Prompt. Parv. — Promptorium Parvulorum sive Clericorum. Ms. Harl. 221. A dictionary, in which many hundreds of English words are translated into Latin, compiled in 1440, by a Friar Preacher, a Recluse, at Lynne in Norfolk. He gives notice in his preface, that his English is that spoken in the East country; and accordingly his orthography will be found to differ very much from Chaucer's. His name was Richard Fraunces; if we may believe a Ms. note cited by Hearne, Gloss. to P. L. v. Neshe; who has there also given an account of an edition of this dictionary, printed by Pynson in 1499. Dr. Hunter has a copy of it.

G L O S S A R Y.

A, WHICH is commonly called the Indefinite Article, is really nothing more than a corruption of the Saxon Adjective ANE, or AN, before a Substantive beginning with a consonant.

It is sometimes prefixed to another Adjective; the Substantive, to which both belong, being understood. ver. 208.

A Frere there was, A WANTON and A MERY.
See ver. 165, and the note.

It is also joined to Nouns plural, taken collectively; as, An hundred frankes, ver. 13201. A thousand frankes, ver. 13206.—and to such as are not used in the singular number; as, A listes, ver. 1715. See the note. So the Latins said, Unæ literæ, Cic. ad Att. v. 9. and the French, formerly, unes lices; unes lettres; unes tréves. Froissart. v. i. c. 153: 237. v. ii. c. 78.

A, prep. before a Gerund, is a corruption of ON. To go A BEGGING. 11884. R. 6719. i. e. on begging. The prep. is often expressed at length. ON HUNTING ben they ridden. 1689. To ride' ON HAWKING. 13667.

In the same manner, before a noun it is generally a corruption of ON or IN. A'bed. 5989, 6509. A'fire. 6308. A'Goddes name. 17267. A'morwe. 824. A'night. 5784. A'werke. 4335, 5797. though in some of these instances perhaps it may as well be supposed to be a corruption of AT.

A in composition, in words of Saxon original, is an abbreviation of AF, or OF; of AT; of ON, or IN; and often only a corruption of the prepositive particle GE, or Y. In words of French original, it is generally to be deduced from the Latin AB, AD, and sometimes EX.

ALDRIAN, pr. n. A star on the neck of the Lion, Sp. 10579.

ALE AND BRED. 13801. This oath of Sire Thopas

on ale and bred was perhaps intended to ridicule the solemn vows, which were frequently made in the days of Chivalrie, to a Peacock, a Pheasant, or some other noble bird. See M. de Sainte Palaye, Sur l'anc. cheval. Mem. IIIme. I will add here, from our own history, a most remarkable instance of this strange practice. When Edward I. was setting out upon his last expedition to Scotland in 1306, he knighted his eldest son and several other young noblemen with great solemnity. At the close of the whole (says Matthew of Westminster, p. 454.) allati sunt in pompaticâ gloria duo CYGNI vel OLORES ante regem, phalerati retibus aureis vel fistulis deauratis, desiderabile spectaculum intuentibus. Quibus visis, Rex votum VOVIT DEO CÆLI ET CYGNIS se proficisci in Scotiam, mortem Johannis Comyn et fidem læsam Scotorum vivus sive mortuus vindicaturus, &c. This practice is alluded to in "DUNBAR'S WISH, that the King were Johne Thomsonnis man." Ms. Maitland. St. 5.

*I wold gif all that ever I have
To that condition, so God me saif,
That ye had VOWIT TO THE SWAN
Ane yeir to be Johne Thomsonnis man.*

And so in the Prolog. to the Contin. of the Canterb. T. ver. 452. the Hosteler says—I MAKE A VOWE TO THE PEACOCK, ther shall wake a foule mist.

T. I. 973. The labour of us two together. Nostrum amborum labor. In T. IV. 168. Ed. Ca. reads your bother love, which might lead one to suspect that bother was the ancient genitive case of BOTHE, as Aller was of Alle. See the Essay, &c. n. 27

- BRASIL, n. A wood used in dyeing, to give a red colour, 15465.—This passage of Chaucer is a decisive proof, that the Brazil-wood was long known by that name before the discovery of the country so called in America. See Huetiana. p. 268. In the inventory of the effects of Henry V. Rot. Parl. 2 H. VI. m. 20. is the following article. “ 11 Graundes peces du Bracile, pris vi s. viii d.”

115. b. a bribour seems to signify a thief; as bri-bors, pilors, and pikeharnes, are classed together; and still more plainly in Lydg. Trag. 152.

With some false turne the bribour will him quite.

See also Antient Scottish Poems, p. 171. st. 7. l. 3.

BUT, prep. SAX. Without. Gloss. Ur. I cannot say that I have myself observed this preposition in Chaucer, but I may have overlooked it. The Saxons used it very frequently; and how long the Scottish writers have laid it aside, I am doubtful. It occurs repeatedly in Bp. Douglas. BUT spot or falt. p. 3. l. 53. Poete BUT pere. p. 9. l. 19. BUT and BEN. p. 123. l. 40. Without and within; Butan and binnan; originally, I suppose, B1 utan and b1 innan. By and with are often synonymous.

- COKEWOLD, n. A cuckold. How this word has been formed is difficult to say, but probably it has some relation to the FR. Cocu: In the best Mss. of the

The author of the Remedie of Love, ver. 288. seq. pretends, that the true orthographie of this word is cokcold, according to a most absurd etymologie, which he has there given of it ; an additional proof, if any were wanted, that the Remedie of Love was not written by Chaucer.

- CORINNE, pr. n. An. 21. What author is meant, I cannot say. One can hardly suppose that Chaucer had met with that poem of the antient Corinna, the contemporary of Pindar, which was entitled Ἑπτα ἐπι Θηβαίς (Fragm. ex Apollonia Dyscolo, ap. Maittair. de Dialect. p. 429. l. 4.) nor do I know that any fictitious work upon the War of Thebes has ever been set forth under her name. She is mentioned by Propertius (2. - COWARDISE, n. FR. Want of courage. Cowardie. 2732. R. 2490. As to the etymology of the adj. from which this word has been formed, I think the opinion of Twysden and Somner, Gloss. ad X. Script. v. Fridwite, much the most probable, who derive it from the BARB. LAT. Culum vertere; to turn tail, or run away. See Du Cange, in v. CŪVERTA, and CULVERTAGIUM, who rejects the opinion above mentioned, but without suggesting any thing so plausible. Culvert, as it is written in the oldest and best French Mss. that I have seen, might easily be corrupted, according to the French mode of pronunciation, into Couart and Couard.

I have somewhere seen the French language seriously charged with indelicacy for its frequent and wanton use of the word cul in composition; nor can the charge be said to be groundless. Beside the numerous instances which will occur to every body, I suspect that this monosyllable makes part of a common and solemn term in our Law, imported originally from France. Culprist seems to me to have been a vulgar name for a prisoner; a person taken by that part which is most exposed in running away. Holinshed has expressed the same idea more delicately. Vol. III. p. 842. The prentises were CAUGHT BY THE BACKS and had to prison. And so it is expressed in "Ancient Scottish Poems." p. 182. ver. 15.

Yet deid [death] sal TAK HIM BE THE BAK.

Ben paoc ama drut, qi non es gelos,
 Et paoc ama, qi non est airos,
 Et paoc ama, qi non es folettis,
 Et paoc ama, qi non fa tracios;
 Mais vaut d amor qi ben est enveios
 Un dolz plorar non fait qatorze ris.

Quant eu li quier merce en genoillos,
 E la mi colpa et mi met ochaisos,
 Et l aigua m cur aval per mer lo vis,
 Et ela m fai un regard amoros,
 Et eu li bais la bucha els òls amdos,
 Adonc mi par un ioi de paradis.

GAWAIN, pr. n. nephew to King Arthur, by his sister, married to King Lot. So says the British History, which goes under the name of Geoffrey of Monmouth; and I believe it will be in vain to look for any more authentic genealogist of all that family. Our author alludes to his treachery, ver. 14699. 15233. and to his punishment, ver. 13124. See also Du. 1121.

- GORE, n. See the n. on ver. 323, since which it has been suggested to me by a learned person, whom I have not the honour to know, that Gore is a common name for a slip of cloth or linen, which is inserted in order to widen a garment in any particular place. GOOR OF A CLOTH. Lacinia. Prompt. Parv. See also the Glossary to Kennet's Paroch. Antiq. in v. Gore. This sense will suit very well with the context of ver. 3237, but hardly, I think, with that of ver. 13719; unless we suppose, that gore is there put for shirt, because shirts have usually gores in them. The expression would certainly be very awkward, and unlike Chaucer's general manner, but in this place, the Rime of Sire Topas, he may be supposed to have taken it purposely from one of those old Romances, which are the objects of his ridicule. See the n. on ver. 13845.

- GUIDO, pr. r. l. w. 1462. GUIDO DE COLUMPNIS. F. III. 881. Guido dalle Colonne, of Messina in Sicily, a lawyer and poet, died about 1290. Quadrio, Vol. ii. p. 160. His History of the Trojan war, to which our author refers, was written in Latin, and finished in 1287. See the note on ver. 15147. I have there intimated my suspicion, that he translated it, for the most part, from a French Romance of Benoit de Sainte More. However that may have been, Guido's work is certainly the original, from which the later writers of the middle ages have generally taken their accounts of Trojan affairs. It was translated into Italian in 1324 by Filippo Ceffi, a Florentine. Quadrio, Vol. vi. p. 475. A French translation is also extant, in which it is said to be translatée en François premierement du commandement du Maire de la cité de Beauvais, en nom et en honneur de Karles le roy de France, l'an mil ccc. quatre vingtz. Ms. Reg. 16 F. ix. This is probably the French translation mentioned by Lydgate in the Prologue to his Boke of Troye, which is a mere paraphrase in verse of Guido's history, with some digressions and additions of his own. Lydgate's work was finished, as he tells us himself at the end, in 1420.

I, at the beginning of a word, in the common Editt. and even the Mss. of Chaucer, is often used to express a corruption of the Saxon prepositive particle Le; which in this Edit. of the Canterbury Tales, as has been said before in the Essay, &c. p. clii.) is always expressed by y. All such words therefore, occurring in the works of Chaucer, not contained in this Edition, should be looked for either under y, or under their second letters.

LEVESELL. See the n. on ver. 4059. though I am by no means satisfied with the explanation there given of this word. The interpretation of it in the Prompt. Parv. will not help us much. "LEVECEL BEFORN A WYNDOWE OR OTHER PLACE. Umbraculum." My conjecture with respect to the origin of the proverb, Good wine needs no bush, is certainly wrong. That refers to a very old practice of hanging up a bush, or bough, where wine is to be sold. The Italians have the same proverb, Al buono vino non bisogna frasca.

tissimum. Skinner supposes it to be derived from the LAT. Lurco; and in the Promptorium Parvulorum, "LOSEL, or LOREL, or LURDEN," is rendered "Lurco." But Lurco, I apprehend, signifies only a glutton, which falls very short of our idea of a lorel; and besides I do not believe that the word was ever sufficiently common in Latin to give rise to a derivative in English. One of Skinner's friends deduces it with much more probability from the BELG. (rather SAX.) Loren; Lost; Perditus.

P. 20. Wrong is called a wicked luske; and I learn from Cotgrave, that luske is a synonymous word to lowt, lorel, &c. so that perhaps Louke may be still another term for an idle, good-for-nothing fellow. - MADRIAN. 13898. See the note. I have found since that the French have a Saint called Materne. But Mr. Steevens, with much more probability, supposes, that the precious body, by which the Host swears, was that of St. Mathurin. See his story in the Golden Legende, Edit. 1527. by Winkin de Worde, 151. b. "Than toke they the precious body and enoynted it with moche reverence; and when they had layd it in the erth, on the morowe they came to the sepulture and founde the holy body above the erth nygh unto the same sepulture, and than were they all abashed and wyst not what to do." It seems, the knightes, who had brought him out of France, had promised that, if he died on his journey, he should be sent back and buried "where as they had taken him;" and therefore his body would not stay in the ground, till it was deposited, according to promise, in France; where it afterwards worked many miracles.

MARIE, MARY, n. SAX. Marrow. 12476. Marie- bones. 382. Marrow-bones.

MARKET-BETER. 3934. See the note. But I am now more inclined to believe, that this word is to be understood in a sense similar to that in which the French phrases, Batre les rues—and Bateur de pavez are used. Batre les rues; To revell, jet, or swagger up and down the streets a'nights.
Bateur de pavez; A jetter abroad in the streets.
—A pavement-beater. See Cotgrave, in v. Ba- teur. Batre. Pavé. So that "He was a market- beter atte full" may mean perhaps;—He was used to swagger up and down the market, when it was fullest:—a circumstance, which suits very well with the rest of his character. MARKET DASCHAR. Circumforaneus. Prompt. Parv.

MARQUIS, n. FR. A marquis. 7940.

MARKIS for MARKISES, gen. ca. sing. 8870. In the same manner Peneus is put for Peneuses. 2066.
Theseus for Theseuses. 2201. 2697. Venus for Venuses. 2274. 10586. Ceres for Cereses. 10139.

Melibeus for Melibeuses. 13902. and in prose, M. 146. Perhaps it might have been proper to add a mark of Apocope to the words so abbreviated. As to the present method of expressing the genitive cases of nouns ending in s, by adding another s, with a mark of Syncope, as Peneus's, Theseus's, Venus's, &c. it seems absurd whether the addition be intended to be pronounced, or not. In the first case, the e should not be cut out; in the second, the s is quite superfluous. But the absurdity of this practice is most striking, when the genitives of monosyllable nouns are thus written; an ox's horns; an ass's ears; a fish's tail; St. James's park; notwithstanding that the e, which is thus directed to be cut out, is constantly and necessarily to be pronounced, as if the several words were written at length; oxes, asses, fishes, Jameses.

 Contin. of Canterb. Tales, l. 8. This obscure phrase, I think, may be understood to relate to a particular set of ghostly apparitions, which were used to run about the country at night, and were called in French La mesgnie de Hellequin or Herle- quin. The fullest account that I have seen of them is in, "L'histoire de Richard sans paour, Duc de Normandie, qui fut fils de Robert le Diable." In

One of his rides he meets with three black Knights, whom he engages. "Et quand les Chevaliers veirent le jeu mal party pour eux ils monterent à cheval et s'effuyrent;—et Richard—chevaucha apres eux; et ainsi qu'il chevauchoit il apperceut une dance de gens noirs qui s'entretenoyent. Adonc luy souvint de la mesgnie de Hellequin, dont il avoit autres foyz ouy parler." The title of the next chapter (4.) is "Cy divise de la mesgnie de Hellequin et qui il estoit." He is there said so have been a knight, who, having spent all his substance in the wars of Charles Martel against the Saracens, lived afterwards by pillage. "Adonc il avint qu'il mourut et fut en danger d'estre damne, mais Dieu luy fit pardon, pource que il avoit bataille contre les Sarrazins et exaulce la foy. Si fut condamne de Dieu que pour un tems determine luy et ceux de son lignage feroient penitence et yroient toute la nuit parmy la terre, pour leurs penitences faire et endurer plusieurs maux et calamitez." The belief of such apparitions was certainly of great antiquity in Normandy, as they are mentioned by Ordericus Vitalis, under the title of familia Herlechini, in a most extraordinary story related by him, L. VIII. p. 695. ann. 1091. And I suspect that in a passage quoted by Du-Cange, in v. HERLININI, from Petr. Blesens. Ep. 14. we should read Herlikini instead of Herlinini.

Gervase of Tilbery, who wrote in 1211, mentions another set of apparitions, which were called familia Arturi. Ot. Imper. Dec. II. c. 12^a, "In sylvis Britanniae majoris aut minoris consimilia contigisse referuntur, narrantibus nemorum custodibus, quos forestarios—vulgus nominat, se alternis diebus circa horam meridianam, et in primo noctium conticinio sub plenilunio lunâ lucente, sæpissime videre militum copiam venantium et canum et cornuum strepitum, qui sciscitantibus se de societate et familia Arturi esse affirmant." He had just said that Arthur, not long before, had been seen in a palace, "miro opere constructo," in a most delicious valley in the neighbourhood of Mount Ætna, where he had resided ever since the time of his supposed death, "vulneribus quotannis recrudescentibus."

 NALE, n. SAX. An ale-house. 6931. See the note.
 But I am now less inclined to adopt Skinner's explanation of this word, because I observe that Ale alone is commonly put for an Ale-house, and I cannot find that Nale is ever used, except where it follows the preposition Atte. In the passage quoted from P. P. 32 b. the Cotton Ms. Vesp. B.
 xvi. has at the ale. And so in P. P. 26 b. With idle tales at the ale.—Robert of Brunne's translation of Manuel des pechés. Ms. Bodl. 2313. fol. 1.

In gamys, in festys, and at the ale— fol. 38. Or yf thou leddest any man to the ale. I suspect therefore that Nale, in those few passages in which it is found, should be considered as merely a corruption, which has arisen from the mispronunciation and consequent miswriting of atte nale for atten ale. See the n. on ver. 12542. A similar corruption seems to have taken place in the name of that celebrated personage in our law, Mr. John a-noke, whose original appellation, I believe, was John atten oke, as that of his constant antagonist was John atte stile. Sim. atte stile is a name in P. P. 23 b. and there are many others of the same form; as, Atte-cliff, Atte-ley, Atte-well, Atte-wood, &c. That the letter n is apt to pass from the end of one word to the beginning of another, we have an instance in Newt, which has certainly been formed by corruption from An ewt, or eft; and perhaps Nedder, n. SAX. may have been formed in the same way from An adder. The word in the Teutonic is Adder, as we write it now, without the initial n. The same corruptions have happened in other languages. See the notes of Signor Redi upon his Bacco in Toscana. p. 133, 4, 5. 182, 3.

T. v. 190. 514. L. W. 1016.

NOMPERE, n. An arbitrator. T. L. I. 319. See the passage quoted above in v. LOVEDAIE. The sense of this word is established by the Prompt. Parv. "NOWMPER or OWMPER. Arbiter. Sequester." If the etymology of it were as clear, we might be able to determine, which of the two methods of writing it is the best. Custom has long declared for the latter. The modern word is umpire; and in P. P. 25 b. the Editt. read an umpir; but the Cotton. Ms. Vesp. B. xvi. has—a numper. I cannot find that any such word is used, in the same sense, in any other of the Gothic or Romance languages. It has been supposed by some to be a corruption of un pere, FR. which I can hardly believe; and perhaps the reader will be as backward to admit of a derivation of it from the Fr. Nonpair; An odd, or third person; which an arbitrator generally is. This however is the most probable etymology that has occurred to me; and I see that the compiler of the Statutes for the University of Oxford (whoever he was) had the same idea, for he expresses the word umpire, in his Latin, by Impar. Tit. xv. § 14. Index, IMPAR, aut: Arbitrator, in quâcunq; causâ electus.

NOTHING, adv. SAX. Not; not at all. 1756. 8251.

NOUCHES, n. pl. 8258. See the note. It is probable, I think, that Nouche is the true word, and that Ouche has been introduced by a corruption, the reverse of that which has been taken notice of in NALE. See Du Cange, in v. Nochia, and Nusca; and Schilter, Gloss. Teut. in v. Nuosci; from whence it appears that Nuschin, TEUT. signifies Fibula; a clasp, or buckle. As these were some of the most useful instruments of dress, they were probably some of the first that were ornamented with jewels; by which means the name by degrees may have been extended, so as to include several other sorts of jewels. The same thing may have happened in the case of the word BROCHE (see above); which indeed seems, originally, to have been a French expression for Nouche.

For chausa es et tot lo maior dan,
 El maior dol, las ! q eu anc mais agues,

- SELF, SELVE, adj. SAX. answering to the BELG. Self, the FR. Même, the LAT. Ipsē, and the GR. Αυτός. See the Essay, &c. n. 30.—With the article prefixed it answers to the LAT. Idem, and the GOTH. Samo, from whence our Same. See ver. 2586. In the selve moment; In the same moment. ver. 11706. In the selve place ; In the same place.

These two usages of the adj. SELF, when joined to a substantive, might be confirmed by the uniform practice of all our writers, from the earliest times down to Shakespeare ; but, as they are both now obsolete, I choose rather to take this opportunity of adding a few words to what has been said in the Essay, &c. loc. cit. upon the usage of the adj. SELF, when joined to a Pronoun ; in which light only it appears to have been considered by Wallis, when he pronounced it a Substantive, answering nearly to the Latin persona.

Dr. Johnson, in his Dictionary, has very rightly established the primary signification of SELF to be that of an Adjective ; but, in its connexions with Pronouns, he seems rather inclined to suppose it a Substantive ; first, because it is joined to possessive, or adjective pronouns, as my, thy, her, &c. and secondly, because it has a plural number selves, contrary to the nature of the English adjective.

The latter reason, I think, cannot have much weight, when it is remembered, that the use of Selves, as the plural number of Self, has been introduced into our language since the time of Chaucer. Selven, which was originally the accusative ca. sing. of SELF, is used by him indifferently in both numbers. I myselven. 9334. Ye yourselven. 9380. 12676. He himselven. 4464. 9919.

The former reason also will lose its force, if the hypothesis, which I have ventured to propose in the Essay, &c. loc. cit. shall be admitted, viz. that, in their combinations with Self, the pronouns my, thy, her, our, your, are not to be considered as possessive or adjective, but as the old oblique cases of the personal pronouns I, thou, she, we, ye. According to this hypothesis, the use of these combinations, with respect to the pronouns, is almost always solecistical; but not more so than that of himself in the nominative case, which has long been authorized by constant custom: and it is remarkable, that a solecism of the same sort has prevailed in the French language, in which moi and toi, the obl. cases of je and tu, when combined with même, are used as ungrammatically as our my and thy have just been supposed to be, when combined with Self. Je l'ai vu moi-même; I have seen it myself: Tu le verras toi-même; Thou shalt see it thyself; and so in the accusative case, moi-même is added emphatically to me, and toi-même to te.

It is probable, I think, that these departures from grammar, in both languages, have been made for the sake of fuller and more agreeable sounds. Je-même, me-même, tu-même, and te-même, would certainly sound much thinner and more languid than moi-même and toi-même; and myself, thyself, &c. are as clearly preferable, in point of pronunciation, to Iself, mesèlf, thousèlf, theeself, &c. though not all, perhaps, in an equal degree. It should be observed, that itself, where a change of case in the pronoun would not have improved the sound, has never undergone any alteration.

- SOMER, pr. n. In the treatise on the Astrolabe, fol. 291. b. Chaucer professes to make use of the Kalenders of the reverent clerkes frere JOHN SOMER and frere NICHOLAS LENNE. The Kalendar of John Somur is extant in Ms. Cotton, Vesp. E. VII. It is calculated for 140 years from 1367, the year of the birth of Richard II. and is said, in the introduction, to have been published in 1380, at the instance of Joan mother to the King. The Kalendar of Nicholas Lenne, or Lynne, was calculated for 76 years from 1387. Tanner in v. NICOLAUS LINENSIS. The story there quoted from Hakluit of a voyage made by this Nicholas in 1360 ad insulas septentrionales antehac Europæis incognitas, and of a book written by him to describe those countries a gradu 54. usque ad polum, is a mere fable; as appears from the very authorities which Hakluit has produced in support of it.

SOMME. T. II. 1249. Lo! Troilus—

Came riding with his tenthe somme ifere.

So this line stands in the Editt. but a Ms. quoted in Gloss. Ur. instead of tenthe has x. and Ms. I. tenteth. Perhaps the original reading was xx. With his twenty some ifere, according to the Saxon mode of expression, would signify Together with some twenty of his attendants. See Hickes, Gramm. A. S. p. 32, 3.

THATTE, THAT, conj. SAX. Qudd. LAT. 131. 226, 8.

THE, prep. art. SAX. See the Essay, &c. p. lxxxvi.

The when prefixed to adjectives, or adverbs, in the comparative degree, is generally to be considered as a corruption of þý, which was commonly put by the Saxons for þam, the ablative ca. sing. of the art. þaz, used as a pronoun. THE merier. 716. Eo lætiðs. THE more mery. 804. Eo lætiores. Of the same construction are the phrases —Yet fare they THE worse. 4348. Yet fare I never THE bet. 7533.

When the is repeated with a second comparative, either adj. or adv. the first the is to be understood in the sense of the LAT. Quo. See ver. 5955.

The more it brenneth, the more it hath desire To consume every thing.—

—Quo magis—eo magis.—And ver. 8589.

And ay thē further that she was in age,

The more trewe (if that it were possible)

She was to him in love and more penible.

Sometimes the first the is omitted, as in the phrases, Ever lenger the werse. 3870. Ever lenger the more. 8563. See P. 119. For certes, if a man hadde a dedly wound, ever the lenger that he taried to warishe himself, the more wold it corrupt—and also the wound wold be the werse for to hele.

*There was many a timbestere very top whereof come forth fower leaves, directly set one against another, in manner of a Burgun-nion cross, or a true love knot; for which cause among the auncients it hath been called herbe Truelove." This herb, however, to the best of my remembrance, is rather too large to be carried conveniently under the tongue—A trewelove, of the same or another sort, is mentioned in the concluding stanza of the Court of Love.

Eke eche at other threw the floures bright,
The primerose, the violete, and the gold:
So than as I beheld the royal sight,
My lady gan me sodenly behold,
And with a trewelove, plited many a fold,
She smote me through the very heart as blive,
And Venus yet I thanke I am alive.

- WRITHING, n. A turning. 10441.
- WRONGE, part. pa. of WRING. His hondes wronge. T. IV. 1171. Later writers have used the same expression of distress. I suppose it means to clasp the hands, and squeeze them strongly one against the other. I do not recollect a similar expression in any other language.
- WROTE, v. SAX. To dig with the snout, as swine do. P. 150. Or like a worm, that wroteth in a tree. Lydg. Trag. 33.

WROUGHT, part. pa. of WORKE, v. SAX. Made. 11184.

Y at the beginning of many words, especially verbs and participles, is merely a corruption of the Saxon ŷe, which has remained uncorrupted in the other collateral branches of the Gothic language. What the power of it may have been originally, it is impossible, I apprehend, now to determine. In Chaucer it does not appear to have any effect upon the sense of a word; so that there seems to be no necessity for inserting in a Glossary such words as yblessed, ygranted, &c. which differ not in signification from blessed, granted, &c. Some, however, of this sort are inserted, which may serve at least to shew more clearly the extent of this practice in Chaucer's time. Several other words are shortly explained under this letter, of which a more full explanation may be found under their respective second letters.
