

PEACE UNFURLS OLD FLAG.

New Jersey Woman Celebrates Ending of the War with an Ensign Made in 1861.

Mrs. Emma R. Barnes, of Vineland, N. J., highly prizes an "Old Glory" with a history which she owns.

The flag waved all during the war. Several times when rebel prisoners went through the city the flag headed the crowd that gathered at the depot to see the enemy.

KIND WORDS FOR CERVERA.

Message Sent to Spanish Admiral by Soldiers' and Sailors' Families' Protective Association.

The following telegrams have passed between Admiral Cervera and the New York Soldiers' and Sailors' Families' Protective Association:

"Admiral Cervera, Annapolis, Md. The citizens of the city of New York, voting the sentiment of the people of the United States, meeting in the Metropolitan opera house, under the auspices of the New York Soldiers' and Sailors' Families' Protective Association, Lieut. Richmond Pearson Hobson presiding, desire to express to you their profound appreciation of your magnanimous, chivalric conduct toward Lieut. Hobson and his gallant men on the occasion of the sinking of the steamship Merrimac in the harbor of Santiago. Greeting and good bye.

A MAINE HERO WEDS.

Ensign Powelson Married to Col. Millar's Daughter in Hospital.

Ensign William Van Nest Powelson, one of the survivors of the battleship Maine and a hero of the war in Spain, was married in his room in the Episcopal hospital, Philadelphia, to Miss Margaret Olivia Millar, of Wyoming, O., daughter of Col. Millar, U. S. A.

Ensign Powelson asked to be transferred to another warship. As soon as the war broke out he was all eagerness to fight and to strike for the Maine.

A LIEUTENANT HONORED.

Appointed Superintendent of the United States Military Academy - Bravery Rewarded.

For the first time in the history of the United States military academy a first lieutenant is superintendent of the academy. The officer to be thus honored is First Lieut. Albert Mills, of the first cavalry, one of the heroes of Santiago, who now has the temporary rank of captain as a member of Gen. Young's staff.

MEMORIAL TO LIEUT. JENKINS

Bronze Tablet Placed in Chapel in the Naval Academy at Annapolis - Its Inscription.

One of the first permanent memorials of the Spanish-American war to be erected in this country has been placed in the chapel of the naval academy at Annapolis, in memory of Lieut. William Jenkins, who perished in the explosion of the battleship Maine. The memorial, which takes the form of a mural tablet, was subscribed for by the classmates of the unfortunate officer and has been cast in bronze from a design by Mr. Charles Rollinson Lamb. A faithful model in high relief of the ill-fated vessel is shown above the inscription, which reads as follows:

FRIEND WILLIAM JENKINS, Lieutenant U. S. N., Who Perished in the Explosion of the U. S. S. Maine on the Night of February 15, 1898, in the Harbor of Havana, Cuba. He Spoke of It to No Man. Erected by His Classmates.

Makes an Interesting Souvenir. The big punch bowl which forms a part of the silver service presented to the battleship Indiana by the people of the Hoosier state acquired added value in the eyes of the officers and crew during the battle of July 3. A piece of exploding shell from one of Cervera's ships penetrated the cabin and firmly imbedded itself in the bowl, thus making that vessel one of the most interesting mementoes of the war.

Windsor's Gold-Plated Pantries. The pantries at Windsor castle contain gold and silver plated value at $7,500,000.

MAKES PIES FOR JACKIES.

Jersey City Baker Sends Five Thousand to Men at Brooklyn and Tomkinville.

Having escaped without harm from the guns of the Spaniards, the climate of Cuba, and the hardtack of a paternal government, the navy of the United States has yet another risk to run - the peril of indigestion.

Stirred to the heart by the tales of the hardships endured by the men behind the guns, Charles Kling, a Jersey City baker, determined to give the Jackies a treat. Placing himself in communication with the admiral, Mr. Kling said that he would like to make the Jackies a present of English pies, to enable each man to have one for himself. Mr. Kling was referred to the commissary.

"All right," said the commissary, as he made swift computation. "It will take at least 5,000 pies."

There are to be seven varieties of pies - peach, apple, lemon, huckleberry, mince, pineapple and Washington. The latter acquires its name from the fact that its original ancestor utterly extinguished the first Englishman who tasted it.

WAR SOFTENS HIS HEART.

Millionaire Borden of New York City May be Reconciled to His Recruct Son.

Matthew Sterling Borden, soldier, may succeed where Matthew Sterling Borden, student, failed miserably. In times of peace nothing could soften the heart of the father, M. C. D. Borden, one of the richest men in America, but his friends say that now that his son has returned with the Eighth New York, having endured with fortitude the horrors of camp life at Chickamauga, and having used his medical knowledge to mitigate the sufferings of his comrades, Borden the elder is willing to forgive the young man for having married the girl he loved.

DESIGNED MAINE'S ENGINES.

Henry Mason, a Former Resident of the City of Chicago, Dies in Brooklyn.

Henry Mason, who designed and installed the engines of the battleship Maine, has just died in New York city. Mr. Mason was a resident of this city for 12 years. The widow of Mr. Mason resides in Chicago, as do also his son Thomas, who is in charge of the engineering department of the Field Columbian museum, and his daughter, who is the wife of Robert L. Chapin, No. 772 Warren avenue. It is thought by his friends that Mr. Mason's end was hastened by the disaster of the Maine, the first reports having intimated that the explosion was due to defective boilers. For days after the Maine went down in Havana bay, Mr. Mason, who was marine specialist for the Quintard iron works, of New York, was prostrated with apoplexy and paralysis, and raved constantly about "his ship" and her sad fate. It was thought he would recover, but during his convalescence heart trouble set in. Mr. Mason came to Chicago some years ago to install the engines of the West side water works on Ashland avenue, and was afterward retained by the city to superintend their operation. Later he returned to New York to reenter the service of the Quintard iron works.

SEARCHLIGHTS FOR USE IN HARBORS.

The searchlight has proved useful far beyond the expectations of its inventors. Locomotives are now equipped with it, besides ocean-going vessels, river steamboats and men-of-war. In a smaller way it is used by bicyclists and policemen hunting down burglars. And the searchlight is to be used in harbors. The Russian war department is conducting a series of experiments with searchlights mounted in captive balloons. The current is supplied through the cable holding the balloon to the ground. The largest searchlight used so far is of 5,000 candle power, which, it is stated, will thoroughly illuminate a circular area 500 yards in diameter when at an altitude of 600 yards.
