RED PLAGUE SPREADS IN NATIONAL FORESTS

Santa Barbara Blaze Again Beyond Control; Tahoe Flames Run Wild

LOS ANGELES, July 14.—Conscription of manpower on a wholesale scale to combat forest fires raging in southern California and the closing of all forests in the state for the remainder of the summer to prevent future outbreaks, were the objects sought at a conference at Newhall today between federal, state and county forestry officials.

If the counsel of Los Angeles officials prevails, it was said, the closing of the forests in the southern section of the state will be made effective immediately and will be governed by the most drastic regulations ever imposed on a reserve on the Pacific slope.

Driven to adopt desperate measures by a fresh outbreak of the conflagration which has raged for six days in the Santa Barbara national forest, the officials were considering a tentative plan to draft hundreds of men in Los Angeles and surrounding towns to check the blaze, threatening hourly to become the worst in the state.

Breaks Out Again

Last night the fire had been whipped into submission on three sides when it broke forth with renewed ferocity on the west front and was burning today along a ten mile stretch, threatening to sweep through the Liebre mountains across the Ridge route road.

The Liebre mountain country is described as practically inaccessible and the fighters were almost helpless in attempting to check the red plague.

United States Forest Supervisor

Chester E. Jordan has appealed here for additional men. He said it will be necessary for a crew to pack for fifteen miles on foot into the mountains to fight the new outbreak, which is in the vicinity of Fish canyon, heavily wooded and covered with dense underbrush. The situation is critical, Jordan said.

BIBLICAL VISIONS TOLD IN SERMON

Living Pictures Described
History of World, Says
Rev. W. E. Edmonds

The morning sermon delivered
Sunday at the Glendale Presbyterian church by the pastor, Rev.
W. E. Edmonds, was a fitting preparatory sermon for the twi-
light communion service held later in the day. The pastor based his sermon on the text: "Jesus Christ
hath been evidently set forth crucified among Galatians 3:1.
"Paul is preaching to the Galatians
of Asia Minor and he intimates
he had so visualized the cross of Jesus Christ as though
visibly crucified before them.
Superstition gives peculiar sacredness to the crucifix as a symbol of the cross of Christ. The passion pictures of Italian art visualized the story of suffering and death.
"The whole Bible is a series of views, of living pictures all centered about this thought of sacrifice; the death of one for all, a mighty propitiation to bring man
to God, and settle all the questions that stood between. This is why the Holy Communion in contemplation, stands through all ages, the expression of faith in a crucified Redeemer. It speaks of the lamb slain and keeps fresh
the memory of His dying, or un-
dying love, as we do this in remembrance of Him."

Living Pictures
"Let us trace some of the living
pictures, the heart of which is Christ, the slain lamb, slain before the foundations of the world.
First to the Garden of the Fall;
there we see two figures shrinking in their nakedness. God commanded the lamb to be slain that its skins sewed together might provide a covering. In symbol,
in the Garden of Eden, the cross
was set up; Jesus evidently set forth, an atonement made for sin.
"Another of the living pictures,
a worship scene in the Garden of Eden. Cain came with fruit and flowers, knelt beside the altar and poured out the lamb. He chooses
a single family, that of Abraham.
Another five centuries pass and
the seed of Abraham is in the land
of Egyptian slavery, but were delivered.

"Five centuries pass. The world is started anew. They have forgotten God and He chooses a single family, that of Abraham.
Another five centuries pass and
the seed of Abraham is in the land
of Egyptian slavery, but were delivered.

"We come back to the holy
table. His broken body and shed
blood symbolized in broken bread
and poured out wine, and here we have Jesus Christ evidently set forth crucified. "As often as ye
eat this bread and drink this cup
ye do show forth the Lord's death (1st Cor. 11:26), and whatsoever we do today and tomorrow, let us do
all to the glory of God."

politics in Kirksville, Mo.,
to continue his studies in college.

W. E. Nell is closing his third consecutive term as mayor of Kirksville, Mo. He won't run again. He's going to school now
and he's afraid mayoralty duties
will interfere with his studies.
He is a senior in college.

WEST TO DECIDE
NEXT PRESIDENT

Threatened Revolt May Land
Democrats In Office In Next Election

factors in the result. The tide of resentment against the Wilson
administration for neglecting reconstruction problems at home
while absorbed in foreign policy
would have made the landslide as great no matter who the Republican candidate had been.

So in 1924 Calvin Coolidge is not the issue. The east is more or less contented from an economic point of view and is unconvinced that a change is desirable. The west is in the throes of economic discontent and ready to grasp
at straws to obtain relief.

Neither the Republican nor Democratic national conventions really appraised the western political situation at its proper value. But it is significant that John W. Davis does. He deliberately selected Governor Bryan of Nebraska
as his running mate as first proof
of his interest in the west. Now
he will campaign there and endeavor to convince the west that his hope lies in a Democratic congress and executive.

Can Davis make the west feel his progressivism? Will the feeling of resentment over the recorder of the last Republican congress crystallize in the west? The Republican party's record of the last four years will be contrasted
with the eight years of Democratic rule and the problem of getting
foreign markets so as to improve
the prices of farm products will be debated most of this year west of the Mississippi. Agricultural questions do not worry the east.
The cry about neutrality and keeping America out of the war
was a vital thing in the west in 1916 at the very same moment
that the east was criticizing Wilson for vacillation and praising Hughes for his straight-from-the-shoulder speeches about protecting American rights. After election the country woke up to find
that the west and solid south
could win an election.

That's why this year one cannot dismiss lightly the chances of John W. Davis without being sure that the west is not on the point of revolt. Then the election of Calvin Coolidge can be regarded as a foregone conclusion. But the Democratic opportunity must first be disproved, and here is the Democratic chance—its formula
of victory. If this combination fails, to their will win or the east is for Coolidge and Davis.

Electoral Tables
Here is the electoral table,
which, at the moment seems to indicate the direction of Democratic opportunity:

SCOT PICNIC IS SUCCESS SUNDAY

Over 500 Present at Annual Event Staged at Ranch
Near La Crescenta

Over 500 persons attended the big Scot picnic held yesterday
from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. at the Whiting ranch above La Crescenta
and enjoyed the elaborate program of events which had been arranged by Bob Johnston and his social committee.

The morning program included
a series of races and other sporting events participated in by young and old alike. At noon the picnic boxes were opened and the basket dinners were eaten under the trees. The Scot's served ice cream, coffee, and lemonade to all those present.

In the afternoon the Scot band
rendered a concert and later some of their number made up the orchestra which furnished music for dancing. Two baseball teams chosen from among the Scot's met
on an improvised diamond and a ball game of sorts ensued which caused much mirth among the onlookers.

Gets Greased Porker
G. Russell won the plaudits of the spectators when he captured the greased pig after an exciting chase, but was undecided
whether glory thus won was worth a ruined suit of clothing.
At the finish it was a matter of conjecture whether Russell or the pig was the more greasy.

The Scot's had as their guests
many Glendale Masons and their visitors were O. B. Manchester, candidate for supervisor of the fifth district, Asa Keyes, district
attorney, and G. H. McCartney,
assistant district attorney.

Donated Prizes
Glendale merchants, who are Scot's, and who donated prizes for the various contests were Cramer, pipe and vanity case; Wilson-Bell Hardware company, electric curling iron; Kennedy of Glendale
Wholesale grocery, box of candy;
Ralph W. Browne, half dozen pictures; Park Avenue Drug store,
two haps, one watch; A. H. Dib-bern, bill fold; Dr. Warren Z.
Newton, spy glass; I. B. Carlock, straw hat; Poppy Shop, box of
candy; Holser Candy company,
box of candy; Becker Drugs, box
of stationery; Glendale Groceries, sack of flour; Fred Walton, $5 order; Broadway Electric, electric lamp; Smith Electric, flash-
light; Don Webb, two gloves,
three balls; George B. Karr, silk shirt.

nesota, 12; North Dakota, 5;
South Dakota, 5; Wisconsin, 13.
La Follette total, 35.

Electoral College consists of 531 votes of which 268 are necessary to a choice. Mr. Davis, according to the foregoing table,
could lose 24 votes and still be the victor. It will be noted that the tabulation gives Coolidge everything east of the Mississippi with the exception of Ohio, Indiana
and West Virginia and the south,
while Davis gets everything west
of the Mississippi except Oregon, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Iowa.

In 1916 Wilson carried Ohio
and New Hampshire but neither West Virginia nor Indiana. He also carried North Dakota which would appear this time to be headed for the La Follette column. It will be immediately argued by staunch Democrats that
the east is by no means lost to Davis and that if Al Smith runs
for governor of New York he may swing the empire state into the electoral column for Davis. The Republicans will by no means concede either Ohio or Indiana as lost to them. West Virginia being Davis' home state, is likely to go Democratic.

California will contend that Coolidge will carry it because he showed himself strong in the primaries against Hiram Johnson,
but it will be best to await the
developments of the interesting
contests going on between the regulars and the Johnson wing of the Republican party before reaching a conclusion. So in Indiana
the verdict of the people on the administration of Governor Mc-Cray, who now is in the penitentiary, is giving the Democrats
hope. As for Ohio, Harry Daugherty may be an issue there, just
as in the western states Teapot Dome will be revived to the discomfiture of the Republicans. The east has already digested the old controversy and forgotten it, but
the west is much more interested
in conservation of natural resources and all that goes with it.
Theodore Roosevelt won the west
that way, and he was by no means a radical. John Davis may make a Roosevelt plea on conservation.
He will, at any rate, carry the
fight into the heart of the west.
It is his one big chance.

Meanwhile the rise in the price
of wheat and corn is making the Republicans optimistic. The most
that can be said of the campaign
at its beginning is that it starts
with a sharp line of cleavage between a contented east and dis-
contented west, and at the moment the chances of victory for either party may be said to be even.

WATER SHORTAGE SEEN ON JOURNEY

J. A. Newton Finds Lakes
And Falls Drying Up
In Northland

Complaints about water and power shortage in California are well founded, according to the verdict of J. A. Newton, 154
South Brand boulevard, who, with
Mrs. Newton and their two boys,
Russell and Alfred, returned Friday night after spending two weeks' vacation in Yosemite and points north.

"Bridal Veil Falls," says Mr.
Newton, "has shrunk until it is little more than a gentle mist;
Yosemite Falls are also much smaller than usual, and Lake Tahoce, when we were there, showed
two feet below its normal water line. Other streams and lakes
that we saw were also far below
normal, due to the long, dry season."

Visit Relatives
After spending a few days in Yosemite Mr. and Mrs. Newton
left via Tioga Pass to Mono lake
and on to Tahoe, where they spent some time at Emerald Bay, going from there to Truckee, and on down the Sacramento river valley
to Marysville, and to Yuba City
to visit relatives. At San Rafael
they were the guests of Mrs. Elroy Anderson, who was formerly Miss Blanche Lyans, a sister of Mrs. Newton.

Crossing the Nevada line between Mono lake and Tahoe, the party had to throw away all their fresh fruit and vegetables and to have their car fumigated, but the personal fumigation has been suspended, Mr. Newton says.

Shortage
At Marysville there is a fruit
shortage, due to spring frosts.
Mr. Newton reports, but the farmers seem to be getting all the
water they need for irrigation.
An arrangement that Mr. Newton had fitted up on his car permitted them to light their tent
with electricity at night, and the trip of over 1500 miles was made
without any untoward incident.
Except in those places where work
is being done on mountain roads
the going was good, he states, and the last day's run to Glendale
covered 350 miles, so great was
their eagerness to get home.

"No place that we visited,"
says Mr. Newton, "showed anything like the activity that is to be seen in Glendale."

Dissolve Partnership Offer Stock at Sale

The Specialty Boot shop, which was established in Glendale at its present location at 126 South
Brand boulevard three years ago,
has dissolved partnership and the entire stock of high-grade footwear carried by the firm is being offered to the public at prices
greatly reduced and in many cases
below cost.

The managers plan to dispose
of every pair of shoes in stock
which includes all of the latest summer and fall styles. Included in this stock are genuine Flor-shelm shoes for men, the famous Selby shoes for women, and many other high grade makes, it is announced.

It is urged that everyone needing shoes take advantage of this sale and secure extra pairs at the extremely low prices quoted by the Specialty Shop. The owners
state that in order to close out the stock in record time they are offering "lowest" prices from the very start of the sale.

Railroad Easements
For Sewer Received

Easements have been received from Southern Pacific officials for all interceptors of the forthcoming Glendale sewer system that will cross their right of way, reports Virgil B. Stone, Glendale
city manager. These easements had previously been approved by officials of the city of Glendale.

This concludes one more of the many preliminary steps that had to be taken before the $1,600,000
project could be undertaken.
Nothing now stands in the way
but the routine business of preparing for the issuance of the bonds and letting of the contract,
Mr. Stone states.

Contrasts Different Roads to Happiness

Judge Joel Smith of Los Angeles, publisher of a magazine called
"The Conqueror," addressed the New Thought center Sunday morning on the subject "Know Thyself," contrasting the means
by which the materially minded
and the spiritually minded man
seeks happiness.

just two days after it was mailed

CHRISTIAN FACES LARGER PROBLEMS

Principles of Old Must Be Carried Afar, Declares Rev. Calderwood

"Who is Christian?" was the sermon topic taken at the Sunday morning hour of worship by Rev. Charles M. Calderwood of the First Congregational church. Taking as his text Romans 8:9: "If a man has not the spirit of Christ, he is none of his," Mr. Calderwood said in part: "This is a question that has arisen in every crisis of history since there has been Christianity. It was a question in the times of Paul, of Luther of Wesley. It is a question today, because we are facing a new world. "The Ptolemaic astronomy of yesterday does not contain the truths of today. Science is daily revealing new truths, new ideas of political and religious liberty. There have been and always will be gigantic social transformations. Into Larger Fields "Who is Christian in this new world? It can't be the man who shuts his eyes to it. It isn't the man who is satisfied to keep it unchanged. The man who is Christian today cannot limit his Christianity to the small field of yesterday. He must carry his Christianity into the larger and more intricate fields and problems of today. "This does not imply change of Christian principles, but it does mean that we should carry these old principles of Christianity into the larger fields of a larger world. "The man is a Christian who shares the life and manifests the spirit of Christ. The person who is a Christian must be glad as Jesus was to commend the good Samaritan; to appreciate the humble faith of the Publican; to mingle with persons totally differ-

Spiritual Conditions In Foreign Land Told

Young people of the Intermediate Christian Endeavor society of the Glendale Presbyterian church, meeting after the twilight communion service Sunday night, listened to interesting talks by Fred J. King, vice-president of the state, county and district C. E. unions; Rev. Harry Hill of Korea, and Rev. Van W. Eddings of Carripano, Venezuela. With these three speakers the meeting resolved itself into a conference, lasting two hours. Mr. King stressed in his talk influence and leadership, illustrating his statements with personal experiences. Mr. Hill told of his life in the mission fields of Korea, where he is a pastor of seventy-five churches. In addressing the young people Mr. Eddings, who is general director of the Orinoco river mission of eastern Venezuela, told of the unsatisfactory living conditions in that country.

Church Workers Hold Santa Monica Picnic

Officers and teachers of St. Mark's Episcopal church Sunday school, together with the members of the Bible class taught by Richardson D. White, held their annual picnic at Santa Monica Saturday, about forty members being in the party which motored to the beach city. Following the picnic dinner the party visited a number of the amusement resorts at Santa Monica and Ocean Park before returning to Glendale. ent, and to encourage the sinner in a better life. "In face of the challenge of our new day and our new world, no one sharing the life of Jesus will waste his time on the things that divide good men. The Christian must recognize with Paul that there may be diversities of gifts and at the same time unity of spirit."

PLAN TO COMBAT EASTERN ENMITY

Anti-California Propaganda Will Be Offset With C. C. Advertising

As a part of the plan of the advertising committee of the Chamber of Commerce to offset the anti-California propaganda that is being carried on in the middle west and eastern states, the committee, at its weekly meeting this morning, decided to recommend to the Board of Control the insertion of an advertisement in the Christian Science Monitor, pending the resumption of the schedule in the Southern California newspapers. Paul E. Stillman, chairman of the committee, asserted that the propaganda that is being carried on to keep people from coming here with their savings is systematically organized to spread glaring misinformation regarding the Southland, and some effort must be made to place before the people of the country the truth of the situation and to show that prosperity is being steadily maintained here. Other advertisements showing the number of industrial plants that are actually in operation in Glendale will also be recommended to the Board of Control. Attorney Bert P. Woodard was present and discussed with the committee the status of the suit that has been filed against the Chamber of Commerce by Charles R. Stuart, the advertising expert. Attorney Woodard will submit a more complete report to the Board of Control within a few days. Stamping the dough before it is baked is a new process of printing the advertisements on the bakery product without harming it, the letters becoming darker from the heat of the oven.

Ku Klux Klan Holds Parade And Naturalization Ceremony Attended By Large Audience

No more fantastic scene was ever beheld by the green Verdugo hills of Rossmoyne than that on which they gazed down wonderingly Saturday night, when 300 "worthy aliens" passed fearfully into the local Klavern of the Ku Klux Klan, and were "naturalized" as the Klansmen say. Several thousand guests "from the alien world," as members of the K. K. K. term those not of their order, witnessed the ceremonies, which followed a parade that blocked traffic from 7:30 until 8 o'clock on South Brand boulevard. Earlier in the day a picnic, ball game and barbecue had been held by the Klansmen, Klanswomen and their friends, in Verdugo Woodlands, with the unique Egyptian Temple of the Haddock-Nibley company as headquarters. The game had been won by the Glendale Klavern, Los Angeles Klavern failing to fathom their "curves." March In Robes Arms folded and eyes straight ahead, the Klan paraded up Brand boulevard in the twilight, two by two, preceded by two Klansmen on horseback and a delegation bearing the fiery cross. Some other Klansmen were also on horseback. They were unmasked. They had a band, of course. And one of the features of the parade was a column of Klanswomen in white hoods and robes. Up on the hill where the naturalization took place, two large searchlights continuously swept the heavens, striving toward this goal of foot and in machine came a tangle of people from Glendale, Burbank, Eagle Rock and surrounding points. No one knew where it was or how to get there and there ensued a milling about the dusty roads that filled the atmosphere with a choking haze. All Is Harmonious Finally several hundred boiling motors and several thousand puffing humans arrived atop a sizable knoll, where white-hooded Klavalliers herded them to a respectable distance from what was to be the scene of activities. The atmosphere was tense, pervaded with expectancy. Anything might happen. Actually nothing did, from the layman's point of view. That is, the rumored anti-Klan demonstrations failed to materialize. After an hour of waiting a stentorian voice suddenly boomed: "All Klansmen in robes, over by the searchlights!" and there was an instant movement in that direction. More waiting followed. Further tension was suddenly spared by the issuance of "America" from the instruments of the Klavern band. Hats came off. There followed a weird Klan melody. The searchlights, groping about the shadowy mesa, lit for a moment on a becalmed ocean of hoods. Then, dramatically, four Klansmen escorted in the American flag. Fifteen minutes later they carried it down to a tall cross, which suddenly flamed with electric bulbs. The searchlights, playing on the flag and cross, emulated their reflection on a distant hill. Hundreds of Klansmen then entered, to the strains of "Onward Christian Soldiers." They filed around and formed a square, narrow on the far side, where the rostrum stood. On the rostrum stood a sombre white figure, the Exalted Cyclops. Lined up on the ground before him were the officers of the Klavern, in red-lined capes with crosses on the back. In the center of the two-acre square enclosed by Klansmen was an altar where stood the Night-Hawk. To north, south, east and west were stations, one on each side of the square, and at each a hooded figure. Naturalization Results The Exalted Cyclops now addressed the Night-Hawk and there followed the "God give us men" ritual, which was answered by the inpouring of the 300 worthy aliens, some of them robed. This then was the answer to the call. These were the men wanted in this crucial hour, strong men, stalwart men, "men whom the lust of office will not spoil." The Klansmen and Klanswomen forming the four sides of the square at a command pulled down the masks of their hoods, so that only their eyes were visible through two small slits, and every second one fell in line and marched to the center, where they mingled with the "worthy aliens seeking citizenship in the Invisible Empire." Apparently everything was as it had been hoped it would be and the Invisible Eye saw nothing upward, for after a half-hour of scrutiny the naturalization took place and the candidates were impressed by the Exalted Cyclops with their duty to God, the government, their fellow Klansmen, and invited to withdraw before it was too late, if they felt themselves unfit. Orderly and Dignified So far as the spectators could see, all believed themselves fit and there followed the reading of a list of obligations to which they swore successively and frequently, their right hands on their hearts and their left hands uplifted. Everything was orderly and dignity characterized the proceedings from first to last. In-

More than 300 persons attended the dance given by the postal employees of the local postoffice in the new government building on East Broadway Friday night, according to a report made today by Postmaster D. Monroe, Murphy Comedians; Knights of Pythias, Odd Fellows and Valley Transfer. The custom of taking dogs to church has only recently been discontinued in Europe and in many Welsh and Scottish churches dog tongs, used to eject canines when they disturbed service, are still to be found.

ACTS OF APOSTLES IS SERMON TOPIC

Pastor Gives Seventeenth Address of Series at First Baptist At the First Baptist church Sunday morning, Rev. Ernest E. Ford preached his seventeenth sermon of a series on the Acts of the Apostles, taking his subject from the story of Ananias and Sapphira. He said in part: "Pentecost was the warm summer of the church, when from a cloudless sky shone the Sun of Righteousness, with healing in His wings. It was inevitable that with such spiritual electricity, a thunder-storm should break the spell when it met the counter current of sin. "In this storm two were killed, Ananias and Sapphira. They were trying to find a refuge in the time worn economic philosophy of absolute ownership of property. It is worn but not worn out; thousands in our churches are holding it today, but it will not hold against the plain teaching of the Word of God. If God owns any property, then He owns all property, and be he rich or poor, man is the trustee of God. "It is not the tragic death of Ananias and Sapphira that astonishes us, but the purity of the church that compelled that death. There is a great need today of the manifestation of this spirit of purity in all our churches. A pure church is a powerful church and an ever increasing church. The story begins with destruction and ends with healing, but the power was the same in both cases."

Riding Academy Head Ends Life by Hanging

Robert Bafekfelt, aged 48 years, manager of the Hollywoodland riding academy, committed suicide yesterday by hanging himself from the rafters of the building, leaving only a number of letters, signed "Butterfly," to guide the police in their search for a motive for his act. The signature "Butterfly" is believed to have been an intimate name for his wife from whom he had been separated and who had taken their child to live in Washington, D. C. Bafekfelt's body was discovered by Rudolph Bafekfelt, a son by a former marriage. The deceased was at one time employed as riding instructor at the Oakmont Saddle Stables at Montrose, conducted by J. Ray Thorpe. Financial worries, added to his family troubles, are believed to be responsible for his suicide.

Daily Greeting To News Readers

Man's unhappiness, as I construe, comes of his greatness; it is because there is an infinite in him, which, with all his cunning, he cannot quite bury under the finite.—Thomas Carlyle.

THE POET OF THE GREEN VERDUGO HILLS

The state of California, particularly Tujuanga and surroundings, including Glendale, is blessed in having a poet, a historian, a philosopher and a citizen of the high type of John Steven McGroarty. This man, by his tolerance, his sweetness of character and his all-embracing love for his fellows, has done more good than any hundred men (conscientious and earnest though they may have been) who have set certain standards of conduct and demanded that other men live up to them.

Mr. McGroarty belongs to California. He has done more to preserve her history and perpetuate her traditions and the ideals of the Mission founders than any other one. And, he has made our own Verdugo hills immortal. In his Mission play he has created drama that embraces all the beauty and the romance, all the joy and sorrow of California's early days. This pageant, after a run of more than a decade, keeps its hold on the hearts of the people and is destined to live as long as California endures.

His poetry, his religion, his erudition, wonderful as they are, are not the things that endear him to thousands all over the world. He has the ability that is given to few, to see people, their acts and motives, and the events of life in their proper perspective; to judge what is important and what is not, as it affects human welfare and happiness. This quality and his love for his fellow-humans are the things that make us proud to speak of him as "ours."

Had his talents been applied to money-making, he might have been enormously rich today, but he has been more concerned about funds for restoring the old Missions, for building a permanent home for the Mission Play, and for perpetuating the memory of the Mission fathers, than for his own personal use. Mr. McGroarty has preferred to spend his life in making the world a better and a happier place.

THE WISDOM OF LAZINESS

One who claims to be the laziest man in the world has written a book called the "Wisdom of Laziness." In this he points out that nearly all progress in human affairs has been due to the inventions of lazy men who wished to save themselves work. He says that many famous statesmen, scholars and thinkers came from the farms because the work was so hard. It is those who are too lazy for physical activity, he says, who improve the world. He names a number of great men who were indolent in youth and failures at school.

Parents of boys who seem to take no interest in work or study will find some consolation in this book, for it is true that the boy who is precocious, energetic and studious sometimes loses his enthusiasm for the game of life before he reaches manhood, and the one who in childhood refuses to work or study and is the despair of his parents often forges ahead and amounts to something, in spite of predictions to the contrary. Some boys and girls are dreamers. It is difficult to make them concentrate on lessons and tasks. But dreamers, if their dreams are directed rightly, often become doers.

There are two kinds of laziness, though, physical and mental, and when this author cites examples of men who have become famous because they were too lazy for physical work he contradicts himself, for mental work is far more tiring than physical activity.

However, parents will not lose anything by teaching their children to do some physical work and encouraging them to become students. If they prove in after years so lazy that they become great, no harm will have been done.

GROWING USE OF PROFANITY

There was a time, a few years back, when only the most debased and depraved persons used profanity. Even the roughest of men were careful to curb their tongues, and not offered, those who disapproved of blasphemy. Decent men and women were embarrassed and indignant when they overheard someone cursing.

But how far we have progressed. The growing use of profanity is one of the symbols of our freedom from old restricting conventions. Blasphemy is at home on the lips of the young today, and the most charitable word we can apply to those who so indulge is "unrefined."

Damn is a good word and has its uses, but it does not set well on the lips of the young girl, used as a by-word. "My God" is a prayer in itself, but as an ejaculation, it is all too common among young people who seem to feel that their familiarity with this low form of discourse, in some way marks them as clever. Some young people go unrebuked for indulging in profanity. Others are careful not to swear profanely in the presence of their parents. A certain young girl of 14 confessed that she had to set a strict guard upon her lips while at home, for her parents would not tolerate profanity in her for one moment.

Young people and older ones, too, have a distorted idea of values when they think the use of profane language is clever. The easiest thing in the world is to break one of the ten commandments. The difficult thing is to keep them all. And, as for outraging good taste, the lowest and most debased of human beings can do that easily.

LAWS MUST BE OBEYED

Upon the observance of the laws, more than any other one thing, depends the safety and future of this country or any country. Dislike for a law is no excuse for violating it. The right procedure is to get it amended or stricken off the statutes.

The thoughtful citizen differentiates sharply between obedience to the law and satisfaction with the law. There may be laws, from time to time, which are galling and which the people do not wish to have stand as they were enacted. Here is where the distinction comes in: Duty to country does not demand that the citizen like an unlikable, mayhap inequitable, law. But duty does demand that even an unlikable, inequitable law be obeyed so long as it is law.

A presidential election has taken place in Mexico and there was very little disorder. Evidently the people to the south are learning American ways in politics—to talk more and shoot less.

Give and Take

By DR. FRANK CRANE

It is well to remember that life is pretty much a matter of Give and Take.

As the stenographer observes: "You're not the only pebble on the beach," or as the festive Al Johnson puts it: "You can't play every instrument in the orchestra."

If we go all down along the line of human relationships and apply this bit of sense, we will find

"It was frae mony a blunder free us An' foolish notion."

Come, Newlyweds, give and take, abate your egocentric mania, remember it takes two happy people to make a happy pair, adapt yourselves, come down a bit, and you'll save yourselves many a pouting spell and sour moment, many an incipient tragedy and budding despair, many a heart twinge and drop of bitterness.

When you're shopping, give and take. Don't forget the clerk is a human being and may have her own particular worm of annoyance eating at her heart.

When you're handling workmen, give and take. They have their problems and prejudices, their wills and obsessions, even as you and your board of directors.

When you're dealing with the boss, give and take. He has his troubles. The wage-earner is not the only one who is worried about getting on; the man who pays the wages has to watch his step also, and when he falls he breaks not only his own leg but yours.

When you have an argument with the street car conductor, or deal with the cook, or have to do with the grocer and the milkman, or are put out by an unsatisfactory waiter, or have a session with your lawyer, doctor, tailor or real estate agent, give and take.

Nobody gets happiness from having things all his own way. Happiness is not that kind of product.

Happiness is a mutual affair. It usually takes at least two. It is a co-operative enterprise.

And the beauty of it is that it is the paradox of the world. For divided by two it is larger than when it is yours alone.

If you want to get the most out of this imperfect world as you go along, Give and Take!

Today's Poem

Who has robbed the ocean cave, To-tinge thy lips with coral hue?

Who from India's distant wave, For thee those pearls treasuries drew?

Who from yonder orient sky, Stole the morning of thine eye?

A thousand charms, thy form to deck, From sea, and earth, and air are torn;

Roses bloom upon thy cheek, On thy breath their fragrance borne.

Guard thy bosom from the day, Lest thy snows should melt away.

But one charm remains behind, Which mute earth can ne'er impart;

Nor in ocean wilt thou find, Nor in the circling air, a heart.

Fairest! would thou perfect be, Take, oh take, that heart from me.

—John Shaw.

A PROFESSIONAL A campaigner was constantly interrupted by a man in the crowd, who kept shouting out "Liar!" After about the twentieth repetition the speaker paused and fixed his eyes on his tormentor. "If the gentleman who persists in interrupting," he said, "will be good enough to tell us his name instead of merely shouting out his calling, I am sure we shall all be pleased to make his acquaintance."

The Ravings

Of a Grouch

There are two ways I guard against losing my job. I make myself so valuable to my employer that he cannot afford to let me go, and I do not let the time come when the working force has to be cut down I will not be the one to go. And when my fellow-workmen begin to cry, "Hard times, hard times," I keep on doing a full day's work and getting a good night's rest every twenty-four hours, and I do not let this insidious propaganda get a hold on my consciousness.

There are some people who are never so happy as when they see trouble in the offing. It is this class that brings on hard times. They revel in a business panic. I have had difficulty in restraining myself while talking (or rather listening) to one of my fellow-workers who is a confirmed pessimist. Some day I will punch his face and he will think some of the trouble he is always predicting has come to pass.

Months ago this fellow began foretelling dire things for Southern California. "Where will it end?" was his oft-repeated cry. "They are building too much, they are running wild with their subdivisions and their lot-selling. There is going to be a big crash soon." And all the time this fellow was getting high wages, but he was cursing his employer, trying to "do" him whenever possible and spending all he made even before it was earned.

Then when the boss had to discharge two or three of the employees on account of the slump that was caused by the foot and mouth disease Old Pessimism was one of them and didn't he consider himself abused? He was broke. But he had long been predicting the very thing that happened so there was no excuse for his not being prepared. He had not been giving a full day's work for his pay. And, naturally, he hadn't fooled the boss at all. And he and his fellow pessimists had helped to bring on the depression. It would be amusing, were it not disastrous, to hear these hard-times prognosticators rave. More often than not they are the ones who would be influenced the least if hard times should come. But they pull a long face, as if their very lives were at stake.

If more people would use the little sense God gave them and reason things out it would make life a lot easier and the world a much pleasanter place for all of us.

SEEK SCHOOL AS DISTRICT GROWS

Speakers at Mass Meeting To Point Out Danger Of Present Route

The citizens in Lake district, south of San Fernando road, which section was recently annexed to Glendale, are calling a big open-air mass meeting to be held Tuesday night, July 15, at the corner of Western avenue and Lake street.

This district is showing a very rapid growth and requires a grammar school for the reason that at present the children must cross the Southern Pacific railroad tracks, San Fernando road, and the Pacific Electric tracks on Fourth street in order to attend school in the Grand View school. Because of this dangerous route, some of the parents are sending their children to the Burbank schools and some children have been kept out of school altogether.

The citizens in Lake district feel that the present number of school children and the anticipated increase in population in Lake district due to its proximity to Glendale's industrial center, justifies a grammar school at this time, particularly on account of the dangerous tracks and boulevards which the children now have to traverse.

Need for Schools - Superintendent Richardson D. White has promised to be present and will give a talk on school matters. Others will also speak. The need for major schools in the northwest district is another item of vital interest which will be brought up for discussion.

As this is a mass meeting and will cover school matters affecting the whole northwest section, all members of the Foothill, Fourth street and Western Avenue Improvement associations, as well as all other interested citizens, are urged to be present, thus showing a spirit of neighborhood interest and cooperation which will, it is claimed, redound to the benefit of all.

Divorce No Reason To Hate, Says Mae Murray, Screen Star

LOS ANGELES, July 14.—"Because people are divorced is no reason they should hate each other and although Jay O'Brien and I were divorced almost seven years ago, I can only say he is a genial, good looking gentleman—an expert sportsman and a marvellous dancer."

This was told here today by Mae Murray, screen favorite, when asked to discuss the qualities of the New York polo star, for whom Mrs. Julius Fleischmann is said to have divorced her millionaire husband.

"I could say the same thing of Mr. Fleischmann—he, too, is a gentleman and a great sportsman. In view of reports of recent events he was game, wasn't he? Few husbands settle millions upon a wife with whom they couldn't agree."

Member Dawes' Commission To Advise Allies of U. S. Attitude

LONDON, July 14.—Owen D. Young, one of Charles Dawes' associates on the expert reparations commission, arrived today to act as an "unofficial observer" in the allied conference which will draw up a plan for the carrying out of the Dawes reparations report.

While Ambassador Kellogg will be the American representative in the conference, it was reported today that Young would advise the conference that the United States would offer financial and moral support to the plan adopted by the allies.

It was reported Young would present the United States' attitude as being opposed to cancellation of inter-allied debts, but willing to let her debtor nations defer funding arrangements.

Radio fire alarms are being used in a city in England and have been found to be effective, and at the same time cheaper than the wired system.

Postage to foreign countries, where letters are sent to the New York port by air mail, will be the same rate for countries where the two-cent postage rate is in effect.

For countries where the rate is five cents for the first ounce and three cents for each additional ounce, the airplane postage rate, which is 24 cents an ounce from here to New York, is to be added, according to instructions received today by Postmaster Jackson.

BERKELEY, Cal., July 14.—Sensational confessions implicating them in more than 100 separate crimes in Los Angeles ranging from auto stealing to banditry and grand larceny were made today by Paul Cushman, 20, and Joseph Green, 19, Southern California youths, in the presence of police, according to Captain Jack Greening of the local department.

The confessions, it was said, declared that between $25,000 and $50,000 in loot had been "salted" away against the time when they would "get out of jail."

The boys were arrested Friday on information furnished by Detective Lieutenant George Mayor of Los Angeles. They are graduates of a leading high school in Los Angeles.

Davis, the Democratic candidate and Senator Robert Owen, Democrat of Arkansas, one of the authors of the federal reserve act.

Discussing Davis' legal connections with J. P. Morgan, Owen said that he regarded this as an indication of the "intelligence of Morgan, rather than the turpitude of Davis."

making their last stand to keep the fire from spreading to the west of the Ridge route.

Should the blaze, which is raging along a seven mile front, cross the state highway and get into the mountains between Lebec and Santa Barbara it will make the worst blaze in the history of Southern California because of the inaccessibility of the country.

Fire In Tahoe Forest Now Is Beyond Control

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—Described as "running wild before a high wind," the Forest Hill divide fire in Tahoe national forest was today the center in northern California toward which all available resources of the United States forester's office were being rushed, eighty fresh men today swelling the total of workers on the blaze to 300.

No accurate figures of the destroyed acreage are available today, it was said, although workers say a vast area has been burned over and slight hopes are held for bringing it under control today because of the unfavorable wind.

The Cantara fire in Shasta national forest in the vicinity of Shasta Springs was still uncontrolled and reports received here described it as being practically as destructive as the fire in the Tahoe forest.

More than 300 men were desperately trying to hem in the blaze in the face of terrific odds, chief among which was the unfavorable winds.

Here again, the inaccessible country and the need for all available workers prevented local officials from securing accurate information as to the devastated area.

Santa Barbara Forest

Five miles of the line of the Elizabeth Lake canyon fire in Santa Barbara national forest was said to be lost to the hundreds of men engaged in fighting the blaze, although reports were optimistic that before night it may be under control.

Stonebarger is scheduled to name Crawford as the man who touched a lighted cigar to the dynamite fuse. W. H. Downs will be accused of getting the explosives. The defense, however, will maintain that McGuire died from a bomb of his own manufacture.

BOY DROWNED IN RANCH RESERVOIR

Efforts to Revive Child of Seven Prove In Vain, Brother Rescued

LA CRESCENTA, July 14.—Three boys last Saturday filled with the desire to explore the tunnel being built in the hills at the head of Pennsylvania avenue on the forest reserve, were turned back by the man in charge of the work. Boylike, instead of going home they retraced their steps until they came to the irrigation reservoir on the old Fuseton ranch and being warm they naturally wanted to go swimming.

The three children, Harland McClellan, Norman and Vernon De Hoog, were not known to be on the premises until the McClellan boy came running to the workmen busy with the extensions and reported that two boys were in the water. Previous to this the workmen had heard a dog howling and barking in a peculiar manner but paid no attention thinking some one was hunting. The children were immediately brought from the water and every means resorted to to save them. The Glendale fire department responded with the palmator and Dr. E. L. Wemple was on the scene twelve minutes after the boys were discovered. The workers were successful in restoring Norman but there was apparently no help for the younger child from the first.

Tells of Tragedy

After regaining consciousness Norman told the following story of the affair:

"We were warm and wanted to go swimming so we waded in. Then there were holes in the bottom of the pool and we got cold and swallowed lots of water then that's all I came out."

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry De Hoog, of West Montrose avenue have three little ones left to comfort them, Drusilla, 3; Harry, Jr., 5, and Norman, the 9-year-old, who is not fully recovered from the shock of his experience. The deceased child was 7 last week and is spoken of by friends as a lovable little chap.

The father, who is in charge of the oil station at the corner of Verdugo Road and Colorado street in Glendale, was brought home by friends. The mother is still in a stunned condition from the shock of the first break in the family circle.

Repairs Blow-Outs By Vicarious Labor

RIVERSIDE, July 14.—Police Chief Deiss is authority for the facts in the following story about a Riverside man.

The fellow owns a ramshackle touring car in which he takes his wife motoring.

A tire blows out and "Pa" takes a sneak to the shade of a convenient tree, leaving his spouse at the wheel.

Benighted gallant looms in sight, sees the lady's predicament, as they say on the stage, and doffs his coat and fixes the tire, sometimes contributing a patch.

"Ma" then drives around block and picks up "Pa" and together they have a good laugh at the other fellow's expense.

And since Elmer Deiss says it is true, it must be.

But it's a mean way to get a tire fixed.

Montrose Woman Dies After Long Illness

MONTROSE, July 14.—Mrs. Bernice Kemper, wife of Morris Kemper of Montrose, died at the family residence on Saturday, July 12, 1924, after an illness of several months.

The deceased leaves, besides her husband, two sisters, one in Idaho and the other in Arizona. The funeral services, which are to be held at the home, will await the coming of the sisters.

The Kempers had recently completed a beautiful new home at the northwest corner of Ocean View and Glenada avenues, where the services will be held. Interment will be at Forest Lawn.

Mr. and Mrs. Kemper had resided in Montrose for the past ten years.

Liner Floated After Hung Month on Rocks

CENTURY MARK IS ATTAINED BY MAN

Lewis B. Reed of Eagle Rock, 100 Years Old; Party Marks Occasion

EAGLE ROCK, July 14.—Lewis B. Reed attained his one hundredth birthday yesterday afternoon and "unlucky 13" proved lucky for him. From far and wide friends gathered at his home, 2474 Ridgeway avenue, to pay homage to this patriarch who was already 38 years old when the Civil war broke out. Hundreds were there.

Not only is Mr. Reed the oldest college graduate in California, receiving his degree from the University of New York in 1843; he is also the oldest living Delta Phi in the United States. For many years he practiced law and was long noted as an expert on financial and corporation law.

"Age is a relative matter," says this fine old gentleman, with his grave eyes smiling and his scholarly face aglow. "Books, art, religion, those are the eternal realities."

Future Looks Clear

Asked of the future, which so many look dark, he says: "Wait. All will clear."

The discussion often ensues among those who hear of Mr. Reed as to how he and Senator Cole rank in the matter of age. Senator Cole is the older in years, now being 101 years old, but Lewis B. Reed graduated from college, long before Senator Cole and thus wins the distinction of being the oldest living graduate.

G. P. Colborn, of 5214 Alverne avenue, has returned from his vacation trip. Mr. Colborn sailed on the Alexandria, stopping at San Francisco, Victoria, Seattle and Tacoma, where he enjoyed the sights in those beautiful northern cities. He motored to Mt. Ranier, to see the pine forest "big trees," and climbed half way up the mountain through several feet of snow.

Japanese Cannot Buy Fruit Crop on Trees

SACRAMENTO, July 14.—Fruit on the trees can not be sold to Japanese or representatives of other races ineligible to citizenship under the provisions of the California alien law, according to a ruling given by District Attorney G. W. Hoyle of Sonoma county by Attorney General U. S. Webb.

The state legal adviser declares that:

"A sale of such fruit will be a sale of the real property and the prohibition of a sale of the whole is a prohibition of the sale of all its component parts."

Webb held, however, that a Chinese, Japanese or other resident ineligible to citizenship may lease a fruit dryer located on a private ranch with the understanding that the land leased incident to lease of the dryer must be used only for the purpose of drying fruit and not for any agricultural purpose.

America Neutral on Tangiers Agreement

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The United States, in identical notes sent to the British, French and Spanish governments, declined either to definitely approve or disapprove the Tangiers agreement under which extra territoriality was abolished and control of the straits zone placed in the hands of an international governing body.

Before this government will give up its extra territorial rights in the zone, there must be adequate guarantees for the protection of American rights, equal economic opportunity for all nations and assurances the open door policy will be observed, the notes stated.

Mother Badly Burned Trying to Save Babe

WEISER, Idaho, July 14.—Mrs. Jack P. Laxson lies critically burned at the Weiser hospital as a result of heroic but futile efforts to save her three small boys from fire which destroyed the Laxson home here. Dean, aged 3, died in the flames, while Walter, 4, and Raymond, 7, were burned so badly that they died later at the hospital. It is believed that the cookstove exploded and the flames spread so rapidly that the mother and her children could not get downstairs. The older boys jumped from a window, but Mrs. Laxson was seriously burned when she attempted to rescue her baby.

Standard Oil Drops Prices of Gasoline

NEW YORK, July 14.—The Standard Oil company of New Jersey today reduced gasoline prices 1 cent a gallon throughout its territory, making the tank wagon price in New Jersey 18½ cents a gallon.

COLORS HARMONIZE

LONDON, July 14.—The truly huge sash with which the lace dress is now equipped has been so far famed that in color it now matches the flowers or ribbons on the hat. An ecru lace frock with a jade sash matching the jade ribbon on the chapeau is indeed a soothing sight these warm days.

COMMENT That's All

There's Health In Very Air California Hits Disease Going On Your Vacation Traffic Conditions And Law

American athletes easily captured the Olympic contest score total when they performed in Paris not quite so well as they perform at home.

And among the contingent representing the United States was a large number of Californians, several of whom are to be seen "around town" any day. They are known here, so there is real local interest in their accomplishments.

But, more than the simple fact that "we know them," there should be collective pride in a country which is conducive to the utmost in physical development.

Of course, babies thrive in southern California a little better; old folks enjoy life a little longer; sick folks get well and healthy folks have the opportunity of bringing themselves to the highest human efficiency in this land of ours.

If you visited the beaches or the mountains yesterday undoubtedly you unconsciously noted the physical trimness of the young people and some of the older ones, too.

Anemic, thin chested unmuscular people have only themselves to blame, unless they are afflicted with serious illness, for being in that condition.

If you are one of them, buy a bathing suit, get in the swim, do a daily dozen every morning before breakfast, run a little each day, shadow box, dance another wise work up an appetite, if your work doesn't do it for you.

Then you'll feel better.

Looking back on the last few paragraphs we are reminded that this is vacation season. For every suggestion of "something to do" there should be another "do not do."

Many people will devote their play to a motor trip. That is good, if not overdone. Excessive driving by one not used to it is bad, just as excessive drinking, excessive eating or any of the other excesses.

A coat of tan is desirable, but don't get blistered by the sun. Serious consequences may result.

Swimming is ideal, but don't go swimming where you are in danger.

Canned goods are easily packed and healthful on vacation trips, but do not let the food remain in the cans after they are opened.

And, last of all, be careful of your cooking and campfires.

One of the leaders in the movement has intimated that 750 names have already been obtained, ensuring a call for an election, but that it is the desire of pro-annexationists to make sure their desire will bear fruit.

All Have Obligations To the Community

Thousands of people have come to Glendale in the past few years. Why? Because our city offered them the advantages for which they were looking—the advantages of a wide-awake, clean, beautiful, progressive city. Most of these looked over Southern California pretty thoroughly before making their decision. When people establish a new home they want the best that is offered in the way of desirable living conditions. These people came here because the city offered them something they could not get elsewhere. And most of them are giving what they can in return—loyalty to the Community, which embraces good citizenship, interest in those things that vitally affect the city, and patronage of the Glendale stores and Glendale workers, thus using their money to help build up and maintain Glendale institutions.

A few people are thoughtless in regard to their duty to the Community in which they live. They do not stop to think that they owe something to the city besides taxes. They take what is offered in the way of advantages without considering that they are part of the Community and owe something to it.

From the very earliest days people have dwelt together in communities for mutual profit and protection and in the past every member of the community was compelled to assume certain responsibilities. Each had his work to do. Our civilization has advanced considerably since the day of the tribe; we assume today that every one is intelligent enough to recognize the truth that only by co-operation can the Community survive and grow. Stores are established for the convenience of the people, but they must have patronage and workers must have employment. If those who have money to spend do not spend it at home, then an idle, stagnating city will result, and idleness and stagnation are fatal. A growing city is always a busy city. An idle city is deteriorating and dying.

Only by every citizen recognizing and assuming his share of responsibility can Glendale realize the splendid destiny which should be ours.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Dear Doctor—I sent for your pamphlet on reducing and am more than pleased. I did not have much faith when I sent for it. But now, after having it for five weeks, I have lost ten pounds and feel much better. My friends tell me I look much younger. I am sorry I didn't know about it twenty years ago. I wouldn't have put on all this flesh. Hoping all the fat folks try your method—Mrs. B.

Now you said something, Mrs. B. If you had only known it 20 years ago, you would have prevented your accumulation. It sounds trite to say that prevention is better than cure, and it does not mean much until we can have personal application of it. While from my mail, I should judge that practically every overweight person in the United States and Canada is counting calories and reducing, and I am happy to have started this work. I am still happier with the thought of all the innumerable cases of overweight that my teachings will prevent.

When I think of overweight and remember that it stands as a symbol for 75 per cent of the diabetes cases and a large number of cases of heart disease, kidney trouble, intestinal disorders, skin disorders and the majority of high blood pressure and apoplexy cases, I feel that my work in teaching how to maintain normal weight is a blessed work.

Mrs. B.—The intense itching that sometimes occurs on the external genitalia may be relieved by some organic preparation made from animal ovaries, but this treatment should be taken only under the care of a physician. The application of hot water, followed by a solution of glycerine, two ounces water six ounces, with 10 drops of carbolic acid, may help. Try to control the scratching because that makes the condition worse.

Mr. C.—Yes, alcohol intoxication can cause decided eye disturbances, even to the paralysis of certain muscles of the eyes. This may be temporary or permanent.

Mrs. D.—Even though you did go to your physician for dyspepsia alone, he showed that he was a scientific, modern physician by telling you he would have to give you a thorough physical examination, including the examination of your water six ounces, with 10 drops of carbolic acid, may help. Try to control the scratching because that makes the condition worse.

G.—Yes, the diet is to be carefully regulated in diabetes, even though insulin is being taken. The insulin permits the patient to have a more varied diet, however, and one sufficient to keep up his strength and supply his energy. You state that you were very much overweight before coming down with diabetes. I am not surprised, for diabetic specialists say that 75 per cent of the cases of diabetes were overweight before coming down with the disease.

That is one of the reasons why I pay so much attention to the prevention and cure of overweight for I believe that in that way I am doing more to prevent diabetes and hundreds of other disorders, than I could in any other way. How about the Nobel prize for me? Banting was awarded it for Insulin. You'll suggest it? Good!

Mr. W.—No, we cannot overestimate the importance of vitamins, those life-giving principles which are found in fresh foods. We know positively that scurvy, forms of neuritis, certain eye disorders, and so forth, can be caused by a lack of these important substances; and we are quite convinced that many other disorders, including certain infectious diseases, are more apt to take hold when the diet is deficient in these vitamins.

Of course, a diet deficient in minerals and the other elements is also equally harmful. However, the average American diet is more apt to be deficient in vitamins and certain mineral elements than in the protein or fats or carbohydrates. If you will include three or four glasses of milk, liberal helpings of green salads and other vegetables, especially spinach and other greens, and some fruit, you can be pretty sure your vitamins are supplied.

Monday—Trichinosis

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope with your name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and health is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink.

In view of the prominence of the young couple in local musical circles and in First Methodist church affairs, the auditorium of the church will doubtless be crowded to capacity for the wedding. Rev. H. I. Rasmus, Jr., assistant pastor of the church, will be the officiant.

Mrs. J. H. Randall, organist of the church, who has been closely associated with Miss Peart and Mr. Dolberg in choir activities, is to give a program of bridal music before the hour for the ceremony. Bridal songs will be sung by Miss Isabel Isagr.

Members of the bridal party will be Misses Alice Lookabaugh of Glendale, and Mina Litzenger of Hollywood, bridesmaids; Mrs. Roger Johnson of Hermosa Beach, matron of honor; Ruth Leeds, flower girl; W. H. Peart, best man; David Cleveland, Guy Harn and Roger Johnson, ushers. Miss Peart will be given in marriage by her father.

Beauty Chats

SUNBURN

Sunburn is really a protective coating over the skin against the rays of the sun. A certain amount of sunburn is attractive, it makes a woman look healthy. Too much, however, is very ugly, for the skin becomes tough and dry and coarse looking.

It's almost impossible to protect the skin entirely against sunburn. In fact, I would advise you to let your complexion get a mild coating. If you do this now you will have much less trouble when the really scorching days set in. For the rest of the time, if you don't want a thick coat of tan, shadow your face and neck with large brimmed, dark colored hats, and do not go out in hot sunshine in a thin, light colored dress, since you will sunburn through the material. If you don't want to wear even the thinnest sort of dark color wrap carry a sunshade with a dark lining and a white Isabel Isagr.

When practical, protect the skin by rubbing it full of cold cream and giving it a thick coating of powder. The honey-almond lotion (formula for which I will gladly send you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope) is particularly good for sunburn and does not make the skin shiny like a greasy cream. It bleaches the skin also, so is excellent to use if you are already burned.

Other home-made lotions are composed of lemon juice, glycerine and cucumber juice in various combinations. A teaspoonful of pure glycerine in a half pint of water is cooling, bleaching and antiseptic. Equal parts of glycerine, lemon juice and rosewater mixed together is a standard face bleach. Cucumbers sliced thin and boiled with just enough water to make them soft so the juice can be strained gives a splendid bleaching liquid.

C. H. R.; G. M.—You can get rid of all the blackheads by taking a daily hot, full bath, as that relieves the pores of the face. Every night use a cleansing cream on face and throat to dissolve all the dirt in the pores. Remove with the hot water and massage with a good cream till the pores have taken up all that they need at that time.

Wipe off all surplus cream and rinse in cool and then very cold water. When convenient, rub with a small bit of ice. This method will take a somewhat longer time but you will find that the skin will refine gradually, and without enlarged pores left after the blackheads have been removed.

Mrs. E. J. C.—I will be glad to mail you full instruction on reducing through the diet, if you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope, repeating your request.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, so to the great number received, so a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Takes Statue, Fails To Return to Store

T. Kuranaga, proprietor of the Japan Art and Tea store at 135 South Brand boulevard, is fully convinced that his window displays have a strong pulling power. For Saturday night an interested shopper helped himself to a cunning little gold statue that occupied a prominent place in the window.

The man came in and asked Mr. Kuranaga if he might take the statue across the street to show his wife, who was sitting in their car. The request was granted with the result that man or statue were not seen again in the parade crowds.

"The price of the statue was only $5," says Mr. Kuranaga, "so the loss wasn't great, but the joke's on me."

Returns With String Of Fish From North

Albert J. Cornwell of Cornwell & Kelly, hardware dealers, 107 South Brand boulevard, returned Saturday from a ten day camping and fishing trip in the Yosemite valley with W. P. Potter of the Bentley Lumber company and Robert V. Hardie of the Glendale Interurban express.

They brought back large strings of rainbow trout caught at Saddleback lake, which is located near Tioga pass. The trout were packed in snow and reached Glendale in excellent condition.

Mr. Cornwell advises motorists against attempting to enter the Yosemite this season, as the exceedingly dry winter has left the roads in the high Sierras very dusty and the valley is not as attractive as in normal seasons.

A special chicken dinner is to be a feature and from 5 till 7:30 o'clock music will be furnished by Kelly's Shrine club orchestra.

Several things are being considered by Mr. Stewart in planning for the coming year. Just recently he had the ventilating system greatly improved by the installation of new skylights.

"I want to thank all our loyal patrons," is Mr. Stewart's greeting on the anniversary date. "Glendale people and visitors find satisfactory service at the C. and S. cafeteria and we appreciate their patronage."

CHAPTER I
The dark November afternoon shut upon the trampled and packed snow of the streets at about four o'clock; lights began to show pinkish and yellowish in the windows of village shops, and such motor cars as were moving upon the ice and slush that surrounded the car tracks in great pools and wallows showed waver- ing and moving lights in the twilight, as well. At the curbs, on both sides, mud-spattered cars were standing at irregular angles; there was a gush of light from the side door of the grocery, a covered truck was backed against the sidewalk, and young men in heavy sweaters, with red, chapped big hands, were hustling clean pine boxes and cardboard cartons to and fro.

In the shabby private office of John Spaulding, president of the Spaulding Brothers Packing Company of Mount Holly, Hilary Collier, his secretary, was standing idly at the window, her eyes absent- ly fixed upon the familiar bustle of a late winter afternoon in the street, her thoughts, as usual, many miles away. She had spent most of her twenty-three years in the little town; she liked it, but she never seemed to her- self to belong here. Beyond Burlington, beyond Camden, lay the great world, and Hilary knew that her destiny, as her mother's before her, lay somewhere out there in the unknown.

Meanwhile, she was content. The years had been very kind to her since that other November day when, in her sixteenth year, newly fatherless, frightened and doubtful, she had come to old John Spaulding with a half-trembling and half-dignified plea for work—any kind of work. She had had only a few thousands in the world; and there was Dora! Dora was only eleven years old; Dora must be educated for the great destiny ahead of her.

John Spaulding had not realized then exactly what a treasure stood before him in this eager, un- trained girl. But he had known at once that he could use Miss Collier somewhere and somehow; she was not the usual type of work-seeking woman in any way.

So Hilary, shaking and anxious to please, came into the packing rooms as checker, made friends, was promoted, acted in this capacity and that cheerfully, always successful and always climbing, until finally she found herself here, in this shabby, stove-heated office that was yet the holy of holies, the vice president's own sanctum; found herself his friend, his wife's friend, popular among all her fellow employees, and mir- acle of miracles!—able to take care of herself and Dora with none of those racking periods of misgiving and strain that she had feared would mark the opening years of her business career.

It did not seem to her the achievement that it might have seemed to many a girl of her age, because so much greater achieve- ment lay still ahead. This was but the first step; the hardest, perhaps, in the sense of being the dulliest and slowest, but by no means the bravest or most daring. The next step, sketched to her seven years ago, in her father's fading and difficult voice as he lay dying, was by far more im- portant.

"When Dora is eighteen or twenty . . ." Bronson Collier had whispered, "you must get away then, Hilary. She'll have had all her groundwork by that time . . . she'll have her wings . . . take her where they can teach her to fly!"

The echo of the passionate, anx- ious words had been Hilary's creed for all these seven years; Dora must have her groundwork; she must grow into girlhood, strong and well, she must write a gentleman's pretty letter, she must read French and German, know something of history and art. And of music she must know much, work not only with her mother's violin, but with the piano, with counterpoint and orches- tration, with every history of music that Hilary's loyal eagerness could find for her in the old cat- alogues and lists of the world. For to Dora had descended the genius that had made her beautiful French mother known, at twenty, as one of the violinists of her day. "Sabine Charpentier" was only a memory, vague and sweet, to her little daughter Dora, but Hilary remembered their mother well, and she felt herself the torch-bearer between the gifted mother and the gifted child.

How their father, a dreamy, im- practical, despondent putterer in the world of music, had ever won Sabine from the brilliant opening of her career, was always a mys- tery to Hilary. Bronson Collier was a Bostonian, stranded in Mu- nich, when they met. He had been discontentedly and desultor- ily connected with various orches- tras there as pianist; he was the possessor of considerable musical knowledge, and some technical skill, but warmth and magnetism were lacking in his work as in his nature. Why the gentle, enthusiastic, lovely Sabine loved him perhaps she herself never could say. For his sake she abandoned her art, there was a quiet wedding, there were some years of unsuccessful work abroad, and then they re- turned to America, where they tried to teach, Bronson darkly gloomy with his piano pupils, his girlish wife distressed and un- certain in her dealing with the few who came to her for work with the violin. In Philadelphia they starved; they moved a few miles away, to Mount Holly.

"The Grey Fox," which opened last night at the tent theatre of Murphy's Comedians, proved one of the best comedy-dramas this clever company has yet staged, thoroughly de- lighting a large audience.

Manager J. A. Menard states that this play was to have been produced in New York and was cancelled by reason of the Actors' Equity strike. It is, therefore, something brand new and a genu- ine sensation. The tent opens nightly at 7:15 o'clock for those who wish to select their seats. The curtain rises at 8 o'clock.

The tent theatre of Murphy's Comedians, located on Stocker street, between Brand boulevard and Central avenue, has been a magnet, drawing hundreds of peo- ple to Casa Verdugo and Manager Menard reports that plans for a permanent theatre are progress- ing.

Financiers Predict Business Improvement
ST. LOUIS, July 14.—Slowing down of production in this territory has produced a better bal- ance of supply and demand and trade is moving along less uninter- rupted lines than at any time since spring. Financiers, how- ever, believe complete business recovery is unlikely until after the summer months. Stocks are dwindling and advances in grain prices and decreases in prices of urban commodities have been im- portant factors. Easy credits are stimulating trade and assuring broader distribution of dry goods. Increased inquiry is evident in iron and steel and collections are fair in all lines.

Federal Farm Banks' Loans Show Decrease
NEW ORLEANS, July 14.—Loans of Federal Land banks to farmers in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama declined in June, the total being $2,013,000 com- pared with $2,242,000 last year and $2,432,000 in May. The heaviest volume of loans was placed in Louisiana.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S NEW HAT
"Where are you going, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one morning, as the rab- bit gentleman skipped quickly out of his hollow stump bungalow. "Why are you in such a hurry?" "I am going to get myself a new straw hat," answered the bunny. He soon reached the fif- teen and sixteen cent store, where they had many wonderful and beautiful straw hats for sale. He tried on one.

"It fits you like a postage stamp on a letter," said the dog. "Look in the glass and see yourself." Uncle Wiggily glanced in the mirror. The straw hat sat very well on his head. If the rabbit gentleman had looked a little closer he would have seen, peer- ing in the door of the store, the bad Fox and Wolf. They had been creeping after him and had watched where he went. "Do you see what Uncle Wig- gily is doing?" asked the Fox. "Yes," whispered the Wolf. "He is buying a new hat. And I know a good way to catch him now." "How?" asked the Wolf. "We'll follow after him and take away his new straw hat," said the Fox. "He is so fond of his new hat that he won't want to lose it. As soon as we snatch it from his head he will run after us. We can easily keep ahead of him, but we'll hold out his new hat to him, every now and then, to keep him following. In this way we shall lead him to your den in the woods. And once in there, in your den, Mr. Wolf—" "Oh, ho! Oh, ha! We know what we'll do to him!" growled the Wolf.

So the two bad chaps followed after the bunny rabbit when he came out of the fifteen and six- teen cent store wearing his new straw hat. Unseen by Mr. Long- ears the Fox and Wolf trailed af- ter him until he reached a dark and dismal part of the woods, not far from where the Wolf had his den.

Suddenly the Fox and Wolf ran on a little way ahead, by a round- about path, and hid themselves in the bushes beside the path. Uncle Wiggily would have to hop that way.

"Here he comes!" whispered the Fox. "I'll jump out and grab his hat off his head. Then you and I will slip away, holding the hat between us. Uncle Wiggily will run to get his hat, and he'll follow us all the way to your den." "Go ahead—do your trick," growled the Wolf.

Suddenly the Fox slipped out of the bushes and made a jump for the rabbit. "No, no, don't!" You can't nibble my ears!" cried the bunny, and he held his paws over them. "I'm not after your ears—not just yet!" barked the Fox. With a quick motion he made a grab for the rabbit's hat. The Fox carried it off a little way, but all of a sudden, the hat seemed to be pulled from his paws, and back to Uncle Wiggily it sailed, land- ing on the rabbit's head.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the rab- bit. "Something is wrong!" said the puzzled Fox to the Wolf. "That must be a magic hat. You try to get it." The Wolf pulled Uncle Wig- gily's hat from his head, but, just as before, the hat snapped away from the bad chap and landed back on the bunny's head.

"Oh, it's a magic hat! There must be a fairy in it!" howled the Wolf. "We'd better let Uncle Wiggily and his hat alone!" And away ran the bad chaps.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the bunny when they were gone. "All there is on my hat is a long, rubber elastic band that the dog clerk put there. He said if the wind blew my hat off, the rubber band would snap it back to me. And when the Fox and Wolf tried to run away with my hat, the rubber snapped it out of their paws and landed on my head. Well, they didn't get my hat nor my ears' rest time."

And off down the path went the bunny, whistling and as happy as a clam. And if the gold fish doesn't spend all his money buy- ing lollypops for the canary bird, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wig- gily's new coat.

TRIPLE IN NINTH WINS FOR LOCALS

White Sox Get Victory No. 23 When Sawyer Lands Blow at Beach

Fighting it out from the fourth inning with the score tied three all, and not a run to break the knot when the ninth inning came by the boards, Carl Sawyer was mainly responsible for the twenty-third consecutive victory made by the Glendale White Sox at El Segundo yesterday afternoon, when he slammed out a triple in the ninth that won the game.

The White Sox manager got his three-bagger after Young and Dorman had singled, and Sawyer's blow drove in two scores. Sawyer scored another run of Shellenbach's hit, and a few minutes later Shelly scored, making the final count 7 to 3.

Up to the ninth, Bell held the Sox to four hits. Reiger, on the mound for the Sox, was touched for nine hits, but kept them well scattered.

How They Scored

El Segundo started the scoring in the second, slipping over a run. Glendale came back in the first of the third, and scored two, when Young walked, Dorman got a two-bagger, scoring Young, and Shields brought in Dorman with smashing hit. El Segundo forced ahead in the last half of the same inning with two runs, but the Sox tied it in the first of the fourth, and from then on to the ninth, it was a pitchers' battle pure and simple.

In addition to being the twenty-third consecutive victory for the White Sox, it was the final game of the Summer league schedule, which the Sox finished with a perfect count, defeating every other team in the league twice.

Arne Berg, former record holder, of Sweden, finished second.

TIGERS GET LAST GAME OF SERIES

Beings Beat Bees 13 to 8 In Closing Contest; Drop First 7-6

By BEN MCGUIRE
For Southland News Service.
LOS ANGELES, July 14.—Splitting their double header at Washington Park yesterday the Bees allowed the Tigers to claw them for the last and deciding game of the series. The Bees won 7 to 6 and lost 8 to 13.

Rookie Bryan and Thomas were Vernon's leavers in the final set, while Lefty O'Doul was the morning pitcher in the opener. Ken Penner and Christian were both routed by the Bees on slaughter. A crowd of 10,000 got their money's worth.

The Beavers won their first game yesterday from the Angels at Portland, 10 to 5, but dropped the second game, 15 to 9. In the second game the Angels made 26 hits, but the Beavers poled 11 hits. The first game, won by Portland, was the only game of the series the Bees won, the Angels taking the other six.

The Oaks took the series with the Senators at Oakland, when they split even on the two Sunday games, giving Oakland four and the Solons three. The morning game went to Oakland, 4 to 0, and the Solons took the afternoon game 4 to 2 after twelve innings.

The Seals won the first game 6 to 1 at Seattle yesterday, but lost a 11-inning contest in the afternoon, 4 to 3. The series ended, Seals, four; Indians, three.

HUGE SUMS FOR GOOD PITCHERS

Trend Toward Better Mound Work Is Ascribed to Waning Interest

By LES CONKLIN
For International News Service.
NEW YORK, July 14.—An outstanding feature of the baseball season this spring has been the unprecedented demand for capable young pitchers. Managers combed the country for promising box recruits, nursed them along during early workouts with all the solicitude shown by a landlord for his annual ton of coal, and started the youngsters in league games whenever possible.

The reason for this unusual demand for pitching talent is that the fans are growing weary of slugfests and lopsided scores. Sentiment is growing for a return to the days of 1-0 and 2-1 pitching battle; when the strikeout was greeted with louder acclaim than the base hit; when people would travel miles to witness a box duel between such renowned fighters as Christy Mathewson and Miner Brown.

Plenty of Sluggers

Catering to the home-run craze, the club owners went after sluggers last year, and they got them. Horsehide wallpapers are thicker than fleas at a dog show. The Detroit Tigers, for instance, ran up a complete team batting over 300 a handful of his Cobb would swap a handful of his bombarding beauties for a couple of pitchers who could take their daily shower at 5:30 instead of 4 o'clock.

In an effort to bolster up their pitching staffs, big league managers imported unusually large shipments of ivory into the range groves this year for close inspection. Each club furnished bed and board for nine expensive weeks, in the hope of finding one or two who could make the grade. Even Miller Huggins, with his championship staff, took several youngsters into his private study and endeavored to tell them all the things that a growing pitcher should know.

Big Price Paid

Sums that would make a Scotsman shudder were expended for minor league pitchers who appeared to have a chance of winning twenty games a season in the big show. John McGraw gave Louisville enough money to lift the mortgages of all the farms in Horatio Alger's romances by digging $50,000 out of the strong box for Wayland Dean, and the youngster has done splendidly. McGraw also gave Newark $25,000 for Howard Baldwin, "Iron Man" of the International league.

August Hermann got Jackie May from Vernon, of the Coast League, for $20,000 and Tom Shauger, from St. Paul, of the American Association, at a price almost as high. Pittsburgh was another heavy investor, bidding a figure in the neighborhood of $30,000 for Dan Kramer, a Coast league product, and parting with a tidy sum for Emil Yde, Wisconsin University graduate, who broke into professional baseball with Oklahoma City. Down in Louisiana Yde is regarded as another Siler. In addition to winning twenty-eight games out of forty last season, he compiled the attractive batting average of .392.

McGraw, more than any other manager, has been on the lookout for young pitchers. In addition to Dean and Baldwin, he is devoting much time to the development of Ernie Mann, formerly of Wichita, and Joe Bradshaw, a Toledo recruit.

Makes Closer Games

A reasonable proportion of these recruits have come up to expectations, providing the fans with a number of pitching treats. If they keep up the good work the familiar sight of half the fans leaving the park during the seventh inning because the sluggers on one team have stowed the game away in the bat bag will not be so familiar this season. The ideal of kids, perhaps, will be to become pitchers like Walter Johnson, as it used to be, instead of becoming sluggers like Babe Ruth.

Another cause for belief that 1924 will be a year for pitchers instead of sluggers is the new rule that balls shall not be thrown out of the game until worn ragged. Working with an old ball, a pitcher can throw sharper curves and drops that will break more suddenly than with a brand new ball.

Last year a pitcher would be given a new ball several times during an inning and be knocked out of the box before he could get his "stuff" working. This was one of the reasons for the epidemic of home-run hitting.

Georgia Peach Crop Is Rushed to Market

ATLANTA, Ga., July 14.—Georgia peaches of the best grade are selling at from $3 to $5.50 a crate in southern markets and the season bids fair to be a fine one for growers. Canneries are working night and day on fruit which has ripened too rapidly to ship. Fast freight trains are moving the crop to market on passenger schedules.

NEW YORK CLOSING

H. J. DULZEND
For International News Service

NEW YORK, July 14.—Today's session on the stock exchange was one of generally advancing prices. Momentarily the market halted, when, after the rise, it encountered some profit taking and short selling, and then, under the leadership of oil, continued its upward movement.

Foreign exchange started the ball rolling upward and prior to the opening of the stock market sterling had recorded a gain of about 1c. Stocks opened strong and continued so until the fourth hour, when the first signs of liquidation appeared.

Trading was not devoid of spectacular features, these being furnished principally by the specialty stocks. Philip Jones had a further rally to 85, up 13 points from Saturday's close, and 43 points from Friday's close.

Cast Iron Pipe, which has been consistently strong and active for more than six months, crossed par today for the first time. Brooklyn Union Gas replaced Consolidated as the leader of the public utility stocks and sold at the year's best levels.

Speculative sentiment was generally bullish, with an advance and an accumulation of buying orders awaited the opening of the market. The first sales in some stocks were made at Saturday's close. Bullish pools were active in their own specialties, in all of which prices were marked higher at the start. Rails were not conspicuous for their activity.

The railroads were the leaders in another forward movement in prices in the last hour. New Haven was in a new high and sold up to 25 1/2. Chicago & St. Louis crossed par for the first time in its history.

The bond market was moderately active with higher prices for low-priced rails and industrials and irregular trends in foreign government bonds. Brazilian government 8's, Sao Paulo state 8's and Rio de Janeiro 8's declined further on reports that the rebels were in complete control of Sao Paulo and that the citizens favor secession from the Brazilian union.

Stock sales today 997,700 shares. Bonds $11,698,000.

DRUG TESTS FOR BRANDED PASTOR

Doctors Seek to Bridge Gap In Lapsed Memories of Klansmen's Foe

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., July 14.—Medical tests were to be made today on the Rev. Oren C. Van Loon, "K. K. K." branded Berkeley, Mich., minister, to learn what powerful drug was given him during the eleven days of mystery while his mind became a blank and memory skipped from him. Mr. Van Loon disappeared June 30.

His historical outline and collection of historical views of Glendale were published by the bank to mark the formal opening of the new six-story building at Brand and Broadway. Hundreds of copies of the booklet have been sent to eastern points.

Mr. Hill has moved his office from the Hollywood Security building, where he served for two and a half years as publicity and advertising man for the Hollywood territory, to the head offices at Fifth and Spring streets, Los Angeles. He will work under the direction of Edward Elliott, vice president, who is responsible for the research, education, advertising and publicity departments.

Hollywood has been the home of Mr. Hill since his graduation from Stanford university in 1912. Previous to that time he lived in Los Angeles proper and is a graduate of the Los Angeles High school. A portion of his first year out of college was spent in a tour of the United States as secretary to Chancellor David Starr Jordan of Stanford. Later he served two terms as president of the Stanford Alumni club of Los Angeles. He is a member of the University club.

He is director of the Hollywood Advertising club, a member of the Lions club, the Business Men's association and the Chamber of Commerce. His first work for the Security was to write "In the Valley of the Cahuengas, the Story of Hollywood," which is soon to go into its fifth edition. Since then he has written similar histories of Pasadena, South Pasadena, Highland Park Glendale and the San Fernando valley for the Security bank, all of which have gone into from two to three editions. He is now preparing histories of Monrovia and Long Beach.

Previous to joining the Security forces he represented for several years the eastern educational publishing house of Allyn & Bacon in California. As such he was instrumental in arranging for the publication of Dr. W. H. Snyder's book, "First Year Science." This text by the popular principal of the Hollywood High school is now used in over 1000 American high schools. Mr. Hill was the first city editor of the Hollywood Daily Citizen.

Mr. Hill is married and has two children attending Hollywood schools.

He shook his head, and smiling, said: "I don't want to know. My efforts to learn who is responsible for this"—reaching backward toward the weird K. K. K.'s on his shoulder—"would merely create more enemies. God knows there is sufficient strife and dissension and separation among Christians. That is why I preached against the burning of the cross. I want to bring these misguided men and women into peace and harmony. I want them to know that the cross of Christ is the emblem of unity, not of separation."

HILL AT HEAD OF PUBLICITY STAFF

Author of Glendale History Promoted by Security Bank Officials

Laurence L. Hill, who was largely responsible for the success of "The First of the Ranchos, the Story of Glendale," published by the Security Trust and Savings bank, has been promoted to chief of publicity for the Security banks, according to word reaching Glendale. Mr. Hill became well known in Glendale during his preparation of the booklet which is now in its second edition.

His historical outline and collection of historical views of Glendale were published by the bank to mark the formal opening of the new six-story building at Brand and Broadway. Hundreds of copies of the booklet have been sent to eastern points.

Mr. Hill has moved his office from the Hollywood Security building, where he served for two and a half years as publicity and advertising man for the Hollywood territory, to the head offices at Fifth and Spring streets, Los Angeles. He will work under the direction of Edward Elliott, vice president, who is responsible for the research, education, advertising and publicity departments.

Hollywood has been the home of Mr. Hill since his graduation from Stanford university in 1912. Previous to that time he lived in Los Angeles proper and is a graduate of the Los Angeles High school. A portion of his first year out of college was spent in a tour of the United States as secretary to Chancellor David Starr Jordan of Stanford. Later he served two terms as president of the Stanford Alumni club of Los Angeles. He is a member of the University club.

He is director of the Hollywood Advertising club, a member of the Lions club, the Business Men's association and the Chamber of Commerce. His first work for the Security was to write "In the Valley of the Cahuengas, the Story of Hollywood," which is soon to go into its fifth edition. Since then he has written similar histories of Pasadena, South Pasadena, Highland Park Glendale and the San Fernando valley for the Security bank, all of which have gone into from two to three editions. He is now preparing histories of Monrovia and Long Beach.

Previous to joining the Security forces he represented for several years the eastern educational publishing house of Allyn & Bacon in California. As such he was instrumental in arranging for the publication of Dr. W. H. Snyder's book, "First Year Science." This text by the popular principal of the Hollywood High school is now used in over 1000 American high schools. Mr. Hill was the first city editor of the Hollywood Daily Citizen.

Mr. Hill is married and has two children attending Hollywood schools.

POLITICAL MEET COSTS $2,000,000

Democratic Convention Runs Into Big Figures as Time Drags On

By ROBERT T. SMALL Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924 NEW YORK, July 14.—In nominating John W. Davis and Charles W. Bryan, the Democrats held the first $2,000,000 national convention in political history. This is a conservative estimate of the cost of the big gathering in Madison Square Garden, which ran for the better part of three weeks. No theatrical production ever approached this "show." Even the moving picture people have not yet claimed a $2,000,000 film. They have press-agented up to $1,000,000, but never beyond.

Some have suggested that the Democrats spent so much money on the convention and incurred so many obligations in connection with it that they won't have any funds with which to conduct the campaign. That, however, is not their present worry. They are still figuring the convention cost, and some of the results are rather amazing.

Rickard Hard Hit The local committee of entertainers, which was non-partisan, claims it has dispersed approximately $800,000 in connection with the convention before it turned matters over to the Democratic national committee at the end of the second week. Mayor Hylan had a fund of something more than $200,000 appropriated by the city, and he spent virtually all of that, if not more. So there was a direct charge of $1,000,000.

Tex Rickard, lessee of Madison Square Garden, who furnished the place, rent free, said the convention cost him $1500 a day. He was kept out of the Garden for three full weeks, making his share of the cost at least $31,500. It is estimated that the delegates, alternates and others officially attending the convention from out of town spent at least $200,000 for hotel rooms and meals. What they spent "on the outside" there is no way of figuring.

The headquarters maintained by the candidates at the various hotels cost $150,000 as a minimum. There are some who have estimated that $500,000 would be nearer correct. Mr. McAdoo alone had several floors of the hotel Vanderbilt.

Radio Runs High By far the most interesting and unusual cost of the convention, however, was the broadcasting of the proceedings by radio. This operating company. There is no way the direct cost of the broadcasting can be figured for the companies unquestionably would charge a great deal of it off to experiment and experience. They never before was such a substantial spell of broadcasting or the sending out of waves at such unusual hours.

It is possible, however, to make a rough estimate of this cost from the fact that one station alone here in New York announced some time ago that a charge of $10 a minute to be made for political speeches would scarcely cover the cost of operation.

The convention was in session about 120 hours. The microphones were working at least twenty hours, or 8400 minutes. At $10 a minute the cost of the broadcasting to one station alone must have been about $84,000. Two local stations broadcast so the $84,000 must be doubled to $168,000 for the cost in this city alone.

There were about twenty other stations looped in by wire and wireless. It is virtually impossible to estimate their cost, but one radio expert said today that he was confident that the cost of putting the convention on the air must have been in the neighborhood of $350,000.

Figuring it all up it will be seen that the estimate of a $2,000,000 convention is a very moderate one. Democracy comes high but we must have it.

Green Sweet Potatoes Shipped to New York ATLANTA, July 14.—The Georgia sweet potato growers association, a co-operative marketing organization, has commenced shipping green potatoes although the association is supposed to cure all yams. GLENDALE'S GLORY TOLD IN LETTERS

Parts of Communications of Quarter Century Ago Are Reprinted

Over a quarter of a century ago Mrs. Julia R. Beers of 910 Kenneth road, became a Glendale booster and her interest in the promising little village, now known world wide as "The Fastest Growing City in America," is seen in a collection of news letters she wrote east for publication in the Deposit Courier-Journal, Deposit, New York, and in the Brookfield Gazette in Linn county, Missouri.

Following are some excerpts from Mrs. Beers' letters written from Glendale in 1906: "One hundred and twenty-one new residences have gone up in Glendale within the past two years, many of them very nice. Nowhere is there greater variety in architecture than here. We reach the business heart of Los Angeles in twenty-five minutes by electric car. The electric railway company is building a fine depot here in mission style. There are two banks, four groceries. The Baptists have built a $3,500 church and the Methodists are about to put up one to cost $4,000.

"The Glendale Sanitarium management has found it necessary to make extensive additions to its large building. The high school students number sixty-five. There are five teachers in our grammar school, which has a new 12,000 building.

New Houses Built "Three hundred car loads of oranges and lemons were shipped from our packing houses the past year. "Every time we drive out we see numbers of new frames going up; sometimes of a large and handsome house in an unexpected place. Numbers of orange groves which have been giving a large annual income have been cut up and subdivided into residence lots. Pity it is true that the restricted citrus fruit belt furnishes the choicest locations for the building of beautiful homes, and every inch is valuable.

"Miles of cement walk and curb have been completed here, and large gangs are still at work. Oil is used largely on the streets. It costs at first, but is quite lasting and is also hygienic. Ornamental stone pillars are being built on many of our street corners."

Early Prosperity In January, 1907, Mrs. Beers wrote: "The year just closed has been one of great prosperity, twenty million dollars coming to the growers for their oranges; while the dried fruits, canned goods, beet sugar, lima beans, hay, grain, walnuts, etc., swell the figures to nearly one hundred and forty millions. The Tropico-Glendale berry growers' association, which has a membership of 129 growers, and an acreage of 650 acres, handled four million, four hundred thousand baskets of strawberries, one hundred and twenty-one tons going to the canneries.

The next year in the month of June, Mrs. Beers wrote: "Apricots, peaches and plums from our nearby orchards are on the local market. The fruit trees were sprayed and the fruit is large and clean. One of our real estate men has given up that business and is planting a large grove of seedling oranges to be budded to finer varieties.

Start High School "Within the past ten days thirteen new dwellings have been begun or contracted for in Glendale, ranging in cost from $1500 to $4000. Work is progressing rapidly on the new postoffice block and on the business block on the boulevard."

In September of 1908 one of Mrs. Beers' letters reads: "Work has been begun on the new Glendale Union High school, which will be a beautiful, two-story classic structure 90 by 131 feet, with basement under all to cost $52,000. Within the brief space of six years we have outgrown the first high school building.

"Five of 'ye actor folk' and an artist of note have lately furnished themselves with unique and artistic homes in Glendale. "Road work for the past eighteen months totals about seventeen miles at a cost of $235,815."

Glendale Pastor Will Visit Eastern Points Rev. B. J. Darnille of Hollywood is to serve as rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, while Rev. Philip K. Kemp is in Texas and his eastern home during the remainder of the summer. Mr. Kemp left this morning for San Antonio, Tex., to join Mrs. Kemp, who has been there several weeks visiting her family. From Texas the Kemps will go on to visit Mr. Kemp's family in the east. They will return to Glendale in September.

Girl Reports Holdup In Business Section Miss Edna Temple of 3241 Madeira avenue, Los Angeles, reported to the Glendale police department that she had been held up at 11 o'clock Saturday night at Brand boulevard and California avenue and a vanity case containing $7 taken from her. Later the vanity case was found by the police in an alley off California avenue.
