

GLENDALE FIRST ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW EDITION

FREE FLOWER SHOW

FIRST AFFAIR OF THIS KIND EVER GIVEN IN GLENDALE IS MARKED SUCCESS

Promptitude has been the characteristic of the first Free Flower Show ever given in Glendale. Precisely at 11:30 Thursday the exhibits were all in place and precisely at 12 noon the judges were at their work of comparing values and awarding ribbons. Precisely at 2 p. m. the front entrance to the show was thrown open and the public thronged to view the wonderful display of flowers and plants of all kinds that have been gathered together on this occasion.

What strikes one at once in connection with the show is the fact that notwithstanding the great additional amount of space at the disposal of the committee compared to that of last year, the exhibits fill it all. Doubtless next year there will be still more space needed.

One is struck at once by the artistic value added to the whole exhibition by the handsome production of the Matthew Garden Craft company, which has adorned and relieved the scene by different pieces of garden furniture and ornaments. At one side of the large marquee a garden sundial attracts much attention. This handsome piece of brass work is mounted on a white enameled pedestal and makes a very beautiful and attractive adjunct to the garden. On the other side of the tent is another pedestal with a large silvered globe that acts as a convex mirror and affords much amusement to the children.

Two fountains relieve the scene also and an air of additional coolness is lent to the northern side of the tent by the presence of the exhibit of the Valley Supply company and Crystal Ice company where two large blocks of exquisitely pure ice show one of Glendale's local industries of which it is proud. Here, too, a young lady, dispenses deliciously cool orangeade free to the public.

Here also, on this north side of the marquee are the handsome floral exhibits of the Foothills club, where the antique Sweet William affords a pleasing contrast to the modern rose. Forest Lawn cemetery also has a fine exhibit of ferns and begonias. The Tropic Thursday Afternoon club, the La Crescenta Woman's club, the Littlelands exhibit, the Glendale Sanitarium and the Tropic Grammar school exhibit all lend attraction to the wonderful scene inside the tent.

Not the least interesting section of the show is the wild flower section where the wild flowers of the neighborhood are to be found. Paul Fromm of E. Third street, got the first prize for this display and it is pleasing to see the number of local wild flowers he has managed to collect. Mrs. Sarah McLean Mullen, saw Paul's exhibit when it was at the library and took so much interest in it that she wrote all the common and scientific names on the cards and these now constitute a valuable amount of information for those who are interested in this matter.

Seldom has a more enthusiastic or interested audience gathered to any function in Glendale than the large crowd that filled the marquee at the corner of Fifth and Brand, Thursday night when the Free Flower show was formally opened by ex-Mayor Lane. The scene was brilliant. The committee in charge of the arrangements had excelled themselves and everywhere commendation and admiration were heard.

Precisely at 8 p. m. the president of the society, Mrs. Nanno Woods called the assembly to order. At the clear notes of the "assembly" blown on the bugle by Master Woods the large crowd gathered round the platform and stood still all over the ground.

Mrs. Woods briefly expressed the gratification of the committee of the Glendale Garden society at the enthusiastic gathering which was present and also thanked the people of Glendale for the appreciation they had shown for the work done by the society. She also expressed the opinion that, in view of the success that the society had they might look forward to greater things in the future. Introducing ex-Mayor Lane as the speaker of the evening Mrs. Woods said that much of the success of the show was due to the fact that he and the other members of the old council had granted the society the sum of $100 from the

SHOW MERITS SUPPORT

TO INTEREST THE YOUNG IN RECLAIMING WASTE PLACES IS GOOD

To the traveler coming for the first time and in mid-winter over the rocky heights of the Sierra Madre mountains and descending from regions of cold and snow to where the land wears robes of summer green, adorned with ripening fruit, there comes a feeling of surprise and he questions what manner of miracle it may be that produces such great contrasts in so short a distance, shifting the scenes in a moment from winter white to summer sheen, from icy winds to rosy glow of old Sol's beams across the western sea.

To the agriculturist from the confines of the eastern states where a six weeks' drought spells stunted crops and dried up wells and springs, when he finds that in this favored spot no rain may fall for six months and still the mountain brooks come bowling down from their hidden fountains, that Mother Earth yields up undiminished supplies of pure sparkling water at the call of the deep well pump, and more wonderful still that crops may be planted and harvested on land properly prepared, without a drop of rain or a particle of irrigation, there comes this same surprise, and even after years of familiarity with these conditions he often questions why?

To the city dweller from wherever he may hail, who for the first time enters the portals of our city of the Angels, or those of her numerous satellites clustered about her, and observes the wealth and profusion of flowers, shrubbery and ornamental trees about the homes, the vista of emerald green in lawn and parkway stretching out into the distance along the city streets without visible boundary line betwixt neighbor and neighbor, to this man also comes this feeling of surprise and he also questions and marvels at the wonder of it all, and after surprise comes admiration and appreciation, the desire to go and do likewise, and the southland has appropriated to itself another worker and admirer.

Southern California, now fast becoming one vast park and flower garden, affording to the lover of nature for twelve months in the year views of pleasant shades of green in valley and plain, was not always thus. Not so many years ago the freshness and growth of winter and early spring were followed by parched earth and withered vegetation, during the long rainless summer the rays of the sun reflected from the bare earth and the course of the traveller was marked by a trail of dust.

Bands of sheep and herds of cattle roamed the countryside, the southern counties were known as the "cow counties" and it was commonly supposed that nothing much would grow here.

From this we learn that our matchless climate and fertile soil are not the causes of the transformation that has taken place, but simply the conditions, and that to intelligent labor, labor of brain and labor of hand, that have together solved a thousand problems and built upon the foundations of climate and soil the garden spot of the world, must we look for the key to it all.

The average present day American and especially those of Anglo-Saxon descent, to be really happy must be busy and the growing boys and girls have not the same opportunities here to satisfy this demand of their nature as had their parents in less favored climes, hence the movement to interest the young people (and their elders, too) in the care and culture of flowers and fruits, the conversion of unsightly waste places to productive areas of artistic beauty or material worth can only result in good, and movements such as undertaken by the Glendale Garden Society should receive the commendation and support of the public generally. The results will be cumulative in their nature and the natural and added charms of our chosen home will increase as the result as the years roll by.

G. B. WOODBERRY.

I DIDN'T EXPECT ANYTHING LIKE THIS

The above expresses in brief the many exclamations made by visitors at the Flower Show Thursday. Of course, people who had kept in touch with the workings of the Garden Society did not find it necessary to make any such remarks.

VILLA BELIEVED TO BE ALIVE IN DURANGO

UNITED STATES CONSUL LETCHER OF CHIHUAHUA DISCREDITS REPORTS OF BANDIT'S DEATH

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
CHIHUAHUA CITY, April 21.—The most recent Villa story is that of a bandit whose life was spared by Col. Dodd on the understanding that he would point out the grave in which Villa was said to have been interred. The grave was opened and the body exhumed. It was not Villa. United States Consul Letcher says that he has received credible reports to the effect that Villa is now or was very recently in the State of Durango. Carranzista soldiers are said to have joined with the citizens of Parral in their attack on the American troops. Gen. Gutierrez said the other day: "I have never credited the stories of Villa's death. I believe them to be entirely without foundation."

CARRANZISTAS ARE SAID TO BE HOSTILE

GEN. PERSHING REPORTED TO HAVE MOVED HIS TROOPS TO PREVENT MASSACRE BY DE FACTO ARMY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 21.—It was stated by prominent United States officers here today that Gen. Pershing's recent change of quarters was rendered necessary by the hostile movements of the Carranzistas. The Americans were in a position where they were exposed to attack by the de facto troops, whose movements were threatening.

FRENCH MAKE GAINS IN DOUAUMONT REGION

GERMANS DRIVEN OUT OF POSITIONS NEAR VAUX LAKE —MACHINE GUNS SEIZED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
PARIS, April 21.—It was officially stated this morning that an extensive attack was made on the German positions at a point near Vaux lake, south of Douaumont. The Germans brought up additional forces and machine guns. Two of the guns were taken. The Germans and their reinforcements were driven back with considerable losses and four officers and a number of men were captured in the Caillette woods.

INVESTIGATE VILLA'S GERMAN CONNECTION

STORY THAT ATTACK ON COLUMBUS WAS INSTIGATED BY TEUTONS BEING EXAMINED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21.—It was learned on official authority today that the stories of German instigation of the Villa raid on Columbus, N. M., are being investigated. Various American secret service men have been at work on the case and many things have been discovered that cannot be given to the public as yet. Some of the aspects of the story cannot be investigated satisfactorily until certain Americans return from Mexico.

RUSH SUPPLIES TO TROOPS AT THE FRONT

TWENTY-THREE THOUSAND ADDITIONAL TROOPS BEING SENT TO THE ADVANCED POSITIONS IN MEXICO

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
COLUMBUS, N. M., April 21.—There is a lull in the fighting and in the movements of the United States troops. While it is reported that there has been another clash with Carranzista troops that is said to have taken place some time ago, there is now quiet all along the line. Twenty-three thousand troops are being sent to the front. They include part of the 24th infantry and some cavalry. Great difficulty is being found in supplying the advanced troops with food.

PRISONERS ESCAPE FROM LOS ANGELES JAIL

WHITE MAN AND NEGRO CUT ELEVATOR ROPE AND DESCEND WALL BY ITS MEANS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
LOS ANGELES, April 21.—Guy Anderson and Arthur Willis, a negro, made a sensational escape from the jail here this morning, early. In some way they managed to cut an elevator rope and by its means descended the prison wall, getting completely away without discovery. Some time after the escape the rope was missed and the alarm given.

CITY WILD FLOWERS

MRS. SARAH McLEAN MULLEN TELLS TREASURES TO BE FOUND IN FIELDS

Speaking at the Glendale Free Flower show on the opening afternoon, on "Wild Flowers," Mrs. Sarah McLean Mullen told her delighted audience of the floral treasures to be found in the fields at their doors. On one of the tables in front of the lecturer, who stood on a platform at the west end of the building where the piano stands and from which the speakers address the various gatherings, stood a large collection of the wild flowers of the district—sunflowers, silver thistles, wild thorn apples (angel's trumpet), blue sub-cups, and many more which may be found in almost every field in the city.

Mrs. Mullen said that she had had but one hour at her disposal and had collected in that brief time more than fifty specimens of different flowers from a picturesque hill close to Verdugo road. The district, she said was rich in flowers of every kind and much pleasure might be found by seeking them out and classifying them.

The lecturer told of the superstitions of the Indians regarding many of the wild plants; of the uses that they made of many of them for dyes, for medicines and for charms. She told of the medicinal cascara, of the wild mustard, of veronica, willowbark, of valerian and others. Last but not least she mentioned the soapberry and other saponaceous plants that the Indians used for washing purposes and as hair cleansers and stimulants.

Speaking of the poisonous plants that are to be found in the neighborhood she warned the audience of the extremely poisonous thorn apple, which is so apt to attract children who imagine it is good to eat. It is deadly poison. So also is the deadly nightshade which grows in profusion all over Glendale. Its glossy dark berries growing in clusters are very attractive and many have eaten them to their great discomfort and some have died from eating them.

Nothing, said the lecturer, is of more value to children than to learn the names of the wild flowers and thus be able to read the roadside and the vacant lot just as a book is read. It was astonishing, she said, how much interest a child would take in this lore. It was easily acquired; its subject matter lay at one's very feet, literally as well as metaphorically, and it could be learned without expense or trouble and would always be a possession and a pleasure throughout life.

The lecturer was gracious enough after her lecture to explain to many who desired to know the character of the various wild flowers displayed on the table. Many of those present took an interest in the display and many seemed to be pleased to learn something of the lore of the wild flower.

MRS. SMITH ENTERTAINS

Mrs. Anna L. Smith delightfully entertained a dozen of her friends at her beautiful home at 1427 Riverdale Drive Wednesday evening, at an Easter dinner. The guests greatly enjoyed a hunt through the beautiful grounds for Easter novelties in the way of rabbits, baskets of colored eggs, etc. Those present were: Mrs. Helen Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Stell and two sons, Master Donald Imler and the Misses Alice Carville, Mollie Arbuthnot, Irene Baird, and Dorothy Baird. After the dinner on the lawn, music, games and dancing were enjoyed indoors.

AUTO AND MOTORCYCLE CLASH

While the crowd was assembling at the Flower Show Thursday night about 8 p. m., Dolliver Webb, who is deliveryman for Munson's Drug store, riding a motorcycle, collided with a Ford driven by Arthur E. Simpson, landscape gardener of Pasadena and Los Angeles. The motorcycle was going at considerable speed. Coming along Fifth street, it ran into the Ford and damaged the tires of that vehicle, hitting it with force sufficient to put the auto and itself out of commission. Webb was thrown from his motorcycle and was pretty badly bruised. The occupants of the auto were uninjured. Webb was taken to the office of Dr. H. C. Smith, 1114 1/2 W. Broadway, where his injuries were attended to.

WORKING TOGETHER

MAKE FLOWER SHOW ONE OF THE EVIDENCES OF A UNITED HAPPY PEOPLE

The golden sunshine, the blue skies, the refreshing showers, the balmy air, and the fertile soil of the valley in which Glendale is situated, present all the elements and qualities of nature necessary to produce fruits and flowers in perfection, and when we add to this a people who love these things and have the spirit, industry and intelligence to use all of these things to the best advantage, we can understand why it is possible for us to have the Free Flower show that now graces our city.

Every man, woman and child in our city can feel proud of the work of these unselfish citizens who have contributed so generously of their time, labor and money to make the flower show possible. All lovers of the beautiful can here receive inspiration, and no one can but feel that such unselfishness as has been displayed by the officers and members of the Garden Society is worthy of recognition, in the doing of these things that make for the betterment of civic and social life. All praise and honor is their due and let it be freely bestowed by all.

The civic spirit of the people of Glendale is one of the chief assets of our city's life. If we look back over the life of our city, we see the public spirited citizens of our city holding Mid-May festivals and barbecues. Year after year the people of the whole city contributed to make possible the success of such features. Thousands visited the city each year, became enamored of it and came back to make it their home. Thus we have attracted the best of people to join with us in the accomplishment of our destiny as a city. It just seems that when the days begin to lengthen in Glendale Valley that the spirit of the people begins to rise to greater accomplishments, year after year.

Glendale as a city, has its problems of the future to face—problems that will have to be met by its citizens and officers, and with a proper understanding of these things we can trust the judgment of our people to decide them rightly. The spirit that has made Southern California famous the world over will enter into the solution of our civic problems and solve them as they should be solved.

It is a privilege to live in a community like Glendale. We may have our differences of opinion—we may have our likes and dislikes—we may not think alike on many matters of policy, but deep down in our hearts we all feel alike, in that we are working for the best.

Let us all forget little trivial matters that are unworthy of our better selves, and let us work as I am sure we feel, to spread abroad among our neighboring cities, the sentiment of a united, happy and successful people, and let us make the Glendale Free Flower show one of the evidences of such sentiment.

FRANK L. MUHLEMAN.

HONOR BRIDE AND GROOM ELECT

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Salisbury of 131 S. Brand boulevard entertained at a dinner party Thursday evening in honor of Miss Gertrude Wilson and Dr. C. R. Lusby, who are to be married May 1. The perfectly appointed table was centered with a basket of Cecil Bruner buds while Easter decorations and wedding bells were everywhere in evidence. The guests found their places by means of dainty heart-shaped place cards. Those who enjoyed the elaborate four-course dinner were Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Lusby, Miss Helen Wright, Mr. Ralph Lusby, Miss Margaret Lusby, Mr. Frank Parsons, the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Salisbury and their daughters and son, Misses Maude and Mabel Salisbury and Mr. Harold Salisbury and the two guests of honor, the bride and groom elect.

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS

The management of the Flower Show requests the Glendale real estate dealers and other automobile owners to be present at the Flower Show both Friday and Saturday at 4 p. m. for the purpose of taking out-of-town visitors on a sight-seeing trip over our city so that they may see what Glendale really is.

WHERE THE DANGER LIES

One of the suggestive stories of mythology is that of Achilles, dipped by his mother into the waters of the Styx, which had the property of rendering flesh invulnerable. But the mother held her boy by the foot, and the heel covered by her hand was not touched by the charmed waters. And it was the arrow entering his heel which cost the hero his life.

There is significance in this poetic story from a far-off age. Our weak spot is our undoing. Tom is a kind-hearted fellow but he likes a good time so well that duty and responsibility have little appeal when a pleasure is in prospect. Norman is a youth of great ability, conscientious, earnest, a tireless worker, but he cannot control his temper. He is continually alienating friends by his irritability and making enemies by his fits of unreasonable anger. Lawrence is a charming young man, but it is noticeable that the people with whom he is most intimate are always comparatively new acquaintances. For those who have known him for some time, have discovered that with all his personal charm, he is one of the people who cannot be depended upon.

A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, and you are no stronger than your weakest spot, whatever that is.

OUR FRIENDS

"Poor Cara is certainly unlucky in her friends," said a girl as an automobile filled with a shrieking hilarious crowd swept past. "She's such a refined girl, but the set she goes with is loud and vulgar. Its too bad that her friendships so misrepresent her."

That was a kindly judgment, due possibly to the youth of the speaker. For it is a question whether our friendships taken as a whole, ever misrepresent us. Any one may be mistaken in another's character, of course, and accept tinsel as gold, but generally speaking, our friendships are a mirror of ourselves. We seek what we admire.

The young man who is credited with exemplary habits, but whose intimate friends are all dissipated, is not merely unlucky in his friendships. It goes deeper than that. It may be that he has avoided the more outbreking sins, but his tastes are in the direction of evil, or he would find associates of a different sort. The girl who picks friends who are coarse is not really refined.

Occasionally we may be unlucky in a friend, which is only another way of saying that we may be mistaken. But no one is systematically unlucky. The choice of friends is one of the most certain methods of determining character. Our friends rather than anything we do or say, stand for our tastes and ideals. Instead of being unlucky in our friendships it may be that we are betrayed by them.

JUST A WORD

By Mina F. Schmitz

In the midst of life's reverses,
When thy pathway all seems dark,
Black as midnight, unilluminated
E'en by pleasure's faintest spark;

When deep gloom and sad foreboding
Cradles thee within its arms,
And thy soul is filled with broodings
Working ill like evil charms;

When thy labor all seems useless,
And existence one great pain,
Joy and hope are fed forever,
And to struggle on seems vain;

Do some tender deed of mercy
To a soul with sorrow racked,
Give the balm of loving kindness
In some helpful little act.

That one deed thy soul will lighten,
And its heavy gloom will lift,
As a ray of brilliant sunshine
Through the blackest clouds may drift.
—Good Housekeeping.

FROM THE DAYS OF ABRAHAM

Damascus has strong claims to be considered the oldest city in the world. The place remains very much what it was before the days of the patriarch Abraham—an island of verdure set in the Syrian desert—and has martial and sacred associations extending through thirty centuries. According to Josephus, Damascus was founded by Uz, the son of Aram and grandson of Shem. It is first mentioned in Scripture in Genesis xv, 2, in connection with Abraham, whose steward was a native of that place.

A news item from New York says that the discovery of a substitute for gasoline, to be sold at 1½ cents a gallon, is claimed by Louis Enricht, a chemist of Farmingdale, L. I. He says that through the mixture of not over two ounces of a secret solution with a quart of water, a compound susceptible of explosion, similar to gasoline, can be secured.

The announcement that service between Los Angeles and Honolulu would be resumed by the Northern Pacific Steamship company next fall, was made at Los Angeles harbor by C. E. Stone, acting passenger traffic manager for the Hill liners. Service was suspended during the summer months because freight shipments on the return passage could not be obtained.

JUDGMENT CREDITOR PREFERRED

A recent decision of the Supreme Court of California holds that "a judgment creditor upon public work who serves upon the proper officer the transcript of his judgment as provided by Section 710 of Code of Civil Procedure, prior to the service upon such officer by laborers and material men of the withhold notice provided by Section 1184 of such code, has precedence over such laborers and materialmen in the payment of money due the contractor.

Section 1184 gives labor and material a right to give their notices at any time after they contract to furnish such labor and material. By so doing they may anticipate subsequent attachment or execution. By no process of construction can the statute be held to mean that the fund due the contractor upon a public building, upon which no lien is given, is set apart for an indefinite period subsequent to the completion of the building and maturity of the payment therefor free from all demands of other creditors of the contractor, and beyond the power to transfer or assign. Section 1184 fixes no limit upon the time in which the notice therein provided for may be given. Under the decision cited, and upon the sound principles of the constitution, if they await the maturity of the payment to the contractor before giving notice, it must be given before any assignment is made, or attachment or other claim has accrued against the contractor on account thereof, or their claims would be postponed to those of attacking creditors whose attachments are prior in point of time."

A WOMAN'S CLUB IN INDIA

How the women of India are striving to reach greater freedom and a broader activity than they have ever known, through organizing and cooperating with each other, was told in a lecture recently delivered by a Mrs. J. D. Fleming. At Lahore, India, the women have formed what they have named the Purdah club, the word purdah referring to the curtain or screen used to seclude women of rank. In this club are to be found high caste Hindu women, Parsee Muhammadan and Indian Christian women, as well as the English wives and daughters of government officials (the "colonel's lady" met with in Kipling), brought together in a great bond of sisterhood that sweeps away all barriers of race, religion, language, and thought. The executive committee of the club is composed of five members from each class, making it the most representative body of its kind in the world. Social meetings, held once a month, bring the women together for concerts, debates, and refreshments.

This strange club of women holds its meetings within canvas walls, raised like a great roofless tent in a garden. No man is ever permitted to go behind this purdah. The eagerness of the women to know of the new world of ideas and ideals outside the four walls of the zenana, said Mrs. Fleming, is most touching, and calls for a sympathetic response among emancipated women everywhere. As wife of a college professor at Lahore, Mrs. Fleming spent 10 years in that city and became acquainted with many of the high caste women of India. The club at Lahore was the first of its kind, she declared,—a lever placed under the rule of seclusion to help lift Indian women hood to a higher plane of thought and liberty.

In the midst of the fragrance and beauty on every hand at the Glendale Flower Show, Mrs. Ella Richardson finds it hard to believe that there is such a thing as ice and snow and cold weather anywhere. In a letter just received from her son Burt, who is attending college in the State of Maine, he says, "The snow and ice are just beginning to melt and I am sorry to see them go. This winter has been unusually long as well as cold and severe." In this Southern California climate we are able to forget that there is winter anywhere.

THE SPIRIT THAT WINS

Among some skaters was a boy so small and so evidently a beginner that his frequent mishaps awakened the pity of a tender-hearted, if not wise, spectator.

"Why, sonny, you are getting all bumped up," she said. "I wouldn't stay on the ice and keep falling down so; I'd just come off and watch the others."

The tears of the last downfall were still rolling over the rosy cheeks, but the child looked from his advisor to the shining steel on his feet and answered:

"I didn't get some new skates to give up with; I got 'em to learn how with."—Exchange.

"Were this our only day,
Did not our yesterdays and our tomorrows lend
To hope and memory their interplay,
How should we bear to live?
Not only what we are,
But what we were, and what we hope to be,
Make up our life—the far days each a star,
The near days, nebulae."

CHOOSING YOUR HERO
By James L. Storey

A life without a hero is like a ship without a compass. One of the strongest inspirations to right living is admiration for a life that is worthy our homage. And the young people who are not hero-worshippers are generally not on the way to making heroes themselves.

There is a sort of sophistication which manifests itself in picking flaws. Its claim of superiority is that it refuses to recognize anything as fine or worthy. It is always on the watch for something to show that

WHOLESOME HUMILIATION

Humiliation, while unpleasant, is frequently wholesome. It is true that we may undergo the experience with such resistance and resentment that no real benefit can be derived, but accepted in the right spirit, humiliation is often the foundation of better things. A young man once made a remark in a company which betrayed such colossal ignorance of the subject under discussion that a blank silence followed, and one or two of those present were not sufficiently self-controlled to keep their amusement from showing in their faces. The young man recognized his blunder and was deeply humiliated. The pleasure of the evening was spoiled for him, but a few days later he sought a former teacher, and asked him to outline a course of reading for him. It was not possible for him to go back to school, but from that time on he read so carefully and so wisely that in the course of five or six years he came to be regarded as a person of unusual information. His humiliation was of untold benefit to him.

Historical instances of that sort are plentiful. Disraeli, laughed down in Parliament, and vowing that the time would come when they would listen, is one of the many famous men who made a humiliating experience a stepping-stone from which to reach the prizes of life.

On the other hand some young people, failing to meet humiliation with courage, have been crushed by the experience which to another would have been only a spur and incentive. In a Virgil class in a city high school, a youth called on to translate a somewhat difficult passage, gave so absurd a rendering that his classmates burst into roars of laughter and even the instructor was forced to smile. Stung by the ridicule, as he regarded it, the boy walked out of the room, took his hat and went home. He refused to return to school, but took a position the first he could get. His life has been very far from successful, and without question his allowing himself to be overwhelmed by an experience which should have stimulated him to make more earnest efforts, accounts in part for his failure.

Humility is sometimes taught by humiliation, and humility is the starting point of everything worth while. No people are so hopeless as the conceited. If some weakness of yours is exposed and you find yourself ridiculous in consequence, do not allow yourself to be embittered. Remember that these experiences are frequently wholesome and in the end inspiring. Accept humiliation with such a spirit that it may become inspiration.

AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Taking for his text 1 Cor. 1-17, "Lest the cross of Christ should be made of none effect," Rev. George M. Morrison, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church of Pasadena, preached a most profound and edifying sermon at the Congregational church last evening. The speaker said in part: "There is no experience like the fellowship of the gospel. Experience is the well of friendship.

"The glad days of religion are not past. When Napoleon tried to establish the church in Paris he found fewer than fifty communicants. Still today there are those who have lost 'the attention to religion.' There is such a thing as the tragedy of things missed."

In defining the meaning of the cross, Mr. Morrison said, "The cross is the symbol of the death of Jesus Christ, it is the symbol of divine love sacrificing. The cross is a thing to be crucified on. Inconvenience is not sacrifice. The cross makes men new. Too often the moral and spiritual meaning of the cross is made a lie by the selfishness of men.

"The cross is also the symbol for service. It is needful that we see that the cross stands in our lives."

This evening Rev. William Davies pastor of the Vernon avenue Congregational church of Los Angeles, will speak. For nearly fifteen years Mr. Davies has been in his present pastorate.

this person or that is not as admirable as it is thought. It has no heroes because it is incapable of appreciating heroism, even of believing in it.

Of course, it is important to choose one's heroes wisely. The public man who has made a brilliant speech is not always the safe guide for aspiring youth. The singer whose face is as beautiful as her voice is melodious may or may not be a worthy model for a young girl. Outward charms should not dazzle us so that we make a mistake. For it has a most disastrous effect to give our love and loyalty to that which is undeserving, to find that what we have revered is the commonest sort of clay.

Choose the hero that appeals to you. It is hard work paying homage to one with whose ideals and aims you are unsympathetic. When you have found a hero whose ambitions coincide with your own, and whose achievement is what you hope for in the hours when you indulge in dreaming, a hero whose splendid life is a continual incentive for you to live splendidly, then "grapple him to your heart with hooks of steel." For such homage is one of the chief factors in character-making.

DEDICATED TO THE GLENDALE FLOWER SHOW

Written by Our Townsman
WILMOT PARCHER

Over Twenty-five Years Ago Before Leaving Minnesota
Never Before Published

—1—

How sweet are the flowers that grow in the springtime!
We eagerly watch for their coming in bloom,
The daisy, the lily, the high climbing woodbine,
And the sweet little violet—they've come none too soon.
The pale yellow daffodil, the honeysuckle by it,
The cowslip and bluebells on the banks of the brook;
The crocus and mayflower which always grow nigh it,
And e'en the little snowdrop that grows in the nook.

These God-given blessings we hail as a treasure,
For they cheer us on as we dwell here below;
With joy and with gladness and "exquisite pleasure"
We hail them and love them for the cheer they bestow.
A foretaste of heaven in them God has given,
They teach us to love and revere His great power;
To Him who has sent them all praise should be given
For the blessings bestowed in the gift of the flower.

—3—

How sweet are the fields that are covered with they fragrance,
How happy the songbird that nests 'neath thy bloom!
The old and the young love thee, decked in thy radiance
And sadly regret that you perish so soon.
Sweet flowers of the valley, with fragrance so luscious!
Unsolicited, shedding thy mild sweet perfume!
To the sinner thou art indeed most precious,
To the saint, an ever welcome boon.

—4—

How sweet is thy fragrance, when brought to the sickroom.
Dispelling sad pain from the feverish brow!
Sure, God in His wisdom adds love to our life's gloom,
'Twas He planned the past, the future and now.
He gave us sweet flowers to bloom in our youthtime,
To cheer the young heart and strengthen its love;
He gave to old age in their golden days' prime
These gems of His wisdom to lead them above.

—5—

So give us the flowers that in our youthtime bloom,
'Tis then that we need them our life way to pave;
Wait not till grim death shall gather us home,
With hands then so kindly heap them on our grave.
'Tis in life that we need them, the noonday of youth,
Not after King Death shall have gathered us in,
For how sweetly they tell us 'tis wisdom and truth
That lifts us above earth and keeps us from sin.

O tell us, sweet flowers, if beyond the dark river
Shall we meet you again in your lovely array?
Shall we meet you again to never be severed,
And enjoy your sweet fragrance forever and aye?
We pray you may live on that "beautiful shore,"
And bloom in thy sweet fragrance all the day long,
For heaven will be brighter, and angels more pure
As they sing thy rich praise in thy sweet angel song.

GLENDALE'S FLORAL CARNIVAL

By Samuel Parker

When classic flowery "vale cashmere"
In dreamy haze reposes,
Until the trumpeters appear
And sound "The Feast of Roses,"
And when from that flower-favored land
The best had been paraded,
On every line on every hand
Our own show had them shaded.

Flowers in greater quantity
May bank at expositions,
Wondrous and marvelous to see
Under contract conditions.
But rubbing of the magic lamp
Of Mythical Alladdin
Brought all this beauty into camp
Each visitor to gladden.

And here I feel I must declare
And wonder while I'm saying
(And I've seen flower shows elsewhere,

Familiar with displaying)
That never elsewhere did I see
In marvelous perfection,
Such stock in perfect harmony
Presented for inspection.

Do you recall the very first
Of flower shows recorded?
And who it was that held the show
And premiums awarded?
And how he gave the ladies pure
And innocent and happy,
A long lead o'er King Solomon
So proud, and vain, and scrappy.

And since that day it's been the way
To children love, and flowers
That brighten, bless and beautify
The land and homes of ours.
No light responsibility
With whom the project started,
Though weary hands with labor be
When done, how happy hearted.

DIFFICULTIES OF ALASKA RAILWAY WORK

Building a railroad in Alaska is no easy job. One of the first railroads ever constructed, the Nome-Arctic railway, was the occasion for much rejoicing. It was thought a wonderful accomplishment; and so it was. Planned at first to reach through the Seward peninsula from Nome to Lane's Landing, tapping a rich mining district and bringing supplies to distant camps, it was found impossible to complete it the first season. The season is short and when winter closes down on the land in that latitude no more railroad construction work can be done. The railroad was ultimately completed, and what is of more importance, it paid.

The United States government is at present constructing a railroad from Valdez to the interior. The Copper River and Northwestern Railroad has presented difficulties of construction that are perfectly amazing and which could not have been overcome some years ago. The road is 195 miles in length and yet in that distance there are 275 trestles, bridges and tunnels. Some sections cost more than $200,000 a mile.

There is a steel bridge flanked by two glaciers that cost $1,500,000 to build, and before a bit of that structure was constructed the engineers spent three years studying the peculiarities of the glaciers, those moving rivers of ice that threatened to destroy every bit of construction.

It has always been difficult to provision any expedition in the Arctic. Once away from civilization an expedition has to depend entirely on what it has brought with it in the way of supplies. The early prospectors carried with them nothing save beans, bacon, coffee or tea, flour and sugar. If they were able to get canned milk of any kind they were fortunate. They depended entirely on their base of supplies and someone had to "mush" back to that base whenever it might be needful for the necessary food.

Working under conditions in some respects similar the railroad construction gangs have driven their road ahead in record time. Their food supplies have gone astray occasionally. Their stores have been eaten by foxes and taken by plundering Indians. They have no food in the land itself, where the animal life in the winter consists of foxes and wolves, varied with a few Arctic lemmings.

Under these conditions it is highly creditable to the men who are doing this work that they have not been daunted by having to live near the starvation line at times. The work is being pushed so as to be completed this fall if possible. When it has been finished it will open up an amazingly rich country and even if the outside multimillionaire has taken up the best things in the region itself the railway will bring the prospector to points whence he can undertake profitable expeditions to parts of the country that have never been touched.

AWAKENING OF KOREA

Korea, the "Hermit Nation," as it was called for a long time, sprang into prominence when it became a bone of contention between Japan and Russia in 1905. At that time the Koreans, a nation that did not believe in preparedness, were mere automata in the hands of either of the two powerful nations that desired their territory. Their lack of military training and the general desire of the nation to be let alone brought on it more troubles than if it had trained its men and become allies of Japan, which would have been its highest wisdom.

Russia coveted the Korean wealth, which consists in forests and mines. Russia also thought it would be a simple matter to sweep Japan out of the road and ultimately absorb that country. How far Russia was mistaken can be measured by the fact that Korea is now a Japanese "protectorate." In reality it is a Japanese province. Under Japanese tuition it is making steady progress, especially in the development of its agricultural resources. The Japanese are great farmers and gardeners. Everywhere model agricultural and industrial farms have been established throughout Korea. The government instructs the people in farming, cotton-planting, and garden making. There is also a government seeding station from which plants and seeds are distributed all over the country.

Farmers are encouraged to introduce modern machinery and take advantage of scientific experience. They are being taught the latest methods of cultivating mulberry trees and caring for silkworm eggs.

Japan has improved the means of communication between the Japanese islands and Korea. Telegraph and telephone lines have been extended until there are now more than 12,000 miles of wires. More than $5,000,000 has been appropriated for the development of the highways. The new roads are all broad and well constructed and are adapted to the automobile traffic.

Railway hotels have been established along the important trunk lines and the Railway Bureau has recently erected in Seoul a hotel costing $300,000. In fact, it would be difficult for the traveler of twenty years ago to recognize the country. He would certainly not recognize the people. They have cleaned themselves up and smartened their appearance. The woman no longer gads about for days at a time and the man, drilled and disciplined, would prove as formidable a foe with a modern magazine rifle in his hands as any soldier of any country. How great a transformation ten years has accomplished!

OBJECT LESSON IN PREPAREDNESS

It has been alleged by some, notably by the editor of the London Times, that Germany instigated the attack on Columbus, N. M., by Villa and his band of marauders, the alleged object being to involve the United States in outside trouble so as to compel it to keep its hands off the situation in Europe. Of course it would be difficult to prove such a statement as that, however much it might

WILL NOT GRANT WILSON'S DEMAND

ADMIRAL VON HOLTZENBORSS SAYS NO FURTHER SUBMARINE CONCESSIONS CAN BE MADE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
BERLIN, April 21.—Admiral Von Holtzenborss, chief of the German Admiralty, says that Germany cannot make any further concessions in the matter of submarine warfare.

ALLEGED BERNSTORFF IS CAUGHT IN TRAP

German Ambassador At Washington Believed to Have Been Connected With Bomb Plots

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21.—Ambassador Count Von Bernstorff, Germany's representative at Washington, D. C., is alleged to have been caught in a trap, from which he cannot escape, if the interpretation that is placed on the last few days' developments should turn out correct. It is stated that among the papers of Von Igel, the attache of the German embassy here, there have been found documents implicating Von Bernstorff in the extensive bomb plots recently uncovered.

CONNECT GERMANS WITH COLUMBUS RAID

Teutons in Mexico Are Suspected of Having Worked to Provoke Attack on American City

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21.—What at first was looked on as a mere rumor is now being closely and minutely investigated as a treacherous plot against the United States. It is stated that American secret service men are on the trail of certain German-Americans who are known to have been in communication with Villa shortly before the raid made by that bandit on Columbus, N. M. Recently valuable information on this point has been unearthed in Mexico and the government is now awaiting the return of its agents from the south with documentary proof of certain connections between Villa and prominent German-Americans in this country.

RUSSIAN SOLDIERS ARRIVE IN FRANCE

Slav Troops Will Fight Beside French Forces in the Defense of Verdun Lines

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
PARIS, April 21.—One of the most significant events in the history of the war was the arrival today in Marseilles of a large contingent of Russian troops on their way to the lines at Verdun to help the French in holding that position against the Germans. Numerous transports brought the Muscovites. The Russians were commanded by General Lochwesey. General Menassier, governor of Marseilles, and Gen. Guerin, representing Gen. Joffre, received the Russian leader.

be suspected. It is very plain, however, that in the present case the expedition into Mexico came at a time when the Germans had determined to enter on the most objectionable phase of their submarine campaign. The sinking of the unarmed and unsuspecting channel ferryboat Sussex, with its human freight of passengers from all countries, including a couple of dozen of Americans, was a challenge to the whole world.

Notwithstanding this country's involvement in Mexico it has not refused the challenge but has answered clearly that it will not countenance this brutal aspect of warfare as waged by the Teuton. The end of the incident may well be looked on with apprehension; but the one incident coming on the back of the other is a strong lesson as to what this country should be in military and naval preparedness when the whole world is ablaze.

Those who recently prophesied that there would be no more war and were confronted with the spectacle of all Europe engaged in the worst war the world has known and yet persist in trying to get the people of the United States to believe that this country is in no danger of warfare may well pause if anything can teach them to contemplate how unpreparedness has provoked an outbreak against the United States on the part of a mere section of Mexico, while at that very moment when the whole world sees the actual condition of military affairs in the United States this serious trouble with Germany looms up.

If diplomatic relations should be broken off with Germany it need not be expected that that enterprising and well-prepared country will remain supine. It has been rare indeed in the history of nations that broken diplomatic relations have not led to war.

BUSINESS PRUDENCE

It is the part of good business prudence to make a connection with a bank where you can enjoy a personal acquaintance with the officers of your bank and be able to transact your business with them.

The business of the world today is done on the basis of commercial credit and very often on the extent of that credit depends success or failure.

If you are known here as a reliable depositor—and if you need to borrow—your request will be given every consideration. Our depositors come first.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hunchberger spent Friday at the Beach.

Mrs. Dick Mills, 414 S. Louise street, has been quite indisposed for some days past and is still confined to her room.

Miss Edith Tyler, 205 N. Maryland avenue, is spending the week-end in an enjoyable vacation among the mountains.

Miss Anna Melzer and Miss Erna Melzer are spending a pleasant week-end vacation at Redondo beach. They will return home Monday.

The many friends of W. R. Walker, who resides at 439 E. Second St., will be glad to know Mr. Walker is convalescing from his long illness and will soon be able to be around town.

Mrs. J. Melzer, 470 N. Glendale avenue, has gone to Albuquerque, N. M., to join her husband, who has been there for some time enjoying a vacation. They will both return after a short time.

Will Richardson, who has been spending several weeks visiting on the A. P. Stone ranch near Modesto, returned to his home on South Central avenue, Wednesday, and is manifesting a keen interest in the Flower Show.

Mr. K. K. Kelly, Oakwood and Glendale avenue, who has been rapidly recovering for some time past from the operation for appendicitis to which he submitted, has returned home from Thornycroft hospital, and is beginning to manifest his usual activity.

Interesting news to the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kober, formerly of this city, is the announcement of the coming of a baby daughter to their home, 1915 Bonsallo avenue, Los Angeles, on Wednesday, April 12. This little lady will be known as Miss Virginia Alice Kober.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Parker were among the guests who attended the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Kenyon, which was happily celebrated at the Kenyon residence, 1242 Fielding avenue, Hollywood, Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Kenyon were former residents of Glendale. A well rendered musical program added to the pleasures of the evening.

A spirited and lively contest has been vigorously waged since the first of March, in the primary department of the Sabbath School of the Christian church of Glendale. This contest has resulted in increasing the enrollment in this department to 80. A novel feature of the closing of the contest will be the sale of 5000 bunny cookies Saturday. Eight kitchen ranges, in as many homes in Glendale, have been busy all day, baking these bunny cookies, which will be all the more palatable from the fact that they resemble a real bunny, ears and all.

MOVES OF COMMANDERY

Glendale Commandery, No. 53, Knights Templar, will attend divine service on Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church, when Rev. Dr. Edmonds will preach. Immediately after the service the members of the commandery will take the 12:30 car at the junction of Glendale avenue and Broadway and proceed to Long Beach, where they will join the other commanderies of Southern California. The combined commanderies will then go to the Congregational church, where they will take part in a union service at 3 p. m.

Glendale Commandery No. 53 will hold a special meeting tonight, at the Masonic Temple, when the Temple degree will be conferred on two candidates.

EASTER PARTY

About seventy of the boys and girls of the Sabbath School of the Christian church were happily entertained Wednesday afternoon with a delightful Easter party at the bungalow and on the lawn of the Christian church, corner of Louise and Colorado boulevard. The details of the happy occasion, which brought so much pleasure to the children, were arranged by Mrs. L. E. Berkey, superintendent of the Sabbath School and several of the teachers. Many juvenile games were enjoyed in the bungalow, also music and singing. Then Mrs. Berkey announced that the bunnies had been quite busy on the lawn, surrounding the bungalow, while the children were enjoying the program, and invited them to learn just what these wise old bunnies had accomplished. With a happy rush and in childish glee the little people began to look earnestly about. In every conceivable place, in every nook and corner, they found nests containing brightly colored Easter eggs. When each little ladie and lassie had discovered his or her Easter nest and its contents, Mrs. Berkey and her assistants, among whom were many happy mothers, invited the youngsters into the bungalow where refreshing ices and cake awaited them. No happier children in all Glendale that evening than those of this Sabbath School who so thoroughly enjoyed their Easter party.

TROPICO

The Arroyo Seco ball team will cross bats with the Tropico team Sunday afternoon on the diamond of the municipal play grounds and a lively game is anticipated.

Mrs. Mary Chadwick and daughter, Miss Florence Chadwick, who but recently returned from an extended visit in Walnut, Kansas, and after visiting with Mrs. Chadwick's daughters, Mrs. C. G. Martin, of San Fernando boulevard and Mrs. Robert Danner of Gardena, are now happily domiciled in cozy apartments at Hotel Tropico.

Collie E. Kinney and Berna Martin have returned from a five days' camping trip up in the mountains several miles northeast of La Crescenta.

The regular monthly meeting of the Cerritos School Parent-Teacher association will be held Thursday afternoon in the auditorium of the school. This will be of special interest as the Park avenue P. T. A. will assist with the program. Mrs. Edward Henry Weston, chairman of the Program committee of the Park avenue Parent Teacher association, will present a varied musical program. Mrs. O. P. Helping of Los Angeles will give a talk on "Scolding." As there are many and varied forms of scolding, it will be interesting to learn just what phrase of scolding Mrs. Helping will present.

Mrs. Louise Eckley of Chicago, Ill., is the house guest of her cousins, Mrs. O. N. Ott and Miss Susanna Ott, of 326 Cypress street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Sanders of San Francisco, the former a brother of Mrs. Charles Wallace Kimberly, have taken a residence at Moose and Boynton avenues and will reside here indefinitely.

Miss Dorothy Armstrong of Bianche avenue, presented several viola numbers at Hollenbeck Chapter Order of the Eastern Star, recently, which were greatly appreciated by the large attendance at the Masonic hall.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Kleinhans, who have been the house guests of Councilman and Mrs. Charles H. Henry of South Brand boulevard for several weeks, have left for their home in Malden, Washington. Mrs. Kleinhans and Mrs. Henry, who are sisters, have enjoyed with much pleasure their visit with each other and each is now anticipating a similar visit in the near future.

The City Trustees of Tropico have awarded the contract for the improvement of Moore avenue and the construction of two bridges on Adams street and Moore avenue to Mr. Shilling of Burbank, work to begin shortly.

Miss Susanna Ott and mother, Mrs. E. N. Ott, entertained with a prettily appointed dinner party at their home on East Cypress street, Wednesday evening, when their guests included their cousin Mrs. Louise Eckley, of Chicago, Ill., Dr. M. Effer of Los Angeles and Miss Litta Belle Hibben of Tropico.

Miss Geneva Martin and cousin Miss Dorothy Danner, accompanied by Miss Winifred Bacon, are spending their vacation week in San Pedro as the guests of Miss Marian Olsen.

H. G. Bradford of the BBB Cash Store, returned the first of the week from a several days' trip to the Imperial Valley, where he has been engaged on the matter of home stead opportunities.

THANK WILLING WORKERS

The undersigned takes a pleasure in publicly thanking G. S. Smith, the Sanitarium gardener, the nurses and all others who so ably and artistically put in place the Sanitarium floral exhibit at the Glendale Flower Show.

DOROTHY BONNELL BENEFIT

This is Good Friday. Do a good deed by buying at least one ticket for the Dorothy Bonnell benefit which will be given at the Palace Grand theater Tuesday evening, April 25.

If you are overlooked by the chairman canvassing the city, don't fail to apply in person for tickets to any one of the following firms:

Central Market,
Glendale Pharmacy,
Cornwell & Kelly's Hardware Store.

G. O. Roach Grocery, 815 Brand. Remember that in going to this benefit you are assisting in providing a trained nurse to care for this little sufferer. It is only by careful nursing that the life of this talented child can be preserved. Unless Glendale responds to this appeal, there are no friends available to defray the expenses, and the care of the child would devolve entirely upon a frail little mother, who is barely able to walk, as the result of a recent broken ankle.

Every dollar contributed to this benefit will be used in caring for Dorothy, as Mr. Jensen of the Palace Grand theater is most generously giving the moving picture show absolutely free of expense.

The money will be deposited in a local bank in the name of three trustees, appointed as guardians of the fund, and the expenditures will be accounted for through the medium of the Evening News.

FLOWER SHOW NOTES

Ann Elizabeth Nevins, of 210 So. Keonwood street, a hale old lady of 87 summers, received first prize on California Poppy. Grandma Nevins, as she is commonly called, takes great pride in her flowers and will not allow even her nearest friends to alter or care for their arrangements.

Mrs. Allison of 1023 Fairview avenue was on hand bright and early this morning, seeing that her flowers and her boys' vegetable display was in proper shape for another day's throng of garden lovers.

Mrs. Cora Taylor and her first-grade pupils of the Columbus avenue school deserve great credit for the excellent display of pressed wild flowers, showing very clearly that they are surely a live bunch.

The display of the Foothills' club, mention of which by error was omitted in yesterday's News, makes one wish to visit those beautiful gardens and view their grandeur in its entirety, and no doubt many people who see their display will journey to the foothills ere long, hence it pays to advertise.

Among the most active workers at the Show is Mrs. Sidney Dell, who has charge of the school exhibits. The arrangement of those exhibits has cost Mrs. Dell a great deal of time and trouble; but her work has been successfully accomplished to the satisfaction of all with whom she has dealt.

Morris E. Caruthers, manager of the show has a very fine floral exhibit from his nursery at 1104 Chestnut. Here may be seen many rare and interesting garden products.

In the Central avenue School exhibit may be seen two photographs that speak for themselves. One is a picture of the school in 1914. It shows the building standing in the midst of barren grounds. The other shows the school in 1916. The grounds are now all covered with shrubbery, trees and flowers, the work of the principal, teachers and scholars. The flowers grown on this school garden were successful in gaining four first prizes. The school also exhibits a collection of fifty varieties of wild flowers taken from its own grounds. The school is rejoicing also in the attention paid to its basketful of roses which is here on exhibition.

Much attention is paid by all visitors to the show to the very artistic and attractive exhibit of landscape designs by Arthur E. Simpson of Pasadena. Mr. Simpson has done a great deal of landscape work that has attracted attention and the illustrations of some of that work are deserving of attention.

The ladies of North Glendale are boasting of their success in winning fourteen first and several second prizes.

Masters Ira and Charlie Allison of 1023 Fairview avenue won 3 first prizes on vegetables from their well-kept vegetable garden.

The combined Glendale Grammar grades under the able guidance of Mrs. Stone, principal of the Pacific avenue school, Mrs. Cora Taylor, principal of Columbus avenue school and their enthusiastic agricultural teacher, Miss White, won first prize for their fine school display.

Master Harold Duey of 825 North Louise street won first prize on citron fruit.

The Forest Lawn exhibit of Begonias and Coleus is very complete indeed and represents several different families of those beautiful pot plants. Among the begonia display is a species which is said by Mr. Wells, the superintendent, to be the only one of its kind known.

Col. G. J. Griffith was a visitor at the show today and incidentally donated his 25c for a membership in the Glendale Garden society.

Mrs. Sidney Dell of 622 North Louise street is, if possible, busier today than yesterday, continually straightening up and replenishing the juvenile exhibits, which are under her supervision, and the society made no mistake in delegating this important place to her.

Mrs. Lagrosse of 301 North Louise street seems to be about the busiest person at the show this forenoon. She is here, there and everywhere, untiringly fixing first one bunch of flowers and then another until they look just so.

The Home Croft club of Littlelands are very proud of their success in winning first on Vegetable display and first on general display.

GLENDALE FOOTHILLS

Mrs. McClung, 1323 Dryden street, who recently went to New York City on personal and family business, writes to her sister, Mrs. Burns, who is at present occupying the Dryden street residence, that she does not at all care for the strenuous weather in the East. She is extremely desirous to get back to the Pacific coast and especially to Glendale.

Mr. and Mrs. Yorba of Casa Verdugo are looking forward to entertaining at dinner tomorrow, their friends Mr. and Mrs. Garbutt of Los

What Electricity Will Do.

Every day, seemingly, we read of some new application of electricity in the home. The number of household tasks turned over to electricity in the past few years is astonishing. An engineer of the General Electric Company has prepared the following list of household applications of electricity which is truly astonishing:

- Furnish illumination for the house.
- Heat water for shaving or the bath.
- Percolate the breakfast coffee.
- Toast bread.
- Fry eggs or anything that will fry.
- Operate the sewing machine.
- Iron the clothes.
- Make the tea in a samovar.
- Cook food in a chafing dish.
- Curl a woman's hair.
- Heat the bath room or other rooms on cool mornings.
- Lift or lower dumb waiters.
- Energize doorbells and annunciators.
- Vibrate the massage vibrator.
- Ozonize (purify) the air.
- Wash the dishes.
- Ignite cigars.
- Keep hot the heating pad (used in place of hot water bottle).
- Warm the milk for baby day or night.
- Pop corn.
- Amuse the children by running electric toys.
- Protect houses from burglars.
- Give electric baths in bath cabinets.
- Poach eggs, cook the cereal or heat milk.
- Operate the washing machine and clothes wringer.
- Run the vacuum cleaner.
- Cool rooms with an electric fan.
- Knead the bread and bake the bread.
- Purify the drinking water.
- Grind, mix, churn, whip cream, make ice cream, polish silver, etc.
- Carry the family in the electric automobile.
- Warm an electric blanket for outdoor sleeping.
- Polish the floors (electric floor polisher).
- Sterilize water or utensils.
- Make ice—furnish refrigeration.
- Play the piano and phonograph.
- Mix family beverages.

FREE FLOWER SHOW

city funds for the purposes of the show. She welcomed the presence on the platform of Messrs. Woodberry, Jackson and Muhleman, the recently-elected members of the city council and expressed the belief that seeing as they did, the success of the show, which in the number of its exhibitors and in the extent and variety of its exhibits far exceeded anything they had counted on, the new council would double its grant to the funds of the society for the purposes of the next Free Flower show.

Ex-Mayor Lane, who was accompanied to the platform by G. B. Woodberry, R. M. Jackson and Frank Muhleman, members of the present city council, and by A. T. Cowan, proprietor of the Glendale Evening News and Mr. H. C. Jensen, of the Palace Grand theater, expressed his pleasure at seeing so large an audience. He took the success of the show which he said was a credit to the city. The people of Glendale in inaugurating this Free show had taken a step in advance of other cities and it would be difficult for any of the neighboring cities to show a display of flowers and fruits equal to that in the midst of which they now stood.

He also stated that in the matter of civic improvements, Glendale stood well in advance of neighboring cities and that when they looked up and down the magnificent boulevards of the city, with their smooth and substantial paving of the highest grade, their broad and well-constructed sidewalks and above all their handsome lighting system, they had reason to congratulate themselves on the enlightened civic policy that had produced such desirable improvements. It was an additional source of satisfaction to know that while Los Angeles was charged $56 a year for the light service of cluster lights similar to those on Brand boulevard and Broadway, Glendale was paying only $9 yearly. He congratulated the people of Glendale on living in an advancing and progressive city of this kind and said he felt sure they would feel that this wonderful Free Flower show was an affair that should be supported and developed from year to year. He commended the enterprise and activity of Mrs. Nanno Woods, who had so successfully instilled her own enthusiasm into others as to bring about the wonderful collection of flowers and other produce in their present setting.

At the evening opening of the show one of the most popular exhibits was that of the Valley Supply and Crystal Ice companies, where cool and delicious orangeade was dispensed free. Another exhibit around which the public clustered constantly was the orange marmalade booth where Miss Carrie Wolfe, a graduate of the School of Home Economics of Santa Barbara, served samples of her exquisite production.

Beside Miss Wolfe's exhibit is a modest collection of tasteful flower baskets and little model houses for garden ornamentation which is presided over by their creator, John A. Nelson, 230 E. Broadway. This attracted considerable attention.

The Sparr Fruit company has in this section a nicely displayed stand with specimens of various kinds of oranges grown and packed in this district. Here are St. Michaels, Washington Navels, Jaffas, Malta Bloods and Valencias. There is also a fine display of grapefruit and loquats.

Among the tables which attracted a great deal of commendation and interest was that of the Central avenue school, presided over by Miss Annie L. McIntyre, principal of the school.

PLANT TREES By Samuel Parker

The intimate relation between forestry and flowers puts the little poem "Plant Trees" in good company, in this flowery season.

Is he a benefactor, who
By patient care caused one blade more
Of grass to grow, where only grew
A single blade all time before;
A more than benefactor, he,
(With saints his name should be arrayed)
Who generously plants a tree,
For future service, shelter, shade.
In native groves how sad to see
The axe and saw in tireless play;
The slow growth of a century
Cut down within a single day.
Quickly restore this wanton waste
Invite the moisture woo the breeze
The forests slain must be replaced,
Let everybody set out trees.

Let youth and age in friendly strife
Seek each the other to excel,
Till treeless plains take on new life;
And homes where happy children dwell
Surrounded each by grove and lawn
Shall happier and brighter be;
This glorious day to hasten on,
Let everybody plant a tree.

Adown the lane of future years,
As verdant groves dot all the plain
And song of birds salute our ears;
The record: "He lived not in vain
Who planned this for posterity."
A message here for girl and boy
Such benefactor you may be,
If Arbor Day you well employ.

Smart Spring Millinery

Every woman is interested in a new hat before Easter, and the only word which in any way describes our magnificent showing of Spring and Summer Hats is SUPERB.

At no time have the shapes been so "chic;" at no time have the colorings been so harmoniously blended, and at no time have the Hats been so "wearable" as now.

We strive to have better values than others—we think we have succeeded.

Come visit this Millinery. You will not be importuned to buy.

GEMS AND THEIR 1916 SETTINGS

Novel gem arrangements, the most unusual seen for many a year, are formed of pearls and colored gems. So far they have been made up only in necklaces, but their type will be copied in rings, brooches, earrings, and bracelets.

Gems this year are to be chosen extremely large. One hundred and two hundred carats have been reached in this search for huge stones, and ornaments are being made up with two or more of these stones as their chief attraction. The faceted gems—diamonds, emeralds and sapphires—are in favor at present, but gems en cabochon and pearls are not behind in the greatness of their size. This style naturally obtains in only the most expensive jewels. The majority will cling to the combinations, wherein groupings of many smaller stones surround a larger one.

A fad of the moment in gem cutting is the copying of famous jewels in contour and facet arrangement. In this way the Koh-i-noor, Pitt, Hope, Sancy, Dresden, Eugenie, the nine Cullinan gems and the two rose cut diamonds owned by the Shah of Persia, as well as Austria's famous Florentine, yellow and Tuscan, have been faithfully copied by enterprising lapidists.

In jewelry and jewels of lesser importance, brooches for the year will show a tendency to gain in solidness and the platinum frames will be more and more heavily studded with gems. Unusual contours will prevail, tending toward the perpendicular rather than the broad and horizontal shapes, but squares and discs will remain. Applied designs in diamonds will be used over crystal, moonstone, aquamarine, rose quartz and amethyst slabs as the backing.

Among the stones to be used in other brooches, mention must be made of the growing popularity of star sapphires. These gems are being newly used in rings and bracelets, as well as in brooches to an unusual extent. Black pearls have also gained in mode, and many new ornaments are being designed with black, gray, purple and other tinted pearl.

BEADS MADE OF VEGETABLES

What are now being sold in the shops under the name of "vegetable beads" are not usually recognized as being merely humble peas and beans of various shapes and sizes, treated with a preservative and then dyed and decorated to meet the demands of fashion. In spite of the treatment they undergo, if given a chance, they will sprout and so show their origin. This was proved recently by a hotel clerk who found an elaborately decorated bead, evidently dropped from the necklace of a woman guest. He laid it on the damp sponge which he used on his desk as a penwiper and then forgot it, until he discovered a well-developed bean stalk sprouting from what he supposed was a bit of metal or wood.

Flat beans, something the shape of the familiar lima bean, are often used as beads in connection with embroidery, as they are so pierced that they can be sewed to lie flat on the fabric. Smaller beads, which are in reality preserved and decorated peas of various sizes, are often introduced in embroidery to imitate small fruits, such as currants, cherries and berries of different kinds. The peas are sewed on in clusters, with stems and foliage carried out in heavy creases or in silk, as the case may be. Such designs are often seen on workbaskets, sewing bags, hat ornaments, handmade buckles and trimmings. Preserved and ornamented peas are also pierced and strung as necklaces, most of them being imported, decorated by hand and showing effective splashes of queer, oriental colorings.

Among the best known of these vegetable beads are the porcelain-like seed cases, popularly called "Job's Tears." These are almost adamant in quality and come in varying shades of gray, from a pale dove color to a deep smoke shade. Strung between jet, steel or gilt beads, these make attractive necklaces and are also effective in combination with embroidery. These vegetable beads are the seed-cases of a tropical grass.

NEW LANDS MAPPED

Captain Joseph Bernier, who holds a record of six adventurous voyages of exploration in Arctic waters, returned to America recently from a cruise of 4000 miles during which he placed many new islands, bays and promontories on the map. He was sent out by the Canadian government. He discovered many records left by ill-fated mariners and explorers.

ASPARAGUS SOUP

Cook a bunch of asparagus in boiling salted water. Remove from the liquor, cut the tips into the tureen and keep hot, mashing the remaining stalks through a sieve. Put three cups of milk to scald, and, when hot turn it into water in which the asparagus was cooked. Rub three tablespoons each of butter and cornstarch to a cream, stir in part of the liquid and cook, stirring constantly, until the cornstarch is thoroughly cooked. Add the rest of the liquid, the asparagus pulp, and salt and pepper. When boiling, pour over the tips. Serve with strips of toasted bread.

THE ALCAZAR GARDEN A CENTURY AGO

In her Journal Lady Holland records some of her impressions of Seville, which she visited during her first journey in Spain in 1802-05. On arriving at Seville, she tells us, they received a call from Don Francisco Bruna. "We went to see the Alcazar, the old palace of the Moors, of which our friend Don Francisco is the Alcalde. . . As Don Francisco, who has a taste for the arts, has established an Academy of which he is the president, he did faire grace of the most insignificant object, and the illegible inscriptions were the attractions of his fondest notice. Two fine pictures by Murillo were copying, that the originals might be removed to Madrid; the Court have everywhere stripped the provincial cities of their capital pictures. The subject of one was 'The Return of the Prodigal Son'; the other 'The Visit of the Three Angels to Abraham.' The first is the best composition.

"Don Francisco conducted us to the gardens of the Alcazar, where he had previously given orders that the waterworks should be played. The gardens are preserved in the Moorish style; one part is precisely as at the Conquest, clipped hedges of myrtle and devices cut upon them. Another part was laid out by Don Pedro; rows of myrtle warriors, giants and ladies with wooden heads and arms, carrying in their hands swords, clubs, musical instruments, etc. Farther on is the garden of Charles V. pavilion for refreshments, a delicious spot. The whole garden is full of jets d'eau, cascades, fountains, and water tricks and devices. I was to the full as much pleased with these hanging gardens as Charles or any child could be. The English taste for simplicity and nature, which places a house in the midst of a grazing field where the sheep din ba ba all day long, has, by offending me so much, perhaps driven me into the opposite extreme, and made me prefer to the nature of a grass field and round clump the built gardens of two centuries back."

CLIMBING THE DELL

We drove through windless lanes, Worn through the living rock; but high above
A wilderness of over-drooping trees
Cast pleasing shade and cool, beneath whose arch,
Grew nodding broom and groves of gorse that flamed,
Like that strange bush on Sinai. Mosses and fern
Filled every cranny of the stone; and flowers
Bloomed in a wild profusion . . .
The speedwe'l there
Lifted its blue eyes to the sapphire sky.
The wild wind-flower trembled in the wind,
And midst the tangled roots the hyacinths
Stood with white star-flowers, hand in hand;
While nestling everywhere, sweet violets,
The simplest-hearted people of the woods,
Stole their dim odors through the grateful air;
And many more that tapestried the banks
More richly than the king's chambers. Low and loud,
From the different levels of the lofty sky,
The larks sang cheerily . . .
And when we reached,
Climbing the dell, the grass and wandering thyme
Beneath the bowlder, and the holly-trees
That glittered round it in the sun, each set
In its own plot of sward—I never heard
So rapturous a singing of the birds, As then from copse, and mead, and hill, and sky.
From the whole universe is seemed poured forth
In unremittent rivalry of joy.
Stopford A. Brooke.

SAFETY FIRST

Even the smallest scratch on the hand sends a Bethlehem steel-plant employe to the dispensary of the company for treatment. There is no debating whether this or that hurt is sufficient to make a laborer stop work; it is compulsory and the doctors do the deciding.

More than ninety out of every hundred men can immediately return to their work after the necessary precautions have been exercised.

When it is recalled that injuries at first no more serious than a slight scratch, may lead to the amputation of a limb or even death, the reason why more than 1,300 men visit the dispensary of the Bethlehem plant every week is at once apparent.

DO IT NOW

Once a boy was walking along the seashore when he saw a very beautiful shell. But he had his hands full just then, and he said: "I'll pick that up when I come back."

But when he came back after a while he could not find it. The waves had washed it out into the sea.

Sometimes a boy or girl says: "I'll not do this kind act today; I'll leave it until tomorrow."

But by tomorrow the chance is gone.

THE FLUTES OF THE FROGS

'Tis not the notes of the homing birds
That stir my heart from its winter sleep to pulse to the old refrain;
But when from the miles of bubbling marsh and the valley's steaming floor,
Shrilling keen with a million flutes
The ancient spring-time lore,
I hear the myriad emerald frogs
Awake in the world once more.
All day when the clouds drive overhead and the shadows run below,
Crossing the wind-swept pasture lots
Where the thin, red willows glow,
There's not a throat in the joyous host that does not swell and blow.
And all night long to the march of stars the wild mad music thrills,
Voicing the birth of the glad wet spring in a thousand stops and trills,
Till the pale sun lifts through the rosy mists and floats from the harbor hills. —Lloyd Roberts.

NEW PAPER SCARCITY

The scarcity of material from which to make paper and the increasing demand has prompted the United States Department of Agriculture to experiment with wire grass as a source of supply for pulp in place of poplar and liriiodendron. This variety of grass grows profusely on the Pacific coast and in Western Mexico. It possesses the desired requisites of toughness and can be reduced with comparative cheapness by the soda process.

It is said that the paper manufactured from the stock has proved as satisfactory, in physical tests, as machine-finished printing paper of the first grade.

SURNAMES INDICATE TRADE

The Daily Chronicle (London) recently commented on the curious names of obsolete trades to be met with in medieval records. "Some obsolete names of trades survive in surnames," the Chronicle says, "such as Webster, Lister, Walker. In the fourteenth century the weaver was known as the Webster, the dyer was the Lyster, and the workman who trod the cloth in the dye-vat was the Walker. The Arkwright made the arks or chests in which clothes or meal were stored, and the smith was frequently dubbed the Faber, this later being one of the rare cases in which the Latin translation of a craft has become a common surname. When the Cotteler had forged an edged tool, the Blomer finished it off, or put the bloom on; the Chapman traveled with goods from door to door; and the Coke baked coals and sold them."

HE KNEW NO RETREAT

There is a story that Napoleon was once reviewing his troops when he chanced to see an unusually small drummer boy among them. He spoke to the little fellow.

"Do you belong to the army?" asked the general. "What do you do here?"

"I'm a drummer, Sir," was the prompt answer.

Napoleon smiled. "Bring your drum here," he said. The boy did as he was told and Napoleon first bade him sound the "general," which is the signal sounded an hour before breaking up the camp. The boy did very well with the "general;" then he beat the "march," the "advance" and the "charge" according as he was bid by the general.

Napoleon was pleased with the boy's skill and praise him. "Now, last of all, beat the 'retreat!'" he cried.

The boy, who had been smiling and proud, now hung his head. "Excuse me, Sir," he stammered, "I never learned to sound that. Our regiment has never retreated."

Long afterward Napoleon remembered the little drummer boy who could not beat a retreat.

THE OLD HAND-BAG

When a leather handbag has become rubbed at the edges and gray all over, although the lining is still good, do not throw it away, but paint it with a specially prepared liquid, which is intended for freshening straw hats, but works equally as well on leather. When tried recently on a handsome but badly worn bag of smooth leather, it restored it to shiny newness; the new coat is not sticky, does not stain the hands, and does not spot when dampened. The liquid comes in black, navy blue, red, brown, violet, sage green, burnt straw, cadet blue, yellow, lavender, cerise, and uncolored.

BAKED BREAD PUDDING

This recipe calls for half a pound of grated or crumbled bread, four tablespoons of sugar, two tablespoons of candied lemon peel, one pint of milk, six bitter almonds and four eggs. Put the milk and bitter almonds, shredded, over boiling water; cut the lemon peel in small, thin strips over the bread; add the butter and sugar. When there is a film on the milk, pour it over the balance of the ingredients and, when cool, add the well-beaten eggs. Bake three quarters of an hour in a pudding dish or a buttered mold. The pudding may be eaten with or without sauce.

LIFE'S VOYAGE

By Elizabeth Clarke Hardy

Over life's sea we are sailing together,
Cheerily voyaging out and away,
The future all veiled, and uncertain
the weather,
Still hoping and trusting we greet each new day.

But not without pilot we're braving
life's billows,
And not without chart our course
we pursue,
The chart that we have is sure and unfailing,
And our Pilot is one of all pilots
most true.

When clouds hover darkly and storms
gather closely,
The comforting voice of our Pilot
we hear,
"Fear not, I am with thee, though
storms seem so near thee,
I am able to keep thee, so be of good cheer."

Unafraid we fare forth, to outride
the stormclouds,
At sunset we know that our anchor
we'll cast,
And that safely our bark will be
moored in still waters,
Our sails furled in heaven's safe harbor at last.

EFFICIENCY DIRECTOR BURKS

J. D. Burks, efficiency director of the City of Los Angeles, delivered an address on Municipal Government before the Glendale Charter committee at the City Hall Thursday evening, April 20. Mr. Burks said in part that a city's government should not be unlike any successful business institution. A business concern depends upon its stockholders to elect a competent board of directors and the board of directors thus elected lay the plans necessary for carrying on the business successfully. The board of directors appoint a general manager who appoints the heads of the various departments and the manager, assisted by the heads of the departments executes the plans formulated by the board of directors. The speakers said that anything that is not thoroughly successful is not American, for Americans are prominent for making a success of all business enterprises. They may not stand first in the world in military training but when it comes to thorough organization of business, Americans take second place to no other nation in the world.

Mr. Burks said this is an age of specialists and it is not supposed that the average citizen has the time or inclination to interest himself sufficiently in municipal affairs to know the detailed needs of a city. Therefore he considers his function of citizenship accomplished when he assists in electing a competent board of directors, trustees or councilmen who will have the good judgment to appoint a manager who is a specialist in the line of work for which he has been appointed. It should be the duty of the manager to report back to the directors as to his needs in carrying out the plans they had previously laid down for him.

Mr. Burks' whole address had in it the thought of efficiency first always. He said that the great trouble with most city governments, an attempt is made to govern them different than that of a private business. He insisted that the plan that works successfully in conducting a private business will work successfully in governing a city. He illustrated this by calling attention to the business government of the Union Pacific railroad and other large corporations.

Mr. Burks' address was a very logical one and was well received by those who heard it. Those present extended to him a vote of thanks and invited him to be present with them on a similar future occasion.

NATIONAL SUFFRAGISTS APPEAL TO CALIFORNIA WOMEN

Mrs. Clara Snell Wolf, of the National Suffrage committee, has been in Los Angeles the past week arranging for the suffrage conference there. The Suffrage Special will arrive in Los Angeles Saturday morning and a local committee will escort them to the headquarters at the Alexandria hotel.

The party is coming to make an appeal to the women of the West who can vote to put Suffrage first, before all other issues and to insist that the Sixty-fourth Congress pass a Susan B. Anthony Amendment. This can hardly be done unless the women of the voting States are willing to put party aside and throw their vote to whichever political party is most friendly to this cause. So they come with a prayer for help.

In the morning at 11 o'clock Miss Frances Willis is receiving the Pioneer Suffragists in her home where Mrs. Blatch will meet them for a heart-to-heart talk. Miss Willis' mother was one of the Pioneer workers and Mrs. Blatch, as is well known, is a daughter of Elizabeth Cady Stanton, a co-worker with Susan B. Anthony.

The afternoon affair is of a private nature. Mrs. Isaac Milbank calls at the Alexandria hotel at 1:30 for the party, takes them for a drive through Pasadena, returning to her home for afternoon tea.

The dinner at night will be the most brilliant affair of these meetings. This is at the Alexandria hotel. Tickets for that dinner may be obtained in the Hotel Lobby from nine to five. Reservations may be telephoned in.

Mrs. Shelley Tolhurst will preside; Mrs. A. S. Lobinger will speak, also Mr. Willis H. Booth. Then Miss Lucy Burns, who is vice-chairman of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage and who knows the work in Congress from A to Z, will tell about the situation in the present Congress. Florence Bayard Hilles, daughter of former Secretary of State under Cleveland, will speak. She is a Democrat—all her family have always been Democrats—but she will tell the women that she is ready to put the interests of any party aside that has the power to put this measure through and refuses to do it. Her appeal is particularly to Democratic women.

Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch will also give a short talk. She herself is a pioneer—Elizabeth Cady Stanton. She is president of the Woman's Political Union, a large and powerful organization in New York City, and is a Sunday speaker.

On Sunday afternoon, at the Polytechnic High School, a mass meeting is to be held at three o'clock. Mrs. Blatch is the principal speaker.

to be removed to make way for the reservoir; forty miles of new highways had to be built to replace those submerged, and eleven miles of railroad were relocated.

STUDYING THE MOLE

A painstaking American scientist has been studying the mole. He has discovered that moles are the most rapid tunnelers in the world. If one be dug out of his hole and placed on the surface he will dig so swiftly that he is soon out of sight.

The digging is done with the mole's wonderful front feet, which are used as spades, picks, and rakes. While moles live in colonies, each one digs his own apartments, with complex galleries leading to and from them, some for entrances, some for ventilation, and some simply for hiding places. Each dwelling has a central chamber, roughly round in shape and about three inches in diameter. This is surrounded by two central galleries. A safety passage descends from the chamber and curves upward to connect with a ventilating shaft.

In the central chamber is a nest of leaves, grass, and roots. When danger threatens from above, the mole carries its nest into the safety passages. When attacked from below or from the sides it escapes through its labyrinth of passages.

A GIGANTIC WORK

Villages have been wiped out, railroads have been moved and engineering feats never before dreamed of have been accomplished in order to provide New York City with its new water-supply system. The work will be fully completed this coming fall. The total cost will exceed $176,000,000. To build it has taken eight years and 25,000 persons have been employed.

The most remarkable feature is that a large part of the system is underground. For that reason the engineering difficulties are said to have been greater than those encountered in building the Panama Canal. The new supply will give 750,000,000 gallons daily, when the whole watershed is developed.

The largest reservoir, the Ashokan, is 120 miles from the terminal on Staten Island, and 500 feet above sea level. In one section there is a five-mile siphon, reaching 249 feet below sea level. Seven villages, having a total population of 2,000, had cabin on the property owned by Mrs. Frank, on Eagle Rock road, where a Japanese known as Henry Yamato lives. Yamato, who works for Mrs. Frank, had received his wages, $54.50 in gold and silver. He placed the money in a pocketbook and put the pocketbook under the mattress of his cot in his cabin. Several parties were in his cabin at the time. One of them, it is stated, helped him to count the money. While Yamato was occupied with his duties in the house, someone forced open a window in the screen porch and entered the house and stole the money. The police have been investigating the affair.

ANNEXED TERRITORY SERVICE

The following letter was presented Monday evening to the city trustees: To the Honorable Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale:

In regard to the territory annexed to the City of Glendale at the Municipal Election of April 10th, 1916, practically all of this territory is being supplied with electricity and I have given instructions that current bills be rendered at the regular rates applicable to the City of Glendale. There are a few consumers of water and I have given the same instructions regarding these bills. Throughout the greater portion of this territory, however, the city is not now supplying water. We have, however, a certain amount of cast iron water pipe and can give service in this district by the first of July, at the regular city rates.

Respectfully, H. B. LYNCH, Manager Public Service Dept.
