

JIU JITSU CHAMPION PASSES THROUGH CITY

K. Noguchi, Crack Exponent of Japanese Art, Here With Champion Fencer

One of the champion jiu jitsu experts of Japan, perhaps the most distinguished man in this remarkable system of self-defence who has visited America, arrived on the Tamba Maru this morning from Yokohama. His name is K. Noguchi, and he is accompanied by a champion fencing master, K. Buto. Their object is to give exhibitions throughout the United States.

This exponent of the art of making an opponent use his strength to his own disadvantage is a man in middle life, short of stature like his race, and with very strongly developed muscles and limbs.

An interpreter was found in the person of D. B. McKinnon, a teacher of English at the schools in Shimonoeki, who gathered for the Times the reasons of the visit. The professor of physical train stated that he had taken part in successful bouts with various leaders of the art in Japan, and was now paying his first visit to the United States to show the tricks of the system to others. He observed that his fencing master, Mr. Buto, was "among the highest" in the kingdom.

The system of official jiu jitsu taught in Japan is that devised by Professor Jiguro Kano, principal of the High Normal school at Tokio. It is taught to every officer and enlisted man of the Japanese army, navy and police departments. There are 160 feets in the Kano system. The object is to offset the effectiveness of powerful muscles by performing skilful yet simple manoeuvres.

The party proceeded to Seattle after a short visit up town.

MISSION CONSECRATED WITH MARTYRS' BLOOD

Dr. Lewis Gives Interesting Account of Hospital Practice in Northern China

The story of a medical mission which was destroyed by the Boxers in the rising and rebuilt to carry out effective work, is told by Charles Lewis, who with Mrs. Lewis and family, arrived on the Tamba Maru this morning from the Orient.

"Our missionaries at Posing Fu, which is a town 100 miles from Peking, in the province in Chi-li, were killed by the Boxers," he said, "and at that time I was a surgeon in the American army. It is maintained by the American Presbyterians, and I took over the work. In the past fifteen years it has been very hard going, as you will judge when I mention we had 20,000 out patients treated at the dispensary last year, and I performed 822 operations. Some of the patients come 100 miles to be treated and not so long since a man crawled, for he could not walk, nearly 200 miles to the hospital.

"The Rockefeller foundation is expected to help the hospital work very considerably. It is taking over the Union Medical college in Peking from the controlling bodies, and it is the intention to use the hospitals in northern China as training grounds for internes after their medical course. The missions will furnish the men, and the Foundation will pay their salaries. Assistance is also proposed for the Harvard Medical college in Shanghai. Scholarships will be established for native Chinese who have learnt something of medicine in China, to complete their course in American universities. It is also proposed by the Foundation to find nurses for the hospitals, and to give the means for an additional doctor to be employed in such institutions as that with which I am connected.

"One of the difficulties we have with our cases in China is that the patients come to the hospitals in such advanced stages of disease that a surgeon has very little opportunity. The cases are neglected till relief is almost hopeless. It has been impressed upon me that more attention must be given to the medical work in the hospital, for there are many patients of this character to whom I have no time to attend. To a western physician our experience with Chinese would appear strange, lacking as we do the skilled attention possible with an adequate staff. I do not know there is any work to which a man of professional knowledge could better devote himself than medical missionary work under the conditions as we know them in northern China."

AUCTIONEER CHARGED

Client Makes Accusation of Failure to Account for Proceeds of Sale.

John Spenlove Bennett, auctioneer, was arrested last night by Detectives Hesthers and Edens on a charge of Misappropriation of a client's money. On this he was arraigned in police court this morning, and on the application of his counsel, W. C. Moresby, was remanded until Friday without electing the form of trial he desires. The charge is that on or about the months of March or April last he unlawfully stole the sum of $274.50, the property of Mrs. Marie L. Brown. This amount, it is understood, is alleged to be the proceeds of the sale of goods belonging to Mrs. Brown which were not paid over to her.

PROCEEDS TO HELP WOUNDED HORSES

Many Attend Blue Cross Garden Fete Held Yesterday at "Rappahannock"

The garden fete held yesterday afternoon at "Rappahannock," the beautiful residence of Colonel and Mrs. Coy lent for the occasion, realized about $300 for the funds of the Blue Cross Society, in aid of which it was held.

The event, opened by Mrs. Schofield, was attended by crowds of interested sympathizers with the welfare of horses in the present campaign, and the address given by Lieut.-Col. Lorne Ross, recently returned from the front, was listened to with close attention. Owing to the prevalence of trench fighting in the present campaign, he said, horses were not in much demand for cavalry purposes, but in every battalion there were seventy transportation horses, and these had suffered severely, notably in the Langemarck engagement. Four Blue Cross hospitals had been established in France, each with three depots. Four more would be opened as soon as funds could be secured, and wounded horses would be cared for or put out of their misery as painlessly as possible. The need for consideration of the horses was not only a matter of kindness; the animals were expensive, and it was a matter of economy to save them wherever possible.

Rev. Dr. Campbell spoke briefly urging support for the Blue Cross fund before Mr. Dennis Cox, who acts as chairman, called for a vote of thanks for Lieut.-Col. Ross, this being given with great heartiness.

Guests as they arrived were welcomed by Mrs. Coy, Mrs. Schofield, and Mrs. Dennis Cox, president of the Blue Cross Society, who, with an energetic committee of ladies organized the admirable series of entertainments provided during the afternoon.

The various helpers and the proceeds of their stalls were as follows: Ice cream stall, $12.20, presided over by the Misses Hume, Teresa Robinson, Verinder, Vera Hume, Elworthy and Lauder; candy stall, Mrs. Elliott and the Misses Cox and Mulligan, $25; country store, (salesman, Mr. Elliott) $45; palmistry and fortune telling, Miss Pawnell Wright, Mrs. David Miller, and Mrs. Richards, $12.10; Miss Cancellor's "Tango" (led by Miss Margery Judd) collected $14; and afternoon tea (the charge for which was included in the price for the ticket of admission), Mesdames Cancellor, J. D. Gordon, Lewis Hall, Rolston, S. Y. Wootton, Barrington Foote, Schell, Allan, and Newcome, assisted by the Misses Clair Belsom, Gwenneth Lewis, Catherine Neame, Yvonne Cox, Hazel Sexsmith, Myrtle Kilpatrick, and Jessie Gordon.

The concert in the summer house, arranged by Mrs. Harry Briggs, included a song by her entitled "Three;" and solos by the following artists: Mrs. Harry Pooley, "Rose in the Bud;" Mrs. Roy Troup, "A Chinese Love Song;" H. Davies, "Come Sing to Me," and R. McKenzie, "My Moon." Mrs. Gibson made a delightful accompanist.

During the afternoon a telegram was read by the chairman from Colonel Coy, regretting his inability to attend, but promising a handsome donation to the cause. In addition to the great generosity shown by Colonel and Mrs. Coy in giving the use of their grounds and every possible assistance to the success of the undertaking, valuable help was given by a number of city firms interested specially in horses, and to these the ladies of the Blue Cross society wish to extend grateful thanks.

The Royal Dairy, who gave twenty quarts of milk; the Queen City Chapter Eastern Star, for lending china necessary for the event; the Masons, for lending and erecting chairs; the New Method laundry, for lending table linen, and delivering tables and chairs; the Express Company, for valuable assistance in carting; and others.

The 5th Gordon Highlanders' band was present and played at intervals during the day, and proceedings opened and closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Little Mollie had been very trying all day. That evening, when her grown-up sister was putting her to bed, she said she hoped the child would be a better girl to-morrow, and not make everybody unhappy with her naughty temper. Mollie listened in silence, thought hard for a few moments, and then said wisely, "Yes, when it's me it's temper; when it's you, it's nerves."

PRISONERS WELL TREATED.

Germans Imprisoned in England Have Easy Time.

The Press Association's special correspondent at the British headquarters states that throughout the war there has been a marked contrast between the manner in which British prisoners are treated by the enemy and that in which British troops treat German prisoners captured at the front.

erate a foe as any, but the moment that the German is unarmed and a prisoner, then the feeling of hate becomes mingled with sympathy with one less fortunate, and accordingly the prisoner is really better treated than he deserves.

A Saxon who was taken last week, writes to his fiancée: "I am now a prisoner in the hands of the British. All is well with me, and you need have no anxiety about me, as we are better treated here than in Germany. We are given so much to eat that we are quite unable to finish it all." After some remarks of a personal nature the prisoner continues—"We played football to-day and had great fun."

Another prisoner, also a Saxon, writing to his mother, says: "We are still in France waiting to be sent to England. We lack nothing, and the German papers lie when they say that the English treat their prisoners badly. Our food is splendid."

In a third letter the writer, another recently captured prisoner, is also delighted at the treatment he receives. "We are well treated here," he writes, "and there is more to eat and smoke than we had in the German lines. I only hope that the prisoners in German hands are as well treated as we are."

SNOBISHNESS DIES.

Two things are of good augury for the future, says a London Daily Graphic writer. The first is the remarkable disappearance during these months of war of all traces of snobishness from among us. Snobishness is one of our besetting sins; it implies the worship of wealth, and where it prevails a false tone is given to all intercourse, a false direction to the expenditure of money, to production and to many activities of life. To-day this snobishness has disappeared, save among a few individuals who are to be found in every age and country. The men and women of the new generation will be poor in this world's wealth—it will take many years to pay off the cost of the war—their hearts will be heavy with the remembrance of the suffering and agony of our present conflict, but they will be spared many of our errors and disappointments, and they will see more clearly than we have done what things are most truly valuable in life.
