The absence of Flick Stites, the veteran iron man of Main Line base ball, is plainly noticeable on the Narberth team, especially in the inside work of the boys. When he returns to the game, overcoming his injuries, a big improvement will be noted and the fans can expect this veteran to take a turn or two in the box and deliver the goods before the season waxes much older.

Rose Satisfied.

President Rose is more than pleased with the status of the league, claiming that he considers all clubs adhering to the amateur standard, in fact, as closely as last season, which proved a banner season and will doubtless be eclipsed by this 1916 season when the league has been playing with an eight club circuit. Much credit is due the league officials and managers for the class of ball furnished the fans to date and much more is in store before the curtain rings down on September 23d. May the best club

THE NARBERTH KICKER ON THE RAMPAGE AGAIN.

Dear Mr. Editor:

Perhaps you can explain what is to me a rather puzzling occurrence of Last Saturday evening my youngsters attended the "movies," and there was thrown on the screen a notice to the effect that all the Sunday schools in Narberth were to be closed on the following day, owing to the whooping cough epidemic in our town. Next morning we received telephone messages to the effect that the local authorities had ordered the Sunday schools closed for the reason mentioned above. As a matter of fact both the Presbyterian and Baptist Sunday Schools did close, but the large vote in favor of the loan in-Methodist school was doing business at the old stand. What I would like to know is whether or not the whooping cough germs attend only the Presbyterian and Baptist Sunday Schools, and if they have any good reason for avoiding the Methodists and the "movies"?

P. S .- I have just learned that the Sunday schools will be open next Sunday as usual. Perhaps the germs are going shark fishing that day.

Would that we had a tree commission in Narberth. Very few of our residents ever think of cutting low hanging limbs. The annoyance to pedestrians from this source is getting worse right along, and particularly so during this damp weather. There are many bad spots of this kind in Narberth, one of them being on Essex avenue, near the tennis courts. The P. R. R. has set us a good example in this respect by cutting away extending branches of shrubs, etc., on the path leading to the East Bound Station.

The Narberth Kicker.

MISTAKES.

Here are some reflections on "Mistakes" by the editor of the "Silent over twice by those who have made any mistakes lately.

herself the question, "Am I cashing children. in on the mistakes which I make?"

"An oyster never makes a mistake. It has no intellect—just blindly follows instinct. When men say they never make mistakes they probably tell the truth. These men are always in season. The man who makes a mistake does not mortgage his future. The fellow who makes the same mistake twice is either indifferent or impotent.

Without the possibilities of mistakes, man would revert to the bivalve. The rich, red blood of inspiration comes rising above mistakes.

To realize that you have made a mistake is evidence of thought, of purpose. To realize on a mistake is collecting revenue from the refuse.

Some men make mistakes, deplore them, but keep right on making more. Other men sing lullables to themselves by blaming others for the blunders they personally make.

Most men excuse themselves for their mistakes on the ground that others do the same thing.

Big men make mistakes, and out of these errors they build steppingstones to success, to permanent prosperity.

Permanent success is built out of lessons learned from mistakes. Your stronges: single characteristic is your self-confidence after making a mistake.

The most valuable knowledge you possess is that which comes through making a mistake—comes through

OUR INCOME GROWS.

Income tax returns for the fiscal year which closed June 30 showed total collections from corporations and individuals of $124,867,430, of which the corporation tax yielded $56,909,941. Based upon the rate of taxation, these returns show that corporation profits in the year could not have been less than $5.690.994.178. while the personal incomes represented by the tax must have exceeded $6,795,748,850. With a new low record of failures for the first six months of 1916, 9495 against 12,740 last year, we have reason to believe that the United States is measurably prosperous.

The official figures of the recent election show 179 votes cast for the school loan and 40 against it. The dicates that many of those who opposed it on former occasions because of the site favored by the directors, laid aside their personal desires in deference to the will of the majority as indicated by straw ballot taken some time before election and helped pass the loan, because of our urgent need of greater school facilities.

This attitude is to be commended. It shows a desire to act for the best interest of the community, even though there may be an honest difference of opinion as to the best and most efficient means of obtaining the desired end. It illustrates the basic principle of our republican form of government-a willingness to accept and abide by the rule of the majority.

Cases of communicable disease are ordinarily reported to the secretary of the Board of Health by the physician in attendance. If no physician is called in, the responsibility for reporting rests with the head of the household. This is made obligatory by State law and the regulations of the Board of Health. Narberth. Pa., July 22.-Weather conditions caused the first postponement of the season in the Main Line League to-day, all the games being called off when the clouds opened up in earnest at the time the teams were taking the field. Aside from to-day there has been but one hitch in the schedule, Paoli M. C. calling off their game with Wayne on June 10 on account of wet grounds.

The rules of the league cancel today's schedule outright. One game must be played to cause a postponement of the others.

The Main Line campaign has been sufficiently close and the games exciting to keep the followers enthused and it brought keen disappointment.

The leaders, R. G. Dun & Co., who have been pace-making the league all season, with exception of the one week Narberth champions took the lead, would have had a hard game at Ardmore with the Autocar Club. This would have afforded Lefty Black an opportunity to show his ability against the leaders.

Reliable Captain Deegan.

Manager Cloughley has dependable men in Captain Deegan, who pitched the majority of the games for the tourists, and Whitney. A valuable addition has been made in signing Jake Hevener, who made a record with the Blue Ridge League last season, also playing a sensational game this season with Freight Traffic, leaders of the P. R. R., General Office League.

Fred Walzer's Narberth champions are playing a steady game, and keeping up in the race. It is apparent that the pitching staff has dwindled considerably, especially since Rob Gibson took to the sea breezes at the Capes. The veteran Flick Stites still is capable of twirling winning ball. His absence from the game on account of injuries, is noticeable in the team play. The champions are now a half game back of the leaders.

Only One Game Remains. Keen interest was manifested in the game scheduled at Bon-Air, when their new manager, James Dykes, was to marshal his Barons against the champions. The Barons are just two games back of the leaders and with Lefty Burke in the box were out to increase their percentage at the expense of the champions. These two clubs have split even in the series and with this game cancelled leaves but one game between the rivals.

The second division clubs, especially Berwyn. West Philadelphia A. C. and Paoli Men's Club, are keeping up a neck and neck race to avoid > President Fred L. Rose is more than pleased over the status of the league and the showing made by the clubs and made the statement that he considered all the clubs adhering closely to the amateur standard of the league.

MAIN LINE LEAGUE NOTES.

Cloughley's Dun & Co. tourists taking possession of first place in the league race again last week indicates that the pennant chase will be keener and more interesting. The first three clubs are well bunched and the next two are still in the running.

Third Baseman Lahner is playing stellar ball for Dun & Co. It was his work, along with that of Captain Decgan, that landed the victory last week, enabling them to regain first place.

The Narberth Champions are displaying a wonderful defensive game. been out on account of injuries. They will have to strengthen their pitching staff to remain among the select.

The Pirates certainly miss the work of Backstop Hayman, who is absent with the troopers. He was the live wire of the team and a good hitter.

West Philadelphia A. C. has a number of excellent players traveling with the Rovers now, and it is a wonder stride.

Heisler's work in the box for the West Phillies last week showed he has the goods and can be expected to deliver. Pop Oberholtzer and the Robinson boys are among the leading stars with the club.

About a dozen Presbyterians from Narberth were in attendance at the Princeton conference last week.

At the union prayer meeting to be held in the Methodist Church on Wednesday night of this week, Mr. Van Ness, the leader, requests each one to come prepared to give a message of cheer either from the sacred scriptures or elsewhere. A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Monday evening of last week at the Presbyterian Manse. The contracting parties were Ralph W. Courter and Vera M. Horton. After their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Courter will make their home in Buffalo, N. Y. Mr. Courter's brother is a resident of Narberth.

NOT IMPRESSED.

Angus McTavish was a Lowlander, rich and thoroughly Scotch. He had never seen the Highlands or the beautiful lakes of Scotland, except from a long distance. He paid a visit to America, and in New York was shown all the sights. However, he was not impressed, and still thought the Lowlands of Scotland far superior. As a final attempt to show Angus something that would impress him, his friends took him to Niagara Falls. Angus looked at them critically, and when asked if he did not think them the most marvelous thing he had ever seen, he remarked:

"Aye, man, they are grand. But do ye ken the auld peacock in Dumfries that had the wooden leg?"

> In this, I do not doubt, we have the correct explanation.

The patient was so methodical in his ways that everything in his home, as in his office, was managed according to a definite, unvarying system.

He began his day by winding his watch at 7 every morning. Every night, the last thing before he went to bed, he cast up his personal accounts. The hours between morning and night were similarly regulated.

All this was upset by the trip abroad. In especial he found it hard to keep accounts, owing to the necessity of reducing foreign currency to dollars and cents.

Then came the seasickness, which was, so to speak, a last straw throwing his nervous system out of equilibrium.

But, back in America, amid the felt at ease, and his depression and suicidal mania left him.

He kept his presence of mind, and when he was plunged into the pool at the other end, he swam as hard as he could under the water to escape the logs whirling above his head. When he came to the surface he was in comparatively quiet water, and swam easily to the shore; but his companion did not fare so well.

Both sides of the cut through which the water falls are rough and jagged. The water is lashed into fury. From the angry, tossing flood, mist and spray constantly rise.

The second workman was plunged, not into the log chute, but into this roaring chasm. He was a clever waterman, and, quick as a cat, he turned in the air and caught at one of the jagged rocks. His hold, how-

"Hold on!" shouted the foreman. 'We'll get you a rope!"

The men hurried to bring help; but the man's hold began to slip. He clung as well as he could, but there was nothing to dig his fingers into, and down he went into the boiling

But he was caught by a broken limb of a tree that lay amidst the rocks. The men on the dam shouted to him to hold on. They worked frantically. They shot a line across the river and passed a strong rope to the opposite bank. That was now lowered in the hope that the man could seize it. But he was choking in the spray, and dangling from the limb without being able to help himself.

Then the man who had gone down the log chute asked the privilege of going out on the rope to rescue his comrade. The rope was hauled in and he was tied fast to it. Then he was lowered over the waters.

The men above could hardly see what was happening, so thick was the rising mist; but they swung the daring rescuer lower and lower until it seemed that he must reach his friend. There came a reassuring tug not knock the hat off a cabman dozing on the line.

FOR FARMERS WHO FIGHT FLIES.

Farmers whose barns and outhouses are infested by flies in the summer season may be interested in learning how to banish the pests. According to the Bloemfontein Friend, a farmer who had many cows housed in different sheds saw, without being able to prevent it, the annoyance to which the animals were subjected. He happened, however, to observe that one shed, the walls of which were of a somewhat bluish tint, was free from flies, and the cows were unworried by their attacks. Thereupon he added a bit of blue color to the lime with which he covered the walls of his sheds, and from that moment the flies deserted the premises.

The following is the formula he used in providing this effective specific against flies: To twenty gallons of water add ten pounds of slaked lime and one pound of ultramarine. The wash should be applied twice during the summer .-- Youth's Companion.

FRESH TRAVELS.

On his return from a long stay abroad, a well-known newspaper war correspondent took lodgings in a quiet London suburb and "engaged at target-practice with an air-gun," firing from the balcony of his sitting room at a wafer stuck on the wall over the dressing table in his bedroom.

The neighborhood, however, was too prim and genteel a place of sojourn to tolerate this irrepressible practical joker for any considerable length of time, and he soon had to leave it by reason of his feats with the air-gun.

One day he told the story of his somewhat abrupt departure.
