Cannot Reach Men

Several Explosions of Gas in a Mine at Port Royal, Pennsylvania.

Twenty Miners Are Missing and It Is Feared They Are Dead

Relief Parties Unable to Work—All Hope of Rescue Is Abandoned.

(Associated Press.)
Port Royal, Pa., June 11.—By the explosion of gas in shaft No. 2 of the Pittsburgh Coal & Coke company's mine about 6 o'clock last night seven men are supposed to have been killed and thirty entombed.

This is the partial list of the supposed dead: Wm. McCune, general superintendent of this district; Dennis Wortley, pit boss; Michael Roy, foreman; Michael Daly, who entered mine for the first time yesterday morning; Frank Davenport, married; Anthony Stieckel, married; Jola Peoples, who has a wife and two small children here.

In the attempt to rescue the men known to be in the mine other lives were placed in jeopardy and may be lost. About 6 o'clock there was a low rumbling sound followed by a roar, which sounded like a cyclone, then

Three Sharp and Short Reports.

Immediately measures for the rescue of those in the mine were taken and a rescue party, composed of the men who had knocked off early in the day, was formed. The men entered the shaft and started towards the spot where it was thought some of the men might be found. Lying at the bottom of the shaft were Lawrence Settler and John Staker, both unconscious and covered with dirt, the men were quickly taken to the top of the mine. When they recovered they told the rescue party where four other men were entombed.

About 7 o'clock Wm. McCune, Dennis Wortley, Michael Roy and several other bosses, with about 20 men, went down shaft No. 1, which is just opposite on the Baltimore & Ohio side of the river, and they are probably lost. About three hours after the rescue party had been to the mine, two more explosions were heard.

Meanwhile the crowd around the opening of the shaft had increased, including mothers, wives and sisters of many entombed.

Stanton came to the surface bringing Harry Beveridge

In an Unconscious Condition with both arms and legs broken and badly burned. He cannot live. Sweeney and Stratton succumbed after reaching the surface.

Before he died Sweeney, who was mainly instrumental in saving Beveridge, was able to tell that he climbed over the bodies of at least three men on his way out.

The explosion occurred at the time when the shifts were changing from day to night turn, and it is impossible to tell how many were in the mine at the time, but certainly no less than 30 are entombed.

Twenty Men Missing.

Port Royal, Pa., June 11.—At 4 o'clock this morning Superintendent Wm. McCune's hat and couple of his letters have been found, the hat being blown to fragments. There is no trace of him or any of the rescuing party.

The Port Royal mines are situated on the Youghioghy river 37 miles from Pittsburgh. They are owned by the Pittsburgh Coal company. District Superintendent McCune, who is reported killed, at the head of the above band of volunteers, was one of the most experienced and best known miners in western Pennsylvania. The Port Royal mines are located on the thick vein coal bed, and are for that reason extremely gaseous and dangerous. The state mining officials have repudiated their management the object of repeated caution.

All the rescuing parties have come out of the burning mine. They say that the black damp makes work impossible, and they give up hope of finding any of the men alive. Twenty men are

and are supposed to be dead. They are: Frank Davenport, Antonio Stieckel, John Peckler, Jeremiah Daly, Wm. McCune, superintendent of the mines of the Pittsburgh Coal company between West Newton and Enureka, Wm. Allison, superintendent of several mines below West Newton, Dennis Wortley, pit boss of the Port Royal mines, Michael Roy, pit boss at the Euclid mines, John Keck, pit boss at the Durrs mines, Peter McCune, boss driver at Port Royal mine No. 1, Bernard Ball and an unknown.

The injured brought out are: Arthur Smith, pit boss at the Southton mines, both eyes destroyed and fatally burned; Pritho Kroutner, miner, both eyes destroyed and fatally burned.

Seven years ago there was an explosion at Port Royal and the mine caught fire. It was necessary to fill it with water to quench the flames. To do this a hole was drilled from the bed of the river. This is now closed with a plug, which was arranged for such an emergency as the present, and to draw out the fire all that is necessary is to take out the plug and the water will rush in. This, of course, cannot be resorted to until all the men in the mine have been recovered or known to be beyond rescue.

Another Attempt to Reach Men,

Pittsburg, Pa., June 11.—At 10 o'clock this morning a telegram was received at the headquarters of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, owners of the Port Royal mine, which stated that there were from 14 to 16 men entombed in the burning mine. Another relief force was sent into the mine at 9 o'clock this morning.

Explosion This Afternoon,

West Newton, Pa., June 11.—Another explosion occurred at the Port Royal mine shortly before noon, and several of the rescuers were dangerously injured. Fire Inspector Callahan and Fire Boss McFee were the most dangerously hurt, and may die. This latest explosion in many minds settles the fate of entombed men, and all hope of getting them out alive has been abandoned.

Trade of The Country

Figures Issued by the Customs Department Shows It Is Still Growing.

An Increase During the Eleven Months, Ending May, of Over $11,000,000.

The Year's Grand Aggregate of Foreign Trade Will Probably Reach $400,000,000.

(Special to the Times.)

Ottawa, June 11.—A statement issued by the customs department yesterday for eleven months ending May 31st last shows that the aggregate trade of the country increased in that time over $11,000,000. Indications are that the year's figures will show a grand aggregate of foreign trade of nearly $400,000,000.

It is specially noted that for the past eleven months the exports from Canadian manufactured articles increased over $2,000,000, which is an increase of about 17 per cent.

The aggregate trade for the eleven months was $335,026,996, as compared with $323,156,546 for the same time last year, showing an increase of $11,430,520.

There was a drop in imports from $194,801,196 in 1900 to $162,202,534 for the past eleven months, or a decrease of $2,506,082. The exports, however, showed an increase of $14,226,382 as compared with the same time last year. The figures are $173,024,464 as against $158,795,280 in 1900.

In regard to imports it should be pointed out that the entire decrease is made up in coin and bullion which, of course, is not trade, and that the total imports of dutiable and free goods show a slight increase over the eleven months of last year.

M. P.'S BANKRUPTCY.

Sir E. Ashmead-Bartlett's Liabilities Are £57,536 and Assets £28,000.

(Associated Press.)
London, June 11.—A meeting of the creditors of Sir E. Ashmead-Bartlett in the bankruptcy court today disclosed his liabilities to be £57,536 and his assets £28,000. The chairman of the meeting stated that the assets were of very doubtful value. Among the creditors is Sir E. Ellis's lawyer, William Leaman Ashmead Bartlett-Coutts, who figures for £40,000.

Sir E. Ellis attributes his insolvency to losses on various investments.

FOUND DEAD.

Body of Engraver Discovered on the Streets of New York.

(Associated Press.)
New York, June 11.—The body of Patrick Coyle, an engraver, of this city, was found early this morning lying in the middle of the street opposite the saloon of Francis A. Stevenson at the corner of 9th avenue and 16th street. The man's throat had been cut. John Simpson, the night bartender, was arrested and held as a suspicious person pending an investigation of the man's death.

NOVEL SCHEME.

Buoys Will Mark the Path of the Baldwin-Ziegler Polar Expedition.

(Associated Press.)
Chicago, June 11.—A special to the Chronicle from Quincy, Ill., says: "Packed in hermetically sealed cans, forty balloons have been shipped to Tromsø, Norway, where the outfit will be added to the equipment of the Baldwin-Ziegler North Pole expedition."

"These balloons are not to be used for carrying passengers, but to mark the path of the expedition. To each will be attached 10 buoys, 10 feet apart, hanging one below the other, weighing ten pounds each, arranged with a liberator for detaching the buoys one at a time as they strike the earth. The buoy will contain a message showing the latitude whence the balloon was sent up and such other word as explorers care to leave behind."

"The buoys are made of copper and cord, and are shaped like a top. In the centre is a hollow space which will contain the messages. When a certain amount of the gas has escaped the balloon will descend. As soon as it gets near enough to the earth for one of the buoys to strike the lower one is immediately detached and liberated from the weight, the balloon at once begins another ascent. This operation is repeated automatically until all of the buoys have been dropped, when the balloon, now emptied of its gas, collapses and sinks to the ground. As there are forty of these this operation will be continued until the 400 buoys are scattered over the arctic regions."

President McKinley

Says He Will Not Be a Candidate for a Third Term.

Regrets That the Suggestion Has Been Made at the Present Time.

(Associated Press.)

Washington, June 11.—The following statement has been given out at the White House:

"I regret that the suggestion of a third term has been made. I doubt whether I am called upon to give it notice. But there are now questions of the gravest importance before the administration and the country, and their just consideration should not be prejudiced in the public mind by even the suspicion of a thought of a third term."

"In view therefore of the reiteration of the suggestion of it, I will say now, once for all, expressing a long settled conviction, that I not only am not and will not be a candidate for a third term, but would not accept a nomination for it were it offered me."

"My only ambition is to serve through my second term to the acceptance of my countrymen, whose generous confidence I so deeply appreciate, and then withdraw to do my duty in the ranks of private citizenship."

ATHLETICS CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Forty-four Athletes From New York Will Take Part in Meeting at Buffalo.

(Associated Press.)
New York, June 11.—Forty-four athletes from this city are expected to leave tomorrow night for Buffalo, where they will compete in the amateur athletic union championships on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The entry list is the largest the union has ever had for a national championship meet. For the junior championships there are 125 entries, and for the senior championships 119, a total of 244. This is 71 more than last year. There are twenty entries for the handicap events on the opening day. These handicaps are a new departure. It will be the first time any western cricks have competed since the championship meeting in Detroit in 1888.

LANDED AT AUCKLAND.

The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall Visit the New Zealand Town.

(Associated Press.)
Auckland, N. Z., June 11.—The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, who arrived here yesterday from Sydney on board the steamer Ophir, landed this morning. They were greeted with salves from the warships in the harbor, and a popular demonstration on landing. The town was crowded, among those gathered to greet the Duke and Duchess being many Maoris in native costume. In honor of the Royal visitors the day was observed as a general holiday.

DISMISSED FROM HIS POST.

(Associated Press.)
St. Petersburg, June 11.—Prince Volkonsky, who lectured in America several years ago on Russian literature, has been dismissed from his position as intendant of the Imperial theatres, as a result of giving a famous Polish dancer for an infringement of discipline. He was compelled to remove the fine, but posted a bulletin in the opera house declaring upon whose command this was done. The position of intendant is considered a "high post" here, and it is believed that Prince Volkonsky invited his removal designedly.

It is said that Lieut. Gen. Kievel, prefect of the St. Petersburg police, is likely to be succeeded by Count von Schouvaloff, prefect of Odessa.

ANOTHER MYSTERY.

Singular Case Revealed During Trial of Men Charged With Conspiracy.

Chicago, June 10.—Dr. A. H. Hunter and E. W. Wainwright have been on trial for conspiracy to defraud insurance companies through the death of Miss Mary Deffenbach, were this evening found guilty and sentenced to penitentiary. Frank H. Smiley, indicted with Hunter and Wainwright, pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence. It is likely that he will escape with a light sentence.

The evidence in that case showed that Hunter, Brown, Smiley and Miss Deffenbach entered into a conspiracy by which Smiley was to appear as the affianced husband of the woman. She was then to be ill and die, leaving the insurance, which included one policy in a stock company and two in fraternal organizations, the total aggregating $25,000. The woman in her will said that she desired her remains to be cremated, and it is thought that it was the intention to hurry her away after her supposed death and cremate another body procured from a hospital. The woman was taken ill according to programme, but did not rally and died. Her body was at once cremated.

An inquest was held by Assistant Coroner John B. Weickert, without a jury, and Weickert returned to the coroner's office a verdict that the woman had died of natural causes.

The death of the woman is shrouded in mystery and physicians on the stand differed widely as to the cause of death. The state, however, declared that the woman was murdered, although it could not be proved.

It was shown that all the insurance carried by the woman was assigned before her death, and that her will was drawn up after these assignments had been made.

UNITED STATES WHEAT.

Reduction in Spring Acreage—Oats and Rye.

Washington, June 10.—Preliminary reports of the spring wheat acreage indicate a reduction of about 1,200,000 acres, or 6.4 per cent. Of the states reporting 10,000 acres or upwards in spring wheat, a report on an increase aggregating about 34,000 acres, and 12 a decrease of about 1,255,000. There is an increase in acreage of 10 per cent. in New Mexico, 7 in Nevada, 4 in Arizona, 3 in Michigan, 2 in Montana and Utah, 1 in Wyoming and Washington, while in Iowa there is a decrease of 13 per cent., Oregon 8, Kansas 7, Wisconsin and Minnesota 6, Illinois, Nebraska, South Dakota and California 5, Idaho 4, Colorado 2.

The acreage under rye shows a reduction of 70 per cent. from the previous year. In the same area the area is reported the same as last year, while in New York there is a shrinkage of 4 per cent. The average condition of rye is 93.9, as compared with 87.6 on June 1st, 1900.

THE MOORISH ENVOYS.

Received To-Day at St. James's Palace by the King and Queen.

London, June 10.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra received the special Moorish ambassador Kaid El Mehmed El Berthi and his suite at St. James's Palace to-day in the presence of Lord Lansdowne, the foreign secretary, and a number of distinguished people. The envoys were driven in Royal carriages to the palace. They were accompanied by Kaid Maclean, a Scotchman.

AGAIN REMANDED.

New York, June 10.—Albert T. Patrick pleaded not guilty to the murder of William Marsh Rice, the Texas millionaire, when arraigned before Judge Cowley in the court of general sessions to-day. With him were arraigned David L. Short and Morris Meyers, charged with forgery in connection with the case. They pleaded not guilty. All three were remanded back to the to-morrow. No application for bail was made.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Ottawa, June 10.—The steamer James Swift, of the Rideau Lakes Navigation Company, took fire last night at her berth in the canal here. One of her crew, a fireman, Robt. Ireland, of Barrieffield, near Kingston, was burned to death, and three others, John Miller, of Newboro; Thos. Sykes, of Sealey Bay, and Richard Dunn, of Brockville, are in the hospital suffering from severe scorching. They only escaped by jumping into the dock.

BLACK-LISTING LEGAL.

Chicago, June 10.—Judge Waterman, sitting in the circuit court, announced a decision that the black-listing of a number of girls by a stock yards firm was legal. The girls struck last February, and the firms affected refused to take them back. The case will be appealed.

INCREASE GRANTED.

Oswego, N. Y., June 10.—The strike of the spinners of the Mohawk Manufacturing Company here was settled to-day. The men's demand for higher wages was granted.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Trial of Three Men Began at Pittsburg Yesterday.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 10.—The trial of John and Edward Biddle and Walter Dorman, alleged R. D. Wilcox, for the murder of Thomas D. Kahney and detective Patrick Fitzgerald, was opened to-day. The Biddles entered a plea of not guilty, but Dorman entered a surprise by pleading guilty. The double tragedy, for which the defendants are held responsible, occurred on April 12th last. For weeks the city had been terrorized by a series of burglaries and robberies. Kahney was shot down in his home while standing unarmed in his night clothes, and Fitzgerald was killed a few hours later while attempting to arrest the defendants.

TWO VACANCIES.

Toronto, June 10.—Hon. C. Wood has been nominated as Liberal candidate for West Victoria.

Cobourg, June 10.—West Durham has been declared vacant owing to corrupt practices.

Owen Sound, June 10.—In the course of a speech here at a complimentary banquet to himself and Mr. Clergue, on Friday evening, Hon. J. I. Tarte regretted Mr. R. L. Bordeau was not present, and paid a tribute to that gentleman for the manner in which he had led the opposition last session.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

The first Imperial Limited left Montreal yesterday morning at 9.30 with 230 passengers.

Hon. A. S. Hardy, former premier of Ontario, is very dangerously ill.

The Imperial House of Commons yesterday voted by a large majority a series of amendments to the civil list and crown bill proposed by Mr. Labouchere and others, among which was a motion to reduce the grant from £470,000 to £415,000.

The rioting which began at Belfast on Sunday in an attack upon the Corpus Christi procession, was renewed last night, when the crowd again attacked the police. The latter were finally compelled to invoke military aid, and the rioters were dispersed by lance.

Two of Montreal's social clubs were raided by the police on Saturday night and a large quantity of gambling paraphernalia seized. Barney Morris, a resident of Brooklyn, who says he was born in County Cavan, Ireland, on June 10th, 1792, celebrated the anniversary of his birth yesterday. Morris is employed by the Brooklyn park department as a gardener. He came to this country when he was 30 years old.

THE YOUNGEST BROKER.

George Palmer Schmidt has established a new record price for a New York Stock Exchange seat. He paid $70,000 for it.

Mr. Schmidt also enjoys the distinction of being the youngest member of the Exchange, being in his twenty-first year. He is not new, however, to the business of buying and selling stocks. He was for a considerable period employed by Harris & Palfrey, brokers, at No. 45 Broadway. He showed a remarkable aptitude for the business from the first. Mr. Schmidt's father, who is a rich city engineer, is now at Cape Nome, Alaska, engaged in mining operations. He wanted his son to become an engineer, but finally consented to buy a seat for the young man.

Great Britain contributed 5,800,000,000 of the 12,000,000,000 tons of coal mined in the world during the nineteenth century.

On the New Brunswick side the snow white cottages of Dalhousie climb a hill that rises in three successive ridges, backed by a range of fantastic knobs and wooded hills that roll off to the limit of the vision. Passing up the river, now placid and without a ripple, two wooded islands seem floating upon its surface. On the Gaspé side are successive points of land once guarded by French batteries in historic times, but now overgrown with trees; all along on the New Brunswick side there are pretty farms. Sixteen miles above Dalhousie is the thriving little town of Campbellton. Still passing up we come to Athol House, the home for over a hundred years of the Ferguson family; directly opposite is "Parks," the residence of the Busted family for generations. Up stream the scenery becomes more sublime. The river is filled with wooded islands, on which herds of cattle are feeding. At tide head, four miles above Campbellton, when the river runs over a rapid of eddies around a point, a salmon can be taken with the fly and this spot is much resorted to by fishermen from Campbellton; here also there is fine trout fishing, especially in June, when the sea trout are running.

Still upward we go, the river and mountain scenery becoming more beautiful and impressive as we go along. Now we reach "Morris's Rock." Here it is well to halt a while, and paddling ashore, climb up to the road and walk to the top of the rock, then look to the right and left, in each direction to see this beautiful river winding in and out around curves and islands, over shallows and rapids, through dark pools and among grassy islands.

Four miles further up is Metapedia. Here the river of that name rushes in to join the Restigouche. Just here at the junction of the river anglers have spent many happy days in years gone by, when the whole-souled, big Daniel Fraser was owner and lord of a royal realm of a thousand acres and always extended a welcome hand and hearty to gentleman sportsmen.

Retiring here, the canoe soon was ready loaded for a start. Charles Hallock, who went up the Tobique, tells of his experience, which exactly fits the Restigouche. The passenger sits on the bottom of the canoe facing up stream, with his back against the middle bar, over which a couple of blankets have been thrown to make him comfortable. All the boxes and hampers have been stowed amidships just behind. The two canoe men take their places in the bow and stern, and with long poles, deftly wielded, gently push the frail craft into the eddy, and the canoe glides on to get in his fine work with the gaff, and what is true of the Restigouche is true of any other salmon river.

The Salmon Fishing

How it Feels to Have Chain Lightning Rise to Your Cast.

A Description of Angling in the Waters of Famous Restigouche.

The salmon is a section of chain lightning under water. Try to get it to the surface and you discover the lightning. On the famous Restigouche of New Brunswick game salmon have been played half a day and even longer before the Atlantic guide has been able to get in his fine work with the gaff, and what is true of the Restigouche is true of any other salmon river.

Fishing is the most contagious of diseases. "My lord, I shall work steadily at it when the fly fishing season is over. Thus, in sober earnest, the famous Dr. Paley replied to the good Bishop of Durham, who inquired of him when he expected to complete an important work. "When the fly fishing season is over." Leave the salmon alone in order to finish a serious piece of work, the completion of which many were anxiously waiting for. Dr. Paley, but not every angler appreciates his enthusiasm and sympathize with it? If you want to find out just what salmon fishing is like proceed to chapter three of William Black's "Princess of Thule."

There are some queer names in the Restigouche region. What appears on the maps as the source of this river, which portion of the English in Madagaskar, and is there called the Restigouche, because that name was given to it by the early settlers. There has been a contention that this part of the river is rather in the nature of a branch, and that the true Restigouche is the famous fishing club in America, or obtain permission to fish some of the excellent pools held by old riparian proprietors of their descendants.

The Restigouche—the "majestic Restigouche," it has been called—empties into the Bay of Chaleur, or "Chalure," as the Yankee fishermen say. "The Restigouche," the boundary of the English in Madagaskar, and is there called the Restigouche, because that name was given to it by the early settlers. There has been a contention that this part of the river is rather in the nature of a branch, and that the true Restigouche is the famous fishing club in America, or obtain permission to fish some of the excellent pools held by old riparian proprietors of their descendants.

Restigouche. The passenger sits on the bottom of the canoe facing up stream, with his back against the middle bar, over which a couple of blankets have been thrown to make him comfortable. All the boxes and hampers have been stowed amidships just behind. The two canoe men take their places in the bow and stern, and with long poles, deftly wielded, gently push the frail craft into the eddy, and the canoe glides on to get in his fine work with the gaff, and what is true of the Restigouche is true of any other salmon river.

Fishing is the most contagious of diseases. "My lord, I shall work steadily at it when the fly fishing season is over. Thus, in sober earnest, the famous Dr. Paley replied to the good Bishop of Durham, who inquired of him when he expected to complete an important work. "When the fly fishing season is over." Leave the salmon alone in order to finish a serious piece of work, the completion of which many were anxiously waiting for. Dr. Paley, but not every angler appreciates his enthusiasm and sympathize with it? If you want to find out just what salmon fishing is like proceed to chapter three of William Black's "Princess of Thule."

THE Y. M. C. A. ABROAD

And Its Close Relations to Association Work in America.

Appropos of the coming semi-centennial celebration in Boston, W. S. Harwood contributes to the June Century a paper on the growth of Y. M. C. A. work in Europe. M. André, a wealthy banker and French association has gained much from the unflinching generosity and foresight of an American, Mr. James Stokes, of New York city. Largely through the efforts of this gentleman the association now has its magnificent building, and it is due to his constant interest in all departments of the work. His outlook has been that of the world's field, and he has spent much time in visiting foreign countries that he might find out for himself what was most needed to advance the cause of the association among the young men of all nations. M. André, a wealthy banker and merchant of Paris, since deceased, was greatly interested with Mr. Stokes in the French work, and contributed liberally in money, influence and labor for the establishment of the French association and the erection of its building. Perhaps it is safe to say that without his cooperation the work could not have been accomplished.

At No. 140 Rue Montmartre are the rooms of the Anglo-American Young Men's Christian Association of Paris, which for more than a quarter of a century has been steadily at work among the young men of English and American birth. The association is not large, but reaches the young man away from home and to bring him under wholesome influences. About two hundred and fifty young men are reached each year, and helped by the association in a variety of ways—young men outside of the regular membership. While this association is smaller than that of the regular French organization, it is doing a needed work and could ill be spared from the reform and Christianizing forces of the city.

The influence of the American association work has also been felt in the land of the Czar. Mr. Stokes opened the way for the favorable consideration, by the Czarine and Russian officials of influence, of a work for Russian young men similar to that of the Young Men's Christian Association. Prince Hilkevich, who is at the head of the Russian railway system, was in a similar way interested in the American association work among railroad employees, knowledge of which he had acquired in his own inspection of the American railway system during a visit to this country. For it is the distinction of the American associations that they were not only the first to introduce their work among the student class, but also the first to bring to the attention of railroad officials and employees the adaptation of this class of our industrial population.

Italy, Hungary, Spain, Belgium, Finland, Russia, Switzerland and Austria are steadily increasing the number and efficiency of their associations, while in India, China and Japan association-influences are taking root. There is a flourishing native association in Tokio, Japan, while there are associations regularly formed in Hankow and Shanghai, with auxiliaries and centres of association work in other parts of China and Japan.

THE FLORIDA RAZORBACK.

The "Florida razorback" is the bog indigenous to this climate and soil. He is usually large of limb and fleet of foot, being the only known porker that can outrun a daisy. He has a tall of wondrous length, which, while he is in active motion, he twists into the tightest corkscrew, but with which while quietly feeding he raps his leathery sides much in the same manner that the doctee-cow-uses her tail. He is self-supporting. He earns his own living, and drives equally well in the highwoods, the flatwoods, in the hammocks, and in the marshes. He subsists upon anything he can find above the earth or underneath its surface. He has a clear far-seeing eye, and is very sensitive of hearing. Nature has equipped him with a mouth most as loquacious as that of the wild peacock of Borneo, with which he can penetrate the earth many inches in quest of worms, snakes and insects. He is the most intelligent of all the hogs, and is likewise the most courageous. He has been known to engage in mortal combat with a cow. Mr. B. Davis of Hamilton, Was Well Advised—For Five Years Afflicted With Dyspepsia—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Justified His Friend's Arguments.

Mr. B. Davis is a carpenter living at 311 Wellington street, Hamilton, Ontario. He is afflicted with Dyspepsia. Tablets is interesting. Mr. Davis had suffered with Dyspepsia for five years. The disease had become chronic with him. His stomach was permanently disabled. Nothing that he ate would digest properly. His food lay fermenting in his stomach. Great pain always followed meals, which consisted of the plainest possible food. Nothing Mr. Davis took in the way of medicine would relieve him. He tried doctors, and remedies advertised to cure Dyspepsia, one after the other, all to no purpose.

Finally a good friend of Mr. Davis asked him if he had tried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Mr. Davis replied that he had not. He said he tried all the medicines he was going to.

The friend persisted. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will be pronounced by other patients, he said. They were simply peppy and diastase, two well-known and harmless digestants, put up in a form to be easily and pleasantly taken.

Mr. Davis finally yielded to persuasion. He consented to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. His friend had won.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets need no further aid in convincing anyone of their merit. A trial is conclusive.

Here is the result of Mr. Davis's trial of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets in his own words:

"I have been a sufferer for five years with Dyspepsia. Nothing I ate would digest, nor would anything that I could get relieve me. A friend advised me to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and after awhile I yielded to persuasion, and tried them. I have only used two boxes, but they have cured me. I write this to let others suffering with Dyspepsia know about the medicine that cured me."

Money For New Bridge

The By-Law Providing For This Necessity Introduced Last Evening.

City Council in Short Session—Another Meeting to Be Held To-Night

The city council sat in brief session last evening. There was a light batch of communications and these were dispatched in short order. The most important item of business was the introduction of Ald. Beckwith's by-law providing for the raising of $60,000 to erect a permanent bridge at Point Ellice.

The by-law was read a first and second time, and then went into committee. The committee reported that it had filed it was laid over for further consideration in committee at a meeting this evening.

The first order of business was, as usual, communications.

The Victoria Gas Company wrote as follows:

To the Mayor and Council, Corporation City of Victoria:

Gentlemen—Noting that the question of lighting the municipal buildings has been reopened, by the consideration of the offer made to the city council by the Transvaal Company, after the council had previously decided on the more economical light the municipal buildings themselves, now the Victoria Gas Light Co., Ltd., are prepared to supply the corporation with gas for illuminating purposes at the rate of 75c per thousand cubic feet.

We beg to point out for your serious consideration the great economy the above offer contains. The city, by adopting incandescent gas burners for lighting their various buildings, will obtain 90 c. p. lights at a cost of one-quarter of a cent per hour for each lamp, as compared with one-half of a cent per hour for a 16 c. p. electric lamp, or practically incandescent gas lighting will give you four times the light at one-half the cost of electricity.

Although street lighting has not been mentioned, if the council so desire, this company can place fixtures before you, based on the 75c rate for gas, by adopting which the city could obtain a considerable economy over the present system of street lighting, and would give the greatest satisfaction to the citizens, owing to the greater diffusive power and steadiness of incandescent gas lighting over electric arc lighting.

VICTORIA GAS CO., LTD., F. H. Hewlings, Supt.

To the standing committee for report. Frank A. McKenzie, advertising agent for the B. C. Agricultural Association, drew attention to the advisability of publishing a five or six page pamphlet with illustrations, advertising this city, in connection with the prize list. Referred to the finance committee for report.

Capt. McCann, vice-president of the Victoria Garrison Rifle Association, requested the council to take into favorable consideration the question of contributing toward the expenses of the Bisley team, as far as Montreal. He referred to the splendid advertisement given the city through the fact that the team was composed of members of the Canadian team to form part of Victoria.

Ald. Beckwith moved that in the opinion of the council $150—the same sum as last year—should be granted toward this object. He stated in a matter of pride that four men on the Bisley team should go from this city, and he believed the people would heartily endorse the action of the council. Ald. Yates seconded the motion. The mayor pointed out that the grant must come through the finance committee.

Ald. Brydon did not see why the provincial government did not assist as well as the city, if these men represented the province. The Provincial Rifle Association got all the credit for raising the money, and the city was not prepared to favor granting $150.

Ald. Yates was certain that the city could afford this sum. The Provincial Rifle Association only provided for three men, but since their meeting a fourth had been appointed to the team.

Ald. Kinsman wanted to know how the matter stood. If the same proportion was voted this year as last, $300 would be the sum. However, he favored voting $150.

Ald. Beckwith asked the council to assist in making arrangements for Ald. Brydon's solicitation. He believed there was a grant from the provincial government to the Provincial Rifle Association, and consequently it could not be said that the association was defraying the expenses. The council had contributed $150 and $150 would be a very small amount.

Ald. Brydon was not wiser, and so the discussion dragged on wearily.

Beckwith and Brydon, during which the latter remarked that when a man "got a little fresh he sometimes ran against his match."

Ald. Cameron did not believe there were any funds for further water extension. Neither did he favor turning down the report of the water commissioner, who understood the question, as well as the water works system.

It was finally referred to the finance committee for report.

The purchasing agent wrote, enclosing a letter from J. W. Kellar, asking that the time for receiving tenders for pipe be extended from yesterday until to-day. The time was extended for two days.

The electric light committee reported as follows:

To His Worship the Mayor and Board of Aldermen, in Council Assembled:

Gentlemen—Your electric light committee having considered the unmentioned subject, beg to report as follows:

That, as the wire inspector has tendered his resignation, your committee, before recommending that it be accepted, would ask that the inspector be requested to furnish the council with the record work, also a detail return of fees collected, as per sections 36 and 44 of the Electric Wiring By-law.

THOMAS A. BRYDON, W. G. CAMERON, R. T. WILLIAMS.

The finance committee recommended the appropriation of $9,141.79 for payment of accounts. Adopted.

Ald. Beckwith drew attention to a communication which had been received from the Electric Light Co., Ltd., regarding the proposed extension of the Spring Ridge.

Ald. Williams also wanted the communication read.

The communication in question being unaccompanied by the name of the applicant, was not read.

Residents on the north side of Cadboro Bay road, from Richmond road to Chestnut street, asked for connection with the drain which is being laid on the south side of the road.

Referred to the streets, bridges and sewer committee.

The following members of the council were then appointed a committee of revision: Mayor Hayward, and Alds. Yates, Kinsman, Cooley and Hall.

Ald. Beckwith's by-law providing that a sum not exceeding $60,000 be raised on the credit of the municipality for the construction of a new bridge at Point Ellice, was then introduced, read a first and second time, and laid on the table.

The committee then raised a question of order, and asked leave to sit until the by-law was recommitted and considered at a meeting this evening.

The meeting then adjourned.

THEIR REGULAR SESSION.

Board of School Trustees Will Meet To-Morrow Evening—Something About That High School By-Law.

The regular monthly meeting of the school board will be held to-morrow evening. The usual batch of communications will be dealt with, and possibly the suggested alterations in the regulations will receive further consideration.

In regard to the suggestion that a test case be taken into the courts to decide upon the validity of the High School By-Law under existing conditions, nothing further has been learned. In this connection it is pointed out that a by-law for the erection of school buildings may originate with the trustees. The Municipal Clauses Act provides that a by-law for any purpose within the jurisdiction of the council may originate in a petition of the ratepayers.

Now, as a matter of fact both courses have been adopted with this High School By-Law. The trustees have requested the council to submit it to the people, the ratepayers have also petitioned for it, so that even if all the formalities connected with the trustees' petition have not been observed, there has been a petition of the ratepayers. In other words the council has a double warrant for submitting the by-law—one from the trustees, the other from the citizens, and as the proceedings in regard to the latter have been perfectly regular, they are sufficient of themselves to validate the by-law just as they would have been had the trustees taken no action in the matter at all.

DECORATION DAY.

Date of Event Postponed to the Twenty-Third—Third—L. O. F. Delegates Leave.

The secret societies of the city are busy at present in making arrangements for Decoration Day, a day which is generally commemorated throughout the United States, and which it is the custom of the societies of this city to celebrate in some manner yearly. It is the intention of the lodges of Victoria this year to make a special effort, and it is possible make the occasion a memorable one.

A meeting of the Societies' Memorial Day committee was held last night, when it was decided to postpone the date of the celebration to June 23rd. This will give all the societies time to make their arrangements and send delegates to the final meeting, which will be held on Monday, the 17th inst. A full programme will be arranged for the occasion at this meeting.

Besides the Decoration Day of the city lodges this local K. of P. orders are making arrangements to hold a celebration of the same nature. They have had this plan in contemplation for some time. In fact all necessary arrangements have been made as far as the local lodges go. Invitations have been issued to the orders up the line, but so far no answers have been received. Members of the K. of P. lodges hardly expect to be invited to the event now until about the middle of July.

The delegates to the grand lodge of the L. O. F. left this morning for Nanaimo to attend the convention of the lodge. The first meeting of the lodge will be held this evening.

Will Study Seaweed

Student From the University of Tokyo Visited This City Yesterday.

Will Proceed to West Coast Botanical Station to Conduct Researches.

An ardent student in the botanical institute of the Imperial University of Tokyo, Japan, spent yesterday in this city. This was Kichisaburo Yendo, who arrived from the land-of-the-Mikado on the steamer Kinshu Maru yesterday morning.

He is a young man, alert, active and undoubtedly scholarly, with that great vitality and energy which give the distinguishable characteristics of Japanese public men of today. This is his first visit to the continent directly across from his native shores, and his impressions "so far" are most favorable.

As a Times representative yesterday he said that he contemplated a trip to the botanical station at Port Renfrew, and would leave for that port without delay. His particular subject in the comprehensive realm of botany is seaweed. That he is strongly conversant with this branch of a popular science becomes evident when he talked seaweed to an appreciative listener.

The shores of Japan, he pointed out yesterday, were peculiarly adapted to an exhaustive study of sea plant life. Along the southern isles one may find tropical flora, and gradually drawing north the botanist would encounter the plant life of the temperate zone, and still further north Siberian flora.

The seaweed which was seen along the coast of this island was, he explained, out of two classes, both indigenous to the northeast portion of the Pacific Ocean. No similar specimens were to be found elsewhere. At the same time it should be remembered that there were some classes common to Vancouver Island and Japan, not counting the cosmopolitan species.

Speaking of the university of Tokyo, he explained that it was a very large institution. There were fully three thousand students in attendance, the majority, however, receiving instruction in the engineering and chemistry. Of the rest were foreign professors teaching the languages, but the instructors in science were all Japanese.

The university embraced seven institutes or departments. The institute of science had six ramifications: There were geology, botany, zoology, mineralogy, physics and chemistry. There were foreign professors teaching the languages, but the instructors in science were all Japanese.

Mr. Yendo has been corresponding for some time past with another enthusiastic botanist, Miss Tilden, of the university of Wisconsin. She is also devoted to the study of sea plant life, and has travelled as far as Hawaii to conduct her researches. She and Mr. Yendo have exchanged many specimens, both having splendid collections.

The visitor from the Orient has recorded an invitation from Prof. McMillan to study at the Port Renfrew botanical station, and will proceed there at once. He is not representing his university, but is travelling solely for his own education—a commendable way of putting in a vacation.

UNITED IN WEDLOCK.

Two Popular and Well-Known Young People Married Last Evening—Very Pretty Event.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Wilson, Cadboro Bay road, was the scene of a very pretty ceremony last evening, when Rev. Dr. Reid united in the bonds of matrimony Miss Mary A. Wilson, eldest daughter of one of the most prominent of the city's pioneers, and Mr. John A. Heritage, the popular chief engineer of the C. P. N. steamer Anur.

The event was in every particular one which should be associated with the month of June. The interior of the residence, notably the apartment in which the ceremony was performed, had been transformed into a veritable Eden, a wealth of flowers being arranged tastefully at every nook and cranny by those who had evidently a clear conception of the artistic.

The bride was given away by her father, and was attended by the Misses Gill and her sister, Miss Heralma Wilson. The bridegroom was supported by Mr. W. C. Wilson. The bride was charmingly attired in white silk and wool jacquard, trimmed with satin, merrill, and real lace, and the bridesmaids in white muslin. The bride carried a beautiful bouquet of white carnations and ferns, the gift of the bridegroom, and the bridesmaids bouquets of roses, and carnations. The latter also wore pearl brooches, the gifts of the bridegroom.

After the ceremony, which was performed in the presence of only the relatives and immediate friends of the contracting parties, the guests sat down to a dainty wedding repast.

The newly-married couple were the recipients of many beautiful presents from innumerable friends in this city and elsewhere, as substantial evidences of a popularity universally acknowledged. Among these perhaps might be mentioned a handsome tea-service from the choir of the First Presbyterian church, of which the bride has been for many years a valued member. The bridegroom is well known as one of the most popular men in the C. P. N. Company's service. For several years past he has presided over the destinies of that very important department of the railway system—the engine room—and is now chief of the Anur on the northern run.

Mr. and Mrs. Heritage will spend their honeymoon at Banff, and they carry with them the felicitations of their friends, commingled with best wishes for the future. They will afterwards make their home at Port Renfrew, in this city.

CRUISE OF THE QUADRA.

The D. G. S. Quadra, after her northern cruise among the lighthouses, returned to Nanaimo on Friday, landing Capt. Gaudin and his daughter, who returned to Victoria on Saturday. Where necessary workmen were kept to make repairs at the different lighthouses. At Lawyer Island, the site for the new lighthouse was chosen. The island is situated at the entrance to Clitham Sound, and is recognized as a dangerous point for boats running among the islands. The department will have the work done by day labor, and will commence work in a few weeks. Captain Gaudin made a survey of the ground, ascertaining the materials necessary. The men and materials will be taken up by the Quadra upon her return from the survey work.

Capt. Walbran went north again from Nanaimo for the purpose of inspecting the channels and placing buoys where necessary. He reports that he has located a sunken rock in the centre of the channel, between Cottam Reef and Dorcas Point, near Beaver Creek wharf. At low water the rock is covered by only nine feet of water. A black spar buoy has been anchored at the northern edge of the rock. From the buoy the south tangent of Gerald Island bears east half north; Tongue Point extreme southwest three-quarters west nine eighths.

VICTORIA IN DRY DOCK.

The steamer Victoria entered the dry dock at Esquimalt, where she is undergoing repairs. She is being cleaned and painted, and her rudder, which was damaged, is being repaired. It is expected that the work will be completed upon her to-day, so that she may leave the dry dock this evening.

Upon leaving Esquimalt the Victoria is expected to go to Tacoma, where she will take on a cargo for England.

ISLANDER SAILS.

The Islander sailed for Skagway this morning. She carried from here about 200 tons of general merchandise for northern points. At Vancouver also considerable freight awaits her, including 150 cattle. The following passengers left Victoria on board for the north: A. M. Pannerman, W. McKenna, Mrs. and Miss McEwen, Mr. Williams and Mrs. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Froux, Miss T. Earle and Mrs. Marymont.

MARINE NOTES.

The following notice to mariners is given: The two red spar buoys marking the outer edge of the shoal ground off Sidney, on the east coast of Vancouver Island, have been permanently discontinued as the wharf is not now used, and is in a dilapidated condition.

The steamship C. D. Lane has been repaired at San Francisco, and the vessel will leave for Nome shortly. She is under the command of Capt. C. W. Ames, formerly master of the Koslow.

The City of Poughkeepsie arrived at Yokohama from Victoria at 7 a.m. yesterday.

Capt. Griffiths, of Griffiths & Sprague, the Seattle shipping firm, is in town. The Umavilla will leave for San Francisco on Thursday evening.

THE WISDOM OF NAPOLEON.

The Limiting of Wants and the Choosing of Associates.

San Francisco Examiner: During his long talks at St. Helena, one of his favorite topics was this question of money and its slight importance.

He would get his little dinner in Paris for 20 sous, have a cheap seat in the theatre once in a while, go to public reading rooms and libraries and have a comfortable bedroom for 20 francs a month.

But and here comes in Napoleon's real financial wisdom and the great lesson that he teaches foolish, struggling, extravagant Americans—

But, he would be comfortable with his small income, because—

"I should associate only with people of similar fortune."

Napoleon realized that happiness in this world must be achieved by limiting our wants. It can never be achieved by satisfying them.

SPORTING

AN EXCITING GAME.

A very exciting game of cricket took place last Saturday afternoon at the Canton grounds, when the Navy met the B. A. gunners. The Navy defeated the Gunners chiefly on account of their magnificent batting. The record number of runs made by one player during the match was by Mr. Sewell, of the Navy, who made 108. The latter's batting was splendid. He hit two balls, one he sent into the sea and another into the grounds of the Sailors' Rest. Mr. Wilson, of the Navy, supported Mr. Sewell's efforts ably. He sent one ball from the north wicket flying over the photographer's gallery.

THE RIFLE.

PREPARING FOR CONTEST.

London, June 16.—The American trapshooters had some practice to-day as a preliminary to to-morrow's contest, but they found the conditions so different to those that they had been accustomed to that the shooting of the whole team has been much below its United States average. All the shooting here is down hill. The targets are thrown far and fast and at a higher elevation than in the United States. The rise also is 18 yards, as against 16 in the United States. The scores at the practice were very disappointing. Chauncey Powers, of Detroit, hit 20 straight in the first event, and then dropped more than half in the last 20. Fred Gilbert, of Spirit Lake, Iowa, was the only other man to break 20 straight. E. H. Trip, Indianapolis, Ind., took 19. Some of the "Old Reliablies" fell down quite seriously, but while they scored low, the Englishmen scored lower. The Americans are confident of winning.

BASEBALL.

LAST SATURDAY'S GAME.

It is only justice to the local ball players to say a few things regarding last Saturday's game at New Westminster. As a matter of course it will seem as though the local players were making excuses for their shortcomings, but this is not the case, as the boys surely have a legitimate kick coming.

It appears as though the Mainland clubs will not stop at anything to win games, and they persist in continuing at the rate they have been going so far this season, and they will only succeed in completely killing the interest in the game in the Coast cities of the province.

When the B. C. Amateur League was formed, it was distinctly understood that no professional players were to be played on any team, nor were there to be any players imported, especially for one game. This agreement has not been kept by either Vancouver or Westminster, both clubs having imported men to play on their teams when they played Victoria.

On Saturday last Westminster played Campbell, who played here for the University boys, and Melita, the catcher of the Nonpareil club of Seattle both men leaving for Seattle immediately after the game. Now, these men will hardly travel to New Westminster and pay transportation and living expenses during their stay there merely for the love of playing ball. Victoria has always placed a strictly amateur team in the field, and every player of the nine has been a resident of Victoria for years, and it is not too much to ask of the Mainlanders to have at least bona fide residents of their cities on their teams, and not outsiders who are merely imported to play a game or two. How many other outsiders New Westminster played in last Saturday's match is not known, but the two men mentioned are known to the local players, and of them there is no doubt.

Westminster was scheduled to play here on Saturday next, but they announce that they cannot come down on Saturday, because they cannot get their team together. No wonder, when several of the men are residents of Seattle or Whatcom, or any place but New Westminster, Victoria surely is entitled to the game scheduled here on Saturday with Westminster, having fulfilled its part of the contract in going up there to play.

TO PLAY NANAIMO.

Arrangements are under way for a game here on Saturday with the Nanaimo club, as New Westminster will not come on that day. Should Nanaimo be unable to play there, there will be no ball game here until next month, several games being booked for July and August.

A NEW INDIANA STATUTE.

The Wages of Workmen Are Given a Preference.

An Indiana statute giving the wages of workmen to the extent of $50 a preference over other forms of indebtedness in the case of an employer whose business has been suspended by the action of creditors has been declared constitutional by the supreme court of that state. This is a victory for justice in this decision. The property that has been created by labor does not rightfully belong to the employer until the workman's contract share in it is only delivered into his hands. It is only the remainder which rightfully belongs to the employer and can be properly devoted to the payment of his just indebtedness. Philadelphia Record.

MILLIONAIRE'S ECCENTRICITY.

Literally Wrests His Livelihood From the Unwilling Soil.

The eccentricities of a young millionaire follower of the teachings of Count Tolstoy, lately puzzling the good people of the village of Woodstock, N. J., which are gently unlimited means at his command, George Roddy, Jr., son of one of the richest men in the state of New Jersey and a college graduate who has enjoyed the advantages of foreign travel, prefers the life of the humblest toiler. Had in blue jeans and cowhide boots he literally wrests his livelihood from the unwilling soil of a tiny farm, the smallest and most worthless corner of his father's vast estate. According to his philosophical creed poverty is the city incentive to intellectual effort.

Out of Sorts.

Carelessness and neglect, and oftentimes willful disregard of Nature's laws puts the system out of sorts. Hurried, neglected and irregular meals cause most of the trouble.

No wonder the stomach revolts—goes on strike. It's functions are so necessary to your daily health that when it doesn't act properly your entire body suffers. Bowels clogged, liver inactive, blood impure, bad taste, coated tongue—you feel all petered out—and you look it.

The result is indigestion, biliousness and constipation, followed by more serious complications if the body's natural functions are not restored at once. To all such sufferers there is a sure, safe, economical and palatable cure—that is time-tested, never-failing Abbey's Effervescent Salt. A laxative that never gripes, gentle, but certain. It gets the bowels back to their normal action. Tones up the stomach. Liven up the liver. Makes the entire system right as a trivet.

After the advent of the House of Hanover, the favorite games at court were "quadrille," an improvement of "ombre," and "commerce." The gains and losses of the Kings and Queens were as a rule restricted to 100 guineas, but on Twelfth Night it was customary for thousands to change hands. On one occasion, Lady Cowper, a lady in waiting, refused, for the sake of her children, to take part in the game, as none sat down to the table with less than £200. About the year 1740, a rage for "whilk," or whist, set in, but at first it was considered too wise a game for ladies to join in. Hume, the historian, never went to bed without his whist, and even the great Johnson regretted that he had not learned to play cards. In 1742, "Horry" Walpole finds it absolutely necessary to issue a "whisk" banning whist, and in vain for its being left off. We find him in another letter threatening to build an altar to "Pam" to commemorate the escape of his charming Duchess of Grafton, who, it appears, had been playing cards in Rome, when she ought to have been at a cardinal's reception. The Duke of Devonshire, the Monarchs were precipitated into the cellar. Cards were so very much in evidence in his time that even invitations were frequently issued and notes written upon the backs of playing cards, which on that account were usually plain without any design. The Chevalier ordered the post-treat at Caldoena was written on the back of the nine of hearts.

A fresh attempt was made in 1730 to remedy the state of gambling in England by passing an act which provided that "any person keeping a house or other place for gaming in forfeits £200, half to the prosecutor and half to the poor of the parish." Whereupon two ladies of title, Montagu and Cassels, who kept open houses for gambling claimed their privilege of peerage in order to intimidate the peace officers from disturbing their amusements—the public gaming houses kept by them.—Longman's Magazine.

ARBITRATION.

The canners and fishermen on the Fraser river cannot agree as to the terms upon which the industry shall be carried off, and there is in prospect the closing up of one of British Columbia's sources of wealth during a year which, in the natural course of events, is expected to be a fat one. Either that or another conflict between the diversified elements which are now represented in this important business. The canners say they would lose money at the price which the white and Indian fishermen have decided to demand; the fishermen contend they might as well remain idle as work at the rate offered by the canners. Both sides are quite positive upon these points. The capitalists are likely to be the more determined in their attitude by reason of the reserve they have in store in the presence of the Japs, who have remained neutral thus far in the dispute, and are at liberty to act as seems expedient when the crisis arrives.

This is a matter which concerns the community generally, not merely the active participants in the controversy. The paralysis of the fishing industry for one year must be followed by serious financial consequences. The harvest of the Fraser is one of the chief sources of provincial prosperity, and its ruin would necessarily involve a depression corresponding in extent to its value if reaped. Can nothing be done to reconcile the conflicting elements? People are compelled to settle such disputes by arbitration in New Zealand. Such courts are no longer an experiment there. They have proved successful, and there is no thought of turning back to conditions which are comparatively barbarous. The day is at hand when international disagreements will be settled by arbitration. The time is not far distant when not even the strongest of the powers will dare to declare war against its neighbor. We do not know but such is the case even at the present day. Great Britain would never have gone to war with Kruger and his followers. She was left no alternative but to defend her territory. The world—or the part of it which has any claim to be characterized as civilized—has begun to realize the true meaning of conflicts between powerful nations. But while war between great states will never again be declared by men when in a state to calmly weigh the probable consequences of their actions, to be safe a state must necessarily maintain her defenses and do her utmost to make her position secure. By doing so she removes temptation from the path of her neighbors and guards against seasons of irrational passion for conquest which are liable to fall upon even the most pliant peoples. There is yet no power to compel nations to refer their disputes to arbitration. But in comparison with olden times the world is now very close together. Electricity and steam have made all-civilized men neighbors. World public opinion will soon be a very important factor in international affairs. In time it will be impossible for any nation to set it at defiance.

"REVOLUTION" IN BUILDING.

It may be that Edison has entered the same class as Tesla. Thomas is a Canadian by birth, and we should be loath to believe that he would care to be found in the ranks of the fakirs. The story of the storage battery and its increased power we accepted in good faith, for we know the man who claims to be the inventor to be an expert handler of the mysterious current. But when he comes forth and informs the world that he has invented or discovered or compounded a new kind of cement which will revolutionize all kinds of structures in the world, then we suspect Mr. Edison has stepped beyond his legitimate domain and is talking through his head-gear. We should not like to see the business of quarrymen and stonecutters and stonemasons and all such done away with at one fell swoop, and houses and monuments and all kinds of things made out of cement even if it be as durable as the electrical expert claims it to be. Besides nothing but effusion of time could settle the question of its lasting powers. It would be gratifying to some people who can afford nothing more imposing than a thousand dollar house to be able to erect one which under the present conditions would cost ten thousand, and the well-to-do would continue to multiply their expenditure for the same purposes by ten or more just the same, and we should find ourselves occupying the same relative position in the end. We doubt the feasibility of casting houses and castles in moulds like stoves and sewer pipes and cakes anyhow. Just think of the revolution that would be created in the world if contractors kept on hand models of houses of various sizes and varieties. The customer comes along and selects his model, which is set up on his lot, the material poured into it and allowed to remain there for a certain time to harden. Then the mould is lifted off and there the house stands ready for its fittings. As we

other. When the Times suggested the establishment of such a tribunal some time ago, it was told that there was no power on earth could compel a man to work if he did not want to. That is very true, but the courts settle the merits of the controversy and throw the responsibility upon the proper shoulders. Compulsory arbitration has proved a success in New Zealand, and if the courts are properly constituted there is no reason why they should not accomplish the objects for which they are intended in every country. The men who are honestly anxious for a settlement will invariably abide by their verdict.

A SEASON OF PROSPERITY.

The powers which guide the destiny of nations have signified their approval of the will of the people of Canada by blessing us with a season of great prosperity almost continuously since the assumption of the reins of power by the Liberal party. It was precluded with confidence by the Conservative leaders that ruin and disaster would surely follow any attempt to tamper with the sacred provisions of the National Policy. But notwithstanding unallowable hands were laid upon it and Sir Charles Tupper proclaimed that the "wail, the miserable wail," of ruined industries was heard in the land, and the establishment of soup kitchens and other institutions for feeding the hungry might be proceeded with immediately. The wished-for collapse did not come and the discovery was made that the tariff had not been tampered with to the extent that was at first thought. Mr. Foster said the reduction was only thirty hundredths of one per cent., and Col. Prior was ready to stamp his assertion with his approval. At any rate the tariff on British goods has been reduced one-third and the raw materials most necessary to manufacturers are admitted free. The demand for Canadian goods in Great Britain has increased tremendously. The farmers of the East have been prosperous beyond parallel as a consequence, and the discoveries of gold and minerals of all kinds in the West have filled the horn to overflowing.

The story has often been told in these columns and figures given to substantiate it. Another instalment of the tale is published to-day. It was thought possible—that our aggregate trade for this financial year might reach the four hundred million mark, but it seemed almost too much to expect. It was felt that there was a possibility of the tide falling for a while in accordance with the laws which govern trade and everything else. But the time of recession has not yet come. There is a possibility that it will be postponed indefinitely, as there are prospects on all sides for another year of rich harvests and plenty.

The revenue has expanded in sympathy with trade. The surpluses have been large, and in one year there was a substantial reduction in the debt. But the increase in trade demanded greater expenditure to provide for its accommodation. The providing of better communication with Great Britain was the cause of the increased sale of farm produce there. The conversion of the Intercolonial railway into an up-to-date line in all respects cost a large amount, but it has made it pay. The efficient administration of the Yukon country was an expensive business, but it was made to pay for itself. The dispatch of the Canadian contingents to South Africa involved between one or two millions, but none of us would object that it was worth it. So while the revenues have been large the demands upon them have almost kept pace with their growth.

"PARALLEL" TO ALADDIN'S LAMP.

As we breakfast on food cooked by electricity, we ride in the morning to our offices (which are cooled and ventilated by electric fans) in a car warmed, lighted and propelled by electricity, reading a newspaper printed by electric power and from type set up by a machine driven by an electric motor; the white paper itself is made from wood by electrically manufactured soda; its news, received by electric telegraph, and some of it, during the South African war, flashed by electric searchlights from a town 12,000 miles away, sent by electric cables, and the sun in his daily progress is outstripped by several hours before it started. To think that any of Aladdin's lamp that can parallel such a marvel!

HOW WOMEN VOTE.

Forty-nine members of the British Women's Temperance Association spilt their papers in voting for officers yesterday by an excess of zeal. Unable to restrain their enthusiasm, they insisted on introducing personal comments. Thus one lady described Lady Henry Somerset as "Our White Ribbon Queen." A candidate who is popular among her friends that she was "dear Mrs. J.," while the treasurer had "miss her bonny face" added to her name on one paper. If women's suffrage were introduced it would be productive of amusing results. "Pleading" Mr. Chamberlain, or "Dear, kind, Sir William Harcourt," would look well on voting papers.

THACKERAY OLDONE.

Thackeray, anxious to enter parliament, stood for Oxford, thinking he might win the seat from Lord Monck, who then represented it. Meeting his opponent in the street one day, he shook hands with him, had a little talk over the situation, and took leave of him with the quotation "May the best man win." "I hope not," said Lord Monck, very cordially, with a kind little bow.

WE GIVE IT UP.

New Westminster is a sort of breeding ground for judges. Ex-Judge McColl lives there, as does County Justice Bole. County Judge Forth was appointed to Kootenay from there, and now Alec Henderson, of that place, is appointed to a county judgeship. Is it the fish diet that does it?

WE NEEDN'T WORRY.

A momentous question has been settled by royal command. When Prince George comes to Canada he will take precedence of Lord Minto, instead of totalling along behind him, as he would have been called to do had the King not intervened. The country will breathe easier now that another crisis in its career has been averted.

FRINGE ON THEIR TALK.

"Do fishermen lie?" asks a contemporary. No, they talk a good deal, and sometimes their language has fringe upon it.

have already said, Mr. Edison is "joshing" the world; or perhaps he has been "getting even" with a yellow journalist.

During all the great contests between the "fastest yachts in the world" for the America Cup which were held in past years there remained in Great Britain the Prince of Wales's cutter Britannia, which proved repeatedly that she was faster in all round work than any of them. It looks as if the two Shamrocks will leave a swifter boat than either of them at home this year when they cross the ocean in search of international honors. The Sybarita has beaten Shamrock II, most decisively in the contest, and the Lipton boat is thought to be fully ten minutes faster in thirty miles than she was when she raced the Columbia.

There will be great disappointment if the fates decree that the Duchess of York cannot accompany the Duke on his Western tour. The round the world trip must have been a trying one, and the opportunity to snatch a term of rest and repose will be most tempting. The people of the West are more anxious to see the Duchess than the Duke, but they are willing to make allowances.

Kitchener's net is still gathering in daily additions to his army of prisoners. Dewitt still refuses to be captured, but the men who were once his followers apparently think it well not to be too closely identified with him in the present crisis. The bandit's power for evil must be gone, or we should have heard from him.

Now that Parliament has prorogued, the fun of the politicians is ended, and their tribulations have commenced. The courts are dealing with them. Some of them are probably wishing there was continuous immunity from legal actions.

An' such ideas as be gits in 'is head, He fairly worries himself sick abed. 'Wha's the right, an' it ain't a-goin' ter be; 'Wha's the use of tryin' ter live?' sez he.

Well, then! I speak up to 'im kind of brisk, An' bustle round, givin' things a'whisk. Not doin' much, but makin' lots of stir, An' tellin' 'im things ain't so bad's they were.

Not by a long shtab; an' through thick an' thin, I keep it up, an' never once give in; An' by an' by he comes out good as new, An' nobody'd distrust that he'd been blue.

What? Am I ever blue myself, you say? Oh, yes, I sometimes hev a real blue day; But you don't think, I hope, I've such a dunce As ter hev me an' him both blue ter once?

STRIKE IS OVER.

Alexandra Miners Will Return to Work on the Old Terms.

The Alexandra strike is over, the men returning on the old terms. Yesterday Premier Dunsmuir and Manager Faulds, manager of the mines there, were met by H. James, Fred. Wilson and Frank Richardson, the committee, and Lionel Terry, secretary of the Alexandra Miners' Protective Union.

Both Messrs. Dunsmuir and Faulds objected to meeting Mr. Terry, the former explaining that he did not desire to recognize the union in any manner. He was willing to meet a committee of his own employees, however, and had no objection to members of the union working in his mine. After some discussion Mr. Terry retired, and the conference was then held.

According to the Nanaimo Herald, "before going, Mr. Terry requested Mr. Dunsmuir and the committee to meet without prejudice as to what had occurred in the past, and enumerated the questions to be discussed. When he came to Mr. Faulds and his alleged incompetency, Mr. Dunsmuir interrupted him and declared that he considered Mr. Faulds a competent man. Mr. Terry replied by saying that many miners disagreed with him, and that in view of the sad fatality at Cumberland he was taking a very grave responsibility on himself by placing an incompetent man in charge of the mine. Mr. Dunsmuir replied that the matter was considered good work in the old country, and there was no reason why he should not prove a good man here.

"On Mr. Terry's returning to the crowd of miners assembled at the station many expressions in condemnation of the Premier's attitude were heard, and the opinion was freely expressed that no agreement could be reached. The matter was considered a declaration of war, and preparations were immediately made for a general meeting of the union, to be held as soon as the conference ended, which would receive and consider the report of the committee. In all about 150 miners were assembled at Alexandra, including many from Nanaimo, Wellington and Extension.

The conference ended at 5 o'clock, and the committee reported to the miners' hall, and were followed by the men in such numbers that it was soon packed to suffocation. The committee reported as follows: "The men were asked to return to work at the same prices as before, viz., 2,250 pounds for 400 tons, and 40 for turning places, men will be employed as usual, and preference given to Alexandra residents. Mr. Dunsmuir stated that only one man would be discriminated against, that man was Terry. "The committee further stated that Mr. Dunsmuir had said he would not recognize Mr. Terry nor allow him to work, but that he knew Mr. Richardson and that he was a good fellow. All the men except Terry could go to work, but he did not want Mr. Faulds to put in men who, already, had worked at Extension. The present agreement was to be good for six months.

The report was briefly adopted, and the terms accepted. A vote of confidence in Mr. Terry was passed unanimously, and after resolving that the union be maintained and that each man pay 25 cents per month dues, the meeting terminated.

The following from the Chicago Chronicle will be news to Victorians: 'The law forbidding the sale of liquor on Sundays in Victoria, B. C., is exceedingly stringent, and the police authorities are endeavoring to enforce it to the letter. The law provides among other things that the door leading into the bar of every hotel must be kept locked throughout the whole of the Lord's Day. A curious point in this connection was raised in a recent case. The police raided a certain hotel on a Sunday night. They found a number of men seated in one of the parlors, but could discover no signs that liquor had been served. The bar door was locked, but the key was in the lock. That being so, was the door locked within the meaning of the act? The superintendent of police answered this question in the negative and ordered a prosecution. The bench dismissed the case, holding that the act said nothing about the disposition of the key. In spite of this rigorous law there are more drunken people about the streets of that city on the Sabbath than on ordinary evenings.'

The Chinese sporting case did not come up in the police court this morning. The counsel for the defence was unable to be present, so the case was remanded until to-morrow morning. The accused pleaded guilty, but the complainant not appearing the case stood over, the magistrate expressing a desire to hear more of the trouble. Olson will have to appear and tell his story whether he wants to or not.

Methods of Warfare

Great Severity Used in Dealing With a Resolute Hostile Population.

Some of the Methods Adopted by Generals to Enforce Submission.

"All war is barbarous," President Loubet is said to have remarked to Mr. Kruger, when Oom Paul complained to him of the conduct of the British armies in the conquered territories. How true was that rejoinder we propose to show by an examination of the measures adopted during 1864-65 by the Northern or United States' generals in suppressing the confederation or Southerners, and those employed by the German staff in 1870-71 in dealing with the guerilla warfare to the east of their armies.

These instances will prove clearly enough that great severity has always to be used in dealing with a resolutely hostile population. In the case of the treatment of the confederates the chief object of the measures was to bring the sufferings of war home to the women and the non-combatants. "Nothing," said Gen. Sheridan, "should be left the women, except their eyes to weep with." "We are not only fighting hostile armies, but a hostile people, and must make old and young, rich and poor, feel the hard hand of war, as well as the organized armies," wrote Gen. Sherman. "War is cruelty and you cannot refine it, and those who brought war into the country deserve all the curses and maledictions a people can pour out."

We find that these and other northern generals regarded a relentless devastation of the enemy's territory as the surest way to last another year. "If the war is to last another year," wrote Grant in 1864, "we want the Shenandoah valley to remain a barren waste. A free all-terrible though such measures seem and sound, they are down the resistance of a people more speedily than successes in the field.

In a passage of his Personal Memoirs, Gen. Sheridan has stated the argument for this policy. "I do not hold war to mean simply that lines of men shall engage each other in a battle and material interests be ignored. This is a duel, in which one combatant seeks the other's life; war means much more, and is far worse than this. Those who rest at home in peace and plenty see a duel, and of the horrors attending to them as the aggressor goes on. It is another matter, however, when deprivation and suffering are brought to their own doors. Then the case appears much graver, for the loss of property weighs heavy with the most of men, and heavier often than the sacrifices made on the field of battle.

"Death is popularly considered the maximum of punishment in war, but it is not; reduction to poverty brings prayers for peace more surely and quickly than does the destruction of human life."

Sheridan, when operating in the Shenandoah valley, was directed to destroy and carry off all crops, cattle, negroes and fighting men so as to prevent cultivation. He was to render the country incapable of supporting any hostile force. Buildings were not to be destroyed, except in special circumstances. These orders were executed to the letter, and the Shenandoah valley was left a desert.

Sheridan, in his Georgia campaign, expelled the non-combatant population from Georgia, and when the enemy appeared, in Mr. Sherman's fashion, to him, he said: "I do not intend to appeal to a just God in such a sacrilegious manner; you who, in the midst of peace and prosperity, have plunged a nation into a dark and cruel war, who have insulted our flag, and who have fought it out as we propose to do, and not deal in such hypocritical appeals to God and humanity."

Before his march through Georgia to the sea, he wrote: "It is useless for us to creep behind a bush, but the utter destruction of its roads, houses and people will cripple their military resources."

"I will make this march and take Georgia howl!"

His orders to his troops were "to forage liberally on the country." To spare houses and to leave the army was understood; "but should guerillas or bushwhackers molest our march, or should the inhabitants manifest local hostility, then army commanders should order and enforce a devastation more or less relentless, according to the measure of such hostility."

In this way, as the poet sings, he "made a thoroughfare for freedom and her sixty miles of latitude, three hundred to the main." When the enemy planted mines on the roads, he compelled prisoners to march ahead of his columns, saying that such acts were "murder, not war." When he entered the capital of South Carolina, his men burnt the city, though he always denied that he was personally responsible for the act, and ordered the troops to assist in extinguishing the conflagration.

"The most horrible and malicious charges were brought against him and his men. It was said that he violated the homes and killed the men, and perpetrated all manner of outrages on the inhabitants." But he dully notes that the enemy's generals, like Mr. Kruger, left their wives and families to his care. He was much more in the north, as an account of his severity; but he always replied, "War is war, and not popularity-seeking."

To the rear of the German armies in 1870 much the same condition of things prevailed as now exists in the Boer territories. The Germans in the Boer account of his severity; but he always replied, "War is war, and not popularity-seeking."

notice to take the appearance of harmless peasants by hiding their arms and getting rid of the distinctive marks of the soldier.

Under these circumstances they exercised their arms. Where soldiers were attacked, railways broken or telegraphs cut, the canton or parish was heavily fined and farms burned. Guerillas not in uniform were shot when captured, or decimated. Prominent French citizens were compelled to ride on the locomotives of the trains were derailed. Some definite examples may be given of German methods.

The town of St. Quentin fired upon a detachment of 500 German troops. It was shelled a few days later, and a fine of £30,000 imposed. Near Lamons, a train was derailed and wrecked. The parish was made to pay £400; six prisoners were shot—though they were wearing some sort of uniform; and a happened was burnt. Couffans and Marfain close to where the outrage had really occurred, the Germans treated our troops and rendered them, and seven inhabitants taken with arms in their hands were shot. At Nogent the Germans were fired upon from certain houses; these they burned down.

"It is no cause for surprise," says Von Widdler, "that such proceedings exasperated our troops and rendered them, and it is obvious that under such circumstances, in the cause of self-defence, reprisals were often made and death inflicted upon innocent people." The difficulty of drawing a sharp line between the innocent and the guilty, between the non-combatant and the combatant, and of preventing irregular proceedings on the part of small scattered bands of men is that which lends a peculiar horror to guerilla war.

"Where the adversaries each show an equal determination," says Von der Goltz, "the struggle can only end with a general devastation has exhausted all the material forces, and long sufferings have destroyed all the moral force, of one or the other." This state of affairs is most to be expected when dealing with a half-civilized enemy, as in the Philippines or South Africa. The quickest means of compelling submission is then, he thinks, to take away all hope from the conquered, "by flooding the country with troops."—H. W. Wilson in London Mail.

"SUNDOWNERS" OF AUSTRALIA.

The peculiar sociological conditions under which Australia has grown up into a great and vigorous young continent, wealth have brought about some unusual results, remarks John R. Latham, who has recently returned from there. He says: Not the least of these is the total absence of anything like the tramp, as we know him here, in the large cities like Sydney and Melbourne and Adelaide. The never-do-well and the penniless wanderer, thanks to a form of paternalism that has reached its limit in the northern hemisphere, find in the large centres of population no necessity to beg either for food, recreation or shelter. The free lunch countries have received the name of "free lunch" from the fact that the public houses, beer gardens, and museums bar none who behave themselves, though they may be in rags, and every city has public and private "shelters" for the homeless, whose doors swing inward easily. But "down in the bush," that generic phrase that covers a description of the whole vast acreage extending through the eastern half of the continent, there are none of these things. The country is widely diversified in character, with sheep runs, great wheat farms, vineyards, enormous stretches of mallee scrub and gum trees, and deep and cool rivers with mangroves and brackish lakes. This is the domain of the tramp, a recognized institution, but not a recognized evil.

The sundowner, so called because he would never dream of making his appearance at a farm house or bush hut until the sun has set, is the "Billy can" in his own right. He is a creature of the bush, a warm-hearted greeting and a comfortable shelter till morning. At sun up he is off again on his day's jaunt, with a "Good-bye, and good luck to you, mate," ringing in his ears.

"I heard a woman say to her husband one evening, 'No,' answered the rancher, 'there may be a sundowner or two along yet. Let's wait a bit, wife.'

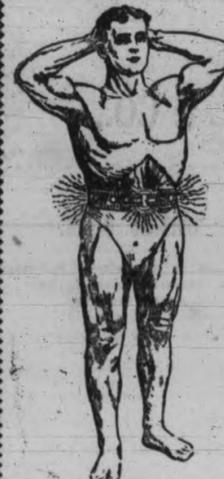

"The wanderer is as much an institution down in the bush as the sun himself, and he is always regular in his habits. If he ever wants to stop at a place for a few days and work for his 'grab' and often at a premium among the cattle ranches and sheep runs. But if he doesn't care to work, the greeting he gets is not the least unkind, and there is a whole heap of human kindness wrapped in the bundle of food they thrust into his hand when he leaves again on his day's frudge. The utter loneliness of many pioneer ranches makes the sight of a new face a genuine pleasure, but the sundowner never wears out his welcome. He may be able to do a new well while that was a few months before in the Melbourne music halls or to tell the latest news about the crops down south or the discovery of new gold fields in the west. But whether he comes with all or none of these things he is never made to feel like an intruder.

It is a poor sundowner indeed who cannot play a merry tune on his host's concertina, the universal instrument out in the bush, and in this and other ways he tries, as best he can, to make payment for the hospitality shown him. His pleasant, breezy, good spirits and generally quick wit often make him the only element of humor that ever comes in contact with these desolate farm houses. He never steals, is cleanly in his habits, and stranger still, is very seldom a drunkard. He shuns cities, for if they were his he would take his pockets and lives well while there. The sundowner ambles up to the ranch house gate, and as he comes into sight gives a cheery "coo-ey." The boss steps out of the door.

"Good even, mate. I've come close to you, and you've accepted about 'Hard to trap' in 'Dose. Drop yer pack and come on in."

His majesty the vagrant asks for a towel and gets it and goes down to the creek or maybe the cement-water tank for a plunge. In ten minutes he is back at the house, where he takes his place among the men and gets a hearty meal of damper, boiled potatoes, beans

LISTEN--WEAK MEN

The failure of medicine, of quacks, and even of other so-called electric belts, is no argument against Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt. No other treatment, no other belt is in the same class with it. Everything else may fail, but Dr. McLaughlin's Belt will cure. It HAS cured thousands who tried other remedies without success.

Your most intimate friends are using it and being cured. They do not mention it, because few men want any one to know they are in need of such treatment. It makes men strong; it removes the effects of early habits, indiscretions, excesses, overwork, and all abuses of the laws of nature. It helps nature mend, and makes manhood perfect. No man who is weak will make the right effort to regain his strength until he tries

Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt

Be true to nature, be true to yourself and your friends. Regain your health. Give the color of vigor to your cheeks, the sparkle to your eye. What use has the world for a man who has not the courage to face the battles of life? Such courage comes from a system greatly endowed with the vital force of Electricity. Regain your manhood for good by using this wonderful Electric Belt.

It has cured thousands who have tried other remedies without success. You can make arrangements by giving security and

A HOT WEATHER LIFE-SAVER FOR THE BABIES.

LACTATED FOOD

Keeps the Little Ones Hearty and Happy.

Proper infant nourishment in the hot weather will save the weakest infants from fatal troubles, such as cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and other infantile troubles.

Lactated Food is recommended by over 20,000 of the best physicians on this continent as the most perfect infant diet and the best substitute for mother's milk. It contains all the nutritious elements of pure breast milk. It is easily digested and quickly assimilated.

If your baby is cross and fretful during the day, or does not sleep well at night, try what Lactated Food will do for the little one. A week's trial will thoroughly convince all mothers that Lactated Food is the best form of nourishment for the baby. All druggists sell Lactated Food.

The anniversary of the Montreal Y. M. C. A. was brought to a close yesterday by the unveiling of a bronze tablet on the front of the building in which the first association on the continent was formed on November 25th, 1857.

"THE BRIGHTEST SPOT."

This is the designation given to Canada in the new number of The Pictorial Review. "Future historians," we are told, "will probably note the development of Canada as the brightest spot in the British Empire at the beginning of the twentieth century."

And not content with mere assertion, the Edinburgh Review goes on to indicate how Canada has come to this position, and how she is bearing herself in this moment of critical hours...

That Canada, being a very small nation, would inevitably fall back upon her big brother, Great Britain, to resist the economic encroachments of the United States...

monopoly of Canadian trade. And, in proportion as Canadian goods come to England, so British goods go back to Canada...

There is, then, a deep economic tendency drawing Canada (Great Britain), created, "as much by the hostile policy of the United States as by any wisdom on the part of Great Britain."

So the future of Canada, as foreseen by this Edinburgh Review, is fully assured. Her population will be "an agglomeration of all races and creeds from the Old World."
