(Continued from page 1) came to his death on the Beach Road on August 20 last, while on the way to the Lake Hill bus, accompanied by the late Mr. McLaughlin, who met death at the same time. On that day, continued His Lordship, the doctors had held a meeting at the home of Dr. Boak and Dr. C. W. Duck started home in separate cars. Dr. Duck leading. At a portion of the road where there was an unimproved strip alongside the pavement, Dr. Boak attempted to pass the lead car. Dr. Boak continued the court, was in the act of passing when he thought he saw a shadow ahead. He made an exclamation and drew his car over in front of that of Dr. Duck. The car finally went into the ditch and came to rest in front of an embankment. Dr. Boak continued the court, went to a house to telephone for a service car, in the lights of which two bodies were discovered at the side of the road. Both had come to their death apparently as the result of some very violent collision. The police were called, continued His Lordship, when it was found that a handle on Dr. Boak's car was broken off. One fraction of the handle was picked up later near the scene, while another was alleged to have borne traces of blood or brains.

(Continued from page 1) both Houses. He said that that was impossible. "Very well then," I said, if you make a similar declaration it will be the first gun fired in what will be a successful battle. "I parted from Mr. Churchill feeling that the only real measure of success in my first diplomatic attempt. GAINING NORTHCLIFFE'S SUPPORT "Now I had great confidence in Mr. Churchill's ability as a statesman to bring about what we desired, but there is no modern life power much greater than even a statesman in office, and that power is the press. I had already interested Lord Northcliffe of The Daily Telegraph, and on my side, Sir Campbell introduced me to Lord Northcliffe and I had a conversation with him. The next day he invited me to his home for luncheon to talk about the situation of the most prominent men in the banking, shipping and mercantile world, and I being on the right of Lord Northcliffe at this luncheon had him for my victim. I filled him full of our Canadian grievance. The result was that he made a speech at the end of the luncheon stating that he would do his best to carry out her pledged word and that it should have been done long ago. He followed this up by a speech next day at a dinner at the Victoria Hotel, and turned every one of his newspapers to fight for the removal of the embargo. "I might add here, that after about a year's very hard work, many dinners eaten at which the later conversations concerned our grievance, visits to country houses, and the turning of the cattle embargo, the Government at last brought in a bill and it passed both Houses of Parliament. CANADIAN LOANS TO BRITAIN "The next subject I took up was on the second or third day I was in London, and that was one of the very important financial questions. "During the time that Canada had advanced to Great Britain $120,000,000 (and I might add that our banks advanced additional $300,000,000). The banks had been paid back in the currency in which the money was borrowed, that is Canadian, but there were difficulties in the way of adjusting the debt to the Canadian currency. The British Government had bills against us for the upkeep of our troops in the field, amounting to within $130,000,000 of the amount we advanced, and we never paid a cent of that interest in sterling, the sterling to be credited to them at the par of exchange. "There had been a dispute going on between the English Treasury and our Finance Department for three years and no settlement had been arrived at. The Canadian Government claimed that the British Government still due them, while the British Government only admitted a little over $100,000,000. The position I took up at once was that the matters later on. "After several very serious talks they agreed to pay us $5,000,000 in cash and the balance to be paid in $5,000,000 per month on account of the hundred odd millions. This was quite satisfactory as to the open account. The dispute as to the value of sterling had to be left to arbitration, and Mr. Asquith acted as arbitrator. His award was partly in our favor and partly in favor of the British Government. I may say that the last instalment due us was paid off last month. GETTING FOREIGN SETTLEMENT ALSO "Then, as you will remember, immediately after the war we had advanced one of the European Governments $20,000,000 and another $5,000,000. The first one mentioned had never paid a cent of either interest or principal in the three years that had elapsed, and a well-known Montreal banker told me that he did not value the whole debt at all the amount of a year's interest. Some days after I had been in London I got as much information as I could about this matter, and I naturally inquired of the secretary of the ambassador of that country if the ambassador would come over to see me, which he did the following day, and we had two secretaries. I found him a very accomplished gentleman. He could speak French very well and English fairly well. I pointed out to him that we were in a position to his Government, as to which I found he had full knowledge. I drew his attention to the fact that whatever they did not take care of their post-war debts, their credit in Europe and America would always be of the very lowest, whereas if they took care of the debts that they had incurred since the war there would be an immediate rise in their securities, which were then being offered in Paris and London. I might mention that their securities, at that time, were at a very low ebb. PUT ON EXPORT TAX "The Ambassador told me that the war had inflicted such burdens on them that they really could only make ends meet, but during the course of a long conversation, I suggested that they should put a very small export tax on grain of all kinds, and this would take care not only of the interest but also provide a sinking fund for the principal of the loan. The Ambassador was very much interested in this, and if they would do this, my Government would reduce the interest on the debt from five to four per cent and spread the payments over twenty years, taking bonds for the same. It took many interviews, extending over several months, and many calls on the Ambassador. Finally, I persuaded the Government that this would be good policy, and their Parliament placed an export tax on grain, and per cent, when it was collected, was to be sent to England to pay the interest and provide the sinking fund for the principal of the debt to be repaid to us. I may say that this arrangement has been strictly adhered to. We have received over $2,000,000 from that Government, and there is at present sufficient in the bank in London to pay two instalments of interest not yet due. "It might be of interest to tell you that after I first met the Ambassador I had a talk with the officials of the Treasury, in which they, for the first time, asked me what I thought of the Ambassador, and I said I thought he was a very able man indeed. They then told me that the Ambassador had the reputation of being the ablest financier in Europe. When I told them of my proposition and asked their opinion of it, they said they thought it was a very good one, and that they would very much like to come in on it, as this country also owed them about fifty millions sterling. GETS ANOTHER ACCOUNT LIQUIDATED "When there was another country to which at the cessation of the War we loaned $5,000,000, and they were behind in payment of both principal and interest. I made an arrangement with them, that they should pay the date about three-quarters of a million dollars on account, and I looked forward to these two accounts being entirely liquidated. "In less than three years the High Commissioner's Office has collected debts to the extent of over $100,000,000. "Then the Government wanted somebody to take charge of the Canadian National Railways, and the proposition was made to the Hon. the Secretary of State for the Colonies, then a Labor member of Parliament, introduced me to Sir Henry Thornton, at that time general manager of a great English railway system, and ultimately, Sir Henry undertook the great responsibility that he has, and I am sure that all Canadians who have any regard for the country to congratulate themselves in having such a great public servant as Sir Henry has proved to be. RECTIFYING FLOUR RATES "The High Commissioner's office has been in the course of every month. For instance, we suddenly learned that Canadian flour was being discriminated against in the market. The price was three to six cents a hundred on flour ground in Canada than on flour ground in the United States. The American miller, even though both lots might go for the same price, was paying a higher rate than the American miller, and even though both lots might go for the same price, was paying a higher rate than the American miller, and even though both lots might go for the same price, was paying a higher rate than the American miller. "We learned that some of the other Dominions with which we have a preference on our products were in a position to buy flour from the Canadian motor car manufacturers to have this preference extended to them, as representations had been made to them that on a small party of these cars were made in Canada, and therefore, we obtained evidence and placed it before these Dominions proving to them that as much as 81 per cent of the whole motor car is produced in the Dominion of Canada. DISTRESSED CANADIANS HELPED "There are also cases of Canadians in distress. We have dealt with as many as 240 of these cases in a month. We have inquiries from Canadians who belonged to our Expeditionary Force to the number of sometimes over a hundred a month. BUYING CANADIAN BUILDING "Then there is the matter of new quarters in London. The Dominion Government has about one hundred and sixty employees in that city, and these were housed in an inferior building, where the High Commissioner, who is responsible, can see what they are doing. Therefore, it was decided to purchase a building, and in buying the Union Club in Trafalgar Square we got the very finest position in London, and perhaps in the world. I am sure that the saving to be made through carrying on our work under one roof will prove sound economy. Aside from that, we will have quarters that every Canadian will have reason to be proud of. "I have only alluded to some of the duties and some of the work performed by the High Commissioner's office, and I hope you will think that I have justified its existence, and I feel that we were very well represented by Minister in Washington, we having such close and intimate trade relations with our American cousins, he would be worth millions of dollars every year to Canada. Mr. Larkin said afterwards, reviewing the report of his remarks. TELEGRAPHERS WILL ACCEPT CONCILIATION (Continued from page 1) which was then granted. The men struck in spite of this and in doing so placed themselves on very insecure ground. "THE STRIKE VOTE "It is necessary to bring this out," Mr. Livesay continued, "because the men have put it about that they struck to avert a decreased wage on which the company was insisting. It could be further from the fact. In taking the strike vote they used

How to Remove the Age-Lines and Wrinkles

It seems difficult to believe that so simple a thing as wetting the face with a soothing creamy tartrac acid emulsion will actually remove the wrinkles, fine lines and sagging before one's very eyes, in a few minutes, and without the least pain. But thousands of women have proved this to their satisfaction. It is only necessary to use a spoonful of this emulsion mixed with a little lemon juice—then go to the mirror and watch the age-lines, furrows and wrinkles disappear like magic! It is a most startling experience. Even very aged faces are remarkably rejuvenated. Procure an original package of powdered tartrac acid from Druggists or chemists. It does not keep. It is most easily removed and you will be astonished and delighted with the result. You will find it not only non-injurious, but decidedly beneficial to skin and complexion. Unlike cosmetics or make-up, it does not clog the pores. It is a natural fact, but is to be washed off entirely, leaving the complexion much refreshed, natural and beautiful.

NAVAL WEDDING OF UNUSUAL INTEREST ESQUIMALT TO-DAY Lt. Beech, R.N., Commander of Thiepval on Trip to Japan Weds Miss Wolfenden

A naval wedding of unusual interest which was solemnized at St. Paul's Naval and Military Garrison Church, Esquimalt, this afternoon at 2.15, had for its principals Beatrice Annie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Wolfenden of 422 Broad Street, Esquimalt, and Lieut. William James Robert Beech, R.C.N., who was in command of Ss. Thiepval when that Government vessel made its recent trip to Japan and rescued Major Stuart McLaren, commander of the British round-the-world flight, at Komandorski Island. Lieut. Beech is the son of the late Dr. Beech of Spring Island, and Mrs. Beech of Victoria.

Masses of early Autumn flowers, arranged by girl friends of the bride, including Mrs. T. Matson and Miss Jean Donald, Joy Phillips and Helen Streetfield, turned the church into a floral bower for the pretty ceremony, which was performed by the rector, Rev. F. C. Chapman.

Entering the church on her father's arm, the petite bride made a winsome picture in her lovely wedding gown of ivory satin brocade fashioned on simple lines, caught on the left hip with a spray of orange blossom which was originally worn by her mother, a long train of radium lace over sheen pink georgette falling gracefully from the shoulders. Her veil of embroidered tulle was confined to the hair beneath a coronet of orange blossoms and a bouquet of Ophelia roses and swansonia completed the bridal toilette.

Mrs. Napier Hemy of Oakland, Calif., sister of the bride, was the matron of honor, charmingly gowned in eau de nil georgette and silver ribbon over a tupe of satin trimmed with bands of silver lace, with which she wore a becoming hat of eau de nil georgette and silver. Miss Phyllis Barton, the only bridesmaid, wore a pretty gown of melon georgette over a satin jupe with silver lace and a cloche hat of georgette and silver lace to match. Both carried bouquets of palest pink carnations. The bride's train was carried by a page, Master Herbert Brown, cousin of the bride, attired as a diminutive sailor.

During the signing of the register, Miss Beatrice Macdonald sang "Perfect Love." Lieut. Pressy, R.C.N., supported the bridegroom, and Lieutenants Gow and Hart of the Naval Barracks acted as ushers. The bridegroom and his fellow officers were all in naval uniform.

At the reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Wolfenden received the guests in a smart gown of tomato georgette heavily beaded in blue and steel, and a tricorn hat of Havana velvet trimmed with an ostrich feather of tomato shade. The reception rooms were arranged with pink mauve and white asters and pink dahlias in lovely profusion, while the table at which the bride cut the cake with her husband's sword in time-honored fashion, was beautifully arranged with pink phlox, the handiwork of Miss Pooley.

Lieut. and Mrs. Beech left for a honeymoon trip among the Sound cities and will return later to Esquimalt to make their home. The bride traveled in a smart three-piece suit of navy tricotine and French blue, with cloche hat of blue velvet. Among the many beautiful gifts received by the young couple was a handsome silver tea service and mahogany tray from the groom's fellow officers. The groom's gift to the bride was a traveling case with silver fittings, while the bride's gift to the groom was a handsome wrist watch.

Tag Day Gratifying—The board of directors of the Y.W.C.A. are very gratified at the result of their tag day held on Saturday. They added $617 to their building fund. They wish to heartily thank all who so cheerfully gave their time for tagging, particularly the business girls who worked before and after business hours for funds for their new building, and the public who so generously and generously responded to the appeal.

Strawberry Vale Social—A social evening will be held in Strawberry Vale Hall on Friday, September 26, at 7.30 o'clock, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of St. Columba Church. The usual stalls will be in evidence, including one for superfluities, to which members of the church are asked to contribute. Refreshments will be served cafeteria style, and the programme will be provided by children of the two parishes of Royal Oak and Strawberry Vale. A small admission fee will be charged.

SCOTS' DAUGHTERS ELECT OFFICERS Esquimalt League Chooses Mrs. J. Nicol For President The annual meeting and election of officers of the Esquimalt Scottish Daughters' League took place on Friday evening at the residence of Mrs. J. Nicol. The annual report showed a very successful year. The League had been able to raise sufficient funds to meet all its expenses, and its finances still showed a satisfactory balance.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Hon. president, Mrs. J. Nicol; president, Mrs. McFarlane; first vice-president, Mrs. Tom Scott; second vice-president, Mrs. McFarlane; treasurer, Mrs. Pea; financial secretary, Mrs. Hansen; usher, Mrs. Rogers; and committee, Mrs. Wallace and Mrs. J. Nicol. The installation of the new officers was conducted by the past president, Mrs. Rogers, who was afterwards presented with the pin of the order and a beautiful bouquet on her retirement. The presentation was made by Mrs. Nicol, who voiced the appreciation of the League for the work of the president during her year of office. Mrs. Rogers expressed her thanks in a few words.

Three delegates were appointed to attend the meetings of the proposed union of Scots Societies and Clubs. After the business meeting a miscellaneous shower was held in honor of Mrs. Jack Langford (nee Nellie Craigdallie). The gifts, which were very numerous, were brought in in a flower-decked wagon, and very beautiful and varied they appeared as they emerged from their wrappings. Of special beauty was a silver cake basket, which was presented by Mrs. Rogers as a gift from the Scottish Daughters.

The evening entertainment of songs and recitations was carried by a "Home-town roll-call" for which each member was called on to tell the special features historically and personally of her native city. Before leaving the guests heartily sang "Auld Lang Syne" and concluded with a vote of thanks to Mrs. McFarlane for so generously loaning her home. The opening dance of the league will take place on Friday, October 3, at the Rex Theatre.

TO SUPERSEDE RENO AS DIVORCE CENTRE Proposed New Divorce Colony in Mexico; Ninety-day Residence Requirement San Francisco, Sept. 22.—The fall of Reno as a divorce mecca seems a possibility if the plans of a group of Los Angeles and San Francisco capitalists mature, for it is now projected to establish a divorce colony at Ensenada, Mexico, with a ninety-day residence requirement as the sole necessity in order to file an action in the Mexican courts. The scheme is moving forward rapidly and its proponents even have started negotiations with the Pacific Steamship Company, operating the Admiral Line of coastwise steamers, to establish a regular service from San Diego, California, to Ensenada, Mexico, a voyage of seventy miles. The promoters of "The Land of Perfect Freedom" will have representation in the sessions of the Mexican Congress to bring about an amendment to the residence law of the State of Baja California permitting the filing of a court action ninety days after being within the borders of the state. A similar residence requirement is now in force in the more remote State of Yucatan, Mexico. In the new colonization scheme a $1,500,000 hotel will be built, an ornate temple of chance will be erected, where may be found all the games which made Monte Carlo famous and high-class cafes and dance pavilions will dot the silver-sand beach of Todos Santos Bay at Ensenada. The city, which has a climate similar to San Diego and is on the southern coast of California, is one of the most enterprising in Western Mexico. Among the inducements offered by Ensenada Commercial Club are fishing and hunting, followed by this illuminating paragraph: "Ensenada receives the choicest of wines and liquors from England, Ireland, Scotland, Canada, Spain, Italy and France." "The Land of Perfect Freedom," according to its promoters, will bear none of the characteristics of the usual Mexican border town, for there will be adequate supervision of entertainments to eradicate any of the wild life of border towns.

Do your cows (according to your knowledge of their capacity) produce as much milk as they should—or are you marking time and feeding a number of boarders that should be sent to the butcher? Publicity Representative of C.P.R. is Visitor Here

That publicity about Canada is very popular is the statement of Walter L. Payne, assistant to the Canadian Pacific Railway publicity manager in London, England, who arrived in the city Friday and left yesterday for Duncan and Courtenay.
Mr. Payne sees a great deal of the agricultural world, particularly in the south and west of England, where he lectures, and finds that there is quite a large class of agricultural workers to be reached in some of the counties. He has met with exceptional success in Hampshire, Somerset and some of the other counties, where he has delivered his message to hundreds of people.
He is now in Canada renewing his acquaintances with the country and points out apart from securing settlers, a good deal of publicity is done in his motion pictures and lantern slides for Canada as a tourist and sportsman's country. Vancouver Island from this aspect occupies a good deal of attention and in this respect reference will now be made to the company's intention to add an amusement centre to the attractions of Victoria. He notes a great improvement since he was here last in 1920.
Mr. Payne while in the city visited the Experimental Station at Sidney and also the offices of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau and met Thomas Walker, who was for some time in charge of the Agent-General's office in London.
On his return he is looking forward to an active campaign for the movement of people to Canada, but efforts will be made to restrict them of the proper type.

SEEKS TO RESTRAIN URBAN MIGRATION

High Commissioner For Canada in London is Visitor Here

During his visit to Canada at this time Hon. P. C. Larkin, High Commissioner for Canada, is stressing that the necessity of agricultural labor is being emphasized in the Old Country by publicity organizations, and that there is no attempt to bring out industrial workers.
Mr. Larkin arrived here Saturday afternoon with members of his family.
Discussing immigration, Mr. Larkin said that a steady flow of agriculturalists from the Old Country to Canada had set in, but it was well for Canadians to realize that agriculturalists formed a very small percentage of the population of Great Britain.
"While it would be a grand thing," said Mr. Larkin, "to bring into Canada a large number of the present unemployed, it would be too great a risk at the present time, for it might mean that the unemployed men from cities over there to swell the ranks of the unemployed in the Canadian cities. The time is not ripe for bringing industrial workers to Canada, but there will come a time when they can be absorbed by the Dominion. At the present time we must concentrate on bringing over agricultural workers, and everything is being done to this end."
Mr. Larkin paid a tribute to the fine representation of Canada at the Wembley Exhibition, and remarked that it had resulted in a tremendous movement of Canadian travel in London, the High Commissioner being called upon to meet hundreds of people, in fact the Summer had been exceedingly busy for him. He believed the British Empire exhibition would be of great value to the Dominion, and to its development.
"I confidently predict," said Mr. Larkin, "that the next ten years will be the most prosperous in Canada's history. Canada, without a doubt, is in a better position than any other country in the world at the present time, and no one who has made a careful study of this subject could think otherwise. If those who take a gloomy view of Canada's future had seen as I have seen, Europe in the midst of its troubles, which are not only economic but strike at the very root of a stable existence, and troubles as it is by the ever-threatening war-clouds, they would not question the advantages of the Dominion as a country in which to live and to prosper."
Mr. Larkin spoke to-day to the Victoria Canadian Club, and will address the Vancouver Canadian Club on Wednesday.

Giants Suffered Reverse at Hands of Cubs and Have Only Half a Game Lead

AMERICAN LEAGUE
St. Louis, Sept. 22.—Washington made it two out of three by defeating the Browns in yesterday's game here, six to four. Over to a heavy down-pour the start of the game was delayed one hour and a half, and was called on account of darkness at the end of the seventh inning.

AN EVEN SPLIT
Chicago, Sept. 22.—The White Sox and Connie Mack's Athletics divided the doubleheader at Comiskey Park yesterday before 20,000 fans. The Sox won the opener 4 to 1, and the Athletics won the second 12 to 5.

GIANTS SUFFER REVERSE
New York, Sept. 22.—Too much Tony Kauffman. That was the tale told by the Giants yesterday. The Cub youngster blanked McGraw's claim for nine full frames, the final score being 3 to 1. In only two innings were the Giants dangerous. In the first with one out and O'Connell and Young on the path, but Tony made Kelly foul out and Terry fled to Miller, while in the box, but gave the loss. Grimes struck out seven batters during the progress of the ten-inning tilt.

Newcastle Playing Inconsistent Football; Preston Earns Its First Points

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Canadian Press Cable).—Forty thousand people saw Arsenal defeat Sheffield United by two goals to nothing on Saturday in a game in which the veteran Rutherford scored in the second successive match. The victory retained for Arsenal their position as runner-up to Huddersfield town. The latter on their own ground were able only to split with the Blackburn Rovers, a feat on the part of the Lancastrians that is considered highly meritorious.

Coast Golfers Do Very Well in the First Day's Play

ARMORE, Pa., Sept. 22.—Bobby Jones of Atlanta, less than a week from his triumph at the National Amateur Golf championship when he finished to-day his 18 holes in 37-35, 72, making a total of 144 for the 36-hole test.

SHOULD GET IN
Wright, Hunter and von Elm can safely be counted as "in" barring the break of leg. Willing and Egan, good as their first-half scores were, cannot afford to stray far from par to-day. There are just thirty-two places left in the final round, and if Saturday's pace is maintained in the second round, scores of 166 for the full route may have to play off for the right to go into the draw. Fortunately, both Willing and Egan are players who have established themselves as being able to hit the pin.

Oak Bay Bowlers Anxious to Have Their Own Green

Lawn bowling, which took such a long time getting on its feet, seems a pretty healthy young sport now and is running all over the city. For some years the Victoria Lawn Bowling Club did a lot of pioneer work and gradually worked up a membership which necessitated a second green. There came a move by members in the north end of the city and the Burnside Bowling Club came into being.

Will Make Fourth Club in This City; Game is Going Ahead By Leaps and Bounds

STILL ANOTHER
New comes news of still another addition to the family. Oak Bay wants to have a club and in order to see what can be done about it a meeting has been called for Thursday evening.

GETTING ALONG NICELY
Victoria does not have to rely upon competition from the outside now as in past years. The Beacon Hill club has had a narrow escape from the sport suffered owing to the lack of competition, but now the other clubs are springing up the game is prospering, not only in point of attraction, attendance and enthusiasm, but also in standard. It is putting an edge on the play of even the stars.

Huge Crowd Sees Ponies Race For Last Time Here

Racing Comes to Close at Willows With Fast Races And Heavy Betting
Stroller, Local Horse, Runs Great Race; Three Favorites Make the Grade

Racing is all over for another year in British Columbia and before another season rolls around it is doubtful if there will be the result of the agitation against prolonged race meets will be. For ten weeks the ponies have been picking holes in the dirt with their sharp hoofs and there is reports another track will be added near Vancouver next year which will give the Province a dozen weeks of racing. Strong forces are being marshalled to sound the death-knell of racing and just what success the attack will have will not be known until the legislature meets.

LOCAL HORSE WINS
Stroller, a long-legged dark chestnut owned by "Mike" Calvert of this city, romped off with the sixth race over six and one-half furlongs. Worthman, one of the highest class horses that has ever run here, was played tremendously heavy but the impost of 122 pounds proved too much for the stout four-year-old who never got up with the pace and finished third. Sunny Ways, a splendid little animal, jumped into the lead at the break of the barrier and opened up several lengths with Stroller running second. Sunny Ways held out stoutly until swinging into the stretch when the early pace told on her and she could not match the long strides of Stroller who overtook her and won easily. Stroller, the third choice for the race, pair 110-5.

The longest of the afternoon came in the ten race when an old performer, Little Pointer, held his nose in the right place and gained a close decision over Flying Orb. There was a little demonstration by those who had backed Flying Orb but it was explained by those in line with the wire that Little Pointer's nose was extended while Flying Orb's was pulled in. Flying Orb brought his head down it was beyond Little Pointer's but it was too late as the wire had passed. Pat Mabrey, a winner earlier in the year, was finished by Little Pointer's nose which was extended while Flying Orb's was pulled in. Rainstorm Made His First Fortune With Play Written in 1890 When Lad of Nineteen; Now Showing at Capitol.

Bridging the gap between two generations—the old generation of stage melodrama veterans and the modern generation of motion picture fans—in the performance of Lincoln J. Carter, creator of "The Cyclone Rider," the sensational spectacular William Fox attraction which is at the Capitol Theatre to-day.

This "miracle-man" of melodrama, known also as the "father of melodrama," proves that the age of miracles isn't past; that it's really only just beginning in the motion picture world. Incidentally, he has "fathered" thirty-seven successes, crowned by "The Cyclone Rider," now a William Fox screen production.

Lincoln J. Carter is a shining example of a "man who came back," of a champion of champions, who retired, beaten—only to stage a brilliant comeback. His own life could easily be melodramatized.

Once it rained in Carter's life and it not only rained but it poured dollars and success. It was this way. He was barnstorming with a theatrical company as property boy. For three weeks, there was nothing doing, not a nickel of pay forthcoming. He was just nineteen years old. So he wrote his first melodrama, "The Fast Mail"—on a washstand under a hanging coal oil lamp in a hall bedroom," as he reminisces. That was in 1890.

Young Carter thought he had a sympathetic reader and critic in his mother, who was then the famous "Martha" in Lewis Morrison's "Faust." Who remember them now? Such is fame! But millions knew and still know Lincoln J. Carter.

He read his maiden effort at melodramatics to his gifted mother, who fell asleep during the second act. A second reading, to Lewis Morrison, evoked mild interest; but young Carter couldn't "kid" Morrison into coming in for a half interest in the production for $700. The first season of "The Fast Mail" cleaned up $125,000.

Here's how young Carter put himself across. He got the manager of

Babbitt From Pen of Sinclair Lewis At Playhouse

Middle Class Business Man With Yearning for Romance is Human Role

It is singularly fitting that Sinclair Lewis, author of the novel "Babbitt," which tells the story of a typical business man whose soul yearns for romance, should be a true American by birth and heritage.

It is questionable whether any other writer, without his background, could have produced a work so representative of the millions of people that make up our country. Babbitt's home, his family life, his business activities—in short, Babbitt himself in his rebellion against materialism and his hunger for romance seems to tell the story of the middle class citizen of America.

Mr. Lewis, thirty-seven years of age, is one of the "counted few" who can trace his ancestry back through three hundred years in blue-blooded Yankee-ism—which has given him his deep-seated desire to perpetuate the "real" American.

He was born in a small Minnesota town, of a family that had figured prominently in the annals of Connecticut and New York State. After his graduation from Yale University, he became a newspaper reporter, drifting away from city to city, studying the different types of humanity, until he reached San Francisco. There he became editor of the Associated Press.

After his literary apprenticeship, he was appointed editor of a New York magazine, which post he held for five years, during which time his activities made him a figure of note in the world of letters. He was a book reviewer and literary adviser for various publishers.

Then the world called him. The past five years of Mr. Lewis' life have been spent in wandering through Italy, France, England and every quarter of the United States—from Minneapolis to Cape Cod, Seattle to Florida, Iowa to Maine, Georgia to Washington. These peregrinations form interludes of study and travel for the long settled periods of concentrated work, that resulted in innumerable short stories that have been published in some of the best known magazines of the country; a play that appeared on Broadway and his remarkable line-up of novels, which include "Main Street," "The Job," "Free Air" and culminates in his greatest triumph, "Babbitt."

It is "Babbitt," the romance of a matter-of-fact business man that has finally been recreated on the screen, by Warner Brothers, under the direction of Harry Beaumont, which is showing at the Playhouse Theatre.

With Willard Louis in the role of Geo. F. Babbitt, whose unromantic exterior covered a heart still young with dreams, ably supported by Mary Alden, Carmel Myers, Gertrude Olmsted, Clary Fitzgerald, Raymond McKee, and a host of others, rumor has it that "Babbitt" lives up to the book and on its own merits can be proclaimed the great American photoplay.

Musical Programme At Capitol Theatre

The musical programme to be played in conjunction with the screening of "The Cyclone Rider" at the Capitol Theatre this week includes several popular numbers and musical selections of interest to lovers of light, snappy and tuneful music.

Predominant among Director Prescott's programme of musical hits are such favorites as "Burning Sands," "Mandalay," "Mean Blues," "Sawmill River Road" and "Hurdy Gurdy." Special attention has also been given by Mr. Prescott to the lesser subjects on this week's bill, so with the admirable support of A. W. Thomas, the Capitol Theatre organist, a really first-class musical treat is in store for patrons attending the premiere showing of this week's bill. On the same bill are "The Richard Twins," billed as "The Sweethearts in Vaudeville."

Monna Vanna is Filmed in Show At Coliseum

Scene in General's Tent Was Objected to in Book Form, Now Ban Lifted.

"Monna Vanna," Maurice Maeterlinck's historical love romance which has won world-wide fame, was banned in England for more than ten years. It was not until July, 1911 that the play was produced on the London stage. It was first produced in America in 1905 with Bertha Kalich in the title role and later in 1914 as an opera with Mary Garden in the leading part.

The Lord Chamberlain of London banned the play after it was produced in Paris with Madame Maeterlinck in the leading role. The reason for banning the play was the scene in the tent of the Florentine general and his interview with Monna Vanna. Vitelli has demanded that Monna Vanna visit him in his tent alone and clad only in a cloak, or he would sack the city. Monna Vanna volunteers to sacrifice herself in order to save her starving people. But the heroine of the city is returned to Pisa unharmed when Vitelli recognizes in her the woman who once saved his life after he had been wounded.

As with most banned plays the offending scene, when it finally was shown on the stage, was not such a terrible outrage against propriety as it was thought to be. The motion picture of this spectacular romance is now winning the praise of the critics. William Fox will present "Monna Vanna" for the first time in this city to-day at the Coliseum Theatre.

Montmartre With Pola Negri Showing At Columbia To-day

As Yvette, Pola Plays Alluring Role as Dancer in French Cafe

"Montmartre," Pola Negri's latest Paramount production, directed by Ernest Lubitsch, the man who made the star famous in "Passion," is a colorful romance of France about 1860.

In the picture, which is showing at the Columbia Theatre, Pola has the role of Yvette, an alluring dancer in the Cafe Flora in Montmartre. She has a chance meeting with a young composer, and he falls in love with her. But there is an older cousin who steps in and spoils everything by telling the musician's mother that Yvette is no kind of a woman for her son to be seen with—a café grisette and all that. Nevertheless they get married in secret.

The composer makes a great hit with his symphony. He is at the peak of his fame, and it goes to his head. He begins to pay less and less attention to his wife, and the one-time popular café-dancer is now a cast woman.

With a novel twist in affairs, an altogether unexpected climax, all comes rushing back, and—why tell the story when it is so infinitely more entertaining on the screen "Montmartre" is said to be the best thing Pola Negri's ever done.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—In the immediate wake of all world upheavals, comes a surge of extemporaneous expression, born of hysteria or motivated by an urge to "cash in" on the timeliness of the topic. Such outbursts in the theatre, in painting, in the written word, usually die a death as hurried as their birth.

But with the seasoning of time, and its maturity of perspective, comes an aftermath wherein salt tears are dehydrated, splashed colors are evened, and all forms are more rounded.

The line of demarcation between the two periods is not clearly defined. The creator who tries to cross it may find himself lost in a no-man's land, a tagger-on, a late-comer who is making belated effort to tie his tail to the string of a soaring kite.

YET, at this late day, comes a war play—a British one at that—and catches on! For it is a good play and excellent theatre first, and a war play with an English comedy afterwards. It is a play as well made as any of the school of Pinero and his expert contemporaries, who timed such situation with the precision of deft mechanics.

"Havoc," written by Harry Wall, is a drama built in the finest technique of the theatre with exposition, a perfect, action, culminating, with a climax that does not fade out in anticlimax, of the stuff of real men and women.

It has scenes in an army hut, in a cellar dug-out below the trenches of France, with soldiers wounded, and the rattle of machine gun fire in the distance—yet it is not melodrama.

It is a play of "Havoc" wrought not of the war, but of a lady vamp for whose kiss men kill. And it does not end in a happy fade-out, nor in a set bestworn with the dead lovers' life itself.

Acted by the original London company, few of whose members had ever been heard of here, the drama's interpretation is enhanced by their thoroughness and training.

The men actors are better than the women. But neither can outshine the play—the fine drama that has come to New York this young season.

QUEENIE SMITH and her dancing partner, Jack Donohue, are the hit of the new Kaufmann-Connelly show "Be Yourself." They evidently took the title to heart, forgot all about the brightness of the lines, and simply whirled off with the show.

"M" FERGUSON and the presidential candidates are the most topical thing in this year's Passing Show which started on the day after the Winter Garden. Thus we have a revue echo of the Democratic Convention, of the Coolidge silence, of the La Follette tempestuousity and the Davis reserve, with "Ma" bringing up the rear. Also there are Charley and Bill Bryan.

For the rest there is nothing very new in the 1924 version, but there is a lot that is very lavish. The pace has been set at the fastest of tempos and the costume makers have been worked overtime. Some day revue producers may learn that lavishness may become synonymous with garishness and that beauty may be gained through simplicity in which art takes precedence over the gaudy. However it is a "glittering galaxy," etc.

James Barton, with his inimitable darkey dances, carries the show. He carries nothing short of a riot in his comedy shoes. His feet behave in a fashion that baffles imagination. His telephone booth stunt is the funniest thing on the bill. The stout Lola McConnell is the boldest fun provider on the female side and there are scores of gals, in various degrees of undress.

Also the runway reappears. There are no hats or hitches—but for some reason there still remain—the prohibition number, the studies in porcelain, the flapper viewpoint, the divorce and family and courtroom number and such old friends that surely are not of 1924.

Sam had been spending the evening with some friends, and he was very happy as he ambled home in the moonlight at 1 a.m.

Fausting to look in a shop window he saw a dummy figure labelled, "Reduced to $5.00."

"Poor old chap," said Sam, sympathetically. "I've been reduced to that meshelf before now."

HEAVY PASSENGER TRAVEL ON C.P.R.

Best Year in History For "Crack Transcontinental Limited"

Montreal, Sept. 22.—As one indication of the extent of tourist traffic in Canada during the present season, C. B. Foster, general traffic manager, Saturday stated that the Canadian Pacific crack "Transcontinental Limited," which has just been taken off for the season, has had probably the best year of its history.

Between May 20 and Sept. 13 eight "Transcanadas" were moving East and West over the line daily, and over the season 18,000 passengers were carried during a total of 238 transcontinental trips. The total distance covered by all trains was 758,748 miles. Ten complete sets of baggage, diners, sleepers and observation cars were used. During each trip from Montreal and Toronto to Vancouver or return the number of engines used varied from twenty-two up and over 130 men were employed upon the train.

With a view to guiding the cook to the selection of a quieter summer hat than she had worn the previous season, Mrs. Smith spoke of some violets she had seen in a milliner's window.

EXCEPTIONAL CAST AIDS
THOMAS MEIGHAN STARRING IN
"ALASKAN" AT DOMINION

Anna May Wong, Estelle Taylor, and Laska Winters Unite East and West in Stirring Tale

Through the unusual care exercised in the selection, the most talented cast which has ever supported Thomas Meighan, appears in his new Paramount starring vehicle, "The Alaskan," which Herbert Brenon produced from Willis Goldbeck's adaptation of James Oliver Curwood's great novel.

Featured in the cast are Estelle Taylor, John Salsopis, Charles Ogilvie, Frank Campeau and Anna May Wong. Others include Alphonse Ethier, Maurice Cannon, Bernard Siegel, Milt Brown and Laska Winters.

The feminine portion of the cast, Estelle Taylor, Anna May Wong and Laska Winters, is particularly noteworthy inasmuch as they are considered three of the most unusual young women in motion pictures.

All three were born on this continent but their parentage links east and west in a bond which stretches from China to Spain. Miss Taylor is of Scotch descent; Miss Wong is Chinese; Miss Winters is Spanish and French.

In motion pictures the three young players have established themselves with a series of remarkable characterizations. Estelle Taylor's performance in Cecil B. DeMille's "The Ten Commandments" gained her widespread approval.

"The Alaskan," declared by all who have been privileged to get a preview of it as the greatest picture in Meighan's notable screen career, is at the Dominion Theatre all this week.

ISSUES REPORT ON CIVIL AVIATION

Considerable Increase in Commercial Flying as Applied to Forestry Work

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—A comprehensive report dealing with the progress of civil aviation in Canada during 1923, has just been issued by the Department of National Defence. The report also mentions the civil operations undertaken by the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The year 1923 saw a considerable increase in commercial aviation as applied to forestry work and photography in Eastern Canada. The operations in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec in connection with forest fire patrols and the preparation of forest inventories by sketching and photography, hitherto carried out by the Dominion Government on a repayment or part payment basis, were, in the Spring of the year, taken over by the provincial forestry services in their entirety. The Dominion Government, feeling that this work had passed beyond the experimental stage, withdrew their forces with the convenience of the Provincial authorities, who then arranged for the necessary flying after contact with commercial aviation firms.

During 1923, there has been no development of passenger, mail or express traffic in Canada. The difficulty of operating such services is very great in a country where large centres of population are few and, in many instances, separated by wide tracts of unsettled territory.

Development along these lines can best be undertaken in Europe and the United States, where the traffic is heavier, the demand for express services greater, and the communities better able to bear the cost.

Columbia Theatre has an added attraction commencing to-night. Bannister, enshrouding his performance with that unsolved mystery that can be felt at the world hour of midnight, will demonstrate his remarkable ability to probe into the future.

Bannister, in presenting his crystal gazing act, makes no claim to supernatural powers but merely to scientific methods.

A man was arguing that Aberdonians had no sense of humor, and instanced a case where a man entered a cigar-shop and was told by the dealer that if he bought 1,000 cigars of a certain brand he would get a present on a handsome dinner service, if 2,000 he would get a gold watch, and if 5,000 a grand piano.

"And," added the customer, "if I smoke the 5,000 I shall probably get a harp."

This story was told to a man in Aberdeen and it did not raise a smile. Two days afterwards the Aberdonian called upon the storyteller and said, "I see that joke of yours. It would be so much easier to carry a harp than a grand piano."

BOY SCOUTS ARE GREATLY
INTERESTED IN RADIO WORK

Seventy-five Per Cent Own Receiving Sets While Many Thousands Are Licensed Amateur Operators; Boys Are Instructed at Summer Camps.

The boy and his radio in the city are as inseparable as the boy and his dog in the country. The Boy Scouts of America, the largest boys' organization in the world, is one of radio's most enthusiastic boosters. There are hundreds of thousands of Scouts in the United States and a recent canvass by "Boys Life," the official magazine of the organization shows that 94 per cent are interested in radio.

The figures also show that 75 per cent own their own sets. More than 40,000 Scouts throughout the country have amateur licenses. This is an overwhelming decision in favor of the greatest of indoor sports.

This tremendous interest in radio on the part of the Boy Scouts is not a new or unknown thing, but the figures may be somewhat surprising. The members of the Boy Scouts of America were among the pioneers of radio and many of the members of that vast organization have contributed materially to the advancement of the science of wireless communication.

They saw radio long before the hundreds of thousands of listeners of to-day had ever heard of it. Through the long lean years of doubt and experimentation, they stuck steadfastly to their task and to-day we see a monument erected to their efforts in the prominent place which radio occupies at the Boy Scout camps during the Summer months.

More than 10,000 boys attend these camps every Summer and every one of them learns something about radio during his stay there. The scoutmasters all have some knowledge of radio and this they pass on to the boys of their troops.

There are large sets and small sets at the camps. Sets of every description and variety from the complicated super-heterodyne to scores of the lowly but still popular crystal sets. Where entire troops go to camp in a body they often take their big sets along and go to a great deal of trouble in installing the apparatus properly to insure perfect reception.

Last Minute News on Stocks and Financial Affairs

STOCKS SOFTER AS WEEK STARTS

New York, Sept. 22 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—Prices on the whole maintained a steady tone. Week-end reviews generally speaking, were more cheerful in tone and advice touching on textile conditions were particularly more encouraging. The Harvard Economic Bureau issued a statement to the effect that they were of the opinion that a change for the better in the business situation had been registered. This attracted considerable attention.

CORN PRICES GET SEVERE BREAK

Chicago, Sept. 22 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—Wheat. The grain was strong early, but later was influenced by the weakness of corn and sold off. The general demand is not so strong as to keep prices advancing and the export trades show a moderate lull. Cash business for domestic account is quiet. The world's shipments were large. The United States and Canada are shipping 13,500,000 bushels out of the total of 14,559,000, showing how dependent Europe has been to this continent. Foreign news was rather bullish on the whole, but the fact must not be overlooked that purchases have already been heavy with foreigners inclined to wait now to see the effect of the Canadian movement, which should increase rapidly. We are inclined to look for a further readjustment in prices in the direction of a decline before the market will be attractive to general buyers.

The weak position of this grain was intensified by further liquidation to-day and lack of outside support. The cash business with low grades a few cents or more lower. The weather conditions on the whole are better and the market efforts to make prices advance. The fact must not be overlooked that purchases have already been heavy with foreigners inclined to wait now to see the effect of the Canadian movement, which should increase rapidly. We are inclined to look for a further readjustment in prices in the direction of a decline before the market will be attractive to general buyers.

Oats dragged lower with corn. General demand for shipment was moderate, with receipts quite liberal here and much larger in the West. Demand was indifferent, but the spot price basis was steady. Relatively soft counter to other grains. Rye—Export sales were heavy and buying against the sales caused a big rally to new high prices. Later the market sold off with wheat and other grains down for export were placed at a big advance and some recession would place it in a better speculative situation.

STEWART MINE HITS ORE VEIN

Stewart, B.C., Sept. 22—After driving 110 feet the North and South Line crew struck the hanging wall of the vein for which they were prospecting, at a depth of seventy-five feet. So far the tunnel has only nine feet of ore without reaching the foot wall, which is estimated to be three feet in advance of the face. As soon as the width of the ore has been definitely proven, it is the intention to drift on it 100 feet each way from the tunnel.

RUSSIAN PRIEST ORGANIZES CHURCH

Former Spiritual Advisor to Late Emperor Nicholas Now in B.C.

Recently Visited General Merkuloff in This City

Archimandrite Antonine Prokovsky, who last week visited General Merkuloff here, is now in Vancouver organizing a branch of the Russian-Greek Orthodox Church, which has had some dramatic experiences in his lifetime. Born in Orsk, Russia, in 1857, the archimandrite early in life became attached to church schools and completed his education in the theological university. His first pastorate was at Nekolskiy, where he preached to 5,000 people with great acceptance and became greatly beloved by his flock and a special place in the heart of the children.

TOOK THE VEIL

After the war Mr. Prokovsky went back to Moscow to find all the churches destroyed, and he became a monk taking the black veil. He fought hard for his beloved church, and had the joy of seeing it restored in Moscow. Then the Patriarch Platon ordered him to Jerusalem, where the Greek Patriarch Adrian performed the ceremony in the church at Christ's tomb, which made him Archimandrite.

Mr. Hudson is now one of the biggest life insurance men in Canada and is being referred to in the profession as the Half-Million-Dollar Man because of his ability to secure enormous production.

MARK PRICES

Hence Bond Street shopkeepers are finding it to their advantage to mark the prices on their window displays. This has stimulated trade with the visitors. Ten years ago Bond Street shopkeepers thought it beneath their dignity to have price labels in the windows.

DIRECT DESCENDANT OF COLUMBUS HERE

Banff, Sept. 22—There was one Irishman in Christopher Columbus' party of voyagers which discovered America in 1492, and one Jew, Christopher Columbus himself was the Jew, born in Genoa, Italy, in 1451, according to the Duke of Alba, the direct descendant of Columbus, who arrived in Banff in his two private railway cars Friday night, and is spending his vacation at the Banff Springs Hotel. The Duke of Alba, who represents the fifteenth generation of Columbus's descendants, according to H. Vignaud, La Maison d'Alba et les Larchives Colombiennes, has in his possession the original list of the crew of Columbus's ship as well as Columbus's original letters on his voyage.

pink nose. "I don't mind staying in after school. Let Jackie go. Miss Mouse, and I will stay in his place."

"Very well," squeaked the lady mouse, after thinking about it a few moments. "If Uncle Wiggily is willing to take your punishment, Jackie, and if you will promise not to be bad in school again, I'll let you go."

"Oh, thank you!" barked Jackie. "Thank you, Uncle Wiggily! I'll be good, teacher!"

Away rushed Jackie to play ball.

BEDTIME STORY
Uncle Wiggily and the Mouse Teacher
 By Howard R. Garis

Uncle Wiggily was hopping past the Hollow Stump School in the woods one day when, through an open window he heard a sad voice saying:

"Oh, please, Lady Mouse Teacher, can't I be let out? I want to go and play ball with the other boys."

"Ah, ha!" thought the rabbit gentleman to himself. "At first I thought it might be that the Lady Mouse has the bad Fox shut up in a closet. But when I hear about ball playing I know it can't be the Fox—the animal boys wouldn't let the Fox play with them. This must be one of the school pupils of the Lady Mouse. But why won't she let him go home?"

Uncle Wiggily peered into the window and saw Jackie Bow Wow, one of the puppy dog boys sitting in a front seat looking sad. Jackie was the only pupil in the school room, as it was nearly 4 o'clock, and school was out at half past three.

"What's the matter with Jackie, Miss Mouse?" asked Uncle Wiggily of the teacher.

"Oh, come in, Uncle Wiggily," invited Miss Mouse. "I am sorry to say that Jackie was a bad boy in school this afternoon. He barked right out loud and he shot one of his marbles at Johnnie Bushytail."

"Well, Johnnie tickled me with his tail!" whined Jackie. "Oh, please ask her to let me go, Uncle Wiggily! I'll never do it again, and I want to play ball! I'm the pitcher on our side."

"Jackie must stay and help me clean off the blackboards as a punishment lesson," said the Lady Mouse Teacher.

"Suppose I cleaned off the blackboards for you?" asked Uncle Wiggily with a bright twinkle of his ing to take your punishment, Jackie, and if you will promise not to be bad in school again, I'll let you go."

"Oh, thank you!" barked Jackie. "Thank you, Uncle Wiggily! I'll be good, teacher!"

Away rushed Jackie to play ball.

General Motors Canadian Factories have a capacity of over 50,000 cars per year. That is the cold fact—but back of it stand other facts, just as true, but infinitely more human. Four thousand Canadians found pleasant, well-recompensed work in the making of General Motors cars in 1923. Over twenty thousand Canadians found pleasure and profit in owning them. Twenty-seven thousand of the cars went to distant lands, swinging the balance of trade towards Canada. Four hundred Canadian and British factories found a profitable customer in General Motors. A great industry has been born and is thriving in our midst. Figures, too, have a romance all their own.

The Surprising Sex

By MILDRED BARBOUR—Author of "Love Stakes," Etc.

A YOUNG RECLUSE

Close to tears with embarrassment and humiliation over her social faux pas, Julie stumbled into the dressing room where the maids were checked. While a neat maid searched out hers from the racks of luxurious garments, she stood staring into a mirror at her flushed reflection, fighting back the tears.

"Oh, how could I have made such a blunder!" she thought wretchedly. "I was so fearful of not doing the right thing and now this. To have shaken hands with the head waiter! How they must be laughing at me in there. I can never fact any of them again—never!"

In her tortured imagination she could fairly see the amused, significant smiles which the other guests must have exchanged, the irrepressible giggles, Agatha Jennings' triumphant malice, and Blake—

"How he must hate me for humiliating him!" Oh, how sorry he must be that he ever married such an ignoramus!"

She went with dragging reluctance to join him, where he waited in the foyer.

Blake had had time to get himself in hand. Julie's innocent blunder had disturbed even his cool poise. His lean face had burned momentarily, not for himself (he was far too much of a man of the world to feel acute discomfort over a social mistake) but for her and the effect upon her social future.

Poor little Julie! He could feel nothing but kindness and pity for her, no resentment. After all, he reflected, it was primarily his own fault. He should have known better than to expect a young thing with her restricted upbringing to take her place in society without instruction. Either he should have kept her at home or, when she came to him, he should have taught things she ought to know.

But how could a busy man of affairs whose knowledge was born in him, so to speak—how could such a man go about instructing a girl in the fundamentals of etiquette? He had trusted blindly and faithfully in Eva Haines' perspicacity, in that respect. He had been a selfish fool.

When Julie came to him he greeted her with a smile of unusual tenderness and throughout the homeward drive made no reference to the unfortunate episode. As a matter of fact, it was never referred to by either of them, then or afterward.

It would have been better if it had been. For Julie, hugging the consciousness of it to her lonely, tortured heart and making the inevitable mountain out of what was in the long run only a molehill, suffered cruelly. She made a solemn vow that never, never again would she go anywhere, never would she run the risk of meeting the people who had witnessed her humiliation. She sincerely believed that she owed that much to her husband. He had done her a great honor in making her his wife. The least she could do was to spare him humiliation.

"I might do something much more terrible the next time, she reasoned naively.

As yet, the defiant spirit of Horace Latimer was latent in her. The amused aloofness, the biting satire regarding human foibles, the wit she struck unerringly at the artificiality of human conduct and showed it up for what it was worth—all those qualities that had made her father the brilliant writer, he was slumbered in his daughter. They were his legacy to Julie, but she didn't know it yet. Sorrow and loneliness were to bring them forth.

Meanwhile, she waggled through a solitary existence. When she begged not to be made to attend social

PLANTING YOUR ROSES

Some Hints to the Autumn Gardener on the Care of the Queen of Flowers; When Roses Should be Planted and How for Best Results Next Year

By JOHN HUTCHISON, F.R.H.S.

Of course you will want roses in your garden next year. Lots of them. You will want climbing roses, roses of the large bush type to grow in your borders with other flowers and roses for rose beds. The Fall is the time to plant them.

Let us first consider the climbing roses. If you want a climbing rose in this climate, it should be pruned after flowering by simply spurting it back on the flowering shoots.

Other climbers that do well on fences and trellises here are Dr. Van Fleet, Paul's Scarlet climber, American Pillar, Cant's Bush Rambler, Alberic Barbier, Leonine Gervais and Rene Andre. None of these are subject to mildew like the Dorothy Perkins class.

If the soil is poor by all means plant rambling roses and the very best grower of these, by all odds, is Alberic Barbier—almost evergreen, mildew-proof and the longest bloomer.

A FINE ROSE

A very favorite adornment for the small garden is a pillar rose, or weeping or free-growing standard, and in all these cases it is hard to beat Gruss an Teplitz. This is about the best double red rose in cultivation. Its early leafage is often bronzy and very beautiful in color, setting off the deep red flowers which it so freely produces. There is no sweeter-scented rose. American Pillar is also a splendid pillar rose, with its single flowers and yellow stems. But alas, it has no scent.

All these roses require the same simple treatment, and the fuss and mystery often made about rose pruning is quite unnecessary where they are concerned. In the Fall, when flowering is over and the leaves are about to fall from such of them as are deciduous, or at any time during the Winter or early Spring, go around all free-flowering roses with your secateur or knife and cut out and throw away such two-year-old growths as are not sending out many strong new shoots. Even if there are a certain number of strong shoots on this old wood, they can probably be well spared. What should be encouraged are the straight and vigorous shoots made from the root during the Summer just over.

BUSH ROSES

In dealing with bush roses, the thing that most people want to know is which varieties will grow freely, give plenty of flowers and require the least pruning and fussing. Many of the hybrid Teas, probably the most popular section at present, grow into very large bushes and give a tremendous amount of bloom, provided they are planted in a position and in soil that they like. Among the roses best suited for beds that are given over entirely to roses the following are strongly recommended as they do not grow very tall and are compact. The best way to plant them is to devote one small bed to each variety.

Madame Jules Grolez, hybrid Tea, deep rose pink. It has tinted foliage, and is a rose of beautiful richness and quality of bloom. The buds are of a good shape and most useful for cutting.

Madame Ravary, hybrid Tea, pale gold and orange. A perfect match for Madame J. Grolez in habit and quality of flower.

Jessie, polyantha (which means having several flowers in a head or flat bunch, as opposed to bearing a single blossom on a shoot) scarlet crimson, quite a new one and can be cut.

Mrs. W. H. Cutbush, polyantha, clear pink. A very profuse flowerer, with bright light green foliage. It is
