[Communicated.]

MR. EDITOR: I take the liberty to send you this communication, not doubting that you will cheerfully give it a place in the columns of your paper. I believe you have always shown yourself willing to present to the people of the county both sides of such questions as involved their important interests. We have soon to decide such a question; and it is one which certainly demands a calm, candid, and careful consideration. I allude, of course, to the county seat question.

The county seat of Yolo county has, as we all know, been decidedly migratory in its habits. Once at Fremont—then at Washington—afterward at Cacheville, and then at Washington again. Such having been its history, it has verified the old adage: "A rolling stone gathers no moss." It has never built for itself a house, or made any other acquisitions of property. It has made no arrangements by which the public records are secured from serious damage, or even total destruction. Records involving many millions of dollars' worth of property are liable to destruction by means of any stray spark of fire that may chance to light upon the temporary tenement in which they are deposited.

Besides this, agitation after agitation has disturbed our quietude, and doubtless will continue to do so until this vexed question shall be settled. Now, I would ask of you, Mr. Editor, if the time has not arrived when this state of things should terminate? Is it not time that this agitation should cease, and that the county should have a safe and secure deposit for its archives? A place where they would be safe both from the floods and the flames?

We have already paid out, in the shape of rents, an amount which, together with interest, would build and furnish a fire-proof Court House of the first quality. And the money paid to Sacramento county for taking charge of and feeding our prisoners would go far toward building a good, safe and substantial prison. My information is that we are paying for rents, at the present time, not less than seventy-five dollars per month, or nine hundred dollars per annum. This, together with the amount paid on account of prisoners, would soon make a sum sufficient for the erection of such buildings as would answer the ends above mentioned, and would, besides, do honor to the county and promote the permanent prosperity of the people.

But, it is argued by some that the time is inauspicious—that we ought to wait awhile—that, besides our State and county taxes, we have to meet a heavy amount of taxation demanded by the National Government. In reply to this, I would ask, when will the time be better in this respect? Are we likely, soon, to have less tax to pay either to the State or to the Federal Government? Is it probable that one, two or three years, will show a reduction of the amount required? If not, then the argument goes for nothing.

But, Mr. Editor, there is another view to be taken of this matter. It is this: The Act has passed and become a law. We cannot avoid or postpone the issue, if we would. The 21st day of April will settle the question, and locate our county seat. Right or wrong, such will be the inevitable result. And the tax will be levied, however the question of location may be decided.

Upon an examination of the fourth section of the Act, it will be seen that there is no discretion left the Supervisors in regard to the levying of the tax. The law is mandatory. It makes it their duty to assess the tax. The assessment, therefore, must and will be made. The only question left for us, as voters, to decide, is simply this: At what point shall our money be expended, in the erection of public buildings for the county? Shall it be laid out at Washington or Woodland?

I will not stop now to consider the comparative merits or demerits of those two points. This may be done in a future communication. It is enough to say at present, that most of the voters of the county are well acquainted with the two localities and their surroundings. I take it for granted that in casting their votes, they will select the place which in their judgment has the best claims to be the permanent seat of justice for the county.

There is a complaint made by a portion of the people of the county, which demands a passing notice. They say the Act of the Legislature is unfair as well as arbitrary; that it specifies two points to be voted for, to the exclusion of all others—and then imposes a tax on the people to put up county buildings at the one of those two places receiving the highest number of votes.

Now, I do not feel it to be my business to defend the Legislature, even if they had passed an arbitrary or unfair Act. I would again remind those who make this complaint, that it is too late now to complain of the character of the law. That might have been well enough pending its passage. But now we must take the law as we find it, and meet the issue which it presents.

Let us, however, look for a moment at the facts in the case. A petition signed by a decided majority of the voters of the county was presented to the Legislature, praying that body, for various weighty reasons therein stated, to pass an Act providing for the removal of the county seat to Woodland, and for its permanent location there. There was no remonstrance. Neither Knight's Landing or any other place made the least opposition, so far as the Legislature was informed. The matter was allowed to go before that body unanswered and unopposed. The petition was referred to the Committee on Counties and County Boundaries, and when that Committee gave notice that they would at a certain time hear such statements and proofs as might be offered either by its friends or its opposers, if I am correctly informed, no one appeared to make the least opposition. On the contrary, the petitioners were represented there by persons who satisfied the Committee of the truth of all the material facts set forth in the petition.

Under this state of things, what could the Legislature do? The only wonder is that they did not grant the prayer of the petitioners and remove the county seat by direct legislative enactment. This, however, they did not do; but chose to submit the question to a vote of the people. So much for the idea of unfairness in the Act.

But then we are told the law is arbitrary. In what respect, I would ask? It simply confers on the people the right to express at the ballot-box their preference, for one of two places, for their county seat—and enacts that a tax shall be levied for the purpose of erecting county buildings. If there is anything arbitrary in this, I confess I cannot see it. But suppose it were arbitrary, and what then? Is that a reason why we should vote for either Washington or Woodland? We must vote for the one or the other, if we vote at all. And the place receiving a majority of the votes cast will be the county seat, most probably, for all time to come. I must then reiterate my conviction and my hope that in depositing their ballots the voters will allow no minor or selfish considerations to influence them—but will, on the contrary, look to the best interests of the whole people of the county, both as it regards the present and the future, and cast their votes for Woodland.

Next week you may expect to hear again from A VOTER.

WOMAN MUST LOVE.—Disguise or shun the facts as we will, woman must love with all her soul or she ceases to be a woman. She may love an idea, or a cold-hearted, selfish man, or one who gives the deep, passionate love of a warm heart in return; or she may love a child, or a lap-dog, or a bird, or some gold fishes; any or all of these she may love, but love she must.

"BIDDY, don't you put an egg in the coffee to settle it?" "Yes, mum, I put in four; they were so bad I had to use the more of them."

Snuffing a Jerseyman.

John Tice, the Philadelphia papers informs us, is a New Jersey grocer, who came to that city a short time since to replenish his stock. Completing his purchases, which in due time were deposited on the docks to be shipped per river steamer, Mr. Tice thought proper to keep his eye upon his goods until they could be put on board. Among them was a fine Bucks county cheese, weighing about sixty-five pounds, upon which, for the want of better accommodations, the weary grocer seated himself as he watched the remainder of his property upon the wharf. While thus seated, ruminating over the events of the war, calculating the profits he would realize upon his purchases, and every now and then solacing his nasal organ from a "yaller" snuff-box, two nice young men approached and entered into conversation.

"You take snuff, sir?" said young man No. 1.
"Yes. Couldn't do without it. Took it for over eight years."
"You use the Maccaboy, I perceive."
"Yes. That suits me best for a steady snuff."
"Let me recommend you to try mine," said the sharper, producing a silver-plated box, engraved with an American eagle and two harpoons. "I imported it from France. It is the identical snuff used by Marshal Pelissier and the officers of the French army."

Mr. Tice said: "Certainly;" and inserted his thumb and finger in the stranger's box. The moment he placed it to his nose he was seized with violent sneezing. At every sneeze he lifted himself about a foot from the cheese upon which he was sitting. While he was doing this, sharper No. 2 was carrying out his share of the programme. As Mr. Tice gave the third sneeze he pushed the cheese from under him, and in its stead placed a peck measure. As Mr. Tice was sneezing for the eighth and last time, the sharps and the cheese had disappeared. Mr. Tice rubbed his nose for about five minutes more, in wondering as to the style of nose possessed by Marshal Pelissier and the officers of the French army, who took such "remarkable snuff."

By this time the deck hands of the boat commenced to load up Mr. Tice's goods. Mr. Tice rose from his seat and said:

"Take this cheese, too."
Deck hand said: "What cheese?"
Mr. Tice looked round, and found that instead of the cheese, he had been sitting upon a peck measure. When he understood the manner in which the exchange had been effected, he was about the worst excited man of the season. He offered fifty dollars to any one who would give him an opportunity to fight the thieves, with one hand tied behind his back.

An old offender was lately brought before a learned Justice of the Peace. The constable, as a preliminary, informed his worship that he had in custody John Simmons alias Jones alias Smith.

"Very well," said the magistrate, "I will try the two women first; bring in Alis Jones."

NOTHING can be had in this world without paying its price. The foolish mother fears to let her son pursue the natural sports befitting his age, lest he should be run over or drowned. She will not pay the price of bravery and manliness, and therefore her child grows up a cowardly booby.

The keeper of a groggery, alias "deal fall," happened one day to break one of his tumblers. He stood for a moment looking at the fragments, and reflecting on his loss, and then turning to his assistant, he cried out, he cried out: "Tom, put a quart of water in that old Cogniac!"

"ARE those pure canaries?" asked a gentleman of a bird dealer, with whom he was negotiating a "gift for his fair."
"In course they are," said the dealer confidently; "I raised them 'ere birds from canary seed!" It was deemed sufficient proof of their purity.

"TINNY, dear! what would you do without your mother?" said a lady to a little girl of some four summers. "Do," replied the child, "why I would have a new dress every day, and have nobody to punish me."

A DISCONSOLATE widower, seeing the remains of his late wife lowered into the grave, exclaimed, with tears in his eyes: "Well, I've lost hogs and I've lost cows, but I never had anything out me up this."

It is reported that at a prayer meeting on the Potomac recently, an old negro spoke, and, referring to the war, said: "Massa, I haint got no religion, but I tank de Lord for dis mighty great fuss."

The Misery of Debt.

The homilies that have been spoken and written upon debt and credit are endless, but all of them are of less actual value than one well observed individual experience. Some men will get hopelessly in debt, and by dint of native impudence and moral callosity, get through the world with upright heads and unbroken hearts; but no true man can endure the endless persecutions of importunate creditors without suffering emotions of the keenest misery, if he does not totally break down in despair. There is a class of glorious fellows in the world, with a constitutional lack of sagacity in money matters, whose very generous and hopeful qualities, like so many sirens, lead them upon the fatal rock of debt. One of them writes as follows:

"I appreciate most thoroughly what a fool I have been all my life long. So well do I appreciate it I am getting contemptibly mean, and live on nothing. I have managed thus far to ward off serious trouble, but now I have come to the very narrowest place in the road, and may have to turn back. I have been putting off paying my house rent so that I could meet the importunate holders of small bills, which, however, I failed to do, and now my landlord is constantly spurring me up. However, I trust to fortune to prevent them from putting on attachments, while I make out to clear myself from two notes that are in bank. I think I could manage all this pretty well, but I have fifty dollars to pay to —, and fifty to —, who loaned me that amount, and sixty to —. * * * So I have determined to break up house-keeping, sell my furniture and send Maria to —, to pass the Winter, and try to clear myself of some of these dreadful bugbears, these horrible nightmares. If I realize anything like a decent price on my goods I will be able to send you something. I shall rejoice with unspeakable joy when I get myself free from these loads, or get them where I can manage them. You have no idea of the horror I have endured all the Fall. If I ever see you, or any other of my friends, in such another predicament, I will give you everything outside of my skin, to help you, and then kick you until you are black and blue. If ever I get trusted for a cent's worth after this, I hope to be skinned alive."

A GERMAN gentleman wrote an obituary on the death of his wife, of which the following is a copy:

"If mine wife had lived until next Friday, she would have been dead thirty-two weeks. Nothing is possible mit de Almighty. Shust as de tree falls so must it stand."

A SCHOOL GIRL was married lately, when one of her schoolmates, a little girl of eleven years told her mother—"Why, don't you think! Susan is married, and she hasn't got through fractions yet."

An Irish advertisement reads as follows: "Lost, on Saturday last (but the loser does not know where), an empty sack, with cheese in it. On the sack, the letters P. G. are marked, but so completely worn out as not to be legible."

A MAN once gave the following reason for appearing with holes in his stockings: "A hole," said he, "may be the accident of a day, which might happen to any gentleman, while a darn is evidence of premeditated poverty."

At a Woman's Right's Convention, a gentleman remarked that a woman was the most wicked thing in creation. "Sir," was the indignant reply of one of the ladies, "woman was made from man, and, if one rib is so wicked, what must the whole body be?"

An itinerant preacher once preached a sermon in a log schoolhouse, from the following words: "A horse, a horse! My kingdom for a horse!" He then went on: "No doubt, my dear friends, the sakrid writer here refers to a speritooal horse."

A WRITER, describing the last scene of Othello, has this exquisite passage: "Upon which the Moor, seixing a bolster full of rage and jealousy, smothers her."

A GERMAN writer observed that in America there is such a scarcity of thieves they are obliged to offer a reward for their discovery.

"Boy, is that dog of yours a pointer?" "No; he is half hunter and setter. He hunts for bones when he is hungry, and sits by the stove when he is satisfied."

Boys are like vinegar—the more "mother" there is in them, the sharper they become.

CAN a man be said to be in a stew when you make his blood boil?

Declaration of Homestead.

Persons wishing to procure a correct legal form for making out a Declaration of Homestead, as required by the Act of the last Legislature, with the acknowledgement attached thereto, will find printed blanks, on application to the KNIGHT'S LANDING NEWS OFFICE. By filling out these blanks themselves, parties will be subject to no other expense than the fees for acknowledgement and record.

Justices Blanks.

Blank Affidavits, Undertakings, Writ of Attachment and Subpoenas, under the NEW LAW, for Sale at this Office.

WE would call particular attention to the new advertisements in to-day's paper.

THE COUNTY SEAT QUESTION.—On the first page will be found a communication on the proposed removal of the county seat. It reviews the whole ground, and as the people of the county will be called upon on the 21st instant to decide this question, it is well to read and be informed on the subject, that all may vote in the matter advisedly.

THE BALL.—The Settlers' ball, which came off on Wednesday last, was a spirited affair, and the large attendance was well accommodated by the host of the Union. Everything passed off harmoniously, and altogether, it was a season of mirth and jollity.

Resigned.

We learn Dr. Smith, who was elected last Fall on the Union ticket for County Judge of Yolo, has sent in his resignation. The Doctor has been suffering for some time from an attack of illness which renders the mental labors of the office too severe for him to undertake. We understand his friends advised him to the course he has pursued in sending in his resignation. The duty will devolve upon the Governor to appoint his successor until the next general election, at which time the people will be called upon to elect a new incumbent for that office for the remainder of the term—three years.

Protection of Settlers on Swamp Lands.

A bill has passed the Assembly which, in its provisions, allows actual settlers on swamp lands, or lands which may hereafter be set apart as such, six months after the date of segregation, to make the necessary purchase—thus protecting the actual settler who may be in doubt as to whether it be swamp land or not, and enabling him when the title is settled to purchase of either the General Government or the State, whichever may prove to be the rightful owner. This is a step in the right direction, and reflects credit on the Assembly; and as we are always ready to give credit where it is due, we confess Mr. Hoag has done one good act in introducing and advocating this measure. In another column will be found a copy of the bill.

WE call attention to the advertisement of Harvey S. Brown, of San Francisco, who has laid out a large grant into building lots, in the suburbs of that city, on the line of railroad to the San Jose Valley. Those investing small sums on several years, will find that their investment is safest and best that they could make. The title is perfect. Read advertisement in another column of to-day's paper.

HIDES—STILL THEY COME.—On Tuesday last the steamer Victor took on board at Knight's Landing for below, twenty-two hundred hides. On the same day the Visalia took off five hundred, and still our levee is lined with them, and they are continually coming in from the surrounding country. From careful inquiry, we find nearly the whole of these hides are taken from animals which perished during the Winter from the inclemency of the season.

MARYSVILLE.—According to the Inaugural Address of the Mayor of Marysville, the financial exhibit of the city shows an unappropriated balance in the treasury of $3,750.

WE are under obligations to O. B. Smith, messenger, for late papers.

New Fence Law.

We notice a bill has passed the Assembly which includes Yolo county in its operations relative to fences on overflowed lands. As near as we can infer from the report (we have no copy of the bill), the bill provides that the resident owners of lands overflowed by the late floods, need not fence their lands; and if other people's stock be found trespassing thereon, may be taken up, advertised and sold, in something the same manner that hogs are now taken up and disposed of. When the bill itself comes to light, it may contain some redeeming feature—but thus far we are at a loss to discover it. At all events, the people in this section have never asked for such a bill—don't want it; and every one we have heard speak on the subject (and we have heard several), denounce it as unjust and tyrannical—of no practical benefit to any one, and in its operations will only enable a very few troublesome disposed persons to annoy a whole community. Verily, the Legislature is in a small line of business, thus to neglect the vital interests of the State and consume the time of that body by passing petty, tyrannical bills, whose operations will be detrimental to the best interests of our county.

AN ACT supplementary to an Act entitled "An Act to provide for the sale and reclamation of the Swamp and Overflowed Lands of this State," approved April 21st, 1858.

The People of the State of California represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Any person or persons having or holding a settler's claim under the laws of this State for the protection of settlers, or having or holding a claim by right of actual possession, or holding or having a claim by right of survey or location, to any land supposed and believed by the person locating the same, to be swamp and overflowed land, though not included in any maps of swamp land heretofore filed in the Surveyor General's office, and not excepted from the provisions of the Act to which this is supplementary, shall be protected in his, her or their possession or location according to the boundary lines of said possession or location; provided, that he, she or they shall, within six months after the same shall have been segregated in accordance with the provisions of "An Act to provide for the reclamation and segregation of swamp and overflowed, and salt marsh and tide lands, donated to the State of California by Act of Congress," approved May 13th, 1861, and the evidences of such segregation are filed in the Surveyor General's office, comply with all other requirements of purchasers, under the provisions of the Act to which this is supplementary and the Acts amendatory thereto; and provided further, that the said claim shall not exceed six hundred and forty acres, and measure more than one-half mile front by legal subdivision on any bay, lake or navigable stream.

Sec. 2. This Act shall be in force from and after its passage.

BY OVERLAND TELEGRAPH.

The following dispatches are from the Sacramento Union of April 10th:

JULESBURG, April 9th.
DENVER CITY, April 8th.—Jonas Kiskadden has just arrived with important news from New Mexico.

On the 26th ult., the Colorado regiment, under Colonel Slough, numbering above thirteen hundred men, reached Apache Pass. Major Chivingston took three companies of cavalry and proceeded in advance of the main body, to intercept and capture some of the enemy, word having reached the command that two hundred and fifty rebel cavalry were fifteen miles from the Pass. Major Chivingston found the enemy as described, and whipped them out in short time, taking fifty-seven prisoners. Major Chivingston lost four killed and eleven wounded. After accomplishing this, Major C. returned to the command, which was on its way down the western slope to Santa Fe. The command under Colonel Slough kept on its way, encountering no enemy until arriving at Pigeon Ranch, fifteen miles from Santa Fe, where it met at the mouth of the canon eleven hundred Texans. This was on Friday, March 28th. The engagement commenced about noon. Col. Slough's seven companies engaged the enemy's front, while Major Chivingston's four companies—two of cavalry and two of infantry—deployed and attacked the rebel's rear, driving the guard from the rebels' supply train and capturing and burning it. The train consisted of fifty-one wagons. Major Chivingston also captured and spiked one of the enemy's canons, then retired and joined the main force. In the meantime our forces under Colonel Slough contended desperately against superior numbers and disadvantage of ground, the enemy being walled in at the mouth of a deep canon. At four o'clock the firing ceased by mutual consent. Colonel Slough withdrew to the creek four miles in the rear. The loss on our side was twenty killed, three officers and forty to fifty wounded. The rebel loss is unknown. The officers killed are Captain Cook, Company F; Lieutenant Baker, Company I; Lieutenant Chambers, Company C. Lieutenant Marshall was killed in the first fight. Captain Cook was wounded in the first fight. The names of the killed among the privates are not given.

Kiskadden left on the morning after the fight, and expects before this the contest has been decided one way or the other. Colonel Canby was within a short distance of Santa Fe. The communication between him and Colonel Slough was continually kept up, and the prospects were that Sibley was in a tight fix. It is hoped Slough will fall back on Fort Union and wait for Canby, when an advance will be made with success. Kiskadden will return soon to the command.

[FIRST DISPATCH.]

ST. LOUIS, April 8th.
To Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War, Washington:
General Pope crossed the Mississippi river yesterday, captured the enemy's floating battery, carrying away fourteen guns, and occupied Tiptonville, Tenn. The enemy were driven from all their works below New Madrid, Missouri, leaving behind their artillery, baggage and sick. A land battery of twelve heavy guns is taken. General Pope will attack Island No. 10 to-day, and hopes to get in the rear of the enemy's upper batteries before night.

[Signed] H. W. HALLECK,
Major General.

[SECOND DISPATCH.]

Island No. 10 has surrendered. The enemy has abandoned the upper land batteries, and is endeavoring to escape across a swamp. General Pope is endeavoring to cut them off. They abandoned everything.

[THIRD DISPATCH.]

Brigadier General W. W. Mackall, late of the United States Adjutant General's Department, and over two thousand of the rebel forces, have surrendered to General Pope, and it is expected that many more will be captured to-day. Immense quantities of artillery and supplies have fallen into our hands.

[FOURTH DISPATCH.]

The enemy attacked our forces at Pittsburg, Tennessee, yesterday, but was repulsed with heavy loss. No details given.

[FIFTH DISPATCH.]

General Pope has captured three Generals, six thousand prisoners of war, one hundred siege pieces, and several field batteries, with immense quantities of small arms, tents, wagons, horses and provisions. Our victory is complete and overwhelming. We have not lost a single man.

CAIRO, April 7th.—A special to the St. Louis Republican says on Friday evening, about seven o'clock, our forces at Pittsburg, Tennessee, were attacked by two regiments of infantry, two pieces of artillery and a large force of cavalry. Our forces were immediately got in line of battle and prepared to receive the attack. The enemy only fired one round and commenced retreating. We returned the enemy's fire, killing and wounding quite a number, and took sixteen prisoners. The rebels only killed one of our men. General Grant was at Savannah, but immediately left for the field of action. It is supposed only to have been a reconnaissance in force, of the enemy, to find out the strength of our forces, and finding more than they expected beat a hasty retreat for Corinth, Mississippi.

WASHINGTON, April 7th.—The following in regard to the Merrimac has been received at the Navy Department:

When she run for Norfolk, Sunday, March 9th, she had seven feet of water in her hold. One shot from the Cumberland riddled her. A shot from the Monitor through her port-hole dismounted two guns. The Monitor put a ball through the boiler of the Patrick Henry, killing two men and scalding others.

NEW YORK, April 8th.—The New York Tribune's Tennessee correspondent writes that the rebel army has been greatly overrated, and that his whole force in Southern Mississippi does not exceed thirty thousand men, and that half of these are raw recruits.

A Ship Island letter of the 24th of March reports the arrival of Gen. Butler on the 20th.

A rebel fleet of seven gunboats had made their appearance in Mobile Bay. The United States gunboat Santiago de Cuba chased a steamer laden with cotton ashore on the coast of Louisiana, and threw a shell into her, burning her to the water's edge.

The schooner Grace E. Baker, with one hundred and thirty bales of cotton, for Havana, was captured by the gunboat R. R. Cuyler.

WASHINGTON, April 7th.—A dispatch from General Halleck states that Gen. Sturgis goes to Kansas and General Craig to the Indian Territory.

General Bull's advance guard has reached General Grant.

General Halleck will speedily take the field in person.

Andrew Johnson, military Governor of Tennessee, reports that the arrest of several prominent persons engaged in the rebellion has been made, and that the Union cause is working well.

General Jackson is at Newmarket, Virginia, and General Johnston is at Gordonville.

WHEELING, (Va.) April 7th.—A special to the New York Times says:

"A telegram just received here informs us that the rebels are retreating before our forces under General Milroy, who has advanced from Cheat Mountain and now holds Camp Alleghany, lately evacuated by the rebels.

The rebels have also fallen back from Montferry and Hunterville, and seem to be arriving at Staunton, where they will have a railroad to escape on.

"Our Sick Man."

MR. EDITOR: The above is the caption of an editorial in the Sacramento Union of the 3d instant, by which the readers of that paper are treated to as rare a dish of sectionalism as ever graced the pages of the New York Tribune. And I do not enter upon this short review of the brazen fallacies there exhibited, with any hope of improving the morals of the writer of that article, or any expectation whatever that he will embrace the truth, or ever cease the exhibition of that malignant hatred toward the people of the South, which so strongly and so strangely characterizes newspaper writers representing the views of the present dominant party of our nation.

In the article to which I allude, the writer institutes some invidious comparisons between the prosperity of the people of the free and slave States, but does not resort to any statistics or other evidence of the correctness of his position, and will, doubtless, should this article fall under his notice, consider me highly presumptuous in daring to differ with him in a matter which, just at this time, claims so much of the public attention; but I early learned the value of investigating for myself, and at the risk of being charged with entertaining a grand heresy, I propose to show that the people of the South are not that lazy, indolent, shiftless and thriftless people he would have his readers believe them to be. That senility does not "approach before maturity is reached;" that they do not "doze before their labor has been fairly begun;" that they do not "rot before they have ripened;" that they are not "content to be poor (at least in comparison with the people of the North) in full view of incalculable riches."

The Union's article calls attention to "the worn out and deserted farmers of Virginia," compared to the "well tilled fields of Pennsylvania," etc. If the census reports of 1850 are reliable in their statistics, Virginia produced about thirteen bushels of wheat to every white individual in the State, and Pennsylvania about six bushels. Virginia produced near forty bushels of corn to the white soul, and Pennsylvania about eight bushels. And Virginia produced in home manufactured articles to the value of over two millions of dollars, and Pennsylvania a little less than three-quarters of a million—making a difference in favor of Virginia over Pennsylvania of about six hundred per cent.

But let us take a more comprehensive view of this subject. We find the product of grains grown in the South, and which constitute food, amount to thirty dollars per head of the whole population, including slaves; and if we count the whites alone, it will reach forty-eight dollars per head. The North produced fifteen dollars per head, and the West thirty-five dollars and fifty cents. If we include naval stores and all other agricultural products, we have to each head in the South, including slaves, fifty-four dollars, in the North thirty-four, in the West fifty. And in live stock the South nearly equals both North and West.

Such is a brief outline of the productive industry of the people of the South, who, the Union says, "glory in their stagnation." But, of course, the writer of the article to which I allude, is ignorant of these facts. He has never seen the statistics of the census reports of 1850, and has no use for them. He does not know that the products of the Southern States contribute more to the shipping and manufacturing interests of the North than all other sources combined. He is ignorant of the fact, that hundreds of thousands of people in America and Europe are directly or indirectly dependent for employment upon these same lazy, thriftless person in the South, and which the Union denominates "Our Sick Man," and for whose health it manifests so much solicitude as to recommend an "infusion of fresh blood and a trial of the 'movement cure.'" Other cures which the Union prescribes are: "the barriers to immigration erected by exclusive oligarchy must be broken down." "The poor white trash" must be taught the true dignity of American manhood, cease to be the retainers of the planting barons, and claim their rightful share of political power." "Class legislation will cease to be the darling object of Southern representatives."

Now, sir, there is no well informed man who does not know that there is no "barriers" to the free immigration of all persons into the Southern States who choose to go there; and when there they are as free to choose their occupation and mode of life as in any other country. And all well informed people well know that "the poor white trash" (what think you of this choice epithet, ye white men from the South who happen to be poor?) of the South fully understand the "true dignity of their American manhood," and have a high appreciation of their "rightful share of political power," and they always exercise it. And all well informed men know, too, that there is no people in the world more free from, and independent of, the rich than are the poorer class in the Southern States. In fact, the rich exercise less influence over the opinions and actions of the poor in the South than in the North. This will be more readily understood when the reader is shown that, in Virginia in 1850, the white population—men, women and children—amounted to 894,800, and the number of cultivated farms was 77,013, or nearly a farm for the head of every family—or a farm to every eleven and a half white persons. In Pennsylvania, to a population of 2,558,160, there were 27,577 cultivated farms, or about one for every one hundred persons.

I have said there are no barriers to immigration to the South. There are none, unless the Union writer chooses to consider slavery a barrier. This he doubtless does, and says "it must be broken down" It has long been known that this was, and is, the cherished object of the party whose views the Union writer so clearly reflects; and that if it could not be accomplished in any other way, constitutional obligation were to be set at naught and the object reached in the shortest possible way.

Mr. Editor, I have not time now to pursue this subject further, nor could I think of trespassing further upon your space. But allow me to say, in conclusion, that it is the spirit in which the Union's article is written—a spirit of jealousy and malignant hatred that has entered so largely into the literature of the free States of this Union which has culminated in the unhappy difficulties in which our nation is now involved.

THE KNIGHT'S LANDING NEWS.
OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER.

Decision of Character.

A man without decision can never be said to belong to himself, since, if he dared to assert that he did, the puny force of some cause about as powerful, you would have supposed as a spider, may make a seizure of the boaster, the very next moment, and contemptuously exhibit the fatality of the determinations by which he was to have proved the independence of his understanding and his will. He belongs to whatever can make a capture of him; and one thing after another vindicates its right to him by arresting him while he is trying to go on, as twigs and chips, floating near the edge of a river, are intercepted by every weed and whirled in every eddy. Having concluded on a design, he may pledge himself to accomplish it, if the hundred diversities of feelings which may come within the week will let him.

His character precluding all foresight of his conduct, he may sit and wonder what form and direction his views and actions are destined to take to-morrow, as the farmer has to acknowledge that the day's proceedings are at the disposal of the winds and clouds. The man's notions and determinations always depend very much on other human beings; and what chance for consistency and stability while the persons with whom he may converse are so various? This very evening he may talk with a man whose sentiments will melt away the present from the outline of his purposes, however firm and defined he may have fancied them to be. A succession of persons whose faculties were stronger than his own might, in spite of his irresolute reaction, take him and dispose of him as they passed. Such infirmity of spirit particularly confess him made for subjection, and he passes, like a slave, from owner to owner.

A YOUNG LAWYER, whose ambition did not stop short of the seat of Chief Justice, was undergoing an examination, and was asked what penalty he would attach to the crime of arson. He replied, with profound gravity and deliberation: "Arson; arson; I would make the fellow pay a hundred dollars and marry the girl."

DURING the preaching of a very moving sermon, it was noticed that all were much affected, except one man. He was asked why he was so indifferent. "Why," said he, "I belong to another parish."
