The MIRR is an anti-Castro organization maintaining its headquarters at 1454 N. W. 7th Avenue, Miami, Florida. It is headed by Orlando Bosch Avila, a Cuban medical doctor who has launched numerous air raids against the coast of Cuba in the past.

MM T-1, a Cuban exile active in revolutionary matters for the past seven years, advised that after the arrest of Felipe Rivero Diaz, head of the Movimiento Nacionalista Cubana (CNM) (Cuban Nationalist Movement) on May 12, 1967, CNM members in Miami looked to Bosch for leadership and guidance. CNM members in Miami frequented MIRR headquarters and conferred frequently with Bosch. Bosch later designed, promoted and carried out most of the picketing, protest marches and demonstrations, including the May 23, 1967, Cuban exile general strike in Miami, protesting Rivero's arrest.

The closeness of MIRR and the CNM lasted through May and June, 1967, but in mid-July, 1967, Bosch said he was not going to have anything more to do with Rivero's followers. However, after Bosch was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury in Miami on July 19, 1967, he said he wanted Miguel San Pedro, acting head of the CNM, to handle the demonstrations, marches and protests concerning his indictment and arrest. F/uo

MM T-2, a Cuban exile closely associated with the leadership of the CNM, on July 25, 1967, advised that Guillermo Novo, CNM functionary in the New York City area, said they had (u)

called off plans to fire a bazooka shell and attack a representative of the Government of Cuba at Expo 67 in Montreal, Canada. Novo said the CNM had been cooperating with the MIRR in this plan but that the MIRR was all mixed up and really did not know how to carry out such a mission. (u)

Prosecution of MIRR Members

On July 19, 1967, a Federal Grand Jury at Miami indicted Orlando Bosch Avila and the following MIRR members: Jose Antonio Mulet Gonzalez, Luis Carlos Bertot, Marcos Rodriguez Ramos, Jose Diaz Morejon, Barbaro Balan Garcia. They were charged with conspiracy to violate Section 1659, Title 18, U. S. Code, having to do with piracy provisions; conspiracy to violate Section 1934, Title 22, U. S. Code, having to do with illegal exportation of arms; and an attempt to violate Section 1934, Title 22, U. S. Code.

On July 24, 1967, a Federal Grand Jury at Macon, Georgia, indicted Barbaro Balan Garcia under Section 1934, Title 22, U. S. Code, for attempting to illegally export arms, and Orlando Bosch Avila under Section 2, Title 18, U. S. Code, for aiding and abetting Balan Garcia.

On July 20, 1967, Bosch Avila said he had not been arrested as yet and the U. S. Government must have some plot against him. He stated when he is arrested, he will stay in jail; he will not make bond; and he planned to stay in jail as long as Rivero Diaz was in jail.

On July 19, 1967, in connection with the Miami indictment, $1,000 recognizance bonds were recommended. Bosch Avila surrendered to the U. S. Marshal at Miami on July 26, 1967, and signed this bond. The other five defendants surrendered to the U. S. Marshal at Miami on July 27, 1967, and also signed recognizance bonds.
