Lawrence area later in the year. Failure of the Tennessee-Kentucky campaign of 1948 is blamed on the guerrilla "Green Brigade" and early loss of air superiority. The defense of the Caribbean early in 1949 is publicized as overwhelming victory because of apparently limited objective and rapid withdrawal of United States troops. Failure of the Carolina campaign in May 1949 is attributed solely to unexpectedly rapid loss of air superiority (brought on by "unusual" weather conditions). Seizure of the Hawaiian Archipelago (June-July 1949) is now expounded by Armed Forces University as further valid proof of Aggressor doctrine of surprise. Marshal AQUINALDO was succeeded by Marshal CARMONA. Officers and men who served under the latter during the formation of Aggressor have spread through Army Group West his reputation as top-notch strategist.

8. ARMY GROUP EAST

a. Basic Elements.

Commander: Marshal NEGRIER, Francois (1/50)
COFS: Gen of Corps de GROSS, Victor (10/49)
Hq Location: Lyon
Code: MARTELO—20000

b. History. Formed in 1946. Originally designed as expeditionary force headquarters to control units for projected use in a separate (presumably East Coast) assault upon North American continent. Early in 1947, reverted to function as controlling headquarters for major tactical components of its area. (Many key officers observed the Florida and St. Lawrence campaigns and Caribbean zone of occupation.) Given responsibility for St. Lawrence campaign late in June 1949. Morale generally low as result of Ninth Army reverses. Marshal NEGRIER succeeded Marshal DORMBERGER. NEGRIER has seen only staff duty since he last campaigned in the Middle East during World War II.

9. ARMY GROUP NORTH

a. Basic Elements.

Commander: Marshal DAHLMANN, Erich (12/49)
COFS: Gen of Corps SCHRODER, Albrecht von (12/49)
Hq Location: Frankfurt
Code: PERSISTECO—30000

b. History. Formed in December, 1949, after "admittance" of the remainder of Western Germany and all of the former Benelux nations into the Aggressor Nation. Volunteer officers of field grade and above, veterans of World War II have been granted private interviews (upon request) by Marshal DAHLMANN and his COFS, both of whom have long-standing records of exceptional ability in military organization and leadership. This Army Group may be expected to be a formidable fighting force by the end of 1950.

10. ARMY GROUP "R"

a. Basic Elements.

Commander: Gen of Army BUSTOS, Cesare (12/49)
COFS: Gen of Corps SPEICH, Wilhelm (8/48)
Hq Location: Paris
Code: DIKTI—0001

b. History. Formed in 1945 as reserve headquarters for all training and replacement. Controls the Replacement Training Army as well as a People's Militia integrated with the national police as final reserve in event of invasion. Army Group "R" is also known as the "Home Command." No organic tactical units have been identified. Gen of Army BUSTOS succeeded Marshal DAHLMANN (then Gen of Army) at a critical moment marked by major unit reorganization, by the creation of an entire new army group (North), and by heavy demands for replacements to fill the vacancies created by the heavy Aggressor losses in the Hawaiian and St. Lawrence campaigns.

Section III. ARMIES

11. FIRST ARMY

a. Basic Elements.

Commander: Gen of Army MONTALBAN, Don Luis (1/50)
COFS: Gen of Div ORTIZ, Jose (10/45)
Hq Location: Cordoba
Code: SOVI—10001

b. History. Formed in 1945 as elite army for California campaign in which various elements distinguished themselves. Thrust eastward from California, stopped by supply difficulties. Since its return to Aggressor early in 1947, some elements have acted as demonstration units; those which participated in Florida campaign have integrated replacements and refitted; other elements have been active sporadically against internal dissidents and border guerillas; and nearly all have taken part in one or more maneuvers. It is reliably estimated that about one-half of its divisions are held in constant state of combat readiness. General MONTALBAN is already held in somewhat legendary regard because of his command of and escape from the ill-fated Tennessee-Kentucky campaign.

12. SECOND ARMY

a. Basic Elements.

Commander: Gen of Army CONICHA, Manuel (10/45)
COFS: Gen of Div VALERA, Ramon (1/50)
Hq Location: Havana, Cuba
Code: RENVERSI—10450

b. History. Formed in 1945 as second of three armies for California campaign. Elements did not fight as efficiently as those of other two armies, and had greater losses. Returned to Aggressor early in 1947. One of its original corps was assigned to Third Army in 1947, virtually destroyed during the costly Florida "feint," but brought up to strength and reassigned to Second Army in 1948. All components underwent intensive general training during 1948, amphibious and air-transportable training during 1949. Army began move from Aggressor to Caribbean in August 1949. Replacement of Fourth Army was completed by January 1950. Because of high percentage of first-line units, known to be at full strength, Second Army must be considered an important potential threat to the United States.

13. FOURTH ARMY

a. Basic Elements.

Commander: Gen of Army CASANDUAS, Leon (2/50)
COFS: Gen of Div WALCKENAER, Tito (10/49)
Hq Location: Madrid
Code: KRUELA—11350

b. History. Formed in 1946. Seized the Caribbean islands, and then was assigned to garrison them when occupation was later made official by terms of Peace Treaty following California campaign. Known until end of 1949 as "Stepping Stone" army because of position with regard to routes of approach to American continents. High turnover of components during 3-year tenure, and heavy losses suffered in two abortive campaigns:

Tennessee-Kentucky and Carolina. Each of its corps engaged at least once against United States Forces. All components had returned to Aggressor by January, 1950. Morale good because of insistent praise for defense of Puerto Rico and Vieques against combined United States amphibious assault early in 1949. Former commander, General REIBNITZ, given important staff position. Troops, generally, consider General CASANDUAS excellent choice as replacement.

14. FIFTH ARMY

a. Basic Elements.

Commander: Gen of Army DANKERT, Josef (8/49)

COFS: Gen of Div FISCHER, Martin (1/49)

Hq Location: Brussels

Code: ? — ?

b. History. Formation reported early in 1948, but not confirmed until January, 1949. Now known to have assumed control of original Third Army units (except II Mechanized Corps) engaged in California campaign, as well as remnants of V Corps after Florida campaign. Components underwent intensive training during late 1948 and early 1949, and began extended field maneuvers about mid 1949. Reported at advanced level of morale and efficiency. General DANKERT, formerly CG, I Corps, reported eager to exercise new command in combat.

15. SIXTH ARMY

a. Basic Elements.

Commander: Gen of Army LEVIS, Philippe (10/49)

COFS: Gen of Div RAVAGEUX, Rene (1/50)

Hq Location: Paris

Code: ? — 20875

b. History. Formed early in 1946 as part of original Army Group East, and then known as the "Vichyite" army. Two years later, controlled only one division (52d Infantry Division) which had seen action against United States Forces. Troops received some seasoning in antidissident and antiguerilla action, but represented an unknown combat potential, prior to Hawaiian and Alaskan campaigns, in which initial successes of XIX Corps were nullified by almost complete annihilation. Aggressor's broad army reorganization in late 1949 and early 1950 has left Sixth Army with about half of its earlier components. Its present state of mobilization, training, and morale is reported to be mediocre; its mission only that of defense of the Nation in case of invasion. New CG, however, has widespread reputation as martinet.

16. SEVENTH ARMY

a. Basic Elements.

Commander: ?
COFS: Gen of Div FORSTER, Paul (2/50)
Hq Location: ?
Code: ? — ?

b. History. Formed early in 1950 after most recent Aggressor territorial expansion, which led to creation of Army Group North. Little is yet known of this Army or its commander.

17. EIGHTH ARMY

a. Basic Elements.

Commander: Gen of Army SAUCEROTTE, Santo (12/49)
COFS: Gen of Div DIVALVO, Luigi (6/46)
Hq Location: ?
Code: URAGANO—20575

b. History. Formed early in 1946, but slow to activate. Still frequently called the "M" army in honor of former Fascist dictator. Believed least efficient of all Aggressor armies until one of original components (III Corps) made excellent combat record in St. Lawrence campaign in 1948 and 1949. Present components include two corps, and about half of total divisions, with combat experience against United States Forces. Mission of new CG, believed to be that of welding disparate elements into strong, cohesive fighting force.

18. NINTH ARMY

Commander: Gen of Army BECHER, Claus (11/49)
COFS: Gen of Div GEOFFROY, Anatole (3/49)
Hq Location: St. Lawrence Area
Code: SANGO—20285

b. History. Formed in mid 1946 under control of Army Group East. In mid 1947, transferred to Army Group West for invasion of the St. Lawrence valley and New England. Under ageless General AULOCK, who commanded units in both World Wars, this army won and maintained control of a large sector of Eastern Canada and Northeastern United States. General BECHER took over when superior United States Forces had pushed back Ninth Army to a line roughly between Portsmouth (New Hampshire) and Quebec. In 1950, for many reasons, BECHER had to quit the St. Lawrence valley entirely and consolidate his line across New Brunswick. This army still controls half of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and adjacent islands, and Newfoundland. Morale is high because of replacements and fresh units.

CHAPTER 5

MAJOR AIR ORGANIZATIONS

---

Section I. DISCUSSION

249. GENERAL

This section is a catalog by type of large Aggressor air units down to and including division level. It contains information, when available, on commanders, composition, divisional stations, codes, home centers, and home designations, chronology of pertinent data on location, engagements, and circumstances having a bearing on the unit's character or combat value. It should be remembered however, that locations and commanders are subject to frequent changes. In addition, it is stressed that there is no permanent assignment of division to corps or of corps to armies in the Aggressor Air Force (pars. 318-334).

250. NOMENCLATURE

All Aggressor air units are identifiable by the type of aircraft in the title. For types of Aggressor air units see FM 30-102. Instead of being retained under permanent assignments to Armies and Corps, nondivisional (GHQ) units late in 1949 were all brought under Air High Command (GHQ) control, and are now detached to subordinate organizations for specific missions (incl. training) both in Aggressor and overseas.

251. NUMBERING SYSTEM

A certain pattern is noticeable in the numbering of Aggressor air units, although no rule can be followed in its entirety. Many exceptions seem to occur as a result of inactivation, because of conversion to another type unit, or for other less common causes.

- (1) Divisions. Divisions are numbered generally in the 1-100 series.
- (2) Corps. Corps are designated by Roman numerals. Since all corps constitute a series, if there is a VII Bomber Corps, there can be no VII Ground-Attack Corps.
- (3) Armies. Armies are designated by writing out the number in full letters, that is, FOURTH Air Army.
- (4) Nondivisional (GHQ) units.
  - (a) Combat elements are numbered generally in the 400 series.
  - (b) Service elements are numbered generally in the 900 series.

Section II. AIR ARMIES

Inability to maintain air base close enough to Kentucky-Tennessee campaign area canceled air support early; but Sixth Air Army (Fwd) given share of credit for limiting United States objective in Caribbean early in 1949. Rapid loss of air superiority in Carolina campaign later in 1949 blamed on inopportune occurrence of hurricane weather. Reported reorganized later in 1949 and early in 1950, Sixth Air Army (Fwd) in Caribbean area must be considered to control elements which offer strong political threat to security of Southeastern United States. LAFUENTE commands respect of all components.

CHAPTER 8

ARMED FORCES POSTAL SYSTEM

Section I. DESCRIPTION OF THE POSTAL SYSTEM

313. ARMED FORCES POST OFFICES

a. Homeland. Mail from Army Group West territory funnels through the port of Cadiz. Mail from Army Group North clears through the port of Amsterdam. Mail bound for overseas destination from Army Group East clears through the port of Bordeaux.

b. Overseas. The main postal offices in the Caribbean area of occupation are known to be Havana and Port-au-Prince. The main postal office for units engaged in the St. Lawrence campaign is believed to be Halifax.

314. METHOD OF NUMBERING POST OFFICES

Armed Forces Postal Office (AFPO) numbers are allotted on a purely arbitrary basis to divisions and higher commands only. A division or higher command which leaves the Republic for foreign service (campaign or occupation), is assigned arbitrarily an AFPO number which is retained during the whole period of overseas service. A division or higher command which returns to the Republic and later departs for another campaign or tour of occupation is arbitrarily assigned a new AFPO number. GHQ units take the number of the major command to which originally assigned for the campaign or tour of occupation. All units lower than division are identified by the use of the assigned code number preceded by the subunit designation, abbreviated.

315. EXAMPLES OF ADDRESSES

a. Since 10560 is the code number of the 34th Rifle Regiment and AFPO number 142 has been identified as that of the 4th Rifle Division, a letter to S/Pvt Jose Carracas, Hq 3d Bn, would be addressed as follows:

S/Pvt Jose Carracas
Hq 3 Bn—10560
AFPO 142
c/o PM Cadiz

b. Since 40485 is the code number of the 48th Fighter Regiment and AFPO number 899 has been identified as that of the 42nd Fighter Division, a letter to Comdt Rene F. Dupont, Hq 2d Squadron, would be addressed as follows:

Comdt Rene F. Dupont
 Hq 2 Sq—40485
 AFPO 899
 c/o PM Bordeaux

c. Since 30279 is the code number of the 610th Armored Reconnaissance Battalion and AFPO number 569 has been identified as that of Ninth Army, a letter to Sr/Sgt Kurt Schindler, 3d Co, would be addressed as follows:

Sr/Sgt Kurt Schindler

Section V. CODE NAMES AND CODE NUMBERS

333. CODE NAMES

The code names of Aggressor units are listed in alphabetical order without regard to the unit organization or designation. All the terms used have no bearing whatsoever on the standards and the combat value of the unit that the name represents. It must be remembered that subordinate units use the code name of the parent organization, and that the code names are assigned only to army groups, armies, corps, divisions, and nondivisional (GHQ) brigades.

334. CODE NUMBERS

This part of the reference data consists of a series of code numbers which may identify a unit. The code number 10253 used in an Aggressor field order, for example, indicates reference to the 3 Rifle Regiment. Unit code numbers of the Aggressor Armed Forces are believed to have been assigned in the following ways:

a. General.

- (1) It is still uncertain under what conditions units newly detached from the Replacement Training Army, or units temporarily transferred from one army group or air army to another, will change code numbers. It is clear, however, that changes may be expected in the Aggressor code numbering system at any time.
- (2) Therefore, in view of the extreme flexibility of the code system, it is advised that newly discovered code identifications be checked constantly with existing code identifications. Aggressor leaders have designed this system to conceal their units from hostile forces and also to confuse the order of battle picture.
- (3) Not enough data has yet been compiled to afford a clear picture of the Aggressor code numbering system as applied to naval surface and subsurface vessels. This data will be published as clarification is obtained.

b. Army.

- (1) All Army Group "R" units formed as units (distinct from groupings of individual replacement personnel) are assigned 4-digit code numbers in the Replacement Training Army.
- (2) All units initially assigned or permanently transferred to Army Group West bear 5-digit code numbers between 10000 and 19999.
- (3) All units initially assigned or permanently transferred to Army Group East bear 5-digit numbers between 20000 and 29999.

- (4) All units initially assigned or permanently transferred to Army Group North bear 5-digit numbers between 30000 and 39999.
- (5) In normal practice, each division is assigned a block of numbers to be allotted to its subordinate units in any manner of sequence; and the sizes of these blocks are found to be variable.
- (6) Nondivisional (GHQ) units are believed to be numbered at random by Army High Command from the unused numbers between 10000 and 39999.

- (1) All units formed as units are believed to be assigned 4-digit numbers in the Replacement Training Army.
- (2) All units initially assigned to Sixth Air Army bear 5-digit code numbers between 40100 and 40399.
- (3) All units initially assigned to Seventh Air Army bear 5-digit code numbers between 40400 and 40699.
- (4) All units initially assigned to Fourth Air Army bear 5-digit code numbers between 40700 and 40999.
- (5) Separate (GHQ) units are believed to be numbered at random by Air High Command from the unused numbers between 40000 and 44999.
