TO HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS,

PRINCE ALBERT,

DUKE OF SAXE, PRINCE OF SAXE COBURG AND GOTHA, K. G.
AND FIELD MARSHAL.

Sir,

As Editor of the first Work published by the Welsh MSS. Society, I venture most respectfully, on behalf of the Members of that Institution, to express their very grateful thanks for the honour vouchsafed to them in being permitted to inscribe this Volume with Your Royal Highness's illustrious name, whereby it is specially placed under your Royal protection.

By thus patronising the publication of the inedited Remains of an ancient and distinguished Nation, Your Royal Highness has not only evinced your regard for the interests of literature, but also called forth the lively gratitude of a devoted People, who have long been eminent for their attachment to their legitimate Sovereigns, whose sceptre is now held by their beloved Queen, the illustrious Patroness of the Society, which lays its first fruits before Your Royal Highness, remembering with loyal pride that her Most Gracious Majesty has in her veins the best blood of the ancient Princes of Wales, in addition to every other claim to their dutiful affection.

That Your Royal Highness may long continue in the enjoyment of health, to assist your august Consort in the execution of every laudable and beneficent design, is the heartfelt prayer of,

Sir,

Your Royal Highness's

Most obedient and most humble Servant,

WILLIAM JENKINS REES.

THE Welsh MSS. Society has been formed for the purpose of transcribing and printing the more important of the numerous unpublished Bardic and Historical Remains of Wales, still extant in the Principality and other parts of the world, that have hitherto been allowed to continue in a state of obscurity, without any effective measures being adopted to lay their contents before the public, and secure them from the various accidents to which they are liable. In addition to the general decay that, from their perishable nature, these venerable relics have been for ages undergoing, whole collections have, within a short space of time, been destroyed by fire; and of those MSS. dispersed throughout the country, numbers known to have existed a few years ago, are now no where to be found.

Besides the interest which these ancient documents possess, as objects of antiquarian curiosity, and as contributing to the elucidation of British History, they have claims to attention of a far more general character, as being intimately connected with the origin and progress of modern European Literature; for it is among the legends and traditions of the Welsh that many of the materials are to be found, which supplied the nations of the Continent with their earliest subjects of composition, and produced those highly imaginative works that continue to exercise so powerful an influence to the present day.

A great mass of Historical information, relating to the thirteenth, fourteenth, and fifteenth centuries, is contained in the unpublished Poetry of Wales; from which an intimate acquaintance with the state of society during those periods may be obtained; the Welsh Bards being the Chroniclers of the times in which they lived, and their Poems chiefly addressed to the leading men of the day. Besides Poetry there is still existing unpublished, a large collection of Prose, both Historical and Legendary.

The mode of proceeding adopted by the Society is, as far as its pecuniary means may admit, to procure Copies of the most important ancient Manuscripts relating to Wales, and to publish them with Notes and Illustrations, accompanied by English Translations. The publications are to appear at such intervals as may be convenient, in Volumes not exceeding one Guinea each to Subscribers.

The Society began to make known its views in 1837, under the patronage of his late Majesty William the Fourth, whose death for a time caused a delay in its progress; but her Majesty Queen Victoria, having graciously approved of its object, and become its Patroness, it again, in 1838, appealed to the Public for the aid necessary to accomplish its undertakings.

The first Work that engaged the attention of the Committee is the present Volume, which will be succeeded by another, now in the Press, being a MISCELLANEOUS SELECTION OF ANCIENT WELSH MSS. in prose and poetry, from originals collected by the late Edward Williams, (Iolo Morganwg,) for the purpose of forming a continuation of the Myvyrian Archæology, and afterwards proposed to be used as materials for a New History of Wales. To be edited, with Notes and Translations, by his Son, Mr. TALIESIN WILLIAMS, of Merthyr Tydvil.

The following are also in a state of forwardness, and will be put in the Press as soon as adequate Funds are obtained for the purpose :—

THE HERALDIC VISITATION OF WALES AND THE MARCHES, in the time of Queen Elizabeth, by Lewys Dwnn, Deputy Herald at Arms, from such original Manuscripts as still exist. Edited by SIR SAMUEL R. MEYRICK, K.H. LL.D. F.S.A. F.R.S. &c. with Illustrations and numerous Notes, for the advantage of the English as well as the Welsh reader.

THE LIVES OF THE WELSH SAINTS, from various ancient Manuscripts in the British Museum and elsewhere.

The following MSS. have also been recommended for Publication :—

CHRONICLE OF WALES, in the Lambeth Library.

CHRONICLE OF WALES in the Thirteenth Century, compiled in the Abbey of Strata Florida ; in the Record Office.

The inedited matter in the LLYFR COCH o HERGEST, in the library of Jesus College, Oxford.

LLYFR COCH LLANELWY, or the Red Book of St. Asaph.

REGISTRUM PRIORATUS DE BRECKNOCK.

ANCIENT RECORDS from the time of Edward III. belonging to the Manor Court at Ruthyn.

Donations and Annual Subscriptions, together with Orders for Copies of the Works, are requested to be forwarded to the Honorary Secretary, at Abergavenny. Subscribers' Names and Orders for Copies of the Works will also be received by the Publisher, Mr. W. Rees, Llandoverly.

P R E F A C E.

THE LIBER LANDAVENSIS, OR THE BOOK OF LLANDAFF, is so called because it is the ancient Chartulary, or Register Book of the Cathedral of Llandaff, wherein were recorded Memoirs of its more eminent Prelates, Grants of Endowment, and other interesting and important particulars relating to the Church and Diocese. It has also been called LLYFR TEILO, OR THE BOOK OF TEILO, because the Diocese sometimes went by the name of Teilo, St. Teilo being one of the most eminent of its Prelates, and also because part of the materials, whereof it was compiled, was contained in a still more ancient Register, that went by his name, to which it makes reference,¹ and which it probably superseded.

The compiler of the Work is stated to have been Galfrid² or Jeffrey, brother of Urban, the last Bishop of Llandaff mentioned therein, whose undertaking appears to be to make the older Register of Teilo his ground-work, and to give in addition such other suitable information as he could obtain, and think proper to communicate, and to relate the particulars according to the mode of description and in the style of language made use of by authors at the time he wrote the compilation.

² Wharton considers Eeni, Dean of the Church of Llandaff, who was invited by his brother, Bishop Urban, to be present at the removal of the body of St. Dubricius from Bardsey to Llandaff in 1120, to be the same person as Galfrid.—Anglia Sacra, p. xxvii.

As Urban became Bishop of Llandaff in the year 1107, and died in 1133, and the last document recorded in the Book is considered to be of the date of the preceding year, it may be reasonably inferred that the compilation of the work was completed in the former part of the twelfth century, that is in 1132; for had it not been concluded until after his death, such an important event would very likely have been mentioned, if not have constituted one of its articles.

I. The Work, although not before printed, has been frequently noticed, and has attracted the attention of various eminent literary characters at different times, and such as have come to the knowledge of the Editor, he deems it appropriate to mention.

1. The MS. Chronicle of the Church of Llandaff, preserved in the Cottonian Library, in the British Museum, written in 1439, has a reference to it, and calls it, The Manuscript Book of St. Teilo. The article relates that the Church of Llandaff was honourably endowed with various territories, rents and privileges, by King Meurig ap Tewdrig. It is inserted in the Appendix to this Work, wherein, p. 277, the manuscript of Teilo is mentioned.¹

2. Bishop Godwin, in his "Catalogue of the Bishops of England," has express reference to this Work. In the first edition, published in the year 1601, when he was Sub-Dean of Exeter, he mentions several particulars of the earlier Bishops of Llandaff, which seem to have been extracted from it, but the name of the Book is not mentioned, nor is there any allusion made thereto. In later editions, however, when he had become Bishop of Llandaff, having succeeded to the See in the year in which the former edition was published, he evidently refers to the

Work, and says, "Our Church has a Book of venerable antiquity, which was written upwards of five hundred years ago, from whence I have borrowed the greater part of what is related of its Bishops, who were not later than 1110." He relates various particulars of the earlier Bishops of the See, and arranges them in the same order as they are in this Work, except in two instances, where he places Bishop Pater next before Gwgan, instead of next after Bishop Nobis, and Bishop Marchlwyns next after Libiau, instead of next before Bledri. In the notes respecting the accounts given of Bishops Cyfeiliawg, Libiau, and Bledri, reference is made to this Work, and it is called the Register of Llandaff.

3. Archbishop Usher, in his "Antiquities of the British Churches," published in 1639, has frequent reference to this Work, and quotes from it largely. He refers to it with respect to the Lives of St. Samson and St. Teilo, and calls it the Register of Llandaff, when relating of the former, and the Register of the Church of Llandaff, with respect to the latter. He also refers to it under the name of, The Llandaff Register, in various places; and in the account of the Protest of Bishop Urban, it is mentioned that it was inserted in the Register of the Church of Llandaff, called Teilo, which was supposed to have been compiled by Galfrid his brother.

4. Sir Henry Spelman, in his "Concilia," also published in 1639, likewise treats this Work with great respect, and has several large quotations from it. Reference is made to it when speaking of the era of Bishop Oudoceus, under the title of The Book of Llandaff. He gives quotations of three Synods of Llandaff, which took place in the time of that Bishop, which are alleged to have been extracted from the very ancient manuscript of the Church of Llandaff, and also others of eleven more Synods, that took place under various Bishops of the See, which are said to be taken from the Register of Llandaff, and likewise of the Summons of William, Archbishop of Canterbury, to Bishop Urban, to attend the Council of London, and of the decrees of the said Council. He also calls the MS. a splendid Book, that was to be had in the Archives of the Bishop of Llandaff, from whence he had made the extracts.

5. Dugdale, in his "Monasticon Anglicanum," the first volume of which was published in 1655, refers frequently to this Work, and has numerous quotations from it. In the first volume is a quotation of the second Synod of Llandaff under Bishop Oudoceus, mentioned to have been extracted from a very ancient MS. Book which formerly belonged to the Bishop of Llandaff, but was then in the possession of the celebrated John Selden. In the third volume is a long quotation, containing an account of the first state of the Church of Llandaff, and the nine succeeding documents, including the Life of St. Dubricius: also, one containing the Requisition of Bishop Urban to Pope Calixtus II. at Rheims; and likewise others of seven Grants to the Church of Llandaff, in the time of Archbishop Teilo; of twelve Grants in the time of Bishop Oudoceus; of as many as one hundred and ten Grants from the time of Oudoceus to that of Bishop Bledri; of two grants in the time of Bishop Joseph: and of sixteen of those documents in the time of Bishop Herwald. The second volume of the Monasticon Anglicanum was published in 1661, and the third in 1673.

6. Cressy, in his "Church History of Brittany," published in 1668, refers to this Book, makes quotations from it, and calls it, The History of the Church of Llandaff. It has English translations of the three Synods of Llandaff, which took place under Bishop Oudoceus; of the Synod under Bishop Gwgan; and of the Protest of Bishop Urban, addressed to Pope Calixtus II. at the Council of Rheims.

7. The Rev. Henry Wharton, in his "Anglia Sacra," published in 1691, refers to this Work frequently, and makes long quotations from it; of which there is one containing portions of the Life of St. Teilo; another containing a short history of the first state of the Church of Llandaff, with extracts from the Life of St.

Dubricius, expressly stated to have been taken from the ancient Register of the Church of Llandaff, which is called Teilo; and also others containing the Privileges or Charters of St. Oudoceus and Bledri, Bishops of Llandaff; the Charter of Prince Gruffydd to Bishop Herwald; a document mentioning the territories of Ergyng; the Requisition of Bishop Urban to Pope Calixtus II. at Rheims; and the Epistle of Pope Honorius respecting the lawsuit of Bishop Urban. Mr. Wharton mentions in the Preface to his Work, that he had made his extracts and quotations from the Teilo Register in Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, in addition to what Dugdale had done from the Seldenian copy.

8. The Rev. Edward Lhuyd, in the "Archæologia Britannica," published in 1707, notices this Work as follows,—"LIBER LANDAVENSIS, in the library of Robert Davies,¹ of Guissaney, Denbighshire, Esq. This Register of the Church of Llandaff was compiled by Galfrid, brother to Urban, Bishop of that See, about the commencement of the twelfth century. The Archives of Llandaff contain a very neat copy on parchment, lately transcribed, but more elegantly than accurately written, the handwriting of the ancient Book being preserved. And there is another copy in the library of Jesus College, Oxford. The Work contains some Charters of the Church of Llandaff, written in the Welsh Language, which are understood but by few, on account of their antiquity."² And he again mentions that there was in the LIBER LANDAVENSIS a short account of some Privileges of the Church of Llandaff, the beginning of which he gives, as well as some particulars, in the ancient Welsh, with an explanation in the modern mode of writing the language.

² This and some other quotations are written in Latin by their respective authors; but they are here given in English, for the information of the general reader.

“be of no manner of consequence, but only some few undigested Notes; very little concerning this Church, but relating to the general history of the Kingdom.” Bishop Nicholson was likewise deceived with respect to the value of this MS. for in his English Historical Library he says, “There is another Book in the same [Cottonian] Library, that affords a History or Chronicle of this Church, [Llandaff,] which seems to have escaped the notice of both the diligent antiquaries, [Sir Henry Spelman and the Rev. Mr. Wharton.] It commences at Brute, and ends “A.D. 1370.” In the Cymmrodorion Catalogue of Welsh MSS. in the British Museum, it is described as being, in Welsh, 38 pages, then in Latin, 30 pages,—The Book was examined for the Welsh MSS. Society in 1839, and it was found that the Welsh consisted of a sort of Commentary on the Apocalypse, a Life of St. David, of St. Catharine, and of St. Margaret, and the Latin Chronicle had but a few particulars of ancient British History. This work had from its title misled people to consider it the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, as it contained a good deal of Welsh, which they, not understanding, erroneously concluded it to relate to Llandaff. It however refers to this Work, for after giving some account of the re-building of the Church of Llandaff with the consent of the King of Glamorgan, and the honourable endowment of it by him with various territories, rents, and privileges, it is added, “as is fully related in the Book of Teilo,” as before mentioned. The whole of this Chronicle, as far as it relates to Llandaff, is inserted in the Appendix to this Work. Besides these several MSS. said to be in the British Museum, Mr. Willis says, “In the Custody of the Chapter of Llandaff are, as I am informed, only three Books, one of which is a large paper Book, wherein their Chapter Acts are registered; this Book was begun to be made in the year 1573. Another Book is, I am told, the old Register, or LIBER LANDAVENSIS, referred to in the Monasticon, called Tilo, said to be compiled by Bishop Urban. And the third relates to some orders made by Bishop Blethin.”

12. In Nicholl's Antiquities of Lantwit Major, written in 1729, and inserted in the Appendix to Williams' History of Monmouthshire, published in 1796, he mentions the LIBER LANDAVENSIS by name at the commencement of the article, and calls it a very old manuscript, in which were found many accounts of the Abbots of Lantwit. He again refers to it, and calls it, The Book of Llandaff; and reference is made to it by him a third time, when it is called a manuscript, six hundred years old, and the first part older yet by much. And in the conclusion is a quotation in Latin, from the Readings of the Life of St. Dubricius, extracted from the LIBER LANDAVENSIS by name, in which it is mentioned that St. Dubricius visited the place [Abbey] of St. Illutus, in time of Lent, for the purpose of correcting what wanted amendment, and confirming what were to be continued.

13. Bishop Tanner, who died in 1732, mentions in his "Notitia Monastica" many particulars of the Church of Llandaff, of its early history, of the death of St. Dubricius, of the seizure of its revenues by the Saxons, and the number of its Canons being in consequence reduced from twenty four to two; of the several Synods held under Bishops Oudoceus, Gwrwan, Berthgwyn, Cerenhir, Cyfeiliawg, Pater, Gulfrid, Gwgan, Joseph, and Herwald, and respecting the dispute between the Bishop of St. David's and the Bishop of Llandaff, relating to the boundaries of their dioceses; all which are by the author mentioned, with references to Dugdale's Monasticon, Spelman's Concilia, and Wharton's Anglia Sacra, but which were doubtless originally taken from the LIBER LANDAVENSIS. References are also made to the MS. extracts of Brian Twyne, from the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, and to extracts, evidently from the same Work, in Corpus Christi College, Cambridge. Mention is also made therein of the ancient Register of Llandaff, in the possession of Richard Davies, Esq., of Llanerch, in the county of Denbigh; and of the notice by Browne Willis, of the Work being in the Cottonian Library, and in the Library of Jesus College, Oxford.

14. In the Catalogue of the MSS. in the Cottonian Library, British Museum, printed in 1802, are the following references to the LIBER LANDAVENSIS,—Vitellius, CX. 4, 5. “Extracts from the ancient Register of the “Church of Llandaff, which is called TEILO.”—“Life of “St. Oudoceus, Archbishop of Llandaff, with various documents of Grants to the same Archbishop, Dubricius, “Teliaus, and the Prelates of the Church, extracted, it is “believed, from the same Register.”

15. In the third volume of the “Cambrian Register,” published in 1818, which contains a Catalogue of the MSS. in the Library at Hengwrt, Merionethshire, this Work is called LIBER LANDAVENSIS, and said to be from Mr. Selden’s Library; a description is also given of the volume, and particulars of the correspondence which took place previous to Robert Vaughan, Esq. of Hengwrt, obtaining possession of it. The Catalogue was originally written in 1658, but other books were added as they got to the collection, and the LIBER LANDAVENSIS is mentioned as one of the books not had until Sept. 1659.

16. In Ritson’s “Life of King Arthur,” published in 1825, is a quotation from the Work, of a Grant made by Noe, the son of Arthur, to Archbishop Dubricius, and to Llandaff founded in honour of St. Peter, of territories on the banks of the Taf. The author says that Sir John Price, who appeared to have had the Register of Llandaff, only notices this Grant; and he erroneously observes that the Manuscript was in Lichfield Cathedral, where it was called ST. CHAD’S BOOK,¹ being a copy of the Gospels. Respecting which it may be mentioned, that such book is not the Register of Llandaff, but of the Gospels of St. Matthew, and St. Mark, with part of that of St. Luke, and what relates to Llandaff is written on the margins of some of the leaves of the book, and consists of entries relating to Grants to the Church, copies of which are in the Appendix to this work.

17. In the Introduction to the "Dictionary of the Welsh Language," by Dr. W. Owen Pughe, published in 1832, we have the following particulars, "The most ancient Welsh Vocabulary is a short Welsh and Latin one in the BOOK OF LLANDAV, in the British Museum, a valuable manuscript of the twelfth century. See Cott. MSS. "Vespasian XXV. 2." Respecting which it may be said, that the Vocabulary, instead of being Welsh, is Cornish, in which are many British words disused by the Cornish, but understood by the Welsh.—Lhuyd's Archæologia Britannica, p. 4. And it may be further observed, that the contents of this manuscript, besides this Vocabulary, consist of a Latin-Welsh Calendar, in which Welsh Saints are principally mentioned, and the Lives of sixteen Welsh Saints.—In addition to the printed works which have reference to, and contain quotations from this Work, the Editor deems it appropriate to give an account of those MS. Collections which are come to his knowledge, that have quotations from it.

II.—1. Archbishop Parker's MS. in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, MS. 101, p. 310, contains extracts from the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, of the first state of the Church of Llandaff, and of the Life of Archbishop Dubricius; and MS. 119, p. 435, a large account of the founding of the Cathedral Church of Llandaff, and of its divers privileges. Wharton refers to this MS. in his "Anglia Sacra," where he calls it the Teilo Register, and mentions that he had made his extracts and quotations from it, as before mentioned. Matthew Parker, born in 1504, received his education at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, became Archbishop of Canterbury in 1559, and died in 1575.

2. Rev. Brian Twyne's extracts from the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, Vol. III. p. 9. contain the Life of St. Elgar. The author next describes the Lives of Samson and Dubricius, from the latter of which he gives some extracts; then those of Teliavus and Oudoceus, very slightly noticing the intervening contents of the book, and passing over at once to the Record of the Consecration of Bishop Herwald, he finishes his account with an extract from it. He was Scholar and Fellow of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, and Keeper of the Archives at that University, where he died in 1644.

3. In the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, are extracts from the Registrum Landavense, in a MS. Common-Place Book of Archbishop Usher, which are written in that Prelate's own hand. They occupy six small 4to. pages in Latin; the first Extract is, of the Life of Elgar, the Hermit; the second, The Requisition of Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, to Pope Calixtus, at the Council of Rheims, in the year 1119; then follows the Life of St. Teilo, Archbishop of the Church of Llandaff; and afterwards an extract from the Life of Oudoceus, the third Archbishop of Llandaff, which is the last.¹ These Extracts were made by Archbishop Usher, probably with the view of being used in compiling his "Antiquities of the British Churches." On his death in 1655, his Library, after being much pillaged, was given to Trinity College, Dublin, which accounts for these extracts being in the Library of that Institution.

4. Sir Matthew Hale's MSS. in Lincoln's Inn Library, No. XXXII. (xxxiv.) being a volume of miscellaneous extracts on historic subjects by Selden, contains two extracts from MSS. of the LIBER LANDAVENSIS. The first is on one leaf only, and said to be from the Book of the Church of Llandaff, but recently written, and belonging to John Pontesius, and supposed to be a transcript of the time of James I. The second extract is from another MS. of the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, lent to Selden by Theophilus, Bishop of Llandaff, and consists of three pages of rough notes, and said to be from an ancient MS. Mr. Selden had probably obtained the loan of the comparatively modern copy before he procured the more ancient one from Llandaff.

5. A quarto book of MSS. of Lewis Morris,¹ in the Welsh School Library, London, No. 42, has a copy of the Charter or Privilege of the Church of Llandaff, in the original Welsh Language, stated to have been extracted out of the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, in the Library of Mr. Davies, of Llanerch, in the year 1760. The writer, who was the Rev. Evan Evans,² in whose possession the MS. then was, describes the Work as containing the Lives of Dubricius, Teliaus, and Oudoceus, Archbishops of Llandaff, wherein are intermixed a great many legends of those Saints, and some slight sketches of British History; and he also mentions that besides those Lives, the MS. contains all the donations made to that See from time to time, down to Bishop Herwaldus, who died in 1104. The MS. also contains the Latin text of the account of the effects of the great excommunication which was pronounced on those who transgressed against the liberties and privileges of the Cathedral Church of Llandaff, in the year 1410, in the handwriting of the said Mr. Evans, and a rude imitation of the original writing of the document, beginning, "Judhail filius Ediluirth," with his translation of it in English.

III.—1. In giving an historical and descriptive account of the several MS. copies of the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, as far as known to the Editor, he observes that the first mention which he has met with of such copies, is of one being in the Church of Llandaff in the beginning of the seventeenth century, which is mentioned by Bishop Godwin in his "Catalogue of the Bishops of Llandaff," and respecting which he says, as before mentioned, that the Church of Llandaff had a Book of venerable antiquity, which was written upwards of five hundred years ago.

¹ Lewis Morris, an eminent antiquary and poet, was born in 1702, and died in 1765. He left behind him about eighty volumes of ancient MSS. which are now deposited in the Welsh Charity School Library, Gray's Inn Lane, London.

² The Rev. Evan Evans, an eminent divine and poet, was born about 1730. He applied himself unremittingly to the cultivation of Welsh Literature, and employed all his leisure time in transcribing ancient manuscripts, of which he left behind him, at his death in 1790, about a hundred volumes of various sizes. He was called Y Prydydd Hir, [The Tall Poet.]

2. The mention of this copy which next occurs, is in an article in Lincoln's Inn Library, (No. 34,) in one of Sir Matthew Hale's MSS. a volume of miscellaneous extracts on historic matters, by the celebrated Mr. John Selden. It contains two extracts from MSS. of the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, of which the second is stated to have been taken from an ancient MS. lent to Mr. Selden by Theophilus, Bishop of Llandaff, as before mentioned. The Rev. Theophilus Field became Bishop of Llandaff in 1619, and was translated to the See of St. David's in 1627, a circumstance which fixes the date of the loan of the MS. before the last mentioned year.

3. The next notice of this MS. copy seems to be that of Archbishop Usher, in his "Antiquities of the British Churches," published in 1639, as aforesaid, where it is in some places called "The Register of Llandaff;" and in others, "The Register of the Church of Llandaff;" and from his mentioning the name of the place, together with its Register, may be inferred, that he alludes to the book then kept in the Archives of the Cathedral, which may be considered as having been at that time returned by Mr. Selden.

4. Mention of this MS. seems likewise to be made by Sir Henry Spelman, in his "Concilia," aforesaid; a book which was published in 1639, the same year as the preceding by Bishop Usher. Sir Henry calls it, "The Book of Llandaff," and "The very ancient MS. of the Church of Llandaff." It is also described by him as a "splendid manuscript by some author who lived in the twelfth century, and was to be had in the Archives of the Church of Llandaff," from which the particulars related by him had been extracted; which minute description is rather conclusive that the ancient MS. had been returned by Mr. Selden, and was at that time at Llandaff.

5. The next mention of this MS. copy is in the first volume of the "Monasticon Anglicanum," by Sir William Dugdale, published in 1655, as before mentioned, in which a document therein given, is said to have been extracted from a very ancient book, which formerly belonged to the Bishop of Llandaff, but was at that time in the possession of the celebrated John Selden; and as the quotations of the same articles, both by Dugdale and Spelman, aforesaid, refer to the same folios of the book, from which they extracted them, it may be inferred that they copied them from the same MS. It should seem that Mr. Selden had procured the MS. possibly by purchase, that had been lent to him before, and which he was desirous to obtain on account of the value he attached to it, and probably to secure it from the effects of the civil war that then raged, and which was perhaps the more readily parted with on account of the sum offered for it, and a transcript in similar characters being executed, which would supply its place, and be thought by many of equal value, if not considered to be same, as it seems was subsequently the case. As Mr. Selden died in 1654, the year before the first volume of the Monasticon was published, Dugdale must have referred to the MS. from having seen it, and copied extracts from it in the life time of Mr. Selden, some time before they were published.

6. When Mr. Selden died, he left his very valuable and curious Library, in which was this ancient MS. to his Executors, Matthew Hale, John Vaughan, and Rowland Jones, Esquires, which they intended to bestow on the Society of The Inner Temple, if a proper place were prepared to receive it, but this being neglected, they gave it to the University of Oxford, and the collection, with some few exceptions, was placed in the Bodleian Library, in the month of September, 1659.

7. Mr. Hale, who was afterwards Sir Matthew Hale, being thus appointed one of Mr. Selden's Executors, accounts for the volume with extracts from the LIBER LIAN-DAVENSIS by Mr. Selden, being met with among Sir Matthew's¹ MSS. deposited in Lincoln's Inn Library, as before mentioned, the same having come into his possession in consequence of such circumstance.

8. And as Mr. Vaughan, who was subsequently Sir John Vaughan,² was another of Mr. Selden's Executors, he was considered by Robert Vaughan, Esq. of Hengwrt, Merionethshire, a great collector of Welsh MSS. to have it in his power to lend him the MS. of the LIBER LIAN-DAVENSIS, which he was very anxious to procure, that he might transcribe it; and accordingly, he entered into a correspondence to obtain it for the purpose, which was protracted for five years, but at length he succeeded in his application, and thereby the ancient MS. came into his possession. As the result of the correspondence was the making the Transcript, the text of which forming the basis of this Publication, and this correspondence being otherwise interesting, the Editor thinks it appropriate to present the reader with an abstract of it, from the Letters published in the third volume of the Cambrian Register in 1818.

IV.—1. The first letter on the subject by Mr. Vaughan, of Hengwrt, is dated Feb. 5, 1654, 5, little more than two months after the death of Mr. Selden, which took place the 30th day of the preceding November, and is addressed to Mr. Meredith Lloyd, of London, inclosing a letter addressed to Mr. Vaughan, of Trowscoed,³ in whose possession he had been informed Mr. Selden's MS. copy of the LIBER LANDAVENSIS then was, requesting him to use his endeavours for obtaining the loan of the Book of Llandaff, for it had been long since conveyed to England, and there was not a copy of it in any part of Wales that he knew of. And if the book would not be lent for his own transcribing, of which he was desirous, he wished Mr. M. Lloyd to enquire whether it could be had, and a person engaged in London to transcribe it for him.—The letter inclosed in the above, and addressed to Mr. Vaughan, as aforesaid, was dated on the same day; and the writer therein requested his favour, and furtherance to procure the loan of a Book, which was, as he had been lately informed, in the possession of his friend the great antiquary Mr. Selden, and called the Book of Llandaff, or Llyfr Teiliaw. He said that he wished to have it no longer time than he might conveniently write it out; and for the safe keeping and returning thereof, he, and three other gentlemen, would enter into a bond, with what penalties he pleased. Or if it was not to be had that way, he humbly desired that a friend of his might have access to it, to write it out, though that way would not give him such content as if he himself had the perusing and writing of it, for besides its being an ancient MS. which would require some skill in the reading, it contained many ancient Charters and Donations of lands bestowed upon the See and the Bishops thereof, whose meares and bounds were therein written in the ancient British tongue, which but few could understand, and truly write out.

³ Trowscoed, or more correctly Trawsgoed, is the Welsh name for Crosswood, the seat of the Earl of Lisburne.

2. The negotiation seems to have stood still, or proceeded very slowly until the following year, when it was revived, as a letter addressed by Mr. Vaughan to his cousin, Mr. Richard Herbert, of Llwyn Iorwerth, Cardiganshire, shews.—In this letter, which is dated March 25th, 1656, he mentions to Mr. Herbert that Mr. Vaughan, of Trowscoed, had promised to him the loan of the old Book of Llandaff to copy, upon caution being given for the redelivering of it at a limited time, and desires of him to join in security with his son for the book, and he would give them a bond doubling their penalty, for their indemnity.—In his letter to Mr. Vaughan, of Trowscoed, in which the preceding was inclosed, and was dated on the same day, he says, that as the winter was past, he found himself in good condition to fall on the writing of the Book of Llandaff, which he had promised to lend him upon security being given for the safe restoring it at a time appointed, and that he desired to know upon what terms he might have it. And as to the time of the restitution, he desired that it might be as long as possible with convenience, because he intended, according to promise, to write a copy for him and for himself, if God lent him life and health.

3. The business again lingered for two years, and new obstructions to the accomplishment of the Antiquary's wishes seem to have arisen, for in a letter addressed to Mr. Vaughan, of Trowscoed, dated May 20, 1658, he says, "In regard the loan of the Book of Llandaff may not, upon any terms, be obtained to be by myself copied in the country, I humbly desire you to favour me with a letter by the bearer, directed to your friends in London, who have the keeping of Mr. Selden's books and it, whereby my agents may have access to it all the while they be in the transcribing of it."—This letter seems to have had no effect, at least for some time, for it was not until sixteen months subsequently, that at last the Antiquary obtained what he had so anxiously wished, when he received from Mr. Vaughan the following letter, dated Trowscoed, Sept. 24, 1659, "Worthy Sir, I have, according to my undertaking at my last being in London, procured that manuscript which you desired to transcribe, and have it with me for your use. It now belongs to the public Library at Oxford, where Mr. Selden's whole library is disposed. If you desire to make use of it at your own house, for your better conveniency, I am required to take caution for the restitution by bond, to prevent accidents that may happen on death, or other“wise, which I suppose you will not grumble at, the property belonging to such a corporation as the University. “Sir, as I have done my endeavour for your satisfaction “in this, so I shall most readily upon any other occasion, “wherein the service and affection may be acceptable to “you of your assured friend, Jo. VAUGHAN.” (Superscribed,) “For my worthy and honoured Friend, ROBERT “VAUGHAN, Esq. at his house, Hene Court.”

V.—1. In the Catalogue of the MSS. in the Hengwrt Library, collected by the said Robert Vaughan, and copied in the said volume of the Cambrian Register, it seems to have been entered therein, as one of those belonging to it, and it is described as follows, “162. LIBER LANDAVENSIS, “from Mr. Selden’s Library, folio, in parchment, three “inches thick,¹ having Teilio’s picture in brass on the lid “thereof, formerly overlaid with gold and silver, but now “almost worn out by age.” This Catalogue was written in 1658, but other books were inserted therein in addition, as they came into the collection; thus the LIBER LANDAVENSIS is entered as one of those which was in the Library, although it was not procured until Sept. 1659, as aforesaid. Although Mr. Vaughan, of Trowscoed, as before mentioned, had stated that the said ancient MS. belonged to the public Library at Oxford, and that he was required to take caution by bond for its restitution to the University, yet, as it was not in the collection, nor entered in the Catalogue of Mr. Selden’s MSS. and books when they were deposited therein,² nor any memorandum discovered of its having been subsequently received, it is confidently believed never to have been in the said Library.¹ That it was removed from the Hengwrt Library, is certain, but whether during the life time of Mr. Robert Vaughan, is unknown; and where it may be at present, although enquiry has been made, no information has been received of its existence.

¹ According to the references of Spelman and Dugdale, the LIBER LANDAVENSIS took up only about 114 folios, or 228 pages; and consequently, the volume must have contained something in addition, or the vellum and covers have been of very thick quality.

² The MSS. and Books of Mr. Selden were received into the public Library at Oxford, in the same month as the MS. of the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, was lent to Mr. Robert Vaughan.

2. Although Mr. Robert Vaughan promised in his correspondence to write out two copies, it is not known that he executed more than one, which was beautifully written, in the very same character with the prototype, on vellum, in 1660, and was one of the last things done by the writer, who died in 1667. This transcript is still in existence, and consists of 181½ pages, which relate to the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, before which is written the Life of St. Cadoc, also in Latin, occupying 44½ pages of the volume, which, exclusive of its covers, is about nine inches in length, five in breadth, and one and a quarter in thickness, whereof the LIBER LANDAVENSIS takes up about one inch. On one of the blank leaves at the end, is a portrait, done with the pen, considered to be a copy of what is stated to have been in brass on the cover of the ancient MS. and to represent St. Teilo; a Facsimile of which forms the frontispiece to this Volume. The transcript is now in the possession of Col. Vaughan, a lineal descendant of Mr. R. Vaughan, and has been removed from the Library of Hengwrt to that of Rûg, in the same county of Merioneth, another residence of its possessor. Col. Vaughan kindly allowed this transcript to be collated in preparing the present Work for the Press; and on collation, it was found so valuable as to be made the basis of the text for this Publication, as aforesaid. Several facsimile specimens of this important transcript are given in this Volume.²

¹ In the Life of Mr. Robert Vaughan, contained in the edition of his "British Antiquities Revived," published at Bala in 1834, it is inaccurately mentioned that this MS. was, after much enquiry, at length discovered in the public library at Oxford, and transmitted to Mr. Vaughan for transcription; with a reference to the third volume of the Cambrian Register; whereas it is there, as aforesaid, merely stated to have belonged to that library.

² A gentleman well acquainted with ancient MSS. observed of this copy, that it was the best written facsimile for its extent that he had ever seen,

VI.—1. The ancient MS. copy of the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, which belonged to the Bishops of Llandaff, having come into the possession of Mr. John Selden, as before mentioned, the imitation copy supplied its place, for the next particulars met with by the Editor relating to the MS. in the Church of Llandaff, is in Lhuyd's "Archæologia Britannica," published, as before stated, in 1709, p. 259, where it is mentioned that the Archives of Llandaff contain a very neat copy on parchment, lately transcribed, in which the handwriting of the ancient book was preserved, but more elegantly than accurately written. From which it appears that the ancient MS. was not then at Llandaff, and it may be concluded that the neat copy written in similar characters, was obtained to supply its place; and being a good imitation of the ancient mode of writing used in the old MS. was by subsequent authors believed to be such ancient MS. itself

2. In the "Survey of the Cathedral Church of Llandaff," by Browne Willis, Esq. published in 1718, aforesaid, he mentions that there were three books in the custody of the Chapter of Llandaff, one whereof, he was told, was the old Register Book, or LIBER LANDAVENSIS, referred to in the Monasticon, called Tilo, said to be compiled by Bishop Urban, as before mentioned. From which it appears that he was informed that the MS. or rather transcript of the Register was then at Llandaff, although he mistakes in saying that it was compiled by Bishop Urban, as the compiler was the Bishop's brother, Galfrid.

3. In the "Antiquities of Lantwit Major," by the Rev. David Nicholl, (1729,) before mentioned, the LIBER LANDAVENSIS is referred to, and called a very valuable manuscript, which was above six hundred years old. The MS.

and that, though it resembled Miss Elstob's famous copy from the Textus Roffensis, (a similar MS.) it was a greater task, being a very large volume. —The account of the Hengwrt Library, given in Carte's MSS. deposited in the Bodleian Library at Oxford, is as follows, "Bibliotheca Vachiana—165 parchments, and other books, among which is the Liber Landavensis, copied from Mr. Selden's Library."

which Mr. Nicholl saw, and from which he extracted his information, must have been the transcript described by Lhuyd, which resembled the ancient MS. and was consequently believed to be the same.

4. In the "Bibliotheca Britannico-Hibernica," by Tanner, Bishop of St. Asaph, who died in 1735, which was published in 1748, it is mentioned that the author had seen the LIBER LANDAVENSIS in the possession of the Bishops of Llandaff, in his time, and that it was the same book as was used by Spelman; where he seems to be under the same mistake with respect to its identity with the ancient copy, as Mr. Nicholl.

5. In the Prospectus of Collections for a new History of Wales, by Mr. Edward Williams, 1819, he mentions the original Charter of Llandaff being still extant in Welsh, a copy of which was in the Archives of Llandaff, and in other places by him stated. This Prospectus, although then published, was written many years before; for from information received by the Editor, the MS. has been missing from Llandaff since before the year 1790. Mr. Edward Williams frequently mentioned to his son that he had often seen and perused the old Book at Llandaff; and he has written a marginal note on the right hand of page 301 of the third volume of the Cambrian Register, commencing at that part of Mr. Robert Vaughan's letter to Mr. Meredith Lloyd, where the following expressions occur,—“Apply all your endeavours for obtaining the loan of the Book of Llandaff, for being long since conveyed to England, there is not a copy of it in any part;” which note is as follows,—“It was at Llandaff, where I have seen it, and I then compared my copy of the Llandaff Charter from Jesus College, Oxon. Bishop Watson some time after took it to Calgarth Park.” With respect to which last particular, enquiry has been made, and the information received is, that the relatives of the Bishop, who lived and remained with him until his death in 1816, never saw or heard of such MS. and that shortly after his decease, a catalogue was made of his Library, and no trace appeared that it had ever been in his possession. From which particulars it may be inferred, that Mr. Edward Williams, who died about 1829, aged above 80 years, had seen the MS. that subsequently it became missing, and that when he afterwards asked for it, he was told it was gone to Calgarth Park, for the purpose of putting an end to his enquiries, for it appears from the foregoing account, that it never was there. It may be further observed, that although several enquiries have been made respecting this MS. no information relating to its present existence has been obtained.

VII.—1. The next ancient MS. copy of the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, to which the Editor will advert, is the LLANNERCH MS. so called because it was for a considerable time in the library at Llanerch, Denbighshire. The first notice which the Editor has met with of this MS. occurs in the Collection of MS. extracts by the Rev. Brian Twyne, who died in 1644, as before mentioned, which are stated to be from the very ancient Book of Llandaff, where it is mentioned that on its left cover there was, either in brass or copper, a picture of Teilo, the Patron of the Church, holding a book,¹ and that the first part of the volume contained the Gospel of St. Matthew, which last circumstance identifies it with the Llanerch copy, as hereafter mentioned, but whether it was then at Llanerch there is no account. This Collection of MS. extracts is in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, as before mentioned.

2. The next mention of the MS. is in the “Archæologia Britannica,” by the Rev. Edward Lhuyd, published in 1707, page 259, where, as before noticed, the LIBER LANDAVENSIS is said to be in the library of Robert Davies, Esq., of Guissaney, in the county of Denbigh, and that it was the Register of the Church of Llandaff, compiled by Galfrid, brother of Urban, Bishop of that See about the commencement of the twelfth century.

3. In Tanner's "Notitia Monastica," published in 1744, a notice occurs of the MS. and it is described, "The very "ancient Register of Llandaff on parchment, in the possession of Richard Davies, Esq., of Llannerch, in the "county of Denbigh."

4. In the quarto MS. volume of Mr. Lewis Morris, in the Library of the Welsh School, London, are Extracts which are stated to be taken out of the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, in the library of Mr. Davies, of Llannerch, A. D. 1760, as already mentioned, which was described to be a fair, beautiful MS. on vellum, very ancient, all written in the same kind of handwriting, the capitals being generally red. It was a long folio, of about an inch and a half thick, and contained the Gospel of St. Matthew in Latin, which was one fourth of the volume; and there was at the end some short account of the successors of Bishop Urban in the See of Llandaff, in old French, in a different hand and character from the body of the book.—According to the Catalogue of Welsh MSS. by Miss Angharad Llwyd, published in the Transactions of the Cymmrodorion, or Metropolitan Cambrian Institution, Vol. II. 1828, pp. 45, 46. The Llannerch library then belonged to the Rev. G. Allanson, and there were only five MSS. in it, which were all that remained of what was once the most celebrated Collection of ancient MSS. in the Principality; and the books were a moiety of the Gwasanau library, which was divided between the co-heiresses Mrs. Puleston and Mrs. Leo. Also, the Gwasanau Collection belonged to Philip Davies Cooke, Esq. and had then only five MSS. the same number as the Llannerch library, and the LIBER LANDAVENSIS was not in either of the collections.

5. In the Appendix to a quarto pamphlet, containing a Charge to the Chapter of St. David's, by Dr. Burgess, Bishop of that Diocese, in 1811, and published the following year, is the following notice, "Library of Bryan Cooke, Esq., M.P. for Malton. Regestum Landavense; or Book of Llandaff; a very ancient manuscript in vellum, containing the Lives of Elgar, Dubricius, Teilo, and Oudoceus; communications between the Papal See and the three first Popish Bishops of Llandaff; and a Register of Bishops from Urban to the 16th century." The same notice, or rather copies, thereof, may be seen in page 285 of Vol. I. of Sermons by the Rev. Richard Davies, Archdeacon of Brecon, published in 1815; and in the List of Books relating to Glamorganshire, at the end of the volume entitled SOUTH WALES, or Original Delineations of that part of the Principality, by the Rev. T. Rees, published in 1818. This book appears to have been the Llannerch MS. from its having the list of Bishops described to be in that copy, which is not mentioned to have been in any other. Further enquiries have been made respecting the MS. but no information could be obtained, so that its existence, and the place where it is deposited, as well as of the Selden MS. and of the Llandaff Transcript, are at present unknown.

VIII. Reference is next made to the MS. copy of the LIBER LANDAVENSIS which is in the Library of Jesus College, Oxford, of which mention is made in Lhuyd's "Archæologia Britannica," 1707, p. 259, as aforesaid, where after giving particulars of the Llannerch MS. it is said, "and there is another copy in the Library of Jesus College, Oxford." Browne Willis likewise refers to it in his "Survey of the Cathedral Church of Llandaff," where, after mentioning the ancient MS. Register of the Church of Llandaff in the Cottonian Library, British Museum, he says, "I take this to be a copy of the book called Tilo, one of which is in Jesus College, Oxford." It is also referred to by Mr. Edward Williams, in his Prospectus of "Collections for a new History of Wales," 1819, before mentioned, where it is said that there were copies of the original Charter of Llandaff in Jesus College Library, Oxford, in the Archives of Llandaff, British Museum, Hengwrt Merionethshire, and at Llannerch in Denbighshire. This copy is still to be met with in the said library, from which, a transcript was kindly allowed to be taken, in the first instance, with reference to the printing of this Work ; it is, however, stated to have been found, on examination, in a very unsatisfactory state, having been written by some person who was both ignorant and careless—letters and parts of words being frequently omitted, not from any known principles of abbreviation, but from obvious carelessness ; his blunders appeared in every line, so that a critical revision of the text for its correction was necessary to prepare it for publication. The MS. is said to have been given to the College by Dr. Jonathan Edwards, a former Principal of that Society, and is supposed to have been written between the years 1690 and 1707.

IX. When the National Record Commission was instituted, the LIBER LANDAVENSIS was one of the Works which engaged the attention of the Commissioners, and Aneurin Owen, Esq. of Egryn, Denbighshire, was employed to make a Transcript of the Hengwrt MS. which he nearly completed with an English translation of the Welsh boundaries, when the Commission was dissolved on the death of King William IV. and the use intended to be made of the Transcript apparently abandoned. Of the said English translation, with the kind permission of Lord Langdale, use has been made in writing this Volume.

X. With respect to the Teilo Register, said to be in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, from which the Rev. Henry Wharton has made extracts for his "Anglia Sacra," it appears from Tanner's "Notitia," that it was not from the Register, but only from portions of it there deposited, that the said extracts were made.—As to the MS. copy of the LIBER LANDAVENSIS in the possession of the Bishop of Norwich, to which Collier refers in his "Ecclesiastical History of Great Britain," no further mention has been met with, relating to it.—And the same may be said of the Book of Llandaff, one of the books of John Pontesius, which had been lent to Mr. Selden before he had the ancient Llandaff MS. and was then considered to have been recently written. With respect to the ancient Register of the Church of Llandaff, mentioned by Browne Willis in his “Survey of the Cathedral Church of “Llandaff,” to be in the Cottonian Library, British Museum, MS. F. p. 85, such book is not at present in the Collection.—The LIBER LANDAVENSIS mentioned in the Catalogue of the Bodleian Library, Oxford, p. 261, as contained in the MSS. Collectanea of Dr. James, librarian of that Collection, No. 24, p. 132, is not the Book of Teilo, as its name would imply, nor extracts from it, but a Chartulary or Register of the Church of Llandaff in the fourteenth century.

XI. Although the name adopted by the Welsh MSS. Society may be thought to imply that its object is confined to the publishing of ancient MSS. written in the Welsh language, yet such was not its original intention, but it had in prospect a wider field, and its design was to publish the contents of ancient MSS. connected with Welsh literature, without any particular regard to the language in which they were found. Accordingly, the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, although only partly written in Welsh, and principally in Latin, was, on account of its being the very ancient Register of one of the Welsh dioceses, and containing many interesting historical notices of the southern portion of the Principality in general, and having engaged the attention, and been thought worthy of extensive quotation by our most eminent Ecclesiastical Historians, deemed by the Committee to be a work peculiarly appropriate to be published by the Society, and accordingly was fixed upon to be its first Publication.

XII.—1. This measure being determined on, enquiries were made respecting the MSS. in existence, to enable the Committee to fulfil their intention; and it was found that the copy, the use of which could be most easily obtained for the desired purpose, was in the Library of Jesus College, Oxford. On examining this MS. the text was found to be in an incorrect state, and William Henry Black, Esq. a gentleman conversant with ancient MSS. was engaged to transcribe it, and prepare a copy for the Press. In proceeding with his engagement, Mr. Black found the copy to be very unsatisfactory, and that in transcribing it, great care and industry were necessary to prevent the errors of the original to be imputed to himself. Accordingly, for the correction of the text, there was occasion for his entering into a thorough critical revision of it, using his knowledge of the barbarous Latin, and of the abbreviations, and orthography of the age to which it belonged, and his long habit of emendation both by collation and conjecture, for the purpose. And for his assistance he had recourse to collating with the quotations made from the Work by Usher, Spelman, Dugdale, Wharton, and other writers, and no small success attended his industry and critical ability.

2. The copy being so far prepared for the Press, the Rev. Rice Rees, Professor of Welsh in St. David's College, Lampeter, and author of the "Essay on the Welsh Saints," being deemed, from his previous studies, a proper person to be the Editor, on application, accepted the office; but before he could do anything to it besides commencing a correspondence, the Society and his country were deprived of him and his services by a sudden death. Another person being wanted in his room, to proceed in accomplishing the object of the Society, his kinsman, the present Editor, on application, readily undertook to endeavour to supply his place in this respect, considering it as a kind of legacy bequeathed to him by his beloved nephew, whose studies were much in unison with his own.

3. On the present Editor undertaking the office, and Mr. Black's Transcript being placed in his hands, it was found to be very desirable that it should be collated with the MS. written by Robert Vaughan, Esq. of Hengwrt, aforesaid, which was then removed to Rûg, and in the possession of Col. Vaughan, the proprietor also of Hengwrt, and his lineal descendant. Permission, and opportunity for collation having been kindly obtained, it was soon discovered that the text of this MS. was in a much more satisfactory state than that of the Jesus College copy. It was also found to confirm many of Mr. Black's suggested emendations, and authorized, in addition, several other evident improvements; but it was not faultless, and the Jesus College MS. was sometimes more accurate, and Mr. Black's suggestions were in some cases still more correct than either. The Editor has thought proper to mention the variations at the bottom of the page, where the letter O. designates the Oxford or Jesus College copy, —H. the Hengwrt copy,—MSS. both of the said manuscripts,—B. Mr. Black,—and E. the Editor.

4. The copy having been collated, and the Hengwrt MS. in consequence of its being the most correct, made the basis of the text for the proposed Publication, the Editor observes, that in preparing a fresh copy for the Press, no alteration whatever was made in the arrangement of the several articles, and that the whole of the work was written verbatim, without anything being omitted or added, except merely supplying the punctuation and marking the aforesaid variation of the text in the notes at the bottom of the page, and placing the words LIBER LIANDAVENSIS at the top, whereas some pages of the MS. had the names of the Bishops to which their subject-matter referred, there written; the heading titles of the Sections are the same, without the addition of any new ones where they might be wanted; and the length of the paragraphs also the same as in the Latin original.

XIII.—1. In the English Translation, however, the same strict regard to the original arrangement of the articles, and to other minor particulars, has not been observed, but such Editorial alterations have been introduced, as the Editor conceived would render the Work more intelligible and interesting to the general reader. Of these, however, the principal one is the transposing of the documents relating to the time of Urban, the last Bishop of Llandaff mentioned in the Work, from the former portion, where they were placed, to constitute three Chapters in the latter part, after the particulars related of the other Bishops who preceded him in the See.¹ Besides this alteration there is no change in the arrangement of the articles, although they might be more chronologically placed; and they are left to remain as originally arranged, that reference to them may be the more easily made from one of the languages to the other. The Translation is likewise divided into Chapters, with the contents of each placed at its commencement; the Sections are numbered, and new heading titles given to such as were without them; the longer paragraphs are divided into smaller ones, and explanatory running titles given at the top of the page, for the information and convenience of the reader. With respect to the Translation itself, the Editor has to observe, that one of the professed objects of the Society, being to publish English Translations, as well as the original MSS. and many persons having become members on such object being announced, and with the understanding that it would be adhered to, he has given a Translation of the whole Work. He likewise thinks proper to mention, that his aim in executing it, was, to give as close a rendering as possible of the original Latin in the English language. However, as the sentences of the writers of the age were frequently inconveniently long, he has sometimes divided them into shorter ones; and when their members were confusedly arranged, and involved, he has often transposed them, to render such sentences more intelligible. But in general it has been his endeavour, not only to give the meaning, but also the style of the writer, deeming it more appropriate in a work of this kind than if he had rendered it into more elegant language. Also, as the Translation is a kind of commentary on the original, it will be found useful in ascertaining its meaning, where it may be doubtful from errors in punctuation, and some other minor imperfections, occasioned by the distance of the Editor's residence from the Press rendering revisals inconvenient.

2. With regard to the English Notes, the reader will observe, that for the most part they have reference to places whose names mentioned in the Work, have through lapse of time, either been disused, or so changed as to be scarcely recognized, and that their identity cannot be ascertained except by conjecture, and an intimate acquaintance with the localities of the districts in which they are situated. How far correct the explanations given may be, will be best known to those who are resident in those places, and it may be interesting to the investigating enquirer to ascertain the accuracy of the account given, and to discover the identity of other places mentioned in the Work, of which there is no explanation.

XIV. In perusing the Work, the observant reader will notice that the several articles and documents therein inserted, are not in regular chronological order, which has already been noticed and adverted to in some respects, in regard to what took place during the time of Bishop Urban; but there are other chronological inaccuracies with respect to what is mentioned of several of the preceding Bishops, which have occasioned much confusion in the accounts relating to some of the earlier ones, and have justly thrown considerable doubts on the authenticity of the Work. As has been observed by Wharton of the Bishops of Mercia, and quoted by Willis with reference to those of Llandaff,¹ there is in the account of them no where greater obscurity, no where more difficulties, and which appear to have been occasioned by our Author not clearly understanding his subject, and compiling the Work without a careful examination of the nature of his materials. To remove, therefore, the obscurity and difficulties, with which the subject has been evidently encompassed for ages, and the doubts of authenticity they have occasioned, and to render the Work more intelligible and satisfactory, it has been thought proper to give a Chronological Series of the Bishops of Llandaff at the end of the Volume,² wherein an endeavour is made, by reference to the Kings of the districts, and the Witnesses mentioned in the Grants given in their respective eras, to fix the true order of the succession of the Bishops, and the time when they respectively lived. It will be observed that the succession inferred from the order of the documents in this Work, and adopted for the most part by Godwin, Leland, Enderby, Heylin, Le Neve, Browne Willis, and others, who have given lists of the Bishops of Llandaff, is herein in some respects considerably altered, and a Chronological List given of them different from what has been before published. In this list it will be seen that several of the earlier Bishops, who were deemed to have independently enjoyed the See of Llandaff, were only suffragan or local Bishops, stationed in different districts of the diocese under Archbishops Dubricius and Teilo, and of course contemporary with them, and with each other. In Dugdale's "Monasticon Anglicanum," last edition, Vol. VI. p. 1217, it is mentioned that there was much uncertainty in the History of Llandaff, as well with respect to what related to the See, as to its Bishops, till the latter end of the ninth century; which uncertainty, it is considered, the Chronological Series herein given, will tend much to diminish, if not entirely to remove.

² The insertion of a continued Series of the Bishops is in accordance with the addition to the Liber Landavensis in the Llannerch MS. which contained a Register of the Bishops of Llandaff from Urban to the sixteenth century.

XV. With regard to the general authenticity of the Work, the Editor considers some explanation to be requisite, and accordingly is induced to make such remarks as appear to him suitable to the subject; he observes that many of the grants herein recorded, were made to St. Dubricius and St. Teilo, when they were Archbishops, and exercised their jurisdiction over the whole or greater part of South Wales, which included the diocese of St. David's, as well as that of Llandaff; that St. Teilo, having succeeded St. David as Archbishop, on his death, obtained in addition to his jurisdiction over the diocese of Llandaff, which he held as its Bishop, also that over St. David's, as appears from the numerous churches dedicated to him in various parts of that Diocese, and some within a short distance of the Cathedral Church; and that, having removed the Archiepiscopal See to Llandaff, the members of that Church were disposed to consider a portion of the Diocese of St. David's, which was in his jurisdiction, when it extended over the two Dioceses, as included in the Diocese of Llandaff, and to claim it accordingly. Claims to this effect seem to have been made by divers Bishops of Llandaff,¹ for a length of time, and perhaps were countenanced in proportion as the political power of the Kings of Glamorgan prevailed in that district; and in the eleventh century, during the time of Joseph and the former part of that of Herwald, Bishops of Llandaff, when Rhydderch ab Iestyn,² and his descendants, Kings of Gla-

morgan, were Sovereigns of South Wales, they probably through their influence in some measure obtained possession, and subsequently, when the Glamorgan Princes were no longer the Sovereigns of the whole district, the Diocese of Llandaff may have been deprived of what had been allowed to belong to it, and perhaps was possessed for a short time by its Bishops, and the circumstance caused Bishop Urban to prefer his complaints against the Bishop of St. David's to the Papal See in the following century. And as the LIBER LANDAVENSIS was compiled by Galfrid, the brother of Bishop Urban, who greatly exerted himself to restore the Diocese of Llandaff to what he deemed its true boundaries, and recover what he thought it had been unjustly deprived of, it may be presumed that the compiler of the Work, which, if not written in direct support of his brother's claims, was in accordance therewith, would adduce every document he could to substantiate them, without making minute enquiry into its authenticity. He appears likewise to have written his Work with considerable bias and partiality in favour of the See, and of the district, which may be observed by his calling St. Dubricius Archbishop of Llandaff, when Caerleon was the Archiepiscopal See, and he was only Bishop of Llandaff; and his giving the same title to St. Teilo, when the Diocese of Llandaff was only part of his jurisdiction; and also his calling Rhydderch ab Iestyn King of Glamorgan, Sovereign of all Wales except Anglesey, when he had only obtained the government of South Wales; to which many other instances might be added, and therefore some caution may be advisable in giving credence to every particular related in favour of the extent of the ancient Diocese of Llandaff. However, with attending to these remarks, and making an allowance accordingly, probably the historical particulars herein recorded, will be found considerably more worthy of credit than they may appear on a cursory and inattentive perusal. What has been advanced on the subject, by the Author of the "Essay on the Welsh Saints," a Work which may be perused with advantage in connection with the present, is worthy of notice; he observes, (p. 185,) that the Grants securing endowments and other privileges and immunities to the Bishops of Llandaff, (referring to the LIBER LANDAVENSIS as quoted by Wharton and Godwin,) should not be rejected without examination, as they supply important links in history, which otherwise would have been wanting; and that it should not be forgotten that such documents of this kind, as were fabricated in the middle ages, were in every practical case palmed upon real personages, in order to obtain credit for genuineness.

XVI. In giving some account of the assistance received, the Editor enters with delight into that department of his office, as it reminds him of the communications of many kind friends. In the first place, he deems it his duty to return thanks in behalf of the Committee, to the Principal and Fellows of Jesus College. Oxford, for the loan of their MS. copy of the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, with permission to transcribe it for publication; and also to William Henry Black, Esq. for his important services in preparing a copy for the Press from that incorrect MS.; and to the Dean and Chapter of Lichfield, for the examination and use of the MS. of St. Chad's Gospels in their Cathedral library, relating to the entries on its margin respecting ancient Grants to the Church of Llandaff. After mentioning these particulars, he takes delight in stating that his personal gratitude is also due, and with pleasure paid to several persons, and especially to Col. Vaughan, of Rûg, for the permission to collate Mr. Black's copy with the valuable Hengwrt MS. in his possession; to the Rev. Morgan Hughes, Vicar of Corwen, for affording facilities to effect the collation; and to the Rev. Thomas Price, of Crickhowel, for his valuable assistance in collating the copy, making facsimiles, and passing the Volume through the Press; to Aneurin Owen, Esq. of Egryn, Denbighshire, for the aid given by his English translation of the obsolete Welsh boundaries recorded in the Work; to the Rev. John Jones, (Tegid,) Precentor of Christ Church, Oxford, for his assistance in consulting books at Oxford, which were not in the Editor's possession; and to Mr. William Rees, of Llandovery, for assisting in ascertaining the ancient localities, and adjusting the Chronology; and also to the Rev. J. Montgomery Traherne, of Coedriglan, Glamorganshire, for his exertions in endeavouring to obtain information respecting the ancient MS. copies that remain undiscovered; and particularly to Lady Hall, of Llanover, Monmouthshire, for her zealous and important exertions in promoting the whole proceeding. Having thus mentioned the aid he has received, and the names of the principal persons who favoured him with communications in editing the Work, he feels disposed to advert briefly to himself, and to say that it has occupied much of his attention for a considerable time, with a resolution not to spare any pains, and a wish that it should be as complete as possible; whereby, with the assistance he has received, he hopes a Book has been produced, worthy of the national and patriotic Society which has caused its publication, such as will be approved of by its distinguished Patrons and Members, be satisfactory to the several Subscribers, and meet with a favourable general reception.

Adeo diligebat eum magister et dominus Sanctus¹ Ildutus, ut omnibus horis, præ cunctis scholaribus eum² cariorem in cunctis, et cum eo diligentius serviebat ecclesiæ. Sanctus Ildutus, laborans ut requiesceret, et vivens labore ut viveret, habebat satum unum, ad quod servandum autumnali tempore, vice mutuâ, mittebat discipulos, ne passeret ex solito segetem hordei consumerent. Tandem ad fratrem Samsonem pervenit obedientia;³ et cum summâ lætitiâ ivit ad custodiam, inventos omnes passeret albos coadunavit volatiles, velut campestres oves, et duxit ad horreum, clauso ostio; rediit tum ad segetem, et ibi, nullo tum passere manente, obdormivit per spatium.  est. Abbas Ildutus, Sancti Germani discipulus, humana et divina¹ peritus, genere magnificus, et futurorum præ-

 “Hunc Deus Samsonem dignatus est nobis mittere, patriæ

mine Dubricius, missam ordinationis ejus celebravit una cum magistro Ilduto, columbam cœlitùs emissam super Sanctum Samsonem mirabiliter stare vidit; et cum super eum Episcopus manum levavit, columba in dextram scapulam ejus descendit, et ibi consedit quamdiu Episcopus officium celebravit. Non multis¹ post hæc annis transactis, ab eodem Episcopo consecratus est in ordinem præbyteratùs; sed et columba de cœlo super eum sicut prius descendit, et electum Dei innocentia signavit. Hic vero Ildutus in suo monasterio duos nepotes habuit germanos; quorum unus sacerdos, alter vero sine gradu, ejus fuit cellerarius.² Sacerdos vero, cupiens post avunculum possidere monasterium, sed metuens Sanctum Samsonem, ne ob gratiam virtutum ad Abbatem ab omnibus eligeretur, et ipse sic monasterio privaretur, mortiferum cum fratre iniit consilium. Nam ejusdem loci fratres habebant in consuetudine, potionem herbarum³ post missas habere. Cellerarius fratris sui consilio venenum confecit, et per pelacem⁴ mortiferum esse probavit, et in scipum Sancti Samsonis fudit. Quod ille per Spiritum Sanctum intelligens, potumque benedicens, totum bibit, nihil mali ex eo sentiens. Eodem die, post prandium, Sanctus Samson cum⁵ Celerario amicissimum habuit colloquium. “Mi frater dulcissime! sanet te Deus ab omni ægritudine, quia magnam sanitatem corpori meo poculum præbuit, quod mihi dedisti hodie.” Hæc illo audiente, compunctus ingemuit, fratremque⁶ suum nefandi incentorem⁷ pœnitere commonuit; sed noluit. sacerdos sacram communionem de manu Sancti Samsonis suscepit, eodem momento¹ Diabolus eum arripuit. Ille autem pallens,² se illico totum dilanians, et labia mordens astantibus dixit. “Quid hic statis? Si Samsonem dominatorem mei presentem³ non viderem, minimè de vobis curarem.” Ildutus vero, ut hoc vidit, ligari eum, ac foras duci, jussit: Frater vero ejus, hoc audiens, utrumque culpam monstravit, et veniam a Sancto Samsonem postulavit. Sanctus vero Samson dolore commotus, flevit; aquam et oleum benedixit, et dari ei ad gustandum praecepit; et sic eum a diaboli laqueis liberavit. Itaque factum est (justo Dei judicio) ut primatum quod⁴ nequiter quæsivit, nunquam habere potuit. Erat vero⁵ non longe ab hoc cœnobio insula quædam, in qua monasterium erat constructum a viro nomine Piro. Illuc Sanctus Samson, Deo ducente ac magistro favente, festinanter perrexit, ibi gloriosam et angelicam⁶ vitam duxit, amabilis moribus, piis insistens operibus, pervigil in orationibus. Post hæc vero, quodam hyemis tempore, pater Sancti Samsonis, gravi infirmitate depressus, a suis commonitus est vicinis ut juxta morem susciperet sacrificium communionis. Ille vero obnixè affirmavit nunquam se mortem gustaturum, nunquam sacrificium suscepturum, nunquam sanitatem recepturum priusquam Samsonem filium suum videret, ac propter ipsum pariter corporis et animæ sanitatem reciperet. Parentes ergo ad eum legatos miserunt, poscentes ut patrem in confinio mortis decumbentem⁷ visitaret; Sanctus vero Samson dolore commotus, ait, “Potens est Deus, absque me, ægrotantem sanare.” Tandem Abbatibus precibus convictus legatos remisit, et se venturum

Ad hanc vocem diaconus perterritus equum dimisit, et pallium suum projiciens, in fugam se convertit. Quem¹ Theomaca² hirsuta³ et cornuta cum lanceâ trisulcatâ per vastas silvas volitans, seminecem prostravit. Beatus vero Samson, intrepidus progrediens, et Theomacam a longe fugientem aspiciens, clamavit post eam, dicens; “In nomine Jesu Christi, impero tibi, expecta et loquere mihi.” Cui ille dixit, “Quis es tu?” Illa respondit, “Theomaca sum; nam parentes mei hucusque prævaricatores vobis⁴ extitere; et nemo in⁵ hac silvâ remansit nisi ego de meo genere. Habeo octo sorores, et matrem, quæ adhuc vivunt, et in ulteriore silvâ degunt; et ego marito tradita sum in hac heremo; sed quia mortuus est recedere de hac silvâ nequeo.” Cui Sanctus Samson ait, “Potesne fratrem quem percussisti, redivivum reddere, et a malo declinare?” Respondit, “Nec illum possum sanare, nec in melius reparari; quia ab infantia semper male vixi.” Beatus Samson dixit, “In nomine Jesu Christi, præcipio tibi ne amplius hominibus noceas, sed citissimè ab hac vita discedas.” Quæ statim saltum dans præcipitem, corruit, et expiravit. Sanctus Samson reversus ad fratrem pene mortuum, more Helisei,⁶ os ori, ac membra membris composuit; et sic illum sanitati restituit. Itaque cœptum iter perrexerunt, et die tertiâ ad Ammonen pervenerunt. Ammon vero ut eos vidit, cum ingenti lætitiâ dixit, Partem substantiarum, partem¹ pauperibus erogavit, partem ad monasterium construendum commisit, partem matris et fratrum usui concessit. Ordinatis omnibus per gratiam Sancti Spiritûs, assumptis patre et patruale, per aliam quam venerat viam, ad suum monasterium reversus est. Per eandem quoque viam serpentem miræ magnitudinis reperit, quem solo sermone prostravit. Cumque ad monasterium redirent, Dubricium Episcopum, initiante quadragesima, ibi commanentem² invenit. Episcopus autem ad se diaconum convocans, et ab eo cuncta, quæ gesta fuerunt in via condiscens, maximo cum honore sanctum Samsonem et socios suos suscepit, et eodem die Sanctum Samsonem Cellerarium illius loci constituit. Ille vero ac si jussus³ esset divinitûs, cum magna diligentia servivit fratribus, et in quantum potuit, ministravit pauperibus; sed frater qui ante eum erat in eodem ministerio, ejus operibus bonis invidens, dicebat Sanctum Samsonem omnia in effusionem fenerasse,⁴ et lenternas⁵ melle⁶ plenas indecenter evacuasse. Quod Episcopus audiens, et rei veritatem scire cupiens, cellarium intravit. Quod beatus Samson per Spiritum sanctum agnoscens, lenternas,⁵ quas evacuaverat, signum crucis composuit, et easdem Episcopus plenas reperit. Episcopus autem admirans, Samsonem Spiritu Sancto

Post hæc, paucis interjacentibus diebus, Piro morte prævento,¹ Sanctus Samson ad Abbatem illius monasterii ab omnibus est electus; obediente vero² illo, non voluntariè, primatum anno tertio et dimidio illius congregationis tenuit. Postea vero quam peritissimi Scoti, Roma revertentes, ad eum venerunt; quos perscrutans sapientes agnovit; et Episcopo permittente, cum illis ad patriam illorum abiit; ibique³ aliquantulum demorans, ab omnibus religiosus ut angelus⁴ receptus est. Cæcos illuminavit, leprosos mundavit, dæmones ex hominibus fugavit, et cunctis viam salutis monstravit. Cumque in arce demoraretur, volens ad patriam reverti, et navis jam parata inveniebatur; et ut navim ascendit a nautis præcabatur; quibus ipse respondit, “Opera Dei prius faciemus, quam ab hac provincia navigemus.” Nautæ vero ad iracundiam provocati, carbasa suspendebant. Quibus ipse ait, “Ite in pace; hodie reversuri; et simul erimus cras ituri.” Euntibus vero illis, ecce quidam venit ad eum rogans ut proximum monasterium visitaret; dicens, “Abbatem nostrum Diabolus invasit, et alligatum tenet; qui te videre desiderat.” Sanctus Samson cum illo perrexit, et eum alligatum reperit; qui in occursum ejus magna voce clamavit, “En quem semper quæsi! En quem videre tota devotione desideravi.” Orante Sancto Samsone, sanitati redditus est. Energuminus⁵ monasterium relinquens, Sanctum Samsonem secutus est. Benedictis in monasterio fratribus, abiit, et ad portum navim jam reversam, sicut prædixit invenit. Manè cum sociis navim conscendit, et prospero vento, insulam, in qua prius habi-

Sumens itaque patrum Umbrafelem, præbyteratûs officio jam perfunctum, ad monasterium in Hibernia Abbatem misit; in quo priorem² a Diabolo liberavit. Beatus vero Samson, cum Ammone, et supradicto Abbate, et quodam fratre præbytero, vastissimum heremum adiit; ac juxta Habrinum flumen tugurium et in eo fontem dulcissimum reperit; ibique fratrem cum duobus sociis collocavit. Ipse interius³ heremum progrediens secretissimum specum invenit, ostiumque ejus ad orientem situm, eumque quasi a Deo præparatum adamavit, et in eo fontis venam⁴ precibus promeruit; ubi soli Deo sine intermissione vacabat, versutias temporis non timebat, angelorum⁵ assuetus colloquio, per quos se commendabat Altissimo per cunctos⁶ vero⁷ dominicarum dies, tres fratres quos visitabat in heremo collocavit, et communionem ab eis accipiebat. Facta itaque sinodo,⁸ ac percunctantibus⁹ terræ principibus ubinam Sanctus Samson habitaret, affuit quidam qui dicebat se scire speluncam in qua cœlestem vitam ageret. Episcopi vero⁵ ad diem conductum venientes, duos secum ordinandos adducentes ad honorem Sanctæ Trinitatis tres ordinare volebant; sed quem eligerent ad hoc ignorabant. Nocte itaque sequenti, beato Dubricio angelus Domini astitit; eique Sanctum Samsonem⁶ ad Episcopum, ordinare præcepit. Beatus vero Dubricius præ gaudio angelicæ visionis, in unum convenire fecit fratres congregationis, et ovantes, quod ab angelo audierat, exposuit eis; statimque omnes acclamantes Deo gratias egerunt, eumque cum cæteris in cathedrâ episcopali collocaverunt. Omnes ergo qui aderant columbam coelitus emissam, super eum dum consecraretur immobiliter stare videbant. populus super hac visione magna gaudebat, et laudes Deo, Sanctoque Samsoni ex intimis profusas visceribus proclamabat; cui Sanctus Samson præcepit ut monasterium propè antrum constituerit.¹ Ipse vero interim in antro, jejuniis et orationibus incumbibat; ubi fontis venam precibus promeruit; quæ usque hodie fluere non desinit. Cumque populus monasterium perfecisset, et hoc beatus Samson dedicasset, patrem suum Ammonem, et cum eo consobrinum suum in eodem constituit. Ipse in Britanniam, cum suis, Deo ducente, navigavit. Cum in portum pervenisset, atque de navi descendisset, vidit juxta portum tugurium, et in eo² quendam privatum³ miserabiliter plorantem; semperque ad mare aspicientem; cui Samson ait, “Frater, quid ploras?” Qui dixit ei, “Uxorem habeo leprosam in hac mansione, et “filiam dæmoniacam, quas mihi Dominus sanare promisit “per quendam transmarinum; quem triduo hic expectans, “spero venturum in hunc portum.” Beatus vero Samson hoc audiens, atque cum eo domum suam introiens, super eas⁴ supplex oravit, sanitatique restituit. In eadem itaque mansione aptissimum reperit locum, in quo honorificum construxit monasterium, quod usque hodie Dolum nuncupatur; ubi plurima insignia virtutum miracula fecit, atque⁵ per provincias multa monasteria construxit. His namque diebus Comes Commotus⁶ externus,⁷ sævus et infaustus, omnibus Britannis præerat, qui Jonam Britannorum indigenam Comitem occiderat, filium ejus Judualum⁸ regi Hildeberto et reginæ, in captivitate⁹ custodiendum tradiderat.¹⁰ Quo audito, Sanctus Samson miseræ eorum condoluit, et ad regem Hildebertem festinanter perrexit; cupiens Judualum¹¹

Regina vero cum Judualum⁵ vinctum in sua captivitate teneret, et eum dimittere nollet, beatum Samsonem precibus ejus obsistendo, verbisque contumeliosis concrepando, irritavit, et ut eum perderet, mortiferum sibi poculum præparavit. Cumque Rex, et beatus Archiepiscopus ad epulandum consedisent, et omnes qui aderant de ejus adventu gratulassent, Regina (instigante diabolo) in vitro venenum vino miscuit, et beato Samsoni ad bibendum per suum ministrum obtulit.⁶ Tum ille, divinitus nimirum inspiratus, vitro signum crucis imposuit; vitrum vero⁷ in quatuor partes crepuit, et effuso super manu tenentis veneno, cunctis intuentibus, usque ad ossa corrosa est cutis et caro. In eodem namque loco monasterium construxit, et in eo fratres Christo servituros collocavit. Denique Rex Hildebertus, pro tam magnis virtutibus beatum Samsonem plurimum adamavit, sibique ingentia gratanter dona tribuens, in auro (scilicet) et argento, in vasibus pretiosis, in prædiis, et in possessionibus plurimis, se suisque⁹ orationibus commendavit. CAPITULA LUNDONIENSIS CONCILII CELEBRATI PER JOHANNEM, PRÆBYTERUM CARDINALEM ET LEGATUM ROMANÆ ECCLESIE, IN PRÆSENTIA WILLELMI CANTUARIENSIS ARCHIEPISCOPI ET OMNIUM COMPROVINCIALIUM EPISCOPORUM.

Sanctorum patrum vestigiis inhærentes, quemquam in ecclesia per pecuniam ordinari, auctoritate apostolicâ¹ prohibemus. Interdicimus etiam ut pro crismate, pro oleo, pro baptismate, et pœnitentia, pro visitatione infirmorum, seu unctione, pro communionem corporis Christi, pro sepultura nullum omnino prætium exigatur. Statuimus præterea, et apostolica auctoritate decernimus, ut in consecrationibus Episcoporum, vel Abbatum benedictionibus, seu in dedicationibus ecclesiarum, non cappa, non tapete, non manutergium, non bacinia,² et nihil omnino per violentiam, nisi sponte oblatum fuerit, penitens exigatur. Nullus Abbas, nullus Prior, nullus omninò Monachus vel Clericus ecclesiam, sive decimam, seu quælibet beneficia ecclesiastica, de dono laici, sine proprii episcopi auctoritate, et assensu, suscipiat. Quod si præsumptum fuerit, irrita erit donatio hujuscemodi, et ipse canonicæ ultioni subjacebit. Sanximus præterea ne quis ecclesiam sibi, sive præbendam, paterna vendicet hæreditate, aut successorem sibi in aliquo ecclesiastico constituat beneficio. Quod si præsumptum fuerit, nullas vires habere permittimus; dicentes cum Psalmista, “Deus meus, “pone illos ut rotam, qui dixerunt, hæreditatem possideamus sanctuarium Dei.”³ Adjicientes quoque statuimus, ut clerici, qui ecclesias seu beneficia habent ecclesiarum, et ordinari quo liberius juvant, et⁴ subterfugiunt cum ad episcopis invitati fuerunt, si ad ordines promoveri contempser-

LECTIONES DE VITA SANCTI DUBRICII.

I. Quidam Rex fuit Erychi regionis, Pepiau nomine, Clavorauc² vocatus Britannicè, Latinè vero Spumosus, qui super inimicos suos ivit in expeditionem; et inde rediens præcepit filiæ suæ Eurdil³ ut ablueret sibi caput; quod cum conaretur, percepit ex ipsius gravitate, fuisse prægnantem; unde Rex iratus, jussit illam includi in utre quadam, et præcipitari in fluvium, ut quodcunque sors voluisset deferetur. Quod è contrario evenit; nam quoties ponebatur in flumine, toties⁴ (administrante Deo) impellebatur ad ripam. Inde pater indignans, quam⁵ non potuit submergere fluctibus, destinavit⁶ igne comburi. Præparatur itaque rogus, in quem filia viva¹ intruditur. Mane autem facto, missis legatis a patre scitum siquid ossium natæ residuum foret, eam invenerunt tenentem filium in gremio, quem pepererat² ad saxum, quod ibidem positum est in testimonium miræ nativitatis³ pueri; locus autem a vulgo Matle appellatur, eo quod in eo natus fuisset beatus homo. Hoc audito a patre, jussit adduci filiam cum filio. Et postquam ad eum pervenerunt, materno⁴ affectu (ut solet fieri) amplexatus est infantem, et eum deosculans, ex instabilitate infantis faciem avi palpitabat, et os, nec sine divino nutu. Nam ex contactu manuum infantis, ab incurabili morbo, quo laborabat, curatus est; spumam enim ab ore incessanter emittebat, quam duo clientes, sine alicujus intervallo, vix extergere poterant manutergiis.

II. Qui postquam se curatum tactu infantis cognovit, gavisus est nimium; ut aliquis positus in naufragio cum pervenerit ad portum; et in primo, ut leo rugiens, postea versus est in agnum; et super omnes natos, et nepotes cœpit diligere infantem, et de loco illo Matle (scilicet mat bonus, le locus; inde Matle, hoc est bonus locus) fecit illum hæreditarium cum tota insula; sumpto sibi nomine a matre Eurdil, id est, Inis Eurdil, quæ ab aliis vocatur Mais Mail Lecheu.⁵ Et ab illa hora crevit in ætate, et in tempore scientiæ, missus ad studium literarum, hilaris cum magna devotione; et quamvis puer ætate, vir maturus statim, cum magna⁶ prudentia et scientiæ eloquentia. Et postquam vir effectus est corpore, ætate, et sapientia, crevit illius fama cum utriusque legis novæ et veteris peritia, per totam Britanniam; ita quod ex omni parte totius Britannis scholares veniebant; non tantum rudes, sed etiam viri sapientes et Et cum his mille Clericos, per septem annos continuos, in podo Hennlann super ripam Guy, in studio litterarum divinæ sapientiæ et humanæ retinuit; exemplum eis præbens in semetipso religiosæ vitæ, et caritatis perfectæ.

III. Et per aliud spatium in nativitatibus suæ solo, hoc est Inis Eurdil, eligens locum unum in angulo illius insulæ opportunum silva et piscibus super ripam Guy, cum suis innumerabilibus discipulis mansit, per plures annos, regendo studium; nomen loco imponens Mochros; moch, id est porci; ros, hoc est locus. Mochros, Britannico sermone, Locus Porcorum interpretatur.¹ Meritò locus porcorum, quia præcedente nocte apparuit ei angelus per somnium, dicens ei, "Locum quem proposuisti, et elegisti, in crastino vide "ut circumeas per totum; et ubicunque inveneris suem "albi coloris cubantem cum suis porcellis, ibi funda et "conde, in nomine Sanctæ Trinitatis, habitaculum simul "et oraculum." Homo Dei excitatus a somno memor angelici præcepti, ut solito, statim locum cum² suis discipulis circumvixit;³ et ut vox angelica ei promiserat, sus albi coloris cum suis porcellis de loco isto ante illos prosiluit; et ibi profecto oraculum⁴ simul et habitaculum fundavit, et circumscripsit; et ibi per plures annos regulariter vixit, prædicans et docens clerum et populum; radiante ejus doctrina per totam Britanniam, ut lucerna super candelabrum, sine aliqua pravi dogmatis macula, sinceram fidem tota gens Britannica conservavit.

IV. Cum beatus vir clareret in doctrinâ largita sibi, nobili parentela simul et patenti facundia, crevit in patria ejus virtus,¹ crevit populo paradisi introitus; cum labor crescebat in corpore, plus gaudebat pro tanto onere, expectans retributionem in atrio cœlestis patriæ. Sanabantur ægroti ejus manûs impositione, curabantur a multiplici ægrota-tione; et ut quiddam de multis enarrem, vir beatæ memoriæ Dubricius visitavit locum beati Ilduti, tempore quadagesimali, ut quæ emendanda erant corrigeret, et servanda consolidaret. Ibidem enim multi sanctissimi viri conversabantur, multi quodam livore decepti,² inter quos frater Samson morabatur filius Amon; qui meruit ab eodem prædicto patre, die suæ ordinationis apud sedem episcopalem, diaconatûs primo, præbyteratûs secundo, pontificatûs tertio, ut alba columba in capite suo descenderet, quæ visa fuit a beato Archiepiscopo, et ab Abbate Ilduto, spatio toto ordinationis suæ. Domus beati Ilduti divisa inter fratres, divisæque res ecclesiasticæ prout unicuique opus erat, divisæque ministeria fratribus; obedientia quidem cellarii concessa est a postulatoribus suis, beato Samsoni, qui die ac nocte ad sufficientiam serviebat clero, verum³ etiam placebat communi populo.

V. Quadam die, cum omnia pocula erogaverat hospitibus, evacuatis cellarii vasibus⁴ omnibus, et o) tantam lætitiâ adventûs domini Dubritii, et familiæ suæ, propalatum est cuidam invidenti, quod cellarius funditûs devastaverat potus; nam ipse idem potitus fuerat eadem obedientia, et ablata sibi invidebat fratri Samsoni, pro sua manu largiflua. VI. Confugientibus populis ex solito, ad beatum virum Dubritium, et recuperantibus sanitatem animarum et corporum; advenit quidam⁵ potens vir, regali prosapiâ procreatus, Guidgentiuai, orans, et flexis genibus, ut filiam suam Arganhell captam a dæmone liberaret,⁶ quæ in tantum vexabatur quod vir, funibus ligatis manibus, vix poterat eam retinere,⁷ quin mergeretur flumine, quin comburetur igne, quin consumeret omnia adhærentia dentibus. O quam clarum Deo servire, qui cuncta tenet in suo moderamine, et refrænât ad suum velle! Auditâ prece, pius⁸ pater oravit ad Dominum, et effusis lachrymis procidens in terram, deprecatus est Deum, ut intercessione beati Petri apostolorum principis, omniumque sanctorum, succurreret largienti. Quæ in proximo, præsentia patris sui, et parentum suorum, ruptis funibus, sine macula, evacuato maligno spiritu, cum recuperata sanitate, et plenaria scientia, recepit ex integro pristinam sanitatem, et in omnibus melioratam; quæ statim recognovit suam fragilitatem, inflato Sancto Spiritu, postposuit sæculum, et servato pudore virginitatis, permanens sub refugio sancti viri, vitam duxit in melius, et finivit.

Episcopum vestrum, benignè¹ suscepimus; et oppressionem vestræ ecclesiæ audientes, debita ei affectione compassimus; siquidem insinuavit nobis matrem vestram Landavensem ecclesiam usque adeo² monachorum quorundam, clericorum, necnon et laicorum invasionibus et rapinis attritam, ut in ea Episcopus manere vix possit. Quod profecto et nobis grave est, et ad vestrarum³ spectat periculum animarum. Vestram itaque universitatem literis præsentibus visitantes, monemus, atque præcipimus ut eundem fratrem nostrum affectione debita diligatis, et debitam ei (tanquam patri et pastori vestro) reverentiam et obedientiam impendatis. Porro commissam sibi ecclesiam, in matrem vestram, sicut⁴ boni filii adjuvare, et ablatas ei possessiones et bona recuperare, secundum datam vobis a Domino facultatem viriliter studeatis, aliis quoque ecclesiis Landavensis parochiæ debita persolventes revelationis et restorationis eis manum apponere procuretis;⁵ per hoc enim, et omnipotentis Dei benedictionem, et gratiam et remissionem vestrorum consequemini peccatorum. DE VITA SANCTI TELIAUI, LANDAVENSIS ECCLESIAE ARCHIEPISCOPI.

I. Sanctus iste, fratres charissimi, ab infantia Dei cultor extitit; nec mirum, cum ante infantiam eum futurum sibi servum Deus prædestinasset; prædestinavit quem elegit, elegit quem dilexit, dilectumque veræ confessionis palmâ coronavit. Militavit itaque vir Dei, Deo orationibus insistendo, omniaque quæ possidebat indigentibus erogando. Quid amplius? Sex opera,¹ et misericordiæ diligenter exequutus, nunquam Dei famulus ab ecclesiasticis vacabat institutis; omnia sua faciebat non sua, et quæ non erant sua, faciebat sua. Nichil enim reliqui sibi de suo relinquens, bene caduca pro æternis cambiebat.² O quantus, et qualis mercator, qui sua Deo dabat, ut ab eo centuplum acciperet! O commercium pretiosum! O usura laudabilis! O fœnus sine crimine! O lucrum sine reprehensione! Lucremur igitur sic nosmetipsos, fratres, ut lucrum non perdant³ fœneratores. O quantæ sapientiæ, et scientiæ virum, qui sua aliis distribuebat, ut ditesceret; seipsum macerabat ut alios impinguesceret, aliorum miserebatur⁴ ut misericordiam consequeretur! Talia equidem constat sancti viri fuisse rudimenta, in quibus perseverabat sine intermissione, usque in consummationem vitæ. Egregius igitur⁵ confessor fuit, qui propter virtutes, quod confiteretur non habuit. Quippe bonus in infantia, in juventute melior, in senectute optimus.

II. Sed ne tanti viri genus taceatur, quasi nescitum, ex nobilibus illum parentibus scimus fuisse ortum, ut carnis nobilitas honestaret eum inter homines, qui jam animi nobilitate apud Deum erat acceptabilis. Post¹ incrementum autem ætatis, virtutum et sapientiæ congruo nomine Elios a sapientibus nuncupatus est, Elios autem² Græcè, Latinè Sol interpretatur: fulgebat enim ut Sol ejus doctrina fidelium illustrando doctrinam. Sed illiteratis hominibus extremum vocabuli corruptè proferentibus, adolevit quod non Elios, sed Eliud appellatus est. A Sancto autem Dubricio Archipræsule,³ cujus proximus successor extitit, legimus illum in pueritia in Sacris Scripturis fuisse eruditum, donec eum tandem vidit tantæ indolis puerum, ut non solum illum crederet seipso in scientia non esse inferiorem, sed (Spiritu Sancto cooperante) Scripturarum nodos melius per se, quam aliquo sibi magistrante expediebat. Quo viro Sanctus Dubricius, qui hucusque fuerat suus præceptor, quique jam intelligebat se non posse sibi magistrari, voluit ut sibi succederet in magisterio, cum eum excederet doctrinâ et ingenio.

III. Sed tanta gratia eum comitabatur, tantusque eum studii sacræ lectionis fervor incandebat, ut ille qui jam aliis magistrari poterat, et adhuc magistrum quærebat; tum quia sub alterius malebat esse disciplina, quam dissolutè vivere, tum etiam quia mysterium et subtilitates Scripturarum volebat intelligere; sed non more stultorum philosophorum, ut alios confunderet, imo ut hæreticorum errores confundere posset. Confudit itaque multorum hæreses, multorumque correxit errores.

IV. Plusque simpliciter et catholicè, tam argumentando profuit fidelibus, quam suis subtilibus argumentis fecisset unquam aliquis philosophus. Illi enim, viam quærentes, semper deviabant; ille vero viam veritatis nunquam præteribat, sed per eam gradens, quasi lucernâ præeunte, nullo eum impediante, ad eum qui est verum lumen tendebat. Quippe per eum gradiebatur, qui est via; et ab eo docebatur, qui est sapientia. Deinde audita sibi Paulini cujusdam sapientis viri¹ fama, eum adivit, et apud eundem aliquamdiu moratus, siqua eum Scripturarum secreta prius laterent, conferendo ad invicem, omnia sanè exposita intelligebant. Ibique Sanctum Davidem, perfectissimæ vitæ hominem, sibi associavit. Quos tanta conjunxit dilectio, et Spiritûs Sancti gratia, quod in agendis rebus, idem velle, et idem nolle esse² ambobus. Ecce, fratres charissimi,³ qualiter Deus sanctos suos adunat in terris, quos futuros eligit cives in cœlis; eligit duos, ut per duos eligeret plures. O beata duorum vita, per quam multorum animæ habuerunt refrigeria!

V. In illorum autem Sanctorum diebus, quidam populi de Scythia, qui sive a pictis vestibis, sive propter oculorum stigmata, Picti dicebantur, innumera classe ad Britanniam devenerunt; et capti amore terræ potiundæ, propter bonarum rerum copiam qua super omnes insulas tunc temporis pollebat, magis fraude quam viribus Britannos invaserunt, et in eos miram tyrannidem ad tempus⁴ exercuerunt. Nec mirum istam superari ab illa; nam Picta gens erat subdola, et multis confictionibus terra et mari exercitata; ista autem quamvis viribus corporis esset prædita, tamen simplex et pacifica; et quia nondum esset a quoquam tentata,⁵ quasi bellandi nescia, lævius subjugari potuit. Siquis autem plenius scire desiderat, in Historia GILDÆ Britannorum Historiographi reperiet.

VI. Cumque quidam illius nefariæ gentis princeps trucidando miseros incolas, et comburendo ædes et templa sanctorum, a navalibus appulerat¹ usque Minuensem² civitatem processisset; ibi constitit, ibique suum palatium construxit. Qui videns Sancti Teliaui, Davidis, aliorumque servorum Dei, qui cum illis ibidem degebant, vitæ probitatem, sicut pravorum semper consuetudo est bonis invidere, non solum illis invidebat, sed etiam quia illos tam attentos in Dei servitio videret, multa eis opprobria sæpe dicebat, ut sic eos a Christo separaret. Sed quia minis et verbis turpibus quod volebat efficere non potuit multis machinationibus eos tentare conatus, vidit se nullo modo commodius quam per muliebres blanditias illud efficere posse.

VII. Præcepit itaque mulieri suæ, ut ad sanctos suas pedisequas³ dirigeret, et sanctorum visibus se offerrent;⁴ ut fatuis motibus sui corporis, et meretriciis blandimentis, sanctorum mentes a sancto proposito conarentur pervertere. Quæ, dum dominæ suæ exequendo mandata, se quasi insanas esse simularent, insanæ factæ sunt. Quippe quia, sicut dicitur, "qui in sordibus est, dignus est ut magis sordescat." Quo viso, prædictus persecutor, et tota domus sua, per gratiam servorum Dei catholicam fidem susceperunt, et ab eisdem in Christi nomine baptizati sunt. Beatus itaque fuit qui scienter persequeretur justos, ut nescienter justus efficeretur, sanctos tentabat, ut sanctus fieret; litigabat⁵ cum hominibus, ut cum Deo reconciliaretur; despiciebat humiles, ut humilitatem diligeret.

VIII. ¹Postquam vero Deus illas impudicas mulieres tali immedicabili opprobrio deturpavit, eosdem sanctos per aliud opus mirabile, et dignum memoratu, decoravit. Nam cum beatus Teliausus et Maidocus in atrio monasterii non figmenta poetarum, nec veterum historias legerent, imo Jeremiæ prophetæ Lamentationes, ut amore cœlestis patriæ magis accenderentur; supervenit quidam famulus, dicens, ligna deesse, quibus cœna fratrum præparari posset. Illi autem hoc ægrè ferentes, non quia in obsequio fratrum pigritarent, sed quia ad præparandam² confratrum cœnam tempestivè de silva non possent reverti; nimia festinatione perrexerunt ad nemora. Quibus graviter sollicitantibus qualiter cito redirent, et qualiter tantum lignorum possent deferre, quod in multos dies sufficere posset ad opus præparandorum, quatenus postea sacræ lectioni et orationibus diutius possent insistere; duo bijuges cervi mansuetissimi occurrerunt, et colla præbentes ad subjugandum (Dei nutu³) servitium præbuerunt, quasi dicerent, “Deus videns quare sollicitè sitis,⁴ exiit nobis ferocitatem nostram, et fecit nos mansueta pecora, ut laborem quem vos initis subeamus.” Quibus subjugatis, laudabant Dominum, dicentes, “Benedictus Deus, et pater Domini Jesu Christi, qui misericorditer servos suos pro fratribus respexit laborantes, faciendo mansueta pecora de feris silvarum, quæ nostri laboris sarcinam sustinerent.”

IX. Cumque sancti, onerato plaustro, domum redirent, non (secundum hominum consuetudinem) oneratos cervos stimulabant ut citius incederent, immo illos a longe præcedebant; cervi vero, nullo cogente⁵ sequebantur.⁶ Et ne amplius eorum oratio interrumpere, pro hujusmodi ne-

gotio, eadem feræ,¹ multo tempore post (Deo instimulante) ligna eis administrabant, et² eaque quæ sanctorum usui necessaria forent. Quis dubitat igitur tales fuisse sanctos, pro quibus Deus ministrare cogebat cervos? Alii quidem feras occidere possunt; sed ita mansuescere non possunt. Appropinquantibus autem illis ad locum suum,³ omnes illius loci incolæ occurrerunt eis dicentes, “O divini fratres, quam manifestè hodie illustrati estis divina gratia, quibus “irrationibiles feræ¹ famulantur! Nos vero infelices, qui “sanctis non obedivimus, donec per⁴ bruta animalia mone-“mur⁵ obedire.” Interea Sanctus David, exiens de tabernaculo suo, ante hostium⁶ tabernaculi, librum nescienter a fratribus derelictum, invenit apertum; et quamvis vehementissimè plueret a pluvia prorsus immunem. Quod admirans, ait, “Mirabilis Deus in sanctis suis, et sanctus in “operibus suis.”⁷ Continuo, quia bonum non suffocari, sed semper dilatari debet, advocavit seniores populi, ut videntes magnalia Dei, voverunt⁸ Domino preces et vota, et ut propalaret⁹ sanctitatem fratrum suorum hominibus, quia Deus liberaverat librum eorum ab imbribus.

Hi ut magis, magisque per virtutem Christi florerent miraculis, sicut Deus Israelitico populo sitiendi aquam de petra manare fecit, sic sanctis sitientibus novos fontes jussit oriri; et ut a veteribus illius loci ab¹⁰ incolis accepimus, de illis fontibus potantes non aquam, sed vinum, pro tam dulci sapore potavisse asserebant. His mirificis operibus quæ divina virtus operabatur pro illis, infra curriculum temporis, ut boni meriti celebrabantur ubique. Deus autem videns eos tot decoratos esse virtutibus, judicavit eos promovendos esse ex ecclesiasticis dignitatibus; misit enim angelum su-um ad sanctos, qui nuntiaret eundem eis esse ad sanctam civitatem Jerusalem, et ibi suæ militiæ donativa reciperent. Sancti vero, Teliaus videlicet et David, Deo suo per omnia obedientes, non sunt ausi resistere divino nutui, sed Paternum (virum Deo charum) sibi associantes, tres in Trinitatis nomine injunctum sibi iter inceperunt, sed non (ut multi peregrinorum faciunt) multa adunata pecunia, imo sine baculo, et pera, sperantes potius in Illum, qui “dat jumentis “escam ipsorum, et pullis corvorum invocantibus eum.”¹ Nec frustra sperantes; Deus enim, per fideles suos, cuncta eis necessaria ministrabat in tempore. Illustrati siquidem erant luce cœlestis gratiæ; ita ut eorum adventus cunctis esset acceptabilis,² præsentia sanitatem præberet infirmis. Reliquerunt itaque per diversas provincias suæ sanctitatis vestigia, cunctorum sibi observantium alleviando³ dolores, si in Christi nomine infirmitatis suæ rogarent medelam, et in ejusdem virtute sperarent recuperare possent sanitatem. Cumque persecutores in via obsisterent, non tantum spolia illis pacificè concedebant, sed siquid prædæ ipsi immemores relinquerent, prædatoribus hilari vultu porrigebant. Illi autem videntes sanctorum bonam simplicitatem, veniam supplicando commissorum, non tantum reddebant eis sua, sed eos conducebant, usque dum pervenirent ad tuta. Sic de ignotis fiebant noti, et de⁴ persecutoribus summi efficiebantur amici. Consummato tandem tanti itineris cursu, Hierosolymam⁵ pervenerunt. Quibus civitatem introeuntibus, occurrit eis omnis populus, psallendo in canticis, et hymnis⁶ super adventu eorum; et ita cum celebri pompa conducti sunt in templum Domini. Qui, quamvis tanto itinere defatigati fuissent, non mollia strata quæsierunt, ubi quiescerent, sed in nudo templi pavimento prostrati, triduo preces suas continuaverunt, adeo cœlestia contemplantes, quod terrenorum penitens erant immemores. Interea totus clerus attentè expectabat, qui sanctorum quam sedem oratione finita sibi eligerent, ut in electione sedium notarent (sicut cœlitus per angelum præmoniti fuerant) quem illorum cæteris prælatum constituerent. Erant enim in templo, ab antiquis temporibus, tres cathedræ senioribus constitutæ; duæ diversis metallis, et miro artificio fabricatæ; tertia cedrina, nichil ornati habens extrinsecus, præter hoc quod natura dederat. Quam humilem humilis Eliud elegit sibi in sedem, prætiosiores concedens fratribus, propter reverentiam. Quo viso, omnes illi qui aderant, ceciderunt in facies suas ante Sanctum Eliud, dicentes, “Salve, Sancte¹ Teliaue! et concede ut valeant nobis tuæ preces apud Dominum; quia “hodie plus cæteris sublimatus es confratribus tuis, residens “in sede Domini nostri Jesu Christi, in qua patribus nostris “prædicabat regnum Dei.” Sanctus vero hoc audiens, cum magno stupore surrexit, et prostavit se in terram, dicens, “Beatus vir, qui non abiit in consilio impiorum, et in via “peccatorum non stetit, et in cathedra pestilentiae non “dit.”² Et benedictus Salvator, qui sibi sedem fieri elegit de ligno, qui per lignum succurrere voluit pereunti mundo. Sic humilis humiliter adorabat³ cathedram, immo cathedræ sessorem; eo quod creatura consideratur Creatoris sedem.⁴ Unde contigit quod eum rogaverunt, quatenus ad instructionem virtutum parabolam eis diceret de Christo, ut sicut⁵ illum imitatus fuerat in cathedra residendo, eum imitaretur in prædicando. Qui videns amorem divini verbi flagrare in cordibus eorum, miro modo sollicitabatur; non quod nesciret quid doceret, sed dubitabat quod rogaverant, qualiter eis expediret cum linguæ eorum penitùs expers fuisset. Incepit tamen¹ Sanctus Sacras Scripturas exponere, ut satisfaceret supplicanti populo, ita ut unusquisque circumstantium audirent illum sua lingua loquentem. Omnes autem qui eum audiebant prædicantem, tanta dulcedine sermonis illius sunt affecti, quod in quantum eum diutius audirent, magis magisque illum audire desiderarent. Sed tandem, postquam refecti sunt universi saporifera illius doctrina, ne prædicandi officium videretur præsumere, si solus prædicasset, ait populo, “Audite jam a fratribus meis verba vitæ, qui me perfectiores sunt in vita, et diligentiores in doctrina.” Surrexerunt itaque Sanctus David, et humillimus Dei servus Paternus, et prædicaverunt populo, in Domino confidentes, qui dicit, “Cum veneritis ante reges et præsides nolite cogitare quomodo, aut quid loquamini, dabitur enim vobis in illa hora quid loquamini.”² Sic sancti alterna sua prædicatione, quasi diversis ferculis, audientium mentes reficiebant, ut siqui eorum prius in fide vacillarent, Sanctæ Trinitatis fidem, per gratiam prædicationis sanctorum perfectissimè tenerent. Post hæc, sicut nuntiatum fuerat per angelum, ab universa plebe electi, sublimati sunt pontificali dignitate; Teliaus vice Petri, David vice Jacobi; et quasi in testimonium gratiæ quam ibi (Domino largiente) susceperant, data sunt eis tria munera prætiosa, prout unicuique competebat: Paterno, baculus et choralis cappa, prætiosissimo serico contexta, eo quod illum³ egregium cantorem videbant: Sancto autem David altare mirificum, nulli bene notum, de quâ materiâ fuerit⁴ compositum; nec ab re tale quid ei datum est, nam jucundius cæteris celebrabat:⁵ Novissimè autem beato pontifici Teliauo, non extremum tamen donorum accessit cymbalum¹ magis famosum quam sit magnum; magis prætiosum quam pulchrum, quia dulci sono videtur excellere omne organum; perjuros² damnat,³ infirmos curat, et (quod magis videtur mirabile) singulis horis, nullo⁴ movente, sonabat, donec peccato hominum præpediente, qui illud pollutis manibus temerè tractabant, a tam dulci obsequio cessavit. Nec incongruè tali munere donatus est, quia sicut⁵ cymbalum de corpore⁶ somnii⁷ et inertiae homines invitat ad ecclesiam, sic clarus pontifex Teliaus, Christi præco factus, incessanter prædicando, invitabat ad cælum. His gloriosis donati muneribus, utrinque benedictione accepta, cum summa prosperitate reversi sunt in regionem suam; Sanctusque Teliaus ecclesiae Landaviae, cui consecratus est, curam pastoralem accepit, cum tota parochia sibi adjacente, quæ fuerat Dubricii antecessoris sui; in qua non diu commorari potuit propter pestilentiam, quæ fere totam gentem deleverat. Pestis⁸ autem illa flava vocabatur, eo quod flavos, et exsanguis⁹ efficiebat universos quos persequabatur: quæ in columna aquosæ nubis apparebat hominibus, unum caput verrens per terram, aliud sursum¹⁰ trahens per aerem, et discurrens per totam regionem, ad modum imbris¹¹ discurrentis per ima convalium. Quæcunque autem animantia suo pestifero afflatu attingeret, aut illicò moriebantur, aut ægrotabant in mortem. Siquis vero medelam conaretur adhibere ægrotanti, non tantum medicamina non habebant suum effectum, sed etiam medicantem cum ægroto atra lues trahebat ad interitum. des, ut per totam illam gentem, quod patriam pene reddidit desertam. Interea dum ista persecutio sæviret, non tantum in hominibus, sed etiam in feris, et in reptilibus, Sanctus Teliaus in jejunio, et planctu clamabat ad Dominum; dicens, “Parce, Domine, parce populo tuo, qui non vis mortem peccatoris, sed vitam; et ne des hæreditatem tuam in perditionem.” Deinde ira Dei ad tempus pacata,¹ oratione ejus, aliorumque sanctorum, cœlitùs admonitus est, et² cum his qui residui fuerant de gente, recessit in longinquas regiones; quorum quidam perrexerunt in Hiberniam; plures vero, ducente eo, in Franciam; donec Deus eis innuerit reditum in patriam. Et factum est, ita dicente angelo, et jubente ad Sanctum Teliaum,³ “Surge, et vade ultra mare, et congrega reliquias⁴ gentis tuæ, ut te sequantur, donec Deus, misericordia plenus, respiciens miseriam gentis, et te famulum Dei laborantem pro gente precibus et oratione, concesserit, semota persecutione eis et vobis de exilio reverti, et ab omni hujusmodi periculo in perpetuum liberari.” Et iterum ait angelus, “Perge nichil hæsitans, comitetur enim angelus Domini, tecum eundo, et redundo; et reducet te, cum tuis sequacibus, iterum ad tuam regionem cum prosperitate.” Surrexit igitur Sanctus Teliaus, adducens secum quosdam suffraganeos episcopos suos, et cæterorum⁵ ordinum viros, cum utriusque sexûs hominibus, viris et mulieribus; et devenit primitùs ad Cornubiensem regionem, et bene susceptus est a Gerennio Rege illius patriæ, et tractavit illum et suum populum cum omni honore. Et inde, his peractis, perrexit sanctus cum suis comitibus, ad Armoricas gentes, et benè continuo susceptus est ab eis. Audiente Samsone, Dolensis ecclesiæ Archiepiscopo, adventum confratris sui in patriam, occurrit ei cum gaudio, nam de una regione procreati fuerant, et unius linguæ viri, et simul cum beato Dubricio Archipræsule edocti, et cujus manus impositione Sanctus Samson consecratus est in Episcopum,¹ ut in Vita sua testatur;² rogavitque Sanctum Teliium, ut cum illo habitasset, et adquevit ei, et cum eo commoratus est multo tempore, et ibi reliquit quædam patrocina suæ sanctitatis, id est, fontem sanifluum, Cai nomine, quem ipse meruit a Domino derivare.³ Et inter cætera sanitatum quas infirmi de illo impetrant in Dei nomine, et Teliui, unum inclitum⁴ miraculum permanet ibi usque hodie. Nam nautæ illius gentis Armoricæ, propter ventum consuetum ad naves illorum, ut in directum navigare possint ad rectum iter ubi velint, consuetum habent illum salvificum fontem purgare; et sæpius ac sæpius per interventum⁵ Sancti Pontificis, Dominus largitur precarium illorum, id est ventum ad velum navigii, ut cum gaudio gradientur per æquoreum iter, ubi sibi velle videatur.⁶ Et aliud patrociniū sui testimonii ibi reliquit: Ipse enim, et prædictus Sanctus Samson plantaverunt magnum nemus arboreti frugiferi,⁷ quasi ad tria milliaria, id est, a Dol usque in Cai, et decorantur ipsa nemora ex eorum nomine, usque in hodiernum diem; vocantur enim Arboreta Teliui, et Samsonis. tempore et deinceps episcopatus Dolensis decoratur et celebratur sub testimonio omnium Armoricorum Brittonum ob conversationem, et reverentiam Sancti Teliaui. Interea dum hæc agerentur, et tractarentur, contigit quod Christus per misericordiam suam præciperet ut prædicta lues, quæ Flava dicebatur, exiret et evanesceret de Britannîâ insulâ totâ. Quo audito, fidelis ductor Teliaus in modicum exhilaratus, et Sancto Spiritu summonitus, et ab utrisque, missis legatis in Franciam, et ultra Alpes in Italiam, et quocunque cognitum sibi erat eos aufugisse, recollegit compatriotas diligenter in unum; ut omnes,¹ extincta pestilentia, cum data pace per omnia, redirent ad propria.² Præparavit igitur naves tres maximas, ad populi turbas transituras. Pervenit sanctus vir, flentibus et lugentibus ob tanti patris discessum, ad maritimum portum; et dum ventum expectarent³ prosperum ad æquorale navigium, ecce Rex terræ, Budic nomine, obiam illi venit, cum magno exercitu Armoricorum. Et statim ipse Rex, et totus suus exercitus genua flexerunt ante eum; et interrogans quidnam hoc esset, respondit ei Rex, “Ad hoc genua fleximus, ut pro me, et pro mea patria Deum roges, propter pestilentiam quam modo sustinemus. Nam ingens vipera apparuit nuper in mea patria, quæ tertiam partem regni mei penè delevit.” Et continuò Sanctus Pontifex hæsitavit; timuit cum⁴ illo ire; ferebantur enim horribillia de illa bestia. Et subito apparuit ei angelus Domini, et confortans eum, ait illi, “Ne timeas exire cum illis; aderit autem⁵ tibi virtus Christi, quæ illam viperam sub tuis manibus consumet; et propter te ipse Redemptor, et Salvator salvet ac⁶ liberet istam totam patriam.” Et sequens angelicum⁷ consilium, Sanctus Præsul ausus est adire illum draconem volucrem, ac¹ pennatum. Et statim coelitus inspiratus, accepit orarium suum, et de eo cinxit ac ligavit ejus collum, et præcepit illi per dominicum præceptum, ut illum sequeretur usque ad mare, et sua venena, ac nefaria flamina cessaret emittere; et denuò pestifera bestia, secundum præceptum Pontificis, mitis ac lenis effecta, nec pennam levavit ad terrenum, nec dentem nudavit ad stridendum, nec linguam erexit² ad emittendum igneum flatum. Et statim pius sacerdos deduxit illam ad mare, trahens post se monstrum enorme per orarium suum ligatum. Et continuò illud in medio tethis ad magnum scopulum in nomine Domini irretinuit. Et hæc videntes Armorici consilium inierunt cum Samsone pontifice, et dixerunt ei,³ “Pater sancte, sit tibi cura⁴ de nobis; nam si nos reliquerit⁵ iste homo Dei, veniet iterum iste serpens, et devastabit nos, et patriam nostram. Placeat igitur tibi illum nobiscum retinere; et hoc rogate precarie, ut adquiescat nobiscum commanere, ne pereamus ex ista clade.” Et hoc audiens pius pater quod tale⁶ consilium inierant Pontifex Samson et Rex Budic, cum populo suo, ut illum cum eis ad tempus precibus retinerent, grave tulit; et in semetipso statuit ad hujusmodi conventum et consilium illis non adquiescere. Et ecce angelus Domini in illa⁷ nocte, apparuit illi, confortans eum, et dicens ei, “Ne dubites cum illis commanere, per te enim erit refugium, et patriæ auxilium, et hoc erit tibi signum quod ad te a Domino missus sum; cras etenim mane⁸ ad te venient Rex et Pontifex prædictus, cum magna frequentia populi sui; et te rogantes suppliciter, et obnixè tibi offerent episcopalem curam, et privi-

“legium totius gentis Armoricæ; et eis adquiesces secundum meum oraculum, accepturus quod ab eis tibi oblatum fuerit ad tempus: interim conveniet gens tua undique adhuc dispersa; et dicas¹ illis, ‘Manebo vobiscum quamdiu Deo placuerit, expectans totius gentis meæ exulatæ conventum.’” Et iterum angelus, “Ecce tibi aliud signum per me a Deo erit monstratum. Nam die crastina obviam tibi habebis Pontificem et Regem, cum frequentia multi populi; ut te deducant honorificè et cum gloria ad episcopalem sedem. Et cum ipsi studuerint offerre præcipuum caballum de suis equis tibi ad sedendum, non consentias, ut illum ab eis omninò suscipias; habebis enim continuè, ad divinæ licentiæ testimonium sonipedem præcipuum per me tibi a Deo missum; et illum ascendens, ovanter et lætanter² ibis cum eis ad Dolensem episcopatum tibi, ad tempus, a Deo præparatum, et prædestinatum.” Igitur hæc omnia impleta fuerunt die postera, sicut angelica promiserant³ afflamina. Nam Rex, et Pontifex, cum multitudine populorum obiaverunt ei, ut illum deducerent cum condigno honore ad episcopatum Dolensem, ut sublimarent illum⁴ in pontificalem sedem; et ecce subito, sicut cœlestis nuntius prædixerat, offerentibus illis præcipuum equum de suis, et illo iterum renuente ab illis accipere, juxta eum apparuit pulcherrimus sonipes, a Deo sibi missus. Et super eum ascendens, venit cum eis usque in Dol; et sicut illi⁵ a Deo fuerat jussum, adquievit cum eis commanere, usque ad præfinitum tempus iterum a Deo Patre. Et in illo articulo temporis, vocavit ad se Regem Budicum, et multa benedictione benedicens eum,⁶ præbuit ei prædictum caballum; et coram omni populo Sanctus Teliaus Episcopus rogavit Deum, et imprecatus est suppliciter, ut milites Armorici fortiores fierent in equitando omnibus gentibus, et inde patriam suam tuerentur, et victoriosè se de inimicis suis ulciscerentur. Et illud Privilegium quod Sanctus Teliaus impetravit a Domino sibi collatum, usque hodie permanet inibi secundum¹ testimonia et commentaria omnium illius patriæ seniorum. Sunt enim Armorici amplius victoriosi in equitando, septies² quam ut essent pedites. Interea dum hæc agerentur, Sanctus Teliaus Episcopus quadam die vocavit ad se familiam suam (hoc est) plebem suæ patriæ; et conferens cum eis affabiliter,³ ad ultimum intulit eis, “Scitis, filioli mei, quia noster Rex Gerenius in magno dolore aggravatur, et (angelo mihi pronunciante) credo illum exiturum, in hac infirmitate, de seculo. “Nam cum veniebam ad istam patriam, transiens per terram suam, illum visitavi, et me meosque quibusdam diebus, hospitando secum, honorificè suscepit. Et pepigi illi, promittens in Domino non visurum se mortem, nec suum ultimum diem, donec corpus Domini a me susciperet, et sic de mundo exiret. Præparate igitur nobis nostram navim, ut per divinam scientiam diu nobis desiderabilem, et divinitus promissam, possimus repatriare ad⁴ nativam patriam.” Præparatâ itaque⁵ magnâ barcâ peractisque septem annis ac septem mensibus, quos Sanctus Teliaus duxerat⁶ in Armoricorum patria, intravit in eam cum multis doctoribus, et quibusdam aliis episcopis, de quibus gens Britannorum de sanctitate post pestilentiam recrearetur.⁷ Et tunc præcepit suis, dicens, “Tollite vobiscum⁸ hunc sarcophagum, ut in eum corpus Gerenii conderetur.”⁹ Et admirantes dixerunt, quia non poterant, præ magnitudine ejus, hoc præceptum implere; vix enim (inquiunt) decem juga boum¹ poterant eum de suo loco submovere. Et præcepit illis, in Domino confidens, et oratione Episcoporum suorum simul et populi, ut mitteretur in mare ante proram navis, et (gubernante Deo) mitteretur ad ripam sine remo; et ita factum est. Navigantibus illis in medio maris obviavit eis altera navis, et convenientes nautæ, et utriusque navis collocti sunt ad invicem; dicente Episcopo, a Gerennio misso, quod Rex moriebatur; expectans tamen Sancti Teliaui adventum, et conventionem. Et inde pariter navigantes, applicuerunt in portum vocatum Dingerein; et ecce! continuò lapis prædictus, missus in mare, inter duas naves applicans apparuit; et secundum fidem sancti pastoris Christi, gloriam suæ majestatis manifestavit. Sanctus Teliaus perveniens² ad Regem,³ et invenit eum adhuc viventem; et accepto corpore Domini de manu illius, lætus migravit ad Dominum; et diligenter a beato Confessore suo corpus inhumatum est in prædictum sarcophagum, et Deo commendatum. Post hæc sanctus vir repetivit sedem suam episcopalem, comitante⁴ eum cleri et populi copiâ; et habitavit ibi usque in consummationem vitæ, principatum tenens super omnes ecclesias totius dextralis Britanniæ, secundum traditionem patrum qui eum Hierosolimæ⁵ consecraverant, sicut⁶ prædictum est. Sed gens citissimè crevit, quamvis de paucis, in magnam multitudinem; et hoc nimirum fiebat, quia jam obediens facta est ad omne sancti edictum. Sic sancta ecclesia, quæ multo tempore dispersa fuit, interveniente Teliauo sanctorum sanctissimo, fuit exaltata; ad quem convenerunt discipuli qui fuerant beati Dubricii, Lunapeius, Guermaet, Cynmur, Tou-lidauc, Luhil, Fidelis, Hismael, Tyfhei, Oudoceus, et multi alii discipuli, ut eum moribus, et doctrinâ imitarentur. De quibus Hismaelem consecravit in Episcopum, mittens illum ad consulendum ecclesiam Minuensem, et jam viduatam pastore; nam Sanctus David ad¹ Dominum migraverat. Et multos alios ejusdem ordinis viros, similiter sublimavit in episcopatum, mittens illos per patriam, dividensque parochias sibi, ad opportunitatem cleri et populi. Nunc quæ scripto cognovimus, facta per eum miracula, ea literis, et memoriæ commendamus. Nam tacendo Dei et sanctorum virtutem graviter delinquimus;² prædicando vero congratulamur. Habebat quidem tres summarios; et nullo ducente eos ibant ad silvam, onerati a lignatoriis suis redibant simili modo³ sine aliquo ducente; et sic serviebant fratribus quotidie.⁴ Dicunt enim⁵ illum resuscitasse mortuum, super fluvium Coum, nomine Distinnic. Dicuntque paralyticum in ecclesia Radh, coram omni populo ab eo sanatum, die dominica; et quocumque dolore ægrotabantur infirmi, curabantur ejus manûs impositione. Illi vero qui aliquam injuriam sibi faciebant, aut diu cruciabantur, aut illic⁶ moriebantur; ut fœmina temeraria, quæ in eo peccavit, coram omni populo liquefacta est. Quidam etiam Regulus, Guaidan nomine, violavit refugium illius, in quadam suâ ecclesiâ Lanteilau Bechan vulgariter vocata; unde frangendo bacchatus est, et statim viliter in ejusdem cœmeterio amisit spiritum. Recognoscentes autem culpam, protinus ejus precibus recuperabant salutem et veniam.

In nocte autem depositionis ejus magna dissentio orta est inter cleros trium ecclesiarum illius, singulis prætendentibus suas auctoritates et privilegia de habendo corpore. Una quidem ob sepulturam patrum suorum, et hæreditarium jus, Pennalum¹ videlicet:² secunda, ob conversationem suam, et solitariam vitam, quam inibi duxit per tempus super ripam Tyui, et quod ibi vitam gloriosè finierat: tertia vero Landavia, ob sedem episcopalem, ob ejus privilegia, et dignitates, ob consecrationes et obedientiam, ob totius parochiæ concordem vocem, et Sancti Dubricii per omnia, et aliorum patrum, priorem statum et constitutionem. Sed tandem, consilio discretorum hominum acquiescentes, insisterunt jejunio, et orationibus, ut summus arbiter Christus, qui est vera auctoritas et sanctorum privilegium, evidenti signo innueret, cui illarum³ Sancti sanctum corpus dignius esset committendum.⁴ Mane autem facto, quidam senior, respiciens ubi erat corpus, clamavit voce magna, dicens, “Exaudita est, fratres⁵ mei, oratio nostra a Domino, qui neminem privat pro merito. Surgite, et respicite quæ facta sunt a Mediatore Dei et hominum Christo, ut nostra desentio sedaretur; et ut in beati Confessoris Teliaui vita, sic et⁶ in ejus morte, fierent miracula.” Ecce enim! vident ibi tria corpora, quibus par erat quantitas in corpore, idem decor in facie; (quid amplius?) in nullo discrepantia, habebant totius compaginis lineamenta. Sic sedata pace, singuli cum suo corpore remeaverunt ad sua, et diversa in illis diversis locis cum summa reverentia sepelierunt. Miraculis quidem quamplurimis cognitum est omni populo, et monumentis antiquorum seniorum indubitanter Landaviæ esse allatum. Ad cujus summi⁷ pontificis tumbam frequentissimè ab omnibus suis languoribus curantur infirmi; cæcis illustrando visum, et surdis largiendo auditum. Amen.

In cujus vita crevit ecclesia Landaviæ pro sanctitate sua, tam moribus quam doctrina, in ecclesiis et territoriis sibi datis, cum omni libertate sua, dignitate et privilegio, a Regibus contemporaneis suis Teudric filio Teithpall, Idon filio Ynyr guent, Gurcant Maur, Mailcun, Aircol Lauhir, Catgucan, Tredecil, Rein, et multis aliis Regibus, et Principibus dextralis Britanniæ; et ita ecclesiis nominandis cum suis terris, et dotibus, cum finibus subscriptis, et testantibus legitimis viris.

Privilegium Sancti Teliaui est, et ecclesiæ suæ Landaviæ, datum sibi, et omnibus successoribus suis in perpetuo,² a Regibus istis, et Principibus Britanniæ, confirmatum apostolica auctoritate cum omnibus legibus suis in se plenariis sibi et terris suis libera ab omni regali³ servitio; sine consule, sine proconsule, sine conventu intus nec extra, sine expeditione, sine vigilanda regione, et cum omni justitia sua de fure et furto, de rapina, de homicidio, de arsione, de rixa, de sanguine, de refugio violato ubique in terra Sancti, de assaltu viarum, et extra vias; de faciendo judicio et patiando, de omni populo Sancti Teliaui in curia Landaviæ; de communione aquæ et herbæ, campi et silvæ, populo ec-

Omnis lex quæ fuerit regali,³ omnis etiam et in curia plenarie episcopali Landavensi.

Statutum est enim apostolicâ auctoritate istius ecclesiæ privilegium, ut cum sua dignitate ab omni secularis servitii gravamine libera in posterum maneat, et quieta. Quæcunque vero, concessione pontificum, liberalitate principum, oblatione fidelium, vel aliis justis modis eidem⁴ pertinebant, ei⁵ firma in posterum et integra conserventur. Quæcunque præterea in futurum (largiente Deo) justè, atque canonicè poterit adipisci, quieta ei semper, et illibata permaneant. Decretum namque est, ut nulli omninò hominum liceat prædictam ecclesiam temerè perturbare, aut ejus possessiones auferre, vel ablatas retinere, minuere, vel temerariis vexationibus fatigare; et omnia ei cum parochiæ finibus conserventur. Siqua igitur in futurum ecclesiastica sæcularisve persona contra hanc temerè venire tentaverit,⁶ secundo, tertiove commonita, si non satisfactione congrua⁷ emendaverit, potestatis honorisque sui dignitate careat, reamque se divino judicio existere de perpetrata iniquitate cognoscat, et a sacratissimo corpore, ac sanguine Dei, et Domini Redemptoris⁸ nostri Jesu Christi aliena fiat, atque in extremo examine districtæ ultioni subjaceat. INCIPIT VITA BEATI OUDOCEI, LANDAVENSIS ARCHIEPISCOPI.

Fuit vir Budic, filius Cybydan, natus de Cornugallia, qui in Demeticam regionem, tempore Aircol Lauhir Regis ejusdem regni, venit cum sua classe, expulsus patriâ suâ. Qui cum moraretur in patriâ, accepit sibi uxorem, Anauued,¹ nomine, filiam Ensic; mater autem illius Guenhaf filia Livoni; de qua Anauued, nati sunt sibi Ismael, et Tyfei martyr jacens in Pennalun. Qui cum moraretur in patria, missis legatis ad eum de nativa sua regione Cornugallia, ut sine morâ cum totâ suâ familiâ, et auxilio Britannorum, ad recipiendum regnum Armoricæ gentis veniret, defuncto rege eorum, illum volebant recipere, natum de regali progenie,² facto ab illis consilio uno ore, audita legatione, et accepta affectuosè; accepit uxorem suam prægnantem, cum tota familia sua, et classe applicuit in patria,³ et regnavit per totam Armoricam⁴ terram; et in tempore suo tamdiu durantem usque ad⁵ Alpes. Et uxor ejus peperit filium nomine Oudoceum; quem post, tempore maturitatis, misit ad studium literarum, sicut⁶ promiserat Sancto Teliauo antea in Britannia, quod si filium haberet, illum Deo commendaret, sicut commendaverat ambos fratres suos quos prædiximus. Et Sanctus Oudoceus ab infantia cœpit ditari scientiâ, et eloquentiâ, in tantum quod suos contemporaneos, et simul consocios excellebat moribus et sanctitate. Et post immensum tempus venit flava pestis per majorem Britanniam; flava quidem vocabatur,⁷ eo quod flavos, et exsanguis⁸ efficiebat universos quos persequabatur; quæ in columna aquosæ nubis apparebat hominibus, unum caput verrens per terram, aliud sursum trahens per aerem, et discurrens per totam

AGER HELIC, ET AGER TENCU.

Reges Clotri, et Judguallaun,¹ antepositis evangeliiis sacris, et reliquiis super altare ecclesiæ Garthbenni, coram Episcopo Berthguino, simul cum clero, juraverunt ut simul inter se firmam pacem tenerent sine dolo et dampno in omnibus; et tali pacto, quisquis illorum rumperet, totum regnum suum quietum clamaret, pergens in peregrinationem vitæ ad finem, in exilio, nec posset redimere se, neque regnum auro nec argento. Post intervallum, occidit Rex Clotri (rupta pace sua) Judguallann, utrumque faciens homicidium et perjurium fraude subdola. Audito tam grandi facinore, et violata pace, surrexit Episcopus, et fecit convenire ad sacram sinodum Landaviæ, omnes clericos totius parochiæ ab ostio² Taratyr super Guy usque ad ripam Tyui; et plena synodo excommunicavit regem cum sua progenie, simul et regnum; denudando altaria Dei, et deponendo cruces ad terram; et dimisit patriam sine baptismo, et communione. Post hæc Rex non potuit pati tantam excommunicationem, quæsit veniam cum magna devotione, et advocavit Episcopum Berthguinum cum tribus abbatibus suis, Sulgen Abbate Carbani³ vallis, Saturn Abbate Docunni, Gurhual Abbate Ilduti, ut venirent obviam ei ad ecclesiam Garthbenni; ut, sicut eam violaverat, et ejus refugium, faciens homicidium, et perjurium, ex alia negante ut solito, quidam de sodalibus regis (clauso sibi utero virginis) inflatus maligno spiritu, et spiritu ardoris muliebris,¹ et accipiens fundamentum a fæce temeritatis, et luxuriæ livore, quadam die in venatu occidit Regem Clitauc, innocentem, velut pium agnum, juxta flumen Mingui expectantem venatorum conventum, et tamen verba sacri eloquii cum summa devotione præmeditantem. Defuncto eo, familiares viri, et compatriotæ, et nobilissimæ parentelæ populares, junctis bobus feretris cœperunt corpus de loco auferre, et vadum Myngui² transire, et in alia parte fluminis cœperunt juga boum dirumpi, et boves stare, adeo quod nunquam de loco illo præ nimia corporis gravedine poterant corpus movere, quamvis sæpè ligatis torquibus et funibus, tamen ruptis innumerabilibus, ac si igneus obstabat globus; ita nunquam boves movebant gressus quamvis multiplex aderat stimulus. Et videntibus omnibus, et admirantibus, remansit corpus in loco sibi præparato divinitus; et populus statim propter vitam præclaram, quam in sancto viro præviderat, et sanctitatem, et finem ductum ad coronam martyrii, et post finem, mirabilem levitatem corporis, in secundo gravitatem nimiam, et immobilem, laudes retulit Deo; et visa columna ignis in sequenti nocte, de tumulo, post sepulturam placabilem Deo. Et statim, consilio Episcopi Landaviæ, et cleri, fundatum est ibi oraculum, et benedictum aspergine aquæ in honore martyris Clitauri; et ab illa die cœpit locus pro beato martyre venerari. TERRITORIUM LANN BEDUI, SINODUS.

Anno DCCCCLV. indictione XIII. a nativitate Domini, hoc nefarium opus factum est. In diebus enim Nougui¹ filii Guriat, atque Patris Episcopi sedis episcopalis famosissimæ, quæ ad ripam Tavi fluminis posita est, quadam die, tempore messis, quidam diaconus nomine² Ili filius Beli, quem in uno, eodemque anno ordinaverat episcopus, transiens per segetes, obviavit ei quidam rusticus, nomine Merchitir³ filius Judiuc,⁴ vituperando dicens, ait, "Quid tibi, timidissime, et armis?" Dum verbis vituperationis colloquebantur, irruit Merthitir in eum, extendens manum ad gladium ejus; gladio evaginato, succidit digitum illius diaconi. Dirivante autem sanguine ejus, ait ad eum, "Reverte ad me, ut ligas⁵ digitum meum." Convertens autem ad eum, et ligans digitum ejus, jugulavit eum diaconus, et statim defunctus est. Ipse autem diaconus vertens se in fugam, declinavit ad ecclesiam Sanctorum Jarmen et Febric, refugium inquirens. Dum hæc⁶ autem aguntur, nuntiatum est amicis defuncti. Postea congregati sunt amicorum ejus multi, et conati sunt frangere ecclesiam, in qua erat diaconus. Tunc affuit famosissimus ille vir Bledcuirit filius Enniaun, qui prohibuit eos ne ecclesiam frangerent: quod scelus erat dictu. Novissimè vero affuerunt sex viri de familia Nougui; quorum autem⁷ sunt nomina Birtulf, et⁸ Britilm frater ejus, Budat, et Briguan filius ejus, et alii duo fratres filii Cinnilic, Guodcun et Alla. Statim venientes, irruerunt in ecclesiam, et occiderunt diaconum ante altare sanctorum (scelus dictu) resperso sanguine in altari, et in parietibus ecclesiæ. His malis peractis, nuntiatum est Epis-

Ipse statim, ut audivit, transmisit nuntios ad monasteria omnium provinciarum totius parochiæ infra ostium² Taratyr ig Guy, usque ad ripam Tuigui (quarum obedientiæ subjectæ sunt ecclesiæ Landaviæ, et sanctis ejusdem, Dubricii, Teliaui, Oudocei, et Patri Episcopo, et omnibus Episcopis succedentibus in perpetuo) ut congregarentur sacerdotes, diaconi, et omnes gradus ecclesiastici, et in unum convenirent. Audiente quoque Nougui, cum optimatibus suis, totius ecclesiæ maledictionem irruentem in se, et descendentem super eum, non audens tale pondus maledictionis sustinere, inito consilio cum doctissimis regionis suæ, et legatis transmissis, appellavit episcopum ad se. Postea vero obviaverunt sibi Nougui, et episcopus cum optimatibus suis, in Guentionia urbe, et ex consilio omnium doctorum utriusque partis, dati sunt illi VI viri crudeles in manu episcopi. Adducti sunt ad monasterium Sancti Teliaui, illis facientibus sex menses in ferreis carceribus. Nougui iterum postulavit ut adducerentur viri illi ad supradictum monasterium in quo occiderant diaconum, et illic divinum iudicium acciperent. Sinodo quoque judicante, definitum est ut unusquisque eorum suum agrum, suamque totam substantiam, insuper et prætium animæ suæ, hoc est³ septem libras argenti redderet ecclesiæ quam maculaverat. Sed hoc prætereundum non est, quod ante iudicium, redacti sunt viri illi; Idgullaun filius Moruid, et Guinan, Junathan, et Guelfrid, tres filii Ceretic, et totus ager generationis Guoruot cum campo et fontibus, cum silvis et accipitribus, cum omni censu qui antea dabatur Regi, in manu Episcopi, et in potestate ecclesiæ Sancti Teliaui. Rex Edgarus advocavit Huwel Da, et Morgan Hen, et filium suum Huweyn, ad curiam suam; et ibi in pleno concilio, Rex Edgarus tractavit de litigatione amborum; et repertum est justo iudicio curiæ Regis Edgari, quod Huwel Da nequiter egisset contra Morgan Hen, et filium suum Huweyn; et depulsus est Huwel Da ab his duabus terris, scilicet Istradiu,¹ et Euias in perpetuum, sine recuperatione. Et postea Rex Edgar dedit, et concessit Huweno filio Morgan Hen illas duas terras, videlicet Istradiw et Euias, nominatim in episcopatu Landaviæ constitutas, sicuti suam propriam hæreditatem; et illas easdem duas terras sibi et hæredibus suis per chartam² suam sine calumnia³ alicujus terreni hominis confirmavit. Communi vero assensu et testimonio omnium Archiepiscoporum, Episcoporum, et Abbatum, Comitum, et Baronum totius Angliæ et Walliæ factum est; et quod maledictus esset a Deo Patre, qui illas duas terras a dominio Morgannuc, et parochia Landaviæ unquam separaret, et quod iterum benedictus foret a Domino Jesu Christo, qui hoc observaret, et a cuncto populo Christiano a modo, et usque in sempiternum. De Codice Evangeliorum MS. Ecclesiæ Lichfeldensis, Humfredus Wanley in Catalogo Historico-critico librorum veterum septentrionalium, libro altero Thesauri Antiquæ Literaturæ Septentrionalis, Oxoniæ, 1705, pp. 289, 290, ita scripsit.

Hoc in Codice cernuntur Adnotationes quamplurimæ, tum rerum tum nominum, tam Britannice quam Anglo-Saxonice, quippe qui peculium fuit Landavensis Ecclesiæ apud Cambros, antequam in Ecclesiam devenerit Lichfeldensem, ubi nunc adservatur, inscriptus TEXTUS S. CEDDÆ, illius Ecclesiæ Patroni.

Et de hisce etiam Adnotationibus ex literis viri doctissimi, et antiquitatum Britannicarum cultoris longè scientissimi D. Edwardi Lhuydi, Musæi Ashmoleani in Academia Oxoniensi Custodis dignissimi, ad me datis, accepi verba illa ad numerum [2.] scripta sic ex parte reddenda.—“Surrexit Tydvwlc h filius tinctoris, et Januarius Eremita, ut postularent terram Teliavi, quæ erat in manu Elcovii filii Gelhig, &c.” una cum versione Adnotationum [3.] et [4.] quæ ita sonat.

Hactenus de Adnotationibus, in hoc venerando ob vetustatem codice, ab hominibus Cambro-Britannis exaratis, quarum prima ab Gelhio, qui illum Landavensi Ecclesiæ dederit, eadem fere manu scribitur perinde ac codex Bodleianus, cujus nota NE. D. II. 19. ideoque eam ineunti seculo nono adjudicandam censeo. Ea quæ sequuntur haud multo recentiores videntur, non solum propter antiquitatem, verum quia ex alio ejusdem Landavensis Ecclesiæ codice MS. constat Libiaum Episcopum Landavensem a Nobis, hisce adnotationibus memoratum, ordine quartum è vita migrasse, A.D. 929.

Et de eodem codice, Dr. George Hicks, in vol. 3. ejusdem Thesauri Antiquæ Literaturæ Septentrionalis, scripsit. —“Hæc breviter de Sancto Theliao, cui donatus olim erat Codex Evangeliorum Latinus ante multa sæcula Ecclesiæ Lichfeldensis peculium. Cingal ille Britannus, a quo emptus erat, gliscentibus bellis, eum forsitan ex aliquo monasterio Angliæ, quod Cambriæ vicinum erat, cum aliis direptum, vendidit Gelhi filio Arihtiudi, qui eum S. Teliao dedit, è cujus Ecclesia, gliscentibus iterum bellis, forsitan etiam direptum aliquis Anglus eum abstulit, et S. Ceadæ consecravit. Verum quo modo cunque res ista se habeat, ex eo multa descripsit Showere, à quibus haud absimilia multa Britannice scripta cernere est in Monastici Anglicani, Vol. III. p. 188, &c. quæ ex Landavensis Ecclesiæ MS. Regesto congressit immortalis Gul. Dugdalis.”

Excerpta e codice in Musæo Britannico, vocato "Chronicon Ecclesiæ Landavensis a Bruto ad A.C. 1370, partim Wallice, partim Latine,"¹ et scripto A.C. 1439, quæ continent totum quod in illo libro est de Ecclesiâ prædictâ.

DE PRIMA CONSTRUCCIONE ET EDIFICACIONE ECCLESIE LANDAVENSIS.

Anno incarnationis Domini cccc.xl.vii°. missi fuerant duo venerandi viri, Germanus Altissiodorensis Episcopus, et Lupus Tricassive civitatis, a partibus Gallie in Britanniam ad dictam heresim extirpandam, et confundendam, qua dictorum virorum disputacionibus et predicacionibus omnino deleta et destructa; preceperunt assensu et consensu Mouricii filii Teudrici tunc Regis Morgannuc edificare, et de novo construere unam sedem metropolitanam super . . . honor . . . apostolorum Petri et Pauli.

Et post completum opus, dictus Rex eam diversis territoriiis, privilegiis, redditibus honorifice dotavit; sicut in Graffo Sancti Thelyai plenarie reperitur; et in eam dicti religiosi viri Dubricium virum sanctum, et famosum doctorem, eciam archiepiscopum, et dextralis Britanie primatem consecraverunt.

Anno incarnationis Domini d et vi. Dubricius archiepiscopus Landavensis coronavit Arthurum Regem famosissimum in civitate Circestrie, anno etatis sue xv°. Et post-

CHAPTER I.¹

ACCOUNT OF ELGAR, THE HERMIT—BIOGRAPHICAL MEMOIR OF ST. SAMSON, ARCHBISHOP AND CONFESSOR—NOTICE OF THE CITY OF ROME, AND ITS PRINCIPAL CHURCHES, AND CARDINALS—OF ELEUTHERIUS, BISHOP OF ROME—AND OF THE PERSECUTION OF THE CHRISTIANS UNDER THE ROMAN EMPERORS, DIOCLETIAN, AND MAXIMIAN.²

1.—ACCOUNT OF ELGAR, THE HERMIT.³

THERE was a man named Elgar, a native of England, and born in Devonshire, who, in his infancy, was taken prisoner by a set of pirates, and as was usual, conveyed to Ireland, where for some time he led a servile life. At length his master dying, he was released from captivity, and came into the possession of the king, when he was again obliged to bear the yoke of servitude; and so far that, during the reign of King Roderic,⁴ the grandson of Conchor, he performed with his own hands, the office of ex-

² The order of the sections is the same as in the Latin original but they would have been more chronologically placed if arranged as follows,—Of Eleutherius—Persecution of the Christians—Memoir of St. Samson—Notice of the City of Rome—Account of Elgar. As these sections have but slight reference to the Church of Llandaff, the whole Chapter may be considered to be as an INTRODUCTION to the LIBER LLANDAFFENSIS.

ecutioner on those who had been condemned to suffer death by the judgment of the regal court. Being greatly dissatisfied, and leading a life contrary to his inclination, in grief and sorrow, and among his enemies, he hoped for the mercy of God to release him by death, but he at length obtained his liberty. Having performed penance suitable to his state, he left the country altogether, and being mindful of his misfortunes, embraced the life of a sailor, when suffering shipwreck he landed on the isle of Bardsey; a place, which according to the British custom, was called the Rome of Britain, on account of the dangerous passage by sea to it, and its distance, being situated at the extremity of the kingdom, and for its sanctity and dignity, because there were buried therein the bodies of twenty thousand holy confessors and martyrs; it was surrounded on all sides by the sea, having a lofty promontory on the eastern side, its western coast was plain and fertile with a sweet flowing fountain; it was partly maritime and abounded with dolphins; was completely free from serpents and frogs, and no one died therein in the life time of a brother who was older than himself.¹

are informed that Rothericke O'Conghir, prince of Connaught, was made king and monarch of Ireland in 1168—Camden's Britannia, Annals of Ireland, p. 160,—but Elgar must have lived during some other reign, for according to the account given at the end of this section, some of his remains were removed from Bardsey, where he had been buried, to Llandaff, in the year 1120.

When he had a knowledge of the fertility, and especially of the sanctity of the place, he commended the sailors to Christ, and resolved to lead the life of a hermit, and being uninstructed from his having been brought up without education, he daily reaped improvement. Having spent the space of seven years with a religious community of brethren, and sometimes in solitude, led a holy, glorious, and chaste life, with scant food, slight clothing, and an emaciated countenance; he, in the following seven years, when all North Wales was desolated, dwelt in his hermitage, and had nothing for his maintenance, except the support which he received, through the providence of God, from the fish of the sea, and what the eagles, or, as we may say, angels, brought to him.

On a certain day, the Teacher Caradog came to see whether he were alive or dead; and, to his joy, finding him living, said to him, "O beloved! who has maintained thee, being so completely separated from all mankind? no one, I am certain, from our country, which is desolated, and for a long time estranged from thee through want of communication by sea." These, and other enquiries having been made, the good man, who was the most learned of all Wales, being skilled in the knowledge of both kinds of law, ancient and modern, descended from a noble family, and eminent in secular learning; with bended knees before the holy person, and with sighs, and the shedding of tears, strongly intreated of the natives; not far from it is a singular chapel, or oratory, being a long arched edifice, with an insulated stone altar near the east end; in this place one of the inhabitants reads prayers, all other clerical offices are performed on the main land, at Aberdaron. The British name Ynys Enlli, or the Island of the current, it obtained from the violence of the current which rages between it and the main land; and the English name it probably received from the Saxons, on account of its being a favourite retreat of the Bards, who retired there, preferring solitude to the company of invading foreigners.—Pennant's Tour in North Wales, Vol. II. p. 380—384.

him to give him an account of his life, which was unknown to man, and known only to God. Having been prevailed on at length by intreaty, he related to him the particulars of his solitary life, as to his lord and master. "Now, "dearly beloved Father, I will make known to thee the "mercy that has been shewn to me, not on account of my "very inconsiderable merit, but through the bounty and "goodness of God, who has always given comfort to me; "holy Spirits, assuming to themselves, with divine concurrence, the likeness of corporeal substance, according to the "belief supported by Scripture, which testifies that a Spirit "hath not flesh and bones,¹ do constantly day and night administer to me, as one poor and infirm, and suffering "shipwreck; through whose care I know not the want of joy "and prosperity, nor the presence of penury and poverty: "they always declare to me what is true, and always promise what is right, describing to me the present life to be "as a flower of the field, and the future as the odour of "balm, comforting me that I might not faint in the way, "who having vanquished the enemy, should be rewarded "with a heavenly crown. Although separated from me "when they meet together, I know them, by our frequent "intercourse with each other, to be Dubricius, Archbishop "of Western Britain,² Daniel, Bishop of the Church of Bangor, St. Padarn,³ and many others, whose bodies are buried "in this island. One of them told me on a certain time,

³ Of St. Dyfrig, or Dubricius, and St. Padarn, several particulars are mentioned in the course of this work. Daniel is the same as Deiniol Wyn, son of Dynawd Fyr, by Dwywe, daughter of Gwallog ap Llenog; he assisted his father in the establishment of Bangor Iscoed; and founded another monastery in Carnarvonshire, called Bangor Deiniol and Bangor Fawr, of which he was Abbot; soon afterwards, this place was raised by Maelgwn

“Go to-morrow to the cave of the confessor Greit; and when there, fatigued by the journey, and intent on prayer, lie down, and God will give thee, wherewith in those days thou mayest sustain thy body; and thus on every third day in the morning, God will give thee a fish from the rock, although it be apart from the sea, and elevated many paces above it. The fish which was sent me in this manner, at length became tiresome, and the taste disagreeable, and my appetite failing, owing to the meagre and aquatic nature of its daily food, it was taken away, and I received nothing in consequence of the complaint which I made.”

“Another time, I was told, ‘Go to the harbour, and thou wilt have a sea-fish of great size, wherewith thou mayest be maintained;’ and I pierced, with a small knife, the side of the fish I found, which feeling the wound, leaped, and precipitated itself into the sea, completely escaping out of my hands; and reflecting on my hasty and hostile act, I repented having inflicted the wound, and returned unprovided to my residence. And after some time, my appetite inciting me, I sought for aid as usual; on the following night the holy persons appeared, and said, ‘O thou incredulous person! Why wert thou so hasty? what God has sent to thee, he will not take away; what he has taken from thee to-day, he will restore to-morrow. Go to the same place, and there thou wilt find the said fish dead, and also the knife.’ And it was so.”

“Another time, when hunger was pressing me, the accustomed persons said, ‘Go thy usual road,’ and I went, and found a large white stag, and I said, What need have I of so much food, and of which I have not been accus-

I returned to the oratory,¹ and as usual, “they said to their servant, ‘The Lord will give thee nothing “else for food this time, besides what thou hast found to-day,’ “and returning to the harbour, I found the stag again, which “was food for me for some considerable time. Sometimes the “eagles administered to me, by divine appointment, of the “fishes of the sea in the usual manner, and as was necessary, “with likewise some herbs, and water, and small sea-fish.”

These and many other particulars having been related, the Teacher Caradog hastened to the harbour, and said to his brother, “O pious! O beloved! Leave the solitude, that “thou mayest be comforted, and restored to thy former state, “and thou shalt receive from me for some time the comforts “of food, and clothing.” Having heard these words, he hastened to the oratory, and having received an answer from the holy persons, said, “O Father, I have not so much liberty, nor rashness, as to follow thee any more in this life! “Depart, Brother, with great speed, while the wind is favourable, on giving to thee my small blessing, and receiving from thee thy large one.” After these things, he led his life, present to the Lord, and unknown to man; and having prepared a grave for himself in the oratory, he lay down close by it, and expired. While the body was yet warm, some sailors came to the place, and buried what they found there ready for sepulture.

On Friday, the 7th of May, in the year One thousand one hundred and twenty, being leap year, his teeth were removed from the island, on the same day that the relics of St. Dubricius were translated to Llandaff, by Urban the

2.—HERE BEGINS THE LIFE OF ST. SAMSON, ARCHBISHOP AND CONFESSOR.

There was a certain man named Amon,⁴ descended from a royal family, of the district of Meath,⁵ whose wife was Anna, and whose younger brother Umbrafel, married his wife's sister, Affrella, who had three sons, but Anna remained for a long time childless. Both Amon and his wife grieved much at her long barrenness, and were apprehensive lest after their death, the inheritance of the head of the family would be lost without remedy, so as not to be by any means recovered; old age, and the time of their sepulture also fast approaching, and being almost without hope of offspring, they said to one another, "Did not barren Elizabeth become pregnant of St. John (the Baptist,) after she was hopeless of children?" Is not the Lord who has created all things, always the same throughout ages, both adorable, and wonderful; and to whom all things are possible, and all things which are conceived and effected by thought, word, and deed, are manifest; and what is past, present,

² David was Bishop of Bangor from 1120 to 1139.

³ Griffith ap Cynan was King of North Wales from 1079 to 1137.

⁴ Amwn Ddu: he married Anne, daughter of Meurig, King of Glamorgan; he resided in a small island near Llanilltyd Fawr, or Lantwit Major, until he removed to a desert on the banks of the Severn, where he seems to have passed the remainder of his life.—Rees' Welsh Saints, p. 218.

“and future to us, are all present to him, and who of his “good will hath redeemed mankind from their sinful state, “and ancient corruption,—he, the same in all things, will “deliver us sinners from this childless and barren state.
“Let us, therefore, have recourse to fasting, prayer, and “almsgiving; and he who delivered Shadrach, Meshach, “and Abednego, three youths, from being burnt in the “furnace, and from their prison, will release us from sin, “and cause us to rejoice in our offspring and heir.” Prayer having been made, together with fasting, they intreated St.
Dubricius, Archbishop of Western Britain, and the Abbot Iltyd,¹ that by their supplication the great Creator and Governor would give them offspring, and which, they vowed to God, that should he grant, they would in an especial manner dedicate to him for the acquisition of learning, and the performance of holy offices.

These things being done, they went with presents to a certain learned man, who lived at a considerable distance northwards, and had prophesied what was true to many persons; to visit whom, they proceeded, and at whose residence they arrived the third day. Receiving them kindly and with hospitality, he mentioned to them the cause of their journey, and said, “I know the occasion of your coming;
“make a silver rod, equal in height to thy wife, and bestow
“alms on poor Christians, and thou shalt obtain offspring,
“and the object of thy wishes.” Which Amon hearing,

said, "I will give three silver rods equal in height to her." On the following night, the blessed Anna saw in a dream an angel, who said unto her, "The Lord hath deigned to comfort thy sorrow, and thy tears shall be turned into joy, for thou shalt bear a son, and call him Samson, one worthy of the Episcopal office, and he shall be seven times whiter than that silver which thy husband gave for thee to God." All the things which she heard from the angel she truly related to her husband. The learned man rising in the morning, spoke to Anna, saying, "The Lord revealed to me this night respecting thee, and thy offspring, that he will be such as Britain never has produced, nor ever will produce." And as it is said, "The Lord is wonderful among his saints;" by the supplication of the holy men, the woman conceived, and bare a son; and the name of Samson was given him by St. Illtyd, who lifted him up at the sacred font, and baptized him.

Being returned to his father's residence, the child increased daily in personal comeliness and stature; and when he attained some growth, his countenance was lovely, and his form pleasing, not only to his family, but also to strangers. Who, as he increased in stature, increased in wisdom, and discretion; and when he spoke, he was heard with great attention on account of his intelligence, so that the clergy and people said, "This boy will become to us a man, who will be the comfort and hope of all the country; a man of wonderful reflection, and great prudence, and as is said of a good son, the joy of all his family."

His father Amon, when sleeping one night, was affrighted, and suddenly awoke by a fearful vision; and speaking aloud, said, "How affrighted I am! How I tremble! O, how feeble I perceive myself! I am scarce able to raise my hand, or move my foot." His wife hearing his cry, and observing his stupor, said to him, "O, good man! O, my husband! you cry out; what do you cry for? You mourn; what is the cause of your mourning? Have you seen anything unpleasant in a dream, or before it? For it is usual, that when anything is thought of before sleep, the same will engage the mind during it." He said, "I was thinking of my only son, and noticed his eminent qualities in all things, and suitable for a regal court, as became his family, and not fit for any other purpose, besides governing the people with the sword and civil law; to which improper thought, impiously and unjustly occupying my mind, I did not assent, because God had given him, at a particular time, that I might be comforted, and because I had promised to him before the time of conception, and after birth engaged the same to him, and to my exalted father Dubricius, and patron Illtyd; and could I, in his early age, take him away? For he whom I proposed to be an heir in this world, will shortly be an heir in paradise, and we shall be partakers together of eternal happiness and glory." Both the father and mother agreeing to the same thing, they voluntarily brought up their only son for the performance of what was good; and although he was but of small stature, yet, with very much joy wished to go again and visit Illtyd; who, having their son entrusted to him for ever when he was five years old, taught him, so that he excelled in learning those of his age; and he who was a scholar, became forthwith, in a wonderful manner, both master and scholar at the same time. His lord and master, St. Illtyd, so loved him, that at all times he held him dearer than all the other scholars, and he performed with him more often the service of the church.

St. Illtyd labouring that he might obtain rest, and living by labour that he might procure a livelihood, had a corn field, to keep which in autumn he sent his scholars by turns, that they might prevent the sparrows from devouring the barley, as they were accustomed to do. At length, the employment came to the turn of Samson, who, with great joy, undertook the office; he collected together, like a flock of sheep, all the white sparrows that were flying about, and brought them to the barn; and having shut the door, he returned to the corn, and as there was not a sparrow there, he slept for some time. His associates wondering at the long delay of Samson, and being seized with envy, at length said, "Let us go, and see, for we do not know what the favourite boy may be doing." And finding him asleep; being glad, they came to the master, and said, "Him whom thou lovest, we have found sleeping, lazy, and disobedient," and together with him returned to the boy. When they came to him, they awoke him, saying, "Boy! are the sparrows, thine and our enemies, asleep? or hast thou killed them all with thy sling?" Who at length deliberately, and without any warmth, said, "I found the plunderers in the corn, and with the aid of God, I keep them in prison for the common benefit of both us and you; and while they are all confined in the barn, we shall not any more have occasion to take care of, and keep watch over them." And thus it was done.

The Abbot Illtyd, disciple of St. Germanus, skilled in human and divine learning, of noble birth, and foreknowing future things, gave thanks to God, and looking towards heaven, said, "God has been pleased to send to us this Samson to be a light to the country. Lo! a venerable head of us all, and eminent priest, who will greatly benefit the church of God! Lo! an excellent minister. Lo! the most skillful founder of churches since the apostles." Charity and wisdom increased in him in so wonderful a manner, that in a few years he seemed to excel his master in knowledge: with whom he led for a length of time, a holy, excellent, and honourable life, and the longer he remained with him, the more he gained improvement; what he spoke with his mouth, he believed in his heart, and what he believed, afforded him delight. On a certain day, he and his master meeting with an abstruse question, which they could not understand, St. Samson had recourse to fasting, and watching, and requested to obtain from the Lord what he could not through his master. In the third night of fasting, he heard a voice saying unto him, "Fatigue thyself no more; those things, and whatsoever thou wilt ask of God, thou shalt obtain."

On a certain time, in the summer, when the brethren went to work at the harvest, a serpent gliding suddenly from a bush, bit one of the brethren in the groin, who being about to draw his last breath, St. Samson set the mark of the cross on the bite of the serpent, and giving him water mixed with oil, restored him in health to the brethren. St. Illtyd, observing St. Samson to increase in performing miracles, caused him to be consecrated to the order of deacons. And when Bishop Dubricius, together with Illtyd, celebrated the mass of his ordination, he saw a dove sent from heaven standing on St. Samson in a wonderful manner; and when the Bishop lifted up his hand to him, the dove descended to his right shoulder, and remained there as long as the Bishop performed the office. Not many years after these things took place, he was consecrated to the order of priests, and a dove from heaven descended upon him as before, and by its innocence marked him to be elect of God.

This Illtyd had in his monastery two nephews, who were cousins, of whom, one was a clergyman, and the other, who was without a degree, was his butler. The clergyman was desirous to possess the monastery after the death of his uncle, but fearing lest St. Samson should be unanimously chosen Abbot on account of his virtues, and by that means he should be deprived of the monastery, he, with his brother, entered into a deadly design. The brethren of that place having a custom of drinking a potion of herbs after mass; the butler, by the advice of his brother, prepared poison, and having skilfully proved it to be mortal, he poured it into the cup of St. Samson; which he, by the Holy Spirit, understanding to be the case, blessed the cup, drank it all up, and felt no ill effects from it. On the same day after dinner, St. Samson had some familiar discourse with the butler. "My dear brother," said he, "May God heal thee of every disorder, because the cup which thou didst give me to-day has produced great benefit to my body." Hearing these things, being repentant, he sighed, and admonished his brother, the instigator of the crime, to repent; but he refused.

On the following Sunday, when the same clergyman received the Holy Communion from the hands of St. Samson, he was that instant seized by the Devil. Being pale, and tearing himself forthwith, and gnashing with his teeth, he said to those who were standing by, "Why do ye stand here? If I did not see Samson my master present, I should care nothing for you." Illtyd, when he saw this, ordered him to be bound, and led out; but his brother hearing these things, confessed the crime of both, and besought pardon of St. Samson; and St. Samson being affected with grief, wept, and having blessed water and oil, directed them to be given him to drink, and thereby he released him from the influence of the Devil. Therefore it came to pass, by the just judgment of God, that the primacy, which he wickedly sought for, he could never obtain.

There was, not far from this monastic establishment, a certain island, in which was a monastery built by one named Peirio; to that place St. Samson went speedily, God conducting him, and the master favouring the proceeding, and there he led a glorious and angelic life, amiable in his manners, intent on good works, and constant in his devotions. After these things, at a certain time, in winter, the father of St. Samson being afflicted with severe illness, was admonished by his neighbours, that, as was usual, he should receive the sacrament of the Holy Communion; but he strongly affirmed that he should not taste of death, that he should not receive the sacrament, that he should not recover his health before he saw his son Samson, and that on his account he should receive the health of his body, and of his soul, at the same time. His relatives therefore sent messengers to him, requesting that he would visit his father, who was lying on the brink of death: but Samson affected with grief, said, "God is able without me to "heal the sick." At length, being prevailed on by the intreaty of the Abbot, he sent back the messengers, and consented that he would come: therefore, in the morning, having received the blessing of his Abbot, he commenced his journey with a young man, who was a deacon; and when they had passed through a great desert, they heard a dreadful voice near them. By this voice the deacon being frightened, left his horse, and throwing off his cloak, betook himself to flight; when a hairy and horned witch, who had a three pronged lance, and was flying through the woods, prostrated him half dead. But St. Samson proceeded intrepidly, and seeing the witch escaping at a distance, called after her, saying, "In the name of Jesus "Christ, stop, and speak to me;" and he asked her, "Who "art thou?" She answered, "I am a Witch; my parents “have always been enemies to you, and no one of my kindred has dwelt in this wood except myself. I have eight sisters, and a mother, who are still living, and dwell in the farther wood, and I was given to my husband in this desert, but because he is dead, I cannot depart from this wood.” To whom St. Samson said, “Canst thou restore to life the brother whom thou hast smitten, and desist from evil?” She answered, “I cannot either cure him, or become better; for from my infancy, I have always led a wicked life.” St. Samson said, “In the name of Jesus Christ, I command thee that thou no longer injure mankind, and that thou very quickly depart from this life.” She then immediately gave a precipitous leap, fell down, and expired. St. Samson returning to his brother, who was nearly dead, after the manner of Elisha applied his mouth, and limbs to those belonging to him, and so restored him to health.

They then proceeded on their journey, and on the third day came to Amon, who when he saw them, said with great joy, “Lo the remedy for my body, and soul, which the Lord was pleased to show me in a dream;” for on that day he was, by the blessing of St. Samson, healed of his disease; and by his earnest request, he, with his brother Umbrapel, was induced to take the monastic habit: and both the venerable Anna, and her sister Affrella, were consecrated by his blessing. Of his property, he gave part to the poor, part for the building of a monastery, and part for the use of his mother and brothers. All things being set in order by the favour of the Holy Spirit, he took with him his father, and uncle, and returned to his monastery by a road, different from that by which he came: also, in the same road he found a serpent of wonderful size, which, by his word alone, he destroyed.

When he returned to the monastery, he found Bishop Dubricius there remaining, the season of Lent having commenced. The Bishop called to him the deacon, and being informed by him of all things that had been done on the road, received St. Samson and his companions with very great honour; and on that day appointed St. Samson to be butler of the place. He, therefore, and as if divinely directed, administered to the brethren with great diligence, and gave to the poor, as far as he was able; but a brother, who had been before him in the same office, envying his good works, said that St. Samson expended all things wastefully, and had improperly emptied the vessels that had been filled with mead. Which the Bishop hearing, and being desirous to know the truth, went into the cellar; of which Samson being informed by the Holy Spirit, marked the vessels that had been emptied with the sign of the cross, and the Bishop found them full. And the Bishop wondering, believed him to be filled with the Holy Spirit, and adjudged him to be worthy of a higher office. After these things, and an interval of a few days, the death of Peirio took place, and St. Samson was unanimously elected Abbot of the monastery; and he obeying, but not willingly, held the government of that congregation three years and a half.

Afterwards, some very learned Scots returning from Rome, came to him, whom, on examination, he discovered to be eminent persons; with the consent of the Bishop, he, therefore, went with them to their country, where, sojourning for a short time, he was, by all religious persons, received as an angel. He gave sight to the blind, cleansed the lepers, cast devils out of men, and to all shewed the way of salvation. When he had remained some time in the district, he was desirous to return to his own country, and finding a ship ready for the purpose, he was intreated by the sailors to get into it, to whom he answered, "We must do the works of God before we sail from this province." The sailors being provoked to anger, hoisted their sails; to whom he answered, "Go in peace, and return to-day; to-morrow we shall go off together." When they departed, lo! one came to him, requesting that he would visit the neighbouring monastery; and saying, "Our Abbot desires to see thee, for the Devil has seized him, and holds him bound." St. Samson went, and found him so circumstanced, who, on meeting him, cried with a loud voice, "Lo! him, whom I have always sought; lo! him, whom I have with great devotion desired to see." On the praying of St. Samson, the demoniac was restored to health, and leaving the monastery, followed him. Having blessed the brethren in the monastery, he departed, and found the ship returned to the harbour, as he had predicted. In the morning, he and his companions went into the ship, and the wind being favourable, he got the next day to the island wherein he had first dwelt.

On entering the monastery, he found his father, and uncle, excelling in conduct all others who lived there; on which account he gave thanks to the Almighty. Therefore he took his uncle Umbrafel, who now performed the office of priest, and sent him to be Abbot of the monastery in Ireland, wherein he had liberated the former Abbot from the Devil. St. Samson, with Amon, and the aforesaid Abbot, and a certain brother, who was a priest, entered into a very large wilderness, and found therein, near the river Severn, a cottage, in which was a most delightful fountain, and there he placed the brother, and his two companions. Proceeding into the interior of the wilderness, he found a very secret cave, having its entrance towards the east; with which he was much pleased, as though prepared by God, and therein, by his prayers, he caused a fountain to spring; in this place he gave up his time to God without intermission, and did not fear the snares of the world, being accustomed to the discourse of angels, through whom he commended himself to the Most High; and on every Sabbath-day, he visited, and held intercourse with his three brothers, whom he had placed in the wilderness.

When, therefore, a synod was held, and the chief persons of the district enquired where St. Samson resided, one came forward, who said that he knew the cave wherein he led a heavenly life; and being, with others, sent to him, he was brought to the Synod, where, on beholding him, he was received as an angel, and was, against his inclination, appointed Abbot of the monastery that had been built by St. Germanus. In this monastery, they had, out of reverence, Bishops to sit in the chair of St. Peter, when they assembled together. It happened that when the annual festival approached, and St. Samson waited for the accustomed arrival of the Bishop, on a certain night he saw himself surrounded with very numerous persons clothed in white, and three eminent Bishops adorned with golden crowns standing before him, and about to enter with them into the church to pray. Whose names, and the cause of their coming, he delicately and humbly enquired; and the prince of the vision said, "I am Peter, the apostle of Christ, "and these are James and John the Evangelist, the brothers "of the Lord. The Lord Jesus Christ has pre-elected thee "to be a Bishop, and has sent us to consecrate thee;" who, when they had confirmed him with a heavenly blessing, vanished out of his sight. And the Bishops coming on the appointed day, brought with them two persons to be ordained, yet they were desirous to ordain three in honour of the Holy Trinity, but whom they should choose, they did not know. On the following night, therefore, an angel of the Lord stood by St. Dubricius, and directed him to ordain St. Samson to be Bishop; and St. Dubricius, with joy, on account of the heavenly vision, caused the brethren of the congregation to be assembled together, and they rejoicing, he related to them what he had heard from the angel; therefore, they all with acclamation gave thanks to God, and placed him with the others in the episcopal chair. All who were present, saw a dove sent from heaven steadily standing on him whilst he was consecrated; and on that day, as St. Samson was celebrating the holy mysteries, St. Dubricius, with two monks, saw a stream of fire to proceed glittering from his mouth; and at all times of his life, when he celebrated mass, angels were seen to assist him in performing the service of the altar.

On a certain eve of the Resurrection of our Lord, as he watched, and prayed in the church, an angel of the Lord, with great brightness stood by him, and that he might not fear, comforted him, saying, "Samson, dearly beloved of the Lord, act manfully, and depart from our land, and thy kindred; for thou art predestinated by God to be a magnificent founder of monasteries beyond sea, and a glorious governor among the people." These and similar things, the angel throughout the night, congratulating him, predicted to the holy man; and in the morning, he called the clergy and people together, and not resisting, but rather obeying the heavenly vision, with the greatest love, said, "O father, by the laying on of whose holy hand I am, although unworthy, exalted, an angelic vision compels me to leave my native country, and to go speedily beyond sea, and expressly to proceed to the Armorican territory of the British race." Having heard these things, the blessed Archbishop Dubricius hesitated not to permit him to go among the Bretons, because he was acquainted with their language; and knowing him to be endued with divine power, and adorned with good morals and sanctity, said, "Be a strong man, contend in battle, the prayers of Britain will attend thee hence with joy and alacrity." And having received the blessing of the Father Dubricius, and of the Abbot Iltyd, and of all the clergy and people, he departed. Having therefore completed the office of the paschal solemnity, and prepared a ship, he took with him some brethren, and went on this side the Severn sea, where he visited his country,¹ and mother, and consecrated the church built by her, and also in those parts restored to health many sick persons. After he had instructed his mother, and other relatives, fully in the words of the Lord, the Almighty leading him, he crossed over the Auferrean sea.²

When they passed through a certain town, which was called Tricurrum, he saw there men revelling with profane rites, and worshipping a certain image; which St. Samson seeing, he sighed, and admonished them with prayers, and intreaties that they should forsake the idols, which were inimical to mankind, and worship the one true God, who was in heaven. To whom their Count Gedian answered, "The God whom you preach, we know not, but the gods whom our parents adored, those we worship." While he spoke these things, a certain boy on horseback, riding rapidly around the image, fell to the ground, and having broke his neck, lay dead. As they all wept, St. Samson said to them, "You see that your image cannot restore life to this dead “person; if you will destroy your idols, and believe in my God, on calling on the name of the Lord, I will cause your dead man to arise.” As they agreed thereto, St. Samson having poured out prayers, restored him to life openly before them all; and being astonished at this wonderful, and unheard-of sight, they all unanimously destroyed their idols, and believing in Jesus the son of God, were baptized.

In the same province was a serpent of vast size, which by its deadly breath had nearly destroyed two districts; and St. Samson being informed thereof, was grieved at the misery of the people; and taking with him the boy, whom he had lately restored, Count Gedian, with all the people accompanying him, he went to the cave, where it was known the serpent lay hid. On the next day, as the sun shone, they descried, beyond a certain river, the cave, wherein was the serpent; and having there left Count Gedian, and people, he went with the boy, whom he had lately restored, beyond the river. When he came near the mouth of the cave, he ordered the boy to remain at some distance; and being armed with the sign of the cross, he immediately went into the cave, and tied about the neck of the serpent a linen girdle, wherewith he was girt, and drawing him out, threw him headlong from a certain high eminence, and commanded him, in the name of the Lord, to live no longer. And the boy ran back, and related to Count Gedian, and all the people, what he had seen; therefore, they all rejoiced at this great sight, and uttered abundant prayers to God and St. Samson from their very hearts, and Samson directed them to build a monastery near the cave. And he, in the mean time, applied himself to fasting and prayer in the cave; where by his prayers, a fountain sprung, which continues to flow to this day. And when the people had completed the monastery, and St.

Samson consecrated it, he fixed his father Amon, and with him his cousin in the same; but he, God leading him, sailed with his companions to Brittany.

When he came into the harbour, and descended from the ship, he saw a cottage, and therein a certain unhappy person miserably wailing, and frequently looking towards the sea; to whom Samson said, "Brother, why wailest thou?" And he answered him, "I have in this house a wife afflicted with the leprosy, and a daughter who is a demoniac, whom the Lord promised to heal by some one from beyond sea, and whom I have been three days expecting, with the hope that he will come into this harbour." St. Samson on hearing these things, went with him to his house, and praying suppliantly restored them to health. In the same district, he found a very suitable place, wherein he built a respectable monastery, which to this day is called Dol,¹ where he performed many remarkable miracles; and throughout the provinces he built many monasteries.

In those days Count Commotus, a foreigner, and a cruel and tyrannical person, governed all Brittany, having slain Jonas, the native Count of the Bretons, and delivered up his son Judual to King Hildebert and his Queen, to be kept in captivity. Which St. Samson hearing, he was grieved at their misery, and quickly went to King Hildebert, desiring to redeem Judual from confinement, and to deliver the people from a foreign ruler. When Samson entered into the King's palace, he found a certain

Count, that was a demoniac, whom he anointed on the face and breast with consecrated oil, and thereby liberated him from the devil. The King hearing this, and that he came to supplicate for Judual, and having consulted his nobles, received St. Samson with suitable honour, and invited him to dine with him. The Queen, however, as she held Judual bound in captivity, would not release him; and by rejecting the intreaties of St. Samson, and abusing him with reproachful expressions, irritated him; and that she might destroy him, she prepared a deadly drink for him.

And when the King, and the holy Archbishop, sat down to dinner, and all who were present, congratulated him on his arrival, the Queen at the instigation of the devil, mixed poison with wine in a glass, and through her servant offered it to St. Samson to drink. Then he being divinely inspired, made the sign of the cross upon the glass, which thereby broke in four parts, and the poison being shed on the hand of him who held it, the flesh and skin, in the sight of all present, were corroded to the very bone. Then St. Samson said, "this drink is not fit to be drunk;" and the king being disturbed, and all the people wondering, St. Samson marked the hand of him who had been hurt, and completely restored it.

After they had dined, St. Samson, with the permission of the King, hastened to the place where Judual was kept, to meet whom, the Queen sent a furious horse to destroy him, but the chosen of God marked him with the cross, and his saddle being placed on him, he mounted, and the animal became so mild as if he had been tamed by the King of Heaven under his Soldier. Having her heart still hardened, she ordered that a fierce lion, with its keepers, should meet him, that it might seize him, but the hand of God protected his elect, and as if struck with a stake, it betook itself to flight; but St. Samson looking after it, said, "I command thee, in the name of Jesus Christ, "that thou hurt no one any more, and that thou speedily "die." When it immediately leaped headlong, and expired. And the King beholding so many miracles performed by the holy man, brought forward Judual released from his chains, and gave him up to him. The Queen likewise, with her favourites, prostrate at his feet, asked pardon of the holy man.

Which being done, and all being pardoned by the grace of God, and greatly rejoicing, the King said to St. Samson, "There is a serpent in this province, which afflicts all who "dwell around; and because we see thee to shine with "miracles, we request that thou wouldst vouchsafe to deliver "us from it." To whom St. Samson said, "Find me a "guide for the way, and in the power of God, I will expel "it from your parts." A guide therefore being found, he took with him two brethren, and leaving the others with Judual in the place, being confident and always exulting in the Lord, he quickly set out upon his journey; and when he came to the cave in which the serpent was, he there, with bended knees, prayed to the Lord, took the serpent by the neck, brought it out, and commanded it to swim beyond the river called Sigona, and there remain under a certain stone; which soon after, by his word alone, he drowned in the sea. And in the same place he built a monastery, and placed therein brethren who should serve Christ. Lastly, King Hildebert greatly loved St. Samson for having performed such great miracles, and freely gave him valuable gifts, namely in gold, and silver, in precious vessels, in farms, and various possessions, and commended himself to his prayers.

Taking with him Judual, he went to Lesia¹ and Angia,² and there collected an army, and returned with it to Brittany; St. Samson praying and fasting, and Judual fighting with the army against Commotus; Judual, by the prayers of the holy man, at one blow overcame his enemy, and from that time, he and the successors of his family, held the government of Brittany. Soon after, Judual was triumphantly received by his countrymen, and elected Governor over all Brittany; and he rendered himself, and all who belonged to him, subject to St. Samson, and devoutly commended himself to his prayers. "Let the Governor return thanks to the Redeemer, and the people rejoice, being committed to the care of such a Pastor." Whence the government of all Brittany is observed to belong justly to Dol until this day. For what great miracles the Lord, on this side the sea, and beyond it, has by him performed, how much his learning shone, the eloquence of no writer, or doctor doth relate.

Being perfect in life, and in age, and adorned with all virtues, he was attacked by severe illness in the monastery of Dol, and the clergy flocking around, he gave his body to the earth, and his soul to heaven. The clergy buried his body with unguents, and in their hearing, the heavenly host with hymns and praises conveyed his soul to Christ. A proof of his blessedness we have, namely, in those miracles which the Lord daily performs by him to the praise and glory of his name, who with God the Father, and Holy Spirit, lives and reigns throughout infinite ages of ages. Amen.

THE END. AMEN.

3.—NOTICE OF THE CITY OF ROME, AND OF ITS PRINCIPAL CHURCHES, AND CARDINALS.

The wall of the city of Rome has 362 Towers, 49 castellated Turrets, 20 Pinnacles, 900 Gates, and 5 Posterns. The circuit of the wall is 22 miles, besides what is beyond the Tiber, and the city of Leomana.

The principal Churches are—the patriarchal Church of the Saviour in the Lateran Palace, the greatest of all—the Church of St. Peter the Apostle—the Church of St. Paul the Apostle—the Church of St. Mary major—the Church of St. Laurence without the walls.

The titles of the Priest Cardinals are—St. Paul's, St. Savin's, St. Prisca's, St. Sixtus', St. Nercus', and St. Achilles', St. Marcellus', St. Balbina's, St. Susanna's, St. Mary major's, St. Eusebius', St. Luke's in Ardea, St. Vitalis', The Holy Apostles', St. Clement's, St. Potentian's, St. Cyric's in the hot Baths, St. Marcellinus', and St. Peter's of Jerusalem. It is the duty of the Cardinals bearing those titles to celebrate Mass in the chapel of St. Laurence in the Palace in mount Palatine.

4.—NOTICE OF ELEUTHERIUS, BISHOP OF ROME.

Eleutherius, a Greek by birth, and son of Habundius, of the town of Nicopolis, enjoyed the See 15 years, 6 months, and 5 days; it was in the time of Antoninus, and Commodus, and until that of Paternus, and Bradua. He received a letter from Lucius, King of Britain, requesting that by his means he might be made a Christian. He ordained that no poor cottagers, especially those who embraced the Christian faith, should be despised by Christians, because they were created by God, and moreover were rational creatures. He held three ordinations in the month of December, and ordained 12 Presbyters or Priests, 8 Deacons, and 15 Bishops in divers places, and was buried near the body of St. Peter, within the Vatican, on the 25th day of May; and the See remained vacant 16 days.

5.—NOTICE OF THE PERSECUTION OF THE CHRISTIANS UNDER THE ROMAN EMPERORS, DIOCLETIAN AND MAXIMIAN.¹

In the year of our Lord, 286, Diocletian in the East, and Maximian Herculus in the West, ordered the churches to be plundered, and the Christians to be persecuted, and slain. Which persecution was the tenth after that of Nero, and lasted longer, and was more cruel than any of the preceding; for during ten years, it was constantly carried on by the burning of churches, and the murder of innocent martyrs. In the latter part, Britain became exalted by the glory of a devout confession to God; for therein St. Alban ¹ This persecution broke out at Nicomedia, a town of Natolia in Asia Minor, February, A.D. 303, when an imperial edict was published for pulling down churches, and burning the Holy Scriptures; and being no less violent than general, Britain had a share in its severity. It however continued general, until Diocletian and Maximian resigned the empire in 305, upon which Constantius being declared emperor, the persecution ceased in Britain, and other places of the West, where it did not last two years, though it continued ten in the East. But though this persecution was short, it went to the extremity of punishment, and took away the lives of several Christians. Gildas informs us that St. Alban of Verulam, Aaron and Julius of Caerleon, and others of both sexes in several places, suffered martyrdom with the utmost firmness and resolution.—Collier's Eccl. Hist. Fol. Vol. I. pp. 20, 21. But to this persecution, ecclesiastical writers have fixed different dates; some agreeing with that mentioned in this book, viz. the year 286, and others fixing on the year 303, when Diocletian was the eighth, and Maximian the seventh time consuls.—Stillingfleet's Orig. Brit. p. 70.

suffered, of whom the presbyter Fortunatus, in his work on the Praise of Virgins, when making mention of the holy Martyrs of the whole world who came to Christ, says,— “Fertile Britain has produced the excellent Alban.”

Julius and Aaron, with a multitude of martyrs, also suffered in the city of the Legions, which is situated on Usk.¹

¹ Caerleon, a market town in Monmouthshire. This place was the Isca Silurum of the Romans in the time of their emperor Claudius, whose second legion being recalled from Germany, was stationed here under the command of Vespasian. During the stay of the Romans in Britain, it continued to be the seat of government for the division of the country denominated Britannia Secunda, and in that period continued the theatre for the display of splendour and luxury. After the persecution under Diocletian, Caerleon became, under the auspices of Antoninus, the seat of learning and devotion; three Christian churches were erected, two in honour of the martyrs St. Julius and St. Aaron, and a third, to which was added a monastery, that afterwards became the metropolitan see of Wales, of which St. Dubricius was the first archbishop.—Lewis's Topographical Dictionary of England, Beauties of England and Wales, Monmouthshire, p. 125—128. CHAPTER II.¹

ACCOUNT OF THE FIRST STATE OF THE CHURCH OF LLANDAFF—GRANTS TO THE CHURCH OF LLANDAFF BY PEBIAU AB ERB, KING OF ERGYNG OR ARCHENFIELD, AND HIS SONS, CYNFYN AND GWYDDAI—BY BRYTWN AND ILLINC—ERB, KING OF GWENT AND ERGYNG—MERCHWYN AP GLEWYS—AND BY NOE AB ARTHUR—BIOGRAPHICAL MEMOIR OF ST. DYFRIG OR DUBRICIUS, ARCHBISHOP OF LLANDAFF.

1.—OF THE FIRST STATE OF THE CHURCH OF LLANDAFF.

In the year of our Lord, 156, Lucius,² King of the Britons, sent his ambassadors, Elfan and Medwy, to Eleu-

¹ The arrangement of the original Text of the Book is hereby somewhat changed; the information relating to Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, the last Bishop mentioned therein, being removed to the latter part, and constituting the last three chapters of the English translation. The subject matter of this second chapter commences in the Latin at the 65th page.

² Authors are by no means agreed about the time of the conversion of King Lucius. Archbishop Usher cites no less than three and twenty different opinions; Bede, the old Saxon Annals, and the author of the Annals of the Church of Rochester, who flourished about the year 1224, fix on the year 167, in the consulship of Severus and Herennianus, and in the eleventh year of the Emperor Marcus Aurelius, when Eleutherius was Bishop of Rome; but Usher dates it nine years later. Notwithstanding this difference of chronology, that there was such a Christian King as Lucius about that time is beyond question; for Nennius, who lived in the beginning of the seventh century is positive on this point, and the English ambassadors at the council of Constance pleaded Lucius's conversion against the ambassador of Castile as an argument for precedence. However, it is evident from Gildas, and other writers, that Christianity got footing here in the apostolical age, but what progress it made, in what parts the church was established, and under whom, what successes or discouragements, what revolutions happened in the Ecclesiastical History of this island from the time of the Apostles to King Lucius, is altogether uncertain.—Collier's Ecclesiastical History, Vol. I. p. 12.

In the Welsh Triads, Lucius is called Lleurwg ap Coel ap Cyllin, and Lleufer Mawr; and in later Welsh Chronicles, Lles ap Coel.

therius, who was the twelfth Pope of the apostolic see, imploring, according to his admonition, that he might be made a Christian, to which request he acceded; for giving thanks to God because that nation, which from the first inhabiting thereof by Brutus had been heathens, so ardently desired to embrace the faith of Christ, he with the advice of the elders of the Roman city, was pleased to cause the ambassadors to be baptized; and on their embracing the Catholic faith, Elfan was ordained a Bishop, and Medwy a Doctor. Through their eloquence, and the knowledge which they had in the Holy Scriptures, they returned preachers to Lucius in Britain; by whose holy preaching, Lucius, and the nobles of all Britain, received baptism; and according to the command of St. Eleutherius, the Pope, he constituted an ecclesiastical order, ordained Bishops, and taught the way of leading a good life. Which faith of the Christian religion, they preserved free from any stain of erroneous doctrine until the Pelagian heresy arose, to confute which, St. Germanus a Bishop, and Lupus, were by the chief clergy of Gaul sent to Britain. For the Britons had often previously sent messengers to them, requesting aid against such dreadful danger, disapproving of, but unable to confute, the wicked doctrine of the heretics.

After the aforesaid illustrious persons had extirpated the Pelagian heresy, they consecrated Bishops in many parts of the island of Britain; and over all the Britons of the southern part, they consecrated the eminent doctor St. Dubricius, who was elected by the King and the whole district, to be Archbishop. Having received this dignity from Germanus and Lupus, they granted to him, with the consent of King Meurig, and of the princes, clergy, and people, the Episcopal See, which was founded in the district of Llandaff in honour of St. Peter the Apostle, with these boundaries—From Henriwgenna to Rhiwffynon, and from Cynlais¹ to the sea, the whole district between the Taff¹ and the Ely,¹ with their fish, and wears for fisheries, and its dignity free from all service, regal and secular, except only daily prayer, and ecclesiastical service for his soul, and for the souls of his parents, kings and princes of Britain, and of all the faithful deceased; and with its privileges, without any governor, or deputy governor, without attendance at public courts either within or without the district, without going in military expeditions, without keeping watch over the country, in, or out of it, and with free commonage to the inhabitants of the whole diocese, in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, with its court complete within itself, free and entire as a regal court, with its refuge, not for any limited time, but to be perpetual; that is, that the fugitive might remain safe under its protection, as long as he should wish; and with the bodies of the kings of the whole diocese of Llandaff, given and committed to it for ever. The diocese to have five hundred wards, the bay of Severn, Ergyng, and Anergyng,² from Mochros³ on the banks of the Wye, as far as the island Terthi.⁴

² Ergyng, or Archenfield, comprehended the portion of Herefordshire, S. W. of the river Wye, of which the present ecclesiastical Deanery of Archenfield, or Irchenfield, constitutes a part.

³ Moccas, the name of a parish, the church of which is on the south bank of the Wye, 9½ miles W. N. W. distant from Hereford.

⁴ Probably the Island Barry, in the Bristol Channel, 6½ miles S. W. from Cardiff. The original diocese of St. Dubricius thus appears to have been nearly the same as the present diocese of Llandaff, with the addition, however, of Ergyng.

And on account of the sanctity, and excellent preaching of the holy Pastor, and his royal parentage, many churches, with their endowments, tithes, oblations, burying places, territories, and free commonage, and their aforesaid dignity were given to him, and to the Church of Llandaff, and to all his successors, by the Kings and Princes of all the country of Southern Britain. For the privilege of that Church, granted to it with apostolical authority, is that it shall, with its dignity remain for the time to come free, and quit of all burden of secular service. And whatsoever shall belong to it by the grant of bishops, the liberality of princes, the oblation of the faithful, or through any other just means, shall be preserved to it firm, and entire, for the time to come. And besides, whatsoever it shall in future, by the gift of God, justly, and canonically obtain, shall always remain to it peaceably, and undisturbed. Also, it is decreed that it shall not, by any means, be lawful for any one rashly to disturb the aforesaid Church, or take away any of its possessions, or retain such as may have been taken from it, or diminish it, or harrass it with vexatious proceedings; and all things, with the boundaries of the diocese, are to be preserved to it. If any ecclesiastical or secular person, therefore, shall in future attempt to act rashly against it, and being admonished twice, or thrice, if he will not amend, with giving due satisfaction, he shall be deprived of the dignity of his power, and honour, feel conscious that he is guilty and liable to the divine judgment for the crime committed, not be allowed to partake of the most holy body and blood of God, and the Lord, our Redeemer Jesus Christ, and be subject to severe punishment at the final judgment. With respect to all who shall preserve to the Church its just property, may the peace of our Lord Jesus Christ cause that whilst they are here, they may reap benefit arising from their good conduct, and from the righteous Judge receive the reward of eternal peace.

After these things the King arose, and went round the whole territory; and carrying the Gospel on his back, with the clergy bearing the crosses and relics in their hands, and sprinkling the holy water, together with the dust of the pavement of the Church, on all the borders of the territory, he perambulated the whole; pronouncing a blessing on all those who should keep the alms with the aforesaid dignity of privilege and refuge, and a curse on all who should in any degree violate it, either great or small, as aforesaid.

And St. Dubricius observing the great number of respectable persons which flocked to him, divided therefore the church which had been committed to his care, among his disciples. He sent some of them to the churches which had been given to him, and for others he founded churches; and having settled matters agreeably to his wishes, and constituted dioceses, he consecrated Bishops throughout Southern Britain:—Daniel to be Bishop in the city of Bangor; Iltyd to be Abbot of the place, called after him Llanilltyd;¹ and many other Abbots and Priests, with inferior orders. Mochros, on the banks of the Wye, where formerly Dubricius first dwelt, was, by the gift and grant of King Meurig and the Princes, given to the Church of Llandaff, and its pastors for ever; and that the former place, with all its territory and liberty, should serve the latter, free from all regal service for ever.

¹ This place is called in Welsh Llanilltyd Fawr, and in English Lantwit Major, and is 5 miles S. by W. from the town of Cowbridge, Glamorgan-shire. The parish, which is of considerable extent, comprizes one of the most interesting districts in South Wales. The village, which is situated in the centre of the pleasing Vale of Glamorgan, displays obvious indications of its original extent and importance, and has in every respect the appearance of a large dilapidated town. It occupies a considerable extent of ground, but presents several chasms in its streets, some of which are nearly choked up with the ruins of decayed houses, and others are scarcely distinguishable, except by their situation within the limits of the town, from the numerous roads that appear to converge towards this place as a common centre. The seminary, which once flourished at the place, was instituted by St. Iltyd, in the

2.—LANN CUSTENHINN¹ GARTH BENNI IN ERGYNG, OR ARCHENFIELD.

Be it known to you that King Pebiau son of Erb, granted the Manor of Garthbenni, as far as the black Marsh between the wood, and field, and water, and the property of King Cystennyn, his father-in-law, beyond the river Wye, 5th century, and was so celebrated, that scholars flocked to it from all parts of Christendom, among whom were the sons of the British nobles, and foreign princes, besides numerous others, amounting at one time to more than two thousand pupils. For the accommodation of this large number, there were no less than four hundred lodging apartments, and seven large halls or colleges. The course of instruction adopted by St. Iltyd, embraced, not only such sacred and profane literature as was requisite for clerical education, but also included husbandry, and other useful arts. For many generations, this seminary continued to be the University of Britain, and to be frequented by the most illustrious persons of all countries, till its revenues were transferred to the Abbey of Tewkesbury, by Robert Fitzhamon, when the universities of England acquired the ascendancy, and that of Iltyd sank into comparative obscurity.—Lewis' Topographical Dictionary of England.—Williams' History of Monmouthshire. Appendix, p. 45—53.

¹ Llangystennyn Garthbenni in Ergyng. This church was in Herefordshire, but its situation is not known, as it has become ruined, or, which is more probable, has changed its name. It was probably founded by Cystennyn or Constantine, father-in-law of Pebiau ab Erb. But whether this Cystennyn can be identified as either Cystennyn Gorneu, a Cornish Chieftain of the early part of the 5th century, or his contemporary, Cystennyn Fendigaid, who was a sainted King in Britain soon after the departure of the Romans, cannot be determined; but from the circumstance of the following grant of Llangerniw, or the Church of the Cornishman, being made by Pebiau, it may be presumed that he and Cystennyn Gorneu were the same person.

And Pebiau held the written deed upon the hand of St. Dubricius, that the house of prayer and penance, and the episcopal residence might belong to the Bishops of Llandaff for ever. And in testimony thereof, he consecrated the church, and left there three of his disciples. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, first, Dubricius, Arwystyl, Ufelwy, Ieuan, Lunapeius, Cynfran, Gorfan; and of the laity, Pebiau the King was witness, Cystennyn, Gweuryr, Diheurwg, Cynddwyll, Gwyddgoll, Clem. Whoever will keep this alms given to God, may God keep him; and who will not preserve it, may God destroy him.

¹ Llangerniw.—We find this Church described in another part of this Work, page 183, where it is also called Cornubium, as being situated on the banks of the river Dour; but its precise situation is unknown. There are several churches on the banks of the Dore; but whether either of them is Llangerniw, there are no means of discovering. It is not improbable that it was founded by Cystennyn Gorneu, or his son Digain, to whom the foundation of Llangerniw, in Denbighshire, is attributed.

The witnesses are, Elwystyl, Junabui, Cynfarwy, Merchwydd; of the laity, King Pebiau, Collbwy, Centwyd. May a blessing be to those who keep it, and excommunication to those who violate it. Amen.

4.—OF LANN JUNABUI.¹

King Pebiau being penitent, with a humble heart, and mindful of his evil deeds, and changing his life for the better, gave in exchange for the heavenly kingdom, the mansion of Junabui, with an uncia² of land, to St. Dubricius, and his successors in the church of Llandaff, with all its liberty, without any payment to mortal man, except to St. Dubricius and the church of Llandaff. The boundary of this land is, From the ford to the top of the bank, downwards above the honeysuckle bush to the breast of the hill, direct over its ridge, till it descends above the old ford which is on the stream in the great wood, through the wood direct to the summit of Cambull, from Cambull straight to Wye. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Arwystyl,

Respecting several of these Grants to the Church of Llandaff, Bishop Godwin, in 1615, observes, "The names of the lands giuen are in continuance of time changed in such sort as now by these names for the most part wee cannot discern them."

Junabui the Priest, Cynfarwy, Cymmeired, Iddneu, Aelhaearn the Priest; of the laity, Pebiau is witness, Cynvyn, Coll, Aircon, Gwobrir, Gwodeon, Centwyd, Cynwyd. May peace be to those who keep it, and on its violaters a curse. Amen.

5.—OF CUM BARRUC.¹

Know all persons, that the two sons of Pebiau, namely Cynvyn and Gwyddai, have given three uncias² of land at Cum Barruc, to St. Dubricius, and to all his successors in the church of Llandaff, for ever, with all its liberty, without any payment to any mortal man, besides to St. Dubricius and his household, and attendants, and with all surrounding commonage in field and in waters, in wood and in pastures. The boundary of this land is, From the valley as far as Lech in length, and its breadth from Lech to the rock of Crita. The witnesses of this transaction are, of the clergy, Arwystyl, Junabui, Cynfarwy, Aelhaearn, Cynfarch; of the laity, the witnesses are Gwyddai and Cynfyn, Collbwy and Aircon. Whoever shall do wrong in this sacred matter, may they be cursed.

6.—OF LANN BOCHA.³

Be it known to you, that Bryttwn and Ilic have given for their souls, Lann Bocha, with all its liberty in field and in wood, in pastures and in waters, to God and St. Peter the apostle, and to St. Dubricius, the Archbishop of the archmonastery at Llandaff, and to all his successors for ever, with the approbation and consent of King Meurig, and also by the grant of the sons of Gwoleiddwg, namely Caradog and Cyngu, without the sovereignty and dominion of any one over it, besides of the Bishops of Llandaff. Whoever, therefore, shall separate it from the church of Llandaff, and its pastors, may he be punished with perpetual excommunication. The boundary of the grant is, From the ditch to Castell Meirch, from thence it goes to the valley of Lembi, and as far as the valley of Cilceirch, then it proceeds straight along the valley as far as Bawddwr, thence along the valley of Eilin to the top of the wood, thence through the middle of the wood as far as the head of Nantpedecon, and along to Twyngwyn as far as the red ford next to Twyni, thence to the appletree of Hendregweuni, thence towards the tuft or copse of willows it descends to the first ditch, where the boundary began. The witnesses are, of the clergy, Nudd, Simon, Sciblon, Arawn, Blainrydd, Iddon, Lloubwy, Gworeu, Cynwain, and many others, who are not here named; of the laity, Bryttwn and Ilinc, Glywi, Bywonyw, Llilli, Cynwyreg, They placed before them all this endowment upon the four gospels for ever, without any heir besides the church of Llandaff; and all with one accord blessed them who should keep this alms, and cursed those who should separate the house with its land, and those boundaries, from the church of Llandaff, until they should come to an amendment of their conduct. Amen.

7.—OF CIL HAL.

Erb, King of Gwent and Ergyng, observing that ambition, and the power of this world were of a perishable nature, took a farm, his inheritance, called Cil Hal, and devoutly gave it to St. Dubricius, Archbishop of the arch-monastery of Llandaff, and to his successors, with all its liberty and commonage, in field and in pastures, in wood and in waters, without any heir, but according to the will, and in the power of the Bishop of Llandaff, without any payment to any mortal man, either great or moderate. The aforesaid King placed his hand upon the four gospels, whilst St. Dubricius held them with the aforesaid farm. Its boundary is, From the great marsh as far as Arganhell. May blessing attend the posterity of those who shall keep this grant; and whoever will violate, and separate it from the church of Llandaff, may they be cursed, and sent into eternal fire. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Archbishop Dubricius, Aelhaearn, Iddner, Gwardogwy, Gwernabwy; of the laity, King Erb, Pebiau, Gwrthafan, Mabon, Cynddwy.

8.—TIR CONLOC.

King Pebiau the son of Erb, confirming the Scripture which saith, "Give, and it shall be given to you," gave for the salvation of his soul, and the remuneration of a future reward, four uncias of land at Conloc, on the banks of the Wye, below the island Ebrdil, as far as Cumbarruc in Ystrad Dour,¹ without any payment to mortal man be-

¹ Golden Valley, in Eryng, or S. W. of Herefordshire. The changes which have taken place in the name of this vale, are curious and worthy of observation. It first took its name from the river Dwr, the common Welsh word for Water, which runs through it. This word the English wrote Door, which they pronounced, and afterwards wrote Dore. Subsequently some of the residents in the Abbey built there, probably foreigners, either ignorant of the meaning of the word, or wishing to dignify their institution, Frenchified it, and wrote it D'or, thereby calling the place "The Golden Abbey." As the name was pleasing, the Vale adopted it, and it became "The Golden Valley." The Welsh subsequently re-translating it literally, have called it Duffryn Aur.

Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Archbishop Dubricius, Arwystyl, Uneifyn, Ieuan, Lunapeius, Cynfran, Gwrfan; of the laity, Pebiau, and his sons Cynwst and Gwyddai, and the heirs of Conloc, Cynwal, and many others of the higher rank of the whole nation. Whoever will commit sacrilege with respect to this grant, may they be accursed. Amen.

9.—OF PORTH TULON.¹

During the reign of Merchwyn ap Glewys, Gwordog sacrificed his daughter Dulon, who was a virgin, to Dubricius, Archbishop of the church of Llandaff, whom he consecrated to be a Nun, and gave to him four modii² of land in perpetual consecration, without any payment to mortal man, besides to God, and the Archbishop of Llandaff, and with all its dignity and liberty, and complete commonage of the district of Gower, in field and in woods, in water and in pastures: Archbishop Dubricius being witness, and present with his clergy Ufelwy, Merchwyn, Cyfelyn; of the laity, King Merchwyn, Madawg, Garw, Llygwy, Lnaed, and other innumerable witnesses. Cursing was pronounced by every mouth, and excommunication on all persons who should, from that time in future, separate the land from the church of Llandaff, and its pastors. Amen. And a blessing pronounced on those who would keep it.

10.—OF PENN ALUN.¹

Noe ab Arthur, fulfilling the command of the Apostle, who said, "Give, and it shall be given unto you;" (and elsewhere it is said, "A bountiful hand shall not be indigent,") gave for the exchange of a heavenly kingdom, in the first place, Penn Alun, with its territory, without any payment to mortal man, besides to God, and to Archbishop Dubricius, and the church of Llandaff founded in honour of St. Peter, and all his successors; and also Llandeilo fawr,² on the banks of the Towy, with its two territories,³ where Teilo, the pupil and disciple of St. Dubricius dwelt; and likewise the territory of the Aquilensians,⁴ on the banks of the river Tâf. Noe placed his hand upon the four Gospels, and committed to the hand of Archbishop Dubricius this alms for ever, with all its refuge, and all its liberty, in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, and with its dignity, under a perpetual curse on those who from that day forwards should separate the said lands from the church of Llandaff. Amen. Of the laity, Noe is the only witness,⁵ with an innumerable company of men; but of the clergy, Archbishop Dubricius, Arwystyl, Ufelwy,

11.—LIFE OF ST. DUBRICIUS.¹

I. There was a certain King of the region of Ergyng (Archenfield,) of the name of Pebiau, called in the British language Claforawg, and in Latin, Spumosus, who undertook an expedition against his enemies, and returning from thence he ordered his daughter Eurddil to wash his head, which, when she endeavoured to do, he perceived from her enlarged form, that she was pregnant. The King therefore being angry, ordered her to be put into a sack, and cast headlong into the river, that she might suffer whatever might befall; which, however, happened contrary to what was expected, for as often as she was placed in the river, so often was she, through the guidance of God, impelled to the bank. Her father then being indignant because he could not drown her in the river, resolved to destroy her with fire. A funeral pile was therefore prepared, into which his daughter was thrown alive. In the following morning, the messengers who had been sent by her father to ascertain whether any of the bones of his daughter remained, found her holding her son in her lap, at a spot where a stone is placed in testimony of the wonderful nativity of the boy; and the place is called Madle,² because therein was born the holy man. The father hearing this, ordered his daughter with her son to be brought to him; and when they came, he embraced the infant with paternal affection, as is usual, and kissing him, from the restlessness of infancy, he touched with his hands the face and mouth of his grandfather, and that not without divine appointment; for by the contact of the hands of the infant, he was healed of the incurable disease wherewith he was afflicted, for he incessantly emitted foam from his mouth, which two persons, who constantly attended him, could scarcely wipe off with handkerchiefs.

II. Who, when he knew that he had been healed by the touch of the infant, rejoiced greatly, like one who had come to a harbour after having suffered shipwreck. And he, who at first was as a roaring lion, was now turned to a lamb, and he began to love the infant above all his sons and grandsons; and of that place, Madle, (that is, Mad, good, lle, place, and whence Madle, a good place,) he made him heir, and also of the whole island, which took its name from his mother Eurddil, that is, Ynys Eurddil, which by others is called Maes Mail Lecheu. And from that hour he increased in growth, and knowledge; being sent to a seminary of learning, he proceeded cheerfully, and with great devotion; and although a child in age, he was soon a man in maturity, with great prudence, and eloquence in imparting knowledge. And when he became a man in growth, age, and wisdom, and skilful in both the modern and ancient law, his fame extended throughout all Britain, so that from all parts, not only scholars who were uninstructed came, but also learned men and doctors flocked to him for the sake of study, particularly St. Teilo, Samson his disciple, Ufelwy, Merchwyn, Elgwored, Gwmyn, Cynwal, Arthfod, Cyngar, Arwystyl, Junabui, Cynfran, Gworfan, Aelhaearn, Iddneu, Gwardogwy, Gwernabwy, Ieuan, Aiddan, Cynfarch. And with those, he retained two thousand clergy for seven successive years at Henllan,¹ on the banks of the Wye, in the literary study of divine and human wisdom; setting forth to them in himself an example of religious life, and perfect charity.

III. And during another space of time, he remained with his numerous disciples for many years, directing their studies, in his native district, namely, Ynys Eurddil, having chosen a place convenient for wood and fish, in a corner of that island, on the banks of the Wye, giving it the name of Mochros, that is, Moch, hogs, rhos a place,² Mochros in the British language signifying the Place of Hogs. And rightly was it so called, for, during the preceding night, an angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream, and said, "See that thou, on the morrow, go all round the place which thou hast proposed and chosen, and where thou wilt see a white sow lying with her pigs, there lay a foundation, and build in the name of the Holy Trinity a habitation, and an Oratory." The man of God having awoke from his sleep, and being mindful as usual of the angelic precept, immediately went round the place with his disciples; and as the voice of the angel had promised to him, a white sow, with her young pigs, got up before them; and there he immediately founded and constructed an Oratory and a habitation, where for many years he regularly lived, preaching, and giving instruction to the clergy and people, his doctrine shining throughout all Britain, as a candle on a candlestick, and the whole British nation sidered to have been about 1½ mile off from the Church, at a place, where at present is a large farm house, called Lanfrother, or Llanfrodys, signifying the Church, or Convent of the Brethren. The foundations of extensive buildings may still, at particular seasons, be traced on the summit of an eminence rising from the western banks of the river Wye; but all materials that were above ground have been taken away. Some adjacent inclosures still bear the name of Nether-Town, and Behind-Town Fields.

preserved the true faith without any stain of false doctrine.

IV. As the holy man shone in the doctrine granted to him, and also in noble parentage, and was eminent in eloquence, virtue increased in his country, and a more abundant entrance of the people into paradise. As the labour of his body increased, the more he rejoiced on account of the greatness of the burden, expecting a recompence in a mansion of the heavenly country. The sick were healed, and cured of various disorders by the laying on of his hands; and that I might relate some out of many things, Dubricius of blessed memory, visited the residence of St. Illtyd, in the season of Lent, that he might correct what wanted amendment, and confirm what should be observed. For there resided at the place many very holy persons, and also many who were affected with envy. Among those that lived there was brother Samson, the son of Amon, who obtained from the said father, that at the episcopal seat, on the day of his ordination, first, a deacon, secondly, a priest, and thirdly, a bishop, a white dove should descend on his head, which was seen by the holy Archbishop, and by the Abbot Illtyd, during the whole time of his ordination. The business of the house of St. Illtyd was divided between the brethren; the ecclesiastical affairs were performed by such persons as they best suited, and the offices were distributed among the brethren. The care of the cellar was, by his advocates, granted to St. Samson, who, day and night, served the clergy to their satisfaction, and also pleased the common people.

V. On a certain day, when he had filled the cups of the guests, and all the vessels of the cellar were become empty on the occasion of such great joy as the visit of St. Dubricius and his family; it was mentioned by an envious person that the Steward had altogether wasted the drink; for having enjoyed the same office, and being deprived of it, he envied the brother Samson, because of his bountiful hand. Hearing the murmuring of the congregation against him, and being ashamed of so much complaint, he came to St. Dubricius, and related to him all things in order, saying, "Holy father, flower of thy country, give me thy assistance." St. Dubricius, on hearing his request, prayed to God, that with respect to the distress which Samson suffered, he might liberate him; and being induced by fatherly affection, he went to the cellar, in company with Samson. And as it is said, "The Lord is wonderful among his saints," he raised his hand, and pronounced a blessing, which being uttered, marvellous relation! immediately the vessels overflowed afresh, as if they had been that hour filled with liquor as usual; and the evil effort of envy being got rid of, they were renewed, and what was given away by bestowing bountifully was restored by prayers as a remuneration.

VI. As the people were, according to custom, flying for succour to St. Dubricius, and recovering the health of their souls and bodies, there came a certain wealthy man, descended from royal ancestors, named Gwyddgeneu, beseeching him on bended knees, that he would release his daughter Arganhell, who was possessed by a demon, and was so far afflicted, that when her hands were bound with cords, one could hardly hold her from being drowned in the river, or burnt in the fire, or from destroying every thing about her with her teeth. O, how excellent a thing it is to serve God, who holds all things by his government, and subjects them to his will! The pious father having heard his intreaty, prayed to the Lord, and falling to the ground with flowing tears, besought God that by the intercession of St. Peter the prince of the apostles, and of all the saints, he would succour the diseased. Forthwith, in the presence of her father and relatives, the cords were broken, the evil spirit completely left her, her health and entire reason were recovered, and she received her former state anew, and in every respect improved. She then forthwith acknowledged her own weakness, and being filled with the Holy Spirit, renounced the world; and having preserved the chastity of virginity, and remaining under the protection of the holy man, she led an improved life until she died.

VII. The holy man observing that his life was not sufficient for himself and the people, and being weary through infirmities and old age, resigned the laborious office of a Bishop, and for many years lived solitarily, leading the life of a hermit, with many holy men and his disciples, who lived by the labour of their hands, in the isle of Bardsey,¹ and there he gloriously ended his life. Which island is, according to the British custom, and anciently, and as a proverb, called the Rome of Britain, on account of the dangerous passage by sea to it, and its distance, being situated at the extremity of the kingdom, and for its sanctity, because there were buried therein the bodies of twenty thousand holy confessors and martyrs, and its reputation, for it was surrounded on all sides by sea, having a lofty promontory on the eastern side, and its western coast plain and fertile with a sweet flowing fountain; was partly maritime and abounded with dolphins; was completely free from serpents and frogs, and no one died therein in the life time of a brother who was older than himself. And as his survivors had venerated him, and considered him as a father, when corporeally with them, so they afterwards applied to him, as an intercessor with God, and the defender of all the saints of the whole island, and of the whole country. A few miracles only, out of many, are committed to writing, because the records were either consumed by the fires of the enemy, or carried away to a far distance in the fleet of citizens when banished. But what were afterwards discovered and obtained from the monumental tombs of old persons, and the writings of very ancient authors; in what situation he was buried in the place of sepulture of holy men in Bardsey, which was the exact spot, and by whom, and how he was buried; in the time of what princes, Pope, Emperor, Archbishop of Canterbury, Bishop of Bangor, he was from thence removed to Llandaff, we commit to writing, and memory.—It was in the time of Calixtus,¹ Pope; Henry,² Emperor of the Romans; Ralph, Archbishop of Canterbury; Henry,³ King of England; David, Bishop of Bangor; Urban,⁴ Bishop of Llandaff.

VIII. On Sunday, the 14th day of November, in the year of our Lord, 612, St. Dubricius, Bishop of the church of Llandaff, migrated to the Lord.⁵ On Friday, the 7th day of May, in the year 1120, being leap year, he was removed from the isle of Bardsey, by Urban, Bishop of the same church, with the approbation and consent of Ralph, Metropolitan of the church of Canterbury, and the assent of David, Bishop of the church of Bangor, and in his presence likewise, and of Griffith, King of North Wales, and with the applause of all the clergy and people; and on

² Henry V. was Emperor of Germany from 1106 to 1125.

³ Henry I. King of England from 1110 to 1136.

⁴ Urban, Bishop of Llandaff from 1107 to 1133.

⁵ Later Chronologists have fixed on 522 as the date of the above event.

Sunday, the 23d day of May, he was received into his church of Llandaff, when there was a procession, and the holy cross, with abundance of relics, was carried; and on whose arrival there was plenty of rain, which was much wanted by the people, for it had not rained even a drop for seven weeks and upwards throughout the district of Glamorgan. On Wednesday, the 2nd day of June, the aforesaid Bishop of good memory, after the labour undergone, and on account of the obtaining of so great joy to himself and the church for having procured so great a patron, and fasting and prayer having been made, called together his canons, and his brother Esni, who was Dean of the same church, and a man of chastity, and very great prudence, and also his chaplain, named Isaac, a man of great shrewdness and ability. And the sacred relics of St. Dubricius being laid on the ground, were placed together that they might be prepared, the dust separated, and be washed with water after so long a journey. Being put with their own hands, out of reverence towards so great treasure and the whole country, into three basons before the altar of Peter the apostle, and the holy confessors Dubricius, Teilo, and Oudoceus; immediately, by the touch of the holy relics, the water bubbled on all sides in a marvellous manner, as if a great red hot stone had been thrown into it. And they did not only wonder, being amazed at the various ebullitions throughout the whole bason, but also because they perceived the water to be very hot. Not only for a short time, or the space of a moment, but also, as long as they were alternately moved by them in common in the water, so long the water increased in heat to the end of the ablution; and not only the sight and touch perceived this miracle, but the hearing likewise, for the sound of the bubbling of the heated liquid was heard.

IX. Those things having been seen, heard, and felt, as the "Lord is wonderful among his saints," the Bishop took a bone of the arm, and handling it, for great joy put it into the water, and when it was at the bottom of the water, it moved itself there for the space of more than an hour, no one moving it but the power of God. Which he alone having at first seen, he called the Dean to him, who was near, that he might see the moving of the bone, and water, and also the Chaplain; as every testimony should be in the mouth of two or three witnesses; and they returned thanks to God for so great a miracle. Which being seen, the relics of St. Dubricius were, for the praise and exaltation of the church of God, placed in a tomb suitable for the purpose, and in the old monastery, before the altar of St. Mary, towards the north side.

And the aforesaid prelate, of good memory, observing the small size of the place, being in length 28 feet, in breadth 15, and height 20, and with two aisles, one on each side, of very small size and height, and a porch, of a round form, 12 feet in length and breadth, with the advice of Ralph, Archbishop of the church of Canterbury, and all the clergy and people of the same, began to build a greater monastery in honour of Peter the apostle, and of the holy confessors, Dubricius, Teilo, and Oudoceus, on Wednesday, the 14th day of April, in the year 1120; and having received for himself and his church letters of the Lord Archbishop, with a blessing and pardon to all who would give their assistance, the work was commenced.

BIOGRAPHICAL MEMOIR OF ST. TEILO, ARCHBISHOP OF LLANDAFF—PRIVILEGE OF ST. TEILO GRANTED TO THE CHURCH OF LLANDAFF—GRANTS OF KING IDDON AB YNYR GWENT—ACCOUNT OF CHURCHES GIVEN TO ST. TEILO—GRANTS OF MEREDYDD AP RHUN, KING OF DYFED—AIRCOL LAWHIR AP TRYFUN, KING OF DYFED—TUDWG—AND OF THE SONS OF CYNWAIN.

1.—CONCERNING THE LIFE OF SAINT TEILO, ARCHBISHOP OF THE CHURCH OF LLANDAFF.

I. This holy man, dearly beloved brethren, was from his infancy a worshipper of God; nor is it wonderful, for before his infancy, God had predestinated him to be his servant; he predestinated whom he elected, he elected whom he loved, and he crowned his beloved with the victory of a true confession. The man of God therefore carried on his warfare by being urgent in his prayers to God, and by giving to the poor all that he possessed. What more? he diligently performed the six works of mercy; the servant was never idle with respect to ecclesiastical ordinances; all that was his own he caused not to be his own, and what was not his own, he caused to be his own. For leaving nothing remaining to himself of his own, he gave in exchange perishing for eternal things. O how great, and what a merchant, who gave his own to God, that he might receive an hundred fold! O precious merchandize! O commendable usury! O interest without crime! O gain without blame! Let us thus ourselves acquire gain, that as lenders we shall not lose our profit. O what wisdom and knowledge he possessed, who distributed to others that he might be enriched himself, who caused himself to become poor, that he might make others wealthy; he exercised pity, that he might obtain mercy. It is certain that such were the principles of this holy man, in which he persevered without intermission until the end of his life. He was therefore an eminent confessor, who, on account of his virtues, had nothing to confess; for in infancy he was good, in youth he was better, in advanced age he was best of all.

II. But that there may not be silence with respect to the race of so great a man as if it were not known, we know that he was descended from noble parents; and the nobility of the flesh exalted him among men, who, through the nobility of his mind, was likewise acceptable to God. After he grew up in age, virtue, and wisdom, he was called by intelligent persons by the suitable name of Elios; and Elios, in Greek, is interpreted in Latin by Sol, [the Sun;] for his learning shone as the sun, by illustrating the doctrine of the faithful. But illiterate men corruptly pronouncing the termination of the word, it came to pass, in course of time, that he was called not Elios, but Eliud. We read that he was, in his childhood, instructed in the Holy Scriptures, by St. Dubricius, the Archbishop, (whose successor he was,) until at length he saw him a boy of such talent, that he not only believed himself to be inferior to him in knowledge, but that with the co-operation of the Holy Spirit, he succeeded better than any other in explaining to him the obscure passages of the Scriptures. Which St. Dubricius observing, who hitherto had been his master, and understanding that he could not teach him, was desirous that he should succeed him in the mastership, because he exceeded him in learning and talent.

III. But so much modesty accompanied him, and such zeal for the study of sacred literature excited him, that he who was now able to become a master to others, yet sought a master for himself; as well because he had rather be under the discipline of another than live without constraint, as because he wished to understand the mysterious and obscure passages of the Scriptures, not after the manner of foolish philosophers, that he might confound others, but that he might confute the errors of heretics; and therefore he confuted the heresies, and corrected the errors of many.

IV. He more benefitted the faithful by his simple and general mode of reasoning, than any philosopher ever did by his subtile arguments: for they seeking the way, always deviated from it; he never passed by the way of truth, but travelled along it, as if a candle preceded him; and no one hindering him, he went to him who was the true light. For he travelled through him who is the way, and was taught by him who is wisdom. Then hearing the fame of a certain eminent man named Paulinus,¹ he went and abode with him for some time, that by conversing together on the obscure parts of the Scriptures, which he did not comprehend, they might understand all as truly explained.

¹ Paulinus, or Pawl Hen, was originally a North Briton. He founded a monastery at Ty-gwyn ar Dâf, (Whitland, in Carmarthenshire,) of which he was himself the first Abbot, and where he was also styled a Bishop, though it does not appear that he had the care of a diocese. His institution soon became famous as a place of religious education, and as Paulinus was eminent for his acquaintance with the sacred Scriptures, David, Tello, and other distinguished Saints, removed to Ty-gwyn to share his instructions.—Rees' Welsh Saints, p. 187.

And he had there for a companion St. David,¹ a man of most perfect life; to whom he was united by so much love, and the grace of the Holy Spirit, that in their transactions, they both had the same thought with respect to what was to be done, and what to be left undone. Behold, dearly beloved brethren, how God unites his saints on earth, whom he elects to be citizens in heaven; he chose two, that by means of two he might choose many. O blessed life of these two, through which the souls of many persons have received refreshment.

V. In the days of those holy men, a certain people, of Scythia, who, from their painted clothes, or the colour of their eyes, were called Picts, came in a very large fleet to Britain; and being seized with a desire of enjoying the land on account of the plenty of the good things, with which it then, above all islands, abounded, invaded the country of the Britons, more through means of treachery than force, and for some time exercised very great tyranny over them. Nor is it wonderful that it was overcome by it; for the nation of the Picts were crafty, and trained in many engagements by sea and land; and the other, although endued with strength of body, was artless, and peaceable, and not having been by any one attacked, and ignorant of war, was the more easily subjugated. If any one should be desirous of having a more full account, he will find it in the History of Gildas, the Historian of the Britons.

¹ David, or, as his countrymen called him Dewi, was the son of Sandde ap Caredig ap Cunedda, by Non, daughter of Gynyr of Caergawch. He was born at the place since called St. David's, and is reported to have received his religious education in the school of Iltyd, and afterwards in that of Paulinus, at Ty-gwyn ar Dâf, where he is said to have spent 10 years in the study of the Scriptures. He subsequently became Archbishop, and resided, first at Caerleon, and afterwards at St. David's, where he died about the middle of the 6th century.—Rees' Welsh Saints, p. 194—201.

V. And when a certain prince¹ of that impious nation had arrived from the seaport, and by murdering the unfortunate inhabitants, and burning the houses and churches of the saints, proceeded as far as the city of St. David's; he here stopped, and built himself a palace. And when he beheld the probity of the life of St. Teilo, and St. David, and of other servants of God, who lived with them, he not only envied them, as it is always the custom of the wicked to envy the good, but also because he saw them so attentive to the service of God, said many reproachful things of them, that he might separate them from Christ. And as he could not effect what he wished by threats, and bad language, he endeavoured to tempt them by various schemes, and thought that it could not be better effected than by the blandishments of women.

VI. He therefore ordered his housekeeper to send her female servants to the holy men, and offer themselves to their sight, that by their immodest deportment, and their meretricious blandishments, they might endeavour to withdraw the minds of the holy men from their holy purpose. Who, whilst they executed the orders of their mistress, and counterfeited madness, became really mad, as it is said, "He that acts in a filthy manner, deserves to become more filthy." Which the aforesaid persecutor, and all his family observing, they, by the favour of the servants of God, received the catholic faith, and were baptized by them in the name of Christ. He therefore was blessed, who persecuted the just knowingly to become just ignorantly, who tempted holy persons so as to become holy, who quarrelled with men to become reconciled to God, who despised the humble so as to take delight in humility.

VIII. After God had punished these impudent women with incurable disgrace, he adorned those holy persons by another marvellous work, and worthy of being mentioned. For when the blessed Teilo and Maidoc read in the courtyard of the monastery, not the fictions of the poets, or the histories of the ancients, but the Lamentations of the prophet Jeremiah, that they might be the more warmed with the love of the heavenly country; a certain servant came, and said to them that wood was wanting, wherewith the supper of the brethren was to be prepared. And this they considered vexatious, not because they were loath to obey the brethren, but because they could not return in time from the wood for preparing their supper. They therefore went to the wood in great haste, and being very anxious to return soon, and bring as much as would be sufficient for the need of those who prepared the food for several days, that afterwards they might the longer remain in holy reading, and in prayer. Two very tame stags yoked together met them, and offering their necks to be harnessed by the direction of God, afforded them their service; as if they said, "God seeing your anxiety, has deprived us of our wildness, and made us tame animals, in order that we might perform the labour which you have undertaken." Which being harnessed, St. Teilo and Maidoc praised the Lord, saying, "Blessed be God, and the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who has mercifully regarded his servants labouring for the brethren, by making tame animals of the wild beasts of the woods, that they might sustain the burden of our labour."

IX. And when the holy men had loaded their vehicle, and were returning home, they did not, as is the usual custom, stimulate the loaded stags, that they might proceed the faster, but went a great way before them, and the stags, no one driving them, followed. And that their praying might not be any more interrupted by business of the kind, the same wild animals, for a long time after, by the direction of God, brought wood to them, and what things were necessary for the use of the holy men. Who therefore doubts that those persons were holy, to whom God caused the stags thus to minister? Others may indeed kill the wild animals, but they cannot so tame them. When they approached their residence, all the inhabitants of the place met them, and said, "O divine brethren, how manifestly have ye been distinguished this day by divine grace, for the irrational brutes have become your servants. We, therefore, are unhappy persons, who have not obeyed the saints until we are admonished by brute animals to obey them." In the mean time, St. David going out of his tent, found before the door thereof, a book open, which had been ignorantly left by the brethren, and although it rained vehemently, it was altogether uninjured by the rain. Which he admiring, said, "God is wonderful among his saints, and holy in his works." And that a good thing might not be stifled in oblivion, but widely spread abroad, he immediately called the elders of the people, that beholding the wonderful works of God, they might render prayers and vows to the Lord, and publish to men the sanctity of their brethren, because God had preserved their book from the rain.

That those persons might be more and more distinguished by miracles, through the faith of Christ, as God caused water to flow from the rock for the thirsty Israelites, so he ordered fresh fountains to arise for the thirsty saints; and as we have heard from old inhabitants of the place, they who drank of those fountains, asserted that they did not drink water, but wine, so pleasant was its taste.

For those wonderful works, which the divine virtue performed for them, they were very soon celebrated every where as good and meritorious persons. God, therefore, seeing that they were adorned with so many virtues, adjudged that they should be promoted to ecclesiastical dignities; and he sent his angel to the holy men to inform them that they were to go to the holy city of Jerusalem, and there receive the rewards of their warfare.

The holy men, namely, Teilo and David, being in all things obedient to their God, durst not resist the divine appointment, but associating with them Padarn,¹ one dear to God, the three, in the name of the Holy Trinity, commenced the appointed journey; but not, as many travellers do, with the preparation of much money, but without staff or scrip, trusting rather to him who "giveth fodder to the cattle, and feedeth the young ravens that call upon him." Nor did they trust in vain; for God, through means of his faithful servants, gave seasonably all things that were necessary for them. They were adorned with the light of heavenly grace, so that their arrival was welcome to all, and their presence procured health to the sick. They therefore, through various provinces, left traces of their sanctity, by healing the disorders of all that came to meet them, who asked for a remedy for their infirmity in the name of Christ, and hoped by his power that they should recover their health. And when robbers met them in the way, they not only peaceably gave up to them their property, but if they thoughtlessly left any portion of their plunder behind, they reached it forth to them with a cheerful countenance. And they seeing the good simplicity of the holy men, asked pardon for what they had done, and not only restored to them their own, but guarded them until they were in a place of safety; thus by unknown persons, they became known, and robbers became their greatest friends.

Having at length completed so long a journey, they came to Jerusalem; and on their entering into the city, all the people met them, singing psalms and hymns on account of their arrival, and thus with great pomp they were conducted into the church of the Lord. Who, although fatigued after so long a journey, did not request soft beds, on which they might take rest, but lying on the naked pavement of the church, they continued their prayers for three days; and contemplated heavenly things so far, that they were altogether unmindful of what were earthly. In the mean time, all the clergy attentively watched which seats, when the prayer of the holy men was concluded, they should choose; for by the choice of the seats, they should know, as they had been informed beforehand by an angel from heaven, which of them, before the others, they should constitute a Bishop. For there were in the church, from ancient times, three seats appointed by the elders; two whereof were made of divers metals, and with skilful workmanship; the third was cedar, and had no outward ornament besides what nature gave to it. Which being humble, the humble Eliud chose for his seat, giving up the more costly ones to his brethren; which being seen, all who were present fell on their faces before St. Eliud, saying, "Hail, Holy Teilo, and grant that thy prayers "to the Lord may be beneficial to us; because to-day

“thou art exalted above thy fellow-brethren, for thou hast “sat in the seat of our Lord Jesus Christ, in which he “preached the kingdom of God to our fathers.”

The holy man on hearing this, arose with great astonishment, and prostrating himself on the ground, said, “Blessed is the man who hath not walked in the counsel of the ungodly, nor stood in the way of sinners, and hath not sat in the seat of the scornful.”¹ “And blessed be the Saviour, who chose that a seat for him should be made of wood, who, through means of wood should succour a perishing world.” So being humble, he humbly adored the seat, yea him, who had sat therein, because he being a creature, considered it to be the seat of the Creator. Wherefore it happened that they requested that he would, for instructing them in virtue, speak to them a word concerning Christ; and as he had imitated him in sitting in the chair, he would imitate him in preaching. Observing them to be warmed with divine love, St. Teilo was perplexed in a surprising manner, not because he did not know what to teach, but he doubted with respect to what they requested, and what was suitable for them, since he was altogether ignorant of their language. Yet the holy man, that he might satisfy the supplicating people, began to explain the Scriptures, so that every one of them who stood around, heard him speak in his own language.

And all who heard him preaching, were so pleased with the sweetness of his discourse, that the longer they heard, the more they were desirous of hearing him. At length, after they were all refreshed by his salutary doctrine, lest it should seem that he was presumptuous in executing the office of preaching, if he alone preached, he said to the people, "Hear now the words of life from my brethren, "who are of more perfect life than I am in conduct, and more "advanced in learning." Therefore St. David, and the very humble servant of God, Padarn, arose, and preached to the people, trusting in the Lord, who said, "When ye "come before kings and rulers, do not meditate beforehand "how, and what ye shall speak; for it will be given to you "in that hour what ye shall say."¹ So the holy men, by their alternate preaching, as with different dishes, refreshed the minds of the hearers; and if any of them wavered in the faith, they were induced, by the grace of the preaching of the holy men, to hold very stedfastly the faith of the Holy Trinity.

After these things they were elected by all the people, and raised to the episcopal dignity, as had been foretold by the angel; Teilo in the room of Peter, David in that of James; and in testimony of the grace they there received, the Lord bestowing it, three valuable presents were given to them, such as suited each person. Padarn had a staff, and a choral cap, made of very valuable silk, because they observed that he was an excellent singer. To David was given a wonderful altar, it not being known to any one of what material it was made, nor was it given to him without a reason, for he celebrated more cheerfully than the others. Last of all, the holy prelate Teilo had his gift, which, however, was not the least, a Bell that was more famous than great, more valuable in reality than appearance, because it exceeded every organ in sweetness of sound; it condemned the pejured, it healed the sick, and what appeared most wonderful, it sounded every hour, without any one moving it, until being prevented by the sin of men, who rashly handling it with polluted hands, it ceased from such sweet performance. Nor was he presented with such a gift unsuitably, for like as a bell invites men from the depth of sleep and slothfulness to the church; so the eminent prelate Teilo, being made a preacher of Christ, by incessant preaching, invited them to heaven. Being presented with these glorious gifts, and a blessing received on both sides, they returned with the greatest prosperity to their own country.

St. Teilo received the pastoral care of the Church of Llandaff, to which he had been consecrated, with all the adjacent diocese, that had belonged to his predecessor Dubricius; in which however he could not long remain, on account of the pestilence which nearly destroyed the whole nation. It was called the Yellow Pestilence, because it occasioned all persons who were seized by it, to be yellow and without blood, and it appeared to men as a column of a watery cloud, having one end trailing along the ground, and the other above, proceeding in the air, and passing through the whole country like a shower going through the bottom of vallies. Whatever living creatures it touched with its pestiferous blast, either immediately died, or sickened for death. If any one endeavoured to apply a remedy to the sick person, not only had the medicines no effect, but the dreadful disorder brought the physician, together with the sick person, to death. For it seized Maelgwn,¹ King of North Wales, and destroyed his country; and so greatly did the aforesaid destruction rage throughout that nation, that it caused the country to be nearly deserted.

¹ Maelgwn Gwynedd succeeded his father Caswallon in the sovereignty of North Wales, in the year 517, and in 546 was elected King of the Britons, on the death of King Arthur. In 552, he endowed the See of Bangor with lands and privileges; he likewise erected the town of Bangor Fawr, and repaired Shrewsbury, and the castle of Harlech. He died of the Yellow

In the mean time, while this disorder raged not only against men, but also against beasts, and reptiles, St. Teilo cried to the Lord in fasting, and lamentation, saying, "Spare, O Lord, spare thy people, who willest not the death of a sinner, but his life, and that thou shouldest not give thy inheritance to perdition." Then the anger of the Lord, through means of his prayers, and those of other holy persons, being appeased for a time, he was admonished from heaven, and with those who were the residue of the nation, departed into distant countries; some of whom went into Ireland, but many, he leading them, removed into France, until God should intimate to them to return to their country. And an angel thus spoke, and ordered St. Teilo, saying, "Arise, and go beyond sea, and gather the remains of thy nation, that they may follow thee, until God, full of mercy, seeing the misery of thy nation, and thee, a servant of God labouring for the nation in prayers and fasting, will grant, on the removal of the persecution from them and you, that you should return from banishment, and be free from danger of this Pestilence, (Y Fâd Felen,) in the church of Llanrhôs, Carnarvonshire, whither he had taken himself for shelter. The British Poets personified disease; and this, in the form of a woman, was to slay Maelgwn, if he looked upon it, which he incautiously did through a window. Taliesin's prophetic words, translated into English, are the following,—"A strange creature will come from the marsh of Rhianedd, to punish the crimes of Maelgwn Gwynedd; its hair, its teeth, and its eyes are yellow, and this will destroy Maelgwn Gwynedd."—Myvyrian Archaology, Vol. I. p. 34. This pestilence is recorded in one of the Welsh Triads, as follows,—"The second Pestilence was the Yellow Plague of Rhôs, which was caused by the carcasses of the slain, and who ever went within reach of the effluvia fell dead immediately."—Myvyrian Archaology, Vol. II. p. 59.—Williams's History of Aberconwy, p. 7, 8.

“kind for ever.” And again the angel said, “Go without hesitation, for an angel of the Lord will accompany thee, both in going and returning, and will again bring thee back with thy followers, to thy country with prosperity.”

Therefore St. Teilo arose, and took with him some of his suffragan bishops, and men of other orders, with persons of both sexes, men and women, and came, first of all, to the country of Cornwall, where he was well received by Gerennius,¹ King of the district, who treated him and his people with great honour. And in an interval of his hospitality, King Gerennius addressed St. Teilo, the Bishop, familiarly, saying unto him, “I request and desire that thou wilt receive my confession, and be my confessor in the Lord.” And the Bishop consenting, received his confession, and promised him, saying with confidence, that he should not see death before he received the body of the Lord, which he should consecrate. These things being done, the holy man with his companions went to the Armorican nations, and was well received by them. Samson, Archbishop of the church of Dól, hearing of the arrival of his co-brother in the country, met him with joy, for they were born in the same district, and had the same language, and were taught at the same time by St. Dubricius, the Archbishop, by the laying on of whose hands St. Samson was consecrated Bishop, as is related in his life.² And he requested St. Teilo to live with him, and he assented, and resided with him a long time, and there left some beneficent proofs of his sanctity, that is, the salutiferous fountain, called Cai, which he obtained from the Lord to flow. And besides the recoveries, which the sick obtained from it in the name of God, and Teilo, a remarkable miracle remains until this day. For the sailors of that nation of Armorica, in order to their obtaining the accustomed wind for their ships, to enable them to sail direct in whatever course they intended, had a custom of cleansing that salutiferous fountain, and often, through the intercession of the holy Bishop, the Lord granted their request, that is, the wind for the sails of their ship, whereby they sailed pleasantly on the smooth sea where they would.

Also he left there another testimony of his patronage, for he and the aforesaid St. Samson planted a great grove of fruit-bearing trees, to the extent of three miles, that is, from Dól as far as Cai, and those woods are honoured with their names until the present day, for they are called the groves of Teilo and Samson. And from that time, forth the Bishopric of Dól is honoured, and celebrated by the testimony of all the Armorican Britons, on account of the conversation and reverence of St. Teilo.

In the mean time, whilst these things were taking place and performed, it happened that Christ, through his mercy, ordered that the aforesaid pestilence, which was called the Yellow, should depart and vanish from the whole island of Britain. Which the faithful leader Teilo having heard, greatly rejoiced, and being summoned by the Holy Spirit, he sent messengers both into France, and beyond the Alps into Italy, wherever it was known to him that his countrymen had fled, and he collected them together, that as the pestilence was extinguished, and peace effected in every respect, all might return to their own country. Therefore he prepared three very great ships for the numerous people to pass over. The holy man came to the sea-port, as they were weeping and mourning on account of the departure of so great a father; and while they waited for a prosperous wind for their voyage, lo! the King of the district, Budic by name, came to meet him with a large army of Armoricans. And immediately the King, and his whole army, knelt down before him; and on his asking what this meant, the King answered him, "We bend our knees for this purpose, that thou mayest beseech God, for me and my country, on account of the calamity which we at present sustain; for a huge viper has lately appeared, which has nearly destroyed the third part of my kingdom."

And the holy Bishop for some time hesitated, and dreaded to go with him, for terrible things were related of the viper; and suddenly an angel of the Lord appeared to him, and comforting him, said, "Fear not to go with them, for the power of Christ will be present with thee, which will destroy the viper under thy hands; and on thy account the Redeemer and Saviour will save and deliver all the country." The holy Prelate following the advice of the angel, dared to approach the flying and winged dragon; and being inspired from heaven, he immediately took off one of his vestments, and tied it round his neck, and ordered him, by the Lord's commandment, to follow him as far as the sea, and cease to emit his poison and pernicious breath. And lastly, the pestiferous beast, according to the commandment of the Bishop, having become mild and gentle, did not lift up his wings to terrify, nor shew his teeth to gnash with them, nor put out his tongue to emit his fiery breath. And immediately the pious Prelate went towards the sea, leading after him the enormous monster by the portion of his vestments, wherewith he had tied him, and immediately, in the name of the Lord, fixed him to a great rock in the midst of the sea. And the Armoricans seeing this, entered into counsel with

St. Samson, and said to him, "Holy father, take care of us, for if that man of God leaves us, the serpent will come again and destroy us and our country; be pleased therefore to keep him with us, and earnestly intreat him to consent to remain, so that we may not die from that calamity."

And the pious father hearing that St. Samson, and King Budic, with the people, had consulted that they might retain him by their intreaty for some time, was displeased, and resolved in himself not to do what they agreed on and proposed. And, lo! an angel of the Lord appeared to him in that night, and said, "Do not hesitate to remain with them, for through means of thee, the country shall receive protection and assistance, and this will be a proof to thee, that I am sent from the Lord; to-morrow the King and the aforesaid Prelate, with a numerous attendance of people will come to thee, and suppliantly intreating, will strongly offer to thee the episcopal care and privilege of all Armorica; and consenting to them according to my advice, accept what they offer to thee for some time; in the mean while shall be collected thy countrymen, who are still dispersed on all sides, and say unto them "I will remain with you as long as may please God whilst waiting for the assembling of all my exiled countrymen." And again the angel said, "Lo! another proof will be shewn to thee from God through me. To-morrow the Prelate and King, with a large company of people will meet thee, that they may lead thee honourably, and gloriously, to the episcopal seat; and when they will zealously offer to thee the best of their horses for thee to ride thereon, do not thou consent to receive it at all from them; for thou shalt immediately have, as a testimony of the divine permission, a most excellent steed

“sent to thee from God through me; and mounting him cheerfully and triumphantly, thou shalt go with them to the bishopric of Dôl, which has been prepared and predestinated by God for thee.”

All these things, therefore, took place the following day, as the angel had promised; for the King, and Prelate, with a multitude of people met him, that they might conduct him with due honour to the episcopacy of Dôl, and exalt him into the episcopal seat; and, lo! suddenly, as the heavenly messenger had predicted, when they offered to him one of their best horses, and he refusing to receive it from them, there appeared near him a most beautiful steed, sent by God to him. And mounting him, he went with them to Dôl; and there, as he had been commanded by God, he consented to remain, until the time appointed of God the Father. And at that instant of time, he called to him King Budic, and with the bestowing of much blessing on him, gave him the aforesaid horse. Before all the people, the Bishop St. Teilo requested of God, and suppliantly prayed, that the soldiers of Armorica might excel in horsemanship, all other nations, and thereby defend their country, and avenge themselves victoriously on their enemies. And that privilege which St. Teilo obtained from the Lord to be conferred by him, remains until this day, according to the testimonies and historical accounts of all the old men of that country. For the Armoricans are seven times more valiant as horsemen than as foot soldiers.

In the mean time, whilst these things were performed, the Bishop St. Teilo, called to him his family, that is, the common people of his country, and conversing with them familiarly, at last said to them, “Know ye, my little children, that our King Gerennius is afflicted with a serious

“disorder, and I believe, as an angel has informed me, that he will die of this illness; when I came to that country, passing through his territories, I visited him, and he honourably received me and my companions, treating us hospitably for some days. And I engaged to him, promising in the Lord, that he should not see death, nor his last day, until he received from me the body of the Lord, and that then he should depart from the world. Prepare therefore for us our ship, that through means of knowledge divinely communicated, we may return to our native country, which has been a long time desired, and divinely promised to us.” A large ship being therefore prepared, and seven years and seven months expired, during which St. Teilo had resided in the country of the Armoricans, he entered into it with many doctors, and some other bishops, by whose sanctity the British nation should be refreshed after the pestilence. And then he enjoined his companions, saying, “Take with you this stone coffin, that the body of Gerennius may be buried therein;” and they wondering, declared that they could not obey the command, on account of its great size; “for,” said they, “ten yoke of oxen can scarcely move it from its place.” But he, trusting in the Lord, and the prayers of his bishops and people, directed that it should be cast into the sea before the prow of the ship, and that through the power of God it would be brought to the bank without using an oar, which was accordingly done. And as they sailed in the middle of the sea, another ship met them, and the sailors coming together, conversed with each other, and a bishop sent by King Gerennius mentioned that the King was dying, but expected the arrival and coming to him of St. Teilo. Sailing together from thence, they got to a harbour called Dingerein; and, lo! immediately the aforesaid stone, that had been thrown into the sea, having arrived, appeared between the two ships, and according to the faith of the holy pastor of Christ, manifested the glory of his majesty. St. Teilo coming to the King, found him still living, and having received the body of the Lord from his hand, joyfully migrated to the Lord; and his body was carefully buried in the aforesaid stone coffin, and by his holy confessor committed to God.

After these things, the holy man went to his own episcopal see, with a great number of the clergy and people who accompanied him; and there he remained to the end of his life, holding supremacy over all the churches of the whole of southern Britain, according to the appointment of the fathers who consecrated him at Jerusalem, as before mentioned. And the nation, although consisting of a few persons, very soon increased into a large multitude, and this, indeed, because they were obedient to every order of the holy man. So the holy church, which had been dispersed for a long time, was exalted by the coming of Teilo, the most holy of holy persons; to whom came those who had been disciples of St. Dubricius; viz. Lunapeius, Gwrmaet,¹ Cynmur, Teulydog, Llywel, Fidelis, Ismael, Tyfei, Oudoceus, and many others, that they might imitate him in conduct and doctrine. Of whom he consecrated Ismael to be a bishop, and sent him to take charge of the church of Menevia, now deprived of its pastor, for St. David had migrated to the Lord; and many other persons of the same rank he likewise raised to the episcopacy, sending them through the country, and giving dioceses to them to suit the convenience of the clergy and the people.

Now the miracles which we know to have been performed by him, we commit to writing and memory; for by being silent with respect to the miraculous power of God, and the saints, we are grievously deficient in duty; but by publishing it, we perform it. He had three pack-horses, who without any one attending them, went to the wood, and when loaded by the woodmen, returned in a similar manner without a driver, and thus served the brethren daily. It is said that he raised one from the dead on the river Cowin,¹ who was named Distinnic. that one sick of the palsy was by him healed in the church of Radh,² before all the people, on the Sabbath day, and with whatever disorder the sick were afflicted, they were healed of it by the laying on of his hands. But they, who in any way injured him, either were long tormented, or immediately died; as an audacious woman who offended him, expired before all the people. Also a certain petty king, named Gwaeddan, violated his refuge in one of his churches, commonly called Llandeilo Fechan, and as he was raging there and committing this act of violence, he immediately, in the same cemetery, vilely lost his life; and those who acknowledged their crimes, immediately recovered their health, and were pardoned through means of his prayers.

On the night of his decease, there arose a great dispute between the clergy of three of his churches, each asserting its authorities and privileges for obtaining his body; one, of which was Pennalun,¹ and which claimed because it was there his ancestors had been buried, and therefore, the proper place by hereditary right; the second church,² which was situated on the banks of the Towy, claimed it because it was the place of his residence, where he lived retired, and because he there gloriously ended his life; the third was Llandaff, and urged its claim on account of its having been his episcopal see, of its privileges and dignities, its consecrations and obedience, and of the unanimous voice of all the diocese, and especially because of its former state, and the appointment of St. Dubricius, and other fathers. But at length, attending to the advice of discreet men, they had recourse to fasting and prayer, that Christ, the great judge, who is the true authority, and privilege of holy persons, should declare by some manifest sign, to which of them he would be pleased to commit the holy body of the Saint. And in the morning, a certain elder, looking towards the place where the body was, spoke with a loud voice, saying, "Our prayer, brethren, has been heard by the Lord, who "deprives no one of his reward: Arise, and behold what "things have been done by Christ the Mediator between "God and man, that our dispute might be settled; and as "in the life, so in the death of the holy confessor Teilo, "miracles should be performed." For, lo! they saw there three bodies, to which there was the same dimensions of body, the same beauty of countenance, (what more?) they had the lineaments of the whole frame, without any difference.

So peace being restored, each with their own corpse returned homewards, and they buried the different bodies in those several places with the greatest reverence.

It was, however, known to all the people, by the great number of miracles, and the accounts of ancient writers, that he was certainly taken to Llandaff; for at the tomb of this eminent prelate, the sick were most frequently healed of their diseases, sight given to the blind, and hearing to the deaf.

These, and more than these, my dearly beloved brethren, the divine miraculous power performed for the most holy confessor Teilo. Wherefore celebrate the festivity of so great a man with all the affection of your mind, frequent his church, and according to the ability of each of you, bestow of your substance on the poor, in his name, who accepts great things for small, and small things for great; as he received a cup of cold water from the woman of Samaria, as if she had given a thousand talents of gold; that by imitating him in good works, ye may deserve to be glorified with him in seats above, by the aid of our Lord Jesus Christ, who always lives, and reigns for ever and ever. Amen.

During whose life, the Church of Llandaff, through his sanctity in conduct as well as in doctrine, increased in churches, and territories, which were given to it, with all their liberty, dignity, and privilege, by his contemporary Kings, Tewdrig son of Teithfalt, Iddon son of Ynyr Gwent, Gwrgan Mawr, Maelgwn, Aircol Lawhir, Cadwgan, Tredecil, Rhun, and many other Kings and Princes of southern Britain; and this was done by naming the churches with their territories and endowments, the description of their boundaries, and the attestation of authorized persons.

2.—PRIVILEGE OF TEILO, GRANTED TO THE CHURCH OF LLANDAFF.

The privilege of St. Teilo, and his church of Llandaff, is granted to him and all his successors for ever by these Kings and Princes, and confirmed by apostolical authority, with all its laws complete to itself, and its territories free from all regal service, without a governor, or deputy governor, without attendance at public courts, in or out of its jurisdiction, without going on military expeditions, without keeping watch over the country; with its own laws altogether respecting thieves, and robberies, rapine, murders, incendiarism, brawling, shedding of blood, violation of refuge every where in the territories of the holy man, assaults in the ways, and out of the ways, in giving judgment, and suffering it, with regard to all the people of St. Teilo, in the court of Llandaff, respecting commonage of water and herbage, field and wood for the people of the church of St. Teilo; with a market, and a mint at Llandaff, with the approach of ships every where throughout the territories of St. Teilo, free from kings, and all persons, except the church of Llandaff and its Bishop; and respecting every reproach, and injury which the king of Glamorgan and his men shall do to the Bishop of St. Teilo and his men, the said King of Glamorgan and his men shall render justice to the Bishop and his men, and receive judgment in the court of Llandaff. Every law which may be in the regal court, shall be likewise fully recognized in the episcopal court at Llandaff.

For the privilege of that church ordained by apostolical authority is, that it shall, with its dignity, remain to posterity free and quit from all burden of secular service.

Whatsoever, by the concession of pontiffs, the liberality of princes, or the offering of the faithful, or by other just means may belong to it, shall be preserved to it firm, and intire for ever. Whatsoever it may in future by divine bounty justly and canonically obtain, shall always remain to it quiet and undisturbed. For it is decreed that it shall not be lawful for any man whatsoever rashly to disturb the aforesaid Church, or take away its possessions, or retain such as have been taken away from it, or weary it with vexatious proceedings, and that all things, together with the boundaries of the diocese, be preserved to it. If any secular, or ecclesiastical person shall therefore, in future, rashly attempt to act against it, and being two or three times admonished, will not amend, with rendering due satisfaction, let him be deprived of the dignity of his station, and know that by divine judgment he is guilty of the perpetrated crime, and not partake of the most holy body and blood of God, and the Lord, our Redeemer Jesus Christ, and undergo severe punishment in the last judgment. But to all who shall preserve them to the said Church, may the peace of our Lord Jesus Christ effect, so that here they may enjoy the fruit of their good conduct, and from the righteous Judge receive the reward of eternal peace.

[The following document is from the Welsh.] This is the law and privilege of the church of Teilo, of Llandaff, which these Kings and Princes of Wales granted to the church of Teilo, and to all its Bishops after him for ever; and was confirmed by the Popes of Rome,—To enjoy all its laws, and its lands and territories free from all regal and secular service, without a Mayor, without a Chancellor, without attendance at public courts of litigation, either in the district, or out of it, without going on military expeditions, without arrest, and without keeping watch and ward; to have complete legal cognizance of robbers, and robberies, of rapine, intimidation, and way-laying, of incendiarism, and contention with blood, and without it; of all penalties for crimes therein committed, of violating the privilege of refuge, either in the church, or out of it, of opposition, either in the district, or out of it, and of assaults of every kind on the land of Teilo, and its men. And judgment belongs to the court house of the church of Teilo, at Llandaff, without exception with respect to commonage of water and of herbage, of wood and of field.

There belongs to Teilo a Market and a Mint at Llandaff, and a right for the approach of ships to the territory of Teilo, without obstruction from Kings, and all persons, except from Teilo, and the church of Llandaff, and its bishops. And with respect to any disgrace, insult, injury, or damage, which shall be committed by the King of Glamorgan, or by his men, or servants to the Bishop of Teilo, and his men and servants, the King of Glamorgan is to come to the court house of Teilo, at Llandaff, to render what is just and lawful, and receive judgment for the injury done to the Bishop of Teilo, and his men, and servants; and that his land and territory, and military arrangements, be subject to his own control; and every right belonging to the King of Glamorgan in his court, shall wholly belong to the Bishop of Teilo in his court. And that they, and their children after them, be cursed and excommunicated, who shall break and diminish this privilege; and he and his children be blessed, who will honour this privilege, and observe it. Amen.¹

5.—LANN TELIAU CRESSINNYCH.¹

In the time of the aforesaid King Iddon, the Saxons came into his country to plunder, and he with his army pursued them, and in his way came to St. Teilo, who then remained with his clergy, at his abode of Lanngarth, and strongly intreated him, and his clergy, that they would pray to God in behalf of him, and his whole army. And St. Teilo came with him to a mountain in the middle of Cressinic, near Trothy,² where he stood, and prayed to Almighty God that he would succour his plundered people; and his prayer was heard, and a great victory was obtained; the enemy being put to flight, and the plunder taken from them. The King returned, and granted three modii³ of land about that mount, to St. Teilo, and the church of Llandaff, with all its commonage to the inhabitants, in field and in woods, in water and in pastures; and excommunication was pronounced on all those in common, who should, from that day forwards, separate the alms from the church of Llandaff, and on the other hand an absolution on all those who should preserve it in peace. 8.—TREF CARN, LAITHTY TEILO, MENECHI.¹

When Aircol Lawhir, son of Tryfun, was king of the region of Dyfed, and in his turn held his court at Lis-castell, which was the metropolis of the whole region, it happened every night when the stewards of the King served him with meat and drink, that by the instigation of the devil, through excess of liquor, one of the soldiers, or of the family of the King, was always killed. And when the King observed the frequent murders, he knew that it could not be by any means prevented unless by almsgiving, fasting, and the prayers of holy persons. Fasting and prayer having been made, the King commanded that as St. Teilo then resided in his mansion at Penaly, he should quickly come to him, that he might bless him and his court, so that the accustomed murder should not take place any more therein. And after St. Teilo came to him, he blessed him and his court, and sent two of his disciples, Llywel and Fidelis, that they might serve the court by distributing meat and drink to all by measure and in sufficient quantities; and by the grace of the Holy Spirit, no murder was committed that night, nor afterwards, in his court, as had been usual.

The King knowing that it was by means of the prayer of St. Teilo he was liberated from that danger, granted to him, of his own inheritance, three villages, that is Trefcarn, whose boundary is from the mountain Garthon to the source of the brook Brad, downwards to Ritec; on the other side, from the mountain Garthon to Claurion brook, to Ritec. Menechi, from Tref Eithinawg to the brook Hirot Guidon, to Ritec; on the other side, from Tonou Pencenn to the source of the brook of Castell Cerrau, to Ritec, with all their liberty in field and in waters, in wood and in pastures, within and without, free from any payment to any mortal man, besides to God, and Archbishop Teilo, and to the Church, and to his successors for ever. King Aircol, with his Princes being witnesses; and of the clergy St. Teilo was witness, and also Llywel and Fidelis his disciples: a blessing was pronounced by all, with one accord, on those who should from that day forwards, preserve this alms in peace for ever. But those who shall separate it from the Church of Llandaff, let them be separated in the day of judgment, as goats from the lambs. Amen.

9.—CILTUTUC AND PEN CLE CIR.

It happened on a certain day that the pigs of a person of Penaly got into the corn of a rich man, named Tudwg, who when he saw the loss which he sustained, sought the swineherd, that he might revenge on him, but he did not find him until he came to Penaly, and there he met with him. Being desirous to smite him with a lance, a certain infant named Tyfei, a nephew of St. Teilo, came in the way, and the swineherd defending himself, the cruel man pierced the infant with the lance, and he died. And afterwards repenting of what he had done, he sought pardon of St. Teilo, and with the leave and consent of King Aircol, gave himself, and all his progeny, with the villages of Ciltutuc and Pencle cir, with great devotion in perpetual service, to the Church of Llandaff, and its pastors for ever, with all their liberty, without any payment to any mortal man besides to God, and the Church of Llandaff. Of the clergy, Archbishop Teilo is witness, with his disciples, Llywel and Fidelis. And of the laity, King Aircol, Lledclyd, Ina. Its boundary is, From Castell Cerrau to the brook Torricair, to Locuhty; on the other side, From the brook of Castell Cerrau to Ritec.

10.—MAINAWR MATHRU,¹ AND CENARTH MAWR.²

There was a man named Cynwain, of Dougleddyf, who was born of a noble family, yet was poor, and his wife being prolific, he had a son every year in succession; and the more they ought to have rejoiced, the more they grieved on account of poverty, and having so many children. He and his wife possessed so much simplicity, that they sought the advice of St. Teilo respecting their numerous children and poverty, and enquired what was best to be done in future. Holy Teilo hearing their querulous complaint, said, "I see no means whereby you will avoid "having a numerous family, but by abstaining from cohabitation." Which having heard, they considered it to be very excellent advice, and abstained during seven years. This having taken place, they had no expectation of having any more offspring, and broke through the restraint. The wife then conceived, and brought forth seven sons; and when unbaptized, they carried them towards St. Teilo, and said, "We received the advice of St. Teilo with bad luck, and are also unfortunately burdened; let us drown

“them in the water, or let us give them up to him, if he will take care of them.”

As by chance St. Teilo was passing on his way, he found their father at Rytsinetic, on the river Tâf, by the instigation of the devil, plunging his sons one by one in the river, on account of his indigence and poverty. St. Teilo beholding such cruel work, received them all, half alive, and with the giving of thanks, baptized them in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. Having taken away the seven sons from the unfortunate father, the very pious man brought them up, sent them to study literature, and placed them on his estate of Llandeilo,¹ so that the place received from some persons the name of Llandyfrgwyr,¹ because, on account of their religious life, they had no other food than aquatic fishes, which, according to their number, seven, were sent by God to them daily, on a certain stone in the river Tâf, called in consequence, Llech Meneich, that is, the Monks' Stone. And again, they were called Dyfrgwyr, because they were found in the water, escaped from the water, and were maintained by fishes of the water. Dwfr gwyr, in the British language, signifying, Men of the water.

At a certain time, St. Teilo, who had frequently visited them, with his disciples, came that he might enjoy their conversation; and one of the brothers, according to custom, went to the water for the fishes, and found on the afore-said stone seven, according to the number of the brothers, and also an eighth of larger size than the seven, all of which he brought home. And the brothers were therefore amazed, as it is said, “The Lord is wonderful among “his saints,” because they well knew that on account of their patron and master, St. Teilo, becoming their guest, the Creator of all things had increased the number of the fishes.

And after they had resided there a long time, living religiously, and passed much other time in the society of St. Dubricius, he sent them to another place of his, in Pebidiawg,¹ called Mathru, and there they were named the Seven Saints of Mathru. And after they remained there for another space of time, they came to Cenarth Mawr, where they continued until the end of their lives. And they granted all their land of Mathru, and Cenarth Mawr to their holy Patron and Master, St. Teilo, and to the Church of Llandaff, and all its pastors for ever, with the approbation and consent of King Aircol and his Princes; with whom he gave those lands, on account of their sanctity, in eternal consecration, without any payment to any mortal man, besides to God and to the holy brethren, and St. Teilo, with all their liberty in field, and in woods, in water, and in pastures, excommunication having been pronounced by all unanimously on those who should separate these lands from the archmonastery of Llandaff and its pastors for ever, and a blessing on all who should preserve them. Amen.

There was one Budic, the son of Cybydan, a native of Cornugallia,¹ who being expelled from his country, came with his fleet to the region of Dyfed² in the time of Aircol Lawhir, who was King thereof; who while he remained in that country married Anauued,³ the daughter of Ensic,⁴ whose mother was Gwenhaf, daughter of Llefoniw; from which Anauued there were born to him Ismael, and the martyr Tyfei, who lies buried at Penaly. While he remained in the country, messengers were sent to him from his native region, Cornugallia, requesting that he would come, with all his family, without delay, and by the aid of the Britons obtain the kingdom of the nation of Armorica, whose King being dead, they, in a council called by them, had unanimously expressed their wishes for him to succeed, as he was born of royal progeny. The message having been heard, and affectionately received, he took his wife, then pregnant, and all his family, and with a fleet he went to his country, and reigned over all the region of Armorica, which in his time extended as far as the Alps. His wife brought forth to him a son, who was named Oudoceus; whom afterwards, when he arrived at a proper age, he sent to study literature, for he had before promised St. Teilo in Britain, that if he should have a son, he would commend him to God, as he had before commended his two brothers, of whom we have spoken. And St. Oudoceus from his infancy began to excel in learning and eloquence, so far as to surpass his contemporaries and companions in morals and sanctity.

And after a very long time, the Yellow Pestilence¹ came to the Greater Britain, which was called Yellow, because it occasioned all persons who were seized by it, to be yellow and very pallid, and it appeared to men as a column of a watery cloud, having one end trailing along the ground, and the other above, proceeding in the air, and passing through the whole country like a shower going along the bottom of the vallies. Whatever living creatures it touched with its pestiferous blast, either immediately died, or sickened for death. If any one endeavoured to apply a remedy to the sick persons, not only had the medicine no effect, but the dreadful disorder brought the physician, together with the sick person, to death. And after a very long space of time, it ceased by the prayer of St. Teilo, and the holy men of Britain. And that the ancient nation should not all be destroyed, a divine voice came to St. Teilo, directing him to go, together with his clergy and people, to Cornugallia, which afterwards was called Cerniw Budic, and there he found his nephew Oudoceus, who was eminent and gentle, and learned in both kinds of law, shining as a candle on a candlestick. And after receiving these directions, St. Teilo, Archbishop of Llandaff, the church of St. Peter the apostle, returned to his native country, with his nephew accompanying him, who so far increased in goodness and knowledge, that by the election of the clergy and people, he succeeded to the Bishopric of the Church of Llandaff, being chosen by the clergy, Merchwyn, and Elwared, and Cynfyn, a master; and three Abbots, Cadgen, Abbot of Illtyd; Cyngen, Abbot of Cadmael; Cednig, Abbot of Docunni; and by the laity, King Meurig, and his sons Athrwys, and Idnerth, Gwyddwen, and Cetiau, Brochwael, Cynddog, Llywonerth, Cadwalader, and all the Princes of the whole diocese. St. Oudoceus was sent with his aforesaid clergy, Merchwyn, Elwared, and Cynfyn, and the messengers of the three Abbots, and of the King and Princes, to the blessed Archbishop, at the city of Canterbury, where he was consecrated Bishop of the Church of Llandaff, founded in honour of St. Peter. King Meurig, with his two sons, and his wife Onbrawst, daughter of Gwrgan the Great, and the three Abbots of the three monasteries, with all the Princes of his kingdom, and all the family of St. Dubricius, and St. Teilo of the Church of Llandaff, received him with joy, giving and confirming the same privilege as had before been given to St. Dubricius, and to St. Teilo, and to their successors, with all its dignity and liberty; and they went round the whole, with the King holding the four Gospels in his hand, and confirming the endowment of the holy Church, the holy cross preceding, and the holy choir following, with the chief Pastor, singing, "May peace be "within thy walls, and plenteousness within thy palaces." "Glory and riches shall be in his house, and his righteousness endureth for ever."¹ And with the sprinkling of holy water on all the boundaries, he confirmed the same Privilege as had been before given to St. Dubricius; that is, without Governor or Deputy Governor, without attending forensic meetings either within or without, without going on military expeditions, without keeping watch over the country either within or without, and with its Court complete, free, and entire as a regal court, with its refuge, in whose asylum the fugitive might remain safe without human protection, not for a limited time only, but without end, as long as he would, and with the bodies of the Kings of southern Britain granted and committed to Llandaff, for ever. And as the Church of Rome has dignity above all the churches of the catholic faith, so the Church of Llandaff exceeds all the churches of southern Britain in dignity, and in privilege, and in excellency; and with complete commonage to be enjoyed by the present and future inhabitants, in field, and in waters, in wood, and in pastures; and with those boundaries, From Cynlais within Taff, and Elei, the whole territory as far as the sea.

And for some time he held in peace the whole diocese, from Mochros to the island Teithi,² until King Cadwgan, on a certain time, by the instigation of the devil, wounded one of the clergy of Bishop Oudoceus, and thus a spark of mischief arising, the King was moved by anger, and was desirous to expel the holy man from his country, beyond the Towy; St. Oudoceus therefore left the country under a curse; and from that time the diocese remained divided into two Bishoprics by the river Towy, which had before divided the two kingdoms, that of Meurig on one side, and of Cadwgan on the other. After an interval, King Cadwgan repented of what he had done towards Oudoceus and his family, and seeking for pardon, sent to him, and restored the lands of the Church of Llandaff, namely, Penaly, and Llandeilo fawr, and Llandyfrgwyr, which had before belonged to Archbishop Dubricius, and from the time of Noe son of Arthur, and also the churches with their lands, which before belonged to St. Teilo, and all their dignity, and privilege, and perpetual liberty. And in his time, plundering, and laying waste by the Saxons with respect to southern Britain took place, and especially on the borders of his diocese, so far that by the violence of the invading nation of the Saxons, they plundered his diocese from Mochros, on the banks of the Wye, on one part, as far as the river Dore, on the other, and as far as Gurmuy,¹ and to the mouth of Taratyr at the river Wye. And these plunderings on both sides having been effected, this is its division:—

dignity which was confirmed to his posterity for ever, was desirous to visit the places where holy persons resided, and with great devotion sought the residence of St. David, on account of his veneration for him, and the daily mention of him in his prayers; and as he wished to take with him holy relics, he took them, and carried them with him with great veneration; and he also took with him from his place of residence at Llandeilo fawr, some of the relics of the disciples of his maternal uncle, St. Teilo, and placed them together in a chest convenient for the purpose.

II. And as he travelled through his diocese, towards his Church at Llandaff, his attendants reverently carrying the relics, and singing psalms with praises, and the holy Cross going before, when they came to the road of Pennallt in Cydweli,¹ there came some persons from the rocks of Pennallt, who had ill will against the holy man, and said, "Shall those clergy, who are loaded with gold and silver, and as we may say, with the treasures of St. David, and St. Teilo, escape from our hands? No, let them be taken: and having got all their wealth from them, we shall be enriched with great weight of metal in gold and silver." And being full of envy and covetousness, they attacked, with great fury, those who carried the chest; but when they reached forth their hands, and held their lances against the holy man and his attendants, their eyes, which sinned against them, lost their sight, and their arms, which were ready to shed the blood of the just person, became stiff, so that they could not bend them towards themselves, nor by any means extend them.

III. St. Oudoceus beholding the privation and death of the offenders, began to pray to God with bended knees in their behalf, performing the divine command, and saying, "I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but rather "that he turn from his way and live."¹ And on the other part, the afflicted persons acknowledging their crime and asking pardon, and the prayer of the holy man being also heard, they recovered their sight, and resumed their restored senses; and having performed the penance enjoined on them suitable to their crime, promised in fasting, prayer, and almsgiving, perpetual obedience to the holy man, and his successors, and to the Church of Llandaff, and an amendment of life.

IV. St. Oudoceus being thirsty after undergoing labour, and more accustomed to drink water than any other liquor, came to a fountain in the vale of Llandaff, not far from the Church, that he might drink, where he found women washing butter, after the manner of the country; and sending to them his messengers and disciples, they requested that they would accommodate them with a vessel, that their pastor might drink therefrom; who, ironically, as mischievous girls, said, "We have no other cup besides "that which we hold in our hands, namely, the butter." And the man of blessed memory taking it, formed one in the shape of a small bell; and he raised his hand so that he might drink therefrom, and he drank. And it remained in that form, that is, a golden one, so that it appeared to those who beheld it, to consist altogether of the purest gold; which by divine power is from that day reverently preserved in the Church of Llandaff, in memory of the holy man; and it is said that by touching it, health is given to the diseased.

V. When Einion, King of Glewyssig,¹ hunted among the rocks and woods of the river Wye, as he was accustomed to do, he wondered greatly how and what course the stag was taking, as it was pursued by the dogs with the noise of horns and huntsmen through the vallies; but the divine protection preserved it throughout, until it reached the cloak of St. Oudoceus; when lying, it rested and recovered its breath, and was safe, as one who had come to a harbour after suffering shipwreck, or who had succeeded to joy after sorrow. The huntsmen remained afar off, with the dogs, mute and stupified, and being astonished, they now with knees bent to the Lord, regarded as a neighbour and friend, what they had before pursued as an enemy.

VI. St. Oudoceus, a man full of age and discreet maturity, who served God on the brook Caletan, near the river Wye, without his cloak, on which the stag lay, and which procured him safety and protection, had regard to the gentle beast, which the power of God had tamed; and King Einion and the hunters, with great astonishment, and with bended knees, and hands lifted up towards heaven, asked pardon of the Lord and St. Oudoceus, with great devotion, as if they had committed some crime. First of all the King gave him quiet possession of the stag; afterwards he gave all the territory which he had gone round during the whole day, following the track of the stag, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus the Bishop, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever; the aforesaid track over mountains, brooks, and rocks, dividing for ever the territories of the church.

VII. The holy man, after the land, with its boundaries, was granted to him, and which had the name of Llan Einion, increased in virtue, and the situation being retired, and abounding in fish and honey, he there built a place of residence, and a convenient oratory; and there resided with his family, having resigned the honour of the pastoral care of Llandaff, not because he did not satisfy the people, but because he did not satisfy himself in his charge. Having therefore given up the pastoral care, he wished to lead a religious life in retirement; and calling to him some brethren, he lived in communion with them during many years, leading a holy life, an eminent life, a life which from day to day advanced in improvement: and as many as came to him for advice, were refreshed by his paternal assistance. Nor was he at any time sparing of labour; indeed the common people came to him from every direction, that by means of his important, mild, and grave opinion with respect to supporting, and bearing affliction patiently, which they usually received, they might obtain safe protection from him, which was desirable to widows and orphans, of every description. He who was illustrious in outward appearance, was also illustrious in virtue, he shone in doctrine, and was eminent in reputation.

VIII. When he was engaged in prayer intermixed with tears and sighing, one of the brethren came to him, and said, "O! good father! come out that thou mayest see the "timber which is prepared for thy buildings." Which as he saw, lo! the good and just man, and the Historian of all Britain, Gildas, the Wise, as he is named in histories, who resided at that time in the island of Echni, leading the life of a hermit, passed over the middle of the river in a boat, bringing with him the said timber as his own, having found it in the middle of the wood, without an owner, and far from the habitation of men. When St. Oudoceus saw him, he called to the brother to throw his building timber for him on the ground, or in a brotherly manner suppliantly obtain pardon from God and man for his unlawful conduct. Being unmindful of his admonition, and having uttered a prayer, he passed over in the boat; and as if with some indignation, brother Oudoceus took an axe, not that he should strike him, but that the power of God through him might appear in a creature of God for ever. The axe descended on a stone which was whole, and completely divided it, as if it had been done artificially by hand: nor are those stones to be avoided by any one who passes that way, for being near the bank of the river Wye, they are always in sight, appearing as cut by the wonderful blow, and immoveable.

IX. Only a few out of many of the miracles of this holy man, of blessed memory, are committed to writing, because the accounts have been either burnt in conflagrations, or were carried far off in the fleet of exiled citizens. What therefore have been since discovered and obtained from early monuments of old men, or the most ancient writings, are committed to memory and to writing. And his holy and glorious life being completed, with acquiring many lands to himself, and to his Church of Llandaff, he rested in the Lord on the 2nd day of July.

3.—GRANT OF KING MEURIG SON OF TEWDRIG.

King Tewdrig when he was in his kingdom, enjoying peace and administering justice with his people, had less regard for temporal than eternal power, and accordingly gave up his kingdom to his son Meurig, and commenced leading a hermitical life among the rocks of Tintern.² When he was there resident, the Saxons began to invade his land against his son Meurig, so that unless he individually would afford his assistance, his son would be altogether dispossessed by foreigners. Concerning which, Tewdrig said that while he possessed the kingdom, he was never overcome, but was always victorious; so that when his face was seen in battle, the enemy immediately were turned to flight. And the angel of the Lord said to him on the preceding night, "Go to-morrow to assist the people of God against the enemies of the church of Christ, and the enemy will turn their face in flight, as far as Pwll Brochwael; and thou being armed, stand in the battle, and seeing thy face and knowing it, they will, as usual, betake themselves to flight, and afterwards for the space

“of thirty years they will not dare, in the time of thy son to invade the country; and the natives and other inhabitants will be in quiet peace; but thou wilt be wounded by a single stroke in the district of Rhyd Tintern, and in three days die in peace.”

And rising in the morning, when the army of his son Meurig came, he mounted his horse, and went cheerfully with them, agreeably to the commandment of the angel; and being armed, he stood in the battle on the banks of the Wye, near the ford of Tintern; and on his face being seen, the enemy turned their backs, and betook themselves to flight; but one of them threw a lance, and wounded him therewith, as had been foretold to him; and therefore he rejoiced, as if spoil had been taken on the vanquishing of an enemy. After his son Meurig returned victorious, and with the spoil that had been taken, he requested his father to come with him, who thus said, “I will not depart hence until my Lord Jesus Christ shall bring me to the place which I have desired, where I shall like to lie after death, that is, in the island of Echni.” And early in the morning, two stags yoked, and ready with a vehicle, were before the house where he lodged, and the man of God knowing that God had sent them, mounted the carriage, and wheresoever they rested, there fountains flowed, until they came to a place near a meadow¹ towards the Severn. And when they came there, a most clear fountain flowed, and the carriage was completely broken, he then immediately commended his spirit to God, and ordered the stags to depart; and having remained there alone, after a short space of time, he expired.

¹ Now called Mathern, the church whereof is situate on the banks of Pwll Meurig brook, near the influx of the river Wye into the Severn.

His son Meurig being informed of the death of his father, built there an oratory and cemetery, which were consecrated by St. Oudoceus; and for the soul of his father he granted the whole territory to Bishop Oudoceus, and the Church of Llandaff, and its pastors, in perpetual consecration, without any payment to any mortal man besides to St. Oudoceus, and the Church of Llandaff. 4.—THE CHURCH OF GURUID.

After an interval of time the same King Meurig, with the approbation and consent of his heir Liliau, and likewise as his gift, granted the Church of Guruid, with its land, to God, and St. Dubricius, and St. Teilo, and the Church of Llandaff, and to St. Oudoceus, who was present, and his successors for ever, with all its dignity and liberty, and all its commonage in fields and in woods, in waters and in pastures, without any payment to any mortal man, besides to God, and St. Peter, and the Church of Llandaff, and its pastors, with a perpetual curse on whomsoever should separate it from the Church of Llandaff. Of the laity, Meurig is witness, Cynfelyn, Tudyr, Llyfran, Afrgen, Anwyn, Unhw, Cynfrwyn, Cadlew, Briafael, Gwynog, Inathus, Cynfonog; of the clergy, Oudoceus the Bishop; Jacob, Abbot of Cadoc; Cadgen, Abbot of Illtyd; Eiddigirn, Abbot of Docunni. It is well known that Bishop Oudoceus acquired land as his own, that is the estate of Cingualan, land indeed of St. Dubricius in the country of Gower,² which St. Oudoceus lost from the time of the mortality, that is of the yellow pestilence, until the time of Athrwys, son of Meurig. And St. Oudoceus received from the hand of Athrwys, the grandson of Gwrgan the Great, the aforesaid little cells in perpetual consecration, and with all their dignity, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, and under a perpetual curse against him who should separate the aforesaid churches from the monastery of Llandaff; and whoever will keep them, may the Lord keep him. 8.—RIUGRAENAUC, NANTAUAN, GUERBERTH VILLAGE.

King Meurig and Cynfeddw met together at Llandaff, in the presence of Bishop Oudoceus, and swore, the relics of the saints being placed before them, that there should be firm peace kept between them. But although the oath had been taken, after an interval King Meurig, by deceit, killed Cynfeddw; and afterwards Bishop Oudoceus convoked all his clergy from the mouth of Taratyr in Wye to the Towy, and with his three Abbots, Cyngen, Abbot of Carvan valley; Cadgen, Abbot of Iltyd; Sulien, Abbot of Docunni; and in full synod, excommunicated King Meurig on account of the murder committed by him, and of the agreement made in his presence, and upon the altar of St. Peter the apostle, and St. Dubricius, and St. Teilo, being broken, and by laying the crosses on the ground, together with the relics of the saints, he debarred the country from baptism and Christian communion, and cursed the King with his progeny, the synod confirming the same, and saying, "May his days be few, may his children be orphans, and his wife a widow." And the king, with the whole country, remained for the space of two years and more under the excommunication. After these things, the King seeing the perdition of his soul, and the condemnation of his kingdom, could not any longer sustain an excommunication, which had continued so long, and sought pardon from Oudoceus at Llandaff, with shedding of tears and bowing down his head. And before the three Abbots Bishop Oudoceus put on him the yoke of penance suitable to the quality and magnitude of the crime, and recommended him to shew his amendment towards God and the Church of Llandaff in three ways, that is by fasting, prayer, and alms-giving. King Meurig having accepted the yoke of penance, gave for the redemption of his soul, and for the soul of Cynfeddw, four villages, to the Church of Llandaff, and in the hand of Oudoceus the Bishop, and to all his successors, with all their liberty, free from all service, for ever, and all commonage throughout the country, to the persons who abode on those lands, in field, and in wood, and in pastures, and in water. 14.—THE VILLAGE OF LATH.

Be it known to all who dwell in southern Britain, that King Morgan, son of Athrwys, granted to the Church at Llandaff of St. Peter, and of St. Dubricius, and St. Teilo, and to St. Oudoceus the Bishop, and to all his successors, for the exchange of a heavenly kingdom, the village of Lath, with all its liberty, without any payment to mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff. Of the clergy, the witnesses are St. Oudoceus, Bishop; Cyngen, Abbot of the valley of Carvan; Colfryd, Abbot of Illytd; Sulien, Abbot of Docunni; with their attendants; and of the laity, Morgan the King, Gwonocadwy, prince of Penaly; Sadoc, presbyter; Gwrgeneu, mechanic; Briafael son of Llywarch, Genddog son of Ismael, Riheuddyl. Whoever will separate this alms from the Church of Llandaff, may God destroy him; and may he be blessed who will keep it. Amen.

15.—GRANT OF KING MORGAN.

Information is hereby given, that St. Oudoceus, with his congregation, and Cyngen, Abbot of St. Cadoc; Sulien, Abbot of Docunni; and Cyngen, Abbot of Illytd; with all their congregations, and King Morgan, and Ffrioc, his uncle, came together to the Abbey of St. Illytd, and both King Morgan and Ffrioc, all the rest being present, and the holy relics placed on the altar of St. Illytd, swore that they should maintain firm peace towards each other without deceit; and with this agreement, that if one should kill the other, or deal treacherously with him, that he should not by any means redeem himself, either with land or money, but he should resign his kingdom, and pass his whole life in pilgrimage. But after a long time, King Morgan, through the instigation of the devil, treacherously killed his uncle Ffrioc; and having killed him, he came to Bishop Oudoceus, at the Church of Llandaff, seeking pardon for the perjury and murder committed by him. And Bishop Oudoceus having heard his petition, commanded the Abbots of his three congregations, Cyngen, Abbot of St. Cadoc, Sulien, Abbot of Docunni, and Cyngen, Abbot of Illtyd, with the clergy from the mouth of Taratyr on Wye as far as the mouth of the Towy, to be assembled together in a holy synod. And the King, accompanied by the elders of Glamorgan, came to meet them at the Abbey of Carvan valley, to receive judgment for his crime, and to render the utmost satisfaction; and the full synod adjudged, in the presence of Bishop Oudoceus, that, on account of the destitute state of the kingdom, that it might not be left without the protection of its natural lord, he should by means of fasting, prayer, and almsgiving, redeem his pilgrimage, together with his perjury and murder.

And King Morgan, with the assent of the seniors of Glamorgan, placed his hand on the four gospels and the relics of the saints, St. Oudoceus holding it, and promised, first of all, that he would amend, and clear himself of the aforesaid crime, as before mentioned, by fasting, prayer, and almsgiving, and also that he would never do the like again, and that he would act mercifully in dispensing regal justice to all. Penance having been enjoined on him suitable to the measure of his crimes, and his own quality, wealth, and power; and the holy Communion, of which he had been heretofore deprived, being administered to him by Bishop Oudoceus, he granted to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and all their successors, the three congregations of Cadoc, Illtyd, and Docunni, free from all regal service, and with all their dignity, and the privilege of St. Dubricius and St. Teilo, in perpetual consecration to the Church of Llandaff; and the vessel of honey, and the iron pot, which the Church of St. Illtyd ought to render to him, he gave up for ever.

And he vowed to God, and to Oudoceus, in the presence of the synod, that he would never for the future exercise any government in the three congregations, nor in their possessions, nor in violating their places of refuge, nor knowingly ever take away a single clod of their territories either by violence or evil devise, and free from any payment to any mortal man, great or small; with a curse pronounced on those who would violate it, and a blessing on those who should preserve it in peace. Of the clergy, the witnesses are Bishop Oudoceus, Cyngen, Abbot of Carvan valley, Sulien, Abbot of Ducunni, Cyngen, Abbot of Illtyd, with their clergy, Cynwogeu, Gwrgeneu, Collfryd: Cynog, Sulien, Cynfran; of the laity, King Morgan, Gwyddgen, Gwyddog, Ithael, Iwned, Iwrthir, Iddig, Iddwallon, with a great number of the clergy and laity, both in and out of the synod.

Awst, King of Brecknock, and his sons Eliud and Rhiwallon, restored to God, and to St. Teilo, and St. Dubricius, and in the hand of the eminent Bishop Oudoceus, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff in perpetual consecration, Lannguruaet, which formerly belonged to St.

1.—LANN SULBIU.²

It is to be observed that King Meurig gave, for the redemption of his soul, to God, and to St. Dubricius, and St. Teilo, and in the hand of Bishop Ufelwy, and all his successors for ever, the mansion of Lannsuluui, with all its land, and liberty, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, without payment to any mortal man, besides to God, and the Church of Llandaff, and to St. Teilo, and St. Dubricius. Of the clergy, the witnesses are Bishop Ufelwy, with the Abbots, and John, with his clergy; of the laity, King Meurig, Cynfyn, Elcon.

¹ The subject-matter of this Chapter in the original Latin commences at page 151, and has reference to particulars which took place during the time that Ufelwy, Aidan, Elwystyl, Lunapeius, Comereg, Arwystyl, Gwrwan, Gwyddlon, Edilfyw, and Greicialia, were Bishops of Llandaff.

Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever would separate it from the Church of Llandaff, and its pastors, may he be accursed. Amen. Its boundary is, From the top of the dike of Ismael on the brook Galles, along the dike through the wood, to the field, to the fountain head of Gwalon, along the Gwalon to the brook Greitiaul, and along it until Mingui,¹ along the Mingui until the junction of the brook Galles, along the brook Galles until the top of the dike of Ismael, where it began.

2.—BOLGROS.²

Be it well known to all who dwell in the southern part of Britain, that Gwrfodw King of Ergyng, having gained a victory in battle over the Saxon nation, and giving thanks to God and for the prayers of Bishop Ufelwy, and his clergy, granted in alms to him, and all his successors, under the refuge of St. Dubricius, and St. Teilo, for ever, the land called Bolgros, on the banks of the Wye, at some distance from Mochros, of the quantity of three uncias.³ And the land having been given as an endowment, Bishop Ufelwy, with his clergy, went round the whole on its boundary, sprinkling holy water, the holy cross with the holy relics being carried before; and in the presence of the King, with his witnesses, built a church in the middle thereof, in honour of the Holy Trinity, and St. Peter, and sprinkling holy water, he erected, in the midst thereof, a building in honour of the Holy Trinity, and there placed his minister Gworwog to remain to perform service for the benefit of the church. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Ufelwy; Dewi son of Circan, chief minister; Meilig son of Merchwy, reader; Meirchion; of the laity, Gwrfodw King of Ergyng, and Erwig his son, Gwefrwr son of Eiffest, Morheb son of Morwydd, Cerigan son of Samuel, Cyfelyn son of Jacob, Elisail son of Gwrthafal, Lluned son of Nimal. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be excommunicated.

4.—MAFURN.

Be it known that King Cynfyn son of Pebiau, for the redemption and salvation of his soul, gave to God, and to St. Dubricius, and St. Teilo, and in the hand of Bishop Aidan, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff, for ever, in perpetual consecration, Mafurn, with all its liberty, without any payment, great or small, to mortal man, and with all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are Bishop Aidan, Gwynobwy, Llilli, Gwrwareu, Gwern, Eloc, Idnerth; of the laity, King Cynfyn, and Gwyddai his brother, sons of Pebiau Clavorawg, Collwy, and Aircol, Cintunt. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed by God; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, and its pastors, may he be excommunicated. Its boundary is, Mafurn to the back of the cliff of Rudlan dour.

5.—CUM BARRUC.

King Cynfyn and Gwyddai his brother, restored to God, and Bishop Elwystyl, three uncias¹ of land at Cum Barruc, with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, which St. Dubricius, Archbishop of southern Britain and of the see of Llandaff, had formerly received from Pebiau, King of Ergyng, with all its liberty.² Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Elwystyl, Junabui, Cynfarwy, Aelhaiarn; of the laity, Cynfyn, and Gwyddai his brother, Collwy, Aircol, Cintunt. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff and its pastors, may he be accursed.

(LUNAPEIUS, BISHOP.)

6.—LANN LOUDEN IN ERGYNG³.

Be it known that Gwrgan son of Cynfyn, King of Ergyng, gave to Bishop Lunapeius, and to St. Dubricius, and to St. Teilo, and the Church of Llandaff, and all its pastors for ever, the mansion of Louden, with three uncias¹ of land, and with all its liberty, without any payment, to any mortal man, great or small, besides to the Church of Llandaff and its Bishops, and with all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Lunapeius; Comereg, Abbot of Mochros; Lluddneu, Abbot of Bolgros; Aelhaiarn, Abbot

8.—LANNCINMARCH,¹ AND LANNDEUI,² AND LANN JUNABUI,³ LANNGUORBOC, AND THE MANSION OF MAFURN, AND LANNCALCUCU, AND LANNCERNIU.

Be it known to the clergy and people of southern Britain, that Athrwys, King of the region of Gwent, granted to God, and to St. Dubricius, and St. Teilo, and in the hand of Bishop Comereg, the church of Cynfarch the disciple of St. Dubricius, with all its territory, that is, The Manor of Troumur, and Lanndeui, and Lann Junabui, and Lann Guoruoë, in the field of Molochu, and the mansion of Mafurn, and Lanncalcuch, and Lann Gerniu, with all their land, without any heir, but according to the will of the Bishops of Llandaff, and with all their liberty, and complete commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, for ever. And King Athrwys went round the whole territory in its circuit, with the sprinkling of the dust of the sepulchre of St. Cynfarch the disciple of St. Dubricius, throughout the whole boundary, the holy cross being carried before, with the sprinkling of consecrated water; and in the presence of Bishop Comereg, with his clergy, the King alone carried the Gospel on his back, and confirmed for ever the alms which had been given for the soul of his father Meurig; and a blessing being given to him, and an absolution at the same time pronounced, he commended himself, soul and body, to the present Bishop, and his successors in the Church of Llandaff. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Comereg, Bishop; Lluddon, Abbot of “St. Dubricius, and St. Teilo, and to the present Bishop Arwystyl, and all his successors in the Church of Llandaff for ever, Lann Coit, with three uncias of land, and with all its liberty in wood and in waters, in field and in pastures, and with a hawk, without any payment great or small, to any mortal man except to the Church, and its pastors for ever.” Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Arwystyl the Bishop, Cynan, Elwarded, Adwen, Cynwran; of the laity, King Iddon, Gwrhai, Ieuan, Biwoc, Bivan, Gwrwel, Gwynan. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed.

GWRWAN, BISHOP.

10.—LANNMIHANGEL TREF CERIAU,¹ IN BRECKNOCK.

Tewdwr son of Rhun, and Elgystyl son of Awst, King of Brecknock, swore, upon the altar of St. Dubricius, by the most holy things, the sacred volumes and relics being placed before them, and in the presence of Bishop Gwrwan and his clergy, that neither should plot against the other, and that they should hold firm peace between themselves without deceit; and also with this agreement, that if one should deal treacherously with the other, he should quietly give up his inheritance, and go abroad; and being deprived of his kingdom, should always remain in exile. After these things, the devil, who by his deceitful counsel cast our first parent Adam out of Paradise, that is the peaceable seat of delights; he, the same, caused by his deceit King Tewdwr to break the peace, and kill Elgystyl the son of Awst, committing at the same time both murder and perjury. Which being done, and coming to the hearing of Bishop Gwrwan, he, with his clergy, excommunicated the perjurer and murderer, by stripping the altars of God, and laying both the crosses and relics of the saints on the ground, and depriving him altogether of Christian communion.

After these things, King Tewdwr, seeing that he could not endure the malediction, and the rigour of justice, sought pardon with a penitent heart, and shedding of tears; and the yoke of penance of suitable quality and degree being placed on him, that his territory might not be impoverished for want of its Prince, by the advice of the brethren of the whole diocese, he was allowed to remain in the kingdom on his making amends for his crime, by almsgiving, prayer, and fasting. King Tewdwr, on such remission being given to him, granted especially to God, and to St. Dubricius, and to Gwrwan, who was present, and to all his successors in the Church of Llandaff, and of St. Dubricius, and St. Teilo; Llanmihangel Tref Ceriau, with all its land, and all its liberty, and complete commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, without any payment to mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff, and its pastors. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Gwrwan the Bishop, Eliud, Cuan, Cyngu; of the laity, King Tewdwr, Cynwryd son of Cyngolen, Pedran, Elihu, Bacwg. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Its boundary is, From the highway which is on the south by the thorn bush, from thence as far as the brook Rhiangoll,¹ which is on the north, then along the brook towards the east, as far as the fountain Cenian, afterwards from the fountain Cenian along the dry valley which leads upwards to the aforesaid highway, which is on the south, where it began.

GWYDDLON, BISHOP.

11.—THE VILLAGE OF IS-PANT.

Be it known that Cuchein son of Glywi, granted to God, and to St. Dubricius, and St. Teilo, and in the hand of Bishop Gwyddlon, the village of the Valley, with all its liberty in field and in waters, in wood and in pastures, and Cynwal, with his progeny, to serve the Church of Llandaff and its pastors for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Gwyddlon, Bishop; Awner, Seitwg, Eiddilfred, Cynan, Lludwored, Llyr, Cynwal, Gwrgynuf, Dofran; of the laity, Cuchein son of Glywi, Dofngarth, Reu, Gworddogwy, Eiddiad, Abraham. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be excommunicated. Amen.

EDILFYW, BISHOP.

12.—GRANTS OF GWRGAN AND BONUS.

Gwrgan gave also for his soul to God and to St. Dubricius, and in the hand of Edilfyw Bishop, and all his successors in the Church of Llandaff for ever, a Piece of Land beyond the road, with all its liberty. And Bonus gave another field out of his uncia, as Gwrgan had given. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Edilfyw, with his clergy; of the laity, Gwrgan, Bonus, Cuchein, Elcon. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

GRECIELIS, BISHOP.

13.—CILPEDEC¹ IN ERGYNG.

Be it known to all Christians inhabiting the southern part of Britain, and principally between Wye and Towy, that Ffanw son of Benjamin, gave the church of Cilpedec, with its land about it, for his soul, to God, and to St. Dubricius, and St. Teilo, without any payment to any mortal man, and free from anything being due to the present and future inhabitants, for ever. And so Ffanw, and also Gedeon, declared it to be free in every respect, with the approbation of King Meurig, who ordered all persons to settle the churches in his region, more conformable to the law of God. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Grecielis, Bishop; Nudd, reader; Cawan, Gworwoe, Apis, Cynward, Porthwr, Llywonawl, Meudwy, Merchion, Gwyddon, Ieu-fyw; of the laity, King Meurig, Ffanw, and his son Eineon, Gedeon, Cyngwm, Gwyngwm, Cynfyn, Bonus, Nêr, Air-col. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will violate it, may he be accursed.

14.—CUM MEURIG IN ERGYNG.

Also Gwyngwm settled the church of Cwmmeurig, by the direction and command of King Meurig, and granted it to God, and to St. Dubricius, and in the hand of Bishop Grecielis, with all its land, free from fiscal tribute. Its boundary is, From the brook Iguern as far as the ascent of the hill. And Morgan gave an addition, beyond the road out of his village, in like manner, free in every respect, and also with the approbation and consent of King Meurig, with all commonage in water and in woods, in field and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Grecielis, Bishop; Nudd, reader; Cynon, Gwrwan, Apis, Cynward, Porthwr, Llywonawl, Iddig, Merchion, Iddon, Ieufwy; of the laity, King Meurig, Gwyngwm, Cynfyn, Bonus, Nêr, Aircol. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

15.—GRANT OF GWYLFFER, CYNFYN, AND NER.

Be it known that Gwylffer, and Cynfyn, and Nêr, sons of Gwrgan, and Bonus, with his sons, gave to God, and to St. Dubricius, and St Teilo, and Bishop Grecielis, and all his successors in the church of Peter the apostle, and of St. Dubricius, and St. Teilo, at Llandaff, the Land in the wilderness, on the banks of the Meinbui,¹ with its two modii,² without any payment to mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff, and its pastors, and with all common-

3.—VILLAGE OF CONUC.¹

Be it known that Cynwyl son of Gwrgeneu, with the approbation of Morgan, and his son Ithael, gave to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Berthgwyn, and all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever, the village, in which is the sepulchre of Gwrai, that is the village of Conuc, with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in waters, in wood and in pastures. And with giving the alms, Cynwyl ordered his son Conuc, and his sons, that they should always serve the Church of Llandaff with respect to the aforesaid land, from generation to generation. Its boundary is,—From the top of the mountain Gwrai as far as the river Euenhi, and its breadth from the great foss as far as the foss opposite the sea. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Berthgwyn, Bishop: Sulien, Abbot of Carvan valley; Sadwrn, Abbot of Docunni; Gwrhafal, Abbot of Illtyd; of the laity, King Morgan, and his son Ithael; Vinet, Cynddwyd, Cyngwman, Mabsu, Gwrhytir, Samuel, Iddig, Gwaednerth son of Morgan. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

4.—THE FIELD OF HELIC, AND THE FIELD OF TENCU.

The Kings Clydri and Idwallon, swore before Bishop Berthgwyn, and the clergy, the holy gospels and relics being placed on the altar of the church of Garthbenni, that they would keep firm peace towards each other, without deceit and injury in all things; and with this condition, that if either of them would break it, he should resign his whole kingdom, and go into banishment abroad, to the end of his life. After an interval, King Clydri, breaking the peace, killed Idwallon, effecting by deceit both murder and perjury. The Bishop hearing of so great a crime, and of the peace being broken, arose, and caused to be assembled together at a holy synod, all the clergy of his whole diocese, from the mouth of Taratyr on Wye to the banks of the Towy, and in full synod excommunicated the King, with all his progeny, and also his kingdom, by making bare the altars of God, placing the crosses on the ground, and dismissing the country without baptism and communion. After these things, the King not being able to endure so great an excommunication, sought pardon with great devotion, and requested Bishop Berthgwyn, with his three Abbots, Sulien, Abbot of Carvan valley; Sadwrn, Abbot of Docunni; Gwrhafal, Abbot of Illtyd; to come and meet him at the church of Garthbenni, that as he had violated it and its refuge, by committing murder and perjury, he should on the other part benefit it by suffering divine judgment, with amendment both of body and soul, by fasting, prayer, and almsgiving. Who, after they came to the church of Garthbenni, adjudged him to be a transgressor of the commandments of God, and that he should do, without any deduction, what he had promised in swearing, and vowed with the oath; and obeying the commands of God, and the Bishop, he left his country, and went abroad. And after a long time, he returned to his country, and sought pardon from the Bishop through his intercessor King Morgan; and his prayer being heard, the Bishop dismissed him into the country, to amend himself in all things, and render due justice; and having accepted the yoke of penance in every respect, he sacrificed to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Berthgwyn, and all his successors in the Church of Llandaff, the Field of Helic, with three uncias¹ of land, and the field Tencu, with two uncias² of land, and all their liberty, and commonage to be enjoyed by the inhabitants in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Berthgwyn, Bishop; with his aforesaid three Abbots; of the laity, Clydri, Morgan, Iago, Gwaednerth, Elioc, Gwrgafarn, Comereg, Cywarded, Catdem, Cynfyw, Llywroneu, Morddog, Bywhaiarn son of Ibleidd. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

5.—GRANT OF CYNFLWS SON OF IAGO.

Cynflws son of Iago sacrificed land of three modii³ in quantity, on the banks of the Wye, for his soul, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, St. Oudoceus, and Berthgwyn, Bishop of Llandaff, and all its pastors for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Berthgwyn, Bishop; Gwrwieith, Cynweu, Ieuan son of Meilig, Rhiafal, Cynfwr; and this was done in the church of Garthbenni; of the laity, Cynflws, Cynon, Gweithwal, Gworgon, Gwesinut. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

6.—VILLAGE OF STRAT.

Be it known that Elffin gave the village of Strat haner, with all its liberty, for his soul, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and Oudoceus, and to all the pastors of the Church of Llandaff for ever.

7.—VILLAGE OF GUINNONUL.

King Ithael, and Iddon the son and heir of Ceriaw, sacrificed the village of Guinnonui, near the marsh of Meurig, with all its liberty in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Berthgwyn, and all his successors in the Church of Llandaff for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Berthgwyn, Bishop; Gwrfodw, Tudnerth, Etelig, Canddau, Iddoneu; of the laity, King Ithael, Iddon, and others. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; but whoever would separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

8.—CWMCERRUC.¹

King Ithael son of Morgan, and his sons Ffernwael and Meurig, sacrificed to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Berthgwyn, and all his successors at Llandaff, three uncias² of land altogether, in the middle of Cwm Cerruc, that is, the village which was Guroc, with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Berthgwyn, Bishop; Danog, Abbot of Carvan valley; Elwod, Abbot of Illtyd; — Abbot of Docunni; of the laity, King Ithael, and his sons Ffernwael and Meurig; Mabsu, Elffin, Idnerth son of Idwallon, Deunerth son of Iddig, Cwy son of Iddalghan, Agemarhan, Iddoneu. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed.

9.—IN GWENT UCHCOED,¹ ABERMENEI NEAR FRUTMUR,
THE BOUNDARY OF LANN GARTH MANOR.

After these things King Ithael granted for his soul to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Berthgwyn, Abermenei, which had been first given to him by King Morgan, and to all his successors at Llandaff, and all its liberty, and complete commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Berthgwyn, Bishop; Gnouan, Abbot of the altar of Cadoc; and Ffomreu, Abbot of Illtyd; — Abbot of Docunni; of the laity, King Ithael, with his sons Meurig and Ffernwael, Gafran son and heir, Elffin son of Gwyddgen, Gwrgan, Gwallonir, Idnerth, Mabsu, Iddig, Gwellerion, Ceri, Cynfor, Glew, Gwrfodw, Gwrddog, Arthur, Cynocan, Cynedd. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be excommunicated.

10.—LANN CATGUALATYR.¹

Be it known to you, dearly beloved brethren, that in the time of Bishop Oudoceus, Gwaednerth, by diabolical instigation, killed his brother Merchion, through contention for the kingdom; and having committed murder, the fratricide was excommunicated by St. Oudoceus, at a synod assembled together at Llandaff from the mouth of the Wye to the mouth of the Towy; and he remained, with crosses laid on the ground, and inverted bells, for three years, under the same excommunication, and without the communion of Christians. The three years being expired, he sought pardon from St. Oudoceus, which being granted to him, he was sent on a pilgrimage as far as the Archbishop of Dôl, in Armorica, on account of the ancient acquaintance and friendship which the holy fathers, his predecessors, that is St. Teilo, and St. Samson, the first Bishop of the city of Dôl, had between each other, and also because the said Gwaednerth, and the Bretons, and the Archbishop of that country, had the same language, and were of the same nation, although separated by a large portion of the earth, and he could consequently the better renounce his crime, and request indulgence, as his language was understood.

After these things, remission with sealed letters being granted to him, he returned before the end of the year to his country, and to St. Oudoceus, but because he had not completed in exile the year, which he had promised, he could not absolve him, but rather directed that he should remain under the same excommunication, as the first yoke of penance had not been observed by him. While he remained in the same transgression and excommunication, before the end of the year, St. Oudoceus, the Bishop of very eminent life, migrated to the Lord. He was succeeded by Berthgwyn as Bishop of Llandaff,¹ and King Morgan, and also Gwaednerth, with a great many chieftains of Glamorgan, seeing the crosses and relics, with the bells, lying on the ground, requested him at Llandaff to grant pardon to the fratricide Gwaednerth, and to discharge the excommunication by lifting up the crosses and relics of the saints from the ground. After these things Gwaednerth, promising, with shedding tears and great devotion, amendment of life, with the addition of fasting, prayer, and almsgiving, was absolved by the Bishop, and full penance enjoined to him suitable to his crime.

Afterwards Gwaednerth, being mindful of the divine saying, "As water extinguishes fire, so does almsgiving sin," granted to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Berthgwyn, and all his successors of the Church of Llandaff, Llan Cadwaladr, with all its land, and wood, and sea coast, and with all its liberty, without any payment to mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff and its pastors, and with its refuge for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Berthgwyn, Bishop; Gwnnyw, reader; Cynfwr, Cynfarwy, Torchan; of the laity, King Morgan, Gwaednerth, Iddig son of Nudd, Jacob son of Mabsu, Gwengarth, Elioc, Gafran, Elffin, Samuel. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; whoever will violate it, may he be cursed. Amen. Its boundary is,—The influx of the brook Alun into the marsh, following the brook upwards to its source, from its source over the ridge, directly forwards to the source of Sychnant; in the other part, to the ridge, following it to Sychnant, downwards to the hollow in the wood, following Sychnant along to the right, downwards to the ridge of the woody acclivity near the castles of Dinan, following the summit of the ridge of the woody acclivity to the steep of Merchiau, along the steep downwards to the well of the Gwlyble, along the Gwlyble downwards to the marsh, through the marsh direct to Hentref Merchitir, from Hentref to the Dead Pools towards the West, along the ridge of Cethin, through the marsh to Loutre Tunbulch, from Loutre Tunbulch direct through the marsh to the influx of the brook Alun, where it began.

¹ It is here stated that Berthgwyn succeeded Oudoceus as Bishop of Llandaff, which is certainly correct, although by following the order in which Berthgwyn is herein placed, Godwin fell into the error of entering him in his List of Bishops, as the fourteenth Prelate, and successor to Grecielis, which has occasioned some authors considerable perplexity respecting the period of the above Synod, which difficulties might have been obviated had the compiler of the Liber Landavensis not misplaced the proceedings of the time of Berthgwyn after those of Grecielis. The names of the kings and witnesses to the grants to Oudoceus and Berthgwyn, being in many instances the same, prove that the latter Bishop must have been contemporary with the former; and in the 12th section of this Chapter it is distinctly stated that Grecielis was Bishop a long time after Berthgwyn. This Chapter would have been more chronologically arranged had it been placed immediately after the Fourth Chapter, which contains an account of proceedings in the time of St. Oudoceus.

11.—THE CHURCH OF TITUUC, ON THE BANKS OF THE WYE.

Be it known that Ithael gave the mansion Henllan, on the banks of the Wye, with four modii of land around it, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Berthgwyn, and all his successors in the Church of Llandaff, with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in waters, in wood and in pastures, and with its wears for fisheries, without any payment to mortal man besides to the Church of Llandaff, and its pastors. And King Ithael and his son Meurig gave that alms to the aforesaid holy persons, for the soul of his son Athrwys, in perpetual consecration. The boundary of that estate is between the two brooks Irgudin, as far as the river Wye. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Berthgwyn the Bishop, Dillwg, Morheb, Cynwareu; of the laity, King Ithael is witness, Iwned, Gwyneon, Iddward, Melwas, Cadweithen, Llwyddog. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

Rhodri gave for his soul, with the approbation and consent of King Morgan, the estate of Cemeis, at the mouth of the Humri brook, of his own inheritance, with two uncias of land, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudocus, and in the hand of Bishop Berthgwyn, with all its liberty for ever, without any payment to mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff and its pastors. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Berthgwyn, Bishop; Sulien, Abbot of Cadoc; Sadwrn, Abbot of Docunni; Gwrhafal, Abbot of Illtyd; of the laity, King Morgan, Clydri, Iago, Gwaednerth, Eleoc, Gwrgafarn, Cyward, Catdem, Llywroneu, Morddog, Bywhaiarn, son of Ibleidd. After a long time Ouleu freed that land from the power of the laity, and gave it to God, and to St. Dubricius, and St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, free from all laical claim, and to Bishop Grecielis, for his soul. And after an interval of time, Ffaw again discharged that estate from laical possession, and gave it in the hand of Cerenhir, Bishop of Llandaff, with the aforesaid two uncias¹ of land, between wood, field, and water. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will violate it, accursed. Amen. Its boundary is,—The influx of Humir into the river Usk, following it to its source; along the Usk to the influx of Nant Bichan, following it upwards to the breast of the hill, to the right, to the Ardd, through the Doucuini, following along the Ardd to the breast of the hill towards the source of the brook Humir, that is Nant Merthyr, where it began,

Mabsu seeing the present life to be frail and corruptible, purchased instead thereof an incorruptible life, and performing almsgiving, acknowledged God, by granting for his soul upon the altar of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Berthgwyn, and to all his successors for ever, the village of Judbiu, with all its liberty, and commonage in field and in waters, in wood and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Berthgwyn, Torchan, Cynfwr, Cynwareu, Ili; of the laity, Mabsu, Gworddoc, Rhiadda, Cynddywan, Eudem, Hywel, Idnerth, Mabsu son of Gwobeith, Cynhaiarn, Cyngwm, Bledrys. This grant having been made, Mabsu again confirmed his alms, to render it firm and certain, and made a well-arranged banquet in the middle of Ergyng for Bishop Berthgwyn and his family at Llandaff; and the principal persons of all Ergyng being assembled together, he granted the aforesaid village to Bishop Berthgwyn, and his successors for ever, free from all fiscal tribute. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; but whoever will violate it, may he be cursed. Amen.

14.—GWRMARCH.

Be it known that Rhiadda bought one uncia¹ of the land Guruarch, from Gwyddogwy and Cynfyn, the sons of Clydri, for twenty four cows, a Saxon woman, a valuable sword, and a powerful horse, with the approbation of King Ithael; and the aforesaid two brothers, Gwyddogwy and Cynfyn, with the consent and in the presence of King Ithael and the principal seniors of Ergyng, resigned the said land free from every thing, and placing their hands in the hand of Bishop Berthgwyn, declared that neither they nor their posterity should ever claim that land, having received its price, as has been mentioned. After these things Rhiadda, in the presence of the aforesaid two brethren and of King Ithael, granted the land to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Berthgwyn, and to all his successors in the Church of Llandaff, with all its liberty, without any payment, great or small, to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff and its pastors. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Berthgwyn, Tyrchan, Gwenog, Gwrcewid, Eli; of the laity, Ithael, King; Rhiadda, Gwyddei, and Cynfyn, brothers; Cynfor, Gwrdden, Iddfyw, Gwrgeneu, Pasgen. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; but whoever will take it away from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

15.—THE VILLAGE OF NIS.

Be it truly observed that Ilias son of Morlas, received a full uncia of land, being the village of Nis, as the price of his brother Cadgen, whom Cynfor son of Jacob had killed. Afterwards Cynfor gave it out of his own inheritance, and with all its liberty, for the soul of that Cadgen whom he had killed, and with the gift of Ilias the brother of the deceased, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Berthgwyn, and to all his successors in the Church of Llandaff for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Berthgwyn, Gwennog, Cynwared, Gwrweith; of the laity, three brothers, Gistlerth and Merfyn; and two sons his brothers; Mabsu son of Gwobeith, Tewdwr son of Cynflws, Cleiswith, Difro, Lleuddad, Gwrgan. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; whoever will violate it, may he be cursed. Amen.

16.—GRANT OF ILLAS SON OF MORLAS.¹

Ilias, for his soul, and the inscription of his name in the Book of Life, gave a mansion in the middle of Abermynwy,² and four modii³ of land about it, with the approbation of King Ithael, and his sons Ffernwael and Meurig, and with every payment, great and small, to St. Dubricius, St Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Berthgwyn, and all his successors in the Church of Llandaff, with all its liberty, and commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Berthgwyn, Tyrchan; Dagan, Abbot of Carvan valley; Elwoid, Abbot of Iltyd; Sadwrn, Abbot of Docunni; of the laity, King Ithael, Ffernwael and Meurig his sons, Ilias, Elffin, Mabsu, Idnerth son of Idwallawn, Deunerth son of Iddig, Ceriaw, Gwrfodw, Cynhal, Iddneu. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

17.—LAN TISSOI.¹

Be it observed by us that Cynhageu, of his own inheritance, gave the mansion of St. Tysoi the pupil of St. Dubricius, which formerly belonged to St. Dubricius, for the redemption of his soul, to God and to the holy apostle St. Peter, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Berthgwyn, and to all his successors in the Church of Llandaff, and with all its liberty in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, and all its wood, with acorns and hawks therein remaining, free, without any payment, great or small, to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff and those who officiate therein. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Berthgwyn, Tyrchan, Cynfwr, Samuel, Dewi, Morhen; of the laity, King Ithael, Cynhageu, Gafran, Mabsu, Ceriaw, Idnerth, Gwrfodw. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; but whoever will violate it, may he be excommunicated. Its boundary is,—Between the wood and field, and between the rivulet Ilgui and Pill;¹ and in the other part, From Ilgui to Pill towards the east, from the influx of Ceninuc in Ilgui, along Ceninuc upwards to the influx of the Fffinant along the Fffinant to its source, from the source along to the hollow downwards to Pill, along Pill to the brook Murn, along Murn to its source, to Carn Enuin, from the side of Caer Tolcoit to the head of the Cinahi, following downwards by the stone of Cinahi, to the Ilgui, along Ilgui to the influx of Ceninuc, where it began.

18.—PEN HELLEI.

Elffin granted in alms to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Berthgwyn, and all his successors in the Church of Llandaff, the land of Pen Hellei, in the middle of Sergunhid, with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Berthgwyn, Bishop; Cynfwr, presbyter; Cynfarwy, Tyrchan, Ili, Dewi; of the laity, Elffin, Elow, Cynweithen, Cynfyn, Eres, Dufron, Morwydd. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

19.—TULL COIT IN BELLA AQUA.

Know ye that Elffin granted the land of Ystrad ager, that is Twll Coed, for his soul, with six modii¹ of land, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Berthgwyn, and all his successors in the Church of Llandaff for ever, with all its liberty and commonage, and with the approbation and consent of King Ithael. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Berthgwyn, Bishop; Gwnfyw, reader; Cynfwr, Cynwared; of the laity, Cyngar, Gwrheuddyl, Aeronfryd, Cynfigeu, Gwrfwth, Henfyw. The boundary is,—From the eye of the fountain Twll Coed as far as the foss of the marsh at the top; and on the west, across as far as the Jacinthine rock, and along the valley as far as the rock Onbrit. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; but whoever will violate it, may he be accursed. Amen.

20.—MACHYNYS.

After the death of Gwynen, Gwrgan held the region of his father, and lived with his step-mother incestuously, for which he was excommunicated by Bishop Berthgwyn, and a full synod assembled together from the mouth of the Taratyr to the mouth of the Towy. And excommunication having been pronounced, and the crosses, with the holy relics, and inverted bells, being deposited on the ground, he sought pardon and absolution by means of his intercessor King Ithael, on dismissing his step-mother with making due satisfaction. And pardon being granted to him on amendment of life, with fasting, prayer, and almsgiving, he gave the land of Machynys, being six modii¹ in quantity, to God, and Peter the apostle, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Berthgwyn, and all his successors in the Church of Llandaff for ever, with all its liberty and commonage in field and in waters, in wood and in pastures; and upon the altar of St. Peter the apostle, and of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, he swore that he would never withdraw this alms; and excommunication was pronounced on whomsoever of his family, or of any other stock, who should separate it from the Church of Llandaff. And he took for his proper wife the daughter of Elffin. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Berthgwyn, Cynfwr, Cynfarwy, Tyrchan; of the laity, King Ithael, Gwrgan, Gafran, Elffin, Elfarwy. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; but whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

21.—THE VILLAGE OF BERTUS.

It is hereby shewn to you, dearly beloved brethren, that King Ithael, in the presence of Meurig, before the chieftains of Glewyssig, gave the village of Bertus for his soul to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, in perpetual consecration, without any payment, great or small, to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff, and Bishop Berthgwyn, and his successors for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Berthgwyn, Cyn-fwr, Gwylerion, Gwrfodw, Heinif, Eudem; Morheb, Abbot of the mansion of Dewi; Daniel, Elhafedd, Gwrgi; of the laity, King Ithael, and Meurig his son. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; but whoever will violate it, may he be accursed. Amen.

22.—MAERUN.

Cynwyl son of Gwrgeneu bought land, that is, the village in which is the tomb of Gwrai, from King Morgan, and his son Ithael, and his wife Riceneth; and the village so purchased he granted, with the approbation and consent of the King, as an alms to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Berthgwyn, and to all his successors in the Church of Llandaff for ever, with all its liberty, and with wood and seacoast, and all commonage in water and in woods, in field and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Berthgwyn; Sulien, Abbot of Carvan valley; Sadwrn, Abbot of Docunni; Gwrhafarn, Abbot of Illyd; of the laity, King Morgan, Ithael his son, Cynwyl, Iwned, Centwyd, Mabsu, Gwrhityr, Samuel, Iddig, Cenwri son of Gafran. Gwaednerth son of Morgan his brother. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; but whoever will violate it, may he be cursed, The boundary,—To the spotted stone, to the dike, to the Pillou (Pyllau) bechain, to the Dibleis (Dulais,) to the Trawsgwern, along it to the head of the black swamp above Edelbiw, along the dike to the sea.

23.—GUENNONOE.¹

Iddon son of Ceriaw bought the village of Gwennonoe, near the marsh of Meurig, of Ithael, King of Glewyssig, and from his sons Ffernwael and Meurig, and Roderick, as a perpetual purchase, for twenty two untamed horses. And the said village, which formerly belonged to St. Dubricius, having been thus bought, he gave it free from all payment, without any service, great or small, and with all its liberty and commonage, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Berthgwyn, and all his successors at Llandaff for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Berthgwyn, Gwrfodw, Tudnerth, Etelig, Canddau, Iddneu; of the laity, King Ithael, and his sons Arthfael, Meurig, Rhodri, Rhys, Iddon. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed.

24.—CUM BARRUC,² CONUBIA, COLCUCH,³ LANNCERNIU.⁴

Be it known that great tribulations and plunderings happened in the time of Teithfallt and Ithael, Kings of Wales, which were committed by the most treacherous Saxon nation, and principally on the borders of Wales and England, towards Hereford, so that all the border country of Wales was nearly destroyed, and much beyond the borders in both England and Wales, and especially about the river Wye, on account of the frequent diurnal and nocturnal encounters which took place between both countries. After a time, peace being established, the land was restored to its owners and its former authority, although destroyed and depopulated by foreign people, and an uncommon pestilence, and an alliance of the Britons formed in those parts. And King Ithael restored to the survivors their patrimony, although for a time destroyed; and he likewise restored to Bishop Berthgwyn all his territories, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever, as they had been better given in the time of Dubricius, Archbishop of southern Britain, and with all their liberty and commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, and eleven in number in his own diocese; first, Cumbarruc, with three uncias of land, that is Cenubia; Colcuch, with three uncias of land, Cenubia Cornubium, that is Llancerniw on the banks of the Dour; the mansion of Mafurn,¹ Llanguoroe,² Llanjunabui,³ Llandewi Mochros,⁴ Llanebrdil,⁵ Bolgros,⁶ Llanloudeu,⁷ Llangaran.⁸

25.—GRANT OF LYBLAW AND GWRWAN.

King Clydawg son of Clydwyn, when he was in his kingdom enjoying peace and administering justice, became a martyr through his virtue, and had a crown of heavenly glory, with the palm of carnal chastity. A certain young woman, daughter of a wealthy man, was in love with him, and said to those that sought her, that she would marry no one but the illustrious Clydawg. The answer of the girl being heard, and she refusing all persons as usual, one of the companions of the King, because he could not obtain her, was filled with an evil spirit and intense desire respecting her; and receiving excitement for bad conduct from the malignity of rashness, and the malice of luxury, on a certain day he killed King Clydawg, innocent as a lamb, near the river Mynwy, while he was waiting for the meeting of hunters, and meditating with great devotion on sacred subjects.

On his death, his acquaintance, companions and friends of noble parentage, having joined oxen to the carriage, began to take away the body from the place, and to pass the Mynwy by a ford. And in one part of the river the yokes of the oxen began to break, and the oxen to stand still, for they could not move the body from the place on account of its great weight, and although often fastened with chains and ropes, yet they were broken to pieces, and the oxen, although they were frequently goaded on, would not move a step, as if a fiery globe opposed them. And all beholding and wondering, the body remained in the place which was divinely prepared for it; and the people immediately, on account of the excellent life which they had known the holy man to lead, and his sanctity, and his death which obtained for him the crown of martyrdom, and the wonderful lightness of his body in the first place after his death, and secondly its very great weight, which caused it to be immoveable, rendered praises to God. And a column of fire was seen on his tomb on the night following his sepulture as being pleasing to God. And immediately, by the advice of the Bishop of Llandaff, and clergy, an oratory was there built, and consecrated with the sprinkling of water, in honour of the martyr Clydawg;¹ and from that time the place began to be held in veneration, on account of the blessed martyr.

On a certain day two men came from Llannerch Glas, who had quarrelled with each other, and said, "Let us agree and go to Madley, a church of St. Dubricius, and both swear on his altar, that having forgotten the malice of envy, and united by compact, we shall be always for the future firm friends in brotherly peace." Who, when they were on the road, going the proposed journey, one of them said to the other, "Let us go to the place of the Martyr, (that is Clydawg,) and to his sepulchre; and shortening our journey, and our desire remaining, let us on his tomb agree and confirm perpetual peace between us." But after the compact was confirmed, one of them in their return, breaking the peace, and violating the covenant, killed the other treacherously, and also himself, as it is said, "Whoever contrives to injure another, will first smite himself with his own weapon." For immediately after having committed murder, and as I might say, also perjury, he stabbed himself with his own lance in the belly, and from the wound he died; and his companion, I say, was taken to eternal joy.

After an interval of time, two brothers, Lybiaw and Gwrwan, and their sister's son Cynwr, came from the region of Penychen,¹ leaving their country on account of a quarrel, and chose to lead a hermitical and solitary life, at the place where was deposited the body of the blessed martyr Clydawg, on the bank of the Mynwy, in Ewya.² And there they led their lives, and with the advice and assistance of the Bishop of Llandaff, built an improved church; and all the territory on both sides the Mynwy was given to them by Penbargawd,³ King of Glamorgan, in eternal consecration, without any payment to any mortal man, and with all commonage to the present and future inhabitants of the territory of the church, in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. And the two brothers led a chaste life, but the sister's son had four sons, whence the territory became divided between the brothers into five parts, and always remained so among their survivors and descendants.

and the consent of their heirs, Ithael and Ffrewddyfr, sacrificed to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Clydawg the martyr, and Bishop Berthgwyn, and all Bishops of Llandaff, all the territory of Merthyr Clydawg, as it was better given to Clydawg the martyr, and the three hermits, Lybiaw, Gwrwan, and Cynwr, the first inhabitants and cultivators of the place after the martyrdom of Clydawg, and with all its liberty and commonage given to the present and future inhabitants in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, and without any payment, great or small, to any mortal man besides to the Church of Llandaff and its pastors for ever; and as an island placed in the sea, free from every service, and without an inheritor, unless with the wish and for the benefit of the Bishop of Llandaff, and the canons of that Church; and with refuge according to the will of the refugee, without limit; and as long as he should choose to remain, be safe under its protection as if he were in the sanctuary at Llandaff.

Of the clergy, the witnesses are Bishop Berthgwyn; Dagan, Abbot of Carvan valley; Elwoid, Abbot of Illtyd; Sadwrn, Abbot of Docunni; Ieuan, Gworwydd, Helygwydd, Ili; of the laity, King Ithael, his sons Ffernwael and Meurig, Ithael and Ffrewddyfr their heirs, Elffin, Mabsu, Cynwg, Gwaedfyw, Gwnddon, Eudem, Gwaednerth. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen. The boundary of it is,—The stone in the variegated moor, along the summit of the acclivity of Curum, to the stone on the summit of the hill, along the summit upwards to the stone opposite the brook Trineint,¹ along it downwards

27.—GRANT OF ITHAEL SON OF EDDILWYRTH.

Ithael son of Eddilwyrth, a certain rich man in Ewyas, went, accompanied by his wife, one Sunday to hear divine service at the church of Clydawg, and in a meadow on the banks of the Mynwy, became unable to proceed. And he cried with a loud voice, and said to his companions, “Go to the sepulchre of the martyr Clydawg, and on my behalf, place on the holy altar of Clydawg that meadow, which I unjustly took away from it by force; and placing your hands joined together in suretiship, as with a given endowment, the four gospels having been placed thereon before, grant it free and quit of all laical service from hence forward, except only daily prayer, and mass for my health, by the clergy of the church, that they may pray earnestly for me, that by the intercession of the martyr, and their prayers, I may have deliverance.” And the almsgiving having been immediately performed, and given with a promise of future amendment of life in fasting, and prayer, and almsgiving, he was restored before all the people, and returned thanks and praises to God for his recovery. And what he had first done by his messengers, the same thing he did himself, when he was restored, by placing his own hands upon the altar of the martyr, the holy gospels being placed there before, and confirming it with the approbation of the Kings of Glamorgan, and the advice of princes, without dispute, free to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and the martyr Clydawg, and all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever.

The sons of Cyfleiddieu sacrificed Lechluit to the martyr Clydawg, and the Church of Llandaff. The boundary of Llecheu lition has Mynwy on one part, and between two brooks. The boundary of Lennic, below Mynwy, and Mynwy to the confluence of Lech Eneuris, from the other part to the northern side.

hafal; of the laity, Erbig son of Elffin, Cynlas, Marchan. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, either by violence or crafty laical invasion, may he be accursed until he arrives at amendment. Amen.

2.—VILLAGE OF CATHOUEN.

After this village of Elcon, situate on Dulais, was given to God, and the holy persons, as has been before mentioned, the same Erbig gave to God, and to Dubricius, Teilo, and Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Trychan, the village of Cathouen the son of Hindeg, with all its payments, and all its liberty, as long as one stone shall remain upon another. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Trychan; Cadward, presbyter; Cynfwr, Gwrhafal; of the laity, Erbig, Cyfreiddian, Sentir, Dewi, Eleufwy. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be cut off, together with his progeny. Amen.

3.—LAND OF DIMUNER.

Be it known that Ffernwael granted, before the seniors of Gwent and Ergyng, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Trychan, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever, and with all its liberty, one uncia¹ of land in quantity, which is called Dimuner, around the long tree, on account of the evil which his sons had done in Cemeis.² Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Trychan, Ili, Ieuan, Gwrweith, Cynfeu, Elwydd, Gwron, Gwrhafwy; of the laity, Ffern-wael, Cynfor, Cynfelyn, Amann, Heinif son of Cynscwyd. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

4.—MERTHYR TECMED.¹

Know ye, dearly beloved brethren, that Brug son of Gwyddbwyys gave for his soul, to God, and to St. Dubri-cius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Trychan, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever, with the approbation and consent of Ceredig and Iddig, the two sons of Rhydderch, and the concession of his own family, for ever, the mansion of Merthyr Tecmed, with half an uncia of land about it, without any payment to mortal man. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Trychan; Cynward, presbyter; Cynfwr, Gwrhafwy, Cosog, Ieuan, Gwleced; of the laity, Bleddfwy, Cyngaed son of Cynweith, Biwg, Cynhyrged, Lledan. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will violate it, may he be cursed. Amen.

5.—CHURCH OF TRYLEC LANN MAINUON.²

May we return thanks to God because King Ffernwael being penitent in heart and mind, granted in alms to St.

Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudóceus, and in the hand of Bishop Trychan, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff in perpetual consecration, the church of Trylec, with three modii¹ of land, and with all its liberty, as an island in the sea, and so King Ffernwael holding his court in the middle of Cemeis,² and at the mouth of the Humir, declared it free from every service, except prayer only. Of the clergy, the witnesses are Bishop Trychan, Ili, Ieuan, Gweith, Cynfeu, Heligwydd, Gwron, Gwrhafwy, Hilin; of the laity, Ffernwael, Cynfwr, Euddolen, Cynan, Heinif son of Cynscwyd. But after a long time Meurig son of Arthfael liberated this church from laical possession, before his sons Brochwael and Ffernwael, and restored it free to St. Dubricius, &c. and to the Church of Llandaff, and Cerenhir, Bishop of that church, for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Cerenhir, Nudd, Tuthed, Talan, Erchan, Siawn; of the laity, King Meurig, with his sons Brochwael and Ffernwael, Samson, Dynwallawn, Morfran, Tudmab, Merchfwy. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. The boundary is between the two rivers the greater and lesser Aghiti.

6.—HENLENNIC, LANN GUERN³ IN ERGYNG.

Be it known to you that Cadwyth son of Coffro sacrificed to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Trychan, and all the pastors of Llandaff without end, with the approbation and consent of King Ffernwael, in perpetual consecration of the cross of Christ, three modii of land, or the fourth part of an uncia, being the church of Henlennic, on the banks of the Amyr,¹ that is Lann Guern, with its liberty, and with all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Trychan, Cadwared, Ieuan, Cynfwr, Gwrhaereu, Tanad, presbyter; and of the laity, King Ffernwael, Cadwyth, Cwmbresel. Its boundary is between Amyr and the jacinthine way, being its breadth, and its length as far as the old ditch. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

7.—GURTHEBIRUID LANN GUNGARUI² ON TROTHY.

Cynfwr son of Iago bought the church of Gurthebiruid, with land about it, an uncia and a half in quantity, of King Ffernwael son of Ithael, for a very good horse of the value of twelve cows, and a hawk of the value of twelve cows, and an useful dog which killed birds with the hawk, of the value of three cows, and another horse of the value of three cows; and being thus bought, he gave it, with the approbation of King Ffernwael, free from all service, to God, and Peter the apostle, and to St. Dubri-cius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Trychan, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever, with all its liberty and commonage, without any payment to mortal man, except to the Church of Llandaff.

² Llangyngarwy,—probably this place may be the same as Llanguorboe or Llanguorboe, supposed in page 407 to be Llanwarrow or Wonastow, near Monmouth, which is situated near the river Trothy.

Of the clergy, the witnesses are Bishop Trychan, Gworgaed, Eli, Cynweu, Dillwg; of the laity, King Ffernwael, Cynwr, Merfyn, Eliau, Bryttwn, Elias, Cynfyn son of Tenci. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will violate it, may he be cursed. Amen. Its boundary is—The road on the Trothy, along the highway upwards to the ash, from the ash across the road direct to the hawthorn, to the top of the two fields, to the spring of Cwm Cetgwyn, along it to the road, across the road to Nantmeneich, along it to the Trothy, following Trothy upwards to the ford on the Trothy, where the boundary began.

8.—VILLAGE OF ELLGNOU INGILORINID.

Cynog son of Cynwyl bought the village of Breican from King Ithael son of Morgan, which is called the village of Ellgnou by another name, for two horses, one of the value of eight cows, the other of the value of three cows, and a sword of the value of twelve cows, and a horn of the value of ten cows, and another of the value of fourteen cows; and being thus bought, he gave it free from every service, with the approbation and consent of King Ithael, in alms, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Trychan, Bishop of Llandaff, and all his successors for ever, and with all its liberty in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Its boundary is,—From the village of Guoidhearn to the village of Congint in length, and in breadth from the village of Colipan as far as the village of Marchleu. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Trychan, Cadward, Cyfreidda, Dewi, Gwrhafal, Cosog, Ieuan, Seitir, Gwarhafeu, Hilin, Gwallonir; of the laity, King Ithael, and his sons Meurig, and Ffernwael, and Rhodri, Cynog, Derfwy, and Ellgneu the heir of Ffrewddyfr, Eloc, Serwan, Morleu, Cynwain, Dewi, Cellan, Morleis, Llunfwy, Bonus, Nêr, Erbig. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; but whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

9.—THE VILLAGE OF TANCUOR, THE VILLAGE OF DEUI, THE VILLAGE OF ILLIMAN.

Brychan son of Gwyngon bought land of the quantity of three uncias,¹ that is the Village of Tancuor the son of Condu, and the Village of Deui the son of Iwst, and the Village of Illiman the son of Samson, from Ffernwael and his sons Meurig and Gwrgan, for seven horses of the value of twenty eight cows, and the whole apparel of one man of the value of fourteen cows, and a sword of the value of twelve cows, and a hawk of the value of six cows, with four dogs of the value of fourteen cows, and with the approbation and consent of King Ffernwael he granted them for his soul, with all their liberty, and free from every service, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Trychan, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever, with all their commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Trychan, Gworgyfeith, Cynfeu, Morgynan, Dingad, Accipe; of the laity, Ffernwael and his sons Meurig and Gwrgan, Cynfwr, Merfyn, Cron son of Morgynan, Clydawg, Gworfoneu, Ilbri son of Iwned, Morgu, Dewi. Whoever will keep them, may God keep him; and whoever will separate them from the Church of Llandaff, let him be guilty. Amen.

10.—TURION.

Madoc son of Gwynan bought an uncia¹ of land, which is called Turion, from Ffernwael son of Ithael, in the presence of his sons Meurig and Gwrgan, for a hawk of the value of twelve cows, and for two horses of the value of six cows, and a horn of the value of six ounces of silver, and a scrupulum of the value of twelve cows, and a scarlet line; and thus bought, he granted it free from every service for the salvation of his soul, with the approbation and consent of the King, and his sons Meurig and Gwrgan, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Trychan, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Trychan, Bishop; Cadweithen, presbyter; of the laity, King Ffernwael, and his sons Meurig and Gwrgan, Madog, Harufyw, Gworgu, Riwored son of Anafgen. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, let him be accursed. Amen.

11.—STRAT ELEI.²

Be it known that Cors son of Gafran, for the exchange of a heavenly kingdom, sacrificed to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Trychan, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever, four modii of land at Strat Elei, with all its liberty, and free from every service, and with all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, and with all its fish, with the approbation and consent of Kings Meurig and Rhys, sons of Ithael, King of Glewysig. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Trychan, Cadwared, Cyfreiddon; of the laity, King Meurig, and his brother Rhys, Cors, Gafran, Erbig, Brochwael, Gwallonir, Bleddud. Its boundary as to its breadth is from the unplowed lands of Cinscuit to Elei.

12.—THE VILLAGE OF PROCLUUI, THAT IS TREF IRIS-CEIAUC.

Be it known that Cynwyl son of Gwrgeneu, with his son Gernyfed, bought the village of Procluui near Naddauan, of Ithael son of Morgan, King of Glewysig, for two horses of the value of eight cows, and a trumpet of the value of twenty four cows, and a cloke given to the queen of the value of six ounces, with a horse of the value of four ounces; and being bought as aforesaid, they sacrificed it with the approbation and consent of the King, in honour of their burial, free from every service, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Trychan, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever, and with all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Trychan, Cadwared, Cyfreiddon, Dewi, Iawan, Gwrfoi, Seitir, Tregor, Cain, with three Abbots, Sulien, Abbot of Carvan valley; Sadwrn, Abbot of Docunni; Gwrhafal, Abbot of Illyd; of the laity, King Ithael, Ffrewddyfr, Eluc, Gwynwg, Morleu, Dewi son of Cynglais, presbyter, Cellan, Gwodon, Llunfwy, Bonus, Erbig, Ellgleu, Deriw. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; but whoever will violate it, may he be cursed. Amen.

13.—LANN HELICON.

Eliud, Cynan, Gwyddgen, and Erddybwy, sons of Owen, with the approbation and consent of King Brochwael, gave a church, with a quantity of land about it, free from every laical service, and delivered it up, free from every claim, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Trychan, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever. And Bishop Trychan having assembled the three Abbots and the witnesses together, and all the clergy of the whole diocese, from the mouth of the Taratyr on the banks of the Wye, as far as the mouth of the Towy, before them all, the alms being confirmed upon the four gospels, blessed him and his offspring; and penance being enjoined him with respect to all his crimes, he was absolved from the guilt of his sins. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Trychan, Bishop; Sulien, Abbot of Carvan valley; Sadwrn, Abbot of Docunni; Gwrhafal, Abbot of Iltyd; of the laity, King Brochwael, Dewi, Trahaiarn, Cynfwr. And the same being gone round, the holy cross preceding with sounding bells, and the sprinkling of holy water, and with the holy gospels being present, throughout the whole boundary, the Bishop said, "Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and "whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, "may he be accursed. Amen."

ELWOG, BISHOP.

Bishop Elwog follows Bishop Trychan in the time of Meurig, Rhys, Ffernwael, Rhodri, sons of the King of Glewyssig.¹

CADWARD, BISHOP.

14.—CHURCH OF MA MOURIC, THAT IS LANN VUIEN.

Be it known to all Christians, that Gafran son of Cors, sacrificed in alms for his soul to God, and to St. Dubrius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hands of Bishop Cadward, and to all Bishops of Llandaff for ever, the church of Ma Mouric, that is Lann Vuien, with six modii of land about it, and with all its liberty, and complete commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, without any payment to any mortal man, either great or small, besides to the Church of Llandaff, and its pastors, for ever, with the approbation and consent of King Gwrgafarn son of Ffernwael. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Cadward, Cyfreiddan, Cynweu, Haiarngen, Gwrafwy, Llynfryd, Rhiwal, Gwernabwy, Iawan, Gwallonir; of the laity, King Gwrgafarn son of Ffernwael, Cors, Cyheig, Ilias, Tenfwy, Glesni, Elldoc. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; but whoever will violate it, may he be cursed. Amen. Its boundary is,—From the highway to the source of the Betguos, along the hollow downwards to Cehir, downwards to the influx of the field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Cadward,; of the laity, King Ffernwael son of Ithael, and his wife Ceingar, Elioc, Aidan, Cynfig, Gworweith, Gwallwg, Giddwg son of Dimel.

16.—MATHENNI.

After these things, when the said land was taken away by laical force and violence from the Church of Llandaff, and often claimed by Bishop Cadward, Morcunris, that he might not become a partaker of the excommunication pronounced against him, restored for his soul, with the approbation and attestation of King Athrwys and his witnesses, Morcunris, Moreb, and Morlas, the church of Mathenni, with three modii of land, and all who should inhabit that church with its land, except with the favour and grant of Bishop Cadward, and all the Bishops of Llandaff. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; but whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen. Its boundary is,—From the source of Diuguinid along Guer to Henpont, along Henpont downwards to Gwilca, along Gwilca upwards to directly opposite the hollow on the right, along the hollow towards the West to directly opposite the Adinant stone, along the hollow downwards to the source of the Diuguinid, where it began.

17.—GUINNA.

Be it known to all Christians that Rhys son of Ithael, King of Glewysig, together with his heir Domnward, sacrificed three modii of land at Guinna, to God, and to

St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Cadward, and of all the Bishops of Llandaff, and with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Cadward, Sulien, Rufon, Cynwyl, Mabon; of the laity, King Rhys, Gwaednerth, Merchion, Merchyr, Meic. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

18.—LOUHAI.¹

Cynfelyn son of Cynog, bought of Rhodri son of Ithael, the land of Louhai, of the quantity of three modii,² for two valuable horses, and two vestments; and being thus bought, he sacrificed it, free of fiscal tribute, with the approbation of the King, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hands of Bishop Cadward, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff, for ever, with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Cadward, Samson, Tedmig, Gwyddyl, Gwrafeu, Gwrhafal, Dyfrig; of the laity, Rhodri, Cynfelyn, Pasgen, Aidan, Saith, Llynwydd, Maelgwn. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will violate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be cursed. Amen. Its boundary is,—The influx of Catfrut³ into the Wye, along it upwards to directly opposite to the ridge of

19.—CAER RIOU.¹

King Athrwys son of Ffernwael sacrificed Caer Riou, with an uncia² of land to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hands of Bishop Cadward, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff, with all its liberty, for ever. And his heir Lleufryd received the land from Bishop Cadward, and from the clergy of Llandaff, and to give to them yearly six tierces of ale, with all that was due from him in bread and in flesh, and a pint and a half of honey, and according to the will of the Bishop, as long as it should please him and his chapter, he gave it up free from him and from his offspring, for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Cadward, Lleufryd, Glodwy, Cynfyn, Dyfrig, Gwynarwm; of the laity, King Athrwys son of Ffernwael, Lleufryd, Rhiafal, Serir, Gwernabwy, Collan, Cinim. Its boundary is,—Between Distin and Leminan, as far as the valley Manochi, the valley of Morgan as far as the fountain Baraluen, following the acclivity to the rivulet Penlucan, to the pool Ruddylin, following it as far as the Distin. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will violate it, may he be cursed. Amen.

¹ From the boundaries of this grant, it may be safely inferred that the site of Caer Riou is a place in Monmouthshire, called Chapel Farm, between the rivulets Lumon and Distil, about 5 miles N. W. from Monmouth.

20.—DIN BIRRION.

Cynfelyn son of Cynog sacrificed to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Cadwared, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff, with the approbation and consent of King Rhodri son of Ithael, Din Birrion, with three modii of land, and with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Cadwared, Gwyddyl, Lwlig, Gworafwy.

21.—GUERUDUC.

King Rhys son of Ithael granted the village Gueruduc, with nine modii¹ of land, for the salvation of his soul, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Cadwared, and all Bishops of Llandaff for ever, with all its liberty, without any payment, great or small, to any mortal man except to the Church of Llandaff, and its pastors; and he made that land a Refuge to the present and future inhabitants, and to whomsoever should seek it on account of joy or gladness, for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are Bishop Cadwared, Samson, Gwrtri, Gwengaleu, Trican, Unwst, Glowybwy, Seitir, Gwyddyl, Rhiafal, Lwlig, Dyfrig; of the laity, King Rhys, Gwernyfed, Cynbresel, Dawan, Jacob, Cynwyd, Cynfwy, Gwobeith, Gwrhafal, Glesni, Elmareu, Pasgen, Collfwy. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed.

22.—MERTHYR MACHES.

Cors son of Erbig being penitent in heart and mind, and asking pardon of God for his offences through the intercession of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and indulgence and remission of his sins from Bishop Cadwared of that church, said, "I offer to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Cadwared, and to all Bishops of Llandaff, the church of Merthyr Maches, with three modii of land about it, and with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, without any payment, great or small, to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff and its pastors, for ever, King Gwrgafarn son of Ffernwael granting and confirming the same." Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Cadwared, Cyfreiddian, Mastryd, Cynweu, Llundfryd, Rhifafal, Iawan, Gwallonir; of the laity, Cors, Cyheig, Ilias, Tenfwy, Glesni, Elldoc. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will violate it, may he be cursed.

pecially those who dwell in the southern part of Britain, that Gwallwn son of Ceidrich, being excited by anger and rage, arose, with uplifted head, against his lord, that is to say, Hywel son of Rhys,¹ King of Glewyssig, breaking the peace, and would take from him by force and violence the land of Lantivei. And the dispute and contention between the King and Prince being heard throughout the country, Cerenhir, Bishop of Llandaff, exhorted them to agree and make peace. And having heard his entreaty, and obeying him, they came to Llandaff with a large military retinue, and on the altar of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, the holy gospels being placed before them, they swore that for the future there should be peace between them, without fraud or treachery; there being present three Abbots, Elisael, Abbot of Cadoc; Elised, Abbot of Illtyd; —, Abbot of Docunni; Cyward, reader; Gwerngen, Ruid, Esne, Pasgen; and laity present, Mor, Merchytir, Iddgant, Embresel.

After these things, King Hywel broke his peace, and committing both murder and perjury, killed Gwallwn treacherously; and on his being murdered, the Bishop assembled a complete synod at Llandaff, there being gathered together all the clergy of the whole diocese, from the mouth of Taratyr on Wye to the mouth of Towy; and all the crosses being with one voice placed on the ground, and the bells inverted, and the relics of the saints taken from the altar, and thrown to the ground, he excommunicated the King, taking from him all the communion of Christians; and he remained under that excommunication nearly a whole year.

¹ Living in the time of Alfred the Great, King of England, and Rhodri the Great, Prince of Wales, about the year 877.—Asser Menevensis.

After these things, the King not being able to bear such excommunication as his crimes required, sought for pardon at Llandaff, with naked feet and profuse shedding of tears, for his murder and perjury; and by the advice of his uncle Meurig, pardon being given to him, with the enjoining of public penance, he largely promised amendment of soul and body, by fasting and almsgiving, and gave to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Cerenhir, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever, before the said persons, and all attesting the same, Merthyr Buceil, and Merthyr Minor, with four modii¹ of land about them, and half a modius of Tir Collou, with all their liberty, without any payment to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff, and its pastors, and with all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will violate it, may he be cursed. Amen.

24.—VILLAGE OF GULIBLE.¹

During the reign of Meurig son of Ithael, King of Glewysig, Ili son of Cynflws and Camawg met together at the monastery of Llandaff, and in the presence of Bishop Cerenhir, and his clergy, confirmed their peace, both swearing upon the altar of Peter the apostle, and of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, the holy gospels and the relics of the saints being placed before them, that their ancient enmity was done away and forgotten. After an interval of some time, he who stood with joy in the presence of God in the heavenly paradise, and presumptuously said, "I will fix my seat in the north, and be like the Most High," and falling through the effects of envy and pride, drew with himself from the highest throne to the bottomless pit, part of the unclean spirits, who agreed with him, and part he sent into the air: and who through artful fraud deceived our first parent Adam, who by the word of God was created eternal and holy, and was placed in the seat of delights, with supreme happiness and joy, and having lost his happy state, was with his wife cast out of paradise destitute and sorrowful; he, the same ancient enemy, the incitement to envy still remaining, caused his offspring, the aforesaid persons, to disagree, and break the peace, so far that Ili, a member of Antichrist, slew Camawg treacherously, committing at the same time both murder and perjury.

After these things, the report of his wickedness and impiety was heard throughout the kingdom, and ¹ Gwlyb-le, or Wet Place; there being no boundaries given, the situation of this place has not been ascertained.

Bishop Cerenhir assembled at Llandaff all the clergy of the whole diocese between Taratyr on the banks of the Wye and the mouth of Towy; and by the advice of the whole synod, he took away all communion and participation of Christians from the aforesaid murderer and perjured person Ili; the crosses together with the relics of the holy saints being laid on the ground. And so he remained excommunicated for some short time; but being compelled by the force and rigour of justice, and not able to sustain any longer the burden of his wickedness and crime, with profuse shedding of tears, and naked feet, he sought pardon of Bishop Cerenhir at Llandaff.

And pardon being given to him, with penance suitable to the crimes of murder and perjury, and also to his excommunication, standing in the middle of the church, he promised to amend himself in all things, by fasting, prayer, and almsgiving; and with the approbation and consent of King Meurig, he granted for the salvation of his soul, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Cerenhir, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever, the smaller village of Gullible, with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Cerenhir, Bishop; Elisael, Abbot of Cadoc; Elised, Abbot of Iltyd; ———, Abbot of Docunni; Nudd, Idnerth, Cynflws, Gwernoneu and his son Gwrdoc, Ieufwy, Cadward, Glywi, Caradoc; of the laity, Meurig, Ili, Alexander, Ili son of Manachan, Gworfryd, Albrit. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him: but whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed.

25.—VILLAGE OF LANN CULAN.

Cynfyn son of Gwrgan sacrificed to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Cerenhir, and all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever, Lann Culan, with all its liberty, and three modii, that is a quarter of an uncia¹ of ground, and with the approbation and consent of King Brochwael son of Meurig, with all its liberty, without any payment to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff and its pastors for ever, and with its Refuge for those who at present or in future may remain there, or who shall seek that church and its land on account of having committed some crime, and so long as the fugitive may wish, in quiet peace without limit, and with all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Cerenhir, Nywys, Nudd, Cynan, Cadward, Seitir, Cynflws, Idnerth, Heinif; of the laity, Brochwael son of Meurig, Gistlerth, Idwallon, Ili, Aircol, Elisei. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will violate it, may he be cursed. Amen.

26.—VILLAGE OF PENNON AND ST. TYLULL.

Agwod son of Ieuaf came on a certain day to the door of the Church of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus at Llandaff, in a very great rage, as a grievous quarrel had taken place between his family and that of the Bishop, and having thrown stones against the church door, he was driven away under excommunication. After a few days he sought pardon for the crime which both he and his family had committed, and absolution having been pronounced on him, acknowledging with great sorrow his fault of transgression, he, with the approbation of Meurig, King of Glamorgan, sacrificed to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Cerenhir, and all the Bishops of Llandaff, the Village of Pennonn, with its church of Lanntylull, and three modii¹ of land, and three bushels of wheat, and with its Refuge, and all its liberty, free from all regal service, except prayer only, and with commonage to the inhabitants in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Cerenhir, Nudd, Tuthed, Seitir, Idnerth, Gworedris, Bleinwydd, Dyfran; and of the laity, King Meurig, Agwod, Idnerth his son, and his brother Briafael, Orytur, Iddgant, Merchfwy, Iltyd, Blaenrydd, Ruid, Cynlewi. Its boundary is,—Along the valley of Brachan by the length of the highway as far as the fountain, from the fountain following the highway to the ford of Dulais, from the western part of the brook Brachan by the length of the ditch, following the ditch straight to the other ditch, in its length to the hill of Guorgued, from the hill out of the cultivated land to Pen-y-clawdd, along the dike downwards to the ridge, from the ridge to Bryn hitian to Dulais.

NOBIS, BISHOP.

Nobis, the nineteenth Bishop.¹

¹ Bishop Godwin observes that there is nothing mentioned respecting this Bishop, except his name; but Antonius a Borco entered on the margin of his copy, which he gave to Camden, the following particulars from a Book in the Bodleian Library,—“A Jester came to the palace of the Bishop named Nobis, and standing before him said, (punning on his name,) Amen dico vobis, pro nobis est sine robis. To which the Bishop answered, Amen dico vobis, sine robis ibis a nobis; and the Jester rejoined, Amen dico vobis, si nobis sit sine robis, a labiis nobis dicentur scandala vobis.” Which may be translated,—Jester, “Verily I say unto you, I am without robes.”—Bishop, “Verily I say unto you, you shall go from me without robes.”—Jester, “Verily I say unto you, If I shall be without robes, from my lips reproachful things will be said of you.”

In the Appendix, page 273, the name of Nobis, Bishop of Teilo or Llandaff, appears as a witness to a grant recorded on the margin of the ancient MS. Copy of the Gospels, preserved in Lichfield Cathedral, called St. Chad's Gospels.

(PATER,² BISHOP.)

1.—CHURCH OF MAINUON, THAT IS, THE VILLAGE OF GUICON.

King Nowi son of Gwriad killed Arcoed son of Dissaith in the mansion of Mainuon, in the middle of Trelech, a mansion of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, ¹ The subject-matter of this Chapter commences in the original Latin, at page 208, and has reference to particulars which took place when Pater, Gulfrid, Nudd, Cyfeiliog, Libiau, and Gucan, were Bishops of Llandaff.

² This Bishop is called in the Welsh Chronicles Padarn, where it is stated that he died in the year 961, and that Rhodri the son of Morgan Mawr was appointed his successor, in opposition to the will of the Pope, owing to which circumstance he was poisoned.—Myfyrian Archaeology, II. p. 491.

Godwin, in his List of Bishops, places Pater as 25th Bishop of Llandaff, following Marchlwys, who, according to Brut y Tywysogion, died in the year 943, which is more consistent with chronology than the position in which he is placed in this Work.

through anger and excessive rage, and violating the refuge of the holy persons; and Bishop Pater assembled the clergy of the whole diocese within Taratyr and Towy, on account of the sacrilegious violence that had been committed. King Nowi hearing of the coming of the Bishop, and the assembling of the synod¹ on the business of the sacrilege and violating the refuge, sought pardon of Bishop Pater, and the whole synod, in the church of Mainuon; and having returned all things to the church, with an effusion of tears and falling prone to the ground, and pardon being given to him with enjoined penance, he granted in alms to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Pater, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff, the village Guidcon, with all its territory, that is three modii² of land, and with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Pater, Bishop; Dissaith, reader; Diwin, officiating minister; Cynwal, Equonimus, Llywarch son of Dutha, Oswl son of Cynfelyn; of the laity, King Nowi, Gwrawl son of Brochfael, Eiddilwyrth son of Edryd, Mailseru son of Dutha. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

2.—TERRITORY OF LLANBEDEUL. A SYNOD.

In the year of the nativity of our Lord 955, and indiction 13, the following wicked deed was perpetrated. In the days of Nowi son of Gwriad, and of Pater, Bishop of the most celebrated episcopal See, which is situated on the banks of the river Taff, on a certain day, in the time of harvest, a Deacon named Ilison of Beli, whom the Bishop had ordained in that year, passing through the corn, a certain countryman named Merchytyr son of Iddig, met him saying in opprobrious language, "What does such a coward as thou do "with weapons?" Whilst they spoke in reproachful terms, Merchytyr rushed upon him, and reached his hand to his sword, which being unsheathed, he cut off therewith one of the Deacon's fingers, and his blood flowing, the Deacon said to him, "Return to me that thou mayest tie up my finger." And when turning to him, and tying his finger, the Deacon stabbed him, and he immediately died; and the Deacon betaking himself to flight, went to the church of St. Jarmen, and St. Febric, seeking refuge. When these things were done, they were told to the friends of the deceased; afterwards many of them assembled together, and endeavoured to break open the church in which was the Deacon. Then came the celebrated Blegwryd,¹ son of Eineon, who forbad them to break the church, because it was a dreadful crime. Very soon after however six persons of the family of Nowi, whose names were Birtulf, and his brother Britilm, Buddad, and his son Briwan, and two other brothers, Gwodgwn and Alla the sons of Cynilig, came, and immediately rushed into the church, and,

¹ He is supposed to be the same person as Blegwryd, a very learned man, who assisted Howel Dda son of Cadell, Prince of Wales, in forming his code of Welsh Laws, about the year 940. In the Myfyrian Archaiology, he is however stated to be the son of Owen, not Eineon, and to be the brother of Morgan, King of Glamorgan, and chief Assessor (Pencyfeistedd) at Llandaff.—See Spilman's Concilia, I. p. 408—418. Myfyrian Archaiology, II. p. 485. Powel's History of Wales, p. 44. Wynne's ditto, p. 50.

dreadful to relate, killed the Deacon before the altar of the saints, the blood being sprinkled on the altar and the walls of the church.

These evil deeds having been perpetrated, they were told to the Bishop, who then abode with Hywel,¹ the British King, in the region of Brecknock. When he heard it, he immediately sent messengers to the monasteries of all the provinces of the whole diocese between the mouth of Taratyr on Wye and the banks of Towy, which were subject to the church of Llandaff, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Pater, and all succeeding Bishops for ever, that they might assemble the Priests, Deacons, and clergy of all degrees, and meet together. Nowi also hearing, with his nobles, that the malediction of the whole church was rushing and falling upon him, would not dare to sustain such a weight of malediction, but entered into counsel with the most learned men of his country, and sending messengers, called the Bishop to him. And afterwards Nowi, and the Bishop, with his nobles, met together in the city of Gwent,² and by the advice of all the doctors of both parties, the six cruel men were given into the hands of the Bishop, and they were taken to the monastery of St. Teilo, where they passed six months in iron fetters. Again Nowi requested that those men might be brought to the aforesaid monastery, in which they had killed the Deacon, that there they might receive divine judgment. Also it was fixed, according to the judgment of the synod, that each of them should give to the church he had defiled, his land and all his substance, and also the price of his life, that is seven pounds of silver. But it is not to be omitted that before judgment, those men Idwallon son of Morwydd, and Gwynac, and Jonathan, and Galfryd, three sons of Ceredig, with the whole land of the family of Gwrffod, with field and fountains, with woods and hawks, and with every payment which used to be given before to the King, were put into the possession of the Bishop, and in the power of the church of St. Teilo. All these things being settled by divine judgment, the Bishop arose in the middle, and they all stood near him holding the Gospel, and he said to Nowi, "Lay thy hand on this Gospel." And Nowi placed his hand on the Gospel, and said, "May this land with its inhabitants be in eternal consecration to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Pater, and to all Bishops of Llandaff, free from all laical service, except only daily prayer, for ever." Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Pater, Bishop; Diwin, priest; Disaith, reader; Enun and Marthi sons of Cadgen, Llywarch and Brwyn sons of Dutha, Aircoed, Cynflws, and Gwynan, Brein son of Gworeu; of the laity, King Nowi, Gistlerth, Ivor, Cynfarch, Ili, Bledrwys. 3.—CAER NONOU.

Bledrwys son of Gwallwyn, lying in sickness and approaching his death, gave in honour of his burial, Caer Nonou, with an uncia and a half¹ of land, that is the half part of the land of Caer Nonou, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Pater, and to all Bishops of Llandaff for ever, with all its liberty, and its wears for fisheries, without any payment to mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff, and commonage to the present and future inhabitants in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, and with the approbation and consent of King Nowi. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Pater, Bishop; Goronwy son of Gwrfed, Abbot of Gwent city; Diwin, priest; Dissaith, reader; Aircoed, reader; Merchi son of Cadgen, Abbot of the church of St. Michael; Llywarch and Brwyn sons of Dutha; and of the laity, King Nowi, Bledrwys holding the gospel and confirming the grant, Blegwryd, and Rhydderch sons of Eineon. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will violate it, may he be cursed. Amen.

4.—TREFICARN PONT.

Llywarch son of Cadwgan plundered Abergwenffrwd, and took Eicolf son of Cynor, with all his household furniture, and domestic and field animals; and that wickedness being done with great anger and fury in the territory and refuge of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, Bishop Gulfrid commanded the clergy of the ecclesiastical order of all the diocese, between the mouth of Taratyr on the banks of the Wye and the banks of the Towy, to assemble at Llanoudocui;¹ and the congregation having heard, and also being united on account of so great a crime, Llywarch, bowing himself to the ground, sought pardon, with bended knees and an effusion of tears, before the Bishop, and before the holy relics, crosses, and bells, proposing that he, acknowledging his crime, would accept and suffer canonical sentence and judgment. The Bishop having entered into counsel with the synod, and some principal persons of the diocese of the laical order and catholic faith, forgave him, on his restoring to him and his men, all the things that he had plundered; and remission was given him, and penance enjoined proportionate to his crime. And after pardon was granted, Llywarch gave in alms to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Gulfrid, and to all Bishops of Llandaff for ever, the village of Treficarn pont, and three modii² of land, and with all its liberty, all commonage

Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Gulfrid, Bishop; Diwin, priest; Dunwallawn, Abbot of Llaneineon, that is Llanoudocui; Dissaith, reader; Air-coed, reader; Heinif son of Cadgen, Llywarch son of Dutha; of the laity, King Cadell son of Arthfael, Llywarch, Cynfelyn son of Branud, Owain son of Awod, Gwlfre son of Eleu, Morgeneu son of Dull, Edril son of Cilbresel. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

5.—VILLAGE OF SEGAN.

Be it publicly known to all persons worshipping Christ, and especially those who inhabit the southern part of Britain, that Asser son of Marchwydd killed Gwlagwyn by treachery; and to make amends for such murder, with respect to God and men, peace being concluded between the kindred on both sides, he, and also his father Marchwydd, granted in alms for the soul of the deceased, the village of Segan, with nine modii¹ of land, to God, and Peter the apostle, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hands of Bishop Gulfrid, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever, King Cadell son of Arthfael granting and commanding it, without any payment, great or small, to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff and its pastors, with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water, and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Gulfrid, Bishop; Diwin, presbyter; Dissaith, reader; Cynwal, Heinif, Tudnerth; and of the laity, King Cadell son of Arthfael, Marchwydd son of Bleddgwr, and Asser his son the murderer, Merchiawn, Edrit, Drim, Cynfyn. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will violate it, may he be cursed. The boundary is,—From the ford of Dulais, keeping the highway as far as the great rock, again keeping the highway, and going beyond the road as far as the well Dotei, from the well Dotei it proceeds to the ditch, and following the ditch on the middle of the ridge as far as the mound of Guian, then following the ditch and going straight to the long stone, from the long stone to the black marsh until it descends into Dulais.

1.—TREF RET, NEAR MERTHYR MINOR IN MARCA.¹

King Cadwgan son of Owain, sacrificed for his soul and the souls of his father and all his progenitors, the village of Ret, with three modii of land, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Gulfrid, with all Bishops of Llandaff, and with all its liberty, and commonage to the inhabitants of that land in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, and without any payment to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff and its pastors, for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Gulfrid, Bishop; Dissaith, writer; Enun, Cynwal; Diwin, priest; Tudnerth, Rhyfelgar, Aircol, Dwnna; and of the laity, King Cadwgan, Rhiwallawn, Ellystan, Marchi, Catulf, Edryd, March; Aidan, priest;

¹ This place is now unknown. We find by the above that it was situated near Merthyr Minor and Merthyr Glywis, which is probably the same as Merthyr Bugail, supposed to be Merthyr Mawr, on the banks of the river Ogwr or Ogmor, near Bridgend, Glamorganshire,—see page 466.

Draigwn, reader. Its boundary is,—In length from Merthyrgliwys as far as the river Ogmores; in breadth, from Tir y Caer, as far as the village Oufreu. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

NUDD, BISHOP.

7.—OF THE MARTYRS JULIUS AND AARON.¹

Gwlffert, Hewi, and Arwystyl, sons of Beli, and their family, quarrelled, first in words, and as it is said, “From the smallest things, greater will proceed,” afterwards fought with the family of Bishop Nudd, who at that time remained at Llangarth;² and an agreement having been made between both parties, the aforesaid persons sought

pardon for the injury and great cruelty which had been done on their part. And penance being enjoined to them suitable to their crime, they said, "We sacrifice and heartily restore to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Nudd, and all the Prelates of Llandaff, all the territory of the holy martyrs Julius and Aaron, which of old time belonged to St. Dubricius; with all its liberty, and free from all regal service, and all its dignity, and privilege, and refuge, as an island in the sea, free from all laical service, except only daily prayer, and to be always the peculiar seat of the Bishop of Llandaff, and all commonage to the inhabitants in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, and with all its wears for fisheries in the woods and in the sea." Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Nudd, Tuthed, Gwerngen, Gwredris, Idwored, Sedd, Elwoid; of the laity, Meurig, his sons Brochwael and Ffernwael, Haiarnddur, Caletir, Caiaun, Emris, Brechiawl, Clydog, Rhiwallon. A blessing being pronounced on those who would preserve that alms for the service of the Church of Llandaff, and a curse on such as should separate it from the said church and its pastors. Its boundary is,—The head of the dike on the Usk, following along the dike to the breast of the hill, along the dike to the source of the brook Merthyr, that is Amir, from its source to the hollow upwards, to the source of the brook Lechou, following Lechou downwards to the gorge of the hollow on the right side; along the hollow upwards to the head of the dike, and along it towards the west to the slope of the hill, to the source of the brook of Bedd yr Alltudion (Grave of the Strangers,) along the brook to the Usk, along Usk with its wears to the head of the dike, where it began.

8.—CAER DUICIL.

The Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, three in persons, one in deity and substance, inspired by his grace, and on account of the salvation of his creature made after the image and likeness of himself, the stony heart of Enwystyl, a certain rich man lying in illness and under the burden of his sins. And the said Enwystyl turning to the Lord, and having received remission of his sins from Bishop Nudd through the intercession of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, granted in alms the castle of Dinducil, that is Caer Duicil, with its church, and three modii of land around the fortress on the mountain and below it, with its boundaries on all sides, and with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, with the approbation and consent of King Hywel son of Rhys. Of the clergy, the witnesses are Bishop Nudd, Bleinwydd, Rwydd, Gwynalan, Gwrgarherw; and of the laity, King Hywel, Engist, Sawian, Byrrian, Afelwydd. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will violate it, may he be cursed.

9.—VILLAGE OF ELIAU.

Eliau son of Acherw sacrificed a field of one modius¹ in quantity, for the writing of his name in the Book of Life, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Nudd, and to all Bishops of Llandaff for ever, and with all its liberty, without any payment to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff and its pastors. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Nudd, Idnerth, Gwyddai, Blainrydd, Sciplan; of the laity, King Hywel, Eliau, Iddig, Lilli, Cwywerth, Breichiawl. Its boundary is,—The valley of the lepers, from the valley to the fountain Cincarui, and straight along the road from thence to the brook, again the land sloping circuitously to the said valley of lepers. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

10.—CHURCH OF DINCAT.¹

Tudmab being penitent in heart and mind, and fulfilling the commandment of the Lord, "Give and it shall be given unto you," for the exchange of a heavenly kingdom, and for the soul of his father Pawl, granted the church of Dincat, with three modii² of land, to God, and the apostle Peter, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Nudd, and all pastors of Llandaff, with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, and with the approbation of King Hywel son of Rhys. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Nudd, Tuthed, Banwgar, priest; Idnerth, Eggoid; of the laity, King Hywel, Tudmab, Morgi, Gwyddgyfarch, Dwana, Gwanar. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen. Its boundary is,—The influx of Camfrut into the Trothy, as it leads upwards to the ditch on the right, along the ditch, across the brook, along it downwards to the spring of Ffynnon y Cleifion, crossing the ditch and across the ridge to Nant y Bwch, along the brook to a ditch on the left in the direction of the Trothy, to a small brook, and along it to the Trothy, to the Yewtree ford on the Trothy, through the Trothy along the ditch upwards, along the brook to its source, from its source across the ridge to the source of another brook, following along the brook to the influx of Henglas, along the Henglas upwards to the influx of Camfrut, where it began.

11.—CHURCH OF GUEITHIRIN.¹

Cors and Morwydd granted the church of Gueithirin, with three modii² of land about it: and after an interval Cors gave three other modii of land above the way, near the aforesaid land, with its wood and claims, and all its liberty, and with the approbation of King Hywel, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Nudd, and all Bishops of Llandaff for ever, without any payment to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff; and for the soul of the King it was given, to be free and quit of all tribute and laical service. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Nudd, Bishop; Elised, Abbot of Illtyd; Idnerth, Gworddog, Elwoid; of the laity, King Hywel, Merchiawn, Gwynan son of Morwy. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will violate it, may he be cursed. The boundary is,—From the influx of Pwll y Fan into the Trothy, along it opposite the Pwll to 12.—PENCREIC¹ IN ERGYNG, ON WYE.

After a long time King Hywel son of Rhys granted for his soul, and the souls of his parents and friends, Pencreic, with all its land, and all liberty, and free from all laical service, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Nudd, and all Bishops of Llandaff for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Nudd, Heinif, Elwoid, Iowi; of the laity, King Hywel, Meurig, Merchiawn. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed.

13.—YSTRAD HAFREN.²

After an interval of time, King Hywel son of Rhys, restored to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, in the hand of Bishop Nudd, and all Bishops of Llandaff for ever, the church of Ystrad-hafren, with its

Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Nudd, Bishop; Elised, Abbot of Illyd; Idnerth, Merchiawn, Gwrfodw, Gwrgi, Talan, clerk and heir. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will violate it, may he be cursed.

14.—CHURCH OF RHIW.

Gwrai son of Iddig restored to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Nudd, and all Bishops of Llandaff for ever, the church of Rhiw, with three modii¹ of land about it, which formerly belonged to St. Dubricius, Archbishop of Southern Britain, and with all its liberty, without any payment, great or small, to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff and its pastors for ever, and with all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Nudd, Bishop; Elised, Abbot of Illyd; Idnerth; of the laity, King Hywel, Merchion. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed.

And with it he gave the field of the Monks near the corn of Aperhumir, and with his plows at Aperhumir. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Nudd, Cynan, Idnerth, Equonimus, Llutmin of Hennlantituic, Cyngan of Llan-syllwg, Maelserw of Lantimoi, Eithin of Garthbenni; of the laity, King Hywel son of Rhys, Abraham, Cyfarherw, Salomon, Cynfryd, Cynbresel, Idwallawn, Gwrhytir, Idnerth son of Awagon, Meic. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed.

16.—LLANMEIRIPENROS.

Brochwael son of Meurig gave for his soul the church of St. Mary, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, with three modii of land about it, which he had first of all sacrificed to his virgin daughter, who had taken the nun's veil, that she might dwell there until death; but being deceived by diabolical advice and suggestion, she was seduced by Edgar son of Levi, and conceiving incestuously, brought forth a son, through whose birth she died. After these things, a dispute arose between Brochwael and Bishop Cyfeiliawg respecting that church and its territory; and on the assembling together of all the clergy and learned men who were between Towy and Wye, to adjudicate between the Bishop and Brochwael, by the true judgment of the clergy of the whole synod, the aforesaid church, with all its land, was adjudged to Bishop Cyfeiliawg, and the Church of Llandaff for ever. And the judgment pronounced being acceded to by both parties, Brochwael said, "I sacrifice to God, and do by oath confirm this church, with all its land and liberty, to God, and to the aforesaid Saints, and to all Bishops of Llandaff of the Southern Britons, [South Wales,] and destroyed all that they found on the banks of the river. Having taken, in the district of Ircenefeld, the British Bishop Cimilgeacum, they rejoiced not a little, and conveyed him to their ships; whom however King Edward [the Elder,] soon after ransomed for forty pounds."—Chron. Florent. 1601, p. 600. See also Matth. Westm. page 183. And likewise Ingram's Saxon Chronicle, page 131. And Fosbroke's Ariconencia, 2nd edition, p. 46, where he is considered as Bishop of Hereford, and resident at Ross. From the above passage may be inferred, that as Cyfeiliawg, or Cimelliauc, called in the Saxon Chronicle Cameleac, by Matthew of Westminster, Camilec, and by Florentius Cimilgeacum, was Bishop of Llandaff, the district of Archenfield, at present in the diocese of Hereford, or at least part thereof, was at that time in that diocese. It is stated in the Brut y Tywysogion, that in the second year after Cynan Tindaethwy was made King of all Wales, A.D. 756, "There was a battle between the Welsh and Saxons at Hereford, in which the Welsh were victorious; and there Cyfelach, Bishop of Glamorgan, was slain,"—Myv. Arch. II. 473. There must be some error in the above date of the death of Cyfelach, unless we are to suppose that he and Cyfeiliawg were not the same person, which is very improbable, as there is no other Bishop of Llandaff recorded having a similar name.

“for ever, without any payment to any mortal man, besides to the Pastors of Llandaff, and with all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures.” Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Cyfeiliawg, Bishop; Cadgen, reader; Pasgen, Gworeu, Nemeid, Awagon; of the laity, Brochwael, Caradwyn, Maeldwn, Dwynerth, Gwelchen, Eudiws. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will separate it, may he be cursed. Amen.

17.—TIR CYNIR.

Nudd son of Gwreynnyf gave for the salvation of his soul the land of Cynir, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of the Prelate Cyfeiliawg, and all Bishops of Llandaff, with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, with the approbation and consent of Brochwael son of Meurig. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Cyfeiliawg, Cadgen, Gwallwg, Gworeu, Morcunris, Awagon; of the laity, Brochwael, Hewi, Caradwyn, Cyngen, Levi. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed.

18.—TREF LILI.

Eised Yrsym sacrificed Tref Lili, with three modii¹ of land, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Cyfeiliawg, and to all Bishops of Llandaff, with the approbation and consent of Brochwael, and with all its liberty, and all commonage in

19.—TREF PEREN, THAT IS LANNMIHANGEL MAWR.¹

Be it known that a dissention arose between the two families of Bishop Cyfeiliawg and Brochwael son of Meurig, at Llandaff; and injury having been commenced and effected by the family of Brochwael, the Bishop was exiled, and sending messengers throughout his diocese, from the mouth of Taratyr on Wye, to the mouth of the Towy, assembled all the clergy, even to the inferior degrees, and being come together, he was desirous to excommunicate before all the people, and in full synod,² Brochwael, and all his family, who had acted unjustly to him, and were odious to God on account of their wickedness, and injurious conduct. And Brochwael hearing of so great a matter

² It is observed by Sir Henry Spelman with respect to the Synods assembled by Berthgwyn, Gwrwan, Cerenhir, Gulfrid, and Cyfeiliawg, and the three before mentioned by Bishop Oudoceus, about the year 560, and those which follow, that the account, referring to this Work, was written in the 12th century. And that the writer had related them, even the most ancient which were held near 40 years before the coming of Augustine, the assertor of the Roman ritual, according to the manner of his own time, in which he inaccurately mentioned, as was the common fault of Authors, the promulgation of excommunications, interdicts, and anathemas, the depositing of crosses, with inverted bells on the ground, &c. when it is clear that the crosses, and the use of bells were not known in the British Churches.—Spelm. being over him, sought pardon and indulgence at Llandaff; but he could not otherwise procure it than by submitting to canonical judgment; and such judgment being discussed, there was adjudged to the Bishop the quantity of the length and breadth of his face in pure gold,¹ with recompence to be made to his family worthy of his honour, and the nobility of his parentage. And King Brochwael could not comply with that judgment, but in another manner redeemed the gold by granting to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Cyfeiliawg, and to all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever, the village of Trefperen, with six modii of land, and with all its liberty, and all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Cyfeiliawg, Cadgen, Gwallwg, Pasgen, Awagon, Morcunris; of the laity, King Brochwael, Cynan, Gwrgan, Caradwyn, Nudd. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen. 20.—YSCUIT CYST.¹

Brochwael son of Meurig, for his soul, and the soul of his father, gave to God, and the apostle Peter, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Cyfeiliawg, and to all Bishops of Llandaff, Yscuit Cyst, with three modii of land, and its wears for fisheries in the Severn, and in Meurig, on both sides the bank, and with all its liberty, and all commonage to the present and future inhabitants of that land, without limit, throughout the region of Gwent, in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, and with free approach of ships at the mouth of Pwll Meurig, and with the wrecked ships in all its borders of sea and land, and in all things brought there, without any payment to any mortal man, besides to the Pastors of Llandaff for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are Bishop Cyfeiliawg, Cadgen, Acerw, Tuthed, Gwynda; of the laity, King Brochwael, Branwydd, Iliud, Cynfyn, Nudd, Llwywi. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will violate it, may he be cursed. Amen.

21.—VILLAGE OF CYUYU.¹

March son of Pebiau, for the salvation of his soul, penance being enjoined to him, and pardon given for the murder of his cousin Hortwlf, granted and restored to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Cyfeiliawg, and all Bishops of Llandaff, the village of Cyuyu, being three modii² of land, and part of the territory of Merthyr Tewdrig, with all its liberty in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Cyfeiliawg, Cadgen son of Bleinwydd, Gwynda, Cynwal, Branwydd; of the laity, King Brochwael, Caradwyn, Cuchein, Dull, Agwod. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

22.—CONSCUIT CASTLE,³ AND ALSO CHURCH OF ST. BRIDGET.⁴

Brochwael son of Meurig sacrificed two churches, and for the redemption of his soul, restored to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Cyfeiliawg, and all Bishops of Llandaff, both the churches of Castle Conscuit and St. Bridget, with six modii of land, and with all their liberty, and all common-

25.—VILLAGE OF BIRBAN.

King Arthfael, for the salvation of his soul, sacrificed to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudocus, and Bishop Cyfeiliawg, and all the Prelates of Llandaff, the village of Caer Birran, with three modii¹ of land, free from all regal service, and without any payment, great or small, to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff for ever, and commonage given to the inhabitants, in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Its boundary is,—From above the lake Idwal to the water-fall Elhaith, and from Brenan Picet on A blessing being pronounced on all who should keep that grant for the service of the Church of Llandaff; and a perpetual curse on those who would separate it. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Cyfeiliawg, Gwynda, Tuthed, Idnerth; of the laity, King Arthfael, Gowr, Merchiawn, Tewdws, Branwydd, Lleuddog.

In the year 927, Bishop Cyfeiliawg departed to the Lord.

LIBIAU,¹ BISHOP.26.—VILLAGE OF TREF CERIAU, THAT IS LLANMIHANGEL,¹ MEIBION GRATLAUN.

Be it known to all the inhabitants of the southern district of Britain, that a great dispute arose between Lybiau, Bishop of Llandaff, and Tewdwr son of Elised, King of Brecknock, because King Tewdwr sent off the Bishop from his monastery of Lanncors by himself, having taken away from him his banquet by force and violence. And so great an outrage having been committed, the Bishop on the morrow arose with his family, and left the King under a malediction and perpetual curse; and assembling together all the clergy of the whole diocese, situate between the mouth of the Taratyr on Wye and the mouth of Towy, in full synod at Llandaff, caused the King to be anathematized. And it was told to the King, and to the Bishop of St. David's, whose name was Lumberth,³ respecting the curse that had been pronounced. And after an interval of time, messengers having been sent to Bishop Lybiau, and received by him, they met together in the monastery of Lanncors. And it was adjudged to Bishop Lybiau, that he should have five times the value of the attendants he had when the banquet was taken from him, and also seven times the value of the said Bishop, that is 700 marks of pure gold. King Tewdwr seeing that he could not comply with the judgment, sought pardon through means of his intercessor, Bishop Lumberth, offering, with the acceptance of penance, Tref Ceriau, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Libiau, and all Bishops of Llandaff for ever. Pardon being given to him, Bishop Lybiau accepted that land, with all its liberty, without any payment to any mortal man besides to the Church of Llandaff and its Pastors for ever, and with all commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Its boundary is,—The highway which is on the south, by the thorn bush, from thence as far as the river Tangeiel,¹ which is on the north, thence by the brook eastward as far as the fountain Chenien; afterwards from this fountain through the dry valley which leads upwards as far as the aforesaid highway again, which is on the south. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Libiau, Bishop; Lumberth, Bishop; Eneuris, presbyter; Divin, presbyter; Marchwydd, Cerenhir, Rhyfelwr, Dissaith, Henif, Redwn, Canadam, Cynog; of the laity, King Tewdwr, Mor, Sulbrit, Ellystan, Bran, Serus, Avel, Davin. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

27.—PENIBEI IN ROSULGEN.

Be it known to you that King Gruffydd son of Owain, granted in alms four modii² of land at Penibei, and in eternal consecration, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Libiau, and all

Bishops of Llandaff, free as an island in the midst of the sea, without any payment to any mortal man, besides to the Pastors and Clergy of Llandaff, for amendment of life, and for three outrages which he had committed against God and the saints, first by seizing Idmab son of Idcant in the monastery of St. Cynwal,¹ a church of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and violating refuge; secondly, by slaying Cyfarherw son of Crashaion in the monastery of St. Ceinwry, that is Llanberugall;² thirdly, by selling to some persons without the leave of the Bishop, Porthdulon, from the earliest time a church of St. Dubricius. And amends being made for these three outrages, he granted the said land for the salvation of his soul as aforesaid. Its boundary in length is,—From the top of the mountain as far as the brook Mithri; and its breadth, from the middle of the wood, which is on the east, to the land of Cynwal, which is on the west; with two lands of Meinporth, whose boundary is, in length from the sea to the jacinthine rock, and in breadth, from the eastern ditch until the land of the sons of Guicauc with their heirs Bodwg and Eunin; and with one modius³ of land which is near Telic, the boundary of which is from the sea to the harbour Capra; and so between two trenches, in its length, to the jacinthine rock. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Libiau, Cerenhir, Equonimus, Diwin, presbyter; Dissaith, writer; Enun, Marchi, Gwythrid, Llywarch, Gwainint, Cynon; of the laity, Gruffydd son of Owain, Bleinfwy, Beli, Grucinan, Maibrigit, priest; Elei, GWGAN,¹ BISHOP.

28.—GRANT OF KING MORGAN HEN.

Morgan Hen son of Owain, King of Glamorgan, contemporary with Edgar, King of England, restored by his admonition, and the exhortation and recommendatory letters of Dunstan, Archbishop of the church of Canterbury, to Gwgan, Bishop of Llandaff, all the territories of the said church, and with all their dignity and privilege, and as it was in its best state in the time of his predecessors, St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, free from all service throughout Wales, not only throughout the kingdom of King Morgan, who reigned over the seven districts, between the mouth of Wye and the mouth of Towy, but also throughout the kingdom of Hywel Dda son of Cadell, who reigned over all Wales; and namely, those churches, with all their territories, Machumur, Lann luit,² and

I, Merchiawn son of Rhydderch, on account of my numerous offences and very great crimes against thee my God, who art the plentiful fountain of indulgence, do with affectionate endeavours, yea, with lamentable wailings, penitently, suppliantly, and with very great anxiety, desire to be convicted, continually recollecting these things, that Peter wept most bitterly, and obtained pardon; that Paul being converted, immediately became an apostle; and that the thief believed, and obtained paradise. Therefore to those celebrated confessors, Dubricius, Teilo, Oudoceus, and to Bishop Gwgan, adorned with both gems, that is the knowledge of the holy Scriptures divine and human, and the nobility of royal parentage, and likewise with the dignity of an episcopal cathedral, and by hereditary right, Abbot of the dignity of the church of St. Cadoc, at Lancarvan, that I may deserve to obtain constant joy in blessed tranquillity, I give for the souls of my wife and of my parents, Rhydderch and Angharad, the two brothers Gustin and Ebba, with their paternal inheritance, and a capture of fishes, and with all their liberty, without any payment to any mortal man besides to the Church of Llandaff, and its Pastors for ever, and with free commonage in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. 30.—LANNMIHACGELL LECHRIT,¹ AND THE VILLAGE OF STIFILOT.

Arthfael son of Nowi, King of Gwent, killed his brother Elised, and even himself; as it is metrically said, “Whoever contrives to injure another, will first smite himself with his own weapon.” And a murder so execrable and hateful to mankind having been committed, Bishop Gwgan sent messengers throughout the whole diocese which was subject to him, and in obedience to the Church of Llandaff; and all being assembled together at Llandaff, the highest to the lowest orders, as before mentioned, with the affirmation of the whole synod, he caused the King to be anathematized. And all Christian communion being taken away from him, and hearing of the curse that had been pronounced against him, he sought pardon with lamentable devotion; and penance being enjoined to him on account of the fratricide committed, he granted in alms to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Gwgan, and all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever, Lannmihacgell Lechrit, with the third part of a meadow. 32.—NOTICE OF THE CONSECRATION AND DEATH OF GWGAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF.

In the year of our Lord 982,¹ Gwgan, Bishop of Llandaff, was consecrated by the metropolitan Dunstan, Archbishop of the Church of Canterbury, the pastoral staff being given him in the royal Court by Edgar, King of England, his suffragans, Bishops of England being present, Birthelm, Bishop; Alfwold, Bishop; Athelwold, Bishop; Oswald, Bishop of Worcester; and Abbots present, Ælfric, Abbot; Æswic, Abbot; and Dukes standing by, Ælfer, Duke; Ælfpea, Duke; Æthelstan, Duke; with many others, clergy and laity. After the apostolical dignity was conferred on him, he departed to the Lord.

² Marchlwys, according to Godwin, de Presulibus, p. 599, Ed. 1743, succeeded Bishop Libiau; and according to both Godwin and the Welsh Chronicle in the Myv. Archaeology, vol. II. p. 488, he died in the year 943.

³ According to Bishop Godwin, Bledri became Bishop of Llandaff in 983. 2.—NOTICE OF THE SEVEN CANTREFS OF GLAMORGAN.

¶ This is here inserted because the paper on which it had been written, had nearly perished through the effects of very great age.

Know all Christians that there are seven Cantrefs, [or Cantreds,] in the lordship of Glamorgan, and likewise in the diocese of its church, which is at Llandaff. The first is Cantref Bychan;¹ the second is Cantref Gwyr,² Cydweli, and Carnwalliawn;³ the third is Cantref Gorfynydd; the fourth is Cantref Penychen;⁴ the fifth is Cantref Gwaunllwg, and Edelygion; the sixth is Cantref Gwent-iscoed; the seventh is Cantref Gwent-uchcoed,⁵ and Ystradyw,⁶ and Ewyas,⁷ which both are always called the two real sleeves of Gwent-uchcoed; and of Gwent-uchcoed, there are also Eryng and Aneryng, as is found in the Book of Teilo, and all its boundary throughout the circuit of Glamorgan. And be it likewise known to you that

² Gower,—the western district of Glamorganshire.

³ Kidwelly and Carnwillion,—two hundreds in the southern part of Carmarthenshire.

⁴ Gorfynydd and Penychen,—the ancient names of districts in Glamorganshire.

⁵ Wentloog, Edelygion, Gwent-iscoed, and Gwent-uchcoed,—ancient districts in Monmouthshire.

⁶ Ystradyw,—an ancient district in the southeast part of Brecknock, probably taking its name from the Ywen, which flows through it.

⁷ Ewyas, or Euas,—an ancient district in Herefordshire, see page 446.

at the same time, Edgar, and also Hywel Dda,¹ and Morgan Hen, were Kings of all Britain, and those two were subject to King Edgar. Morgan Hen likewise then enjoyed the whole of Glamorgan in peace and quietness, but Hywel Dda would take from him Ystradyw and Ewyas, if he could. Which being made known, King Edgar called Hywel Dda, and Morgan Hen and his son Owain, to his court, and there, in full council, King Edgar examined the matter in litigation between the two, and it was found by the just judgment of the court of King Edgar, that Hywel Dda had acted wrongfully against Morgan Hen and his son Owain, and Hywel Dda was deprived of those two districts, that is Ystradyw and Ewyas, for ever, without recovery. And afterwards King Edgar gave and granted to Owain the son of Morgan Hen, the said two districts of Ystradyw and Ewyas, declared by name to be in the diocese of Llandaff, as his own proper inheritance; and he confirmed them and his heirs by his Charter, free from the claim of any person whatsoever. And it was effected by the common assent and testimony of all the Archbishops, Bishops, and Abbots, Earls, and ¹ There appears to be an anachronism in this account, as Hywel Dda died in 948, eleven years before Edgar became King of England. Jones, in his History of Brecknockshire, I. pp. 8 and 9, notices the anachronism, but he himself falls into an error in placing Hywel's death in 958.—The above document is quoted in Spelman's Concilia, I. p. 414; and is to be met with in the Welsh Language in the Myvyrian Archæology, II. p. 612. Upon reference to this last work, page 490, it will be found that it was not Howel Dda, but his son and successor Owain, who intruded into the dominions of Morgan the Great, [Morgan Hen,] which is there stated to have taken place in 958. The arbitration made by Edgar was most probably one of his first acts after he commenced his reign in the year 959.

Barons of all England and Wales; and that he should be cursed by God the Father, who should ever separate these two districts from the lordship of Glamorgan and the diocese of Llandaff; and also that he, who should observe this act, should be blessed by the Lord Jesus Christ, and by all Christian people, from the time present and for ever. Amen. Be it moreover known to you, that the Charter which was executed that day, and written before King Edgar in full council, was deposited in the Church of Llandaff. Farewell.

3.—VILLAGE OF ELCU.¹

4.—VILLAGE OF JUNABIC.

The family of Edwyn son of Gwriad, King of Gwent, quarrelled with the family of Bledri, Bishop of Llandaff, so far that in the quarrel, which was carried on with great fury and shedding of blood on both sides, when the Bishop himself was present, unattended, and wishing to allay it, stood between the two parties, he was wounded, with the shedding of blood, by some wicked fellow of the King's family. And the quarrel being settled, the Bishop came to Llandaff, and sent his messengers throughout all the churches of his diocese, situated between the mouth of the Taratyr on the banks of the Wye and the mouth of the Towy; and all the clergy in holy orders being assembled together in full synod at Llandaff, he caused the King with all his family to be excommunicated; and he left the district of Gwent under a curse, without baptism, and deprived of all Christian communion. And when King Edwyn heard that so great a commotion had been raised on his account, and that so dreadful an excommunication had been pronounced on him and his country, he, with all his family, and all who had acted criminally, sought pardon at Llandaff; and in full synod, as far as related to himself respecting the injury committed, he received indulgence and remission of sins, having brought forward the cruel men before the feet of the Bishop, and delivered them up to him to receive judgment with pardon. And penance being enjoined to them, and remission with the granting of pardon pronounced; King Edwyn believing that he could not be otherwise cleared from the crime than by fasting, prayer, and almsgiving, gave to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Bledri for the shedding of his blood, the village of Junabic, with three modii of land, and all its liberty, without any payment to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff and its Pastors for ever, and with all commonage to be given to the inhabitants, in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Its boundary is,—From Cinguid Pill to the brook Lowhelig, and along the same to the Pill. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Bishop Bledri, Gwrgan, Cyfeiliawg, Ieuan; of the laity, King Edwyn, Elwallt, Gwrhi, Edeyrn. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. The boundary,—Nant y Gof on one side, on the other side Nant y Golchetfa to the Pill, to the ash towards the east, from the ash directly downwards to Nant y Golchetfa, following it to the Pill, from the ash on the other side to the source of the rill, following it downwards to Nant y Gof, to the Pill.

6.—ELECTION OF KINGS OF GLAMORGAN.²

In the year 983, there was an election of Kings of Glamorgan, that is of Owain, and Idwallon, Cadell, and Cynfyn, sons of Morgan Hen; Rhodri and Gruffydd sons of Elised. And in an assembly of all the clergy and people of Glamorgan, dwelling between the mouth of the ² The Brut y Tywysogion does not mention anything respecting this Election of Kings of Glamorgan.

Taratyr on Wye and the mouth of the Towy, Bledri was consecrated Bishop of Llandaff, the pastoral staff being given to him in the regal court, by Etheldred,¹ chief King of the English, and by Archbishop Albric,² metropolitan of the church of Canterbury; and in the year of our Lord 1022,³ and the 39th of his consecration, he migrated to the Lord.

7.—CONSECRATION OF BISHOP JOSEPH.

In the year 1022, Joseph was consecrated Bishop of Llandaff, at Canterbury, by Archbishop Ælnod, metropolitan of the church of Canterbury, on the first day of October, and in the first year of the nineteenth cycle, with the approbation of Canute,⁴ King of England, and the pastoral staff was given to him in his court, by the election of the people and clergy of Llandaff, and of the Kings of Britain, that is of King Rhydderch,⁵ then reigning over all Wales, and Howel,⁶ sub-regulus of the King of Glamorgan, within Taratyr on Wye, and the mouth of Towy: and in ² Albric, or Alfric, became Archbishop of Canterbury in 996, and died in 1006.

³ According to the Welsh Chronicle in the Myvyrian Archaeology, II. p. 505, Bledri died in 1023. He is there stated to have been the best scholar in the whole of Wales; it is also recorded that he caused the Priests in their various churches to instruct the people in learned books, so that every one might have a proper knowledge of God and man. ● the 24th year of his ordination,¹ he departed to the Lord, at Augusta, on his way to the shrine of St. Peter the apostle.

⁴ Canute became sole monarch of England in 1017, and died in 1036.

8.—GRANT OF RHYDDERCH SON OF IESTYN.²

Rhydderch son of Iestyn, King of Glamorgan, indeed of all Wales, except the isle of Euonia,³ which Iago son of Idwal kept for himself; this Rhydderch, I say, was a pacific and mild man, who granted to both the clergy and laity of his whole kingdom, and to the widows and orphans, their rights and inheritance by both divine and human law, and especially to the church of God, and its governors, that is Bishops, and all persons of inferior orders; in whose time there was no desolation throughout all Wales, either on the mountains or the plain, except in three villages, which were in a solitary situation. To Llandaff indeed, and its saints, Dubricius, Teilo, and Oudoceus, and

¹ In the year 1046. The date given in the Myvyrian Archæology of Joseph's death is 1043; he is there represented as having been very eminent for piety and learning, and to have restored the manner of celebrating Saints' days to its original purpose of prayer and almsgiving; also, he is said to have, in the year 1030, prevented any secular work being pursued on the Sabbath and Holidays, and to have compelled his clergy not to interfere in any quarrels, but to read and learn the Scriptures, without fee or reward.

² Professor Rees, in his "Welsh Saints," p. 249, observes respecting this grant, "That if it ever took place, it was only for the short reign of Rhydderch ab Iestyn; for the Dimetian princes, considering him to be an usurper, took up arms against him, and a battle ensued, in which he was slain, leaving his Principality to be divided between the conquerors. Subsequent events prove that they did not confirm his benefactions; and his reason for bestowing those possessions upon the see of Llandaff, if grounded upon the supposition that they once belonged to Teilo, must have rested upon a false foundation, for that Prelate was also the acknowledged Archbishop of Menevia."

to Joseph its Bishop, he granted their churches and their territories, to be all possessed in quiet peace, and with their dignity, and every privilege confirmed to them, and complete liberty to the present and future inhabitants, and free commonage in field and in waters, in wood and in pastures; and out of veneration for the catholic faith, he confirmed it with an oath, in the presence of Bishop Joseph, putting his hands on the four gospels, the holy relics being placed before him; and so that he would not knowingly take away a single clod, either by laical violence, or tyrannical fury, wicked contrivance, or cunning deceit, from the territories of Llandaff, and with all privileges granted to it from the time of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus; that is without any payment, great or small, to any mortal man, except only daily prayer and daily ecclesiastical service, without governor or sub-governor, without attending meetings within the country or without, without keeping watch either within or without, without attending expeditions, and with all the full dignity of its court, and as I may say, in all things as a regal court; and vowing to God, and to St. Dubricius, Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the hand of Bishop Joseph, consolidating and promising to all his successors for ever, that he would not bear rule in any ecclesiastical matter or possessions, and that he would not violate refuge, but would preserve it in every respect. And the same refuge was granted and confirmed by him to all its territories, as was in the former time of St. Dubricius, that is, that the fugitive should remain safe at Llandaff, and in all the churches subject thereto, as long as he would, without any protecting shield but the divine, and with the protection of the saints in its asylum, and without limit, and not only within his diocese, which was bounded by the Towy on the western side, and by the Wye in the eastern part bordering upon England, but also within the diocese of St. David, throughout the region of Cantref Mawr, Brecknock, and Elfael.

And the Church of Llandaff, and Bishop Joseph, had possession of all the undermentioned in quiet and tranquil peace in the time when Rhydderch was King of all Wales, and by the admonition of Ælnod, Archbishop of Canterbury, and recommendatory letters of Canute, King of England.—In Cantref Mawr,¹ I. Joseph, Bishop of Llandaff, and many of the principal persons of the kingdom being present. And the oath having been taken, and the agreement confirmed, after an interval of time, King Meurig chose to be a participator in perjury, and breaking the peace, which had been confirmed by the hand of the Bishop, took Edwyn, and putting him in prison, deprived him of his kingdom, and also of his eyesight, so that he was blind to his death. And the Bishop hearing of the agreement being broken, cursed the wicked King, and the criminals, and their party, for the perjury and homicide committed; and calling together all the clergy of the whole diocese between the mouth of the Taratyr on Wye and the mouth of the Towy, to Llandaff, they confirmed the canonical sentence.

The wicked King seeing his condemnation, and not being able to bear such excommunication, sought pardon at Llandaff; and pardon being given to him by God, through the intercession of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Joseph, and penance being at the same time enjoined to him, he granted in alms to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Joseph, and all Bishops of Llandaff, the village of Penyprisc, that is Dyffryn Anouid, with all its liberty, and all commonage given to the inhabitants, in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, and without any service to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff and its Pastors for ever; and another village, Tref Eliau in Senghenydd, that is the village of the sons of Guichtrit, being three modii¹ of land; and Llantiuauac, being also three modii of land, with all their liberty, and commonage as aforesaid. Of the clergy, the witnesses

The boundary of Llantiauc, Its breadth, between Corricou, its length as far as the long stone. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

10.—RHIWBREIN.

Be it known that Rhiwallon son of Rhun fought with Bishop Joseph and his family, and pierced one of his household, a friend of the Bishop, with a lance, and was expelled from the whole country, and likewise deprived of the communion of Christians, on account of his wickedness. At length having entered into an agreement with the Bishop and his parents, he received pardon for his crime; and absolution having been pronounced, and an agreement made with the kindred of the wounded person, he, with the approbation of King Hywel and his son Meurig, gave Rhiwbrein, the land of his inheritance, with all its liberty, and the third part of the wood Ynyspeithan, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Joseph, and all Bishops of Llandaff for ever, and with all its commonage to the inhabitants, in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, and without any service to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff and its Pastors. Its boundary,—From the broad ford on Anouid, along to Istleidauc, to a pool, from Din Cincen to the green knoll, to the broad way, to the ditch, along it to the meadow, and along it to the grove of Ina. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Joseph, Bishop; Rwydd, presbyter of St. Teilo; Sedd, presbyter of St. Cadoc; Tegward, presbyter of Docunni; and of the laity, King Hywel, and his son Meurig, Rhun son of Cadifor, Cyngen son of Gwefrig. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen. The boundary of that wood is with the wood which belongs to Ynys Bratguen, from the influx of the Gungleis into the Taf, following it along upwards to its source, over to the source of Nant du, along the Nant du downwards to where it falls into the earth before reaching the Taf, from thence to the Taf with the fish, downwards to the influx of Gungleis, where it began.

11.—TREF GYNNHILL.

Gwrgan son of Ithael sacrificed, for his soul, the village of Trefgynnhill, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Joseph, and to all Bishops of Llandaff, and with all its liberty and commonage to be given to the inhabitants, in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, and without any payment to any mortal man, besides to the Church of Llandaff and its Pastors for ever. Its boundary is,—From Elei, keeping the road as far as Abrenan, then rising upwards and across until it descends to the Elei. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Joseph, Bishop; Rwydd, priest; Cyfeiliawg, Benedictus; of the laity, Gwrgan son of Ithael, Cyngen son of Caradoc, Arit son of Elffin. Whoever will keep it, may he be blessed; and whoever will violate it, may he be cursed. Amen.

12.—TREF GOLYCH.¹

Meurig son of Hywel, King of Glamorgan, was angry with a certain wealthy man, one of his subjects, and came with great fury to Llandaff, where he broke the refuge of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and took from the door of the church, and in the presence of Bishop Joseph, the wife of the same man named Seisyllt. And having violated the refuge of the saints, and wounded one of the family of the Bishop, and taken away the woman by force and violence, the Bishop gave orders throughout the churches of the whole diocese of the adjacent Church of Llandaff, from the mouth of the Taratyr upon Wye to the banks of the Towy; and all the clergy, from the greater to the lower degree, being assembled together in full synod, he excommunicated the King, or rather the wicked transgressor of the commands of God. And the excommunication having been pronounced and published throughout the country, the King sought pardon at Llandaff, in the first place offering that he would restore the ravished woman, and satisfy with presents the wounded man, who was of the Bishop's household, with the complete restoration of the refuge: and penance being enjoined to him, with pardon given according to the nature of the crime, he restored the village of Tref Golych, with three modii¹ of land, to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, which heretofore had been theirs from the time of Ithael son of Athrwys, King of Glamorgan, contemporary with Bishop Oudoceus, and with its whole liberty and commonage, in field and in woods, in water and in pastures. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Joseph, Bishop; Rwydd, priest; Joseph, priest; of the laity, King Meurig, Caradoc son of Gulbrit, Seisyllt son of Gistlerth, Tewdwr son of Edwyn. Its boundary is,—From Pouisva to the mound, to the stone, along the ditch to Carn Gistlerth, along the ditch to Carn Guocof, along the Carn to the brook, along the brook to Gurinni, along Gurinni to Gulich,² along Gulich upwards by Carn Teir Erw to the island opposite Pouisva Dewi. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

13.—VILLAGE OF FRATRUS ON NADAUAN.

King Meurig, for the aforesaid outrage, sacrificed to God, and the aforesaid saints, and to the Church of Llandaff and its Pastors for ever, the village of Fratrus, and with all its liberty and commonage given therewith, and the aforesaid clergy and laity being witnesses; and also four pounds of silver to Bishop Joseph, and many presents to his canons; and he promised that he would be always obedient to the church, and a true protector and faithful defender of all its territories. And he blessed his sons Cadwgan and Rhys, that they might firmly keep his grant and alms in quiet peace, and all his posterity, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and all persons of his generation; and on the other part cursed all his survivors whoever of them should separate the aforesaid alms from the Church of Llandaff, by laical violence and invasion, or by cunning fraud. Amen. Its boundary is,—Ebirthun, thence to the Carn, from the Carn to the dike, and to the rise of the hill, along the slope of the hill above the grove, along it to the top, and directly downwards towards the west to the highway, across the road to the head of the dike, along the dike direct to the brook, downwards to Nadauan, along it to the influx of Ebirthun, along it to the highway, along it to the ford, where it began.

14.—HENRIU IN LEBUND IN GWENT.¹

Caradoc son of Rhiwallon, one of the Nobles of Meurig, King of Glamorgan, broke the refuge of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and in the retinue, and with the approbation of King Meurig, by taking away the wife of Seisyllt by force and violence from the door of the church, as aforesaid. Reflecting on the evil he had done, and that he could not otherwise be saved, and liberated from the anger and the curse of Bishop Joseph, unless by fasting, and prayer, and almsgiving, began to weep and to seek pardon of the Bishop at Llandaff: and penance being enjoined him suitable to his sacrilege, with the approbation and consent of Cadwgan, King of Gwent, he granted in alms to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Joseph, and all Bishops of Llandaff for ever, Lann Petyr in Henriu, with all its

16.—LLANSANFFREAD IN MAINAUR CRUGMAES.

Cadwallawn son of Gwriad, having interchanged some words with one named Rhydderch son of Beli, in the court of Bishop Joseph at Llandaff, struck him in his presence with his fist, until the blood flowed from his nostrils, and the Bishop caused him to be arrested and sent to prison in the presence of his kinsfolks; that is to say, his father Gwriad, and cousin Gwrgan son of Ithael, and many others, who were standing by. Being imprisoned, he acknowledged his crime, and sought for pardon, through means of intercessors, of the Bishop, offering to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Joseph, the church of St. Bridget, and three modii¹ of land, with the undermentioned boundaries, and a suitable compensation to the Bishop's attendant. And entering into counsel with the canons of the Church, and some respectable persons at Llandaff, the 18.—CECIN¹ PENICELLI, NEAR LANNMOCHA.

Rhiwallon son of Tudfwlch came one day, accompanied by his household, to Lannmocha, excited by anger and fury, and plundered the people of that church; and proceeding with his prey, the relics of the church following him, with great outcry and groaning, he fell down at Ffynnon Oer, [Cold Well,] being exceedingly amazed at seeing a great fish leap out of the well, on account of which his horse started, and threw his rider to the ground; and having broken his arm, and being half-dead, he called his household to him, and gave up the prey. And in that place he gave to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and to Bishop Joseph, and all Bishops of Llandaff, his hereditary estate of Cecin Penicelli, without any payment to any mortal man, except to the Church of Llandaff, and its Pastors for ever. Its boundary is,—The spring of Ffynnon Oer, along it downwards opposite to the clay pit, downwards to the gorge of the hollow on the north side, along the hollow upwards to the highway, along the road towards the west, to Ffynnon Oer, where it began. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Joseph, Bishop; Rwydd, priest; Cyfeiliawg, canon of Llandaff; Elcu, priest of Lannmocha; of the laity, Rhydderch son of Iestin, King; Rhiwallon, Bynus son of Marchfyw, Marchwydd son of Ieuddeu, the heirs of Gwgan; Seisyllt son of Elcu, of Lannmocha; Glywi son of Ffermarch, Enud son of Glywi, Breichiawl son of Gwallawg, Nudd son of Morgan, Tudlew, Bleddwrbur. Whoever will keep it, may God keep him; and whoever will separate it from the Church of Llandaff, may he be accursed. Amen.

CHAPTER X.¹

ACCOUNT OF THE CONSECRATION OF HERWALD, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF—GRANT OF CADWGAN SON OF MEURIG, KING OF GLAMORGAN—PRIVILEGE GRANTED BY GRUFFYDD, KING OF BRITAIN AND OF ALL WALES—GRANTS OF IESTYN SON OF GWEGAN—AND OF CARADOG SON OF RHIWALLON—ACCOUNT OF THE DISTRICT OF ERGYNG—THE CONSECRATION OF SEVERAL CHURCHES, AND THE ORDINATION OF MINISTERS FOR THEM BY BISHOP HERWALD—THE DEATH OF BISHOP HERWALD,—AND THE CONSECRATION OF URBAN HIS SUCCESSOR.

HERWALD, BISHOP.²

1.—OF THE CONSECRATION OF BISHOP HERWALD.

The Author and Governor of every creature, visible and invisible, whom we believe to be in himself one in substance, and three in persons, and of himself subsisting, whom we confess, with all persons that embrace the orthodox faith, to be the cause of all the prosperity of the present life, and the eternal happiness of immortality. Be it known to the benevolent prudence of those who read and understand this discourse, that the heavenly shepherd, Christ the Lord, by whose providence and direction all the body of the earthly church is ordered and governed, with bountiful compassion, mercifully elected Herwald to the sacerdotal dignity of his Church of Llandaff, who had been ordained Priest through means of the humble imposition of the hands of Joseph, Bishop of Llandaff, and had remained a considerable time among the English, and shone in grace and morals as well before them as before the principal persons of his own country, that is the British nation. Whose election by the invincible Gruffydd, the powerful monarch of the Britons, and Meurig son of Hywel, being unanimous, the Prelates, Priests, Doctors, Chiefs, and Nobles, agreeing thereto, his consecration was honourably confirmed by the eminent Archbishop Cynisis,¹ and canonically completed by many other Bishops of England, under whose hand, and according to whose rule, he became Bishop after the manner of his predecessors, the glorious Lord Edward,² King of the Anglo-Saxons, being present, and all Bishops, and Abbots, and also Archdeacons, with all orders of the Church, and learned men, adjudging it to be firmly and surely ratified, and likewise blessing it in that famous synod, which was held at London in the Whitsun week, in the year 1059 from the birth of our Lord Jesus Christ, in which council of the learned men, a decree of this kind was thus pronounced and confirmed, that if any King, or Duke, or Peer, or Prince, or any powerful person whatever, should observe and fulfil this agreement of blessing, by assisting and benefitting this Prelate, or his successors, or the place to which he is sent to preside and render service, he should, both in body and spirit, be preserved in peace, and in the rest of all the saints throughout all ages. Amen.

² Herwald, or Herwallt, was Bishop of Llandaff during the eventful times of Edward the Confessor, Harold II. William the Conqueror, William Rufus, and Henry I., Kings of England. He was a native of Wales, although the earlier part of his life was spent among the English. He must have been consecrated Bishop of Llandaff about the year 1056, which consecration was confirmed afterwards by Archbishop Cynisi, at a Synod held in London in 1059, as his death is recorded to have taken place in the year 1103 or 1104, in the 48th year of his Prelacy, he being then upwards of a hundred years of age.

² Edward III. surnamed the Confessor, became King of England in 1048, and died in 1066.

2.—HENRHIW GUNNUA.

The family of Cadwgan son of Meurig, King of Glamorgan, visited Llandaff on a Christmas day, with a good disposition, but as the rod of Aaron is said to have been turned into a serpent, so the mind of that family was slow in devising what was good, but swift in the committing of evil; and being elated with the excessive rejoicings of so great a festivity, they began to be riotous; and the discretion of sobriety was laid aside, so far that the drunken men being deprived of the power of wisdom and piety, destroyed one of the inmates, named Berthutis, who was a grandson of the Bishop, a good man, and the physician of the whole country. And so execrable a crime having been committed, and under the protection and in the asylum of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, the Bishop sent his messengers to all the churches throughout his diocese, which were in obedience to him, between the mouth of Taratyr on the banks of the Wye, and the banks of the Towy, directing that the clergy, both of the higher and lower dignity, should assemble at Llandaff. And having pronounced a curse on the family of the King, and deprived them from all benefit of the orthodox faith in full synod, the crosses with the holy relics and inverted bells being placed on the ground, the door of the church was shut, and guarded with thorns, and it thus remained several days and nights, without divine service and a pastor. And so great a commotion being heard and spread abroad with great noise and murmuring throughout the country, the King began to weep on account of the condemnation of his family, choosing rather peace with his Pastor, than to participate in the perpetrated injury. Therefore, calling together all his Nobles, he, and his family, who had been separated from the society of Christians, sought pardon at Llandaff with weeping devotion, and his entreaty having been heard, and pardon being given to him and to his family, with penance canonically enjoined, the King placed his hands upon the altar of Peter the apostle, and of the holy confessors Dubricius, Teilo, and Oudoceus, and before all the people, clerical and laical, said, "I confirm this alms, and give Henrhiw Gunna to God, and to the aforesaid holy persons, and to Bishop Herwald, and all Bishops of Llandaff, in eternal consecration, free from all service, secular and regal, and with commonage to the inhabitants, in field and in woods, in water and in pastures." Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Herwald, Bishop; Mormarch and Marchfwy, canons; Gulbrit, and Tudnerth, and Selyf, Joseph, reader of Cadoc; Aidan, priest of Cadoc; Cadwared, priest of Docunni; of the laity, King Cadwgan, and his brother Rhys son of Iago, Caradoc son of Gulbrit, Cynhor son of Richrit, Eithin son of Elphin, Gwobeith son of Elcu, Tewdwr son of Llawr. A curse being pronounced on those who would separate this alms from the Church of Llandaff, and its Pastors; and a blessing given to those who should preserve and confirm it in quiet peace. Amen. Its boundary is,—The upper end of the meadow to the upper end of the ditch, along it by the road, to the crest of the hill, to the grove, to the ridge of the grove, and along it until it goes downwards to the pool near the side of a meadow towards the east, along the dike in the hollow, across the road, upwards through the hollow to the gorge of the acclivity on the crest of the hill to Hentref Gucan, downwards through the wood to the brook, along the brook to the willow grove, thence to the north side of the knoll, to the other knoll, direct across the road to the upper end of Celli Gulible, to the Guorlurch of Tudgual, along the Guorlurch to the Carn, to the knoll, to the Carn, along the highroad outside of the meadow to the upper end of the meadow, where it began.

3.—A PRIVILEGE GRANTED BY KING GRUFFYDD.¹

The Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, three in persons, one in deity and essence, the Creator and Governor of all creatures visible and invisible, who above all formed man after his own image and likeness, distributing all things according to his will, and to whom all things present are subservient, giving to some kingdoms and dominions, and to others small wealth with a sevenfold gift of wisdom and understanding, counsel and fortitude, science, piety, and reverence, inspired the stony heart (a disease of the body seizing him) of Gruffydd, King of Britain, and as I may say, of all Wales from one extremity to the other, and warmed it with the fervour of the Holy Spirit. The King therefore observing that his power was as the flower of the field, and his flesh as ashes, endeavoured to obtain for transitory substance, a kingdom flourishing without decay, and heavenly joy without grief and sorrow and removed from all want, and accepting himself the yoke of penance, and repenting of what he had done contrary to the divine precepts, promised amendment of himself, by fasting, and prayer, and almsgiving, and the bestowing by him of various precious metals to God, and to poor widows and orphans. And not degenerating from the nobility, piety, and liberality of his predecessors, but imitating and excelling them in energy and bravery, as well against the barbarous English on the one part, who always fled on seeing his face in battle, as against the western Irish, also always put to flight, and against the natives of the country, who according to their usual custom were fond of war, and against the Danish seamen, and against the inhabitants of the Orkney islands, who always turned their backs in flight, and peaceably confirmed treaties agreeably to his wishes, he gave up to the Church at Llandaff of Peter the apostle, and of the holy confessors Dubricius, Teilo, and Oudoceus, all the territories of its diocese from the mouth of Taratyr on the banks of the Wye to the banks of the Towy; and moreover, its lands of Llandeilo-fawr, and Penaly, with many other churches, and all their lands, and with those many in the district of Brecknock, which are held without the diocese, in that of St. David's, as is shewn in the chirograph, and with all their privileges as were in the best manner observed in the time of his predecessors, quit and free from all regal service, except only daily prayer for the souls of the Kings and Princes of Britain, and the grant was confirmed with placing his hands upon the four gospels, and ratified in the hand of the Bishop, and before all his people, on the day of the nativity of our Lord, at Ystumgwy, and with the offering of the village of Penrhos in the hand of the Bishop, and all the Bishops of Llandaff for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Herwald, Bishop; Mormarch,¹ Marchfwy, Tudnerth,¹ canons of Llandaff; Benedictus, reader; Ieuanawl, Nywys, Elinwy, Cynon, Ithael, priests; Tathiu; Abraham, Archdeacon of Gwent; of the laity, King Gruffydd, Meredydd his son, Caradog son of Rhiwallon, Byrwith, Ithael son of Tewdwr, Ednyfed and Fuedlid, Berddigwent, Caradoc son of Gulbrit. And with commonage to be given to all inhabitants of the lands of the church throughout his kingdom, in field and in woods, in water and in pastures.

4.—THE VILLAGE OF MILUC.

Iestyn son of Gwrgan² sent his household filled with an evil spirit to Llandaff, which company a certain wicked person named Twrwerd attended, and another young man, a grandson of Iestyn, named Eineon, leading and instigating them with the spirit of lust, the sign of the holy cross was forgotten, and the refuge under the asylum of St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Herwald, being violated, they took away a virgin who had fled under the protection of the church, and from between the yewtree and the church. And so they led away the ravished and violated girl, named Eurddilad, the daughter of Cynwal; but as it is said, "The Lord is wonderful among

² Iestyn son of Gwrgan was a person of a most untractable and turbulent disposition; he succeeded to the throne of Glamorgan about the year 1043; about 45 years afterwards he was engaged in a war against Rhys ap Tewdwr, which eventually led to the conquest of Glamorgan by the Normans in 1091.

“his saints,” in the hour in which the aforesaid young man took her off, as we have mentioned, he became deranged, and his whole life derided and disgraceful. And such an outrage having been committed, and refuge violated, the Bishop cursed Iestyn and the criminals, and deprived them of the fellowship of Christians in all things. And afterwards Iestyn acknowledged that he had acted improperly towards God and his Pastor, and sought pardon of his Bishop with devout shedding of tears; which being given him, and penance enjoined, and she who had been forced away restored, and concord effected, Iestyn sacrificed the village of Miluc to God, and to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Herwald, and all Pastors of Llandaff, with all its liberty in field and in woods, in water and in pastures, and without any payment to any mortal man besides to the Church of Llandaff, and to be free for ever. Of the clergy, the witnesses are, Herwald, Bishop; Mormarch, priest; Merchwyn, priest; Tudnerth, Lifric son of the Bishop, Archdeacon and master of St. Cadoc; Jonas, priest; Aidan, priest of St. Cadoc; Gwrgi, priest of St. Cadoc; Gwrgynnyf, priest of St. Iltyd; John, priest of Docunni; of the laity, Iestyn son of Gwrgan, Caradoc son of Gulbrit, Selyf son of Cynfor, Elffin son of Dissaith, Meurig son of Goronwy, Rhys son of Brochwael, Cynddrych son of Edrit, Mei son of the Bishop. Absolution being pronounced to all who should preserve this alms in tranquil peace, and in the service of Llandaff, and a perpetual curse on those who should separate it from the Church of Llandaff. Amen. Its boundary is,—The ridge of the hill to the head of the dike towards the front, along the breast of the hill to the right of the knoll, from the knoll direct to the head of the grove, to the dike, along the dike downwards to the road, across the road direct to the stone, from the stone to the middle of the pool of Gleinion in Eley, Eley upwards to below the ford of the yellow stone, from the Eley upwards to the acclivity, along the acclivity on through the wood, above the hill to the side of the wood, along to the head of the dike, through the wood, along the dike to the Eley, over Eley to the dike, along the dike to the road, along the dike upwards to the breast of the hill, where it began.

5.—TREF RITA.

Caradoc,¹ King of Glamorgan, sent some of his household to Llanmocha, which belonged to St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Herwald, who partook of a banquet prepared by the Bishop, without the consent of his guest Rhydderch son of Egwyd, and afterwards forcibly remained all night, overpowered and intoxicated with much liquor. And after so great an outrage was committed, the Bishop sent his messengers to the King, requiring compensation from both him and his servants with respect to the injury that had been done: and the message having been heard and attended to, he acknowledged his fault, and being penitent, sought pardon at Llandaff, and penance being enjoined to him, and also to his servants, suitable to the crime committed, he granted in alms to God, and St. Dubricius, St. Teilo, and St. Oudoceus, and Bishop Herwald, and all Bishops of Llandaff for ever, the village of Tref Rita in Edelicion,² by Merthir Tecmed,³ with all its liber-

The district of Ergyng, which contains these churches within it, was always subject to the church of Llandaff in all episcopal subjection, and in the time of the holy persons, who first constituted Bishopricks until the time of Bishop Herwald; and the same Bishop Herwald possessed that district in all episcopal subjection, in synod, in chrism, in consecration, and in ordination, in the time of the Kings of England, Edward, Harold, and William, and of Kings of Wales, Gruffydd son of Llywelyn, Gruffydd son of Rhydderch, Caradoc his brother, and Rhys likewise, and also of Caradoc son of Gruffydd, and Rhydderch son of Caradoc, which two Kings were in the time of King William; and so without any dispute, until through his infirmity and a quarrel, they were taken away from him; and always ever since, notwithstanding that claim is made, are unjustly retained by the church of Hereford.

August, Urban,¹ Archdeacon of the Church of Llandaff, in the thirty second year of his age, and under the same Princes, was by the same metropolitan consecrated Bishop at Canterbury, the following Bishops of England being present, Gerard, of York, metropolitan; Maurice, of London; Windulf, of Rochester; Radulph, of Chichester; Robert, of Lincoln; Robert, of Chester; Herbert, of Norwich; Radulph, of Durham; John, of Bath. And on the same day likewise

¹ Urban is called in the Welsh Chronicles, Gwrfan, where he is also represented as being celebrated for his wisdom and liberality, as well as for his munificence in bestowing honourable endowments upon the Cathedral of Llandaff, and upon various Monasteries which had been pillaged during the wars of Iestyn son of Gwrgan and Robert Fitz Hammon. It is also stated that he was an active and vigorous suppressor of all evil and vicious practices and customs, and was a most conciliatory arbitrator in all contentions, the effect of which was, that his diocese became more peaceable than any other part of Wales.—Myv. Arch. II. 556.

The three following Chapters of this Work bear ample testimony of the indefatigable zeal of Bishop Urban, in his strenuous efforts to restore the Diocese of Llandaff to its original state. Although unable to retain possession of those territories in the dioceses of St. David's and Hereford, which he considered to have belonged to Llandaff, he appears to have been successful in raising to a state of prosperity the revenues of his see from the poor and miserable condition to which, through the negligence and inability of his predecessors, they had been reduced. By these means, with the aid of other resources, he was enabled to rebuild the Cathedral of Llandaff, which had become almost a heap of ruins during the disastrous wars in the conquest of Glamorgan by the Normans. It is uncertain what might have been the issue of the dispute respecting the territories of the diocese, had Urban lived to see its conclusion, which, however, was not permitted him, as he was cut off by death when travelling "beyond the seas," in his fourth journey to Rome, in the 57th year of his age, and in the year 1133.

EXHORTATION OF RALPH, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, FOR REBUILDING THE CHURCH OF LLANDAFF—REQUISITION OF URBAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF, TO POPE CALIXTUS II.—NOTICE OF THE COUNCIL OF REKIMS—SEVERAL BULLS OR EDICTS OF CALIXTUS II. RELATING TO THE CHURCH OF LLANDAFF, ADDRESSED TO BISHOP URBAN, WILLIAM, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, HENRY I. KING OF ENGLAND, AND VARIOUS OTHER PERSONS.

1.—EXHORTATION FOR REBUILDING THE CHURCH OF LLANDAFF.

Ralph,² by the grace of God Archbishop of Canterbury, to all sons of the Church, French, and English, and Welsh, and of whatever nation they may be, health, and the blessing of God, and his own. We request your charity, that ye would with the eyes of mercy regard the poverty of the Church of Llandaff; for depending on the aid of your alms, we propose to build the said Church, where the people of God may assemble to hear the word of the Lord. Whoever therefore will, for the love of God, contribute something of his property towards the building of the aforesaid Church, let him know that he will be a partaker of our prayers, and of our favours, and that, trusting on the mercy of God, and on the power of our ministry, we will relax to him a fourth part of the burden of the penance, which may be imposed upon him by his confessors.

2.—REQUISITION OF BISHOP URBAN TO POPE CALIXTUS II.¹
AT RHEIMS.

To the venerable apostolical Calixtus, chief Patron of Christianity, Urban, Bishop of the Church of Llandaff, sends faithful service and due reverence. The church of God, and ours under God and you, addresses this letter to your mercy and piety, and suppliantly requests that for the sake of Christ, the chief King, you will order that it may be carefully read, and that it be kindly heard by you. From the time of the ancient fathers, Dearly beloved Father and Lord, as the Chirograph² of our Patron, St. Teilo, does testify, the aforesaid church, originally founded in honour of the apostle St. Peter, was always the mistress of all other churches in Wales, in dignity, and every privilege, until at length through means of seditions, and many injuries from wars, and my predecessor, Herwald, having become aged, and therefore enfeebled, it began to decline, and to be nearly deprived of its Pastor, and annihilated by the cruelty of the natives, and the invasion of the Normans.

Yet religious persons always remained in it to perform divine service, as well on account of its being in the neighbourhood of the English, from whom they differed nothing in church service, having been brought up and educated among them, as because that, from ancient times, that is, from the time of Eleutherius, Pope of the See of Rome, and after the coming of Augustine, metropolitan of the Church of Canterbury, to the island of Britain, the Bishop of this place was always subject and obedient in all things to the same Archbishop, and also to the King of England. But very lately, during the reign of William Rufus, a great number of the clergy were destroyed, and of the twenty four canons, whereby the church had been protected, but two remained therein, and in the possession of the Church only four ploughlands, and four oxgangs of land. And the church is not only desolate, and impoverished by having its territories taken from it, but also by being deprived of its tithes, and of the clergy of the diocese, both by the robbery of the laity and of the monks, and by the great invasion of the territory and diocese by our brethren the Bishops of Hereford and of St. David's. Now, I beseech you as a father, and as an unarmed person one who is armed, and as a weak individual one that is strong, that you will, as far as you are able, succour our church, which is committed to you; that he who made us may support you, and after the end of your labour, lead you to eternal happiness. Amen.

3.—NOTICE OF THE COUNCIL OF RHEIMS.¹

In the year of the incarnation of our Lord, one thousand one hundred and nineteen, the Council of Rheims, assembled by Pope Calixtus, at which were present Louis VI. King of France, and five hundred pastoral staves, both Archbishops, and Bishops, and likewise Abbots, and a very large number of clergy and laity, began on the 20th day of October, and finished on the 29th day of the same month,¹ at which Urban, Bishop of the Church of Llandaff, was present, and the privileges of his church, with all its dignity, were renewed, and a charter granted under seal, with letters of salutation to the Archbishop, to the King, and to the people.

4.—BULL OF POPE CALIXTUS II. TO BISHOP URBAN.

Calixtus, Bishop, a servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother Urban, Bishop of the Church of Llandaff, and his successors canonically appointed, for ever. The request of a pious wish ought to be granted with consequent effect, so that its devotion might brightly appear, and the requested utility be certainly obtained. Because your love flying for succour to the gate of the apostolic see, has requested protection with due devotion, we clemently attend to your supplication, and receive the Church of St. Peter, and of the holy confessors Dubricius, Teilo, and Oudoceus, at Llandaff, over which, by means of God, you preside, into the guardianship of the apostolic see. Therefore by the page of this present charter, we ordain by apostolic authority, that your church, with its dignity, shall remain free and quit of the burden of secular service. And whatsoever by the grant of Bishops, the liberality of Princes, the oblation of the faithful, or by any other just means, be known to belong to the said church, shall be preserved to it firm and entire for ever.

¹ In "L'Art de vérafier les Dates" this Council is stated to have been held from the 19th to the 30th of October, in the above year. Du Pin in his Ecclesiastical History, Vol. X. mentions that the Council was held on the 21st of October, against the Investitures.

Among which we have thought proper to mention the following, by their respective names;¹ that is, Llandaff, with its territory, the church of Elidon, the church of St. Hilary, of St. Nisien, of St. Teilo de Merthyr Minor, of St. Teilo de Llanferwallt, Llanilltyd, Llanbedr, Cula-Lan, Llancynwalan, Llandeilo Porthtulon, Llandeilo Talybont, Llangemei, Llandodei, Cilcynhin, Crucwernen, the village of Llangadwaladr with the church of St. Cyviu, the village of St. Tanauc with its church, the village of Henriw with its church, the village of Merthyr Tewdrig with its churches, the village of St. Oudoceus with its church, the village of St. Niueen with its church, the village of Tennesan with its church, the village of Llangwm with its churches, the village of Llanwern Cynog with its church, the village of Merthyr Dingad with its church, Llangarth, St. Teilo de Porth-halauc, St. Teilo de Cresenny, the church of St. Clydawg, the church of St. Sulbui, the village of Penvei with its church, Llanhelicon, Llanmihangel Mawr, the village of Caerduicil with its church, the church of St. Cadoc, Llangoed, Talpont Escob, Llanguonhoil, Riu-brein, Caercastell, Penyprisc, Trefmeibion Ourdevein, Trefmain, Trefmeibion Guichtrit, Trefrita, Llandinuul with its church, and with their tithes, oblations, sepultures, territories, places of refuge, and the free commonage of the same. Whatsoever besides, it shall in future justly and canonically obtain, God granting it, shall always remain to it quiet and undisturbed.

Therefore we decree that it shall not be lawful for any man whatever rashly to disturb the aforesaid church, or take away its possessions, or retain them when taken away, diminish them, or weary it with vexatious proceedings; but all things, with the diocesan boundaries, shall be preserved to it entire for the benefit of thyself, and of the clergy, and the poor. If therefore in future, any ecclesiastical or secular person, knowing this page of our constitution, will rashly attempt to do anything contrary thereto, and on being admonished two or three times, will not amend by giving due satisfaction, may he be deprived of the dignity of his power and honour, know that he is guilty, and subject to divine judgment with respect to the perpetrated injury, be estranged from the most sacred body and blood of God and Jesus Christ, our Lord and Redeemer, and in the last judgment be subject to severe punishment. And may all who will preserve what justly belongs to the said church, have the peace of our Lord Jesus Christ, so that they may here enjoy the fruit of their good conduct, and from their righteous Judge receive the rewards of eternal peace. Amen.

5.—BULL OF POPE CALIXTUS II. TO HENRY I. KING OF ENGLAND.

Calixtus, Bishop, a servant of the servants of God, our most dearly beloved in Christ, Henry, the illustrious and glorious King of England, health, and apostolical benediction. We have kindly received our venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, who came to us, and is, as we have heard, an honourable and religious man, and with due affection we have had compassion on the tribulations of the Church of Llandaff. Therefore, directing him to thee, with the present letters, we request thy nobility, and beseech thee in the Lord, that for the reverence and honour of St. Peter, and the love of us, thou wilt endeavour to assist him, as it becomes regal majesty to honour and defend the church committed to him, according to the ability granted thee by the Lord, so that thou mayest obtain from God and St. Peter retribution and remission, and indulgence, with respect to thy sins.—Given at Rheims, Oct. 22, 1119.

6.—BULL OF POPE CALIXTUS II. TO RALPH, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY.

Calixtus, Bishop, a servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother Ralph, Archbishop of Canterbury, health and apostolical benediction. We know from the information of certain brethren, to whom it is more fully known that the Church of Llandaff has been so plundered of its property both by Bishops and by the laity, that it appears to have been reduced to almost nothing. We therefore request thy anxious care, and command that thou dost render justice to it with respect to them who detain its property, and especially the Bishop of St. David's,¹ and the Bishop of Hereford,² who are said to have unjustly obtained the lands and parishes of the said church.—Given at Soissons, Oct. 16, 1119.

7.—BULL OF POPE CALIXTUS II. TO WALTER THE SON OF RICHARD, AND OTHERS.

Calixtus, Bishop, a servant of the servants of God, to his beloved sons, monks, chaplains, canons, Walter the son of Richard,³ Bryant the son of the Earl,⁴ William the son of Badran, Robert de Chandos,⁵ Geoffrey de Broi, Pain the son of John, Bernard de Newmarch,⁶ Gumbald de Ludlow, Roger de Berkley, William viscount of Cardiff, William the son of Roger de Remu, Robert the son of Roger,

⁶ Bernard de Newmarch was among the followers of William, Duke of Normandy, on his conquest of this realm. In the time of William Rufus, Robert Fitzhamon having conquered Glamorgan, in Wales, this Bernard had leave to invade the province of Brecknock, and accordingly won the three cantreds of that territory.—Dugdale's Baronage, I. p. 435.

Robert with deformed hands, and other noble person the diocese of Llandaff, health and apostolical benediction. The complaint of your mother, the Church of Llandaff, has come to us, because it is plundered of its property, and reduced to almost nothing. Wherefore we, doling with due affection, have sent these letters to you, admonishing and commanding that you restore without delay the lands, tithes, oblations, sepultures, and other property, which you have wickedly taken away and detained from the said church, and from other churches of the diocese. For it is unjust that sons should tear their mother in pieces, and steal the property of her whom they ought particularly to defend and assist with their own substance. Indeed if ye will obey my admonition, and take care to assist your said mother, ye shall obtain the favour of mighty God, and of St. Peter, and our own. Otherwise, under the authority of God, will confirm against you, as contemners and persons guilty of sacrilege, the sentence which our venerable brother Urban, your Bishop, has with canonical justice promulgated.—Given at Soissons, Oct. 16, 11

8.—BULL OF POPE CALIXTUS II. ADDRESSED TO THE CLERGY, AND OTHERS, OF THE DIOCESE OF LLANDAFF.

Calixtus, Bishop, a servant of the servants of God, to our beloved sons, clergy, monks, and laity, established in the diocese of the Church of Llandaff, health and apostolical benediction. We kindly received our venerable brother Urban, your Bishop, who came to us, and hearing the oppression of your church, had compassion on it with due affection. For he informed us that your mother, the Church of Llandaff, has suffered so much from the invasions and robberies of certain monks, clergy, and laity that the Bishop can scarcely remain in it. Which, indeed is to us a grievous thing, and proves the danger of your souls. We therefore, visiting your community by these letters, do admonish and command that ye love our said brother with due affection, and that ye bestow on him, as your father and pastor, proper reverence and obedience. Moreover, manfully endeavour, as good sons, to assist your mother, the church committed to him, according to the ability granted to you by the Lord; and that ye also may, by paying what is due to other churches of the diocese of Llandaff, contribute to their rebuilding and restoration. For by so doing, ye shall obtain the grace and blessing of Almighty God, and the remission of your sins.—Given at Soissons, Oct. 16, 1119.

9.—POPE CALIXTUS II. IN THE COUNCIL OF RHEIMS.¹

What things are established by the decrees of the holy fathers respecting simoniacal wickedness, we confirm by the judgment of the Holy Spirit, and the authority of the apostolical see.

And unless he renounce the proceeding, being declared accursed by the church of God, which he injured, he will in every respect be cut off from it.

II. We altogether prohibit investitures of bishop and abbacies, to be performed by laical hands. Whoe therefore of the laity shall hereafter presume to invade may he be subject to the punishment of being cursed. Likewise, he who shall have been invested, may he be deprived in every respect of the honour wherewith he is invested, without any hope of recovery.

III. We decree that all possessions of churches, which through the liberality of Kings, the bounty of Princes, the oblation of the faithful whatsoever, are granted them, shall remain sacrificed and undisturbed for ever. But if any person shall take away, invade, or by means of tyrannical power detain them, may he be excommunicated according to the sentence of St. Simachus.

IV. No bishop, no priest, no clergyman whatever shall leave ecclesiastical dignities or benefices to any one, if by hereditary right; and we also command that the receiving of baptism, chrism, holy oil, and holy sepulture, and the visitation of the sick, no sum at all shall be required.

V. We altogether forbid the having of wives and concubines by priests, deacons, and subdeacons. Should any of this kind be found, let their offices and benefices be taken away from them, and indeed if they will not themselves correct their uncleanness, let them be deprived of Christian communion.

AGREEMENT MADE BETWEEN URBAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF, AND ROBERT EARL OF GLOUCESTER—SEVERAL BULLS OR EDICTS OF POPE HONORIUS II. RELATING TO THE CHURCH OF LLANDAFF, ADDRESSED TO URBAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF, WILLIAM, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, HENRY, I. KING OF ENGLAND, AND VARIOUS OTHER PERSONS.

1.—AGREEMENT BETWEEN BISHOP URBAN AND EARL ROBERT.²

In the year from the incarnation of our Lord, one thousand one hundred and twenty-six, this Agreement was made between Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, and Robert, Earl of Gloucester, respecting all the complaints which the said Bishop had against the aforesaid Earl and his men in Wales, and concerning those lands which they did not acknowledge that they had taken from the Bishop. The said Earl grants to the Bishop one mill, in which William of Cardiff was miller, and the land belonging to the said mill, and one fishery in Eley across the river, and one hundred acres of arable land, between the Taff and Eley, beyond to the meadow, and so that the head of the said hundred acres may begin by the demesne land of the said Bishop and continue extended with it in length; and common pasturage with the Earl's people, and in the woods of the Earl, except Kybor,¹ and materials for the need of the Church of Llandaff, and its Bishop, and clergy, and men of the fee of the church; the Welshmen belonging to the Bishop to have the privilege of feeding and pasturage, with the Welshmen belonging to the Earl, and the Normans and English that belong to the Bishop, with those which belong to the Earl, except at Kybor; and the chapel of Istuntaf, and the tithe of the said village, and the land which the Earl gives to the said chapel, where a clergyman there resident may, by means of the tithe, be maintained. Therefore, the parishioners on Christmas day, Easter, and Whitsunday, may visit the mother Church of Llandaff, and the bodies of those who die in the said village, may be taken to be buried to the said mother church.

² Robert, Earl of Gloucester, was one of the natural sons of King Henry I. His mother was Nest, daughter of Rhys ap Tewdwr. He married Maud, by some called Mabell, the eldest of the four daughters and heiresses of Robert Fitzhamon, by means whereof he succeeded to the honour of Gloucester, and other property; and he was by his father created Earl of Gloucester.—Dugdale's Baronage, I. p. 534.

And for the aforesaid things, which the Earl gives as grants to the Bishop, the said Bishop remits to the Earl and declares him to be free from the complaints which he had against him and his men, with respect to all the lands which they claimed to be the fee of the Earl. And if any one of the Earl's men, in health or otherwise, will of his own accord acknowledge that he holds the land of the church, and that he is willing to restore it to the church, and to the Bishop, and does it before the Earl, or before his viscount, or the lord of Cardiff, the Earl grants that he shall restore the said land to the church and to the Bishop. And the Bishop will so construct the wear of his mill below his bridge, that there be always a road to pass, unless it be prevented by a flush of water, or the flow of the sea. And the Earl shall cause the wear of his mill at Eley to be destroyed; and the men of the Earl, and any others, may sell and buy meat and drink at Llandaff, and may there eat and drink, but shall carry nothing from the place in time of war; and all men whatsoever of the fee of the Bishop, shall enjoy the traffic of buying and selling in all times of peace.

And the judgment of iron¹ shall take place at Llandaff, and there shall be a trench of judicial water² in the territory of the Bishop, near to the castle of Cardiff. And if any one of the Bishop's men shall accuse a man belonging to the Earl, or one of his barons, respecting anything, concerning which there ought to be a duel,³ sureties shall be given, and judgment past in their courts, and the duel shall take place in the castle of Cardiff. And if any one shall accuse a man belonging to the Bishop, with respect to any matter, concerning which there ought to be a duel, sureties shall be given, and judgment past in the court of the Bishop, and the duel itself take place in the castle of Cardiff; and the Bishop shall have the same justice with respect to that duel as he should have if it took place at Llandaff. And if a duel be proposed between the Bishop's men alone, it shall be discussed in his court at Llandaff, and take place there; and the Bishop shall have his Welsh officers named in his writ, in the presence of the Earl's vis-

The viscount of the Earl shall have his countersignature with respect to those Welshmen, and the Bishop shall likewise have his countersignature respecting the Welshmen of the Earl. And the Earl claims to be free from the Bishop and the men of his fee with respect to the pence, and all the customs which he complained of against them.

This Agreement was made at Wodestoke, in the presence of King Henry, with these witnesses, William, Archbishop of Canterbury; Geoffrey, Archbishop of Rouen; William, Bishop of Winchester; Roger, Bishop of Salisbury; Rufinus, Bishop of Durham; John, Bishop of Richmond; Oinus, Bishop of Eureux; Geoffrey, Chancellor; David, King of Scotland; Roderick, Earl of Pembroke; Roger, Earl of Warwick; Bryant, son of the Earl; Robert Doyl, Milo, of Gloucester; Edward, of Salisbury; Walter son of Richard; Payne son of John; Richard, of Aquila; Robert of the seal; Uchtryd, Archdeacon of Llandaff; Isaac, Chaplain of the Bishop; Ralph, Viscount of Cardigan; Payne de Turberville;¹ Robert the son of Roger; Richard of St. Quintine;² Maurice, de Londres;³ Odo, Soor; and Geoffrey, de Maisi. URBAN.

Honorius, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, health and apostolical benediction. William, Archdeacon of St. David's, coming to our presence, placed in our sight an adverse complaint, in which he asserts that thou hast unjustly taken away a certain church, which thou hadst granted, and by an instrument of thy writing confirmed to him. URBAN.

Honorius, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, his venerable brother Urban, Bishop of the Church of Llandaff, and his successors canonically promoted, for ever Being fixed by the disposal of God in the eminent situation of the apostolical see, and by the duty enjoined to us we ought to love our brethren the Bishops, and to preserve justice to the churches committed by God to them. Therefore, dearly beloved in the Lord, brother Bishop Urban complying with thy rational request, we receive in the protection of the apostolic see, the church of St. Peter, and of the holy confessors Dubricius, Teilo, and Oudoceus, at Llandaff, over which, God being the cause thou dost preside. Therefore, by the instrument of this present charter, we ordain by apostolic authority, that this church, with its dignity, shall remain free and quit of all burden of secular service. And whatsoever are known to belong justly and canonically to the said church by the grant of Bishops, the liberality of Princes, the oblation of the faithful, or other means, shall be preserved to it firm and entire for ever.

Among which we think proper to mention the following by their respective names,¹ viz. Llandaff with its territory, the church of Elidon, the church of St. Hilary, of St. Nisien, of St. Teilo de Merthyr minor, of St. Llanferwallt of St. Peter, of St. Illtyd, the village of Llangadwaladr with the church of St. Civin, the village of St. Tanauc with its age; whatsoever besides it may in future obtain by j means, through the bounty of God, shall remain to quiet and undisturbed.

Therefore, we decree that it shall not be lawful for one rashly to disturb the aforesaid church, or take away its possessions, or retain them when taken away, diminish them, or weary it with vexatious proceedings, but that shall all, with the diocesan boundaries, be preserved entire for the beneficial use of thyself, and of the clergy, and the poor. Wherefore, if any ecclesiastical or secular persons being informed of this instrument of our constitution, rashly endeavour to act contrary thereto, and being admonished two or three times, if he will not amend giving due satisfaction, may he be deprived of the dignity of his power and honour, and being guilty, know that he is liable to divine judgment with respect to the iniquity committed, and be estranged from the most sacred body and blood of God and our Redeemer the Lord Jesus Christ and in the last judgment be subject to severe punishment. But may all who preserve what is just to the said church enjoy the peace of our Lord Jesus Christ, so that they may here reap the fruit of their good conduct, and from the righteous Judge receive the reward of eternal peace. Amen

Honorius, Bishop of the Catholic Church.

Given the 9th day of April, of the Indiction VI. in the year of our Lord's incarnation one thousand one hundred and twenty eight, and in the fourth year of the pontificate of the Lord Pope, Honorius II.

5.—BULL OF POPE HONORIUS II. ADDRESSED TO WILLIAM, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, &c.

Honorius, Bishop, Servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brothers, William, Archbishop of Canterbury, Legate to the apostolical see, and the Bishops constituted throughout England, health and apostolical benediction. Our brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, coming to the clemency of the apostolical see, has asserted that he has at a meeting, and in your presence, laid a complaint against Bernard, Bishop of St. David's and Richard, Bishop of Hereford, with respect to a part of his diocese being detained by them. But those brothers returned no answer to him relating to his complaint, and inverting the order, began to attack him on other matters. What is clear in legal sanctions is not ambiguous in the statutes of the sacred canons, for in judging and discussing a matter, the defendant, unless by an exception, cannot by any means become the plaintiff. And he, demanding the order of justice, desired that with respect to those things which he had objected against them, a reasonable answer should be first given at thy discretion, brother Archbishop, who didst sit as judge.

And because he could not obtain what he wished, he considered himself to have suffered a great injury, and appealed to a hearing at Rome, which is the common refuge of the oppressed, and invited the aforesaid Bishops, Bernard and Richard, that in our presence, in the middle of Lent, they should answer his complaints. And he remained some time with us, but those who were invited neither came nor sent persons to answer for them at the appointed time. We therefore, from the common deliberation of our Bishops and Cardinals, the testimony of two witnesses having been heard in this matter, have invested him with the portion respecting which he had made complaint, that is, Ergyng, Ystradyw, Gower, Kidwelly, and Canyng, and Bychan, saving the right of the churches of Hereford and St. David's. And we appoint the middle of Lent to be the term for Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, and Bishops Bernard and Richard; and then each party having expressed their reasons in our presence, will obtain what the reason of justice will dictate. And in the meantime we command that brother Urban shall obtain that portion concerning which there is a dispute, wholly, quietly, and without contradiction from any one. And thou, brother Archbishop, shalt by no means permit the aforesaid Bishops, Bernard and Richard, to enter into or occupy the said portion, either by themselves or by their officials. Given at the Lateran the 19th day of April, 1128.

6.—BULL OF POPE HONORIUS II. ADDRESSED TO HENRY I. KING OF ENGLAND.

Honorius, Bishop, Servant of the servants of God, our dearly beloved son in Christ, Henry, the illustrious King of England, health and apostolical benediction. Our brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, asserts to the clemency of the apostolical see, in the sight of William Archbishop of Canterbury, that he has been injured. For when he could not obtain the justice he sought respecting the portions of his diocese which were detained by the Bishop that is, Bernard of St. David's and Richard of Hereford, he appealed to a hearing at Rome, which is the common refuge to the oppressed, and appointed the middle of Lent now past, as a term for them, that, in our presence, they might do to him, with respect to the aforesaid portions of his diocese, what reason might dictate; but they, despising the proceeding, neither came nor sent persons to answer for them. We therefore, having obtained the advice of our brethren, have invested the aforesaid Bishop Urban, with respect to the portions of his diocese concerning which there had been complaint, saving the right of the churches of St. David's and Hereford, and appointed the future midlent, that then each party being present in our sight, may obtain what shall be just. Wherefore, thy nobility shall have the said brother Urban, Bishop, commended to thee, that thou mayest neither permit injury to be done to him, with respect to the portions of his diocese wherewith we have invested him, nor with respect to other things, but that thou mayest support him out of reverence to St. Peter and to us.—Given at the Lateran the 19th day of April, [1128.]

7.—BULL OF POPE HONORIUS II. ADDRESSED TO THE CLERGY AND LAITY OF ERGYNG.

Honorius, Bishop, Servant of the servants of God, to the clergy and laity resident throughout the parishes of Ergyng, Ystradyw, Gower, Kidwelly, and Cantref Bychan, health and apostolical benediction. Our brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, invited Bernard, Bishop of St. David's, and Richard, Bishop of Hereford, that in the middle of Lent they should come to our presence, and answer respecting the aforesaid churches; but they neither came nor sent persons to answer for them. We, therefore, with deliberate advice of our brethren, the Bishops and Canons, have invested the aforesaid Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, with respect to the aforesaid parishes, and have fixed the next middle of Lent to be the term, as well for Bishop Bernard and Bishop Richard, as for Bishop Urban, and then each party being present in our sight, may obtain what the reason of justice will dictate. And therefore we command and order that you will so far render obedience and reverence to our brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff.—Given at the Lateran the 12th day of April [1128.]

8.—BULL OF POPE HONORIUS II. ADDRESSED TO THE MONKS, CHAPLAINS, &c. OF THE DIOCESE OF LLANDAFF.

Honorius, Bishop, Servant of the servants of God, our beloved sons, Monks, Chaplains, Canons, Walter son of Richard, Bryan son of Earl William, Payne son of John, Milo of Gloucester,¹ Bratrun son of William * * Winbald de Badlon, Robert de Chandos, Richard the son of Puntius,² Robert the son of Martin, Robert the son of Roger, Maurice the son of William de Londres, and other noble persons resident throughout the diocese of Llandaff, health and apostolical benediction. We and informed through means of report, that contrary to your honour and the salvation of your souls, you have rashly dared to plunder your mother, the Church of Llandaff, and annihilate it. Wherefore, having compassion, with paternal affection, on your adverse conduct, we, by means of this present writing, do order and command that ye, without delay, restore whatsoever in lands, tithes, oblations, sepultures, and other property, ye have unjustly taken and retain from the said church, and other churches of the said diocese. For if sons are to be blamed who dishonour their natural mother, and inflict injury on her, much more are they who molest their spiritual one, and by violence take away her property; and what is infamous, and prejudicial to the Christian name, when ye come to the thresholds of the saints, and the dedications of the churches, ye blush not to rob, and molest, and on the market days take away the property of those who are coming or returning, and kill some of them in a cruel manner. On account of these things, we command that ye altogether desist from these crimes, and that ye humbly obey the orders of our venerable brother, Bishop Urban. But if ye treat them with contempt, We, God being our adviser, will confirm the canonical sentence, which he shall promulgate against you.—Given at the Lateran the 19th day of April, [1128.]

CLERGY AND LAITY OF LLANDAFF.

Honorius, Bishop, Servant of the servants of God, to his beloved sons, the clergy and people of Llandaff, health and apostolical benediction. We have received, with due love, your Bishop, our venerable brother Urban, who came to the clemency of the apostolical see, and set him back to you with our grace, and attended with our letters, and do command all of you that ye kindly receive our said brother, Bishop Urban, and humbly render obedience and reverence to him, as to your special pastor, and the guardian of your souls, and obey him as a vicar of Christ, and as good sons, unanimously contribute your advice and assistance to recover the goods and possession of the Church of Llandaff, which have been taken away from it.—Given at the Lateran the 18th day of April [1128.]

10.—BULL OF POPE HONORIUS II. ADDRESSED TO WILLIAM ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY.¹

Honorius, Bishop, Servant of the servants of God, to our venerable brother William, Archbishop of Canterbury Legate of the apostolical See, health and apostolical benediction. On account of the care and superintendence of the Church of God, which is enjoined on us by the Lord we ought to administer his justice to every one, and that the dispute which has arisen between our brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, and the churches of St. David's and Hereford, may be terminated according to the rule of reason and justice, we have appointed the next midlent to be the term. May you, therefore, take care to provide that, in coming to us, he may not sustain any inconvenience or injury—Given at the Lateran the 7th day of October, [1128.]

11.—BULL OF POPE HONORIUS II. ADDRESSED TO HENRY I.
KING OF ENGLAND.

Honorius, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to our beloved son Henry, the illustrious King of England, health and apostolical benediction. That the servants of God may the more freely and without complaint be disengaged for attending on divine ordinances, we have appointed the next midlent to be the term for settling the dispute that has arisen between our brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, and the churches of St. David's and Hereford. Wherefore, we command your nobility, that you will render no impediment nor inconvenience to the said Bishop in coming to us, or to his affairs, nor will permit it to be done by others.—Given at the Lateran the 7th day of October, [1128.]

12.—BULL OF POPE HONORIUS II. ADDRESSED TO URBAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF.

Honorius, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother Urban, health and apostolical benediction. We know that we are appointed by God, who is the author of all good things, in the holy mother, the catholic and universal Roman Church, for this purpose, that we should administer her justice to all churches, and if we know of anything having been done wrong, we may by the advice of reason restore it to the path of rectitude, so that what things are to be corrected may be set to rights by judicial order, and what are known to be rightly constituted, may remain in their full vigour. Therefore, thou venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, coming last year to the clemency of the apostolic see, didst asse that thou hadst laid a complaint against Bernard, Bishc of St. David's, and Richard,¹ Bishop of Hereford, in tl presence of brothers William, Archbishop of Canterbur Legate of the apostolic see, and the Bishops of Englan with respect to part of thy diocese being retained by them but because thou didst consider that an injury had bee inflicted on thee, thou didst invite them to come to ou presence, and answer to thy complaints on the then nex midlent; but at the aforesaid term they neither came no sent persons to answer for them. Wherefore, the advic of our brethren being communicated, on receiving the te timony of two witnesses, we have invested thee with th portion of the diocese whereof complaint was made, bu saving the right of the churches of St. David's and He reford.

And we appointed a term, and fixed to them the nex then future, midlent, that the truth being more full known and discussed, we might render justice to eac person. But they neither came in that term, nor sen persons who should conduct their cause in our presence thou, however, brother Urban, in the appointed term didst present thyself in our sight ready with witnesses; an we, having for some time waited for those who were invi ted, took the oaths of six witnesses, two of whom, that is a certain intelligent priest, and a layman, swore that thy portion, respecting which the lawsuit had been instituted that is, Gower, Kidwelly, Cantrebychan, Ystradyw, and Ergyng, was contained within the bounds of the diocese of Llandaff, that is, between the rivers Towy and Wye, and that they had seen thy predecessor, Bishop Herwald, holding for forty years the said district quietly and without canonical interruption. And the four others, namely, Robert and John, priests, Geoffrey and Adam, deacons, swore that their fathers, who on account of old age could not come to the apostolic see, had sworn the same, and commanded that they should swear it in our presence. We therefore, with the common deliberation of our Bishops and Cardinals have determined that the aforesaid districts should be held and possessed by thee, and thy successors for ever, without any interruption from the churches of Hereford and St. David's, or either of them.

✠ I, HONORIUS, BISHOP OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH. Given at the Lateran the 4th day of April, Indiction 7, in the year of the incarnation of our Lord 1129, and the 5th of the pontificate of the Lord Pope, Honorius II.

13.—BULL OF POPE HONORIUS II. TO URBAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF.

Honorius, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, and his successors canonically appointed for ever. Being fixed by the disposal of the Lord in the eminent station of the apostolic see, from the duty enjoined to us, we ought to love our brothers the Bishops, and to render justice to the churches committed to them by God. Therefore, dearly beloved in the Lord, Bishop Urban, complying with thy rational requests, we receive the Church of St. Peter, and of the holy confessors Dubricius, Teilo, and Oudoceus, at Llandaff, over which, through God, you preside, into the protection of the apostolic see. Through the instrument of this present charter, we ordain by apostolical authority, that thy church, with its dignity, shall remain free and quit from the burden of secular service. Whatsoever therefore, through the grants of Princes, the obligation of the faithful, or by other means, are known to belong justly and canonically to the said church, may they be preserved firm and entire to it for ever.

¹ Taratyr, or Taradr, in Welsh signifying an auger or borer. The precise situation of this river, or brook, is involved in some degree of uncertainty, having been, by various persons, supposed to be somewhere between the town of Ross and the mouth of the river Wye. But as from the above localities it is evident that the Taratyr formed part of the north-eastern boundary of the district of Ergyng or Archenfield, there can be but little hesitation in fixing upon the rivulet which divides the parishes of Hom Lacy and Aconbury from the parish of Dynedor, as being the Taratyr. This stream, which at the present time has no name, rises on Aconbury hill, and after a course of about $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles, in which it turns Dynedor, and Tarr's or Torr's Mills, falls into the Wye 4 miles below Hereford. Given at the Lateran by the hand of Aimericus, Deacon Cardinal, and Chancellor of the holy Roman Church, on the 5th day of April, Indiction 7, in the year of the incarnation of our Lord 1129, and in the 5th year of the pontificate of the Lord Pope Honorius II.

14.—BULL OF POPE HONORIUS II. TO WILLIAM, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY.

Honorius, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, the venerable brother William, Archbishop of Canterbury Legate of the apostolic see, health and apostolical benediction. We appointed to our brethren Bernard, Bishop of St. David's, and Richard, Bishop of Hereford, Middlesex, to be a term, that they should come to our presence, and if they considered that they had anything against Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, with respect to the districts, concerning which a dispute had arisen among them, they should obtain what justice should dictate; but they neither carried nor sent persons who should act for them. We, therefore, with the communicated advice of our brethren the Bishops, took the oaths of the witnesses, which our brother Urban had produced, who, with touching the holy gospels, affirmed that those five districts, namely, Gower, Kidwelly, Cantrebychan, Ystradyw, and Ergyng, were contained within the limits of the diocese of Llandaff, that is, between the rivers Wye and Towy, and they had seen Bishop Herwald the predecessor of Urban, for forty years possessing those districts quietly, and without any canonical interruption. Therefore, by canonical authority, we adjudge that he and his successors shall have the aforesaid districts forever. Wherefore, we command thee, with requiring, that thou wilt cause to be observed what is adjudged by the holy Roman Church, and that concerning the aforesaid five districts, thou wilt suffer no injury to arise to him.— Given at the Lateran the 4th day of April, [1129.]

KING OF ENGLAND.

Honorius, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to the venerable Henry, King of England, health and apostolical benediction. We have appointed Midlent to be a term for our brethren Bernard, Bishop of St. David's, and Richard, Bishop of Hereford, that they should come to our presence, and if they considered that they had anything to allege against Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, with respect to the districts, concerning which a dispute had arisen between them, they should obtain what justice should dictate, but they neither came nor sent any persons who should act for them. We therefore, with the communicated advice of our Bishops and Cardinals, took the oaths of the witnesses which our brother Urban produced, who, with touching the holy gospels, affirmed that those five districts, namely, Gower, Kidwelly, Cantrebychan, Ystradyw, and Ergyng, were contained within the bounds of the diocese of Llandaff, that is, the rivers Wye and Towy, and that they had seen Bishop Herwald, the predecessor of Urban, for forty years holding those districts quietly, without any canonical interruption. Wherefore, by canonical authority, we adjudge that he and his successors shall have the aforesaid districts for ever. We therefore command thee, requiring that thou wilt cause to be observed what has been adjudged by the holy Roman Church, and that thou wilt permit no injury to be sustained by him with respect to the aforesaid five districts.—Given at the Lateran the 4th day of April, [1129.]

INHABITANTS OF GOWER, &c.

Honorius, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, his beloved sons, the clergy and people resident throughout the districts of Gower, Kidwelly, Cantrebychan, Ytradyw, and Ergyng, health and apostolical benediction. We, by canonical authority, do adjudge to our veneral brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, and his successors that they shall for ever have the aforesaid five districts respecting which a dispute has arisen between him and Bernard, Bishop of St. David's, and Richard, Bishop Hereford. We therefore command, and order that you humbly render obedience and reverence to him, as your proper pastor, and the keeper of your souls.—Given at the Lateran the 4th day of April, [1129.]

1.—EXHORTATION OF JOHN, PRIEST CARDINAL & LEGATE OF THE ROMAN CHURCH, AND PARDON GIVEN BY HIM TO ALL PERSONS AIDING THE CHURCH OF LLANDAFF.

Brother John, Priest Cardinal, and Legate of the holy Roman Church, to all the Faithful resident throughout England and Wales, health and apostolical benediction. Coming to Llandaff, in the duty of our legation, we have found it oppressed by poverty, and plundered of its goods and possessions. Nevertheless our venerable brother Urban, Bishop of that place, has begun to rebuild it from the foundations, which he cannot complete without the aid of your alms. We, therefore, require all of you, and grant you remission of sins, that ye would, through means of your good offices and alms, assist and support that place. We likewise, out of kindness towards you, with apostolic au-

2.—SUMMONS OF WILLIAM, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY

William, Archbishop of Canterbury, to Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, health. We wish to make known to thee by these letters, that John, Priest Cardinal and Legate of the Roman Church, by his legal ordinance, and our assent, has appointed a Council to be held at London, on the Nativity of the blessed, ever Virgin, Mary. Therefore, we command that at the aforesaid term, and at the said place thou dost meet us, with the Archdeacons, and Abbots, and Priors of thy diocese, to determine on ecclesiastical matters, and to reform and correct what things may need reformation, or teach or correct what the sentence of our convocation shall have directed.

3.—ORDINANCES OF THE COUNCIL OF LONDON, HELD BY JOHN, PRIEST CARDINAL AND LEGATE OF THE ROMAN CHURCH, IN THE PRESENCE OF WILLIAM, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, AND ALL HIS CO-PROVINCIAL BISHOPS.

Following the footsteps of our holy fathers, we prohibit by apostolical authority, any one to be ordained in the church through means of money. We also forbid that for chrism, oil, baptism, and penance, for visitation of the sick, unction, and the communion of the body of Christ, any sum whatever be required. We ordain besides, and by apostolical authority decree, that in the consecration of Bishops, the benediction of Abbots, and in the dedication of churches, no cap, nor tapestry, nor handkerchief, nor basons, nor anything whatever be required, unless it be voluntarily offered. No Abbot, Prior, Monk, or Clergyman whatsoever, shall receive any tithe or ecclesiastical benefice whatever, of the gift of a layman, without the authority and consent of his own Bishop, and if it shall have been taken, a gift of this kind shall be void, and he shall be subject to canonical punishment. We have ordained besides, that no one shall claim any church or prebend by paternal inheritance, or appoint a successor to himself in any ecclesiastical benefice; but if it be taken, we do not allow the proceedings to have any force, saying with the Psalmist, "Make them like a wheel, who said, Let us possess the sanctuary of God by inheritance."

We also ordain in addition, that should clergymen, who have churches, or the benefices of churches, and wish to be more freely ordained, go off privately when invited by their Bishops, and contemptuously object to be promoted in orders, let them be deprived of their churches, together with their benefices. No one shall be promoted a Dean or a Prior but a Priest; no one an Archdeacon but a Deacon; no one be ordained a Priest or a Deacon without a certain title. And he who may be absolutely ordained, let him be deprived of his assumed dignity. No Abbot, or clergyman, or layman, shall presume to eject any one ordained to a church by a Bishop, without the judgment of his own Bishop; and whoever will presume to act otherwise, shall be subject to excommunication. Let no Bishop presume to ordain, or judge one who belongs to another's diocese, for every one "stands or falls to his own master," nor is any one held by any sentence which is not pronounced by his own judge. Let no one presume to take into communion one excommunicated by another; which, if he knowingly do, let him also be deprived of Christian communion.

We order also, that an Archdeaconry and divers honours in a church, shall not be given to the same person. We prohibit, by apostolical authority, Priests, Deacons, Sub-deacons, and Canons, to enjoy the society of wives, concubines and of all women whatsoever, except a mother, sister, aunt or such women as shall cause no suspicion; whoever may be a violator of this decree, and either confesses it, or is convicted, let him suffer the loss of his order. We altogether forbid the clergy to receive usury or filthy lucre and whoever shall confess, or be convicted of any such crime, let him be deprived of his degree. We command sorcerers, diviners, and soothsayers, and those who follow and accord with them, to be excommunicated, and we mark them with perpetual infamy. We prohibit marriage to be contracted among relatives, either by consanguinity or affinity, as far as the seventh generation; should any such be joined together, let them be separated. We forbid likewise men, who are charged on account of consanguinity, to have their wives; and the witnesses which they adduce shall not be admitted; and the ancient authority of the fathers is in all things to be observed.

4.—CONCERNING THE FIRST JOURNEY OF URBAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF, AFTER MAKING HIS APPEAL.

In the year of the incarnation of our Lord, one thousand one hundred and twenty eight, Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, with his clergy, having invited Bernard, Bishop of St. David's, and Richard, Bishop of Hereford, went to Rome, with an appeal which was made by him in a full Council held at London, William, Archbishop of Canterbury, being present; and his complaint being heard by the blessed Pope Honorius, and the Roman assembly, he returned seized of the districts of Gower, Kidwelly, Cantrebychan, and Ergyng, and invested by the apostolical hand, which was given to him with his staff, in token of his investiture, and also with a charter and letters for Archbishop William, King Henry, and the inhabitants of the diocese.

5.—CONCERNING THE SECOND JOURNEY OF BISHOP URBAN TO ROME.

In the year following the before-mentioned, Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, being summoned by the blessed Honorius, apostle of the apostolic See, went to Rome against the appointed term, that is, midlent, with his charters and ancient documents, and the clergy and laity, who affirmed his just investiture with respect to the aforesaid districts, against the churches of Hereford and St. David's; and because the Bishops of those churches neither came nor sent persons to answer for them, the aforesaid five districts were by the adjudication of the Archbishops, Bishops, and Cardinals of the Roman Church, adjudged to Urban,

8.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II.¹ ADDRESSED TO THE ARCHBISHOPS, AND OTHERS, OF ENGLAND.

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brethren, Archbishops, Bishops, Abbots, Priors, the Clergy and Laity, the faithful of God, reside throughout the kingdom of England, health and apostolic benediction. It pleased him, who from eternity dispose all things, to call me, though an unworthy and unprofitable servant, to the government of the Holy Roman Church through the election of our brothers, William of Præneste, Matthew of Alba, John of Hostea, Conrad a Sabine, and the catholic Bishops and Cardinals. And as I considered myself unequal, and not sufficient for so glorious an office I refused as far as I was able; but obedience being enjoined me on the part of God, and the church, and our brethren, and trusting in the support of divine grace, I obeyed. Afterwards Peter of Leon,² through the power of his parents and brethren, and other laity, assumed the red cap which he had intended some time back, and through the dilapidation of the ecclesiastical affairs, and the effusion of blood, attempted to occupy the mother Roman Church. Let therefore no one seduce you by frivolous and deceitful words; no one separate your firmness from the unity of the Church; for in the end of the world Antichrist strives to injure the Church with severe oppressions. Although the ship of St. Peter, in which Christ sits, be sometimes shaken by the violence of the waves, yet under the government of Christ, it cannot sink. If a messenger of Antichrist should endeavour to persuade you otherwise, casting away far from you what may have been communicated, remain ye immoveable, as firm pillars, in the faith of St. Peter, and in the love and reverence of the holy mother Church. And we, excommunicating on the first Sunday in the month the aforesaid Peter Leon, as well by the counsel and wish of the aforesaid Bishops and catholic Cardinals, as by the desire of other Bishops, who had been assembled from divers parts of the world, have delivered him up to Satan for the destruction of the flesh, that his spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord.—Given at the Palatine the 3rd day of March, [1130.]

9.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. ADDRESSED TO THE INHABITANTS OF GOWER, &c.

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his sons, the Clergy and people resident throughout the parishes of Gower, Kidwelly, Cantrebychan, Ystradyw, and Eryng, health and apostolical benediction. As our predecessor of happy memory, Pope Honorius, has by his writings ordered you to obey our venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, so also we command that you humbly render to him, as to your father and Bishop, obedience and reverence.—Given at the Palatine the 25th day of February, [1130.]

9.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. ADDRESSED TO BERNARD,
BISHOP OF ST. DAVID'S.¹

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother Bernard, Bishop of St. David's, health and apostolical benediction. Our venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, for the obtaining of justice to his Church, came twice with great fatigue to the apostolical See. And afterwards he was summoned by our predecessor of blessed memory, Pope Honorius, that on the next festival of St. Luke,² he should come to the apostolical See, to answer thee respecting the diocesan boundaries. But as he, by means of letters and messengers, signified that he was weighed down by sickness, old age, and poverty, and asserted that therefore he was not able to come at the appointed time, we have had compassion on him, and, with the advice of our brethren, have granted him an indulgence for not coming to Rome for three years from this midlent. Therefore, in that term, thou mayest come before our presence, prepared to answer respecting Llandeilo fawr and its appurtenances, and Llandeilo Pimpseint, Caercaiau, Pentwyn, and Llandeilo Penllitgart, and Llandeilo Kiltrhedin in Emlyn, and Llanissan with its appurtenances, and Brodlam,³ all of which by right seem to belong to the Church of Llandaff, as the Bishop asserts. [1130.]

³ These places have been noticed in pages 363 and 522, although not precisely under the same appellations, Llandeilo Pimpseint being substituted for Llandeilo Garthtefir, which is in the neighbourhood of Pumpsaint, Carmarthenshire; Caercaiau is probably intended to represent the old chapel

11.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. ADDRESSED TO HENRY I.
KING OF ENGLAND.¹

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to our most dearly beloved in Christ, Henry, the illustrious King of England, health and apostolical benediction. It is for the honour of God, and the welfare of the people, that Princes, to whom the rights of a kingdom are committed by God, should love the churches, and defend ecclesiastical persons from injuries. We therefore require thy nobility, and exhort thee in the Lord, that thou mayest so far support our venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, and dost not permit any injury or grievance to be inflicted either on him or on the church committed to his care.—Given at Genoa the 12th day of August, [1130.]

12.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. ADDRESSED TO WILLIAM, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY.

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother William, Archbishop of Canterbury,² health and apostolical benediction. It is acknowledged to be consonant with equity and justice that what is desired by Prelates, with respect to honour and kind treatment, should impose on their subjects no grievance nor injury, contrary to reason. As our brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff complains against thee because thou dost permit some of his parishoners of Archenfield to communicate in the church of Hereford, against whom he had pronounced sentence of excommunication; and dost endeavour to ordain Bishop, a Prior¹ of his, belonging to his establishment, who impudently aspires, as the said Bishop asserts, to the Bishopric of Hereford, and communicates in the same church as those whom he has excommunicated. Therefore, we command thee by the present writings, that thou inflict on him no injury or molestation, nor communicate with his parishioners who have been excommunicated by him, nor promote his clergyman without his consent.— Given at Genoa the 12th day of August, [1130.]

13.—EPISTLE OF JOHN, CARDINAL, TO URBAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF.

To his brother Urban, the venerable Bishop of Llandaff, his brother John, Priest Cardinal of the holy Roman Church, sends health and respect. Inasmuch as our Lord the Pope has not written anything to the King of England respecting your case, it is because he has not as yet obtained his complete favour, nor the messenger of the Bishop of St. David's spoken to our Lord the Pope, nor made any mention either of him or his cause. Go on well. Our advice is that you remain in your diocese, and do not come to us at present, until you shall hear something more certain respecting our Lord the Pope, and the King. [1130.]

14.—EPISTLE OF CARDINAL GREGORY TO URBAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF.

Gregory, Deacon Cardinal of the holy Roman Church, to Urban, by the grace of God the venerable Bishop of Llandaff, sends health and greeting. We are desirous to know your friendship, as we have laboured not a little for you, and have supported your cause as a good friend, by every means in our power, and do support it, and will hereafter do so. Therefore, assist me, as your very dear friend, who is in great need, that when we shall come to your parts, you shall so serve us, either yourself, or by your messengers, that you may always retain our services. Farewell.

15.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. TO URBAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF.¹

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, health and apostolical benediction. It is our wish to give peace to the churches of God, and if any dispute arises among them, to settle it by judicial process. Because a dispute has arisen between thee and our brother Bernard, Bishop of St. David's, respecting the right of the districts of Gower, Kidwelly, Cantrebychan, Ystradyw, and Ewyas, we strictly command thee that on the next festival of St. Luke, thou shalt, setting everything aside, appear before us, prepared to answer our said brother Bishop Bernard, as well with respect to the aforesaid churches, as concerning Talybont.—Given at Piretum the 11th day of May, [1131.]

16.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. TO URBAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF.

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother Urban, health and apostolical benediction. Forasmuch as thou knowest that we have appointed the next festival of St. Luke to be the term for our brothers Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, and Bernard, Bishop of St. David's, respecting the dispute which is raised between them. But our brother Bishop Urban has, through means of letters directed to us, complained of Rabel, chamberlain of Tankerville, that he has violently ejected him from the possession of the village of St. Teilo de Lannuallt.¹ Wherefore, we commit to your care, that you, when you find opportunity, go to our most dearly beloved son King Henry on this matter, and require of him not to permit the Church of Llandaff to suffer injury, but that he cause its rights to be restored to it. Given at Compendium the 11th day of May, [1131.]

17.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. TO HENRY I. KING OF ENGLAND.²

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his most dearly beloved son in Christ, Henry, the illustrious King of England, health and apostolical benediction. It is for the honour of God, and the welfare of the people, that Princes, to whom the rights of a kingdom are committed by God, should love the churches, and defend ecclesiastical persons from injuries. We therefore require thy nobility, and exhort thee in the Lord, that thou therefore support our venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, and dost not permit any injury to be inflicted either on him or the church committed to his care.—Given at Genoa the 12th day of August, [1130.]

18.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. TO WILLIAM, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, &c.

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brethren, William, Archbishop of Canterbury, and his suffragan Bishops, health and apostolical benediction. Our venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, who lately came devoutly to our presence, after the manner of a pastor, anxious for the benefit of the church committed to his care, is known to have laboured very much, although oppressed by advanced age and sickness. Nevertheless, having inspected the instrument, whereby judgment was given to him by our predecessor of holy memory, Pope Honorius, respecting the boundaries of his diocese, and as we wish to know more fully the rights of each church, having obtained the advice of our brethren, we have made no innovation. Therefore, by the present writings, we strictly command that you honour and love him as a religious man, and that you effect through the prudence of your discretion, that his diocese, respecting which Bernard, Bishop of St. David's, complains against him, may not suffer any diminution, but that he may possess it in peace and quietness. To which things we solicit thy regard, brother Archbishop, that for the love of St. Peter and of us, thou wilt render thy good will and favour to his clergy, Archdeacon Uchtryd,¹ and Isaac.—Given at St. Quintin the 14th day of March, [1131.]

19.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. TO BERNARD, BISHOP OF ST. DAVID'S.

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother Bernard, Bishop of St. David's, health and apostolical benediction. That peace may be given to the churches, and the rights of each be preserved, we have appointed the next festival of St. Luke to be the term for thee, and our venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, that presenting yourselves in our sight, the dispute which is agitated between you respecting parochial boundaries may be settled. But afterwards he informed us by his letters and messengers, that thy Archdeacons had violently ejected him from the possession of those parishes, respecting which thou hast laid complaint against him. That, therefore, an occasion may not be afforded him for extending his lawsuit, we command thee by this present writing, to restore to him possession of those parishes without molestation, that being constituted possessor, he may at the fixed term be able to answer thee by judicial right.—Given at Compendium the 7th day of April, [1131.]

20.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. TO BERNARD, BISHOP OF ST. DAVID'S.¹

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother Bernard, Bishop of St. David's, health and apostolical benediction. Our venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, for the obtaining of justice to his Church, came twice with great fatigue to the apostolical See. And afterwards he was summoned by our predecessor, of blessed memory, Pope Honorius, that at the next festival of St. Luke he should come to the apostolical See to answer thee respecting the diocesan boundaries. Therefore, in the aforesaid term thou shalt come before our presence, prepared to answer respecting Llandeilo Fawr and its appurtenances, and Llandeilo Pimpseint, Caercaiau, and Llandeilo Mainaur with its appurtenances, and Llandeulydawg, in Carmarthen, and Llandeilo Pentwyn, and Llandeilo Penllwydgarth, and Llandeilo Cilrhedin in Emlyn, and Llanissan with its appurtenances, and Brodlan, and Llangurfrit,² all of which seem of right to belong to the Church of Llandaff, as the said Bishop asserts. [1130.]

² Particulars of these places may be found in pages 363, 522, and 598.

21.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. TO URBAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF.

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, health and apostolical benediction. As we have commanded thee by other writings, so we command thee again, that on the Sunday, on which is read "I am the good Shepherd, thou dost go to the presence of our venerable brothers William, Archbishop of Canterbury, Thurstan, Archbishop of York, and H. Archbishop of Rouen, and without fear declare to them thy allegations, as we have committed thy cause to be discussed by them, and have reserved to ourselves its settlement. Therefore, in addition, that thy discretion may not be moved, we will, God being the author, take care to support thee in the justice of thy Church having regard to providing for the country; and we will not suffer it by any means to be deprived of its rights.—Given at Helioeu the 13th day of February, [1132.]

22.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. TO URBAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF.¹

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, health and apostolical benediction. 23.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. TO URBAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF.

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, health and apostolical benediction. The Church of Hereford being deprived of its Bishop, has, by its unanimous vote and common assent, chosen Robert, Prior of Llantony,² a religious and learned man, as it is said, to be its Bishop and Pastor; but since it is necessary for so holy a work, and the salvation of souls, that fit persons be carefully sought and engaged, we strictly command thee, by our apostolical writings, that thou freely allow the aforesaid Robert to have the government of the Church of Hereford; and that thou enjoin to him to afford the same assent to his electors. For which purpose, since, as we have heard that Richard, Bishop of Hereford, against whom thou didst heretofore come to Rome, and complain respecting the boundaries of the dio-

And afterwards the dispute which is between you shall be settled by judicial process; for it is not agreeable to reason that if a Bishop, being summoned to obtain justice, is prevented by death, the church on that account should sustain any injury.— Given at Chartres the 17th day of January, [1131.]

that you honour and love him as a religious man, and that you effect through the prudence of your discretion that his diocese, respecting which Bernard, Bishop of St. David's, complains against him, may not suffer any diminution, but that he may possess it in peace and quietness. In addition to which, we also solicit thy regard, brother Archbishop, that for the love of St. Peter, and of us, thou wilt render thy good will and favour to his clergymen, Archdeacon Uchtryd, and Isaac.—Given at St. Quintin the 14th day of March, [1131.]

25.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. TO WILLIAM, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY.

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother William, Archbishop of Canterbury, Legate of the apostolic See, health and apostolical benediction. There is no doubt that our brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, has in his cause, which ought to be discussed in thy presence, and that of others, need of the advice and assistance of his clergy and other friends. Therefore, we command thee, by this apostolic writing, that thou dismiss his clergy in peace, and do not compel them to go to the place of judgment, until the case shall be certainly settled.—Given at Valentia the 7th day of March, [1132.]

26.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. TO URBAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF.

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to his venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, health and apostolical benediction. The mind of religious persons requires tranquillity, which, while it is hurried away after various matters, is not able to reach the seat of contemplation. It is therefore expedient, dearly beloved brother, that thou shouldst fully know what are the just boundaries, respecting which there is a dispute between thee and Bernard Bishop of St. David's. Therefore, setting every excuse aside, thou mayest come to the Council, which, with the aid of the Lord, we shall celebrate at the next festival of St. Luke, at Rheims, to answer the aforesaid Bishop respecting the boundaries of the diocese, that what may be the right of thy church, by the advice and judgment of religious men, may be settled, that at length, the truth being discovered, peace and tranquillity may, divine grace permitting, be restored to the Church of Llandaff. And it is better that the said dispute should be determined in the Council at Rheims,¹ without much fatigue, than at Rome with great labour and expense.—Given at Auxerre the 12th day of August, [1131.]

daries of the diocese, might be determined, and that the church might for the future have rest, we appointed to thee the festival of St. Luke to be the term wherein thou shouldst come to our presence, and answer respecting his complaints. And our aforesaid brother Bishop Bernard, attended by a large company of clergy and laity, offered himself to our sight in the said term, being prepared to proceed. But three persons, delegated on thy part, declared on oath, and by touching of the holy gospels, that being detained by illness, thou wast not able to come. We, therefore, providing for the want and labour of both churches, have committed this business to be carried on in England, by our venerable brothers William, Archbishop of Canterbury, Thurstan, Archbishop of York, and H. Archbishop of Rouen. And it pleases us, if it can be accomplished, that peace and concord be restored between thee and Bishop Bernard through their advice and deliberation. We, therefore, strictly command thee, that setting all business aside, and without making an appeal, thou dost present thyself to the said brothers on the next Sunday, on which is read, "I am the good Shepherd," with the letters, and charter of our predecessor, of happy memory, Pope Honorius, and other instruments, and the surviving witnesses which thou hast produced before him; that they may hear thy statements, and those of our said brother Bishop Bernard, and more fully understand them, and intimate to us what they may have investigated. But shouldst thou have course to subterfuge, and contemptuously decline to present thyself, and to act, thou must take care that thou dost not sustain injury by thy absence, and we appoint him the possessor, and thee the petitioner.—Given at Troyes the 21st day of December, [1131.]

28.—BULL OF POPE INNOCENT II. TO URBAN, BISHOP OF LLANDAFF.

Innocent, Bishop, servant of the servants of God, to our venerable brother Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, health and apostolical benediction. As we have commanded thee by other writings, so to thy fraternity, &c.¹

¹ The document ends thus, incomplete, and terminates the Work abruptly.—Bishop Godwin informs us that the mandates of the Pope respecting the restoration of the districts to the Church of Llandaff, were not obeyed, in consequence of the untimely death of Bishop Urban, who died in his way to Rome, on the prosecution of the business, in the year 1133.—Godwin de Præsulibus, p. 604.

¹ This very ancient MS. is supposed to have been written before the year 720; and tradition has reported it to be, though very improbably, in the handwriting of St. Gildas. The volume is of a quarto form, and, exclusive of its present covers, which are strong and thick, is 12 inches long, 9½ wide, and 1¾ thick; including the covers, it is 12¾ long, 10 wide, and 2½ thick. It consists at present of 118 leaves or 236 pages, commences with the beginning of St. Matthew's Gospel, and ends with Luke iii. 9. no part of St. John's Gospel remaining. It is written on thick, strong vellum, and the leaves are more or less discoloured by damp and great age; the writing however is quite legible, the colour of the ink well retained, and the chief part of the MS. considering its great antiquity, and the vicissitudes it has undergone, is in good preservation. The Saxon words and names occurring in the margins, plainly show that the Book has been in much use for administering oaths under the government of that people. There is a memorandum entered therein, stating that there was a letter written by the Rev. William Higgins, Precentor of Llandaff, dated Feb. 9, 1657-8, and addressed to the celebrated Dugdale, mentioning that through his care some valuable MSS. belonging to the Cathedral, and particularly this volume, were preserved during the civil war.—Ritson in his Life of King Arthur, p. 88. confounds this MS. with the LIBER LANDAVENSIS.

Concerning the MS. Book of the Gospels of the Church of Lichfield, Mr. Humphrey Wanley, in his Historical critical Catalogue of ancient Northern Books, which is in the second volume of his Thesaurus of ancient Northern Literature, thus writes:—

“In this Book a great many Annotations⁵ are seen, both of things and names, as well in the British as the

³ The name of Mormarch appears among those of the witnesses to a document in the time of Bishop Herwald. See pages 259, 538, of this Volume.

⁴ This document is written on the lower margin of page 216 of the MS. The language is for the most part obscure.

⁵ Of these Annotations, Lhuyd mentions in page 226 of his Archæologia Britannica, printed in 1707,—“The first old manuscript that I shall Anglo-Saxon language, for it was the property of the Church of Llandaff in Wales before it came to the Church of Lichfield, where it is now preserved, inscribed THE TEXT OF ST. CHAD, the Patron of that Church.

“And of these Annotations I have received Explanations¹ in letters sent to me by the very learned and skilful cultivator of British Antiquities, Mr. Edward Lhuyd, the very worthy keeper of the Ashmolean Museum in the University of Oxford, &c. * * * *

“Thus far with respect to the Annotations written by Welshmen in this Book, which is venerable on account of its antiquity; the first of which by Gelhi, who gave it to the Church of Llandaff, is written in nearly the same hand as the Book in the Bodleian Library, which is marked NE. D. II. 19, and therefore I think it may be adjudged to the commencement of the ninth century. Those that follow seem to be not much more modern, not only on account of their antiquity, but because it is manifest from another MS. Book² of the said Church of Llandaff, that Libiau, the fourth Bishop of Llandaff from Nywys, mentioned in these Annotations, died in the year 929.”

“mention, is the Llandaff Gospel, called St. Chad's Book, at Lichfield, which possibly may be eleven hundred years standing. It has besides some later Saxon, a few ancient memorials of donations to the Church of Llandaff entered here and there in the margin, which are partly Latin and partly British, and are about nine hundred years standing, but have been lately mangled by the bookbinder.” See also pages 4 and 5 of the same work.—And in a letter to Humphrey Wanley, dated Feb. 8, 1703, he says, “I never saw any Welsh writing near so old as that you sent me out of the Lichfield MS. excepting three verses I lately sent to the Bishop of Hereford [Humphrey,] who is so curious in our Language and antiquities, that I am sure he would be very glad to see the Lichfield MS.”—Cambro-Briton, Vol. I. p. 16.

² Referring evidently to the LIBER LANDAVENSIS, see pp. 230 and 502.

And with respect to the said Book, Dr. George Hicks in the third volume of the said Thesaurus of ancient Northern Literature, wrote,—“These words briefly relate to St. Teilo, to whom was given the Latin Book of the Gospels, many ages before it was the property of the Church of Lichfield. Cingal, the Briton, from whom it was bought, sold it, (which perhaps had been taken with others, while war raged, from some English monastery adjacent to Wales,) to Gelhi, the son of Arihtiud, who gave it to St. Teilo, from which Church, when war again raged, some Englishman perhaps took it, and dedicated it to St. Chad. But howsoever this matter may be, SHOWERE has written many things out of it, from which several extracts not dissimilar, may be seen in the third volume, and 188th, &c. pages of the “Monasticon Anglicanum,” which the immortal William Dugdale transcribed from the MS. Register of the Church of Llandaff.¹”

Extracts from a MS. Book in the British Museum² called “A Chronicle of the Church of Llandaff, from Brutus to the year of our Lord 1370, partly Welsh and partly Latin,” written in the year 1439, and containing all that exists in that MS. relating to the aforesaid Church.³”

And in Dr. Owen Pughe’s Welsh Dictionary, 1832, p. x. it is confounded with the LIBER LANDAVENSIS. In addition to the above Chronicle, this MS. contains the Lives of several Welsh Saints, which may have occasioned its receiving its present title.

OF THE ORIGINAL CONSTRUCTION AND BUILDING OF THE CHURCH OF LLANDAFF.

In the year of the incarnation of our Lord 447, two venerable persons, Germanus, Bishop of Auxerre, and Lupus, of the city of Tours, were sent from Gaul to Britain, to confute and extirpate the said heresy, which by the disputations and preaching of the said persons, was completely done away and destroyed. They gave orders with the assent and consent of Meurig the son of Tewdrig, then King of Glamorgan, to build and construct anew a metropolitan See on the site of that which had been erected in honour of the apostles St. Peter and St. Paul.

And after the work was completed, the said King liberally endowed it with divers territories, privileges, and rents, as is fully to be found in the MS. Book of St. Teilo;¹ and therein the said religious persons consecrated Dubricius, a holy person, and likewise an eminent doctor, to be an Archbishop and the Primate of southern Britain.

In the year of the incarnation of our Lord 506, Dubricius, Archbishop of Llandaff, crowned the most celebrated King Arthur, in the city of Cirencester, in the 15th year of his age. And after the fame of his liberality and probity was spread abroad to the furthest parts of the world, and he had subdued divers nations by bloody wars, and toil, he caused the Archbishops, Bishops, Kings, Princes, and Leaders subdued by him, to assemble at the City of Legions,² and there solemnly celebrate the great festival of Whitsuntide; who, being sent for, and having arrived, all were called who performed obedience to him on account of his honours, and he liberally endowed every one with certain possessions; and so leave having been asked and obtained, all and every one returned home with joy.

¶ And Dubricius feeling himself burdened with old age, took leave of the brethren, and resigned the office of Archbishop. In a certain island, situated in the Irish sea, distant from the land about five miles, called in Welsh, Ynys Enlli, and in English Bardsey, within which twenty thousand bodies of saints are buried, he led a hermitical life in watching, fasting, and prayer, to the day of his death; and after the course of his life, he was there honourably buried, and at first numbered among the saints. In the year of the incarnation of our Lord 612,¹ he departed to the Lord.

¶ And in the year 1120, he was removed from the island of Bardsey, by Urban, Bishop of Llandaff, to his Church at Llandaff, on the 23rd day of May.

¶ And after the said Dubricius, the illustrious Priest Teilo was promoted to be Pastor and Bishop of the Church of Llandaff, whose virtues and laudable actions are related in histories. * * * * *

¹ The same date as in this Volume, [p. 329] which is considered much too late; according to Bishop Godwin, Dubricius died in the year 522, and according to a Cotton MS. in the British Museum, Vesp. A. XIV. his death is said to have taken place in 512.

CHRONOLOGICAL SERIES OF THE BISHOPS OF LLANDAFF.¹

1. ST. DUBRICIUS,² according to this Work, pp. 310 and 621, was consecrated Bishop by St. Germanus and St. Lupus, (about the year 427 or 447,) some authorities however state that he became Bishop in 470. He was raised to the Archbishopric of Caerleon in 490, which he held with the Bishopric of Llandaff until 512, when he resigned the latter. In the year 519 he also resigned Caerleon, and retired to the Island of Bardsey, where he died in 522. His grandfather Pebiau, and great-grandfather Erb, were Kings of Eryngy in his time, and Tewdrig and his son Meurig, Kings of Glamorgan; the latter of whom must have been a youth when he bestowed Llandaff upon St. Dubricius;³ in whose time Merchwyn son of Glewys is recorded to have been sovereign of Gower.

2. ST. TELLO succeeded to the See of Llandaff in 512. When the Yellow Plague broke out in the time of Maelgwn, King of North Wales, he emigrated to Armorica, to avoid the pestilence, and upon his return he became Archbishop of Menevia, in the room of St. David, who had died in 544; St. Tello removed the Archiepiscopal See to Llandaff, and appointed Ismael to be his Suffragan Bishop at Menevia or St. David's; he also appointed other Chorepiscopi or Suffragan Bishops, see p. 352, several of whom are enumerated in the following List. St. Tello died about the year 563 or 566. The Sovereigns of Wales in his time recorded in this Work,

² "It does not appear that the Principality of Wales was in this Age (that of St. Dubricius) divided into dioceses, or that there were any established bishops' sees. The influence of St. Dubricius, Bishop of Llandaff, together with the liberality of Meurig ab Tewdrig, King of Glamorgan, was the means of making the See of Llandaff permanent, whence he is said to have been its first bishop." Professor Rees' Welsh Saints, p. 173.

The following is a list of Chorepiscopi of Llandaff, prior to the above time, kindly furnished by Mr. Taliesin Williams, from a Manuscript by his father, Iolo Morganwg, who, however, had not therein stated his authorities. "1. Dyfan, 2. Ffagan, 3. Elldeyrn, 4. Edelfed, 5. Cadwr, 6. Cynan, 7. Ilan, 8. Llewyr, 9. Cyhelyn, 10. Gwythelyn, 11. Ffestydd; another book gives Medwy as 3rd." It may be well to observe that Nos. 1, 5, 6, 7, 10, and 11, may be recognized among the Archbishops of London in Godwin's list, under the names of Obinus, (or Dovinus in another list) Cador, Conan, Hillary, Guitelms, and Fastidius. Another list, in Iolo Morganwg's hand-writing, gives 13 Bishops of Llandaff prior to St. Dubricius, 10 of whom are in Godwin's Catalogue of the Bishops of London. Underneath this list is written, "See Nicholl's Paper."

are Iddon son of Ynyr, King of Gwent, Tewdrig son of Teithfallt, King of Glamorgan, Aircol Law Hir son of Tryfun, King of Dyfed; Rhun and his son Meredydd, Kings of Dyfed; Tredecil; Cadwgan, King of the Country west of the river Towy; and Maelgwn King of Gwynedd. The Suffragan or local Bishops mentioned in this Work, who were living in the time of St. Teilo, and stationed in divers parts of his diocese, were the following:—

AIDAN, a disciple of St. Dubricius at Henllan, Bishop in Eryng in the reign of King Cynfyn son of Pebiau. As Collwy, Aircon or Aircol, and Centwyd or Cintunt appear as witnesses to grants both in the time of St. Dubricius and Aidan, none of whom are witnesses to benefactions to Teilo or Oudoceus, probably Aidan was appointed Bishop by St. Dubricius, see page 313.

ELWYSTYL, one of the Clergy under St. Dubricius, and Bishop in the times of Cynfyn and Gwyddai, sons of Pebiau, Kings of Eryng; Elwystyl's name appears in a grant of King Pebiau; the witnesses mentioned in grants to Aidan and St. Dubricius also attested those to this Prelate, together with the names of Junabui or Lunapeius, Aelhaiarn, and Cynfarwy. Elwystyl appears to have been stationed in Eryng, the same district as the before-mentioned Aidan.

LUNAPEIUS, probably the same person as Junabui, founder of Llandinabo in the time of his cousin St. Dubricius, and King Pebiau. In the Life of St. Teilo it is stated that he had been a disciple of St. Dubricius, and that he came to St. Teilo upon his return from Armorica, by whom he must have been raised to the Episcopacy, see p. 352, in the reign of Gwrgan son of Cynfyn, King of Eryng; in which district he was probably stationed.

ARWYSTYL, one of the disciples of St. Dubricius at Henllan; his name appears attesting a grant to St. Teilo, of Llanarth, by Iddon son of Ynyr, King of Gwent, about 560. Arwystyl was Bishop in the latter part of the reign of King Iddon, who bestowed upon him Llangoed, in Brecknockshire, see pp. 412 and 523; in which district he was probably stationed.

UFELWY, a disciple of St. Dubricius; he appears to have been a Bishop in Eryng during the reign of Gwrfodw, King of that district; Meurig, King of Glamorgan, is recorded to have given him the church of Llansillow, in Herefordshire. By a comparison of the witnesses to grants in his time, and that of St. Oudoceus, he appears to have been his contemporary.

COMEREG, Bishop in Ergyng in the time of Athrwys son of Meurig, King of Gwent, who granted him St. Kinemark's, near Chepstow, with its territory, comprising a large portion of Ergyng.

GWRWAN, Bishop in the reign of Tewdwr son of Rhun, King of Dyfed, who treacherously killed Elgystyl son of Awst, King of Brecknock, for which he was excommunicated by Gwrwan. His station was probably Ystradyw.

GWYDDLON or GUODLOU, said to be son of Glywys Cerniw, founder of Coed Cerniw Church, near Newport, Monmouthshire, in which district perhaps he was Bishop. It is probable that Cuchein son of Glywi, who granted the village of Isphant to Gwyddlon, was his brother.

3. ST. OUDOCEUS, nephew of St. Tello, succeeded him at his death.¹ In his time Tewdrig, who had resigned his kingdom, was killed.²—Meurig son of Tewdrig, and his son Athrwys, and grandson Morgan,³ were Kings of Glamorgan. Ithael son of Morgan is mentioned as King in a grant to Oudoceus, which must have been in the lifetime of his father Morgan, in whose reign Oudocens died, July 2. His contemporary Gildas, of whom an anecdote is recorded, p. 380, died in 570. Einion, King of Glewysig, and Awst, King of Brecknock, reigned in his time.⁴

² Several dates are given of this occurrence by various authors. Cressy states A.D. 560; Bishop Godwin, 600; Dr. Lingard, 610, and that the Saxon King was Coelwulf, nephew of Ceawlin, King of Wessex; but it is more probable that it was during one of Ceawlin's incursions into the Principality, about 600, it took place.

⁴ Perhaps it may be necessary to state that the several Kings of Glamorgan and the adjacent districts, mentioned in this list, were Regul and Sub-Regul, possessing the authority of Sovereigns in several parts of the country, subject to the Kings of Wales or of England, as the case might happen to be. The order of their succession was also extremely irregular, as fathers, sons, and even grandsons, were Kings at the same time, which accounts for several instances of father and son being Kings in the time of two Bishops.

4. BERTHWYN, whose name appears as a witness in several grants of land, made to St. Oudoceus, was raised to the See of Llandaff in the reign of Morgan son of Athrwys, King of Glamorgan, and died in the reign of his son Ithael, whose son Ffernwael, and also Gwyddei and Cynfyn, brothers, are mentioned as benefactors, and witnesses to grants in the time of this Prelate. Clydri and Idwallon were Kings in Ergyng, Gwaednerth was King of Gwent, and Clydawg son of Clydwyn King in Eusa. He was Bishop in the latter part of the sixth or early in the seventh century.

5. TRYCHAN, one of the Clergy in the time of St. Oudoceus and Berthgwyn, became Bishop of Llandaff in the time of Ithael son of Athrwys, King of Glamorgan or Glewysaig, and died in the reign of his son Ffernwael.—Mention is made of a King in the time of Trychan called Brochwael. Trychan lived about the early part of the seventh century.

6. EDILFRW is here placed as successor to Trychan, from the circumstance of the names of Gwrgan and Bonus, donors to Llandaff, in the time of Edilfyw, also appearing as witnesses in grants to Trychan. It is probable that he died about the middle or latter part of the seventh century.

7. GRECIELIS.—Meurig, son of Ithael ap Morgan, was King of Glamorgan in the time of this Bishop, which must have been late in the seventh or early in the eighth century, when Ifor ab Alan possessed the nominal Sovereignty of Wales. Gwylyffer and Cynfyn sons of Gwrgan, and Bonus, are among the donors to Llandaff when Grecielis was Bishop.¹

8. AIDAN. Although no mention is made of such a Prelate in this Work, he is here inserted on the authority of the Welsh Chronicle, which states that during an incursion of the Saxons into the Principality in 720, the Churches of Llandaff were pillaged, and Aidan, its Bishop, together with several of his Clergy, killed. Rhodri Molwynog was Sovereign of Wales at that time.—Myv. Arch. II. 472.

9. ELWOG was Bishop of Llandaff in the time of Meurig, Ffernwael, Rhys, and Rhodri, sons of Ithael, King of Glewysaig.

10. CERENHIR was Bishop in the time of Meurig son of Ithael and his son Brochwael, Kings of Glamorgan, and of Hywel the son of Rhys ab Ithael, King of Glewysaig.

11. NUDD,—in whose time Meurig ab Ithael, and his sons Ffernwael and Brochwael, were Kings of Glamorgan; and Hywel son of Rhys King of Glewysaig; and also Tewdwr son of Elised King of Brecknock.²

² These Reguli, excepting Meurig ab Ithael, became tributary to Alfred the Great, King of the Anglo-Saxons, in order to obtain his protection from what they considered the oppression of the sons of Rhodri Mawr, who possessed the Sovereignty of Wales.—Aaser Menevensis.

12. CADWARD. The Kings of the district during the time of this Prelate were Ffernwael son of Ithael, his brothers Rhys and Rhodri, and his sons Athrwyys and Gwrgafarn. The name of Cadward appears as a witness to grants in the time of Bishop Cerenhir.

13. NOBIS or NYWYS, of whom nothing important is recorded.

14. CYFEILLAWG,—consecrated by Ethelred, Archbishop of Canterbury, 872;—taken prisoner by the Danes, and ransomed by King Edward, [the Elder,] 915;—died, 927.¹ Brochwael son of Meurig, Hywel son of Rhys, and Arthfael, were Kings in Gwent and Morganwg, and Hywel Dda, Anarawd, and Edwal Foel, chief Sovereigns of Wales in his time. Morgan Hên, afterwards King of Glamorgan, was born the year of Cyfeiliawg's consecration.

15. LIBIAU succeeded Cyfeiliawg, and occupied the See about two years, as he died in 929. He was contemporary with Hywel Dda, and Edwal Foel, Kings of Wales; Athelstan, King of England; Tewdwr son of Elised, King of Brecknock; and Gruffydd ab Owain, a King who appears to have had dominion in the district of Gower.

16. GULFRID. Cadell son of Arthfael, and Cadwgan son of Owain, were Kings in the districts of Gwent and Morganwg in his time.

17. MARCHLWYS or MARCHLUID. Morgan Hên, and his sons Owain, Idwallon, Cadell, and Cynfyn, were Kings of Glamorgan in the time of this Bishop. He died in 943, when Hywel Dda was King of the whole of Wales, and Edmund the Elder King of England.

18. PATER or PADARN, became Bishop in 943; in his time Nowi son of Gwriad was King of Gwent. Hywel Dda possessed the Sovereignty of Wales, which, after his death in 948, was divided between his sons and Iefaf and Iago. Pater died in 961, and Rhodri son of Morgan Hên appointed his successor contrary to the will of the Pope, but being poisoned, he was followed in the See by

19. GWGAN, when Idwallon son of Morgan Hên was King of Glamorgan, and Arthfael son of Nowi ap Gwriad King of Gwent. Morgan Hên retained the chief Sovereignty of Glamorgan, and Iefaf and Iago, and the sons of Hywel Dda, governed the rest of the Principality. Gwgan died in 982, see page 509 of this Work.

20. BLEDDRI became Bishop in 983. The Kings of Glamorgan in his time were Rhys son of Owain, and Meurig son of Hywel; also Owain, Idwallon, Cadell, and Cynfyn, sons of Morgan Hên, were elected Kings in the same district in 983. The Kings of Gwent were Edwyn son of Gwriad, and Rhodri and Gruffydd, sons of Elised; these two latter were elected to the Sovereignty in 983. Bledri died in 1022, in the time of Canute, King of

¹ The Welsh Chronicle mentions Cyfeliach, who was killed in 756, as "Bishop of Glamorgan." --Myvyrian Archaeology, Vol. II. page 473. He must have been a Suffragan Bishop, and the same person as Cyfeliach, whose name appears in the list of Bishops of Glamorgan, page 625.

England. The Kings of Wales in his time were Hywel and Cadwallawn sons of Iefaf, Meredydd ab Owain, Edwal ap Meurig, Aeddán son of Blegwryd, and Llewelyn ap Seisyllt.

21. JOSEPH, consecrated Oct. 1st. 1022. Rhydderch son of Iestyn ap Gwrgan assumed the Sovereignty of South Wales in the time of this Prelate, and Iago ab Edwal, and after him Gruffydd ap Llewelyn, that of North Wales. Gwrgan, grandfather of Rhydderch, reigned over Glamorgan until his death, 1030, when his uncle, Hywel son of Morgan Hên, became King; in 1043 he died, and Iestyn ap Gwrgan became Sovereign. Meurig son of Hywel is mentioned in this Work as King of Glamorgan. Edwyn son of Gwriad was King of Gwent. Joseph died in 1046, when Edward the Confessor was King of England.

22. HERWALD OF HERWALLT, consecrated Bishop in 1056, which consecration was confirmed in 1059; he held the See of Llandaff about 48 years, in which time the Sovereigns of Wales were Gruffydd ap Llewelyn, Bleddyn ap Cynfyn, and his brother Rhiwallon, Trahaearn ap Caradawc, Rhydderch ap Caradawc, Rhys ab Owain, Rhys ap Tewdwr, and Gruffydd ap Cynan. The Kings of Gwent and Morganwg were Meurig ap Hywel, and his sons Cadwgan and Rhys, Iestyn ap Gwrgan, Gruffydd ap Rhydderch ab Iestyn, and his brothers Caradawc and Rhys, Caradawc ap Gruffydd ap Rhydderch, and his son Rhydderch, from some of whom the Normans under Fitzhamon conquered that district in 1091. Herwald died in 1104. The See remained vacant upwards of four years, after which

23. URBAN,¹ Archdeacon of Llandaff, was consecrated Bishop in 1108, he rebuilt the Cathedral of Llandaff, and endeavoured to recover lands and other property, of which he considered his See to have been deprived, and in his fourth journey to Rome on the business, died abroad in 1133. In his time the Sovereigns of the Principality were Gruffydd ap Cynan, Madog ap Meredydd, and Owain Gwynedd, in North Wales, and Cadwgan ap Bleddyn, and Gruffydd ap Rhys, in South Wales, excepting Glamorgan, which had passed into the possession of the Normans.

24. UCHTRYD, Archdeacon of Llandaff, was elected after a vacancy of six years in 1139, and died 1148, when Stephen was King of England. Madog ap Meredydd, Owain Gwynedd, and Rhys ap Gruffydd, were the Sovereigns of Wales in this Prelate's time.

25. GALFRID, nephew of Uchtryd, was appointed to the See, but died at Llandaff in 1153, before he could enter on his charge. He was the celebrated Welsh Historian called Geoffrey of Monmouth and Galffrai and Gruffydd ab Arthur.

26. NICHOLAS AP GWRGANT, succeeded in 1153, and died 1183, when Dafydd ab Owain and Rhys ap Gruffydd possessed the Sovereignty of Wales, and Henry II. that of England.

27. WILLIAM SALTMARSH, Prior of St. Augustine's, Bristol, was consecrated 1185, and resigned the See 1191. In his time Llewelyn ab Iorwerth reigned in North Wales, Rhys ap Gruffydd in South Wales, and Richard I. in England.
