DECLASSIFIED E.O. 12065 SECTION 3-402/NNDG NO. 775 013

History of Kanagawa Prefectural Child Consultation Centre.

After the war, since the occupation of the Allied Forces, many vagrants appeared in the busy street of Yokohama City and in the vicinity of the Army unit, and by begging things or doing shoe-shining business, they disclosed a status no more able to leave them alone. Therfore, since sometime October 1945, the Prefecture started the activity to protect them in the institution and continued their occasional picking up. The number of these vagrants, however, were only increasing. In the fall of 1946 the Welfare Ministry, regulating the vagrants protection policy for principal locality, decided to carry out the urgent protection of those war orphans, repatriate orphans and other vagrant children wandering on the streets. In compliance with the above policy, this prefecture decided to establish the Child Consultation Station and two Child protection Stations and started the actual work from December of the same year. By the result of the enforcement of the Child Welfare Law in January 1949, the Child Consultation Station legally characterized as central organ for the protection of those children who have no guardians, and those children whose guardians protection is regarded inadequate. Therefore, after making various improvements, in April 1949, this consultation station changed to the Central Child Consultation Centre.

At the same time, two Child Consultation
