

[The page contains dense, overlapping handwriting, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the paper. The text is largely illegible due to the angle and density of the script. Some legible fragments include:]

was in commission things to tell her that I had seen the article. He enquired about it [unclear] [unclear] [unclear] some [unclear] [unclear] [unclear] [unclear] was a [unclear] [unclear] [unclear] [unclear] at my [unclear] [unclear] [unclear] [unclear] of [unclear] [unclear] [unclear] [unclear]
at my [unclear] [unclear] [unclear] [unclear]
the weight 124 pounds [unclear] [unclear] Prison. [unclear] [unclear] [unclear] 34 1830 [unclear] [unclear]

is very much to be desired
I have been very much pleased to hear of your success in the cause of the oppressed
and I trust that you will continue to be successful in all your endeavors
I am, my dear
friend,
Yours truly,
Wm. Lloyd Garrison

H. Martin saw the most interesting part of what was that Ailsie, the little coloured girl mentioned in the 1st vol of the Westspects, who lived in N. Orleans has been sent to her by her mother. You may remember she spoke of the gentle man's wife with much interest, & he after tea-ing the book took this step. Harriet is going to adopt her and bring her up with every advantage. Is't it good?

W. W. Weston
 from Groton Jan 3 1839
 1839
 Miss Deborah Weston
 Care of Mr John C. Emerson
 New Bedford

Groton May 3
 July 11

she spoke to Margaret of her novel & said the whole plan was in her head and not written, that only one friend in whose knowledge of fiction she greatly confided had seen it; that she did not even shew it to her dear brother James; that so much had been expected from her in this novel that her friends felt uneasy, but that she herself did not feel very bad even if she failed.
 One thing she knew, she had done the very best she could. She alluded to her article in the Westminister as an important one, but entered into no particulars.
 Margaret spoke of it in such a manner that I was in consequence obliged to tell her that...

 P. 12 U. N. 10 36