Historical Sketch of Albany,

ALBANY was known by the several Dutch names of BEAVER-WYCK WILLIAMSTADT and FORT ORANGE, chiefly by the latter. The lands immediately opposite to Albany, and for a distance along and from the river, the Dutch denoted as HET GREENE BOSH, the pine woods, corrupted to Greenbush.

Albany city may be said to have been founded in 1612, by some Hollanders, and to have been, next to Jamestown, Va., the earliest European settlement within the primitive thirteen United States. A temporary fort was erected in 1614, and Fort Orange in 1623. By that name it was known until after the British conquest, in 1664, when it received the name of Albany from one of the titles of the Duke of York.

The change of sovereignty which the colony of New Netherland underwent in 1664, necessarily interfered with the language as well as the customs and manners of the people.

The records continued, for twenty years after that event, to be written mostly in Dutch; but, in 1686, they were required to be kept in English. The Dutch was the oral language of the city for many years after.

In 1629 a charter of liberties and exemptions for patroons, masters and private individuals who should plant colonies in New Netherland was granted by the States General of Holland. At the time the charter was granted Albany presented the appearance of a small town, with two principal streets crossing each other, in one of which was placed all the public buildings. (This no doubt accounts for the great width of State street.) It had a very rural appearance, each house having its garden and shade trees. There were three docks, the lower, middle and upper; the lower was called the king's dock. Vessels were unloaded by the aid of canoes lashed together, and having a platform built upon them where goods were placed.

Under this charter, in August, 1630, Kilaen Van Rensselaer purchased through his agents a large tract of land, including most of this as well as several of the adjacent counties. In 1631, he sent a colony and gave it the name of Rensselaerwyck, after changed to Beaverwick. In 1643 the first church was erected. Albany was fortified against the Indians by the Dutch with a stockade in 1645, and vestiges of the work remained until 1812. The city was incorporated by the Colonial Governor Dongan, in 1686, with an area one mile wide on the river, extending northwest to the north line of the manor of the Rensselaers, and retaining that width thirteen and a half miles.

During the revolutionary war the city presented a singular appearance ; it was stockaded, had its north and south gates, was an important military post, and was commanded by the gallant Lafayette and Col. Van Schaick, a distinguished officer and a native of Albany. It was considered one of the most important stations in the United States. It was the key to the north and west, the point from which our armies threatened Montreal and Quebec.

Albany nobly sustained their countrymen in their opposition to British sway, and afforded aid in troops and money to the suffering inhabitants of Tyron county to assist them in repelling the frequent attacks of the merciless hordes of Tories and Indians who ravaged that settlement.

Burgoyne had boasted at the commencement of the campaign that his army would revel upon the spoils of Albany, but he only visited the city as a captive. Sir Henry Clinton twice attempted to invade but met with sufficient obstacles to prevent his success. It became the capitol of the State in 1807. Its bounds were enlarged by addition of part of the small town of Colonie, 25th of February, 1815, which formerly formed the Fifth Ward; area 7160 acres. The city lies in 42 deg. 39 min. 3 sec. N. Lat., and 30 deg. 12 min. E. Long. from Washington, and is distant from New York 142 miles, Boston 200 miles, and Buffalo 298 miles.

The plat on which the city lies is uneven, a low alluvial flat extends along the river from 15 to 100 rods wide, west of which rises a hill of clay and sand. In the one-half mile 153 feet, and in the next about 67 feet high from the summit. The county is an even plain for miles.

The city appears to great advantage from the river, rising rapidly from the bank, and exhibiting its public buildings in bold relief. The public buildings are many of them elegant and costly, and are fully described in another part of this book.

Since the introduction of steamboats and the completion of canals, the growth of the city and county has been rapid.

The old portion of the city is not remarkable for the regularity of its streets, but the modern has more symmetry. In 1845 the city had but 116 streets ; it now contains about 180. The principal of which are State, Broadway, North and South Pearl streets and Washington avenue. The city contains many public institutions of learning and benevolence. The people are principally engaged in manufacturing and commerce, which are varied and extensive.

Albany is the largest lumber market in the State.

At the junction of the Erie canal with the Hudson river, the citizens have constructed an extensive basin to protect the boats from the winds and give the greater facilities for discharging their cargo.

March 16th, 1870, the charter was amended enlarging its bounds by adding part of the towns of Bethlehem and Watervliet, and increasing the number of wards from 10 to 16.

From the above description a pretty clear idea can be formed of what Albany was in olden times. What Albany is now is told in the fixed facts which surround her.

It was not then surrounded by six or seven railroads, branching out in every direction and communicating with the most distant as well as the largest marts of trade, at the head of the navigation of the Hudson river, at the foot of the navigation of the Erie canal, thus forming a connecting link between the great West and the South and East, filled with manufacturing establishments of every kind, within a few hours ride of the great commercial emporium of the western world, and supplied with all the modern facilities to aid and forward the requirements of trade and commerce.

This is what Albany is now, and exhibits her as in the most flourishing condition.

Park of three acres, inclosed by an iron fence and planted with ornamental shade trees. The present building was begun in 1803 and finished in 1807, at a cost exceeding $120,000. It is built of stone, faced with Nyack red free stone, 90 feet broad, 50 feet high, and was originally 115 feet long. In 1854, fifteen feet were added to the west end. The eastern front has an Ionic portico, with four columns of Berkshire marble each 3 feet 8 inches in diameter and 33 feet high. The entrance hall is 40 by 50 feet and 16 feet high, the ceiling of which is supported by a double row of reeded columns, and the floor is vaulted and laid with squares of Italian marble. Upon the north side of the hall are the office of the Adjutant-General and the Assembly Library, and on the south side the Executive Chambers. The inner Executive Chamber has a full sized portrait of General La Fayette, painted when he was in the city in 1825. The remainder of the first story is devoted to the Assembly Chamber. The Chamber is 56 by 65 feet, and 28 feet high. Upon the east side is a gallery, supported by iron pillars, for spectators. The ceiling is richly ornamented in stucco. Over the Speaker's seat is a full length portrait of Washington. In the second story, over the entrance hall, is the Senate Chamber, 40 by 50 feet, and 22 feet high. It contains the portraits of Governor Clinton and Columbus. Over the Assembly lobbies is the room of the Court of Appeals. The Court room contains portraits of Chancellors Lansing, Sanford, Jones and Walworth, Chief Justice Spencer, Abraham Van Vechten and Daniel Cady.

The roof of the State House is pyramidal, and from the centre rises a circular cupola 20 feet in diameter, supporting a hemispherical dome upon 8 insulated Ionic columns. Upon the dome stands a wooden statue of Themis, 11 feet high, holding in her right hand a sword and in her left a balance. The Senate and Assembly begin their sessions on the 1st Tuesday of January of each year, remaining in session 100 days. Visitors admitted to Senate and Assembly Chambers only during sessions of the Legislature.

STATE HALL.

This edifice, located on Eagle street, fronting the Academy Park, may be regarded as one of the finest specimens of architectural beauty in the city. It is built of white cut stone, with a colonnade in front, supported by six ionic columns, and is surmounted by a dome. The building is 138 by 88 feet, and 65 feet high. The ceilings of the basement and of the two principal stories are groined arches, and all the rooms, excepting in the attic story, are fire proof. The basement and attic are each 19 feet, and the two principal stories each 22 feet high. It was finished in 1842, at a cost of

CITY HALL.

This edifice, situated on Eagle street fronting Washington avenue, is a fine Grecian structure of white Sing Sing marble, built at a cost of about $90,000. It is 109 feet front by 80 feet deep. In front it has a recessed porch supported by six ionic columns. In the center of the hall in the second story is a statue of Hamilton, and in the common council room are portraits of the Ex-Governors of the State. Opened to visitors during business hours. The Jail is located in rear of the City Hall, on Maiden lane.

NEW CITY BUILDING.

CITY OFFICES.

This edifice, erected by the city in the fall and winter of 1868, '69, at a cost of $200,000, occupies the site of the old center market on South Pearl street corner of Howard.

It is a beautiful structure of the Lombardic style of architecture, ornamented with a Mansard roof, and is built of brick faced with lime stone from Lake Champlain. The first floor is occupied by the Fire and Police Commissioners, the Second Precinct Station and Overseer of the Poor. The second story contains the Police Court, Justice's Court, offices of the Assessors, Excise Commissioners and City Attorney. The third as headquarters of the Albany Fire Alarm Telegraph and Park Commissioners. Opened to visitors daily (Sundays excepted).

STATE ARSENAL.

The State arsenal was formerly located on Broadway, corner Lawrence; was, by act of April 17, 1858, exchanged with the city for the present site on Eagle, corner Hudson. The present edifice was erected in the same year, and is of substantial workmanship and elegant architectural style. It is well supplied with arms and military equipments belonging to the State. The upper rooms are devoted to an armory.

STATE GEOLOGICAL AND AGRICULTURAL HALL.

This institution, located corner of State and Lodge streets, the site of the old State Hall, was erected in 1855, and opened to the public February 22, 1858. The building is of brick, four stories high, besides the basement. In the rear is a spacious wing, of the same height as the main building. It contains a lecture room, the spacious Geological Cabinet and the rooms of the State Geological Society. A series of English fossils have been given to the State by the British Government, and a valuable collection of shells, embracing several thousand species, has been recently presented and arranged by Philip P. Carpenter, an English naturalist. The Museum is designed to embrace a complete representation of the geological formations of the State, with their accompanying minerals and fossils. The birds and quadrupeds are preserved by a skillful taxidermist, with the attitude and appearance of life; and the reptiles and fishes are principally preserved in alcohol. Connected with this Cabinet is a historical and antiquarian department, embracing numerous aboriginal antiquities of specimens of modern Indian art, relics of battle fields, and other objects of historical interest. The museum of the State Agricultural Society, in a separate department of the building, contains a large collection of obsolete and modern implements of husbandry, specimens of agricultural and mechanical products, models of fruits, samples of grains, drawings illustrating subjects connected with the useful arts, and it is designed to include an extensive collection of insects, made with special reference to showing their influence on fruit and grain crops of the State.

The whole of these collections are opened free to the public on every week day, except holidays, from 9 A. M. until 5 P. M.

THE BUREAU OF MILITARY STATISTICS.

This institution, located at 219 State street, contains flags, trophies and relics relating to the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Mexican War and the late Rebellion, forming the most complete and interesting collection ever brought together in the United States. The most deeply interesting objects perhaps are the numerous regimental flags which have been carried by our brave volunteers upon so many bloody battle fields during the late rebellion. There are also deposited many emblems of various kinds captured from the rebels by New York regiments. Inscribed on these banners are the names of the battles in which the regiments were engaged. Upon some of them there may be found as many as seventy different inscriptions. These sad memorials of the brave dead who have fallen in the cause of liberty must ever be venerated by those who love their country and sympathized with it in its gigantic struggle for freedom. There are also many oil paintings, photographs, engravings and drawings of distinguished officers and privates. The collection of memorials increases rapidly by means of constant contributions from soldiers and their friends.

The Bureau is opened daily (except Sundays) from 9 A. M. until 5 P. M., free to all, and is visited daily by scores of strangers. Since last year as many as 20,000 persons have visited the building.

NEW YORK STATE LIBRARY.

This valuable institution, adjoining the Capitol, on State street, was founded by act of the Legislature in 1818.

For nearly thirty years the Library increased but slowly, when, in 1844, it was transferred to the Trusteeship of the Regents of the University. The present edifice of brown free stone, fronting on State street, was built in 1853, and is 114 feet long by 47 feet wide. It is a fire-proof structure, capable of accommodating 100,000 volumes. The flooring throughout is laid with encaustic tiles, and it is lighted with 180 gas burners.

The cost of the building, including land and shelving for the books, was $91,000. The Library is in two departments, containing in the aggregate 78,000 volumes. The Law Library, on the lower floor, contains 20,000 volumes, including the Laws, Journals and Documents of every State in the Union.

The General Library, in the upper story, contains about 60,000 volumes. The average annual rate of increase is about 2,500 volumes, by means of appropriations from the Legislature, donations and exchanges. Among the objects of especial interest contained in it, may be mentioned oil paintings and busts of Governors of the State, and other distinguished citizens; collections of coins, medals and engravings; the September Emancipation proclamation of President Lincoln, in his own handwriting; the original papers which Major Andre was carrying in his boot from Arnold to General Clinton, and the manuscripts of Sir Wm. Johnson and Governor George Clinton, in about twenty-five folio volumes each.

The Library is opened to the public daily from 9 A. M. until 5 P. M., and during the sessions of the Legislature until 6 P. M. All persons may read and consult the books in the Library by applying to the Librarians.

DUDLEY OBSERVATORY.

This institution, located on an eminence in the north part of the city, was founded through the munificence of Mrs. Blandina Dudley and other liberal patrons of science. It is built in the form of a cross, and was dedicated August 28th, 1856. Its management is intrusted to fifteen trustees. The building is admirably arranged and furnished with instruments, several of which are the largest and most delicate ever constructed. Among the instruments is a calculating engine made by C. Scheutz, a Swede, and purchased by John F. Rathbone. It is the only one in existence. A large class of calculations is performed by its use, and the results are impressed upon leaden plate ready to electrotype and print. It has a special library of 1,000 volumes. Admission gained by applying to the trustees.

YOUNG MEN'S ASSOCIATION FOR MUTUAL IMPROVEMENT.

This institution, located at No. 40 State street, was formed in 1833 and incorporated March 12, 1835, and was the first institution of its kind in the State for the purpose of establishing and maintaining a library, reading rooms, literary and scientific lectures, and other means of promoting moral and intellectual improvement.

Their present building of brown free stone was built in 1849, '50, and is 70 feet long by 50 feet wide, fire proof, and capable of containing 12,000 volumes. It contains a lecture room, library and reading room. The library contains 11,615 volumes. The reading room is supplied with 94 newspapers and periodicals. Its rooms are open daily to members and to strangers introduced by members. The terms of membership are an annual payment of $2.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL.

This institution was established May 7, 1844, for the instruction and practice of teachers of common schools in the science of education and the art of teaching. Each county in the State is entitled to send twice as many pupils to the school as it sends members to the Assembly. The pupils receive tuition and the use of text books free. STREET DIRECTORY.

The aim of the Street Directory is to give the location of each Street, and show what other Street or Place runs from or across it with the number at which they intersect. By its aid any person, even a stranger, can go to any numbered house without unnecessary travel.

From this List the location of any number on a Street can be easily ascertained. For instance, you wish to know at what part of Washington avenue 298 would come, you look for Washington avenue, and find that Knox crosses at 260 left, and Snipe at 310 left, so that 298 would be the sixth house from Snipe on the left hand side.

Great Western

MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

OF NEW YORK.

J. A. FREMIRE, Agt., 444 Broadway,
ALBANY, N. Y.

We would advise our friends and the public, and all those who anticipate and desire to insure in a good and reliable Company, to give the Agent of the Great Western a call before they invest their money elsewhere. We will vouch for all we say to the public. They will find many advantages in that no other Company gives to the insured. First, it is a purely Mutual Company; the entire surplus over the actual cost of insurance being divided equally among the assured. The stockholders receive only seven per cent., while in most every other Company the stockholders receive out of the funds that belong to the insured, over legal interest, from twenty to thirty per cent. This amount is put into the pockets to enrich the stockholders before dividends are paid to the policy holder. The Great Western issues all approved and every desirable form of policies, and all payments and dividends are non-forfeitable, and dividends are declared annually, and are paid in cash. No conditions whatever are imposed upon the insured in respect to residence or travel in any part of the civilized world, and no restrictions in regard to occupation are excepted as requiring the special permit from the Company, or the payment of an extra premium; and the insured are allowed thirty days grace for the payment of premiums. One annual payment continues a policy in force two years, and five payments over ten years; and if the death of the party occur within that time, the Company are bound by their charter to pay the amount of the policy the same as if there had been no elapse of premium. The above mentioned features, embracing every accommodation with entire security to the Company, make

The Great Western Mutual one of the most Liberal Life Insurance Companies in the United States.

The facilities which it affords the uninsured are such as leave him no excuse for neglecting his duty to himself and family. Nothing but the actual gift of a policy can exceed the advantages offered by this Company.

MODUS OPERANDI OF THE TURKISH BATH.

The Bather enters the Reception Room, registers his name, and is there shown into a Dressing Room, where he disrobes, each bather having a separate apartment. A sheet is then provided for him, and he is now ready for the "Tepidarium," or warm room. There his head is wet with cold water, also drinks freely of water, and reclines or sits on a resting chair for ten or fifteen minutes, until the skin becomes soft and moist. He is then ready for the "Calidarium," or hot room, until profuse perspiration takes place, the head meanwhile being kept wet with cold water. He is then taken out and shampooed by the attendant on a couch where he is manipulated, not a muscle escaping the shampooer's hands. That process completed, he is shampooed from head to foot with perfumed Glycerine Soap, which leaves the skin "soft as velvet." Then comes the Spray Bath, warm at first, then cool, then cold; and so gradual is the change of temperature that no shock is given to the system. When the bather is sufficiently cooled, a hot dry sheet is thrown over him, he is ushered into the "Frigidarium," or cooling room. Here, reclining or sitting, he remains until thoroughly cool and dry, when he is ready to dress, a wiser, cleaner and happier man.

THE LADIES GO THROUGH THE SAME ROUTINE.

Non-bathers often express an alarm lest the Bath may be weakening. But the Bath strengthens, it never weakens. The idea of weakening is suggested by the loss of fluids by perspiration; but this loss is a gain, and not a loss. The expulsion of watery fluids from the economy is a natural process, necessary to our very existence, and affects the nervous and muscular powers of the individual beneficially.
