Burbank C. of C. to Elect Officers and Complete Board of Directors Tonight

THE Burbank Chamber of Commerce has scheduled a meeting for tonight at which time nine directors will be elected.

THE citizens who are members seem to lose sight of the fact that the men chosen as directors have a great deal to say in the administrative affairs of a city.

THE membership of the Burbank chamber at the present time is a goodly number, but not enough to be representative of a city of 10,000 or more population.

WHILE a Chamber of Commerce is a private organization, its policies being subject to the desire of its membership.

IT IS OUR opinion that a Chamber of Commerce should be somewhat of a clearing house as regards problems of a civic nature.

THIS idea is at the present time being carried out in Glendale by the Chamber of Commerce taking charge of the publicity campaign for the proposed sewer.

FRUIT DEALERS IN BIG WAR, CHICAGO

California Fruits Will Be Cheap in Windy City Today

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Two fruit auction companies opened rival markets in Chicago today for the selling of fruit in less than carload lots to dealers.

Another company, formed by about 100 small dealers, including many representatives of various nationalities who likened themselves to a "league of nations," asserted the other auction company had failed in an attempt to squeeze them out.

The rival companies who formed the independent auction company, patterned after a similar company in New York, tell a different story.

Spokesmen for the independents described the new organization as a league of nations, pointing out that peddlers as well as commission merchants are represented.

It is truly a wonder team. That is the only term that can accurately describe Coach Hayhurst's Glendale high gridgers after their 27 to 0 victory over Santa Monica Saturday afternoon on the Occidental College field.

Three touchdowns, all of them converted, and two field goals were responsible for the scores. Howard Elliot made two of the touchdowns, added the extra point after all of them and kicked the two field goals from place kicks.

Occidental college students were all back in their classes on time this morning from the Thanksgiving holiday. Everyone was glad to get back and settle down once more to the daily grind.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

Regarding Hills Red Can Coffee

Hills Red Can Coffee

It has now been over two years since Hills Brothers cut us off from buying their coffee on account of our not agreeing to sell same at their minimum fixed retail price. The United States Government has been investigating the matter and has served Hills Brothers with a citation to appear. The Federal Trade Commission claims this is a direct violation of the law. This having been done, we have decided to again stock Hills-Red Can Coffee and leave it to the discretion of the public and the Government.

We have always felt, as merchants, that we were agents of the public and it was our duty to please our customers in every way possible; by so doing it depended greatly upon the success of our business. Although our profits would be larger, we have always opposed fixed prices as we did not think they were beneficial to the general public. It has always been our policy not to join associations and combinations as it is our desire to continue to sell QUALITY GOODS at "SELLS FOR LESS" prices.

EAGLE ROCK NOTES

The Methodist church will have a board meeting Wednesday and will probably talk over the plans for the location of the new church.

The Business and Professional Women's Club is planning some fine times this month. Beginning with a social for members only to night at the home of the president, Mrs. Snow, of 5244 Summer avenue, the women expect to have a wonderful month of both business and pleasure. Miss Dorothy Levey will be the guest of the evening at to-night's affair. A week from to-morrow the regular Spanish meeting will be held. A week from to-night the music section meets and on December 13 the regular meeting of the club will be held and it is to be a "white elephant affair."

Dr. Guy W. Wadsworth, who was president of Occidental college from 1897 to 1905, gave a splendid talk on Japan to the people of the Presbyterian church last night. As he has been connected with foreign affairs for a considerable length of time Dr. Wadsworth's talk was both entertaining and instructive.

Mrs. E. D. Snow and daughter, Erna May, spent the Thanksgiving holidays at the lovely home of Mrs. Brougher in Beaumont.

EARL PENDROY BUYS NORTHWEST AGREAGE

This is going some. Last Monday the realty firm of Schuyler, McMillan and Hanson, 122 West Broadway, sold to Earl Pendroy 10 acres at the corner of San Fernando and Western avenue.

This property was subdivided and on Friday night the plat of the tract was tentatively approved by the Glendale city council. The sale of the lots in the tract started Saturday morning. By 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon all of the frontage on San Fernando and Western was sold, representing an investment of $67,000. The "bunch" went to the football game to call it "a day."

Mr. Pendroy retains 5 1/2 acres fronting on the Southern Pacific for industrial purposes.

ONLY ONE WEEK NOW REMAINS OF FERBER'S BIG SALE

Mr. Mandelman, who is the manager of Ferber's, says that one week remains in which to take advantage of the bargains he is offering in the removal sale at the old stand at 108 Brand, near Broadway, before the opening in the beautiful new store at Maryland and Broadway. There a wonderful new stock which is arriving by every train is being placed and the final touches are being applied, which are to make this establishment the peer of any dry goods store in any city of the rank of Glendale. Ferber's are building for the future, Mr. Mandelman says, and therefore must be in advance of the demands of their trade.

To close out as far as possible the present stock drastic reductions in merchandise of all kinds are being made, not only in garments of every sort, but in yardage. The most attractive offerings include goods of a very substantial character which will especially appeal to those who believe in the purchase of sensible gifts which can be used and enjoyed the year through. Buyers looking for underwear, shirts, dresses, blouses and particularly sweaters should inspect this stock.

ROYAL STOCK CO. TO PLAY FOUR DAYS IN WEEK

The ladies of the Tuesday Afternoon Club have rented their beautiful theater for Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week to the Royal Stock Company, and the citizens of Glendale will have an opportunity of seeing at this house the best London and New York comedies and dramas played at popular prices.

This company comes direct from a six years' record-breaking run in Vancouver, B. C., and every play

PERSONAL AND LOCAL ITEMS

Mrs. Edith Finch of Pasadena and Miss Fay Litzburg were luncheon guests of Mrs. G. E. Smith, 229 1/2 North Maryland avenue, Tuesday last.

Mrs. Edith Stamps of Berkeley is visiting her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Stamps of 436 West Colorado street. Mrs. Stamps is making an indefinite stay.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Carroll and daughter of 635 North Isabel street attended the concert given Friday night at the University of California by Joseph Lhevinne. Mrs. Carroll studied with Lhevinne for two years in Europe and greatly enjoyed hearing him again and renewing acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac H. Pearson, Jr., and little daughter came Friday evening from Stockton to visit until Wednesday with Isaac's parents, who live at 644 East Harvard. He has been at Stockton since last May, shipping melons and grapes for a big commission firm. He will spend the next six months in Brawley, shipping lettuce and later melons and other produce for the same firm.

Robert Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Harris of 1144 North Brand boulevard is to return today from a five days' trip to San Francisco. He is a member of the Eagle Rock chapter of the Western Rangers, a boys' organization, and left on Thanksgiving morning for the northern city aboard the steamer Ruth Alexander. The boys were given a sight seeing trip, all over the city of San Francisco and returned to Southern California this morning.

This 12-Year-Old Just a Caddy by Profession But Painting, His Hobby, Got Him Place in Art School

While John Wiktor was awaiting a call from the caddy master of a Chicago golf club, a club member found him sketching a lake scene from the roof of the club house. Now John is a student at the Academy of Fine Arts in Chicago and Director Carl N. Wernitz says he is confident the lurking genius in the caddy will find expression under proper instruction.

PENDROY'S STORE SPECIALIZING ON HANDKERCHIEFS

One of the things on which Pendroy's is specializing for the holiday trade is handkerchiefs. The counters where they are displayed constitute a regular bazaar in themselves, with prices having so wide a range as to fit the demand for both cheap and costly gifts. The fact that color and embroidery are in the mode in connection with these very necessary accessories of dress, makes for bewildering variety. It is not surprising therefore that customers linger so long at this alluring bazaar that the morning slips away before they realize it. Completely new is the booth where Christmas cards are sold in beautiful variety of design, sentiment and coloring. With them can be found Christmas wrapping paper, tissue rolls, holly paper, red crepe, with Christmas cord, Christmas seals, and the paraphernalia which carries suggestions of good cheer.

Mr. Business Man

We have unlimited faith in the future of Glendale. Is there a business man in Glendale who shares this faith with us? Our lease at our old stand, 108 S. Brand Blvd., is for sale. We want to sell it to such a man.

WHAT HAS THE YEAR NOW CLOSING MEANT TO YOU?

By S. W. STRAUS
 President of the American Society for Thrift.

THE year 1923 is rapidly drawing to a close, and it is not out of order to suggest that the present is an opportune time for us to take stock of what it has meant to us in personal progress.

Are we further along in the realization of our rightful ambitions than we were at the beginning of this period? Are we better prepared for the days of emergency that may lie just around the corner? Inasmuch as we are one year nearer the period of old age, are we in a correspondingly better position to meet the days when we shall be dependent either on the amount of money we have accumulated or the charity of others?

"The best prophet of the future is the past," wrote Byron. If the years behind us have not brought the measure of success that we have desired, if we have not been able to save and get ahead and place ourselves in a position of some independence, we have nothing better to look forward to in the future unless we make a firm resolution now to start on a new line of personal management.

Get the thrift habit. Make saving as essential as earning. Conserve your resources in time and health and money. Make these practices not matters of a few days, but determine to bend the entire course of your life to them.

Any practice soon becomes a habit whether it is good or bad. "Habits, if not resisted, soon become a necessity," said St. Anthony. If you are not a practitioner of thrift let these closing days of the year be the period of a great resolve. Begin the ways of thrift. It will require self denial, will power, character. But it will be a most important step in your life. It will bring you happiness and contentment. It will increase your usefulness and add to your self respect.

At first you may not relish the changed routine. But soon thrift will become a matter of habit with you, and as the days and months unfold you will find in them an ever increasing joy.

After living on bread and cheese and kisses for about a month the young married couple begins to cut out the kisses.

It's often difficult to get even with people who owe you money.

An A. B. C. report is a businesslike, deciding authority that has replaced the old custom of buying space on certain "claims" of the publisher.

The publisher with space to sell submits the facts about his business in the form of a statement to the Audit Bureau of Circulations. This statement, after it is checked, approved or audited by the Bureau, is used to place the publisher's wares before the Advertiser who is buying space.

The Advertiser, knowing the thoroughness of A. B. C. methods, safely bases his decision on the Verified Facts contained in the A. B. C. report.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations has brought together the Buyer and Seller of Space upon a basis of Mutual Confidence.

The careful Advertiser knows that the purchase of Space by A. B. C. reports cuts out inflated Waste Circulation and saves money that would otherwise be lost in paying for unproductive space.

Study the latest A. B. C. report of the Glendale Daily Press before placing your advertising. A copy will be furnished on request.

JOHN SMALLMAN'S THIRD ANNUAL RECITAL

John Smallman in his third annual recital at Ebell, Wednesday evening, December 5, will present by far the most pretentious program of his career.

Coming to Los Angeles direct from Boston, Mr. Smallman has given to the west coast a finished artist and a personality that has, in four years, proved a most wholesome and welcome contribution.

John Smallman is distinguished. He blends with rare grace the culture of the east into the dominant progressive spirit of the west.

And although he is an acknowledged authority in oratorio, having as conductor of the Los Angeles Oratorio society, placed it in an enviable position musically, and one of the only three financially successful in the United States—yet it is as a singer that John Smallman deserves real tribute.

In the selection of Sel Cohen, composer-violinist, as assisting artist in his coming recital, Mr. Smallman reveals an unusual nicety of the artistic in music.

Smallman and Mr. Cohen—baritone and violin—a most pleasing combination. In Lorna Gregg, Mr. Smallman has selected a pianist, recognized as one of the most proficient accompanists on the coast.

Annual memorial day of the Glendale lodge of Elks No. 1289, held on Sunday, December 2, was observed with the usual ritualistic service and a most interesting musical program appropriate for such an occasion.

Since the memorial exercises last year the Glendale lodge has lost the following members, who have passed on: Frank E. Darrow, Walter E. Coan, Dr. J. E. Coltrani, Delmont Locke, Elmer A. McGee, W. E. Hatfield, Halle R. Frey, George H. Cody, H. B. Kneller, J. W. M. Burton, Robert F. Howard, Hiram L. Mull, Frank W. Loesch and Clyde M. Goodnow.

According to the 400 or more Elks and friends who attended the services were the best of the kind ever put on by the local lodge.

Here are some of the high lights of Rev. Ford's address: "Memory lights, the hearth fire from the ashes of yesterday's burning, through life's highway with those who do not jostle us in the mad rush of traffic. Memory brings the color back to the pallid cheek and the voice to mute lips."

Truths in Epigram

Let your religion be seen. Lamps do not talk, but they do shine.—Spurgeon.

Health is the soul that animates all the enjoyments of life, which fade, and are tasteless, if not dead, without it.—Sir W. Temple.

The very substance of the ambitions is merely the shadow of a dream.—Shakespeare.

THE RULING PASSION

According to the will made by a young woman in New York, her body was to be buried glittering with jewels. In her dead ears were to be diamonds. Added decorations were a lavalier, a cameo ring and a diamond pin. How long the prevailing condition of morals would have allowed her bones to rest undisturbed remains a question, for it is not known whether these provisions were carried out. Her disposition of money also seems to have been peculiar, and her father is contesting the will. The document had been liberal with other relatives, but had left him out. This, however, is not the matter that stirs general interest.

It is not easy to see what satisfaction could be derived from contemplation of entombment in company with a lot of gems. Probably the owner had been proud of these possessions, and accustomed to display them. They must have become a veritable passion with her. A person of generous instincts might find pleasure in bestowing gifts of friendship, the jewels that had adorned the wearer in life. To desire the company of the gauds in the grave never to be seen again unless by the predatory, hardly could be construed as the indication of a sound mind.

Courts have got into the way of setting aside the silly will. The desire of decedent to waste a fortune, to divert it unjustly, is subject to judicial interference frequently. Diamonds represent wealth, and if not useful themselves, may be changed into forms of usefulness. It is doubtful if any possessor of wealth has the right deliberately to efface it even for the purpose of being a picturesque corpse.

AMERICAN PRESTIGE ABROAD

Richard Washburn Child, ambassador to Italy, says that American prestige abroad never was greater than now. It is cheering to observe that a well-informed man holds such a view. His remarks call to mind the frequent assertion that "Europe laughs" at American diplomacy. The truth is that Europe is denied the privilege of laughing at diplomacy anywhere. Its own diplomacy has done nothing but lead it from disaster to disaster, and leave it balanced somewhat precariously at the edge of ruin. If there is anything at which Europe is able to summon up a gust of mirth, by no means let the chance be withdrawn. "Laughter doeth good like a medicine," and Europe is very sick.

Mr. Washburn asserts that it is insulting to intelligence to say that the United States is standing apart from the rest of the world. It is his view "that our good sense, after a tragical lapse, has been restored, and is considered a bulwark against international misfortune."

Europe does not think, then, that it has been abandoned by the greatest power in the world. The idle chatter of the Johnsons of this land doubtless has reached across the seas, but it has been received there at its worth. It is not believed to represent the desires of America. There is a deep and mighty current of opposition to the Johnson attitude, but it makes less noise than created by the proponents of isolation.

This country still possesses the qualities needful for leadership. It is ready to give support to plans for saving Europe and establishing justice anew, promoting and maintaining peace. It knows that to remain selfishly aloof would be impossible. There are tentative propositions being considered. It is not too much to hope that one shall be found practicable and effective. The United States is too large a factor in civilization to take the attitude that its sole concern for civilization centers upon the portion within its national boundary lines.

STATUS OF HOG MEAT

"Hog meat is the cheapest food product in America," says the president of the National Livestock Exchange. He said it as he was protesting against the influx of porkers, the abundance forcing down the price to raisers. He tells the farmers that if they will hold back awhile they will find the market much more profitable to themselves. He predicts a shortage of hogs, however, owing to the present tendency of the farmers to clear their pens. Perhaps his analysis of the situation fails to interest the public much, for the public has learned that the relation between wholesale prices on the hoof, and the expense involved in supplying the family table, is too tenuous to be discerned.

The engrossing statement in the gentleman's essay is the one quoted. If hog meat is cheap, to whom is it cheap? Not to the consumer. There was a time when a poor man could afford bacon. The price then was twenty-five per cent, or less, of the price now asked for it. There are some inferior cuts of all meats, pork, mutton or beef, that may be purchased at a reasonable figure. The good cuts are held at a figure prohibitive to the family of small income. If they know the taste of a first class roast, or a tender steak, they know it from memory. The bacon that once was within reach of the humblest laborer must at present be classed as a luxury. This is true at least of standard brands, and the other brands do not appeal to the palate.

It is pleasing to read that hog meat is cheap. It buoy up the spirits of the householder, a little, and temporarily. When he visits his butcher he finds that somebody has been guilty of undue optimism.

LAGGARD MOTHER LOVE

Judge Hahn of the superior court of Los Angeles county has just decided a peculiar case. By his decision a child of thirteen was withheld from its own mother, and awarded to a foster mother. When the circumstances are considered there is no fault to be found with the judicial ruling. At first the ruling may seem not to give full consideration to the equation of mother-love, but it is free of such flaw.

At the birth of the child, it had been abandoned, being picked up on a neighboring doorstep. It was taken into a kind family where there had been just then the birth and death of a baby, and the mother was still ill. The wait was accepted by her at first as being her own. When later, she knew the truth about it, she decided to keep the baby that had come to her so opportunely. Years passed, and no protest came from the real mother. The foster mother died but foreseeing the event, had passed the child to another woman, who soon after formally adopted it. After that the child had a home in every way desirable.

When thirteen years had gone by the mother decided that she wanted her baby, once abandoned, and long neglected by her. She resorted to law to bring about the desired change, and the instrumentality of the law, scrutinizing the facts carefully, said "No."

The woman endowed with normal affection cherishes her child, and would give up anything else rather than her own flesh and blood. The one who takes a contrary course, and casts the little one upon a callous world, heedless of what fate may await, thereby forfeits all claim to consideration in the matter. This is accentuated when the period of neglect covers a term of years.

The heiress may be homely, but if she waits for some young man to tell her so she will never find it out.

Some people after casting a crust of bread upon the water think they should get a bowl of milk-toast in return.

The Ohio town that has the fewest doctors also has the smallest death rate. The natives are trying to figure out which is the cause and which the effect.

ZANGWILL AND US

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

The funniest thing about the average American is his unshakable faith in the superiority of all things American.

Just now many 100 percenters are angry with Israel Zangwill because of a few eminently just criticisms that he voiced in New York of America and things American.

This morning I listened with interest while a group of them staved audibly and consigned the distinguished author to a place where all Puritans hope that distinguished authors will be parked once they have passed the shores of the Styx.

They sputtered because he said we were funny and undignified, and they roared when they came to the paragraph in his statement which accused us of being without a sense of shame as we thought nothing of interviewing prize fighters on the duties of judges and publishing the interviews. They sniffed at his hint that we lacked humor.

And then I opened a newspaper and found just how funny we really are. In Pasadena is an eminent scholar, Dr. Robert A. Millikan, who has just been awarded the Nobel prize for services to science. That is a great honor, so great, in fact, that Dr. Millikan actually got a quarter of a column in two or three papers.

The "serious" story of the day, however, was that touching an alleged effort of a comparatively obscure attorney to blackmail a movie queen. That epic event got 18 columns in one way or another, which registers our national estimate of values.

If anybody read the 18 columns I don't know, but it is clear that the dopestors who ground it out of their groaning typewriters believed somebody would.

Does not that kind of thing in a measure at least justify the author's charge that as a nation we lack humor? People who have time and inclination to read 18 columns about a charge that somebody said was going to be made must have on hand a good bit of time that has not and will not be profitably expended, and a peculiar sense of values.

Recently I heard a successful actress explain her success by saying that she always tried to get the viewpoint of her audience.

Zangwill is our audience and if we get his viewpoint we may hasten the day when we will have more dignity, more of a sense of humor and a deeper, higher and better sense of justice.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Funny things get into the papers now and then. When they are very funny indeed the chances are that they were written by experts. The more a man knows about a given proposition the more apt he is to see it lopsided. Or so it seems to me. Take this Peter Pumpkin—if that is his name—for example. He is a dab at the grocery business.

"There is no money in running a grocery," he says. "There are more failures in the grocery business than in any other. No young man should risk his money in it."

Is that so, Peter? Because I do not believe you. Two years ago, when we moved out our street, a young Greek opened a small grocery on a square nearby. He may have had forty dollars' worth of groceries in it. He slept behind the counter and ate the bananas that were beginning to go bad. I'm sure of that.

"Many day I no have goods meat," said Scoupolis, or whatever his name is. "Not gotto money, see?"

But he was on the job. He ordered goods a can at a time, I think, but he ordered them. In six months most of the neighborhood was going to Scoupolis for its groceries. Now he has a large, nickel-plated, shiny store, filled with clerks who smile, and act pleasant, and do not forget, and make good when they promise. Scoupolis is on the job all the time. He hardly has a chance to get out in his large new automobile.

"It's a hard-a business," he tells me. "But lotta-da-mona. Only got to be on-da job." There's the answer for any business, to my way of thinking. It's the difference between success and failure. Between taking your outings in a shiny automobile and between the boards of a sandwich man. Between getting in and getting out. Hard work, a smile, a good memory, a desire to serve—

In a word, being on the job.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

Once there was a reflective dog. And an intensive one. For the spirits of dogs perhaps may be like those of men.

The reflective spirit. And the intensive one.

The two dogs were chasing hares. And the hare when he is chased by a dog is more intense than reflective. He is intent upon making an escape. Upon his own safety.

The intensive dog got right down to the business of chasing his hare. He did not let anything stand in his way.

His mind was upon the capture of his quarry.

The blue of the sky did not appeal to him. Nor did the verdure upon the hills.

And that is the way with the intensive spirit. It sets its mind upon something and then pursues it.

And usually gets what it pursues. Because it does not let anything stand in the way of the pursuit.

And the people of the world are divided into those two classes. The intensive souls have been the ones that chased the hare.

Held a purpose and pursued it. Gained wealth. For the gaining of wealth is by the intensive spirit.

Seldom the reflective one.

The reflective spirits of the world have been the truth seekers. The philosophers.

The great teachers. The scientists and seekers after knowledge. And reflection has been necessary to gain the truths they have sought.

So while the intensive dog chased his hare through valleys and up hills and through woods, the reflective dog sat down now and then and wondered what it was all about.

He speculated upon the nature of men and hares and dogs. And the chasing of hares by dogs.

Why should a hare have to fly for his life? And a dog follow him intent upon his destruction? When both were creatures of the same nature.

One as much entitled to peace and happiness as the other.

And while the intensive dog followed his hare closely, the reflective dog continued to wonder.

With the result that his hare got safely away. And found a hiding place. While the hare chased by the intensive dog was gobbled up.

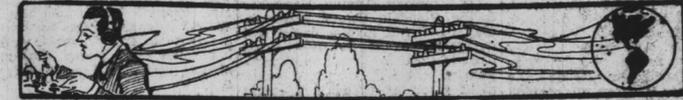

Torn to bits and scattered about in bits of fur and bloody flesh.

And when the two dogs met at last, the intensive dog inquired as to the success of the chase by the reflective dog.

And learned that the hare had gotten away. And the reflective dog said he did not see why a dog should chase a hare and kill it anyway.

And the intensive dog looked at the other with amazement.

"As a philosopher you are a success," he said, "but you are not much of a dog-for-rabbit chase."

Songs of the Poets

Peace—By Henry Vaughan (1621-1695)

My soul, there is a country
Far beyond the stars,
Where stands a winged sentry
All skillful in the wars;
There, above noise and danger,
Sweet Peace sits crown'd with smiles,
And One born in a manger
Commands the beauteous files.
He is thy gracious friend,
And—O my soul, awake!

Did in pure love descend
To die here for thy sake.
If thou canst get but thither,
There grows the flower of Peace.
The Rose that cannot wither,
Thy fortress, and thy case.
Leave then thy foolish ranges;
For none can thee secure
But One who never changes—
Thy God, thy life, thy cure.

HAPPY BY EFFORT

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE excessive value put upon money comes from the poor. Those who esteem riches most are those who do not have it.

The principal reason why the rich appreciate it is because the poor want it so much. Thus Bacon: "Certainly great persons have need to borrow other men's opinions to think themselves happy. When they think what others think of them, and that other men would fain be as they are, then they are happy, as it were, by report."

But the difficulty with this philosophy is that the rich are only amused at it, and the poor do not believe it.

Let us who are perforce humble, therefore, rejoice that obscurity and a low station have their compensation.

The tramps and scribblers, show-makers and day-laborers, who are not endowed, may rejoice in this, that to be success in this world means a trailload of useless luggage, hordes of hollow friends, distant relatives suddenly becoming tender and solicitous, hundreds of savage looks from the hungry crowd that want our place, many a hand that would strike us down for pure envy, and our share of King Solomon's "vanity and vexation of spirit."

The fox in the fable was not such a fool; when you cannot get grapes it is a comfort to call them sour.

In our poverty we can at least be genuinely sincere when we pray: "Give us this day our daily bread." For the good God alone knows where it is coming from.

Did you ever try to separate your real resources of happiness from those you publish?

If you should do this you would be surprised to find how cheap and simple happiness really is.

That hat you wear, are you wearing it because it is the style and because you think other people admire it, or because it really gives you satisfaction? Very probably that little headgear that no one has remarked and which you have had for two years gives you a genuine thrill, while the fantastic contraption that cost twenty times as much gives you satisfaction only because you think other people admire it.

I remember once giving O. Henry a box of expensive Havana cigars. With apologies he confessed to me that he did not like them. He said, "I get a lot more satisfaction out of the cheap kind of cigars that are made in the barn."

You went to see a play the other night. Do you claim that you enjoyed it simply because everybody else is saying he enjoyed it? Or did the performance as a matter of fact leave you cold?

How many books do you read because they really interest you and how many do you read simply because the mob declares that they should interest you?

Our daily living would be much richer in enjoyment if we stuck a little more closely to the things that really appeal to us and if we spent more time in trying to be happy than we spend in trying to make other people think we are happy.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

The presence of Governor Small of Illinois at a Hiram Johnson's dinner lent the occasion a certain not wholly enviable distinction.

There might be a better reason for building a railroad across the Sahara than the avowed purpose of facilitating military movements.

"Will File Writ to Free Mrs. Peete." Headline. Perhaps it would be more effectual to file the bars.

German capital buys a great American ship. For the same capital to stock the ship with food for hungry Germans would be a fine idea.

Senator Watson of Indiana may be a presidential candidate. Well, there's no harm in that.

Senate republican leaders after a conference seem to have concluded to defy La Follette.

Lloyd George is on the stump, a position often very different from being up the stump.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

MR. MELLON'S PROGRAM [Springfield Republican]

It is the Republican's conviction, that Mr. Mellon is advocating a sound financial policy. No bonus bill should be passed; if one should be passed, the President should veto it. "The improved condition of the treasury makes possible, however, a return of $323,000,000 a year to the pockets of the taxpayers and that is where the money belongs if it be not needed for necessary expenses of government."

AN EXAMPLE [Meridian Journal]

Just now Connecticut is probably the driest state in the Union and we did not have to call in President Coolidge to do it. Governor Pinchet has the same weapons, if he cared to use them instead of railing at everybody else.

AS PEDESTRIANS SEE IT [Omaha Bee]

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

In the selling to Germany of the largest American freighter there is absence of anything tending to swell the pride. The case is far different from what it might have been had the ship been constructed to be sold. This was not the purpose at all.

James J. Hill had the ship constructed for the carrying of American traffic. It now goes to the service of carrying foreign traffic.

Just at this time there is a desire in the United States for establishment of an American marine, but efforts do not seem to be getting anybody anywhere, although the opportunity is richly available. Germany, a land wherein poverty so prevails that the world is being asked to send the bread of charity to the starving there, wishes to possess a merchant marine. So German capital purchases a great American ship, to boost its ambitions towards being realized.

Had the spirit of Hill, a spirit that won for the man the merited title of "Empire Builder," continued to function on the old plane after he himself had been called from his labors, the natural reply to overtures would have been: "We need the ship ourselves. Why not invest your spare funds in bread for your famished?"

A French senator is quoted as saying that with a renewal of close relations between his country and Russia, "Poland would no longer be needed."

Any little government that "would no longer be needed" may, of course, be erased from the map. In such manner brotherly love continues its march around the world.

Whether the effort to see one automobile going faster than another is worth the risk of being killed, this episode adding to the impressiveness of the occasion, perhaps is debatable.

This part of the country has awakened to the need for commodious hotels of the first class. Having awakened, it has gone about the business of procuring them.

In the near future the beach resorts of southern California will have as fine an equipment in these respects as may be seen at Atlantic City.

Long Beach maintains a somewhat frivolous section known as The Pike. There may be seen almost every sort of amusement, freak or side-show. There is also an open forum where glib talkative persons duly qualified to settle the problems of the world.

But a new sensation was needed even on The Pike, and so a theatrical thief staged a bank robbery the other day, as a free exhibition to all who desired to see. Novelty is what people really like.

The church people who barred Farrar missed some good music. It is not clear that they accomplished anything else. Farrar's voice, raised in song, seldom has been guilty of indiscretions.

The communists of Russia are a queer bunch. Recently with elaborate ceremony they dedicated a child to their theory, as to a religion opposed to recognized creeds, the operation being a distant copy of the baptismal rite.

The ritual closed to the strains of Schubert's "Ave Maria" and the participants were not in the least aware of the incongruity of the whole proceeding.

Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of the Mt. Wilson observatory, is the first American to have received the Valz medal, awarded by the Paris Academy of Sciences. It was given to him for researches in solar and stellar spectroscopy.

Southern California is rapidly getting proud of the scientists who live here, and make discoveries by which they become famous the world over.

However greatly a German may be devoted to the welfare of his country, unless he is a brave man, the invitation to form a cabinet will be taken for him as the incentive to strike out for tall timber. Perhaps nothing is impossible, but the forming of a cabinet able to function, and to survive, is taking on the color of impossibility over there.

For some reason the report that the Lusitania was sunk by the orders of Germany has been revived. It is merely the telling of an old but true story.

There is to be an ocean liner built at the harbor, a first class ocean-going steamer. Attention is drawn to this as evidence that much that the Pacific coast needs, it is capable of producing.

Herds of wild horses are endangering some country districts of Oregon.

Herds of wild automobile drivers do the same for urban districts everywhere.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

BECAUSE HE CRIED

"I'm honestly all tired out with the child, Mary. I've got to get away for a few days and rest or I shan't be able to go on. The doctor says so and I believe him. I hate to ask you to take him but what else can I do?"

"Of course I'll take him. What's the matter? I never saw any very great difficulty in living with him!"

"No, you don't have to live with him. I do. He's a perfect little tyrant. He's got to have his own way no matter what, and if he is crossed in the least thing he will cry and cry until I'm almost beside myself."

"All right. Never mind him. You just leave him and I'll take care of him."

"Wait. I must take his coat off and tell him to be a good boy and—"

"Wow, wow, I'm not going to stay here. I'm going with you—I'm-wow-wow—"

"Never mind him. Go right along and I'll take care of him."

"O, dear. Do stop, Buddie. Try to be patient with him. O my! isn't he dreadful? Stop it Buddie."

"Just leave him and go. He'll soon stop if he doesn't see you."

"O, how can I leave him when he cries like that? Finally she was persuaded to go and leave the howling child with his aunt who looked at him calmly and then went about setting the table. He cried louder; he stamped; he screeched until he was purple in the face."

"Go and wash your face, Buddie. I'm going to have supper. He tried a few howls but they had no sincerity, no stuff in them. Then he sniffed a few sniffs and went into the bathroom and made an effort to wash his face."

"Guess you'll need a little help with the corners," said Aunt Mary, and she gave him a good wash and smoothed his hair and led him to his place as though he were an honored guest. He cried no more until the night his mother came home.

"Come, Buddie, I'll help you with your coat. We're going home." Buddie thought an instant and then reluctantly allowed himself to be eased into his coat. "Hurry along now," said his mother. "We're going home in a taxi and it's waiting."

"No, no," he wailed. "I'm not going in the taxi. I want to walk home. I want to walk home."

"There, there, don't cry. Please—Buddie, don't cry. We'll walk if you like. It isn't very far. Don't cry."

Down the steps, one at a time, a howl for every step, Buddie picked his way. His aunt lost patience and snatched him up and whirled him into the house. "Buddie, what are you crying for? What's the matter with you? Acting like this. Shameful!" Buddie gulped and sniffed. Then he heard his mother's step. "Mother's home," said he and opened his mouth until his face disappeared. After which he went home in the taxi. His mother was sitting straight and her eye was grim. Perhaps?

"SECOND COMING OF CHRIST" REV. EDMONDS' THEME

At the morning service of the Glendale Presbyterian church a large audience gave the closest attention to the sermon by the pastor, Rev. W. E. Edmonds. The subject was "The Second Coming of Christ," and the text was taken from Rev. 16:15, "Behold, I come as a thief." The speaker said in part:

"In all announcements of the Lord's coming some note of explanation is usually attached. The announcement here is made by the Lord Himself. No angel, no prophetic messenger sends out this mighty intimation, but the Lord Himself announces, 'Behold, I come as a thief.' 'The text is a vivid figure expressing the fact that His coming will be a surprise. The thief does not come openly but when least expected. 'In such an hour as ye think not the Son of Man cometh.' The thief comes quietly and without demonstration. So the coming of the Lord for His saints will be secret and silent. As the thief comes to take away precious treasures so the coming of the Lord here referred to will be exclusive. It will directly affect every true believer, for all will be claimed by their Lord. What about the left ones? God saves any of you from that dark and dreadful hour. 'The return of Christ is a fundamental doctrine of Christian faith. It forms the climax of our creed and is the sublime motive for evangelistic and missionary activity, and daily it is voiced in the inspiring prayer, 'Even so come, Lord Jesus.' 'Belief in our Lord's return was with many other doctrines lost sight of in the dark ages. At the time of the Reformation the doctrine of justification by faith loomed so large that other topics were thrown into the background. During the last 50 years the hope of the Lord's appearing has again occupied the minds of Bible students. We are faced with the fact that the Lord will come as a thief in the night. 'It is peculiarly a Scriptural doctrine. Like other great truths of revelation it is a controverted doctrine. The essential fact is held by all who admit the authenticity of Scripture, and while this is true, there are differences of opinion, hence any consideration of this theme demands modesty, humility and abundant charity. 'Some contend that the special manifestation of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost fulfilled the promise of Christ's return. Paul long after Pentecost, and other apostles also, emphasized the second coming of Christ as the highest incentive in life and service. Some say that the fall of Jerusalem fulfilled the predictions. But long after that city fell John wrote in Gospel and Apocalypse of the coming of the Lord. Nor is the coming of Christ to be confused with death. True it is that the Word states that 'depart is to be with Christ which is far better,' and 'To die is gain.' Those now with the Lord in heavenly joy are waiting for their glorified bodies and for the reward and reunion which will be theirs at the appearing of Christ. 'His return is imminent. It is an event which may occur in any lifetime. Paul believed the Christ might return in his lifetime but he never asserted he would. 'The Lord will come at such a time as we think not. Will He find us in the arms of the world, like an unfaithful lover, breaking every vow of love and loyalty? May God keep us true till He comes for He has said, 'Behold, I come as a thief.'"

VICTORIA, British Columbia.—Authentic records show that a total of $456,835,568 was authorized for new companies incorporated by the dominion and provincial government during the first half of 1923. Of this amount British Columbia accounted for $38,513,800. By provinces, British Columbia ranked third.

MISSIONARY DAY, CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Yesterday was annual missionary Sunday at the Central Christian church and Mrs. Anna Paul Cason, dean of women at California Christian college, was the speaker. Her theme was, "World Neighborliness," and she spoke of missions as fulfilling the latter part of the "greatest commandment" as enunciated by the Master, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy soul, mind and strength, and thy neighbor as thyself." To have a part in the spreading of world-wide missions is the greatest opportunity that can come to Christian women, the speaker declared. And she said that to be an American woman is a high privilege. "Forty-nine years ago a little group of 75 women of Christian churches met and organized the Christian Women's board of missions. The sum of $400 was raised that year. In 1923 the society numbers 170,000 women and the sum of $541,732 was raised. A poor record, say I. These figures should be doubled. The goal set for 1924, our golden jubilee year, is 50,000 new members and $1,000,000 contributed for missions." Mrs. Cason lauded the club women of America for their devotion to high ideals and their splendid work, and said that the women of the church should be equally devoted. The address was listened to with close attention and many words of approval were spoken at the close of the service. At the opening Rev. Cole read a letter from Willard and Grace Learned, the Glendale church's representatives in the African mission field. They left Antwerp, Belgium, on November 13 and are expected to arrive most any day at the mouth of the Congo. At the evening service Rev. Cole preached the sixth of his series of sermons on "The Beginning of the Church Reformation and Restoration."

Rev. Moore Talks of Unconquerable Soul

Sunday evening, at 113 South Orange street, Rev. Arthur A. Moore, of the Occult Science of Christ church spoke on "The Unconquerable Soul." He said, in part, that as man is ordained to be master of all things, he first becomes master of the forming of the mental images of desire within his own mind. He also pointed out that to what degree of mastery man will attain is dependent upon the use of his will in continuing in a persistent and diligent manner in overcoming the results of negligent and negative thoughts that have grown into habits. Rev. Moore laid emphasis upon the statement that the soul that becomes unquarable follows the silent though powerful urge from within to search for the reason for the facts of life, and that he accepts all things in life as something containing a meaning, a lesson striving for the goal of mastery. It was Rev. Moore's conviction that in the light of this knowledge all experiences of nature are but lessons in the great school of God.

NAZARENE REVIVAL STILL CONTINUES

Sunday December 2 was a day that will be long remembered by those who attended the services at the First Church of the Nazarene of Glendale. There was a large attendance at the Sunday school and both preaching services. Rev. John Hatfield, the evangelist, was at his best in yesterday's sermons. The young people's meeting was led by Elmer Heck of Burbank. This was a great service, also. The services are to continue each night this week. A three-piece orchestra is assisting in the song service each night.

Modern Version of New Testament

By EDGAR J. GOODSPEED THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MARK He immediately had his disciples get into the boat and cross before him to the other side toward Bethsaida, while he was dismissing the crowd. When he had taken leave of the people he went up the hill to pray. When evening came on, the boat was in the middle of the sea, and he was alone on shore. And he saw that they were straining at the oars, for the wind was against them, and toward morning he went out to them, walking on the sea, and was going to join them. They saw him walking on the sea, and thought it was a ghost and screamed aloud, for they all saw him and were terrified. But he immediately spoke to them and said, "Take courage, it is I. Do not be afraid." Then he went up to them and got into the boat. And the wind fell. And they were perfectly beside themselves, for they had not understood about the loaves, but their minds were blinded. They crossed over to the other side and came to Gennesaret and moored the boat. As soon as they came ashore, the people recognized Jesus, and they hurried all over the countryside and began to bring the sick to him on their mats, wherever they heard he was. And whatever village or town or farm he went to, they would lay their sick in the market-place and beg him to let them touch just the tassel of his cloak, and all who touched it were cured. The Pharisees gathered about him with some scribes who had come from Jerusalem. They had noticed that some of his disciples ate their food without first giving their hands a ceremonial washing to purify them. For the Pharisees and all the Jews observe the rules handed down from their ancestors, and will not eat until they have washed their hands in a particular way, and they will not eat anything from the market without first purifying it by sprinkling it, and they have a number of other observances which have come down to them, in the way of washing cups, pitchers, and basins. And the Pharisees and the scribes asked him, "Why do your disciples not observe the rules handed down by our ancestors, but eat their food without purifying their hands?" But he said to them, "It was about you hypocrites that Isaiah prophesied so finely, in the words, "This people honor me with their lips, Yet their hearts are far away from me. But their worship of me is all in vain, For the lessons they teach are but human precepts." "You give up what God has commanded and hold fast to what men have handed down." "How skillful you are," he said to them, "in nullifying what God has commanded in order to observe what has been handed down to you. For Moses said, 'Honor your father and your mother,' and again, 'Whoever abuses his father or mother must be put to death.' But you say, 'If a man says to his father or mother, 'Anything of mine that might have been of use to you is Korban,' that is, consecrated to God, you let him off from doing anything more for his father or mother, and so you nullify what God has said by what you have handed down. You have many such practices." He called the people to him again and said to them, "Listen to me, all of you, and understand this. Nothing that goes into a man from outside can pollute him. It is what comes out of a man that pollutes him." When he had left the crowd and gone home, his disciples asked him what he meant by this figure. And he said to them, "Have not even you any understanding then? Do you not see that nothing that goes into a man from outside can pollute him, since it does not go into his heart but into his stomach and then is disposed of?" So he declared all food clean. He went on to say, "It is what comes out of a man that pollutes him. For it is from inside, from men's hearts, that designs of evil come; immorality, stealing, murder, adultery, greed, malice, deceit, indecency, envy, abisiveness, arrogance, folly—all these evils come from inside, and they pollute a man." He left that place and went to the neighborhood of Tyre and Sidon. And he went into a certain house, and wanted no one to know of it. And he could not keep it secret, but a woman whose little daughter was possessed by a foul spirit immediately heard about him and came and threw herself at his feet. Now the woman was a Greek, of Syrophenician birth. And she begged him to drive the demon out of her daughter. He said to her, "Let the children first eat all they want, for it is not right to take the children's bread and throw it to the dogs." But she answered, "True, sir and still the dogs under the table eat what the children leave!" He said to her, "If you can say that, go home; the demon has left your daughter." And she went home and found the child lying on the bed, and the demon gone. He left the neighborhood of Tyre again and went by way of Sidon to the Sea of Galilee, crossing the district of the Ten Towns. And they brought to him a man who was deaf and hardly able to speak, and they begged him to lay his hand on him. He took him off by himself away from the crowd, and put his fingers in the man's ears, and touched his tongue with saliva. And he looked up to heaven and sighed, and said to him, "Ephphatha!"—which means "Open." And his ears were opened and his tongue was released and he talked plainly. And Jesus forbade them to tell anyone about it, but the more he forbade them the more they spread the news far and wide. And people were utterly amazed, and said, "How well he has done everything! He even makes the deaf hear and the dumb speak!" In those days when a great crowd had gathered again and they had nothing to eat, he called his disciples to him and said to them, "I pity these people, for they have been staying with me three days now, and they have nothing left to eat. And if I send them home hungry they will give out on the way, for some of them come from a distance." His disciples replied, "Where can anyone get bread enough, here in this solitude, to satisfy these people's hunger?" "How many loaves have you?" he asked. "Seven," they said. Then he ordered the people to take their places on the ground. And he took the seven loaves and gave thanks and broke them in pieces and gave them to his disciples to pass, and they passed them to the people. They had a few small fish, and he blessed them and told the disciples to pass them also to the people. And they ate and satisfied their hunger. And the pieces that they left, that were picked up, filled seven baskets. There were about four thousand of the people. And he dismissed them. Then he immediately got into the boat with his disciples and went to the district of Dalmanutha. The Pharisees came out and began a discussion with him, testing him by asking him to show them a sign from heaven. And he sighed deeply and said,

"GOOD SAMARITAN" IS REV. HENRY O. KRINGEL'S THEME Rev. Henry O. Kringel delivered a sermon Sunday morning at the services of the Zion Lutheran congregation on the theme of Luke 10, 23-27: "The Good Samaritan." A good audience was present. He said in part: "The parable of the good Samaritan and the thirteenth chapter of St. Paul's first epistle to the Corinthians are beyond doubt the grandest passages in all the literature of the world on the subject of love. No book with the exception of the Bible can furnish a passage on this all-important subject, which is so grand and yet so truthful; so charmingly beautiful and yet so simple; so inspiring and yet so exact as these two passages. "How is this explained? Was Luke so able a writer, or was Paul a man of so high literary merit that these men were simply beyond reach as writers of Greek? By no means. In literary ability both Luke and Paul may easily have been surpassed by many heathen writers of Greek. But one thing is certain, if anybody is to furnish a first-class description of genuine love, he must first of all know what it is. "What is the object of true love? Christ begins the answer to an equivalent question by saying: 'A certain man went from Jerusalem to Jericho and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead.' Observe how scant is the description of this man in those particulars which most people would like to know. He gives no name, no nationality, no color, no age, no title. 'A certain man,' he says—there you have your neighbor. Is that not definite enough? Then examine that certain man, try to identify him, and you cannot help finding his misery, his poverty, his loneliness, his danger, his wounds. That is the only thing to look to. Any questions are irrelevant and impertinent. And the benefactor. He is a Samaritan. "So the proper object of true neighborly love is any and every man, be he known or unknown, native or foreign, white or black or any other color, robber or rich, despised or esteemed, friend or foe,—provided he is in need of our assistance. The boundaries of true neighborly love are, therefore, as wide as the world. To anybody and everybody who needs his assistance the Christian feels himself bound by ties of love and considers them for his Creator's and Saviour's sake as brethren. "True neighborly love differs from its counterfeit also in its nature. The good Samaritan had compassion." So whatever he did for his wounded enemy was not merely cold mechanical help, but a work of mercy. But he did not expect the wounded man to get better on compassion alone. He went to him and bound up his wounds. So he proved the sincerity of his love by active help, pouring in oil and wine." Then the wounded man was set on the beast and taken to the inn, and before the Samaritan left, he said to the innkeeper:

LA CRESCENTA NOTES The children of the local school are working hard to assure the success of their Christmas entertainment to be given at the school auditorium Tuesday evening, December 18. Songs, dramatic presentations and a little playlet entitled "The Toy Shop" will be delightful features of the evening's program. "An Open Door" was Rev. H. A. Kaleso's theme Sunday morning at the Community church. Most gratifying to Rev. Kaleso and members of the Community church was the increased attendance at both services yesterday. The community singing was led by C. Egelston at the services last evening. Each Wednesday evening will be devoted to community uplift. At these services E. Rapson will lead the community singing. All services are now being held in the new church on West Montrose avenue. The birthday anniversary of Mrs. A. W. Brown was the incentive for a delightful dinner party to a group of relatives last Saturday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brown on South Los Angeles avenue. Complimenting her niece, Mrs. Mary Townsend Hobson, of Roseville, Calif., Mrs. M. S. Collins entertained at tea last Saturday afternoon at her home, 172 East Prospect avenue. During the afternoon a delightful program was given by Mrs. Hobson, who besides being a talented musician, is the fortunate possessor of a beautiful contralto voice. Some twenty friends enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Collins. Mrs. L. Tillinghast poured. One of the jolly affairs of the week-end was the dance given by the La Crescenta Improvement association, last Saturday evening at the school auditorium. The association is planning one of these social affairs each month. The proceeds are to be used for the upkeep of the fire equipment. The next dance will be given Saturday, December 29. The Burton Heights barbecue yesterday proved a splendid success, from point of attendance and the sale of many lots. Over 700 people enjoyed the hospitality of the realty firms. Collins & Tillinghast report their entire tract of 35 lots sold yesterday morning before 7 o'clock and the lots in their subdivision on New York avenue were all sold during the day.

The Pacific Coast Intercollegiate conference meeting at Berkeley on Friday and Saturday will be of considerable interest to football fans all over the country.

The University of California stands unalterably opposed to post-season games of any kind and will try to put through a resolution prohibiting any member of the conference from participating in any of them.

On the whole the attitude of California seems justifiable. The football season commences in September and continues until the latter part of November.

An inquisitive old lady was always waylaid by the young minister in the street to ask him questions. One day she buttonholed him and said: "Mr. Brown, would you please tell me the difference between cherubim and seraphim?"

'ON TO LONG BEACH!' IS CRY OF DYNAMITERS AFTER VICTORY OVER THE SAMOHI FOOTBALLERS

Glendale and Long Beach Meet Next to Determine Championship of Southern California

After defeating the Santa Monica gridders last Saturday only the Long Beach aggregation remains between the Glendale high school football team and the Southern California championship.

The game for the Southern California championship will be watched with interest all over the Southland. It will probably be played this Saturday on a centrally located field in Los Angeles.

It is a cinch that the Dynamiters will have no easy time with Long Beach like they did with Santa Monica. The Samohei eleven was not what it was cracked up to be.

Glendale is given no edge in the Long Beach battle. If there is an edge it seems to be with the Jack-rabbits. They are much heavier than the Dynamiters, outweighing them more than did San Bernardino.

This is a combination that should draw the fans, as both Drury and Elliot have caused a great deal of comment, and now they will be brought together for the first time.

The minister thought wildly for a minute or two. They he replied, with an inspiration: "Well, they did have a difference, I believe, but they have made it up."

WILMINGTON WINS FROM WHITE SOX BY 8 TO 1 COUNT

It seems that the cool sea breezes do not harmonize with the plans of Mike Donlin's Glendale White Sox. Yesterday the aforementioned baseball team journeyed down toward the harbor and was conquered by the Wilmington aggregation by an 8 to 1 score.

The second and seventh innings proved the big cantos for Wilmington. In these two frames they brought in six runs. One in the fifth and another in the eighth completed the scoring.

Babe Herman was the only man on the Glendale team who was able to get any long hits. Hermon pounded out two doubles during the course of the afternoon.

Glendale tally came across in the second inning. The score: WILMINGTON AB HO A E

"Ah," said the doctor, looking into one eye. "It is easy for me to see what is the matter with you! This is not merely an affection of the nervous system. There are all the signs of liver trouble, of fatty degeneration of the heart, of a bad blood supply. The only thing I can recommend is—"

ATHLETIC CLUB TEAM WINS BY HEAVY HITTING

The Glendale Athletic club baseball team swamped the Cullen Landis Cubs yesterday on the Loyola field, Los Angeles, to the tune of 18 to 2. Every man on the Glendale team drove home two hits except G. Harrison, who managed to reach the Cub hurler for only one safe blow.

Two Irishmen were excavating for a proposed building when an interested spectator inquired: "How is it, Pat, although you and Mike started to work together he has a bigger pile of dirt than you?"

"Sure," was the quick retort, "he's diggin' a bigger hole."

Sanford, Old Yale Star, Rutgers' Unpaid Coach for Nine Years, and Jack Wallace, His Successor

George Foster Sanford will retire as Rutgers' head football coach at the end of the season. He is shown here at left with Wallace, former Rutgers star, who is familiar with the Sanford method that makes topnotch players out of high school boys.

MEYERS AND MEYERS

REGINA, Saskatchewan—Saskatchewan has room for another empire north of Prince Albert and North Battleford. In which agriculture can thrive well, said the Rt. Rev. Dr. G. Epton Lloyd, bishop of Saskatchewan, on his return from a six weeks tour of the limits of settlement in his diocese. His trip of 2,400 miles was taken ostensibly to survey the possibilities of further settlement of war veterans from Britain. The country available in the district referred to could provide home and living for 250,000 was his estimate.

BUILDING PERMITS

Over $60,000 worth of building permits have been issued for December already. This sum increases the total for the year to $9,897,617. Glendale must issue $702,383 worth of permits during the remaining twenty-four working days in this month in order to reach the predicted goal of $10,000,000 for 1923.

Permits were issued this morning as follows: Ralph T. Pickett, garage, 500 East Cypress, 250; H. D. Howe, garage and alterations, 1803 Orchard, $1000; C. R. GLENDALE DEFEATS S. MONICA, 27 TO 0

Samohi 2-yard line and when the final whistle blew the ball was in Glendale's possession on Santa Monica's 13-yard marker. It was Glendale's game all the way. Santa Monica made first downs but four times and two of these were on Glendale's penalties.

Glendale kicked off to the Santa Monica 10-yard line. Ogden of Santa Monica punted to Glendale's 30-yard line. Elliot punted back, but the strong wind carried the ball out of bounds on the 45-yard line. After making a gain through the line Ogden fumbled and Morrison picked up the ball. The oval was in the Dynamiters' possession on their own 37-yard line. A run of nearly 50 yards around end by Walton brought Glendale within scoring distance. Here Elliot elected to try for a place kick right in the face of the wind. The strong gale from the north carried the ball wide and the kick failed.

Santa Monica took the ball on its own 20-yard line. An exchange of punts worked to the advantage of Glendale and Walton got through for 25 yards on a fake play. Howard Elliot carried the ball for the next few plays, plowing right through the Samohi line for first downs. Confiding his smashing plunges he crossed the Santa Monica goal line for the first score of the game, and followed it up by converting with a place kick. Glendale 7, Santa Monica 0.

There was not enough time left for Glendale to score again in the first period. Santa Monica kicked off, Elliot ran it back some distance, and Walton made a 20-yard run. Elliot made a gain through the line. On the next play Elliot attempted an end run but was thrown for a loss when Murrell of Santa Monica made a great tackle. An exchange of punts followed, giving Santa Monica the ball on Glendale's 45-yard line when the quarter ended.

Santa Monica attempted to gain yardage on passes but failed when Morrison, with the aid of Horri, intercepted one of these. A 30-yard run by Walton and a couple of line plunges by Howard Elliot brought the ball within scoring distance. A pass from Howard Elliot to Bud Elliot and a 10-yard run put the ball across the Samohi goal line. Howard Elliot converted. Glendale 14, Santa Monica 0.

After the kickoff an exchange of punts ensued. Santa Monica tried to use Ogden for gains, but failed. Glendale got the ball within scoring distance but was unable to gain and another place kick was attempted. The high wind carried it wide of the posts. Santa Monica attempted to punt, but the ball went straight up in the air and landed in the same spot, due to the wind. Gains by Howard Elliot and Walton took the ball to the 2-yard line, where it was when the half ended.

Several exchanges of punts took place early in the third period. Santa Monica attempted to use Hart for gains but was unsuccessful. On one of these punts Elliot dropped the ball but recovered it and was forced to run. He was forced outside on the 40-yard line. He punted and Santa Monica advanced the ball on the line plays. This was as close to the Dynamiters' goal line as Santa Monica was able to get during the entire game. Glendale punted and Santa Monica attempted to pass, but failed when Bud Elliot intercepted. An exchange of punts followed, giving Glendale the advantage. Runs and gains through the line by West, who had replaced Ryan at half, and Howard Elliot put the ball on the 5-yard line. Elliot pushed it over for a touchdown and kicked the goal. Glendale 21, Santa Monica 0.

An exchange of punts following the kickoff gave Glendale the ball on the Santa Monica 35-yard line when the quarter ended. Bud Elliot and Ronny West made gains through the line, bringing the ball into position for a place kick. Howard Elliot booted it right between the uprights for the first field goal of the game. Glendale 24, Santa Monica 0.

An exchange of punts and Walton got away for another run. Ogden intercepted a pass, and Jonas made a short gain. Walton intercepted a Santa Monica pass and an exchange of punts followed, giving Glendale the ball on the Santa Monica 20-yard line. Elliot made another perfect place kick for three points, completing the scoring for the day. Glendale 27, Santa Monica 0.

In the few minutes left to play Glendale took the ball to the Santa Monica 12-yard line on an exchange of punts and a sequence of runs and line plays. The ball was there when the game ended. In the last two minutes Hayhurst put in several substitutes to give them a chance to make their letters. The whole team played in great style. They made their gains mostly on straight football, failing to open up on their fast work or uncock their whirlwind aerial attacks before the Long Beach scouts who were watching the game with keen interest. Howard Elliot especially was kept under cover, and did not have a chance to pull off any of his long runs. Walton was the greatest ground gainer of the outfit. Horri showed sensational speed in getting down on punts and the entire line held like a stone wall. It was a game won decisively without exhibiting the real power of the Glendale team.

Jonas, Santa Monica halfback, was not what he was cracked up to be. Ogden and Hart made most of the Samohi gains, while Murrell made some pretty tackles. Aside

VANCOUVER, British Columbia.—About 60,000 cases of sockeye salmon have been shipped to England recently on consignment. Since the last of these were shipped, it has ascertained that only one-third of the Siberian pack will be available for the world markets, as the balance of the 1923 pack has been commandeered by the Japanese government for relief purposes. This will strengthen the market for British Columbia salmon in the United Kingdom.

FASHION CENTER ACCENTUATES CHRISTMAS TIME

The Fashion Center on South Brand always has an attractive line and this is accentuated at Christmas time yet consistently keeps to the lines on which it specializes. Miss Hoits, who owns the lingerie department, says Christmas brings a bigger demand than ever for the beautiful apron dresses which are such a feature of her stock. It also brings an increased trade in underwear especially in some wonderfully attractive cotton voile confections in white, pink and lavender beautifully trimmed in valenciennes and other laces and at very reasonable prices. Silk tiddies are also carried and a fine line of stockings.

EDMONTON, Alberta.—Although over two and a half months of the grain marketing season have passed, only some 60,000,000 bushels of the estimated Alberta wheat crop of 175,000,000 bushels have been actually shipped. A speeding up of shipments, particularly in the central and northern Albert sections, is expected shortly.

If genius and egotism always went together there would be more genius.

MUCH RESEARCH WORK FOR FILM AT THE T. D. & L.

"No more pictures set in the sixteenth century in Spain, please," is the cry of Harriett Morris, head of the research department of the Goldwyn studios.

Miss Morris delved into the history of King Philip II, of Spain, his royal brother, Don John, of Austria, and other figures in F. Marion Crawford's novel, "In the Palace of the King," Emmet Flynn's film version of which comes to the T. D. & L. Theatre again tomorrow.

In her work on "In the Palace of the King," Miss Morris found it necessary to read historical works upon Queen Isabella, Mary Tudor, Anne of Austria, and many other historical figures of that time.

"GOLD DIGGERS" IS ATTRACTION AT THE GATEWAY

"The Gold Diggers," David Belasco's famous success, with Hope Hampton, Wyndham Standing and Louise Fazenda is the attraction tonight at the Gateway. These gold diggers are not of the kind we are used to reading about nor are the females who are leeches upon them—for they toil not, neither do they spin. You will want to see this play. It's at the Gateway.

RIVER GAMBLERS' DAYS RECALLED FOR "CAMEO KIRBY"

No period of American history has been more fruitful in adventure and romance than the heyday of steamboat traffic on the Mississippi. Both Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson in creating the character of "Cameo Kirby," in the play of that name, realized the lure of the old river days and made a play of real American character.

"Cameo Kirby," produced by Fox as a photoplay, will be seen at the Glendale Theatre again today. In his search for the really good things in drama and fiction to put into screen form, William Fox selected "Cameo Kirby" as a fitting vehicle for his brilliant young star, John Gilbert.

"Cameo Kirby" is a role that affords this magnetic young actor opportunity to display his manifold genius—a romantic, dare-devil, fascinating gambler who beat the card-sharks at their own game, and played a still better hand in the game of hearts.

Gertrude Olmstead plays the feminine lead, and the cast includes such well known names as Alan Hale, Richard Tucker, Jean Arthur and Eugenie Ford.

MIXED

I slept the sleep of rest and peace, And then I dreamed in slumber; I heard a voice say: "Number, please," And then I gave a number. "Please get me Heaven," then I said, I thought to hear the singing Of angels as I lay in bed, And then I heard her ringing.

And as I lay me there in bed And waited for the number I heard her voice say: "Go ahead,"— All this in dream and slumber. And then I heard the strangest tones, Heard scream and yell yet higher, And shouts and shrieks and cries and groans, All coming o'er the wire.

And it grew worse and worse and worse, The language that came to me. I heard loud voices then rehearse Bad words that went right through me. I thought I smelled a sulphurous smell, These naughty words to leaven, And I said surely this is—well, It surely is not Heaven.

And then I called the girl again And said: "I asked for Heaven! And in the name of mice and men, What number have you given?" And then as gently as a breeze In summer, through my slumber I heard her voice: "Excuse it please, I got you the wrong number!"

Indians, Whose Ages Total 233 Years, Not Too Old To Fight for Land Valued at $35,000,000

Skinaway, 110 years old, and Nunneksuk, three years his senior, went to Washington, D. C., recently from Kansas to tell the Federal authorities that very valuable property rightfully belongs to the Pat-tawomie tribe. The land to which they seek recognition of ownership has a Lake Michigan waterfront.

State's Corporations Make Great Record

California corporations reported more gross income for the business year 1921 than the combined gross income returned by the corporations of 16 big western states.

More income tax was paid by California corporations than the combined tax paid by similar business concerns in 16 western states, with Delaware, Iowa, Vermont, New Hampshire and Hawaii added.

The federal chief's report showed features of a survey of corporations returns for 1921, the first figures of which became available yesterday and were made public by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell.

The federal chief's report showed that for one year California corporations reported gross income of $3,544,932,721, which exceeded the combined total gross income returned by Arizona, Alaska, Arkansas, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon,

South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. California corporations paid income tax of $32,527,304 which was greater than the combined total tax paid by the 16 western states with Iowa, Delaware, Vermont, New Hampshire and Hawaii added. The total for these states was $31,824,000.

The number of California corporations reporting net incomes was 7397 and 7784 filed returns showing no net income. Gross income of $816,108,871 was reported by California corporations who returned no net income and deductions of $924,658,590 were claimed, leaving a deficit of $108,549,719.

Deductions of $2,534,639,568 were claimed by corporations reporting net incomes which left a total net income subject to taxation of $194,184,282.

KEITH L. BROOKS CONCLUDES STORY OF FALL OF MAN

The story of the fall of man was continued Sunday morning by Keith L. Brooks, the teacher of the Presbyterian brotherhood Bible class. As the result of Adam and Eve's choice of the things of the world instead of the will of God, they were shown to be in a hopeless condition unless some divine intervention should take place.

Mr. Brooks said: "There is a law of sin, like all other natural laws, that is followed by inevitable results. Sin separates man from God. It does so in this life and there is no reason to think the law will operate differently after death. Some say God is too good to let this law operate to its own end. He lets other laws operate and how can we set aside this law? You put your hand in the fire and it is burned. Is it lack of love in God that the hand is burned? Natural law is inflexible and there is just as rigid a law of cause and effect in regard to sin. A God of holiness must say to the sinner, 'Depart from me,' but since He is a God of love He will find a way to redeem the sinner, but that way must vindicate His holiness.

"Adam was cornered into a confession but he did what men still do—tried to charge his lost condition to God. He said that the woman God had given him was the sole cause of his fall, for she confessed her sin and dared to expose the presence of Satan and his evil character.

"A curse was pronounced upon the tempter. He is to be brought down to the dust in utter defeat. The devil has had to eat dust every time God's cause has triumphed. The curse pronounced upon the serpent is clearly addressed to an intelligent agent, one guilty of an enormous crime. He is told that enmity will be placed between his seed and the seed of the woman. Scripture clearly interprets this as the first Gospel promise foretelling the suffering Saviour and final triumph over the evil one. A later prophet declared that a virgin should conceive and bring forth one who should be called Emmanuel, meaning God with us. The New Testament opens with the story of how the Saviour was conceived of the Holy Ghost in the womb of the virgin Mary. The contest between the serpent and the woman's seed came to a head at Calvary's cross, where the powers of evil inflicted an apparently mortal injury on the Son of Man in His crucifixion. Three days afterward it turned out to be but a healed bruise, for by His resurrection the Son of God was manifested to destroy the works of the devil."

Eating on the streets is most popular in warm climates.
