HOLD SERVICES OF DEDICATION FOR NEW BUILDING

Congregational Church Has Impressive Ceremonies; Debt Cut to $22,000

The First Congregational church, of which Rev. C. M. Calderwood is pastor, yesterday was formally dedicated to the worship of God. Blake Franklin of 317 West Lexington drive, chairman of the building committee, at 5:20 p. m. yesterday, officially delivered the keys of the new church to H. W. Yarrick of 347 West Wilson avenue, chairman of the board of trustees. Although the cost of the building and organ, which has not yet been installed is $95,000, exclusive of the value of the site, this religious plant was accepted by its congregation with a total indebtedness of only about $22,000. Peter Hanson of 122 West Broadway had the honor of making the first pledge for $1000 at the dedication service. Over $2300 was pledged toward the building fund at the morning service and $4750 at the afternoon service. Although no special effort was made at the evening service to raise funds, over $500 was pledged.

Dedication Sermon

Dr. Daniel F. Fox, pastor of the First Congregational church of Pasadena, yesterday afternoon delivered the sermon of dedication. He asserted that the influence of the church in a community was proof of the influence of God in the Twentieth Century. He remarked that it was not necessary to go back into the old testament to prove that God is active in the affairs of men. He appealed to the congregation to make the new church, a worthy memorial to the influence of God in order that succeeding generations might be religiously influenced.

"The church isn't perfect," he declared, "and, as long as it retains the cheerful habit of receiving people into membership, I don't see how it can be perfect—do you?"

"It is a great thing to read history, but it is a greater thing to make history that is worth reading. That is the thing that the (Continued on Page 2)

Praises Harding Plan On Court of Justice

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—President Harding requested the senate to sanction American participation in the permanent court of international justice, organized by the League of Nations, only after inquiry had developed the utility of America's trying to promote a separate court, entirely disassociated from the league. It was stated officially here today.

While these explanations of administration policy were being made at the state department, at the capitol, Senator King, Democrat, Utah, a strong league man, introduced a resolution commending President Harding's proposal and announced he would call it up if the senate foreign relations committee did not act speedily. Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, the new Democratic leader, issued a lengthy statement terming the president's proposal as "practical recognition of the league."

Government Census of Public Wealth Planned

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—A government census of the public wealth in the United States was proposed this afternoon by Senator Norris, of Nebraska, in a resolution introduced in the senate.

The resolution would authorize the federal trade commission to determine the "total amount of the chief kinds of wealth," throughout the nation and the amount of annual increase in national wealth, including the amount of incomes exempt from taxation. Norris asked the investigation because "public debts, federal and state, have reached an enormous proportion of the total wealth."

Mrs. S. B. Morse of Glendale Wins Fine Silver Golf Trophy

GLENDALE women have won recognition in the athletic world, with Mrs. S. B. Morse of 143 South Everett street winning the silver golf trophy in the recent women's mid-winter tournament on the Griffith park links, defeating Miss Elizabeth Rowe, 1912 champion of Los Angeles.

There were ten women golfers entered and Mrs. Morse played five matches to win the trophy. It is interesting to know that Mrs. Morse's success comes after two years of golfing. Both Mr. and Mrs. Morse are golf enthusiasts and are members of the new Oakmont Country club. Mrs. Morse is now urging all Glendale women golfers to enter the women's round robin tournament to open on the Griffith park municipal links March 6. There will be no fees and Mrs. Morse says that the experience will get the Glendale golfers in trim for the opening of the Oakmont course.

Mail Bandit Escapes In Shower of Lead

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—An organized band of mail thieves, who are believed to have their main headquarters in Chicago, is being sought by postoffice inspectors today as the result of the latest robbery of a mail pouch from "No. 32," Chicago-New York flyer on the New York Central.

The bandit, escaping in a hail of bullets over heavily charged electric tracks and wiring, is believed by federal inspectors to have boarded the train at Albany, rode the beams into the city and then was "pulled off" his spectacular theft.

Postoffice agents, checking up on the value of the loot contained in the stolen mail pouch, scoff at reports that it will reach a speculative sum. They declare the amount would not be large, probably less than $10,000.

'Murder Mystery' Ends By Finding Boy Alive

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—While police were digging up the cellar under his home today on the theory that he had been murdered and buried, Anton Mitchell, Jr., 6, was found safe in the home of his grandmother.

The search began when the child's mother complained last night that she feared he had been kidnaped. How Anton got there he could not explain.

Uncle John Says:

She thinks Fred DeL has got quite a job keepin' a jump ahead of Glendale with telephone equipment so he can take care of the tremendous growth as it comes.

GERMANS MAKE NO EFFORT TO HALT FRENCH TROOPS

Only Passive Resistance to Continue; Refugees of Near East Dying

BULLETIN BERLIN, Feb. 26.—An unconfirmed report was received here this afternoon that four French soldiers were secretly shot at Duisburg after being found guilty of mutiny. According to the same source, "insubordination" is rife among the French forces of occupation.

ESSEN, Feb. 26.—The French troops that advanced in two sectors of the "Rhinefront," on Sunday consolidated their new positions today and prepared to take over additional customs depots.

The French advances were between Coblenz and Mayence. The French line was strengthened and incidentally the British zone of military occupation at the Cologne bridgehead has been nearly surrounded by the French.

The Germans did not attempt any resistance, but German civil officials in the new occupied zones today refused to give the French any assistance in establishing administrative offices.

German officials said that nothing would be done which would provoke an actual declaration of war by France, but that passive resistance would be continued.

Indications are piling up that the French are in the Ruhr for a long stay. The French government is inaugurating direct railway express service between Paris and this city.

Violence has increased over the week-end at some places. Two Germans who posed as French military officers entered a bank in this city and obtained 12,000,000 German marks and 24,000,000 marks in securities with which they escaped.

Crowds at Bochum hooted the French soldiers and an outbreak of disorder is seriously threatened.

Ex-Senator Perkins Dies at Oakland Home

OAKLAND, Feb. 26.—Former United States Senator George C. Perkins died at his home here today. He had been in ill health for several years.

Senator Perkins, who was born in Maine, August 23, 1839, had an extremely picturesque career. Although reared on the farm, he went to sea at the age of 13 and rose from cabin boy to a power in the political and financial world. He was a sailor before the mast until 1855, when he came to California on a sailing vessel. His rise was rapid. He established a mercantile business in San Francisco and then entered the banking, milling, mining and steamship business. He was a member of Perkins & Company, owners of the Pacific Steamship Company and was first to introduce steam whalers in the Arctic.

He served in the California senate from 1869 to 1876 and as governor from 1879 to 1883. He was appointed United States senator July 24, 1893, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Leland Stanford, serving by election for several succeeding terms. He was a Republican in politics. His offices were at 24 Market street, San Francisco.

Flu and Pneumonia Cases Fill Hospitals Of New York City

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—With hospitals crowded by "flu" and pneumonia cases and fuel scarcer than at any previous period this winter, New York is making every effort to bring barge loads of coal across the ice-choked Hudson river from New Jersey for a reserve supply.

Never before in the history of the city have hospitals been as overcrowded. Officials attribute this largely to the severe weather and shortage of fuel, in addition to a great many accident cases due to ice-covered pavements and slippery streets.

Coal movement across the Hudson will be continued day and night in an effort to relieve the emergency.

BURGLARS ENTER GLENDALE HOMES

Three Robberies Reported to Police Tell Loss of Cash and Gems

Three burglaries occurred late yesterday afternoon in Glendale. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Pelt, their daughter, Miss Anna Van Pelt, and Mr. Van Pelt's brother, R. A. Van Pelt, returned to 417 South Central avenue about 9:30 last night and found that their home had been entered during their absence.

All dresser drawers and a trunk had been hurriedly ransacked and left in a state of disorder. About $12 in cash was taken, but a larger sum in the same drawer was not found. The loot also included a gold watch belonging to R. A. Van Pelt and a gold chain and lavalliere belonging to Miss Anna Van Pelt.

Entry is believed to have been gained through one of the porch windows. A side door was left open.

A Swiss watch was stolen from the home of L. Bullis at 323 Roads End early Saturday night. Its absence was noted when the family returned home.

About $500 worth of jewelry was stolen from the Walter Haines home at 135 North Pacific avenue yesterday afternoon while the family was away on a picnic. The principal item was a diamond ring belonging to Mrs. Haines. Entry was made through a rear window.

U. S. ATTEMPTS TO STOP MERGER OF PACKING HOUSES

Government Serves Notice On Armour and Morris Of Law Violation

BULLETIN CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—"The Armour financing is complete and the action taken will have no effect upon the steps taken," said Alfred Austrian, personal counsel for J. Ogden Armour, when told today that Secretary Wallace had filed complaint against the Armour-Morris merger of packing interests.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The first move on the part of the United States government to prevent the merger of the great Armour and Morris packing interests was taken today when Secretary of Agriculture Wallace served formal notice on both companies that the amalgamation would be in violation of antitrust laws.

Wallace said he had learned that the Armour and Morris companies had entered into a tentative agreement for combine of their properties, but a merger is not fully consummated. He held merger of these companies would be a possible step to the amalgamation of all the so-called "big five" packers.

Hearing to Be Held Wallace will hold a hearing here on April 2 to review the evidence against the proposed combine and to hear the case of the packers.

At the conclusion of this hearing, if the evidence warrants, he has authority under the law to issue an order against the Armour and Morris companies to "cease and desist" in the merger project.

The packers would then have the right to appeal from this decision to the United States circuit court of appeal.

A fine of from $500 to $10,000 for each day's violation of the order and imprisonment up to five years is provided after final decision of the federal court.

The preliminary complaint filed by Secretary Wallace today charges that J. Ogden Armour, acting for the Armour corporation, contracted with Morris & Company to acquire all the assets of Morris & Company.

Creates Monopoly It is charged that this transaction "provides for the entire elimination of Morris & Company from the meat packing field and constitutes a violation of the packers and stockyards act in that the acquisition by the Armour interests of Morris & Company, including the capital stock or business of other corporations owned by Morris & Company of Illinois and Delaware, constitutes a restraint of interstate commerce and creates, or tends to create a monopoly in many sections and communities of the United States and foreign countries in the purchase of livestock products."

The consideration of the purchase of the Morris interests by Armour was given at $10,000,000 in cash, $10,000,000 in preferred stock and $10,000,000 in common stock of Armour and Company of Illinois and Delaware.

Asks Grand Jury to Indict League Leader

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The grand jury which began investigation of the anti-saloon league of New York state, will be asked to return an indictment charging grand larceny against William H. Anderson, superintendent of the dry organization.

An official statement to that effect was made today by Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand C. Pecora, who said he would base his demands on evidence gathered in connection with the alleged expenditure by Anderson of $24,700 of anti-saloon league funds.

Pecora said he expected the grand jury would be ready to vote on the indictment by the end of this week.

Great Britain Denies U. S. to Enter Europe

LONDON, Feb. 26.—While Great Britain is intensely desirous that the United States shall enter European affairs British officials declared they believed the time is not yet ripe for active American intervention in Central Europe.

At the foreign office it was denied that any decisive steps have been taken by the United States towards participation in European political and economic problems, nor has any official word been received from Washington that America contemplates such a step.

However, officials said indications are piling up that America is to burst from her isolation and enter actively into European affairs.

Foreign office officials, in saying that no negotiations between Washington and London are pending at present, said they believe the United States realized that the present is not an opportune time for intervention.

Mr. Akers had his back severely wrenched and two ribs broken. His other daughter, Miss Thelma Z. Reports given by Mr. Akers and his daughters and by witnesses who hurried to their aid state that Mr. Akers and his family were driving west on Tenth street and were just turning south on Raymond avenue when Daniels' big machine, traveling at an excessive rate of speed approached going east on Tenth.

CHURCH TYPIFIES GROWTH OF CITY

Edifice Is Dedicated With Impressive Ceremony by Congregation

Significant in the growth of Glendale is the history of the establishment and growth of the Congregational church, which yesterday dedicated its fine new $95,000 church at the northwest corner of North Central and Wilson avenue.

It was in the fall of 1911 that the foundation for the present church organization was laid. On September 8, 1911 Rev. E. H. Willisford visited Glendale and made arrangements for holding services in the K. of P. hall. Preliminary organization steps following this were: October 1, 1911, first session of church school held with twelve scholars attending; October 11, first mid-week prayer meeting held at the home of Rev. Willisford and a woman's auxiliary was organized; November 26, the church was formally organized in the K. of P. hall with twenty-two persons becoming members.

Bought Church Site

The next year, 1912, was particularly significant in the church's history because on May 2 of that year the two lots at the corner of North Central and Wilson avenues were purchased for $1900 and work on a building was started. This building was dedicated on June 30 and on July 1 Rev. E. H. Willisford was formally installed as pastor. In December 1914 additions were made to the church building.

Rev. W. J. Marsh served as temporary pastor during 1918 in the absence of the regular pastor.

On September 5, 1919, the church mortgage was burned.

The resignation of Rev. Willisford was presented in June 1920 and on November 1, 1920, Rev. Charles M. Calderwood became his successor.

Built New Church

Plans for the new building were discussed and a building committee was appointed May 1, 1921 and ground was broken for the new church on May 12, 1922.

The last service in the old church was held on May 14 and the cornerstone of the new building was laid July 30, 1922.

The first service in the new building was on January 14, 1923, and the dedicatory ceremonies were held yesterday.

Some statistical facts found in the church's history show that the membership is now 280, with 75 new members to be received March 4; the membership of the Sunday school 200; the Woman's Auxiliary 50; the Women's Missionary Society 50; the Y. P. S. C. E. 30; Boy Scouts 40; Girl Scouts 40.

Total Cost $110,000

Members of the building committee overseeing the erection of the new building are Blake Franklin, Charles L. Peckham, Hartley Shaw, G. W. Schutte and E. D. Yard.

Financial data in regard to the new building are given as: value of lots $15,000; cost of building $85,000; cost of equipment $10,000; total $110,000.

And further: equity in lots fully paid for $15,000; equity in new building and equipment $25,000; subscriptions receivable $10,000; amount to be raised with the opening of the recent campaign $60,000.

Announcement of the result of the campaign is given elsewhere in the Glendale Evening News.

THREE SERVICES FOR DEDICATION

Impressive Ceremonies Take Place at Congregational Church on Sunday

people of this church have been doing during the past few months.

Visiting Pastors

Rev. George P. Kennigott of Los Angeles, superintendent of the Congregational churches of southern California, remarked to the congregation at the afternoon service:

"I congratulate you on your minister as well as your church. You are fortunate in having a wise leader with far-seeing ideals."

Greetings to the congregation and best wishes for the prosperity of the new church were extended by Rev. Carl Patton, pastor of the First Congregational church of Los Angeles; Rev. James H. Lash, pastor of the First Congregational church of Hollywood; Rev. E. Morgan Isaac, pastor of the Congregational church of Eagle Rock, and Rev. Henry I. Rasmus, pastor of the First Methodist church of Glendale.

The acoustics of the church were the subject of much favorable comment.

The choir, which was highly complimented, was directed by Howard E. Cavanah of 520 North Kenwood street, who arranged a special musical service for the evening worship. Mrs. Emma Hopkins of 659 North Central avenue played a harp solo and Julius Kranz of 115 West Eulalia street played a violin selection. A quartet consisted of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Cavanah, Mrs. Walter Q. Widdows of 1246 Winchester street and Myron Carman of 363 Salem street. Mrs. Gertrude Champlin Erb of 441 Hawthorne street is the church accompanist.

Evening Service

Rev. Frank Dyer of the Wilshire Congregational church, delivered the sermon at the evening service.

Rev. Luman H. Royce of Los Angeles, superintendent of the Congregational Church Extension society, extended greetings to the church at the morning service.

"The Power of the Church" was the subject of the morning sermon by Rev. C. M. Calderwood, who remarked: "No institution so divides public opinion as does the church of today. It has provoked the most bitter attacks; it has inspired the most ardent devotion. No institution is more utterly hated, more coldly neglected, more contemptuously despised and more misunderstood and abused, and, on the other hand, more loved than the church."

"In every age the church has been subjected to fiery trial and relentlessly criticized. Because its work concerns great things the church should expect and not resent criticism. The amount of criticism that the church receives is a measure of its vitality. People do not criticize that which is dead.

"We must not forget that the church, though divine in its origin and spirit, is still human, for there are many human beings in it. It carries the message of God but its messengers are men."

Music Is Feature of Casa Verdugo Church

A solo by Mrs. R. D. Jones of 322 East Dryden street was a feature of the morning services yesterday at the Casa Verdugo Methodist church.

Rev. J. C. Livingston preached on "Some Provoking Things, Good and Bad." In the morning and at night on "Seeing Jesus."

Evening music included a duet, "Drifting," by J. W. Cotton of 1137 San Rafael road and R. D. Jones.

QUIZ BRINGS OUT PRAISE OF WIVES

Husbands Reveal Virtues of Partners in Letters to Rev. Cole

"My wife has many virtues for which I praise her daily; if she has any faults, I try to shut my eyes to them, for I have so many of my own that it doesn't behoove me to say a word."

This recipe for connubial bliss was "philosophized" recently by a local man whose name is unknown, but who may be sure of a hot dinner and a hospitable reception any time he shows up at almost any of the 9200 homes in this vicinity.

"Friend Husband" had his inspiring last night at the Central Christian church.

Rev. C. A. Cole devoted the evening sermon to comment upon the questionnaires returned to him on the subject, "Our Wives, Their Virtues and Faults."

"Above all things else the average man wants in his wife a sweet temper," declared one communication. "Any ordinary fault is buried and forgotten in the smile which comes from natural sweetness of temper. In our household we have found that mutual forbearance is the one quality which promotes happiness, peace and sweetness of temper and it is being cultivated to that end. It was fore-ordained that man should contend against missing buttons and undarned socks, but what are the odds when there are smiles and warm biscuits?"

Wives Are Praised

An excellent reference was given to one local wife by her husband because "She combs her hair before coming into the kitchen in the morning, even at 4 a. m., when she gets up to prepare my breakfast. She never has the dummy or pointing spells."

"A peacemaker" is the term of endearment one husband used toward his better eight-ninths. He remarked: "Any differences, especially between members of the household of faith, so distress her that she neglects no opportunity to bring about peace. She will not speak evil of others, but constantly tries to see the good in people. Her faults? Yes, she has some, possibly, but her virtues so overshadow them that they are as if they did not exist."

Pessimism does not please another husband, who asserted that his wife could always see the hole in the doughnut, but had trouble seeing the doughnut. However, he evened up the score by concluding: "While she has faults, her virtues far outweigh them, and I know that I am not worthy of such a good woman."

Idol Is Broken

The speaker then called attention to the dream of the great image with head of fine gold, breast and arms of silver, body of brass, legs of iron, feet and toes of iron and clay, and the stone smiting the image, breaking it in pieces, and filling the whole earth.

"We learn that the head of gold represented the kingdom over which Nebuchadnezzar ruled—the Babylonian kingdom," continued Elder Parmele. "This was succeeded, as history attests, by the Medo-Persian kingdom, symbolized by the breast and arms of silver, and this in turn by Greece, represented by the sides of brass. Then came the 'iron monarchy,' Rome, as Gibbon calls it, which was represented by the legs of iron. Between the years 351 and 482 the Roman monarchy was divided into ten parts, as represented by the toes of the image. These should never, according to the prophecy, become united. Though they should 'mingle with the seed of men,'—intermarry—they could not unite. Though Napoleon, or Charlemagne, and lastly the German Kaiser, should seek to bring them all under one flag, they shall not cleave on to the other."

"Then what? In the days of these kings," says verse 44, "shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed. For that kingdom we are now to look. It is soon to come. Europe is now more divided than ever, and it seems impossible ever to bring about again even as much union as existed before 1914. Let us definitely prepare for that new kingdom—the kingdom of Christ. For the dream is certain and the interpretation thereof sure."

CHRIST'S SECOND COMING IS TOLD

Adventist Elder Interprets Prophecy of Daniel to Congregation

"What Shall Come to Pass Hereafter" was the subject of the sermon delivered last night by Elder R. W. Parmele before the local Seventh Day Adventists.

The sermon was based on the second chapter of Daniel. Elder Parmele expressed his belief that only discord can be expected in Europe until prophesy is fulfilled.

"While peace may be patched up for a time," he remarked, "it will be only temporary. No permanent peace can be arranged until the coming of the Prince of Peace."

"Nimrod, the great, the mighty hunter before the Lord," led a rebellion against God, and sought to establish upon earth a government of his own. It was the design of that kingdom to unite all people into one kingdom with a man-made government. The Tower of Babel was erected with the purpose of colonizing the whole world. But God miraculously changed the whole plan by confusing their languages, and thus it has been rendered still more difficult to centralize the inhabitants of the earth.

King's Vision

"Nebuchadnezzar, the first king of Babylon, by the force of arms brought all kingdoms to recognize his rule. He embellished the old Tower of Babel, erected a grand city around it, with an impenetrable wall so far as the instruments of war at that time were concerned. Then he began to wonder if his kingdom would stand. Just at this time a vision was given him, which brought on a night of wakefulness, but he could not recall the scenes of the vision. All others having failed to reveal to him the secret, Daniel, a Hebrew captive, was called in, and addressed to him these words:

"O king, thy thoughts came into thy mind upon thy bed what shall come to pass hereafter? How many people there are in the world at the present time of unrest and uncertainty who are thinking the same thoughts! And it is well that we should for we have reached a strange time in the history of the world. In some places civilization seems almost breaking down, and former standards of morality and equity are giving way to base and loose habits and customs. Why should we not enquire what shall come to pass hereafter?"

"We are especially interested in this dream because Daniel says God in heaven 'maketh known to the king Nebuchadnezzar what shall be in the latter days.' So, when we study this vision, we, too, may know what shall be."

Lutheran Pastor Raps Indifference to Christ

"What think ye of Christ?" was the basis of the sermon yesterday afternoon by Rev. Henry O. Kringsel before the congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran church.

"It is indeed a sad fact that this question occupies the mind of men so little," he remarked. "Is it not astonishing that people who occupy themselves with important questions on finance and other problems of the day, think so little of this all-important question? Let us not become guilty of this gross indifference toward Christ and our soul's eternal welfare."

The sermon concluded as follows: "Pharisees, with what have you to reproach Jesus?" "He catcheth with publicans and sinners." "Pilate, what is your opinion?" "I find no fault in this man."

"And you, Judas, who have sold your master for silver, have you some fearful charge to hurl against Him?" "I have sinned in that I have betrayed the innocent blood."

Western mountains of North America are among the richest in gold in the world.

DINNER FOR PAIR WEDDED 53 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Meckfessel Are Given Surprise Party by Daughter

When Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Meckfessel of 610 North Jackson street were invited by their daughter Mrs. J. C. Enfield to have dinner Saturday night at her home at 126 North Orange street they didn't think that they were to be the honored guests. But on their arrival they found a gathering of relatives and a beautifully decorated dinner table celebrating the fifty-third anniversary of their wedding that took place February 24, 1870, in St. Louis, Missouri.

St. Louis was the young bride's native city, while the bridegroom came to the United States from his native town near Berlin, Germany. He came to this country when he was but 18 years of age and it was shortly after this that he met Julia Salsell, six months younger than himself. They were married when he was 20 and she 19.

Seven Children

Following their marriage they made their home in St. Louis, where they lived for forty-two years and where their seven children were born.

Of this little family the parents and three daughters and two sons are living. The daughters, who were all present for the anniversary dinner are Mrs. J. C. Enfield and Mrs. Lydia P. Burn of Glendale and Mrs. Millie Bateman of Los Angeles.

The sons are Fred Meckfessel of St. Louis, and Will Meckfessel of Rochester, New York. They have four grandchildren.

After their forty-two years of residence in St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Meckfessel moved to Rochester, New York, where they spent nine years. It was four years ago that they came to Glendale to spend the winter and so pleased were they with California that they returned three years ago to reside here permanently.

Sister Present

For many years Mr. Meckfessel was connected with the Eastman Kodak company.

Yellow was the color chosen by Mrs. Enfield for the table decorations for the dinner Saturday night, a large bouquet of jonquils being the centerpiece. Acacia branches were used about the room.

A pleasurable feature of the dinner was the presence of Mrs. Meckfessel's sister, Mrs. M. S. Webb of Pasadena, who was present at the wedding fifty-three years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Meckfessel were the recipients of many congratulatory messages upon the occasion and their relatives presented them with a large aquarium for the garden in their little home on North Jackson street.

The dinner company included Mr. and Mrs. Meckfessel, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Burn and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Enfield of Glendale; Mr. and Mrs. J. Bateman, Jr., and Miss Aliene Bateman of Los Angeles; and Mrs. M. S. Webb of Pasadena.

SEEK CORPSE OF MURDERED CHILD

6-Year-Old Girl Assaulted And Thrown in River Sister Declares

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26.—The creeks and sewers of the congested northeast district of this city are to be searched by 300 police and many citizens in an effort to locate the body of six-year-old Lillian Kilmore, kidnaped, brutally assaulted and thrown from a motor car late Saturday night.

Wylie F. Morgan, 39, who was dramatically identified as a suspect in the crime by Lillian's four-year-old sister, Dorothy, who was also abducted by the kidnaper, was subjected to a severe cross-questioning at detective headquarters this morning, but his answers were evasive. He will be arraigned today.

Morgan, according to police, was arrested following a house-to-house canvass of the section where the crime occurred, and was found to have bloodstained clothing in his room. Shortly after his arrest, Dorothy Gilmore identified him from a group of plain clothes policemen.

Possibility that the missing child's body has been thrown into the Delaware river is seen, in Dorothy's assertion that "the man threw Lillian on the ice."

Lynching Feared.

Fear of a lynching last night caused a special police guard, armed with riot guns, to be assigned to take Morgan to the detective bureau.

The story of the crime, as pieced together by detectives, follows:

On Saturday afternoon, Dorothy and Lillian, playing in front of their home, were asked if they would "like to ride" by a motorist. They climbed into the strange car and were watched out of sight by their ten-year-old sister, Elsie, who sat at the window of the house. At six o'clock the parents notified the police. Finally Dorothy was found shivering and sobbing three squares from her house.

"Lilly's dead, the bad man killed her," burst from the child's lips in response to questions. Shuddering with horror, the little girl told how the car had been stopped on a lonely road near some icy spot, and Lillian apparently attacked and then hurled from the car.

Letters were found on Morgan, showing that he comes from Maud, Tex.

Police Kill Alleged Slayer in Gun Fight

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26.—Storming a house in West Philadelphia, police early today shot and killed "Big Frank" Berger, alias Moore, 38, said to be wanted in Pittsburgh on a murder charge, and wounded and captured John Doyle, a local gangster, said to be the slayer of Tommy Loftus, underworld character. One policeman was wounded in the battle.

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Purge the Penitentiaries Unbecoming Conduct Utah's Freak Legislation Three Happy Marriages

By Gil A. Cowan

IMMEDIATE removal of lepers from the state's prison at San Quentin should be demanded by the public, even if it takes an executive order to exterminate the two unfortunate victims of the malady.

Far better it would be to electrocute these two life termers, whose death is assured anyway, than to let the other helpless convicts go mad under the spell of fearfulness which The Los Angeles Times has exposed.

In the name of all that is good and holy this civilization should not shrink from its duty of protecting those men whom it sentences to a penal institution from either the disease itself or the fear thereof.

No matter what sanitary precautions are taken, no matter if there is no danger so far as medical men can assure us, the fact remains that lepers are in San Quentin and they should be done away with at once.

The people of the state of California are too humane, too considerate of their fellow men to permit prisoners to believe they are being sentenced to "a house of Lazarus." Action must be taken at once, if it takes every dollar in the state treasury to do it.

And this expose by a newspaper might be followed by a little more publicity regarding the penal institutions. They should be purged of all things which a man's man will not accept with mind's ease.

Further, all able-bodied prisoners should be taken without the prison walls to work on the highways. They should be treated as men until they prove themselves otherwise.

The commission of crime necessarily deprives them of liberty, of vote, of legal recourse, but never should it deprive them of the right to live as you and I.

This state needs to lead the way in reformation of its criminals. The broadest minded men, the most humanitarian among us should be drafted to serve on the commission which looks after the welfare of the prisoners.

If Governor Richardson would do nothing else than see to it that the men turned loose from the state's prisons during his term were really reformed, it would be an achievement equal to saving the state millions in budget economies.

Drunken congressmen should be thrown bodily down the steps of our national capitol. That was a thought expressed Saturday. From all evidences the advice was needed.

To hear Representative Gallivan tell of the situation existing last week one senator needs to be sent home in disgrace and others need public reprimand.

Especially is this true of those who voted for the Volstead act and then proceeded to get intoxicated and make a scene in the lobbies of our legislative houses.

There is no more rhyme or reason to their actions than there is for a man to "shoot up" a town. They are beyond themselves in mental equilibrium. And they need to be settled, once and for all.

At the same time we sympathize with those who did not vote for prohibition measures and have to abide by the rule of the majority. They are to be pitied, rather than censured.

Utah again is making history for itself. Through the work of one wealthy old lady, who insisted travelers should not smoke in the lobby of Hotel Utah, Salt Lake City, because she "roomed" there, the state has been thrown into chaos.

The anti-smoking law, unless repealed, will bring about another contest between the state and the Mormon church, which approached open revolt some years ago. It took the commanding officer of Fort Douglas to settle that squabble. He trained his guns on Salt Lake City's hall and ordered the American flag to replace that of the state of Utah. It did.

The question now arises, "Will history repeat itself? It usually does."

J. Will Johnson, who hails from Pueblo, Colo., was telling me yesterday that he served on the city council there for six years. "We bought a park and paid $100,000 for it," he recounted. "Some of the people howled about it then, but that park today is worth $300,000. Glendale can afford to buy lots of land while there is vacant property left."

It takes a stranger to see our needs. How penny-wise it was for Glendale to have passed up the opportunity ten years ago of acquiring Verdugo park. Yet there is no need of criticizing either errors of commission or omission.

Time, and time alone, will tell who is right and who is wrong in matters of public policy.

Every day we read of people unhappily married. In the last few days the writer has noted the following couples celebrating wedding anniversaries for more than a half century.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Pearson, 644 East Harvard street, 57 years, married on Tuesday, February 20.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Meckfessel, 610 North Jackson street, 53 years, married on Saturday, February 24.

SEAL TUT'S TOMB TILL NEXT FALL

Shrine of Egypt's King Will Be Guarded by Police to Foil Vandals

LUXOR, Egypt, Feb. 26.—Tons of limestone today were dumped over the 3000-year-old tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, in the valley of the Kings, to protect it until the Egyptologists again open it, some time next autumn.

Sluice gates have been installed to prevent water from entering the tomb and ruining the antique relics in event of a cloudburst during the rainy season.

Throughout the summer Egyptian military police will stand guard before the ancient burial shrine to protect it from grave robbers or from those who would destroy the mummy to prevent the "sacrilege of public exhibition."

Lord Carnarvon and Howard Carter, chiefs of the exploration party which found the tomb, have not made definite plans, but it is believed they will re-open the tomb at the end of October.

Pacific-Southwest Review

By D. H. SMITH, Manager Brand Boulevard Branch Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank.

The extent and grandeur of our system of National Parks is incomparable. Nowhere in the world is there anything to equal the passing beauty of its individual units or the wide variety of scenery offered by the whole. The attractions of the Parks run the gamut of scenic beauty from the stupendous gorgeously tinted walls of the Grand Canyon to the graceful wisps of falls in the Yosemite. Glaciers, lakes, giant redwoods, high mountains, geysers, volcanoes—anything that is to be found anywhere is in our National Park system.

That the people of the United States appreciate the recreational and educational advantages of their National Parks is indicated by the tremendous travel which has flowed into them during the past several years. The Parks' visiting lists for 1921 and 1922 showed more than a million visitors for each year.

Information recently made public by the Department of the Interior shows that the cost of maintaining the splendid system of National Parks and Monuments, which have been referred to as "the greatest heritage of any people on earth," is but one cent and one mill for each individual in the United States. The government estimates that in 1924, about 1,200,000 of these park properties will enjoy them. In order to keep down the per capita cost of maintenance, the policy is to have these actual Park visitors pay in indirect or direct revenue a large proportionate share of the total cost.

The people of the Pacific-Southwest should be particularly interested in the National Parks for this district more than any other in the country is "the land of out-of-doors." Many of the Parks are either situated within the boundaries of this territory or within easy journey from it.

Every citizen should be personally and vitally interested in protecting the Parks, not only because of his own selfish appreciation of them, but also as a duty to posterity. With the progress of civilization these are fast becoming the "last frontiers" of America and they must be protected, officials declare. Every year thousands of acres of timber land are devastated through the carelessness of campers. Congress has just appropriated $25,000 for use during 1924 in fighting forest fires which occur within the National Parks. A very large percentage of the fires are avoidable if those who go to enjoy nature in these preserves, will carefully observe the rules laid down by Park authorities. In 1921 there were 5,851 fires in the National Forests of our country which burned over 376,208 acres of timbered and open land, or 2.4 per cent of the total net area of the forests. An astounding fact is that seventy-five per cent of all the fires that occurred were due to human agencies, and could have been prevented by care and vigilance on the part of the forest users.

There is another great menace to the preservation of our National Parks. There are private interests constantly striving to obtain the sanction of Congress to use the natural resources of our Parks to promote their own selfish ends. The Parks belong to all the people, are theirs to enjoy and should be preserved, unmarred by the hands of men, for their children. Government officials believe these interests should be made to understand that for all time the National Parks shall be kept free of such projects.

In the Interior Department Bill, approved January 24, Congress appropriated for the fiscal year 1924, $1,689,730 for the administration, protection, maintenance and improvement of National Parks and Monuments.

BRAKES ON ALL FOUR WHEELS

Making Use of All Tire Adhesion For Stopping Purposes

Although commonly used on European passenger cars for some time past, four wheel brakes have just appeared in the American market in answer to the insistent demand for improved stopping ability required to secure safety under present-day traffic conditions. It is the adhesion of the tires to the road which measures the retarding power of brakes and the amount of this adhesion is proportional to the weight resting upon the tires of brake equipped wheels. Less than two-thirds of the average car's weight rests upon the rear wheels and therefore the stopping ability of the ordinary car is fully one-third less than it would be if the front wheels also were braked. The principal cause of skidding is the locking of braked wheels, and their resultant sliding, for they slide in one direction as readily as in any other and all direction control is then lost. With brakes on all four wheels, sufficient retarding effect should be obtainable, without locking any wheel and skidding should thus be largely prevented. With the braking effect distributed over four instead of two drums, the burning of linings should be less likely. Among the objections to four wheel brakes are their cost and the complication involved in operating the bands on the front

NEW PLUGS FOR OLD

C. H. B. asks: Does it pay to install new spark plugs in an engine once a year, even though the plugs in use seem to fire regularly? I have heard this practice advised quite strongly.

Answer: We are rather incredulous as to the need of doing this, although we know it to be recommended in certain quarters. However, there is undoubtedly a deterioration of spark-plug cores, which results from service. For instance, the glaze may fall and the porcelain become penetrated by carbon particles, diminishing its insulating properties and causing some leakage of current through it, so that the energy in the spark becomes diminished to such an extent that ignition fails or occurs only by a narrow margin, under heavy engine loads. If your present plugs have seen long service, say 10,000 miles and the engine seems a little "uncertain," it might be worth you while to put in new plugs all around and see if improvements result. This would give you some spares, at least.

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Daily News Letter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad.

TODAY—William G. Cayce, Los Angeles, writes of a new kind of gypsy; the modern type, who rides in automobiles and doesn't trade horses.

TOMORROW—A Kansas legislator wants to pass a law making public officers charged with law enforcement responsible and punishable for non-suppression of a mob, which in Kansas may consist of only three persons, writes Douglas G. Tinsley.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26.—The care-free gypsies that roamed the highways at random 20 long years ago are not the same as the gypsies of today. The advent of the motor car has put a dent in the romance of present life of these "knights of the open road."

The old horses, the broken down nags that were once turned loose and allowed to roam the commons outside of every city in the land, have been replaced by the gasoline-driven machine. Their make-shift camps with the string of horses in various stages of usefulness, fancy spring wagons and the several dogs that always accompanied such a caravan are gone, but the gypsies still remain.

A gypsy camp, as found by the correspondent, in Southern California's famous San Fernando Valley, is a striking illustration. The camp is clean. There isn't a piece of horse flesh in sight. The only dog to be seen was one belonging to a resident, which barked and raised the hair on the back of his neck at the sight of the multi-colored gypsy dresses.

Parked around the square in between the tents were high-powered motor cars of all makes. There was even a new two-ton truck.

There was one thing just the same, however. No sooner was the camp approached than a swarm of little children, dirty and with unkempt hair, crowded around and chorused:

"Meester, geeve me moony! Moony, Meester! Geeve me a quoter, hey, Meester!"

In one of the tents, squatted on the floor, was the grandmother of the tribe. In true gypsy fashion she traded a match for some

RADIO RECEPTION

In the immediate preceding articles we have discussed the principal units composing a receiver or tuner; it is now possible to turn our attention to the various types of tuners and their circuits.

The fundamental principle of the reception of radio signals is that of resonance, which, although we have discussed this important phenomena in the articles dealing with the underlying principles of radio, it is well to review.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping along over the snow-covered fields, on his way to play Scotch checkers with Grandfather Goosey Gander, the rabbit gentleman met Sammie Littletail. Sammie had a paper bag filled with dried bread crusts, some cracked corn, a few oats and some wheat.

"What's going on, Sammie?" asked Uncle Wiggily of his rabbit nephew. "Are you going to have a play party in the woods this cold snowy day?"

"No thank you," laughed Sammie. "If I were, I'd take along something better to eat than this. I don't like corn and oats. I should think you would feed as many birds as you could on these wintry days when food is so hard to get under the snow."

"Oh, I do feed the birds," said Sammie. "Every morning Susie and I throw out the crumbs from the breakfast table. But I am now going to feed one special bird friend of mine who lives in a hole under the root of a big tree. He went in there the other day when it snowed so hard, and he's been there ever since. I saw him on my way home from school, and I've been feeding him ever since."

"What kind of a bird is it?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I don't know," Sammie answered. "But he has a big brown tail like a fan and a ruffle of feathers around his neck."

"Can it be a wild turkey?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I don't know," answered Sammie. "I had better go with you and see who this strange bird may be that you are feeding," spoke Uncle Wiggily.

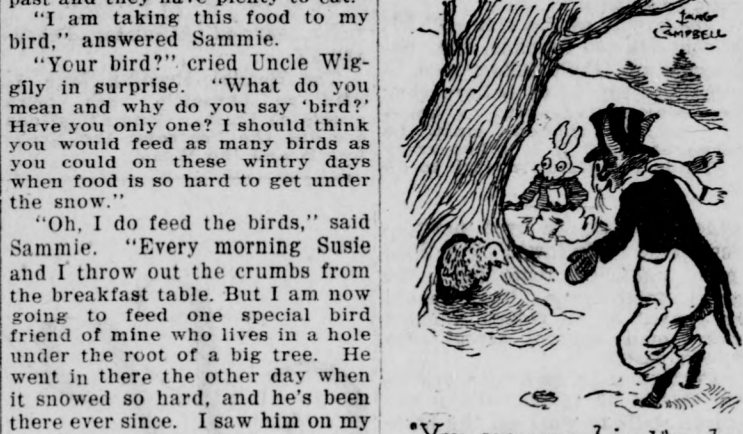

"Maybe it's the Bob Cat or the Fox with bird feathers stuck on, trying to play a trick."

"Oh, I think not," Sammie said. "A Bob Cat or Fox wouldn't eat corn, oats and wheat with bread crumbs."

"You never can tell," remarked Uncle Wiggily, and then the bunny rabbit gentleman hopped along with Sammie until they came to where a large tree grew slanting out from a side hill. Under the roots of the tree was a sort of hollow place like a cave, and in this there was no snow.

"Come on out, Mr. Bird," called Sammie. "I have brought you more good things to eat."

"Oh, thank you," replied a voice. Uncle Wiggily saw some brown feathers and then the voice cried: "Who is that with you—a stranger, I'm afraid! Will he harm me?"

"You are very kind," spoke the Ruffled Grouse.

"I'm glad Sammie took you for his bird to feed and look after you."

"He is very kind," said the Grouse. "I'd like to do you and him a favor."

And just then he sneaked the Fuzzy Fox. But the Grouse saw the bad animal just in time, and at once the Grouse began flapping his wings, making a noise just like the beating of a drum, for the Grouse is the only bird who can do that.

"Duh! Duh! Rub-a-dub-dub!" beat the Grouse.

"Oh, there must be soldiers coming with a drum! Soldiers who will shoot me!" howled the Fox, and away he ran not nibbling Uncle Wiggily's ears at all.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the bunny gentleman. "Your drumming frightened away the Fox, Mr. Grouse, and you have done Sammie and me a favor." Then the Grouse ate the corn and other food and Sammie and Uncle Wiggily hopped on their way to feed other birds.

And if the breakfast orange doesn't hide in the apple pie when the soup spoon wants to tickle it to hear it laugh, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the snowballs.

APPARATUS AND DEVICES

By RALPH BROWN, RADIO ENGINEER

VARIOCOUPLER

The stator is of bakelite tube, mounted at a 45-degree angle to the panel, which makes it possible to obtain a 180-degree selectivity of coupling.

Experimenters, often miss the best results by utilizing a poorly constructed coupler.

The illustration depicts a variocoupler produced by a reliable firm of radio engineers at a comparatively low cost. The rotor is made of molded condensite, wound with silk-covered wire, thoroughly coated with "Visolac." Electrical connections to the rotor are made by flexible Belden braid, eliminating the trouble usually found when sliding contacts are used.

Wife Gone Ten Years, Mate Wins Annulment

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—A decree of annulment has been issued by Justice A. H. Seeger of the supreme court, under the so-called Enoch Arden act. It sets aside the marriage of William Sheehan of Maybrook, to Margaret Sheehan, who he alleges vanished nearly ten years ago.

The couple were married in Jersey City, twenty-one years ago.

receiving circuit must be in resonance with the transmitting circuit. It is this fact that makes an understanding of radio entirely dependent upon an understanding of the principles of resonance.

High frequency oscillations radiated as ether waves from a transmitting antenna will set up characteristic oscillations in a receiving antenna within their path or range. However, the best results can only be obtained, as explained above, when these two circuits are in resonance, or as, commonly termed in radio parlance, "in tune."

To properly understand this phenomena it would be well to take examples well known to everybody with even a slight knowledge of music, or through acoustics.

Strange Funeral Asked By Woman Not Given

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 26.—"I request that my funeral begin at 10 a. m. After 20 minutes' silence, let those desiring to speak or sing do so. Then I wish all present to shake hands."

In this peculiar way Dr. Mary L. Briggs, for many years practicing physician in the village of Dryden, lay down the procedure for her own funeral.

She died at her home in Dryden and her funeral was held in the usual way and without the observances requested by Dr. Briggs, because the will was not found until afterwards.

Woodchopper inherits Fortune of $100,000

FORT WORTH, Texas, Feb. 26.—Walter Browning rolled up his sleeves, grabbed his axe, eyed his keen edge and began a slow, muscular swing at a stick of wood in front of him.

But the blade didn't reach the wood just then, the swing stopped in midair, for a stranger accosted him with the information that Browning was heir to $100,000 left him by a kinsman.

SPORTS

The World Over

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

If all accounts are to be credited, the promoters of the Tanforan race course near San Francisco which expects to have a race meet of 25 days beginning next November 3, will go into the venture expecting to lose money. This is a mighty unusual precedent, but the fact of this matter is that the venture is being undertaken by a coterie of men headed by the California millionaire Rudolph Spreckels who intend to get their fun out of the running of the horses, and if the public wants to pay an admission, it will go just that much further to offset the cost of the fun.

Betting is what supports the tracks of the country and the millionaire Tanforan promoters are going to have 25 days of betting racing in order to adhere to the laws of the state which forbids betting in any way. Spreckels himself has stated that he favors the old form of bookmaking to the pari-mutual system, but so long as the electorate has willed that there be no betting at all, there will be no betting.

Spreckels, with his coterie of partners, all are lovers of the horse, and the sport of racing, and their idea seems to be that they are willing to pay for the gratification of indulging in their hobby. Incidentally they believe that it will encourage the breeding of better stock.

The stakes put up for the attraction of horsemen are quite as valuable, in the long run, as the average that are being raced for on other tracks of the country and the promoters are going into their own pockets. Just how long the "boys" will be willing to pay for this expensive sort of sport remains to be seen, but they all have more than ordinarily deep purses. Otherwise they could not embark on such a venture. For those who are decrying the commercialism in sport, Tanforan offers a good example of the promotion of a sport for sport's sake alone.

All the arrangements have been completed for the twelfth annual championship of the California-Nevada trapshooting association. The shoot will be held on March 8, 9, 10, 11 and will be under the auspices of the Olympic club of San Francisco on their Lakeside traps. The state amateur handicap will be shot off on the last day of the meet.

Tens of thousands of fans all over the country are sincerely delighted to see the name of Christy Mathewson again appearing on the sports pages in connection with his interest in the Boston Nationals. It seems fairly conclusive proof that the former great pitcher definitely has won his great battle against the white plague with which he was beset and which laid him at the outer portals of death's gate.

Sports Chatter

By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

That professional boxers know the art of conditioning athletes is exemplified in the fact that five clubs of the Pacific Coast Baseball league have successfully solved the physical welfare of their players by engaging former professional boxers as trainers. The experimental stage of having boxers act as trainers is passed in the Coast league and the example set some years ago by one club has now been followed by four of the other eight clubs in the league.

While different muscles are used in boxing to those engaged primarily in baseball, the fact remains the system employed for one sport can be adapted and followed in the other. Further than the actual preparation of the man and his muscles, etc., one of the fundamental factors necessary for a trainer is to know just when a player is actually in condition and once there how to keep the man fit. That is what has been accomplished by the five former boxers now acting as trainers in the Pacific Coast baseball league.

Probably the most famous of the trainer boxers is "Young Peter" Jackson. He has been trainer of the Salt Lake team for several years and has proved most successful. In his day Jackson was one of the most noted welter weights of the country and had aspirations for the world title. He fought many of the best in the game and among others went twenty rounds to a draw with Joe Walcott, ko'd Philadelphia

Jack O'Brien in thirteen rounds in San Francisco, beat Dan Creedon in five rounds at Baltimore, beat Mike Donovan in twenty rounds at Los Angeles and many other noted stars opposed the famed negro in his day. Jackson is an assumed name and the legal name of the Salt Lake team trainer is Sam Tompkins.

The other former boxers in the league are Bobby Johnson with Seattle, Jack Downey with Sacramento, Billy Burke with Portland and Denny Carroll with San Francisco.

Johnson, in his day, was a bantam and feather and fought all the leading boys of the day. He aspired for the world bantam title, but his ambitions were stopped when the then champion Frankie Neil in 1902, knocked out Johnson in two rounds. Other stars among the little chaps Johnson fought were Eddie Hanlon, Monte Attell and Percy Love.

Jack Downey twice fought the present world heavyweight champion, Jack Dempsey. This was just at the time that Dempsey started out in the professional ring. In the first encounter which was at Salt Lake Dempsey and Downey fought a four-round draw and a year later Dempsey hung his now famous kno on Downey in the second round.

Billy Burke last year trained Seattle, but this year will condition the players of the Portland team. Burke had a six-round affair with the famous Peter Maher in his day, Maher knocking Burke down six times, but was unable to punch him away. Denny Carroll of the San Francisco team was never a serious professional boxer, though he has boxed in the commercial zone. He achieved his fame in the amateur ring as a swimmer, and he has been trainer of the San Francisco club for five years and is rated one of the best conditioners of men in any branch of sports in the west.

Coast League Lads Get Ready for Work

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26.—Reports from all Coast league baseball league baseball training camps indicated today that all the old time regulars, with a very few exceptions—holdouts—would begin the pre-season training grind in earnest.

Up at Boyes Springs where the Seals are the rookies, have turned in two victories over the so-called regulars.

All but six of the Oaks' squad were on hand at Myrtleale today. Cooper and Baker have yet to sign contracts.

At San Jose Manager Harry Wolverton had the axe poised to trim the Seattle rookie squad but withheld it for another day or so.

The Sacramento and Salt Lake training is getting under way this week in earnest a little later than the other contenders.

In the south, the Angels and Tigers are hitting up a lively clip, reports state, while Portland players are moving on Hanford.

White Sox Squad to Journey into Texas

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Manager Kid Gleason and the White Sox battermen were scheduled to leave Chicago late today to begin spring training at Marlin Springs, Texas.

In The Spotlight Of Sport

By Wood Cowan

A coach in any line of athletics who can turn out teams year after year without a defeat being registered against them, must have something on the ball.

Ernest Blood has the basketball fans all worked up over his record at the Passaic, New Jersey, High School. When his five youngsters recently turned in their hundredth consecutive victory they set a record that bids fair to stand for all time. This streak of wins stretches over a period of four years. During that time Blood's teams have run up 6189 points to their opponent's 1822. Schedules have not been hand picked, either; their victims include nearly all high schools, academies and prep school institutions in their vicinity.

Two boys on the team this season have been members of the squad ever since it began its triumphant career—Fritz Knothe, this year's captain and all-state guard, and DeWitt Keasler, a forward. These boys have witnessed each of the 100 victories.

Coach Blood's methods must be largely responsible for such an impressive performance, inasmuch as he has had at least three different teams who have contributed to this list of wins.

In the first place, he starts his system among the boys in the grades. He uses geometry designs for floor strategy (movements and passing circles and rectangles) and thus has developed teams that far excel their opponents in the art of passing. The ball is snapped here and there by short, quick passes. All his teams are composed of extremely short and tall men, the little fellows handling and diving for the low ones and the big birds spearing the high ones on the wing.

Fritz Knothe, who leads this year's team, is a fast, accurate passer. He swings a wicked bat and proved a very creditable pitcher on the baseball team, as well as a punter and passer on the gridiron last season, completing 59 yard passes. Remember this lad is 9, weighs 173 and stands 5 ft. 11 inches tall. As a member of the track team he made good in the jumps. All these performances stamp him as a fine all-around young athlete.

John Sipp, at present playing center on the Harvard basketball team, and John Roosma, the star forward for the West Point "Five" this year, were both members of Passaic high teams that contributed to this string of more than one hundred straight basketball victories.

The Short Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Speaking unofficially, William Muldoon, chairman of the New York state athletic commission, has added his dissenting voice to the storm of protest that is still buzzing locally over the decision that transferred the light heavyweight championship of America from Harry Greb to Gene Tunney. Muldoon did not agree with the verdict handed down, and as one man to another, declared that he regarded it as having been "unjust" to Greb. There will be no investigation because the officials rendering the decision are regarded as being above suspicion. In fact, there will be no immediate aftermath of any kind. Greb, who is entitled to another match if ever a man was, is disposed to let the matter rest until the outdoor season. He can then have his revenge and make it pay for itself.

They Say That

The Transcontinental Limited was bowling along at a lively clip through the Painted Desert. A group of men in the observation car were passing comments upon current affairs. They were big men, in charge of big business. Most of them were en route to California for a vacation—for relaxation and rest from the cares that engrossed them "back east."

The name of one was mentioned. A newcomer who had boarded the train at Albuquerque was immediately attracted. Awaiting a favorable opportunity, he said:

"Excuse me, but is your name Wrigley?"

"Yes, sir, that is my name."

"Are you Wm. Wrigley, the great manufacturer and merchant?"

"Well, I'm not strong for the 'great' stuff, but I'll admit being William Wrigley."

"Fine—I've wanted to meet you, sir. My name is Smith. I would like to know if it is true that you spend all the money in advertising that they say you do?"

"Yes, it is true, sir."

"Well—excuse me, Mr. Wrigley, but don't you think you could stop advertising at least for a while and save a lot of money?"

"Mr. Smith, what makes this train go?"

"Why, the engine, of course."

"All right, suppose the engine should break down or be cut off the train, what would happen?"

"Why the train would stop."

"Exactly, and if I cut off my advertising it would not be long before my business would slow down and eventually stop. By continuous advertising I never let the public forget that 'Wrigley's' is on sale everywhere—is a low-priced confection—is good for the teeth, appetite and digestion—that it quenches thirst, and that it has a great big value for cents."

"I beg pardon, Mr. Wrigley, I get your point and I can see that you are right."

"Yes, Mr. Smith, there are a number of commodities that you and I can think of which at one time were widely advertised but of which we no longer hear anything. They have come and gone. Continued advertising would have kept them going—always provided, of course, that they were good and worth the price."

"Mr. Wrigley, I have learned a great deal in these few minutes and if what you have just said could be heard or read or remembered by every manufacturer and merchant, it would mean a great deal to the business of this country."

Cronies for 35 Years Die in Auto Accident

BAYONNE, N. J., Feb. 26.—The eight most enjoyed by residents of Avenue C, Bayonne, was the return from work each evening of Patrick J. Smythe, 65, and James Kane, the same age, cronies and neighbors for thirty-five years.

Smythe was foreman and Kane his esteemed workman since 1888 at boiler works, near their homes. As regular as clockwork, Pat and Jim stopped at Avenue C and West Fourth street. There they'd stand one foot off the curb—chatting.

They were at the corner in the familiar position when a motor truck bore down upon them. Jim saw their peril and tried to pull Pat back to the sidewalk. The heavily laden truck struck them. Pat was picked up dead and Jim survived him only a few minutes.

Labor Leader Jests On Journey to Jail

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 26.—"Big Tim" Murphy, Chicago labor leader, was in a jocular mood when he stepped from a train at the Union station here this morning for a few minutes' relaxation. Murphy was convicted of participation in the $385,000 Dearborn street station mail robbery and must serve a four-year prison sentence.

"There is no use in kicking, boys," Murphy told newspapermen. "I'm going through with this. You know me, I'm no quitter."

The prisoner was neatly attired and appeared in the best of humor.

Woman Dies of Cold Sawing Wood in Cellar

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The frozen body of Mrs. John Martis, 54, was found by a boy in the cellar of 139 Washington street.

According to her husband she had been missing for three days. Medical Examiner Schwartz expressed the opinion the woman had died from the cold while chopping wood.

Rejects Job of Mayor, Takes Too Much Time

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 26.—Mrs. Arthur Davenport, elected mayor of Ranson, near here, last month, announced that she would not qualify for the office. She said: "The duties of the mayor of a small town require too much time."

MURPHY WINS IN SPEEDWAY EVENT

Benny Hill Flashes Across Finish Mark Five Feet Behind Veteran

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26.—Another silver trophy was added today to the collection of Jimmy Murphy, great automobile racing driver, who yesterday afternoon at Beverly Hills speedway, romped away with the 250-mile speed classic, but had a close call for victory when Benny Hill, a scant five feet behind him, flashed across the finish wire second. Murphy, in his Durant special, which resembled a streak of gold as he whizzed around the track, clipped off the distance in 2 hours 9 minutes 43 1/2-100 seconds. Hill's time, with his front wheels lapping Murphy's rear wheels, was 2-100 seconds more than the record set by the little Irishman.

Raph De Palma, veteran Italian driver, finished third, with Hearne fourth.

RAID BREAKS UP CHICKEN FIGHTS

Handlers of Birds Scatter as Championship Main Is Interrupted

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26.—The American fighting chicken championship still was undecided today, despite an interstate championship contest.

The police were trying to get evidence to justify a grand jury inquiry of the old-fashioned cock fight at a bungalow near Back Md., last night.

Fanciers of fighting cocks, the most valiant "games" from Maryland and Virginia, were arguing over the payment of several thousand dollars bet on the outcome of the best ten out of nineteen battles between steel-spurred roosters.

Thirty-five of two hundred spectators fell into the hands of the authorities when, with eight Maryland birds and six of the fighters from Virginia laid to rest, the arena around the fighting pit was raided. The others, like Eliza, escaped over the ice in Back river.

Both Are Ready to Account for Defeat

MONTE CARLO, Feb. 26.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, American tennis champion, and Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, world's title holder, who are entered in the tournament beginning on the Lascote courts today, have carefully laid pre-tournament alibis in case of unexpected defeat. Molla declared she is just recovering from a severe attack of tonsillitis while Suzanne's bad heart, she said, bothers her with occasional convenience.

The betting is two to one on Mlle. Lenglen in the event she meets Mrs. Mallory.

Vanguard of Giants Now on Way to Camp

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The vanguard of New York Giants composed of Frank Frisch, star second baseman, and Fred McFie and "Waddy" McPhee, recruit infielders, will leave here today for the training camp at San Antonio, where they will be joined by the players who have been working out at Marlin, Texas, and others who are going to the camp from their homes.

State Senator Docks Pay During Sickness

PIERRE, S. D., Feb. 26.—Protesting that he had received too much money from the state for his services as a legislator, George P. Bennett, state senator from Pennington county, has returned the surplus.

Mr. Bennett was ill and unable to attend all of the 1921 sessions of the legislature. He paid back to the state $187 he had received for the time he was ill.

Freak Thefts Baffle Police of Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—Robbers have Cleveland police perplexed with a series of odd thefts. Patrolman Zicarella's overcoat was stolen from Common Pleas court. One report received at police headquarters was the theft of a door mat from an orphanage; another was the theft of a pair of shoestrings from a shoe dealer's window, and a third listed the breaking in of a shoe store, and the stealing of five shoes—all rights.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE 'ME TOO' FOLKS

A Letter Friend wants me to write about the "me too" personalities. She means the kind of people who court popularity by always agreeing with the person they are talking with.

If you think it's a shame that the children should be allowed to go to the moving picture shows so much, they think so too.

They Think So, Too
If the next person they are talking with thinks that the moving pictures are one of the biggest educative forces and that children aren't hurt by the evil because they don't understand it they think that, too.

If you think religion must go out into the highways and byways and meet the people on their own ground, and feel that the dances in the parish house and the moving picture Sunday nights are splendid methods of doing that, these people agree with you.

But if you could just listen in (unseen) when the lady across the way who thinks that nothing could be wickered than dances in the parish house, and that all this mixing in with secular interests is undermining the church, is holding forth, your mouth would drop open.

For when you expected to hear her confuted, and the views which you expressed and which were agreed with brought forth, you hear nothing but the same enthusiastic agreement which formerly warmed the cockles of your heart with affection for anyone so discerning.

The Cockles Cool
And both the cockles of your heart and your love grow cold together.

I rather fancy my Letter Friend had had some such experience for she speaks with such great warmth.

The habit of agreeing enthusiastically with what people say certainly wins popularity—until one is found out.

But one is pretty sure to be found out by anyone with whom one has any extended acquaintance.

For casual meetings it does very well—if one has no special desire to preserve one's sincerity or mean anything by what one says.

But in the long run it is not so good a dodge.

Of course there are people who don't do this deliberately. Indeed, when you come to think of it, I fancy that many deeds which we describe to deliberate intent are really just done because that seems to the individual the line of least resistance.

Less Bother
So some people say "me too" because it saves them the bother of thinking and is the simplest thing to do.

My Letter Friend asks me what I think of these people. Well, they are all right if you like better than anything to be agreed with. And some people do. But if you value sincerity and independent thought in a friend you won't care for them.

Though, even at that, I'll wager you will turn to them when some of your more sincere and independent friends have ruffled your feelings.

WOMAN IN UNIQUE BUSINESS

Furnishes Companions For Lonesome Men

Miss Evelyn Kent is shown at her desk in her apartment in New York city, where she has originated and is carrying on a unique business. She has started a bureau, with a service charge of $10 per call, which will furnish lonesome out-of-towners with clean, wholesome girls for an evening's entertainment, consisting of dinner and theatre companionship, the host, of course, standing all the bills. Everything went well until some practical joker called nineteen times and kept nineteen pretty girls waiting for some lonesome swain. But she says the bureau is prospering.

BEAUTY CHATS

Several letters have reached me recently asking directions for making the colored hair powder to use between shampoo times on oily hair. As we all know, to our sorrow, powdering with ordinary white powder will make the superfluous oil from the hair and leave it dry and fluffy, but will also leave it very dusty in appearance. No amount of brushing will bring back the gloss it had before, or that it should have after a shampoo.

If a very coarse corn meal can be used it would be a greater improvement. I once suggested sifting coarse yellow corn meal through a cloth or shaking it up in a bag, so that a lot of the fine white dust escapes. The coarser particles can be used, but even this is not wholly satisfactory.

The best thing is to make a shampoo powder the color of your hair. To do this take a quantity of ordinary white laundry starch and in cold coffee as strong and black as you can make it. Stir this about, pour off the liquid when it has settled and let the starch dry, finally crumbling it through linen or silk to get a powder that is free of lumps. The coffee smell can be eliminated by mixing in a bit of sachet powder. Powder for a lighter shade hair should be made with less strong coffee.

For a pale or blonde hair, use strong tea instead of coffee. When this sort of powder is brushed through the hair and brushed and shaken out it will not leave it with that dusty appearance. The "gloss" can be restored by putting a big piece of the face, so the sagging appearance will disappear, since all of your muscles will have become firm.

In addition to this, massage all the muscles under the chin and around the throat, making strokes with the palm of the hand. Begin these strokes at the base of the throat and then stroke upward from throat to the tip of the chin, always taking care to use pressure with palm as if you were ironing. Never make any downward strokes as the idea is to lift all muscles of the throat and the chin.

Pot Roast—Buy three pounds of beef from the shoulder (this should cost about 25 cents a pound) and sear it on all sides in your frying pan, in two tablespoons of bacon fat, after sprinkling it with flour. When delicately browned, put it in a deep pot with two pints of boiling water, three pared and diced carrots, four peeled and diced onions, one teaspoon of salt and a dash of pepper. Cover the pot tightly and simmer for four hours, adding more hot water if the liquid boils away. Serve on a platter with the pot-liquor (thickened with two tablespoons of flour) poured over it.

Southern Potato Omelet—To one scant cup of smoothly-mashed white potato add a small piece of butter, slightly melted, two tablespoons of sweet milk, one teaspoon of salt, a pinch of grated nutmeg, a dash of pepper, and the beaten yolks of four eggs. Whip four-egg-whites stiff and fold these into the potato-mixture, then turn all into a hot, buttered frying pan and let cook over a good fire till the omelet browns on the bottom. Now slip the entire frying pan into your oven so that the top of the omelet may cook slightly and when this is set, remove the pan, crease the omelet directly across the middle with a knife, and fold one half over the other. Serve at once.

Italian Risotto With Ham—(Rice with Ham). Put into your frying pan one-half cup of finely minced, uncooked ham (both fat and lean, one heaping tablespoon of butter and one-half onion finely chopped. Cook over mild heat until the ham and onions are golden, then add one-half cup of uncooked rice, let cook for a few minutes, and stir in two cups of hot water (or clear soup if you have it), one-half teaspoon of salt, a dash of nutmeg, a pinch of pepper, and mix well. Let this boil for 20 minutes over a hot fire, then remove from fire and stir in two tablespoons of Parmesan cheese grated (finely-chopped mild American cheese may be substituted.) Mix well and serve at once.

Southern Cabbage "Pudding"
Boil one small head of cabbage till tender, then chop it fine and season to taste with butter, pepper and salt. Add one pint of bread crumbs and one small can of diced boned chicken (fresh cooked fowl) or almost any kind of cold meat finely minced instead. Mix well, brown in the oven, and serve hot.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

ROUND WORMS

In my talks last week, I told you that while worms were common in childhood they were not nearly so common as mothers usually think, and that all the candy in the world would not cause the worms unless it were contaminated with worm eggs. Worms simply mean that somehow, somewhere, some eggs of these worms have been consumed either on food or in drink, or lapped off your fingers when you wet them to turn a page of a book or that has recently been handled by a person who had them on his fingers.

Most of the eggs are probably deposited on food by handlers who are harboring them and who are not careful to wash their hands. (Some worms can be acquired from cats and dogs also.) After I get through talking about worms you will not look with complacency on cutting down the budget of your health department so that the number of food inspectors and doctors who examine those who handle your food, has to be cut down.

As the treatment for worms is weakening, children should not be given worm medicine unless you are sure they have worms. That is easily determined by watching the child's stools, or having the stools examined microscopically for the eggs if you do not see the worms.

I told you last week about pin worms and the treatment, which constitutes local injections and scrupulous cleanliness. It occasionally happens if the worms are lodged higher up than the last part of the lower bowel that a vermifuge (worm medicine) also has to be given. It is the same treatment, in this case, as is given for the round worms.

Round worm is the common name for another type of worm that is not uncommon. The technical name is ascaris lumbricoides. If food or drink contaminated by the eggs of this family are consumed, the eggs hatch and thrive in the small intestine instead of the large intestines as the pin worms do. As they are found in travel they will occasionally wander to other parts of the body, so they are more dangerous than the pin worms.

Round worms look somewhat like ordinary angleworms but may be larger, some growing as much as a foot in length if they are harbored long enough. They are pointed at both ends, and they are the wormiest kind of a worm in looks. You will have no doubt as to their identity if you see one. Treads of mucus never would resemble them in the least.

If I did not know that it is a very common practice for mothers to treat their children for worms without consulting a physician, I would not tell you in my columns about the medical treatment, for worm medicine may act very severely on some children. But realizing that many of my readers may live where there are no physicians, or will foolishly believe it is unnecessary to consult them and rely perhaps on some dangerous remedy they have heard of, I shall tell you the method of treatment which has been proved most effective—with this warning, that the treatment should be personally supervised by a competent physician. The treatment is in three stages:

First: A broth supper, followed by a cathartic which you have found works well. Castor oil, or aromatic cascara, or syrup of rhubarb are good. Give a sufficient dose to cause a good evacuation. Second: The following day, after the bowels have moved, the worm medicine is given in three doses, two hours apart. No food should be taken so that the worms will get the full benefit of the medicine.

Third: Two hours after the last dose of worm medicine, a brisk purge, such as epsom salts, is given. The child may have some liquid food about an hour after this.

If worms are passed, it is well to repeat the treatment in three or four days. Then again in about a week if the second treatment brings more away. Keep the child in bed during the treatment, and have the personal supervision of a physician if possible.

The most effective medicine for round or pin worms—if medicine has to be used for them—is santonin. For a child five years or over, three grains of santonin are mixed with 45 grains of milk or powdered sugar. This is divided into three doses so that one grain of the santonin is given at a time. For a child under five, one-half of this amount of santonin is given.

Sometimes the eating of a few cloves of raw garlic, in the same manner as the worm medicine—that is, on a fasting stomach and with the cathartics—is effective in making the worms move along. I don't blame 'em.

More about worms next week.

WOMANLY AILMENTS BRING AGE BEFORE IT IS DUE

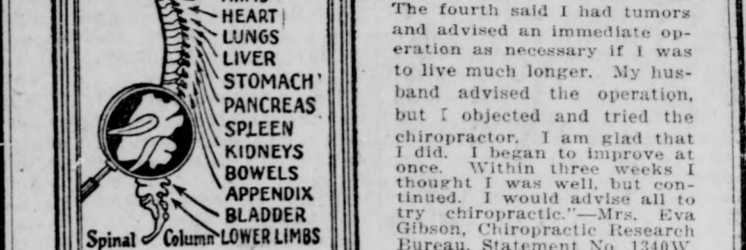

Weekly Health Talk No. 20
By Drs. Eble & Eble, D.S.C.

Womanly ailments are generally accompanied by depression and a disposition to view things on the dark side. They are most destructive to youthfulness. Usually an operation is advised as the only means of relief, but fortunately chiropractic is most effective in ailments of this kind.

Where there is chronic disease of pelvic organs it is often hard to judge without a spinal analysis, just what organs are involved. By a spinal analysis the chiropractor discovers what spinal bones are displaced, and just what group of spinal nerves is involved. He then makes a nerve tracing and thus definitely locates the line of tender nerves, just where the disease is active.

By chiropractic spinal adjustments the spinal bones are realigned and the nerves are freed of pressure. The result is health.

DIAGNOSED AS OVARIAN TUMOR, CASE IS NOW WELL
"The first doctor said I had ovarian trouble and advised an operation. The second said it was rheumatism. The third said heart trouble and that the sciatic nerve was affected. The fourth said I had tumors and advised an immediate operation as necessary if I was to live much longer. My husband advised the operation, but I objected and tried the chiropractor. I am glad that I did. I began to improve at once. Within three weeks I thought I was well, but continued. I would advise all to try chiropractic."—Mrs. Eva Gibson, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1349W.

FRENCH ADVANCE TO NEW PLACES

Ninety per cent of the old men and children are living in such a condition of filth as would kill any hardy animal," was reported by J. K. Jennings of Utica, N. Y., of the Near East relief.

The sick and the well lie wrapped up in bundles of dirty rags, their boney claw-like hands reaching out to grab the food doled out to them. Frequently men and women die silently while those lying alongside them are not aware of the fact."

Social Events

Springtime Party

The J. P. Fisher home at 130 North Kenwood, presented a real springtime scene Saturday afternoon with decorations and favors of yellow and a company of gay-frocked little girls, invited to celebrate the eleventh anniversary of the birthday of little Miss Dorothy Fisher.

Mrs. Fisher was assisted by Miss Margaret Rasmussen, and together they worked out a scheme of decoration that transformed the home into a veritable fairyland.

A large bouquet of golden daffodils formed the centerpiece of the table, over which a shower of yellow ribbon streamers fell from the chandelier. These streamers led to the individual places, where they were attached to tiny yellow favors.

Place cards bearing figures of cunning little misses in yellow dresses marked the places. At each place were also yellow nut baskets, yellow balloons and yellow crepe paper caps with green pompons.

Of course the interest of the luncheon was the lovely birthday cake lighted with eleven yellow candles. Games were played during the afternoon and the little honoree was the recipient of many pretty gifts.

The little girls invited were Janet Eden, Alvera Peters, Clara Perkins, Ramona Full, Beryl Bampbell, Cleone Berton, Myrtle Woelfel, Mary Jane Nell, Rhodora and Martelle MacKe.

Club Gathering

Another delightful social function was enjoyed Saturday night by members of the Navajo Needlework club and their husbands. Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Fuller of 433 West Oak street were hosts for the evening, entertaining the club company at dinner and for games of five hundred.

In keeping with the spirit of Washington's birthday Mrs. Fuller used a red color scheme and patriotic favors. A large bouquet of red carnations decorated the center of the table, while tiny red, white and blue hatchets marked the places.

At the close of the card games later in the evening prizes were awarded to Mrs. J. D. Root and S. A. Koontz.

The Fullers' guests were Mr. and Mrs. Leslie O. Carlisle, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Carlisle, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Carlisle, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Waite, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Overton, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Root and Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Koontz.

Two Are Honored

Mrs. S. F. Worsley of 346 Vine street entertained Saturday afternoon with a daintily delightful shower for two cousins, Mrs. Harold Davidson of Glendale and Mrs. Charles McQueen of Hollywood. The decorations were sweetpeas, baby breath and jonquils. The guests were all cousins of the honored guests or the hostess and enjoyed a most pleasant afternoon of visiting together, and partaking of the delicious refreshments that were served. Those present were: Mrs. Harold P. Skeath, Mrs. Cary Groton, Mrs. C. R. Stewart, Mrs. Wyatt Brewster, Mrs. Victor L. Schertzinger, Mrs. F. M. Stee, Mrs. Fred Jungquist, Mrs. H. R. Wood, Miss Leonore Wood, Miss Catherine Wood, Mrs. Charles McQueen, Miss Dorothy Groton and Mrs. Harold Davidson.

Musical Benefit

A musical program will be given at the Central Christian church, Wednesday night, February 28, at 8 o'clock, with a silver offering, for the benefit of the pipe organ fund.

Those taking part in the excellent program arranged are Harold Turner, reader and impersonator, and Miss Florence Peck of Los Angeles, assisted by Rollo Alfred, director of music of the First Methodist church of Long Beach; Miss Florence Heacock, pianist; Mrs. Ralph Penland, contralto, and Henry Cantor, dramatic tenor, of Glendale.

Mother's Birthday

The Misses Olive Belle and Josephine Emery, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. U. Emery of 329 North Kenwood street planned a birthday surprise dinner for their mother Sunday evening.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with sweet peas and ferns and a bowl of sweet peas formed the centerpiece for the table. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. E. U. Emery, Mr. and Mrs. Owen C. Emery, Jack Emery, Gilbert Emery, Miss Mary King of Hollywood, Mr. and Mrs. Jack O. Eaton, Alvin Brown, and the Misses Josephine and Olive Bell Emery.

Compliment Bride

Miss Peggy McGuire of 241 North Cedar street was hostess one evening recently complimentary to Mrs. H. H. Dryer, Jr., a recent bride. Mrs. Dryer was formerly Miss Constance Domsler.

The affair was a miscellaneous shower and countless gifts were cleverly presented the honoree in an old-fashioned bucket.

Miss McGuire was assisted by her mother, Mrs. D. H. McGuire, and by Mrs. H. H. Dryer, Sr., and Mrs. G. L. Reed. Fifty invitations were issued for the affair.

La Ramada Guests

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Swartz of La Ramada, the old adobe on North Brand boulevard, yesterday afternoon entertained Roi Partridge, the etcher, from San Francisco, and Edward Weston, the well-known modernist photographer of Glendale.

Betrothal Party

Miss Alma Marie Geiger was hostess at an attractively appointed Sunday evening dinner at her home, 627 North Central avenue, announcing her engagement and approaching marriage to George Harris Phelps of Hollywood.

A profusion of pastel shaded sweetpeas decorated the Geiger home, a large basket of the flowers forming the centerpiece for the dinner table.

Places were marked by bluebird cards bearing the engagement announcement.

The date of the wedding was not made known, but it is to take place in the near future.

Included in the dinner company were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Gilbert, Lawrence Gilbert, Miss Ella Riese and Raymond Riese of Huntington Park; Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Geiger; Mr. Anna M. Geiger, Miss Geiger and Mr. Phelps.

Miss Geiger is well known in Glendale and Los Angeles as a talented pianist and music teacher. Mr. Phelps is an accomplished musician and is associated with the Kirkpatrick syndicate.

Guests of Cousin

Dr. and Mrs. Luman H. Royce, of New York, were the guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Blackburn at their home, 331 El Bonita street.

Dr. Royce is a cousin of Mrs. Blackburn, and it was a great pleasure to her that his work as superintendent of City Work of the Congregational Church Extension Societies brought him and his wife to the coast.

It is an interesting fact that though Dr. Royce's official work includes only cities of over 100,000 population, yet the potentiality of Glendale, along that line are so fully recognized, that he has been assisting in the campaign of financing the new Congregational church which was dedicated yesterday.

Dr. and Mrs. Royce will remain in Los Angeles another month, assisting the Wilshire Congregational church in their building campaign.

Birthday Party

Mrs. H. V. Smith of 514 North Jackson street entertained Saturday with a garden party celebrating the birthday of her little daughter, Betty.

The table was beautifully decorated in pink and white and pink baskets filled with candies marked the places for twelve. Each little guest was also presented with a pink balloon.

Many games were played, one being a peanut hunt, in which Peggy Fitzgerald won first prize and Ethel Fitzgerald consolation.

Those present were: Ethel Zimmerman, Melina Haines, Luella Haines, Gladys Moore, Dorothy Moore, Lottie Hudson, Judith Crandall, Douglas Cowan, Janet Crandall, Roberta Cowan, Peggie Fitzgerald and the guest of honor, Betty Smith.

Fathers' Guests

Tonight at 8 o'clock the fathers of the Wilson Avenue Intermediate school will be entertained by the Parent-Teachers Association, in the assembly hall of the school-house.

Mrs. Pierson Hanning, vice-president of the association, has given the program, which will be musical and educational in nature, the numbers contributed by teachers and pupils.

Following the program, refreshments will be served in the domestic science room, by the mothers from A-7 grade, Mrs. H. Thimm in charge.

Long Motor Trip

An enjoyable early spring picnic outing was enjoyed yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bruhn of 330 Hawthorne street and Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Kearne of 221 North Howard street.

The party left Glendale early in the morning, motoring out along the foothills and across the valley highway to Riverside, where they visited the Mission Inn.

They took with them a well-filled lunch basket and at noon enjoyed a picnic lunch, before driving on to San Bernardino to the orange show in the afternoon.

Birthday Dinner

Mrs. D. H. Flanders of 4117 Soledad street entertained Friday evening with a dinner party in honor of Mr. Flanders' birthday. Decorations were of pink and lavender sweet peas. A large birthday cake formed the centerpiece on which were placed pink and lavender candles. Sweet pea place cards marked places for Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Helman, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Morgenthal, Mr. Young, Charles Flanders and Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Flanders.

Bridge Luncheon

Miss Blanche Davenport of 1243 South Glendale avenue entertained Friday with a bridge luncheon. All the decorations were of red, white and blue, suggestive of George Washington's birthday. The guests were Mrs. E. Guy Bell of Los Angeles, Mrs. Ed Duffy of Cerritos avenue and Mrs. T. B. Reavin of South Glendale avenue.

Foes of Gospel Will Face Divine Justice

The Men's Bible Class of the Presbyterian church, meeting in the city hall, began the study of the Second Epistle to the Thessalonians Sunday, with Keith L. Brooks as teacher. Mr. Brooks said, in part:

"This epistle is the sequel to the first epistle and followed it in the course of a few months. Paul wrote it from Corinth during his second missionary journey. Some doctrinal errors had crept into the Thessalonian church, some claiming that the day of the Lord had already come and ceasing to do any work. These errors had to be challenged.

"The motion that the day of the Lord had come grew out of the fact that the Christians there were suffering such fierce persecution from opposers of the gospel. The apostle assures them that God would recompense tribulation upon all those who were opposing the gospel. He says that it is 'a righteous thing with God to do so.' Opponents of the gospel will certainly meet hereafter with their due punishment. If the only administration of divine justice there is, is that seen in this life, there it is a miserable failure. Evil doers may well laugh at preachers and sin with impunity if there is no future retribution."

Next Sunday's subject will be of special interest, "Is the Great Apostasy of the Last Days Upon Us?"

NEW GOVERNMENT OF EARTH, TOPIC

J. C. Watt Tells of Kingdom Destined to Arise in World Shortly

On Sunday night at the Chamber of Commerce hall, James Cullen Watt spoke to an interested audience on the subject, "The Government of Earth's New King." He said, in part:

"That Adam was earth's first ruler is apparent from the commission that God gave him after his creation, as we read: 'And God said, let us make man in our image and after our likeness and give him to have dominion over the earth.' But by disobedience, he not only forfeited right to dominion, but the right to life. He was no longer a ruler, but a subject."

"Lucifer, whose name signifies Son of the Morning, was the cause of Adam's dethronement. 'Adam and Eve, though perfect mentally, morally and physically, lacked knowledge and experience, and Lucifer, the evil cherub, was commissioned of God to proceed to earth as man's benefactor and protector. But Lucifer, even before his appointment as ambassador to the court of earth, had secretly cherished ambition and disloyalty to the court of heaven, as a comparison of Ezekiel 28 and Isaiah 14 shows:

Lucifer's Design

"Thou hast been in Eden the garden of God, the most perfect in all thy ways from the day thou wast created, till iniquity was found in thee; thine heart was lifted up because of thy beauty; thou hast corrupted thy wisdom by reason of thy thine heart (secretly meditated) I will ascend into heaven, I will exalt my throne above the stars (other angelic beings) of God. I will be like the Most High."

"The disloyal design, though meditated, had found as yet no means for expression, but in his new association with the human race, he was quick to see ample opportunity for its execution. He saw before him a race separate and distinct from celestial beings, with powers of procreation, which spirit beings do not possess. He saw that in process of time, the earth would be peopled even as God commanded—'multiply, fill the earth'; he further saw that with the first pair seduced, the whole world would be tributary to him and his cherished ambition realized. He seduced Eve by misrepresentation and she, in turn, brought about the downfall of Adam. He usurped the authority first vested in Adam and for six thousand years has been earth's second ruler, the Prince of the Power of the Air, the Prince of Dominions, ruling and controlling, to a very great extent, the destinies of empires by the power of suggestion.

Fruit of Evil

"God could have prevented this, but he chose to permit it, in order that man might learn by experience and angels by observation the exceeding undesirability of wrong doing. And that He will terminate it was abundantly assured for in Micah, speaking prophetically of Jesus, we read, 'Unto thee shall it come, thou tower of the flock, even the first dominion; and through him in process of time this dominion will be restored to mankind.

"The coming of the great Deliverer to reinstate mankind to Divine favor was well known to the Israelites and was, in fact, the main theme of all their prophetic writings.

"This great Deliverer was to be a mighty leader like Moses, but greater than he, a greater king than David or Solomon, who would establish a kingdom of righteousness, to bless all, who would accept it upon the terms then offered, with life, liberty and happiness.

"In the New Testament the King and the Kingdom is the prevailing theme, persistently kept before the people by Jesus, both in his miracles and teaching—'Unto you it is given to know the mystery of the Kingdom.' 'Fear not, little flock, it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom.'

"The necessity for such a kingdom to control and bless mankind is seen all about us. Never in the history of our race has man been so perplexed, baffled and distressed, financially, economically and religiously as at present. But the government of earth's New King is at the door and the kingdoms of this world shall become the kingdoms of our Lord and He shall reign over the earth.

"In the great kingdom there will be an Upper House and a Lower House, just as we have at Washington.

Kingdom's Rulers.

"The Upper House will be composed of our Lord Jesus and His executive body called in the Bible 'The church of the first born,' 'The Bride,' 'The elect,' 'the members of His body' (executive body). These the Revelator tells us 'shall be kings and priests unto God and shall rule with Christ a thousand years.' These will be unseen to the world of mankind.

"The Lower House, the visible representatives, will be the ones referred to by our Lord when He said, 'Ye shall see Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and all the holy prophets in the kingdom.' 'I will make them princes in all the earth,' and the word of the Lord shall go forth from Jerusalem."

"The platform of this government embraces all the needs of earth's nations. The question of disarmament will be fully solved then by the Prince of Peace upon

Christ's Cross Helps In Life's Hard Tasks

"The cross of Christ helps us to do the hard tasks of life," asserted Rev. Philip K. Kemp yesterday morning at St. Mark's Episcopal church.

"Jeremiah," he continued, "is one of the most romantic characters among the whole gallery of Old Testament prophets, for he was driven to a task which, from what we may gather, was most ungenial to his nature. He longed for quiet and solitude, but the spirit of God drove him into the busy places of the city, there to rebuke the leaders for their folly. He found himself out of harmony with the religious and political leaders of his day and felt compelled to tell them so. Yet so human a person was he, that he is always longing to flee from the path of duty into the more congenial and easy-going path of his own inclination. This is one of the temptations that comes to every man when the sky is dark and the way seems hard to discern.

On the one hand, we see the way of duty, and on the other, the way of our wayward inclinations. To each comes the demand for decision and the way to fulfill our obligation is by standing true, as did Jeremiah, to the call of his God, and carrying out the unpleasant but necessary course of duty."

GYPSIES GATHER TO SEE WEDDING

Marriage of Romany Royalty Draws Tribes From All Over Western U. S.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 26.—Far from the maddening throng and the peeping eyes of the curious, Prince George Williams and his bride, Princess Nastlay Mark, of Romany royalty, are on their honeymoon today.

With them, to enjoy the week's colorful ceremonies and feasting, are practically all of the gypsies in the western half of the United States. For weeks they have been gathering for the ceremonies. King Mark, ruler of all of the gypsy tribes in the country, came as master of ceremonies.

But the preparations became known and Sunday thousands of automobiles carried sightseers to the river bank camp. Only cold ashes of the camp fires remained. The gypsies had stolen away.

Pastor From Pasadena Preaches to Methodists

Dr. W. L. Y. Davis of Pasadena, superintendent of this district, preached yesterday morning at the First Methodist church.

The music distinguished both morning and evening services. A quartet composed of Miss Isabel Isgrig of Burbank, Miss Dorothy Peart of 801 South Maryland avenue, J. B. Clarke of 336 North Maryland avenue and Glen R. Dolberg of 206 West Broadway, sang the morning offertory. A duet by Miss Isgrig and Mr. Clarke was a feature of the evening service. Miss Isgrig sang the evening offertory solo.

"Winding Down Towards the Sea" was the subject of the evening sermon by Rev. Harry Rasmus.

Compares River With Path of Human Life

The course of a river was compared to the path of life last night by Rev. Harry I. Rasmus Jr. at the First Methodist church.

"The river has its source amid the mountain heights in the gentle springs which God has hidden away in the heart of the hills," he remarked. "So life should have its beginning in the calm, sweet, peaceful conditions where mother's love and father's affection are sources of action. It is a heritage that belongs to every child, the right to have an equal chance with every other child on the morning when their eyes first open upon the wonders of the world.

"It is not what a man is that tests him but what he wants to be. We do not belong to the place where we are—we belong to the heights. Else why do we seek them?"

"The river has its places of calm and quiet where the waters run deep. Oft life's places are most useful where is the calm and quiet of wonderful opportunity."

Atheism Forms Topic Of Methodist Pastor

"Atheism" was the topic of discussion yesterday morning at the Pacific Avenue Methodist church.

"In theory, atheists are few; in practice, the world is full of them!" exclaimed Rev. H. C. Muljen. "A man with no God in his creed is a theoretical atheist. A man with no God in his life is a practical atheist. Of what avail is it to say I believe in God, if I deny him by my living?"

"Many can not grasp God with neither beginning of days nor end of years, but they can understand a God whose people do justly, love mercy and walk humbly with Him. What we are speaks so loud others can not hear what we say unless our saying and our doing harmonize.

"To say 'no God' exhibits the folly of the fool. To live as if God were not is to multiply the folly of the fool. To treat the claims of God upon us with levity is to act the fool. To live as though God never took note of us is to practice moral insanity."
