They have assailed it with argument and abuse, they have compared it in tyrany with the despotisms of the Great Mogul, or the Sultan of the Turks, and reproached the people as wanting in manhood and spirit for submitting to its restrainsts. The presses of a party have laboured with essays to prove the right of states to withdraw from the Union, and the inability of the federal government to compel them to submit to laws, if they are disposed to the contrary. They have argued the practicability, the reasonableness, and even necessity, of a severance of the Union, and of a friend for translation, and whatever is found yet after all this, nothing so soon excutes the spleen of these politicians, as the charge against them of "Disunion." They will plot secretly. and carry forward openly their plans of hostility to the federal constitution; but to tell them o, it, excites their keenest resentment. Why is this? Is it not because, that although they are determined on their course, they yet fear the people and dare not directly state their objects. They therefore hope by seizing on every occasion to abuse, vility and misrepresent the gene ral government, to render it in time odious and obnoxious to the people; that their prejudices and we have no doubt but our revolutionary and passions will be enlisted against it, and that troubles are at an end;—at least we hope so. The Mails. - There was another entire failsentence pronounced upon the conspirators, ure of the Mail yesterday, from beyond Montwhose case has so often been mentione t. The conspirators, it appears, were associated in a Club called the Crand Legion of the Black Eagle. Or in the the contracts are impracticable, they should be words of a government order, they had been abolished.—if the contractors are remiss and remittased into the horrid society of the Black negligent, which we doubt not is the fact, the penalties of the law should be rigorously enforced. The embarrassment and vexation are altogether intolerable; the public submitted to the evil with patient endurance, so long as it was even probably caused by the derangament of the roads, but that excuse will avail no longer. The Department owes us redress, and we confidently trust it will not be withheld-Com. Reg.
