THE DECLARATION OF THE INDEPENDENCE OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

IN CONFEDERATE CONGRESS, JULY 4TH, 1776. The Unanimous Declaration of the Thirteen States of America.

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the Powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable Rights that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights Governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of usages and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their Public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative Powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Forcigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary Powers.

He has made Judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount of payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in time of peace, Standing Armies, without the Consent of our legislature.

He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them by a mock trial, from punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our consent:

For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury:

For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighboring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies:

For taking away our Charters, abolish our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments:

For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with Power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his protection and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large armies of mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & perfidy scarcely parallelled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear arms against their Country to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrection amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have We been wanting in attention to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and our correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the Good people of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States; and that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the Protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor.

Note—In the facsimile of the Declaration of Independence, as in the original, the whole instrument runs without a break, dashes being freely used to emphasize the several utterances, and to bind them together. In the above copy, the arrangement of paragraphs adopted in the old Congress, and inserted in its journal, and which is also found in the original draft of the Declaration in the handwriting of the author now in the custody of the State Department at Washington, has been followed with care, that the reader may have a correct transcript. The spelling, capitalization, and punctuation is as in the authority referred to.

ACT OF CONFEDERATION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

JULY 9, 1778.

To all to Whom These Presents Shall Come, We, the Undersigned Delegates of the States Affixed to Our Names, Send Greeting.

Whereas the Delegates of the United States of America in Congress assembled did on the 15th day of November in the year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Seventy-Seven and in the Second Year of the Independence of America agree to certain articles of Confederation and perpetuated Union between the States of Newhampshire, Massachusetts-bay, Rhodeisland and Providence Plantations, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia in the Words following viz:

"ARTICLES OF CONFEDERATION AND PERPETUAL UNION BETWEEN THE STATES OF NEWHAMPSHIRE, MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, RHODEISLAND AND PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS, CONNECTICUT, NEW YORK, NEW JEFSEY, PENNSYLVANIA, DELAWARE, MARYLAND, VIRGINIA, NORTH CAROLINA, SOUTH CAROLINA AND GEORGIA.

ARTICLE I. The Stile of this confederacy shall be "The United States of America."

ARTICLE II. Each state retains its Sovereignty, freedom and independence and every Power, Jurisdiction and Right, which is not by this confederation expressly delegated to the United States in Congress assembled.

ARTICLE III. The said states hereby severally enter into a firm league of friendship with each other, for their common defence, the security of their Liberties, and their mutual and general welfare, binding themselves to assist each other, against all force offered to, or attacks made upon, them or any of them, on account of religion, sovereignty, trade, or any other pretence whatever.

ARTICLE IV. The better to secure and perpetuate mutual friendship and intercourse among the people of the different states in this union, the free inhabitants of each of these states, paupers, vagabonds and fugitives from Justice excepted shall be untitled to all privileges and immunities of free citizens in the several states; and the people of each state shall have free ingress and regress to and from any other state, and shall enjoy therein all the privileges of trade and commerce, subject to the same duties, impositions and restrictions as the inhabitants thereof respectively, provided that such restrictions shall not extend so far as to prevent the removal of property imported into the state, to any other state of which the Owner is an inhabitant; provided also that no imposition, duties or restriction shall be laid by any state, on the property of the united states, or either of them. If any Person is guilty of, or charged with treason, felony, or other high misdemeanor in any state, shall flee from Justice, and be found in any of the united states, he shall upon demand of the Governor or executive power, of the state from which he fled, be delivered up and removed to the state having jurisdiction of his offence.

Full faith and credit shall be given in each of these states to the records, acts and judicial proceedings of the courts and magistrates of every other state.

ARTICLE V. For the more convenient management of the general interest of the united states, delegates shall be annually appointed in such manner as the legislature of each state shall direct, to meet in Congress on the first Monday in November, in every year, with a power reserved to each state, to recall its delegates, or any of them, at any time within the year, and to send others in their stead, for the remainder of the year. No state shall be represented in Congress by less than two, nor more than seven members; and no person shall be capable of being a delegate for more than three years in any term of six years; nor shall any person, being a delegate, be capable of holding any office under the united states for which he, or another for his benefit receives any salary, fees or emoluments of any kind.

Each state shall maintain its own delegates in a meeting of the states, and while they act as members of the committee of the states.

In determining questions in the united states, in Congress assembled, each state shall have one vote.

Freedom of speech and debate in Congress shall not be impeached or questioned in any Court or place out of Congress, and the members of congress shall be protected in their persons from arrests and imprisonments, during the time of their going to and from, and attendance on congress, except for treason, felony, or breach of the peace.

ARTICLE VI. No state without the Consent of the united states in congress assembled, shall send any embassy to, or receive any embassy from, or enter into any conference, agreement, alliance or treaty with any King prince or state; nor shall any person holding any office of profit or trust under the united states, or any of them, accept of any present, emolument, office or title of any kind whatever from any king prince or foreign state; nor shall the united states in congress assembled, or any of them, grant any title of nobility.

No two or more states shall enter into any treaty, confederation or alliance whatever between them, without the consent of the united states in congress assembled, specifying accurately the purposes for which the same is to be entered into, and how long it shall continue.

No state shall lay any imposts or duties, which may interfere with any stipulations in treaties, entered into by the united states in congress assembled with any king, prince, or state, in pursuance of any treaties already proposed by congress to the courts of France and Spain.

No vessels of war shall be kept up in time of peace by any state, except such number only, as shall be deemed necessary by the united states in congress assembled, for the defence of such state, or its trade; nor shall any body of forces be kept up by any state, in time of peace, except such number only, as in the judgment of the united states, in congress assembled, shall be deemed requisite to garrison the forts necessary for the defence of such state; but every state shall always keep up a well regulated disciplined militia, sufficiently armed and accourted, and shall provide and constantly have ready for use, in public stores, a due number of field pieces and tents, and a proper quantity of arms, ammunition and camp equipage.

No state shall engage in any war without the consent of the united states in congress assembled, unless such state be actually invaded by enemies, or shall have received certain advice of a resolution being formed by some nation of Indians to invade such state, and the danger is so imminent as not to admit of a delay, till the united states in congress assembled can be consulted nor shall any state grant commissions to any ships or vessels of war, nor letters of marque or reprisal, except it be after a declaration of war by the united states in congress assembled, and then only against the kingdom or state and the subjects thereof, against which war has been so declared, and under such regulations as shall be established by the united states in congress assembled, unless such state be infested by pirates, in which case vessels of war may be fitted out for that occasion, and kept so long as the danger shall continue, or until the united states in congress assembled shall determine otherwise.

ARTICLE VII. When land forces are raised by any state for the common defence, all officers of or under the rank of colonel, shall be appointed by the legislature of each state respectively by whom such forces shall be raised, or in such manner as such state shall direct, and all vacancies shall be filled up by the state which first made the appointment.

ARTICLE VIII. All charges of war, and all other expenses that shall be incurred for the common defence or general welfare, and allowed by the united states in congress assembled, shall be defrayed out of a common treasury, which shall be supplied by the several states, in proportion to the value of all land within each state, granted to or surveyed for any Person, as such land and the buildings and the improvements thereon shall be estimated according to such mode as the united states in congress assembled, shall from time to time direct and appoint.

The taxes for paying that portion shall be laid and levied by the authority and direction of the legislatures of the several states within the time agreed upon by the united states in congress assembled.

ARTICLE IX. The united states in congress assembled, shall have the sole and exclusive right and power of determining on peace and war, except in the cases mentioned in the sixth article - of sending and receiving embassadors entering into treaties and alliances, provided that no treaty of commerce shall be made whereby the legislative power of the respective states shall be restrained from imposing such imposts and duties on foreigners, as their own people are subjected to, or from prohibiting the exportation or importation of any species of goods or commodities whatsoever - of establishing rules for deciding in all cases, what captures on land or water shall be legal, and in what manner prizes taken by land or naval forces in the service of the united states shall be divided or appropriated - of granting letters of marque and reprisal in times of peace appointing courts for the trial of piracies and felonies committed on the high seas and establishing courts for receiving and determining finally appeals in all cases of captures, provided that no member of congress shall be appointed a judge of any of the said courts. The united states in congress assembled shall also be the last resort on appeal in all disputes and differences now subsisting or that hereafter may arise between two or more states concerning boundary, jurisdiction or any cause whatever; which authority shall always be exercised in the manner following. Whenever the legislative or executive authority or lawful agent of any state in controversy with another shall present a petition to congress stating the matter in question and praying for a hearing, notice thereof shall be given by congress to the legislative or executive authority of the other state in controversy, and a day assigned for the appearance of the parties by their lawful agents, who shall then be directed to appoint by joint consent, commissioners or judges to constitute a court for hearing and determining the matter in question; but if they cannot agree, congress shall name three persons out of each of the united states, and from the list of such persons each party shall alternately strike out one, the petitioners beginning, until the number shall be reduced to thirteen; and from that number not less than seven, nor more than nine names as congress shall direct, shall in the presence of congress be drawn out by lot, and the persons whose names shall be so drawn, or any five of them, shall be commissioners or judges to hear and finally determine the controversy, so always as a major part of the judges who shall hear the cause shall agree in the determination; and if either party shall neglect to attend at the day appointed, without showing reasons, which congress shall judge sufficient, or being present shall refuse to strike, the congress shall proceed to nominate three persons out of each state, and the secretary of congress shall strike in behalf of such party absent or refusing; and the judgment and sentence of the court to be appointed, in the manner before prescribed, shall be final and conclusive; and if any of the parties shall refuse to submit to the authority of such court, or to appear or defend their claim or cause, the court shall nevertheless proceed to pronounce sentence, or judgment, which shall in like manner be final and decisive, the judgment or sentence and other proceedings being in either case transmitted to congress, and lodged among the acts of congress for the security of the parties concerned: provided that every commissioner, before he sits in judgment, shall take an oath to be administered by one of the judges of the supreme or superior court of the state, where the cause shall be tried, "well and truly to hear and determine the matter in question, according to the best of his iudgment, without favor, affection or hope of reward:" provided also that no state shall be deprived of territory for the benefit of the united states.

All controversies concerning the private right of soil claimed under different grants of two or more states, whose jurisdictions as they may respect such lands, and the states which passed such grants are adjusted, the said grants or either of them being at the same time claimed to have originated antecedent to such settlement of jurisdiction, shall on the petition of either party to the congress of the united states, be finally determined as near as may be in the same manner as is before prescribed for deciding disputes respecting territorial jurisdiction between different states.

The united states in congress assembled shall also have the sole and exclusive right of regulating the alloy and value of coin struck by their own authority, or by that of the respective states—fixing the standard of weights and measures throughout the united states—fixing the trade and managing all affairs with the Indians, not members of any of the states, provided that the legislative right of any state within its own limits be not infringed or violated—establishing and regulating postoffices from one state to another, throughout all the united states, and exacting such postage on the papers passing thro' the same as may be requisite to defray the expenses of said office—appointing all officers of the land forces, in the service of the united states, excepting regimental officers—appointing all the officers of the naval forces, and commissioning all officers whatever in the service of the united states—making rules for the government and regulation of said land and naval forces, and directing their operations.

The united states in congress assembled shall have authority to appoint a committee, to sit in the recess of congress, to be denominated "A Committee of the States," and to consist of one delegate from each state; and to appoint such other committees and civil officers as may be necessary for managing the general affairs of the united states under their direction—to appoint one of their number to preside, provided that no person be allowed to serve in the office of president more than one year in any term of three years; to ascertain the necessary sums of Money to be raised for the service of the united states, and to appropriate and apply the same for defraying the public expenses—to borrow money, or emit bills on the credit of the united states; transmitting every half year to the respective states an account of the sums of money so borrowed or emitted. to build and equip a navy—to agree upon the number of land forces, and to make requisitions from each state for its quota, in proportion to the number of white inhabitants in such state; which requisitions shall be binding, and thereupon the legislature of each state shall appoint the regimental officers, raise the men and cloath, arm and equip them in a soldier like manner, at the expense of the united states; and the officers and men so cloathed, armed and equipped shall march to the place appointed and within the time agreed upon by the united states in congress assembled: But if the united states in congress assembled shall, on consideration of circumstances judge proper that any state should not raise men, or should raise a smaller number than its quota, and that any other state should raise a greater number of men than its quota thereof, such extra number shall be raised, officered, clothed, armed and equipped in the same manner as the quota of such state, unless the legislature of such state shall judge that such extra number cannot be safely spared out of the same; in which case they shall raise, officer, cloathe, arm and equip as many of such number as they judge can be safely spared. And the officers and men so cloathed, armed and equipped shall march to the place appointed, and within the time agreed on by the united states in congress assembled.

The united states in congress assembled shall never engage in a war, nor grant letters of marque and reprisal in time of peace, nor enter into any treaties or alliances, nor coin money, nor regulate the value thereof, nor ascertain the sums and expenses necessary for the defence and welfare of the united states, or any of them, nor emit bills, nor borrow money on the credit of the united states, nor appropriate money, nor agree upon the number of vessels of war, to be built or purchased, or the number of land or sea forces to be raised, nor appoint a commander-in-chief of the army or navy, unless nine states assent to the same: nor shall a question on any point, except for adjourning from day to day, be determined unless by the votes of a majority of the united states in congress assembled.

The congress of the united states shall have power to adjourn to any time within the year, and to any place within the united states, so that no period of adjournment be for a longer duration than the space of six months, and shall publish the Journal of their proceedings monthly, except such part thereof relating to treaties, alliances or military operations, as in their judgment may require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the delegates of each state on any question shall be entered on the journal, when it is desired by any delegate; and the delegates of a state, or any of them, at his or their request shall be furnished with a transcript of the said Journal, except such parts as are above excepted, to lay before the legislature of the several states.

ARTICLE X. The committee of the states, or any nine of them, shall be authorized to execute, in the recess of congress, such of the powers of congress as the united states in congress assembled, by the consent of nine states, shall from time to time think expedient to vest them with; provided that no power be delegated to the said committee, for the exercise of which, by the articles of confederation, the voice of nine states in the congress of the united states assembled is requisite.

ARTICLE XI. Canada acceding to this confederation and joining in the measures of the united states, shall be admitted into, and entitled to all the advantages of this union; but no other colony shall be admitted into the same, unless such admission be agreed to by nine states.

ARTICLE XII. All bills of credit emitted, monies borrowed and debts contracted by, or under the authority of congress, before the assembling of the united states, in pursuance of the present confederation, shall be deemed and considered as a charge against the united states, for payment and satisfaction whereof the said united states, and the public faith are hereby solemnly pledged.

ARTICLE XIII. Every state shall abide by the determination of the united states in congress assembled, on all questions which by this confederation are submitted to them. And the articles of this confederation shall be inviolably observed by every state, and the union shall be perpetual; nor shall any alteration at any time hereafter be made in any of them; unless such alteration be agreed to in a congress of the united states, and be afterward confirmed by the legislatures of every state.

AND WHEREAS, it hath pleased the Great Governor of the World to incline the hearts of the legislatures we respectively represent in congress, to approve of, and to authorize us to ratify the said articles of confederation and perpetual union. Know Ye that we the undersigned delegates, by virtue of the power and authority to us given for that purpose, do by these presents, in the name and in behalf of our respective constituents, fully and entirely ratify and confirm each and every of the said articles of confederation and perpetual union, and all and singular the matter and things therein contained: And we do further solemnly plight and engage the faith of our respective constituents, that they shall abide by the determination of the united states in congress assembled, on all questions, which by the said confederation are submitted to them. And that the articles thereof shall be inviolably observed by the states we respectively represent and that the union shall be perpetual.

In Witness whereof we have hereunto set our hands in congress. Done at Philadelphia in the state of Pennsylvania the ninth day of July in the Year of our Lord one Thousand seven Hundred and Seventy-eight, and in the third year of the independence of America.

Note — Prior to the Declaration of Independence, and on the 12th day of the preceding month, a committee was appointed by the Continental Congress, "to prepare and digest the form of a confederation to be entered into between these colonies." The report of the committee was made on the 12th of July, and printed copies placed in the hands of members of the congress for their secret examination. For two years the articles were under discussion by the members of the several state legislatures to whom copies were sent by the new government, and on the 9th of July, 1778, the representatives in congress of the States of New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and South Carolina, signed the form above which had been agreed upon. To those states whose delegates being absent or uncertain of their power, did not sign the form at this time, congress addressed a request for action with all convenient dispatch. North Carolina ratified the Act on the 21st of July, and Georgia on the 24th of the same month, thus giving the assent of ten states to the instrument. The remaining ratifications were given, by New Jersey, November 26, 1778; by Delaware, May 5, 1779; and by Maryland, March 1, 1781.

Congress assembled under the Act of Confederation, March 2, 1781, the day following the ratification of the act by Maryland.

THE ORDINANCE OF 1787.

AN ORDINANCE FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF THE TERRITORY OF THE UNITED STATES NORTH WEST OF THE OHIO RIVER.

[Adopted by the Confederate Congress July 13th, 1787. The Constitution of the United States was adopted by the Congress the 28th of September following. The text from which this was printed was found in a volume of territorial laws printed in Cincinnati in the year 1796. By authority W. Maxwell, Jr., and known as "Maxwell's Code, 1796."]

Be it ordained by the United States in Congress assembled, That the said territory, for the purpose of temporary government, be one district; subject, however, to be divided into two districts, as future circumstances may, in the opinion of Congress, make it expedient.

Be it ordained by the authority aforesaid, that the estates both of resident and non-resident proprietors, in the said territory, dying intestate, shall descend to, and be distributed among their children, and the descendants of a deceased child in equal parts; the descendants of a deceased child or grandchild, to take the share of their deceased parent in equal parts among them; and where there shall be no children or descendants, then in equal parts to the next of kin, in equal degree; and among collaterals, the children of a deceased brother or sister of the intestate shall have in equal parts among them their deceased parents share; and there shall in no case be a distinction between kindred of the whole and half blood; saving in all cases to the widow of the intestate, her third part of the real estate for life, and one-third part of the personal estate; and this law relative to descents and dower, shall remain in full force until altered by the legislature of the district. And until the governor and judges shall adopt laws as hereinafter mentioned, estates in the said territory may be devised or bequeathed by wills in writing, signed and sealed by him or her in whom the estate may be (being of full age) and attested by three witnesses; and real estates may be conveyed by lease and release or bargain and sale signed, sealed and delivered by the person, being of full age, in whom the estate may be, and attested by two witnesses, provided such wills be duly proved, and such conveyances be acknowledged, or the execution thereof duly proved, and be recorded within one year after proper magistrates. courts, and registers shall be appointed for that purpose; and personal property may be transferred by delivery, saving, however, to the French and Canadian inhabitants, and other settlers of the Kaskaskies, Saint Vincents, and the neighboring villages, who have heretofore professed themselves citizens of Virginia, their laws and customs now in force among them, relative to the descent and conveyance of property.

Be it ordained by the authority aforesaid, that there shall be appointed from time to time, by Congress, a governor, whose commission shall continue in force for the term of three years, unless sooner revoked by Congress; he shall reside in the district, and have a freehold estate therein, in one thousand acres of land, while in the exercise of his office.

There shall be appointed from time to time, by Congress, a secretary, whose commission shall continue in force for four years, unless sooner revoked, he shall reside in the district, and have a freehold estate therein, in five hundred acres of land, while in the exercise of his office; it shall be his duty to keep and preserve the acts and laws passed by the legislature, and the public records of the district, and the proceedings of the governor in his executive department; and transmit authentic copies of such acts and proceedings, every six months, to the Secretary of Congress. There shall also be appointed a court to consist of three judges, any two of whom to form a court, who shall have a common-law jurisdiction, and reside in the district, and have each therein a freehold estate in five hundred acres of land, while in the exercise of their offices; and their commissions shall continue in force during good behavior.

CHA. THOMPSON, Secy.

Who was the Author of the Ordinance of 1787? — "There has been some diversity of opinion as to the individual to whom the honor of the paternity of that document rightfully belongs. Some have claimed it for Mr. Jefferson, though he did not claim it himself. The honor of drafting that instrument, on which the constitutions of all the northwestern states are founded, belongs of right to Nathan Dane, a revolutionary patriot of Massachusetts. He was its author, — he reported it to Congress and persevered in explaining, and impressing it on their attention till they became satisfied of its merits and adopted it by a unanimous vote, Mr. Jefferson being in France at the time." — Burnett's Notes on the North-Western Territory, pp. 37-8.

- SEC. 2. The State Treasurer and Auditor shall be triennially appointed by a joint ballot of both houses of the Legislature.
- Sec. 3. All town and township officers shall be chosen annually by the inhabitants thereof duly qualified to vote for members of Assembly, at such time and place as may be directed by law.
- SEC. 4. The appointment of all civil officers not otherwise directed by this Constitution, shall be made in such manner as may be directed by law.

ARTICLE VII.

Official Oaths.

Section 1. Every person who shall be chosen or appointed to any office of trust or profit under the authority of this State, shall, before the entering on the execution thereof, take an oath or affirmation to support the Constitution of the United States and of this State, and also an oath of office.

Bribery at Elections.

SEC. 2. Any elector who shall receive any gift or reward for his vote, in meat, drink, money, or otherwise, shall suffer such punishment as the law shall direct; and any person who shall, directly or indirectly, give, promise, or bestow any such reward to be elected, shall thereby be rendered incapable for two years to serve in the office for which he was elected, and be subject to such other punishment as shall be directed by law.

Of New Counties.

Sec. 3. No new County shall be established by the General Assembly which shall reduce the County or Counties or either of them, from which it shall be taken to less contents than four hundred square miles; nor shall any County be laid off of less contents. Every new County, as to the right of suffrage and representation, shall be considered as a part of the County or Counties from which it was taken until entitled by numbers to the right of representation.

On the Seat of Government.

SEC. 4. Chillicothe shall be the seat of government until the year one thousand eight hundred and eight. No money shall be raised until the year one thousand eight hundred and nine by the Legislature of this State for the purpose of erecting public buildings for the accommodation of the Legislature.

Of the Amendments to the Constitution.

SEC. 5. That after the year one thousand eight hundred and six, whenever two-thirds of the General Assembly shall think it necessary to amend or change this Constitution, they shall recommend to the electors, at the next election for members of the General Assembly, to vote for or against a convention; and if it shall appear that a majority of the citizens of the State voting for Representative have voted for a convention, the General Assembly shall, at their next session, call a convention, to consist of as many members as there be in the General Assembly, to be chosen in the same manner, at the same place, and by the same electors that choose the General Assembly; who shall meet within three months after the said election, for the purpose of revising, amending, or changing the Constitution. But no alteration of the Constitution shall ever take place so as to introduce slavery or involuntary servitude into this State.

Boundaries of the State.

SEC. 6. That the limits and boundaries of this State be ascertained, it is declared that they are as hereafter mentioned; that is to say: bounded on the east by the Pennsylvania line; on the south by the Ohio River to the mouth of the Great Miami River; on the west by the line drawn due north from the mouth of the Great Miami aforesaid; and on the north by an east and west line drawn through the southerly extreme of Lake Michigan, running east, after intersecting the due north line aforesaid from the mouth of the Great Miami, until it shall intersect Lake Erie, or the territorial line, and thence with the same, through Lake Erie, to the Pennsylvania line aforesaid; provided, always, and it is hereby fully understood and declared by this convention, that if the southerly bend or extreme of Lake Michigan should extend so far south that a line drawn due east from it should not intersect Lake Erie, or if it should intersect the said Lake Erie east of the mouth of the Miami River of the lake, then and in that case with the assent of the Congress of the United States, the northern boundary of this State shall be established by, and extend to, a direct line running from the southern extremity of Lake Michigan to the most northerly cape of the Miami Bay, after intersecting the due north line from the mouth of the Great Miami River as aforesaid, thence northeast to the territorial line, and, by said territorial line, to the Pennsylvania line.

ARTICLE VIII.

Bill of Rights.

That the general great and essential principles of liberty and free government may be recognized and forever unalterably established, we declare—

Section 1. That all men are born equally free and independent, and have certain natural inherent and unalienable rights, amongst which are the enjoying and defending life and liberty, acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and pursuing and obtaining happiness and safety; and every free republican government being founded in their sole authority, and organized for the great purpose of protecting their rights and liberties, and securing their independence—to effect these ends, they have at all times a complete power to alter, reform or abolish their government whenever they may deem it necessary.

- Sec. 2. There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in this State, otherwise than for the punishment of crimes, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted; nor shall any male person arrive at the age of twenty-one years or female person arrived at the age of eighteen years, be held to serve any person as a servant under the pretense of indenture or otherwise, unless such person shall enter into such indenture while in a state of perfect freedom, and on condition of a bona fide consideration received, or to be received for their service, except as before excepted. Nor shall any indenture of any negro or mulatto hereafter made and executed out of the State, or, if made in the State where the term of servitude exceeds one year, be of the least validity, except those given in the case of apprenticeships.
- SEC. 3. That all men have a natural and indefensible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of conscience; that no human authority can, in any case whatever, control or interfere with the rights of conscience; that no man shall be compelled to attend, erect, or support any place of worship, or to maintain any ministry against his consent; and that no preference shall ever be given by law to any religious society or mode of worship, and no religious test shall be required as a qualification to any office of trust or profit. But religion, morality, and knowledge being essentially necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of instruction shall forever be encouraged by legislative provision not inconsistent with the rights of conscience.
- Sec. 4. Private property ought, and shall ever be held inviolate, but always subservient to the public welfare, provided a compensation in money be made to the owner.
- SEC. 5. That the people shall be secure in their persons, houses, papers and possessions from unwarrantable searches and seizures and that general warrants, whereby an officer may be commanded to search suspected places without probable evidence of the fact committed, or to seize any person or persons not named whose offenses are not particularly described, and without oath or affirmation, are dangerous to liberty, and shall not be granted.
- Sec. 6. That the printing presses shall be open and free to every citizen who wishes to examine the proceedings of any branch of government, or the conduct of any public officer; and no law shall ever restrain the right thereof. Every citizen has an indisputable right to speak, write or print upon any subject as he thinks proper, being liable for the abuse of that liberty. In prosecutions for any publication respecting the official conduct of men in a public capacity, or where the matter published is proper for public information the truth thereof may always be given in evidence; and in all indictments for libels the jury shall have the right to determine the law and the facts under the direction of the court, as in other cases.

- Sec. 7. That all courts shall be open, and every person, for an injury done him in his lands, goods, person or reputation, shall have remedy by the due course of law, and right and justice administered without denial or delay.
 - SEC. 8. That the right of trial by jury shall be inviolate.
- Sec. 9. That no power of suspending laws shall be exercised unless by the Legislature.
- SEC. 10. That no person arrested or confined in jail shall be treated with unnecessary rigor or be put to answer any criminal charge but by presentment, indictment, or impeachment.
- SEC. 11. That in all criminal prosecutions, the accused hath a right to be heard by himself and counsel; to demand the nature and cause of the accusations against him and to have a copy thereof; to meet the witnesses face to face; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor; and in prosecutions by indictment or presentment a speedy public trial by an impartial jury of the County or District in which the offense shall have been committed; and shall not be compelled to give evidence against himself, nor shall he be twice put in jeopardy for the same offense.
- SEC. 12. That all persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, unless for capital offenses where the proof is evident or the presumption great; and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless, when in case of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it.
- Sec. 13. Excessive bail shall not be required; excessive fines shall not be imposed; nor cruel and unusual punishment inflicted.
- SEC. 14. All penalties shall be proportioned to the nature of the offense. No wise Legislature will affix the same punishment to the crimes of theft, forgery, and the like, which they do to those of murder and treason. When the same undisguised severity is exerted against all offenses, the people are led to forget the real distinction in the crimes themselves, and to commit the most flagrant with as little compunction as they do the slightest offenses. For the same reasons, a multitude of sanguinary laws are both impolitic and unjust; the true design of all punishments being to reform, not to exterminate, mankind.
- Sec. 15. The person of a debtor, where there is not strong presumption of fraud, shall not be continued in prison after delivering up his estate for the benefit of his creditor or creditors, in such manner as shall be prescribed by law.
- Sec. 16. No ex post facto law, nor any law impairing the validity of contracts, shall ever be made; and no conviction shall work corruption of blood or forfeiture of estate.
- SEC. 17. That no person shall be liable to be transported out of this State for any offense committed within the State.
- Sec. 18. That a frequent recurrence to the fundamental principles of civil government is absolutely necessary to preserve the blessings of liberty.
- Sec. 19. That the people have a right to assemble together in a peaceable manner to consult for their common good to instruct their Representatives, and to apply to the Legislature for a redress of grievances.
- Sec. 20. That the people have a right to bear arms for the defense of themselves and the State; and as standing armies in time of peace are dangerous to liberty, they shall not be kept up; and that the military shall be kept under strict subordination to the civil power.

- SEC. 21. That no person in this State, except such as are employed in the army or navy of the United States, or militia in actual service, shall be subject to corporal punishment under the military law.
- SEC. 22. That no soldier, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; nor in time of war, but in the manner prescribed by law.
- Sec. 23. That the levying of taxes by the poll is grievous and oppressive; therefore the Legislature shall never levy a poll tax for County or State purposes.
- SEC. 24. That no hereditary emoluments, privileges, or honors shall ever be granted or conferred by this State.
- Sec. 25. That no law shall be passed to prevent the poor in the several Counties and townships within this State from an equal participation in the schools, acadamies, colleges, and universities within this State which are endowed, in whole or in part, from the revenue arising from donations made by the United States for the support of schools and colleges; and the doors of the said schools, academies, and universities shall be open for the reception of scholars, students, and teachers of every grade without any distinction or preference whatever contrary to the intent for which said donations were made.
- Sec. 26. That laws shall be passed by the Legislature which shall secure to each and every denomination of religious societies in each surveyed township, which now is or may hereafter be formed in the State, an equal participation, according to their number of adherents, of the profits, arising from the land granted by Congress for the support of religion, agreeably to the ordinance or act of Congress making the appropriation.
- Sec. 27. That every association of persons, when regularly formed within this State, and having given themselves a name, may, on application to the Legislature, be entitled to receive letters of incorporation, to enable them to hold estates, real and personal, for the support of their schools, academies, colleges, universities, and for other purposes.
- SEC. 28. To guard against the transgression of the high powers which we have delegated, we declare that all powers not hereby delegated remain with the people.

Schedule.

- Section 1. That no evils or inconveniences may arise from the change of a territorial government to a permanent State government, it is declared by this convention that all rights, suits, actions, prosecutions, claims, and contracts, both as it respects individuals and bodies corporate, shall continue as if no change had taken place in this government.
- Sec. 2. All fines, penalties, and forfeitures, due and owing to the territory of the United States northwest of the River Ohio, shall inure to the use of the State. All bonds executed to the Governor, or any other officer in his official capacity in the territory, shall pass over to the Governor or the other officers of the State, and their successors in office for the use of the State, or by him or them to be respectively assigned over to the use of those concerned, as the case may be.
- SEC. 3. The Governor, Secretary, and Judges, and all other officers under the territorial government shall continue in the exercise of the duties of their respective departments until the said officers are superseded under the authority of this Constitution.

- SEC. 4. All laws and parts of laws now in force in this territory, not inconsistent with this Constitution, shall continue and remain in full effect until repealed by the Legislature, except so much of the act entitled "an act regulating the admission and practice of attorneys and counselors-at-law," and of the act made amendatory thereto, as relates to the term of time which the applicant shall have studied law, his residence within the territory and the term of time which he shall have practiced as an attorney-at-law before he can be admitted to the degree of a counselor-at-law.
- Sec. 5. The Governor of the State shall make use of his private seal until a State seal be procured.
- Sec. 6. The President of the convention shall issue writs of election to the Sheriffs of the several Counties, requiring them to proceed to the election of a Governor, members of the General Assembly, Sheriffs and Coroners, at the respective election districts in each County, on the second Tuesday of January next; which election shall be conducted in the manner prescribed by the existing election laws of this territory; and the members of the General Assembly then elected shall continue to exercise the duties of their respective offices until the next annual or biennial election thereafter, as prescribed in this Constitution, and no longer.
- SEC. 7. Until the first enumeration shall be made, as directed in the second section of the first article of this Constitution, the County of Hamilton shall be entitled to four Senators and eight Representatives; the County of Clermont, one Senator and two Representatives; the County of Adams, one Senator and three Representatives; the County of Ross, two Senators and four Representatives; the County of Fairfield, one Senator and two Representatives; the County of Belmont, one Senator and two Representatives; the County of Jefferson, two Senators and four Representatives; and the County of Trumbull, one Senator and two Representatives.

Done in the convention at Chillicothe, the twenty-ninth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and two, and of the independence of the United States of America, the twenty-seventh.

NOTES ON THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION OF 1802.

The Constitutional Convention of 1802 forms a connecting-link between the Territorial and State Government which seems to find its proper consideration at this point. The first session of the Second (and last) Territorial Legislature, was adjourned by Governor St. Clair in January, 1802, to meet in Cincinnati, November 29. The Congress, by an act of April 30, 1802, provided for the election of members of a convention which should:

First. Decide on the desirability of forming a state government, and Second. Frame the constitution for the state should the convention decide the first question affirmatively.

This convention met in Chillicothe on Monday, November 1, four weeks prior to the time set for the convening of the Second Territorial Legislature in its second session, and on the day appointed for the legislature to meet, promulgated the First Constitution of the State of Ohio.

Many members of the territorial legislature were members of this first constitutional convention, and the following notes from the Journal of that convention are republished as matters of history:

Edward Tiffin was chosen president of the Convention.

William Goforth was elected president pro tempore.

Thomas Scott was elected secretary at $3 per day.

William McFarland was elected assistant secretary, and ordered to attend the Committee on Preamble and First Article.

Adam Betz was elected door-keeper at $1.50 per day.

Upon the question whether it would be expedient to form a constitution and state government for the people of the Territory, at this time, the question carried in the affirmative by a vote of 32 to 1. Mr. Cutler voted in the negative.

Note—"Although more than a fourth of the members comprising the body had expressed their opinion in very decided terms against the expediency of the measure, and against the manner of its accomplishment, yet the resolution was carried. * * * Judge Cutler, an indomitable Whig, of Washington County, voting in the negative, solitary and alone." (Burnett's Notes on the Northwest Territory, pp. 352-3.)

A resolution was adopted requesting the governor to prorogue the territorial legislature which had adjourned in January last, to meet in Cincinnati on the fourth Monday of the present month. But this was not done, as the members of the legislature, many of whom were in convention, manifested no disposition to interfere with the progress of the Territory toward statehood. (See Burnett quoted.)

Nathaniel Willis was elected printer to the Convention, on the terms of his proposition to print 700 copies of the Journal of Convention, and 1,000 copies of the constitution then being framed.

A resolution to submit the proposed constitution to the people is found on page 15 of the Journal. It was disagreed to by the vote of 27 to 7, and the constitution was not submitted to the people, but was put in operation by the act of the delegates to the convention in formally signing the instrument in their representative capacity.

A proposition to have the members of the Senate chosen annually instead of biennially was defeated by a vote of 15 to 18.

A proposition to insert a proviso in Section 19 of Article 1, prohibiting any member of the Convention from holding any office under the constitution so framed, unless elective, for the term of one year after its adoption, was defeated—yeas 3, nays 31.

A proposition to strike out of the bill of rights that part of the second section relating to servitude of adult persons not negroes or mulattoes was defeated by a vote of 12 to 21.

A proposition to strike out that part of the same section which forbids slavery or involuntary servitude in this state, was defeated overwhelmingly, by a vote of yeas 2, nays 31.

Messrs. Paul and Reily, of Hamilton County, voted in favor of the proposition. (See Journal, p. 26; November 20, 1802.)

A proposition to amend the third section of the bill of rights by striking out the words "no religious test shall be required," etc., and inserting words to the effect that no person who denies the being of a God, or a place of future rewards and punishments, shall hold office in the civil government, was lost—yeas 3, nays 30.

In considering Article 4, on the twenty-second of November, the Convention voted—yeas 19, nays 15—to add these words to the end of the article:

"Provided, that all male negroes and mulattoes, now residing in this territory, shall be entitled to the rights of suffrage, if they shall within twelve months make a record of their citizenship."

As this is one of the earliest records of an attempt to give the right of suffrage to the negro in America, the vote on that proposition is interesting. Those who voted aye were: Abbot, Byrd, Cutler, Darlington, Dunlavy, Gatch, Gilman, Goforth, Grubb, Kitchel, Morrow, Paul, Putnam, Reily, Sargent, Smith, Updegraff, Wells and Wilson—19. Those who voted in the negative were: Abrams, Baldwin, Bair, Browne, Caldwell, Carpenter, Donaldson, Humphrey, Huntington, Kirker, McIntire, Massie, Milligan, Woods and Worthington—15.

At the same time the Convention refused, by a vote of 17 to 16, to extend the right of suffrage to the male descendants of such negro residents.

A motion was made to add to the seventh article of the constitution a new section, as follows:

"Section 7. No negro or mulatto shall ever be eligible to any office, civil, or military, or give their oath in any court of justice against a white person, be subject to do military duty or pay a poll tax in this state; provided always, and it is fully understood and declared, that all negroes and mulattoes, now in, or who may hereafter reside in this state, shall be entitled to all the privileges of citizens of this state, not excepted by this constitution."

This was agreed to by a vote of — yeas 19, nays 16 — as follows:

Yeas — Abrams, Baldwin, Bair, Byrd, Caldwell, Carpenter, Darlington, Donaldson, Grubb, Humphrey, Kirker, Massie, McIntire, Milligan, Morrow, Smith, Tiffin, Woods and Worthington—19.

Nays — Abbot, Browne, Cutler, Gatch, Gilman, Goforth, Huntington, Kitchel, Paul, Putnam, Reily, Sargent, Updegraff, Wells and Wilson — 15.

On Friday, November 26, in considering Article IV, a motion was made to strike out the provision which had been inserted on the twenty-second, giving right of suffrage to negroes and mulattoes who would prove their residence within twelve months. On this motion the yeas and nays were taken and resulted, 17 to 17. There being a tie vote, the president of the Convention (Edward Tiffin, afterward governor of the State) voted in the affirmative, and the proposition was stricken from the first constitution of the state. The change of front was brought about by the vote of the president and of the Messrs. Darlington, Grubb and Smith, who had previously voted to add this provision to the constitution. On the other hand, Mr. Browne, who had voted against the proposition in the first instance now voted to retain it as a part of the organic law of the state. (P. 34.) Mr. Donaldson, who had opposed the proposition on the twenty-second, refrained from voting on the question as now presented.

A proposition was made to strike out the fifth section of Article IV, relating to labor on roads and its relation to an elector's qualifications, which was defeated by a vote of 13 to 21.

A provision in Article VII, Section 3, that "no new county shall be established by the legislature, which is not entitled by its numbers to a representative," was stricken out by a vote of 22 to 12.

An effort to make the minimum number of square miles in a county five hundred instead of four hundred was defeated, 11 to 23.

A motion to strike out the section (7) added to Article VII on the twenty-second, in relation to the bar to negroes in office, etc., was carried by a vote of 17 to 16.

On this vote Messrs. Dunlavy (who had not voted on this proposition before), and Milligan (who had voted to incorporate it in the article), voted with the friends of the negro, and caused the amendment to be made. President Tiffin, who had voted for the incorporation of the section on the twenty-second, is not recorded on this later vote. The friends of the restriction tried to have it inserted in an amended form, but on a demand for the previous question were outgeneraled, and defeated. (P. 36.)

By a vote of 20 to 13, the convention inserted a provision in Section 2, Article VIII, prohibiting in this state the indenture of any negro or mulatto.

Early in the sitting of the convention the following message was adopted and ordered to be officially transmitted to the representatives of the United States:

To the President and Both Houses of Congress:

The Convention of the State of Ohio, November 27, 1802, duly appreciating the importance of a free and independent state government and impressed with sentiments of gratitude to the Congress of the United States, for the prompt and decisive measures taken at their last session, to enable the people of the north-western territory to immerge from their colonial government, and to assume a rank among the sister states, beg leave to take the earliest opportunity of announcing to you this important event: on this occasion the convention can not help expressing their unequivocal approbation of the measures pursued by the present administration of the general government, and both Houses of Congress, in diminishing the public burdens, cultivating peace with all nations, and producing the happiness and prosperity of our country.

THE SECOND (PRESENT) CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO.

(DONE IN CONVENTION AT CINCINNATI, MARCH 10, 1851.)

As Amended from Time to Time by the People, and the Constitutional Convention of 1912.

We, the people of the State of Ohio, grateful to Almighty God for our freedom, to secure its blessings and promote our common welfare, do establish this constitution.

ARTICLE I.

Bill of Rights.

- SECTION 1. All men are, by nature, free and independent, and have certain inalienable rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty, acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and seeking and obtaining happiness and safety.
- SEC. 2. All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for their equal protection and benefit, and they have the right to alter, reform, or abolish the same, whenever they may deem it necessary; and no special privileges or immunities shall ever be granted, that may not be altered, revoked, or repealed by the General Assembly.
- SEC. 3. The people have the right to assemble together, in a peaceable manner, to consult for their common good; to instruct their representatives; and to petition the General Assembly for the redress of grievances.
- Sec. 4. The people have the right to bear arms for their defense and security; but standing armies, in time of peace, are dangerous to liberty, and shall not be kept up; and the military shall be in strict subordination to the civil power.
- Sec. 5. The right of trial by jury shall be inviolate, except that, in civil cases, laws may be passed to authorize the rendering of a verdict by the concurrence of not less than three-fourths of the jury.

(Adopted Sept. 3, 1912.)

- Sec. 6. There shall be no slavery in this state, nor involuntary servitude, unless for the punishment of crime.
- Sec. 7. All men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own conscience. No person shall be compelled to attend, erect, or support any place of worship, or maintain any form of worship, against his consent; and no preference shall be given, by law, to any religious society; nor shall any interference with the rights of conscience be permitted. No religious test shall be required, as a qualification for office, nor shall any person be incompetent to be a witness on account of his religious belief; but nothing herein shall be construed to dispense with oaths and affirmations. Religion, morality, and knowledge, however, being essential to good government, it shall be the duty of the General Assembly to pass suitable laws to protect every religious denomination in the peaceable enjoyment of its own mode of public worship, and to encourage schools, and the means of instruction.

Sec. 8. The privilege of the writ of habcas corpus shall not be suspended unless in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety require it.

Sec. 9. All persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses where the proof is evident, or the presumption great. Excessive bail shall not be required; nor excessive fines imposed; nor cruel and unusual punishment inflicted.

SEC. 10. Except in cases of impeachment, cases arising in the army and navy, or in the militia when in actual service in time of war or public danger, and cases involving offenses for which the penalty provided is less than imprisonment in the penitentiary, no person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on presentment or indictment of a grand jury; and the number of persons necessary to constitute such grand jury and the number thereof necessary to concur in finding such indictment shall be determined by law. ARTICLE II.

Legislative.

SECTION 1. The legislative power of the state shall be vested in a general assembly consisting of a senate and house of representatives but the people reserve to themselves the power to propose to the general assembly laws and amendments to the constitution, and to adopt or reject the same at the polls on a referendum vote as hereinafter provided. They also reserve the power to adopt or reject any law, section of any law or any item in any law appropriating money passed by the general assembly, except as hereinafter provided; and independent of the general assembly to propose amendments to the constitution and to adopt or reject the same at the polls. The limitations expressed in the constitution, on the power of the general assembly to enact laws, shall be deemed limitations on the power of the people to enact laws. (Adopted Sept. 3, 1912.)

Sec. 1a. The first aforestated power reserved by the people is designated the initiative, and the signatures of ten per centum of the electors shall be required upon a petition to propose an amendment to the constitution. When a petition signed by the aforesaid required number of electors, shall have been filed with the secretary of state, and verified as herein provided, proposing an amendment to the constitution, the full text of which shall have been set forth in such petition, the secretary of state shall submit for the approval or rejection of the electors, the proposed amendment, in the manner hereinafter provided, at the next succeeding regular or general election in any year occurring subsequent to ninety days after the filing of such petition. The initiative petitions, above described, shall have printed across the top thereof: "Amendment to the Constitution Proposed by Initiative Petition to be Submitted Directly to the Electors." (Adopted Sept. 3, 1912.)

SEC. 1b. When at any time, not less than ten days prior to the commencement of any session of the general assembly, there shall have been filed with the secretary of state a petition signed by three per centum of the electors and verified as herein provided, proposing a law, the full text of which shall have been set forth in such petition, the secretary of state shall transmit the same to the general assembly as soon as it convenes. If said proposed law shall be passed by the general assembly, either as petitioned for or in an amended form, it shall be subject to the referendum. If it shall not be passed, or if it shall be passed in an amended form, or if no action shall be taken thereon within four months from the time it is received by the general assembly, it shall be submitted by the secretary of state to the electors for their approval or rejection at the next regular or general election, if such submission shall be demanded by supplementary petition verified as herein provided and signed by not less than three per centum of the electors in addition to those signing the original petition, which supplementary petition must be signed and filed with the secretary of state within ninety days after the proposed law shall have been rejected by the general assembly or after the expiration of such term of four months, if no action has been taken thereon, or after the law as passed by the general assembly shall have been filed by the governor in the office of the secretary of state. The proposed law shall be submitted in the form demanded by such supplementary petition, which form shall be either as first petitioned for or with any amendment or amendments which have been incorporated therein by either branch or by both branches of the general assembly. If a proposed law so submitted is approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon, it shall be the law and shall go into effect as herein provided in lieu of any amended form of said law which may have been passed by the general assembly, and such amended law passed by the general assembly shall not go into effect until and unless the law proposed by supplementary petition shall have been rejected by the electors. All such initiative petitions, last above described, shall have printed across the top thereof, in case of proposed laws: "Law Proposed by Initiative Petition First to be Submitted to the General Assembly". Ballots shall be so printed as to permit an affirmative or negative vote upon each measure submitted to the electors. Any proposed law or amendment to the constitution submitted to the electors as provided in section la and section lb, if approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon, shall take effect thirty days after the election at which it was approved and shall be published by the secretary of state. conflicting proposed laws or conflicting proposed amendments to the constitution shall be approved at the same election by a majority of the total number of votes cast for and against the same, the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall be the law, or in the case of amendments to the constitution shall be the amendment to the constitution. No law proposed by initiative petition and approved by the electors shall be subject to the veto of the governor. (Adopted Sept. 3, 1912.)

The second aforestated power reserved by the people is designated the referendum, and the signatures of six per centum of the electors shall be required upon a petition to order the submission to the electors of the state for their approval or rejection, of any law, section of any law or any item in any law appropriating money passed by the general assembly. No law passed by the general assembly shall go into effect until ninety days after it shall have been filed by the governor in the office of the secretary of state, except as herein provided. When a petition, signed by six per centum of the electors of the state and verified as herein provided, shall have been filed with the secretary of state within ninety days after any law shall have been filed by the governor in the office of the secretary of state, ordering that such law, section of such law or any item in such law appropriating money be submitted to the electors of the state for their approval or rejection, the secretary of state shall submit to the electors of the state for their approval or rejection such law, section or item, in the manner herein provided, at the next succeeding regular or general election in any year occurring subsequent to sixty days after the filing of such petition, and no such law, section or item shall go into effect until and unless approved by a majority of those voting upon the same. If, however, a referendum petition is filed against any such section or item, the remainder of the law shall not thereby be prevented or delayed from going into effect. (Adopted Sept. 3, 1912.)

SEC. 1d. Laws providing for tax levies, appropriations for the current expenses of the state government and state institutions, and emergency laws necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety, shall go into immediate effect. Such emergency laws upon a yea and nay vote must receive the vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to each branch of the general assembly, and the reasons for such necessity shall be set forth in one section of the law, which section shall be passed only upon yea and nay vote, upon a separate roll call thereon. The laws mentioned in this section shall not be subject to the referendum. (Adopted Sept. 3, 1912.)

Sec. 1e. The powers defined herein as the "initiative" and "referendum" shall not be used to pass a law authorizing any classification of property for the purpose of levying different rates of taxation thereon or of authorizing the levy of any single tax or land or land values or land sites at a higher rate or by a different rule than is or may be applied to improvements thereon or to personal property. (Adopted Sept. 3, 1912.)

SEC. 1f. The initiative and referendum powers are hereby reserved to the people of each municipality on all questions which such municipalities may now or hereafter be authorized by law to control by legislative action; such powers shall be exercised in the manner now or hereafter provided by law. (Adopted Sept. 3, 1912.)

Sec. 1g. Any initiative, supplementary or referendum petition may be presented in separate parts but each part shall contain a full and correct copy of the title, and text of the law, section or item thereof sought to be referred, or the proposed law or proposed amendment to the constitution. Each signer of any initiative, supplementary or referendum petition must be an elector of the state and shall place on such petition after his name the date of signing and his place of residence. A signer residing outside of a municipality shall state the township and county in which he resides. A resident of a municipality shall state in addition to the name of such municipality, the street and number, if any, of his residence and the ward and precinct in which the same is located. The names of all signers to such petitions shall be written in ink, each signer for himself. To each part of such petition shall be attached the affidavit of the person soliciting the signatures to the same, which affidavit shall contain a statement of the number of the signers of such part of such petition and shall state that each of the signatures attached to such part was made in the presence of the affiant, that to the best of his knowledge and belief each signature on such part is the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be, that he believes the persons who have signed it to be electors, that they so signed said petition with knowledge of the contents thereof, that each signer signed the same on the date stated opposite his name; and no other affidavit thereto shall be required. The petition and signatures upon such petitions, so verified, shall be presumed to be in all respects sufficient, unless not later than forty days before the election, it shall be otherwise proved and in such event ten additional days shall be allowed for the filing of additional signatures to such petition. No law or amendment to the constitution submitted to the electors by initiative and supplementary petition and receiving an affirmative majority of the votes cast thereon, shall be held unconstitutional or void on account of the insufficiency of the petitions by which such submission of the same was procured; nor shall the rejection of any law submitted by referendum petition be held invalid for such insufficiency. Upon all initiative, supplementary and referendum petitions provided for in any of the sections of this article, it shall be necessary to file from each of one-half of the counties of the state, petitions bearing the signatures of not less than one-half of the designated percentage of the electors of such county. A true copy of all laws or proposed laws or proposed amendments to the constitution, together with an argument or explanation, or both, for, and also an argument or explanation, or both, against the same, shall be prepared. The person or persons who prepare the argument or explanation, or both, against any law, section or item, submitted to the electors by referendum petition, may be named in such petition and the persons who prepare the argument or explanation, or both, for any proposed law or proposed amendment to the constitution may be named in the petition proposing the same. The person or persons who prepare the argument or explanation, or both, for the law, section or item, submitted to the electors by referendum petition, or against any proposed law submitted by supplementary petition, shall be named by the general assembly, if in session, and if not in session then by the governor. The secretary of state shall cause to be printed the law, or proposed law, or proposed amendment to the constitution, together with the arguments and explanations, not exceeding a total of three hundred words for each, and also the arguments and explanations, not exceeding a total of three hundred words against each, and shall mail, or otherwise distribute, a copy of such law, or proposed law, or proposed amendment to the constitution, together with such arguments and explanations for and against the same to each of the electors of the state, as far as may be reasonably Unless otherwise provided by law, the secretary of state shall cause to be placed upon the ballots, the title of any such law, or proposed law, or proposed amendment to the constitution, to be submitted. He shall also cause the ballots so to be printed as to permit an affirmative or negative vote upon each law, section of law, or item in a law appropriating money, or proposed law or proposed amendment to the constitution. The style of all laws submitted by initiative and supplementary petition shall be: "Be it Enacted by the People of the State of Ohio," and of all constitutional amendments: "Be it Resolved by the People of the State of Ohio." The basis upon which the required number of petitioners in any case shall be determined shall be the total number of votes cast for the office of governor at the last preceding election therefor. The foregoing provisions of this section shall be self-executing, except as herein otherwise provided. Laws may be passed to facilitate their operation, but in no way limiting or restricting either such provision or the powers herein reserved. (Adopted Sept. 3, 1912.)

SEC. 18. At the time when the votes of the electors shall be taken for the adoption or rejection of this constitution, the additional section, in the words following, to-wit: "No license to traffic in intoxicating liquors shall hereafter be granted in this state; but the General Assembly may, by law, provide against evils resulting therefrom," shall be separately submitted to the electors for adoption or rejection, in form following, to-wit: A separate ballot may be given by every elector and deposited in a separate box. Upon the ballots given for said separate amendment shall be written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, the words: "License to sell intoxicating liquors, Yes;" and upon the ballots given against said amendment, in like manner, the words: "License to sell intoxicating liquors, No." If, at the said election, a majority of all the votes given for and against said amendment, shall contain the words: "License to sell intoxicating liquors, No," then the said amendment shall be a separate section of article fifteen of the constitution.

SUPRREME COURT DECISIONS RELATIVE TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The term legislature is synonymous with that of "general assembly": State v. Gear, 7 O. N. P. 551, 5 O. D. (N. P.) 569.

All legislative power is vested in the general assembly by Art. II, section 1, of the constitution of Ohio subject to the limitations and restrictions contained in other provisions of that instrument and in the constitution of United States: Peters v. Williams, 36 O. S. 155, III Longsdorf's Notes, 837.

Sessions.

G. C. section 35 is a valid enactment; the present session of the general assembly convened pursuant to its provisions is regular; and such of its acts as are passed in the exercise of legislative power and not transcending any limitation which the constitution places upon the exercise of that power are valid: State, ex rel., v. Creamer, 83 O. S. 412.

The express provisions of the constitution of the state establish such relation between the election of state officers and the convening of the general assembly that since the seventeenth article, adopted in 1905, has expressly changed the date of the election from November of the odd numbered years to the same month of the even numbered years, the provision for the convening of the regular session of the general assembly then elected must be regarded as changed by implication from the first Monday of January in the even numbered years to the first Monday of the same month in the odd numbered years: State v. Creamer, 83 O. S. 412.

The adjourned session is part or original. State v. Harmon, 31 O. S. 250, III Longsdorf's Notes, 579.

Officers.

The journal of the House is the only competent evidence of the election of an officer by such house. Thus at a time when judges were elected by the legislature, the journal of the house showed the election of Samuel Moffit and the journal of the senate showed the election of Lemuel Moffit. The mistake was not corrected on the record. The speakers did not certify the election to the governor as was required by law and no commission issued to him. The court of common pleas admitted Lemuel Moffit to take the oath of office and to act as associate judge. In a quo warranto proceeding it was held that Lemuel Moffit had no authority to act as such judge. State, ex rel., v. Moffit, 50. 358, 1 Longsdorf's Notes, 289.

Qualifications of Members.

Federal judgeship accepted by a legislator disqualifies him: State, ex rel., v. Guilbert, 61 O. S. 513, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 816.

Journals.

The journals of the general assembly are the best evidence of its official action, and can not be superseded by the act of the presiding officer in signing a bill; nor can they be contradicted by extrinsic evidence: State, ex rel., v. McCollister, 11 O. 46, I Longsdorf's Notes, 539; State ex rel., v. Moffit, 5 O. 358, I Longsdorf's Notes, 289; Miller v. State, 3 O. S. 476, II Longsdorf's Notes, 50; Steamboat Northern Indiana v. Milliken, 7 O. S. 383, II Longsdorf's Notes, 308; Fordyce v. Godman, 20 O. S. 1, II Longsdorf's Notes, 975; State, ex rel., v. Smith, 44 O. S. 348, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 216; State, ex rel., v. Price, 8 O. C. C. 25, 4 O. C. D. 296.

The clerk of either house may certify relative to the proceedings of the house in which he served, to the facts appearing upon the journals, but evidence in the form of a copy of an original bill, certified as a correct copy by the clerk, for the purpose of impeaching a law is incompetent: State v. Jones. Platt v. Craig, 22 O. C. C. 682, 11 O. C. D. 496.

If a bill is in fact passed by the general assembly but it is not copied upon the journal of either house and it is not filed in the office of the secretary of state, such bill is not a law even, if a bill which is in many respects like that in question is contained in the printed volume of the laws of that general assembly: Burke v. Cincinnati, 8 O. N. P. 109, 10 O. D. (N. P.) 542.

Powers.

The legislature has power to define crimes and prescribe the penalty, subject to constitutional limitations expressed in the bill of rights: Morgan v. Nolte, 37 O. S. 23, III Longsdorf's Notes, 888.

Remedial laws that are retroactive are within the power of the legislature if they do not interfere with vested rights: Templeton v. Kraner, 24 O. S. 554, III Longsdorf's Notes, 191.

The power of the legislature to validate any void or ineffectual act is limited to such acts as it might have originally performed or authorized: Bartlett v. State, 73 O. S. 54, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 999.

Where discretion is vested in the legislature, the courts will not inquire into the manner of its exercise: McKisson v. Wright, 15 O. D. (N. P.) 105.

It is presumed that the legislature had knowledge of existing legislation: Charles v. Fawley, 71 O. S. 50, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 979.

The legislature can prescribe reasonable restrictions and qualifications of sureties on official and fiduciary bonds, the giving of the same not being a private right: McKisson v. Wright, 15 O. D. (N. P.) 105.

The question of requiring bonds for costs is a matter of legislative discretion: Taylor v. Crawford, 72 O. S. 560, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 993.

Fixing salaries of county surveyors is a legislative power. State, ex rel., v. Rogers, 71 O. S. 203, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 981.

The legislature has power to determine what laws and regulations are needed to protect public health and to secure public safety. If its measures are calculated, intended, convenient and appropriate to accomplish this end, the exercise of its discretion can not be reviewed by the courts; but under the guise of police regulations, personal rights and private property can not be affected arbitrarily, and the determination of the legislature upon these questions is not

final: Bernhardt v. Wise, 12 O. N. P. (N. S.) 545, 23 O. D. (N. P.) 230 (Affirmed on another point, Bernhardt v. Wise, 15 O. C. C. (N. S.) 158.)

The legislature may declare fish nets a nuisance and that they may be destroyed: State v. French, 71 O. S. 186, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 981.

The apportionment of the state made by the board at the session of the board held April 13, 1891, did not violate any of the principles prescribed by the constitution: State v. Campbell, 48 O. S. 435, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 423.

A resolution of a legislative body to investigate for the purpose of further legislation, is the exercise of a right incident to the power of legislation, and if the power itself be surrendered, the incidental right goes with it: State, ex rel., v. Gayman, 11 O. C. C. (N. S.) 257, 21 O. C. D. 59 (affirmed, without opinion, Gayman v. State, ex rel., 79 O. S. 444).

Intemperate language in a resolution creating an investigating committee and the license and revolutionary procedure proposed thereby, together with the declaration that all laws are being violated by an organized band which no one dares to oppose, make it clear that hope is not based on additional legislation which obviously could not be rendered effective under such circumstances, but these considerations cause it to be evident that the resolution was not adopted in good faith for the purpose of providing remedial laws, and places it beyond the pale of the constitution: State, ex rel., v. Gayman, 11 O. C. C. (N. S.) 257, 21 O. C. D. 59 (affirmed, without opinion, Gayman v. State, ex rel., 79 O. S. 444).

G. C. Section 13314, providing for the exclusion from the right of suffrage of one who sells his vote is with the express authority conferred upon the general assembly by section 4, article V of the constitution, to exclude "any person convicted of bribery, perjury or other infamous crime": Grooms v. State, 83 O. S. 408.

The general assembly by an attempted leasing of public ground for a term of years to a tenant, for use which is not an exclusive public purpose, can not destroy a public trust. Such leases are not void, but rather voidable at the option of the public evidenced by a public necessity. Such a tenant of the public has no relief in damages on account of such an earlier termination of his letting. The right of such a tenant ends where public necessity intervenes: Cincinnati v. Hynicka, 9 O. N. P. (N. S.) 273, 20 O. D. (N. P.) 365 (affirmed, without opinion, Cincinnati v. Hynicka, 84 O. S. 446).

Awarding a franchise to use streets, where there are no specific questions of difference between a municipality and the company, is legislation and not the exercise of a judicial function: Telephone Co., v. Cincinnati, 5 O. C. C. (N. S.) 411, 17 O. C. D. 385.

G. C. section 8763, et seq., authorize a railroad company, in proceeding to exercise the power of eminent domain through the action of its board of directors, to appropriate an easement for an elevated track across a public landing heretofore dedicated for such landing; provided, however, that the mode and manner of the construction of such elevated track be agreed upon between the railroad company and the council of the municipality wherein the landing is located. In such event the grant of the right to cross comes from the legislature and not from the municipal council: Cincinnati v. Railway, 9 O. N. P. (N. S.) 433, 20 O. D. (N. P.) 440 (affirmed, without opinion, Cincinnati, 82 O. S. 466).

It is a matter for the legislature to determine the wisdom and propriety of reposing discretion in public officers in the performance of their duties; and where its delegation is found to be unwise or too broad, the remedy lies with the legislature, and not the courts: Columbus v. Board of Public Service, 14 O. D. (N. P.) 715.

The preparation by the board of public service of plans and specifications, for authorized improvements is not an exercise of legislative power: Yaryan v. City of Toledo, 8 O. C. C. (N. S.) 1, 18 O. C. D. 259.

G. C. section 13208, providing against the sale of articles of traffic within four miles of the place where an assemblage of people is collected or collecting for religious worship, or for holding a harvest home festival, etc., without having obtained a permit, and imposing a penalty for the violation thereof, is an unconstitutional exercise of power by the legislature: State v. Coats, 10 O. N. P. (N. S.) 349, 20 O. D. (N. P.) 561.

The supreme court acquires both original and appellate jurisdiction directly from the constitution of the state as amended September 3, 1912. The general assembly has no power or authority to limit or increase that jurisdiction: State vs. Mansfield, 89 O. S. 20.

Single Branch of Legislature.

A single branch of the general assembly can not, by resolution, allow compensation for extra services performed by its sergeant-at-arms, such compensation being inhibited by Art II, section 29, of the constitution unless the services were provided for by pre-existing law, or the allowance be ratified by two-thirds of the members elected to each branch of the general assembly: State, ex rel., v. Williams, 34 O. S. 218, III Longsdorf's Notes, 710.

The whole legislative power of this state having been conferred by the constitution upon the general assembly as a unit and not upon the senate or house of representatives acting separately, a single branch of the general assembly so acting has no power of independent legislation, except as expressly granted in the constitution, or as necessarily implied in the express grants: State, ex rel., v. Guilbert, 75 O. S. 1, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1013; State, ex rel., v. Guilbert, 4 O. L. R. 451.

Committees.

A standing committee on privileges and elections of either house of the general assembly, while engaged under the orders of such house in taking testimony and making investigations to be reported to it, in a contest for membership thereof, pending therein, with power to send for persons and papers, may, by a subpoena duces tecum, lawfully command a clerk of the court of common pleas, having custody thereof, to produce before such committee any poll-book affecting the election involved in such contest, although this may require its removal to another county than that in which his office is situated. Upon the refusal of the clerk to obey the company of such subpoena, it is lawful for such house, upon his arraignment therein and further refusal, to order his commitment to jail as for contempt of its authority, until he obeys, or signifies his willingness to obey, the command of such subpoena; such imprisonment not to extend, however, beyond the pending session of the general assembly: In re Dalton, 44 O. S. 142, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 200.

Sections 57 and 62 of the General Code, inclusive, do not confer authority upon the legislature to appoint committees; but are designed to prescribe procedure for committees which may have been constitutionally and regularly appointed: State, ex rel., v. Guilbert, 75 O. S. 1, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1013.

A single branch of the general assembly has no power to appoint a select invesigating committee for general legislative purposes. Sections 57 to 62 of the General Code do not confer such power and if they were so intended they would be unconstitutional. 75 O. S. 1, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1013.

The senate joint resolution of Feb. 14, 1908, providing for an investigating committee in Hamilton county is unconstitutional: State, ex rel., v. Gayman, 11 O. C. C. (N. S.) 257, 21 O. C. D. 59 (affirmed, without opinion, Gayman v. State, ex rel., 79 O. S. 444).

The legislature has no power to appoint a special investigating committee for legislative purposes: State, ex rel., v. Guilbert, 4 O. L. R. 451.

The fact that the general assembly has adjourned sine die renders it impossible that information which might be obtained by an investigating committee should be used by the body seeking it as an aid of intended legislation or that it will be so used by a body over which such assembly will have any control, and therefore deprives the investigation of the purpose announced, and leaves the matter in the same situation as though no purpose had been declared by the resolution: State, ex rel., Gayman, 11 O. C. C. (N. S.) 257, 21 O. C. D. 59 (affirmed, without opinion, Gayman v. State, ex rel, 79 O. S. 444).

Delegation of Powers.

Legislative powers can not be delegated: State, ex rel., v. Rogers, 71 O. S. 203, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 981.

Since Art. XIII, section 6 of the Ohio constitution requires the legislature to provide for the organization of cities and incorporated villages, legislative authority to the council to pass ordinances is not an unconstitutional delegation of the legislative power of the state: Markle v. Akron, 14 O. 586, I Longsdorf's Notes, 689; Mays v. Cincinnati, 1 O. S. 268, I Longsdorf's Notes 973; Zanesville v. Richards, 5. O. S. 589, II Longsdorf's Notes, 207; Perry county v. Railway, 43 O. S. 451, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 175; State, ex rel., v. Toledo, 48 O. S. 112, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 406; Stass v. State, 23 O. C. D. 159 (affirmed, without opinion, Stass v. State, 81 O. S. 497).

The provisions that the electrical inspector shall adopt and promulgate proper rules and requirements for the installation of electrical wiring and appurtenances, and that all such construction and the material used therein shall be in accordance with the requirements of the national electrical code, is not such a delegation of legislative power as to render it void: Toledo v. Winters, 10 O. N. P. (N. S.) 661, 21 O. D. (N. P.) 171.

General Code sections 3578, 3579, providing for detaching territory from a municipality do not confer legislative powers on the court: Fairview v. Giffee, 73 O. S. 183.

The statutes which authorize boards of health to make local regulations are not invalid as a delegation by the general assembly of its legislative power contrary to Art. II, section 26 of the constitution of Ohio: Stass v. State, 23 O. C. D. 159 (affirmed, without opinion, Stass v. State, 81 O. S. 497).

The duties of the Ohio railroad commission are not legislative or judicial, but executive and the designation of such a board for the ascertainment of the facts in respect to the matter complained of in this cause; and the application of the general rule of duty or conduct thereto, without impairment of the right of redress in the courts, is within the limitations of the constitution, and not in derogation thereof because of a delegation of legislative power to the commission: Railroad v. Railroad Commission, 10 O. N. P. (N. S.) 665, 21 O. D. (N. P.) 468.

If a fraternal beneficiary association which has been operating as a voluntary unincorporated association complies with the statutory provision of this state with reference to incorporation under the laws of Ohio, the superintendent of insurance has no power to refuse to certify and record such articles or to issue a certificate authorizing such organization to do business in Ohio; and mandamus will lie to compel the superintendent of insurance to issue such certificate. The fact that the incorporators have not filed a stipulation that the rate of regular payments or assessments should not be lower for death benefits than those required by the national fraternal congress table of mortality (see G. C. section 9476), is both premature since such announcement should be made only after such certificate is issued, and also unnecessary since such provision is unconstitutional in that the legislature can not delegate the right to fix such rates of such voluntary association: State, ex rel., v. Lemert, 10 O. N. P. (N. S.) 133, 21 O. D. (N. P.) 113.

Exemption From Process.

A member of the general assembly is exempt from service of summons in a county other than that of his residence, during the sessions of the assembly and the time usually occupied in traveling to and fro from such sessions, where the cause of action accrued ten days before the opening of the session: Walsh v. Mooney, 13 O. C. C. (N. S.) 90, 23 O. C. D. 214.

A member of the general assembly is not exempt from answering a petition filed against him in a county other than his residence until the session is closed and he has returned home: Walsh v. Mooney, 13 O. C. C. (N. S.) 90, 23 O. C. D. 214.

Supplies.

Under G. C. section 171, the secretary of state alone has authority to purchase stationery and such other articles as may be necessary for the use of the general assembly and the state officers: State v. Ruggles, 10 O. N. P. (N. S. 493) exceptions overruled by the supreme court on the ground that the indictment did not allege that the bill which was paid was not a valid claim against the state: State v. Ruggles, 83 O. S. 474.

Official Duties of Members.

Asking other members of the legislature to support bills and resolutions, collecting and presenting facts and reasons to them, and making arguments, to induce such other members to support bills and resolutions constitute an "official action," and the exercise of official duty by a member of the legislature: State v. Geyer, 3 O. N. P. 242, 5 O. D. (N. P.) 646.

Soliciting money to induce other persons to make arguments in favor of a measures before committees, or to collect facts and reasons in favor of it, and present them to the committee or the individual members of the legislature, is a crime: State v. Abbott, 7 O. N. P. 447, 5 O. D. (N. P.) 650.

An allegation of a promise of money in order to influence the official conduct of a clerk of the state legislature is sufficiently comprehensive to embrace any of his duties: State v. Iden, 7 O. N. P. 339, 5 O. D. (N. P.) 627.

Soliciting Bribe.

A mere statement that money would have to be paid to a committee of the legislature to induce them to report a certain bill, is not a solicitation unless the speaker's intention was that the money should influence his official action: State v. Gear, 7 O. N. P. 477, 5 O. D. (N. P.) 652.

To constitute the crime of soliciting a bribe it is not necessary to show either a payment or that the solicitation was the sole inducement for the official action of a member of the legislature: State v. Abbott, 7 O. N. P. 447, 5 O. D. (N. P.) 650.

Soliciting money to induce other persons to make arguments in favor of a measure before committees, or to collect facts and reasons in favor of it, and present them to the committee or the individual members of the legislature, is a crime. State v. Abbott, 7 O. N. P. 447, 5 O. D. (N. P.) 650.

The solicitation may be for the defendant or for any other member of the legislature; and the state is not required to prove that the defendant solicited money for his own use or that the money was, in fact, paid to him, or that the money solicited was the sole consideration or inducement for his action: State v. Geyer, 3 O. N. P. 242, 5 O. D. (N. P.) 646.

The jury are to ascertain the meaning of the language. If it was merely the legislator's opinion that money would have to be paid to a committee to induce it to report favorably on a bill, this is not criminal, but if money was sought to influence the defendant's action, he is guilty: State v. Gear, 7 O. N. P. 477, 5 O. D. (N. P.) 652.

The state need not show that the defendant would be influenced in a particular way, nor that he wanted the money for his own use or intended to use it for his own purposes, nor that it was to be the sole inducement, but only that he solicited it to influence his action or judgment as a member of the general assembly (charge to jury): State v. Nye, 56 Bull. 273.

An indictment which charges a sergeant-at-arms of the state senate with knowingly aiding and abetting A., a member of the senate, in the solicitation of a bribe, is not rendered insufficient by reason of failure to aver knowledge on the part of the defendant that A. was a member of the senate, or to aver how the defendant aided and abetted in the commission of the offense, or in stating the corrupt purpose to be that A. "might be then and there influenced," whereas the statute uses the words "to influence": Diegle v. State, 14 O. C. C. (N. S.) 289, 23 O. C. D. (affirming State v. Diegle, 11 O. N. P. (N. S.) 593, and State v. Andrews, 11 O. N. P. (N. S.) 605, 21 O. D. (N. P.) 557 and affirmed, without opinion, Diegle v. State, 86 O. S. 310).

Indictment.

A single count may charge that the offer was made to influence the vote of a member of the house of representatives of the general assembly as such member, and as a member of a certain committee. 'The charge thus made constitutes but one offense under the statute: Watson v. State, 39 O. S. 123, III Longsdorf's Notes, 1011.

An indictment against a member of the legislature for bribery, is not bad on the ground that the word "legislature" is used instead of "general assembly"; and an indictment need not state particularly the house in which the bill was pending: State v. Gear, 7 O. N. P. 551, 5 O. D. (N. P.) 569.

Disfranchisement.

"Infamous" in Art. V, section 4, of the constitution of Ohio, includes bribery, if the legislature has attached such character to such crime. Grooms v. State, 83 O. S. 408.

The provisions of G. C., section 13314, excluding from the right of suffrage one who sells his vote, are within the express authority conferred upon the general assembly by section 4, article V, of the constitution to exclude "any person convicted of bribery, perjury or other infamous crime": Grooms v. State, 83 O. S. 408.

Control By State.

The legislature has power to pass inspection laws and require the inspector's compensation to be paid by the inspected occupations. This does not violate the requirements to tax all property uniformly; accordingly, the act for the inspection of gas meters at the expense of the gas companies, in proportion to their valuation, is valid: Gas Co. v. State, 18 O. S. 237, II Longsdorf's Notes, 885.

Constitutionality of Legislation.

A statute which authorizes a municipal corporation to fix the rate at which gas may be sold followed by an ordinance which fixes a rate below the cost of manufacturing the same are, when taken together, unconstitutional as depriving the gas company of its property without due process of law: Gaslight & Coke Co. v. Cleveland, 71 Fed. 610 9 O. F. D. 258.

A gas company in a city or village, chartered by an act of the legislature, passed before the adoption of the present constitution of the state, is subject to the provisions of an ordinance regulating the price of gas, adopted by the council of the city or village, under the authority conferred by G. C., section 3982, where the right to fix its own prices is not expressly conferred on the company by the terms of its charter: Zanesville v. Gaslight Co., 47 O. S. 1, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 355.

The city of Toledo, not having legislative authority to regulate the price of natural gas, prior to the act of March 1, 1889, an ordinance passed prior thereto, containing a provision for the further regulation of the price upon such terms as council and the company might determine, constitutes a binding contract between the parties, when accepted: Toledo v. Gas Co., 6 O. N. P. 531, 8 O. D. (N. P.) 277.

Joint Resolution.

A joint resolution is not an act of legislation and cannot be effective for any purpose for which an exercise of legislative power is necessary: Railway v. State, ex rel., 85 O. S. 251.

Enactment of Bills.

Article II, section 16, was incorporated into the constitution for the purpose of making it a permanent rule of the houses, and to operate only on bills in their progress through the general assembly. It is directory only, and the supervision of its observance must be left to the general assembly: Pim v. Nicholson, 6 O. S. 176, II Longsdorf's Notes, 226.

The provision, Art. II, section 16, that a bill shall contain no more than one subject is directory only: Seeley v. Thomas, 31 O. S. 301, III Longsdorf's Notes, 585; State, ex rel v. Mulhern, 74 O. S. 363, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1011, Weil v. State, 3 O. C. C. 657, 2 O. C. D. 382 (affirmed Weil v. State, 46 O. S. 450, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 338) Jones v. Commissioners, 2 O. C. (N. S.) 14, 15 O. C. D. 510; State, ex rel., v. Covington, 29 O. S. 102, III Longsdorf's Notes, 444; see also Bloom v. Xenia, 32 O. S. 461, III Longsdorf's Notes, 644.

Art. II, section 16 of the constitution, requiring that in amending laws the new act shall contain the entire act or section amended, is directory merely, and does not abolish repeals or modifications by implication: Chillicothe vs. Gas Co., 8 O. N. P. 88, 11 O. D. (N. P.) 24.

When an act, properly construed, amends certain sections, and the change so made impliedly modifies certain other provisions to bring them into harmony, this effect does not require the sections thus modified to be included as changed in the amendatory act. In other words, article 11, section 16, of the constitution does not affect the rule for construing statutes in pari materia: Chillicothe v. Gas Co., 8 O. N. P. 88, 11 O. D. (N. P.) 24.

Where one statute is incorporated into another by reference the effect is the same as if the provisions of the former has been re-enacted into the latter, so far as they form part of the second enactment: Stoner v. Railway, 9 O. N. P. (N. S.), 337, 20 O. D. (N. P.) 448.

Presumption as to Compliance.

While article II, section 16, is directory only it will be presumed that the legislature complied therewith: Newton v. Toledo, 18 O. C. C. 756, 8 O. C. D. 607 (affirmed, without opinion, Toledo v. Newton, 52 O. S. 649).

Every reasonable intendment is to be made in favor of the proceedings of the legislature. It is not to be presumed that the assembly, or either house of it, has violated the constitution. When, therefore, it appears by the journals, that a bill was amended by striking out all after the enacting clause, and inserting a "new bill," so called, it can not be presumed that the matter inserted was upon a different subject from that stricken out, especially when the matter inserted is consistent with the title borne by the bill before such amendment. This is the more obvious since the constitution provides that "no bill shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title." Nor does the fact that the inserted matter is called a "new bill" prove that it was not an amendment: Miller v. State, 3 O. S. 475, II Longsdorf's Notes, 50.

Article II, section 16, of the state constitution, which provides that "no bill shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in the title," is directory merely; accordingly, section 231 of the act of October 22, 1902 (96 v. 96; commonly called the "new municipal code"), expressly repealing R. S., section 2823a, (see G. C. section 5627, et seq.), is constitutional, and effectually repeals said section, notwithstanding the latter relates to county tax levies and is in no way connected with the subject of municipal tax levies or the other provisions of said act: Jones v. Commissioners, 2 O. C. C. (N. S.) 14, 15 O. C. D. 510.

Act Containing But One Subject.

"No bill shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title." Art. II, section 16, of the constitution is directory only, It is only a permanent rule of the house, applying to bills on their passage: Pim v. Nicholson, 6 O. S. 176, II Longsdorf's Notes, 226.

Article II, section 16, of the constitution, forbidding a bill to contain more than one subject, is directory, and the law can not be held invalid: (This case was affirmed as Walsh v. Railroad, 176 U. S. 469): Vought v. Railroad 58 O. S. 123, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 734.

The medical registration act does not violate Art. II, section 16, of the constitution, requiring bills to contain but one subject: State v. Ottman, 6 O. D. (N. P.) 265, 4 O. N. P. 195.

Amendments.

Article II, section 16, of the constitution, that no law shall be amended unless the new act contains the amended sections and repeals the old is directory only, and merely requires a full statement of the new act and does not prevent repeals by implication: Lehman v. McBride, 15 O. S. 573, II Longsdorf's Notes, 749; State, ex. rel., v. Gano, 3 Dec. Rep. 177, 4 Gaz. 337.

An independent statute not amending any particular statute, but amending the law generally, is not obnoxious to Art. II, section 16, of the constitution: Rairden v. Holden, 15 O. S. 207, II Longsdorf's Notes, 721.

Number of Readings.

Article II, section 16, of the constitution does not require that every amendment to a bill shall be read three times. It is directory only: 3 O. S. 475, II Longsdorf's Notes, 50.

The presumption that a bill was read three times can not be rebutted by proof outside the journals: Miller v. State, 3 O. S. 475, II Longsdorf's Notes, 50.

Where the journals show that a bill was passed, and there is nothing in them to show that it was not read, as the constitution requires, the presumption is that it was so read, and this presumption is not liable to be rebutted by proof: State, ex rel., v. Jones, 22 O. C. C. 682, 11 O. C. D. 496 (following Miller v. State, 3 O. S. 475, II Longsdorf's Notes, 50, distinguishing State ex rel., v. Price, 8 O. C. C. 25, 4 O. C. D 296.).

An amendment made during the passage of an ordinance and not materially changing its provisions need not be read three times: Weaver v. Mt. Vernon, 7 O. N. P. 374, 6 O. D. (N. P.) 436.

Majority Vote.

In the absence of all showing to the contrary, a law will be presumed to have been passed by the requisite number of votes: Steamboat v. Millikin, 7 O. S. 383, II Longsdorf's Notes, 308.

No bill can become a law without receiving the number of votes required by the constitution, and if it were found by an inspection of the legislative journals, that what purports to be a law upon the statute book was not passed by the requisite number of votes, it might possibly be the duty of the courts to treat it as a nullity. But it does not follow that an act that was passed by a constitutional majority is invalid, because in its consideration the assembly did not strictly observe the mode of procedure prescribed by the constitution. There are provisions in that instrument that are directory in their character, the observance of which by the assembly is secured by their sense of duty and official oaths, and not by any supervisory power of the courts: Miller v. State, 3 O. S. 475, II Longsdorf's Notes, 50; Fordyce v. Godman, 20 O. S. 1, II Longsdorf's Notes, 975.

Under the constitution of Ohio, any enactment of law may be repealed by the concurrence of a majority, even though under the constitution, the act so repealed was required to be and was passed by the concurrence of two-thirds of the members of each house: Backenstoe v. State, 2 O. N. P. (N. S.) 178, 14 O. D. (N. P.) 584.

The concurrence of both houses of the general assembly by constitutional majorities and by a yea and nay vote entered upon the journal, in the report of a conference committee, appointed to adjust the differences between said houses and relative to a bill constitutes a legal passage of the law under consideration: Zumstein v. Mullen, 67 O. S. 382, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 932.

Effect of Journals.

Where the journal of each house of the general assembly shows that a law received the concurrence of the number of members required by the constitution for its adoption and that it was publicly signed in the presence of each house by its presiding officer, as required by article II, section 17, of the constitution, its authenticity can not be impeached by parol evidence that one or more of the members in either house, recorded as concurring in its adoption, had prior thereto, been seated upon the determination of a contested election, by less than a constitutional quorum, although the concurrence of such member or members was necessary to the number of votes required by the constitution for the passage of the law: State, ex rel., v. Smith, 44 O. S. 348, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 216.

The legislative journals furnish the appropriate evidence on the question whether a bill has been passed by the requisite number of votes. Were we to hold otherwise we would in effect hold that a bill might become a law without receiving the number of votes required by the constitution; that a single presiding officer might by his signature, give the force of law to a bill which the journal of the body over which he presides, and which is kept under the supervision of the whole body, shows not to have been voted for by the constitutional number of members. The plain provisions of the constitution are not to be thus nullified, and the evidence which it requires to be kept under the supervision of the collective body must control when a question arises as to the due passage of a bill: Fordyce v. Godman, 20 O. S. 1, II Longsdorf's Notes, 975.

The journals of each house are the best evidence: State, ex rel., v. Price, 8 O. C. C. 25 4 O. C. D. 296.

Presumptions are every day made, to support the proceedings of the courts, far more liberal than would be a presumption that this so-called "new bill" was read on three days, and it is difficult to perceive why the proceedings of the assembly are not entitled to as much favor as the doings of the courts. The latter are as much bound as the former to keep a record or journal, and no one will pretend that legislative records should be more full and perfect than the judicial. If a strict, literal compliance with every constitutional requirement, however minute, is necessary to the validity of a law, and the courts are bound to hold that nothing was done but what appears in the legislative journals, it is easy to demonstrate that not a single statute enacted since the constitution took effect, can be upheld. It is nowhere stated in the journals that any reading of a bill was full and distinct, although the constitution requires that every reading shall be so. But surely this omission does not vitiate every act that has been passed, and make it the duty of the courts to hold them null and void. Everybody, I suppose, would admit that the reading being stated, the fullness and distinctness thereof may be presumed. If so, why may not three readings, and on different days, be presumed, when to do so contradicts nothing in the journal, but, on the contrary, is entirely consistent with it? In the case before us, the journal of April 13th, expressly stated that the bill in question was that day "read the third time" and passed. This imports that it had previously been read twice, and as the journal shows that it was considered on March 27, when the amendment, called a "new bill," was reported, and again on the 7th and 12th of April, why may it not be presumed that there were two prior readings on two of these three days? Miller v. State, 3 O. S. 475, II Longsdorf's Notes, 50. For the effect of the journal as evidence, see also State, ex rel., v. Moffit, 5 O. 358 J Longsdorf's Notes, 289.

For the purpose of determining whether or not the public act of the legislature received the two-thirds vote required by Art. IV, section 15, of the constitution, courts will take judicial notice of the vote by which such act was passed: Backenstoe v. State, 2 O. N. P. (N. S.) 178, 14 O. D. (N. P.) 580.

Signature of Presiding Officers.

If a bill is in fact passed by the legislature but is not copied upon the journals of either house, nor signed by the presiding officer of either house, nor enrolled as a law, nor filed in the office of the secretary of state, nor published in the official volume of laws enacted by that general assembly, such bill is not a law and its enactment and contents can not be proved by printed bills bearing number and title identical with the one described and deposited in the state library in accordance with the statute then in force (G. C. section 73): State v. Kieswetter, 45 O. S. 254 (see note to section 68), IV Longsdorf's Notes, 273.

Under the constitution of this state and under the joint rules and practice of the general assembly, a bill which provides that it shall be in force from and after its passage, becomes a law and takes effect when it has received the requisite number of votes of the members elected to each house, and is signed by the presiding officer of each house: State, ex rel., v. O'Brien, 47 O. S. 464, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 388.

A bill cannot become a law until it has been signed by the presiding officer of each house; and when one bill was so signed after another bill so signed on the same day the former is the latter enactment: 63 O. S. 165, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 851.

Presentation to Governor and Approval or Veto.

An entry in a record which is kept in the office of the governor pursuant to a requirement of law and with his acquiesence used to perpetuate evidence of the presentation to him of bills, which have been passed by both houses of the general assembly, the entry being made by a subordinate of the governor in the discharge of duties prescribed by him and showing the presentation of an identified bill on the day named, is competent and sufficient to prove such presentation: Wrede v. Richardson, 77 O. S. 182, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1031 (affirming Wrede v. Richardson, 5 O. N. P. (N. S.) 127, 18 O. D. (N. P.) 793, 5 O. L. R. 405, I Hosea, 494).

The enactment of an officially promulgated statute can not be impeached by parol evidence: Wrede v. Richardson, 77 O. S. 182, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1031 (affirming Wrede v. Richardson 5 O. N. P. (N. S.) 127, 18 O. D. (N. P.) 793, 5 O. L. R. 405, I Hosea, 494).

The governor not having relinquished the duties of his office in view of a disability recognized by him, and there being no authorized procedure to ascertain that a disability has intervened, it is not competent upon an issue as to the valid enactment of a statute to show that upon the day of its presentation to him, and for ten days thereafter, he was, by reason of illness, disabled to receive or consider it so as to give effect to the provision of the fifteenth section of the third article of the constitution that in case of the disability of the governor, the duties of his office shall devolve upon the lieutenant governor. Wrede v. Richardson, 77 O. S. 182, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1031 (affirming Wrede v. Richardson, 5 O. N. P. (N. S.) 127, 18 O. D. (N. P.) 793, 5 O. L. R. 405, I. 405, I Hosea, 494).

Initiative.

An initiated law, which has been introduced into the house of representatives, in compliance with article II, section 1b, of the revised constitution of 1912, and referred to the proper committee, which reported it back with amendments which were agreed to by the house, which took no further action upon it, may be submitted as thus amended to the electors of the state in due time after a supplementary petition properly signed and verified has been filed with him demanding its submission in its amended form. Amendments to the proposed law, thus reported and agreed to, are thereby incorporated in it as required by said section: Pfeifer v. Graves, 88 O. S. 473.

In a proceeding against the secretary of state, to enjoin the submission of an initiated law which has been introduced into the house of representatives in compliance with art. II, section 1b, of the constitution of 1912, and referred to the proper committee, which reported it back with amendments which were agreed to by the house, which took no action upon it, the section will not be rigidly construed so as to exclude the submission for the reason that the bill as amended was not enacted by the legislature: Pfeifer v. Graves, 88 O. S. 473.

The language of article II, section 1b, of the constitution, is to be fairly and reasonably interpreted so as to carry out the purpose of the people who adopted the dual form of direct and indirect legislation prescribed therein: Pfeifer v. Graves, 88 O. S. 473.

When Law Takes Effect.

The presumption is that the legislature intends a statute to take effect at the time it declares the statute shall be in effect, and a court may not by construction substitute a different time merely to correct defective legislation: State, ex rel., v. Roney 82 O. S. 376.

The province of construction of a statute is to ascertain and give effect to the intention of the legislature, but its intention must be derived from the legislation and may not be invented by the court. To supply the intention and then give the statute effect according to such intention would not be construction but legislation: State, ex rel., v. Roney, 82 O. S. 376.

A statute declared to take effect from and after a date named, takes effect on the day after the day of the date named: State, ex rel., v. Roney, 82 O. S. 376.

The sections of the so-called Paine law (99 v. 562), went into effect as therein provided, respectively "on August 1, 1909," and from and after "January 1, 1910": State, ex rel., v. Roney, 82 O. S. 376.

There is no legal objection to different provisions of the same statute taking effect at different times at the will of the legislature: Gas Co. v. Chillicothe, 65 O. S. 186, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 883.

An act has no force until it goes into effect: Evans v. Lumber Co., 21 O. C. C. 80, 11 O. C. D. 543.

A statute to take effect from and after its passage required leave of court to file a petition in error in all cases hereafter. On the same day, but at what time does not appear, a petition in error was filed without leave. On motion to dismiss, it was held that (1) the act took effect on the day of its passage and by presumption of law on the commencement and not end of the day; (2) this presumption would not prevail to conflict with any right acquired on that day before the actual passage of the act, and in such case the exact time might be shown; (3) the plaintiff in error not showing the time, the presumption of law would prevail that the act took effect from the beginning of the day: Arrowsmith v. Hameling 39 O. S. 573, III Longsdorf's Notes, 1049 (distinguishing Koltenbrock v. Cracroft, 36 O. S. 584, III Longsdorf's Notes, 876).

When a statute, which repeals a prior statute on the same subject, is to take effect and be in force "from and after" a day named, it does not take effect until the expiration of the day named: Koltenbrock v. Cracroft, 36 O. S. 584, III Longsdorf's Notes, 876.

Where sections of a statute are amended to take effect from and after the passage of the amending act but containing a proviso that such amendment shall apply after a fixed date in the future and where the amending act repeals the original sections, the repealed sections will control until the new sections become applicable: Coal Co. v. Coal Co., 68 O. S. 278, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 943.

An act of the legislature, which by its own provision, is to take effect upon its passage, takes effect on the day after its passage, and from the first moment of that day: Orth v. McCook, 2 Dec. Rep. 624, 4 W. L. M. 215.

An act to take effect "upon its passage" is the same in meaning as to take effect "from and after its passage": Orth v. McCook, 2 Dec. Rep. 624, 4 W. L. M. 215.

The time a law takes effect if it is from and after its passage is not when it receives the necessary votes, but is on the date it is signed by the presiding officer of each house: State, ex rel., v. O'Brien, 47 O. S. 464, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 388; see query in Arrowsmith v. Hamering, 39 O. S. 573, III Longsdorf's Notes, 1049.

An act to take effect from May 15, next, was voted for in April but not signed by the presiding officer until May 3. It was held that May 15 next thereafter was intended as the day of its taking effect: Fosdick v. Perrysburg, 14 O. S. 472, II Longsdorf's Notes, 675.

An act passed to take effect upon the vote of electors at a specified election is void, if it does not come within the exception contained in Art. II, section 26 of the constitution: State, ex rel., v. Garver, 66 O. S. 555, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 917 (reversing State, ex rel., v. Garver, 13 O. C. D. 140).

It was questioned but not decided whether the provisions of the new municipal code, section 231, 96 v. 96, that the act for some purposes shall take effect from and after November 15, 1902, and for others the first Monday in May, 1903, applies to the curative provisions, sections 31 and 137 thereof: Horstman v. Railway Co., 13 O. D. (N. P.) 378 (reversed, Horstman v. Railway, 72 O. S. 93, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 988).

The civil service act of May 10, 1913 (103 v. 698), in so far as it relates to incumbents of office and places mentioned in the third paragraph of section 10 thereof, went into effect January 1, 1914: State, ex rel., v. Schneller, 15 O. N. P. (N. S.) 438.

In General.

The manner in which a law was passed can not influence judicial action. The members are responsible to their constitutents and not to the courts: State, ex rel., v. Dudley, 1 O. S. 437, I Longsdorf's Notes, 929.

A law may be revived by being referred to in another statute enacted afterwards, but such indirect legislation will not be deemed intended unless clearly shown: Ludlow v. Johnston, 3 O. 553, I Longsdorf's Notes, 195.

The report of a committee recommending the passage of an act, while not reaching the dignity of judicial authority, may be considered in the interpretation of the legislative enactment: Bunger v. Railroad Co., 14 O. N. P. (N. S.) 487.

An unconstitutional law can not be constitutionally vitalized by repassing it: Horstman v. Railway, 1 O. N. P. (N. S.) 25, 13 O. D. (N. P.) 670.

Effect of Statute.

In determining the validity of statutes, the court can not consider the motives which influenced the legislature or the means whereby the passage of such statute was induced. The members of the legislature are responsible for their official conduct to the people and not to the courts. If a statute is within any of the constitutional powers of the legislature the court must uphold it no matter how the legislature may have abused the confidence placed in it: State, ex rel., v. Dudley, 1 O. S. 437, I Longsdorf's Notes, 997.

Rules of Court.

A statute can not be modified in any way by a rule of court; and in so far as such rule conflicts with, or purports to enlarge or restrict the operation of the statute, it is invalid: Hunt v. State, 5 O. C. (N. S.) 621, 17 O. C. D. 16.

A valid statute of the state can not be rendered nugatory or materially modified by a rule by one of the courts of the state: Van Ingen v. Berger, 82 O. S. 255.

Correction of Mistake.

Correction of a statute for mistake is in the power of a court if the error is manifest: Tappan v. Tappan, 6 O. S. 64, II Longsdorf's Notes, 218; State, ex rel., v. Archibald, 52 O. S. 1, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 559.

The constitution of Ohio requires the legislature to pass laws providing for the taxation of all property in the state, and the legislature having acted in pursuance of such requirement, the courts will not presume that it has failed to include such taxation any class or species of property, either through oversight or by design: Miller v. Mellen Co., 15 O. N. P. (N. S.) 33.

Unconstitutionality.

In the absence of a specific statute, the question whether the invalidity of a part of a statute renders the rest invalid depends upon the presumed intention of the legislature. If it can fairly be presumed that the legislature intended to enact such part of the statue as is valid, independent of that part which has been held to be invalid, the invalidity of such part will not affect the residue of such statute. On the other hand, if it can not be fairly presumed that the legislature would have enacted that part of the statute which by itself is valid, without also enacting that part which is invalid, the invalidity of such part renders invalid the entire statute: Bank v. Hines, 3 O. S. 1, II Longsdorf's Notes, 1; Horstman v. Railway, 13 O. D. (N. P.) 670.

The power to impose taxes is a legislative power and is vested in the general assembly by article II, section 1, of the constitution: State, ex rel., v. Guilbert, 70 O. S. 229, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 973.

The acts of March 28, 1864, and April 16, 1867, authorizing county commissioners, township trustees and city councils to levy a tax for the payment of bounties to volunteers, are authorized by the general grant of legislative power: State, ex rel., v. Trustees, 20 O. S. 362, II Longsdorf's Notes, 1001.

An act imposing a collateral inheritance tax and discriminating among collateral kindred is within the power of the legisalture: Hagerty v. State, ex rel., 55 O. S. 613, IV Longsdorf's 675.

The power of taxation was said to be a part of the legislative sovereignty of the state, and is not the subject of contract or barter, or sale, by the legislature in Bank v. Debolt, 1 O. S. 591, I Longsdorf's Notes, 1009.

In 1845 the legislature passed a general banking law, section 59 of which required the officers to make semi-annual dividends, and section 60 required them to set off six per cent. of such dividends for the use of the state, which sum or amount so set off should be in lieu of all taxes to which the company or the stockholders therein would otherwise be subject. On March 21, 1851, an act was passed, entitled "An act to tax banks, and bank and other stocks, the same as property is now taxable by the laws of this state." The operation of this law being to increase the tax, the question arose whether the latter act, as far as it applied to banks organized under the act of 1845, was an act impairing the obligation of a contract, and in contravention of Art. 1, section 10, of the constitution of the United States. In a series of decisions it was held by the supreme court of Ohio that such charters were not contracts: But the supreme court of the United States reversed those decisions in different cases holding that the charters of the banks were contracts fixing the amount of taxation, and not a law prescribing a rule of taxation until changed by the legislature; that such contracts bartering away the power of taxation were valid, and that, therefore, the act of 1851 was unconstitutional.

In our present constitution, as well as in the former, the general grant of legislative authority includes the power of taxation in all its forms. * * * Hill v. Higdon, 5 O. S. 243, II Longsdorf's Notes, 176.

The general grant of legislative power vested in the general assembly by Art II, section 1, of the constitution, includes the power to collect revenue for public purposes and the limitations on the exercise of this power are to be found in other provisions of this instrument and in the constitution of the United States: Telegraph Co. v. Mayer, 28 O. S. 521, III Longsdorf's Notes, 419.

The legislative power with respect to taxation is not unlimited: State, ex rel., v. Commissioners, 35 O. S. 458, III Longsdorf's Notes, 796.

Article II, section 1, of the constitution, confers upon the general assembly the power of taxation, but their power extends only to the levying of taxes for the purpose of the state. The act, entitled, "An act to provide relief for worthy blind" (97 v. 392), requires the expenditure of public funds for a private purpose and is unconstitutional: Auditor v. State, ex rel., 75 O. S. 114, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1014 (reversing Davies v. State, ex rel., 6 O. C. C. (N. S.) 417, 17 O. C. D. 593).

The power to authorize assessments, as distinguished from taxes proper, is comprehended in the general grant of legislative power to the general assembly: Reeves v. Treasurer, 8 O. S. 333, II Longsdorf's Notes, 344.

The legislature, in the exercise of the general power of taxation, as distinguished from the power of local assessment, may create a special taxing district without regard to municipal or political subdivisions of the state, and may levy a tax on all property within such district by a uniform rule, according to its true value in money, for the purpose of defraying the expenses of constructing and maintaining public roads therein: Bowles v. State, 37 O. S. 35, III Longsdorf's Notes, 890.

The power of taxation, however, included in the legislative power vested in the general assembly by Art. II, section 1, of the constitution is, indeed, wisely regulated and limited by that instrument; but we may well ask what avails the power of taxation if there is no commensurate power to collect taxes and assessments when imposed. It is not, therefore, we think, beyond the scope of the legislative authority of the state to enact that the payment of a tax on the business of the liquor traffic shall be secured by a lien on the premises upon which the business is carried on, when the tenant holds under a lease made after the passage of the statute: Anderson v. Brewster, 44 O. S. 576, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 234.

The legislative branch has the exclusive power of taxation. It may in the absence of constitutional restrictions delegate the taxing power to municipalities in such measure as it deems expedient, but it can not confer any greater power than the state itself possesses, and it must observe the restrictions and limitations of the organic law: State, ex rel., v. Toledo, 48 O. S. 112, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 406.

The power to value property for taxation is a legislative power and is conferred upon the general assembly by the general grant of legislative power in Art. II, section 1, of the constitution. Crawford v. Madigan, 13 O. D. (N. P.) 494.

The power of taxation is included in the legislative power. In our former constitution it is limited in one particular, the prohibition of a poll tax. In the present it is regulated or limited in other particulars. Art. XII, section 2, is not a grant of power, but a regulation of the power already printed in section 1, Art. II. The expression is "laws shall be passed," not that the "general assembly shall have the power to pass." So of every provision in Art. XII, they either prohibit or regulate the exercise of the power of taxation in specified instances: Baker v. Cincinnati, 11 O. S. 534, II Longsdorf's Notes, 527.

The provisions of Art. XII, of the constitution, are not grants of power to the legislature, but limitations and restrictions on the general powers conferred by Art. II, section 1, of the constitution: Telegraph Co. v. Mayer, 28 O. S. 521, III Longsdorf's Notes, 419.

The power of taxation is limited, but not conferred by Art XII, section 2 of the constitution. The limitation is on the power to raise revenue by the taxation of property; all other recognized modes may be resorted to by the legislature. The power of taxation is included in the legislative power conferred on the general assembly by Art II, section 1, of the constitution: Adler v. Whitbeck, 44 O. S. 539, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 231.

Art. XII, section 2, of the constitution, is not a grant of power, but a regulation or limitation rather, of the taxing power comprised in the general legislative power of the state vested in the general assembly: Anderson v. Brewster, 44 O. S. 576, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 234.

Art. XII, section 2, of the constitution, does not prevent the general assembly from compelling municipal corporations to levy taxes to install a sewage purification plant: Board of Health v. Greenville, 86 O. S. 1 (reversing Greenville v. Demorest, 14 O. C. C. (N. S.) 113, 22 O. C. D. 544).

The power of taxation is included in the legislative power; and the provisions with reference to the power of taxation in Art XII of the Ohio constitution are limitations and not grants of power: Loring v. State, 16 O. C. 590, I Longsdorf's Notes, 787.

Tax laws being in pari materia must be construed together for the purpose of giving effect to legislative intention: Insurance Co. v. Bowland, 196 U. S. 611, 14 O. F. D. 543, 2 O. L. R. 515.

The express provisions of the constitution of the state establish such relation between the election of state officers and the convening of the general assembly, that since the seventeenth article, adopted in 1905, has expressly changed the date of the election from November of the odd numbered years to the same month of the even numbered years, the provision for the convening of the regular session of the general assembly then elected must be regarded as changed by implication from the first Monday of January in the even numbered years to the first Monday of the same month in the odd numbered years: State, ex rel., v. Creamer, 83 O. S. 412.

Powers of Each House.

Art II, section 6, is to be construed with Art. II, section 4, and though the general assembly does not act, the court can not evade that duty: State, ex rel., v. Mason, 61 O. S. 513, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 816.

Art. II, section 8, is to be construed with section 4 of article II: State, ex rel., v. Mason, 61 O. S. 513, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 816.

The jurisdiction which Art. II, section 6, confers upon each house of the general assembly "to judge of the election returns and qualifications of its own members was said to be exclusive in Dalton v. State, ex rel., 43 O. S. 653, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 189 (reversing State, ex rel., v. Dalton, 1 O. C. C. 139, 1 O. C. D. 82).

A legislative committee on privileges and elections, of either house of the general assembly, may command a clerk of the courts to produce a poll-book; and upon his refusal may commit him to jail for contempt: 44 O. S. 142, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 200.

Art. II, section 6, contains some of the powers granted to the senate or house acting separately: State, ex rel., v. Guilbert, 75 O. S. 1, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1013.

A joint resolution of the general assembly is ineffectual to modify statute law either by way of appeal or amendment: State v. Kinney, 56 O. S. 721, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 701.

Art. II, section 8, defines power which the house and senate may exercise, acting, separately: State, ex rel., v. Guilbert, 75 O. S. 1, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1013.

Where the constitution requires an action to be by joint ballot of both houses of the general assembly the house can regulate the mode of doing this: State, ex rel., v. Moffitt, 5 O. 358, I Longsdorf's Notes, 289.

Journal.

The journal provided for in Art. 1, section 9, of the constitution of 1802, when taken in connection with the laws and resolutions, is the appropriate evidence of legislative action; and such journal can not be contradicted by oral evidence: State, ex rel., v. Moffitt, 5 O. 358, I Longsdorf's Notes, 289.

Where the journal of each house of the general assembly shows that a law received the concurrence of the number of members required by the constitution for its adoption and that it was publicly signed in the presence of each house by its presiding officer, as required by Art. II, section 17, of the constitution, its authenticity can not be impeached by parol evidence that one or more of the members in either house recorded as concurring in its adoption, had prior thereto, been seated upon the determination of a contested election, by less than, a constitutional quorum, although the concurrence of such member, or members, was necessary to the number of votes required by the constitution for the passage of the law: State, ex rel., v. Smith, 44 O. S. 348, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 216.

The legislative journals furnish the appropriate evidence on the question whether a bill has been passed by the requisite number of votes. Were we to hold otherwise we would in effect hold that a bill might become a law without receiving the number of votes required by the constitution; that a single presiding officer might by his signature give the force of law to a bill which for the journal of the body over which he presides, and which is kept under the supervision of the whole body, shows not to have been voted for by the constitutional number of members. The plain provisions of the constitution are not to be thus nullified, and the evidence which it requires to be kept under the supervision of the collective body, must control when a question arises as to the due passage of a bill: Fordyce v. Godman, 20 O. S. 1, II Longsdorf's Notes, 975.

Presumptions are every day made, to support the proceedings of the courts, far more liberal than would be a presumption that this so-called "new bill" was read on three days, and it is difficult to perceive why the proceedings of the assembly are not entitled to as much favor as the doings of the courts. The latter are as much bound as the former to keep a record or journal, and no one will pretend that legislative records should be more full and perfect than judicial. If a strict, literal compliance with every constitutional requirement, however minute, is necessary to the validity of a law, and the courts are bound to hold that nothing was done but what appears in the legislative journals, it is easy to demonstrate that not a single statute enacted since the constitution took effect, can be upheld. It is nowhere stated in the journals that any reading of a bill was full and distinct, although the constitution requires that every reading shall be so. But surely this omission does not vitiate every act that has been passed, and make it the duty of the courts to hold them null and void. Everybody, I suppose, would admit that the reading being stated, the fullness and distinctness thereof may be presumed. If so, why may not three readings, and on different days, be presumed, when to do so contradicts nothing in the journal, but, on the contrary, is entirely consistent with it? In the case before us, the journal of April 13 expressly stated that the bill in question was that day "read the third time" and passed. This imports that it had previously been read twice, and as the journal shows that it was considered on March 27, when the amendment called a "new bill" was reported, and again on the 7th and 12th of April, why may it not be presumed that there were two prior readings on two of these three days: Miller v. State, 3 O. S. 475, II Longsdorf's Notes, 50.

The journals of each house are the best evidence: State, ex rel., v. Price, 8 O. C. C. 25, 4 O. C. D. 296.

For the purpose of determining whether or not a public act of the legislature received the two-thirds vote required by Art IV, section 15, of the constitution, courts will take judicial notice of the vote by which such act was passed: Backenstoe v. State, 2 O. N. P. (N. S.) 178, 14 O. D. (N. P.) 580.

Majority.

In the absence of all showing to the contrary, a law will be presumed to have been passed by the requisite number of votes: Steamboat v. Millikin, 7 O. S. 383, II Longsdorf's Notes, 308.

No bill can become a law without receiving the number of votes required by the constitution, and if it were found by an inspection of the legislative journals that what purports to be a law upon the statute book was not passed by the requisite number of votes, it might possibly be the duty of the courts to treat it as a nullity. But it does not follow that an act that was passed by a constitutional majority is invalid because, in its consideration, the assembly did not strictly observe the mode of procedure prescribed by the constitution. There are provisions in that instrument that are directory in their character, the observance of which by the assembly is secured by their sense of duty and official oaths, and not by any supervisory power of the courts: Miller v. State, 3 O. S. 475, Fordyce v. Godman, 20 O. S. 1.

Under the constitution of Ohio, any enactment of law may be repealed by the concurrence of a majority, even though under the constitution the act so repealed was required to be and was passed by the concurrence of two-thirds of the members of each house: Backenstoe v. Ohio, 2 O. N. P. (N. S.) 178, 14 O. D. (N. P.) 584.

Constitution a Limitation On Power.

All the legislative power of the state is in the legislature, except where denied in the constitution. The constitution is not a grant of power, but a limitation. Mason v. State, 58 O. S. 30, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 731.

Congress has only such power as is conferred on it by the federal constitution, whereas the general assembly has all power of legislation not withheld by the constitution. The latter, therefore, is supreme in the enactment of laws except as restricted, expressly or impliedly, by the constitution of the state: Roe v. Railway Co., 13 O. D. (N. P.) 260.

The same provision as in article 11, section 1, in nearly the same words, is found in the former constitution. It will be observed that the provision is not that the legislative power as conferred in the constitution shall be vested in the general assembly, but that the legislative power of this state shall be vested. That includes all legislative power which the object and purposes of the state government may require, and we must look to other provisions of the constitution to see how far, and to what extent, legislative direction is qualified or restricted. Hence the difference between the constitution of the United States and a state constitution such as ours. In the former we look to see if the power is expressly given; in the latter, to see if it is denied or limited: Baker v. Cincinnati, 11 O. S. 534, II Longsdorf's Notes, 527.

A limitation upon the right of the legislature to exercise certain powers must either be found in express terms, or be clearly inferable, by necessary implication, from the language of the instrument, when fairly construed according to its manifest spirit and meaning: State, ex rel., v. McCann, 21 O. S. 198, III Longsdorf's Notes, 21.

The people have thus granted certain political powers, to be exercised for their benefit until they see fit to resume them, and have retained others. On looking into the constitution we find the granted powers assigned to three great departments of government—the legislative power to the general assembly, the executive power to the governor, and the judicial power to the courts. Unlike the constitution of the United States, and from the necessity of the case, no attempts at a specific enumeration of the items of legislative power is made. This must, therefore, always be determined from the nature of the power exercised. If it is found to fall within the general terms of the grant, we can only look to the other parts of the constitution for limitations upon it; if none are there found, none exist. But, as the general assembly, like the other departments of government, exercises only delegated authority, it can not be doubted that any act passed by it, not falling fairly within the scope of legislative power, is as clearly void as though expressly prohibited: Railroad v. Commissioners, 1 O. S. 77, I Longsdorf's Notes, 943.

The general assembly, like the other departments of the government, exercises only delegated authority, and any act passed by it not fairly falling within the scope of "legislative authority" is as clearly void as though expressly prohibited: State v. Frame, 39 O. S. 399, III Longsdorf's Notes, 1038.

The grant of legislative power to the general assembly in article II, section 1 of the constitution, is absolute, and is not limited in that section: Gum Co. v. Laylin, 66 O. S. 578, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 918.

A grant of legislative power is limited by other specific provisions of the constitution: Trust Co. v. Telegraph Co., 79 O. S. 89, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1044.

The power granted by article II, section 1, includes all legislative power, and if restricted it must be by some other clause in the constitution: Quigley v. State, 5 O., C. C. 638, 3 O. C. D. 310 (affirmed, without opinion, Quigley v. State, 27 Bull. 332.)

Art. V, section 4, empowering the legislature to disfranchise or render ineligible to office any one convicted of an infamous crime, is a grant of power, not a limitation, and does not forbid a statute depriving of office one who obtained it by forbidden practices, though he has not been convicted. Accordingly, the corrupt practices act, (see G. C. sections 5175-1 to 5175-29) is invalid: Mason v. State, 58 O. S. 30, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 731.

Federal Questions.

The mere omission of congress to legislate upon a subject vested in congress does not authorize a state to legislate upon such subject: Arnold v. Yanders, 56 O. S. 417, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 693.

State legislation in aid of an act of congress, as to provide means to carry out the United States extradition laws, is not unconstitutional: In re Ammons, 34 O. S. 518, III Longsdorf's Notes, 733.

Vested in Legislature.

Art. II, section 1, is a declaration that all the power, legislative in character, of the people within the limits of the territory of Ohio and organized into a government under this constitution, is vested in the general assembly: State v. Frame, 39 O. S. 399, III Longsdorf's Notes, 1038.

Art. II, section 1, confers the legislative power upon the general assembly as a unit, and a single branch of the general assembly so acting has no power of independent legislation except as expressly granted in the constitution or as necessarily implied in the express grants: State, ex rel., v. Guilbert, 75 O. S. 1, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1013.

Legislative Power Includes Taxing Power.

Whatever power of taxation resides in the general assembly, does so as an incident of the general legislative authority delegated to that body by art. II, section 1: Board of Education v. State, 51 O. S. 531, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 554.

The power to impose taxes is a legislative power, and is vested in the general assembly by art. II, section 1, of the constitution: State, ex rel., v. Guilbert, 70 O. S. 229, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 973.

The taxing power under the constitution of 1802 was an undeniable legislative function, to be exercised at the discretion of the general assembly, and subject to no limitation but that against poll taxes; and while this court is unanimous in the opinion that such laws involve a gross abuse of power, it possesses no authority to control that discretion, or to correct such abuses by the exercise of a veto power on such legislation: Railway v. Commissioners, 1 O. S. 77, I Longsdorf's Notes, 943.

A grant of legislative power carries with it the power of levying taxes and this includes the power to provide for special assessments to pay for publimprovements which are levied upon the property benefited by such improvement and in proportion to such benefit: Scovill v. Cleveland, 1 O. S. 126, I Longs dorf's Notes, 956.

The power of taxation is governmental in its character and is granted t the general assembly by the general grant of legislative power. It can be execused only by the legislature in compliance with the provisions of the constitution, and it can be exercised by municipal corporations only in accordance with statutory provisions authorizing the exercise of such power: Mays v. Circinnati, 1 O. S. 268, I Longsdorf's Notes, 973.

Under the constitution of 1802, the power of taxation was said to be a put of the legislative sovereignty of the state, and not the subject of contract, c barter, or sale by the legislature, in Bank v. Debolt, 1 O. S. 591, I Longsdorf Notes. 1009.

The general grant of legislative power vested in the general assembly by ar II, section 1, includes the power to collect revenue for public purposes and th limitations on the exercise of this power are to be found in other provisior of this instrument, and in the constitution of the United States: 28 O. S. 521 III Longsdorf's Notes, 419.

Art. II, section 1, confers upon the general assembly the power of taxation but their power extends only to the levying of taxes for the purpose of the state. The act entitled "An act to provide relief for worthy blind" (97 v. 392), require the expenditure of public funds for a private purpose, and is unconstitutional In re Mosler, 8 O. C. C. 324, 4 O. C. D. 82.

The power to value property for taxation is a legislative power and is con ferred upon the general assembly by the general grant of legislative power it art. II, section 1: Crawford v. Madigan, 13 O. D. (N. P.) 494.

The power to authorize assessments, as distinguished from taxes proper, is comprehended in the general grant of legislative power to the general assembly Reeves v. Treasurer, 8 O. S. 333, II Longsdorf's Notes, 344.

The power of the general assembly is only legislative, but it is a very broad power and includes, generally, the right to direct, in invitum, the construction and repair of public highways and the levy of taxes to defray the necessary expenses thereof: 35 O. S. 458, III Longsdorf's Notes, 796.

An act requiring county commissioners to cause a designated road to be improved, and to levy a tax to defray the expense thereof, where the road is open to the public, is not invalid for want of power in the general assembly to pass it: State v. Commissioners, 35 O. S. 458, III Longsdorf's Notes, 796.

The provisions of art. XII of the constitution of Ohio, are not grants of power to the legislature, but limitations and restrictions on the general powers conferred by art. II, section 1: Telegraph Co. v. Mayer, 28 O. S. 521, III Longsdorf's Notes, 419.

While there is no express limitation upon the power of the general assembly to tax privileges and franchises, such power is impliedly limited by those provisions of the constitution that private property shall ever be held inviolate but subservient to the public welfare, that government is instituted for the equal protection and benefit of the people, and that the constitution is established to promote our common welfare: Gum Co. v. Laylin, 66 O. S. 578, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 918.

The constitutional provisions on the subject of taxation (art. XII, sections 2 and 5, of the constitution of Ohio) do not prevent the legislature from authorizing the state board of health to require municipal corporations to install sewage disposal plants and the legislature from requiring municipal corporations to levy taxes for the construction of such sewage disposal plants: State Board of Health v. Greenville, 86 O. S. 1.

The absolute and unlimited power of taxation is granted by Art. II, section 1, of the constitution to the general assembly, and the taxation may be upon franchises, privileges, or property, as the general assembly may deem best, but when it comes to taxing property, there is a limitation placed upon the power by art., XII, sections 1, 2, 3, and art. XIII, section 4: Gum Co. v. Laylin, 66 O. S. 578, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 918.

The legislative power of this state is delegated to the general assembly. This comprises the taxing power, but the power of the state to take property of its citizens by a tax is not broader than the purposes for which the state is formed, and so is not wholly within the discretion of the legislature, but, without express prohibition, is subject to inherent limitations that it may be exercised only for a public purpose: Auditor v. State, 75 O. S. 114, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1014 (reversing Auditor v. State, 6 O. C. C. (N. S.) 417, 17 O. C. D. 593.

A statute authorizing counties and townships or cities to tax to pay bounties and refund subscriptions therefor is valid. It is not limited by the prohibition against local taxation for other than police purposes (Const., art. X, section 7), but is a war power, and the existence of an exigency for its exercise is not to be settled by the judiciary but by the political authorities of the state. The legislature, having power to authorize such a tax originally, can legalize what has been done retroactively: Cline v. Trustees, 20 O. S. 288, II Longsdorf's Notes, 99°.

Legislative Power.

A clerk in the United States pension agency serving by appointment for a period not exceeding three months and compensated with money of the United States appropriated for that purpose by congress, having no duties defined by law nor discretion to act independently of the direction of the pension agent, is not "holding an office under the authority of the United States" within the meaning of art. II, section 4, of the constitution of the state which renders persons so holding office ineligible to membership in the general assembly: State, ex rel., v. Mason, 61 O. S. 62, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 802.

Apportionment.

The constitution apportions political power among the inhabitants of the state, as nearly equally as possible in proportion to numbers, without any regard whatever to property, or, indeed, to any other circumstances. Inhabitants alone are represented; a given number in one place exercise the same political power, as a like number in any other locality. Some departure from the absolute equality of numbers is allowed in favor of the inhabitants of small counties, in the constitution of the house of representatives; but this in no wise changes the basis of representation from population to territory or property: State, ex rel., v. Dudley, 1 O. S. 437, I Longsdorf's Notes, 997.

"The apportionment of the state must be regarded as made by the convention, and none the less so because the approval of the people was made necessary to its ultimate effect. They but ratified and approved an act already done by their representatives in convention, and were not, in any correct sense, the authors of the act itself: State, ex rel., v. Dudley, 1 O. S. 437, I Longsdorf's Notes, 997.

"The exceptions contained in art. XI, section 10, refers to the eighth and ninth sections. * * * The provisions of art. XI, section 10, irrevocably fix the districts, and apportion the representation for ten years. At the expiration of that period, other sections of the eleventh article direct specifically in what manner the executive officers, charged with the duty, shall ascertain and fix it, for another period of ten years. It is manifest that no change, alteration or modification of the representative districts, is allowed between the periods of decennial apportionment; unlike the senate districts; they are not forever to remain unchanged. On the contrary, they must, of necessity, at the expiration of each ten years, so change as to conform to the boundaries of counties, as they are then found to exist; and the limits of districts, at those periods, become again identical with those counties": State, ex rel., v. Dudley, 1 O. S. 437, I Longsdorf's Notes, 997.

Where the governor, auditor and secretary of state, or a majority of them, as the board created by art. XI, section 11, of the constitution, for the decennial apportionment of the state for members of the general assembly, have made an apportionment, they can not be required by mandamus, or otherwise, to make another apportionment, unless the apportionment as made so far disregards the principles prescribed by the constitution as to warrant the court in saying that it is no apportionment and should be treated as a nullity: State, ex rel., v. Campbell, 48 O. S. 435, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 423.

Source of Power to Tax.

The legislative power of this state is delegated to the general assembly. This comprises the taxing power, but the power of the state to take the property of its citizens by a tax is not broader than the purposes for which the state is formed, and so is not wholly within the discretion of the legislature, but, without express prohibition, is subject to the inherent limitations that it may be exercised only for a public purpose: Auditor, v. State, ex rel., 75 O. S. 114, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1014 (reversing Davies v. State, ex rel., 6 O. C. C. (N. S.) 417, 17 O. C. D. 593).

Taxation is a branch of sovereign power and is delegated to the general assembly, which has no power to misuse it or abridge it: Debolt v. Trust Co., 1 O. S. 563, I Longsdorf's Notes, 1008.

Whatever power of taxation resides in the general assembly does so as an incident of the general legislative authority delegated to that body by art. II, section 1, of the constitution: Board of Education v. State, 51 O. S. 531, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 554.

It is not within the province of the legislature to restrain charity, even though it may be commercial charity induced by competition in business, particularly when it is in the form of dispensing food of which the recipients may stand in need: State v. Feld, 12 O. L. R. 64.

The province of construction of a statute is to ascertain and give effect to the intention of the legislature, but its intention must be derived from the legislation and may not be invented by the court. To supply the intention and then give the statute effect according to such intention would not be construction but legislation: State, ex rel., v. Roney, 82 O. S. 376.

The object of judicial investigation in the construction of a statute is to ascertain and give effect to the intent of the law-making body which enacted it, and the mere literal construction of a statute ought to prevail, if apparently opposed to the intention of the legislature enacting it: Buckman v. State, ex rel., 81 O. S. 171.

The object of judicial investigation in the construction of a statute is to ascertain and give effect to the intent of the law-making body which enacted it. And where its provisions are ambiguous, and its meaning doubtful, the history of legislation on the subject, and the consequences of a literal interpretation of the language may be considered; punctuation may be changed or disregarded; words transposed, or those necessary to a clear understanding and as shown by the context manifestly intended, inserted: Slingluff v. Weaver, 66 O. S. 621, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 919.

In the construction of a statute the question is, what did the legislature mean by what it said; and not, what did it mean to say: Sheu v. State, 83 O. S. 146, Slingluff v. Weaver, 66 O. S. 621, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 919.

Courts are not concerned with the question of the wisdom or usefulness of legislation. They do their whole duty when they determine whether or not the particular statute is or is not within the power of the law-making body; and if they find it to be within the power of the law-making body, to give construction to the language employed as it is found in the statute and to render judgment accordingly: Hayner v. State, 83 O. S. 178.

The statutes of Ohio are a patchwork, drawn by different persons at different times, and should not be examined for refinements of meaning in seeking to determine what the legislature meant: State, ex rel., v. Cooley, 2 O. N. P. (N. S.) 589, 15 O. D. (N. P.) 393 (affirmed Cooley v. State, ex rel., 74 O. S. 252, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1009).

The fact that a statute is poorly drawn and ineffective does not justify judicial legislation or an extension of its plain terms by a forced interpretation: State v. Surety Co., 12 O. N. P. (N. S.) 185, 21 O. D. (N. P.) 571.

The ordinary and natural import of words consistent with the common sense of the community is to be adopted in arriving at legislative intent: Allen v. Little, 5 O. 65, I Longsdorf's Notes, 248; State v. Peck, 25 O. S. 26, III Longsdorf's Notes, 209.

Plain and explicit language can not be construed contrary to the express words on conjecture: Hathaway's Will, 4 O. S. 383, II Longsdorf's Notes, 105, Bridge Co. v. Bowman, 41 O. S. 37, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 49.

The usual import of words can not be restricted because the legislature did not foresee every case on which they might operate, but if within the language it must appear clearly that it would have been excluded if foreseen: Corwin v. Benham, 2 O. S. 36, I Longsdorf's Notes, 1019.

If a case falls within the positive provisions of law it will not be excluded because not contemplated by the legislature: Stetson v. Bank, 2 O. S. 167, I Longsdorf's Notes, 1037.

When particular words and phrases have in law acquired a fixed legal signification and are thus incorporated into a statute, the legal presumption is that the legislature meant to use them in this legal sense: Grogan v. Garrison, 27 O. S. 50, III Longsdorf's Notes, 344.

If particular words and phrases have acquired a fixed legal significance particularly by statutory usage, it is presumed that the legislature intended such limited meaning and acceptation: Cooper v. Commissioners, 4 O. N. P. (N. S.) 185, 16 O. D. (N. P.) 638.

The legislature is presumed to have acted with a full knowledge of the decisions of the supreme court on the subject: Buckley v. Stephens, 29 O. S. 620, III Longsdorf's Notes, 505.

Express and Implied Terms.

What is plainly implied in a statute is as much part of it as what is expressed: Doyle v. Doyle, 50 O. S. 330, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 500.

No construction enlarging the jurisdiction of courts will be given to a statute in the absence of express words or necessary implication: Knight v. Johnson, 1 O. N. P. (N. S.) 260, 13 O. D. (N. P.) 715.

Terms implied from the express terms of a statute are as much a part of the statute as the express terms themselves: Railway, 5 O. C. C. (N. H.) 583, 16 O. C. D. 180 (affirmed, without opinion, Railway v. Railway, 73 O. S. 364).

A rule of law announced by courts with general unanimity ought not to be considered as abrogated by implication: Andrews v. Lemeck, 46 O. S. 38, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 310.

Apparent Mistake of Legislature.

The intent of the legislature is determined from what it says and if its language is clear and unambiguous, the courts have no authority to change it. This is true even if the legislature has made a clerical error in its enactment: King v. Cemetery Association, 67 O. S. 240, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 929.

The court can not add to a statute, provisions of a former law on the ground that they were omitted by the legislature by mistake: Hough v. Manufacturing Co., 66 O. S. 427, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 911.

Courts will not correct errors in a statute, or declare it repealed by mistake, unless the errors or mistakes appear beyond doubt from its face, or by reading it in connection with others in pari materia; a fortiori where the repealing statute expressly recites the substance of the one repealed: Jones v. Commissioners, 2 O. C. C. (N. S.) 14, 15 O. C. D. 510.

Error of the legislature in its construction of the constitution or interprettation of its enactments does not authorize a court to so prevent its judicial functions as to assume to decide what the legislature should have done or intended: Backenstoe v. State, 2 O. N. P. (N. S.) 178 14 O. D. (N. P.) 580.

The omission of the word "hundred" from a bill, relating to bridges within municipalities, providing that "persons desiring a bridge at any other location may also file their petition and that the petition may be considered and the location voted upon if they file a petition containing not less than twenty-five hundred signatures" constitutes a material difference: State, ex rel., v. Jones, 22, O. C. C. 682, 11 O. C. D. 496.

An obvious meaning should not be abandoned, though the court is convinced that the legislature intended differently, and omitted words by mistakes: Woodbury v. Berry, 18 O. S. 456. II Longsdorf's Notes, 908.

Nor a new meaning given to words, because such was the probable intention, nor general law controlled by the peculiar circumstances of one case: Ludlow v. Wade, 5 O. 494, I Longsdorf's Notes, 307.

A section of a statute prescribing rules for other sections, but obviously referring to the wrong sections, may be read as intended: Tappan v. 6 O. S. 64, II Longsdorf's Notes, 218.

Errors in a statute may be corrected by construction by the courts when manifest beyond any doubt, thus: Where a statute (as that of March 3, 18)8) relates to school boards in city districts of the third grade of the first class, but there are no such school districts, in the school laws, the only city school districts being city districts of the first class, comprising every city of ten thousand or more, and city districts of the second class comprising all other cities, the statute will be held to mean districts in cities of the third grade, first class (Toledo), especially as other parts of the act clearly show this intent: State, ex rel., v. Board of Elections, 16 O. C. C. 1, 8 O. C. D. 215.

In G. C., section 5594, the word "such" (county) was construed to read "each" thus making the act general in its application: Thate, rel., v. Carlisle, 2 O. N. P. (N. S.) 637, 15 O. C. D. (N. P.) 287.

A statute for the election of an insolvency judge on Tuesday after the second Monday of November, which is a week later than the general election, can not be corrected or construed otherwise by the court on the assumption of mistake when there is nothing in such statute or statutes in pari materia to show a mistake, and the statute is capable of literal execution: State, ex rel., v. Archibald, 52 O. S. 1, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 559.

When statutes under which corporations are formed authorize them to make by-laws upon specifically named subjects there is an implied denial of authority to make by-laws upon subjects not named: Nicholson v. Brewing Co. 82 O. S. 94.

Meaning of Words.

In the construction of statutes, words and phrases are to be taken in their plain, ordinary or usual sense, unless they are technical words and phrases in which case they are to be construed according to their technical meaning: State ex rel., v. Bish, 12 O. N. P. (N. S.) 369, 22 O. D. (N. P.) 480.

If a statute deals with a genus and subsequently a thing comes into existence which is a species of such genus, the language of the statute should be extended to the new species although it could not have been contemplated by the legislature when the statute was passed: Columbus v. Gas & Fuel Co., 13 O. N. P. (N. S.) 394, 22 O. D. (N. P.) 250.

If the words of a statute are plain, explicit and unequivocal, the court is not warranted in departing from their obvious meaning, although reasons outside of the language of the statute may make it quite probable that the legislature intended to enact something different from the provisions which it has in fact enacted: Woodbury v. Berry, 18 O. S. 456, II Longsdorf's Notes, 908, State, ex rel., v. Sayre, 12 O. N. P. (N. S.) 13; 22 O. D. (N. P.) 234.

In construing statutes a word is not to be given a limited or specialized meaning until such meaning is made by legislative enactment: Venable v. Schafer, 7 O. C. C. (N. S.) 337 18 O. C. D. 202.

If the legislature makes specific provisions upon a certain subject, general power granted by it will not be enlarged by interpretation so as to include such subject: Railway v. Elyria, 14 O. C. C. (N. S.) 364, 22 O. C. D. 449.

Purpose of Statute.

The intention of the legislature must be ascertained from the language used in the statute; and if that language is clear and unambiguous the court has no authority to change it or to deduce any other meaning therefrom: Sipe v. State, ex rel., 86 O. S. 80; King v. Cemetery Association, 67 O. S. 240, IV Longsdorf's Notes 929.

Every part of a statute must be considered in determining the intention of the legislature: State v. Gunten, 84 O. S. 172.

A statute furnishes itself the best means of its own exposition; and if the intent of the act can be readily ascertained from a reading of its provisions, and all its parts may be brought into harmony therewith, that intent will prevail without resorting to other aids of construction: Brunner v. Harrison, 8 O. N. P. 303, 11 O. D. (N. P.) 446.

The rule that the reason of the law is its life, so frequently helpful in the determination of questions arising at common law, must have a restricted application in the interpretation of statutes. Courts are not permitted to go beyond the plain meaning of the language which the legislature has used to express its intention: Little v. Seminary, 72 O. S. 417, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 991.

The language of a statute must be given such construction as will carry its design into effect even though in so doing the exact letter of the law be sacrificed, or although the construction be contrary to the latter; this rule applies when the real design of the legislature is plainly perceivable or ascertained with reasonable certainty although it be not precisely expressed: Gas Co., v. Chillicothe, 65 O. S. 186 IV Longsdorf's Notes, 883.

In the construction of statutes the legislative intention is to be determined and effect given thereto, is doing which courts must regard the object to be attained and the mischiefs guarded against: State v. Pinney, 13 O. D. (N. P.) 210.

The evil intended to be remedied should be considered in determining the intention of the legislature in enacting a statute: Sttone Co. v. Trustees, 5 O. N. P. (N. S.) 573, 18 O. D. (N. P.) 136.

In construing a statute the legislature is not presumed to be enacting laws that are not necessary; is is not supposed to do a vain thing: Abt v. State, 9 O. N. P. (N. S.) 311, 20 O. D. (N. P.) 517.

Statutes which are applicable to railroads are not to be regarded as applicable to street railroads, unless the legislature clearly shows an intention to include street railroads within such statute: Bridge Co. v. Iron Co., 59 O. S. 179, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 762.

The journals of the legislature may be looked to in case of doubt to determine legislative intention as disclosed by alterations in passing a bill: State v. McCollister, 11 O. 46, I Longsdorf's Notes, 539.

It is not within the judicial function to give to a statute an operation which the legislature does not intend: State, ex rel., v. Lewis, 74 O. S. 403, IV Longsdorf's Notes 1011.

The fact that the legislature has not made the provision of a statute as wide as it might have been, does not render such statute invalid: State v. Nelson, 52 O. S. 88, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 564; Allen v. Smith, 84 O. S. 283.

If the legislature has clearly omitted to provide for a case which may arise, the courts can not by construction supply such omission: Hough v. Manufacturing Co., 66 O. S. 427, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 911; Sage v. Commissioners, 82 O. S. 186.

Statute Adopted From Other State.

When the Ohio legislature adopts the law of another state it does so intending that it shall receive the same construction by the Ohio courts that had been put upon it to the time of its enacment in Ohio by the courts of the state from which it is adopted: State v. Bovee, 6 O. N. P. (N. S.) 337, 17 O. D. (N. P.) 663.

Where an act is borrowed and copied by the legislature of this state from a similar act of another state after it has been construed by the highest judicial tribunal of that state, such construction will be adopted by the court of this state: Runck v. Cloud, 8 O. N. P. 436, 11 O. D. (N. P.) 444.

When a statute is adopted from another state where it has received a settled construction the presumption is that such construction was adopted and the terms used in the same sense: Gale v. Priddy, 66 O. S. 400, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 910.

Adoption of a statute of another state adopts the construction placed upon it by their courts, and at each re-enactment we acquiesced in the construction up to that time placed upon it by their courts, our courts not having in the meantime construed it: Ives v. McNicoll, 59 O. S. 402, IV Longsdorf's Notes 768.

The construction of a statute by the courts of a state made after such statute is adopted by the legislature of another state will not be presumed to have been adopted by the legislature: Railroad Co. v. Terminal Co., 14 O. C. C. (N. S.) 321 (affirmed without opinion, Railroad Co. v. Terminal Co., 81 O. S. 540).

If a statute of Pennsylvania uses the words "reasonably practicable" with reference to preventing crossings at grade, and the Ohio legislature has adopted such statute but has used the words "reasonable and practicable" it will be presumed that the legislature did not intend the same meaning as was given the Pennsylvania statute by the Pennsylvania courts: Railroad Co. v. Terminal Co., 14 O. C. C. (N. S.) 321 (affirmed, without opinion, Railroad Co. v. Terminal Co., 81 O. S. 540).

Punctuation is more or less to be relied on in ascertaining the intended meaning and not to be disregarded without reason: Trustees v. White, 48 O. S. 577, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 431.

Punctuation is more often the work of engrossing clerks than of the legislature: Burgess v. Everett, 9 O. S. 425, II Longsdorf's Notes, 387.

If by inadvertence or by a typographical error, a sentence in an ordinance is broken by a period, the court will read such period as a comma according to the manifest intent: Chittenden v. Columbus, 5 O. C. C. (N. S.) 84, 16 O. C. D. 531.

In construing a statute, punctuation may aid, but does not control unless other means fail; and in rendering the meaning of a statute, punctuation may be changed or disregarded: Albright v. Payne, 43 O. S. 8, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 142.

Punctuation may be changed or disregarded; words transposed, or those necessary to a clear understanding and, as shown by the context manifestly intended, inserted: Slingluff v. Weaver, 66 O. S. 621, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 919.

Title.

The title of an act, undper art. II, section 16, of the constitution, that "no bill shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title," is a legitimate aid in ascertaining the intention of the legislature when the language thereof is ambiguous and of doubtful meaning and application; in fact the title being formed in the same manner becomes necessarily a part of the statute to be taken as giving the true intent and meaning of the object of the act unless contradicted by the express terms in the body of the statute itself: Hall v. Siegrist, 13 O. D. (N. P.) 46.

While the intention of the legislature in enacting a statute is not the determining factor in reaching the proper construction to place upon it, yet in reaching a conclusion as to what the legislature really did enact, the court may look at the intent for light and may also look to the preamble: Abt v. State, 9 O. N. P. (N. S.) 311, 20 O. D. (N. P.) 517.

An impossible, vain, or useless thing is not presumed intended by the legislature, and general words in a statute will be limited accordingly: Kent v. Bierce, 6 O. 336, I Longsdorf's Notes, 341.

Where the mode of performing an authorized act is not prescribed, it is presumed that the legislature intended it to be performed in a reasonable manner and not in conflict with any law of the state: State v. Morris, 63 O. S. 496, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 861.

While there is no express limitation upon the power of the general assembly to tax privileges and franchises, such power is impliedly limited to those provisions of the constitution that private property shall ever be held inviolate, but subservient to the public welfare, that government is instituted for the equal protection and benefit of the people, and that the constitution is established to promote our common welfare: Gum Co. v. Laylin, 66 O. S. 578, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 918.

The constitutional provisions on the subject of taxation (art. XII, sections 2 and 5, of the constitution of Ohio), do not prevent the legislature from authorizing the state board of health to require municipal corporations to install sewage plants and the legislature from requiring municipal corporations to levy taxes for the construction of such sewage disposal plants: Board of Health v. Greenville, 86 O. S. 1 (reversing Greenville v. Demorest, 14 O. C. C. (N. S.) 113, 22 O. C. D. 544).

An initiated law, which has been introduced into the house of representatives, in compliance with Art. II, section 1b, of the revised constitution of 1912, and referred to the proper committee, which reported it back with amendments which were agreed to by the house, which took no further action upon it, may be submitted as thus amended to the electors of the state in due time after a supplementary petition properly signed and verified has been filed with him demanding its submission in its amended form. Amendments to the proposed law, thus reported and agreed to, are thereby incorporated in it as required by said section: Pfeifer v. Graves, 88 O. S. 473.

In a proceeding against the secretary of state, to enjoin the submission of an initiated law which has been introduced into the house of representatives in compliance with art. II, section 1b, of the constitution of 1912, and referred to the proper committee, which reported it back with amendments which were agreed to by the house, which took no action upon it, the section will not be rigidly construed so as to exclude the submission for the reason that the bill as amended was not enacted by the legislature: Pfeifer v. Graves, 88 O. S. 473.

The language of art. II, section 1b, of the constitution, is to be fairly and reasonably interpreted so as to carry out the purpose of the people who adopted the dual form of direct and indirect legislation prescribed therein: Pfeifer v. Graves, 88 O. S. 473.

When Law Takes Effect.

The presumption is that the legislature intends a statute to take effect at the time it declares the statute shall be in effect, and a court may not by construction substitute a different time merely to correct defective legislation: State, ex rel., v. Ronty, 82 O. S. 376.

A statute declared to take effect from and after a date named, takes effect on the day after the day of the date named: State, ex rel., v. Roney, 82 O. S. 376.

Where an unconstitutional statute contains a clause repealing a prior valid law, for which the latter statute was a substitute, the repealing clause will also be held inoperative, in the absence of an expressed intention to repeal the prior law without regard to the substitute: State, ex rel., v. Edmondson, 89 O. S. 351.

The legislature has the power to repeal a statute although no reason be assigned therefor, or if a reason be assigned which fails, or proves wholly insufficient, the repeal still remains effective: James v. Commissioners, 2 O. C. (N. S.) 14, 15 O. C. D. 510.

Under the constitution of Ohio, any enactment of law may be repealed by the concurrence of a majority, even though under the constitution, the act so repealed was required to be and was passed by the concurrence of two-thirds of the members of each house: Backenstoe v. State, 2 O. N. P. (N. S.) 178, 14 O. D. (N. P.) 580.

It does not require a two-thirds vote of the general assembly to repeal an act requiring the two-thirds vote for its enactment: State v. Voris, 8 O. N. P. 16, 10 O. D. (N. P.) 451.

Where an act is void, or so much of it is void as to leave a class of persons without a remedy which they had under a prior law (as in the case of mechanics' lien law of 1894) the repealing clause of the new act is also valid: Gorman v. Bepler, 4 O. N. P. 241, 7 O. D. (N. P.) 15.

One legislature can not prescribe binding rules for the interpretation of the statutes passed by a subsequent legislature and while in the absence of anything in a statute indicating a different intent, the legal presumption is that the legislature intended the statutory rule to apply, yet when it clearly manifests a different intention, the statutory rule does not apply: Friend v. Levy, 76 O. S. 26, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 1022.

To constitute a legislative contract or grant the statute must be clear and certain, and clearly show such intent. It can not be inferred nor rest in implication: Newtton v. Commissioners, 26 O. S. 618, III Longsdorf's Notes, 334.

A grant, by federal statute, vesting title in the legislature of Ohio is a grant to the state itself: Trustees v. Campbell, 16 O. S. 11, II Longsdorf's Notes, 754.

Power of Legislature Over Rules of Evidence.

All of the legislative power of the state subject to the restrictions embodied in the constitution, being vested in the legislature, it may make, modify or repeal the rules of evidence as part of the substantive laws: State v. Weston, 1 O. N. P. 350, 3 O. D. (N. P.) 15.

The legislature may enact that certain facts shall constitute prima facie evidence: State v. Weston, 1 O. N. P. 350, 3 O. D. (N. P.) 15,

The legislature has power to provide the quantum of proof necessary and what shall constitute prima facie evidence of a legal election under G. C. section 6127: Lloyd v. Dollison, 3 O. C. C. (N. S.) 328, 13 O. C. D. 571.

There is no constitutional provision prohibiting the general assembly from determining what shall be sufficient evidence, prima facie or conclusive, in actions subsequently arising: Lloyd v. Dollison, 3 O. C. C. (N. S.) 328, 13 O. C. D. 571.

The general assembly has power to prescribe the rules of evidence and provide what shall make a prima facie case, but that power under our constitution extends only to future transactions, but as to past transactions the general assembly has no power by a change of the rules of evidence to add new burdens or impose new duties: State v. Tin & Japan Co. 66 O. S. 182, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 903.

"The general assembly of this state has authority to prescribe the circumstances that shall constitute prima facie evidence of a fact in issue in an action on trial in the courts of this state, whether the cause of action to which it relates arose within or without the territorial limits of the state": Pennsylvania Co. v. McCann, 54 O. S. 10, IV Longsdorf's Notes, 621 (affirming Pennsylvania Co. v. McCann, 10 O. C. C. 139, 6 O. C. D. 610).

THE FIRST LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL OF THE NORTHWEST TERRITORY.

The Ordinance was adopted by the Congress, July 13, 1787, and the first officers for the territory northwest of the River Ohio were elected by the same body in October. They were: Governor, Major General Arthur St. Clair, elected October 5 (Pennsylvania); Secretary, Major Winthrop Sargent, elected October 5; Judges, General Samuel Holden Parsons, elected October 17 (Connecticut); General James Mitchell Varnum, elected October 17 (Rhode Island); Colonel John Armstrong, elected October 17 (Pennsylvania); Lieutenant Colonel Return Jonathan Meigs, Jr., elected February 19, 1788.

Colonel Armstrong declined the post tendered to him by the Congress and did not come to Ohio. Judge Meigs was elected to fill the vacancy.

Although these officers were appointed in the fall and winter of 1787-8, there was no settlement of the country until the arrival of the Mayflower with a party of forty-six New England emigrants, at the mouth of the Muskingum river, on the seventh day of April, 1788. In the absence of the constituted authority, Colonel Return Jonathan Meigs, father of the judge of that name, drew up a code of rules on a sheet of ordinary foolscap, which he published by tacking them to the trunk of a large oak tree on the site of the infant settlement. This was the first legislation in the territory, and it is said that the code was rigidly adhered to by the pioneers of that country. The late General Manning F. Force, in an historical sketch in "Bench and Bar of Ohio" (1897), is authority for the statement that "history has recorded no infraction of these regulations which were read and approved by all."

Governor St. Clair, who had been occupied since his appointment in continuous efforts to conciliate the Indians of the territory, and in preparing for the needs of the infant settlement, arrived at Marietta with his official family on Wednesday, July 9, and on Tuesday, July 15, in public ceremonies held in the three-months-old town of Marietta, entered upon the discharge of his official duties. The Ordinance of 1787 was read to the settlers by Secretary Winthrop Sargent, after which the commissions of the Governor, Secretary and Judges were publicly read, and the Governor addressed the people briefly.

The territorial government thus set up consisted of the following officers who were present and participated in the ceremony: Governor, Arthur St. Clair; Secretary, Winthrop Sargent; Judges, Parsons and Varnum.

This group of officers comprised the First Legislative Council of the Northwest Territory, and during the summer and fall of the year published at Marietta laws on the following subjects:

(1788), July 25—Regulating and establishing the Militia.

(1788), August 23—Establishing General Courts of Quarter Sessions, Common Pleas, and for the appointment of Sheriffs.

(1788), August 30—Establishing a Court of Probate.

(1788), August 30—Fixing the terms of the General Court.

(1788), September 2—Prescribing the forms of oaths of office.

(1788), September 6-Respecting crimes and punishments.

(1788), November 23—Regulating marriages (age for male 17, female 14, with consent of fathers of parties).

(1788), November 23—Fixing monthly fines for failure of recruit in milittia to provide himself with the proper equipment.

(1788), December 21—Creating the office of Coroner.

(1788), December 28—Limiting the times of civil actions and for instituting criminal prosecutions.

Each of the above laws was undersigned by Messrs. St. Clair, Parsons, Varnum, on the dates given, the signature of Judge John Cleves Symmes appearing on the law of August 30—establishing a Court of Probate—but on no other. His arrival in the colony is thus fixed at a much earlier day than that given in most authorities.—(Territorial Laws.)

Governor St. Clair withheld his approval to a proposed law relating to estates held in common; he also, on July 30, called the attention of the judges to the provision of the ordinance which empowered them to "adopt" the laws of the older states, and expressed it as his opinion that they were overstepping their authority in forming new laws in any case; "And when we do," he adds, "the necessity of the case only can be our justification." This opinion of the Governor was fully borne out, when, at a later period, the council found it wise to repeal by wholesale laws of their own making which had no foundation in the code of the older states, and adopt others which conformed to this requirement in their stead.—(St. Clair Papers.)

Judge Varnum died in 1789.

THE SECOND LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

(1789.)

The ratification of the Constitution of the United States by a sufficient number of states having occurred during the latter part of the year 1784, and President Washington having assumed the reins of government thereunder, it was construed to be the duty of the Executive to appoint such officers whose commissions, having been issued by the Congress under the old form of government, were held to have expired with the government. In pursuance of this conception of his duty, the President, in a letter dated New York, August 18, 1789, nominated for the officers of the Northwest Territory: Arthur St. Clair, for Governor, and Messrs. Samuel Holden Parsons, John Cleves Symmes, and William Barton (vice Varnum, deceased), Judges. The nominations were confirmed by the Senate of the United States, but Mr. Barton declining the appointment, the President nominated Mr. George Turner, who was confirmed on the eighth day of September.

There is no public record of the acts of the council during the year 1789. In November of this year, Judge Parsons, who was the Chief Justice of the court, was drowned in a ford in the Muskingum valley, while returning to the seat of government from a treaty council with the Indians of the Western Reserve.

THE THIRD LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL. (1790.)

The year 1790 was marked by the sitting of the Council in the farther west, at the town of Vincennes (more generally known at that day by the name of "au Post"). Winthrop Sargent, Secretary and acting Governor, sat with Messrs. Symmes and Turner, Governor St. Clair being absent in the eastern states, and no successor sitting in the room of Judge Parsons, who had been succeeded by General Rufus Putnam, Jr., of Marietta. This council, in its meeting at Vincennes, published the following laws, which were afterwards disapproved and ordered to be repealed by the Congress, as having no foundation in the older laws to which the territorial council was confined by the Ordinance of 1787.

July 19—An act prohibiting the giving or selling of intoxicating liquors to Indians.

July 26.—An act restricting the sale of intoxicating liquors to soldiers, and to prevent the pawning of selling of arms, ammunition, clothing and accountrements.

August 4—An act suppressing gambling and making void all contracts and payments made in consequence thereof.

Removing to the town of Cincinnati, the council passed, in November—Governor St. Clair having resumed his attendance with the body, and Secretary Winthrop Sargent retiring—the following laws:

November 4-An act to alter the terms of the General Court.

November 5-An act to augument the terms of the County Courts.

November 6—An act to authorize the Courts of Quarter Sessions to divide the counties into townships, and to appoint constables, overseers of the poor, and township clerks.

THE LAWS OF 1791.

The body to which has been given in this volume the designation of the Third Legislative Council, was permitted to serve until no change in its official membership, except that in the absence of the Governor his seat was occupied by the Secretary as Acting Governor, from the appointment of Judge Putnam in the winter of 1790 to 1796, when Judge Putnam resigned his seat on the bench and in the council to accept the office of Surveyor General of the United States, to which he had been appointed by President Washington.

Messrs. St. Clair, Symmes and Turner affixed their signatures to the following laws in the year 1791, and caused the same to be published at Cincinnati:

June 22—An act supplementary to the act of September 6, 1798, respecting crimes.

June 22—An act for the punishment of persons who deface publications set up by authority.

June 22—An act creating the office of clerk of the legislature.

June 22—An act making the records of the courts of the United States evidence in the courts of this territory.

June 22-An act abolishing the distinction between murder and petit treason.

June 29-An act regulating the enclosures of ground; and on July 2—An act to amend the militia laws of 1788 as to days of muster, and fines for disobedience.

THE LAWS OF 1792.

The session of the council for the year 1792 seems to have been held in Cincinnati prior to the first day of August, and including that day, Messrs. Winthrop Sargent (acting Governor), Symmes, and Putnam signing and publishing the following bills:

August 1—Granting licenses to merchants, traders, and tavern-keepers.

August 1—An act creating the office of Treasurer General and of county treasurers.

August 1—An act directing the manner of raising money to defray the expenses of the several counties:

August 1—An act regulating the opening and care of Highways.

August 1—An act directing the building of a court house, jail, pillory, whipping post and stocks in every county.

August 1-An act regulating prisons.

August 1—An act regulating strays.

August 1—An act repealing so much of the law creating the office of clerk of the legislature, as required him to furnish certain public officers with manuscript copies of all acts of the territorial council. (Congress having provided for the printing of the territorial laws in Philadelphia.)

August 1—An act supplementary to the law of November 23, 1788, regulating marriages.

August 1—An act to regulate the admission of attorneys.

August 1—An act to empower the judge of the Probate Court to appoint guardians to minors.

August 1—An act prescribing forms of writs and mode of procedure in civil cases.

August 1—An act establishing the fee of judges of the Probate Court, of the Common Pleas Court, clerk of the Common Pleas, Probate, Orphans' and Sessions' Courts, of the Court of Quarter Sessions, General or Supreme Court, clerk of the same, attorneys, attorneys for the United States, witnesses, constables, coroners, sheriffs, criers, jailers, grand jurors, etc.

These laws are found in a published volume of the date of 1792, Philadelphia, and certified by Winthrop Sargent, Secretary.

THE LAWS OF 1795.

The council sitting in 1795, in the town of Cincinnati, devoted the months of June, July and August to a careful revision of the code laws then in use in the territory, and by an act of repeal (See law of July 14 in list below) eliminated those laws to which, as exceeding the authority of the council, the Congress had objected, at the same time putting into operation new laws in their stead, which, by careful citation of the authority of some one of the original states, attested the propriety of such act by council.

The sitting members of the council at this time were Governor St. Clair and Judges Symmes and Turner, who certified, and caused to be published at Cincinnati, on the dates mentioned in each case, the following, which, being printed by William Maxwell, printer of Cincinnati, came to be known as "The Maxwell Code:"

Cincinnati, June 1, 1795—An act subjecting real estate to execution for debt. Effective August 15. Signatures: St. Clair, Symmes and Turner.

June 10-For the limitation of actions. Effective October 1.

THE FOURTH LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL. (1797.)

In December, 1796, Judge Putnam, who had been appointed a brigadier general by President Washington in May, 1792, while a member of the territorial court, was again honored by the President and nominated for surveyor general of the United States. This appointment led to the resignation of Judge Putnam, who was succeeded on the bench by Joseph Gilman, of Point Harmar.

This council has left no record of new legislation in this year.

THE FIFTH LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

(1798.)

Judge Turner, who had served the territory with distinguished zeal since his appointment (September 8, 1797) to succeed to the chair made vacant by the death of Chief Justice Parsons, resigned in the winter of 1797-8 and was succeeded by Return Jonathan Meigs, Jr., of Marietta. The council, as thus formed, met in Cincinnati, April 23, 1798, and on the first day of May published the following new laws for the territory:

May 1—A law concerning corporations of bodies politic (Pennsylvania).

May 1—A law for the punishment of maiming or disfiguring (Kentucky).

May 1—Vesting certain powers in justices of the peace, in criminal cases (Massachusetts).

May 1—Establishing a land office (Kentucky).

These laws are severally signed by Winthrop Sargent, acting Governor; John Cleves Symmes, Joseph Gilman, Return Jonathan Meigs, Junior, and their correctness attested by Winthrop Sargent, Secretary.

This was the last legislative act of the Territorial Council.

THE FIRST SESSION OF THE FIRST TERRITORIAL LEGISLATURE.

In the year 1798, Governor St. Clair, having by personal visits to the several settlements become satisfied of the presence of the necessary five thousand white male inhabitants in the territory, issued a proclamation to the people calling for the election of representatives to a general assembly to be convened at Cincinnati on the fourth day of February, 1799. This general assembly, under the ordinance of 1787, must consist of a House of Representatives, together with a Legislative Council of five members to be appointed by the President of the United States, from a list of ten names to be submitted to him by the House of Representatives when so elected. The representatives were chosen in accordance with the proclamation of the Governor, and on assembling at Cincinnati on the day named in the proclamation, February 4, nominated the members of council and adjourned to meet in Cincinnati on the sixteenth of the following September, in order that the President would have an opportunity to act. Of the ten names submitted for his inspection and approval, the President nominated to the United States Senate as members of the Territorial Council (or upper house): Jacob Burnet and James Findlay of Cincinnati; Henry Vanderburgh of Vincennes; Robert Oliver of Marietta, and David Vance of Vanceville.

These nominations were promptly confirmed by the Senate and transmitted to Cincinnati, where they were announced to the people by proclamation of the Governor.

On the sixteenth day of September, 1799, the First Territorial Legislature met in Cincinnati, the two houses being composed of the following gentlemen:

In the Council (Appointed).

Jacob Burnet, of Cincinnati.

James Findlay, of Cincinnati.

Henry Vanderburgh, of Vincennes.

Robert Oliver, of Marietta.

David Vance, of Vanceville.

Mr. Vanderburgh was elected President of the Council.

In the House of Representatives (Elected).

Benham, Robert, of Hamilton County (Cincinnati).
Bond, Shadrack, of St. Clair County.
Chobert de Joncaire, Charles F., of Wayne County (Detroit).
Caldwell, Aaron, of Hamilton County (Cincinnati).
Darlington, Joseph, of Adams County.
Edgar, John, of Randolph County.

Fearing, Paul, of Washington County (Marietta). Findlay, Samuel, of Ross County (Chillicothe). Goforth, William, of Hamilton County (Cincinnati). Ludlow, John, of Hamilton County (Cincinnati). Langham, Elias, of Ross County (Chillicothe). McMillan, William, of Hamilton County (Cincinnati). Martin, Isaac, of Hamilton County (Cincinnati). Massie, Nathaniel, of Ross County (Chillicothe). Meigs, Return Jonathan, Jr., of Washington County (Marietta). Pritchard, James, of Jefferson County. Sibley, Solomon, of Wayne County (Detroit). Small, John, of Knex County (Vincennes). Smith, John, of Hamilton County (Cincinnati). Tiffin, Edward, of Ross County (Chillicothe). Viscar, Jacob, of Wayne County (Detroit). Worthington, Thomas, of Ross County (Chillicothe).

The two houses having met and organized by the election of their officers, on the sixteenth day of September, on the following day Governor St. Clair addressed the legislature in eloquent terms, congratulating the body and the Territory on the new form of legislative government in which the people now had a direct voice in the conduct of affairs. Jacob Burnet, a member of the council, writing after the lapse of a half a century, says in his "Notes on the Northwest Territory" (Cincinnati, 1847):

"He laid before them a full and faithful view of the condition and the wants of the Territory, and recommended to their attention such measures as he believed were proper to advance the prosperity and happiness of the people" (p. 300).

Governor St. Clair had been in active discharge of the duties of the chief executive of the Territory continuously since he had supervised the dispatch of the first settlers to the then unsettled west in 1788; he had joined the first colony at Marietta within three months of its arrival (July, 1788), and had been one of the legislators for the colonies up to the time of the meeting of this first territorial assembly; out of the experience of over eleven pioneer years, the Governor spoke to the legislators of the work before them, as no better equipped man could speak, for there was no man of better equipment for the duty. Of Governor St. Clair's influence at this time Mr. Burnet says (p. 378): "And it may be said with great truth, that at the time he addressed the First Territorial Legislature in 1799, he possessed as great, if not a greater share of the confidence and respect of the people of the Territory than any other individual residing in it."

This being the first session of any representative legislative body in the Territory, the transition from the first to the second grade of government involved a general revision of the laws in force; new laws to meet the changed conditions; new officers and new duties for those already established; and a plan must be conceived by which to meet the increased expenditures of a semi-independent government. Many of the members being inexperienced in legislative matters, the active work of the session fell on a few of the men who had been most closely identified with the previous history of the settlements,

On the third of October the two houses in joint session elected William Henry Harrison as delegate from the Territory in the Congress of the United States, his election being contested by Arthur St. Clair, Jr., who was beaten by one vote. Captain Harrison was secretary of the Territory at the time of his election, Mr. St. Clair, son of the Governor, being its attorney. Mr. Harrison resigned his position as secretary and at once proceeded to his duties in the Congress.

It is hard to present the history of this session of the legislature in the limits allowed in a publication of this nature. The existing laws were a poor apology for a code; the Ordinance of 1787 formed a broad and liberal basis for the government which has since grown up under its provisions, but there was much legislation needed to supplement and make practical its several declarations. The governor and the judges had selected or made laws, from time to time, neglecting many important interests, and imperfectly providing for others which were touched upon; one of the statutes of Virginia had been adopted which put in operation the English common law and certain English statutes of a date prior to the fourth year of the reign of James I.; statutes from the original states had been called upon to supply, in whole or in part, contributions to the code of statutet law in the Territory, and there fell upon the legislature at this first session the duty of "repealing, amending, enacting and supplementing," in such manner as appealed to the best judgment of the pioneers who composed the body, until on their adjournment on the nineteenth day of December, 1799, there had been laid the foundation for much of the subsequent public law in the Territory and in those states which have been carved out of it.

Following is a summary of the acts of this assembly:

The above was taken from the printed laws of the territorial legislature, as printed by Carpenter & Findlay at Cincinnati, 1800. The book is now in possession of the Supreme Court Library in Columbus. The clerk of the House certifies in this book that Solomon Sibley was appointed a committee to superintend the printing of the laws of the session, on December 5. Mr. Sibley certifies, May 7 following, that he has carefully compared the printed laws with the original enrolled bills, and finds them to agree. The act bears the signatures of Edward Tiffin, Speaker of the House of Representatives; H. Vanderburgh, President of the Council, and are approved by Ar. St. Clair, Governor.

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIRST TERRITORIAL LEGISLATURE.

(CHILLICOTHE, NOVEMBER 3, 1800.)

It was in connection with the work of the first session of the legislature that the signs of approaching disagreement with the governor made their appearance. Governor St. Clair assumed that he was a branch of the assembly and that he had an absolute right to veto the acts of the two houses. He claimed the right, as governor, to lay out and change the boundaries of counties under the Ordinance of 1787, regardless of the expressions from the legislature, and was no doubt sincere in his efforts to perform that which he looked upon as his sworn duty. The result of his action was, however, to bring about a strained relation which only grew in force as time went on. Judge Burnet says, in the book already quoted: "The effect of the construction he gave of his own power may be seen in the fact that of thirty bills passed by the two houses during the first session, and sent to him for his approval, he refused assent to eleven, some of which were supposed to be of much importance, and all of them calculated, more or less, to advance the public interest. Some of them he rejected because they related to the establishment of new counties; others because he thought they were unnecessary or inexpedient. Thus, more than a third of the fruits of the labor of that entire session was lost by the exercise of the arbitrary discretion of one man." (p. 376.)

In this connection it may be well to add that the governor was not sustained in his position when he submitted to the Senate of the United States his report of new counties laid out after the legislature of the territory had come into existence. It was held that the governor of the Territory had exhausted his authority when he had once laid out the whole territory into counties (which Governor St. Clair had done early in his administration) and that subsequent rearrangements or divisions vested solely in the territorial legislature. This decision was not reached in time to prevent a recurrence of the differences between the governor and the legislature at its second session in 1800, but was gratifying to those members who had been engaged on the legislative side of the question during the first two sessions.

The legislature stood prorogued to meet at Cincinnati on the first Monday in November, 1800. By reference to an act of Congress of the United States May 7 of that year (See Part One), it will be noticed that after the adjournment of the first session of the legislature, the Northwest Territory was divided by a line running due north from the mouth of the Kentucky River, into an eastern part which retained the old name and government, and a western part which was given the name of the territory of Indiana and a new government of the first grade established therein, the officers of which were to be appointed by the President. This act of Congress was acquiesced in by the Governor and legislature of the territory with great reluctance, and was regarded by the best men in the Territory to be an unwarranted assumption of legislative power on the part of Congress. President Vanderburgh of the council was thus legislated out of office and became a citizen of the new territory. Representatives Shadrack Bond, of St. Clair County; John Edgar, of Randolph County, and John Small, of Knox County, also lost their seats in the House of Representatives for the same reason, and the constituents of these gentlemen were summarily deprived of a voice and a membership in that local territorial government, for which they had but recently voted. The seat of government for the new territory was fixed by Congress at Vincennes, and the same act named the village of Chillicothe, instead of the already established capital at Cincinnati, as the seat of government for the old territory. It was charged that this act of Congress was urged by two or three ardent and aggressive spirits who hoped to bring about an early state government in Ohio, and were already planning to accomplish the removal of Governor St. Clair and his administration.

Pursuant to the call issued by the Governor under the new order, the members of the legislature met in Chillicothe on the third day of November, 1800. This was almost exactly one hundred years ago, it being an interesting fact that the editor writes these lines on the twenty-sixth of October, 1900. The council met in the house of Joseph Tiffin, the council chamber in the new capitol not being ready for occupancy. As there is no record to the contrary, it is probable that the representatives were better provided for. The composition of the legislature at this second session was as follows:

In the Council.

Jacob Burnet, of Hamilton County (Cincinnati). Robert Oliver, of Washington County (Marietta). David Vance, of Jefferson County (Vanceville). James Findlay, of Hamilton County (Cincinnati).

Mr. Vanderburgh, of Vincennes, having for reasons already given, lost his seat in the council, Mr. Oliver was elected president of that body, Mr. William C. Schenck (secretary of the Territory) acting as secretary to the council, and William Rutledge being elected doorkeeper. To fill the vacancy in council the Governor requested the House of Representatives to nominate to the President of the United States two names from which to make a selection, and on the ninth of November the names of Solomon Sibley, of Detroit, and Samuel Findlay (Finley?), of Cincinnati, were chosen. The seat remained vacant until the session of 1801, owing to the time necessarily consumed in forwarding the nominations to the national capitol and in returning the appointment to the Territory.

In the House of Representatives.

The following members were present and took their seats at a later day:

Benham, Robert, of Hamilton County.

Chobert de Joncaire, Charles F., of Wayne County (Detroit).

Darlington, Joseph, of Adams County.

Fearing, Paul, of Washington County.

Findlay, Samuel, of Ross County.

Goforth, William, of Hamilton County.

Kimberly, Zenas, of Jefferson County.

Langham, Elias, of Ross County (contested seat).

Ludlow, John, of Hamilton County (Vice Caldwell, removed from the Territory).

Lytle, William, of Hamilton County.

McMillan, William, of Hamilton County.

Martin, Isaac, of Hamilton County.

Massie, Nathaniel, of Adams County (Seated November 10).

Meigs, Return J., Jr., of Washington County.

Pritchard, James, of Jefferson County.

Sibley, Solomon, of Wayne County (Detroit).

Smith, John, of Hamilton County.

Tiffin, Edward, of Ross County.

Visgar, Jacob, of Wayne County (Detroit).

Worthington, Thomas, of Ross County.

Edward Tiffin was elected Speaker of the House.

One of the first duties devolving on the legislature was the election of a delegate to Congress to succeed Captain William Henry Harrison, who had resigned to accept the appointment as governor of the territory of Indiana, and also to elect a delegate for the long term beginning on the fifth day of March, 1801. On the sixth day of November the two houses met in joint session in accordance with a previous resolution to that effect, and elected as delegates to Congress: William McMillan, of Hamilton County, for the unexpired term ending March 4, 1801, and Paul Fearing, of Washington County, for the term ending on the fourth day of March, 1803.

As will be noticed, the selections were made from the members of the House of Representatives.

Mr. McMillan at once resigned from the House and proceeded to his new duties.

The work of legislation was begun with mutual expressions of regard between the Governor and the members of the assembly, notwithstanding the differences of the preceding winter. On November 5, the Governor visited the joint assembly and delivered an annual message of kindly tone in which he spoke of the near approach of the end of his term of office and of their own. He mentioned the efforts of his adversaries only to remark: "The remorse of their own consciences will one day be punishment sufficient. Their acts may, however, succeed. Be that as it may, this I am certain, that, be my successor who he may, he can never have the interests of the people of this Territory more truly at heart than I have had for them, nor labor more assiduously for their good than

I have done; and I am not conscious that any one act of my administration has been influenced by any other motive than a sincere desire to promote their welfare and happiness."

To this the assembly drafted its formal reply and asked the Governor to fix an hour when he could receive the committee and hear the same. On receiving an intimation of his convenience, the committee formally waited on him in the executive chamber at 10 o'clock a. m., Monday, November 17, and afterward returned to their respective houses bearing with them the formal reply of his excellency to their address. This second communication from St. Clair is a feeling response to the expressions of confidence in which the House had clothed its message to him.

Governor St. Clair, in a message to the House December 2, 1800, calls to their attention the fact that, as his term of office expires in one week from that day, it will be necessary that the session must end on that day, and therefore any business of importance to be transacted should not be too long postponed. He says in this case the Secretary of the Territory cannot supply to the Assembly the place of a Governor.

French inhabitants of the County of Wayne presented to the House, December 4, a petition in French language which was referred to Messrs. Kimberly and Visger for translation. (p. 95.) This committee reported later in the day that the petition was for a redress of certain grievances, and it was referred to the Committee on Propositions and Grievances.

A proposition was submitted that the assembly should hold its sessions in rotation as follows: The first session to be held in the town of Marietta, the second in the town of Cincinnati, and the third in the town of Chillicothe. This was agreed to by the House, 10 to 8.

A motion to hold the sessions in Cincinnati was lost, 4 to 14. The bill was finally defeated by striking out the enacting clause, on a vote not given. (p. 109.)

Adjourned by the Governor December 9, 1800. (S. J., p. 77.)

The House organized on the twenty-fourth of November by the election of the following officers: Edward Tiffin, Speaker; John Reilly, Clerk.

The seats of Messrs. Scheifflin and McDougall, of Wayne County, were contested, but they were declared to be entitled to their seats.

The finances of the Territory were in such condition that the governor, who had been reappointed during the adjournment of the assembly, in his address at a joint session of the two houses called to be held in "Mr. Gregg's Hall" for the purpose said: "The Territory is in debt in the sum of $5,419 beyond the whole revenue for the present year. A new emission of bills (of credit) must be made, even to meet the expenses of the present session. A wretched expedient, it is true, because the bills suffer a depreciation in the hands they pass through, and the public pays the full interest."

During this session of the General Assembly, a bill was passed transferring the seat of government to Cincinnati, from which city it had been removed by a provision in the territorial act of 1800, and as an expression of feeling on the part of the local inhabitants, a number of the members of the legislature, and also the governor, were set upon in Chillicothe on the twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth of December. The matter was made a subject for official investigation.

At 12 o'clock noon, on January twenty-third, the Council attended the chamber of the House of Representatives in a body, where the joint assembly was addressed by Governor St. Clair, and adjourned by him to meet in second session in Cincinnati on the fourth Monday of the following November (1802). It should be noted here that this proposed second session of the second and last territorial legislature was never held. The reason is given in the following interesting extract from the memoirs of a member of the Council speaking of the first constitutional convention.

"As the territorial legislature was in existence, and stood adjourned, to meet at Cincinnati on the fourth Monday in November, three weeks after the opening of the convention, a resolution was passed directing their president to request the governor to dissolve or prorogue that body. Such a precaution was altogether unnecessary, as no disposition existed among the members, either to embarrass, or in any way interfere with the movements of the convention. That such a disposition did not exist was verified by the fact that the day for the meeting of the legislature came and passed; the members remaining at home as by common consent. No attempt was made by the governor, or by any of the members, to convene that body, till its existence was terminated, and it was succeeded by the General Assembly, under the State Constitution." (Notes on the Northwestern Territory, 1847, by Judge Jacob Burnett, a member of the Territorial Council.)

The salaries of the governor and territorial judges were paid by the general government until the adoption of the Constitution of Ohio, but the other expenses of the local government were paid by the Territory. This bill appropriates the sum of twelve thousand dollars for what is called a contingent fund, and then provides for its disbursement in detail. Some of the items are interesting as conveying information as to the nature and amount of the territorial expenses a hundred years ago.

The governor is allowed fifty dollars for postage "upon letters of a public nature."

The treasurer is allowed ten dollars for stationery for his office and fifty dollars for the purchase of "an iron chest for the territory."

The private secretary to the governor is allowed three dollars per day for time actually employed, but is not allowed more than thirty days' pay in the year.

The legislature is allowed a total sum of eight thousand five hundred dollars.

From the general fund, the following allowances were ordered:

To Arthur St. Clair, Jr., attorney-general, a salary of $400. To the auditor of public accounts, a salary of $750.

To the auditor of public accounts, postage for two years, $75.41.

To auditor of public accounts, extra clerk hire, $95.

To the territorial treasurer, a salary of $400.

To Daniel McAllister, fire-wood, $26.
To William Rutledge, repairs two houses, $4.
To James Phillips, three dozen chairs for the legislature, $72.

For repairs to court house for reception of legisature, etc., $16.10.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF OHIO. (1803-1904.)

The third legislative body to come into power in the territory comprised in the present state was the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, which, following the adoption of the State Constitution and the admission of the state into the Union of States, was organized for its first session, on the first day of March, 1803.

The legislative body thus inaugurated has been an enormous factor for good in the onward and forward progress of Ohio during the past hundred years. No group of men have served the state with so little personal gain as have her legislators. No body of public men has done so much to encourage morality, industry and patriotism. The wonder of it is — not that legislators have occasionally made personal mistakes — but that in no matter what strait or dilemma, Ohio has always had in her service, practically without compensation, so many men who were not only patriots, but men who exhibited the wisdom and had the courage to handle the affairs of state with honor to themselves, to their constituents and the name of an Ohioan. When the enormous power of a General Assembly is fairly understood, the more honor is found to be due those men who, since the first settler landed on the western bank of the Ohio, in 1788, have never used that power as a body, except to advance the state in dignity and in prosperity, and in evidences of fealty in every hour of danger to the general government. More or less acquaintance with members of recent assemblies, and a quite studious attention to the records of the past century in Ohio, gives point to these observations.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR EDWARD TIFFIN, FIRST GOVERNOR OF OHIO.

Gentlemen of the Scnate, and of the House of Representatives:

In obedience to the call of my fellow citizens, communicated to me through your joint committee, I have attended to take and subscribe the necessary oaths required by the constitution, preparatory to administering the government of this state. I cannot, on this occasion, but express to them through their representatives, the high sense I entertain of the obligations I am under for their partiality towards me, in the unanimity which they have manifested at the late elections, and to assure you and them, that so far as my limited talents and experience will enable, it shall be my study and care to keep the public weal constantly in view, and uniformly to endeavor to evidence that the confidence reposed in me has not been misplaced.

In order to divert as little of your time as possible from the important duties assigned you, and to avoid that unnecessary parade which has been too often made use of, I will, while I am here, observe, that tomorrow, at eleven o'clock, I shall make a communication to the legislature on the state of the government, by message.

FIRST MESSAGE OF GOVERNOR EDWARD TIFFIN, TO THE FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF OHIO, FRIDAY, MARCH 4TH, 1803, IN THE TOWN OF CHILLICOTHE.

To the General Assembly of the State of Ohio: Gentlemen of the Senate, and of the House of Representatives:

We now exhibit another sovereign, free and independent state, organized northwest of the Ohio, which is about to be added to that confederated government, emphatically stiled "the world's best hope"; many of our citizens have, with anxiety, looked forward to that period, and not without reason, when they should become a free people, and I sincerely congratulate you and them, that they have now an entire legislature of their own choice, assembled under a constitution sacred to liberty; a constitution which rests upon equal rights and displays a pure representative system; a constitution whereby the rulers are derivable from and amenable to, the people; a constitution calculated to excite in all our citizens a patriotic zeal, by giving each individual an opportunity, by merit, of being called upon to participate in the government, that all may strive habitually to feel and distinctly understand, its first principles.

The period wherein we commence our national existence is peculiarly auspicious; the government of the United States respected abroad, strong in the confidence of its citizens at home, and by a wise and prudent policy in lopping off all extraneous excrescenses from the body politic, requires less fiscal exactions to preserve it in its pristine health and constitutional vigour; the good effects resulting therefrom to us, in our first essay towards self government, are evident; and it is a pleasing reflection that the sons of Ohio, conscious of the tender solicitude and lively interest manifested for the happiness and welfare of every portion of the American people, as well as for the evident results of an enlightened policy, are fast progressing with their fellow citizens in the other states, toward a union of sentiment and affection.

The recent embarrassments to our infant commerce, occasioned by the irregularities at New Orleans, we have every reason to believe will soon be removed by the prompt and efficacious measures taken by the President of the United States, and which has been aided by the minister of his Catholic Majesty; and from the embassy which has been wisely adopted, we may further hope that our situation will be bettered, by placing our commerce on a footing not liable to similar interruptions in future. If, however, the just and natural expectations of government should be frustrated, we are consoled by the lively sensibility excited in the general government and in every part of the union, for the situation of their western brethren, and although every friend to humanity may have to regret the dernier resort, yet it is as much impossible to prevent the Mississippi from discharging its vast contents, swelled with the numerous navigable rivers with which it is nourished, into the bosom of the ocean, as to prevent, at the call of government, of whose magnamimity I have no doubt, those brave and intrepid citizens who are everywhere settled on their banks and fertile plains, from asserting their natural and acquired rights, and forcing with the stream, the fruits of their industry to every part of the world.

In giving to the general assembly information of the state of the government, and recommending to their consideration such measures as may be deemed expedient, a wide field of action must necessarily be opened, and discover the important duties devolving on the first legislature; the foundation of government is laid, to you, gentlemen, it is committed to raise the superstructure, and carry in a great measure into effect the national will.

It will, no doubt, afford you much consolation on receiving from the proper officers, a statement of our finances in discovering that the present revenue, if wholly reserved for state purposes, is adequate to all the necessary exigencies of government; and that by a true economy, devoid of parsimony, the public faith and credit may be maintained, without any additional augumentation in consequence of that change which has taken place.

The constitution having assigned to the legislature the appointment of all the principal officers in the government, that instrument will consequently pass in review, and in due time occupy the serious attention of both houses. Under the constitution of the United States, you will also have to select two of our citizens, to represent the state in the Senate of the United States, for six years, and to provide, by law, for the election of one member of th House of Representatives.

The laws levying a tax on land, the principal source from whence the revenue has proceeded, expiring of themselves, you will discover the necessity of taking that subject into consideration; and as experience has pointed out the defects which have heretofore existed, you will be thereby aided in devising a system of taxation, which shall operate equally on all, and be incapable of misconstruction in favor of any, who either from design or neglect may fail to comply with the just and necessary requisitions of government. It may also be proper to add, that under the existing laws, great neglect has been manifested by those who have alienated their lands in making the proper transfers on the books of taxation: that considerable locations have been made by individuals in the United States' military tract in the Virginia military tract, and at some of the United States' offices, and which have never been entered for taxation, to provide for bringing all lands under the law, which are subject thereto, and to prevent embarrassments in the collections in future, are amongst the several objects which will naturally present themselves to your minds, when deliberating upon this subject. The return of the special agent, sent by the convention to Congress, instructed with certain propositions, is duly expected, and which, if acceded to by them, will affect this subject. As soon as official information is received, it shall be immediately communicated.

The constitution having made an entire change in the judiciary system necessary, it will be proper to direct your particular attention to the third article of that instrument, upon this subject. To erect and establish courts with common law and chancery powers, with civil and criminal jurisdiction, at whose bar, life, reputation, property, and everything dear to freemen may be at stake, as well as to fill the benches with proper characters to pronounce the law, and to provide for an impartial selection of juries, are of such vast importance in every well regulated government, as to require the utmost deliberation and caution. Under the same article it will be necessary to provide by law, for the election of a competent number of justices of the peace in each township, in the several counties, and it may be an object worthy your enquiry, whether it would not be economical and judicious, to establish them in each county into a court, to manage its internal concerns, and regulate its general police.

Within one year after the meeting of the first legislature, it is required that an enumeration of all the white male inhabitants, above twenty-one years of age, shall be made; it will therefore be necessary, to provide by law, for the accomplishment of that object, in order that a due apportionment of senators and representatives may be assigned to each county or district.

A well regulated and disciplined militia, being justly considered in every republic as its safeguard for protection and defence, I cannot but recommend to your consideration, a review of the existing laws relative thereto: The first passed in the year 1799 is a good system, but as it was adapted to the state of the district, when the Indiana and North-Western Territory were one, and much injured by a subsequent act, passed in the year 1801, which repealed that part relative to the appointment of general officers, and which the constitution now recognizes, it is suggested whether it would not be best to revive the former law, with such alterations as will make it applicable to our present situation, aided with such other improvements as you may find its susceptible of, as well as to provide for the election of its officers.

The season of the year in which you were necessarily convened, to carry the government into operation, being inconvenient to many of you, will doubtless excite a wish to curtail the present session, and devote your immediate attention to such objects as are most pressing, and more especially, as there is reason to believe you will be much importuned with business of a local nature, from different parts of the state, otherwise it would have been advisable to have taken a review of all the present existing laws, many of which, from the circumstances under which they were adopted in the first, and enacted under the second grade of the territorial governments, requires much revision; one however adopted at an early period "regulating marriages," whereby the governor is exclusively authorized to grant marriage licenses, and which has been justly complained of, will, I hope, now be expunged from our code, and one better adopted to the object of its institution and more congenial to the spirit of the government, enacted in its stead.

When we consider the present prosperous situation of the United States, and contemplate our own present and future prospects, situated as we are, in a country where nature has been lavish of her favors to every part, where our soil, climate and navigable waters present to the mind of observation and contemplation the most pleasing view and prospect of the future greatness and importance of this part of the American empire, we have much reason to render the sincere homage of grateful hearts, to that Being who has so highly favored us and every inducement for the exercise of our faculties, in improving those means now within our reach towards the happiness and prosperity of our country. "Religion, morality and knowledge, are necessary to all good governments," says the excellent constitution under which you are convened and to this great truth we must all subscribe. The liberal grants of land made by the United States, for the purpose of erecting and endowing universities and other seminaries of learning, and for the support of religion, are advantages in these respects, superior to those which perhaps any other new country can boast of, to improve those means with advantage, towards the noble ends for which they were given, to preserve the public faith unimpeached, to practice economy in all public expenditures, to impose no taxes upon our citizens, either for state or county purposes, but what are really necessary for their honest wants, to cultivate peace and harmony with our Indian neighbors, and to exemplify both in our public acts and private life. Every disposition towards discountenancing idleness and dissipation, and by encouraging industry, frugality, temperance and every moral virtue, are objects of such importance to our rising republic, that they cannot fail if attended to, of producing the best effects in forming for us a national character, which may be the admiration of all. On my part, gentlemen, you may rest assured it shall be no less my honest pride than it is made my constitutional duty, cordially to cooperate with you in every measure your united wisdom and experience may devise for the public good.

SKETCHES OF OFFICERS AND MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE.

CHARLES D. CONOVER

Was elected as a member of the House of Representatives in 1912 from Champaign county. Because of his activity, many laws were modified and some defeated.

He was elected to his second term in 1914 and in the campaign for the organization of the House, he was chosen speaker from a field of prominent candidates.

Mr. Conover entered upon the duties of speaker with a firm resolve to use the power of his position for the general good as shown by his speech of acceptance of the speakership. "As the speaker of the 81st General Assembly, it is my purpose to be fair and impartial in all rulings; to give every member an opportunity to be heard on behalf of the people whom I represent. I wish to give full assurance, that I will strive at all times to join with you in giving the people of Ohio such legislation only, as the best interests of the state demands."

That he was successful in keeping his pledge can be inferred from this extract from his address at the close of the session: When elected to the speakership of this House, I expressed a determination to be fair and just in all my rulings.

It is a great satisfaction now for me to know that my work has been approved by you regardless of your party affiliations. I appreciate more than you realize the kind expressions of your satisfaction in my fairness in discharging the responsible duties of the speaker of the 81st General Assembly."

Mr. Conover was born in Champaign county, March 21, 1881, and received his education in the public schools, Ohio Northern University and Ohio Wesleyan University. For several years thereafter, he was superintendent of schools at Kings Creek. He is married.

OHIO.

Ohio, the seventeenth state of the Union, was admitted to statehood February 19, 1803. The Northwest Territory, from which this State was carved, was established by the "Ordinance of 1787." The first permanent settlement was made at Marietta, in April, 1788. Total area, 41,240 square miles (Prof. C. E. Sherman's survey); extreme breadth, 230 miles; extreme length, 205 miles; divided into 88 counties; population (census 1910), 4,767,121. Railway mileage; steam, 9,166 miles single track; electric, 2,647 miles, exclusive of city lines.

GREENVILLE TREATY LINE.

On August 3, 1795, the Greenville Peace Treaty, negotiated with the Indians by General Mad Anthony Wayne, was duly signed, by the terms of which the Greenville Treaty Line was established. It began at the mouth of the Cuyahoga River, ran up that stream to the portage crossing to the Tuscarawas River, down that stream to Fort Lawrence (near the present site of Bolivar, Tuscarawas County); thence westerly to near Loramie, Shelby County (on a branch of the Miami at the beginning of the portage to the St. Marys); thence to Fort Recovery, Mercer County, and thence southwesterly to a point on the Ohio River opposite the mouth of the Kentucky River.

POPULATION.

The population of Ohio, 4,767,121, represents an increase during the last decade of 14.7 per cent., while during the same period continental United States increased 21 per cent.

Ohio has 82 cities, each having a population of 5,000 or more, aggregating a total of 2,467,054, or 51.8 per cent. of its total population.

Ohio ranks eighth in density of population, having an average of 117 persons to the square mile. Cuyahoga county has the highest density, 1,376.7 persons per square mile, while Vinton county, with but 31.8 persons per square mile, has the lowest density.

Of the forty-nine counties which have increased in population, Mahoning shows the largest percentage, 65.6, and Fayette the smallest, 0.1 per cent. The numerical increase was greatest in Cuyahoga, 198,305, and smallest in Fayette, 19.

Thirty-nine counties have decreased in population, ranging from 0.1 per cent. in Lawrence to 17.4 per cent. in Paulding. The numerical decrease was smallest in Lawrence, 46, and largest in Wood, 5.225.

There is a total of 783 incorporated cities and villages in Ohio.

COLUMBUS.

The borough of Columbus was incorporated February 10, 1816, and by an act of the General Assembly, passed February 17, 1816, it was made the seat of state government from and after the second Tuesday in October following.

The first session of the General Assembly held in Columbus was convened December 2 of that year.

The seat of Government of Ohio was established at Chillicothe May 7, 1800; at Zanesville October 1, 1810, and at Columbus October 8, 1816.

CAPITOL BUILDING.

The erection of the first Capitol Building in Columbus was begun in 1813, at the juncture of State and High streets, on the southwest corner of the State House Square; it was of brick, seventy-five by fifty feet, and two stories high, surmounted by a spire one hundred and six feet above the ground, in which hung the legislative bell. This building was destroyed by fire on Sunday morning, February 1, 1852.

The succeeding sessions of the General Assembly, until the completion of the present Capitol Building, were held, the Senate in the United States Court House and Ambos' Hall, and the House in Neil's Odeon Hall, located on the west side of High street, opposite the Capital Grounds.

The corner-stone of the present Capitol Building was laid July 4, 1839, and the building completed in 1856; convict labor was largely employed in its construction. The first session of the General Assembly was convened in this building January 5, 1857, at 10 o'clock a. m.

The remains of President Lincoln lay in state in the rotunda of the Capitol in Columbus on April 29, 1865, while being transported from Washington to Springfield, Illinois, for burial.

The first civil court held in the Northwest Territory was convened on the second day of September, 1788, in the great hall of the Campus Martius at Marietta. After the divine benediction was invoked the sheriff, Ebenezer Sproat, arose to open the court, and, probably ignorant of the French signification of the words, over, over (hear, hear), cried out, as has since become the invariable custom, "Oh, yes! Oh, yes! a court is open for the administration of even-handed justice to the poor and to the rich, to the guilty and the innocent, without respect of persons; none to be punished without trial by their peers and in pursuance of the laws and evidence in the case."

LAW LIBRARY OF THE SUPREME COURT.

This important adjunct of the Supreme Court had its beginning in 1860, when, upon the completion of the present Capitol Building, the law books belonging to the State Library were taken to the rooms assigned to the Supreme Court and placed under the care of the Judicial Department.

At this time the number of books was less than two thousand. In 1867 the General Assembly created the office of Law Librarian and Crier of the Court, and James H. Beebe was elected the first Librarian; he was succeeded upon his death, in 1903, by his son, Frank W. Beebe. During the period from 1866 to 1880 the Library was increased from twenty-five hundred to seventy-five hundred volumes, which has steadily grown to its present magnificent proportions of more than thirty-five thousand volumes.

Under the able management of the present Librarian, Mr. E. Howard Gilkey, there have been added needed English and Canadian reports, law and text-books, all the recent American legal publications likely to be of use in Ohio Courts, and complete sets of reports from New Zealand, Victoria, New South Wales and Queensland, as well as the reports of the Commonwealth of Australia so far as published. In addition to the books in the main library room there are ten auxiliary libraries on the court floor above, in which are kept complete sets of Ohio reports of all courts, and such other legal publications as are in constant use by the members and officers of the Court. The accessions run from seven hundred to nine hundred volumes per year from the various sources, and are limited only by the funds available for that purpose. The design of the Department is to gather together in this central location a collection of law books that will be of constant use to the bench and bar of Ohio, as well as to the Court for which it was originally established.

OFFICIAL TIME.

The standard of time throughout this State is that of the ninetieth meridian of longitude west from Greenwich, and is known as central standard time. Courts, banks, public offices and legal or official proceedings are regulated thereby; and when, by a law, rule, order or process of any authority, created by or pursuant to law, an act must be performed at or within a prescribed time, it shall be so performed according to such standard of time.

Note. — The above does not govern the General Assembly in the election of a United States Senator for the reason that the Federal Statutes provide that such election must be held at 12 o'clock meridian time, which at Columbus, is twenty-eight minutes faster than standard time.

The first newspaper printed northwest of the Ohio River was issued at Cincinnati November 9, 1793, by William Maxwell. It was entitled "The Centinel of the Northwest Territory," and its motto, "Open to all parties, but influenced by none."

HIGHWAYS.

The first gravel road extended from Warren, Trumbull county, to Lake Erie, and soon after one was constructed from Cincinnati through Lebanon. Waynesville and Xenia to Springfield.

There were clay turnpikes previously constructed, notably the one from Columbus to Sandusky City, known as the Old Mud Pike, one hundred and six miles in length.

The first canal, The Ohio and Erie Canal, extending from the Ohio River at Cincinnati to Lake Erie at Toledo, was authorized by an act of the legislature, passed February 4, 1825, and, with assistance from the Federal Government, was completed in 1832.

The first railroad was finished in 1836, and extended from Toledo to Adrian, Michigan. This road was built largely by the citizens of Toledo and was operated by horse power during the first year. The Cincinnati and Springfield Railroad, now a portion of the Pennsylvania, and the road between Springfield and Sandusky, now a portion of the Big Four System, were constructed a few years later.

The first steamboat built on Western waters was called The Orleans; it was constructed at Pittsburgh by Robert Fulton, and in the month of December, 1812, made the trip down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers to New Orleans.

STATE LIBRARY.

The Ohio State Library was established in 1817, primarily for the use of the legislature and state officers. In 1896 the new Board of Library Commissioners extended the privileges of the Library to every citizen of the State.

The books are acquired by purchase, through exchange with other states and by deposits from the Federal Government. The number of volumes in the various departments of the Library is nearly two hundred thousand; of these, fifty thousand are for reference use, including bound volumes of magazines and newspapers and State and Government documents; these books are loaned to patrons in all parts of the state and are forwarded by mail or express at the expense of the borrower.

Through the efforts of Mr. R. P. Hayes, the first president of the Board of Library Commissioners, the Traveling Library Department was opened in the autumn of 1896: popular from the first, this department has grown in usefulness until it now sends out annually more than twelve hundred libraries, aggregating thousands of volumes.

A Department of Organization was added in 1908, for the purpose of giving aid and counsel in the establishing of new libraries and the reorganization of old ones, giving advice in the planning of buildings and for the collection of statistics for use of the Board of Library Commissioners.
