

WEDS IN ODD GARB.

Whisky Bridegroom Keeps His Appointment in Spite of Obstacles.

Went to the altar at the altar that the bride wore a red flannel undershirt, corduroy trousers, slippers without stockings and a fur-trimmed overcoat.

Of all the grotesque garbs that ever adorned a bridegroom at the altar that of the bride wore a red flannel undershirt, corduroy trousers, slippers without stockings and a fur-trimmed overcoat.

His strange attire was not a matter of choice but of necessity. Grille has lived for years with an aunt, Mrs. Philomena Minot, 119 Beckwith avenue.

After supper Grille went to his room, suspecting that his aunt knew of his purpose. But the prospective bride was so happy that she told some of her close companions.

This was the aunt's opportunity. She slipped into his room and found all the wedding clothes spread out on the bed. She took them and all the other clothes in his room and locked them where he could not get at them.

Grille saw that he had been outwitted, but determined that the marriage should not be postponed. In a closet he found an old red undershirt, a pair of superannuated corduroy trousers and a worn-out, fur-trimmed overcoat.

Friends who had gathered found it hard to suppress their laughter during the ceremony, but all heartily congratulated the man, who felt nothing but relief from getting married.

IMMIGRATION AT NEW YORK.

Nearly Half a Million Aliens Arrived During Last Fiscal Year—Largest Number from Italy.

The annual report of Thomas Fitch, commissioner of immigration at New York, has been received at the treasury department. The report shows that the number of aliens arrived at the port of New York during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1901, was 453,496.

Of course it was a great ride," remarked Fournier, "and I guess the figures will stand for some time. Although very fast, I do not hesitate to say that they can be beaten.

"I expect to see the time when a mile track will be covered in 60 seconds," added Fournier, "while it will be only an ordinary performance to cover the same distance in 50 seconds on a good straight road.

It is now reported that the minister directs that Russians are only to be admitted if they can prove previous attendance or matriculation at a Russian technical college.

It has also been decided, according to the Berliner Tageblatt, that a small class of students called "hospitantes," now admitted to the lectures at German universities as guests, without the right of obtaining certificates or degrees, shall be abolished.

A tentative working plan has been adopted by the officers of the Institute for Medical Research, founded by John D. Rockefeller, by whom it was endowed with $200,000.

At the time the announcement was made that Rockefeller had given $200,000 to found the institute, it was said that one of the first things the institute would do would be to investigate the milk supply of the city.

Admiral General and Judge are the names selected by Mrs. Roosevelt for the president's three new carriage horses which have been installed at the white house stable.

In Zante, one of the Ionian islands, there is a petroleum spring which has been known for nearly 3,000 years. It is mentioned by Herodotus.

RECORD-BREAKING YEAR.

Farmers of the Country Export More Breadstuffs, Cattle, Etc., Than Ever Before.

The first year of the new century is to be a record-breaker for the farmers of the United States. The export trade in breadstuffs, cattle and provisions already has mounted to figures which are startling in the extreme.

For the nine months ending October 1 the exports amounted to $213,393,064 of breadstuffs, $27,242,437 of live stock, and $140,877,937 of provisions.

The extraordinary increase in the export of breadstuffs is entirely due to the phenomenal move of wheat from this country to Europe.

There was a loss in export trade in corn of $13,700,038, so that the doubling of the export trade in wheat is responsible for the enormous increase in the total foreign trade of the United States in food products.

Feet Performed on Track at New York Demonstrates That They Are More Than a Mere Fad.

By his great automobile ride at the Empire City track, New York, the other afternoon, when he covered six miles in 6:47, or better than a 53-mile-an-hour pace.

The case was called in the morning, and after a hard fight it went to the jury in the evening. Court was held open till nearly ten o'clock at night waiting for the verdict.

The attorneys state that a new trial will be asked, and that they expect to take the case to the supreme court if necessary. They admit, however, that the law on the question has been decided constitutionally, but they claim Winsler is not guilty of violating it.

The Berlin correspondent of the New York Times says that, according to the Berliner Tageblatt, the minister of education has issued new regulations in regard to the admission of foreign students at the Berlin technical college.

It is now reported that the minister directs that Russians are only to be admitted if they can prove previous attendance or matriculation at a Russian technical college.

It has also been decided, according to the Berliner Tageblatt, that a small class of students called "hospitantes," now admitted to the lectures at German universities as guests, without the right of obtaining certificates or degrees, shall be abolished.

A tentative working plan has been adopted by the officers of the Institute for Medical Research, founded by John D. Rockefeller, by whom it was endowed with $200,000.

At the time the announcement was made that Rockefeller had given $200,000 to found the institute, it was said that one of the first things the institute would do would be to investigate the milk supply of the city.

Admiral General and Judge are the names selected by Mrs. Roosevelt for the president's three new carriage horses which have been installed at the white house stable.

In Zante, one of the Ionian islands, there is a petroleum spring which has been known for nearly 3,000 years. It is mentioned by Herodotus.

The case was called in the morning, and after a hard fight it went to the jury in the evening. Court was held open till nearly ten o'clock at night waiting for the verdict.

The attorneys state that a new trial will be asked, and that they expect to take the case to the supreme court if necessary. They admit, however, that the law on the question has been decided constitutionally, but they claim Winsler is not guilty of violating it.

The Berlin correspondent of the New York Times says that, according to the Berliner Tageblatt, the minister of education has issued new regulations in regard to the admission of foreign students at the Berlin technical college.

It is now reported that the minister directs that Russians are only to be admitted if they can prove previous attendance or matriculation at a Russian technical college.

It has also been decided, according to the Berliner Tageblatt, that a small class of students called "hospitantes," now admitted to the lectures at German universities as guests, without the right of obtaining certificates or degrees, shall be abolished.

A tentative working plan has been adopted by the officers of the Institute for Medical Research, founded by John D. Rockefeller, by whom it was endowed with $200,000.

BROKE THE SABBATH

Missouri Man Fined for Working on the Lord's Day.

Jury at Mexico Finds a Farmer Guilty of Scalding Hogs and Whitewashing Trees on Sunday and Fines Him $30 and Costs.

The jury of 12 Andrus county citizens in the circuit court at Mexico, Mo., the other day found Godfrey Winsler, a German farmer, guilty of working on the Sabbath, commonly called Sunday. He was found guilty on two different charges and was fined ten dollars and costs in each case.

The law under which the indictments were found is as follows: "Every person who shall either labor himself or compel his apprentice or servant or any other person under his charge or control to labor or perform any work other than the household offices of daily necessity or other works of necessity or charity, or who shall be guilty of hunting game or shooting on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding $50."

Winsler resides in a Christian community, near the Littlefield Methodist Episcopal church, south. His house is in proximity to the church. His nearest neighbors, who were the witnesses against him in the case, testified that they had seen Winsler defying the Sabbath law by scalding hogs, whitewashing trees, stacking oats and straw and rendering lard on Sunday.

These witnesses appeared before the grand jury, and Winsler was indicted on five different counts.

The case was called in the morning, and after a hard fight it went to the jury in the evening. Court was held open till nearly ten o'clock at night waiting for the verdict.

The attorneys state that a new trial will be asked, and that they expect to take the case to the supreme court if necessary. They admit, however, that the law on the question has been decided constitutionally, but they claim Winsler is not guilty of violating it.

The Berlin correspondent of the New York Times says that, according to the Berliner Tageblatt, the minister of education has issued new regulations in regard to the admission of foreign students at the Berlin technical college.

It is now reported that the minister directs that Russians are only to be admitted if they can prove previous attendance or matriculation at a Russian technical college.

It has also been decided, according to the Berliner Tageblatt, that a small class of students called "hospitantes," now admitted to the lectures at German universities as guests, without the right of obtaining certificates or degrees, shall be abolished.

A tentative working plan has been adopted by the officers of the Institute for Medical Research, founded by John D. Rockefeller, by whom it was endowed with $200,000.

At the time the announcement was made that Rockefeller had given $200,000 to found the institute, it was said that one of the first things the institute would do would be to investigate the milk supply of the city.

Admiral General and Judge are the names selected by Mrs. Roosevelt for the president's three new carriage horses which have been installed at the white house stable.

In Zante, one of the Ionian islands, there is a petroleum spring which has been known for nearly 3,000 years. It is mentioned by Herodotus.

The case was called in the morning, and after a hard fight it went to the jury in the evening. Court was held open till nearly ten o'clock at night waiting for the verdict.

The attorneys state that a new trial will be asked, and that they expect to take the case to the supreme court if necessary. They admit, however, that the law on the question has been decided constitutionally, but they claim Winsler is not guilty of violating it.

The Berlin correspondent of the New York Times says that, according to the Berliner Tageblatt, the minister of education has issued new regulations in regard to the admission of foreign students at the Berlin technical college.

It is now reported that the minister directs that Russians are only to be admitted if they can prove previous attendance or matriculation at a Russian technical college.

It has also been decided, according to the Berliner Tageblatt, that a small class of students called "hospitantes," now admitted to the lectures at German universities as guests, without the right of obtaining certificates or degrees, shall be abolished.

A tentative working plan has been adopted by the officers of the Institute for Medical Research, founded by John D. Rockefeller, by whom it was endowed with $200,000.

At the time the announcement was made that Rockefeller had given $200,000 to found the institute, it was said that one of the first things the institute would do would be to investigate the milk supply of the city.

Admiral General and Judge are the names selected by Mrs. Roosevelt for the president's three new carriage horses which have been installed at the white house stable.

SEEKS LONG MISSING MOTHER.

Rich Manufacturer of Leadville, Col., Starts Search at the Old Home at Kenosha, Wis.

Earl C. Brown, a prominent manufacturer of Leadville, Col., is in Kenosha, Wis., on a strange mission, and one which has brought to light a peculiar story of other days in Kenosha. Brown is at Kenosha for the purpose of making an effort to find some trace of his mother, Mrs. James Brown, who disappeared from Kenosha under mysterious circumstances more than 25 years ago.

All the facts in connection with the story cannot be discovered. "The widow Brown," as the mother of the Leadville man was known in Kenosha, had resided on Ashland avenue for many years. One day it was noticed that the blinds in the little cottage were closed, and as the days went by people began to wonder as to the cause.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

There seems to be reason to believe that Mrs. Brown met with foul play somewhere, and it is possible that she was murdered in her home and her body secreted; but the little house remained closed for so many weeks before strange hands took control that a criminal would have had plenty of time to cover his crime.

GATHERS CHURCH STATISTICS.

Federation at New York Studies the Religious Conditions of the Great Metropolis.

The Federation of Churches and Christian Organizations has collected reports on the sociological and religious conditions of half a million of the population of the West side of New York city and is now continuing the work in the upper part of the East side.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

The federation claims to have turned over to church care 30,000 families. In point of church attendance the federation reports a steady increase between the Catholics and the Hebrews. A very small percentage of Catholics is found unattached to any church, while the proportion of Hebrews without synagogue connection is declared to be very large.

BUSY ARIZONA BEES.

Large Store of Sweets Laid Up in Hidden Places.

Tons of the Treasure Taken from the Flowers of the Southwestern Desert—Great Sport for Honey Hunters.

The greatest crop of honey ever known in Arizona is that of the present year. The average product of the territory is somewhat in excess of 2,000,000 pounds. This year it will be far in excess of that amount—probably double. The greater part of this honey will find a market in Chicago, reports the Chronicle.

Strange as it may seem, the mesquite and acacia, which flourish without water, provide the bees with a honey far superior to that from cultivated plants, and the blossom and fruit of the cactus are even better than the mesquite blossom. The most handsome of desert flowers grow on the hundreds of varieties of cactus. One of the most beautiful is that of the Cereus giganteus, the organ cactus, generally known by its Spanish appellation of the "Saguara."

Arizona's most typical plant, that towers in great, green, fluted shafts, the most conspicuous and oddest subject on all the plains. In the late springtime each saguara is crowned by a mass of brilliant, silken white flowers, sometimes over 100 in a bunch. Each blossom is about four inches across. Nearly all develop to fruit, the "petahays," the most palatable of the wild products, and in the blossom and the fruit the wild bees and the tamed ones find the essence of honey.

The wild bees of the desert and mountains provide an interesting study and honey-hunting is a most unique sport, which is not without its dangers, but with recompense sufficiently delightful to repay one for its difficulties. In the cavities of the highest rocks the bees gather in great swarms and store their supply of food. With remarkable sagacity they choose the most inaccessible spots and frequently find places which baffle all ingenuity of even the Indian, the most persistent seeker of honey.

Frequently great hoards of honey are found in caves and down the sides of steep cliffs, where thousands of bees have stored their products for perhaps scores of years, and sometimes as much as a thousand pounds of honey are taken from such places. The Indian bee hunter many times risks his life to obtain the nectar of the wild bees, and swings himself at the end of a frail rope, far down the sides of a steep precipice. Neither is his danger ended there, for if not well protected from the onslaught of the bees, sometimes in dense swarms of thousands, he is likely to become a victim of the angry defenders. Indeed, not long since a Papago young man was stung so badly while robbing a wild hive that he died soon after his comrades had pulled him up to the top of the cliff.

On the desert, too, the bees make their homes, sometimes swarming in the shell of the decayed cactus and often in caves along arroyos and the beds of the large streams. Very often they swarm close to the agricultural districts and it is a frequent and very easy thing for the ranchers to gather them into hives and hold them. One rancher a few miles southeast of Phoenix has on his property a small isolated hut, near the top of which is a small cave. From this piece of rock the owner has gathered honey enough to pay for his ranch. Several years ago a great swarm of bees settled in the cave and the owner has gradually tamed them, and each year gathers from 1,000 to 2,000 pounds of honey from them.

Something Like a Covey. Two old hunters were swapping yarns and had got to quail. "Why," said one, "I remember a year when quail were so thick that you could get eight or ten at a shot with a rifle."

"What's the matter?" said the first. "I was thinking of my quail hunts. I had a fine black horse that I rode everywhere, and one day out hunting quail I saw a big covey on a low branch of a tree. I threw the bridle rein over the end of the limb and took a shot."

"Several birds fell and the rest flew away. Well, sir, there were so many quail on that limb that when they flew off it sprang back into place and hung my horse!"—Los Angeles Times.

And the Band Played On. Browne—Who is that clumsy woman dancing over there? Greene—I don't know; but certainly hers is not a horseless carriage, is it?—Judge.

Her Comment. Dunsap—Did she say, "This is so sudden?" Bertwhistle—You forget, she was a widow. She said: "You've been dead slow!"—Brooklyn Eagle.