Houses Wrecked
But No One Injured

A regular Nebraska cyclone visited South Weymouth on Tuesday afternoon, and it was almost a miracle that no one was killed or injured, as the property damage was about $100,000. The "twister" came during a thunder storm at 4.15 and swept a path of destruction about 500 feet wide from the Holbrook line to the Hingham line, across Forest street, Columbian street, Main street, Tower avenue, Pleasant street, Park avenue, Pine street and Oak street. It is said to have originated at the base of the Blue Hills in Braintree, and to have done damage also in Braintree, Randolph, Holbrook and Hingham, but not to the extent it did in South Weymouth. Houses, stables, garages and out-buildings were wrecked or damaged; fruit and other trees ruined or damaged; pigs, fowl and other animals killed; vegetable and flower gardens wrecked. Wagons and sleighs were blown away, and automobiles blown over. Telephone and electric light poles were snapped off and wires broken.

of Weymouth and more distant towns. Chief of Police Pratt and officers were busy regulating traffic. Superintendent of Streets Johnson and his men were opening up the roads by carting away branches and filling in washouts, the Weymouth Electric Light and Power Co. and the Telephone Co. were setting new poles and stringing new wires. At estates where damage was done, work was commenced promptly to clear away the debris and repair the damage, but for several days there will be evidence of the damage wrought, especially on Oak and Pine streets, Park avenue, Pleasant street, Main street and Columbian street.

In some cases relief should be promptly extended to some of the heavy losers by the storm. The Weymouth Gazette and Transcript was about to start a popular subscription when it learned that the Selectmen had called a special meeting for the same purpose. See announcement in another column. In cooperation with the movement Manager McGrory of the Odd Fellows Opera House announces a benefit performance for this evening. The gross receipts will go to the benefit. The Gazette believes that assistance should be given to Olaf Peterson, John Croker, Thomas Brassil, John Ronan, Mrs. Alfred Torrey and several others.

With commendable enterprise Arthur L. McGrory, the manager of the Odd Fellows Opera House, secured pictures of the damaged houses on the day of the cyclone, and will exhibit the same on Labor Day. Those who have been unable to go to South Weymouth should see the pictures.

The Selectmen have issued a call for a public meeting of Weymouth people to be held this evening at the New Orpheum, South Weymouth, to organize and raise funds for the tornado sufferers. Here is a chance to help Weymouth people in need.

ON FOREST STREET
Property on Forest street, near the Holbrook line, was first to feel the effects of the storm. The kitchen of the house of Mrs. Elizabeth Syton was blown off and carried into the woods. Mrs. Syton and a child were in the house.

An outhouse of Adolph Barth was demolished, and trees were blown down against his house, blocking the entrance.

A three-room house of G. Rudd was demolished and blown away.

At W. L. Britton's a garage was demolished, but only a little damage was done to the auto of Adolph Barth, which was inside. A piece of timber was driven through a chamber window, and other glass broken. The Britton's were shaken up, but no one was hurt. Many things in the house were upset, and dead fowl were found in the yard.

ON COLUMBIAN STREET
The home of Blanchard F. Hicks was rendered uninhabitable. The roof was blown off and other damage done, his loss being heavy.

At the residence of Albert Vinal the garage was destroyed and blown away. One of the chimneys was laid over onto the roof, windows were broken and other damage.

On the other side of the street the cyclone made a path through the wood in coming from Holbrook.

ON MAIN STREET
The cyclone next visited the Dr. E. Taylor estate and did a damage of fully $3000. On the house one of the chimneys and a skylight were blown off, windows broken and other damage. The large barn was probably struck by lightning and part of the roof and many shingles torn off. A new hen house and 20 hens disappeared. An outbuilding was swept away and a sleigh blown upon the estate of William Holbrook. A beautiful grove of pine trees was wrecked, some snapped off at the ground, others several feet from the ground, on tree being blown 50 feet. Fruit trees were also uprooted.

The estate of Judge George L. Wentworth adjoining was a scene of wreckage. The house was probably struck by lightning, a chimney thrown down, windows broken, a flagpole blown over and several trees uprooted. The Judge and a maid were in the house, but were uninjured.

Next door is the residence of lawyer William Holbrook, formerly owned by Charles H. Ramsey. Before the storm it was a very attractive estate, but two garages were blown down, only the foundation of one being left. A big automobile was blown over on its side. A hen-house was blown into the garden. Several trees were uprooted and one was blown from the rear of

Editorial from the Quincy Enterprise

The Enterprise hopes that the Rockland shoe manufacturer will win the nomination as Senator from this district. We take this position somewhat reluctantly for the very obvious reason that in most cases the support of a Quincy newspaper should be given to a Quincy candidate, provided, of course, that the local candidate should be equal to another candidate and that his record is such that no one could honestly question it. The case against Mr. McIntosh is that he has not fulfilled the expectations of many Quincy voters and now that an acceptable candidate in the person of Mr. Wright has entered the lists it gives these voters an opportunity to register their protest against the present incumbent and support a man more likely to acceptably represent them.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Defeat of Russian Armies in Poland One of the Greatest in History.

HUNDRED THOUSAND CAPTURED

America and Allies Warn Poles to Stop at Frontier—Britain to Recognize Egypt's Independence—Cox Accuses Republicans of Trying to "Buy" Presidency.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

The week closed with four of the five soviet Russian armies that attacked Poland practically destroyed or dispersed. The Reds, it was estimated, had lost nearly 100,000 prisoners and about 40,000 others had been killed. Many thousands had been forced across the German border, where they were disarmed and interned—or were supposed to be, if the Germans did their duty as neutrals. The Russian cavalry and infantry that escaped from the Polish pincers retired on Grodno and Ossowiec and such reserves as they had were brought up to the latter place. It was expected that the Reds would put up a desperate fight in the marsh country there to preserve contact with the East Prussia border and to keep the Poles from forming a junction with the Lithuanians.

The last real effort of the Red army of the north resulted in three days of fierce fighting in the Narow valley between Lomza and Ostrolenka, the Russians trying to force their way across the road to Bialystok. The Poles captured the river crossings, and next day another of their forces advanced along the Prussian frontier to Myszynek. The Reds were caught between these forces and had to surrender.

Of all the invaders of Poland, only General Budenny's forces, mostly cavalry, appear to have escaped. They were operating in Galicia toward Lemberg, and when the fate of the soviet adventure was certain they made a rush forward with the intention of destroying the great oil wells in that region. They reached the outskirts of Lemberg but were driven away by volunteers and a few regulars. As they retired they destroyed villages and crops and carried off all implements, furniture, clothing and animals.

Unbiased observers describe the defeat of the Reds as one of the greatest of military disasters and say the campaign that brought it about was of surpassing interest. They agree substantially concerning the utter rout of the soviet armies, but in this they are contradicted by such bolshevik leaders as have been heard from and by some Germans. These assert that the retreat of the Reds has been conducted in an orderly manner, that they saved most of their supply trains and that the number of casualties has been greatly exaggerated by the Poles.

If now the Poles can restrain their enthusiasm and ambition all may be well with them. They have been warned by the United States, France and probably Great Britain that they must not again attempt an invasion of Russian territory but must stop their advance at the ethnic border of Poland. If they disobey, the allies will withdraw their support. The French foreign office, while agreeing that the Poles must not try to seize any Russian territory, admits the exigencies of the campaign might make it necessary for them to cross the frontier temporarily.

The entente allies came into full accord concerning the Polish question last week, much to the surprise of Germany, and probably to its dismay. They really adopted the policy of France and it is supposed Lloyd George was brought to this view by the persistent attempts of the Reds against British rule in various regions and by some of the terms they tried to force on Poland. These latter were at variance with the terms which Kamenoff said would be proposed and included the demand that a proletarian army be formed in Poland. Naturally the victorious Poles have rejected the terms of the Reds, and it was stated by Tchitcherin, soviet foreign minister, that this would result in the immediate rupture of the negotiations at Minsk.

General Wrangel, who had been rather quiet of late in the Crimean peninsula, started a vigorous campaign Thursday with his reorganized forces. One of his armies moved eastward onto the mainland, speedily taking the important Black sea port of Novorossysk and other cities and almost reaching Ekaterinodar, capital of the Kuban Cossacks. At the same time another army occupied the Donetz coal basin 350 miles to the north. The loss of those mines will be an especially severe blow to the bolsheviks. On the borders of the republic of Georgia, an alarming concentration of bolshevik forces is reported, supposedly in pursuit of a plan to march through Georgia and Armenia and establish communication with the Turkish Nationalists in Asia Minor.

The nationalist movement in Egypt, which has been more serious than censored dispatches made it appear, and which has been increasing ever since the establishment of the British protectorate during the war, seems about to meet with success. The British government, it is reliably though not officially reported, has agreed to recognize the independence of Egypt and a final treaty and alliance will soon be negotiated. Fundamental points in the agreement, it is said, are: Egypt will recognize Great Britain's privileged position in the valley of the Nile, and agrees in case of war to afford every facility for access to Egyptian territory; Great Britain will maintain a garrison in Egypt in the canal zone; Egypt retains control of foreign relations, subject to her not making treaties contrary to British policy, and will have the right to maintain diplomatic representatives abroad.

The Albanians and Serbs, who are fighting a little war of their own, have been having some bloody battles and the Albanians claim to have driven their foes back into their own country. The victors halted, at least temporarily, at the demarcation line fixed in 1913.

Two deposed rulers of Europe are figuring on climbing back onto thrones. Constantine, former king of Greece, believes that the Greeks will call him back if they have full freedom of expression at the coming elections, but he fears Venizelos will prevent this. He was deeply grieved the other day because Lloyd George, on vacation in Lucerne, refused to see him. The premier gave as a reason "the dastardly attempt on the life of Venizelos," for which Constantine asserts he was in no way to blame.

The other hopeful ex-ruler is Charles, former emperor of Austria. According to a report circulated in European capitals, the Hungarian people want him to be their king, and Great Britain and France have agreed to permit it. Italy and Serbia object, but it is thought the Vatican can persuade the former. Charles has said he would accept the throne of Hungary.

Lloyd George departed for his Swiss holiday in the expectation that the Irish question would await his return. But Irish leaders would not stand for the delay. On Wednesday the standing committee of the Irish peace conference called on the lords justices, representatives of the lord lieutenant, to present resolutions demanding dominion home rule, stoppage of coercion and the calling of an Irish convention. They also telegraphed the premier asking that he receive a deputation immediately, in view of the urgency of the situation.

This peace conference was an assemblage of some 700 representatives of moderate opinion in all parts of Ireland, and in all parties. Most of them were unionists, and among the conferees were members of the house of lords, protestant bishops, Catholic priests, prominent business men, and great landowners. The earl of Shaftesbury, who owns the land on which the conference was built, was unexpectedly present, and told the gathering: "I am an Ulsterman, and I'll stand by Ulster, but I am with you in toto. Have patience with Ulster and we'll bring her to the point of self-government as a part of united Ireland." Other Belfast leaders said much the same. It was believed this conference was a long step toward Irish unity and the settlement of the island's troubles.

Meantime Terrence MacSweeney, lord mayor of Cork, was dying of self-imposed hunger in a British prison, and Irishmen appealed to King George to save him, and to President Wilson and the heads of all European states, comparing his case to that of the burgomaster of Brussels whom the Germans imprisoned. Mr. Lloyd George said that, whatever the consequences, the government could not take the responsibility of freeing MacSweeney. The Sinn Fein leaders feared his death would lead to an outbreak that would play into the hands of the British.

Efforts of the anti-suffragists to prevent or delay the promulgation of the ratification of the suffrage amendment were foiled, and on Thursday Secretary of State Colby, receiving official notification of the action of the Tennessee legislature, signed and issued the proclamation. The District of Columbia refused to issue a restraining order to Secretary Colby, so now the only hope remaining of the foes of suffrage is that the United States Supreme court will declare the Tennessee ratification illegal.

It is interesting to read the opinion of the venerable Cardinal Gibbons, who has been a consistent opponent of woman suffrage. He says: "I regret very much that the women have taken the plunge into the deep. I would much prefer that things had remained as they were. I am, however, of the opinion that after the first election or so only a small percentage of the women of the country will avail themselves of the privilege of voting."

Governor Cox roused the Republicans by asserting that they are raising a minimum fund of $15,000,000 for the campaign. National Chairman Will Hays and his associates at once denied the truth of the statement and both they and the Democratic leaders demanded that the senate committee on campaign expenditures investigate the charge. The committee, which is in session in Chicago subpoenaed National Chairmen Hays and White and Congressional Chairmen Fess and Doremus, and "invited" Governor Cox also to appear before it and present such evidence as he might have to substantiate his statements. The Democratic candidate said he would furnish what information he had in due time, and meanwhile he went ahead with his speaking tour, repeating his accusations. When he reached Pittsburgh, Thursday night, he opened up and made public the alleged facts upon which he based his charge that the Republicans are trying to "buy the presidency."

The "expose" really was not so sensational as might have been expected. Cox read a list of 51 cities and the amount which the Republican national committee proposed to raise in each, the total being $8,145,000. This figure, he asserted, had nothing to do with "the large amounts being collected in hundreds of smaller cities, towns and rural communities." He gave no names of contributors, saying the Republicans could produce those. The governor also read documents which he said proved that Senator Harding had detailed knowledge of the financing of his campaign.

Republican Treasurer Upham, who had previously told something of the quota list, says the quotas are vastly larger than the actual amount called for by the budget, and asserted that the national committee had collected, to date, only $696,977.82.

A rather weak come-back was the charge made by Congressman Fred Britten, that the British parliament had appropriated $87,500 in favor of the British ambassador at Washington for "entertainment purposes," and that this fund had already found its way to the Democratic national committee. This was, of course, denounced as absurd by both Ambassador Geddes and Democratic Chairman White. Governor Cox said the charge was "too silly for words."

THE SOLE DRAWBACK.

The village politicians were gathered in the postoffice discussing the possibilities for the coming local campaign. There was a lamentable lack of congressional timber. None of the candidates could meet the demands of the town sows.

Finally Lew Parker had a brilliant idea. Splitting authoritatively in the general direction of the cuspidor he remarked:

"Boys, I'll tell you the name of a good man, a mighty good man, a man we could win with. It's old Cap Ingersoll."

And then he added regretfully, "But darn him, he's dead."—American Legion.

SOME CONSOLATION
"How will you like me as a brother-in-law?"
"All right, I guess. Maw says thank goodness you ain't gonna live with us."

A Pacifist.
When wife says things which are not nice, then we're for peace at any price.

After Many Trials.
"He took my ball," said a youngster when reproved for fighting with another boy.

"Did you try to get it from him peaceably?"
"Yes'n."
"How many times did you try?"
"I tried once, twice, thrice and force, and then I didn't get it until the last time."

Machinery.
"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "I want you to keep out of politics."

"What's the reason? I might stand as good a chance as the next man."
"I don't think so. Anybody who is so unhappy with a little thing like a lawn mower would stand no chance whatever in operating a steam roller."

Too Much of It.
"Are there any uplifting influences in your neighborhood?"
"Oh, yes; the rent's been raised in every house in the block."

Quite So.
"Look at that line in the parade how it can do the quick step and wheel and march ahead."
"Yes, that line is busy."

Solved Itself.
"Has Mrs. Nubride solved the help problem yet?"
"It solved itself in her case, my dear. She found her husband was making only $15 a week."

Not Then.
Is silence really golden? Never so, it's clear. When we could help a brother With a word of cheer.

Speed Mania.
Mrs. Newrich—(returned from tour)—We went very swiftly all the way. Caller—But traveling in a fast auto, how could you get any idea of the country?
Mrs. Newrich—Oh, I bought a lot of picture cards every place we stopped at.

PLAN TO REMEDY IGNITION PARTS

Expert Discusses This Important
Section of Motorcar's Nervous System.

EXAMINE ALL CONNECTIONS

Make Sure That All Wires Are Tight and That Insulation Is Not Worn
Off at Any Spot, Thus Causing Short Circuit.

The best way to locate any electrical trouble is to begin at one end of the ignition system and make a series of tests in regular order. Begin first with the spark plugs under suspicion, writes W. H. Stewart, Jr., president of the Stewart Automobile school, in an exchange.

Moisture on the exposed part of the porcelain will often cause the engine to misfire, but this trouble on a wet day may be obviated by greasing the porcelain with vaseline. Including defective porcelain, other frequent causes of spark plug trouble may be traced to oil or particles of carbon collecting between the points and sooting of the porcelain; points out of adjustment or burned away. Ordinarily the spark plug should be adjusted to about the thickness of an old worn dime, dependent upon the ignition system, carburetor adjustment and design of the engine.

Look at Distributor Case.
When you have eliminated the spark plug, examine all wiring and terminal connections, making sure that all wires are tight and that the insulation isn't worn off at any place, thus causing short circuits. Next open the distributor case and see if there is any dirt or carbon dust. If the trouble is here it can be eliminated by wiping with a clean rag. But if it is yet undiscovered then perhaps the misfiring is caused by the contact points being pitted. These should be cleaned and adjusted very accurately according to instructions of the manufacturer. Also make sure that the tappet spring has not weakened or been broken. Remember that this spring is under a constant strain and it will wear watching.

Cause of Serious Missing.
Moisture or grease on the surface of the distributor housing will sometimes cause very serious current skips across the surface of this foreign matter instead of going through its regular channels. The remedy is to wipe off the surface. The presence of moisture may be explained by the fact that it is drawn in with the air through the radiator or may condense on the surface on a damp day. The grease often collects from the oil spray thrown out by the engine.

The ignition system is a delicate assemblage and it is up to you to keep your eye constantly upon it. Little attentions like these give you a smooth running engine and help you to eliminate expensive repairs.

SPRING LEAVES NEED OILING

Thorough Cleaning and Lubrication of Various Parts Make Car Ride Easier.

In speaking of care of automobiles Mr. E. B. Dale, who is in charge of the automobile course at Colorado agricultural college, says, "People will find that a little care with the springs of their car will make riding easier by many per cent. All it takes is care. Anyone who is getting his interior self shook up and turned over every time he takes his car out will find this advice worth while; Remove the springs, take them apart and remove all dirt and rust which is between the spring leaves. Polish the parts of the leaves which rub together. Assemble, using plenty of graphite grease between the leaves. The result is gratifying."

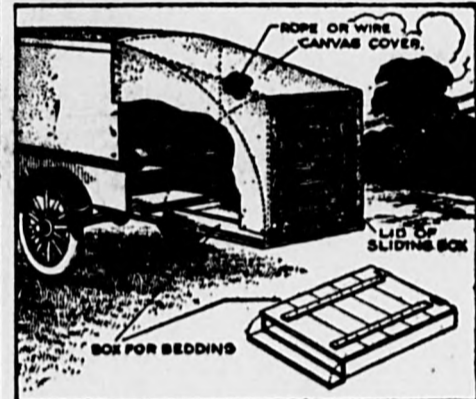

REAR OF AUTOMOBILE FORMS CAMPING BED

Spacious Hinged-Back Swings Down to Form Very Comfortable Open-Air Compartment—Canvas Covers Can Be Attached.

The system of camping by automobile shown in the drawing has many of the advantages to be obtained by using a trailer, without a trailer's disadvantages. Unlike the trailer, it is not found covered with dust after a hard day's travel, yet it is comfortable and roomy.

A light truck body is mounted on the automobile chassis. A spacious hinged-back swings down to form a sleeping porch, which is made secure by chains. Upon the inside surface of this top is built a shallow box; the forward end of it opens out flat, and the top side swings up to form the back end of the sleeping compartment. A canvas cover can be attached, as shown, preferably with automobile curtain fasteners. Bedding is laid out on the hinged floor, extending some little distance into the body of the car. In the morning the bedding is quickly put away in the flat box, and the whole rear compartment is readily folded up into the body under the roof of the car body.—F. F. McClintock, New York, in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The back of a closed car used for touring can be made to open out so as to form a very comfortable open-air sleeping compartment.

AUTOMOBILE TIPS

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on lubrication.

Two-thirds of the doctors in the United States own motorcars.

Do not allow the engine to race or to run when the car is standing.

The horn for a motorcar was offered as the first free accessory 15 years ago.

When it is absolutely necessary to run on a flat tire, keep the tire in soft dirt, if possible.

Running the engine while the car is standing causes a daily waste of 67,000 gallons of gasoline.

About the only satisfactory material for packing a gasoline connection is hemp string and soap.

One of the common troubles encountered in the brake assembly is a tendency to clattering.

Rear wheels are particularly liable to looseness, and this condition induces rapid tire destruction.

The timely repair of even the most insignificant tread cut prevents sand blisters, mud boils and blowouts.

The addition of a little pure flake graphite to the lubricating oil is a help to motors that have seen some wear.

Immigrants entering the United States will be received and welcomed by members of the American Legion, according to plans mapped out by the National American commission of the veterans' organization. Arrangements have been made whereby the local post of the community which is the ultimate destination of the immigrant will get in touch with him immediately upon his arrival.

Information as to the names and destinations of all immigrants will be secured at the port of New York and forwarded immediately to the thousands of Legion posts in order that they may prepare for the reception of the new arrivals.

"In some cases the immigrant may be going directly to friends," says the announcement of the American commission, "but in many cases he will be friendless and will be sure to have great trouble. He may need assistance in finding out where he can learn English, where he can send his children to school, where he can find a place to live and a place to work. Nothing could be more effective in lining up the new arrival on the side of law and order and of the things we believe in as being best for the country than this friendly welcome. It is this personal greeting from America that will help make the newcomer a 100 per cent American."

APPRECIATES AID OF LEGION

Federal Vocational Training Board Commends Consideration and Cooperation in Connecticut.

Thomas J. Bannigan, director of the service department of the American Legion at Hartford, Conn., has received this letter from Thomas Kirby, central office eligibility officer for the federal vocational training board:

"Before leaving Connecticut I desire on behalf of the chief at Washington and the whole federal board to express sincere appreciation for the consistent consideration and hearty co-operation of the American Legion during our stay in this state.

"There is consummate satisfaction and justifiable pride as we see these men, bearing the honorable scars of national service, marching into the dawn of a new era in their lives to become more valuable to themselves and to the country, and in the success that has attended our efforts the wholehearted support of your organization has been a conspicuous asset.

"While we are to be physically separated from you, you may be assured the triple chain of appreciation, respect and esteem that has bound you close to us during our brief but strenuous campaign will continue intact, and if in the future the Legion has any suggestions that might aid us in our work, they will receive the most respectful and serious consideration of the high authorities of the board."

Mr. Bannigan also is the adjutant of the department of Connecticut.

A Call for Senor Villa.
"And now, Johnny," said the teacher, "can you tell me what is raised in Mexico?"

"Aw, go on," replied the bright boy. "I know what you want me to say, but ma told me I shouldn't talk rough."—American Legion Weekly.

TEN POSTS ADOPT ORPHANS

A. E. F. Men, Home Again, Show They Have Not Forgotten Fatherless French Children.

When the A. E. F. packed all its troubles in its old kit bag and sailed for home loaded down with German helmets, it left behind in France 3,000 little war orphans which it had adopted during the war and for whose maintenance and education it had been paying. There was hardly an outfit in France which at one time was not in communication with its tiny mascot, a communication of a delightfully friendly nature that shellfire, mud and cooties could not interrupt.

Now the A. E. F. is back home again and hundreds of thousands have enlisted in the ranks of the American Legion. Consequently, with the memories of the letters of petite Jean and petite Jeanette fresh in their minds, the one-time godfathers of the expeditionary forces are again adopting the war orphans of France.

So far ten posts have adopted orphans, and a heavy enrollment on the list of godfathers is expected. It costs only $75 to maintain an orphan for a year, the funds being forwarded to national headquarters in Indianapolis, where they are turned over to the American Red Cross, which is assigning the children and attending to all the details of the work on the other side.

WAR BRIDES ORGANIZE CLUB

Newlyweds From France Band Together in Los Angeles—Hold Regular Meetings.

When Greek meets Greek there comes the tug-of-war, but when French war bride meets French war bride, they apparently form a club. At least, that is what they have done in Los Angeles, which boasts no less than five one-time mademoiselles who chose to follow their soldier husbands across the seas and a continent they had never seen before to a home in sunny California.

Regular meetings are held by the club at which, it is to be presumed, the main topic of conversation is what is new in the way of fashions from Paris, and the latest wrinkle in household thrift, an art wherein the French woman always has excelled.

The members of the club are Mrs. Jack Elwood, formerly Mlle. Blanche Deckkulaire of Lille; Mrs. Walter B. Matthews, formerly Mlle. Germaine Viallon of Paris; Mrs. Robert Allen, formerly Mlle. Helene Bernard of Paris; Mrs. L. C. Wilson, formerly Mlle. Henriette Bergeyre of Bordeaux, and Mrs. Arthur Withrow, formerly Mlle. Maximillienne Barren of Marseilles.

SHE CAN ANSWER QUESTIONS

Miss Pearl Burnett is in Charge of Statistical Section at the National Headquarters.

Whenever anybody wants to know how many posts the American Legion has, where they are located, who their officers are or any other information of a statistical nature their questions are answered by Miss Pearl Burnett of Indianapolis.

Miss Burnett has charge of the records in the statistical section of the organization division at American Legion national headquarters and what she doesn't know about the Legion and its multitude of integral units probably isn't worth knowing anyhow.

Affiliation Seems Certain.

A close affiliation between the American Legion, the G. A. R. and the Great War Veterans' Association of Canada, is the aim expressed in a resolution that the executive council of the Canadian organization recently adopted at Winnipeg. It was recommended that negotiations be opened with the American bodies. The resolution is to be presented to the Great War Veterans' association for approval, and it is believed that its adoption is certain.

Patriotism is Normal.

No one may impugn the Americanism of the Upper Michigan peninsula without getting a rise out of Bessemer Post No. 27, which at a recent meeting adopted a resolution denying in unmistakable terms that the patriotism of that section was other than normal. The action followed a recent statement by a legionaire accusing the peninsula of harboring "alien slackers."

Mohammedan New Year.

The Moharram marks the beginning of the Mussulman's new year, but the date is movable, and determined by the moon. It chiefly commemorates the death of the martyrs. All the prophet's son-in-law; Hasan, his grandson (poisoned by his wife), and Hosain, the younger brother, killed at Kerbela.

Eucalyptus Trees.

The grand eucalyptus trees in Gippsland are probably the grandest of their kind in the world, and quite as magnificent as the Californian giants, only not so large in circumference. The shedding of their bark is a misstatement. What the tree does do is this: It sheds the old, dry, broken, and coarse bark, but the new one is sound and solid, and is not shed. The new bark is clean and very smooth, no branches growing for 100 feet or more.

Nature's Busy Workers.

In the great office of nature there are innumerable departments with endless work going on, and the fine flower that you behold there, gaudily attired and scented like a dandy, is by no means what it appears to be, but rather is like a laborer toiling in the sun and shower, who has to submit a clear account of his work and has no breathing space to enjoy himself in a playful frolic.

Private Park.

If the rear yard is properly planted with a border of flowering shrubs and perennial flowers, has a velvety green lawn and a few shade or fruit trees, it will give the family a quiet, peaceful little private park, in which all can enjoy the moonlight during the hot summer evenings without making a long, tiresome trip to the parks. This is the height of pleasure afforded by a well-planted home yard.

Well to Forget Sorrows.

Some people hoard up their sorrows as a miser hoards gold, and whenever they have a little leisure, they take them out and count them over as the miser counts up his treasure. The fuller your coffers are of remembered sorrows the poorer you are. Throw them away. Refuse to recall them when you can help it.—Exchange.

Constantinople.

Within its girdling walls Constantinople rises, like Rome on its seven low hills, crowned by the splendors of mosques, whose gleaming cupolas and minarets, silhouetted against the blue sky, look down on the waters of the Bosphorus. A strange, incongruous huddle of palatial buildings and tumble-down hovels, of stately avenues, and filth-littered lanes, flanked by malodorous bazars, through which the human tide streams and surges.

Stone Used as Barometer.

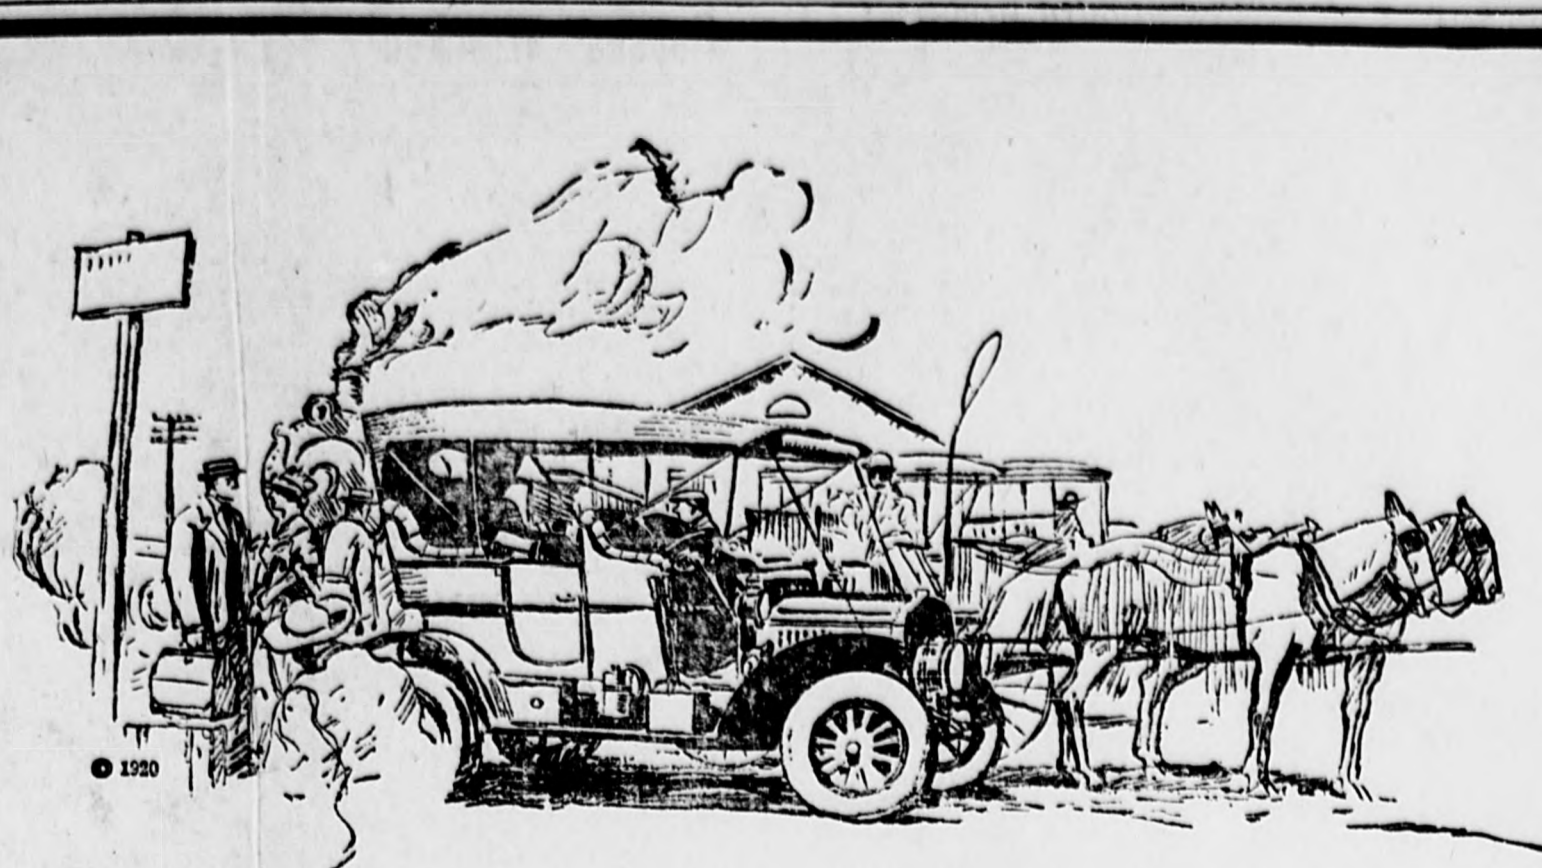

There is in the northern part of Finland a curious stone which serves the people instead of a barometer. This stone, which the Finns call Ilmakivi, turns black or a blackish gray when bad weather is approaching. Fine weather has the effect of turning it almost white. The Finns regard the stone with superstitious reverence, but the scientists say that its changes in color are due to salts contained in its composition.

"Picture Brides"

The manner of "picture bride" marriages in California is this: A Japanese sends his picture to his relatives in Japan who select a suitable maiden and in turn forward her photograph to the waiting suitor in America. If satisfactory, the relatives on both sides meet, hold a banquet and the marriage is considered a fact. The wife then joins her husband in this country.

Human Stepping Stones.

There are said to be many "Raileighs" in China. When a Chinese lady comes to a muddy place in the road she usually gets over it by employing a human stepping stone. Beckoning a boy she gives him a small coin, in return for which he drops on his hands and knees in the mud for her to step over.

When the train came in back in 1910

TEN years ago you might have seen one or two automobiles waiting outside the station, when the weather was pleasant.

Today the square is crowded with them. And most of the cars you generally see there are moderate-price cars.

Anybody who tells you that owners of moderate-price cars are not interested in the quality of their tires has never met very many of them.

We come in contact with the small car owner every day and we have found that he is just as much interested as the big car owner.

There is one tire, at least, that makes no distinction between small cars and large cars so far as quality is concerned—the U. S. Tire.

Every U. S. Tire is just like every other in quality—the best its builders know how to build.

Whatever the size of your car, the service you get out of U. S. Tires is the same. It isn't the car, but the man who owns the car, that sets the standard to which U. S. tires are made.

We feel the same way about it. That's why we represent U. S. Tires in this community.

NOW FAD FOR PLAITED SKIRTS

THERE is so much to be said of separate skirts because there are so many of them. The separate skirt—more or less dressy—to be worn with blouses and smocks that correspond with it in character, has won the steadfast allegiance of American women and is taken as a matter of course in every wardrobe, just as tailored suits and blouses are. Together with tailored, one-piece dresses, it gives opportunity for varying our everyday clothes for morning or street wear, and it is the cornerstone of sports apparel. In the richer fabrics, for afternoon and dinner dress, it is the complement of many beautiful blouses and smocks. It is a great convenience to take one skirt with several blouses and ring many changes in the toilette.
 A fad for plaited skirts just now has proved an inspiration to designers. They seem to delight in ingenious management of striped or plaid fabrics that can be made to do all sorts of unlooked-for things in conjunction with plaits. Both wool and silk fabrics are to be reckoned with in the fall styles, and all sorts of plaitings. A new fall model in striped woolen goods has recently made its debut and is shown in the picture above. Many ready-made skirts employ accordion plaits, that are liked because they take less material than other plaits and prove as effective, as may be gathered from the model in the picture. The plaited skirt is easy to make at home. One has only to buy material twice the length of the skirt plus the width of the hem, with sometimes a little additional allowance for matching the stripes or plaids. The goods is cut in two lengths, sewed up and the hem put in. Then it is taken to the professional to plait in a plaiting machine, or one can do this work at home. The plaits must be very thoroughly pressed down.
 When stripes running on the diagonal are wanted, the making is less simple, but even then presents no very great difficulties.

Ready for the School Bell

THE sensible mother does not worry when the time comes to outfit her daughters, big and little, for school days. She knows that she cannot go wrong when middie blouses are determined upon for school wear. They have made an unassailable place for themselves in the minds of those who shape the destinies of the best schools and many of these schools require a middie suit for the everyday wear of their pupils and admit no exception to this rule. Uniform dress for school wear is so good an idea that it ought to spread and it is possible that some day it will be feasible for certain public schools. Mothers can further it if they will.
 The successful middie is not quite so simple a proposition to deal with as it looks to be. Its straight lines must be trim lines, its collar well adjusted, its shoulder shapely, its sleeve roomy and neat, its finish above reproach. The middie in the school suit shown above qualifies as a first class example, when put to these tests. It is a trim garment with round-tailored collar, a little vestee, a tie and sleeve that belongs to the United States navy, and handsome insignia. There is a convenient and inconspicuous pocket on the left side and a tight cuff finishing a roomy sleeve. Rows of white braid are stitched on with irreproachable exactness as a decoration to collar and sleeves, the tie is knotted in the approved fashion and spreads its crisp ends as it should.
 Plain skirts appear to have passed into the realm of forgotten things, in plain materials, and plaits reign in their stead. Double-box plaits make straight up-and-down lines in the skirt of the middie suit. We have to concede that they are just the thing for it. For these suits it is worth while to use good materials—French and storm serges, gaberdine, jean and other durable fabrics of medium weight. For older girls the length of the middie and its hip lines need consideration. These are to be snug. Skirts are usually side plaited.

 What you want to know is how much the paint covers, how well it covers and how long it takes a man and brush to do the work.
 One way to figure is with a pencil. The right way is with a brush. Figure this way and you will use Lowe Brothers High Standard Liquid Paint. And once you use it, you'll always use this paint and no other.

Weymouth Women Are Anxious to Vote

That Weymouth women are anxious to vote was shown by the large number who seized the first opportunity to register their names.

The Registrars of Voters advertised to be in session last Friday evening from 7.30 to 9.00 o'clock, and the time was altogether too short, as over 150 presented themselves. Each as they entered was given a numbered card to denote their turn. In all, cards were given to 154 women and 6 men.

At 9 o'clock less than one-half had gone through the mill, but the outside door was locked, and the Registrars proceeded to register the 100 or more then in the office. It was after 10 o'clock when the job was completed.

There are now 619 women on voting lists of Weymouth, including 450 or more who had previously registered to vote for School Committee, divided as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Precinct and Number of women. Precinct One: 105, Precinct Two: 78, Precinct Three: 202, Precinct Four: 33, Precinct Five: 94, Precinct Six: 107

One more opportunity is offered the men and women to register before the primaries of Sept. 7, and that is tomorrow evening (Saturday) from 7.30 to 9.00 o'clock. It is expected that there will be another rush, possibly 100 to 200. However, after the primaries there will be several dates for registration before the Presidential election in November, as registration will not close until Oct. 23.

Had the Registrars realized that so many women were anxious to register, they probably would not have set a date as late as Saturday, Sept. 4, as it allows altogether too short a time to prepare and print voting lists before the primaries of Sept. 7 as only two days intervene, and those a Sunday and a holiday.

Weymouth's registration of 619 women compares with other towns as follows: Concord 873, Reading 500, Stoneham 370.

Quincy has four women over 80 years of age who have registered.

HONORS TO WILLIAM CHESSMAN

The Montana Record-Herald of Aug. 18 has this sketch of the success of William Chessman, a native of Weymouth:

"Pioneer members of the Masonic order are invited to a social session to be held in the Consistory-Shrine temple here Friday evening, Aug. 20, in honor of William A. Chessman, who has been a resident of Helena since 1865, and for years has been prominent in business life of the state. The members of Helena lodge No. 3, will be hosts and the session will be devoted to the 90th birthday celebration of Mr. Chessman after 9 o'clock. All old-time Masons of all lodges are urged to attend."

"Mr. Chessman has been a member of Helena lodge No. 3, for 46 years and held the office of master for four years.

"Mr. Chessman was born in Weymouth, Mass., Aug. 19, 1830, and at the age of 19 years was in San Francisco, when it was an outpost of civilization. He became interested in mining and came north to Montana in 1865, making his home in Helena. He first located in Alder gulch. He filed on several claims near here which he later sold for huge profits and later took up placer mining and also acquired valuable water rights. For several years he washed at a profit the placer diggings near the present site of the Great Northern station and sold part of his 200-acre holdings there to the Montana Central when it was built."

"He was one of the original owners of the consolidated Water company and vice-president of the Helena Electric Street Railway company. He also acquired big interests in cattle and mining and in the Bald Butte Mining company."

"Mr. Chessman has always taken a keen interest in politics and has been a member of the Republican party for years. He served five terms in the territorial legislature and also was a member of the constitutional convention. He is a 32d degree Mason and is a member of the California Pioneer's society."

"The social session that the Helena Masons will give Mr. Chessman here Friday evening is one of the time-honored customs of Helena lodge No. 3."

ODD FELLOWS LEAGUE TIE

Two victories on Saturday for Mt. Wollaston lodge of Quincy in the final game of the season, caused a tie in the Odd Fellows league for the championship, between the Crescent team of Weymouth and the Mt. Wollaston of Quincy, and a play-off will be necessary.

Table with 3 columns: Team, Won, Lost, Pct. Crescent: 8, 2, .80; Mt. Wollaston: 8, 2, .80; Old Colony: 6, 4, .60; Standish: 4, 5, .44; Willey: 3, 7, .30; John Hancock: 0, 9, .00

CRESCENT 38, JOHN HANCOCK 1 Crescent lodge with Rix on the mound trounced John Hancock lodge of Wollaston to the tune of 38 to 1 at Merrymount Park, Quincy, last Saturday afternoon.

Up to the eighth inning not a hit was registered off Rix and only the use of six substitutes by Crescent kept him from getting credit for a no-hit, no-run game.

Four home runs by Crescent featured the game. A. Humphrey, P. Humphrey, Clark and Dizer being the circuit clouters.

The score by innings: Crescent 9 2 0 5 7 8 2 4 1-38; J. Hancock 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0-1 Crescent made 31 hits and 3 errors, while John Hancock made 3 hits and 14 errors.

MT. WOLLASTON WINS TWO

Two games were played at South Weymouth and Mt. Wollaston lodge of Quincy won both by these scores: Mt. Wollaston 17, Willey 8; Mt. Wollaston 9, Willey 2.

OLD COLONY 6, STANDISH 3

On the Center playground at Hingham Saturday, Old Colony defeated Standish of Rockland in an interesting game by the score of 6 to 3.

The games of Saturday, Aug. 21, resulted as follows:

- Crescent 12, Old Colony 3; Mt. Wollaston 6, John Hancock 4; Standish 10, Willey 1.

FORE RIVER BRIDGE

A meeting of the trustees of the Fore River bridge was held Thursday in Hingham Town Hall. The trustees are: the Mayor of Quincy and the Selectmen of Weymouth and Hingham. An effort will be made, it is said, to try and have the State take over the care of the bridge, the expense of which is now borne by the city of Quincy and the towns of Weymouth and Hingham. The claim is made that residents of these three places use the bridge but very little in comparison with people from other places going to and from the South Shore. It is estimated that during next year, when the Pilgrim tercentenary is on, several hundred thousand automobiles will be added to the already large number that pass over the bridge at the present time, and a very great many of these, it is assumed, will be from outside the State altogether.

Shall Chaos or Reconstruction in Europe Follow the Great World War?

DAWN OF THE "NEW ORDER"

Relations Between Employer and Employee, Based on Sound Human Ethics, Replacing Doctrine of Force, Is the Only Hope.

Article XXXIII.

By FRANK COMERFORD.

The "New Order" is coming. The world must prepare for it. The people demand it. Those who oppose any "change" must surrender to the majority. America should be the first country to recognize the need of a "change." The building of the "New Order" should be done with the heads and by the hands of all classes.

Collective bargaining and profit sharing will be part of the "New Order." If the business men of America do not co-operate to bring about collective bargaining and profit sharing, the people will resort to force.

Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of directors of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, is a captain of industry with vision. He is a forward-looking American. He believes that the basis of big business must be grounded on sound human ethics. The other day he hit the nail on the head when he said:

"What the working men want is recognition, appreciation and fellowship. It is the duty of every business man in the United States to see to it that the largest possible opportunity for employment is given the greatest number of men.

"Through personal relationships and the 'tone' of the business established on these principles, the rank and file of men will come to know the spirit of the management and there will be no question of the loyalty of the men to the management.

"The kind of collective bargaining that I believe in is the one that recognizes the right of the men themselves to choose their own fellow workmen as representatives to speak with the company and which believes in the obligation of the company to treat these representatives individually and collectively with the confidence and respect to which they are justly entitled."

The working men must not be made the slaves of business, they must be made part of it. Political freedom, liberty under the law, are robbed of their meaning if men are enslaved by their work. It is not enough to make a man free before the law, he must be safe and free in his work. There is a difference between political freedom and industrial freedom. Men are entitled to both forms of freedom. One thought is uppermost and almost universal in the minds of the working men of the world, and that is that they have not had a square deal. I agree with them. The evidence supporting their thought is overwhelming. Men who give their lives to work have a positive right to a voice in the management of the business. This right must be recognized. Working men know that until they are given a voice their interests will be without a spokesman and as a consequence will be neglected. It isn't a question only of wages or hours of employment; the matter goes deeper. Men want the pleasure and satisfaction of being part of the business. They have been only part of the business in the sense that they sweat for it and give their lives to it.

Partnership is the Solution.

Labor and Capital should be a partnership. The two are like the blades of a scissor; separate and apart they are meaningless and valueless. Joined together, functioning harmoniously, they are useful and necessary to the world. This partnership idea must be put into practice. The product of the partnership must be more fairly divided. There is no gainsaying the fact that distribution has been entirely in the hands of the employers, and they have been selfish, and the workers have suffered. As President Masaryk put it to me one day: "Here we have a pile of gold and a few people in possession of it, wasting it to their own injury and to the detriment of the world, while over here we have the many living in wretchedness and fear." Everywhere in Europe I found progressive public men and forward-looking men of big business admitting that the working man has not had a square deal.

There was a day in the world when usury was not considered a social or legal crime. Money-lenders insisted they had a right to loan their money at any rate of interest the borrower was willing to pay. They justified taking advantage of the borrower's necessity by arguing it was part of the right of private contract. When some saner minds urged that the state had an interest, that the public welfare was affected by the lender exacting the last pound of flesh, a great cry went up that the sacred right of private contract was being invaded; that the liberty of man's relation with man was being violated. Yet the laws against usury came, and they have remained. These laws insist that a lender shall be limited in the amount he receives as interest on his loans. Today everyone concedes the morality, the humanity and the justice of the usury laws.

Public Welfare at Stake.
Men investing money in business injure the public welfare when they profiteer. We call it robbing the consumer. How much greater the larceny when the excess profits come from the sweat of the producers! Business should be honestly organized. The capital stock of the corporation should represent money actually invested. The investors are entitled to a reasonable interest on their investments, to an insurance against the "rainy day." They are entitled to set aside a percentage of the earnings to replace the capital invested. After this is done the balance belongs to the workers. Into the business they have put their lives; out of the business they should get more than a living. Their lives are lived in their work, they have a right to a say in their own lives.

No one that I have met has the plans and specifications for the "New Order," but everyone has in mind the general outline. The government, the working men and the employers should co-operate in making the plan, in building the "Tomorrow."

A step in the right direction is the industrial conference recently called by the president. In the preliminary statement of this conference, we find much cause for hope. They have presented a plan looking to the settlement of industrial disputes by arbitration. The plan is tentative in form, the framework for the completed structure. It contemplates the establishment of a national industrial court of nine members, located in Washington, with the functions of a court of appeals, to determine disputes referred to it. The country is divided into regions, with regional boards of inquiry and adjustment, to which may be submitted controversies between employers and employees for settlement. The chairmen of these disputants will have equal representation on the board. To insure confidence in the board the members are to be picked from panels of employers and employees submitted by the secretary of commerce and the secretary of labor, similar to jury panels prepared for the courts. Each side shall be entitled to a specific number of challenges, and the verdicts of the industrial juries must be by unanimous vote.

It is not compulsory arbitration. It is a plan by which employers and employees may settle their differences on merit rather than by force. It has an advantage over the settlement of industrial disputes by the strike, in that production will not be stopped, class hate will not be developed. The justice of right rather than the force of might will settle questions. This machinery will give public opinion a chance to act intelligently and effectively. An interesting paragraph reads: "Whenever an agreement is reached by the parties to a dispute, or a determination is announced by a regional board of adjustment, or by an umpire, or by the national industrial tribunal, the agreement shall have the full force and effect of a trade agreement which the parties to the dispute are bound to carry out."

We are facing the east. The new day is breaking. A better understanding between employers and employees is in sight. Let no one stand in the way of compromise and concession.

To avoid entangling alliances it is not necessary to abandon Europe. To put an end to war, some open agreement of nations is necessary. Secret treaties must cease; the new internationalism must be a covenant insuring the democracy of the world. America's place is in the vanguard of the movement toward the "New Order." We are a world power; we cannot escape our place and our responsibility in the family of nations. I am sure we do not want to. Our foreign policy is "America for Americans and All for Humanity." The creed of our house is "Man Is His Brother's Keeper."

The Real London.

English air, working upon London smoke, creates the real London. The real London is not a city of uniform brightness, like Paris. . . It is a picture continually changing, a continual sequence of pictures, and there is no knowing what mean street corner may not suddenly take on a glory not its own. The English mist is always at work like a subtle painter, and London is a vast canvas prepared for the mist to work on. The especial beauty of London is the Thames, and the Thames is so wonderful because the mist is always changing its shapes and colors, always making its lights mysterious, and building palaces of cloud out of mere parliament houses with their jags and turrets. When the mist collaborates with night and rain the masterpiece is created.—Arthur Symons.

Unsafe to Walk on Lava.

The temptation to walk on the thin crust over hot lava seems to be almost as strong as the longing which little boys feel for trying new ice. "Two young ladies," reports the Hilo Tribune, "stepped into a volcano crevice and were rescued somewhat bruised. Greater care is necessary in rambling through the Kilauea crater. Another Hilo lady was visiting the crater after nightfall with a party of friends and they were walking along a safe trail when she suddenly sank up to her armpits in a crack which opened beneath her feet."

POULTRY

CARING FOR BREEDING DUCKS

If Not Kept for Production of Market Eggs Fowls Should Be Given Grass Range.

Breeding ducks, if not kept for the production of market eggs, should have a grass range, if possible, after the hatching season is over and be fed sparingly on a mash of 1 part, by weight, corn meal, 2 parts bran, 1 part low-grade wheat flour, 1 part green feed, 8 per cent beef scrap and 3 per cent grit, given once or twice daily, with one feed of mixed grains; or the mash may be made of 3 parts, by measure, corn meal, 4 parts bran, 2 parts low-grade wheat flour, three-fourths part beef scrap, and 2 parts of green feed, with a small amount of grit and shell or mineral matter.

Feed Pekin ducks for eggs, beginning about December 1, on 1 pound of corn meal, 1 pound of low-grade flour or middlings, 1 pound of bran, 15 per cent of beef scrap, 15 per cent of vegetables or green feed, and some grit, feeding this mash twice daily, in the morning and at night; also giving 1 quart of mixed corn and wheat to every 30 ducks at noon when they are laying heavily. These laying rations should be fed throughout the year to Indian Runners or to any breed of ducks kept principally for the production of market eggs, poultry specialists of the United States department of agriculture say. If the Indian Runner ducks are not laying, they should be fed sparingly. All rations are by weight unless otherwise stated. Thirty laying ducks (Pekins) will eat about 10 quarts of moist mash at each meal.

FEEDING FOWLS FOR PROFIT

Early Hatched Chick Will Reach Laying Maturity Before Commencement of Cold Season.

The first rule for getting a good profit from poultry is to get the chicks hatched early, and the next is to keep them growing so that they will reach laying maturity before the commencement of cold weather. There is no profit in keeping a chicken just alive, whether it is intended for laying stock or for the market. One reason why more care should be exercised in feeding fowls is that the chicks know less about what is good for them than do the fowls. The healthy chick is a hungry thing and will eat what is given it; the digestive organs being weak are less able to dispose of objectionable feed than are those of older fowls.

Young chicks should be fed a little at a time and often, poultry specialists in United States department of agriculture say. They should be fed early in the morning and just before going to bed at night, and not less than three times in the intervening period. For the first two weeks they may be fed three meals of soft feed and two of hard, and after that age two of soft and three of hard, less soft feed being fed as they grow older. No more moistened soft feed should be given at one time than they will eat up clean.

OBJECTS IN CULLING FLOCK

Insures Feed for Best Layers and Saves Fowls Best Suited for Breeding Purposes.

Culling of the flock serves two purposes: First, it insures that the feed will be consumed by the better-producing hens, thereby increasing the profit. Second, it makes it possible to save those best suited for breeders, both on account of their better production and on account of their superior strength and vitality—qualities so essential to layers if they are to stand up under the severe strain of heavy laying. Weeding out the poor hens gives those left more room and a better chance.

ESSENTIAL FOR YARDED HENS

Charcoal, Grit and Oyster Shells Should Be Kept Before Fowls All the Time.

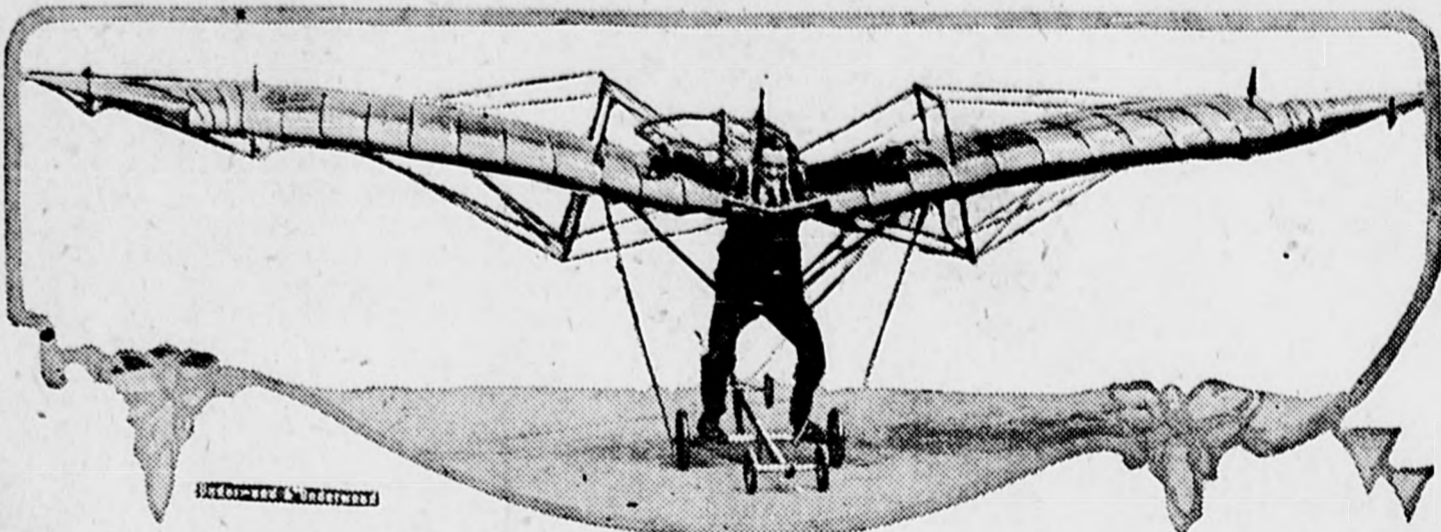

Where the chickens are kept in small bare yards, fine charcoal, grit and oyster shells should be kept before them all of the time, and cracked or ground bone may be fed. The bone is not necessary for chickens that have a good range.

Bicycle Pontoon Built by Two Illinoisans

David Swarhout and James Smith of Evanston, Ill., have built a "bicycle pontoon" which is here seen carrying two passengers. It consists of two air-tight tin tanks and a bicycle frame. The pedals turn a sprocket wheel and chain, thus revolving the screw.

Here is the Ornithopter, a New Flying Machine

Have you ever wished to fly like a bird? Well, your chance has come. H. S. Dixon is shown in this photograph with his ornithopter or wing-flapping machine, which is propelled by the action of the man himself and not by an engine. The action is similar to that of a bird. The measurements of the plane from tip to tip are 23 feet 6 inches, and nose to tail 14 feet. The machine weighs 47 pounds, and a speed of from 15 to 20 miles can be maintained.

Raccoon in California Society

Gone are the days of Fido and the monk in California society. The raccoon has now taken his place as milady's pet. Mrs. Vivian Gordon (left) and Mrs. Walter Varney are among the latest San Franciscans who have adopted the raccoon. They were photographed while enjoying afternoon tea.

Raising Pheasants in Incubators

The Massachusetts state game preserve at Marchfield, Mass., is raising pheasants from incubators for the first time, and is having remarkable success. Hundreds of young pheasants are being raised for distribution in preserves about the state. The photograph shows a tray of eggs in process of hatching.

A Missouri girl releasing one of the 5,000 homing pigeons entered in a 500-mile race to St. Louis. The birds were trained at the Rexall lofts in St. Louis, the largest in the world.

HER ANKLES WIN PRIZE

This is Miss Consuelo Furman of New York, and her joyous smile is there because she has just been handed a prize of $500 for having the prettiest feet and ankles in the metropolis.

MINISTERS PLAY HORSE

Methodist ministers from all parts of the country, attending a school for rural pastors at Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, Ill., were taught by Miss Grace Ferry how to relax and play games. Two of them in a game of "horse-and-rider" are here shown.

When Tris Speaker let the Des Moines club have Ted Odenwald he did a "good samaritan" act. Ted pitched a three-hit game against Omaha the other day.

Lefty Groves, Baltimore's new pitcher, may have curves and speed, but he is described as being mighty awkward in a fielding way and batters get his goat when they bunt his way.

Pitcher Gardner, a St. Louis Cardinal "loan" player, is now with his third team in the Western Association. He started with Springfield, was shipped to Henryetta, and is now with Okmulgee, or was at last accounts.

Jack Coombs, after serving time in both majors, says the American has more good players altogether, but that the Brooklyn club has a better pitching staff than any other club either major boasts.

If Babe doesn't go ahead and pass the mark set by Perry Werden of the Minneapolis club in the Western league in 1906 it will be disappointing. Werden poled out a total of 45—the world's record for a season.

ERA OF PROSPERITY IN ENGLISH RACING

Immense Crowds Have Attended All of Big Events

Increase of Rich Stakes and Purses Shows Sport Is Flourishing at Newmarket—Other Clubs Expected to Follow.

Evidently horse racing in England is enjoying the same era of prosperity that is visiting the sport in this country. Advice from the other side indicate that immense crowds have attended all of the big events held there thus far, and further attestation of the sport there has just been received in the announcement that at the recent annual meeting of the Jockey club it was decided that in future $10,000 will be added to the $10,000 stakes and $5,000 to the $5,000. The conditions of other races at Newmarket are being changed with a view to making stake increases fairly general.

This action by the Jockey club is regarded in England as being but the forerunner of a general and material increase in the values of practically all of the principal stake events. It is confidently expected that Epsom and Doncaster will follow Newmarket's lead and that Epsom will increase the value of the Derby and Oaks and that Doncaster will do likewise in the case of the St. Leger.

In commenting on the situation the Daily Telegraph of London printed the following in a recent issue.

"The example of the Jockey club is there for all others to read and learn. It means everything. One has so much respect for what the Jockey club may do by way of example as to be quite sure others will follow as a matter of course, either through the dictates of courtesy and respect or of policy. In this case policy may mean the other thing."

PLAY FOR FOOTBALL EMBLEM

English Soccer Players Contested for Cup Annually From 1872 Until War Broke Out.

The English cup emblematic of soccer football superiority has been played for annually since 1872 to 1915 and because of the war was discontinued until this year. London Wanderers, Blackburn Rovers and Aston Villa each won it five times, the Wanderers and Rovers thrice in succession.

GRATITUDE OF PLAYER

A ball player will take a bad decision from an umpire that is in his favor and never say what thinks. He'll even throw it up to the umpire as this incident shows:

In a recent St. Paul-Toledo game Duke Duncan apparently made a pick-up off Kelly's bat, after a great sliding dive. Umpire Murray ruled it a fair catch, a double play resulted and Duncan was a hero.

Later in the game Duncan came to bat and claimed he had been hit on the foot by a pitched ball. "The ball hit me," he howled.

"No, it didn't," answered Murray.

"How do you know," shouted Duncan. "You miss 'em all. You said I caught that fly in the fourth inning; I didn't; I picked it up off the ground."

So much for a ball player's gratitude.

WHERE THEY WOULD BE LOST

Deaf Mutes Had the Advantage in the Noisy Subway, but How About the Darkness?

Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana and his secretary were returning from a late session of the senate one night by way of the merry-go-round motor that runs through the subway. Weymouth for Warner But State For Fuller

Speaker Warner was the leading candidate in Weymouth for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant-governor, receiving 210 votes to 180 for Fuller, 169 for Burrill and 107 for Langtry.
For Secretary of State, Cook led the field.
Treasurer Burrill failed to get 100 votes in Weymouth, the choice of the town going to James Jackson, the sticker candidate.

Auditor Cook had a big lead for renomination over Babb.
One of the surprises of the day was the big majority for Wright for Senator, his total being 498 to 201 for McIntosh.
Humphrey and Merrill were the choice for county commissioners, Richardson being low man.

Louis A. Frothingham had no opposition for congressman; Prince H.

JAMES JACKSON

Tirrell was renominated for representative; and Williams was the choice for councillor.
There was no contest for delegate to the Republican State convention, the following being elected: John P. Lovell, Burgess H. Spinney, George L. Barnes, Kenneth L. Nash and George W. Perry.

The following were elected members of the Republican Town Committee without contest: John P. Lovell, Burgess H. Spinney, Winslow M. Tirrell, James I. Peers, Marshall T. Tirrell, Kenneth L. Nash, Thomas V. Nash, Walter W. Pratt, Bowdoin B. Smith, Jacob S. Wichert, Angelo C. Dondero, Kenneth E. Brennan, Prince H. Tirrell, James C. Stever, John J. Norton, William H. Cowing, Newland H. Holmes, Clarence P. Whittle, Fred H. Smith, William Dasha, Henry A. Day and Walter J. Sladen.

The total Republican vote was 729 divided by precincts as follows: Precinct One 127, Precinct Two, 110, Precinct Three 123, Precinct Four 91, Precinct Five 187, Precinct Six 91.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET

Only 70 Democratic votes were cast in Weymouth. For Governor, Long led Walsh 33 to 27.

The only other contest was for the nomination for Congressman, and

$10,000 Are Needed For Tornado Relief

The Tornado Relief Committee of Weymouth has organized with William J. Holbrook, chairman; Prince Tirrell, secretary; and James W. Santry, treasurer.
Chairman Holbrook informs the Gazette and Transcript that the committee has made an examination of the estates damaged and finds that at least $10,000 will be needed for relief. Thus far about $1600 has been realized from the sale of tags, Arthur L. McGrory's benefit, collections at St. Francis Xavier Catholic church and various gifts.

The committee hope to raise the balance at a gala field day at the Weymouth Fairgrounds at South Weymouth on Saturday, Sept. 18. All societies of the town are asked to cooperate, either with booths, or some attraction. The Old Colony Gentlemen's Driving Club will present a good card of horse trotting, a baseball game will be played for the championship, the Fore River Band will give concerts, and there will be other sports and attractions to interest all. Complete program will be announced in the Gazette next week.
Weymouth has, often extended relief to distant places, but here is a needy case right at home. The sum of $10,000 should be promptly raised. Let everyone enthuse over the gala field day, so that expectations may be realized.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Managers of Both Parties Are Raising Big Hullabaloo Over Campaign Funds.

LAW VIOLATIONS CHARGED

Gompers Asks Union Labor to Support Cox—More Trouble in Mining Fields—Poles Destroy Budenny's Red Army in Galicia.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

Candidate Cox and the managers of both the Democratic and the Republican campaigns have created a deal of noise and fury with their charges and counter-charges relating to the campaign funds.

Republican managers assert that Cox's charges that they had conspired to buy the presidency with huge sums of money have been completely disproved.

Mr. Cox elaborated his statements by making public a document entitled "Campaign Plan in Larger Cities," which he said proved the Republican national committee was seeking to raise sums ranging from $5,000 to $10,000.

On Tuesday Mr. Upham supplemented this by submitting the full list of contributors to the Harding fund. Fewer than a dozen, he said, had given more than $1,000 and two subscriptions of $5,000 each were the largest received to date.

But the Democrats were not out of ammunition, by any means. The next thing they brought to the attention of the senatorial committee was the "de luxe" book, "Republicanism in 1920," which William Barnes of New York was said to be getting out.

Protective Tariff association, the Committee of American Business Men, the American Defense society and the Republican Publicity association.

As for the Barnes book, the Democrats assert the Republicans are breaking the law by accepting for this campaign effort contributions from corporations.

Provoked into recrimination, the Republicans are making various accusations against their opponents.

The Tennessee house of representatives tried to undo its action in ratifying the suffrage amendment by expunging from its journal all record of the ratification and voting to nonconcur in the action of the senate.

Another great victory for the Poles was recorded last week. General Budenny's bolshevik army, which had invaded Galicia and was threatening Lemberg and the rich oil fields of that region, was cut off and virtually destroyed.

In the north the Russo-Polish war degenerated into a confused series of isolated battles, various units of both sides being separated from their main commands and in some cases forced across the East Prussian border.

Samuel Gompers and his associates in the management of the American Federation of Labor have finally announced themselves in the matter of the presidential campaign.

It does likewise with Mr. Cox as a member of the house in 1912 and as governor of Ohio in 1913, 1914, 1917-19-20.

More trouble has broken out in the mining fields. President Wilson, after receiving and approving the report of the wage award made by the federal commission for the anthracite miners,

New York was badly tied up by an unexpected strike of about 8,000 employees of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company, which concern is in the hands of a federal receiver who refused the wage demands of the men. For days very few cars were operated.

The railroads of the country began operations on their own resources on September 1. During the six months in which their earnings were guaranteed by the transportation act they cost the government about $100,000,000 a month.

The Tennessee house of representatives tried to undo its action in ratifying the suffrage amendment by expunging from its journal all record of the ratification and voting to nonconcur in the action of the senate.

In the north the Russo-Polish war degenerated into a confused series of isolated battles, various units of both sides being separated from their main commands and in some cases forced across the East Prussian border.

What promised to develop into another severe blow for the soviet Russians was the drive started by the Ukrainians in conjunction with Poland. They began by forcing the reds across the Dniester river near Buczare and capturing that city.

At last reports Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork had not succeeded in starving himself to death in Brixton jail, but was growing mysteriously stronger.

Miss Amy Wren, counsel for the women employees of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit line, says: "The hours of the transit companies do not coincide with the hours laid down by the law.

IN ANOTHER KEY

SOME CAR.

"How do you like your new car?" asked the Lizzie Driver. "Great," replied the Big Six Driver. "It runs so smoothly you can't feel it. Not a bit of noise, you can't hear it. Perfect ignition, you can't smell a thing. And speed—why, it whizzes! You can't see it."

"Must be some car," ventured the Lizzie Driver. "Can't feel it, can't smell it, can't hear it, can't see it! How do you know it is there?"

An Alarm Clock Dog. Flatbush—That dog of yours looks like a good watch dog. Bensonhurst—Are you joking? "No; of course, I'm not joking."

PA WANTED A NIGHT'S SLEEP "Baby cut another tooth today." "That's all right; I'd rather have him give a matinee than an evening performance."

Never Neglectful. Life's kettle rimes and bubbles With an unremitting fuss, We might forget our troubles If they'd do the same to us.

In a Quandary. "I'm in a tough position," declared the judge who had resigned to resume the practice of law. "Been employed to try to get a new trial for a man I sent to jail."

Practical Value. "Can your friend boast of a good, unquestioned birth?" "Well, he's just engaged a good one on an ocean liner, but he ain't boasting about it."

The New Efficiency. Caller—How is your new office boy getting along these days? Business Man—Oh, fine! He's got things so mixed up now that I couldn't do without him.—Oakland Aegis.

His Nature. "I want a young man of steady habits to attend my racing horses." "Of course, you need a man of stable character."

THE CIRCLE. Mr. Doughbag—When I was your age I didn't have a dollar. Reggy Doughbag—Well, dad, when I am your age I probably won't have a dollar.

An Efficiency Test. Efficiency we all extol I hope we'll some day learn it So well that we can dig up coal As fast as we can burn it.

Contraiwise. "Only come back to the stock company and we'll give you a fat part in the next new play." "You've jollied me before about your fat parts. That's too thin."

Conductorette Law Repealed. Miss Amy Wren, counsel for the women employees of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit line, says: "The hours of the transit companies do not coincide with the hours laid down by the law.

ELEPHANT WILL FILL RADIATORS

If you own an automobile you should also own an elephant. Henry Be-shane, head elephant trainer of a large circus, now on a tour of the country, says "Old Buck" one of his herd, is the greatest garage assistant ever. Be-shane has taught "Old Buck" to fill the radiators of the circus autos with water when necessary. "Old Buck" carries the water from a tank to the auto in his trunk. Why haul pails of water when an elephant will do the work for you?

PROVIDE ENGINE WITH LUBRICANT

Liquid in Crank Base Sometimes Thinned Out With Gasoline and Disaster Follows.

MAKE CERTAIN OF RIGHT OIL

Old Material Should Be Drawn Out and New Supply Put in for Every 1,000 Miles of Driving—Keep Close Watch on Gauge.

The wise car owner obeys his instruction book explicitly. He fills the base of his engine with lubricant when oil is necessary, as indicated by the gauge, but the instruction book does not always advise him further regarding the oiling system. At the present high cost of lubricant more instructions are necessary.

You may have liquid in the base of your engine, but is it a lubricant? Many times this liquid is a combination of cylinder oil and gasoline. Its lubricating properties are poor and should the bearings burn out through lack of oil the owner is apt to blame the oil for the trouble. Then he immediately buys oil of another grade, without knowing the real reason for his trouble.

Make Sure of Right Oil.

The best way to make sure of having the right grade of oil is to use religiously the oil recommended by the manufacturers of the particular car you drive. Depending upon the type of engine, crank-case oil should be changed regularly. Old lubricating oil should be drawn out and new oil put in for at least every 1,000 miles of driving. In special cases it is advisable to renew the oil much oftener, but this is the usual length of time it may be left in the engine.

If the engine doesn't get a sufficient amount of oil it will run hot. If the driver does not notice that his oil gauge is falling to indicate, it is doubtful that he would know the engine was hot until it stopped and wouldn't run any more. In such a case he would probably find that one or two, perhaps all, of the bearings are burnt out.

Something Wrong.

When the engine is not getting enough oil it is usually because the oil supply has been allowed to run low or there is something wrong with the circulating system—either the pump is not forcing the oil to the bearings properly or the pipes are plugged or the connections are loose or the strainer is obstructed with foreign matter.

Whenever the gauge does not function properly the trouble should be investigated at once. Make sure, first of all, that there is enough oil in the crank case. Then take a careful look at the oil pipe connections to make sure that they are not leaking. If these are tight take out the oil strainer and clean it and if the trouble is still in evidence disconnect all the oil pipes and stick wires through them or blow them out with the tire pump. Finally, a better adjustment of the oil pump may be made to cause it to pump more oil, provided indications prove it to be improperly adjusted.

STEEL TO REMOVE BUSHINGS

End and Long Enough to Pass Through Knuckle.

A tool for removing steering spindle bushings may be made from a piece of 3/4-inch round steel, which should be bent slightly about two inches from the end. The tool will have to be long enough to pass through the steering knuckle and leave an inch or two sticking out, on which to han-

Explains Fully.

The ordinary carbon scraper is a more or less unsatisfactory tool, especially where the only access to the piston and cylinders is through the spark-plug hole. A special tool for the purpose consists of some stranded-wire cable and a piece of brass tubing. One end of the tube is bent slightly, as indicated in the sketch, the wire cable is placed through the pipe, and the end frayed or untwisted. The opposite end of the cable is taped and wound with twine to afford a convenient handle.

The tool is used as illustrated; gripping the pipe with the left hand, the right hand is used to move the cable back and forth in pump fashion. The projecting prongs scour the piston head and cylinder walls.

After the carbon is pulverized, the motor is run for a few minutes with the spark plug left out, when the suction and compression of the piston blows most of the loose carbon out of the exhaust port and the plug opening. A piece of steel wire cable should be used in making this tool; soft-iron wire is not stiff enough to be effective. —Popular Mechanics Magazine.

AUTOMOBILE GOSSIP

Don't fail to keep an eye on your ammeter.

See that the oil gauge always works and that there are no oil leaks about the engine.

Attend to lubrication regularly, so the moving parts will not be dry, even for a moment.

It is remarkable what vibration will do in the way of loosening up grease cups that have gone in stiffly and apparently been absolutely secure.

After a casing has been long in use stretching sometimes results, so that it takes longer to inflate it. A stretched tire should not be pumped too tight.

The engine should never be run when the storage battery is out of the car or disconnected unless the generator has first been rendered inoper-ative.

Drain your engine oil every 500 to 1,000 miles. It may seem cheaper to use the old oil now that oil is higher in cost, but repairs are more costly than oil.

The starter should not be abused.
If the engine does not start on the first few turns, stop and look for trouble.

QUINCY THEATRE

Stock Company remained at Music Hall, Lewiston, for nine solid months without missing a single day; and accomplished the previously unheard-of achievement by continuing to delight capacity houses throughout the summer months, when 99 out of 100 stock companies disband—just as successfully as through the winter and spring months. There is only one answer to such a statement and that is that this company must have produced the maximum of satisfactory results; also that the public would never have supported the engagement by its continuous patronage; and then immediately on top of its Lewiston run, the Lutteringer company proceeded to duplicate this feat by going to Augusta, Me., and remaining there 25 weeks, where Lewiston history repeated itself. All that the Quincy Theatre might say in praise of this organization cannot testify to its calibre any more substantially than these hard cold facts of public approval.

"Missing Men" List Tells Story Any Pen Would Be Unable to Portray.

Little stories of the world war that bring home to a land now at peace the sacrifice of men who gave their lives on the battlefields of France and the sorrows of thousands of gold star mothers are coming to light every day in the search that goes steadily on for the missing and for information regarding the deaths of soldiers overseas. From every section of the country and from every state come these queries to the American Legion Weekly, which in its "Missing Men" column, places where all may see an array of items back of which lie some of the greatest tales of the war.

"Missing Men" is in itself the most tragic column in the world. Into its short compass is compressed a host of heart throbs and a sweeping human emotion that the pen of the most gifted novelist would be unable to portray. The items are short, of necessity, but, in the few words that go to make up each, volumes are spoken. Take, for example, such communications as these:

D INF., CO. I—Private Floyd Hillz July 23, 1918, after having been killed at Vaux on July 1. Government bureaus can furnish no other information. His mother died last November while mourning for him. Details of his death are sought by sister, Mrs. Florence Zivisa, 83 Bridgeport avenue, Devon, Conn.

210 INF., HDQ. CO.—Private Elmer P. Hughes was reported wounded on October 6, 1918, but a later letter from the adjutant general said that he had died on October 4. His mother believes that he may still be alive, and wants information from his buddies. Write Private Michal Sabak, Second company, D. B. Guard, Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

107TH INF.—Samuel Du Bois Owings died in an English army hospital at Rouen, on the Flanders front, on or about October 21, 1918. Last word from him said he was in good spirits after suffering an attack of gas. Information about his death is wanted by Philip S. Sichel, 82 Mamaroneck avenue, Mamaroneck, N. Y.

110TH INF., CO. A.—Private Charles M. Smith was reported missing in battle near the town of Villette on the morning of August 25, 1918, and has not been heard from since. War department has reported him killed in action, but has not been able to locate his grave or find anyone who saw him fall. Further details from his buddies are desired by his brother, Omar H. Smith, 229 West Fifty-eighth street, New York City.

These items, picked at random, from a typical column of "Missing Men" are only a few among thousands of a similar tenor. They tell their own stories and add themselves to the long list of mysteries of the war that may never be solved. Others, however, have been solved through the medium of "Missing Men," and many letters have come into the office of the Legion magazine containing the information sought in a published query.

VISIT ATLANTIC CITY CAMP

Ex-Service Men Enjoying Delightful Midsummer Vacations at Famous New Jersey Resort.

With the midsummer vacation season in full swing, Camp Franklin d'Olier, the Legion holiday enterprise at Atlantic City, find itself the center of attraction for a host of former service men who are taking advantage of the opportunity to spend a week or two at the famous New Jersey seaside resort at a trifling cost. Since the formal inauguration of the camp there has been a steady influx of guests from all sections of the country, some coming from states as distant as Alabama and New Hampshire to mingle with crowds on the board walk and the beach, and live the life of a summer sojourner without undergoing the inconvenience of meeting hotel bills.

The camp itself, located near the Atlantic City Yacht club, has twenty tents, capable of housing 200 men at a cost to them of $5 a week apiece. Cots, mattresses, bedding and all furnishings are provided to the Legion vacationists, and a canteen on the grounds serves a breakfast and light luncheon. The committee in charge is composed of William C. Fisher, Frederick Hickman, James N. Butler, Walter Hanstein, August Goetz, Sam Izenskie, James Heenan, Dr. Samuel Stern, Dr. Samuel Salasin, Joseph Schwartz and Louis G. McCorkle.

The plan of the Atlantic City Post of the Legion which built the camp is to make it a permanent affair, open every year to all members of the Legion. This year it will run until the middle of September, and James Butler is receiving applications for the camp up until then.

Pitched No-Hit, No-Run Game.
George Little of the Thomas Dismuke Post, Houston, Tex., who has hurried the Legion baseball team to victory on numerous occasions, recently was given a try out by the Houston club of the Texas league, and pitched a no-hit, no-run game against Galveston.

MEDALS FOR WORLD WAR MEN

Tokens Will Be Distributed by Legion to Ex-Service Men of Country on Armistice Day.

Presentation of the Victory medals, to which 4,800,000 soldiers, sailors and marines are entitled for service in the World war, will be carried out in thousands of communities through the agency of the American Legion on Armistice day. Acceptance of the Legion's offer to aid the war department in the distribution of the medals has been received by Franklin D'Olier, the national commander, and plans are already under way in many localities for the staging of elaborate ceremonies in connection with the formal presentation.

An appeal for all of the 9,500 posts of the Legion to co-operate in the medal distribution enterprise in order that the celebration of Armistice day "may be memorable for years to come" was sent to the heads of all departments by Mr. D'Olier.

"It is with wholesome pride in the triumph of our arms in the most crucial test of strength in history," he wrote, "that the Legion appeals to all Americans to make Armistice day 1920, memorable for years to come. We desire that it shall be above all else, a tribute to our country and our flag and the flags of our allies. In other sense it should be a solemn, affectionate dedication of our lives to the principles for which more than 100,000 of our countrymen and millions of our comrades-in-arms made the greatest sacrifice."

Not only will the presentation of the medals be marked by impressive ceremonies in every city and town in the country but celebrations will be held in nineteen insular possessions of the United States and in a number of foreign countries where there are established posts of the Legion.

Had it not been for the initiative of the American Legion there would be no ceremony attached to the distribution of the medals, Mr. D'Olier points out. "I believe the American Legion can take a justifiable pride in the fact that but for it there would have been no formal observance at all of the presentation of the Victory medal," he said. "Under the original plan of distribution applicants were to apply individually, either through a recruiting station or military or navy post or direct to the adjutant general of the army or the secretary of the navy. Medals were to be sent by mail to the home address of the recipient. The award of a token so significant as the Victory medals marks an epoch in our history and should, and will be, invested with appropriate ceremony."

Post commanders are now drawing from the government the official application forms with which to supply the ex-service men in their communities. The posts of New York city are providing typewriters and the free services of notaries to all applicants, inasmuch as it is necessary that all forms be typewritten and certified.

Any veteran may apply to any one of the 9,500 posts in the Legion to make application for his medal. This offer applies to non-members as well as members of the Legion. Special consideration will be given gold star mothers and other next-of-kin who are entitled to the medals of men who died in the service. Unless the applicant otherwise specifies, medals applied for through Legion channels will be retained in charge of the commander of the post through which the application was made, until Armistice day when the formal presentation will be made.

Men who already have applied for their medals through other channels may turn them in to any Legion post for presentation on November 11.

What's done as much as anything else to fill up the movie houses

LOOK at the crowds that step out of their cars in front of the movies every summer evening.

The movie managers would be renting half of their theatres for store space, if it weren't for the automobile.

II

It is typical of Americans that they took to the automobile as a matter of course — just as they have to the movies and to every other great invention of the last half century.

And the same thing has happened everytime. Taking things as they come is a fine way to foster waste and extravagance.

As regards tires, the comeback is about due. People are pretty near through paying for something that isn't there when they look for it.

III

What a man pays for in a tire is quality—not a limited number of miles or the privilege of getting a rebate in case the miles don't come up to the limit.

U. S. Tires are guaranteed as to quality—with no limitation of mileage.

And that holds just as good for the small car tire as for the biggest U. S. Tire we've got. There's only one standard of quality with U. S.—and the size of the car has nothing whatever to do with it.

IV

We represent U. S. Tires in this town. You'll find it worth while to talk to us before you buy any more tires.

Select your tires according to the roads they have to travel:

In sandy or hilly country, wherever the going is apt to be heavy—The U. S. Nobby.

For ordinary country roads—The U. S. Chain or Usco.

For front wheels—The U. S. Plain.

For best results—everywhere—U. S. Royal Cords.

Drink Water When Tired.
Dr. Eliza B. Mosher of Brooklyn urged the members of the Women's Medical society of New York state to drink a glass of water at 10 a. m. and others at 3, 4 and 5 p. m. This, she told them, would dilute the products of fatigue which were entering the blood and causing that tired feeling.

Varied Climes, Varied Habits.
Natives of hot climates who spend much time in the water rarely use soap except for a shave or shampoo. The Esquimaux is a reckless bather during the fishing season, when he is forced to wade to disentangle his nets, but his wife and family think handling wet nets absolves them from further bathing rites.

Glorious Revenge.
Brother had gone to a basketball game and left little sister at home, very much to her disapproval. She began at once to lay plans for revenge, saying: "Mother, I know what I'll do. I'll just go with you to the dentist tomorrow and have a tooth pulled. I'll fix him and won't he be sorry?"

True.
The more we see of golf the more we are impressed with the thought that the game is very much like life itself. Almost every dub imagines himself competent to give the other fellow advice.

NEW COATS FOR THE SMALL GIRL

THIS small person is much pleased with life in general and her new coat in particular, and she has no monopoly of pleasure in the new styles for children. For little girls the recently arrived coats are the most ingenious and the most pleasing that have come to pass in recent years. They ought to be, to appease us for our much-abused and depleted pocket-books which they have helped to flatten; for children's coats are among the list of things that have increased most in price. But parents hearts are soft; a procession of new frocks and coats for girls will wheedle them out of more coin than it should and reconcile them to its loss.
 Velours is as much a favorite for little people as for grownups. It appears on the little girl pictured here in a coat suited to a child anywhere from four to eight years old and shows how well it looks with border of wool angora. This fuzzy and childish-looking trimming makes the cuffs that finish off plain sleeves and the little choker collar with two make-believe ermine tails that bring it to a happy ending. There is further cause for satisfaction in a band of embroidery on the angora. The picture tells the simple story of this garment perfectly. It is merely a full skirt joined to a plain body that buttons at the left front and is extended at the back and front into a rounded tab below the waistline.
 There are coats with big cape collars and big patch pockets quite out of proportion to the small garments they adorn but sure to delight young ladies from four to ten who are observant of grown up styles and know what they want. Velours, duvetyne and homespun are used for making them, or a tiny girl may be indulged in velvet. There are others with deep pointed yokes to which full skirts are gathered. Wide choker collars of fur and round fur buttons make one's joy complete in them. But about the best of all are coats having scarfs and cuffs of different materials. Such coats are straight garments "all buttoned up before," with narrow belts, deep cuffs and scarfs embroidered with bright colored wool across the ends.

Hats Dispel September's Gloom

As a panacea for the average brook- en heart a clever woman advises a new hat. In time of trouble when one must contemplate a long school year ahead, at the end of a blissful vacation, there is nothing more consoling than new millinery. It takes one's mind off the dullness of algebra and the trials of Latin.
 Getting together an outfit is pleasantly exciting to the young person going away to school and under the supervision of a discriminating mother she will be provided with just enough clothes, simply designed, well and smartly made. Her millinery will include a very practical tailored hat and a simple dress or demi-dress affair. There is a good example of this sort of hat at the left of the group of school-girls' hats shown above. It is made of chenille braid, with soft, fallie ribbon laid about the brim edge and is decorated with long stitches of embroidery silk. These are some very pretty velvet models, including shapes with turned back brims and Breton sailors for young women; the greatest favorites are the dashing artists' tam and the various off-the-face shapes.
 There are tams of all sorts, for all kinds of wear and all ages of girls. Except for tassels or pompons there are almost no trimmings. On wide-brimmed velvet hats, for older girls, long, velvet ears contribute much sprightly style as a finishing touch.
 For younger girls nothing is quite so elegant as the beaver and felts that are shown in a variety of simple shapes. All these hats have ribbon collars and long sash ends or tailored bows. A handsome specimen of beaver appears at the top of the group pictured, with collar and sash ends of fallie ribbon. Below it at the right is a Breton sailor of felt and at the bottom of the group an off-the-face shape in felt having the upturned brim outlined with a strip of light felt.

MELLOTONE

Gives walls a rare charm

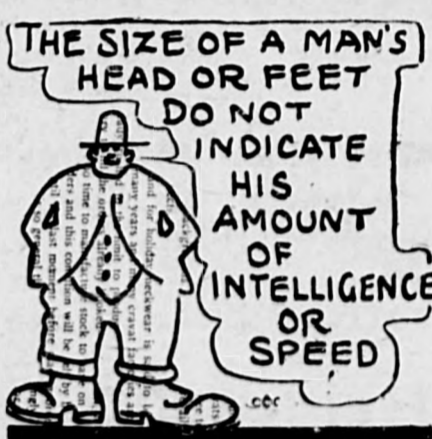

Lowe Brothers Mel- lotone is a flat oil paint that gives a deep, velvety finish to walls. Comes in a variety of delicate colorings, each soft as the rainbow tints. It enables you to duplicate all the subtle colorings of nature—so lovely to look at but so almost impossible to bring into the decorative schemes of your home. In short, with Melotone you can bring the great outdoors indoors. Its dull, rich colors furnish a perfect background for fine furniture and pictures. Has long lastingness and can be washed with soap and water.

Prompt Relief For Tornado Sufferers

The tornado which struck South Weymouth on Tuesday of last week and caused property damage of $100,000, continues to attract the sight-seers and to interest Weymouth people who are raising a relief fund. Many visited the scene of devastation on Pine and Oak streets, Park avenue, Pleasant street, Main street, Columbian street and Forrest street on Saturday, Sunday and Labor Day, in fact every day. All these people are surprised at the extent of the damage although they had read about it in the papers. They never expected to see houses and barns wrecked as these buildings were.

his pocket a check of $25 from Crescent lodge of Odd Fellows.

A discussion followed as to how the committee was to be constituted, how many etc. Some thought the principal duty of the committee would be to disburse the funds equitably.

Voted, that a committee be appointed by the Selectmen.

Selectman Hastings announced that Mr. Dondero had given the use of his hall and would later give a benefit; that A. L. McGrory was this evening giving a benefit at the Odd Fellows Opera House, East Weymouth, that the Old Colony Driving Club would give a benefit, and that there would be a benefit ball game; that David Crawford had contributed tags; Howard Joy, flyers; and the Weymouth Gazette and Transcript, free advertising. He also had a check for $50, and a gift of $1 from a person who could ill afford it. The ladies are doing a wonderful work in raising funds.

No one was ready to give any figures as to individual losses, or real owners. "One out of town bank is interested in four of the estates damaged. Prompt repairs of houses was urged. None of the property was covered by tornado insurance.

Thomas P. Vaille spoke at length on the need of a full report later, on funds raised and how disbursed, which caused some discussion. On his motion, it was voted later that the committee report at a public meeting to be held in three months.

One of the women present thought there was too much talk, and little work.

A motion that the Selectmen retire and name a committee, was opposed by Chairman Hawes, who promised to call a special meeting of the board Saturday morning.

Mrs. Carleton Barnes was appointed temporary treasurer to receive funds raised by the women and deposit same with Weymouth Trust Company. (Continued on Page 16)

RELIEF FUND

The Relief Meeting called by the Selectmen for last Friday evening at South Weymouth was well attended by men and women. The gathering was made up largely of South Weymouth people, but four of the Selectmen were there and a few representatives from other parts of the town.

Selectman Humphrey presided and spoke of the urgent need of prompt relief.

Representative Prince H. Tirrell complimented the young ladies who had already been quite successful in raising funds by the sale of tags. He favored a committee to raise and administer a local fund, and moved the appointment.

Mrs. Brown said a committee of the Special Aid Society had inaugurated the tag sale, and hoped several checks would be added. There were also several hundred dollars in the "war chest" which might be available.

Selectman Hastings opposed taking the money from the war chest, believing it should be held for future needs of the World War veterans.

Chairman Hawes of the Board of Selectmen favored the motion to appoint a committee, as several thousand dollars should be raised. He had in

Three Good Days at Annual Weymouth Fair

The Weymouth Fair had pleasant weather all three days for its annual show, with the exception of the closing hour, and the attendance was large, especially on Labor Day. FIREMEN'S MUSTER

The big event on Labor Day was the firemen's muster. Although there were other musters at the Roadville Fair and elsewhere, 12 crack tubs were attracted to Weymouth, and the contest was very close between the first nine engines.

The Hingham Veterans won the first prize of $200; the Hancock of Brockton, second, $100; the Protector of Brockton, third, $50; Red Jacket of Cambridge, fourth, $25; Enterprise of Campello, fifth, $15; Konohasset of Quincy, sixth, $10.

The summary:

CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

The team representing Weymouth Council, Knights of Columbus, successfully defended their title as champions of all the Weymouths when they defeated the Town team last Saturday afternoon at the Weymouth Fair by the score of 5 to 3. A good crowd saw the game, and everyone had to stand, or sit on the ground, as no benches were provided.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale by Mary Graham Bonner

ALLIE BAA'S LETTER. "Allie Baa," said Daddy, "is a rag doll you have both heard of before." "Oh, yes," said Nancy, "and I know that her real name is a terribly long one. What is it now, Daddy? I've just forgotten for the moment."

Should say it was her mother's make-believe name. "Her mother is a grown-up lady now, but still she has kept Allie Baa, and when little girls go to call on her she brings out Allie Baa and Allie at once makes friends.

"Well, she sat right down and she wrote Allie Baa this letter and sent it to be given to Allie Baa, care of Allie's mother, who was at the sea shore, as I have told you. "This was the letter Allie received, and because she thought it was such a nice letter she wanted to let Nick and Nancy and their friends hear it, too."

"GREAT AUNT MARY." "Wasn't that a nice letter? Well, Allie's mother, on a trip up to town took the letter to Allie, for she couldn't very well go to the door and get it from the postman if her mother had sent it on by mail. But oh, she was so pleased to have a letter from Great Aunt Mary."

"Variety, Too. "Look at my engagement ring, Jack has such taste." "He certainly has, and then he never gives two girls the same design."

Uncle Walt's Story by Mason

BEGINNING THE DAY "IF A MAN begins the day in a good humor," observed the professor, "everything will prosper with him."

"After a few days the glad feeling passes away, and instead of being a Sunny Samuel I become a Mournful Moses. I have all kinds of presentiments of evil. I have a firm conviction that the bottom is about to drop out of everything, and that I'll be mixed up with the wreckage. I take a pessimistic view of everything, and go grumbling around until even the cows are sick of seeing me, and they give me a lift with their hind feet as a gentle hint that I should come out of my trance."

"GREAT AUNT MARY." "Wasn't that a nice letter? Well, Allie's mother, on a trip up to town took the letter to Allie, for she couldn't very well go to the door and get it from the postman if her mother had sent it on by mail. But oh, she was so pleased to have a letter from Great Aunt Mary."

"Variety, Too. "Look at my engagement ring, Jack has such taste." "He certainly has, and then he never gives two girls the same design."

"A Good Wish. Candidate—Election day is also my birthday. Friend—Good! I hope you will have many happy returns."

POULTRY CACKLES CARE FOR LITTLE CHICKENS

When First Put into a Brooder They Should Be Protected by Board or Wire Frame. When chickens are first put into a brooder they should be confined under or around the hover by placing a board or wire frame a few inches outside (this would not apply to the small outdoor colony brooders).

FOR SUCCESS WITH POULTRY

Good Stock Is First Fundamental for Best Results on Farm—Dual-Purpose Breeds Best. The first fundamental of successful farm poultry keeping is good stock. Of course, it is well known that farmers may at times get fairly good results from ordinary stock, but at the same time it must be remembered that with the same care and attention better results will be obtained from good stock.

PLYMOUTH ROCK IS GOOD FOR EGGS AND TABLE.

poultry for the farmer's table as well as to produce a surplus for sale. For that reason the so-called general-purpose breeds, such as the Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte, and Rhode Island Red, which are good layers and at the same time make excellent carcasses or the table, are recommended by poultry specialists of the United States department of agriculture as best suited to the farm needs. A further advantage of good stock is the fact that the owner will take a pride in such a flock which he will not feel in a flock of mongrels, and as a result he will give the hens better

CULL UNPROFITABLE LAYERS

Will Help Increase Profits for Breeder to Dispose of All Hens in Poor Condition. While some hens will prove to be profitable, others are kept at a loss and are a drag on the profitable hens in the flock. It is important, therefore, to cull out the unprofitable producers, as this will increase the profit realized from the flock as a whole. Any hens found to be sickly or in poor condition should be culled as soon as discovered.

INJURIOUS LITTLE RED MITE

Insects Sap Vitality of Hen by Sucking Her Blood and as a Consequence She Won't Lay. The little red mite saps the vitality of the hen by sucking her blood. Hens have actually been killed, virtually eaten alive, by mites. Hens cannot lay except when their vitality is maintained. Vitality and mites cannot exist in the same henhouse.

FEEDS FOR YOUNG CHICKENS

Little Fellows Should Be Given Just Enough to Satisfy Appetite and Keep Them Busy. Young chickens should be fed not more than barely enough to satisfy their appetites and to keep them exercising, except at the evening or last meal, when they should be given all they care to eat.

TORNADO COMMITTEE

The Selectmen held a special meeting Saturday morning, at the request of the public meeting at South Weymouth, and appointed the following committee to raise funds and distribute same among the tornado sufferers at South Weymouth:

TORNADO OR CYCLONE

In answer to a query as to the difference between a cyclone and a tornado, the Globe says: "A cyclone is a circular or rotary storm of wind varying from 50 to 500 miles in diameter, revolving around a center which advances at a rate that may be as high as 40 miles an hour, and toward which the wind tends."

AN APOLOGY

At the request of one of the families which lost heavily by the tornado, the following is printed: "The Gazette apologizes for the use of names in last week's account of the storm without any authority from the families. Perhaps the people themselves are the best judges whether they will accept aid, or help lift the burden of the town."

POULTRY EXPERTS HERE

Mrs. Murray and Mrs. Beers will be in Weymouth for some time making a survey of the poultry raised in this vicinity. These ladies have made a special study of poultry problems, such as the care of baby chicks, the feeding of moulting hens, the selection of birds for high egg production and other fundamental poultry problems.

PLOWING CONTEST

The Plowing Contest listed for the second afternoon of the Norfolk County Fair, Sept. 16, as the Norfolk County Agricultural school, Walpole, is creating a great deal of interest with many of the best plowmen in the county lined up for the event. The contest will be in two classes—swivel and sulky plows—with each contestant turning over one-eighth acre within an hour, to be judged on opening, conformation, straightness, evenness and neatness of the furrows. Entries for this contest may still be made free of charge at the Agricultural school, Walpole.

Many Big Attractions At Benefit Field Day

Considerable interest is being taken in all parts of the town in the Field Day to be held for the benefit of the Tornado Sufferers at the Weymouth Fairgrounds at South Weymouth tomorrow.

To help along the good work, Messrs Dexheimer and O'Connor have postponed the field day to have been given the same day at Webb Park and will unite in one gala day.

Many churches, lodges and other organizations have contributed cash, or will have booths or attractions at the Field Day.

The sporting events will include a 10-mile run, 1-mile run, quarter-mile run, and 100-yard dash, under the direction of the B. A. A., one of the officials having recently returned from the Olympic games; valuable prizes have been donated for each of these events. Also special horse trotting; baseball—Weymouth K. of C. vs. All-Stars of South Weymouth; field sports, jumping exhibitions by Mr. Gurtin; band concerts by Fore River band, and several side chows.

Special arrangements have been made for the parking of automobiles under the direction of the police. Extra transportation will be provided between Columbian Square and the Fairgrounds.

The admission will be 50 cents, and 50 cents for each vehicle. Children under 16 will be admitted free.

The special relief committee of the town has announced that $10,000 is needed for the tornado sufferers and it is hoped that the generous public will contribute to the success of this field day, and that the full sum will be realized.

MIDDLE STREET FIRE

The house of James O'Connell on Middle street, near Nash's Corner, was destroyed by fire Wednesday night. The cottage had been unoccupied since Labor Day, as Mr. O'Connell's family had returned to Roxbury. Mrs. Edward W. Wolfe discovered the fire and summoned the fire department, but the nearest hydrant was a quarter of a mile away, and the firemen were powerless. Loss about $4000.

Change In Fares

EASTERN MASS. ST. RY. CO.

In the East Weymouth District Effective Wednesday, Sept. 15

All interurban zone fares changed from 5c to 10c with a one dollar ticket good for fourteen rides, which ticket can be used only on rides covering more than one zone, except in connection with a city zone fare.

If a passenger is riding from East Weymouth to Braintree the cash fare will be 10c for each of the two fare zones, or a total of 20c for the ride. If the passenger uses a fourteen ride for a dollar ticket, the conductor will punch two zones on the ticket equivalent to fourteen and two-sevenths cents. The ticket fare will be an increase of four and one-seventh cents over the old rate of fare which was 10c.

A person riding only one zone will pay a 10c cash fare. If he rides two or more zones, the ticket may be used. By using the fourteen ride for a dollar ticket, the fare in each interurban zone is increased two and one-seventh cents over the old rate.

The fare on the Pleasant Street Bus line from East Weymouth to South Weymouth is increased from 10c to 15c. A passenger wishing to ride from Lovell's Corner to Nash's Corner will pay 10c in cash for the fare on the Bus to Columbian Square and present a fourteen ride for a dollar ticket. The conductor on the Bus will punch one zone on the ticket and give the passenger a one zone transfer which entitles him to ride to Nash's Corner on the car. For a ride from Nash's Corner to Lovell's Corner the passenger will pay 10c cash fare to the conductor on the car and present a fourteen ride for a dollar ticket. The conductor on the car will punch one zone on the ticket and give passenger a one zone transfer which entitles him to ride to Lovell's Corner on the Bus.

It is expected that two nurses will be employed the coming year.

The following were elected: Mrs. James B. Jones, president; Miss Lillian Curtis, Mrs. Freeman Putney Jr. and Mr. J. Herbert Libby, vice-presidents; Mrs. Arthur Bryant, secretary; Mrs. David Crawford, assistant secretary; Mrs. William A. Wheaton, treasurer; Mrs. William W. Wilder, assistant treasurer; Mrs. James Bosworth, auditor; Mrs. Edwin R. Sampson, Mrs. Frederick L. Doucett, Mrs. John Freeman, Mrs. Charles Locke and Mrs. Arthur Taylor, directors for three years.

Children's Exhibits

Weymouth children have been exhibiting this week at the Norfolk county fair. At the recent State fair they took the second prize for the best town collection of fruit and vegetables. At the Weymouth Fair their exhibit filled half of the main hall.

Weymouth Pictures

The pictures exhibited by Arthur L. McGorry of the Odd Fellows Opera House have attracted so much favorable comment, that he has decided to obtain several additional pictures. Today he is taking photos of the Selectmen and town officials, the policemen, the firemen and views in the different squares of Weymouth. Tomorrow he will take more at the benefit Field Day, all of which will soon be exhibited.

The Women Who Voted

Less than 25 per cent of the women who were registered voted Sept. 7, as follows: 42 in Precinct one, 16 in Precinct two, 36 in Precinct three, 15 in Precinct four, 58 in Precinct five and 19 in Precinct six, a total of 186 out of 752. Only 613 men voted out of 3141, about 19 per cent.

Prize Babies

Not until next week will prizes be awarded, to babies exhibited at the Weymouth Fair. There were over 200 on the list, which requires considerable time.

Street Railway Fares

Following the award of increased wages to street railway men, the car fares were increased on Wednesday. New tickets have been issued giving 14 rides for $1. Unless these are used the fare will be 10 cents in hospital, but there is a new State assessment of $786 for street railway. Gazette for further particulars.

Saves One Half Your Time In Cooking

The Gold Medal Glenwood doubles cooking capacity, and promotes cooking efficiency to the highest degree.

There are two separate ovens—one for coal and one for gas. Both ovens may be used at one time—or either may be used singly. In addition to the two baking ovens, there is a gas broiler oven. There is room on the coal and gas sections, at the top, for NINE large utensils.

While bread is being baked in the coal oven, pastry may be baked in the gas oven, meat may be broiled in the broiling oven, and cereals and vegetables may be cooked on the top.

Where did you ever hear of greater capacity?

The Gold Medal Glenwood is efficient every day in the year. In the Winter, the coal section not only looks after the cooking, but it helps warm the kitchen. In the Summer, the gas section takes care of the cooking and keeps the kitchen cool.

Pollen Carried Far by Wind.
Wind-blown pollen ("sulphur rain") is known to be carried far. Hesselman, of the Swedish experiment station, reports a quite extensive rain of tree pollen on two fire ships 20 and 37 miles from shore; and the pollen of algae is known to have been carried even as far as 200 miles.

Grease Spots.
When grease is spilled on a hardwood floor it can be hardened and scraped off if cold water is poured on. If it is not detected immediately, cover the grease spot with starch or powdered chalk, which will absorb most of the grease. It can then be washed off with hot soapsuds.

Easily Detected.
A lunatic who recently escaped from an asylum was eventually recaptured in a large dancing hall in the west end. The fact that he was waltzing divinely and keeping perfect time with the music aroused the other dancers' suspicions and led to his recapture.—Punch, London.

Why man—
we made this

To get a line on why Camels win you so completely compare them puff-for-puff with any cigarette in the world at any price. You'll prefer quality to coupons or premiums!

NO PREPARATION NECESSARY.

"I hope you will pardon me for referring to the matter, but for the last two hours I've heard a constant droning somewhere, as if a person were rehearsing a speech."

"That is Mrs. Gabbiegh in the adjoining apartment," said the host. "She's talking over the telephone. It isn't a rehearsal. She speaks extemporaneously."

Were Experienced.

"The court scene in this play is the last word in realism."

"The spectators are supernumeraries, though."

"Perhaps, but they are professional spectators. I understand they were drafted from a local courtroom where a breach of promise suit was being tried."

NOW WE KNOW
"What does your sister expect for Christmas?"
"All I know is that she's hung up the mistletoe."

The Reverse.
The gasoline they throw about is odorous and thin. It used to take a grease spot out. But now it puts one in.

Asking Too Much.
Young Man (to baker)—These cakes are terribly old.
Baker (indignantly)—They are as they ought to be, young man. I have baked such cakes before you were born.
Young Man—That may be, but to ask me to eat them now is requiring too much.

Also Going Up.
"I love to see the red on a young girl's cheek mounting."
"Well, about the only way you can do that now is by asking its price at the drug store."

No Time to Waste.
Jack—Molly, dear, I'm knocking at the gate of your heart.
Molly—And can't you read the notice there—"No admittance except on business"?—London Tit-Bits.

Engine Trouble.
What appears to be the matter with your heart?
"I notice it on the street. When I go into high gear it appears to lose an explosion."

OVERHEARD
Jack—You can't judge a man by the way he dresses.
Vera—Oh, I don't know. I can tell a gentleman by his get-up in the crowded street car.

The Dream.
Here is a dream
For old and young,
One God, one country
And one tongue.

Like a Vehicle.
Mrs. Hoyle—It is a wonder that she never gets weary watching to see what her neighbors are doing.
Mrs. Doyle—Yes, I should think that she would get rubber tired.

Gold Bricks.
"Hiram," said Mrs. Cornstossel, "I haven't heard of anybody sellin' you a gold brick in a long time."
"I never bought but one," was the rather indignant reply. "And I guess I've rung in enough imitation butter here an' there to get even with them city folks several times over."

That Rope Odor.
"Why do you leave the bands on the cigars you smoke?"
"I want my friends to know that I don't buy them at a ship chandler's."

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

LOS ANGELES POST GIRL MEMBERS WHO MADE HIGH SCORES

Sergeant Mildred Mobley, Marine corps, and Yeoman (f) First Class Pearl Bonham, both members of the Los Angeles post of the American Legion, made high scores in the "getting-their-name-on-the-dotted-line" competition in the post's recent membership drive which brought in 1,200 new members. They had their station beside a sign board in front of the post club.

TO WAR AGAINST SWINDLERS

National Organization Takes Steps to Swing Full Force to Stamp Out Practice.

National and departmental officers of the American Legion have recently brought to light several instances in which unscrupulous swindlers have successfully capitalized the grief of the next of kin of Americans who lost their lives in the world war, and the organization's national headquarters has taken steps to swing the full force of the more than 9,000 Legion posts behind a movement to stamp out the practice.

The mother of a dead soldier whose grave had never been located recently was told by one of these parasites that he would visit Washington, if she paid his expenses, and find out at first-hand what could be done. Later, the impostor reported success and advised the bereaved family that the body would be sent home. A brother became suspicious and by a personal call at the war department learned that no inquiry ever had been made.

Another woman, whose son had not been heard from since he was reported wounded while fighting in the Argonne, received a letter signed with her son's name, asking her to send him money. She made a trip to Cleveland, O., only to find that the letter was a hoax. Later, she received a telegram signed with her son's name and notified the police in the town from which the message had been sent. The man who had attempted to defraud her was arrested.

At the instigation of the Legion, police of a California city are on the trail of a man said to have made a practice of corresponding with the next of kin of deceased soldiers with a view to defrauding them. He wrote a letter purporting to give first-hand information concerning the death of one of these missing soldiers, whereas investigation showed that the writer of the letter had never been outside the United States during the war.

Lemuel Bolles, Legion national adjutant, has urged all posts and departments to assist in warning relatives of missing heroes against paying any money for information or service of this nature, as both the Legion and the war department are willing to provide all available authentic information at all times without charge.

"40 MEN AND EIGHT HORSES"

Organization Within Organization Attracting Large Membership From Men Who Served in France.

Formed as an organization within an organization, Le Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux of The American Legion is attracting a heavy membership from the ranks of those veterans who recall the days and nights of rolling by box car over the rails of France. Charters for local voltaires are being issued by the Chef de Chemin de Fer at Philadelphia, and a distinctive chapeau with a bronze badge has been adopted.

Much mystery enshrouds the doings of Le Societe, which possesses a ritual all its own and demands an initiation fee of $2. Only members of the Legion are eligible to belong to the society and termination of membership in the Legion brings with it elimination from 40 Hommes. Almost 1,000 members of the new society, it is expected, will be in Cleveland during the Legion convention September 27, 28, 29, at which time they will effect a permanent organization.

IN THE "MISSING MEN" LIST

Additional Cases in Which Information Is Being Sought by Relatives and Friends.

The search carried on in the "Roll Call" of "Missing Men" department of the American Legion Weekly for the solution to the mystery attending the death or disappearance of 2,000 men in France and on the seas includes these cases:

58TH INF., CO. M.—Will the soldier who was with Sgt. John W. Smalley when he charged a machine gun nest and was killed near Vilcey, France, September 12, 1918, write to Florence E. Bernay, 404 Walnut street, Alexandria, Ind.?

"U. S. S. OTRANTO."—Private Clyde Mott went down with this vessel when she sank in a storm off the Irish coast. His parents want information about his death from survivors. Write his brother-in-law, John C. Doolittle, Savannah, Ga.

59TH INF., M. G. CO.—Private Raymond M. Schmidt, reported wounded October 3 or 4, 1918, died October 8 at Fourth Field hospital, Cussey, France. Mother wants to hear from anyone who saw her boy shortly before he died and knows whether "he said anything on his deathbed." Address Mrs. Matthew Schmidt, 507 Rush street, Dubuque, Ia.

94TH AERO SQUADRON.—Homer Key, Box 118, Holdenville, Okla., would like to hear from some one who knew Lieut. Raymond J. Saunders, and who could give details relative to his death in France, and where he was buried. Last seen in combat with twelve enemy planes about fifteen miles northwest of Verdun, October 22, 1918.

MISSING IN ACTION.—Private Leonard Delbert Philo, Ninety-fifth company, Sixth marines. Reported wounded in Soissons drive, July 19, 1918. In September, 1919, mother received notice that "Philo Leonard" had died and was buried in France. She does not believe it is her boy. Comrades are reported to have seen him alive and well in the fall of 1918. Address his sister, Mrs. H. W. Johns, 107 Glenwood avenue, Battle Creek, Mich.

LEGION'S DEBTS ARE REDUCED

Claims Against Organization Have Been Lowered $30,000 Per Month, Treasurer Announces.

The reduction of the indebtedness of the American Legion from $343,648 to $197,214 in five months, or at the rate of approximately $30,000 a month, has been announced by Robert H. Tyndall, national treasurer, at Indianapolis. His statement covers the indebtedness up to June 30.

The high mark of $343,648 was reached on January 31, and since then there has been a steady reduction of the deficit. In a previous announcement Mr. Tyndall declared that the Legion's old indebtedness of $257,000, borrowed last summer for preliminary organization work, had been paid in full.

The treasurer's books show that the indebtedness of $197,214 outstanding on June 30 is offset easily threefold by the assets of the American Legion. The deficits at the end of the first six months of the year are shown in the following table:

January 31, $343,648.13; February 29, $294,183.88; March 31, $256,903.81; April 30, $238,254.47; May 31, $240,650.91; June 30, $197,214.22.

Greeks Honor Defender.

Naming their organization after the immortal defender of Thermopylae, more than 350 Greeks of Gary, Ind., have organized Leonidas Post No. 253 of the American Legion. The charter was granted with the qualification that the post conduct its meetings in the American language and membership be not restricted to Greeks.

Paris Takes to the Penguin.

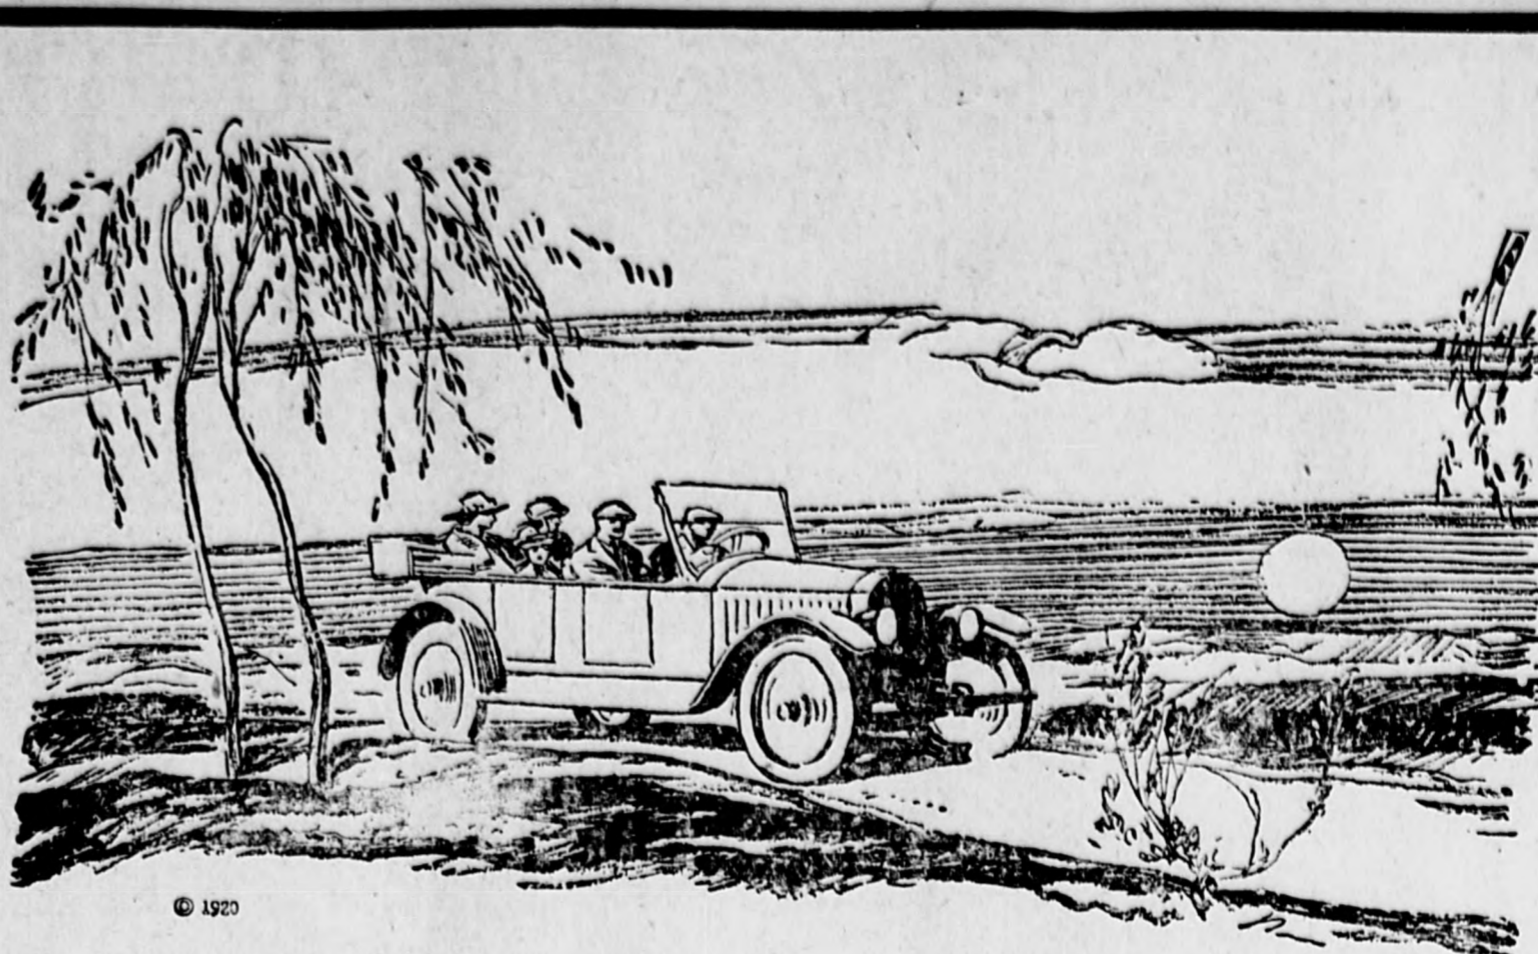

The cult of the penguin has come to Paris. In many houses and in more shop windows you will now find quaint, contemplative penguins as ornaments, or in pottery and china. The penguin porcelain coffee set is the latest design. Father penguin in delicate, deftly-shaped white china makes the coffee pot, and the coffee, nicely hot in his plump body, pours out through his long, sturdy beak. Penguin junior, a little slimmer, is the milk jug, and the coffee cup, in the shape of a penguin's egg, is little penguin "thought of" but not yet born.—Continental edition of London Mail.

Food Values of Potatoes.

That potatoes differ widely in food value is shown by a report of the government's scientific committee. It is laid down that the most useful potato for food is one which contains the largest amount of dry matter. Where two varieties are practically equal in this respect, the nitrogen they contain enters into the estimation of their feeding quality.

Elements' Gifts to the Deity.

There is an old myth that recounts the offering made by the elements as gifts to the deity. The air gave a rainbow, fire a meteor, the earth a ruby and the sea a pearl. The rainbow made a halo around the god. The meteor served as a lamp. The ruby decorated his forehead and the pearl was worn upon his heart.

Now the whole family can go out on a Summer evening

THE women should certainly be thankful for the automobile. It has given them a chance to see a lot more of their husbands.

they're beginning to insist on knowing what they are getting.

And the more they insist, the better it will be for us.

II

But it has done a great deal more than that.

It has brought people closer together, given them new interests, swept away old prejudices.

What affects one man now generally affects a good many of his neighbors in the same way. And they have a better chance to get together and talk things over.

III

It's had its effect on the tire business.

When automobiles were new people were willing to buy any kind of a tire. Now

We want our customers to know what they are getting.

That's why we represent U. S. Tires—so there will be no doubt about it.

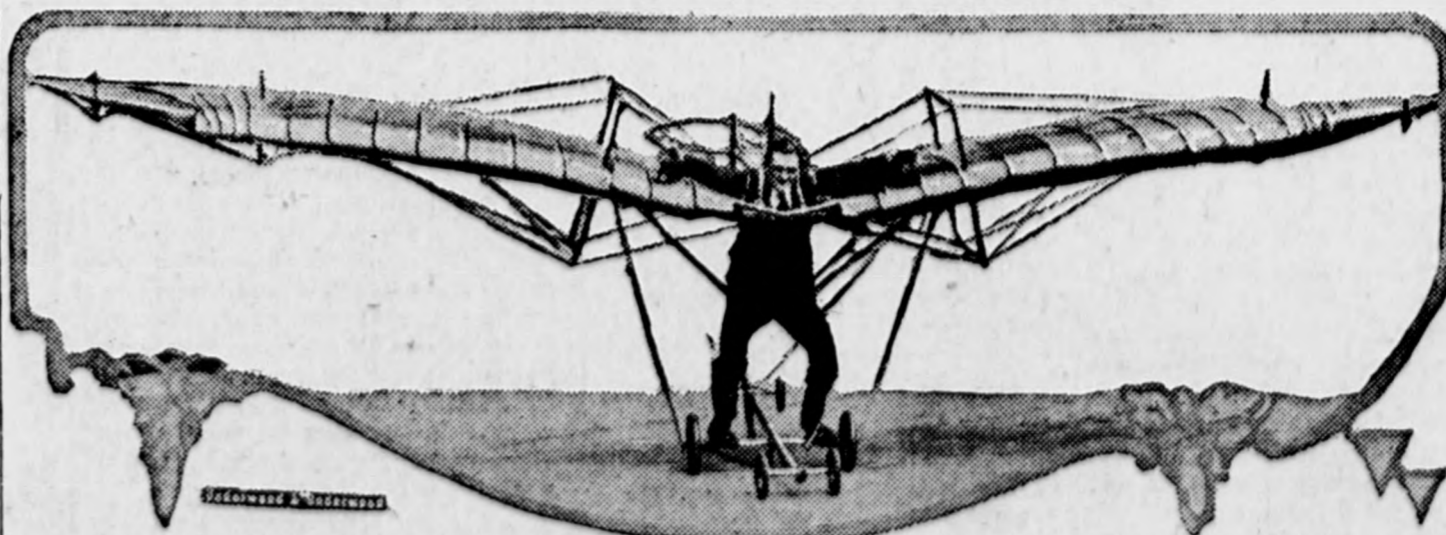

Whatever the size of your car, you know that the U. S. Tire you put on it is the best kind of tire its makers know how to make.

U. S. Tires are guaranteed for life, without any limitation of mileage.

That ought to mean something to the man who has thought about tires.

Here is the Ornithopter, a New Flying Machine

Have you ever wished to fly like a bird? Well, your chance has come. H. S. Dixon is shown in this photograph with his ornithopter or wing-flapping machine, which is propelled by the action of the man himself and not by an engine. The action is similar to that of a bird. The measurements of the plane from tip to tip are 23 feet 6 inches, and nose to tail 14 feet. The machine weighs 47 pounds, and a speed of from 15 to 20 miles can be maintained.

The Blanks Explained.

A strange phenomenon was observed when taking some exceptionally rapid pictures in New Jersey recently; every third film was found to be blank and on inquiring into the cause it was discovered that alternating current had been used for illumination and that the novograph had actually photographed the alternations of the current, which are too rapid to be perceived by the eye.

Warblers of All Kinds.

Not taking into account the human beings who are sometimes referred to as warblers, you will find that there are many kinds of warblers. If you had a collection of them all together they would take in about all the colors of the rainbow, yellow, orange, chestnut, black, white, green, gray, brown and other colors, with numerous shades entering into their beautiful plumage.

Coconut Tree's Many Virtues.

The coconut is one of the most useful of all trees to the natives of the regions where the coconut grows. The nut comprises a food and drink and the milk of the nut may be made into an intoxicant where that is desired. Its fiber is used for making ropes, rugs and matting and the husk for fuel. The wood is very durable and in the hands of the natives it is used for many purposes.

Frocks Express Personality

WOMEN are sure to approve of the new tailored dresses for fall, because there is no chance to grow tired of any one style in them. There is no monotony among them, no tiresome repetition of ideas in construction or trimming, but such a diversity of really good designing that there is a dress for every style, just as there is a becoming hat for every face. They have one very good point in common, however, and that is their simple lines, and designers appear to agree on the neckline, which is rounded in front and low enough sometimes to admit of a chemisette, but higher than usual at the back.

Two very smart tailored frocks for fall may be studied in the picture here and both present new features. The frock at the left has a severely straight bodice with long waist line, and sleeves slashed on the outer arm and curved upward to the three-quarter length. They are finished with a flat band of satin and the neck, in the same way. These bands appear across the top of the skirt at the back, where it is plaited and at the bottom of the front portion which is gathered. The skirt joins the bodice with a flat piping of satin and just above this piping satin bands reveal how cleverly they can be used when a designer sets out to do his best with them. Three rows of slashes in the bodice furnish them a chance to slip in and out and form a checker-board pattern that is charming for a cloth dress.

The simplest of straight-line dresses in the second model ought to inspire gratitude in the hearts of plump women, for it is destined to give them long lines. There is an inverted plait down the front and decorations of narrow ribbon in groups of six each, finished with tiny steel buttons. The new collar is interesting, being a tie of silk attached to the neck and finished with a bow, and ends at the front.

Sweaters Follow Devious Ways

SWEATERS—that word must have a broad interpretation to cover all the varied garments that are called by it—are going by many paths this fall. But all lead in one direction and their goal is to furnish more warmth and less color, apparently, than their forerunners of the past season. There are so many variations of the principal models that every one can be suited. Slip-over and coat designs find about equal favor, both in short and fingertip lengths and in snug-fitting or loose adjustment. Some of the snug slip-over sweaters are only a little longer than a blouse. They are usually knitted with a band about the bottom and long enough to extend about six inches below the waistline where they turn jauntily upward in a narrow cuff.

Another short model appears in the surplice sweater and comes in the brighter colors. This is waist length also, open at the front with attached knitted belt extended so that it can be brought round the waist and tied at the back. Knitted or braided belts and sashes of the same wool as the sweater are the rule. Colors are quiet with the exception of some strong blues and greens and in many coat models no contrasting colors are introduced, but borders and bands are accomplished by varying the stitch in the knitting.

An attractive slip-over sweater is shown in the picture. Its neck and sleeves are unusual, the former having a square opening at the front and the latter deep-knitted flounces. The border at the bottom is of the same color as the sweater and so is the long knitted sash. This model fits snugly about the hips and is a trifle longer than its forerunners.

Crescent Lodge Wins The Championship

Last Saturday afternoon at Merry-mount Park, Quincy, was staged the most exciting and interesting game of the year in the South Shore Odd Fel-lows league, when Crescent lodge of East Weymouth crossed bats with Mt. Wollaston lodge of Quincy in a game to decide who should hold the cup for the first year.

Crescent had a large band of rooters who kept things going every minute. Rix, for Crescent, was opposed by England for Mt. Wollaston, but Rix had the better of the argument all the way, allowing 6 hits, striking out 7 and passing 1; while England was touched for 9 hits, struck out 10, and passed 1.

Crescent scored in the first inning, Dizer getting a life on an error by "Rus" Bates on first base, stealing second, being advanced to third by French, and scoring when Roulstone laid a pretty bunt down the third base line.

Again in the third singles by French and Rix, with doubles by Roulstone and P. Humphrey accounted for 4 more runs.

A. Humphrey opened up the fifth with a single, stole second, and scored when Brown let Manuel's drive go thru him. The last run came in the sixth on a single by French and a double by P. Humphrey.

Mt. Wollaston was held scoreless until the seventh, when singles by Holmes and Greene gave them their first run. In the eighth, singles by H. Wood and Holtin and a three-bag-ger by England gave them 2 runs and ended the scoring for the game.

The lineup was:

Table with columns AB, R, H, E for Crescent and Mt. Wollaston players.

Final league standing table with columns Won, Lost, Pct.

The cup will be exhibited in W. M. Tirrell's window in Jackson Square next week.

This win gives Crescent the championship of the league and makes them the winners of the large cup offered to the leaders in the league.

The cup will be exhibited in W. M. Tirrell's window in Jackson Square next week.

K. OF C. WIN

A large crowd saw the Knights of Columbus baseball team end its season of home games in a blaze of glory at the Humphrey school grounds last Saturday; winning from the Union A.

Eddie Condrick, who was itching for a chance to go behind the bat to receive the offerings of his illustrious cousin, Cornelius, got his opportunity and made good.

Tom McDonald had a big day at bat, getting a double, 2 singles and a base on balls.

Lineup table for K. of C. and Unions.

C. Condrick, p. *Relieved Brown in ninth. Umpires, Upton and Stoutton.

FIRST INNING

Young, the first batter up for Han-over, went out, McCarthy to Brown. Terrell popped to Brown. Cronin out, C. Condrick to Brown.

Horgan, the first batter up for K. of C., went out, Pinkham to Clark. Brown got a pass, McCarthy drove a hard one that looked to be labeled for left field, but Pinkham speared it with one hand and threw to Clarke, getting Brown, who was on his way to second, thinking it a sure hit. Pinkham was given a great hand for this remarkable play.

SECOND INNING Clark doubled to left. Gonzales hit to left, Clark out at third on a close decision. Soule out, C. Condrick to Brown. Pinkham fanned.

THIRD INNING Hanson fled to Brown. Sherman fled to Hanigan. Young singled to right. Terrell fled to left, Henry making a shoe-string catch after a hard run, while a roar of applause went up.

FOURTH INNING Cronin and Clark fled to Horgan. Gonzales out, C. Condrick to Brown. Brown grounded to Clark. McCarthy hit by pitched ball on hand. McDonald drew a walk. Eddie Condrick singled to right, scoring McCarthy. Riley rolled one to Sherman, who juggled the ball, and Riley was safe.

SIXTH INNING Young fled to right, Henry getting the ball near the foul line, after a hard run. Terrell fled to Horgan. Cronin fanned. Riley out, Soule to Clarke. Hanigan fanned. Henry out, Terrell to Clark.

SEVENTH INNING Clark and Gonzales fanned. Soule singled to right. Pinkham fanned. C. Condrick got a base on balls. Horgan sacrificed. Brown fled to Soule. McCarthy safe on Soule's error. C. Condrick and McCarthy scored when McDonald doubled. McDonald called out at third; he sat on the bag and just looked at the Hanover umpire.

EIGHTH INNING Hanson singled to right and stole second. Sherman fled to Henry, who made another fine catch. Young grounded to McCarthy, who made a poor throw to Brown and Hanson scored. Terrell and Cronin fled to Brown.

NINTH INNING Clark out, E. Condrick to Cullen. Gonzales out, McCarthy to Brown. Soule out, E. Condrick to Brown. Score-K of C. 8, Union A. A. 1.

DUXBURY 5, WEYMOUTH 2 The Weymouth Town team was defeated at Duxbury on Saturday by the score of 5 to 2. Duxbury had 8 hits and 4 errors, while Weymouth made 6 hits and 2 errors.

Large Sum Realized at Benefit Field Day

Over $3000 was realized on Saturday at the Field Day for the benefit of the Tornado Sufferers. It was a spontaneous response to the appeal of the special committee of the town of which William J. Holbrook, Esq., is chairman, Representative Prince H. Tirrell, secretary; and J. W. Santry, treasurer.

The Field Day Committee included Fred Waite, Frank C. Torrey, Matthew Sproul, John Reidy, Louis Borlenghi, Burton B. Wright, Edward Marr and P. J. Healey.

The committee found many churches and other organizations, the merchants and others anxious to assist, and the united efforts of all contributed to the very gratifying success.

Over 5000 people were present from all parts of the town, and hundreds of others purchased tickets of admission to help along the good cause.

Congressman Olney was present and spoke briefly, and ex-Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston sang "Sweet Adeline."

A souvenir program was also issued which found a ready sale. It contained a dozen photographic views of the buildings wrecked by the tornado, which struck South Weymouth with such fury on Aug. 31. A few of these programs are now on sale, and should be obtained as souvenirs.

Louis Guertin, an ex-champion jumper, gave an exhibition. In the standing high jump, he cleared the rail at 5 feet 1 inch. In the running high jump he cleared 6 feet and in the fancy dive over the rail he registered 5 feet 6 inches.

The Baptist church ladies of Weymouth sold many gallons of ice-cream. The ladies of the Old South Union church made and sold nearly 400 doughnuts, also delicious coffee.

Weymouth Council, Knights of Columbus, found a big demand for dolls and tonic.

The ladies of the Second Universalist church had a food stand. The Weymouth Town Team had a sales booth, and also a rapid sketch artist.

The ladies of Trinity church had a

COMFORTABLE MOTOR CAR OUTFIT

Dr. Alan Foster, Mrs. Foster, and the little Fosters, have shown Washington perhaps the most complete and comfy motor car camping outfit which ever toured through the national capital.

PROPER WAY TO "BREAK IN" CAR

It Should Be Carefully Handled and Lubricated for the First 500 Miles.

GIVE RADIATOR ATTENTION

Examine Storage Battery to See if Properly Charged and Full of Distilled Water—First Learn How to Stop Auto.

When your new car is delivered, remember that all working parts are new, fitted very tightly, and should be handled slowly until the car is run several hundred miles.

Flush Out Radiator. The radiator should be flushed out and filled with clean water, as sediments of solder or other foreign matter sometimes remain in new radiators and may work into water pump or other working parts, causing damage.

Learn How to Stop. Don't forget to become thoroughly acquainted with the brakes, as it is more important to know how to stop than it is to know how to run.

After you have driven a new car about 200 or 300 miles, it should be gone over and all bolts and nuts tested to see that they are secured and tight.

USE YOUR OLD INNER TUBES Those Which Have Passed Usefulness May Be Put to Service by Strengthening New One.

An old inner tube, which has passed its usefulness as such, may still be made to render some service. Silt it open around its inner side and place it over the new tube, in which location it acts as a sort of inner lining and strengthens the new tube.

HER DAD

By LILLIAN M. RICHARDS.

(Copyright, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Just as surely as spring came each year, with its singing birds, and budding leaves, just so surely would Mrs. Natina Newcomb start looking for a house in the country.

To have a little farm, and a cow, with perhaps some hens, was the secret hope of Mrs. Newcomb, who'd been a widow for several years. But her son Ted, a senior in college, advised differently. So each year she looked, but never moved.

Effie Saunders, a young student of music, who, realizing that Mrs. Newcomb was socially affiliated with what she considered "the best people," wormed her way into the woman's affections to the extent of securing one of her rooms during the school term.

"Oh, dear," exclaimed Effie one day to her chum, "I wish father'd give up our old place and come into the city to live, where we could amount to something!"

"You mean sell your lovely home?" questioned the girl with surprise. "Effie! You ought to be punished for suggesting such a thing! Your father has lived there practically all his life; he was married there; you were born there, and your mother died there. Why, I believe he just worships the very ground the old house sits on!"

"That's just it," pouted Effie. "He doesn't consider me at all. I want to mingle in society. Why, my friends—Mrs. Newcomb, for instance—would be shocked could she see father poking around dressed in overalls. And—sometimes he even eats dinner in his shirt sleeves. Degrading, I call it!"

"Do you mean that you're actually ashamed of your father?" gasped her chum.

"Well—I—I wouldn't want my friends in town to know how old-fashioned he is," she replied, blushing at her own words.

"Then, I'm ashamed of you," retorted the girl, leaving the room.

Effie felt humiliated, but excused herself by deciding that her chum didn't understand. The week ends of her first few months in the city had been spent at home with her father and her old nurse, who was now doing the housework. But lately, she'd neglected to even write, upon receiving her allowance check.

"May I speak with you a minute, dear?" asked Mrs. Newcomb one evening, calling Effie into her living room.

"Yes, indeed," replied the girl, elated.

"Well," began the woman, motioning her to a seat. "Every spring I've looked for a house in the country and never found but one to suit. That one, the owner refused to sell, but I've finally persuaded him, and I'm leaving here in a month. I thought you ought to know, dear, in case you wished to look for another room."

"Then, I won't be able to live with you?" asked Effie, dreading her answer.

"No," replied Mrs. Newcomb, with a smile. "And I have some more news for you. But this must be kept a secret until Ted leaves college—about a month. I—I have just married the finest man in the world. A real thoroughbred, of old New England stock. Oh, you'll be surprised when you meet him. He's wonderful!"

Effie was astounded. Of course, Mrs. Newcomb had married some millionaire, and now her chances with Ted would be slim, indeed.

One Sunday about two weeks later, while Mrs. Newcomb was away for the day, in rushed her son, prepared to take his mother for a ride. As Effie explained the situation, he looked disappointed.

"Very well, then, we'll go," he declared, pinching the girl's cheeks.

"Really?" cried Effie, delighted at having him to herself for the day.

"Wouldn't you like to ride out to your home?" he asked, as they started toward the country. "I'd like to meet your family."

"Why—why yes—of course," stammered the girl, trying to look pleased.

"Fine," he replied, with a sly look in his eyes. "You know, I want particularly to meet your father. Now direct the way."

"Oh, dear," thought Effie. "I just know dad'll be sitting on the front porch, with his feet on the rail and his sleeves rolled up."

"Is this beautiful place your home?" asked Ted, turning into the driveway.

"Y—yes," admitted Effie, wondering if he were serious. Just then a white-haired, red-checked man came out on the porch.

"Well, well, well!" exclaimed her father. "My little girl at last. And as his great arms unfolded her slender body, she felt as a child again and her daddy was his old wonderful self. It seemed as if a veil had suddenly been torn from before her eyes. How could she ever have been ashamed of such a dad?"

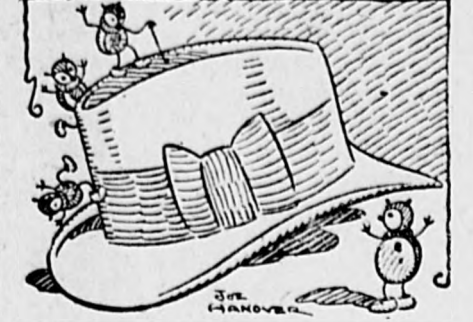

The Difficulty. "I don't know exactly how to answer this letter." "Why, what is the trouble about it for such a ready correspondent as you?" "It's anonymous."

Economies. "Are you studying to be a political economist?" "No," replied the patient citizen. "The world doesn't need so many political economists now. What it demands now is personal economists."

The Tempestuous Telephone. "You never scold over the telephone." "No. The operator has to use the machine all day long. If she can keep her temper, I guess I can."

Indefinite. She—Always the same answer when I want to do a little shopping! How long do you expect to be without money to give me? He—As long as I'm short.

The Imitative Juvenile. "You used some very rough language to your playmates, Bobbie." "Yes'm," admitted Bobbie. "We've got a new game. We're playin' politics."

STRENUOUS WORK. Bug—My that Alpine climbing is dangerous.

A Forgotten Adage. Where is that maxim's warning thrill which in our youth we knew: "Old Satan finds some mischief still For idle hands to do!"

The Idea. "Pop, why do they call in some places a political party the Extreme Left?" "Because when they are left, that is the way they are left."

Boldness of the Amateur. "What makes you think our friend knows very little about running a railroad?" "The fact," replied Mr. Dustin Stax "that he is so willing to try it."

TO MAKE AUTOMOBILE CAR WASHING EASIER

Homemade Brush Will Be Found to Be of Much Help.

Device Screws to End of Hose and Washes Surface of Car With Steady Supply of Water—Good Cleaning Medium.

Here is a homemade brush that will be of much help when washing the car. It screws to the end of the hose, and washes the surface of the automobile with a steady supply of fresh water.

The Water Flowing Through the Holes of the Tubing into the Rags Makes an Excellent Cleaning Medium.

to a support as shown and the two other ends to a short stick a few inches apart. Then with the tubing held taut the stick is revolved slowly, twisting the two tubes together, the rags being fed between the tubes as they are twisted so that a quantity of cloth strips is securely held in place.

The brush is completed by drilling very small holes through the tubing alternately every inch or so, so that the water when turned on will be forced out and along the mass of cloth strips.—Popular Science Monthly.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

Grease cups should be thoroughly cleaned and kept constantly filled with good grease.

Do not neglect the lubrication of the spring shackles. Rust often clogs up the small vents and keeps out the oil.

It is well to inclose the electric wires at the points where they are held to the iron frame with rubber tubing.

Automobile tires are wrapped in paper by the manufacturer because tire makers know that sunlight and air sap the strength of rubber.

When oversize tires are to be used, the car owner should be certain that there is enough clearance between all the tires and the nearest parts of the car.

The fact that 25 per cent of the power of a motorcar is lost by friction makes motorists who know this realize how important it is that a motorcar should be properly lubricated.

Statistics prove that a tire good for an average of 6,000 miles when it leaves the factory will lose approximately 2,000 miles of life by being carried, unprotected, as a spare for one year.

Makes Cooking Easy Saves One Half Your Time In Cooking The Gold Medal Glenwood doubles cooking capacity, and promotes cooking efficiency to the highest degree. There are two separate ovens—one for coal and one for gas. Both ovens may be used at one time—or either may be used singly. In addition to the two baking ovens, there is a gas broiler oven. There is room on the coal and gas sections, at the top, for NINE large utensils. While bread is being baked in the coal oven, pastry may be baked in the gas oven, meat may be broiled in the broiling oven, and cereals and vegetables may be cooked on the top. Where did you ever hear of greater capacity? The Gold Medal Glenwood is efficient every day in the year. In the Winter, the coal section not only looks after the cooking, but it helps warm the kitchen. In the Summer, the gas section takes care of the cooking and keeps the kitchen cool. WOULD "CLEAN UP" POLITICS

Massachusetts High School Girl Chooses Important Topic to Win Essay Contest.

An appeal to the American Legion to "clean up" politics is contained in the essay of a high school girl which recently was awarded a prize in the Somerville (Mass.) post's competition for the best article on "What Service Can the American Legion Render to the United States?" Miss Eleanor Randall, the winner, makes this suggestion:

"When politics means graft, corruption, and the attainment of selfish ends, then is our government debased. It is the duty of the American Legion to change this interpretation of 'politics,' being careful meanwhile that the game is not played within the limits of the organization itself. It must oust the grafter, wipe away the corruption, and teach that the welfare of the government should be first and foremost in the mind of every true American. These boys who fought in the mud in France must not allow the mud of corrupt politics to cling about this great nation. As fearlessly as they fought in France, in spite of disagreeable conditions, they must clear away the mire and show us to the world as we really are at heart—a big-minded, idealistic people.

"Thousands of foreigners coming to our shores each year discover," Miss Randall continues, "that the 'streets of gold' of America are covered by the mud of the slums and that their 'homes of happiness' are squalid flats in the tenement district.

"Should it not be the members of the American Legion who should help the immigrant who has come to our shores?" she asks. "The United States has been rightfully called the 'melting pot' of all nations. After the melting who will mold? The men who fought for the democracy of the world are the ones best fitted for the task. They are the best guardians of those who hardly know what democracy means. Let them help the immigrant to understand and the down-trodden to rise and when this task is finished they will have rendered to their nation the greatest service in the history of the world."

TO REMAIN AT SARANAC LAKE

Wishes of Two Hundred Tubercular Patients at Sanitarium Are to Be Complied With.

Two hundred former service men, tubercular patients at Saranac Lake, will remain in the sanitarium there according to their wishes and will not be transferred to other government institutions as originally ordered, as the result of decisive action by the American Legion.

An instant protest was registered by the ailing veterans when the order for their transfer came and Richard T. Bell, chief of the service division of the New York state department, who had visited the men at Saranac a short while before, took up their case with the United States public health service. At the same time John T. Taylor, chairman of the national legislation committee of the American Legion, took similar action and the transfer order was rescinded.

MEDALS AWAIT SERVICE MEN

Emblems for All Who Served in World War Ready for Distribution on Armistice Day.

Nearly 5,000,000 Victory medals, turned out by a lengthy and involved process of manufacture, now are awaiting former service men. Thousands of these medals will be presented to veterans on Armistice day by posts of the American Legion, which have arranged elaborate ceremonies in honor of the occasion. The medal was designed by James Earl Frazer.

Phases never before met with in medal production were met with by the contractors in the making of the decorations with their ribbons, battle clasps and bars, and to handle certain steps in the process of manufacture new machines were invented. One of these was a ribbon-cutting machine which turned out 90 pieces a minute and in the course of a day did a quantity of work equal to the labors of 15 people.

A striking machine with a force of 175 tons a blow was used on the medals after the disks had been annealed following which there came the application of a hydraulic pressure of 120 pounds. An automatic sand blast and an alcohol bath also were utilized before putting the final lacquer on the medal.

Not only Legionnaires but many other ex-service men will take part in the Armistice day celebrations in all sections of the country and will receive their medals with formal observance of their significance.

MANAGER OF LEGION WEEKLY

C. Robert Bains, Business Chief of Publication, Began Life as a Cub Reporter.

In the American Legion, which is essentially a young men's organization, few men have climbed the heights of responsibility faster and higher than C. Robert Bains, recently elected general manager of the Legion's official publication, the American Legion Weekly.

C. ROBERT BAINS.

Bains first began to take life seriously as a cub reporter in his native Brooklyn fourteen years ago. He drifted into the newspaper advertising field and followed it until 1916, when he went to the Mexican border with the National Guard mobilization.

Bains began army life skinning mules as a buck private in the old Second New York field artillery. Except for a brief tour with the Twelfth infantry on the border, he stuck to the field guns and passed successively through every grade in the enlisted and commissioned ranks to that of major. He went overseas with the Three Hundred and Eleventh remount squadron and later commanded the base remount depot of the army of occupation in Germany. He is thirty-four years old.

FRENCH WAR ORPHANS' FUND

Total Reaches $1,275. Sufficient to Care for Seventeen Children for One Year.

A total of $1,275, or enough to provide for 17 French war orphans for a year, had been contributed to the Legion fund for the readoption of the war waifs who formerly were proteges of the late A. E. F., according to the books of the Legion national treasurer, Robert H. Tyndall, up to the close of business on August 14.

Posts of the Legion, or individual members or friends, may adopt a French war orphan for at least one year by contributing $75 for the first year's support. The money should be sent to the French War Orphan Fund, National Treasurer, Indianapolis, Ind. It will then be turned over to the American Red Cross, which will assign the children and supervise the expenditure of the money.

A specific child will be assigned to each adopting post or individual and a photograph of each mascot will be forwarded to the adopter, who thereafter may keep in touch with the war orphan either direct or through the Red Cross. The Red Cross bears all expense of administration so that all money contributed goes direct to the support of the child.

Organizing in China.

The Gen. Frederick Ward post of the American Legion in Shanghai, China, has been authorized to form other units of the organization in that country. The post was named after the American soldier who organized the "Ever Victorious Army" in China at the time of the Taiping rebellion.

That is one reason, perhaps, why more attention is being paid to tires—why tire costs are being figured closer and people are beginning to look for better tires.

We believe that people are entitled to better tires—the best they can get.

Not only the man with the big car, but the man with the small car, and the medium sized car.

III

We represent U. S. Tires for that reason—because their policy is the same as ours—every tire as good as you can get it, regardless of the size of the car it is to go on.

It was that policy which led to the introduction of the straight side automobile tire, the pneumatic truck tire.

And you can't beat it.

U. S. Tires are guaranteed for life, with no limitation of mileage.

It will pay you to talk to us about tires, if you are looking at them from a business standpoint.

Funeral of General Gorgas in Washington

The funeral procession of Major General Gorgas was the longest seen in Washington since the funeral of Admiral Dewey. The photograph shows the casket being put on a caisson in front of the Church of the Epiphany.

"To Forgive Is to Forget."

In a divorce case heard recently in Glasgow the question arose as to the difference between "condonation" and "forgiveness," the New York Evening Sun states. The judge decided that in a Christian, as well as a lay sense, it was assumed that every man had a slate on which were written the faults of his wife. Then forgiveness would be the complete wiping off the slate of the record. In condonation there was no blotting out. The record remained on the slate and was only covered over with a piece of paper with the remark: "That will obscure the record until another matrimonial offense occurs." Then the paper would be raised and the record and the marital sin was still there.

Beautiful Belief.

We are born to a higher destiny than that of earth. There is a realm where the rainbow never fades, where the stars will spread before us like islands that slumber on the ocean, and where the beings that pass before us like shadows will stay in our presence forever.—Bulwer Lytton.

Regulating the Concrete Mixer.

The hour glass principle has been employed in an almost automatic concrete mixer in which the ingredients fall through three cone-shaped hoppers in succession and are kneaded together.

Evil Always in Hatred.

A man should not allow himself to hate even his enemies, because if you indulge in this passion on some occasions, it will rise of itself in others; if you hate your enemies you will contract such a vicious habit of mind, as by degrees will break out upon those who are your friends, or those who are indifferent to you.—Plutarch.

After Studying the Sparrow.

We spend considerable time observing the English sparrows and studying their character and have about reached the conclusion that, even if that well meaning but misguided British cousin had had sense enough not to bring them over, they would have got here somehow anyway.—Ohio State Journal.

Oils and Their Uses.

Crushing seeds to extract oils has been employed in Japan for centuries. Rape seed oil has long been used for frying fish, and lobsters, and is today the principal fat in the Japanese diet. Cottonseed oil was used as a substitute for rapeseed oil and for lighting purposes. The ancient Japanese also understood the extraction of oil.

STRIPES AGAIN TO THE FORE

DESIGNERS of separate skirts having exercised their ingenuity in plaid and barred materials in conjunction with every sort of plait, are varying this occupation by showing what can be done with stripes and plaits. There are so many varieties of stripes in wool and in silk material that experimenting for new effects ought to prove more of a pastime than work. There are bold stripes and almost invisible ones, subdued colors and vivid ones, and stripes may run up and down, or around the figure, and this is what they do with many interruptions made by the ever-present plaits. The handsomest of the new skirts show dark, quiet colors dominating—especially in the plaited models, and coats of plain colors to match the dominant color are often shown with them. Stripes are usually wide and seldom plain or unbroken. A wide stripe may be made up of a group of arrower ones, or of bars or a check-board pattern. One of the most attractive designs shows a broad stripe of navy blue alternating with a Roman stripe in rich colors. A skirt made of this pattern is box-plaited so that the Roman stripe is turned under the plain one, the bright colors revealed when the plaits are spread by walking.

Occasionally stripes are so managed that they run both horizontally and vertically in the same skirt. An example appears here with a yoke having horizontal stripes and those of the lower part running up and down. After the material is set together in this way, the skirt is side plaited. It is a fine model particularly for a tall and slender figure.

For wear with separate skirts of wool the blouse is usually of voile or taffeta, the former in white and the latter in a color corresponding with the most prominent color in the skirt.

Hats That Paris Presents

IN ANY collection of new hats, those that came to light in Paris and have journeyed to this or any other corner of the world, are sure of the lion's share of attention. We expect to find them unusual, and are seldom disappointed, but we no longer find them more beautiful—or less so—than hats originated in our own fashion centers. The Paris hat starts out more interesting than others because we expect so much of it; if we do not grasp its excellencies at first we go on looking for them, and sometimes for us they do not exist. That is why French ideas are always being "adapted" to suit the taste of other than French people. In painstaking work and in ingenuity they set a pace that has improved our standards.

Four contributions in millinery from Paris, shown in the group above, merit the attention they have received. At the top there is a gracious hat of of panne velvet with a very wide and becoming brim that might seem too expensive if it were not broken at intervals all around by slashes. Plaited ribbon is set in the slashes. As hats go this season this one is very simple—but it contrives to have unusual style and one never grows tired of it. Below this hat at the left is a small, drooping-brimmed hat with a low scarf for trimming which is knotted into short loops at the right side and falls from there in an end long enough to be thrown about the throat. This is a demure model that may be interpreted in ways that will make it popular with Americans.

At the right of the group a small round hat of velvet and angora will commend itself instantly. The two fabrics are ingeniously combined, the velvet forming a wide puff about the head and part of the crown. There is a splash of embroidery on the crown and small pompons that look somehow contented and well placed against it.

The most unusual hat of the group appears in the black velvet crescent shaped creation at the bottom of the picture. It is an example of odd and very clever draping, suggesting an artist's tam in a dignified hat that frames the face in beautiful lines.

American designers have become so proficient that we might be tastefully dressed without the aid of Paris contributions—but we would be so much the poorer, and we must still look to France to give coherence to the styles

The Ball Game

What was to have been a championship game in aid of the tornado victims, developed into a baseball fiasco, when the All-Stars won from the K. of C. players 15 to 2.

The All-Stars started in at a lively clip, scoring 4 runs in the first inning, and added 2 in the third, and 6 in the fourth. It was not until the fourth that the K. of C. team scored and then only 1, to which they added 1 in the sixth for a total of 2.

Owing to the fact that Condie Condrick, the K. of C. pitching ace, had a lame arm, the pitching burden was placed upon the shoulders of the veteran Phil Cullen. The absence of Frank Horgan, the clever shortstop, who has been receiving treatment for an injury to his knee, made a big hole in the infield. A number of blows that went for safe hits around the second bag, would have been taken care of if he had been in the lineup.

The Knights were only able to get 8 hits off Jack Fitzgerald of Bayside, one of these being a triple by C. Condrick on his first time at bat after relieving Cullen in the box in the fourth.

The All-Stars, in contrast to the Knights, played errorless ball, except for one boot by P. Humphrey at short and they batted freely.

Track Events

Considerable interest was taken in the four races run under the sanction of the A. A. U., with Hugh McGrath and George Brown of the B. A. A. in charge. These included a 10-mile run, mile run, quarter-mile run, and 100-yard handicap. For the dash there were 24 entries and it was decided that it should be run in two heats and a final. The heats resulted as follows:

100-Yard Handicap Run. First Heat—Won by W. D. Brownville, J. E. Menzies, second; H. F. Casey, third. Time 9 2-5s.

Second Heat—Won by George Desmond, E. Donovan, second; H. O'Brien, third. Time, 10 2-5s.

Final Heat—Won by W. L. Brownville, J. E. Menzies, second; George Desmond, third. Time 10 1-5s.

Mile Run, Handicap—Won by E. C. Hannon, Albert O'Neil, second; Gerald Fleming, third. Time 4m. 32 2-5s.

Quarter-Mile Handicap—Won by W. T. Troy, W. L. Brownville, second; J. Menzies, third. Time 53 2-5s.

10-Mile Run—Won by Urho Ahokar, A. L. Flanders, second; Rumar Ohman, third; H. Bourgault, fourth; G. L. Fleming, fifth. Time 65m 4-5s. Flanders won the time prize.

Urho Ahokar, the winner of the 10-mile race, belongs to the Hurja Club of West Quincy. With a handicap of five and one-half minutes he soon took the lead and was never headed, though a number of times threatened. He finished the last 220 yards in a spurt that startled the other notable runners who were entered and brought applause, as he broke the woolen string.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY

After many months of hard labor on the part of the local American Legion the organizing of the Women's Auxiliary was completed Sunday afternoon at the assembly hall of the Weymouth High School building. The meeting which was a public one, was presided over by Bryan Leonard, commander of the local post. He introduced James J. Mullen Jr. state organizer who delivered an interesting address. After which there was music and community singing.

Mrs. J. Herbert Libby of East Weymouth was elected acting president, and Mrs. Philip Haviland of Weymouth acting secretary. It was voted to apply for a charter. The next meeting will be held Oct. 4, at G. A. R. hall, East Weymouth, when it is hoped the organization will be perfected. Misses Ruby Leighton, Orley Melville and Ruth Leighton were the ushers.
