ACT. I. SCENE I.

Enter Cleon, Strato, Lysippus, Diphilus.

HE reft are making ready, Sir. Cleon.

Stra. So let them, there's time enough.

Diph. You are the Brother to the King, my Lord we'll take your word.

Lyf. Strato, thou hast some skill in Poetry. What think'st thou of a Mask? Will it be well?

Stra. As well as Mask can be.

Lys. As Mask can be.

Stra. Yes, they must commend their King, and speak in praise of the Affembly, blefs the Bride and Bridegroom, in perfon of fome God; they are ty'd to rules of flattery.

Cle. See, good my Lord, who is return'd !

Lys. Noble Melantius !

(Enter Melantius. The Land by me welcomesthy Vertues home to Rhodes, thou that with blood abroad buyeft us our peace; the breath of Kings is like the breath of Gods; my Brother wift thee here, and thou art here; he will be too kind, and weary thee with often welcomes; but the time doth give thee a welcome above this, or all the worlds.

Mel. My Lord, my thanks; but these scratcht Limbs of mine have spoke my Love and truth unto my Friends, more than my tongue e're could ; my mind's the fame it ever was to you ; where I find worth, I love the keeper, till he let it go,

And then I follow it.

Diph. Hail, worthy Brother ! He that rejoyces not at your return In fafety, is mine Enemy for ever,

Mel. I thank thee, Dipbilus : but thou art faulty; I fent for thee to exercise thine Arms

With me at Patria: thou cam'ft not, Diphilus: 'Twas ill. Diph. My Noble Brother, my excuse

Is my Kings strict Command, which you, my Lord, Can witness with me.

Lyf. 'Tis true Melantins, He might not come till the folemnity Of this great Match were paft.

Diph. Have you heard of it ?

Mel. Yes, I have given caufe to those that Envy my deeds abroad, to call me gamesom; I have no other business here at Rhodes.

Lyf. We have a Mask to night, And you must tread a Soldiers measure.

Mel. These fost and filken Wars are not for me; The musick must be shrill, and all confus'd, That stirs my Blood, and then I dance with Arms: But is Amintor wed?

Diph. This day.

Mel. All joys upon him, for he is my Friend : Wonder not that I call a Man fo young my Friend, His worth is great ; valiant he is, and temperate, And one that never thinks his life his own, If his Friend need it: when he was a Boy, As oft as I return'd (as without boaft) I brought home Conqueft, he would gaze upon me, And view me round, to find in what one Limb The Vertue lay to do those things he heard : Then would he wish to see my Sword, and feel The quickness of the edge, and in his hand Weigh it ; he oft would make me fimile at this ; His Youth did promise much, and his ripe years Will fee it all perform'd. One of the final passing by.

Mel. Hail Maid and Wife ! Thou fair Afpatia, may the holy knot That thou haft tied to day, laft till the hand Of age undo't; may'ft thou bring a Race Unto Amintor, that may fill the World Succeflively with Soldiers. Deferve not fcorn; for I was never proud When they were good. Mel. How's this? Lyf. You are miltaken, for fhe is not married. Mel. You faid Amintor was. Diph. 'Tis true; but ----

Mel. Pardon

Mel. Pardon me, I did receive Letters at Patria, from my Amintor, That he should marry her. Diph. and so it stood, In all opinion long; but your arrival Made me imagine you had heard the change. Mel. Who hath he taken then ? Lyf. A Lady, Sir, , hat bears the light above her, and ftrikes dead That bears the light above her, and strikes dead With flashes of her Eye, the fair Evadne, your vertuos Sister. Mel. Peace of heart betwixt them : But this is ftrange. Lys. The King, my Brother, did it To honour you, and these Solemnities Are at his Charge. Mel. 'Tis Royal, like himfelf: But I am fad, my speech bears so unfortunate a sound To beautiful Aspatia; there is rage Hid in her Father's Breaft; Calianax Bent long against me, and he should not think. . If I could call it back, that I would take So base Revenges, as to scorn the state Of his neglected Daughter : holds he still his greatness with the King? Lyf. Yes; but this Lady Walks discontented, with her watry Eyes Bent on the Earth : the unfrequented Woods Are her delight; and when the fees a Bank Stuck full of Flowers, she with a figh will tell Her-Servants, what a pretty Place it were To bury Lovers in, and make her Maids boh boh Pluck 'em, and ftrow her over like a Corpfe. She carries with her an infectious Grief, That strikes all her Beholders; she will fing The mournful'st that ever Ear hath heard : And figh, and fing again, and when the reft Of our young Ladies in their wanton Blood, Tell mirthful Tales in course, that fill the Room With laughter, she will, with fo fad aLook Bring forth a Story of the filent death Of some forfaken Virgin, which her grief Will put in fuch a Phrase, that exe she end, She'l fend them weeping, one by one, away. THE HORY DO & NOW Mel. She has a Brother, under my Command, Like her, a Face as Womanish as hers, But with a Spirit that hath much out-grown

The number of his years.

Cle. My Lord the Bridegroom ! Mel. I might run fiercely, not more haftily Upon my Foe : 1 love thee well, Amintor, (Emer Amintor.

The MAIDS

My Mouth is much too narrow for my Heart; I joy to look upon those Eyes of thine; Thou art my Friend; but my disordered speech cuts off my love. Amin. Thou art Melantius; All Love is fpoke in that, a facrifice To thank the Gods, Melantius is returned In fafety; Victory fits on his Sword As fhe was wont; may fhe build there and dwell, And may thy Armour be as it hath been, Only thy Valour and thy Innocence. What endless Treasures would our Enemies give. That I might hold the still thus !

Mel. I am but poor in words, but credit me young Man, Thy Mother could no more but weep for Joy to fee thee, After long absence; all the Wounds I have, Fetcht not fo much away, nor all the Cries Of widowed Mothers: but this is Peace; And what was War?

Amin. Pardon, thou holy God Of Marriage-bed, and frown not, I am forced, In answer of such noble Tears as those, To weep upon my Wedding day.

Mel. I fear thou art grown too fick; for I hear A Lady mourns for thee, Men fay to death. Forfaken of thee, on what terms I know not.

Amin. She had my Promise, but the King forbad it, And made me make this worthy change, thy Sifter Accompanied with Graces above her, With whom I long to loofe my luftful Youth, And grow old in her Arms. There and a second have much

Mel. Be prosperous.

Enter Meffenger.

Mef. My Lord, the Maskers rage for you. Lys. We are gone. (Exit Cleon, Strato, Diphilus. Amin. We'll all attend you, we shall trouble you With our Solemnities. Mel. Not so, Amintor. But if you laugh at my rude Carriage In Peace, I'le do as much for you in War, When you come thither : yet I have a Miftres To bring to your delights; rough though I am, I have a Mistress, and she has a Heart, She fays, but trust me, it is Stone, no better, There is no place that I can challenge in't. But you stand still, and here my way lies. - (Exit.

Enter

Enter Calianax with Diagoras.

Cal. Diagoras, look to the Doors better, for fhame, you let in all the World, and anon the King will rail at me; why very well faid, by Jove, the King will have the Show i'th' Court.

Diag. Why do you fwear fo, my Lord? You know hee'l have it here.

Cal. By this light, if he be wife, he will not.

Diag. And if he will not be wife, you are forsworn.

Cal. One may fwear his Heart out with fwearing, and get thanks on no fide; I'le be gone, look to't who will.

Diag. My Lord, I will never keep them out. Pray stay, your looks will terrifie them.

Cal. My Looks terrifie them, you Coxcombly Afs you! I'le be judged by all the Company, whether thou hast not a worse Face than I-

Diag. I mean, because they know you and your Office.

Cal. Office, I would I could put it off, I am fure, I fweat quite through my Office: I might have made room at my Daughters Wedding, they had near killed her amongst them. And now I must do Service for him that hath forfaken her; ferve that will. (Exit Calianax.

Diag. He's fo humourous fince his Daughter was forfaken : hark, hark, there, there, fo, fo, codes, codes,

What now?

(Within, knock within. Mel. Open the Door. Diag. Who's there? Mel. Melantius. Diag. I hope your Lordship brings no Troop with you, for if you do, (Enter Melantius and a Lady. I must return them.

Mel. None but this Lady, Sir.

Diag. The Ladies are all plac'd above, fave those that come in the King's Troop, the best of Rhodes sit there, and there's room.

Mel. I thank you, Sir, when I have feen you plac'd, Madam, I muft attend the King; but the Mask done, I'le wait on you again.

Diag. Stand back there, room for my Lord Melantins, pray bear back, this is no place for fuch Youths and their Truls ; let the Doors fhut agen ; I, do your Heads itch? I'le fcratch them for you : fo, now thrust and hang : again, who is't now ? I cannot blame my Lord Calianax for going away; would he were here, he would run raging among them, and break a dozen wifer Heads than his own, in the twinkling of an Eye : what's the news now? (Within.

Mel. I pray you can you help me to the speech of the Master Cook? Diag. If I open the Door, I'lle cook fome of your Calves heads.

Mel. Melantius within, (Enter Calianax to Melantius, Cal. Let him not in,

Diag. O my Lord, a must; make room there for my Lord; is your Lady plac'd.

Mel. Y.s, Sir, I thank you, my Lord Calianax : well met, Your caullels hate to me, I hope, is buried.

Cel.

The MAIDS

Cal. Yes, I do Service for your Sifter here, That brings my own poor Child to timelefs Death; She loves your Friend Amintor, fuch another false-hearted Lord as you.

Mel. You do me wrong. A most unmanly one, and I am flow In taking Vengeance, but be well advis'd.

Cal. It may be fo: who placed the Lady there, fo near the prefence of the King? Mel. I did.

Cal. My Lord, the must not fit there. Mel. Why?

Cal. The place is kept for Women of more worth.

Mel. More worth than fhe, it mif-becomes your age And place, to be thus womanifh; forbear, What you have fpoke, I am content to think

The Palfey shook your Tongue to.

Cal. Why 'tis well if I stand here to place Mens Wenches.

Mel. 1 shall forget this place, thy Age, my fafety, and through all, cut that poor fickly week thou hast to live, away from thee.

Cal. Nay, 1 know you can fight for your Whore.

Mel. Bate the King, and be he Flesh and Blood, A lyes that fays it; thy Mother at fifteen

Was black and finful to her.

Diag. Good my Lord!

Cal. I, you my fay your pleasure.

Amint. What vild Injury Has ftirr'd my worthy Friend, who is as flow To fight with words, as he is quick of Hand !

Mel. That heap of Age which I fhould reverence, If it were temperate ; but tefty years Are most contemptible.

Amint. Good Sir, forbear.

Cal. There is just fuch another as your felf.

Amint. He will wrong you, or me, or any Man, And talk as if he had no Life to loofe, Since this our match : the King is coming in, (Enter Amintor.

I would not for more Wealth than I enjoy, He fhould perceive you raging, he did hear You were at difference now, which hastned him. Cal. Make room there.

(Hoboys plays wishin.

Enter King, Evadne, Aspatia, Lords and Liadies.

King. Melantins, thou art welcome, and my love Is with thee ftill; but this is not a place To babble in; Calianax, joyn hands. Cal. He fhall not have my Hand.

Cal. Fie man not nave my 11a

King. This is no time To force you to't, I do love you both : Calianax, you look well to your Office ; And you Melantius are wellcome home; begin the Mask. Mel. Sifter, I joy to fee you, and your choice,

You lookt with my Eyes, when you took that Man; Be happy in him.

Evad. O my dearest Brother ! Your presence is more joyful than this day can be unto me.

The Mask.

Night rises in Mists.

Night. Our Reign is come; for in the raging Sea The Sun is drowned, and with him fell the day: Bright Cinthia hear my Voice, I am the Night, For whom thou bear'ft about thy borrowed Light; Appear, no longer thy pale vifage shroud, But strike thy filver horn through a cloud, And fend a beam upon thy fwarthy Face, By which I may difcover all the place And Perfons, and how many longing Eyes Are come to wait on our Solemnities. How dull and black am I? I could not find This Beauty without thee, I am fo blind, Methinks they flew like to those Eastern stroaks, That warn us hence before the morning breaks; Back my pale Servant, for these Eyes know how To shoot far more and quicker Rays than thou.

Cinth. Great Queen, they be a Troop, for whom alone One of my clearest Moons I have put on; A Troop that looks as if thy self and I Had pluckt our Reins in, and our Whips laid by, Night. Then let us keep 'um here, And never more our Chariots drive away, But hold our places, and out-fhine the day.

Cinth. Great Queen of Shadows, you are pleas'd to speak Of more than may be done; we may not break The Gods Decrees, but when our time is come, Must drive away and give the Day our room. Yet whilft our Reign lasts, let us stretch our Power, To give our Servants one contented hour, With fuch unwonted folemn Grace and State; As may for ever after force them hate Our Brother's glorious Beams, and with the Night Crown'd with a thousand Stars, and our cold light, For almost all the World their fervice bend To Phabus, and in vain my light I lend, Gaz'd on unto my fetting from my rife Almost of none, but of unquiet Eyes.

Night. Then thine at full, fair Queen, and, by thy Power, Produce a Birth to Crown this happy hour; Of Nymphs and Shepherds let their Songs difcover, Easse and Sweet, who is a happy Lover; Or if thou woot, then call thine own Endymion From the fweet flowry Bed he lies upon, On Latmus top, thy pale Beams drawn away, And of this long Night let him make a day.

Cinth. Thou dream'st fair Queen, that fair Boy was not mine, Nor went I down to kifs him; eafe and wine Have bred thefe bold Tales; Poets, when they rage, Turn Gods to Men, and make an hour age; But I will give a greater State and Glory, And raife to time a noble memory Of what these Lovers are; rife, rife, I fay, Thou power of deeps, thy furges laid away, Neptune, great King of waters, and by me (Neptune rises. Be proud to be commanded.

Nep. Cinthia, see,

Thy word hath fetcht me hisher, let me know why I ascend. Cinth. Doth this Mageflick flow Give thee no knowledge yet? Nep. Yes, now I fee Something intended (Cinthia) worthy thee; Go on, l'le be a helper. Cinth. Hie thee then. And charge the Wind flie from his Rocky Den. Let loofe thy fubjects, only Boreas.

Too foul for our intention as he was; Still keep him faft chain'd; we muft have none here, But vernal blafts, and gentle Winds appear, Such as blow flowers, and through the glad Boughs fing Many foft Welcomes to the lufty Spring. Thefe are our Mufick: next, thy watry race Bring on in Couples; we are pleas'd to grace This noble Night, each in their richeft things Your own deeps, or the broken veffel brings; Be prodigal, and I fhall be as kind; And fhine at full upon you.

Nep. Ho the wind

(Enter Eolus out of a Rock.

Commanding Eolus!

Eol. Great Neptune. Eol. What is thy Will? Nep. He.

Nep. We do command the free Favonius, and thy milder Winds to wait Upon our Cinthia, but tye Boreas straight; He's too rebellious.

Eol. I shall do it.

Nep. Do, great master of the Flood, and all below, Thy full Command has taken.

Eol. Ho! the main ; Neptune.

Nep. Here.

Eol. Boreas has broke his Chain, And ftruggling with the reft, has got away.

Nep. Let him alone, I'le take him up at Sea; He will not long be thence; go once again, And call out of the bottoms of the Main, Blew Protens, and the reft; charge them put on Their greateft Pearls, and the most fparkling Stone The bearing Rock breeds, till this Night is done, By me a folemn honour to the Moon; Fly like a full Sail.

Eol. 1 am gone.

Cinth. Dark night, Strike a full filence, do a thorow right To this great Chorus, that our Musick may Touch as high as Heaven, and make the East break day At Midnight. (Musick)

Pace out your watry Powers below. let your feet Like the Gallies when they row, even beat. Let your unknown measures set To the still Winds, tell to all, That Gods are come immortal great, To honour this great Nuptial. The Measure. Second Song. Hold back thy hours, dark Night, till we have done, The Day will come too foon; Young Maids will curse thee if thou steal'st away, And leav it their blushes open to the day. Stay, Stay, and hide the blushes of the Bride. Stay, gentle Night, and with thy darkness cover the kiffes of her Lover. Stay, and confound her Tears, and her Arill cryings, Her weak denials, vows, and often dyings; Stay and hide all, but help not though the call.

Nep: Great Queen of us and Heaven, and a manufacture to the second Hear what I bring to make this hour a full one, If not her measure.

Eol. The Seas go high.
Boreas hath rais'd a ftorm; go and apply
Thy Trident, elfe I prophesie, e're day
Many a tall Ship will be cast away :
Defcend with all the Gods, and all their power to strike a Calmicin. A thanks to every one, and to gratulate

So great a Service done at my defire, Ye shall have many floods fuller and higher Than you have wisht for; no Ebb shall dare To let the day see where your dwellings are: Now back unto your Government in haste, Less your proud charge should swell above the waste, And win upon the Island.

Nep. We obey. (Neptune defcends, and the Sea-Gods. Cin. Hold up thy Head, dead Night; feeft thou not Day? The Eaft begins to lighten, I must down, And give my Brother place.

Nigh. Oh, I could frown To fee the Day, the Day that flings his light Upon my Kingdoms, and contems old Night; Let him go on and flame, I hope to fee Another Wild-Fire in his Axletree; And all falfe drencht; but I forgot, fpeak Queen, The day grows on, I must no more be feen.

Cin. Heave up thy droulie head agen, and fee A greater Light, a greater Majesty, Between our Sect and us; whip up thy Team; The day breaks here, and you fome flashing stream Shot from the South; fay, which way wilt thou go?

ACT. II.

Enter Evadne, Aspatia, Dula, and other Ladies.

Dul. Adam, shall we undress you for this fight? The Wars are naked that you must make to Night. Evad. You are very mery, Dula, Dul. I should be far merrier, Madam, if it were with me as it is with you. Evad. Why, how now Wench? . Dul. Come, Ladies, will you help. Evad. I am soon undone. Dul. And as foon done : Good ftore of Cloath's will trouble you both. Evad. Art thou drunk? Dula. Dul. Why here's none but we. Evad. Thou think'ft belike, there is no modefty When we are alone. Dul. I by my troth, you hit my thoughts aright. Evad. You prick me, Lady. Dal. 'Tis against my will, Anon you must endure more, and lie still. Your'e best to practice. Evad. Sure this Wench is mad. Dul. No faith, this is a Trick that I have had Since I was fourteen. Evad. 'Tis high time to leave it. Dul. Nay, now I'le keep it till the trick leave me; A dozen wonton words put in your head, Will make you lively in your Husband's bed. Evad. Nay, faith, then take it. Dul. Take it, Madam, where? We all, I hope, will take it that are here. Evad. Nay, then I'le give you o're. Dul. So will I make The ablest man in Rhodes, or his heart to ake. Evad. Wilt take my place to night? DEL. Ple hold your Cards against any two I know. Evad. What wilt thou do? Dul. Madam, we'll do't, and make 'em leave play too. Evad. Aspatia, take her part. Dul. I will refuse it. She will pluck down a fide, she does not use it. Evad. Why, do. Dul. You will find the Play

Quickly, because your head lies well that way.

Some of thy mirth into Afpatia: Nothing but fad thoughts in her Breaft do dwell, Methinks a mean betwixt you would do well.

Dul. She is in Love, hang me if I were fo, But I could run my Country, I love too To do those things that People in love do.

Afp. It were a timelefs finile fhould prove my cheek, It were a fitter Hour for me to laugh. When at the Altar the Religious Prieft Were pacifying the offended Powers With Sacrifice, than now, this fhould have been My Night, and all your hands have been employed In giving me a fpotlefs Offering To young Amintor's Bed, as we are now For you : pardon, Evadne, would my worth Were great as yours, or that the King, or he, Or both thought fo, perhaps he found me worthlefs : But till he did fo, in these Ears of mine, (These credulous Ears) he pour'd the fweetest Words, That Art or Love could frame, if he were falle? Pardon it, Heaven, and if I did want Vertus, you fafely may forgive that too, For I have left none that I had from you.

Evad. Nay, leave this fad talk, Madam.

Asp. Would I could, then should I leave the cause.

Evad. See if you have not spoil'd all Dula's mirth.

 A_{fp} . Thou think's thy Heart hard, but if thou beest caught; remember me; thou shalt perceive a Fire shot suddenly into thee.

Dul. That's not to good, let 'em shoot any thing but fire, I fear 'em not.

Afp. Well, Wench, thou may'ft be taken. Evad. Ludies, good night, I'le do the reft my felf. Dul. Nay, let your Lord do fome. Afp. Lay a Garland on my Hearfe of the difinal Yew. Evad. That's one of your fad Songs, Madam. Afp. Believe me, 'tis a very pretty one. Evad. How is it, Madam ?

Mine eyes run ; this is ftrange at fuch a time. It was the King first mov'd me to't, but he Perplex my felf thus, fomething whifpers me, Go not to bed, my Guilt is not fo great As mine own Confcience (too fenfible) Would make me think ; I only brake a promife, And 'twas the King that forc'd me: timorous flefh Why shak'st thou so? away my idle fears. (Enter Evad. Yonder she is, the lustre of whose Eye Can blot away the fad remembrance Of all these things; Oh, my Evadne, spare That tender Body, let it not take cold. The vapours of the Night will not fall here. To bed my Love; Hymen will punish us For being flack performers of his Rites. Amin. Come, come my Love, Evad. No. Cam'st thou to call me ? And let us loofe our felves to one another. Why art thou up fo long? . Evad. I am not well. Amin. To bed, then let me wind thee in these Arms, Till I have banisht sickness. Evad. Good my Lord, I cannot fleep. Amin. Evadne, we'll watch, I mean no fleeping. Evad. I'le not go to Bed. Amin. I prethee do. Evad.I will not for the world. Amin.Why, my dear Love Evad. Why? I have fworn I will not. Evad. I. Amin. Sworn ! Amin. How ? Sworn Evadne? Evad. Yes, fworn Amintor, and will fwear again, If you will wish to hear me. Amin. To whom have you fworn this? Evad. If I should name him, the matter were not great. Amin. Come, this is but the covness of a Bride. Evad. The coynels of a Bride! Amin. How prettily that Frown becomes thee, Evad. Do you like it fo ? King. I do not like this; all forbear the room But you Amintor and your Lady. I have fome speech with You, that may concern your after living well.

Amin. A will not tell me that he lies with her: if he do Something heavenly ftay my heart, for I shall be apt To thrust this Arm of mine to acts unlawful.

King. You will fuffer me to talk with her, Amintor, And not have a jealous pang?

Amin. Sir, I dare trust my Wife

With whom the dares to talk, and not be jealous.

King. How do you like Amintor?

Evad. As I did, Sir. King. How's that? Evad. As one that, to fulfil your Will and Pleafure, I have given leave to call me Wife and Love.

King. I fee there is no lafting faith in Sin ;

They that break word with Heaven, will break agen With all the World, and fo do'ft thou with me.

Evad. How, Sir?

King. This fubtile Womans ignorance Will not excuse you; thou hast taken Oaths So great, methought they did not well become A Womans mouth, that thou would ft ne're enjoy A Man but me.

Evad. I never did swear so; you do me wrong. King. Day and Night have heard it.

Evad. I fwore indeed that I would never love A Man of lower place; but if your Fortune Should throw you from this height, I bade you truft I would forfake you, and would bend to him

That won your Throne; I love with my ambition, Not with my Eyes; but if I ever yet Toucht any other , Leprofie light here Upon my face, which for your Royalty I would not stain. King. Why, thou diffembleft, and it is in me to punish thee. Evad. Why, it is in me then not to love you, which will More afflict your body, than your punishment can mine. King, But thou hast let Amintor lie with the. Evad. I hannot. King. Impudence! he fays himfelf fo. Evad. Alyes. King. A does not. Evad. By this light he does, strangely and basely, and I'le prove it fo; I did not fhun him for a Night, But told him I would never close with him. King. Speak lower, 'tis falfe. Evad. I'm no man to answer with a blow; Or if I were, you are the King, but urge me not, 'tis most true. King: Do not I know the uncontrouled thoughts That youth brings with him, when his blood is high With expediation and defire of that He long hath waited for ? is not his fpirit, Though he be temperate, of a valiant strain; As this our age hath known ! what could he do If fuch a fudden speech had met his blood, But ruine thee for ever? if he had not kill'd thee; He could not bear it thus; he is as we, Or any other wrong'd man, Evad. It is diffembling. King. Take him; farewell: henceforth I am thy foe; And what difgraces I can blot thee, look for. Evad. Stay, Sir; Amintor ! you shall hear, Amintor. Amint. What my love? Evad. Amintor, thou haft an ingenuous look, And should'st be vertuous; it amazeth me, That thou canft make fuch base malicious lyes. Amin. What, my dear Wife ? Evad. Dear Wife ! I do despise thee ; Why, nothing can be bafer, than to fow Diffention amongst Loyers? Amin. Lovers! Who? Evad. The King and me. Amin. O Heaven ! Evad. Who should live long, and love without distaste, Were it not for fuch pickthanks as thy felf ! Did you lie with me? fwear now, and be punisht in Hell For this. Amin. The faithless Sin I made To fair Aspatia, is not revenged,

St

It follows me; I will not lofe a Word To this wild Woman; but to you my King, The anguish of my Soul thrust out this truth, Y'are a Tyrant; and not so much to wrong An honess thus, as to take a pride In talking with him of it.

Evad. Now, Sir, fee howfloud this Fellow lyed. Amin, You that can know to wrong, fhould know how Men must right themfelves: what punishment is due From me to him that shall abuse my bed ! It is not death; nor can that fatisfie, Unless I fend your lives through all the Land, To shew how nobly I have freed my felf.

King. Draw not thy fword, thou knoweft I cannot fear A fubjects hand; but thou fhalt feel the weight of this, If thou doft rage. Amin. The weight of that?

If you have any worth, for Heaven's fake think I fear not Swords; for as you are meer Man, I dare as eafily kill you for this deed, a second As you dare think to do it; but there is the same same and the same Divinity about you, that ftrikes dead My rifing paffions : As you are my King, I fall before you, and prefent my Sword To cut mine own flefh, if it be your will. Alas ! I am nothing but a multitude. Of walking griefs; yet thould I murther you, at the I might before the World take the excuse Of madnefs : for compare my injuries, And they will well appear too fad a weight For reason to endure; but fall I first service states the Amongft my forrows, e're my treacherous hand and an and a state of the set Touch holy things : but why? I know not what I have to fay; why did you chuse out me at VI -To make thus wretched ? there were thousands fools Easie to work on, and of state enough within the Island. Evad: I would not have a fool, it were no credit for me. strain farmer . Winds Amin. Worfe and worfe! Thou that dar'ft talk unto thy Husband thus, Profess thy felf a Whore! and more than fo, the second Refolve to be fo ftill ;. it is my fate To bear and how beneath a thousand griefs, To keep that little credit with the World. But there were wife ones too, you might have tane another. K. No; for I beleive thee honeft, as thou wert valiant,

Amin.

Amint. All the happiness Bestow'd upon me, turns into disgrace; Gods take your honefty again, for I Am loaden with it; good my Lord the King, be private in it. King. Thou may'ft live, Amintor, Free as thy King, if thou wilt wink at this, And be a means that we may meet in fecret. Amin. A Bawd ! hold, hold my Breast, a bitter curse Seize me, if I forget not all respects That are religious, on another word Sounded like that, and through a Sea of Sins Will wade to my revenge, though I should call Pains here, and after life upon my Soul. King. Well, I am resolute you lay not with her, And fo leave you. Exit King. Evad. You must be prating, and see what follows. Amin. Prethee vex me not. Leave me, I am afraid some sudden start Will put a murther on me. Evad. I am gone; I love my life well. (Exit Evadne. Amin. I hate mine as much. This 'tis to break a troth; I fould be glad If all this tide of grief would make me mad. Enter Melantius. Mel. I'le know the caufe of all Amintor's griefs. Or friendship shall be idle. (Enter Calianax. Cal. Oh, Melantius, my Daughter will die. Mel. Truft me, I am forry; would thou hadft tane her room. Cal. Thou arta Slave, a cut-throat Slave, a bloody treacherous Slave. Mel. Take heed, old man, thou wilt be heard to rave, And lose thine Offices, THE FORM Cal. I am valliant grown At all these years, and thou art but a Slave, Mel. Leave, fome Company will come, and I respect Thy years, not thee fo much, that I could with To laugh at thee alone. Cal. I'll spoil your mirth, I mean to fight with thee ; There lie my Cloak, this was my Father's Sword, And he durft fight; are you prepared ?

Mel. Why ? wilt thou doat thy felf out of thy life ? Hence get thee to bed, have careful looking to, and eat warm things, and trouble not me : my head is full of thoughts more weighty than thy life or Death can be.

Cal. You have a name in War, when you fland fafe Amongst a multitude, but I will try

In fingle fight; you'll ground, I fear: Come draw. Mel. I will not draw, unlefs thou pull'ft thy death Upon thee with a ftroke; there's no one blow

That thou can'ft give, hath ftrengthenough to kill me. Tempt me not fo far then ; the power of Earth Shall not redeem thee.

Cal. I must let him alone. He's stout and able; and to fay the truth, However, I may set a face and talk, I am not valiant : when I was a Youth, I kept my credit with a testy trick I had. Amongst Cowards but durst never fight.

Atel. I will not promife to preferve your life, if you do ftay. Cal. I would give half my Land, that I durft fight with that proud Man a little: if I had men to hold, I would beat him, till he ask me mercy. Mel. Sir, will you be gone?

Cal. I dare not stay, but I will go home, and beat my Servants all over for this. (Exit Calianax.

Mel. This old Fellow haunts me, But the diftracted carriage of mine, Amintor Takes deeply on me, I will find the caufe; I fear his Confcience cries, hewrong'd Afpatia.

Enter Amintor. Amin. Mens eyes are not fo fubtil to perceive My inward mifery; I bear my grief Hid from the World; how art thou wretched then? For ought t know, all Husbands are like me; And every one I talk with of his Wife, Is but a diffembler of his woes

As I am; would I knew it, for the rareness afflicts me now.

Mel. Amintor, we have not enjoyed our friendship of late, for we were wont to charge our Souls in talk.

Amin. Melantius, I can tell thee a good jest of Strato and a Lady the last day. Mel. How wast?

Amint. Why fuch an odd one.

Mel. I have long'd to speak with you, not of an idle jest that's forc'd, but of matter you are bound to utter to me.

Amin. What is that, my friend?

Mel. I have observ'd, your words fall from your tongue

Wildly; and all your carriage,

Like one that ftrove to shew his merry Mood,

When he were ill-dispos'd : you were not wont

To put fuch scorn into your speech, or wear

Upon your face ridiculous jollity :

Some fadnefs fits here, which your cunning would Cover o're with fmiles, and 'twill not be. What is it is a mine Amin. A fadnefs here ! what caufe Can Fate provide for me, to make me fo? Am I not loved through all this life? the King Rains greatnefs on me : have I not received A Lady to my bed, that in her Eye Keeps mounting fire, and on her tender cheecks Inevitable colour, in her heart A prison for all yertue ! are not you. Which is above all joyes, my conftant friend ! What fadnefs can I have ? no, I am light, And feel the courses of my blood more warm And flirring than they were; faith, marry too, And you will feel fo unexpreft a joy In chaft Embraces, that you will indeed appear another. Mel. You may fhape, Amintor, Caufes to cozen the whole world withal, And your felf too; but 'tis not like a Friend. To hide your Soul from me; 'tis not your nature To be thus idle ; I have seen you stand As you were blasted ; midst of all your mirth ; Call thrice aloud, and then ftart, feigning joy So coldly: World ! what do I here? a friend Is nothing : Heaven ! I would ha' told that man My fecret fins; I'le fearch an unknown Land, And there plant Friendship, all is withered here ; Come with a complement, I would have fought, Or told my friend a lyed, e're footh'd him fo ; Out of my boson. Amin. But there is nothing. Mel. Worfe and worfe ; farewell; Doubi War and and It would be From this time have acquaintance, but no friend. Amin. Mellantins, flay, you shall know what that is, Mel. See how you play'd with friendship; be advised How you give caufe unto your felf to fay. You ha' loft a friend. Amint. Forgive what I have done; while ; the forget in the For I am fo o're-gone with injuries and a subdet of the souther and an sta Unheard of, that I lofe confideration all and a state of the state Of what I ought to do, ---- oh _--- oh. Melan. Do not weep; what is't? May I once but know the man. Amin. I had fpoke at first, but that. Mel. But what ?! Amin. I held it most unfit

For you to know; faith do not know it yet.

Mel. Thou feest my Love, that will keep Company With thee in tears; hide nothing then from me; For when I know the caufe of thy diftemper, With mine own Armour I'le adorn my felf, My refolution, and cut through thy foes, Unto thy quiet, till I place thy heart As peaceable as spotles innocence. What is it? Amin. Why 'tis this, ---- it is too big To get out, let my tears make way a while. Mel. Punish me strangely, Heaven, if he escape Of life or fame, that brought this Youth to this? Amin. Your Sifter. Mel. Well faid, Amin. You'll wish't is unknown, when you have heard it. Mel. No. Without any same in our same Amin. Is much too blame, And to the King has given her honour up, And lives in Whoredom with him. Mel. How, this ! Thouart mad with injury indeed, Thou could ft not utter this elfe; speak again, For 1 forgive it freely; tell thy griefs. Amin. She's wanton; I am loth to fay a Whore, Though it be true. Mel. Speak yet again, before mine anger grow Up beyond throwing down; what are thy griefs? Amin. By all our Friendship, thefe. Met. What? am I tame? After mine actions, shall the name of friend Blot all our Family, and strike the brand Of Whore upon my Sifter unreveng'd ? My shaking flesh be thou a Witness for me: With what unwillingness I go to fcourge This Railer, whom my folly hath call'd Friend : I will not take thee basely, thy Sword Hangs near thy hand, draw it, that I may whip Thy rafhness to repentance; draw thy Sword. Amin. Not on thee, did thine anger swell as high As the wild forges; thou fhould ft do me eafe Here, and eternally, if thy noble hand Would cut me from my forrows. Mel. This is bafe and fearful! they that use to utter lyes. Provide not blows, but words to qualifie

The men they wrong'd; thou haft a guilty caufe. Amin. Thou pleafeft me: for fo much more like this.

Will raife my anger up above my griefs,

Which

Which is a paffion eafier to be born. And I shall then be happy.

Mel. Take then more to raife thine anger. 'Tis meer Cowardize makes thee not draw; and I will leave thee dead However; but if thou art fo much preft With guilt and fear, as not to dare to fight, I'le make thy memory loath'd, and fix a fcandal Upon thy name for ever.

Amin. Then I draw, As juftly as our Magistrates their Swords, To cut Offenders off; I knew before 'Twould grate your ears: but it was bafe in you To urge a weighty fecret from your friend, And then rage at it; I shall be at ease, If I be kill'd; and if you fall by me, I shall not long out live you.

Mel. Stay a while, The name of Friend is more than Family, Or all the World befides; I was a Fool. Thou fearching human nature, that didft wake To do me wrong, thou art inquifitive, And thruft me upon queftions that will take My fleep away; would I had died e're known This fad difhonour; pardon me my friend; If thou wilt ftrike, here is a faithful heart, Pierce it, for I will never heave my hand To thine; behold the power thon haft in me ! I do believe my Sifter is a Whore, A leprous one, put up thy Sword, young Man.

Amin. How fhould I bear it then, fhe being fo? I fear my Friend that you will loofe me fhortly; And I fhall do a foul act on my felf Through these difgraces.

Mel. Better half the Land Were buried quick together; no, Amintor, Thou shalt have ease: O this adulterous King That drew her to't ! where got he the spirit To wrong me so?

Amin. What is it then to me, If it be wrong to you.

Mel. Why, not fo much: the credit of our house Is thrown away;

But from his iron Den I'le waken death, And hurle him on this King; my honefty Shall freal my Sword, and on its horrid point Ple wear my Gaufe, that fhall amaze the eyes Of this proud man, and be too glittering, For him to look on. Amin. I have quite undone my fame.

Mel. Dry up thy watry eyes, and a set of soll and a new well And caft a manly look upon my Face, the state of the stat For nothing is fo wild as I thy friend i be the states and shares and Till I have freed thee, flill this fwelling breaft; I go thus from thee, and will never ceafe My vengeance, till I find my Heart at peace. Amin. It must not be fo; stay, mine eyes would tell How loth I am to this ; But love and tears and tears and the start becaute Leave mea while, for I have hazarded { All this World calls happy; thou has wrought A fecret from me under name of Friend, Which Art could ne're have found, not torture wrung From out my Bofom; give it me agen, For I will find it, wherefoe're it lies Hid in the mortal'ft part; invent a way to give it back? Mel. Why would you have it back? I will to death purfue him with revenge. Amin. Therefore I call it back from thee; for I know Thy blood fo high, that thou wilt ftir in this, and thame me To posterity : take to thy Weapon. I to prove the second s Mel. Hear thy friend, that bears more years than thon. Amin. I will not hear: but draw, or I ____ Mel. Amintor. Amin. Draw then for I am full as refolute How he was not before the As fame and honour can inforce me to be; I cannot linger, draw. Mel. I do ---- but is not My fhare of credit equal with thine if I do ftir. Amin. No; for it will be called Thisse - I - Is July and Honour in thee to spill thy Sister's blood, grand gills and sar in hits If the her birth abuse, and on the King A brave revenge : but on me that have walkt With patience in it, it will fix the name Of tearful Cuckold ----- O that word ! be quick. Mcl. Then joyn with me. Amin. I dare not do a fin, or elfe I would : be fpeedy. Mel. Then dare not fight with me, for that's a fin. His grief distracts him; call thy thoughts agen,

And to thy felf pronounce the name of Friend, And fee what that will work ; I will not fight.

Amin. You muft.

Mel. I will be kill'd first, though my passions

So many fweet words from my Sifter's mouth, I am afraid would make me take ber To embrace, and pardon her. I am mad indeed, And know not what I do; yet have a care Of me in what thou doft.

Mel. Why thinks my friend I will forget his honour, or to Save the bravery of our house, will loose his fame, And fear to touch the Throne of Majefty?

Amin. A curfe will follow that, but rather live, I TOTAL AT LOC . THERE And fuffer with me.

Mel. I will do what worth shall bid me, and no more. Amin. Faith, I am fick, and desperately I hope,

Yet leaning thus, I feel a kind of eafe. Mel. Come, take agen your mirth about you.

Amin. I shall never do't, Mel. I warrant you, look up, we'll walk together, Put thine arm here, all shall be well agen. Amin. Thy Love, O wretched, I thy Love, Melantins; why,

I have nothing elfe.

Mel. Be merry then. (Exeunt. Enter Melantius agen,

ACT. IV.

Enter Melantius, Evadne, and a Lady.

Melan, CAve you. Evad. Save you, fweet Brother. Mel. In my blunt eye methinks you look, Evadne. Evad. Come, you would make me blufh. Mel. I would, Evadne, I shall displease my ends else. Evad. You shall, if you command me; I am bashful, Come, Sir, how do I look? Mel. I would not have your Women hear me Break into commendation of you, 'tis not feemly: Evad. Go wait me in the Gallery ____ now speak. Mel. I'le lock the door first. (Excunt Ladies. Evad. Why? Mel. I will not have your guilded things that dance in visitation with their Millan-skins choke up my bulinefs. Evad. You are strangely dispos'd, Sir. Mel. Good Madam, not to make you merry. Evad. No, if you praise me, 'twill make me fad. ! Mel. Such a fad commendation I have for you. Evad. Brother, the Court hath made you witty, And learn to riddle. Mel. I praise the Court for't; has it learned you nothing? Evad. Me? Mei

Mel. I, Evadne, thou art young and handsome, A Lady of a fweet Complexion, And fuch a flowing carriage, that it cannot Chufe but inflame a Kingdom. Evad. Gentle Brother ! Mel. 'Tis yet in thy remembrance, foolish Woman. To make me gentle. Evad. How is this? Mel. 'Tis base, ' And I could blufh at thefe years, thorough all My honour'd fcars, to come to fuch a parly. Evad. I understand you not. RIAS BOAT ANT Mel. You dare not, Fool; They that commit thy faults, flye the remembrance. Evad. My faults, Sir ! I would have you know I care not If they were written here, in my forehead. Mel. Thy body is too little for the ftory. The lufts of which would fill another Woman. Though fhe had Twins within her. Evad. This is fawcy; Look you intrude no more, there lyes your way. Mel. Thou art my way, and I will tread upon thee, Till I find truth out. Evad. What truth is that you look for ? Mel. Thy long loft Honour : would the Gods had fet me Rather to grapple with the Plague, or ftand One of their loudest bolts ; come tell me quickly, Do it without enforcement, and take heed You fwell me not above my temper. Evad. How, Sir? Where got you this report? Mel. Where there was people in every place. Evad. They and the feconds of it are base people ; Believe them not, they lyed. Mel. Do not play with mine anger, do not, Wretch, I come to know that desperate fool that drew thee From thy fair life; be wife and lay him open. Evad. Unhand me, and learn manners, fuch another Forgetfulness forfeits your life. Mel. Quench me this mighty humour, and then tell me Whole Whore you are, for you are one, I know it. Let all mine Honours perifh but I'le find him, Though he lie lock't up in thy blood; be fudden; There is no facing it, and be not flattered; The burnt Air when the Dog raigns, is not fouler Than thy contagious name, till thy repentance:

(If the Gods grant thee any) purge thy ficknefs. Evad. Be gone, you are my Brother, that's your fafety. Mel. I'le be a Wolf first; 'tis to be thy Brother
An infamy below the fin of a Coward:
I am as far from being part of thee, As thou art from thy Vertue; feek a kindred
Amongst fenfual Beasts, and make a Goat thy Brother, A Goat is cooler; will you tell me yet?

Evad. If you flay here and rail thus, I fhall tell you, I'le have you whipt; get you to your command, And there preach to your Centinels, And tell them what a brave man you are; I fhall laugh at you.

Mel. Y'are grown a glorious Whore; where be your Fighters? what mortal Fool durft raife thee to this daring, And I alive? by my juft Sword, had fafer Bestride a Billow when the angry North Plows up the Sea, or made Heavens fire his food; Work me no higher; will you difcover yet?

Evad. The fellow's mad, fleep and ipeak fenfe.

Mel. Force my fwoln heart no further; I would fave thee; your great maintainers are not here, they dare not, would they were all, and armed, I would fpeak loud; here's one fhould thunder to them : will you tell me? Thou haft no hope to efcape; he that dares moft, and damns away his Soul to do thee fervice, will fooner fetch meat from a hungry Lion, than come to refcue thee; thou haft death about thee: has undone thine Honour, poyfon'd thy Vertue, and of a lovely Rofe, left thee a Canker.

Evad. Let me confider.

Mel. Do, whofe Child thou wert,
Whofe Honour thou haft murdered, whofe Grave open'd,
They muft reftore him fiefh agen and life,
And fo pull on the Gods, that in their juffice,
And raife his dry bones to revenge hisfcandal.
Evad. The Gods are not of my mind; they had better
Let 'm lye fweet ftill in the Earth; they'll ftink here.
Mel. Do you raife much out of my eafinefs?
Forfake me then all weakneffes of nature,
That make Men Women; fpeak you Whore, fpeak truth,
Or by the dear Soul of thy fleeping Father,
This Sword fhall be thy Lover; tell, or I'le kill thee;
And when thou hadft told all, thou will deferve it.
Evad. You will not murder me!
Mel. No, 'tis a juffice, and a noble one,

To put the light out of fuch bale offenders: Evad. Help ! 39

Mel, By

40

Mel. By thy foul felf, no humane help shall help thee, If thon crieft; when I have kill'd thee, as I have vow'd to do, if thou confess not, naked as thou hast left Thine Honour, will I leave thee, That on thy branded flesh, the World may read Thy black shame, and my justice; will thou bend yet? Evad. Yes. Mel. Up and begin your ftory. Evad. Oh. I am miserable. Mel. 'Tis true ; thou art, speak truth still. Evad. I have offended, noble Sir; forgive me. Mel. With what fecure flave? Evad. Do not ask me. Sir. Mine own remembrance is a milery too mighty for me. Mel. Do not fall back again; my fword's unsheath'd yet. Evad. What shall I do? Mel. Be true, and make your fault less. Evad. I dare not tell, Mel. Tell, or I'le be this day a killing thee. Evad. Will you forgive me then? Mel. Stay, I must ask mine Honour first, I have too much foolish Nature in me; speak. Evad. Is there none elfe here? Mel. None but a fearful Conscience, that's too many. Who is't Evad. O hear me gently; it was the King. Mel. No more. My worthy Father's and my fervices Are I berally rewarded ! King, I thank thee, For all my dangers and my wounds thou haft paid me In my own metal : thefe are Souldiers thanks. How long have you liv'd thus Evadne. Evad. Too long. Mel.' Too late you find it ; can you be forry ? Evad. Would I were half as blamelefs. Mel. Evadne, thou wilt to thy Trade again. Evad. First to my Grave. Mel. Would Gods th' had'ft been fo bleft : Doft thou not hate this King now ?' prethee hate him : Couldst thou not curse him? I command thee curse him. Curfe till the Gods hear, and deliver him, To thy just willes ; yet I fear, Evadne, You had rather play your Game out. Evad. No. I feel Too many fad confusions here to let in loofe flames hereafter.

Mel. Dost thou not feel amongst all those one brave anger

That breaks out nobly, and directs thine arm to kill this base King ?

Evad. All

Evad. All the Gods borbid it,

Mel. No, all the Gods require it, they are dishonoured in him. Evad. 'Tis too fearful.

Mel. Y'are valiant in his bed, and bold enough To be a ftale Whore, and have your Madams name Difcourfe for Grooms and Pages, and hereafter When his cool Majefty hath laid you By, To beat penfion with fome needy Sir For Meat and coarfer Clothes, thus far you know no fear. Come, you fhall kill him.

Evad. Good Sir !

Mel. And 'twere to kifs him dead, thou'd fmother him; B: wife and kill him : Canft thou live and know What noble minds fhall make thee fee thy felf Found out with every finger, made the fhame Of all Succeffions, and in this great ruine Thy Brother and thy noble Husband broken? Thou fhalt not live thus; kneel and fwear to help me When I fhall call thee to it, or by all Holy in Heaven and Earth, thou fhalt not live To breath a full hour longer, not a thought: Come, 'tis a righteous Oath : give me thy hand, And both to Heaven held up, fwear by that wealth This luftful Thief ftole from thee, when I fay it, To let this foul Soul out.

Evad. Here I fwear it, And all you Spirits of abused Ladies, Help me in this performance.

Mel. Enough this must be known to none But you and I, Evadne; not to your Lord, Though he be wife and noble, and a fellow Dares step as far into a worthy action, As the most daring, I as far as Justice. Ask me not why. Farewell.

Evad. Would I could fry fo to my black difgrace, Oh where have I been all this time! how friended, That I fhould lofe my felf thus defperately, And none for pity fhew me how I wandred? There is not in the compafs of the Light A more unhappy Creature; fure I am monftrous, For I have done those follies, those mad mischiefs Would dare a woman. O my loaden Soul, Be not fo cruel to me, choak not up The way to my Repentance. O my Lord. Amin. How now? (Exit Melantins.

(Enter Amintor.

Evad. My

Evad. My much abused Lord ! Amin. This cannot be.

Evad. I do not kneel to live, I dare not hope it; The wrongs I did are greater; look upon me, Though I appear with all my faults.

Amin. Stand up.

This is no new way to beget more forrow; Heaven knows I have too many; do not mock me; Though I am tame and bred up with my wrongs, Which are my foster-brothers, I may leap Like a hand-wolf into my natural Wildernefs, And do an out-rage ! prethee do not mock me.

Evad. My whole life is fo leprous, it infects All my Repentance; I would buy your Pardon, Thougn at the higheft fet, even with my life; That flight Contrition, that's no Sacrifice For what I have committed.

Amin. Sure I dazle,

There cannot be a faith in that foul Woman That knows no God more mighty than her Mifchiefs; Thou doft ftill worft, ftill number on thy faults, To prefs my poor Heart thus. Can I believe There's any feed of Virtue in that Woman Left to fhoot up, that dares go on in Sin Known, and fo known as thine is, O Evadne ! Would there were any fafety in thy Sex, That I might put a thousand for rows off; And credit thy Repentance; but I must not; Thou haft brought me to the dull calamity, To that ftrange misbelief of all the world, And all things that are in it, that I fear I fhall fall like a Tree, and find my Grave, Only remembring that I grieve.

Evad. My Lord,

Give me your Griefs; you are an innocent, A Soul as white as Heaven; let not my Sins Perifh your noble Youth; I do not fall here To fhadow by diffembling with my tears, As all fay Woman can, or to make lefs What my hot will hath done, which Heaven and you Know to be tougher than the hand of time Can cut from man's remembrance; no I do not; I do appear the fame, the fame Evadne, Dreft in the fhames I liv'd in, the fame Monster But thefe are names of honour, to what I am;

I do prefent my felf the fouleft creature, Moft poyfonous, dangerous, and defpifed of Men, Lerna e're bred, or Nilus; I am hell, Till you, my dear Lord, fhoot your light into me, The Beams of your forgivenefs: I am Soul-fick, And whether with the fear of one condemn'd, Till I have got your Pardon.

Amin. Rife, Evadne, Thofe heavenly Powers that put this good into thee, Grant a cantinuance of it; I forgive thee, Make thy felf worthy of it, and take heed, Take heed, Evadne, this be ferious ! Mock not the Powers above, that can and dare Give thee a great example of their juffice To all enfuing eyes, if thou play'ft With thy Repentance, the beft Sacrifice.

Evad. I have done nothing good to win belief, My Life hath been fo faithlefs; all the Creatures Made for Heavens honours have their ends, and good ones, All but the couzening Crocodiles, falfe Women; They reign here like those plagues those killing fores Men pray against; and when they die, like Tales Ill told, and unbeleiv'd, they pass away, And go to dust forgotten; But, my Lord, Those short days I shall number to my rest, (As many must not see me) shall, though too late, Though in my Evening, yet perceive a will, Since I can do no good because a woman, Reach constantly at something that is near it; I will redeem one minute of my Age, Or like another Niobe, I'le weep till I am water.

Amin. I am now diffolved : My frozen Soul melts : may each fin thou haft, Find a new mercy: Rife, I am at peace : Hadft thou been thus, thus excellently good, Before that Devil King tempted thy frailty, Sare thou hadft made a Star; give me thy hand; From this time I will know thee, and as far As honour gives me leave, be thy Amintor; When we meet next, I will falnte thee fairly, And pray the Gods to give thee happy days; My charity fhall go along with thee, Though my Embraces muft be far from thee. I fhould ha' kill'd thee, but this fweet repentance Locks up my vengeance, for which thus I kifs thee,

The laft kifs we must take; and would to Heaven The holy Prieft that gave our hands together, Had given us equal Vertues; go Evadne, The Gods thus part our Bodies, have a care My Honour falls no farther, 1 am well then.

Evad. All the dear joys here, and above hereafter Crown thy fair Soul; thus I take leave, my Lord, And never shall you see the foul Evadate, Till shave tryed all honoured means that may Set her in rest, and wash her stains away.

Banquet. Enter King, Calianax. King. I cannot tell how I should credit this From you that are his Enemy.

Cal. I am fure he faid it to me, and l'le justify it. What way he dares oppose, but with my fword.

King. But did he break without all circumstance To you his Foe, that he would have the Fort To kill me, and then escape?

Cal. If be deny it, I'le make him blufh.

King. It founds incredibly.

Cal. I, fo does every thing I fay of late.

King. Not fo, Calianax.

Cal. Yes, I should fit

Mute, whilft a Rogue with ftrong arms cuts your throat. King. Well, I will try him, and if this be true,

I'le pawn my life, I'le find it ; if't be falfe, And that you cloath your hate in fuch a lye, You shall hereafter doat in your own House, not in the Court.

Cal. Why, if it be a lye,

Mine ears are false; for l'le be sworn I heard it : Old men are good for nothing; you were best Put me to death for hearing, and free him For meaning of it; you would a trusted me Once, but the time is altered.

King. And will still where I may do with justice to the World; You have no witness.

Cal. Yes, my felf.

King. No more I mean there were that heard it.

Cal. How, no more? would you have no more? why, am not I enough to hang a thousand Rogues?

King. But fo you may hang honest men too if you please.

Cal. I may, 'tis like I will do fo; there are a hundred will fwear it for a need too, if I fay it.

King. Such witnesses we need not.

Cal. And 'tis hard if my word cannot hang a boifterous Knaye.

King. Enough;

Cle. Stra. Diag. King. Come, Sirs, Amintor, thou art yet a Bridegroom, And I will use thee fo; thou shalt sit down; Evadne, sit, and you, Amintor, too; This Banquet is for you. Sir: Who has brought A merry Tale about him, to raise laughter Amongst our Wine ? Why, Strato, where art thou ? Thou wilt chop out with them unseasonably When I desire 'em not. - In the washinghing Strato. 'Tis my ill luck, Sir, fo to fpend them then. King. Reach me a Bowl of Wine: Melantius, thou art fad. Amin. I should be, Sir, the merriest here, But I ha' ne're a ftory of mine own Worth telling at this time. King. Give me the wine, Melantius, I am now confidering How eafie 'twere for any man we truft To poifon one of us in fuch a Bowl. To poifon one of us in fuch a Bowl. Mel. I think it were not hard, Sir, for a Knave. Cal. Such as you are. King. I faith'twere easie, it becomes us well To get plain-dealing men about our felves, Such as you all are here ; Amintor, to thee nd to thy fair Evadne. Mel. Have you thought of this, Calianax? Cal. Yes marry have I. And to thy fair Evadue. Mel. And what's your refolution? Cal. Ye fhall have it foundly. King. Reach to Amintor, Strato. Amin. Here my love, King. Reach to Amintor, Strato. Amin. Here my love, This Wine will do thee wrong, for it will fet Blushes upon thy cheeks, and till thou dost a fault, 'twere pity. King. Yet I wonder much Of the strange desparation of these men,

That

That dare attempt fuch acts here in our State; He could not escape that did it.

Me!. Were he known, impossible.

King. It would be known, Melantius.

Mel. It ought to be, if he got then away,

He must wear all our lives upon his fword,

He need not flie the Island, he must leave no one alive. King. No. I should think no man

Could kill me and escape clear, but that old man.

Cal. But 1? Heaven blefs me; I, fhould I, my Liege?

King. I do not think thou would'st, but yet thou might'st,

For thou halt in thy hands the means to 'scape, ...

By keeping of the Fort; he has, Melantius, and he has kept it well. Mel. From Cobwebs, Sir,

'Tis clean fwept; I can find no other art

In keeping of it now, 'twas ne're belieged fince he commanded. Cal. I shall be fure of your good word,

But I have kept it fafe from fuch as you.

Mel. Keep your ill temper in,

I fpeak no malice; had my Brother kept it, I fhould ha' faid as much. King. You are not merry, Brother; drink wine,

Sit you all still : Calianax,

I cannot truft thus; I have thrown out words That would have fetcht warm blood upon the cheeks Of guilty men, and he's never mov'd, he knows no fuch thing.

Cal. Impudence may escape, when feeble vertue is accus'd.

King. A must, if he were guilty, feel an alteration At this our whilper, whil's we point at him,

You see he does not.

Cal. Let him hang himself,

What care I what he does; this he did fay. King. Melantius, you cannot eafily conceive What I have meant: for men that are in fault Can fubtly apprehend, when others aim At what they do amifs; but I forgive Freely before this man; Heaven do fo too; I will not touch thee fo much as with fhame Of telling it, let it be fo no more.

Cal. Why, this is very fine.

Mel. 1 cannot tell

What 'tis you mean, but am apt enough Rudely to thruft into ignorant fault, But let me know it.; happily 'tis nought But misconstruction, and where I am clear I will not take forgiveness of the Gods, much less of you.

(Afide.

King. Nay,

Kiag. Nay, if you ftand fo ftiff; I shall call back my mercy. Mel. I want fmoothnefs

To thank a man for pardoning a crime I never knew.

King. Not to instruct your knowledge, but to shew you my ears are every where, you meant tokill me, and get the Fort to 'scape.

Mel. Pardon me, Sir, my bluntnefs will be pardoned; You preferve

A race of idle people here about you, Eaters and Talkers, to defame the worth Of those that do things worthy; the man that uttered this Had perisht without food, be't who it will, But for this arm that fenc't him from the Foe. And if I thought you gave a faith to this, The plainess of my nature would speak more; Give me a pardon (for you ought to do't) To kill him that spake this.

Cal. I, that will be the end of all, Then I am fairly paid for all my care and fervice.

Mel. That old man who calls me enemy, and of whom I (Though I will never match my hate fo low) Have no good thought, would yet, I think, excuse me, And fwear he thought me wrong'd in this.

Cal. Who I, thou Thameless fellow ! didst thou not Speak to me of it thy felf ?

But I ha' loft my anger. Sir, I hope you are well fatisfied. King. Lifip. chear Amintor and his Lady? there's no found Come from you; I will come and do't my felf.

Amin. You have done already, Sir, for me, I thank you King. Melantius, I do credit this from him, How flight foe're you mak't.

Cal. 'I'is strange you should.

Mel. 'Tis strange he should believe an old mans word, That never lied in his life.

Mel. I talk not to thee;

Shall the wild words of this diftempered man, Frantick with age and forrow, make a breach Betwixt your Majefty and me? 'twas wrong To hearken to him; but to credit him As much, at leaft, as I have power to bear. But pardon me, whilft I fpeak only truth, I may commend my felf —— I have beftow'd My carelefs blood with you, and fhould be loth

Cal. Sleep foundly ! I fleep foundly now, I hope, I could not be thus elfe. How dar'ft thou ftay Alone with me, knowing how thou haft ufed me?

Mel. You cannot blaft me with your Tongue, And that's the ftrongest part you have about you.

Cal. I do look for fome great Punishment for this For I begin to forget all my hate, 1-11 And tak't unkindly that mine Enemy Should use me fo extrordinarily fcurvily.

Mel. I shall melt too, if you begin to take Unkindnesses; I never meant you hurt,

Cal. Thou'lt anger me agen ; thou wretched Rogue, Meant me no hurt ! difgrace me with the King ; Lofe all my Offices ! this is no hurt, Is it ? I prethee what doft thou call hurt,

Mel. To poyfon men becaufe they love me not ; To call the credit of mens wives in queftion; To murder Children betwixt me and Land; this is all hurt.

Cal. All this thou think'ft is fport ; For mine is worfe; but use thy will with me; For betwixt Griefand Anger I could cry.

Mel. Bewisethen, and be fafe ; thou may'st revenge.

Cal. I oth. King ; I would revenge of thee. Mel. That you must plot your self. Cal. I am a fine Plotter.

Mel. The fort is, I will hold thee with thee King In this perplexity, till peevifhnefs,

And thy difgrace have laid thee in thy Grave : But if thou wilt deliver up the Fort,

I'le take thy trembling body in my arms,

And bear thee over dangers; thou fhalt hold thy wonted flate. Cal. If I should tell the King, canst thou deny't again ? Mel. Try and believe.

Cal. Nay, then thou canft bring any thing about ; Thou shalt have the Fort.

Mel. Why well, here let our hate be buried, and This hand shall right us both; give me thy aged Breast To compais.

Cal. Nay, I do not love thee yet; I cannot well endure to look on thee : And if I thought it were a courtefie, Thou should'ft not have it; but I am difgrac'd; My Offices are to be tane away; And if I did but hold this Fort a day, I do believe the King would take it from me. And give it thee, things are fo ftrangely carried ; Ne're thank me for't; but yet the King shall know There was fome fuch thing in't I told him of : And that I was an honeft man.

Mel. He'll buy that knowledge very dearly : What news with thee?

Diph. This were a night indeed to do it in ; The King hath fent for her.

Mel. She hall perform it then ; go, Diphilus, And take from this good man, my worthy friend, The Fort ; he'll give it thee.

Diph. Ha' you got that?

Cal. Art thou of the fame breed ? canft thou deny This to the King too?

Diph. With a Confidence as great as his.

Cal. Faith, like enough.

Mel. Away and use him kindly.

Cal. Touch not me, I hate the whole firain : if thou follow me a great way off, I'le give thee up the Fort; and hang your felves. Mel. Begone.

Diph. He's finely wrought.

Mel. This is a night in spight of Astronomers

Amin. Melantius, now allist me if thou beest That which thou fayest, affist me; I have lost All my distempers, and have found a rage so pleasing; help me. Mel. Who can fee him thus,

And not fwear vengeance? what's the matter, Friend? Amin. Out with thy Sword; and hand in hand with me Rush to the Chamber of this hated King,

And fink him with the weight of all his fins to Hell for ever.

Mel. 'Twere a rash attempt, Not to be done with fasety; let your reason Plot your revenge, and not your passions.

Amin. If thou refufeft me in these extreams, Thou art no friend : he sent for her to me; By Heaven to me; my felf; and I must tell ye I love her as a stranger; there is worth In that vile woman, worthy things, Melantins; And she repents. I'le do't my self alone, Though I be shain. Farewell.

Mel. He'll overthrow my whole defign with madnefs: Amintor; think what thou doft; I dare as much as valour; But 'tis the King, the King, the King, Amintor, With whom thou fighteft; I know he's honeft; And this will work with him.

Amin. I cannot tell

What thou haft faid ! but thou haft charm'd my Sword Out of my hand, and left me shaking here defenceles. Mel. I will take it up for thee.

Amin. What a wild beaft is uncollected man !. The thing that we call Honour bear us all Headlong unto fin, and yet it felf is nothing.

Mel. Alas, how variable are thy thoughts ?

Amin. Just like my Fortunes; I was run to that I purposed to have chid thee for. Some plot I did disturs theu hads against the King By that old fellows carriage; but take heed; There is not the least limb growing to a King But carries thunder in it.

Mel. I have none against him.

Asp. I would I could with credit : Since I was twelve years old, I had not feen My Sister till this hour; I now arriv'd; She fent for me to see her Marriage, A woful one; but they that are above, Have ends in every thing; the us'd few words, But yet enough to make me understand The baseness of the injury you did her; That little training I have had, is War; I may behave my felf rudely in peace; I would not though; I shall not need to tell you I am but young; and you would be loth to loofe Honour that is not eafily gain'd again ; Fairly I mean to deal; the age is strict For fingle combates, and we shall be stopt If. it be publish't; if you like your fword, Use it; if mine appear a better to you, Change; for the ground is this, and this the time To end our difference:

Amin. Charitable youth,

If thon be'st fuch, think not I will maintain So strange a wrong; and for thy Sister's fake, Know that I could not think that defperate thing : I durst not do; yet to enjoy this world I would not fee her; for beholding thee, I am I know not what; if I have ought That may content thee, take it and be gone : For death is not fo terrible as thou; Thine eyes shoot guilt into me.

My Soul grows weary of her house, and I All over am a trouble to my felf; There is fome hidden power in thefe dead things That calls my fielh into 'em ! I am cold ; Be refolute, and bear 'em company; There's fomething yet, which I am loth to leave. There's man enough in me to meet the fears That Death can bring, and yet would it were done : I can find nothing in the whole difcourfe Of Death, I durst not meet the boldest way; Yet still betwixt the reason and the act, The wrong I to Aspatia did stands up; I have not fuch a fault to answer: Though the may justly arm with fcorn And hate of me, my foul will part lefs troubled, When I have paid to her in tears my forrow; I will not leave this act unfatisfied, If all that's left in me can answer it. A/p. Was it a dream? there stands Amintor still; Or I dream still. Amin. How do'ft thou ? fpeak, receive my-love, and help ; Thy blood climbs up to his old place again ; There's hope of thy recovery Asp. Did you not name Aspatia? Amin. I'did. Alp. And talk't of tears and forrow unto her: Amin. 'Tis true, and till these happy figns in thee Did stay my courfe, 'twas thither I was going. A/p. Th'art there already, and these wounds are hers : Those threats I brought with me fought not revenge, But came to fetch this bleffing from thy hand, I am Alpatia yet. Amin. Dare my Soul ever look abroad agen ? Asp. 1 shall live, Amintor; I am well; A kind of healthful joy wanders within me. Amin. The world wants lines to excufe thy lofs; Come let me bear thee to fome place of help. Alp. Amintor, thou must stay, I must rest here. My strength begins to disobey my will, How dost thou, 'my best Soul ? I would fain live Now if I could ; would ft thou have loved me then ? Amin. Alas; all that I am's not worth a hair from thee.
