

THE BEE.

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED DAILY, BY JEROME BAYON,
STATE PRINTER.
THE UNION—IT MUST BE PRESERVED."

MONDAY MORNING, DEC. 30, 1833.

FOR GOVERNOR:
J. B. DAWSON.
FOR MAYOR:
JOHN H. HOLLAND.

"The Northern Mail of yesterday failed, we understand, beyond Mobile. Four mails are now due.

"We call the attention of our readers to the proceedings of the Legislature on the 20th, on the subject of the apportionment bill, made in compliance with the 6th constitution-al option.

"Mr Bowdowmson, J. H. Caldwell, arrived yesterday in the ship Tallassesse, from Liverpool. He is unaccompanied, and we understand, with some actors for our Theatre.

"The Louisiana has concurred in the business of forcing the people to choose the candidate whom it indicates rather impulsively. General D. Dixon, who unfortunately received the support of that paper, has been defeated by Mr. Augustine, his opponent, by a majority of 240 votes. We presumed as much and therefore took little interest in the contest, although our predictions were decidedly in favor of the latter gentleman.

"The Bee's opinion, that the people of this State should think themselves very fortunate that its Chief Magistrate should be governed by so intelligent, disinterested and honest a gentleman as Mr. Martin Gordon."—[See Advertiser.]

"The Louisiana can derive no advantage from such attempts, as the foregoing evidences, to constitute our remarks in a manner totally repugnant with their palpable significance, as we can readily detect and expose the deception.

"Besides on the score of policy, we are astonished that such tricks should be resorted to, for people begin to suspect a would deficiency, when the arguments of an antagonist instead of being fairly met and refuted, are perverted and construed so as to express what was never meant. How the editor of the Louisiana, with any claim to fairness and candor, could put into our mouth the conclusion it impels us to, we are at a loss to determine. Surely, as our readers will readily perceive from the subjoined, we did not coin the ground-work:

"If the people be reduced to the last alternative, a Chief Magistrate that will be governed, we really think they would infinitely prefer one under the control of Gordon, rather than under the orders and the persons above alluded to."

"We shall make no further comment, as the Louisiana, must perceive we have him in our power, in this little matter, were we disposed to be severe.

"Guaranteed for the future."

Guilt, it is said, when suddenly surprised, is deprived of its sting; and, if one word it its defense. It may be so with the Louisiana, who is perfectly silent in regard to the belief that Edward D. White should be elected a consummation we pray heaven to avert) would be the more foul and treason of Judge Porter, and the coterie that revolve around him. We should have supposed that the party implicated, through their organ, if innocent, would not have hesitated one moment to disown [adversely] the charge, and do their candidate the justice that public opinion generally has denied him. The domineering spirit of the Judge, and his intimate connection with Mr. White, are known to every one who is not blind to the fact that he is the author of the plot. But the Judge, and his intimate connection with Mr. White, are known to every one who is not blind to the fact that he is the author of the plot. And when they shall condescend to furnish a full account of the point, we shall engage to show that the plot is in control, it will be on their side and not on ours.

DIRECT FROM LIVERPOOL.

By the ship Tallassesse, Captain Glover, flies of Liverpool papers to the 9th have been received.

Madrid was tranquil, and the affairs of the Queen Dona Isabella are represented to be of the most propitious kind.

A special order had been issued to recede General Miramón, by the Queen's Government.

The Government forces have taken Miranda, and General Saavedra had divided his forces into two bodies, preparing to making an attack upon Vitoria, which it was anticipated would be successful.

Nothing is said of the dismissal of Miramón, nor does his post in the Ministry.

Gen. Wal was left on the 27th ult., with 15,000 men, Bibot, who however, had despatched him to Madrid on the 18th ult.

The Constitutionalist of Stanton, who had made himself, subsequently, again master of the fortifications of Revilla, in Castile, are in "pronunciamiento," in favor of Don Carlos, and have communication with Pamplona had been received.

A review of the National Guard had been made in Pavia, in honor of King Leopold.

Accounts from Madrid to the 20th ult., speak of the disbanding of the Royalist Volunteers. It was reported with some plausibility, that tranquility had, however, been perfectly established.

A piece of news of a shocking nature has been received from Cyprus. A band of ravaged Albanian soldiers invaded the residence of the Austrian Consul, carried him off, and impaled him to the consular flag, and his colleagues are unable to render him any assistance.

The Spaniards appear to be a hardy, warlike people.—

Their revenue, for the first nine months of the year, for the same period last year by about two millions of francs, and every quarter returns for the last two years, have given an increase of resources beyond the demands of various bureaux.

It appears from the German papers that considerable dissatisfaction continues to be felt in various parts of Hungary, at what is considered a slight upon that people by the Emperor of Austria. The Hungarians appear to be very ill-disposed to their submission to the Austrian yoke, and other respects the German journals are equally well informed of the political intelligence of the slightest importance.

TWENTY-THIRD CONGRESS—Free Soil.

IN SENATE.

Tuesday, Dec. 25, 1833.

A Message from the President was read by the hands of Mr. Dawson, his Private Secretary, who read it as follows:

"To the Senate of the United States:

I have attentively considered the resolution of the Senate of the 11th, respecting the President of the U. S. to nominate to the Senate, a Commissioner to negotiate with the Mexican Government, which purpose it has been read, by him to the Heads of the Executive Department, dated 18th day of September last, relating to the removal of the deposits of the public money from the Bank of the United States and its offices.

The Executive is a co-ordinate and independent branch of government, equal with the Senate and I have yet to learn under what constitutional authority that branch of the Legislature has a right to require of me an account of any communication either verbally or in writing, made to the Heads of Departments, acting as a Cabinet Council. As long as I have been in office, I have, in my free and frank correspondence, I have had with those officers on subjects relating to their duties and my own.

"Fearing my responsibility to the American people, I am willing upon all occasions to explain to them the grounds of my conduct, and to submit upon their examination, any information in my possession that can be used to the execution of the appropriate duties assigned to them.

"Knowing the constitutional rights of the Senate, I shall be the last man under any circumstances to yield up the sole power of the Senate to make laws.

"Knowing the constitutional rights of the Senate, I shall be the last man under any circumstances to yield up the sole power of the Senate to make laws.

"I am constrained, therefore, by a proper sense of my own self-respect, and of the rights secured by the constitution to the Executive branch of the Government, to decline a compliance with your request.

ANDREW JACKSON.

"At a meeting of the Georgia Nullifiers at Millidgeville on the 15th inst. G. M. Trowbridge, son of the late Dr. Trowbridge, of New Haven, United States, and Messrs. Wilde, Gilmer, Foster, Jones, Gamble, Chappell, Newnan, Lanier and Howell for Congress. Clayton is to be their candidate for Governor. The meeting consisted of one hundred and thirty persons.—[Charleston Patriot.]

LATEST FROM ENGLAND.

New-York, Dec. 11.

The packet ship Montreal, Capt. Chapman, just arrived from London, brings with Portsmouth London dates of the 1st of November. Not having received our copy, we are indebted to the kindness of this edition of the Journal of Commerce, for the loss of their original article.

The interests of the hour at which the packet arrived, and the preoccupation of our column, render it impossible for us to furnish many extracts in the original paper, nor therefore, necessary, day by day, to supply details of matters of interest, as leave the newsmonger little time for paper.

The London papers are charging him with the duplicity and intrigue, with which he has influenced the young king, vis: influencing the young king, in the commission of unpopular acts on the part of the hand, and fomenting discontent against his government on the other.

The meetings of the Ministers of the Great Powers on the London and Belgian question, have been renewed in London. It is stated that Ebio Novo, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has been appointed Minister to the French Court at Lisbon, vice Lord W. Bentinck, who is about to return.

Bacon Graham's conduct, with regard to the persons summoned to appear before the Court of Exchequer, for hearing to pay the assessed taxes, as high as £100,000, he will attend.

Mr. O'Conor had intended to appear before the Court of Wednesdays and Thursdays, that General Martínez from the garrisons of those movements should the Spanish Ministers some unavoidable exclusions had been bedridden, regrettably, in the absence of the King, in the arrival of Miranda, who is to be the chief negotiator.

The property of the late Juan de la Rosa, awaiting Colonel Laurents, who was marching against them from Pamplona, in the 1600 men. Another body of insurgents have been sent to the south, and the others to the north.

The young Queen, Donna Isabella, was proclaimed on the 24th October in Madrid, with great enthusiasm. The Royal Volunteers, a sort of a sedentary city militia in that capital, was disbanded on the 27th—not, however, without some bloodshed.

The Madrid Gazette of the 24th contains, it is said, by a Paris correspondent, many excellent details of unexpected liberality. That which relates to an event of the past, however, is deemed incomplète for its omission of names and numbers of regiments and that of Manila.

Xavier de la Rosa, the man of whom the former minister, etc. was the author of the report, is still in Madrid, and is said to be in good spirits and at better prices than was generally calculated upon.

The manufacture of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bayonne, of the same date, says that the French Government to pass the Spanish frontier with their troops, which had been delayed, is consequence of the interpretation of the law.

—We are without any authentic information, as to the fate of the British Ambassador, who had been captured by the Carlists.

The manufacturer of cotton and silk goods, the fabrics, the general, have gained a position to the King in Council, by the fall of the party of the Duke of Wellington, without any opposition, and the bounds imposed by the Duke of Wellington, were removed.

Another letter from Bay