CHINA-ECONOMICS-FINANCE-INVESTMENT POLICY

The Shensi-Kansu-Ningsia Border Governments collectively announced 11 temporary provisions governing the welcome of industrial investments in the border areas. The provisions will be in force on 28 March 1945 to encourage the flow of investments from all classes of inhabitants in general and from the overseas Chinese in particular. Full details. Hsin-hua-jih pao 24 May 45 2-1.

PROVISIONAL REGULATIONS GOVERNING ENCOURAGEMENT AND SUBSIDY FOR INDUSTRIAL INVESTMENT IN THE SHENSI-KANSU-NINGSIA BORDER

(Promulgated by the Border Government on 28 March 1945)

Article 1. The purpose of these provisions is to encourage the flow of investment from all classes of people for the economic development in the border area as a step toward the successful prosecution of the war.

Article 2. Any one, who is willing to invest in any industry mentioned in Art. 4, regardless of whether his home is in the border area or elsewhere, shall be encouraged and subsidized by the Border Government in accordance with these provisions.

Article 3. Investors shall have to obey all regulations and laws promulgated by the Border Government.

Article 4. The Government shall encourage, subsidize, and protect the following productive enterprises:

1. Agriculture: construction of new canals, promotion of cotton, promotion of cotton production, construction of cattle breeding centers, and development of other agricultural productions.
2. Industry: coal mine, iron and steel, fire bricks, oil refining, salt, textile, paper manufacturing, leather manufacturing, and other industries.
3. Transportation business.

RESTRICTED

4. Other enterprises such as industrial cooperative services, feather and fur business.

Article 5. The Government shall give the following encouragement and subsidies:

1. Public land utilized by investors and meeting the engineering requirements shall be exempted from or be given a reduction on the rent tax for three years.
2. Agricultural gains resulting from the construction of new canals or from the promotion of cotton planting shall be freed from the payment of a land tax in kind for three years.
3. All industrial and transportation enterprises shall be exempted from paying the business tax for three years.
4. If owners of iron and steel, fire brick, coal mine, oil refining or transportation enterprises suffer great losses from accident and are willing to continue their business, they may request the Government for subsidies.
5. If investors lack capital or are unable to raise capital, they may request the Government for a loan, with the provision that this loan shall not be more than one third of investors' total capital.
6. When investors have difficulties with the distribution of finished products and the procurement of necessary raw materials, the Government may exempt or reduce their taxes.
7. If investors' business is hampered by accident or natural disaster and cannot be carried on, the investors may request the Government for relief.

Article 6. In addition to the encouragement and subsidies mentioned in Art. 5, investors may petition the Government to grant other aids.

Article 7. Besides having encouragement and subsidies as regulated in Art. 5 and Art. 6, investors shall be entitled to the freedom and protection that all people under the Border Government enjoy.

Article 8. If investors are not willing to continue their business, they may terminate their business. Legally owned land and its fixtures may also be disposed of at the investors' discretion.

Article 9. Investors who ask for encouragement and subsidies shall petition the Government in accordance with the following items:

1. Name, age, occupation, birthplace, and address;
2. Kind and locality of business;
3. Total capital (if the business is in partnership the number of shares and shareholders shall be mentioned)
4. The original plan and period of business;
5. Matters requiring subsidies from the Government.

Article 10. Investors whose petitions have been approved shall register with the responsible agency.

Article 11. The present regulations shall come into force from the date of their promulgation. The supplement of these provisions shall be decided by the Border Government.

MALAYA-COMMUNICATIONS-LAND

Description of roads in Malaya with table showing their mileage in different districts from 1934 to 1938. Additional details. Nanpo Nenkan 1943:783.

ROADS IN MALAYA

Malaya has about 600 miles of main highways connecting Singapore with Johore, Negri Sembilan, Selangor, Perak, Province Wellesley, and Kedah, extending to the frontiers of Thailand. There are also secondary highways in Malacca and other coastal cities. The width of the highways is 18 feet, and the highways are covered with asphalt.

In the middle of the peninsula, cutting right through the mountains, are the main highways between Kuala Lumpur, and Selangor; and between Selangor, Pahang, and Kuala Lipis. There is also the Cameron Highland Highway.

Total government highways extend 8,600 miles, of which 255 miles belong to city governments.

Highways are mainly along the west coast. In the east, south Johore, north Trengganu, and Pahang (especially Kuantan) are the centers of the highways.

PHILIPPINES-STATISTICS

Table showing rate of increase of population in the years 1891, 1893, 1894, 1899, 1903, 1918 and 1939. Nanpo Nenkan 1943:1035.

RATE OF INCREASE OF POPULATION IN THE YEARS 1891, 1893,

1894, 1899, 1903, 1918 and 1939 IN THE

PHILIPPINES

Year	Person	Percentage of Increase
1891	6,252,957	1.1
1893	6,333,584	1.2
1894	6,490,584	2.5
1899	6,703,311	.7
1903	7,635,426	2.9
1918	10,314,310	1.9
1939	16,000,303	2.2

The ascending percentage of Philippines' population increase is mostly due to the decrease of epidemics. Immigration plays an insignificant part in its population increase. There is no accurate census on birthrate, but it is estimated that there are 35 to 40 babies born to every thousand population annually, or about 620,000 babies. The deathrate is about 300,000 annually, half of which are babies under five years old.

The Japanese Education Ministry's project for translating into Japanese or reprinting valuable foreign materials on science, for which the Ministry of Education appropriated 500,000 yen last July, is now under way. Additional details.

JAPAN'S PROJECT FOR THE TRANSLATION OF VALUABLE FOREIGN MATERIALS INTO JAPANESE

In addition to the above, article states that the Ministry's excerpting committee in charge of the project completed an initial list of foreign materials to be translated or reprinted. The committee also completed the selection of scholars who are charged with the translation of these materials.

The list prepared by the committee included twenty-five documents on physics, engineering, medicine, biology, agriculture, and others for reprinting. These foreign documents on the list are the works of European and American scholars of repute.

Most of the materials for the project were chosen from among the documents at present available in Japan, while some materials were from Germany by the officials stationed there for the specific purpose.

The committee members appointed by the Education Ministry were from among university professors and scientific research workers of established scholastic standing.

It is understood that the translation of at least half of the selected materials will be completed by the end of March of next year, and immediately upon completion the translations will be published for the benefit of the students of science of this country.

CHINA (OCCUPIED) - PERSONALITIES - FINANCE
Article on "Inside Shanghai" discusses capitalists and financial wizards, and gives a list of persons who have earned more than 5,000,000,000 yuan. Full details.
Pao-tang-pao 30 June 45 3-1

Business conditions in Shanghai have dropped to the lowest ebb and many of the productive enterprises have virtually become non-existing. Few commercial banks are able to continue their financial transactions. The Chin-cheng Yin-hang (金城銀行), which once boasted of more than 300,000,000 yuan of deposits and powerful political backing, has dismissed many of its employees.

Mr. Kuo (郭), superintendent of the Y-chung Tobacco Company (隆中煙公司) and also of the Ping-tung Engraving Plant (滄東印刷廠), said that his plant, which gets instructions from central authorities, has 16 rubber machines for printing bank notes. The plant can turn out 10,000,000,000 yuan of 500 yuan denomination Central Reserve notes daily, with paper supplied by the Tien-chang Paper Factory (天章造紙廠) and wooden oil and printer's ink by the Japanese Army Headquarters. There is also another engraving plant in Lunghua (龍華) in Shanghai which has 32 printing machines that produce 20,000,000,000 yuan of notes daily. The notes printed by the latter plant are without serial numbers and signatures, thus enabling the Japanese soldiers to use them freely to loot Chinese merchandise and to pay the wages of Chinese forced laborers. Rumors are that 1,000 yuan denomination notes will be printed shortly to replace the 500 yuan notes as a means of increasing the volume of circulation, which, in turn, will enhance the worthlessness of the Central Reserve Notes.

Many of the Chinese puppets and collaborationists have suddenly become capitalists. Numerous nicknames have been given these capitalists by the public, such as: "rice eating worm" (米蛀虫), "paper tiger" (紙老虎), "oil bottle" (油罈子), "sugar bottle" (糖罈子), etc., because they utilize their illegal funds to establish corporations to issue stocks and bonds to defraud orphans and widows, and to organize banking houses, industrial firms, real estate business, and insurance companies.

Handsome profits from the exploitation of Shanghai stock markets, especially in the speculation of Central Reserve notes, went into the capitalist's pockets, while the Chinese masses existed in poverty.

Persons who founded stock exchanges are: Hsu Kuan-ch'un (許冠羣) Hsu Hsiao-ch'u (許曉初) Chou Fang-tsun (周邦俊) Chu Po-ch'uan (朱博泉), Shen Ch'ang-keng (沈長慶) and Chang Wei-ju (張維如).

The wealthy textile monopolist Wu K'un-sheng (吳昆生) lives in Soochow. Two the families who have been aided and inspired by the Japanese to form a textile industry are Yung Tsung-ching (榮宗敬) and Yung Te-sheng (榮德生), but they later subordinated their interests to Yung Hung-yuan (榮鴻元) the elder son of Yung Tsung-ching, who became the general manager of the textile holdings. The formation of the giant textile trust aroused the support of Wang Yu (王尚), Hsiang Chen-p'in (鄉陳品), and many others. Of the forces backing Yung Hung-yuan in the control of the textile business was another wealthy and very capable leader, Kuo Shun (郭順).

Many other tremendous fortunes have been made, and it is impossible to mention all of them, but those who have made 100,000,000 yuan or more in their respective fields of business are as follows: Liu Min-tsai (劉敏齋), Chan Pei-lin (詹沛霖), Hsu Ta-t'ung (徐大統) and Liu Teng-chin (劉登淸) in the paper industry; Shen Chin-chou (沈錦州) in the coal industry; Ting Hou-hsiang (丁厚鄉), Tai Keng-hsing (戴耕莘), and a few overseas Chinese like Huang Chiang-ch'uan (黃江完), Hu Kusi-keng (胡桂庚), Chen Shuei-li (陳水鯉), Lin Ch'ao-pin (林朝聘), and Kuo Lin-shuang (郭琳爽), in the tobacco industry; Pei Jun-sheng (貝潤生), Chou Tsung-liang (周宗良), and Chang Lan-p'ing (張蘭屏) in the paint industry; Wu Chih-wei (吳克衛) and Chou Chih-fu (周志甫) in western medicine; Shao Ching-fu (邵景甫), Tan Ching (譚能), Yu P'ei-en (虞培恩), Hsu Chen-tung (徐振東), and Tan Kung-yuan (談公遠) in real estate business; Cheng Nien-p'eng (程年彭) in wool textile; Chen Po-an (陳伯溫) in the match industry; Hsu wen-chao (徐文昭) in dry goods; Lo Ju-ch'eng (樂汝成) in canned goods; Huang Chen-tung (黃振東) in ocean transport; Chang Li-lin (張礼林) in the rubber industry. The above-mentioned men have become multi-millionaires within the past eight years through illegal practices, hoarding, and financial manipulation, and by depriving the public of wealth and merchandise. Their success has kept the inhabitants in Shanghai impoverished and enslaved.

Following is an incomplete list of millionaires who have made more than 5,000,000,000 yuan.
