DEDICATION,

In recognition of his long and faithful services to the University and in deepest appreciation of his never-failing interest in and loyalty to all Spiders, this first volume of "The Web" is affectionately dedicated to Our President,

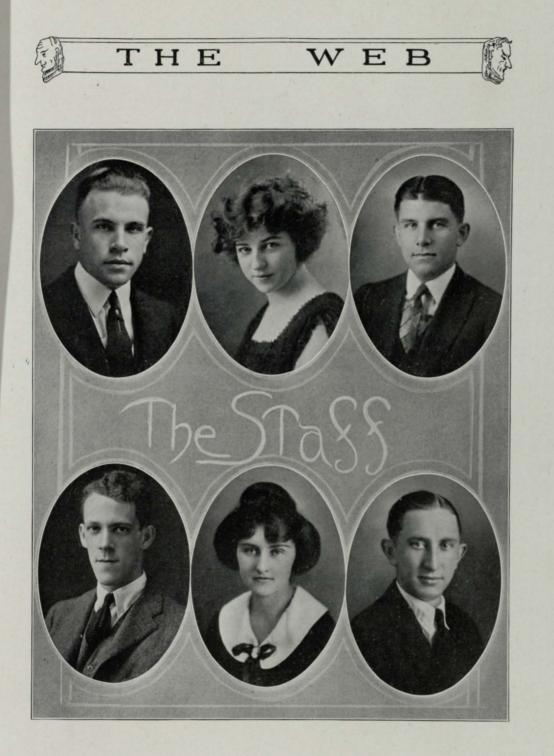

FREDERICK WILLIAM BOATWRIGHT

Foreword

Before the curtain goes up on this the last act in the drama of our life here within the shimmering gossamer meshes of the Web, we ask that you will pause one fleeting moment to remember that we are Pioneers. Ours has been the task of breaking down the barriers of doubt and misunderstanding, and erecting in their stead the signposts of amity, mutual confidence, and co-operation.

O ye, who are to follow after, heed the words we speak in parting. The trail is blazed a little way. Here at the first milestone we leave you. Have faith in the ultimate strength of unity. The torch is yours.

History of the Senior Class

Every momentous crisis has produced men of inherent greatness. Amid the lashing of mental and moral conflicts, and the howling of political storm, the class of '22 awoke from its lassitudes and soared to the lofty realms of genius. As we now look back through those deepening shadows of the World War, we behold the exploits of our noble class, whose deeds whether on the battlefields of Europe or in camp, will forever echo down the long lanes of time to the plaudits of nations. We may say, without fear of over-estimating or overstating, that throughout the World War, and in the four years that we have spent in this beloved institution, there has run in the character of every member of this class, a golden thread of infallible patriotism and heroic love of honor for country, liberty, and Alma Mater.

The class of '22 has contributed not only to the great principles of civilization by rushing to the defense of a bleeding humanity, but has equally contributed to every phase of collegiate activity, whether it be athletic, literary, or social life. The class has been loyal to this great institution from the beginning, and has devoted its energies and efforts to the acquisition of knowledge in the various branches of science and literature as a special preparation for life's work.

The past four years has been a period of transition, reorganization and adjustment, not only in national and international affairs, but also in the splendid progress of our institution. Thus, the class has had to experience many vicissitudes, and has been compelled to exert through these numerous difficulties its greatest efforts in the acquisition of knowledge and the maintenance of its equilibrium; yet, always achieving, pursuing and conquering those elements which constitute and enliven man's struggle for existence. During our four years this class has always manifested the highest of ideals in its labors; and, too, the integrity of its purposes has been exemplified in pursuits of philanthropic endeavors. The magnitude of its manhood has been developed in purity, truth and love, not only through the principles taught by our institution, but also by the associations of our friends with whom we regard united in a common cause, namely, the acquisition of knowledge that we may best assimilate our talents for the welfare of country and people.

Our civil and social conditions in everything belonging to the political state of this country, have undergone stupendous changes since the walls of our University were first erected, and we believe there must come changes not less important hereafter. Yet, as we are about to emerge from these sacred portals, with parchments as tokens of our labor, we feel ready to face the world, and join in the march of progress with honesty, judgment, and sensible reasoning.

We shall now leave without fear lest the time ever come that our beloved Alma Mater who has trained us under her venerable guidance will ever be less an institution of training for those who are to follow. HISTORIAN.

ROBERT STEPHENSON ATKINS "Bob" "At"

Windsor, Virginia

Applicant for B.A. Degree

Treasurer Student Government, '20; Collegian Staff, '19; Circulation Manager, '20-'21; Assistant Business Manager Spider, '21; Isle of Wight Club, Vice-President, '21, President, '22; Cotillion Club; Dramatic Club; Managers' Club; Class Basketball; Class Baseball; Business Manager 'Spider-Web,'' '22; Annual Representative Junior Class; Philologian Literary Society; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '19; Glee Club, '19-'20; Tidewater Club, President, '22.

'Tis a noble thing to live in the hearts of others, and nobler still to win that admiration by a spirit of loyalty and unselfishness. With Bob, Old Richmond comes first, and there is nothing that he would not do and has not done to foster the enviable spirit that pervades his Alma Mater. He is one of the class which began in what we now call 'the dark days' of 1918, and not one has come to his last year with colors flying higher, or with a better record of achievement than he has. It has been a long and hard pull, but Bob was early imbued with the do or die spirit of Red and Blue. There has been no forward movement or any plan to further the interests of the students and the school in which he has not given his best efforts. He is the kind of man that the school needs. Willing to do his part, steadfast and faithful to his duty, he has been a man to whom we gladly turned when something had to be done, and done right. And in cheerfully doing what was assigned to him he reached the point to which he was destined, that of a leader. He learned well how to be a follower, and in so doing fitted himself eminently to be a leader on the campus.

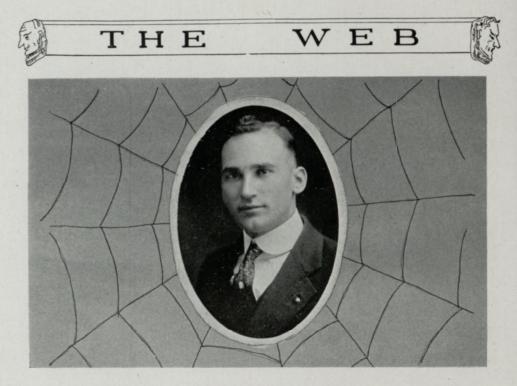

For the last, the best. As a friend, as a real honest-to-goodness pal, Bob is incomparable. We come and we go, and after all, the things we remember the longest are the friendships we have made. For those of us who have really been able to get below the quiet exterior, we have found in Bob that which makes college life the best life in the world, the all-satisfying, all-enveloping quality of making and keeping friends. A session would not be complete without Bob and his quiet wit and the breadth of his sane philosophy. If you had done nothing else, Bob—and you have, the friend you have been to many of this class of '22 will make the memory of you strong and true long after the others have faded away. We're only saying ''au revoir'', Bob, because we don't want to let you go entirely. And until we meet again—good luck and goodbye!

REUBEN EDWARD ALLEY Petersburg, Virginia Applicant for B.A. Degree

Ministerial Association; Y. M. C. A.; Philologian Literary Society; Inter-Society Debate, '21; Assistant to English Department, '20-'21; Physics Laboratory Instructor, '21-'22; Inter-Collegiate Debate, '22; Vice-President Philologian Literary Society.

This loyal Spider, a striking exemplification of that aphorism, "still water runs deep", united himself to the Red and Blue ranks in the fall of 1919, after having done his "ratting" at Randolph-Macon College. So complete was the zeal with which he attacked his work, and so complete was his aversion for talking about matters pertaining to himself, that several moons waned and passed before it became known, even to his best friends, that Reuben had proved his superiority to us ordinary mortals by winning a partner to help share his honors. During his three years' stay with us he has proved himself to be a loyal supporter of college activities, an exceptional student, and a sympathetic, generous-hearted friend. When occasion demanded he has demonstrated his ability to discard his usual taciturnity and defend his convictions with tremendous volubility. His unceasing energy and his indomitable will to conquer will admit of no defeat. His first repulse by a knotty problem is countered with a laconic, "Can you beat it?" and, "I will get you yet." Well, "Nature might stand up and say to all the world, 'This was a man!' " Reuben, as you go out from us our admiration and esteem follow you.

ROBERT SPURGEON BOOKER

"Bob"

Naruna, Virginia

Applicant for B.A. Degree

President Senior Class; Member of the Ministerial Union; Secretary Ministerial Union, '20, Vice-President, '21; Annual Representative C. T. S. Club, '20; Member Glee Club, '21; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '21-'22.

This is Robert Spurgeon Booker, a man whom we honor and love. It gives us much pleasure to introduce him, for we count him as one of our most esteemed Spiders. He hails from Chatham Training School, coming into the land of Spiders in the year 1917. For four long years he has helped to weave the web, and not one strand is lacking in the work of his hands. He is a real type of a true Spider, and Richmond College ever claims him for her son. If ever a student has won his way into the hearts of men—he is Bob. Someone has said, "Intimacy breeds contempt"—but not so with this Spider, for we love him most who know him best. He is very popular among his fellow-students, and his fame has gone out thru all Westhampton! As a Senior, he is honored as leader of the bunch. Even the Rats find joy in knowing a Spider like Bob. They say, "he is a real man—no small stuff about the Senior president."

We are proud to have a Spider like Bob, and wherever he goes and whatever he undertakes, there is one thing certain, that all of Spiderdom wish him the greatest success. Listen, you will hear of him in the days to come. "The bells are ringing for?"

OTWAY KYLE BURNETTE "O.K." "Brunie" Leesville, Virginia Applicant for B.A. Degree

Philologian Literary Society, Hall Manager, '20, Vice-President, '21; Sergeantat-Arms, '21; Chatham Training School Club, Press Representative, '19-'20, Vice-President, '21-'22; Y. M. C. A.; Piedmont Club, '18-'21, Annual Representative, '21; Class Basketball, '21; Manager Senior Basketball Team, '22; Treasurer Senior Class, '22.

Four years ago there stumbled into the arms of our fair College a long, lean mountaineer, from around Leesville, the leading metropolis of this state. No one today would suspect that he came from Leesville-that's what this College does for 'em. In all sincerity, four years has enabled our Burnette to live down Leesville all O.K.

His lankiness has been of service to him in class basketball. As proof of his transparent honesty, he holds the pursestrings for the Senior Class-and that hot gang would suspect their own godmother-if they had one. He has a tongue, and uses it in the Philologian.

O.K. has been a regular contributor to the Messenger. Once upon a time he came out with a withering poem on vampires. Too bad she jilted you, old man. Well, well, it's too deep for me. No one could describe O.K. within an essay this short. So I'll stop and join hands with the rest in wishing you, old man, a splendid future-may your cupboard be full and your arms be empty-then you'll be ever happy.

CECIL GENTRY CARTER "Cecil" Gate City, Virginia Applicant for B.A. Degree

Omicron Delta Kappa; Philologian Literary Society; Debating and Forensic Council; Football Squad, 19'-'20-'21; Class Baseball, '20-'21; Class Basketball, '21-'22; Associate Editor Messenger, '21-'22; Secretary Y. M. C. A., '21-'22, Cabinet, '20; Ministerial Association; Southwest Virginia Club, President, '21-'22; Annual Representative, '20; Annual Representative Senior Class.

Cecil hails from the glorious old "Southwest Virginia." Having completed his career at Salem in the spring of 1918, he came to the University of Richmond in the fall. Upon entering Richmond, Cecil was rather an insignificant Rat, but his willingness to do, and with the get-up and go he possesses, has steadily grown each year until this year he is recognized as a right-hand man in all phases of college life. Whether in the capacity of Y. M. C. A., Philologian Literary Society, Debating and Forensic activity, or on the editorial staff of the Messenger, Cecil's counsel is sought, and if there are any difficult jobs to be done that require diplomacy, Cecil is asked to do them, and they are always accomplished unassumingly, without anyone except the officials knowing of the feat. Cecil's grit was demonstrated by his having stuck to the scrub football team for four years, oftentimes walking on one foot, yet he was willing, and justly considers it an honor tor having done so. Cecil has always presented a serious front to us, but if one were to observe this young man closely, he would find in the inner recesses of his soul a spark hidden there which is termed in common language, "Westhampton." Congratulations, Cecil! You have entered upon the only road worth traveling, that of romance, love, and happiness. The foundation to the road of success has been begun; may nothing deter the completion of the structure.

BOSWELL UTZ DAVENPORT "Bus" Richmond, Virginia Applicant for B.A. Degree

Phi Delta Omega; Tau Kappa Alpha; Débating and Forensic Council, '20-'21-'22; Mu Sigma Rho Literary Society, Secretary, '20; Inter-Society Debate, '19; Intercollegiate Debate, '20; President Naturalists' Club, '20; Messenger Staff, '19, '20-'21; Collegian Staff, '19; Art Editor Annual, '22; Student Assistant in Biology, '21; John Marshall Club; Writers' Club; Dramatic Club; Cast of 'Private Secretary,'' '20; Property Man, '20, President, '21-'22; Student Senate, '22.

During the war days there descended on the old campus the annual herd of flamboyant fledglings from John Marshall. Our Boswell was one of that flock. Four years at our coolidge have done much to obliterate that former uncouthness. He now knows that he doesn't know as much as he thought he knew then—which is progress!

No one told him that classes were incidental. How could he know? So his first year was spent in studying.

Since then he has improved!

In his second year he heard the bleat of student activities and followed the call. Interested from the first in literary activities he joined the Mu Sigs and wound up on the Forensie Council, and wearing a T. K. A. pin, the highest honor in speaking. As first president of the Naturalists' Club he dipped into the great out-of-doors. In politics he gained the Student Senate as his part of the pie. On the Collegian and Messenger staffs, and finally elected to the Writer's Club—we were sure he was talented to write—then his free verse came out. It was in Dramatics though that our child scored his greatest success, rising from stage hand to president. His versatility as an actor is unquestioned. With equal ease he played first the part of a weak effeminate minister in ''The Private Secretary,'' then that of the crippled Chinese hunchback that laughed his cynical devil's smile in the Senior play. We could go on but what's the use. Horses!

Good luck, little Boswell. Take care of yourself in the cold, cold world that is to come like a December shower bath.

THOMAS SANDFORD DUNAWAY

"Tom"

Smithfield, Virginia

Applicant for B.A. Degree

Kappa Sigma; Mu Sigma Rho Literary Society; Tidewater Club; Glee Club; Globe Trotters' Club; Isle of Wight Club.

This loyal son hails from the well-known "hamlet" of Smithfield, and he has not done away with any of the piety or wit by which the edge of his early environment might have been dulled. Having been "roped" in by the wiles of a fair one early in his collegiate life, Tom has every reason to match his school days in excitement with those of Mark Twain's famous characters. Indeed, Tom's has been a checkered career and he is still jumping, but each time to a higher and surer plane. We listen to him for his superb wit; we follow him because of his able qualities of leadership; we love him because of his noble ideals of manhood.

ERNEST VERNON ELLETT "Puss" Pocahontas, Virginia Applicant for B.S. Degree

Pi Kappa Alpha; Philologian Literary Society, Treasurer, '18; Y. M. C. A.; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '18; Assistant Business Manager Collegian, '18; Vice-President Junior Class, '19; Inter-Fraternity Council, '22; Southwest Virginia Club; Inter-Collegiate Debate.

Mr. Ernest Vernon Ellett, known as "Puss Prime," hails from the glorious old Southwest Virginia. After graduating at Pocahontas High School in the spring of nineteen and sixteen, he came to us in the fall, but has not been with us each year since, his career having been interrupted in '19 and '20 for reasons not known. One surmises, however, after his return this year for his degree, the structure for his home having been completed, and his frequent calls at Westhampton having yielded fruit, his success in life is assured. He is a man who deals in confidential terms wat he has the requisites of a true sport.

been interrupted in '19 and '20 for reasons not known. One surmises, however, after his return this year for his degree, the structure for his home having been completed, and his frequent calls at Westhampton having yielded fruit, his success in life is assured. He is a man who deals in confidential terms, yet he has the requisites of a true sport. "'Puss Prime'' has always had the best interests of the college at heart, and this has been truly demonstrated by the honors that have been given him. Whether it be in the Philologian Literary Society Hall, on the cinder path, or on the Collegian staff, he has shown his ability, and has rung true to the motto, "Labor Omnia Vincit."

GEORGE DUNCAN EUBANK Richmond, Virginia Applicant for B.A. Degree

Ministerial Association; Overseas Club.

Eubank comes to us from Highland Park High School, Richmond, Virginia. He saw service on the Mexican border, and eleven months in France. He has proven himself not only a good soldier in military life, but also in his educational career. Eubank has done what few men do, taking his B.A. degree in three years. It can be said he was equally as successful in winning a mother-in-law. For he left us in his Junior year, a bachelor. But when he returned the next session, to the surprise of all he had taken unto himself "a better half." However, we know Eubank will make a good husband, so we extend to him our sincere wishes and congratulations for a long and happy life. All who have entered into his life recognize "that an ounce of sincerity is worth a ton of hypocrisy," for his stark individuality makes his friendship of an enduring nature. We bid him Godspeed, feeling that his stern character, determined will, and sincerity will win for him great success in life.

ROBERT EDWARD GARST ''Bob'' Richmond, Virginia Applicant for B.A. Degree

In their home towns, Plato and Caesar were considered rather prominent persons, but, if they had come from California to Virginia and attended College here, we doubt whether they would have been considered in a class with this versatile genius.

would have been considered in a class with this versatile genius. Four years ago, when he appeared in our midst as a red-headed lad—not to mention the freckles—he was as little known and incited as little interest as the conjugation of a Greek verb. Who would have thought then that in so short a time he would be gracefully presiding over the student body, and have achieved a fame second only to that of "The Sheik?"

Versatility is Bob's strong forte; and this combined with persistent effort has gained him a notable place as an athlete, poet, writer, and student, to say nothing of his prominent part in student affairs and social activities.

Nor is this all, for when that witching hour of night comes when books are discarded and the clans gather to review all the affairs of life through the wreathing smoke of their pipes, Bob, with his sparkling wit and deep reaches of philosophy, is ever noticeable. He is above all "a good fellow" and a true friend.

EMMETT CLIFFORD HARRISON

"Emmett" Farnham, Virginia

Applicant for B.A. Degree

Kappa Sigma; Omicron Delta Kappa; Mgr. Junior Class Basketball Team; Y. M.
C. A. Cabinet, '20-'21; Vice-President Y. M. C. A., '21-'22; Scrub Football;
Mu Sigma Rho Literary Society; Tidewater Club; Dramatic Club; Ministerial Association; Assistant Business Manager The Collegian, '20-'21; Business Mana-ager The Collegian, '21-'22.

The career of this eminent man of our campus has indeed been a varied one. Coming to us in 1914 from the wilds of Farnham, Virginia, his stay with us was not long, for the following year did not find him in our midst. But true to the expression, "You can't keep a good man down," Emmett was back with us in the fall of 1919, ready to take up where he left off in 1915.

Since that time he has been one of the outstanding characters of our College, and his sterling worth was not slow to be realized by the really worth-while men of our campus for some of the most important student offices have been entrusted to him, the most important and the one most worthy of trust and confidence being that of Business Manager of our weekly newspaper. In recognition of his strength of character, his manly qualities, and his all-round ability, Emmett has been elected to a well-won place in our coveted honorary fraternity, Omicron Delta Kappa.

In losing this man Alma Mater loses a man of which she is justly proud, but in giving him to the world she knows she gives "A MAN."

WILLIAM TYLER HAYNES

"Tyler"

Richmond, Virginia

Applicant for B.S. Degree

Phi Gamma Delta; Omicron Delta Kappa; Vice-President Student Government Association, '22; Business Manager Annual, '22; Annual Representative Sophomore Class; Annual Representative John Marshall Club, '20; Secretary Freshman Class; Vice-President John Marshall Club, '22; Treasurer Pre-Medical Club, '21; Cotillion Club, '19-'20-'21-'22; Piedmont Club, '21; Y. M. C. A.; Managers' Club; Inter-Fraternity Council, '21; Globe Trotter's Club.

If there is anyone who is going to be missed when the clan gathers on the old, hallowed campus in the years that are to come, it will be the familiar, friendly face of Tyler. In the four years that we have known him, in sunshine and shadow, in storm and stress, in good times and bad, there is not a time when we could not call on him and feel secure in the knowledge that if he could help he would. In loyalty to his College, his classmates, and above all, to his friends, he has been far more than faithful. And, that, by the way, is how we judge our College fellows—by the friends they have made. On the men who have known him, professors and students alike, he has made an impression and found a place in their memories, which will not soon be erased. Time will weave other webs over the one which he made while he has been here, but the remembrance of him will never be entirely obliterated. He is a four-square college man, and his efforts and achievements have been recognized and justly rewarded. In service to his Alma Mater he has been equalled by few and surpassed by none. That is the highest tribute we can give to any man, yet here we give it with the fullest measure of sincerity. We will say goodbye to you reluctantly, Tyler, and linger a little longer over your handshake than we may over others. And our voices will be just a little shaky when we wish you, as we will, good luck and Godspeed in the future.

WILLIAM CAREY HENDERSON

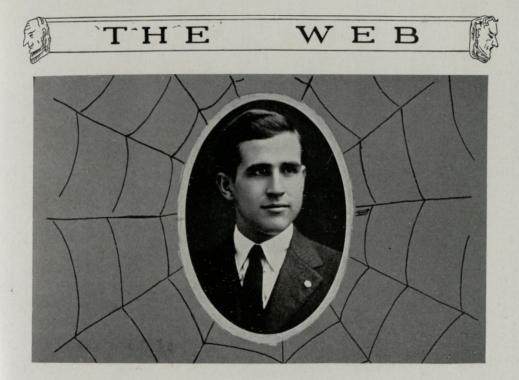

"Hendie"

New Canton, Virginia

Applicant for B.A. Degree

Philologian Literary Society, Censor, '20, Literary Critic, '22; C. T. S. Club, Secretary, '21; Treasurer, '22; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '19; Buckingham Club, Annual Representative, '21; Student Volunteer Band, Vice-President, '22; Ministerial Association; History Club, '21; Naturalists' Club, President, '22.

We find in this quiet, steady being all the traits of a true gentleman and a genuine "Spider." He came to us four years ago fresh from the intellectual atmosphere of Chatham Training School. Since being with us, he has proven in a striking manner that he was well prepared for his work here. He has established an excellent classroom record. Yet, that is by no menas all, for there are few men but who would be proud to own his position in other phases of college life. He is an active and loyal Philologian. A "Jasper?" Yes, one who brings dignity and honor to bear upon the organization of his fellow-workers. On the volley-ball court he reigns supreme, when it comes to serving the "old pill' across. Again we can say he stands head and shoulders above the average Senior in the scientific world. Carey is indeed a lover of science. As president of the Naturalists' Club he has rendered an invaluable service to the lovers of nature. He also belongs to that worthy organization whose aim is to uplift humanity abroad, namely, The Student Volunteers. May success crown his every effort is our wish as he launches forth out of school life into Life's school.

One could not stay on the campus very long without soon coming to know Oscar. We say this because we feel that he is a valuable asset to our campus, indeed, our verdict of him would be, an all-round campus man. He has led an active life on the campus, participating in many of the varied college activities. You seldom find him absent from the Y. M. C. A. meeting; his record, if carefully recorded in the annals of the Philologian Literary Society would serve as a standard for future Freshmen. The Debating and Forensic Council recognizes the services which he has rendered, and always welcomes his advice. Then too, we would not forget who is the Business Manager of the Messenger, and who also is interested in Track. Hite's college career was interrupted in the year 1918, at which time he forsook college life for his country's call to service. After several months in France, he entered college again in 1919. We congratulate you, Oscar, on the record of your achievements. Should we be permitted to judge the future according to the trend of his past, then we would go so far as to assert that the chances for success in the great game of life are in his favor, whether it be in love or matrimony—but here we won't commit ourselves further.

CHENG-YEUNG HUI

Canton, China

Applicant for B.A. Degree

Philologian Literary Society; Y. M. C. A.; Chinese Students' Club; Best Reader's Medal, '21; Honor Roll, '21.

This is Hui. It is with great pleasure the writer gives you this opportunity. He has traveled from a distant land—out from the land of the East. He comes to us from Canton, China—out from the Kwong-Tung province. Hui is a fine fellow—a real genteel little man. We all love him. He has made splendid success of all his work. It is he who has rendered great aid in building a closer friendship between Richmond College and Westhampton. Everybody knows Hui. He has carefully carried many a letter, yes—pro and con. The one great wish and desire of Mr. Hui is that the cases that he has aided may turn out ever to be true and lasting. Some of these have gone into the stage of happiness, while others are on the way. Mr. Hui carries with him as he leaves our College the best wishes of every student. We hope for him in the future a splendid success. We are proud to have had such a student, and we will gladly receive many more just like him. We send him away with this command—

> "Into life's broad field of service Go thou and be a friend."

CHARLES FRANKLIN LEEK, "Doe" Baltimore, Maryland Applicant for B.A. Degree

Omicron Delta Kappa; President Omicron Delta Kappa, '21-'22; Editor-in-Chief the Richmond Collegian, '20-'21, '21-'22; Assistant Editor, '20; President Southern Intercollegiate Newspaper Association, '21-'22; Athletie Editor Spider, '19-'20, '20-'21, '21-'22; Business Manager Messenger, '19-'20; Manager Football, '21; Assistant Manager Football, '20; Student Senate, '18-'19; Treasurer Y. M. C. A., '18-'19; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '19-'22; Ministerial Association; Philologian Literary Society, Chaplain, '19, Critie, '20, Hall Manager, '21; Class Baseball Team, '20; Captain Class Baseball, '21; Managers' Club, '20-'22; Varsity Club, '22.

Every year brings within the walls of this University a number of men, but as Goethe said, "There are many echoes, but few voices", so also there are few men who have done as much for "Old Red and Blue" as Charles Franklin Leek. It seems useless to discuss what he has done. The positions of trust, of responsibility and of honor above are sufficient to signify that "he is a man, take him for all and all."

Apparently he is a man, take him for an and an. Apparently he is a man who loves Tennyson. I judge this from the fact that he carries out in action what Tennyson put in words when he said, "How dull it is to pause, to hesitate, to rust unburnished, not to shine in use; as though to breathe were life." Yet not being satisfied with what he has accomplished agreeing, as it were, with H. G. Wells, when he said, "Whatever is, is, but the lure and symbol of what can be willed and done," he has been instrumental in fostering increased endeavor, on the part of High Schools and Prep Schools, in their literary work. Not only this, but he has preached twice each Sunday at Ridge Baptist Church since 1918.

Success is in his grasp. We send him forth with congratulations and Godspeed, wishing him a long life and many pleasant memories.

ROBERT THORNTON MARSH, Jr.

M. C. A.; Globe Trotters' Club.

> "One who never turned his back but marched breast forward."

In the fall of 1918, Richmond College admitted a Freshman who was to become one of the most representative men of the Spider campus. If there is an example of the college man of whom we should be proud, 'Bob' Marsh is that man. He has impressed everyone with the thoroughness of his executive and administrative ability; and if the adage that 'we work a willing horse to death' were true, Bob would have died of hard labor long before now. Bob is the type of man which the Freshmen make heroes of, and then learn to love with all the fervor accompanying the conviviality of college days. His affable, engaging personality, responsive nature, and courteous demeanor have not only won him many friends, but will leave in the minds of those who knew him not so well, a feeling of deepest respect and good-will.

Bob Marsh need only review his past to receive an assurance that the future—in the light of his sterling qualities, his wealth of personal charm, and attractiveness, and the ability which argues for great success—will be just as pleasant, just as profitable as his four years in college.

BRANSOM LEE MOZINGO

"Moses"

Korea, Virginia

Applicant for B.A. Degree

Ministerial Association; Y. M. C. A.; Piedmont Club; Philologian Literary Society.

The old aphorism, "still water runs deep", can be applied to Bransom Lee, otherwise "Moses" Mozingo. None of the College offices have been honored with his presence. It has not been because of his inability, however, but because he is so modest—with men. No other Spider has ever possessed more sterling qualities or a truer Spider heart. If any fault can be found with "Moses" it is because he has not let more persons know him. That may be due to the fact that he has studied English II, and remembers Polonius' advice to Laertes—

> "The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried, Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel; But do not dull thy palm with entertainment

Of each new hatch'd, unfledg'd comrade.''

However, this only applies to men, for "Moses" grapples to his soul both new and old acquaintances of the gentler sex—but not with hoops of steel. Those who know him best have learned to love him, and feel that in him they possess a friend worth having, and wish him the fullest measure of success in his future work.

CHAUNCEY WAYLAND NEWTON

" "Chancy"

Graham, Virginia

Applicant for B.A. Degree

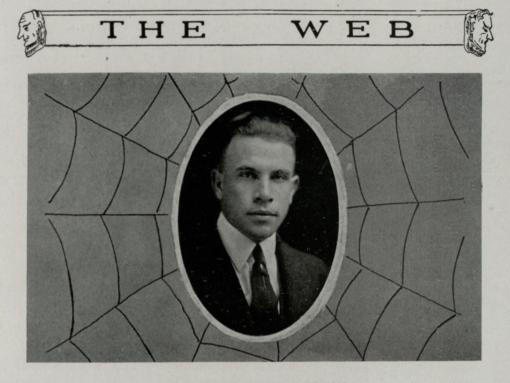

Pi Kappa Alpha; Philologian Literary Society, Hall Manager, '20, Associate Editor Messenger, '20, Secretary Philologian Literary Society, '21, Hall Debater, '21, President Winter Term, '22; Y. M. C. A.; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; Cross Country, '21; Class Track, '20; Exchange Editor Messenger, '21-'22; Southwest Virginia Club, Secretary, '21; Secretary Senior Class.

"Some preach their virtues, and a few Express their lives by what they do."

Aptly does this little quotation from Guest apply to our old friend and comrade "Chancy" Newton. The name Newton was not unfamiliar at Richmond College when Chancy came up from Southwest Virginia three years ago, and enrolled as a Sophomore. But Chancy was different from "Jimmie" and "John Bunny", and all the other Newtons who preceded him here. It has been none of their places, but his own that he has filled in the activities of his Alma Mater and in the affections of his fellow students. And, indeed, his place has been no small or insignificant one.

Chancy began his college career at the United States Military Academy. However, one year of soldiering, and the other experiences that are found on the schedule of a West Point Freshman, proved to be sufficient for him, and he selected old R. C. for his new Alma Mater. He came to us every inch a soldier, with a grim determination and a seriousness of purpose that have won for him success in many lines of endeavor, and friendships that will last through life.

I might go on and picture our old friend in the many conditions that I have observed him, but enough! His impression is in our hearts already, and there, indeed, is where it well belongs.

GEORGE CLIFTON PATTERSON

"Pat"

Richmond, Virginia

Applicant for B.A. Degree

Tri Phi; Tau Kappa Alpha; Editor-in-Chief Spider; Varsity Club; John Marshall Club; Dramatic Club; Varsity Baseball, '19; Intercollegiate Debate, '21; Philologian Literary Society; Y. M. C. A.

To try to describe Pat to any present day Spider would be redundant, superfluous, and wholly unnecessary, for he has made himself known to all who have been within the College walls during the past four years. In order, however, that coming generations may have a permanent record of his achievements it might be well to state here that from his entrance into Spider life he has been busy, even to this present day. He has been one of the workers who, like those in every group, have to bear their own responsibility and also that of the drones and idlers. He is one among the faithful few who furnish the fuel and motive power for the great undergraduate machine.

Pat's college career has been a varied one. Coming to us from John Marshall High School, and hence splendidly prepared, he immediately proceeded to take the lead in his classes, and has kept up to this high standard throughout the subsequent years. In athleties he has done well, having won his letter in baseball in his Freshman year. He is a good speaker and debater, taking active part in literary society work, and having represented the U. of R. in intercollegiate debate. As editor-in-chief of our annual this year he has ably demonstrated his editorial and managerial ability. He is a bear with the ladies, winning them with his cave-arm tactics, but it is said that there is one little mountain fairy before whom he is as gentle as a lamb.

Pat stands high in scholastic, athletic, forensic, and social attainment. He is a good example of the typical, all-round college man, and success will surely be his when he tackles the problems of the world.

BEVERAGE TATE QUILLEN

"B. T."

Gate City, Virginia

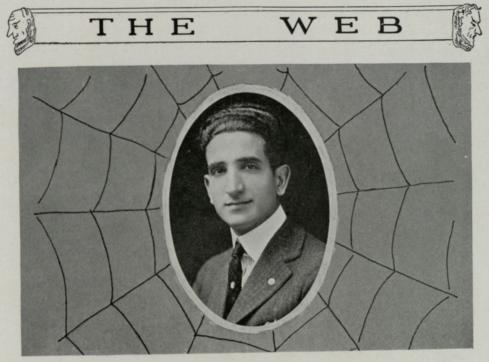

Applicant for B.A. Degree

Mu Sigma Rho Literary Society; Southwest Virginia Club; Y. M. C. A.; Vice-President Southwest Virginia Club, '23.

How well we remember when "Quillen" first entered his college career. He arrived with others, when the S. A. T. C. was inaugurated on the old campus, a mere lad in short pants. Even though we are all aware that he now wears long pants, yet we would not forget that he is the youngest member of our class, and will graduate in his teens. B. T. comes from Southwest Virginia, that well-known mountainous section of the State, and oftentimes his quiet, unassuming way makes us think of him as one who possesseth something of the spirit of the hills. As to his capabilities, we prefer to keep mum, because we wonder whether this youth has fully decided how he shall embark upon life's enterprise. Possibly he has yet to discover his true self in this respect, and should he find his life work like he has found Math. III, then we predict for him success. To you we feel as though

> "The best is yet to be, The Last of life, for which the first was made, Our times are in His hand Who saith a whole I planned, Youth shows but half: trust God; see all, nor be afraid!"

Norton, Virginia

Applicant for B.A. Degree

Tau Kappa Alpha; Philologian Literary Society; Southwest Virginia Club; American Legion; Ministerial Association; Glee Club; College Orchestra; Y. M. C. A. Class Baseball Champion Team, '20; Inter-Society Debater; Inter-Society Oratorical Contest; Best Declaimer, '21; Society Chaplain; Intercollegiate Debater, '21-'22; State Oratorical Contest, '21; Senior Class Historian.

Born in an atmosphere that was at one time the glory of Rome; reared in an environment that is the pride of Virginia, and tutored in an institution that is becoming the "best bit" of the South, "Joe" is a man in whom the virtues of the Orient are combined with the highest principles of Americanism.

During the four years we have known him, he has participated in many collegiate activities, winning distinction as an orator, debater, declaimer, scholar and a loyal Spider. A man who has won the respect and friendship of all who have come in contact with his unexcelled personality. The girls are the best to judge—ask them. His spirit scales the shining peaks of the ideal, whence his searching vision penetrates beyond the fog-wrapped vales below. In his soul we find wrapped the noblest conception of fraternal relationship.

Fearless, courageous, industrious, energetic, and highly gifted, we send him away feeling sure that he will attain a prominence worthy of his ambition, and because of which Alma Mater will be greatly proud.

"A. B."

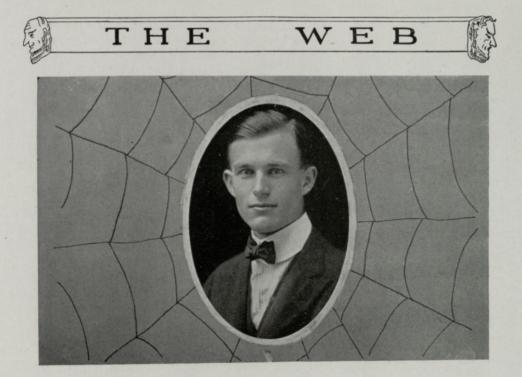

Richmond, Virginia

Applicant for B.S. Degree

Mu Sigma Rho Literary Society; Secretary Debating and Forensic Council, '22; Laboratory Assistant in Physics, '20-'21; Football Squad, '21.

Who has not, while watching the Spider elevens practice, been thrilled by the scintillating exhibitions of the most diminutive member of the squad? Yet it is only incidentally that "A. B." is an athlete. We all know him as a successful student, as a learned instructor in the mysteries of laboratory science, and as a genial comrade. In the dramatic field also he has excelled, his part in the "Yellow Jacket" being an illustration of his achievement. His most enviable attainment, however, has been his position on the faculty of the nearby school for girls, which affords many opportunities for winning popularity among the fair sex. "A. B" has been successful in his conduct of the debating activities of the college, as secretary of the Debating and Forensic Council, and much credit is due him for his service to us. In the four years we have known him, we have found him an agreeable companion and industrious colleague, and his influence has stimulated all the activities he has entered. Best wishes for the future, "A. B."

Mu Sigma Rho Literary Society; Ministerial Association; Y. M. C. A.; Inter-Society Debate.

This gentleman enjoys a breadth and wealth of education that few Seniors can boast of, for he has already attended Wake Forest College and the University of North Carolina, and comes into our midst only for the finishing touches. We are all glad that he has cast his lot with us, because his noble personality wins the respect and admiration of all with whom he comes in contact. He is an excellent student, a true friend, and a good sport. We believe that he will be a great power in his chosen field, the ministry. "Spiderdom" wishes him success in all his undertakings.

ALBERT GORDON SMITH ''Smittie'' Altavista, Virginia Applicant for B.A. Degree

Phi Gamma Delta; Omicron Delta Kappa; Manager Tennis, '19-'20; Vice-President Junior Class; Treasurer C. T. S. Club, '19-'20, Press Representative, '19-'20, President, '22; Mu Sigma Rho Literary Society, Readers' Medal, '20; Sports Editor Collegian, '20-'21, '21-'22; Managers' Club; Globe Trotters' Club.

Quality not quantity must have been the motto of the gods when they fashioned "Smithy." Among the numerous gifts of the deities on this glorious occasion were a shock of "Irish" red hair and a muchly-freekled countenance; however, to balance the "Scales of Justice", they contributed the off-setting blessing of the "gift of gab", or was it the college professors who made this contribution? At any rate, whenever on the crowded marts of our campus a crowd of rabid orators is seen assembled, with words of oracular wisdom, slang gleaned from the classics, and metaphors and similes derived from realms unknown to man, flowing forth in unending streams, the curious will, if he searches long enough, find in the precise center of the mob, about the level of the ordinary waist, none other than "Smithy". As Sports Editor of The Richmond Collegian, this youngster also proved that he was as adept in the manipulation of the typewriter as he was in the other field. Not content with writing sports, "Smithy" proved himself an athlete as well. Two years on tennis teams of the University, one as manager also, and service on class basketball and baseball teams, is evidence of this. "Smithy", they say, plays other games, but we have no records. As for the game of hearts, suffice it to say that there are some things that "Smithy" doesn't talk about. But if you really want to get a rise out of him mention "Merrie" England, or life on the high seas. In summing up this Spider, one can truthfully say—he is a part of all that he has met, and we Spiders are more than glad to have met him.

GEORGE DEWEY STEVENS

"Steve"

Nace, Virginia

Tau Kappa Alpha; Philologian Literary Society, Literary Critic, '21; Inter-Society Debate, '21; Intercollegiate Debate, '21-'22; Ministerial Association, President, '22; Y. M. C. A., '20-'22; Honor Roll, '21; Southwest Virginia Club, Treasurer, '21.

Here, gentlemen, is an all-round college man. For true worth of character you need look no further, for it is well exemplified in this Southwest Virginian. In the classroom his work is of the highest calibre. As president of the Ministerial Association, to which office he was elected unanimously, he has set a good, clean example to his fellow-Jaspers. His deacons express all the above in "A man, Brother Stevens." From Richmond he will go to Louisville to continue his preparation for his calling. On the volley-ball court one can count on Steve to "make a good return." In Literary Society it is sufficient to say that he wears a T. K. A. key—well-earned and most eminently deserved. When among the fair sex he is always the center of attraction, as has been exemplified at social functions.

Stevens is a man's man in every sense of the word and an excellent model for the University student.

RICHARD CHANNING WALDEN "Dick" Richmond, Virginia Applicant for B.A. Degree

Phi Kappa Sigma; Omicron Delta Kappa; President Varsity Club; Senior Representative Student Senate; President Junior Class, '21; Historian Sophomore Class, '20; Class Basketball Team, '20-'21 -'22; Glee Club, '20 '21 '22; Cotillion Club, '19-'22; John Marshall Club, '19-'22; Varsity Baseball. '20-'21; Track Squad, '20-'21; College Quartet, '20-'21-'22; Delegate Omicron Delta Kappa Convention, Pittsburgh, February, '22.

To the reader of this page we introduce one of our most esteemed Spiders—Richard Channing Walden. He hails from the grand old school, John Marshall, and his career has honored all Marshalldom. He came to this land, where the Spiders weave, four years ago, and once having undergone the dire initiation of a Rat, he became a real Spider, ever working upon his web. Because of his sound judgment he has spent several years as senator for the student body. As time has robbed Richmond of old of his title, so has it done for Walden. As he made closer friends in the land of the Spiders, they call him "Dick", a common name, but no common boy—so the girls say. They look upon him and say, "how noble looking", and "oh, yes, he's a wonder." Well, you need not think that he is easily trapped, for he is an individualist, but some day we expect him to fall, and we hope that she may be a Westhamptonite.

Dick has many friends, both at Richmond and Westhampton, for he has carefully woven his web. He is at home everywhere in the Webb—on the diamond, in the line, on the stage, and even in the classroom—it is all like the land from whence he came. His honors, as above, will show how he stands on the ladder of fame, for he is an all-round college man—''O. D. K.'' It is with much regret that we send Dick from our walls of Spiderdom for we have learned to love him, but we are proud to have had such a Spider as Dick, and wherever he goes and whatever he undertakes to do, all of Spiderdom stands behind him ready to give aid. His future is bright and we await with pleasure to hear of his coming success. We send him from us with this command—''Go thou and be a man.''

JOHN HARRISON WILLIS, Jr. "Harry" Lignum, Virginia Applicant for B.S. Degree

Phi Gamma Delta; Piedmont Club; Y. M. C. A.

Harrison, we introduce you as our old friend, "Harry." As now the fact is told, we can affirm your ability to keep a secret, even though it be your name. "Harry" has been trying to return the smile that our Hospital Campus of 1918 first presented him. When with serious eyes he is solving some problem, even though it be Physics, they being brown cannot allow him to be blue. Despite the toil of conflict, his perseverance holds him true to his Spartan ideal of never being a "quitter." When some favor we have to ask Will-is our man, who is always glad to render the request. He moves about the campus with a rapid gait, his vivacious speed sends him afore. This speed is due to, and exonerated by his heart beating fast and true to his love for U. of R. If hard work, common sense, seriousness and steadiness of purpose, patience and perseverance count for anything in this world, we predict that "Harry" will carve a niche in the hall of fame which even time will not be able to smooth over.

DAVID EDGAR WOOD, Jr. "Woody" Charlottesville, Virginia Applicant for B.A. Degree

Three years ago there was ushered into our midst a man who was destined to become one of Spiderdom's most valuable men. Who would have thought that he would reach the heights that he occupies today? Coming to us fresh from Flanders fields, where he had spent several months, Wood entered into his work with all his might, and he soon proved to his fellows that he did all of his work in this manner. His initiativeness, personal magnetism, and ever upholding the right soon gained him a host of friends, and he has been a true leader to the end.

It is useless to say more. Success is assured him, whatever it may be or wherever he may go. We send him forth with best wishes, wishing him many pleasant memories of his College days. His influence will ever be felt, and he ever brings to our minds the fact that

"We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths;

In feelings, not in figures on a dial;

We should count time by heart-throbs. He most lives Who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best."

WILLIAM CLARENCE WOODFIN

"Monk"

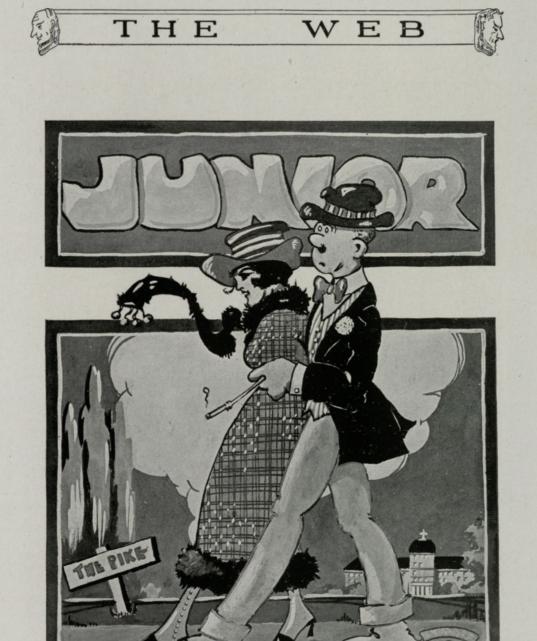

Ashland, Virginia

Applicant for B.S. Degree

Pre-Med. Club; Naturalists' Club.

"Monk" is indeed a rare specie of the Spider family. In the first place he arises at 5 A. M. He milks a dozen or more cows, and performs other duties around the farm, and then comes from Ashland on the train every school day of the year. In other words he has done three hours work when his brother Spiders are just arousing from their morning slumber. He has not missed a single class, except for illness in two cases, during his entire four years. Some record, eh! It puts most of us to shame. He is a mathematician, historian, and a renowned chemist. Hence he is known by some as "Ethel". His most characterizing possession is a small satchel, which he treasures highly because of its valuable service all these years. We are sure that his Alma Mater will have cause to be proud of him in years to come. Success awaits anyone who is as conscientious and who works as hard as "Monk."

THE

For three long years we have watched the slow but surely moving procession of Spiders pass up and up the ladder of learning, gaining each new rung by courage and undaunted spirit, and dropping, continually dropping, the burnt out wicks from the lamp of the midnight oil as they go. It was with trembling, uncertain step that we placed our Freshmen feet on this learned ladder, and gripped its sides with unknowing hands. But they above taught us how to climb, and putting forth the strength which had laid dormant in our ignorant bodies, we too, joined the procession.

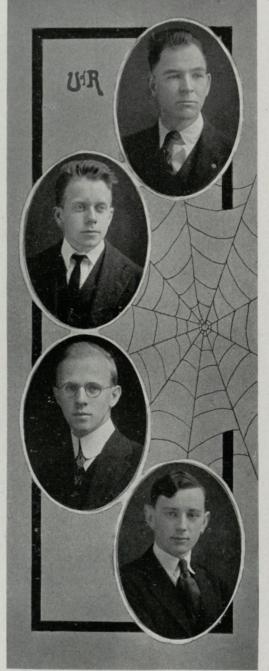

They above taught us ever to look up, especially the all-wise Sophomore, and to keep our eyes glued on the top of the ladder, where each should take his sheepskin and vanish into the world.

In the climbing we have learned many things. The goal is not truly a goal if it is obtained by books alone, and armed only with a sheepskin one is not fit to step out into the world. So we paused in our climbing to study life, to know man. and to help one another on the glorious journey. We debated with each other to sharpen our wits, we fought in friendly combat with other processions and among oureslves that we might have able bodies and brave spirits to climb other ladders, and we prepared for leadership in the various activities among ourselves, which broadened our knowledge and made our ladder easier to climb.

Now we are approaching the top. We have seen our comrades above us gain the goal. It is with a hand of congratulation that we bid them good-by; and yet there is a tear of sorrow for companionship to be lost in our smiling eye.

We bid the last body farewell, and—behold! we ourselves are at the head of the procession, the shining diploma and the hurly-burly of life behind it, directly above us. We must gird our loins to gain the final rung—for we are SENIORS.

"Rat" History

The Freshman Class learned more during the year than all of the other three classes put together. They even admit it. Members of the First Year Class now admit they had more to learn than the upper-classmen.

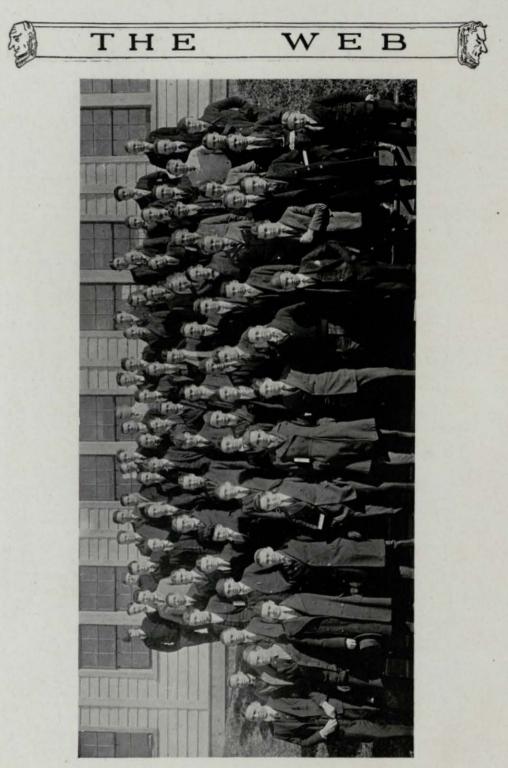

Upon entering the University each "Rat" had a certain feeling that every student should respect him, and even congratulate the school for its success in securing such prominent people. A few days later the Student Government Association held a meeting, and incidentally gave the Freshmen some advice regarding the duties and responsibilities of the new men. It was at this meeting that mention was made of the horrible "Rat Caps." To a Freshman nothing more terrible could occur than to be compelled to wear a little red and blue skull cap with the front of the cap covered with three big letters—"R-A-T". It meant the same as a large shipping tag on an express package.

A reception was given the new students by the upper-classmen the following Friday night in the court of the Westhampton College. The Freshmen really enjoyed the evening, but even more pleasure could have resulted if some kind person had announced that "Rats" would not be required to swim the lake or stand on their heads before retiring that evening. Oh no, the upperclassmen were not asleep. It was only a day or so later that an Athletic Rally was held and then the Freshmen were formally introduced to the strange but effective objects called paddles. Yes, and the "Rats" learned how tiring it was to run from one end of the campus to the other.

One of the most enjoyable social features of the year was the reception given by Dr. Boatwright at his home for all Freshmen of the University. This was one occasion when the word "Rat" had lost its significance. Music and refreshments also featured in the program for the evening.

The election of officers could be considered nothing short of a big event in the history of the Freshman Class. Mr. Garst, president of the Student Government Association, called a meeting of the members of the First-Year Class at the close of chapel exercises one morning and announced that the president of the class was to be elected. The election was very orderly except the outbreak of an occasional expression such as, "I nominate Mr. Chesley;" "Aw, sit down;" "He's no good;" "Shut up;" I nominate Snead;" "You're crazy;" "What's the matter with him?" Finally John Crowder was chosen by a unanimous vote, and the meeting came to a close. Mr. Garst left the scene with a disgusted look on his face, and declared that the class had more life than he had previously imagined. Other officers of the class were elected at the next meeting, which was called by Crowder.

The "Rat Banquet" was held at the Richmond Hotel, February 23, and proved a success in every detail. Miss Evelyn Boatwright was toastmistress, and several short talks were made. Perfect order was observed during the entire evening until the boys attempted to cross the lake in returning from the girl's college. Apparently several thousand upper-classmen greeted the "Rats" on the bridge with searchlights and tomahawks. The Freshmen had no more trouble after they walked around the lake and through a mile of mud—but that's all right, we will be the "Sophs" of next year.

Virginia-North Carolina Intercollegiate Athletic Conference

Athletic Director Frank M. Dobson, of the University of Richmond, was the father of the idea that brought into existence on January 10, 1922, at the Richmond Hotel, the Virginia-North Carolina Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, the purpose of which is to "foster and direct the athletic interests of its members and to develop and strengthen the bonds of union between the institutions comprising it." Twelve colleges are included in its membership. At the conference that formed the association there were five college presidents, and President F. W. Boatwright, of the University of Richmond, was selected to head the organization.

THE

T IS doubtful if any previous football season in Spiderdom's long and varied history has so completely gone the limit in playing upon the emotions of her sons and daughters, as the season of 1921.

After the two initial contests of the season had been passed to the rear, the University was prone to feel that the 14 to 0 victory over Catholic University and the stand against University of Virginia, in which Virginia had to exert herself to score two touchdowns, were forebodings of greater things. And here Spiderdom's emotions pursued the even tenor of their way.

But the next pair of battles were like pulling the very foundation from under the feet of her steady advance, not that the Red and Blue anticipated a victory over Virginia Polytechnic Institute in the third contest, but because her hopes to make a creditable stand against the Blacksburgers were dashed to pieces in the worst defeat a Dobson team has suffered in the eight years the Princetonian has led the University of Richmond athletically. And it was adding "insult to injury" when one week later Hampden-Sidney walked off of Stadium Field with a 7 to 5 victory.

Superior Teams

In Catholic "U" and University of Virginia the Red and Blue indeed met superior forces, but in Virginia Tech, Spiderdom's eleven battled possibly the strongest football combination they ever faced. The Techmen were fresh from their game with the Centre College eleven, that beat Harvard, in which they held Centre to 14 to 0 score. They were, therefore, at their best, and this was augmented by apparent lack of morale on the part of the Spiders.

Thereafter Richmond met opponents on a par or lacking the calibre and training they had attained. Davidson would be classed with the former while Hampden-Sidney, Wake Forest, Randolph-Macon, and William and Mary take the second rating, with Hampden-Sidney apparently strongest of the four.

Against Hampden-Sidney Dobson's men registered 209 yards to 102, yet Smith made a break, a peculiar element in football, count for a touchdown after he had been apparently stopped on a spectacular return of a punt. The Spiders scored on a safety and Towill's beautiful 30 yard drop kick. Wake Forest was completely annihilated, as was Randolph-Macon, although putting up a clean, scrappy game. Richmond's total of 41 points against Wake Forest was one short of Georgia Tech's, a remarkable feat for a much weaker eleven.

Won and Lost

The Davidson game was won and lost twice thru the Tarheels' ability to come from behind and register touchdowns, the last one tying the score the second time in the last minute of play, when they uncorked a flashing and successful aerial attack.

Spiderdom's hosts threw away the "sack cloth" and left the "ashes" with these triumphs and reached the climax on Thanksgiving Day with a decisive victory over William and Mary, 17 to 7, in the football classic of Eastern Virginia. Once more the Indians bobbed their heads up in comparative football prominence and again were compelled to duck to the superior forces of Spiderdom.

University of Richmond's team worked as a man and it was impelled by a spirit that William and Mary was helpless against, altho they were coached by "Bill'' Fincher, Georgia Tech star, and had on their roster a fine array of experienced men. The Spiders advanced from scrimmage formation a total of 269 yards to the Indians' 141 yards, and only once did the Indians get beyond Richmond's 35 yard line, this when a long Indian pass was fumbled by two waiting Spiders, the same being recovered by an opponent and later turned into a touchdown. Richmond also scored fifteen first downs to the Williamsburgers' five.

An exceptionally large crowd, in which was Governor Westmoreland Davis and party, saw the Red and Blue rip the William and Mary line apart repeatedly, while on the other hand they witnessed the Indians' frantic and unavailing efforts to go thru the Spider line or around end.

Past Hard; Future More So

Thus came to a climax the University of Richmond's stiffest grid season and its most successful football accomplishments. And all this was brought about by a squad largely made up of inexperienced men, but men who were "blood kin", being "born and bred" Spiders.

While the past schedule was the stiffest experienced by the Spider eleven, the 1922 card is far superior. This program includes contests with the University of Virginia, one of the Old Dominion's best; Lafayette College, champions of the East last season and one of the very few unbeaten big elevens; University of Maryland; and Furman University, the undisputed champions of South Carolina for the past two seasons. In addition to this heavy order Coach Dobson's men face Roanoke, Lynchburg, Randolph-Macon, Hampden-Sidney and William and Mary.

High Type of Men Needed

And to carry such a card will demand the presence in Spiderdom next fall, in addition to the every one of the seventeen letter men, as many more first-class prep and high school players. The record for letters given last season of sixteen, due to the use of more men than before, is apparently slated to be smashed in 1922 if the proper men are added to the squad.

Several men of last season's team are due to be at the zenith of their power next fall. Captain-Elect Jones, whose playing last fall gained for him the honor of being the best quarterback in Virginia, is expected to show additional ability. It will be his final season, and to his feat of scoring a touchdown from kickoff, and others, he is counted on to add other glories.

A personal contact with the records of last season's players shows that the rest of the backfield is a versatile lot. Compared with the feat by Jones is Ziegler's 42 yard drop kick in the William and Mary game, and Snead's heady punting all season. Towill and Fray were erratic, but good when good, the former also being a drop kicker, while the latter showed flashes of ability to advance the ball. Mahaney's playing was much marred by an injured knee. In Jones, Towill and Ziegler, Dobson also had a trio of forward passers.

The Personal Touch

At center Bethel was strong defensively, and but for one or two bad passes was equally good offensively. Captain Price got in but one game due to an infected finger, but that was enough to prove his worth. Booker, former Varsity guard, also proved a fighter, while the inexperienced Hodges and Johnson, forced to like football, were more than once shining as guards.

Klevesahl, at tackle, had won his letter in previous campaigns and had the ability to win recognition again; Carlton was on the Varsity for the first time, having stepped into the hole left by Carter, where he upheld the standard of that left tackle position.

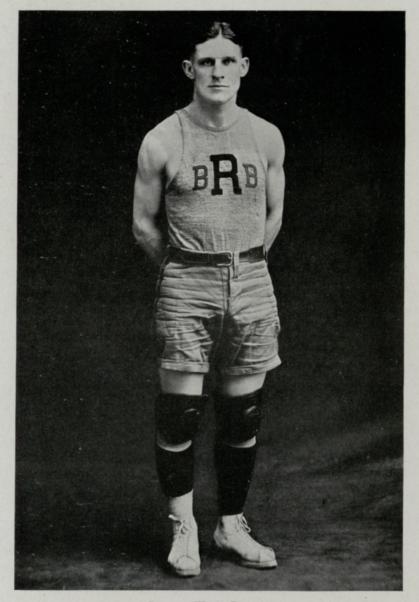

Rucker, Robins, Ratcliffe, and Reams guarded the flanks as endmen, with Rucker dropping out of mid-season from an injury.

Innovations Made

For the first time in Spiderdom's history all home Varsity games were played at Stadium Field. The innovation aroused much comment from Richmonders, nevertheless, the season was a success in every way.

Another innovation in Spiderdom was the running of athletics for the first time with a graduate manager in charge. J. Vaughn Gary, former track captain, was the man selected to handle this phase of the athletic activities, and his efforts and accomplishments were an essential contribution to the handling of the football program at Stadium Field.

THE 1922 Basketball season gave a vivid demonstration of the value of experience and of real sportsmanlike college spirit. Returning in the fall of 1921 four of last season's first line Varsity cagers, Ziegler, Fray, Carlton and Bethel, the University added to this quartet one "Red" Allen, and then proceeded to tackle the cosmopolitan schedule that they had contracted to undertake.

It was undenied, by those familiar with the situation, that the Spiders were to depend on a team that could not at that time give very much promise of producing the remarkable, as no accepted skillful basket shooters were in the group, and the new material did not present anything to overcome this 1921 weakness.

The players themselves, possibly chafing under this opinion, therefore set out on January 13th, regardless of universal supers'itions, to disprove the accepted facts and while they did not finish the season with any basket shooters that would set the world afire, they packed their togs February 25th, after having established a record of nine victories and no defeats on the home court, after having won ten of fourteen games, and after having kept all teams but one from registering as many as thirty points in any one game. They, thereby, made the best record of any quint since 1917, and placed themselves among the topnotchers among Spiderdom's athletic actors.

Undoubtedly, this team also, along with the student body, acquitted itself in a memorable way so far as spirit was concerned. This characteristic of the 1922 team apparently aided it in turning in more than one victory, and demonstrated a spirit of clean sportsmanship that is hoped will become a tradition in The Web.

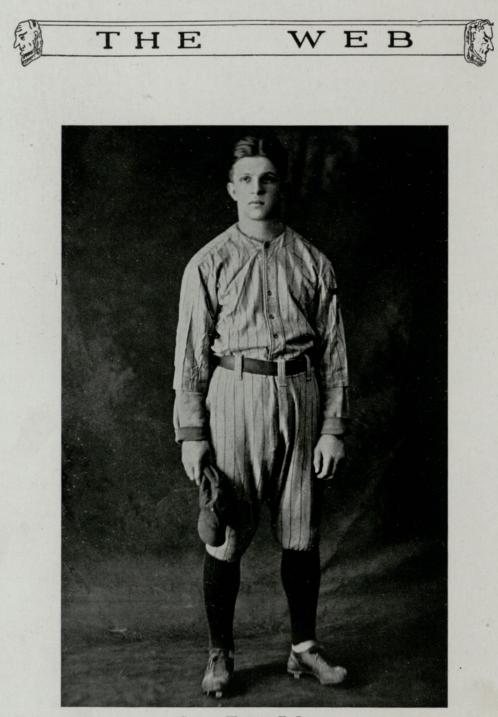

Able guarding was the Red and Blue's strong point with five-man team play a parallel. Bethel, as a running guard, and Allen, playing stationary guard, were almost impassable, and more than one opponent learned before the game was far advanced that their chief hopes lay in rimming the baskets from a distance. There were five men in the play all the time with few opponents' scores being made without difficulty.

The first four contests of the season were victories with University of Virginia and Lynchburg Elks giving the Spider advance its first checks. Both of these contests, however, were of the nip and tuck variety, the Charlottesville score being 28 to 21 and the Lynchburg tussle resulting in a 25 to 19 count.

William and Mary gave the Dobsonites their third setback and also held the Spiders to their lowest score when they registered a 26 to 13 win over the Richmonders at Williamsburg. And the final game of the season accounted for the fourth loss.

While all contests except two were finished with neither team in the respective games having large scores, four of these games stand out due to their exceptionally close scores games with University of South Carolina, Richmond Blues, Lynchburg College, and the second encounter with William and Mary being cited. In the first three mentioned the Spiders held the advantage throughout, but in the second William and Mary game, which was played in Spiderdom, the Indians maintained a lead and at one time were nine points ahead of the winners.

So swiftly did the opponents sweep the floor that several spills were taken by players. It was, however, a case of the lighter Indians being no match for the heavier Spiders in the collisions. From both angles the game was a bit rough, but this made it fast and speed delighted the galleries.

S PIDERDOM'S baseball team was mediocre in 1921, a status forced on the nine by its inability to hit, and because of an outfield that was below par. Both deficiencies were due to no willful lacking on the part of any player, for no group of men labored more faithfully than did the ball-tossers.

The disqualification of Harry Carter, for professionalism, at the opening of the training season, was a decided blow which deprived Coach Dobson of hitting strength and the only experienced outfielder in the University.

So when preparations began for molding the 1921 outfit together the Spider mentor had to use three men in the outer garden who were infielders. Northern was formerly second and first-baseman, and played rightfield; Walden had served as second-baseman, and played centerfield; while Turlington's experience before coming to Richmond was behind the bat and on the infield, played leftfield. Hugo Blankingship, undoubtedly one of the best catchers in college baseball, was on hand; Jones at second, and Towill at the hot corner, with Snead and Skaggs, pitchers, made up a group of dependable infielders, added to which Berger, at first; Fray, at short; and Johnson, pitching, all new men, composed the Spider inner works.

A glance at the teams played will give an idea of the calibre of nines to oppose the Red and Blue, and comparing the team with this, the fact that only five games were won out of fifteen, can be in a measure understood. The Spiders had played seven contests before they rung up a victory, and it was Roanoke College who, on April 21, fell victim to the Westhamptonites in a no-hit contest pitched by Snead.

Thereafter a creditable record was made, Dobson's men winning five out of the eight remaining contests, including the Roanoke game, some of which were against strong outfits, and with but one exception, that the second Virginia Tech game, did the Red and Blue team crack. However, the day before this the Richmonders won handily over the Tech team. In this two-day series the Spiders did their heaviest hitting, getting ten bingles the first day and twelve in the second encounter, which was a wierd exhibition for both teams.

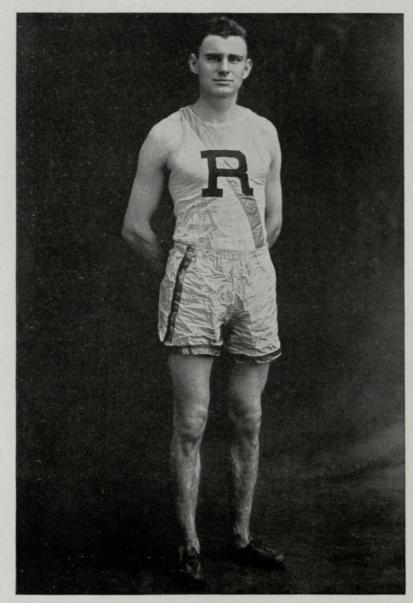

Hitting, as it were, the high spots of the season, the game with Virginia, in which the Spiders out-hit Virginia two to one and lost on a fluke home-run (report from Charlottesville); the Richmond (Virginia League) game which the Spiders lost only after eleven innings; the no-hit victory over Roanoke; the victory over Virginia Tech; a triumph over Lynchburg College in which "Lefty" Thomas was the opposing twirler; and finally a fourteen inning game against William and Mary, with the much-heralded Marshall on the mound, may all be cited. The final contest proved a fitting conclusion to the season. It was chocked full of thrills, the first inning being filled with as many as a whole contest usually contains.

William and Mary led off by scoring three runs on clean hitting by Hicks, Cooke, Lowe, and Chandler, but the Spiders surpassed this slugfest in the following manner when they came to bat: Fray poled a double down the leftfield foul line and Jones scored him with a smashing triple to right. Turlington then sent out a long triple to center. Berger reached second on Chandler's missing of the first-sacker's third strike, Turlington scoring on the same play. Northern then produced a single that scored Berger, and while no more scoring was done, Snead also produced a single in this inning.

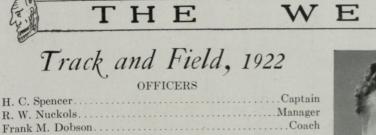

After this first inning both pitchers settled down to a long, airtight contest. Besides the four runs of the first frame the Spiders got another in the second, while the Indians registered one each in both the fourth and sixth, thereby tying the score.

The fact that each team made twelve hits and each one error gives a good idea of the equality of the playing in this contest. Going fourteen innings it was a record for a college game in Virginia, and according to many it was about the tightest battle ever witnessed in these parts.

THE

POSSIBLY few educational institutions in the whole South, with a student body of a size comparable to the number of men attending the University of Richmond, places as much importance on Track and Field, in addition to an equal importance on Football, Basketball, and Baseball, as does the University of Richmond. Track as a major sport here has gained this distinction because the same emphasis is placed on this branch as the other three receive.

A glance at the records since 1914, when Track and Field took on formal aspect under Athletic Director Frank M. Dobson, will bear out the above claims.

In South Atlantics it will be seen that the University of Richmond, while not alone the only school of its classifications to take points, has in several meets preceded larger institutions in the standings. In 1914 the Spiders finished second in the South Atlantics, beating out Georgetown, Maryland, and Catholic "U"; in 1916 they finished fourth and in front of Catholic University, Georgetown, V. M. I., North Carolina, N. C. State, and Maryland; and in 1921 they took seventh place, leading Hopkins, George Washington, and Maryland. The drop in 1921 was undoubtedly due largely to war conditions, there being no representation in '17, and no teams in '18 and '19, and again no representation in '20.

Since 1914 the University of Richmond has not lost a single meet, dual or otherwise, to a school of its own classification.

There is no attempt made here to make unwarranted boasts over this splendid achievement, but simply to publish these glowing facts.

They become more impressive when Cross-Country Running is considered, for in 1914 records show that the Red and Blue won over Virginia in the local Marathon, while in 1920 and 1921 the Spiders placed second while Virginia copped first honors.

In all of this Track and Field program there have been few athletes who have entered Spiderdom's environs with any experience, and in recent years every participator, with the possible exception of one or two, have been intra-murally trained. Mr. Dobson's Mass Athletic Program, which prescribes compulsory athletics for Freshmen, for which credit is given, is directly responsible for the development of point-winners.

Another fact that must also be reckoned with in bringing about these results is that Stadium Field affords a regulation quarter-mile track, an asset not within the possession of many schools of Richmond's class. And with the completion of the Roger Milhiser Memorial Gymnasium, still another impetus will be given to Track and Field, as well as other branches. In fact, the University of Richmond, in lieu of facilities being available by that time, will entertain the South Atlantics in the spring of 1923.

And since the Freshmen are thus brought out, an incentive, by way of dual meets with Prep and High Schools is offered, in addition to inter-class activities. Last spring the Spider Freshmen met and defeated both Fork Union Military Academy and John Marshall High School in dual meets.

The 1921 Track and Field season was the biggest and heaviest assignment that the Spider squad has ever undertaken. In addition to the South Atlantics, Dobson's charges engaged both Washington and Lee, and William and Mary in dual Varsity meets, while the Cross-Country squad ran in the Evening Dispatch Modified Marathon run and the Freshmen met the two opponents referred to above.

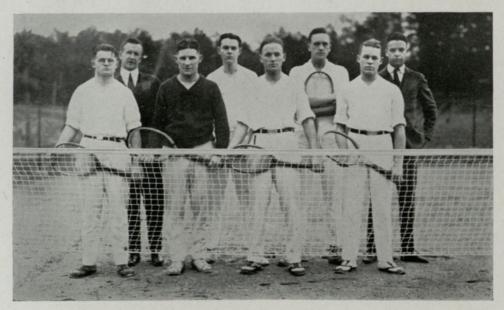

Proper equipment and proper dress for all her teams has been the long suite of the Red and Blue, a characteristic established by the present athletic director., This has marked with distinction Spider teams everywhere, and especially in Track and Field, where this ideal is prone to be violated, this first-class status has been maintained. This statement finds ample corroboration in the photographs contained in this section.

The Track and Field revival began in 1920, and is on the road to reaching a higher rung in the ladder, the first year showing pleasing evidences to this effect.

EPSILON CIRCLE

Omicron Delta Kappa National Honorary Fraternity, with membership based on all-round college life, was installed at the University of Richmond, Saturday, March 12, 1921, Chi Eta Epsilon, a local club preceding. The local was formed and the national established here "in an endeavor to associate certain University of Richmond men who have shown exceptional ability in various lines of college activities, who are men of high ideals and aspirations; men who are willing to labor patiently, honestly and fairly that the best interests of our university may be advanced wherever opportunity may be offered; men who wish to create a type of student worthy to be recognized as possessing a University of Richmond stamp—one foursquare to the world and free from lowness of purpose and mediocrity of vision; men who believe in possessing an unimpeachable sense of honor, in cultivating an unblemished growth of character, and in laboring ever that right actions may prevail"

Johnnie cussed, and his Ma heard him, and told Dad at night. Dad grabbed a strap and bounded up the stairs to Johnnie's room, exclaiming, "I'll teach my son to cuss."

At the top step he stumbled.

Ma's sweet voice from the floor below was heard to say, "That'll do for the first lesson, Dad."

Prof: "You should make this test, you have a week-end to work on it." Bob: "That's just the reason that I'm afraid I'll flunk."

He: "What do you think of the football team's line this year?"

She: "I'm not prepared to say; haven't had a date with any of the team yet."

"The street car men's union is putting vaseline on all the car tracks."

"For what, Bill?"

"To keep the scabs off "

Thomas Edison might find in the fact that "Job cursed the day he was born" another proof that the modern student is backward.

Prof. Burrell: "Can you tell me whether Dr. Hayden is here or not?" Dr. Merriman: "Have you asked at Dr. Loving's office? If he's here he's there."

"Have a drink of Jew whiskey?" "What do you mean, Jew whiskey?" "O! He-brewed it."

"Say, why is the academic procession so slow?" "They are coming in by degrees."

"These photographs are not at all satisfactory. Why, I look like a jackass." "It's not my fault, sir; you should have considered that before you had them taken."

"Had a serious accident up my way Christmas."

ТНЕ

"Did, huh?"

"Yes, Ma's brother sat on a fruit cake and got shocked by the currant."

Here's to the man that loves his girl And loves his girl alone. For many a man loves another's girl When he thinks he's loving his own.

Dr. Loving: "I think a student ought to be able to stay in an exam room for three hours without going out to smoke. Don't you, Dr. Hayden?"

Dr. Hayden (chewing): "Yes sir, but a man can't stand that long without spitting."

She: "There's a yellow hair on your coat, and my hair is red." He: "This is an old coat. This came off your head last winter."

Jay: "You look sweet enough to eat." Gay: "I do. Where shall we go?"

Neighbor: "I've some pickled peaches in my car outside." Hubby: "Sh—my wife's in the next room."

"And he wouldn't even lend you ten? I thought he was your closest friend."

"I'll say he is."

"When I marry you what is your dad going to settle on us?" "All the rest of the family, I guess."

A man returning to his home town after a long absence, encountered a boy whom he remembered as the son of the town sot and ne'er-do-well.

"What's your father doing now?" he asked.

"Oh, he's instructing in Anatomy at the State University," came the reply.

"How long has he held that job?" exclaimed the man.

"Just since he died," replied the boy.

THE

"These here Sennett girls remind me of my oil stock."

"Don't see why; you never see 'em being watered."

"I know, but they ain't got any face value to speak of."

He: "I taste tobacco on your lips, and you don't smoke. Another's lips have lingered here."

She: "I only kissed father when he went out."

He: "But your father doesn't smoke."

She: "I know, but his stenographer does."

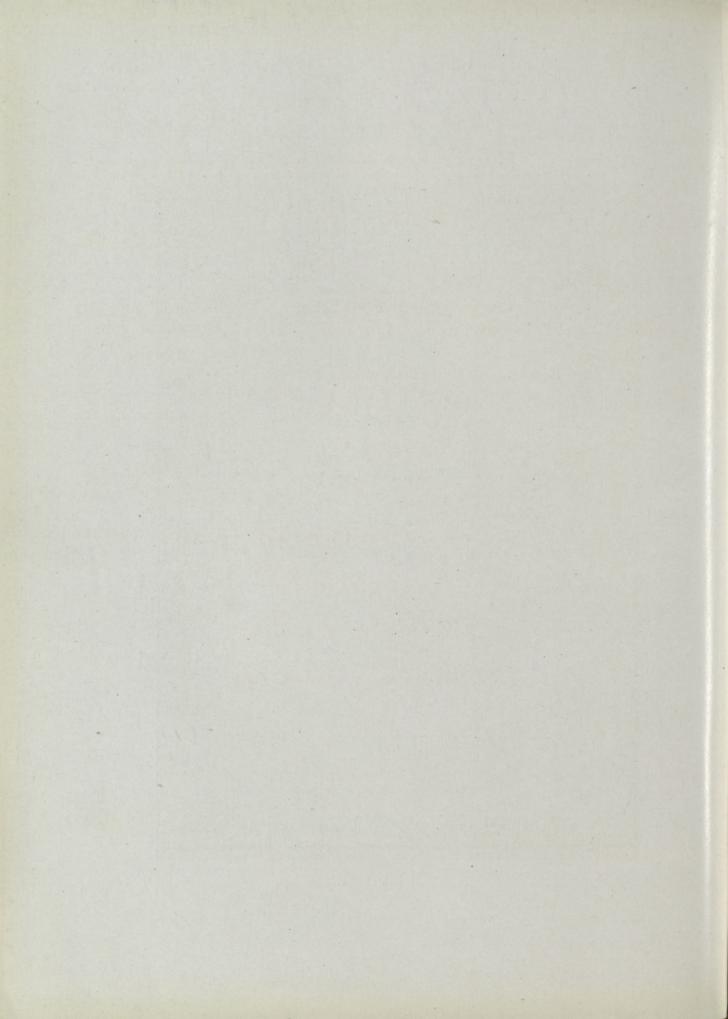

Tickle, tickle little hair, How I wonder what you aire; Up above that lip so brave— Why the divvil don't you shave?

Broker (absently): "Well, well, let's see-how shall I begin?" Stenog: "Whatcha gonna do, dictate a letter or kiss me?"

Two months ago everybody was asking us how the Annual was getting on. Won't some kind soul ask us now so we can shout, "The darned thing is done?"

Follow the trail that leads away West to the sinking sun,

To the towers that rise 'gainst the glowing skies, After the day is done.

Mother, thy standard e'er shall float Over thy daughters true-

Banner of flaming sunset red. Banner of heaven's blue.

Follow the trail that leads away

West to the sinking sun,

To the towers that rise 'gainst the glowing skies, After the day is done.

Though we may roam the wide world o'er, From Athens to old Cathay,

When the moon rides high in the velvet sky, Backward our hearts will stray.

To follow the trail that leads away

West to the sinking sun,

To the towers that rise 'gainst the glowing skies, After the day is done.

MARY FUGATE

Applicant for B.A. Degree If any of us were Webster, we'd put ''Fugit'' and dependability and success as synonyms. Her sense of humor is enough to make her Dean some day.

MARY BRISTOW

Applicant for B.A. Degree Kink doesn't believe in doing things half-way. She'll even let her ears show under the Chinese cap when it is necessary for the glory of '22.

THE

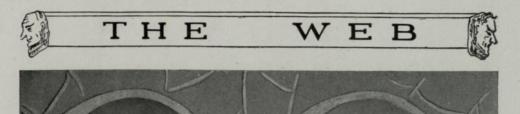

Applicant for B.A. Degree Here comes Elizabeth with her T. L. (true love, or trade last), but from the frequent appear-ance of a certain Ford on the campus, we imagine it is the former former.

LOUISE STORY

WEB

Applicant for B.A. Degree Happy-go-lucky and full of fun. Icky Story can't be outdone. She's smart, clever, and a won-derful freind, Of her jokes and spirit there's no end.

THELMA HILL

lis the base Ms. won't

Applicant for B.A. Degree Thelma may have been successful as Dean Keller, Pierrot, a Westhampton booster in Norfolk, and editor of the Messenger, but she is mostly like a celestial Plum Blossom.

ELSIE WARE

Applicant for B.A. Degree We don't know what will be Elsie's vocation, but her avocation is backing up Thelma. Elsie, despite her feminine charms, is the strong man of '22.

MARGARET HOOKER Applicant for B.A. Degree

Applicant for B.A. Degree Service for others has been epitomized in Margaret's career as business manager of the Tower. She not only pleases the staff but the Retail Merchants as well.

ELIZABETH HOOVER

Applicant for B.A. Degree Is it unbiological to say that Rat is like a mule? They are both stubborn, they both carry heavy loads; but Rat never balks at doing things for others.

LILLIAS HUTCHINS Applicant for B.A. Degree Although the classics appeal to Lillias there is nothing ancient about her pep, fun, and her interest in Prosser. ELIZABETH WILLIAMS Applicant for B.A. Degree Elizabeth didn't have to attend l-lectures in advert-t-tising for she has evidently s-secured a position as chief advert-tiser for the G-Garden of Eden, the city of Portsmouth.

MILDRED KLINE

Applicant for B.A. Degree Mildred's unusual ability and willingness are the more remarkable, and the more appreciated by her friends because they are unostentatious.

JEANETTE HENNA

Rew

Applicant for B.A. Degree Jeanette is most dependable in hockey, math., and class activities, but she rebels at Dancing I, because she has "religious seruples."

DANDRIDGE LAMBERT Applicant for B.A. Degree What would a Student Government meeting be without Danny's bird-like response to the roll-call? She's joined the Shifters, but she is far from being shiftless.

LUCILE LEDMAN

Applicant for B.A. Degree Lucile has the quiet poise of one who knows that she knows. And she knows how to manage a manless marriage, as well as modern languages and 'Merican history.

REBECCA LAWSON

Applicant for B.A. Degree When you think of Becky you can't help realizing how she really gives to others "the best portion of a good man's life, the little unremembered things of kindness and love." HILDA LAWSON Applicant for B.A. Degree Hilda wears the blue tie. Doesn't that say enough?

ZOLA LEEK

Applicant for B.A. Degree We wonder if Charlie draws his pictures of Paradise from looking at Zola across the breakfast table three hundred and sixtyfive days a year. Zola is a girl in spirit and looks in spite of her gold band.

STELLA HUBBARD

Stilly 9/11

Applicant for B.A. Degree Stella is one of those girls whom Westhampton will miss. She is always ready to help, be it with voice, time, or hockey-stick.

Applicant for B.A. Degree We have never been able to decide whether Dot is the most serious of mortals, or the most frivolous. But at any rate, she can furnish inspiration for admirable poetry.

JULIET WOODSON

Applicant for B.A. Degree Juliet has a fetching curl. Juliet is a delightful fibber. When she says, "I think I had better go home", so meekly, we always want to go with her. VIRGINIA MONCURE

Pi Alpha stands for Pente Athla—five prizes, or excelling in five fields— Scholarship, Religious Activities, Athletics, Class Spirit, and Art, which is an all-inclusive term covering music and drawing, dramatics and literature. This society, which was organized by the faculty in 1921, differs from the Arachindae in purpose though not necessarily in personnel. Its members must maintain a high standard in scholarship and at the same time be real living factors in the life of the University, participating in the kaleidoscopic phases of college life.

No mere drudge can enter here. Alertness, energy, and intense enthusiasm are the pass-words. Selfishness does not exist here where the three cardinal principles are:

Support everything in any way possible.

Cheer in victory and defeat.

Work willingly and unceasingly.

She who would wear the red and blue insignia must not be a figure of one dimension, but polygonal—a four-square girl, whose keenest pleasure is to uphold the motto:

"Alma Mater ante omnia."

WEARERS OF BLUE TIES (Started in 1919)

The Blue Tie is awarded to those who, in athletics, help Westhampton to approach its three-fold ideal for every girl—a healthy body, a sound mind, and above all, a truly fine spirit. It means that the wearer is an enthusiastic supporter of athletics, one who encourages others, loses gracefully, wins modestly, and cheerfully sacrifices for the good of her team.

COACH FANNY GRAVES CRENSHAW

The first time you laid eyes on "Fanny G." she was probably swinging a hockey stick with a force that made you tremble for the life of those in front of her. She was wearing a gray-blue skirt that had the appearance of having been worn by Jeanne d'Are through the thickest of all her battles. If you showed the slightest gleam of intelligence, she probably bestowed upon you one of her most winning smiles. You did not know it then, but you got a portrait of "Fanny G." as she really is. She goes into everything with the same force and skill with which she swung that stick. Whether she is playing basketball, coaching, talking, or just living, you find her entering into each with ability, eleverness, a spirit of comradery that is not seen in many of us, and a bigness of soul that is borrowed from the bigness of the out-of-doors, of which she seems so much a part. Through her real appreciation and enjoyment of nature, she derives her high standards of sportsmanship and her admiration for the highest things of life.

Coach Crenshaw, you've done a big part toward showing, through your own life, what the life of a real woman can mean. Westhampton thanks you.

BASKETBALL SONG Words and Music: Rita Baker, '24

Did you hear that whistle blow? Did you see the Spiders go? In a moment we all know They will make a goal, yo, ho, A goal yo, ho, A goal yo, ho,

They will make a goal, yo ho.

ТНЕ

When the fight is thickest, O, Ever speedy, never slow, Watch the ball as it does go In the basket when they throw! When they throw, When they throw, In the basket when they throw. Varsity, we sing to you,

Varsity, you're ever true, Fighting now for red and blue Westhampton is back of you, Back of you, Back of you,

Westhampton is back of you.

Ten little seniors Went out to dine, Ship ate the salad, And then there were nine.

Nine little seniors Sitting up late; Story got a call down, Then there were eight

Eight little seniors Read Anglo at 'leven; Rat had to read it all, Then there were seven.

Seven little seniors Carrying hockey sticks; Hilda got her head broke, Then there were six.

Six little seniors Trying to dive; Sissy got her mouthful, Then there were five.

Cross-patch Draw the latch, Sit by your radiator, and freeze, If you'll take ''Ottie's'' pills She'll cure all your ills, And you'll never be known to sneeze.

> Mary had a little pony, Through the Punic Wars to trot, But the teacher's ''horse'' he got there first, And on poor Mary sot.

"Fris", be nimble, Get some pluck, And jump right over Fanny G's old buck. Five little seniors At the dining-room door; Seslie got locked out, Then there were four.

Four little seniors Running after "he"; "Val", she got the man, Then there were three.

Three little seniors Sad and blue; Pat got the giggles, Then there were two.

Two little seniors, Both on the run; Anna had the long legs, And left only one.

One little senior Left from ten; She got married, And that's the end.

Oh, aren't you in love with Ibsen, And don't you adore dear Shaw? The drama class is green as grass, And answers, ''Goodness, naw!''

Here comes the proctor To light you to bed; If your light is not out She'll chop off your head.

She'll hush you up fine In a manner most rash, And serve you next day For red pepper hash.

Charlotte Broaddus (lispingly): "Who can I ask if I can have a date?" Soph: "Ask Mary Fugate, she's presi-dent of Student Gov."

Charlotte: "O, I thought Dr. Boatwright was president of that.'

Dr. Kuyk (horrified): "Why my dear child, don't you know you must brush your teeth every night?"

Soph Hazer (at Rat roll-call): "Where is Fresh Rat Payne?" Stella (moaning): "Right where you pad-dled me."

Mr. Prince (in Education class): "Now, don't take down everything I say, or you will have a book full of nothing."

Gladys Hamill: "I don't know which one Miss Lough is. Is she the one who talks like she has (Lough) jaw?"

I. Story and M. Bidgood: "We've had the best time playing Galli Curci and Caruso this evening.

Gladys Knuckles: "O, how do you play that?"

Freshman: "Rat (H.), do you think it will snow?

PSALM OF RATS

(Apologies to Henry W. Longfellow) Tell me not in mournful numbers

College is an empty dream, For the student flunks who slumbers, Lessons are not what they seem.

Toil it is, and toil in earnest,

Though results do oft provoke;

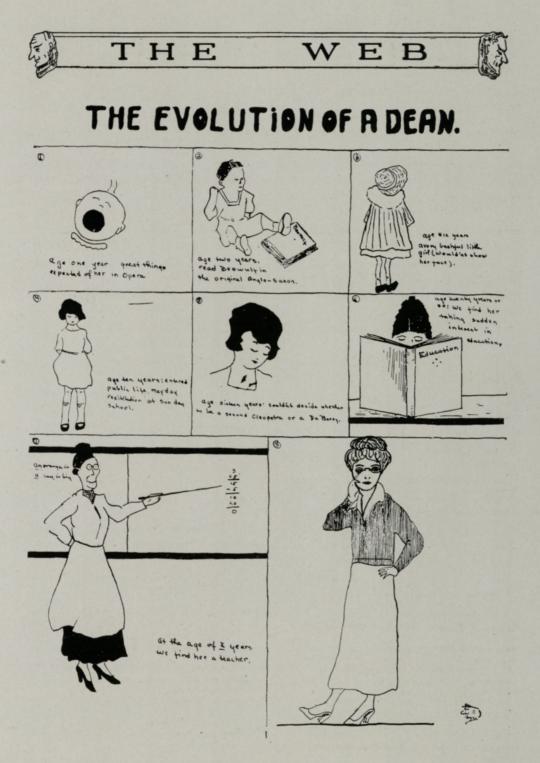

"Thou flunkest Math., to Math. returnest." Was not spoken as a joke.

Themes are long and brains are lacking, And these Rats so dull and green, Still with yellow slips are tracking,

Scared and trembling to the Dean.

Lives of seniors all remind us, We can win diplomas too,

And departing leave behind us Proofs of what us Rats can do.

Sixteen Hours in the Archives

B

ТНЕ

We stood in the State Library and sneezed, and knew whereof we sneezed. Just before the sneeze all knowledge of grammar had deserted us in this, our supreme crisis, namely, whether we should ask the elevator man: "Where are," or "Where is the Archives?" when we distinctly remembered hearing they were singular (of which we had no doubt, in one sense). We had reached such a state that we were about to swoon, with as much grace as we were capable of, into his arms, and shriek, "On to the Archives!" with our last conscious breath. May I repeat that we had come to such a pass, when the faint, but unmistakable "parfum de dust" assailed our nostrils, and the aforementioned sneeze was forthcoming. Now we recalled that one who had experienced a like stony fate, namely, sixteen hours in the Archives, had told us, "Where there's dust, there's Archives." So, bestowing a joyous smile of complicity upon the man, we said laconically, "Our nose knows," and followed our nose, so to speak, heralding our approach with sneezes.

On entering the room, we stirred up such a dust that everyone sneezed with one accord, the whole thing giving the impression of a Greek chorus. They all wore flowing white garments, and certain of them whispered mysteriously together, as if of dark deeds to be perpetrated at dead of night. Suddenly we suspected that our nose had betrayed us, and that we had stumbled upon the gathering-place of the Klu Klux Klan. At this critical moment, Mr. M. R. came forward with a welcoming sneeze, and again we were made to feel our deficiency in grammar, but compromised and burst forth heetically, "Are this the Archives?" He said they were—or was, we forget which—and revealed the identity of the above-mentioned beings, who all this time had been beckoning to us in a most familiar manner, but fearing the initiation ceremony of the Klu Klux Klan, we had not the slightest idea of obeying their summons. Therefore we were surprised to say nothing of being relieved upon learning they were our contemporaries in college. Since silence was requested, we joined them with no language but a sneeze.

Writing and spelling are lost arts among those who seem to have felt it their duty to leave "footprints on the sands of time." In fact the Archives seem given over to those who were purposely never taught to write or spell in youth, that they might regale us with their primitive efforts in old age. They are surprisingly original in their methods of both spelling and writing. Sanskrit holds no terrors for archival apprentices, in fact, we rather look forward to it in after-life as a mere diversion.

That "things are not what they seem" is all too true in the harrassed life of the being sentenced to sixteen hours in the Archives. F'r instance, Pat turned to Shippy in despair and said, "Do you see how a six-pound horse could pull a sixty-ton wagon?"

Shippy hesitated at first to answer, because she had learned through many a mispelled word that nothing is impossible within the confines of the Archives, and it was best to take things as you found them. She picked up the paper in question and said, "Pat, they say that 'he who runs may read,' and I've tried everything else on these scrolls, so now I'm gonna try that."

Whereupon, with the "piece de resistance" clutched in one hand, and her hair in the other, she galloped up and down, a cloud of dust in her wake. Suddenly bestowing a beatific smile of triumph on Pat, she gave her the result of her efforts, between emphatic sneezes, "It's a sixty-pound mule."

What with watching the little fat man, who chronically ran up the ladder, ostensibly to get a book, but inevitably to bump his bald head against the ceiling; and with hearing Mr. M. R., with the greatest solemnity, tell a woman, who had asked if this was where one traced families, that if she was a firm believer in the Darwin theory, she might find the missing link within, we did not make much progress in deciphering what might just as well have been hieroglyphics so far as we could see.

When the clock struck five (and it sounded like five sneezes), we shook the dust of the Archives from our feet, with a farewell sneeze.

V. MONCURE.

Sissy D. (posing before mirror in her new academic gown).

C. Broaddus (admiringly): "O, Sissy, what a pretty new coat!"

Genevieve Trainham: "Are you going to take a shower, or what?" Julia Evans: "A what."

L. Fristoe: (singing "Some think it worth while to go to college, etc.'') Mr. Hui: "Miss Fristoe, what language is that?"

Ida (at try-outs for Senior play): "Say, Story, what part are you going to try-out for?"

L. Story: "I'm going to try-out for 'em all. I'm going to get my 'W' at this." M. White to Louise Story: "Come on, 'Ichy', give us a tune!"

L. Story: "What makes you call me 'Ichy', what does that mean?"

M. White (impatiently): "Story, haven't you heard of Ichbod Crane?"

Story: "Law, naw, I haven't had time to read 'David Copperfield' yet."

Miss Brown (at Senior try-outs): "Who is going to be the second wife?"

Profound silence.

Rotella (triumphantly): "Choose the husband first, and then more of the young ladies will be willing to try-out."

WESTHAMPTON CATALOGUE

According to present indications, we believe that the Westhampton College Catalog for 1922-23 will offer the following courses:

> EATOLOGY I Professor Black Assistant Professor Senior

This course is designed to teach Rats all the standard dining-room tricks and arts. It initiates them into the secret of the subtly filling qualities of Zip. Without this course, no Freshman year is complete; hence it is required of dormitory students. Professor Black, K. D. (Kitchen Director) is at the head of the course. Her able assistant, Miss Senior, sees that lessons are taken regularly. She also sees that each Freshman learns to reach for the food, pour the water, and eat Ivory Soap ice cream. Seven days a week, throughout the year.

DOGOLOGY

Professor Allen Westhampton

Because of the great supply of living specimens found on the campus, this course has been offered. It attempts to teach the Freshmen the joys of having gentle and affectionate animals on every side. Absolute guarantee that after a year of this course, all pupils will forever evade stray dogs.

RAPID DRESSING Professor Experience

Given from 8 to 8:10 every morning. No marks, but rewarded by breakfast. Class closes promptly at 8:10, when the doors are locked, and no more members admitted. The Freshman at first finds this course very difficult, but in a short time masters all its fine points. With this course is taught the quickest style of hair-dressing.

E. Parker (pleadingly) in Biology lab: "Come here Mr. Hayden, and look in this microscope, and see if I see a spot."

R. C. Rat: "May I go home with you?" W. C. Rat: "Of course not. Haven't you a home?"

M. Bristow (looking at Kodak book): "Who in the world is this?"

C. Black: "That's my little niece." M. Bristow (still in doubt): "Is it a boy or a girl?"

V. Epes (desperately): "Seslie, who in the world are you going to write your autobiography on?"

Mr. Merriman: "Miss Epes, name some diseases caused by bacteria."

V. Epes: "Oh, cholera, typhoid, eri-sipilas, lockjaw-and, that's all I've had."

Dr. Loving (illustrating mirror): "If you saw me with my head down and my feet up, wouldn't you call me inverted?"

E. Seldon (emphatically): "No, I'd call you erazy."

Sissy: "I've never been behind in my work before."

Pat: ''I'm in deeper than I've ever been before in my life.''

L. Story: (consolingly): "Don't worry, I'm a regular caboose."

V. Gregory (triumphantly): "' 'Pring has come, 'pring has come.''

Gessie Hill (rushing to her door): "Who did you say had come? When did he come?"

L. Duke (trying to guess Biblical conundrums): "It's something about David." (scratching her head): "Oh, I know, it's David in the lion's den."

Freshman seen with microscope, telescope, horoscope and magnifying glass striving to translate Miss Cassidy's comment on margin of theme

When success finally crowned her efforts, the comment read: "Your hand-writing is illegible."

Fitting Chapel Conclusions

Kitty Spicer makes farewell address in chapel. "Let us sing hymn No. 64-" Speed Away! Speed Away! ""

Miss Keller, at close of regular climatic Monday chapel talk, "Let us sing hymn No. 102—""There is a Sure and Calm Retreat"."

The day before exams. "Shall we sing No. 46—'Rescue the Perishing?"

Miss Landrum, conducting a elass on Milton: "We will now see how Satan got Milton from Hell to earth."

Christmas Vespers, after the boys had been gently urged to return home. "God Rest You, Merry Gentlemen."

Ushering at the Jefferson

In the darkness of the jitney we debate a momentous question How does an Usher? In our mind's eye we revolve plan after plan. We vision ourselves dashing up to a victim, dropping a curtsey (or maybe it's better to leave out the curtsey) and quoting,

" 'Will you walk a little faster?"

Said a whiting to a snail.

'There's a porpoise close behind us And he's treading on my tail'.

Or would it be better to-? But we find ourselves in the auditorium of the Jefferson facing the chairman-breathless and bewildered. Ourselves, not the chairman.) A dulcet voice begins to murmur in our ear, -""Westhampton girls are so accommodat-

'Before we have a chat.

For some of us are out of breath

And all of us are fat.' 'No hurry,' says the chairman.

We thank her much for that.'

A figure misty and immense sweeps down on us. We clear our throats nervously pre-paratory to beginning, "Will you walk a little fas—?" when a shrill voice forestalls us,

"What cunning pages! I'm so sorry I didn't bring Geraldine. She would have been so amused."

We have a queer sensation in our throat; we see the heaving shoulders of a fellowusher whose face is buried suspiciously in her handkerchief. We totter up the aisle with Geraldine's mother 10 our wake. Halfway back an enormous figure rises from its seat, points an accusing finger at us and

''Nobody ushered me to a seat! I have as much right to be ushered by a Cap and Gown as any woman here."

We stifle a wild desire to shriek; we rush down the aisle pursued by a raging fury. We gain a place of safety two seconds ahead of the usher-mad dame. We gasp for breath and become suddenly aware of a mournful chant,

' 'It was so kind of you to come

And you are very nice.

But I wish you were not quite so deaf, I've had to ask you twice'.

We gasp out an apology, explaining that we are subject to chronic spasms, and beg the mourner to repeat her question. "It's about your uniforms," comes the sad response. "Do you wear them every time you come to town?"

Visions of ourselves trailing through Miller & Rhoads' thus attired, or ordering Chocolate Milks a la Uniform, overwhelm us. We fall unconscious into the arms of a fellowsufferer, and are revived in time to hear Elizabeth Williams' polite query,

"M-may I s-show y-you to a s-seat, ma'am?" and the quick retort,

"You can't show me anything. I live here. I am perfectly acquainted with all the seats in this hotel, with all the seats in this city, with all the s-

But it is too much. We are crushed. We wrap the drapery of our gowns about us; we stumble over six chairs, and with bedoozling tears trickling down our cheeks we leave.

"Oh, ushers," shouts the chairman, "It was kind of you to come. Why are you trotting home so soon?"

But answer comes there none.

And this is scarcely strange because We'd departed-everyone.

-J. Woodson.

Number Nine

Listen to a tale, dear friends o'mine, Of the Westhampton car, called Number Nine,

I love it, I hate it, the blessed old thing,

What a lot of joy and worry it can bring.

I looked at my watch, I knew I was late, But I said to myself, "The conductor will wait.'

I sped down the hill past Science Hall and Lake,

I felt my right side beginning to ache.

Tired and panting, I pushed on and on,

Each little hill seemed one mile long,

The top at last—but—irony of fate, Number Nine was leaving—I was one minute late.

With hat all awry, cheeks flaming and hot, I sank on the bench to mourn my hard lot, My idea of joy is to catch Number Nine,

And get to this car-line just one day on time.

Heard in Sub-Latin

"Dido-se laeta ferebat per medios." Dido bore herself joyfully in the middle.

"Solioque alte subnixa resedit."

And she sat down on high.

"Superatne et vescitur aura?"

Or does he survive and live on air? "Steteruntque comae et vox faucibus haesit." My hair stood on end, and my voice hesi-tated in my jaws.'

"Sic oculus, sic ille manus, sic ora ferebat." was he thrown upon the shore.

A Faculty Tea

Miss Lough decided to have a tea, The faculty came at half past three; "''Tis quite informal," Miss Lough said, "So do not dress or comb your head." (And this was said in nasal strain, To get the sound just read again.) "Now be at home, do what you please, And tell some jokes-be at your ease. A table was Miss Kloss's seat, And from this place she swung her feet. Miss Gay with papers piled up high Came to correct, so that is why At the first of the year the marks were good (No other cause, it's understood.) All looked around for signs of eats; As none appeared they took their seats. And then in Facultian style, They all began man to revile. Miss Kloss alone spoke for weak man, But she had reason, also plan; She'll carry it out some summer day, When both the cat and the mice are away. Miss Gay did listen while she worked, Corrected, marked and never shirked. "Yo presa, I hasten: comer, to eat;" Miss Lough up-started from her seat, And served the little cakes and tea, (That paper there got ninety-three.) Miss Landrum with Miltonic taste Did drink her tea, but not with haste. And while the faculty thus drank tea, Miss Cassidy strove to cover her knee With skirt that fell so far too short, It would do nothing of the sort; A thing she took to be quite queer; (It must have shrunk in the wash, I fear.) And then with true math'matical grace, Miss Hatcher said, 'O, what tea!'' Miss Woodfin nodded to agree. Miss Butler, with Horacian pride, (A captured pony at her side,) Said to Miss Turnbull, at her right, Who stood to full Virgilian height, "There are so many ponies loose, To catch them all I shall reduce." Miss Landrum sat on the edge of her chair, And nibbled cake with a careless air. In Anglician accent, Saxon and low, Miss Keller told gossip that each should know, And during remarks on the tales they relate She ate the last cake from off the plate. When Klossy found all eats were over, She slid from the table and pulled the cover, And during the racket of leaving then, Miss Gay had lost control of her pen. Instead of a mark of high degree,

She gave that pupil sixty-three. And as they praised the tea you know, They had one and all arose to go. So this you see, is a faculty tea, And just as informal as it can be. With lots of fun and plenty to eat, Each wonders who'll be the next to treat.

Dr. Loving teaches things I never learned before; He knows our Physics straight on thru, And then he knows some more. The first thing he taught was To swear that he was right; We were such splendid pupils that We swear for him on sight. My Daddy wouldn't let me swear Before I came to college; Yet it seems it must be done In my pursuit for knowledge. When we have finished Physics, then, No matter what we do, We'll all be regular graduates, For we were sworn right thru.

The Fun of It

Of course, editing an Annual is not all play, but it has its compensations and joys. It is inspiring to work with a chosen group toward a common end. It gives one a peculiar pleasure to develop an idea from the nebulous stage into a concrete page in black and white. It is a fascinating experiment in human chemistry to distill the joys of work and play until only the concentrated essence is left.

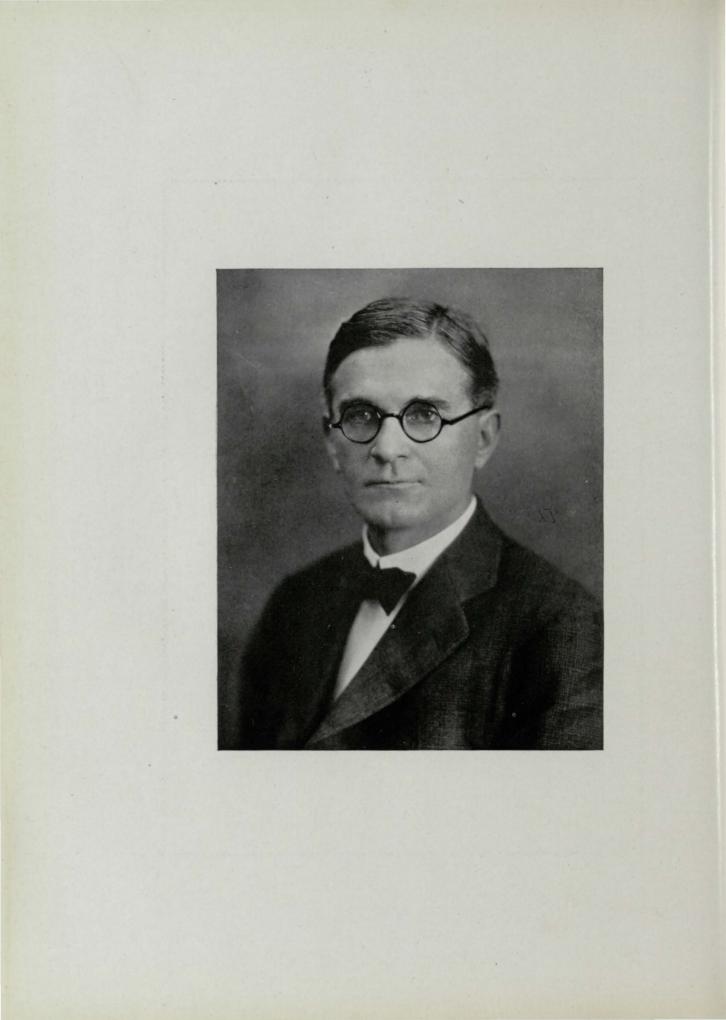

Perhaps in closing it may be in order to state one's definition of an Annual. It is not a catalogue of information about the college, but a treasury of memories of the people who give the institution life, and of the sacred traditions and customs that hallow these academic halls. —E. G. S.

Columbia Hall

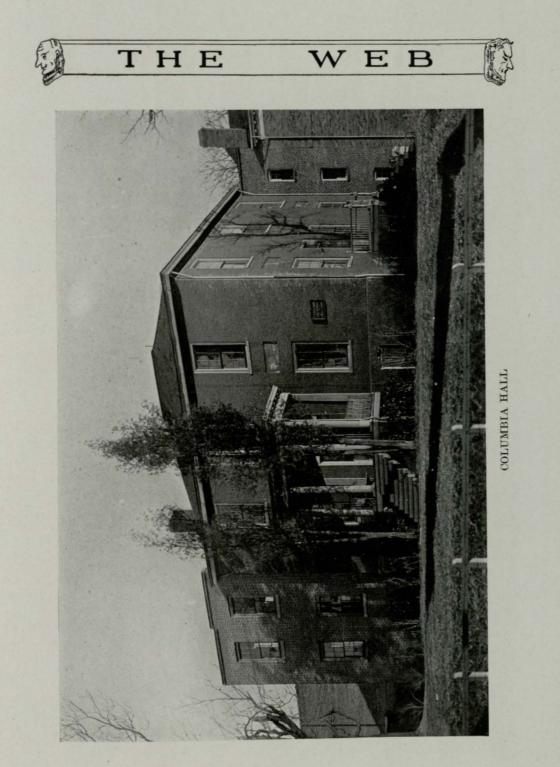

As we go to and from the T. C. Williams School of Law each evening, like so many fleeting shadows, we are little impressed with the fact that we are often rocked to sleep in the very cradle of the University of Richmond. However those alumni who spent their collegiate days on the old campus think of Columbia Hall as an embodiment of delightful traditions and beautiful sentiments with which the early days of Richmond College were so richly endowed.

In a very exhaustive and delightful article, appearing in The Messenger of April, 1906. Mrs. Alice Broadus Mitchell has related the complete history of "Columbia", beginning with its history as the country home of the distinguished Haxall family, when it was considered "as far the most attractive residence in the neighborhood of Richmond," and continuing her narrative down to 1905. Suffice it to say in a brief sketch, that when "Richmond College laid aside the outgrown garments of the infant seminary, and came legally and actually into full estate," it was in the old Haxall mansion, "Columbia", that she made her first home. At that time the building furnished in the basement a dining hall, a chapel, two lecture rooms, and a reading room; on the first floor a president's office and classroom, a society hall and library; on the upper floor dormitories for students and apartments for the two bachelor professors. Its grounds embraced fifteen acres, and with its buildings was valued at $20,000. In the immediate neighborhood were several fine estates, and also the scattered shanties of "Screamersville", whose "disreputable inhabitants and fierce dogs were a terror to the belated student."

It was while the whole college was still housed under Columbia's roof that Mr. Joseph Ryland and Dr. P. S. Henson went forth as the first two alumni of Richmond College; and from 1833 when the college opened its doors at the Haxall house to the beginning of the Civil War the enrollment increased from twenty-six to one hundred and fifty students. During the Civil War the college buildings were used as a hospital by the Confederates. Many of the Southern sick and wounded died in Columbia, and blood-stains were long visible on the floors. After the siege of Richmond in '65 the Federal troops used the same buildings as barracks, and left little less than Sheridan had left in the Valley when they moved away eight months later.

During the session 1918-'19, Columbia was used as the library of Richmond College. The Law School moved into Columbia in 1920, where the one hundred and twelve students of the present session unwittingly pay tribute to the early history of the University of Richmond.

An Elegy

(With Apologies to Grey)

The curfew tolls the knell of parting day;

The business man goes home, for work is done; Goes home to rest from all his business cares;

For us our work has only now begun.

For now must we with book beneath our arm, Unto the Law School slowly make our way; There to learn the mighty rules of Law Which some day nation's destinies may sway.

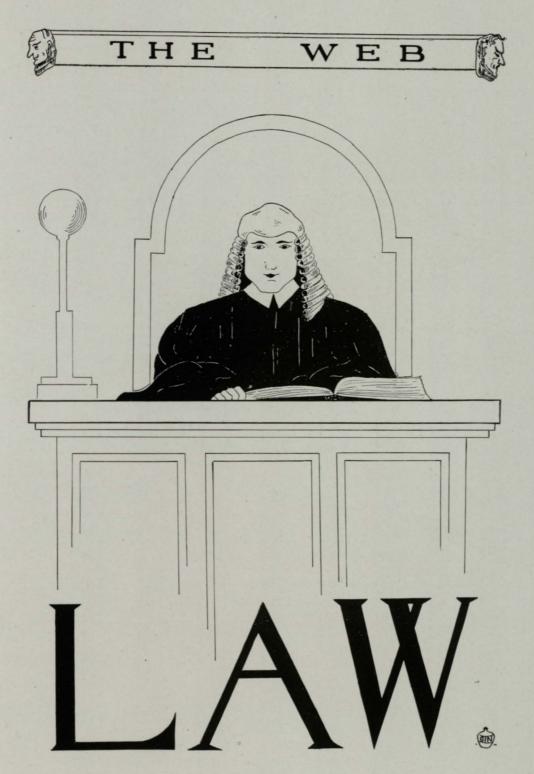

Beneath that ancient roof, within these walls, This old brick house which laymen seem to scorn,

Who knows but that somehow while we are here Another Jefferson may here be born.

For us no more the hearth on winter night, Until our three years' sojourn here is o'er;

No more the "date" nor moving picture show, These left, for legal books o'er which we pore.

Let not vain youth mock at our studious toil. We learn, while they their foolish ways do go; While they let precious sands of Time run fast, We come here, striving mentally to grow.

Junior Law Class History

Sometimes as in a dream, Youth sees some far-off pinnacle which he would climb, and led by Ambition he toils on and on, ever striving to attain his goal. Through two long years have we, the Class of '22, struggled on through the mazes of the Law. Often have we become lost in the depths of Real Property, and time and again has Contracts or Evidence come as a mist and almost hidden our guide, Ambition, from us. Yet have we plodded on until again Ambition led us to the heights. And now the long climb is almost o'er; twothirds of the distance has already been covered, and the long-sought goal is in sight. With renewed strength will we follow Ambition to our goal, where next June we hope to hear "Boaty" say, "I declare you Bachelor of Laws of the University of Richmond."

Truly, we are a unique class, for were we not the first class ever to enroll in the University of Richmond? Last year we were the Junior Class; this year we are the Junior Class; perhaps next year we will still be the Juniors. Who can tell?

Night after night, have we come "in pursuit of learning" to sit and dream beneath the friendly glow of some electric lamp while an untiring professor patiently tried to explain to us the mysteries of the Law. After two years of this we can agree full well with Pope, who said, "A little learning is a dangerous thing." When we came as ordinary mortals, ignorant and not versed in the ways of the Law, we had our ideas, our beliefs, our convictions. Inwardly we laughed with scorn when the brilliant Dr. McNeil explained to us the mysterious theory of intent in its relation to Criminal Law. But now! Ah! now, were he to say that black were white we would accept the statement calmly, quietly, never doubting its truth. Much have we learned, but how little do we know.

It is with a tinge of sorrow that we pass this, our second milestone along the road to legal knowledge. Now there is just one more milestone. So soon will it slip by, and then we will pass on into that great broad road leading on through life. Along this road will we continue, ever searching for the Golden Key which opens the door to Knowledge, always remembering that only those who spend hours in work and study may ever hope to attain this goal. Just one more year and the rollicking, golden college days of Youth are o'er. Then we must step forth as "men in a world of men." May we go with brave hearts, having gained much by our sojourn here.

History, a record of the hopes and fears as well as the deeds of men, is written that those who come hereafter may read perchance and ponder, and mayhap excell; hence the justification for this written memorial of the Class of '24 of the T. C. Williams School of Law.

Our deeds are yet to be written, their record is in the bosom of the Court, and parol evidence of what we might have done is inadmissable to vary, alter or contradict it. Still, we hope that when the opinion is handed it will be found that the pen was dipped in the milk of human kindness and judgment was tempered with mercy. Yet we fear.

What are our claims to distinction? Without animus furandi, for there is none to dispute our right, we lay claim to the greatest class in the annals of the Law School. There is no cloud on our title. We exceed in number the enrollment of any previous class. The number of college-trained students among our members establishes a record. Our athletes have helped to add new laurels to the achievements of the University. Also the spirit of this class has been that of Brotherhood. We have felt that we were all at the same wheel striving for the same goal. That goal is not that we shall spring into Congressional seats or judicial chairs overnight; but it is that by constant work we shall receive in '24 that coveted prize from the Honorable Boatwright, and then we shall turn from Old Alma Mater ready to aid in seeing that law and justice is exacted in the legal world, ready to stand firm in the hour of temptation, ready to be fearless in the hour of danger, and at last, ready to fight courageously throughout the battle of life. —Historian.

From the four corners of the world have we come, all here for one purpose, all striving for one goal. We come to our school in the darkness of night; often we are in mental darkness when we leave for the night.

To those on the outside this Law School of ours is a mystery, a closed book; but to us it is very, very real, with its "but if's", its "as long as", and all its mysterious theories of intent, of "What the average reasonable man would have thought the parties meant", its maxims of "He who comes into Equity must come with clean hands", its doctrines of "Res Ipsa Loquitur" and "Qui facet per alium, facet per se" until sometimes we think that, even though we abound with "Uberrimae Fidei and have "Animus Furandi" to none, we poor mortals can never be true Lawyers.

We have heard that:

THE

"Lives of all great men remind us

We can make our lives sublime."

Yet, have we also heard: "A little learning is a dangerous thing." Verily, do we agree with this last; and in this we speak from past experiences.

Though our accounts seem rather tangled, and this, our first will and testament, seemingly means little, yet let us close by remembering that immortal poem by Kipling:

"Go forth in the world and be strong,

Certain of word and of pen,

Ye are neither children nor gods,

But men in a world of men."

This will we ever remember when that great day—to us—comes, when we shall go forth to take up our profession in true earnestness, and we know that we shall go having been greatly enriched by our three years' stay here at Columbia Hall. —Historian.

"Devise, wit; write, pen; for I am for whole volumes in folio."

In organization and procedure, the Ink Slingers can boast of little originality. It possesses the usual appurtenances of the usual club; members, officers, a constitution, meetings, and of course, a purpose. Just here, however, lies the difference—the purpose did not grow out of the club; the club grew out of the purpose.

That desire for self-expression so deep-rooted in human nature, is fulfilled most universally through the medium of language. In general, this desire does not extend beyond the needs of daily social intercourse. Yet, there are many to whom such intercourse is only the husk, concealing the deeper, richer, undercurrent of glowing thoughts and dim half-thoughts which clamor to be east into tangible form. He who succeeds in so doing in any degree is a potential creative artist. The Ink Slingers was organized for the purpose of fostering any such germs of literary creation which might lurk in the souls of the University students.

By bringing together for mutual encouragement and criticism, those who have shown the greatest ability in writing, the club hopes to give the members an opportunity to develop their own powers as well as to raise the literary standards of the University. No far-fetched aim this, but an ever-present motive which dominates all we produce. Oh, we are no solemn-faced philosophers nor long-haired poets bowed down with the responsibility of a high mission and a lofty goal. We can never hope to attain the dignity of the Academie Francaise, for we find encouragement much easier than criticism. As all other mere mortals, we have dreams and, as most other mortals, we are trying to coax them into the realm of reality. This is the foundation upon which the Ink Slingers rests.

Dramatic Season

WEB

During the fall term, the Dramatic Clubs of the University presented "Nothing But the Truth", a three-act farce by James Montgomery. In addition, the The Shakespearean Playhouse of New York was secured through Miss Keller. Under their director, Mr. McEntee, they played the three-act comedy, "Candida", by G. B. Shaw, at the Red Cross Building, on November 17th.

In the winter term the Dramatic Clubs took over the Senior play, giving on March 3rd, "The Yellow Jacket", a Chinese drama, by Hazleton & Benrimo. The cast was selected from the Senior classes. With the aid of the Chinese students of the school the play was authentic to the smallest detail. "The Yellow Jacket" was of special interest in that it illustrated the evolution of modern drama.

The early part of the spring term will be devoted to one-act plays produced by the two clubs separately. The Commencement play, given together, will close the Dramatic year.

The year brings with it the institution of a number of new and constructive ideas in this activity. Especially is this shown in the published statements of the receipts and expenditures of all productions; the bringing in of an outside company of players; the building up of the Dramatic Staff; and in the taking over the Senior and Commencement plays. These, together with the great revival of campus interest, lay firm foundations for the future of Dramatics at the University of Richmond.

There it stands—a simple forty-foot gateway but unlike any other in the entire world. Through it have come many of the engineering ideas that have made this an electrical America.

The story of electrical development begins in the Research Laboratories. Here the ruling spirit is one of knowledge—truth—rather than immediate practical results. In this manner are established new theories—tools for future use—which sooner or later find ready application.

The great industries that cluster around Niagara Falls, the electrically driven battle ships, the trolley cars and electrified railways that carry millons, the household conveniences that have relieved women of drudgery, the laborsaving electricol tools of factories, all owe their existence, partly at least, to the co-ordinated efforts of the thousands who daily stream through this gateway.
