THIEVES LOOT IS FOUND HID IN OPEN LOT

Suitcase of Property Stolen From Campers Is Recovered

HIDDEN IN WEEDS

Workmen Discover Cache and Report to Police, Who Investigate

Money and articles stolen from several of the families stopping at the automobile camp on San Fernando boulevard, between Colorado and Broadway, were found Sunday in a suitcase which had been sequestered in the weeds at the rear of the new building that is going up at 564 West Harvard street. When opened it was found that the case contained $20 in cash and a razor belonging to J. A. Thomas, one suit of clothes, size 38, belonging to A. G. Fritchard, $10 in cash and a case of baby clothes, belonging to Mrs. M. Dougherty. The articles were restored to their rightful owners.

Workmen on the building at 564 West Harvard, drew attention of the Glendale police to the fact that the case was hidden in the weeds. Officer Anderson was detailed to answer the call and took the case to police headquarters.

SANTA FE SPRINGS OIL STRIKE IS WELCOMED HERE

Glendale Investors Over- joyed by Reports of Strike by Syndicate

Wild excitement reigned over many Glendale people yesterday when the announcement was made that the new oil well at Santa Fe Springs came in early Saturday morning.

This well was just completed by the Santa Fe oil syndicate and about one-fourth interest in it is owned by Glendale people, it is stated.

The well came in with an estimated production of 2500 barrels. In addition to the oil, the well is producing 2,000,000 cubic feet of gas. The oil has an average gravity of 31, it is reported.

Drilling operations on the producer have been rushed since April 18, when the well was spudded in. The Santa Fe Springs oil syndicate was organized by E. A. Parkford.

LA CRESCENTA IS PLEASED WITH MAIL NEWS

Restoration to Glendale Service Is Hailed With Joy

Every resident of the La Crescenta valley is rejoicing over the message from W. D. C. announcing the present mail service would not be disturbed. Rural routes 4 and 11, coming out of Glendale, were to be changed to La Canada and Tujunga. This change would have been a hardship on everyone receiving mail over these routes. Glendale is the logical point for the distribution of mail for this district and it is to be hoped it will remain so.

REGISTER—OR YOU CAN'T VOTE

REGISTER, if you would participate in the primary election Tuesday, August 29. Those who fail to register on or before July 29 will be ineligible to vote in the August primaries and only those who state party affiliation will be eligible to vote for candidates for partisan offices, including United States senator, congress, governor and lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, state controller, members of the state senate and assembly.

Philosophy on Tumultuous Times by James Foley

"That the fanning of the flames of hatred needs to be checked, that we have liberty under law; that we have justice as far as we can reach it, is necessary in this time of strife and turmoil throughout the world," says James W. Foley in The Listening Post this evening. "It is time for every man with the spirit of America to stand up and be counted," is the conclusion to his vibrant contribution, which is filled with philosophy. The Listening Post this evening is a most enjoyable and thought-inspiring one.

There is a certain courtesy which every motorist along the road ought to observe, and it is the politeness to allow a pedestrian to cross the street to catch the tram car which does not wait for the stream of automobile traffic to subside in order that passengers may board it. One of the editorials this evening treats in no uncertain manner with the driver, who has not the decency to observe this courtesy.

Drug peddlers, the root of nearly all crime, is the theme for a snappy paragraph by Henry James in his comment on the day's news.

Besides this, the editorial page this evening contains much which is of interest to every reader of the paper, both for information and entertainment. There are the articles by Della Stewart, John Pilgrim and Dr. Frank Crane, eastern point of view, and correct English, as well as the poem and the scientific article.

POSTMASTER TO TRAIN POSTAL MARKSMEN

D. Ripley Jackson to Hold Target Practice With Automatics

By GERTRUDE GIBBS
The big black automatic on the desk of Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson is a wicked looking instrument, but he says its duplicate is to be found in the belt of every male employe in the office, all of whom have orders to shoot without circumspection, should any holdup men make their appearance.

The postmaster finds his military training will stand him in good stead as he intends to take the men out for target practice in the near future. Some of them are quite inexperienced in the use of firearms, but he plans to make them into a first-class firing squad in short order.

The women on the force will probably be exempt from this regimen.

He is getting everything organized on the basis of military precision and efficiency at a rapid rate. Hereafter no one will be permitted in the workroom but the workers. Entrance can only be secured through big steel gates similar to those in use in connection with bank cages.

No longer than the mail of Glendale is handled in the old way. Instead, the Pacific Electric has been forced to enter into a contract with Mr. McNary, whose truck will be on duty day and night. It will back up to the receiving cage outside the workroom, both to receive and discharge mail. Mail from the Southern Pacific will be handled in a similar manner by auto.

As soon as the grillwork now being installed in the postoffice is completed, the lobby will be open day and night or 24 hours at a stretch for the public to drop in mail, though the attendants will not be on duty at that time. The stamp window being open from 8 to 6, and the other windows from 9 to 6, the postmaster keeping the hours last named.

Now that the office deals with Washington direct, it is going to be possible to get service for Glendale, which was impossible when the station had to work through the Los Angeles office, because that office had troubles of its own to straighten out with Washington without spending itself fighting Glendale's battles.

Idol of Irish Youth Supposed to Be the Brains of Rebellion

Liam Mellows, though little mentioned in the reports of the present upheaval in Ireland, is believed to be the moving spirit in the fight against the Irish Free State. Mellows is a blond, bespectacled, sawed-off young man, 27 and is said to be the idol of the younger Irish Republicans. In 1915 he was arrested and interned in England, but he escaped after three days imprisonment. He led the Irish forces in the west during the Easter rebellion of 1916. Later he was obliged to flee the country and he made his way to New York and is a happy man who was always singing Irish songs.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S PICNIC IS VERY POPULAR

Considerable Interest in Visit to Verdugo Woodlands

Great interest is being manifested in the wienie roast and picnic to be given by the Business Women's club in Verdugo Woodlands, Tuesday evening at 6:15, at the grove and pavilion of the Newport company at the west end of Glorietta avenue. Members are privileged to bring all friends, men or women, they care to invite and coffee will be furnished. It will be a special occasion as Matthew E. Jones, democratic candidate for governor, has consented to make a short talk following the roast and it will be practically his first appearance in Glendale since his candidacy was announced. It is quite a feather in the cap of the club to have secured him.

BIG BUICK CAR IS STOLEN FROM M. J. MCGREW

Taken From in Front of Presbyterian Church, Sunday Night

A 7-passenger Buick belonging to M. J. McGrew of 616 East Broadway, was stolen from in front of the Presbyterian church last night. Up to the present time nothing has been learned as to the whereabouts of the car.

GOLF EXPERTS ASK TOURNAY CHANGES

CHICAGO, July 17.—Golf experts here today urged changes in the system of staging national tournaments, following the close of the national open championship at Skokie Country club here Saturday.

The starting field, which has been constantly growing and this year totaled 329, should be cut down before the opening of the national event, it was urged. Sectional tournaments to cut down the entries were suggested.

The stars who participated in the tournament here last week were unanimous in their praise of the manner in which the affair was handled by officials of the Skokie Country club.

Gene Sarazen, the new champion, hurried to his home in Pittsburgh after being presented with the new championship cup.

GLENDALE PRESS-NEWTON STATION IMPROVES WORK WITH SPEECH AMPLIFIER

Greater Clearness and Loudness Is Achieved on Saturday Night Broadcast With New Auxiliary Apparatus Winning Applause

BEST CONCERT IN SOUTHWEST, IS DECLARED

Shrine Club Orchestra and Wilbur Herwig Give Program That Is Distinct Advance Over Sending in Previous Performances

By N. D. GARVER
When the Press-Newton station voiced "hello" and its propeller into the ether, everyone comes to attention, for they know that a real program is about to start.

For the last three Saturday night programs, orchestra music has been the feature. Popular selections have been furnished the radio fans by the Shrine club orchestra. Friday night of last week, the installation of a speech amplifier was completed and was put to use in the reproduction of the orchestra music. That it was a success was told over the telephone in reports from every direction, Saturday night. The reports started pouring in from the start of the program, and continued until long after the station had shut down.

Mr. Chas. Moore, an electrical engineer, phoned in from Mount Lowe and voiced the opinion that KFAC was the best station he had ever heard, for the reason that it was both loud and clear. He stated that some stations were clear and some were loud, but that KFAC was the first station he had heard that possessed both qualities without defect. Mr. Moore was very much interested in the Times (KHJ) station at the time of construction, and still is, and consequently his reports are considered valuable. Many phone calls from Los Angeles stated that the program was much louder than the Los Angeles station, which was transmitting at the same time, and was also much clearer. They voiced their thanks for the programs furnished from this station, and expressed their desire to always listen to KFAC.

RAILROAD TIUP IS POSSIBLE

Seventy-five Thousand Quit in Sympathy With Shopmen

CHICAGO, July 17.—Complete tieup of the nation's railroads loomed today as dissatisfaction spread throughout railroad union organizations.

Nearly 1,000,000 railroad employes may be idle should peace parleys scheduled for this week fail.

Seventy-five thousand railroad workers are on strike in sympathy with 400,000 shopmen, according to figures compiled today.

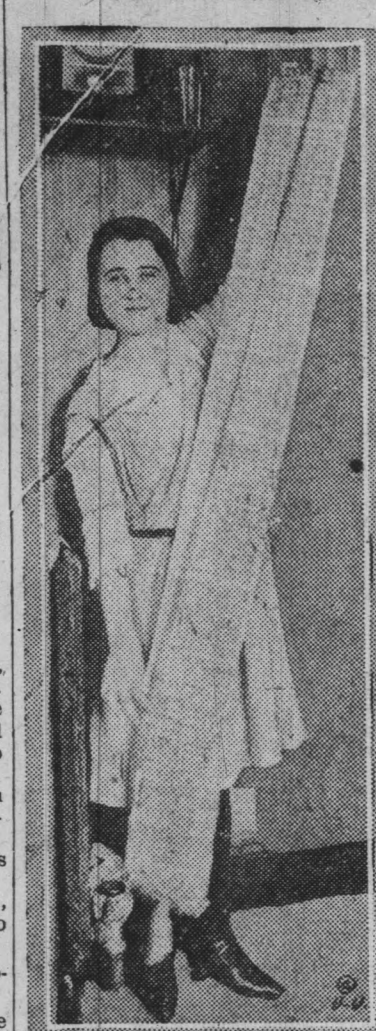

A general increase in the number of men who have walked out in unauthorized strike was reported from many sections of the country. The largest single group to walk out has come from the maintenance-of-way men, J. C. Smock, vice-president of the maintenance of way union, declared at least 25,000 members of that organization were idle. The strikers will be outlawed, he announced.

Added to this figure are 14,000 oilers, stationary firemen and engineers, whose strike was authorized today and 8,000 members of the American federation of railroad employes, including painters and inspectors, clerks, freight handlers and other classes of unskilled laborers who have walked out, total at least 25,000.

Conferees aimed at settlement of the strike have been discontinued by the United States railroad labor board.

No further meetings will be held by members of the board with union leaders or railroad executives until some more practical, concrete proposition can be presented.

Six Feet of Stamps Is Required Postage For Russian Letter

Sara Schoofal, who lives in New York City, recently received a letter from her sweetheart in Russia. Nothing unusual in that, except the fact that the Russian stamps required for postage extended six feet in length beyond the letter. The stamps represented 300,000 rubles, worth, at pre-war value, $150,000.

ST. MARK'S DRIVE GOES OVER TOP FOR PASTOR

Teams Report $4,194.50 Total Pledges for Permanent Rector

With a total of $4,194.50, the parish drive of the St. Mark's Episcopal church ended Sunday night, when all the captains of teams reported.

A permanent pastor for the church is assured by the pledges, which exceed by more than a thousand dollars the amount required.

The drive was organized by Richardson D. White and opened with increased personal pledges by members of the four teams put into the field.

The canvass of the 1,200 reported Episcopalians in the city followed under team captains.

Cards bearing the names of reported members of the faith were distributed and the teams went to work.

A number of those listed have moved away, but the round-up succeeded in finding and recruiting to the parish membership many who had not attended church here because of various reasons.

The success of the drive will be followed by the calling of a minister this fall, so that the church this winter may, for the first time in four years, have a permanent head.

The pulpit is at present being filled by the Rev. Nassau S. Stephens, retired, whose distinguished career as a member of the active pulpits of the Episcopal church closed some time ago. He has consented to serve during July, delivering a series of Sunday sermons that have sustained the interest maintained in the church by the Rev. Dr. Cornell, of Pasadena, during the last four years.

Mr. Stephens has an assistant, a member of the faculty of the University of Chicago, who has made a deep impression by his delivery of the Scriptures.

Blind Man Is in Press-Newton Audience Saturday

Saturday night, after the concert given via the Press-Newton radiophone, the phones began to ring and amongst them was a compliment from a blind man resident of Los Angeles, whose only pastime is listening in on a crystal set.

Mr. Comstock is an old-time vaudeville actor and has a very keen ear for good music. He has a little crystal set which his next door neighbor hooked up for him and on account of being unable to see, he could not erect an aerial like the rest of us. His neighbor didn't have time, so Mr. Comstock ran a wire to the screen in the window of his bedroom and used the screen for the aerial. The water pipe running to the wash basin in his room, served as a ground.

On account of being blind he cannot read the papers to find out which station is the best and the report turned by him is considered one of the most valuable because he judges by his ears and not by what he reads. The operator, in bringing the program to a close, requested reports by telephone to Glendale 99, and this man was so appreciative that he went to the trouble of hunting in the dark for the phone and called the Glendale Press.

"I don't hear very many stations with my equipment," he stated, "but your station came in very loud and your music was excellent. It was clear and the judgment used in selecting the numbers played is deserving of compliment. I hear lots of jazz music from other stations, but your music is played as it should be, and I hope to hear you every time you are on. Could you please tell me when you send so that I could always listen to you?"

CONGRESSMAN KENT ENDORSES MOORE

Former Member of Lower House Declares Against Johnson

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—Former Congressman William Kent, one of the foremost legislators in the west, patriot and economical expert, has issued a statement strongly endorsing the candidacy of Charles C. Moore for the republic nomination for United States senator from California.

Mr. Kent's advocacy of Mr. Moore is considered by those who know the remarkable record of the former, and his standing as a citizen among the foremost living Americans, as a wonderful tribute to Mr. Moore. For six years William Kent served his state as congressman, and his sturdy, intelligent fight to uphold progressive ideals gave him immortal standing with his fellow Californians and Americans.

Mr. Kent's statement is as follows: "I have known C. C. Moore ever since his splendid administration of the Panama-Pacific exposition. He is a man of fine capacity, cool and clear judgment, and is respected by all who know him.

"Mr. Moore possesses the supreme quality of unselfishness. He believes and practices the ideals that go with the policy of living and letting live. He is independent of all entanglements and will do nothing to forfeit that independence. He can be relied upon to work for the best interests of California, as he has done in the past, as well as for the particular welfare of our people.

"We Californians have the opportunity to select a real public servant who will devote his fine efficiency to their service with steady loyalty. He will not involve himself in disreputable alliances for the purpose of self-advertising. He can be relied upon to apply himself to the heavy but unostentatious committee work of the senate and will not cast his shadow upon the screen occupied by whoever happens to be president. He will help and not hinder great plans for a more peaceful and better world. His nature precludes him from stirring international hatred and distrust.

"Out of knowledge of the man and the duties of the senate, I feel free to assure those who will attend the republican primaries that in choosing a man of Mr. Moore's character and ability they will contribute worthy service to the nation and honor and benefit to our state."

HACKENSCHMIDT TO WRESTLE ON FRIDAY

A wrestling match of unusual importance will be pulled off in Glendale when John Hackenschmidt of this place, and Toots Mondt, the Colorado bear cat, will fight it out in a catch-as-catch-can bout, the fellow getting the first two falls being the winner. The bout will be held in Odd Fellows' hall, Friday, July 21, over Ralphs grocery store. There will be a two-hour time limit placed on the main event. Ladies are invited to this athletic event, which promises to be unusually interesting.

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight and Tuesday, cloudy, with thunderstorms in the mountains. Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair tonight and Tuesday, with moderate temperature. Probably fog or clouds in the morning.

WHOLESALE BOOTLEGGERS ARE CAUGHT

Loads of Hooch Found Concealed in Body of Delivery Auto

CASES ARE FOUND

Innocent Cleaner and Dyer Has Eight Pints in Locker

Three wholesale bootleggers are resting in the Glendale jail as a result of raids made Saturday afternoon. George Lauman of 5735 Alba street, Los Angeles, was apprehended at the corner of San Fernando road and Brand boulevard, at 3 o'clock, as he was headed back to town after making "deliveries" in Glendale. Dick Charters, 747 Ottawa street, Los Angeles, and Darrell Hole of Sherman, were arrested on Harvard, near Brand, at 3:30 o'clock.

Lauman was operating a Chevrolet automobile, in the floor of which was a secret compartment where the "hooch" was kept. He was representing himself as a cleaning and dyeing agent, and had a number of suits of clothes hanging in the back of his machine. From all external appearances his outfit was an ordinary delivery wagon, but when the police got actively under way it did not take them long to discover where the "valuables" were kept. He had in his car eight and one-half pints of moonshine and several empty bottles. Unable to give bail to the extent of $300, he was placed in jail, pending his appearance before Judge Lowe at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

When taken into custody Charters and Hole were driving a Ford car. Their arrest was made on Harvard street at 3:30 o'clock. They had two cases containing three and a half gallons of moonshine of a very rank brand, and also several empty bottles. They are alleged to have made a specialty of delivering "wet goods" to garages in this and other vicinities. Each of the prisoners was held on $300 bail. Hearing will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon before Judge Lowe.

The Glendale police advise that they are aware of several places in Glendale where whiskey is being sold in small quantities, but it would appear that it is the policy of the local department to get the wholesaler, as has been done in these cases.

GIRARD CONCERT IS BIG SUCCESS ON SUNDAY

Glendale People Attend Artistic Demonstration of Appreciation

Returns from the various organizations that interested themselves in the benefit concert for Harry Girard, given Sunday afternoon at the Glendale theatre, are not all in, but there is plenty of evidence of a great success. A good and most appreciative audience came out to enjoy the fine program on which the three tremendous piano numbers by Brahms van den Berg were easily the outstanding features. Those best acquainted with his work declare he never played better.

The violin numbers by Oscar Seidel were also unusual, and played in a most masterly manner. Mr. La Bonte, who is a favorite in Glendale and one of Mr. Girard's best friends, sang a difficult solo from "The Messiah" in a most artistic manner, which was appreciated by music lovers. The operatic numbers by Miss Gunning were also most acceptable.

Mr. Egan of the Egan theatre, another old and tried friend of Mr. Girard, as usual charmed his audience with his readings. It was one of the most pleasant affairs of the summer, and most satisfactory to the promoters and friends of the beneficiary.

SIGNALING "THIEF" CAR DRIVES PAST

Frank M. McDonald, 230 Dayton court, reported last night that a car, to the wheel of which a theft signal was attached, had driven past his home. Thinking it was a stolen machine, he telephoned the Glendale police. Motorcycle officers investigated the matter but could find no trace of the car.

REGISTER FOR PRIMARY AT THE GLENDALE DAILY PRESS

Registration closes July 29. To make it convenient, William D. Root will be at the Glendale Daily Press office every day, all day long, to enroll your name. He will never be "just out" during the entire day. You may phone and he will wait for you after hours.

If you have registered as independent or non-partisan and realize you cannot vote at the primary on that basis you can change your designation and re-enter your party—help select your candidates.

GLENDALE NEEDS A BIG PARTY ENROLLMENT THIS YEAR.

See Mr. Root—phone him at the Glendale Daily Press—he'll wait for you.

WISCONSIN FOLKS ARE GUESTS OF OLD NEIGHBORS

Mesdames Hamilton Entertain Old Friends on Saturday

Mrs. S. C. Hamilton and Mrs. M. E. Hamilton entertained at a delightful luncheon on Saturday the home of the former, 350 Ivy street. The guests were all former river falls, Wis., women, and included Mrs. H. A. Wilson, Mrs. C. Lusby, Mrs. Georgiana Bell, Miss Mary Stevens, Mrs. Charlotte Sackett, all of Glendale; Mrs. Lord, Mrs. W. D. A dainty color scheme of pink and lavender was carried out in floral decorations and favors. The same group of women were entertained last week by Mrs. velle of Hollywood.

MRS. SAMUEL DICK IS HOSTESS TO WAR MOTHERS

Entertains Lester Meyer Chapter on Saturday Afternoon

Mrs. Samuel Dick of 309 North Olive street was hostess on Saturday afternoon to the Lester Meyer chapter of War Mothers. There was a splendid attendance and a great deal of important business transacted.

She decided that the Glendale chapter would help with the expense building that is being organized in Los Angeles. There will be placed in that building a memorial to show that the mothers cared with it. The war mothers in all over the country are helped with this and have been asked to donate $100. This meeting was the last of the second Wednesday in October, which will be held in American Legion hall.

NEW INSTRUCTORS ANNOUNCED FOR LA CRESCENTA

School Board Makes Appointments for the Coming Year

LA CRESCENTA, July 17.—The Crescenda school board announces the following instructors for the coming year: Mrs. Lillian St. Austin, principal; Miss Rhea, Mrs. Bernice LaGue, Alma Austin and Miss Ester. The work of enlarging the school building will be completed this month. Two additional rooms have been added and the school auditorium enlarged. The present board is composed of Mrs. A. Baldrige, C. E. Culbertson and Dr. E. H. Smith.

ROTHY DALTON AT THE T. D. & L.

George Melford's latest photo, "The Woman Who Walked," featuring Dorothy Dalton. Dalton is one of the unusual and altogether noteworthy productions that has been here this season. It places Dalton on a higher plain in dramatic achievement than this actress has previously achieved. In addition to her play, Ralph Allan has arranged for presentation also, "The Face," perhaps the funniest by this comedian has made long, long time. It is also the latest news of current events and scenic dialogue of Monte Carlo. Altogether it is a remarkable and entertaining show.

SINGS TUESDAY EVENING

Santa Monica Chautauqua Has Great Singer in Tuesday Program

Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, who was recently presented with the degree of Doctor of Music by the University of Southern

MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK

California on her 61st birthday, is a shining exemplification of the truth that "head" work must be used in singing, as in other things, if one wishes to continue indefinitely.

"I have been singing for 44 years," she remarked, "and I intend to sing for a great many years to come, but I cannot and will not ruin my voice with the difficult, lengthy arias from the operas. Many contraltos have persisted in doing so, and I ask—where are they now? I love to sing, but I am an 'old woman'—my ten grandchildren make me realize that—and I must save my voice for the future." And this woman of superabundant energy, with a roguish twinkle of her eye which belied her age, turned to her accompanist.

Mme. Schumann-Heink will be heard in her one and only coast appearance of the season at the Pacific Palisades Chautauqua, near Santa Monica, on Tuesday evening, July 18, at 8 o'clock.

ATTRACTIVE FOOD SATISFIES HUBBY

Do you know that most people eat with their eyes as well as with their mouths?

That's a little secret that health specialists have known for some time, and many modern housewives are taking advantage of it to help solve the ever-present problem of providing dishes that will tempt the family's appetite, and at the same time be wholesome and nourishing.

With many people the eyes play an important part in eating. A dish that looks attractive will stimulate their appetites and cause them to get all of the value out of the food, while another dish, perhaps of equally good flavor, but not so attractive in appearance, will be distasteful to them.

This is particularly true of desserts, and the careful housewife who wants to keep away from rich, heavy pastries and puddings often has a difficult time.

One way to do this is to serve dainty, frozen dishes at regular intervals all the year round. These are always look attractive, they're always wholesome, and they'll appeal to the average family just as much around Christmas time as on the Fourth of July. And they're economical. There's only one secret about these dishes—keep plenty of ice in the icebox.

PHILATHEA CLASS TO HOLD PARTY

The members of the Philathea class of the First Methodist Episcopal church will hold their July party at the home of the Misses Elsie and Agnes Verity at 511 West Broadway, Friday, July 21. All members are urged to make a special effort to attend.

HEINK PUFFERS' BRIDGE REV. CHAFER OF PHILADELPHIA PREACHES

Party Held for Benefit of Tuesday Afternoon Club Fund

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Puffer of 452 West Vine street entertained with a bridge party Saturday evening, the affair being one of a series of card parties being given for the benefit of the Tuesday Afternoon club building fund.

During the course of the evening Mrs. Harry MacMullin sang several vocal numbers, and Mrs. Roscoe Puffer, Jr., sang two of Cecil Crandall's own compositions, accompanied by Mr. Crandall at the piano. Mr. Crandall also rendered several beautiful violin selections. High scores for ladies was won by Mrs. Walter W. Jones, and for gentlemen, by Mr. Jones.

Guests of the evening included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ayars, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Werette, Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Harry MacMullin, Mrs. Emma Batz, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Puffer, Jr., and Cecil Crandall.

MISS SMITH HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Miss Irma Louise Smith was hostess on Saturday afternoon at a jolly party given in honor of her tenth birthday. Miss Smith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Smith of 427 South Columbus avenue.

A dainty color scheme of yellow and white was carried out with flowers and crepe paper festoons from the chandeliers to each plate at the beautifully appointed refreshment table. Kewpie dolls were used as favors and tiny yellow baskets filled with candies were found at each place. Covers for 19 were marked by yellow and white place cards.

After a pleasant afternoon of games and dancing, the little hostess took her guests into the dining room, where refreshments were served. The table was centered with a beautiful birthday cake, on which were etched yellow candles. During the afternoon Edna May Paul gave several clever recitations.

Those complimenting Miss Smith were Nan Jones, Helen Hock, Caroline Doty, Margaret Eberly, Mildred Allen, Almeda Wilson, Crystal Wilson, Carmen Wilson, Mary Phillips, Edna May Paul, Ruth Sakler, Verma Collins, Louise Parker, Harriet Parker, Carol Collins, Betty Jane Smith, Herbert Augustine and Bobbie Smith.

HAMILTONS HAVE DINNER GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hamilton of 350 Ivy street had as dinner guests Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. E. Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. Reynold C. Olson of Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. T. M. E. Hamilton have spent several months in Glendale, residing on South Brand boulevard, and are very favorably impressed with this city. They leave next week for their home in River Falls, Wis., and may return in the fall. Mrs. Olson is also leaving soon for an extended visit to her former home in River Falls, Wis., where she will visit her parents and other relatives and friends.

VALLEY PLUMBERS HAVE BIG TIME

Races, Ball Games, 'Eats' and Annual Baths Mark Event

The plumbers' picnic at Brookside park, Saturday, was a big event. About 400 plumbers, assistant plumbers, jobbers and water boys and their families jollified all day long and all hands returned home between 8 and 9 in the evening, with that satisfied smile that will not wear off until next picnic day, when it will be renewed.

After arriving at the park, the morning was spent in races of various kinds, tugs-of-war and the like, prizes being given in each event. At noon a dainty lunch was served, the following being a few of the items consumed: 300 pounds of barbecued meat, 700 bottles of soda pop, 35 gallons of ice cream, 1000 buns, 8 gallons of potato salad, 15 gallons of coffee, and all the fixings that generally go with a feed of this kind.

GILLETTE TENT MEETING TONIGHT

The Nimble Finger club, auxiliary to the Daughters of Veterans, will hold an important meeting tonight at the home of Mrs. James Lyons, 122 West Palmer avenue. Plans will be discussed for the chicken dinner, complimentary to the G. A. R. members, which will be given August 11 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Griffin. This is important and every member should be present to help formulate plans.

KANSAS FOLKS HAVE PICNIC

A jolly reunion of former residents of the Sunflower state was held at Switzer's camp last Saturday. One-time Kansans who attended were: Mrs. Foot and Miss Ellen Foot of St. Louis, Dr. Rotherchild of Silenus, Mrs. Long and Mrs. Wickham of Hollywood; Mrs. Adams and two sons of St. Joseph, Mr. and Mrs. D. Methlen and daughter, Charlotte; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spier and Miss Sophia Brown of Glendale.

"Can any man in this audience truthfully say that education has hurt his business?" challenged the educator. "I can," answered a small man in the rear row. "And might I ask what your business is?" asked the educator. "Certainly," answered the other. "I used to make a good living peddling the book, 'What Every Girl Should Know,' but there's no demand for it any longer."

The use by said Messrs. Goode and Belew of the name "FANSET DYE WORKS OF GLENDALE" is no longer authorized by me.

(SIGNED) JOHN H. FANSET, Former owner of said business and proprietor of FANSET DYE WORKS OF LOS ANGELES 1010-1012 South San Pedro Street, Los Angeles, California.

Dated June 29, 1922

I am now located in Glendale at 108 S. Brand Blvd. Phone Glendale 155.

CITY PRINTING designated as Eighth Street he and the same is hereby changed to Kenneth Road and that said street shall hereafter be known and referred to as Kenneth Road.

SECTION 2. The City Clerk shall certify to the passage of this ordinance and shall cause the same to be published once in the Glendale Daily Press, a daily newspaper of general circulation, published and circulated in said City of Glendale, and thereupon and thereafter the same shall be in full force and effect.

ADOPTED this 13th day of July, 1922. SPENCER ROBINSON, Mayor of the City of Glendale.

Attest: A. J. VAN WIE, City Clerk of the City of Glendale.

SECTION 1. For the purpose of this ordinance the words "Patrol Service" and "Patrol System" shall be deemed to be any service or system which purports to furnish or does furnish to members or subscribers for a consideration, or otherwise, any watchman or guard, either uniformed or otherwise, to patrol any district in the City of Glendale, or to guard or watch any property, or to perform any service usually and customarily performed by the regular patrolmen of the Police Department of the City of Glendale.

SECTION 2. It is hereby declared to be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, either as principal or agent, to engage in the business of conducting or maintaining, or soliciting business for, any patrol service or system, without first obtaining a permit from the Council of the City of Glendale therefor, or without paying the annual license fee hereinafter provided for.

SECTION 3. Before any person, firm or corporation shall engage in the business of conducting or maintaining any patrol service or system in the City of Glendale, he or it shall make an application in writing to the Council for permission to engage in such business, and describe therein the district in which he or it shall desire to operate. Said application shall be referred to the Chief of Police, who shall make an investigation as to the character of the proposed business, and the condition of police protection prevailing within the district designated.

SECTION 4. Any permit granted by the Council as provided in the last preceding section of this ordinance shall be issued upon the following terms and conditions: First: Said patrol service or patrol system shall be operated and conducted under the general supervision of the Chief of Police. Second: The Chief of Police shall regulate the style of uniform and the design of badge and any other insignia used by said patrol system. Third: Any such permit and any such license issued pursuant thereto may at any time be revoked by the Council for cause shown, after notice to the holder of such permit or license to be heard shall have been given. Fourth: Any person, firm or corporation as herein provided conducting or operating any patrol system or patrol service shall pay to the City of Glendale a license fee of $15.00 per quarter for the first five patrolmen employed by such person, firm or corporation, and $2.00 additional for each patrolman in excess of five employed by such person, firm or corporation. The number of patrolmen employed by such person, firm or corporation shall be stated in the license issued until a permit has been granted under the terms of this ordinance for the carrying on of such patrol service. Fifth: Any license issued by said patrol system shall be subject to the provisions of Ordinance No. 573 of the City of Glendale, passed May 17, 1922, and entitled, "An Ordinance for Licensing and Regulating the Carrying On of Certain Professions, Trades, Callings and Occupations in the City of Glendale; Prescribing the Penalty for Violations of This Ordinance and Repealing Ordinance 274 and All Amendments Therof, and Repealing All Other Parts of Ordinances and Ordinances in Conflict herewith." and all provisions of said Ordinance No. 573 shall apply to the issuing of said licenses. SECTION 5. Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punishable by a fine of not more than $500.00, or by imprisonment in the City Jail of the City of Glendale or the county Jail of the County of Los Angeles, for a period of not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment. SECTION 7. All ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed. SECTION 8. The City Clerk shall certify to the passage of this ordinance, and cause the same to be published once in the Glendale Daily Press, the official newspaper of said City. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force on the thirtieth day after its passage. Passed by the Council of the City of Glendale this 13th day of July, 1922. SPENCER ROBINSON, Mayor of the City of Glendale. Attest: A. J. VAN WIE, City Clerk of the City of Glendale. STATE OF CALIFORNIA COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES (ss. CITY OF GLENDALE) I, A. J. Truths in Epigram Knowledge is the only fountain both of the love and the principles of human liberty. —Webster (1782-1852).

The ugliest of trades have their moments of pleasure. Now, if I were a grave-digger, or even a hangman, there are some people I would work for with a great deal of enjoyment. —Jerold (1803-1857).

COURTESY OF THE ROAD

Most readers are familiar enough with the geography of Los Angeles to know that automobile traffic along Vermont avenue is constant and heavy.

On a recent day three ladies stood at the corner trying to get to a Vermont avenue car, they just having stepped from a First street car.

There is much time devoted now to study of psychoanalysis. It would be interesting to have some of the experts portray the peculiar mental twist that changes so many persons, who on foot are quite normal and decent, into a type of swine far less considerate than the hog that roots.

LOYALTY TO A PRESIDENT

Loyalty to a President is something more than loyalty to an individual. It is loyalty to a principle, and to a party that has chosen the President as the exponent of that principle.

No administration can be effective when the forces behind it are working at cross-purposes. No theory of government can become operative if professed adherents of the organization proclaiming belief in this theory, work against the convictions, and seek to hamper the acts of the President as chosen head of the organization.

When President Harding conceived the thought of a conference to consider disarmament as a preliminary to world peace; when he outlined a plan by which he thought this could be accomplished, and when he procured the endorsement of other powers, he was doing a splendid and magnificent work for humanity.

Now that the fight is over and won, won despite the boring from within by which it had been hoped to scuttle the republican ship, and virtually to put this nation on record as favoring war, the claim has been set up that the foes of the President inside his own party, really were his friends all the time.

Why do they continue to wrate nonsense? They cannot deceive anybody. Their conduct is part of recent history. It was openly and bitterly hostile. It was in flagrant disregard of the expressed wishes of their constituents. It ignored the plea of the President. Any so-called republican officeholder guilty of such course, forfeited his right to public confidence.

TO ABANDON ROSS FIELD

The people of this community will be sorry for the abandonment of Ross Field, site of the balloon school at Arcadia. It has been a picturesque addition to local activities. It has made southern California feel that the army was maintaining touch with it.

So anxious had people been for establishment of the balloon school here that an enterprising group raised $100,000 towards paying for the necessary ground. The other half of the purchase price was a gift from Anita Baldwin, and far from being the first manifestation of her generosity towards the government. Doubtless the war department does not desire to appear ungrateful or ungracious, but it is difficult to put a different construction on its course in this matter.

Persons who visited the Centennial exposition at Philadelphia in 1876 are to have the pleasure of visiting another at the same time in honor of the 150th anniversary of American independence.

ANTI-SOCIAL

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The fundamental problem of society is to eradicate the anti-social tastes.

Because the great problem of human beings is not so much how to live and be happy as it is how to live with other people and be happy.

Even more important than the much-mentioned ambition to live one's own life is the matter of living it so as not to spoil other people's lives or to have them spoil ours.

Sir Henry Newbolt, in a speech on education the other day, said: "The real object of education is to teach everybody how to live as a member of human society, how to be a worthy and useful member of society, and how to enjoy the life of that society."

And the only way to teach that sort of thing so as to be any real good is to train the children that they shall like the social virtues and be repelled by the unsocial vices.

For there is, after all, only one real task in any kind of an education, and that is, to change one's likes and dislikes.

No matter how much information one may be crammed with, and no matter how much skill of hand and quickness of mind he may develop, he cannot be said really to be an educated person or actually to have improved, unless the quality of his likes has been bettered.

Love, for instance, is social, while hate is anti-social. A group of people animated by love would get along together and be happy. If they were animated by hate they would fly to pieces.

Almost all those qualities that we call vicious are injurious because they make it difficult or impossible for us to get along with our neighbors.

So anger is bad, and meanness and egotism and uncleanness and cheating, lying and murder. We punish these things very properly by law, not because they render a man unfit for heaven so much as because they render him unfit to live with.

There are other and more subtle anti-social vices. One of these that needs a deal of pointing out is the vice of taking the administration of justice in our own hands.

The very essence of civilization is that the administration of justice is to be delegated to the proper authorities. Common sense tells us that no group could possibly hang together and no communal life possibly exist where every man righted his own wrongs.

Civilization demands, first of all, that the individual give up his gun and carry no concealed weapons, or a city without courts and policemen would speedily degenerate into a hell of anarchy.

Order is the prime necessity for communal life. Order is the common soil in which alone prosperity, family life, protection and personal liberty can flourish.

And the same thing is true of nations. Until they delegate justice to some international body and put all force at that body's disposal, wars will continue. And war is nothing but international anarchy.

THE LISTENING POST

Here's a world with plenty of room and air and sunshine and the things necessary to sustain life.

Plenty of things to grow and make. Plenty of persons to grow and make them. Plenty of food to be raised. Plenty of water to drink.

Cattle in the pastures. Sheep on the hillsides. Leather to be tanned from skins for shoes. Wool to be woven.

Cotton to be picked and ginned and made into cloth. Steel to be tempered and made into rails for the transportation of products.

Minerals in the mountains. Oil down beneath the fields' and hills. Oranges growing golden on the trees. Fields with hundreds of thousands of acres of wheat and corn.

Not an enormous population. Plenty for all if labor and distribution are carried on. Work to do in the mines and fields.

An inheritance of thousands of years of art, literature, philosophy, religion, music, painting, sculpture and all that.

We are the inheritors of the wealth and wisdom of all the ages. Residuary legatees. Our pioneering has been done for us. Men have charted the oceans. Built highways. Cleared the forests.

And as residuary legatees of the ages of experience and toil and wisdom the world ought to be enjoying the fruit of the legacy. Instead of being red in a turmoil and hatred and passion.

Fields in many parts of the world idle.

Chimneys cold. Mines yielding no product. Europe torn from end to end with passionate hatred. Labor idle. Money cheap and comparatively valueless. Murders, riots, arson and wars devastating nations.

So after all these thousands of years our legacies are of little value. If all they bring us is hatred, murder, warfare, bloodshed and the fruits of bitterness and frenzy and evil.

And the situation growing not better, but worse. In our own land, riot and murder. The slaying of helpless persons by a mob even unrebuked.

No remedy made use of but the bludgeon, the shotgun, fists and force. All indicating that there is need for a change in the spirit of men.

Of men who employ and men who are employed. That the fanning of the flames of hatred needs to be checked. That we have liberty under law.

That we have justice as far as we can reach it. That we have fewer demagogues in office. That we have less temporizing with crime and horror.

That we have a new birth of freedom. That we shall justify the dreams of our fathers. Or reap the harvest of anarchy, riot, mob law and blood and fire that we shall invite.

It is time for every man with the spirit of America to stand up and be counted.

JAMES W. FOLEY.

SONGS OF THE POETS

The Reconciliation—By John Sheffield (1649-1720)
Come, let us now resolve at last To live and love in quiet; We'll tie the knot so very fast That Time shall ne'er untie it.

When least I seem'd concern'd, I took No pleasure nor no rest; And when I feign'd an angry look, Alas! I loved you best.

The truest joys they seldom prove Who free from quarrels live; 'Tis the most tender part of love Each other to forgive.

Own but the same to me—you'll find How blest will be our fate. O to be happy—to be kind— Sure never is too late!

New Sounding Device for Ocean Survey Ship

As soon as the navy's oceanographic ship, Hamul, comes into port from its present sounding expedition, it will be equipped with the hydrophone recently perfected by the navy.

The hydrophone receives only the reflected sound. The time determines the angles and the apparatus automatically computes the depth.

The depth of the ocean is obtained instantly by this device which depends upon the time it takes for a sound to travel from a sound-creating oscillator located in the aft portion of the ship to the sea floor and be reflected back to the receiver located in line with the transmitter but in the forward part of the boat.

Besides making more rapid, detailed and accurate hydrographic surveys of the ocean bottom, the new device would also be used in locating vessels at sea and supplement the radio compass. Powerful sound sources may be installed off capes and harbors. By sending radio signals and the underwater sound signals at the same instant, the difference in the time of reception will give the distance the vessels are apart when the depth of the ocean is known.

The inventor, Dr. Harvey C. Hayes, physicist for the navy, believes that the new device will be able to detect the presence of icebergs by the sound reflected from the berg and avert such disasters as befell the Titanic.

"In actual experiment it has been determined that the navigator, cruising at full speed through the fog and darkness, was certain of his position at all times and proceeded with complete confidence," said Dr. Hayes in describing one of the earlier trips with a less perfect apparatus than that which is now being used.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

ALL QUIET ALONG THE GANGES [From a statement in the Brooklyn Eagle by George Leman, just returned from a two year's residence in Bombay in the employ of the Guaranty Trust company]

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES This is an open season for bandits, but they don't enter into the spirit of the occasion.

The wave of anti-British feeling in India has been greatly exaggerated in American minds. I was in Bombay during the demonstration against the coming of the Prince of Wales. The air was full of rumors, but when the time came for defiance the outbreaks degenerated into free-for-all scraps between the different native religions, with the poor half-caste, who was nothing, acting as the inevitably abused underdog.

Los Angeles observes the fall of the Bastille with an inward wish that its own rickety jail would tumble down.

The British are giving a wise and just rule in India. The natives seem bent on proving they are not yet ready for self-government, although the more leeway they are given by the British, the less satisfied they become.

It seems as though Germany was gradually establishing faith in its inability to hand over the cash.

At the imprisonment of Ghandi, the exponent of passive resistance, the Hindus did not even pause in their routine to shrug their shoulders.

Three school boys recently set out to hunt Indians. If they find some, doubtless the Indians will take good care of them and wire the folks at home.

I returned with Sir Thomas Strangman, advocate-general of Bombay, who sentenced Ghandi. He told me he confidently expected another Lucknow outbreak the moment sentence was pronounced and he was dreading it would begin in the courthouse. But none came.

A man was described recently as living in Colorado in summer and California in winter, but with New York his home. What is a home?

In Calcutta when the Prince arrived things threatened to go all askew. It was there and the foreign population was decidedly uneasy. But the authorities had the situation well in hand and trouble was again confined to disputes among the natives themselves.

Two prisoners have just escaped from the officer taking them in the direction of the penitentiary. Officers seem almost too kind sometimes.

The great majority of motor cars seen in India are of American makes. Business is going on at the old stand with all the old eclat.

Things are much better in India than they have been made to appear at home. We received all the American newspapers and we learned many things about India which nobody in the country could verify.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Occasionally the news columns tell of the sentence of a drug peddler to sixty days' imprisonment.

HENRY JAMES

Perhaps the phrase "travesty on justice" is shopworn and trite, but it befits this penalty. Sixty years would not be more than such a dangerous derelict deserved.

Indeed, the happiest outcome would be for him to be killed while resisting arrest, since there is no legal method of hanging him.

The peddler of forbidden poisons is accessory to every crime that it is possible to commit. He inspires the assassin, puts courage into the heart of the burglar, lights the torch of the incendiary, steadies the arm of the bandit. It is due to the drug habit that the highways are unsafe, the retired home not immune from entry, and that horrid deeds of which women are the victims, shock the senses.

Of course, all this is "old stuff." The peddler of forbidden poisons is accessory to every crime that it is possible to commit. He inspires the assassin, puts courage into the heart of the burglar, lights the torch of the incendiary, steadies the arm of the bandit. It is due to the drug habit that the highways are unsafe, the retired home not immune from entry, and that horrid deeds of which women are the victims, shock the senses.

Almost every one of the nameless deeds at which sane persons shudder is the work of a drug addict. The man who peddles the deadly poisons and powders that make demons of his patrons, is caught, found guilty as of a trifling offense, and locked up for sixty whole days! This may make him laugh, but it does not reform him.

Gypsy palmists are being driven from the cities. Probably they read palms as accurately as anybody can, but they lack refinement, and can't afford a gilded office and an impressive sign.

If the truth is told, one soothsayer is about as good as another. The theory has been advanced that man did not descend from the ape, but that the ape is a throwback from the human line.

If this gives Bryan any comfort, he's welcome. The city auditor of Long Beach held up the pay check of the purchasing agent, who thereupon let out what is known as a boiler. Then the auditor, a lady with a sense of justice, explained.

She said that when a workman in the purchasing department was ill, the purchasing agent was mighty quick to hold back pay for the time lost. She thought the official needed a dose of his own medicine. Maybe he did, and it will do him good.

Correspondents seem to inspire each other. One told recently of the vengeance wrought by a lad down south, whose father had been murdered. The spunky little chap vowed neither to eat nor sleep until he had killed the murderer, and he kept the vow, with such celerity that he had no time to get hungry.

A few days later a similar story drifted in from Mexico. The difference was that the nemesis this time was a wee girl clad in white, which made the affair more romantic.

Whether this ends the series of stories may be ascertained by watching the dispatches.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Mrs. Pilgrim told me again last night that I am an old fool. And I agree. But my domestic treasure and I disagree as to the manner in which I show my folly. She thinks I am foolish at the Hitchford-Monticors. Whereas I think that I am a double and twisted, hand-wrought, copper-fastened moron for standing for the H-M's as long as I have.

I believe that Americans are the healthiest, strongest, most generous, most intelligent, cleanest-minded, kindest, richest, most tolerant and most courteous people on earth.

The Hitchford-Monticors are a good example of the flea-minded Americans who still hog around on our body politic. They think that the European nations are better than we are. Hitchford-Monticors said last night that his "very flesh crept"—those are the identical words—when he heard an American boasting.

"It makes us seem so cheap in the eyes of Europeans," said he. Sure. And you know why. It is because each Englishman and each Frenchman and each German and each Italian firmly believes that he belongs to the one nation that has a stranglehold on culture, on refinement, and all the rest of it. As they should believe. A nation made up of men believing in themselves and their country is strong and sure. One made up of Hitchford-Monticors, sneering at their own people, vaunting the merits of rivals and enemies, would not go very far.

"Do you really believe the United States won the war?" Hitchford-Monticor asked me. "I believe that if we had not come in the allies were licked," I said. "And I'll tell you a secret. So did the allies."

"My word," said Hitchford-Monticor. "MY WORD!" I was Hitchie's guest and I could not talk to him the way I would have liked. And my wife had her eye on me. But one of these days I'll trap him into a foolish break out on the streets. And—Be-Lieve Me—when I get through with that venerated Briton he'll know of another war that was won by an American.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA E. STEWART

Some of us exercise sympathy and judgment and energy. Others simply exercise our vocal organs. It takes so many, many words to tell what we think about things, and what we are going to do about them, that we never really accomplish anything worth while.

The man or the woman of actual accomplishments is the man or the woman of few words. The energy that goes in talking cannot be transmuted into action. If all the force of words in the world of today could be crystallized into concrete action Russia would be set on her financial feet, Germany would pay her debts, France and England and our own country would have settled all the questions over which it has haggled for months, all sorts of constructive legislation would be under way, the white dove of peace would find a welcome home in every country, and Utopia would appear in the offing. Yes. All that and more.

Oh, the volume of idle talk that daily ascends to high heaven! The bombastic ideas, the cynical aphorisms that seek to pass for deep wisdom, the half-truths that deceive the shallow thinkers, the suave, diplomatic assurances that hide within themselves their double meaning, the propaganda of all kinds carelessly concealed with surface probity, the boasting over defiance of law, the "bunk" political and otherwise!

Are we adding to its volume?

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

Dr. Stephen Smith, the 99-year-old founder of the American Public Health association, claims that man's natural term of life man hand being absent, is 100, instead of 70 years. Tasmania is today the largest producer of chickens have no ring fingers. The bones of the bird's hand or wing are three in number; those corresponding to the little finger and the ring finger of the human hand being absent. It has been estimated that on a mature maple tree of vigorous growth there is one-half acre of leaf surface exposed to the sun.

RAISING OF THE LUSITANIA IS MOOTED

Whether Successful or Not Question of Cargo May Be Settled

LONDON, July 17.—Speculation is rife here and on the Continent as to the possibility of raising the Lusitania.

Whether the salvaging is successful or not, revelations of historic import are expected to follow the attempt.

Did the Lusitania carry munitions? That is the moot question which the salvaging operations are expected to clear up.

The German press is taking a particularly keen interest in the project. Berlin papers, which have recently been devoting considerable space to discussions of war guilt, are agitating for the appointment of a German official witness of the salvaging attempt.

Count Charles Zaratelli Landi, who will command the specially equipped salvage ship, "Semper Paratus," is confident of success.

"The Lusitania," he told an interviewer, "lies in 230 feet of water on a clean gravel bottom. No attempt has ever been made to raise her, because the limit of diving possibilities has hitherto been not much more than 120 feet. The new diving-suit which I have invented will enable my men to work at a depth of 500 feet."

"Do you expect to bring the Lusitania home under her own steam?" the count was asked.

Engines Disabled
"Perhaps not," the salver replied. "I expect to find her engines disabled by the torpedo that severed her main steam pipe, thus instantly stopping all her mechanical functions when she was hit. Had that fatal torpedo struck 30 feet farther forward, the Lusitania would never have sunk. She could have limped along those few miles and been safely beached."

"If it is mechanically possible," said the count, "three days are all that are necessary to get the engines of a salvaged vessel in order again. There is no rust. The deeper the water in which a ship has been lying, the less rust there is."

Count Landi does not appear disturbed by the report that an American firm is already proceeding across the Atlantic to save the Lusitania.

"The Ayeredy Salvaging and Towing company, of which I am managing director," he said, "has been granted a three-year contract by the Liverpool and London War Risk Insurance company, the British owners of the vessel and her contents."

Count Landi, an Italian by birth, is a naturalized British subject. He spent years in Canada at ship salvaging and hydrographic surveys.

His Greatest Triumph
One of the count's greatest triumphs as a salver was the raising of the French steamer "Evangeline," which was torpedoed near Corfu and sank with a heavy and extremely valuable cargo off the Madonna rocks. The French admiralty sent for Landi. Contre Admiral Merveilleux du Vignaux, in command of the Eastern Mediterranean, was skeptical as to the success of the attempt.

After going down, examining the ship and estimating the difficulties, Landi said to the French commander:

"I will have her up in six days."

The admiral laughed tolerantly. "She came up in five days, four hours and 22 minutes," said Landi in describing the salvaging of this vessel.

Landi has had 18 years' experience in salvaging work. While operating under Sir Vincent Gregh of the British Salvaging company, of London, with Constantinople as his base, he brought up many ships of all sizes in the Black Sea, the Dardanelles and the Sea of Marmora. During and since the war he has had charge of the salvaging operations of various companies chartered by the British admiralty.

One of the grimmest tales of salvaging that Count Landi has to tell is of the King Alfred. When she was torpedoed, a gramophone concert was going on in the wardroom. "The Britannia" was being played as she sank. When the salvagers brought up the gramophone half a year later, full of water but undamaged, the record was still in place. The machine was dried out and the unplayed half of the record was heard on the salvage ship.

ARGENTINE DON'TS PIT NO. 1 TO ADD TO SENORAS' WEIGHT BEGIN OPERATIONS

Hydro-Electric Plant of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. to Turn Over

REDDING, Calif., July 17.—"Pit No. 1," the largest hydro-electric power plant in America, will be in operation in September, according to present plans of the Pacific Gas and Electric company.

The plant is on the Pit river in Shasta county. Its electric capacity will be 93,000 horsepower, which will deliver 220,000 volts to San Francisco and the bay region for industrial purposes. The daily output of energy will be 350,000 kilowatts, which is enough energy to drive 50 per cent of the passenger trains in the country.

If this energy was to be produced by steam, it would take over 2,500,000 barrels of oil to maintain it.

The plant is equipped with two turbines, each harnessed to a giant generator. The plant is housed in a castle of medieval design. The plant is declared to be the most simple in construction in the United States, considering the immense horsepower generated.

To drive the turbines the company bored a tunnel two miles long through a mountain back of Pit one. The tunnel is in the shape of a horseshoe, and is 14 feet in height. The entire watercourse of the Fall river will be brought through this tunnel, and turned down to the powerhouse and through the turbines.

The electricity comes from the generators at low voltage. But in order to obtain long-distance transmission—it is 300 miles to San Francisco—it is necessary to obtain a high voltage current. The juice is therefore run through giant transformers and stepped up to 220,000 volts.

The company spent $7,000,000 on a specially constructed power line to transmit the current.

The company eventually plans five plants, all of which will be below Pit one. All of them will not be completed for a number of years, as the company intends to build as there is increasing demand for hydro-electric power.

As soon as Pit One is completed, they will begin building "Pit Two," which is to be located just below Pit One. Hence the same water will be doing double duty.

Eventually, probably not later than 1935 or 1940, all five power plants will be turning out something like 500,000 horsepower in hydro-electric energy.

WORK IN THE FLOWER GARDEN

In July we are obliged to irrigate and cultivate and repeat the process often. In the interior, this process must be carried on much more frequently than on the coast, where we have summer fogs. Lawns need an extra amount of clipping and sprinkling this month. Roses should be "rested." Climbers may be pruned quite heavily if necessary.

It is too late for bulb planting, but stocks, pansies, cosmos, antirrhinum, lobelia and centaurea may be sown for late transplanting on the coast and in mild interior regions.

All seedlings that can possibly be transplanted should be rushed into the ground where they will be protected. The seedling flats must be kept very moist and shaded during a part of the day. The transplanting of seedlings before the real summer days is always advisable, unless they are small enough to carry over until fall.

In the interior sections, July is not a good month to plant and transplant, unless one is setting out sturdy plants on their own roots. Even then, protection is needed. On the coast, the garden routine is scarcely varied throughout the year, but in the semi-tropical regions even those near the coast, sometimes we experience rather warm days.

Here the planting is almost the same, with the exception that one must not expect a so-called "cool" crop to succeed during the summer.

Children's Home Society of Los Angeles Asks Through Press

The small town or the country community is a better place in which to bring up boys and girls than a large city, in the opinion of Mrs. Jordan, state superintendent of the Children's Home Society, who has asked the Glendale Daily Press to help her find a score of childless homes for homeless children now in the care of the society, both in Los Angeles and in Oakland.

Mrs. Jordan's proposal offers an opportunity to childless couples living in the smaller communities or on ranches to gratify the desire they may have had to protect and love some small child, whose parents have deserted it. Such couples may later adopt the child as their own. The placement will be made only after an investigation of the home by representatives of the society, in order that both parents and child may be suited to each other.

"Life in the large cities has so many distractions to take the child away from home, that frequently the parents lose control entirely," says Mrs. Jordan. "This is particularly true in cases where the child is transplanted from the country or farm environment to the big city.

"Contented children must be kept busy and at home and it is usually easier for parents to do this in the small town or country than in the large city. We are finding that children are happier and better in every way when the foster parents live in small towns or on ranches."

Mrs. Jordan stated that the society now has a score of boys and girls, who are anxious to live on ranches. They are all willing to exchange their own labor and cheerfulness and appreciation for a good home, school advantages and love and kindness. There are six boys between 7 and 13 years of age at the Oakland home and more than a dozen boys and girls at the Los Angeles branch, just waiting to be claimed by a foster daddy or mother. Application for these children may be made to the Children's Home Society at either address, 919 East 25th street, Los Angeles, or 3491 Sixty-sixth avenue, Oakland.

CONTROL OF APRICOT GUMMOSIS

Fortunately, apricot gummosis is primarily a young tree disease, and orchards as they grow older, are somewhat resistant, although they may never entirely overcome it. Trees from five to eight years of age usually are most severely infected.

Apricot growers should be on the lookout for this infection. If only a small number of diseased areas occur, their removal by cutting away with pruning tools may check the spread of the disease. Removal of wintering cankers is very important, and the location of the disease now will enable one to control more effectively by winter cutting.

Disinfection of pruning tools and wounds is essential. For tools, corrosive sublimate (bichloride of mercury) 1 to 1000 solution, and for wounds cyanide of mercury 1 to 500 are effective. A mixture of the two will serve for both tools and wounds.

In severe cases of general infection cutting away of the infected parts may not be practical, but where the disease is localized, much good may be accomplished.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

THE HANDY DOLLAR

JAMES W. FOLEY

The blue skies are delightful, I will cheerfully agree. And I am glad on summer days that I can look and see
The azure dome above me, and rejoice that I am here,
Alive in this great universe of friendliness and cheer.
The flowers that bloom about me, they are wonderfully sweet,
And so too is the clover that goes nodding at my feet.
I don't forget to value them, and let my soul to sing—
But a dollar in my pocket is a mighty handy thing!

Friends are worth while, I tell you, and I value them, I do,
And weigh them as of greatest worth as I am passing through
This vale of tears and smile, and a glad heart is a prize,
And so are lips that smile at me and laughter's dancing eyes.
Yes, all of these are precious, and I would not once withhold
My tribute from the things of life so dearer far than gold.
So of these priceless treasures I can talk and dream and sing—
But a dollar in my pocket is a mighty handy thing.

The world is full of treasures of the soul and mind and heart,
The gems of genius shining in the world of highest art;
The poem that inspires me is a precious thing, I'm sure,
And all through future days and years its glory shall endure.
I'm quite alive to skies and trees and flowers in the field,
And in my love for them and things like them I do not yield,
But I must never once forget the while their joys I sing,
A dollar in my pocket is a mighty handy thing.

GOOD AND BAD HABITS IN GOLF

British Expert Treats On the Development of Play

By ALEC HERD (Written for the United Press) CHAPTER IV

Editor's Note—In this continuation of his series of instructions on the proper way of playing golf, the author discusses common mistakes in the swing.

Now for one of the most common mistakes with beginners, and, alas! occasionally with some of us who have been playing more years than we care to remember. I refer to the fault of prematurely lifting the head.

The head, I am sure, plays the most important part in a golf swing. The beginner, particularly, naturally wants to see where the ball is going, and so he lifts his head just a fraction of a second before the ball is struck. This causes the ball to be hit in the middle of the clubhead, and the momentum of the clubhead is spoiled. The correct follow-through cannot be accomplished unless the wrists and clubhead are in the proper position at the finish of the back-swing. A thousand to one this means that the head will come up and the shot will be smothered.

There is always a direct reason for every misplaced shot in golf, although the trouble is sometimes very difficult to fathom. Naturally, the longer one continues in ignorance the harder does it become to correct the mistake, and the fault is liable to become a fixed habit. There is, I may say, nothing harder in golf to overcome than a bad habit, but once you analyze matters and understand precisely the cause of your mis-hits, it is generally a simple matter to mend your ways.

One of the most common as well as one of the most exasperating faults in golf is the evil habit of topping the ball. A swing that is perfect in every respect could not possibly result in a topped shot. As a rule, the player cannot figure to himself exactly what causes him to make the mistake.

Question him, and he will probably swear that he has kept his eyes glued to the ball. Yes, but which part of ball has he kept his eye on? Nine times out of ten you will find that he has looked at the top of the ball. This is all wrong. The part of the ball on which the eye should be kept is the spot which he intends to strike.

I. W. W. PUTS OVER STORY IN FRANCE

French Author Stirred by Tale of Horrors in California

PARIS, July 17.—Romain Rolland, who before the war was considered one of the foremost French writers, but who before himself to Switzerland and launched the pacifist novel, "Above the Tarn," while his compatriots were hurling back the Germans, came out in the socialist paper, L'Humanite, with a blast against "capitalist brigandage in the United States."

An editorial note of L'Humanite explains that M. Rolland has received from his friends in America a series of documents relating to the "unnamable campaign of violence on the part of the capitalists against the vanguard of the working class movement in California."

The documents consist of charges made by I. W. W. leaders that members of that organization have been locked-up in California jails in conditions rivaling the Black Hole of Calcutta.

"That," says M. Rolland in a letter to the editor of L'Humanite, "is merely one episode in the universal reaction and I fear stupid public opinion won't be stirred in the slightest degree. But some friends of mine have told me that perhaps if these documents were published in France, under my signature, the hypocrisy of the ruling powers in America might be unmasked."

"It is with indignation and pain that I have been forced to the conclusion that the great republic of the New World, formerly so proud of its liberty, is today, just as ours is, in the hands of the hypocritical and lawless agents of the money powers."

CROCKER RESIDENCE TO BE MOVIE SCENE

SAN MATEO, Calif., July 17.—The beautiful country estate of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Templeton Crocker, near here, is at present being used as a movie location.

Producers from the Pacific Studios at San Mateo are using the house and grounds to shoot the outdoor scenes of Rupert Hughes' latest screen attempt.

The arrangement for the use of the Crocker estate, as well as a number of others of the fine estates hereabouts, was made through a San Francisco society, which is composed of wealthy people.

CHURCHES TO HAVE CHAUTAUQUA WEEK

Beginning Today Programs to Be Featured At Santa Monica

Commencing today, Monday, July 17, the entire week—known as International week—to be held at the Pacific Palisades chautauqua north of Santa Monica and during which time different days will be set aside to different denominations. The program for the week is as follows:

Monday—Methodist Day
Morning lecture by Professor Benjamin D. Scott; afternoon address, "Four Months' Trip Through Palestine" by Rev. Benjamin D. Haywood at 2:30. Evening performance, operetta by the choir of the Glendale Methodist church.

Tuesday—Presbyterian Day
Morning address by Professor Benjamin D. Scott. Address at 2:30 p. m. by Rev. Joseph A. Vance of Detroit, Mich. Dr. Vance is one of the most prominent Presbyterian divines in the country. Evening, at 8 o'clock, concert recital by Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink. This is positively Mme. Schumann-Heink's only Pacific coast appearance during the season.

Wednesday—Baptist Day
Morning lecture by Prof. Benjamin D. Scott. Afternoon at 2:30, nature readings by Cyrus C. Johnson, of Los Angeles. Evening performance at 8 o'clock, dramatic production by Miss Eleanor Miller.

Thursday—Christian Day
Morning lecture by Prof. Benjamin D. Scott; grand afternoon concert at 2:30 o'clock. William Flicher, tenor, and Jules Lepske, violin soloist of Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra. Evening, at 8 o'clock, dramatic reading by Miss Eleanor Miller.

Friday—Congregationalist Day

RUBBER GLOVES REVEAL THIEF

PARIS, July 17.—When Inspector Balaguere of the Paris central office squad, who was watching a boxing bout in the cellar of a Montmartre saloon the other night, noticed the kind of gloves the fighters were using he put two and two together and before the night was over two much sought-for burglars and a "fence" were behind the bars.

Balaguere, who won the Legion of Honor ribbon on the battlefield, is an inveterate habitue of the ring. He was invited to a match between Charles Monin and Paul L'Herminier, waiters by profession, who were in the making perhaps.

It turned out, devoting the moments to other more important but less legitimate occupations. Monin went to the mat with the count in the third round, but was in pretty bad shape and Balaguere went into the ring to see if he might not be of service. Being close to the fighter, he observed that the gloves on his hands were the rubber kind used by burglars to prevent finger prints being left on the furniture.

Judicious questioning of Monin and L'Herminier led to confessions that they were the authors of dozens of mysterious robberies of safes, looms, cigar stores, jewelry stores and so on, besides having used chloroform in taxicab robberies in the Bois de Boulogne. They gave the address of the man who purchased the product of their crimes and he, Jean Vibert, joined them in the depot early the following morning.

THE CALIFORNIA OLIVE
First planted at the Mission San Diego in 1769 by "Father" Junipero Serra, who brought the seeds of the fruit from Mexico.

Culture of the olive on a commercial scale began in the late seventies, the manufacture of olive oil being the first use to which the fruit was put.

Industry languished for some years after it was learned that production of olive oil alone would not pay in the face of keen foreign competition without adequate tariff protection.
