one of his resolution instructing the Comm fence of his resolution instructing the Commit-tee on foreign relations to enquire into the ex-pediency of suspanding diplombits instructions with Austria. The gist of his argument was that the fiendish cruelty of that, despution to-wards the unfortunes. Gen. Case, we are scarcely prepared to take sides either for or against it. There is not an American throughout the Republic who does not ne of Austria, and who would not rejoice at any national shame or hamilia-tion which that infamous despotiem might be made to endure. But the question is first, whether the principle proposed is a sound one, and next, whether it could be expediently and consistently carries into effect. We have some grave doubts set to the position in which we woold be placed by the adoption of Mr. Cass' troduct project. The United States is not called upon to be the universal avenger of national wrong She is not to be regarded as th afflicted humanity. If such were our mission, it would not be very long before we would be at loggerheads with half the powers of Europe. e powers of Europe f we are to start upon the decia"

with this principle, abolish the mission to Russia? The conduct of that gigantic empire was reven more criminal than that of Austria, for what was Hungary to her, or she to Hungary, that her legions of serfs and chasacks should be sent to override and trample and plunder and interior of control of the ill-starred defenders of their homes and firesides? Austria had a shedow of a prefer tain sovereignty over Hungary. Russia was impelled exclusively by an instinctive zeal in behalf of tyrainy and a determination to crush all demonstrations of freedom, and to extend the sway of absolute morgarchy. It was our duty, also, by this means, no express our sympathy with stranging sullions who were seeking the liberty besteved of them by God, but taken from them by man.

He boped to have the co-deparation of the Senator from Kentschy, (Mr. Clay), though he feared that the Senator, from a playful remark be made, belonged to the studied milection.

He hoped to have the aid of the Hon. Senator from Manaschusetts, (Mr. Webster?) whose recent noble speech in the came of Hungary, was equal to the highest efforts of the elder Pitt, in the brightest days.

equal to the highest efferts of the elder Pitt, in his brightest dave.

Mr. Case fead some passages from Mr. Webster's speech, and also from Mr. Clay's speeches in behalf of Spanish American independence.

Mr. Case closed by disclaiming any objection to the gentleman who had been sent to Austria. But if he were a Franklin he would not continue him there. Budden his precipitate flight on the leve of the meeting of the Senate, presented an insurmountable objection to his confirmation. The same reshark he applied to Mr. Letcher, who left for Mexico on the 38d December, and should never have his vote to remain there.

Wassingron, Jan. 2.

The Message of the Governor of Maryland treats the subject which saw againts the country in a manner that will cheer the South, and impress Congress with the belief that a crisis has arrived in which that sobject must be settled. All doubts as to the course of Maryland are removed. From what I know of the general sentiment of the Assembly, they are, I am certain, prepared to echo the sentiments of Gov. Thomas.

The spacious brick building in James street, next North of the Albany Evening Journal office, was destroyed by fire this morning. It was occupied by Mr. Herptch as a pill factory, and C. Rillmer as a printing office. Mr. Dwight also occupied a portion of the building as a shop for the manufacture of patierns. The building was compact by W. J. Warner, and insured in the Albany Company for $81500. Mr. Killmer was insured in Columbia for $3000. The total loss was about $5,500. The buildings on the opposite suite of its exerci were badly scorched, also the rear of Clark & Joses store on State street.
