Foreword

We leave school to enter a new and more complex period in the world's development—The Atomic Age. Now more than ever before, technical knowledge and skills are important. The scientist and the technician are the real leaders of the future.

We of RIT have prepared ourselves for this new age in a school which is admirably fitted to furnish us with these necessary skills. Several of our departments are the acknowledged leaders in their fields, an achievement made possible only by maintaining our staff and laboratories up to the minute in technical development and research. Theory plus practical work is the basis of our curriculum, and thousands of successful RIT graduates have proven its value for over a century. It is for us, the graduates of 1948, to add to their record of achievement and to help build the bright new World of Tomorrow.

MARJORIE HOFFMAN

Our President Speaks

On behalf of the faculty and staff of the Rochester Institute of Technology, I extend congratulations and best wishes to the members of the Senior Class. I want also to record the pleasure and satisfaction that we have had in working with members of the Student Association during the 1947-48 school year.

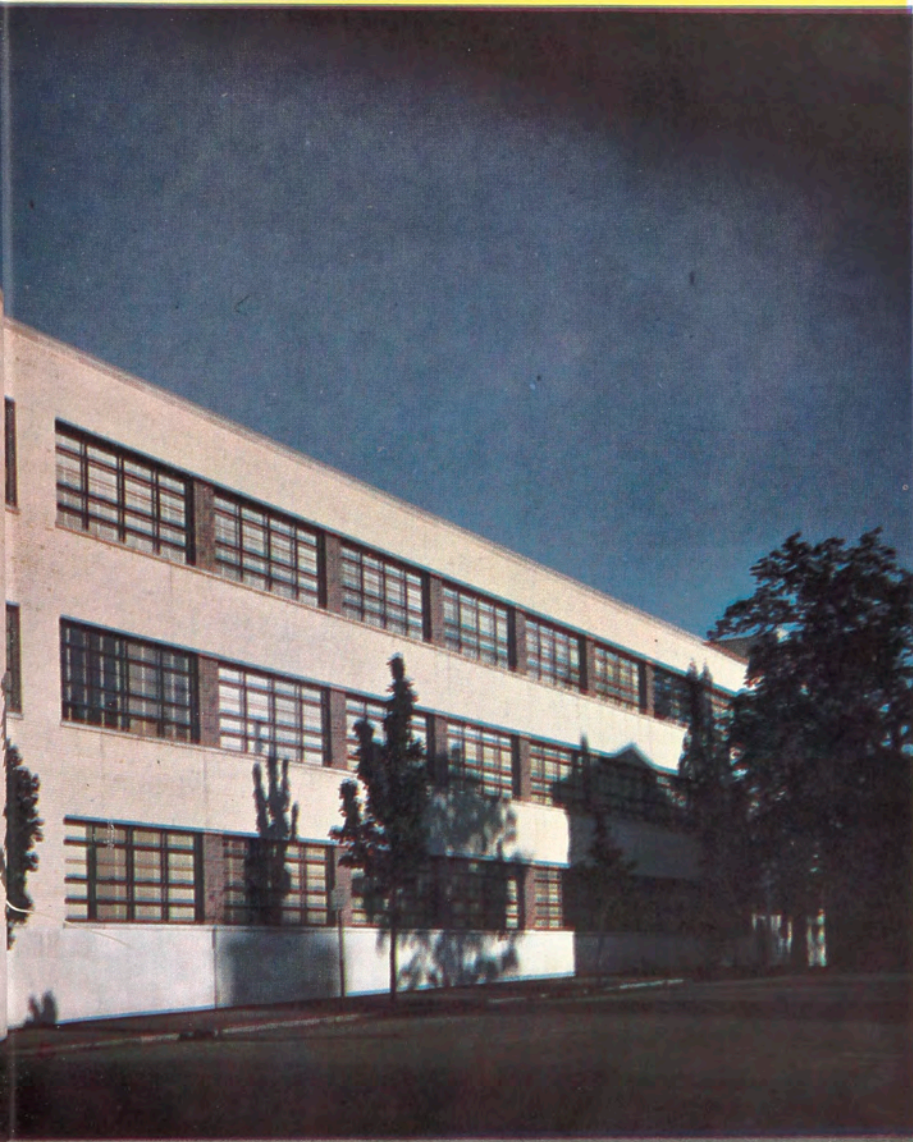

As we look ahead to the critical problem of international relations, it becomes increasingly clear that the successful solution to these problems cannot be found except as we become an increasingly productive nation. The preservation of civilization rests upon our ability to utilize our own productive capacities to the fullest.

This is an elemental problem, and upon your shoulders rests the responsibility for increasing productivity in your own occupational field. Each of you must play a vital part.

OF 1948

The Class of 1948 has witnessed a memorable period in the history of the Institute. In the past three years we have seen a tremendously increased enrollment, the construction and opening of the George H. Clark Building, the broadening of all courses of study, and the re-birth of sports activities at the Institute.

Under the able guidance of our president, John Reiley of Photo Tech, we have seen social activities become once again a prominent part of our school life. Fred Choma served as vice-president, Howard Cooper as secretary, Torun Wardenaer as treasurer, and Stanley Witmeyer of the faculty was our advisor.

Convocation on Saturday, May 15, comes all too soon, but we leave the Institute with a feeling of confidence that we can undertake the duties of capable citizens, after our thorough and individualized education.

JUNIOR CLASS

*First Row: Sarah Symes, treasurer; Iris Arp, vice president;

OF 1948

Well beyond the halfway mark on the long road to graduation, the class of '49 can look with satisfaction on the two memorable years spent at the Institute. Under the faculty guidance of Mr. Todd of Photo Tech, the Junior class elected Jack Smith as president, Iris Arp as vice-president, Sarah Symes as treasurer, and Andrew Theopheles as secretary.

Midvale Country Club was the scene of the two highly successful Snow Sprees sponsored this winter by the Junior class. The '49-ers also contributed greatly to the memorable Junior-Senior Ball held in May.

With but a single year to spend at the Institute before graduation, the Class of '49 takes pride in the contributions it has made to the spirit and to the traditions of the Institute.

OF 1948

In the Fall of 1947 we saw the largest freshman enrollment in the history of the Institute, and it was a more varied enrollment than ever before; students came from nearly every state in the union and from several foreign countries.

Dorm girls were initiated during the traditional "Freshman Week," and a pleasant interruption in the scholastic year was the Freshman Outing held at Genesee Park. It is to be hoped that both of these events marked the beginning of friendships that will be satisfying and long-lived.

The Class of 1950 inherits a larger, better, and more fully equipped and staffed Institute than the freshmen of any other year in the history of the school. We hope they will carry on the spirit and traditions which have made the school what it is today.

Department of Applied Art

The Department of Applied Art recognizes the importance of living, but it is realistic in its philosophy and knows that earning a living is essential to living a life.

To achieve both objectives, the courses are designed to give thorough instruction in basic art principles. This becomes the tool which the individual will use in creative art work applied to the fields of Illustration and Advertising Art, Interior Decoration, and Design. A high level of technical competence coupled with artistic appreciation and awareness of art standards are vital factors in the individual development of the professional artist. Personality, citizenship and character, as well as technical competence, are emphasized as of great significance in the growth and success of the student.

Courses in the Art School are designed to provide basic art training and to stimulate individual creative thinking and original art expression.

Department of Chemistry

From the time of its organization in 1918 until 1926, this department offered a two-year full-time course in Industrial Chemistry. In September of 1926, the present three-year Cooperative Industrial Chemistry course was organized. Graduates of this three-year course have been employed in two major fields—production, and chemical laboratory work.

In September, 1944, under the direction of Dr. R. L. Van Peurse, the Industrial Chemistry course was adapted to the needs of ceramic industries. At that time, a three-year course in Industrial Ceramics was founded.

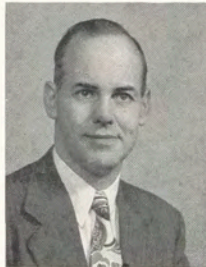

A three-year course in Metal Finishing was organized in September, 1946, to train technical personnel for supervisory positions in the metal finishing industries of this area.

In addition, the department has for the past four years offered courses dealing with the use of optical and electrical instruments in chemical analysis. This is a rather new and rapidly developing field. The staff, enlarged recently by two part-time and two full-time instructors, looks forward to even greater expansion and further service to its students and to the chemical industries.

Department of Electricity

The school year opened with an Electrical Department enrollment of two hundred and seventy-one day students, and two hundred and eighty-four evening students. From present indications a slight increase in the number of electrical students is to be expected for the next school year with enrollment reaching a new high for the department.

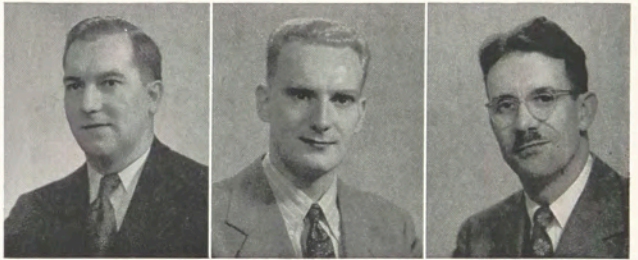

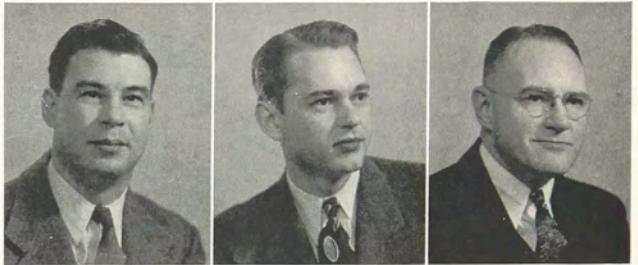

All day-school students follow the cooperative plan and employment is provided by twenty-two Rochester companies and by five companies outside of Rochester. The department faculty consists of eleven full-time day instructors and thirteen additional evening-school instructors.

New electric circuit and electronic laboratories were ready for service when school opened in September and new telephone and railway signal laboratories were completed shortly thereafter. Work is now in progress on communication and x-ray laboratories, and much new equipment was installed in the power laboratory during the past school year.

Department of Food Administration

The Food Administration Department has the distinction of being the only department which operates a daily service to the whole Institute group, in addition to carrying on a program of instruction and training. While the enrollment of the department remains about the same as in previous years, the numbers served by the cafeteria have increased to a new high.

Students from this department hold cooperative jobs in such fields as hospitals, schools, restaurants, and employee cafeterias in industry. Students may major in either Hospital Dietetics or Commercial Food Management.

The Home Economics field was pioneered by the Institute nearly fifty years ago, and this subject is now an accepted college major at practically every university which offers professional courses for women. Under the supervision of Georgie C. Hoke, the department envisages ever further service to its students and to the field of food administration.

Department of Mechanics

In 1912 Carlton H. Gibson, first president of the Institute, organized the first Cooperative Courses in the Mechanical Department. Since that time, courses for Instrument Makers, Tool Engineering, and Screw Machine Technology have been organized by the department.

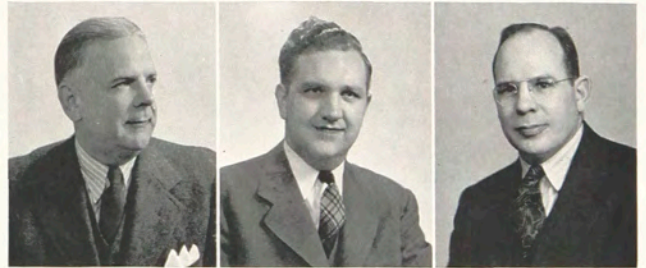

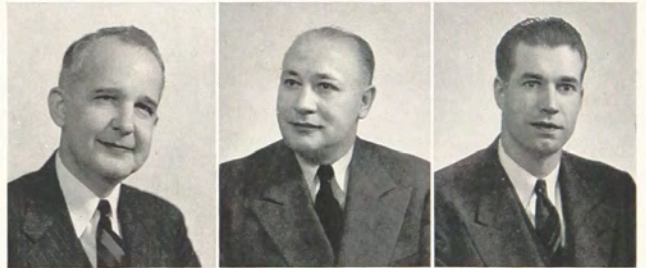

The Mechanical Department laboratories and offices now occupy the entire first floor of the George H. Clark Building. With these new quarters and the exceptionally fine equipment which has been installed during the past two years, the department will be of more service than ever to the young men who enroll for mechanical courses. Considerable expansion in laboratory facilities has enabled the department to offer such subjects as Quality Control and Metallurgy for the first time this year.

The Mechanical Department faculty has been increased to fifteen full-time and one part-time instructors. Under the supervision of Herman Martin, the staff is looking forward to even further expansion and greater service to students and industries.

Department of Photography

The Department of Photographic Technology was founded in 1930 under the supervision of Dr. Mark Ellingson. However, instruction in photography at the Institute dates back to the year 1907.

The history of the department has been one of continual expansion. Housed at first in room 117 of the Eastman Building, the department offices, classrooms, studios and laboratories now occupy the entire third floor of the new George H. Clark Building.

At first the faculty consisted wholly of part-time instructors from other departments of the Institute and the Eastman Kodak Company. The faculty, under the leadership of C. B. Neblette, now totals twenty-five, exclusive of those teaching evening school classes.

The Department of Photographic Technology offers a two year course with majors in Portraiture, Commercial-Illustrative Photography, Color Photography, Photographic Technology, Medical Photography, and Photolithography. A major in Engineering Photography is planned.

Department of Publishing and Printing

The Department of Publishing and Printing was founded in 1937 as successor to the Empire State School of Printing in Ithaca, New York. The new department at the Institute soon attracted national attention and is now known as the best equipped and most progressive school of printing in the country.

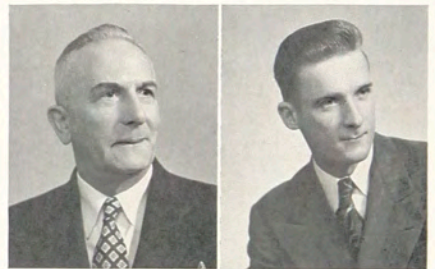

Enrollment increased steadily until the war years, when it became evident that the demand for printing education would become even greater with the return of peace. Consequently, plans for expanding the facilities and broadening the curriculum were carried out under the guidance of Byron G. Culver, Supervisor.

On September 23, 1946, the enlarged department began operation in the George H. Clark Building, where laboratories and classrooms cover the entire second floor. This year, with a staff of sixteen full-time instructors, and the largest student enrollment to date, the department is recognized as the leading school of printing in the United States and probably the entire world.

Department of Retailing

Organized in 1923, the Retailing Department has pioneered in the training of men and women for positions of responsibility in merchandising, advertising, personnel, and small store management. Graduates may be found from coast to coast, working in all types of department and specialty stores, as well as operating stores of their own. Recognition of the value of trained people to meet the complex problems of distribution today has brought increased opportunity to the alumni of this department.

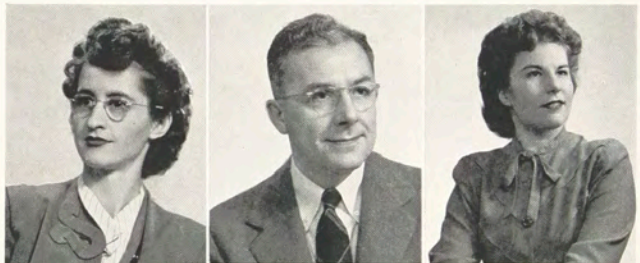

From the beginning, actual store experience has been an important part of the program. Today, Retail students may be found in thirty-five stores in ten cities of New York State.

Taking advantage of the close proximity of Rochester to New York City, the center of retail business, senior trips are planned each spring to give this group a chance to visit manufacturers, buying offices, museums and stores. This trip to the market center is a fitting climax to the course and an excellent introduction to full-time employment in the field.

Department of Social Sciences

Reorganization of the Institute following the first World War included provisions for a series of courses to direct students' thoughts toward backgrounds, meanings, and opportunities for growth beyond the technical requirements of their occupational fields.

The growth of the Department of Social Sciences and attempts to make its program really functional are due mainly to the efforts of Calvin C. Thomason, who for twenty-odd years has been the Department Supervisor.

Every unit of instruction is constantly checked for its usefulness in relation to other things which might better serve the students' interests.

Members of the department prize highly their opportunities to meet and work with students from the various technical divisions of the Institute. They feel that their position as members of a service department enables them to effectively convey to students the basic ideas of history, economics, and human behavior. These ideas will benefit and enrich us all, whether we intend to be artists, retailers, engineers, managers, or salesmen.

Student Council

The governing body of the Students' Association of the Institute is the Student Council, an organization composed of representatives of each class of each department. This year's Council rose to a new point of activity, keynoted by such action as its wholehearted support of the Red Cross Blood Donor Drive, and a campaign to collect funds for the destitute Navajo Indians.

The Fencing Club and the Ski Club were two new Institute organizations supported by the Student Council this year. Also financed by the Council was the opening of Intermural Basketball, which proved highly successful with organized teams from all departments.

Under the leadership of President Lee Howick, the Council of 1947-48 completely revised their constitution, improving its functions and providing a firm foundation for the Student Association of the Rochester Institute of Technology.

Members of the Graduating Class:

The opportunity to address you through the TECHMILA as president of your Alumni Association is an honor and a pleasure. I congratulate you for the high standards of achievement which you have maintained during your study at the Institute.

I cordially invite each of you to become an active member in our Alumni Association so that you may take pleasure in its activities and accomplishments. This Association, now yours as well as mine, numbers nearly 7,000 members. Its purposes are to promote and maintain friendships among its members and to promote the welfare of its members, of the Institute, and of Institute students.

The Alumni Association has had an interesting history of growth and usefulness. An Executive Council, whose members are elected from among the graduates of all departments, governs our Association. The ALUMNI MIRROR, an attractive magazine, is published three times yearly by the Association to maintain interest in Institute affairs and circulate news of Alumni activities.

A gala banquet on the evening of convocation each year is a major social event at which seniors are formally inducted into the Association.

Perhaps the most important undertaking of our Association is the RIT Development Fund. To this fund, alumni voluntarily contribute for the benefit of Institute students. Some of you have been aided by scholarships so provided. The fund has also established a Student Loan Plan for upper classmen. Various other projects of benefit to the Institute and its students, such as providing assistance in the financing of the new lounge in the Eastman Building, are sponsored as the need arises.

I wish for each of you success in your chosen field and a happy and constructive personal and community life.

Sincerely yours,

Edward A. Pike

In its twenty-second year of publication, the Institute newspaper carried on its tradition of being truly a student publication, from the gathering and editing of the news to the actual printing of the paper on the school presses by the students of the Publishing and Printing Department.

The Christmas issue attracted national attention with its four-color winter scene dominating the front page, and a full center spread of news photos of school activities. It would be impossible to list here the names of those not on the staff who contributed to the success of the Sprit this year. Therefore, to these and the various assistant editors and faculty advisors who worked without publicity or recognition of any kind, the Sprit staff offers a sincere "Thank You."

This year the Dorm Council, acting as the Residence Hall Association's governing body, found itself with a record number of girls in the dorms. The Council members are elected by the students each year, and with adequate guidance from the faculty directors, manage to maintain the unusually high house standards of both dorms.

Working with the Council at all times are competent committees which supervise daily inspections in the dorms, inform students of important school and civic affairs, and arrange for safety in the event of fire. But credit for the success of this year's Council must go to the intelligent cooperation of each dorm girl, and to the guidance of all its faculty directors.

"Music hath charms" for many of the students, for the ever popular Glee Club is now in its twenty-first year at the Institute.

The Glee Clubbers serenaded the patients of the General Hospital at Christmas, and later in the year presented a program featuring its male quartet and mixed quartet at the Canandaigua Veteran's Hospital. The highlight of the year was the Minstrel Show held in the Spring, an event for which preparation went on all year. For this imposing list of good deeds, the songsters deserve a hearty, "Well Done."

The Newman Club of RIT is one of hundreds of such clubs which are organized in universities and colleges for Catholic students. Named after Cardinal John Henry Newman, noted English Catholic churchman, this group meets to discuss problems and matters concerning their religious and social life.

The RIT chapter meets every two weeks, and their social program has included hayrides, informal dances, and church suppers. The event of the year, which will be remembered by all who attended, was the important Annual Communion Breakfast, held in the early spring. Club president Bill Skelly wishes to take this opportunity to publicly thank the Reverend John E. Roach of the Immaculate Conception Parish, who has unselfishly given his time as the moderator of the group.

This popular group was organized to foster the appreciation of art and to establish a bond of friendship among the students of the Department of Applied Art. League meetings are held each Thursday, at which time the members take turns at posing while the rest of the group sketch and paint. An art salon was planned for the late spring, to which all League members hoped to contribute some work of note. Thanks go to Ed Dietrich under whose leadership the membership of the Art Students League has increased greatly.

The RIT Fencing Club was organized at the start of the present school year by Mary Lewis, who is also its only officer at the present time. Yet this newly-revived sport has achieved great popularity in its first year at the Institute. Fencing Master Harold Florescue disseminates his skill to would-be foilsters at the weekly meetings of the group, which is looking forward eagerly to the club dance to be held sometime in March. By next year our fencers should be in good enough shape to take on competition from other schools, and thus effect the complete revival of this Institute sport of pre-war days.

Another new group which has blossomed forth lately is the RIT Riding Club, headed by the Photographer-Equestrian George Paraghman. This enthusiastic group meets every other Wednesday for a workout, and has had numerous get-togethers on weekends for affairs of a social nature.

The Club rides from Heberley's stables, located near Pittsford. The group's mentor and instructor-in-chief is an ex-cavalry officer who is known to everyone by the simple and mysterious name of Fritz. This able horse-man imparts his vast knowledge to the members during the two-hour session held every other week. Aiding in an advisory capacity was Robert Eldridge of the faculty. The Riding Club is looking forward to an even larger membership and a more active program in the coming year.

This year the Mechanical Students' Association has again shown initiative by presenting the students of both A and B blocks well-rounded programs of educational as well as social value. In addition to movies on technical subjects, the Association has sponsored guest speakers of unusual interest, background, and experience.

Due to the cooperative system, each block had their own officers for the Association, which inspired a good deal of competition between the two groups. M. S. A. is indebted to Faculty Advisor Cyril Donaldson, and to Miss Zornow, for their help in making this year a successful one in every way.

Among the newest and most popular groups at the Institute is the RIT Ski Club, which offers its large membership a well-rounded program of educational talks by accomplished skiers, instruction by skilled members and by outside talent, and trips to nearby slopes for practice, frolic, and experiences that will never be forgotten.

Trips were made to Turin, N. Y., and to Old Forge, N. Y., at the end of the winter, and the thrills gotten from these excursions more than made up for the unusual number of sprained wrists and ankles suffered by tyros and old hands alike. Thanks go from all the members of the Ski Club to William Toporcer and James Foster of the faculty, who served as Advisors.

Now in its twenty-eighth year of existence at the Institute, the Inter-Sorority Council was founded for the purpose of sponsoring an annual social occasion which would bring together the sorority girls and attain full cooperation from the four sororities at the school.

Through careful study and ruling, the Council helps to regulate competition in the matter of rushing and pledging new members, and brings a sincere feeling of harmony and unity to all sororities.

Caroline Davis of Delta Omicron is president and Mabel Worden is vice-president. They are backed by other officers and four members of each of the sororities who are too numerous to mention here. The highlight of the year was the Inter-Sorority Ball on March 20, at which time the Scholastic Cup for the highest scholastic average of the year was presented.

This year Sigma Kappa Delta celebrated its twenty-first anniversary, and since its inception by nine charter members, has represented a sorority of friendship and cooperation. The threefold aim of S. K. D. has been to build character, establish a high scholastic standard in the student body, and bring together girls of all departments.

A new advisor, Mrs. Bernice Skinner, was welcomed at the beginning of the year. Several upperclassmen were pledged in November, and the Frosh candidates were rushed at a party given in January. The now-traditional Sweater Dance was held in December, at which time the Sweater King and Queen of the year were enthroned.

Alice Smith . . . . . Secretary
Marian Hermance . . . . . Treasurer

Organized in 1921 with thirteen charter members, Alpha Psi was the second sorority to be formed at the Institute. The desire of this group is to establish a friendly spirit of sisterhood and good-will among the girls of all departments.

Among Alpha Psi's many festivities this past year were the annual Christmas party held in the cafeteria on December 10, and the freshman rush party and pledge dinner held in the spring. The Scholarship Cup was awarded to Dorothy Milazzo of the Foods Department, making the third year that Dorothy has taken the honor.

Under the leadership of Miss Ferne King, this sorority is looking forward to an increasingly successful future, both scholastically and socially.

Founded in 1921 by eight charter members, Delta Omicron Sorority endeavors to foster a bond of companionship among the girls of the Institute, and to promote the highest scholastic standards.

With Miss Pauline Todd as its Advisor, this sorority includes girls of the Art, Food, and Retailing Departments. New members from the Junior class were welcomed in November and Frosh members were initiated in February.

Delta Omicron's chief claim to fame has been the holding of the Interscholastic Cup Award for the past five consecutive years. It also takes pride in the fact that such a high percentage of its members attain success in their chosen fields soon after graduation.

The first sorority of the Institute, Phi Upsilon Phi was founded in 1919 to promote friendship, unity, fidelity and scholarship.

Phi U presented a Pink Elephant dance in a successful effort to complete the Dorm Formal Weekend, followed by the upperclassmen Pledge Dinner at Rupert Gray's. In January the frosh were rushed at a "Truth or Consequences" party with Dr. Phi U officiating as master of ceremonies. Pledges were formally introduced into sisterhood at a dinner held in February. The most spectacular event of the year, the Inter-sorority Ball, was preceded by a winter houseparty which will be fondly remembered by all who attended.

This fraternal group originated as the Delta Delta Society in 1914, and has maintained its leadership in spite of the interruptions of two World Wars. Chi Delta Phi has sponsored several social attractions during the past year, including the Sweetheart Ball in February, and a rush party held in Cutali's Restaurant.

During 1948, this group has enlarged itself in membership, and has sustained its brilliant pre-war tradition, which included the winning of seven consecutive basketball championships over rival fraternities. This progressive fraternity, under the leadership of president Charles Schwartz of Applied Art, is looking forward to a brilliant and successful future, both scholastically and socially.

Phi Sigma Phi was founded in 1901, and since that time has stood for high ideals in brotherhood and scholarship. This highly successful fraternity strengthened itself by means of a merger with two other organizations in 1937, and is at present under the guidance of Clarence E. Tuites of the faculty.

In addition to its annual "Snowball" dance, Phi Sigma Phi sponsored its yearly Christmas party, and also the Starlight Ball with the cooperation of its sister sorority, Delta Omicron. The pledge dinners were given at Lorenzo's restaurant, and the main event of the year, the frat dinner dance, was held at the Midvale Country Club on April 12.

ATHLETICS

B A S K E T

Basketball, in its second year since the war, continued to be the leading sport at the Institute with the charges of Coach A. Leo Fox recording the best season since 1931. The Techmen won 10 games in 16 starts, including double wins over Geneseo Teachers, Fredonia Teachers, Ontario Aggies, a single win over McMasters University, and two-game splits with Brockport Teachers, Oswego Teachers, and Mohawk College. They suffered a loss to Alliance College and a double defeat at the hands of Sampson College.

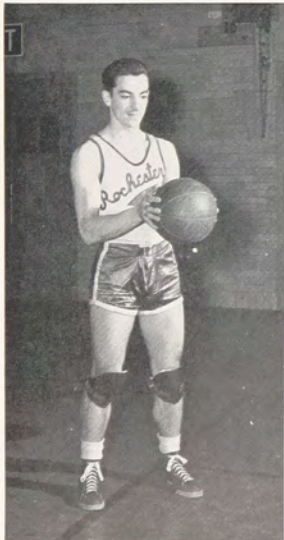

With four holdovers and valuable freshman material Coach Fox rounded out a team that avenged some of last year's defeats and owned the distinction of having erased their worst defeat by a comeback victory against Mohawk College of Utica. By developing a team rather than stars, Coach Fox, the indefatigable mentor who drilled his boys three times weekly since early October, gave the spectators at the Jefferson High court something to yell about.

The test of the season came when RIT visited Alliance College at Cambridge Springs, Pa. Alliance downed the Institute tossers twice last year and an earlier match scheduled between the two clubs in Rochester this year was canceled because of a sleet storm that kept the Pennsylvania club in home quarters. Alliance won again but not until they realized that they were playing a different RIT team.

The varsity lineup this year comprised mostly of Forwards Tony Cristao and George Finnegan, Guards Joe Burgholzer and Joe Huber and Center Tom Bailey with Andy Theophiles as alternate at the guard and forward posts.

In the individual scoring department, Theophiles edged out Cristao for top honors by tossing in 141 points to Cristao's 135. Bailey was third with 124 while Burgholzer scored 108. Huber, the defense stalwart who played an average of 36 minutes a game, had 91, and Finnegan had 55.

Coach Fox's plan to build up teams for the future paid off this year and will probably pay off much more next year because the entire team will be back for the campaign. No seniors were seen in the RIT colors this year.

The Techmen Junior Varsity also turned in a good record by downing 7 of their 11 foes.

Sincere thanks go to Mr. Harold Brodie for arranging the schedule and for the other work he has done as faculty administrator for the basketball team.

Coach Ed Pike, who piloted some of our strongest pre-war mat squads, returned this year to resume the direction of RIT's grunt and groan artists. With Ken Christian as the only holdover from last year's few practice matches, Pike started with an inexperienced but ambitious crew which rapidly grew in strength to challenge some of the best collegiate squads.

Included in the 1947-48 schedule were meets with Buffalo University, Alfred University, Sampson College, Ontario A & M, St. Lawrence University, and Case Institute of Technology. After the close of the regular season, Coach Pike took a few of the most promising tusslers to the annual Inter-State Invitational Meet at Cleveland. Ralph Tufts, Publishing and Printing instructor, was the advising faculty manager.

Third Row: Johns, Laing, Pruy.

The Institute's hard-surfaced courts on South Fitzhugh Street provided students with an excellent, cost-free opportunity to engage in the popular sport of tennis during the mild days of early fall and throughout the spring months.

With Charles Hancoski, Art Department Junior, as court attendant, play was available from 4:00 p.m. until dark on week days and from noon until 5:30 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. Used balls were supplied students on request, as well as several rackets for those who reported without equipment of their own. Individual and group instruction was given by tennis coach Bill

Toporcer, on a schedule arranged by Warren Davis, faculty manager.

Loss through graduation of five of the varsity's top ranking players left holdovers Irv Crawford, Chemistry, and "Chuck" Hancoski, Art, to form the nucleus of the 1948 squad which was scheduled for home-and-home meets with the University of Buffalo and Genesee Junior College, and the annual fracas with the Faculty.

Bekir Arpag, Publishing and Printing Freshman from Ankara, Turkey, held the inside track on top ranking among the varsity newcomers when Technila went to press.

This year the Bowling League consisted of 36 teams evenly divided between A and B blocks. Each team bowled two games every Wednesday afternoon at Webber's Bowling Hall on South Plymouth. Competing for the $100 prize money this past year were teams from each department, and the competition was extremely keen. The Bowling League is run on a point system; three points are awarded for winning two games and having the greatest total number of pins recorded for the day.

At the time the pictures were taken Chemistry and Publishing and Printing Seniors were leading in their respective blocks.

To wind up the season, the League held a banquet on May 5 at the Melody Lane Restaurant. The League is looking forward to an even larger and more enthusiastic membership in the coming year.

This year's officers were: Nat Middleton, president; Ted Wheeldon, secretary; and Leslie Strobel, treasurer and faculty advisor.

LET THERE BE L-I-G-H-T!

The R. G. & E. congratulates the Rochester Institute of Technology on its contributions to Rochester's educational system. It commends its graduates for the part they will play in the future of electronics, engineering, photography and allied subjects.

One of the privileges of the utility business is to provide light for industry, for homes and for institutions like RIT. We believe that better light, among other things, makes for better students and increased knowledge. It is our belief that RIT graduates will help immeasurably to spread the light of their knowledge as they enter upon their chosen fields of work.
