SOCIAL EVENTS

Section Dances
One of the most brilliant social events this season was the dance given last night at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse by the Maids' and Young Matrons' section of the Tuesday Afternoon club for their husbands and friends. This was the last social affair to be given this season by the section.

The ballroom had been artistically decorated to represent a woodland scene. In the four corners of the room the lighting effect was produced by large yellow moons, with owls perched in trees fashioned from black paper making an artistic silhouette. Arrangements of yellow coropsis and ferns were also used and the ceiling was a mass of airy balloons of various colors.
Features of the evening were the favor dances, each guest being presented with dainty and clever hand made favors. Music for the dancing was furnished by the Jerry Parker's Jazz orchestra.

Punch and wafers were served throughout the evening.
The committee chairmen in charge of the affair were Mesdames Claude Putnam, Charles Meadows, E. B. Sutton, H. D. Charlton, Charles Carroll, DeForest Rogers and Herchen Reid. Members of the Section regretted that Mrs. Julian Hayward, who served as curator during the past year, was unable to be present, but they were glad to learn that Mrs. Hayward's son, Russell, who has been ill with scarlet fever, is greatly improved. His illness has prevented Mrs. Hayward's attendance at recent Section meetings and at the affair last night.

Mrs. Hayward plans to leave late in July for a visit with her mother in Wyoming and to attend her sister's wedding.
Bridge Luncheon
Mrs. H. E. McCartney of 316 Fairview avenue was hostess recently to a group of friends at a bridge luncheon at the Sunset Canyon Country club.
The table decorations were artistically carried out in a dainty color scheme of lavender and white. Nut baskets and place cards and other table appointments were also carried out in the same color scheme.

Following the luncheon, the afternoon was devoted to playing Bridge, at which Mrs. Windt was awarded first prize.
Those present were Mesdames C. Windt, L. C. Wolfe, L. Berndt, C. Young, S. Clark, R. L. Young, J. A. Endicott, George Kimball, Walter Jones, A. W. Tanner, J. A. Murry and the hostess, Mrs. H. E. McCartney.

Present Pupils

Miss Eleanor Bryan, contralto, another pupil of Mr. Smallman, will also appear.
Miss Oliver, who is a graduate of the Glendale High school, is talented both musically and dramatically and her many friends are watching her progress with interest. Many Glendale people will attend the concert Friday night.

ICE IS USED AS HOME NECESSITY
Preparation of Food Calls For Plenty of Ice in Warm Weather

American people are rapidly beginning to appreciate the value of ice as an absolute necessity not only for the preservation but preparation of many choice foods. This interesting contention figures as the basis of a feature article in a trade report recently issued by the National City Bank of New York.
Today, as a practical result of advice given by food economists and health specialists, housekeepers are commencing to realize that ice should no longer be regarded as a warm weather luxury but as a very material everyday necessity. It is a well known fact that when the home circle is gathered around the family table for dinner, more than one is looking forward to a daintily prepared dessert in place of rich, heavy pastries and puddings.
Frozen dishes, carefully prepared, when served at regular intervals throughout the year are always wholesome. They not only look attractive but lend a certain satisfaction to the most exacting of epicurean tastes. And they're economical. There's only one secret about these dishes—keep plenty of ice in the refrigerator.

South Sea Islanders Are Still Cannibals

LONDON, June 19.—Cannibalism still exists in the South Sea Islands despite all statements to the contrary. Mrs. Charlotte Cameron, the only woman member of the Royal Geographical Society, who has just returned from the South Seas, declared on her return to her native land.

Having traveled more than 170,000 miles since 1910, Mrs. Cameron may be regarded as Britain's greatest woman traveler. She has seen the entire world, and she confessed that if she were given the choice of selecting her future home it would be in the hills of Southern California.

"Many people will tell you that cannibalism is almost non-existent," Mrs. Cameron said. "Nothing could be further from the truth, for in many of the islands which I visited the natives openly avowed that they were cannibals."

"On one occasion I was captured by the hostile cannibal chief and held before the big chief."

"The chief looked at me and marveled at the whiteness of my skin. I afterward learned that I was the first white woman he had ever seen. He expressed a doubt to whether I was white all over, and I was told to remove my shoes and stockings in order that he might be convinced."

"There was nothing to be done except to remove them. The moment he realized that I was really 'all white' he changed his attitude completely and became quite friendly. He provided me with a special mud hut for myself, and I

Savant Gives Warning Of Fake Psychology

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 19.—Warning against fake psychologists is voiced by Dr. H. H. Goddard, department of psychology, Ohio State university, who stated that many of these fakers are "reaping a rich harvest from gullible people."

"Glib-tongued people take up psychology as an easy game. They use overwhelming terms and pose as real psychologists," said Dr. Goddard. "In some cases the would-be psychologist is well educated. He has read a book or two on the subject and then starts lecturing."

"Fairly large cities are remunerative fields for these fakers, because more victims are available than in the small towns. The fake psychologist promises a great deal, but actually does nothing. No hypnotism or their part is needed. Adroitness with the English language will suffice nothing. No hypnotism or their urge concentration, which is practically all they do advocate."

ROTARIANS HOLD BIG CONVENTION

Hear Addresses at Session Today; Delegates From All Over World

(Continued from page 1) making a complete circuit of the globe to be in St. Louis for the convention. There are some very distinguished people among them. One of these is W. H. Irould, who is state librarian of New South Wales and is a prominent member of the Rotary club of Sydney. Another is C. H. Rhodes, of Auckland, New Zealand, who brings his wife and two daughters with him.

Rotary was established in Australia and New Zealand in the spring of 1921. The delegates to the convention from Australia and New Zealand include R. R. Peacock and daughter, Sydney Stott, James Martin and Hugh Paton, of Melbourne; H. W. Holden and wife and W. H. Irould and wife, of Sydney; C. H. Rhodes and family, John Leyland and wife, and R. H. Holdsworth, of Auckland, and E. H. Wyles, of Christchurch.

From Many Climes But the Antipodes are not the only far-distant places that contribute to swell the international crowd at the Rotary convention. Every continent is contributing its quota to the gathering, as well as the islands of the Seven Seas. A. W. Beam represents the Rotary Club of Manila, while Harry Norman made the journey from Shanghai to be present as the delegate from the Rotary Club in that city and tell about the new club recently organized in Tientsin. H. E. Ewing is here from Buenos Aires as the delegate of the Buenos Aires Club and the proxy for the Rotary Club from Buenos Aires as sario Club, the second of the Argentine Rotary Organizations. Leo L. Daly is the delegate from the Rotary Club of Montevideo, Uruguay; and Panama has sent three of its club members—Maurice Fidanque, Melville Cordua and E. A. Boccock.

Europe has more than seventy-five in its delegation, the larger part of the delegates representing the 100 Rotary clubs in the British Isles. Alexander Wilkie, second vice president of Rotary International and a member of the international board of directors, and Charles Smith, of Birmingham, England, vice president-elect of the Association for Great Britain and Ireland, head the list of Britishers, which will include such Rotary veterans as Arthur Chadwick, past president of the London Rotary Club; Thomas Hunter, past president of the Edinburgh Rotary Club and official host of the 1921 Rotary convention, which was held in the Scottish capital; Sydney Paton, of London, one of the leading members of the London Rotary Club and one of the speakers at the present convention; J. Robertson Brown of Liverpool, and others.

One of the newest Rotary clubs on the continent of Europe—Amsterdam, Holland—has sent its president, Anton E. Verkade, as its delegate. Spain has sent three visitors from the Barcelona club, one of whom, William E. Powell, is the club's delegate.

There is a large representation from the ten Rotary clubs of Cuba, headed by Mario Nunez Mesa, of Cienfuegos, who is a member of the international board of directors; and Mexico has an unusually large delegation. Canada and Newfoundland are in the forefront of the registered delegates, of course, as there are between sixty and seventy Rotary clubs in those sections of the North American continent.

COMMENT That's All

Ford Not In The Race Business Needs Vision Small Town Achievement Careful, Careful, Careful By Gil A. Cowan

INTERESTING, if true: Henry Ford will not run for the presidency! There is no question but what Henry Ford is independent of Wall street, and he has standardized a great deal of his labor, yet we cannot conceive him to be an emancipator or a trust buster or anything else than an unusually able business man who relies implicitly on organization.

Other business men, particularly manufacturers, would do well to emulate Ford if they are desirous of success. They should surround themselves with able executives and devote their energies to invention and finance.

Too many people endeavor to burden themselves with details. They are too busy thinking of what happened yesterday to realize what is going on today or what will be the conditions of tomorrow. Indeed, most people lack visual ability which Henry Ford and other leaders must have to continue their enterprises. And by no means is the man with vision a dreamer. He knows comparative values and weighs them against the future.

Successful real estate men must have the vision, as well as sales ability, to convincingly carry their arguments to success. Property owners also may make much for themselves by proper visualization of things as they are.

Take Philip W. Parker, for instance, a retired capitalist. He lives in Glendale and has the optimism to see this city inhabited by a quarter of a million people within another generation. Los Angeles county will have a population of no less than ten million people within fifty years, he declares. If it were all in one city, London and New York would be outclassed. Visualize that, if you please.

And if you get the opportunity borrow some of Mr. Parker's optimism. He has seen New York City and Chicago grow. Now he is watching Los Angeles and Glendale—and profiting, too.

The Herculean ambition of a small town is to be seen in Shelby's fight to keep the Dempsey-Gibbons fight in Montana. As was predicted, the financing of a half-million-dollar show was a great problem, but there were those determined souls, longing for adventure in the matter of promoting something, who staked every dollar they had; who borrowed every penny they dared, and today the "home town spirit" of Shelby and Great Falls stands vindicated in the eyes of the world.

While promoters in New York who have learned to value a dollar carefully stood aghast at the display of western fortitude, the real rock-bottom sports, who seldom see a big league ball game, carried on negotiations to a point where a world's championship match was a go.

After all of the demands made in behalf of one Dempsey, it would do our heart good to see Gibbons give him the licking of his life.

Reviewing the catastrophes of the first of the week in this vicinity, it would seem that people foolishly risk their lives with many motor car drivers.

It is futile to condemn the dead and injured, yet each and every one of us should resolve to use more caution in our driving, not for ourselves alone, but that others may enjoy the privilege of remaining on earth a few more years.

At every turn, on every grade, near every railroad crossing our inner conscience should speak out: "Careful, careful, careful."

(Continued from page 1) merely fixed by an unrepented statute, will be directed by me into any fund until the disposition of such fees, fines or other moneys shall be determined by the court.

"In order that unnecessary proceedings may be obviated I shall consult with the various boards and departments that are affected hereby and proceed to arrange with them the minimum number of actions to present these questions to the court. The above procedure will relieve any particular board, commission or department from the necessity of raising issues in order to protect the disbursement of public funds.

"I believe that the court will find a way to reconcile the various apparent conflicting applications of existing law and the budget bill without undue delay, and thus relieve me of a position which is neither wise nor fair to ask me to assume."

TUJUNGA VALLEY SQUAD WALLOPED

Pasadena Team Wins Ball Game on Sunday by 9 to 3 Score

By F. A. GRAHAM
Of The Evening News Staff

The Pasadena Paint team got revenge Sunday on the Tujunga Valley outfit for the walloping they took several weeks ago at Monte Vista park, Sunland, by slapping them for a 9 to 3 win that was anything but routine.

Schumaker, the same chucker who was a dud at the last meeting, turned out to be a right good guy today and held the local swatters down when they threatened to get to his stuff. One day a champ and the next a chump, that's the way of baseball.

Sisler was on the hill for Tujunga Valley (Sunland), and that is about all that can be said for him. He was out there, but not in there. Decidedly not. His stuff was no mystery to the visitors and that is no apple sauce. All he had was a fervent hope and the Painters' wrecking crew removed him from that in the first inning when they slapped his slants for four runs, which was enough to win the way it turned out, but they added a few more as they went along. Just to make the boys like it for what they did to Pasadena at the last pow-wow.

Burt Kane, a rookie graduating from lesser circles, made his debut on the Monte Vista diamond and set the bugs to howling on his first trip to the plate, by doubling. Sisler singled him to third and he stole home a minute later before Schumaker could unwind himself. He got two hits out of three trips, a fair day's work for a beginner in his company.

Pasadena gathered fifteen hits off Sisler's delivery, one a homer by Smith in the eighth inning. Sisler walked seven men and hit three, one man getting the benefit of his target practice twice. Seven errors by his team mates didn't help his good work along any. The Tujunga Valley team has been lately organized and maybe this is a sufficient alibi. When they work together a time or two they may get the idea, but it wasn't there Sunday.

Sisler's work wasn't all of that calibre, however. He got out of two holes by tightening up in the pinch. One of the bad spots was the result of his own ability to compose passes and he cinched the old belt and struck out the last two men of the inning after he had filled the bases with two walks following a hit. So 'y have 'give 'im credit for something.

In the first inning Pasadena showed their teeth and made four runs on three hits, a walk and an error. Ordinarily something of this nature is necessary to stir up Tujunga Valley to a point where they can manufacture a few runs. They failed to show pepper in the first, but woke up long enough to put across three runs in their second on three hits, three walks, one successful double steal, engineered by Mitze, and Terzo and Kane's set of home.

In the third inning Sisler got himself into bad complications. Stearns singled and Rector flied out. Stearns took second on a passed ball. Ahrens was safe on a fielder's choice, the choice being to nip Stearns at third, which failed. Ahrens sailed for second, while Sisler was contemplating the wigwag of his battery mate, and drew a throw that went into the pasture lands, scoring Stearns. Smith doubled, Ahrens stopping at third, and Smith took second on Terzo's error in stopping the peg. Sisler elected to walk Mooney, a field hitter, at this point and filled the bases with only one out left in his credit. Here is where he showed a little ability by striking out the next two men, getting out of a bad spot.

Old Time Form
In the fourth Tujunga Valley showed some old time form by nipping an uprising when Jaqua and Baker singled, Stearns walked, filling the bases again. Rector flied out at the plate, the peg being perfect, and Baker was wiped at the plate by a return throw from second when he tried to score on the play there. The next man struck out.

Two double plays of big calibre were dumped on the bugs, one by each faction. In the last of the fifth Bush walked and Semen hit Jaqua at short, who tossed to Stearns at second. Stearns touched the bag and shot the ball to Baker, getting Semen, by a close margin.

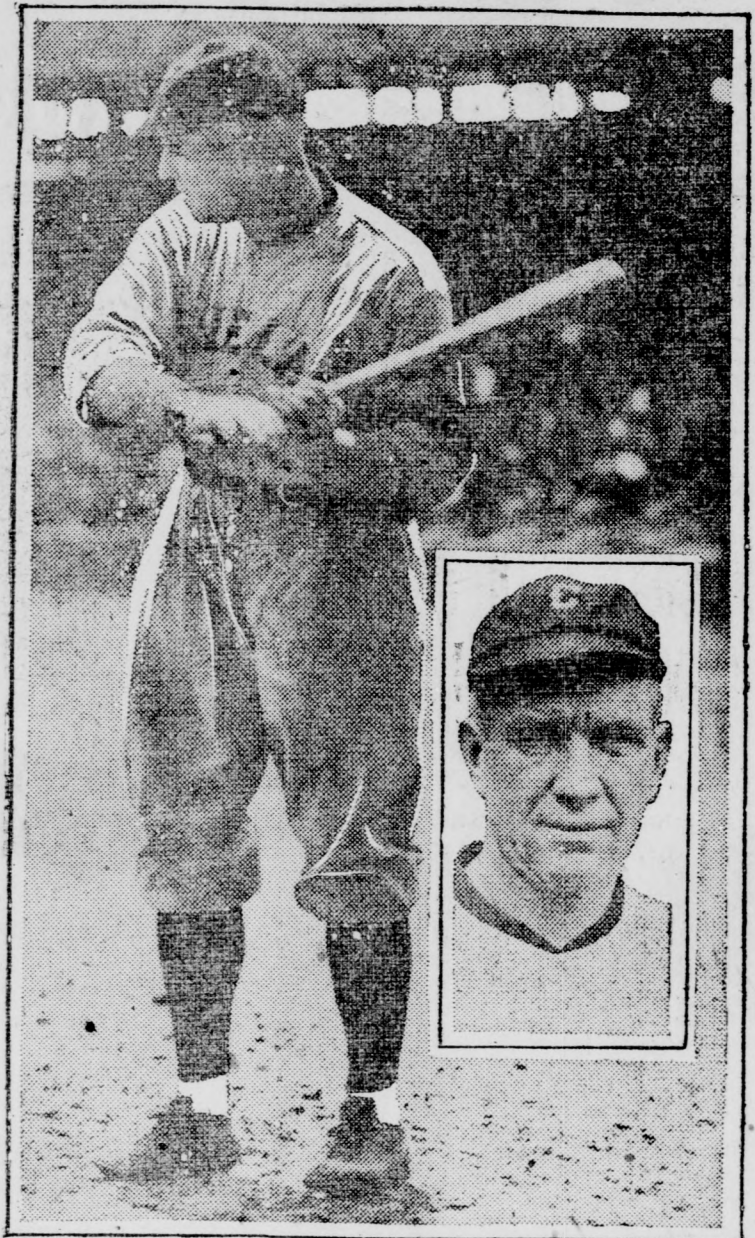

Tujunga Valley contributed one of these double barreled things, but the base umpire had a horse in his eye and called only one of the outs, thereby collecting himself of abuse for several minutes. Manager Waite of Tujunga Valley demands gentlemanly conduct on the part of his men and they calmed down. Waite's slogan is "Play ball here—do your fighting some where else" and the fans appreciate it.

There was a little play by Kane, the recruit, in the eighth, when he plucked a high fly out of a peach tree back of right field after a short run, a feat not so simple. So, all in all, a good time was had by all, as the Eskimos say.

Box score:

King Two-Base Swatters Is Speaker, Indians' Pilot

Two Glimpses of Tris Speaker

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Tris Speaker, center fielding manager of the Cleveland Indians, hasn't hogged much of the stage in the home-run circuses being staged these days. But Speaker has hung up one swatting record that Babe Ruth, Cy Williams, Ken Williams and the other modern circuit clouters have been shooting at with no success.

That is the two-base record. The Gray Eagle has slammed out more doubles in his big-league career than any other man who ever has played in the American league.

When Speaker stepped into forty-six two-base whacks last year he ran his grand total up to 545. Before Tris added that near half hundred to his list the one and only Napoleon Lajoie had held the title as a double swatter with 513 chalked up in his brilliant career as a batter.

Latest records show that Speaker has added eight more doubles to this list and there is no one playing in the American league these days who can equal his record this season.

That Spoke should be the one to hang up such a record is interesting. He ranks as one of the best hitters in the game—has held the league title, but science has played a greater part in his hitting than brute swatting strength. His worth as a batter lies mainly in his ability to hit timely—to place sure hits in vacant corners when clean hits were needed or sew up ball games.

Spoke ought to hang up a record that the trusty batters will shoot at for some seasons, as he shows no sign yet of losing his keen batting eye or of slipping in his playing to the point where he will have to bench himself.

Inquiry among officials of various golf clubs reveals a divergence of opinion as to the future of the game insofar as it affects new courses.

While some men do not hesitate to say that with the increasing numbers playing the game there will be a corresponding addition to the number of links in the country, others manifest a decidedly pessimistic note by reason of the fact they believe the ground will not be available after a time, or, if so, that the purchase price will be prohibitive.

In this connection it is interesting to note that many golf clubs throughout the country who are leasing the acreage over which their courses have been built have had them so arranged—the leases—so that they include an option to buy.

There is no getting away from the fact that real estate values are on the increase practically everywhere, and the mere fact that a golf club wants a certain parcel of land for its use immediately sets a value on it, even if it is not fit for anything else.

This problem is the one that all clubs will have to face in the future. As far as actual terrain is concerned, these United States are supplied with many square miles of unoccupied land, but one does not want to have to go to an Arizona or Nevada desert in order to indulge in the pastime.

An example of a club meeting these problems squarely without loss of time may be found in the Olympic club of San Francisco. Convinced that real estate never will be any cheaper than it now is, this organization is setting deliberately about the financing of land that will embrace a thirty-six-hole course. The amount of money involved is large, but it is put off the larger it will be and the more difficult to negotiate.

The experience of this club has been that golfers are keen for the future of their game and are responding. When it is stated that the amount runs well up into the six figures, there is every reason for other organizations contemplating the same move to go ahead with their plans. With the growing populations and the increased building operations, what once were outlying districts fast are becoming more than suburbs. While the automobile solves the problem for a great many as far as distances are concerned, there are also those who are not provided in this respect. This applies particularly to the men and women who play on municipal links.

Rowing Crews Work Under Scorching Sun

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 19.—Crews of Columbia, Pennsylvania, Syracuse and Washington were out on the Hudson early today working under a scorching sun and on smooth water, in preparation for their third annual meeting here, June 28.

The Washington crew, which arrived late yesterday, is generally expected to be the surprise of the race. Coach Jim Ten Eyck of Syracuse is said to have expressed open disappointment in his charges, while Joe Wright, leader of the Pennsylvania eight, was not pleased with the time trials yesterday.

SPORTS CHATTER

By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

We note the promoter of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight has included the name of the Legion in the text printed on the tickets for the match, which give the being of the appearance of being O. K. by that organization. In view of the fact that Dempsey is persona non grata with the Legion in view of his lack of a war record, members of this veteran organization are not likely to look with favor on the use made of the organization name in this connection. On the face of it, it looks like a small and cheap trick.

Firpo's recent victory over an opponent that weighed thirty pounds less than the South American has not particularly impressed the boxing critics, but they seem to think that Willard will be up against a tartan an that Firpo and Dempsey will be the ultimate match for the championship. As a matter of fact, folks are keeping more or less quiet until they know how the Willard-Firpo match turns out. If Firpo wins, then there surely will be a lot of type splattered over the sport pages of the country.

As a matter of fact, there is a probability that a match between Firpo and Dempsey at this moment would attract much more attention than one between Dempsey and Willard. The reason is that folks know what happened to Willard the last time he fought Dempsey and they figure he is not as good now as he was then. On the other hand, Firpo has established considerable of a reputation as a "knocker out" and a "cave man" and he is an unknown who is given credit for having stowed away about his person a lot of latent possibilities.

The announcement that Bob Martin, heavyweight boxer, and Benson, champion of the American Expeditionary Force, has retired permanently from the ring because of a tumor of the brain, recalls the fact that this man was, for a time, considered one of the brightest possibilities for wearing the crown now being toted around by Jack Dempsey. Martin started off in good shape and critics were very favorable as to his chances. Then began a series of reverses or, at least, indifferent showings. Those who hoped that he would get going again were disappointed. Now it would seem that the ailment that finally forced his withdrawal from the ring gradually must have been coming on. Martin was a fighter who made use of his brains and was able to do some thinking for himself. He is one of the disappointments of the ring.

SPORTS SNAPS SHOTS

RANDOM SHOTS
The return to form of Stubby Mack, one of the White Sox young pitchers, has buoyed up Manager Gleason's hope that his other backward twirlers will soon do the same.

Naylor, Hasty and Harris lost many hard luck games in previous seasons. Their success in close contests has contributed to the Athletics' high position this season.

Several of the Browns' pitchers cannot seem to get started until late innings of games which has usually been lost by that time.

Charley Jamieson of the Indians continues to play brilliant ball at bat and afield.

The Braves got Big Bill Bagwell from the amateur in the West of the Southern league at the draft price. Bill is still swinging a fifty-four-ounce bat—heavier than Ruth's.

"Spees" Torporcer has been playing a great game afield and at the bat for the Cardinals and it will be difficult to get him out of the game.

Playing perfect golf will soon be a mechanical proposition if the golf advertisements are to be credited. What with Hutchison foot charts, Sarazen correspondence school, a new putter with a rubber-like appendage and balls that are warranted to travel enormous distances and roll into the cup on every putt, it would seem that the human equation which makes the game so uncertain and therefore so interesting would be eliminated.

Walter Hagen, with all the advantages possible, putted like the various amateur in the Westchester-Biltmore match recently and neither Hutchison nor Sarazen was able to play the "perfect" game.

When the Brooklyn club owners allowed Hi Myers, veteran outfielder, to depart in a trade last winter, there was considerable moaning and gnashing of teeth among the fans of Brooklyn. But of recent days the great playing of Berenie Neis in the Dodgers' garden has made the fans forget Hi, as far as his worth to the team is concerned. He still remains a popular idol in Flatbush, however.

Neis, the Brooklyn critics are agreed, is playing better ball than Hi Myers ever did in his palmist days. Bernie's fielding has been more than spectacular and his batting has been a feature of the recent games.

There never was any doubt but what Neis could field and run the bases—when he got on. But while he was warming the bench much of the time he failed to hit as well as Manager Wilbert Robinson desired. Now, playing regularly and with the backing of the fans, he has found his batting eye and is doing everything Robinson and his most severe critics could ask.

As the New York Yankees get under way in their home series Miller Huggins finds himself hunting for some kind of a catcher who can hit. Injured forced Willie Schang from the game.

JIMMY WILDE IS EASY FOR VILLA

Flyweight Champion Falls In Seventh Round of Uneven Battle

NEW YORK, June 19.—Jimmy Wilde, dethroned flyweight champion of the world, was preparing today to sail for his home in England, while Pancho Villa, his brown-skinned conqueror from the Philippine islands, was receiving congratulations on his decisive victory last night at the Polo grounds.

"Last night was the first time any man ever knocked me out," Wilde said today, with a rueful smile. "Maybe that means I am getting old. I don't know. He beat me fairly. I could not hurt him, and every time he hit me he hurt me. Villa is a great little fighter, and will make a worthy champion."

Mrs. Wilde, who watched her husband's game battle for six rounds, but who left just before the knockout, was philosophical. "He had to lose some time," she said.

Wilde was knocked out in the seventh round.

As a contest it was one-sided. At no time did Wilde have a chance. The vaunted cleverness, the mighty hitting ability upon which the reputation of Wilde had been based, was missing. All the veteran had was superlative gameness, which made him carry on despite seven rounds of the most merciless trouncing ever given a champion.

End Comes Suddenly
His downfall was tragic, although heroic. At no time did he have a chance of winning after the second round.

The end came with a startling suddenness. Wilde had been beaten to a pulp when the seventh round started. A deep cut in his right cheek from a left hander by Villa smeared his face with blood. Both his eyes were closed and he was pawing away by instinct attempting to find his opponent when he suddenly pitched forward on his face, unconscious. His seconds carried him to his corner where they worked desperately to revive him. Villa carried away by his wonderful victory, rushed over to the Welshman's corner and kissed him.

As simple as the rules may seem to be "Tis hard to see their real necessity.

A TIP FOR THE ROUND

A great many golfers are given to swaying their bodies without knowing it. They think they are pivoting when they are not. You can check up on swaying by standing so that your shadow is thrown straight out in front of you. Try a swing with it in that position, and watch your shadow to see whether you are swaying or not.

Static elimination has been a problem of over 20 years.

TROOP LEADERS IN CONFERENCE

Camp at Lake Arrowhead Under Discussion at Scout Gathering

The June meeting of the Troop Leaders' Roundtable, Verdugo Hills District Boy Scouts, held last night at the First Congregational church, brought forth discussion from various angles of the forthcoming co-operative troop camp at Lake Arrowhead.

It appeared that a large number of scout leaders are planning to attend the camp during the period their Scouts are there. Two of the leaders reported they were making personal visits to the home of every boy in their troop.

It was decided to hold a session of the Roundtable during July, by reason of confliction with the Scout camp plans. The next meeting will be at Tujunga, August 29.

Troops should not disband during the summer, however, was the opinion expressed by the leaders, but should continue their regular meetings, thus curtailing the amount of reorganization necessary when school reconvenes in September.

Chief Counselor Robinson suggested a big after-summer rally, over which the council was enthusiastic, requesting him to name a committee to take charge of such a get-together.

OBSERVE SENIOR WEEK AT SCHOOL

Classes End Tomorrow as Summer Vacation Is Ushered in Glendale Union high school is observing Senior Week and tomorrow noon will close its regular classroom work for the summer vacation.

The total high school enrollment at the present time is 1915 pupils. This includes 184 students from Eagle Rock and about 100 pupils who have left school. Subtracting these two numbers from the total enrollment leaves about 1731 pupils who are actually in attendance.

The attendance at the commencement of the new term, when the new plant is scheduled for occupation, is expected to be about 2000.

The enrollment at the end of the first month of school this term was 1518, or 397 less than the present enrollment. This number was 105 more than the enrollment of 1413 at the close of school last term. This figure, in turn, was 305 more than the enrollment at the commencement of the period last term. Therefore, the enrollment has increased in two school years from 1108 to 1915, or about 40 per cent.

STUDENT BURIAL WITNESS BRIBED

CLIFTON, Ariz., June 19.—Benjamin H. Row, whose startling claim that he had seen the burial of Leighton Mount, reopened the whole death inquiry Saturday, sold his silence to the "four palbearers" for $100, he admitted today to assistant State's Attorney J. H. Wharton of Chicago.

Row, who volunteered his information last week, said, according to Wharton:

"I kept still because the big fellow gave me $100 to forget what I had seen." For the money Row gave a receipt. Wharton quoted the witness as saying, "Mount vanished after the Northwestern class fight of September, 1919. A skeleton uncovered recently near the University was believed to be his. Row reviewed the whole affair by telegraphing the story that he had seen the disposal of the body. The witness travels in the southwest for a San Francisco firm and was in Chicago on business when he said he saw Mount buried."

Richardson Refuses To Sign Barber Bill

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—Governor Richardson refuses to sign the barber commission act, which was introduced by Senator Edgar M. Hurley of Oakland as a sanitary measure. It was opposed by cosmeticians. Wait New Invention On Automatic Phones

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—Mebbe it's a "hung-over" from the recent music week, but at any rate all Los Angeles is anxiously waiting and waiting for the "humming telephone."

The "humming telephone," technically known as the "dial tone," is a device which causes the automatic telephone to emit a humming sound when the receiver is lifted from the hook, thus giving notice that the equipment is in readiness for operation.

So great is the demand that the telephone company has announced the "dial tone" will eventually be placed on all the city's automatic telephones.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But bringing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

The mud clams are fed in great quantities after being removed from the shell. The seal tosses each one into the air and turns it before attempting to swallow it.

Getting the Comforts of Life
Happiness reigns and a spirit of contentment prevails in the white, vine-covered cottage around the corner. It is owned by one of the regular fellows whom we all know. In front, half-hidden among the trees, awaits an auto ready to take the family out for an afternoon's pleasure. All his and all paid for.
Surely an inspiration to all that behold. It represents, as do most of the worth-while things of life, a background of hard work, study and thrift.
The comforts of life are within the reach of all. Happiness and contentment can, if you so will, belong to you.
Are you comfortable and happy in your surroundings or disgruntled with your lot in life?
Hard work and systematic savings are the graces that open comfort's door. Regularly setting aside a portion of the income, keeps it open.
We have studied these problems—these problems of life's comforts. Will you let us impart the results of our conclusions to you?

TODAY—The "plight of the Farmer"; a Method to Relieve It. TOMORROW—The "Plight of the Farmer"; a Method to Relieve It. By George R. Holmes, Washington correspondent.

By DAVID M. CHURCH For International News Service

LONDON, June 19.—The decline of English sportsmen in working the English people. For many years English sportsmen upheld their end very well in international sporting competitions. Now they are not doing so well and many are the wails about the "good old days."

When an Englishman, Roger Wethered, won the British amateur golf championship against the competition of several brilliant young American golfers, a great cry of joy went up all over England. "We are returning to our own in sport," the press cried, and their cry was echoed throughout the island. Then in a garrison finish the Americans won the Walker cup in an international golf match and again the wailers became busy.

Whether or not English sporting ability is on the decline, it is certain that in many respects the English are sadly lacking in world championship titles. The bitterest blow of all came when an Australian cricket team beat the best team that England could muster. In the realm of fisticuffs England has no one to offer but Joe Beckett, and it would certainly be a sacrificial offering if Joe were put into the same ring with any one of a dozen or more second-rate American pugilists. Joe is taking good care to see to it that he is not called upon to play the role of the fatted calf.

In tennis, again England is sadly missing in champions. In this connection there is what promises to become a first rate "sporting sensation," as sensations are rated in England.

English tennis players have lately taken to entering in tournaments under a "nom de guerre." Their identity is never disclosed to the public, for they appear merely as "Tennisists" or "Whingares" or some other equally unknown quantity. It is charged that the practice of resorting to this camouflage of identity is due to lapse of form, and players who have been stars hesitate to let the public know of the decline in their play. The Westminster Gazette is bitterly attacking these pseudonyms and their owners and threatens to publish the real names of the "offenders."

If any one feels that there is a lack of good red blood in England he wants to visit the House of Commons before he passes final judgment. Shortly an afternoon session in the House of Commons these days that some one isn't invited to "come outside" to settle an argument. There was once a time when Mr. Dillon referred to Joseph Chamberlain as a "damned liar" and it was the parliamentary sensation of the age, but strong words are now an every-day occurrence. The Laborites have brought some lurid language into the chamber with them. George Lansbury recently referred to the government benches as "a lot of cowards"; Jack Jones paid the same gentleman the compliment of calling them "a collection of swindlers"; the Glasgow Laborite, Buchanan, was not at all reluctant in characterizing the ministry as "a damned lot of loaves and holigans." As far as strong language goes, the Laborites have clear and decisive lead over the Tories, who can produce nothing better than the epithet "mammy goat," hurled at Sidney Webb. It must take a lot of restraint to keep the House of Commons from being turned into a "battle royal."

Oxford University has its own Fascist club. A young student who has recently returned from Italy has formed the new organization and has even ordered uniforms for his colleagues. The declared objects of the club are: To encourage the drinking of Chianti. To eat olives. To throw knives Fascist fashion. Dr. Farnell, the guardian of Oxford, will undoubtedly soon put an end to "these goings-on."

THE AIR CLEANER

Keeping Grit Out of the Engine's Vitals. This season, for the first time, passenger cars fitted with means for removing dust from the carburetor air are being offered. Air cleaners have been in universal use on tractors almost since the beginning of their manufacture, as they have been found to be practically a necessity and they have been used to some extent on trucks. While the passenger car and even the truck are exposed to very little dust-laden air, as compared with the tractor, which operates almost constantly in a cloud of dust, there is enough grit floating in the air their carburetors "breathe" to act detrimentally, especially when unimproved, loose-surfaced roads and winds are encountered. Attention was first called to the dust that entered motor car engines by the disclosure, through chemical analysis of large proportions of silica (sand) in their carbon deposits, which could be accounted for only as being drawn in with the air. The filtration of long-used engine oil also disclosed considerable amounts of fine sand, if the car has been much driven in dusty air. Sand is, of course, an active abrasive or cutting material like emery and its presence in the oil results in excessive wear of bearings, cylinders and pistons. On tractors the practice is to wash the dust out of the carburetor air, by passing it through water, but the application of this method on passenger cars seems hardly warranted. Instead, by suitable provision at the intake, the air may be made to deposit most of its dust before entering the carburetor in a compartment from which it can be readily cleaned out. Giving the air a whirling movement, which causes the separation of dust particles, by centrifugal action, into a cleanable receiver is one method that is being tried. Every known expedient for the prolongation of engine life is being resorted to by engineers and air cleaning is one of these, along with more liberal bearing surfaces, better lubrication systems and superior materials.

if the mesh, however; make sure that all parts are well lubricated, and that all holding devices are tight.

CAR STARTS JERKILY

W. J. W. writes: Whenever I start my car there is a sort of jerk as though the whole rear end were loose. I took down the universal joint, and since putting it back there is a pronounced grinding or humming. What do you think the causes of these troubles are, and how can they be remedied?

Answer: We cannot give you anything very definite in way of reply, but we should suspect either that the clutch worked very harshly, or that there was considerable lost motion somewhere in the transmission line between the engine and the driving wheel. When this latter condition prevails there is almost certain to be a severe jerk in starting the car from rest. Lost motion may be in the universal joints, the transmission, main driving gears or rear wheel mountings. We suggest that you assure yourself that your clutch is working gently, and that you look for lost motion in the different elements of the transmission line, correcting such as exists. As to the grinding sound, this most commonly arises from incorrect meshing of the final drive gears, but we do not see how this could have been disarranged by any work that you did on the car in connection with removing the universal joint. You had better ver-

DINNER STORIES

At the conference in the country store the talk drifted to the work done by the various wives of the committee present.

"Wall," contributed Uncle Ez, "my wife is one in a million. She gets up in the mornin', milks seventeen cows, and gets breakfast for ten hard-working men before 6 o'clock, by heck."

"She must be a very robust woman," volunteered the commercial traveler who happened to be present.

"No, stranger, she ain't what you'd call so strong; she's more pale and delicate-like. Gosh!"—with a burst of enthusiasm—"if that woman was only strong, I don't know the work she couldn't do."

Grandpap always worked on the contrary side of everything, and let his hair and beard get very long, says Judge. One day he was sitting a little too near the fire and his hair got on fire. Someone coming into the room and seeing it cried, "Oh, grandpap, your hair is burning," whereupon he replied, "I didn't ketch it on fire an' I be damned if I put it out!"

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE LIGHTNING BUGS

"Please don't forget to bring home some candles with you when you return today," called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy to Uncle Wiggily, as the bunny gentleman hopped down the steps of his hollow stump bungalow one morning. "Candles? Why candles?" he asked, twinking his pink nose. "Because we may be in the dark this evening unless you do," went on Nurse Jane. "In the dark?" repeated Mr. Longears, puzzled like. "Yes, Wiggily," proceeded Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "There has been an accident at the gas works and the place where they make electric lights, and unless things are mended before dark we shall be without light if you don't bring candles."

"I'll bring them—never fear," cheerfully called Mr. Longears, as he hopped off down the path to seek for an adventure. But Nurse Jane did fear, and with good reason, for she knew how forgetful was Uncle Wiggily.

And, surely enough, when the bunny rabbit gentleman reached home to his bungalow later that afternoon, Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy called: "Did you get them?" "Oh, yes I had two fine adventures," answered Uncle Wiggily, thinking she was speaking of what had happened him. "The Bob Cat chased me, but I jumped over a brook and he fell in. Then the Fox tried to nibble my ears, but I scratched a lot of dust and sand in his eyes and he couldn't see, so I ran away. I had two wonderful exciting adventures and—"

"But did you bring the candles?" asked Nurse Jane. "I forgot to bring them!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "But perhaps the gas or electric lights will work." However, they did not, and soon the bungalow was in darkness, and Nurse Jane bumped her nose against the wall and Uncle Wiggily stubbed his paw over a chair.

But, all of a sudden, the rabbit gentleman saw some twinkling spots of light outside the bungalow through the window. "We shall no longer be in the dark, Nurse Jane!" joyfully called Uncle Wiggily. "I know how to get light."

"From the lightning bugs, or fireflies," answered the bunny. They are twinkling and sparkling outside. I'll invite a few of them in our bungalow and you can see to get supper and wash the dishes, while I read the paper. I'll get some lightning bugs."

So Uncle Wiggily invited the lightning bugs to come into the bungalow and very glad the kind insects were to do Nurse Jane and Mr. Longears this favor. The bugs perched themselves about the rooms, twinkling and glowing, and they made the place as light as day. "How?" asked the muskrat lady. "From the lightning bugs, or fireflies," answered the bunny. They are twinkling and sparkling outside. I'll invite a few of them in our bungalow and you can see to get supper and wash the dishes, while I read the paper. I'll get some lightning bugs."

BILLY WHISKERS

"You can get your meal in a garden all right," said Stubby to Billy, because you can live on grass and hay, but Buttons and I would like a piece of meat now and then. Speaking of meat, what say you that we get a good meal of fresh meat before we go sightseeing? I for one am tired of ship biscuit and scraps."

"So am I!" agreed Buttons, "and I am as tired of salt pork as you are of biscuits."

"Very well, then," said Billy. "As this seems a very respectable part of the city, I think it will be perfectly safe for us to separate and forage for something to eat. Do you see the yellowish Spanish looking building on the bay?"

"Yes," replied Buttons and Stubby together. "I saw a picture on the ship-board that looked like it, and under it was printed 'The Governor's Palace.' When you have gotten enough to eat, go there, as it looks like a pretty good meeting place."

"Yes," said Buttons, "and also like a pretty good place to find meat."

"He is at it again," said Stubby. "If you pun any more, we will throw you into the sea."

"So long!" said Billy. "I am off to find a vegetable garden to the left side of the road, he saw something white gleaming in the sunlight."

"What in the world can that be?" he wondered. "It looks like slabs and slabs of marble monuments in a graveyard, but it can't be, for they are so close together."

"(Tomorrow you'll hear more of Billy's foraging trip.)"

Returning from the dentist's, where he had gone to have a tooth pulled, Henry reported as follows: "The doctor told me 'fore he began that if I yelled it would cost me 75 cents, and if I was a good boy it would be only 50 cents."

"Did you yell?" asked his mother. "How could I? You only gave me half a dollar."—Chicago Tribune.

The Tramp Printer

Today's Short Story by Ad Schuster

Richard Beemis, editor and proprietor of The Minden Messenger, labored over an editorial while the general manager and bookkeeper worked on a column of personals. The stuff would have to be set into type in the morning, and the day after that the press would turn. Richard and Violet, his wife, had made the weekly paper, and they did all the work.

"I wish," Beemis said as he rounded off the last sentence in an annual appeal for a clean-up week, "I wish Dobson would show up. He is due."

Mrs. Beemis looked up. The door opened and, as dramatically as was possible for an unassuming and ragged man, Dobson entered.

"Well, is there any work for me this season?" The tramp printer looked around the shop. "Need a hand, don't you? I'll drop in tomorrow morning." He bowed, smiled, and shuffled out.

For six years Dobson had come with the spring. While he never related any of his adventures on the road, it was assumed he journeyed with the seasons, visiting the small print shops, and earned enough to keep him going.

"Dobson is getting a bit old, don't you think?"

"Yes; but, Dick, do you notice that for all his dirty clothes he is always clean and even a bit distinguished looking? He won't be coming around much longer. Can't you try to get some of his story?"

The next day Dobson went to work on the case. Past middle age and gray, with neatly trimmed beard and confident carriage, he looked, as Mrs. Beemis often said, like a prominent man in his garden clothes. Beemis watched the tramp work and decided again that this was what explained his choice of occupation.

"He loves to work, to set type in the old way and to put together words and corrected initials and names in the dispatches."

"He is posted on everything that is going on," Beemis admitted admiringly as he read one of his editorials which had been vastly improved in the setting.

"Dobson," the editor said when suppose it will do any good to ask suppose it will do any good to ask you to stay longer. You never will. Probably I couldn't afford it anyway. I haven't told Violet, yet—her heart is set on the work here—but it looks like I would have to sell out. We are running good now, but the note is coming due and I can't make it. Maybe this will be the last time you'll be calling in here for a job."

The printer acted embarrassed at the confession. He did not wish to be made a listener to the other's troubles.

"No doubt," said Dobson "the man who buys you out will give me a job. Well, so long."

Then Beemis, hurt at the indifference of his old friend, sought sympathy from Violet. Together they went over the books, estimated the receipts for the next six weeks until note day, and faced the inevitable conclusion.

"We will do what we can, stick it out to the last, and then sell," was the decision.

"Something" each hoped in his heart would turn up came in a letter from the large city. It was brief and business-like and from Theodore Lansing, editor of The Echo. In brief it was an offer to loan money to Beemis, who, he had heard from a paper salesman, was in need of a sum.

"It is my belief that the country press performs a distinct service," the great editor had written "and for the sake of the tradition and the performance of The Messenger, I would like to see it continue."

"I wonder," Violet said thoughtfully, "what he expects in return. But you will take it?" Beemis was filled with a new hope.

"Of course I will, unless there is some string attached, and Lansing isn't a crook. In spite of what he says about writing in reply, I'm going to the city and see him."

A whole day Beemis wasted, trying to get into the editor's office, and then, in desperation, he pushed aside a protesting boy and made his way to the guarded precincts. The editor was busy writing. At the sound of steps he whirled around in his chair.

Beemis sat but collapsed as he looked into the smiling face of "Dobson."

"Rather wanted to keep it a secret," the editor said. "My family never know where I go on my vacation. They think I am fishing." He paused a moment, and this brisk and alert Theodore Lansing became the rapt Dobson again.

"I was a country editor once, set the type and turned the Washington, and those were the happiest days I ever knew. I suppose now I'll have to find another shop."

To be made quickly and modishly is the motif of the little frock pictured in which it would look stylish. Its simple design offers broad opportunity for the introduction of embroidery or any other decoration that would make it more elaborate. It is equally appropriate for general or sports wear. Medium size requires 3 3/4 yards 36-inch material.

The second dress sets out to prove that a design may be simple and yet emphasize the features that well-dressed women like most—the cascade drapery, flowing sleeves, V-shape neck, etc. The materials suitable for its development cover the approved list of silks, satins and cottons, with the twills added for good measure. THE SCHOOL FEAR

Is it, I wonder, necessary for children to hate school as so many of them do?

Perhaps it is. School is their first initiation into the experience of labor. Up to then, though hedged about with the inevitable dangers, they have had little experience with dos. Their time has been their own. They have not been obliged to make any mental effort unless they felt like it. They have not suffered the discipline of being made to apply themselves when they wanted to play instead. And unless we adopt the Montessori system of letting the child educate itself by its play (an idea which has much to recommend it, but this very lack of discipline to flour is cooked and it is as thick as dough).

Answer—Thank you, reader friend. It was good of you to take the trouble to write again.

Business Girl—"I have ten hand-carved ivory beads—quite large. What other kinds of beads could I combine with them to make a pretty chain?"

Answer—"I would not combine any other beads with them. I would string them on fine silk cording (black), dividing the beads evenly around the long loop of cord and holding each bead in place with knots. At the bottom have a "dangle" of short knotted, cord-ends and three of the white beads.

BEAUTY CHATS

ANSWERED LETTERS

Charles G.—M. F.—To prevent the skin from tanning, cover it with a light coating of cream, dusted over with powder, and wear a hat during the time of exposure to direct rays of the sun. Witch hazel or plain cold water compresses will relieve the burning sensation after exposure to the sun.

Tanning is Nature's protection, so too much bleaching of the skin is not advisable during the summer season. A simple bleach, such as an application of buttermilk or lemon juice, serves to good purpose.

Belle Meade—Mrs. A.—Ice rubs close the pores and tone the skin, so they should be used after you have cleansed the skin either through creams or hot water. A spring tonic will clear your complexion of its sallowness, or you may accomplish the same result by eating a salad once each day made from dandelion leaves.

May T.—Your account of the way you made the cream shows that you did not follow the directions in the formula. All liquids are mixed together, which includes the benzoin. The rose water is needed in forming the cream.

Patient—If you use a bath brush on your neck and upper arms it will clear the skin of the deposits which you call "goose flesh." Turkish baths will relieve such a condition very soon.

Anxious Mother—As hair grows from the roots, frequent cutting could not "stunt its growth," in fact it aids as the scalp has less work to do in order to keep the hair in condition. Your little girls will be benefited in every way if you continue to keep their hair bobbed while they are growing up.

Mrs. B. L. D.—The "green soap" mentioned in the formulae for treating enlarged pores is one that the druggists make from potash. It is used only in chronic cases of acne and then only when the skin is not very sensitive, as it is irritating. Some of this irritation may be averted, however, if the skin is bathed with toilet water following the use of the soap. Witch hazel will help close the pores if used regularly. Since your skin is so sensitive use only fine soaps such as castile, and close the pores with a simple lotion or an ice rub, or the witch hazel as suggested.

A. M.—Helene—Dotty G. S.—A. M.—To reduce portions of the body where a general reduction is not desired, exercise the parts that have become abnormal. If it is for the hips and thighs, take the rotary movements, describing a circle as nearly as possible with the upper part of the body; from the waistline swing to the right as far as possible and repeat by swinging toward the left.

For the calves of the legs, stand in your bare feet and then rise on the toes, hold an instant and lower again to rest. Repeat ten times.

For the arms and shoulders, roll arms around in circles, or do any of the other dumb bell movements. For the very stout neck, roll head around the shoulders just in the circles as described above for the waistline movements.

Tomorrow—The Manicure.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chat" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. The Editor.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Ever since I was a child my aim in life has been to be a nurse. I have tried to like different kinds of work, but find it impossible. The only thing that is hindering me from entering a training school is that I cannot obtain the consent of my parents. Please tell me how I can persuade them to let me enter next September.

Do you think a fellow really cares for a girl if he writes only once in three or four weeks? He is too far away to come to see her.

WORRIED.

If you are in your twenties, I would advise you to enter nurses' training school regardless of the opposition of your parents. Since your desire is so strong, they really ought not stand in your way. Probably the best thing for you to do is to quietly go ahead with your plans. You have tried to make your parents see your point of view, and further arguing would be just as useless. If you are not in your twenties take up the work they favor until you are old enough to be independent.

If the boy really loved the girl, I think he would write oftener.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: About three months ago I went with a boy for about two weeks. Then he was sick for a few days and I did not see him at school. He told his chum to walk home from school with me every night. When he did come back to school I did not care for him any more and so I went with his chum whom I seemed to like better. In a couple of days I forgot about the first boy.

For two months everything went well, but about a month ago my friend started to get jealous. He thought I went with another boy, whom I did not even know to speak with. I think it was the first boy who was the cause of our trouble. He became angry with me and we did not speak to each other for about three days. Then he made up with me and asked me to keep it a secret which I did. The next day we quarrelled again, because I would not tell him something a girl friend of mine said about him.

Since then he has not spoken with me except one time to ask me a question about my brother. It seems as if he cares for me, but he does not speak. He is not going with any other girl. I have tried to forget him during the past month, but I love him more now than I did before he got angry.

My mother and dad think he is a nice boy and would not object to my going with him. Can you tell me what to do? LEDDY.

It is your place to speak to the boy first. Perhaps if he saw you were willing to speak, he would be willing to speak too. He is completely ignores you when you meet, I would not advise you to see him either.

Try not to show that you are upset because of the way he is treating you. If you remain pleasant, but indifferent, he will probably get over his abusive feeling and will seek your company again.

It never pays to try to get along with some one who is touchy and always looking for trouble. If the boy continues to quarrel, you might just as well forget about him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: See if a young man comes to see me if it proper for me to sit on the davenport with him? TWO LIPS.

Yes, it is all right to sit on the davenport. But it would not be all right to sit there and spoon.

WHO'S WHO IN THE DAYS NEWS

MAJ. GEN. JOHN F. O'RYAN

The retirement of Major General John F. O'Ryan, the man who led the Twenty-Seventh division through the world war, takes from active service in the army the outstanding figure of a National Guard officer during the war.

Gen. O'Ryan has been on leave of absence since May 1, 1922. He has commanded the New York National Guard since the end of the war, and in addition to these duties, has been a member of the New York state transit commission since water retention that our weight varies one or two pounds day by day. Of course, if we habitually overeat (some of us), our weight doesn't vary except in the upward trend.

Kellogg claims that mineral waters are harmful rather than beneficial. Von Noorden calls attention to the fact that saline waters when long used cause colitis (inflammation of the colon). It is a bad practice to take any course of mineral waters without the supervision of your physician.

It is usually taught that soda water should not be given to children before their ninth or tenth year. It is exceedingly difficult to keep it away from them, however, and if these four "ifs" are observed I don't believe it will harm them. IF it does not clog 1921, and recently was appointed counsel to a committee of the United States senate investigating the affairs of the veterans' bureau. It is believed he will devote most of his time in the future to the transit commission work.

Gen. O'Ryan's home is at Salem Center, in Putnam county. He is a lawyer, but is best known as a soldier. Among National Guard generals he is distinguished as the only one who retained command of his unit from the beginning to the end of the war. He was the only National Guard general who retained the rank of major general after the readjustment of rank that followed the armistice.

Gen. O'Ryan commanded the New York guard on the Mexican border in 1916, when war with Mexico was imminent and established a reputation as a capable officer.

He took the Twenty-seventh, "New York's Own," to Camp Wadsworth, Sparta, N. Y., where it trained it and led it overseas in the spring of 1918. The division was sent to the British front and helped to break the Hindenburg line in the last great offensive.

Gen. O'Ryan was born in New York City, August 21, 1874. He was educated in the public schools and City College from which he was graduated in 1893. He began his military career as a private in the Seventh Regiment, National Guard, rising rapidly.

In 1901 Gen. O'Ryan married Miss Janet Holmes of New York. He has three daughters and a son.

TUJUNGA TUJUNGA BOYS PLAN FOR CAMP

Scouts Will Have Big Outing; Many 'Attend' Radio Wedding

It is announced that July 10 to 19 inclusive are the dates set for the annual summer encampment of Boy Scouts this year. Arrangements have been made through the Verdugo Hills Scout Council and Lake Arrowhead is the site chosen.

Mr. Lang, chairman of the TuJunga camping committee, announced that this year's camp will be 50 cents less than the camp at Catalina last year and that three troops, one each from TuJunga, La Crescenta and Eagle Rock will have a camping ground of their own this year, of which they will be sole possessors, instead of sharing the entire camp site with troops from the entire district, as was done last year. The campsite will be under the personal supervision of the Scoutmasters of each camp.

The Verdugo Hills District Council will furnish camp equipment, shelter tents, first aid supplies and a cook who is accustomed to camps and who knows how to cook.

Harold F. Benner, Scout executive, will be resident manager of the camp. Mr. Benner has had twelve years' experience in various branches of Boy Scout work and is well equipped to care for the boys.

Near Lake Arrowhead The camp is located near Lake Arrowhead in the pines and has been named in honor of Roy L. Kent, who has been instrumental in advancing the work of the organization in the Verdugo Hills. The camp is about three and one-half miles from the lake, eighty-five miles from Glendale, in the Angelus National Forest, in the fork of the woods formed by the joining of Big Bear creek and Hook creek, surrounded by giant pines, fir and alder trees. A good road leads to the campsite and it is the opinion of those connected with the choosing of the location that a better site could not have been secured.

Carrying out the plan announced some time ago, M. V. Hartraut of the California Home Extension Company has men and teams at work in the hills south of Michigan avenue building roads and fire breaks. The roads are to be used to hurry fire fighters to the points of vantage in the event of fire breaking out in the hills. One important unit of the fire-fighting hillroad system was completed several weeks ago when the road was built leading from the end of Hillhaven road to the cross on Mt. McGroarty. This road is to be continued to a point opposite Sunland, according to Mr. Hartraut's announcement.

It is not only a service road for fighting fires, but a scenic drive of much beauty, circling the hill tops for some distance, and connecting the valley highway with the scene of Easter services at the foot of the cross, which was erected last Easter, and to which a multitude of pilgrims are expected to come next year for the sunrise services above the home of John Steven McGroarty, for whom the hill top was named. The nature of the soil in this region is particularly well adapted to road building, being of the gravel formation that packs so well and remains firm under considerable travel strain.

Attends Radio Wedding TuJunga radio fans put on their old shirts and combed the cowlick out of their several tresses Saturday night and went to a wedding. While they were all invited, together with countless other listeners, and had the pleasure of hearing the people make the vows, there was something lacking that somewhat detracted from the enjoyment of the affair. No one got to kiss the bride, although the osculations of those actually present in the studio at "KFI" where the ceremony took place were plainly audible, especially that of "Uncle John."

The happy couple who were one of the first to become united in this manner from Los Angeles were Dolly Fay Carpenter and Eugene Eric Wuesthoff, of Huntington Park. As a wedding gift the Chamber of Commerce of Huntington Park presented them with a check for $100, immediately following the pronouncement by the Rev. S. S. Simpson of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Gasoline Price War The first intimation of a price war in the gasoline field was had in TuJunga a few days ago when one of the local stations changed brands and began selling at 17 cents, a two-cent drop from prices maintained at other local stations. The reason given was dissatisfaction with the terms of the company handling the higher priced gasoline.

The other dealers seemed to be unalarmed at the situation and continued selling at their old prices, 19 cents. All stated that they had no intention of cutting the price and predicted a return to 19 cents by their competitor very soon. From the attitude taken by the local dealers there seems little chance of the motorists enjoying a price war such as has raged in other sections recently. Unofficial reports from employees of one of the larger companies were to the effect that "a drop was expected," but this could not be confirmed. In fact, it was strongly denied when the question was put.

Statements previously issued by the chief producing companies of this field were to the effect that there is no price war, the reduction being merely the outcome of over-production and any

BURBANK BURBANK MEN AT ROTARY SESSION

Club Hears From Delegates To Convention; Annual Banquet by Women

Burbank is making itself known this week at the international convention of Rotary clubs at St. Louis by its representatives, who distributed postcards. A. Fillbach and Ray Sence are among those present, and they have written club members of their experiences at Trinidad, Colo., and other places along the way east. The club met this noon and enjoyed an impromptu program.

The annual banquet of the Burbank Woman's Club will be held next Monday night at the Methodist church, it is announced. The officers will be installed at the regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon. Defer Cemetery Action The board of trustees have deferred action again on the proposed cemetery ordinance which is designed to prohibit the burying of dead in Burbank. The validity of such a measure is questioned.

SUNLAND CAR UPSETS AND INJURES WOMAN

Mrs. M. W. Brown Badly Hurt in Accident at Sunland Saturday

An accident occurred at Sherman avenue and Michigan avenue Sunday about noon that may result seriously for the victims when a small touring car overturned and pinned the occupants underneath. Statements made by eye-witnesses were to the effect that the small car, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Brown of 2520 San Fernando road, and driven by Mr. Brown, was traveling east on Michigan avenue when, as it neared the corner of Sherman avenue another touring car, occupied by Miss Helen Avery and Mrs. S. E. Logi of 114 North Everett street, Glendale, and driven by Miss Logi, drove on Sherman directly in the path of the car driven by Mr. Brown, where the driver killed the engine and stalled the car across Michigan avenue.

Mr. Brown endeavored to avoid a collision by swinging to the right of the other car and in trying to get back onto the pavement again after passing his steering apparatus must have crumpled over and his car swung sharply to the left into Sherman avenue, making two complete turns and landing upside down, pinning Mrs. Brown beneath the steering wheel. Mr. Brown was more fortunate and helped bystanders release his wife and carried her to a car belonging to Mr. Waite, proprietor of Twin Pines pavilion, in front of whose place of business the accident occurred.

May Prove Serious Mr. Waite started for the TuJunga emergency hospital, but, at the request of Mrs. Brown, rushed her to her home on San Fernando road, and summoned her brother to care for them while he called in a doctor. Dr. Traxley was called and examined the couple for injuries, stating later that apparently only Mrs. Brown was hurt from shock and bruises. Mrs. Brown being most severely bruised and shaken, bringing on a hysterical condition that complicated matters. The doctor stated to a News representative that an X-ray would be necessary before he could definitely determine the extent of Mrs. Brown's injuries. It was feared that she may have suffered internal injuries that will prove serious.

Although the top and windshield of the Ford car driven by Mr. Brown were smashed, neither he nor his wife were cut by glass. A large dog was occupying the rear seat of the ill-fated car, tied to the car, but escaped a scratch, as far as could be learned.

This corner is one where heavy traffic flows, especially on Sundays and holidays, when picnic crowds go to Monte Vista park nearby, this corner being the turning made from the highway into the park. Several hair-raising escapes from serious accidents have been witnessed at this corner in the last few weeks.

Income Tax Total Reaches New Record

Final checking of the receipts from the payments of the second installment of income tax which closed on June 15 brought the collections up to $7,290,785.54, which sets a new record for the Los Angeles internal revenue district, according to revenue figures announced by Collector Rex Goodcell. The receipts for the same period of 1922 were $6,014,024.85. This registers a gain of $1,276,760.69, or 21 per cent.

Collector Goodcell pointed out that the immense increase in income tax receipts came in the face of an annual reduction of $7,000,000 provided for by the new revenue act in Southern California's income tax bill and vindicated the government's theory that business expansion and prosperity would furnish enough new revenue to offset the reductions made. As evidence of the growth in population and in increased earning power of the people of the Los Angeles district, Collector Goodcell referred to the fact that while the United States, as a whole, showed a decrease in the number of personal returns filed for 1922, as compared with 1920, the year in which the nation's high mark in number of personal returns was set, the Los Angeles district registered 155,126 personal returns in 1920 and jumped to 214,147 in 1922, a gain of 59,021, or 38 per cent.

Ranchers Threaten to Shoot Road Hogs

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—Road-hogs had better give the Castaic region a wide berth, it was indicated here when the Automobile Club of Southern California made public a warning letter received from a prominent rancher of that section who declared that his rancher neighbors were arming for a war on motorists who drive recklessly, smash into the farmers' wagons and then laugh and speed on without stopping to render aid.

Police authorities have pointed out that the farmers will be within their rights if they shoot at motorists under such conditions. Such collisions are reported to have been frequent in the vicinity of Saugus, San Fernando and other valley points.

The world permits a criminal to live down his life before he can live down his past.

EAGLE ROCK REALTY BOARD TO MEET AT BANQUET

Monthly Session Will Be Held on Friday Night; Fire Fighters Busy

The Eagle Rock Realty board will hold its monthly banquet Friday night, June 22, at the new Masonic hall, according to President W. R. Johnson, who is in charge of the program. H. E. Devoil is arranging for the meal and all who attend are assured something worth while. J. B. Brown, well known realtor in Eagle Rock, states houses are selling as rapidly as his firm can construct them. Fifteen are now under way. This is encouraging news in view of the building slump registered by permits.

It is rumored that Ralphs Grocery Company are negotiating a lease in the new Sanderson block being constructed on North Central avenue. It will be a two-story structure. Work started last week.

Busy Fighting Fire Engine Company 42, which is Eagle Rock's fire department in the Los Angeles organization, has been keeping busy this week extinguishing brush fires. Yesterday they were called to 133 South Douglas avenue. On Sunday eight firemen and 100 volunteers combated the flames in the hills southeast of the city. Lieut. E. W. Walsh, directed the fight and by skillful back-firing succeeded in stemming the blaze before it completely denuded the hills between Glendale and Eagle Rock.

Fifteen Eagle Rock boys, from fourteen to nineteen years of age, are being rounded up today by Sergeant J. D. Cornwall of the police department, on charges of petit larceny. It is alleged they have broken into two or more places, taking gum and other trinkets. After a severe lecture they are being returned to the custody of their parents with the warning that similar offenses will lead them to Whittier.

Personal Items J. Roy McClay, who was bookkeeper in the old Eagle Rock city hall organization, has accepted a position in the county clerk's office beginning July 2.

George Jage Willey, new editor of the Eagle Rock Sentinel, is on a two-weeks' vacation trip by motor car in the northern part of the state before taking up the strenuous duties of publishing a weekly paper.

Frank Miller's stand at the Glendale & Montrose railway station will have copies of the Glendale Evening News for sale.

Play Will Celebrate Sonoma's Centennial

SONOMA, June 19.—The entire population of Sonoma, every man, woman and child, will be actors in one scene of Garnet Holme's Mission Play, to be given a presentation every day during the Sonoma Centennial Celebration, June 30-July 4.

In the Holme play a Spanish barbecue and fiesta are staged in front of the old mission to celebrate General Vallejo's victory over the Indians. The role of the general is taken by his grandson, Val Empanan. The general's daughter, Mrs. Lulu V. Empanan, also will be a participant.

The Mission play is written around the founding of San Francisco de Solano Mission in 1823. This mission was the most northerly of the California chain, and with the opposition of the Indians and others who were not in sympathy, the historic house of worship had a stormy time of it. In 1846 the Mexican government dispatched General Mariano Vallejo with a force to colonize and hold the Indians in check. He met and defeated the Indians in Lake County and founded a great ranch in what is today the heart of Sonoma.

Police Believe Plea For Help to Be Hoax

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—Constable Landini of Colma yesterday notified the police that Tangelo Chipari had picked up a bottle washed ashore at Mussle Rock containing the following note written with an indelible pencil: "Help, shanghaied on S. S. Cuba. —Milly Ross."

A baggage tag of the Cuba indicated the vessel belonged to the Miami Steamship Company operating between Jacksonville, Fla., and Havana, Cuba. Police are inclined to regard the note as a hoax.

Will Pick Rifle Team From Citizens' Camps

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—A rifle team, consisting of fifteen members, will be selected from graduates of the Basic Red, Advanced Red, White and Blue courses of the Citizens' Military training camps to be held in the Ninth Army Corps area, it was announced today at headquarters here. The team will be sent to Camp Perry, Ohio, to attend the small arms firing school and to participate in the National Rifle association matches which will be held there in September.

Don't waste Ice—Use It!

Here's the way to save ice: Keep the ice chamber well filled.

If you don't use sufficient ice, your refrigerator is never thoroughly cooled. Consequently the ice melts rapidly. And the cold air is absorbed by the refrigerator instead of by the food in it.

The more ice you use, the less rapidly it melts. Use plenty of ice every day in the year.
