NOTE.

All persons are respectfully requested to examine the foregoing reports of births, marriages and deaths, and report to the Town Clerk any errors or omissions that may be discerned therein, so that the records may be corrected. An error in the record, other than a mistake in copying a certificate or return, can be corrected only in accordance with a deposition under oath, made by one who was required by law to furnish the information for the original record or by three or more creditable persons having knowledge of the case. (See Revised Laws, Chapter 29, Sections 9 and 16.)

Births occurring late in the year are sometimes returned without the Christian name. In such cases parents should return the name to the Town Clerk as soon as selected, as incompleteness of the record may occasion trouble in the future.

The Town Clerk hereby gives notice that he is prepared to furnish parents, householders, physicians and midwives applying therefor with blanks for return of births, as required by law.

Tree Warden's Report.

The Tree Warden of Westford submits the following report:
During the past year my work has consisted of thinning and trimming trees on the roadside and cutting the brush on about fifteen miles of road, and would recommend that some of the White Oaks along the roadside be removed, and that on the wood roads the owner should try and leave standing any nice young trees, instead of the tall trees with branches only on the top, as this would prevent the brush from growing so freely by the roadside.

There has been one case of cutting shade trees without my permit. Settlement was made by this party.

Tree Warden.

Board of Health.

The Selectmen by law, acting as the Board of Health, respectfully submit the following report.

March 21st, the board organized as follows: Chairman, Wesley O. Hawkes; Agents, Albert A. Hildreth and Wesley O. Hawkes.

The board appointed Dr. W. H. Sherman as physician.

During the past year there has been several contagious diseases. Scarlet fever and measles most prevalent. Our physicians have been prompt reporting such cases to the Agents. Homes have been quarantined, strict orders to obey such—thorough fumigating these homes after the disease has left the patient, we believe has checked contagion much.

In our villages many tenements are too crowded and not properly kept clean—disease and suffering will develop. A word from the proprietor would help much; let us work in conjunction.

Library Report.

The Trustees of the J. V. Fletcher Public Library respectfully submit the following report for the year ending February 1, 1909:

The only change which has been made during the past year in the general plan of the Library has been to establish a Children's Department, in order to encourage the children to make more use of the Library and to render it as attractive to them as possible. It was found that this could easily be done without encroaching upon the other departments of the Library by transferring the reference books to the Reading Room and making use of the Reference Room for a Children's Room. At a slight expense for book-shelves this change has been made, and the children's books are now placed upon the shelves in this room where each child can examine the books and choose one according to his fancy. This room being close to the Librarian's desk makes it possible for the Librarian to assist the children in the choice of books when necessary. The children thus have an attractive room, either for reading, or the selection of books, and we feel that they appreciate and enjoy it.

The reference books are placed upon shelves in the Reading Room and are even more convenient for use than before.

After twelve years of constant use, the furnaces and gas machine were found to be considerably out of repair. These have been put in good order and should last now several years without further repairs.

We recommend that the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars ($150) be raised and appropriated, in addition to the sum received for dog licenses in 1909, for the purchase of books, periodicals, etc., during the ensuing year.

HUGH F. LEITH, Chairman. CHARLES O. PRESCOTT, Secretary. JULIAN A. CAMERON.

Report of Engineers of Fire Department.

The Board of Fire Engineers in presenting their first annual report submit the following statement in regard to the organization of the department with a few recommendations and expense of maintaining the same.

Three Hose Companies have been organized, consisting of twenty men each.

The Edward M. Abbot Hose Company No. 1 at Westford Centre.

The Albert R. Choate Hose Company No. 2 at Graniteville. The John Edwards Hose Company No. 3 at Forge Village.

These companies are equipped with a hose carriage, 800 feet of hose, two fire extinguishers, ladders, pails and tools necessary for fighting fires.

At the center of the town a building has been leased for term of years for storage of apparatus with ample room for the men to meet in.

At Graniteville a part of the carriage house of John A. Healy has been used for the storage of the equipments and Healy's hall rented for the men to hold meetings.

At Forge Village a building has been erected at a cost of $400 which makes a most excellent place for keeping the apparatus with a nice room for the members.

Practice drills were held once a month by each company which has done much to familiarize the members in handling the hose in case of fire.

The citizens of Westford Centre, Graniteville and Forge Village subscribed the sum of $138 for furnishing the rooms, etc., and it was equally divided between each company.

Excepting two chimney fires in Forge Village no fire of any account has occured in the water district.

Fires outside of the water district were as follows:—Burning of the buildings of Michael L. McGlinchey on April 30, 1908, valued at $3,400—a total loss, partially insured. The summer camp of Arthur Parrott on the shore of Forge Pond—a total loss, no insurance.

With the excellent water supply and high pressure furnished by the Water Company and with a well equipped fire department the danger of a serious fire is very much lessened.

We would make the following recommendations for a better fire protection.

In the center of the Town two more hydrants should be added. One between the Town House and Drew's Corner, and one opposite the new schoolhouse at Forge Village, one hydrant opposite Hanley's store. On account of the distance the Town Farm buildings are from the fire stations 200 feet of linen hose should be purchased and kept at that place.

No provision has been made in regard to the land in Forge Village on which the fire station has been built, but a lease can be executed with Abbot & Co. at a rental of $5.00 per year.

A number of Chemical Fire Extinguishers should be purchased for the use of the Forest Warden for extinguishing forest fires. Many towns are using them and find they are very effective.

The old house in the center of the Town used for the storage of ladders, pumps, pails, etc., should be moved to Parkerville for the benefit of that part of the Town.

The following expense has occured:

Westford, Mass., February 25, 1909.

Report of the Committee Appointed at the last Annual Town Meeting to Investigate the Relocation and Repairing of the Graniteville Road.

The Graniteville road is one of the oldest roads in the town of Westford and little if any change has been made in its original location.

About forty years ago some cutting was done on the hill and since then one of the corners has been somewhat straightened, but in other respects the general condition of the road remains unchanged.

The Selectmen and later the Town have been in the habit for some years of appropriating a yearly amount to go towards some special stretch of road and have this stretch laid out by a competent engineer and the improvements made according to modern ideas of engineering and road building.

As a result we now have the Depot Hill, Boston Road, the Hill on the way to Forge Village, Cummings Hill, Greigs Corner, in Graniteville, and the Carlisle Road as complete stretches laid out under the supervision of an engineer. Also certain permanent improvements have been begun on Broadway, Graniteville, to remove the excessive amount of surface water. The cost of the last mentioned improvement being taken from the regular road appropriation.

The Town, through the petition of certain citizens, is also committed by order of the County Commissioners to spend a certain amount for draining the streets of the Centre.

At the time of the project of relocation and repairing the Carlisle Road was brought up it was generally expected that the Graniteville Hill should be in line for the next permanent improvement but the county commissioners have ordered otherwise.

The Graniteville Road is the connecting link between Westford and Graniteville and because of the growth of the latter village is now one of the most travelled of any road in Town.

The road on the hill is narrow, the curves very sharp and the grades excessive, in some places being over 12%. Because of these features it might be considered dangerous for a horse and automobile to suddenly meet, provided the horse was somewhat afraid. From the direction of the hill running from north to south and because of the woods on either side, the snow and ice remain here when other roads are entirely settled. Also because of the grade and ice the footing is often so bad that people drive around to Depot Street in order to avoid this difficulty. From authority we learn that on a 12% grade a horse can pull but one-fifth as much as on a level road, but of course he can do better than this for a short distance.

A great deal of heavy teaming goes over this hill and small loads must be pulled consequently.

The committee have been fortunate in securing the aid and assistance of Mr. Kendall, the county engineer, to survey and lay out a system to relocate the Graniteville road and particularly the hill.

To quote from Mr. Kendall's letter to the Committee:

"The portion of the road from Julian Cameron's land just above the house of Arthur Day to the foot of the steep hill at George Cady's land, is the worst portion of the road.

"Two schemes were examined for improving this portion of the road. One followed quite closely the present road, cutting across corners and straightening the same, besides cutting the top of the hill and filling at the bottom so as to reduce the grade to about $7\frac{1}{2}$ feet in one hundred; the grade of the present road being as steep as eleven or twelve feet in one hundred, in places. This work would require about 5,000 cubic yards excavation in ledgy material, besides the gravel, guard rail and other incidentals. While it is difficult to say how much this work would cost owing to the uncertain factors in ledge work, it is safe to say that it would be as much as \$5,500.

"Another method examined was the scheme of swinging the road to the northeast nearly opposite Arthur Day's house returning to the present road in a length of about 1,000 feet and then filling towards the bottom of the hill, as in the first scheme described. By this method most of the ledge work would be avoided, but the alignment would not be as good, the resulting grade however being a little better than by the first scheme. It is safe to say that as much as $2,000 would be saved by this method over that of the first described, possibly more."

Your committee has made a careful examination of both methods as suggested by Mr. Kendall. They have endeavored to find out what will be the amount of land damage if any by both methods. Taking all things into consideration we feel that the second method will be the best suited to the needs of the Town both as being less expensive to complete and because that a trifle better grade will be the result, the disadvantage being, however, that there will be two curves with large radius instead of a nearly straight road as in method one.

Realizing that the Town has been recently put to heavy expenses and also that the tax rate should be kept down to a reasonable figure, the committee do not urge that the Town spend a large sum of money this year.

However, they feel that an improvement in the road from Hillside Farm to a point opposite Arthur Day's is urgently needed, and to this end they suggest that a start be made by giving the Selectmen power to accept, to purchase, take, and receive what land is necessary for the relocation of the road in behalf of the Town, according to the plans of the County Engineer, as the sum required for this purpose will be comparatively small, that this amount be taken from Town debts and charges.

Report of Building Committee for Cameron School.

The Building Committee chosen at a Special Town Meeting in April last for the purpose of altering and enlarging the Cameron School beg to report that the work has been completed and that the building has been occupied as a school since about the first of December, 1908.

We believe that Forge Village now has a modern four room building of ample size for the needs of this district for many years to come and at a much less cost than they could otherwise have had such a building.

We feel that the Town should spend, in the near future, a small amount of money for grading the grounds about the building.

We submit herewith a report of the expenditures.

Report of Commissioners of Public Burial Grounds.

The Commissioners report as follows:

The interest heretofore manifested in placing burial lots under Perpetual Care, still continues. Ten years ago, there were eight lots under such care, with a fund of $750; today there are sixty-two lots, with a fund of $4,200, six having been added the past year. Your Commissioners have been in communication with several persons who will, without doubt, in the near future, place some of the hitherto neglected lots under the care of the Gravestones have fallen and broken in some of the Cemeteries, but your Commissioners know of no one whom they can notify of the fact and have them repaired. Perpetual Care removes all such difficulty, the Town having assumed the care, in such circumstances. Many lots have been graded the past year, but the terrible drouth of the summer has made it impossible to keep the Cemeteries in their usual condition. The lack of water at the several Cemeteries has been especially felt the past year.

Six gravestones obtained from the U. S. Government by your Commissioners to be placed at the graves of soldiers of the Civil War who have never had markers, have arrived, and will be placed in position as soon as the weather will allow.

Parties interested in the private Cemetery called the Wright Cemetery, at the north part of the Town, have expressed a wish that the Town assume the care. Your Commissioners would recommend it be done, should the matter be brought before the Town, as some of the oldest residents and also soldiers of the Revolution and the War of 1812 are buried there. The care has gradually fallen upon a few individuals.

The several Cemeteries will be under the same care as in the past year.

The Commissioners would respectfully recommend that the sum of $250 be raised and appropriated for the care and improvement of the Cemeteries the coming year.

Report of the School Board.

To the Citizens of Westford:

The School Board herewith presents its annual report.

The past year marks the completion of the new Center school building. The building was finished in the early summer and was ready for occupancy at the beginning of the school year. It is a spacious, four-room building, arranged for two grades in each room, with a warm, well lighted basement, which serves as an excellent lunch and playroom in cold and stormy weather. It is fitted with the most approved heating and ventilating apparatus, as well as a modern sanitary system, and having been newly furnished throughout is a thoroughly up-to-date building of which the town may well be proud. that is needed now to make the school complete is a suitable playground. The surrounding land is too rough and marshy to be available in its present condition. This should be remedied as soon as possible. By expending a few hundred dollars each year the land could soon be brought into the proper condition for a good athletic field, which would be used by the High School as well as the Grammar School.

The pupils from four of the small outlying districts are now transported in comfortable barges to the Center school and are thus enabled to enjoy the many advantages of a graded school.

At Forge Village the school building has been enlarged by the addition of two more rooms, thus giving another four-room building with two grades in each room. There is also a good basement which can be used for a playroom, and with excellent heating, ventilating and sanitary arrangements, this building will meet the needs of Forge Village for a long time to come. We now have three excellent graded schools, housed in three most satisfactory buildings.

It seemed best to the Committee that these three buildings at Forge Village, Graniteville and the Center should have special names and consequently they have been called the Cameron School, the Sargent School and the William E. Frost School respectively, in memory of three of our late townsmen.

During two months at the beginning of the school year before the building at Forge Village was ready for occupancy, by the courtesy of the Abbot Worsted Company, the sessions of the school were held in their Clubhouse. Although this arrangement was very inconvenient in many respects, still with the able corps of teachers there the work was carried on very satisfactorily.

The conditions at Parkerville, Stony Brook and Nabnassett remain unchanged, excepting that a new heater has been placed in the Stony Brook school building to replace the old one which was very unsatisfactory.

The Committee, in behalf of the Town, wish to express their gratitude to Mrs. John C. Abbot, by whose generosity and painstaking efforts, hot soup and cocoa have been provided through the winter months for those children who are obliged to remain at the school building during the noon recess. This is much appreciated by the sixty or seventy children who bring a cold luncheon.

We wish to call your attention to the reports of the Superintendent of Schools, the Principal of the High School and others which follow showing the very satisfactory condition of our schools

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

To the School Committee of Westford:

Gentlemen:—I herewith submit my annual report for the year 1908. It is the 17th in the series of superintendents' reports.

The opening of the new building at the Center and the remodelling of the Forge Village schoolhouse have made possible a great increase in the efficiency of the school system. Westford now has a well graded school system with an almost ideal number of pupils to each teacher thus allowing for a good deal of individual attention.

The work this year is necessarily along lines of adjustment. Owing to the epidemic of last year, and the further handicap because of the prevalence of chicken pox, which interfered with the work of this year, the intermediate classes at the Center are decidedly backward, and the grading is questionable.

The necessary expenditure for new arithmetics, and the increase in the enrollment of the Academy by incorporating the ninth grade in that school has decidedly increased the cost of text-books. Next year new readers and histories will be needed in the grades, and owing to the increase in the Academy a considerable outlay will be required for text-books there.

This year we have endeavored to bring into the work more of the constructive spirit. In the study of an industry in each grade in the geography work the children are led to a clearer conception of the relation of mankind to the earth and to each other, and at the same time through the group work a more definite idea of the community interest and cooperative spirit is engendered.

The daily lessons, in scope and character, the methods of the recitation, the modes of expression all tend to a monotonous routine which offers little or no play for the creative intelligence of the child either in thought or deed. To off-set this, various forms of hand work involving the constructive idea have been introduced. In this the practical has been kept to the front, yet the creative idea adhered to. Imitation trains to conformity. It holds the creative instincts in abeyance, until at maturity, it is the exceptional man or woman who is not hopelessly bound by convention. Creative work however crude transforms the individual; through it, alone, he grows and maintains a personality that makes him different from others. In view of this I would urge that increased time and material be given for manual work. This has been brought into force in Littleton through the aid of the Woman's Club who have taken up the instruction in sewing for the girls; and a class in basketry for the boys is provided. If the ladies of Westford could be induced to take up a similar work, and some of the citizens interested in developing handicraft for the older boys, much would be gained.

The conditions at Nabnassett deserve attention. school has a large primary section and needs a strong, experienced, tactful teacher. Its situation renders it very difficult to secure the proper teacher, and to have the building cared for as it should be without undue expense. The numbers enrolled are more than an inexperienced teacher can handle, and if increased by an entering class in the Fall there will be more than one teacher should be asked to undertake. These children as a rule leave school at the earliest possible date, and coming largely from homes where little English is spoken, they need more attention than the average pupil, if they are to be trained to become strong, helpful citizens. Since conditions seem to make it inexpedient to transport them to the Center, and as so many of the pupils at Stony Brook come from the neighborhood of Brookside, would it not be possible to unite the two schools in a two-room building, using the present building perhaps as a basis till such time as a new building is possible?

The teachers now in service have responded well to the duties laid upon them as to teaching, and deserve recognition. The corps at Forge Village have manifested an especially strong cooperation which will put their school well to the forefront. In union there is strength, in teaching as in other lines, and the spirit of united response which has been shown at that school under the trying conditions of the Fall term stands as an example worthy of following by others.

To retain the teachers who are making good will call for an increase in salary. As I called attention last year to the fact, so I again would remind the citizens that Westford is paying less for the services of her grade teachers than other towns, and we cannot hope to keep teachers long on a minimum salary. In all increase I would urge the consideration of merit along lines of personal advancement. No one can afford to pass many years without attendance at some good summer school. To our teachers the spirit of such a school as that at Hyannis, with the exchange of views and experiences with other teachers from various sections, would be of inestimable value.

The course of study was printed and distributed at the opening of the year, covering the branches of arithmetic, language and geography. Another year the course in history will be ready. The work in nature study is being carried on along the lines laid down in the text-book furnished the teachers for reference.

The changes in the Academy have worked out better than we expected. The admission from the eighth grade has made the work of the freshman and sophomore years somewhat variable, but with one or two exceptions the work so far has been sufficiently good to warrant the success of the plan. Woodward has met the conditions with good judgment and tact. The increase in the teaching staff allowing Miss Bartlett to give her whole time to academic work has resulted in broadening the course and giving more attention to the individual. The question of offering a course which shall appeal to the majority who are not to go further, covering more commercial branches, and including training in agricultural lines seems to press for solution in view of the small number now enrolled who intend to go to higher institutions. For further consideration of the Academy I refer you to the report of the principal appended.

The work in Music and Drawing has followed the lines initiated last year. A cantata by the grades was started at the Center last year, but the epidemic interfered so seriously with the work that the public performance was abandoned. The same piece was performed by the children of the Cameron School this Fall with credit. The Drawing work has been showing a steady gain and is now on a good basis. I include herein the reports of the supervisors in these branches.

Teachers' meetings have been held as seemed wise for the special instruction in drawing, manual work and the consideration of topics in the regular work of the course. At the January meeting Supt. F. L. Kendall, of Chelmsford, spoke upon "Work in Arithmetic." Teachers also attended the conventions held at Boston and at Ayer. The teachers have formed reading circles for the last half year.

Through the kindly interest of Mrs. John C. Abbot, those children who come by barge, or who are obliged to walk so far that it is impossible to go home at noon, have been supplied with hot soup and cocoa during the cold weather. This has meant much to the children, and I wish to express the heartiest appreciation of this interest.

The Horace K. Turner Art Exhibit was placed in the central schools during January, and aside from the financial gain, which is to be devoted to school decoration, parents and children cannot have failed to get inspiration from the reproductions of the great masterpieces of the world's art. The exhibits and social features connected therewith gave the children a training in organization that will prove valuable in the future.

The attendance in many instances is not what it should be. Parents are manifesting a willingness to have their children stay at home too often for trifling causes, and many are keeping their children out of school to help in the home. This is unjust to the child. The school work is so planned that each day counts. A child who loses one day a week because of home duties soon falls behind, loses interest in his work and fails of promotion. The law recognizes no excuse save sickness, and the home duties should be so arranged as to allow of their performance before or after school hours and upon days of no school.

Recent tests which have been given throughout the district show a spirit of indifference and carelessness which can only be corrected with the earnest cooperation of the home. Too many parents today send word that the poor report card will not be signed—implying that the teacher is to blame instead of the child. If dissatisfied let the parent take counsel with the teacher. We are all ready to talk matters over, show the children's daily work, and more than glad to learn of any peculiar circumstances in the case.

Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR B. WEBBER.

REPORT OF WESTFORD ACADEMY.

Mr. A. B. Webber, Superintedent of Schools, Westford, Mass.

I have the honor to submit the annual report of Westford Academy. The total enrollment of the school since September 8th of the present year is 54; boys 29, girls 25. The average membership for the same period of time is 51.13, the average attendance 48.59, the per cent. of attendance 94.98. The registration of the school at the present time is as follows: seniors 4, juniors 4, sophomores 20, freshmen 22.

While the attendance has been good it might be improved by a little effort on the part of a few pupils. The school work is so planned that it is continuous. The work of each day and week depends upon the work of the preceding days and weeks. If a pupil is absent a day, now and then, he or she soon loses the connection between one day's work and another, then loses interest, becomes discouraged, and leaves school. Regularity of attendance and promptness in meeting school duties produce good habits and good habits once formed attend the child through life. Absences, tardiness and dismissals should be approved by the parents for very necessary reasons only.

The school is fairly well supplied with material for doing the work required but to obtain the best results some changes are needed in text-books, especially for the first year's work in English. The book in use is an old text and somewhat out of date. It should be replaced by a more modern text. Wall maps for the teaching of history are much needed. There is but one in the building and that is badly worn. The increase in the number of pupils will make it necessary to purchase a few pieces of apparatus for the use of the class in Physics next year, but the outlay for them will not be large.

A change has been made in the system of Bookkeeping taught by the introduction of Ellis' Practical Bookkeeping from which good results are expected.

At the beginning of the year a new course of studies, to meet more fully the requirements of the State Board of Education, was adopted. The change seems to be working well and the amount of work has increased.

The pupils as a whole are faithful and conscientious and the year's work has been one of harmony and progress.

Respectfully submitted,

W. A. WOODWARD, Prin.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF DRAWING.

Mr. A. B. Webber, Supt. of Schools:.

Dear Sir:—I submit the following report in drawing for the Town of Westford.

Taking the schools as a whole a decided gain has been manifested in quality and quantity of the work.

The Forge district deserves special recognition for its organization. Commencing in the Fall under adverse conditions it has steadily advanced its drawing under difficulties, that to say the least were very trying. This organization has steadily been adhered to in the new building and if continued, must prove a strong and efficient school.

The Graniteville section has also steadily gained and the new principal has worked hard and conscientiously toward a better school unity. The introduction of the handcraft work had a tendency to affect the general trend of the drawing. This should not have been, as the natural sequence of the drawing was planned to lead up to and strengthen the handcraft end.

Failure on the part of the teachers in not comprehending the natural trend of the work probably lies at the door of the Supervisor. However, as our loyalty is larger than our mistakes, we can welcome criticism and go forward with renewed courage.

The conditions at the Center are somewhat similar. The great gain in getting the teachers and pupils together in association and community of interest must necessarily lead to larger results. This was no doubt the end in view in planning the new building and the people of Westford are to be commended for their foresight.

The work at the Academy has been very satisfactory and progressive; many of the handcraft products have been of a high standard.

The majority of the district schools have done exceptionally strong work, and it is to be regretted that they could not have been under one roof for the value of contact and association of ideas.

The manual work has been of decided value to all the grades and I would recommend that twenty dollars be set aside for this phase of the work for another year.

In closing, I desire to express my appreciation of the help and consideration shown by all in the work.

Respectfully submitted,

W. LORING ADAMS, Supervisor.

Saxonville, February 2, 1909.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF MUSIC.

To the Superintendent and School Committee:

Gentlemen:—The musical work of the schools moves steadily forward.

Regular graded work, upon the foundation laid last year is being successfully carried on in all intermediate and grammar grades.

The written tests of last year, the first ever given in music in our schools, were productive of many really splendid papers.

The Weaver Slips are used in connection with the technical work one day and part work from the books the following day.

The town is especially fortunate in its primary teachers, the work in that department being most gratifying.

At the Academy the Cantata "Ruth" is being studied and will be performed later in the school year.

This Cantata is a decided step in advance over "The Building of the Ship," last year's Cantata, which was not nearly so difficult.

At the suggestion of the Supervisor, the matter of procuring a new piano for the Academy was taken up, with much zest by principal and pupils. A splendid instrument has been secured which will add much to the musical work of the school.

The Cantata, "The Carnival of the Flowers" was successfully given in the late autumn by the children of the Cameron School, and the proceeds supplemented by a generous check from a friend of the school made it possible to place a piano in that school. It would add much and be most helpful to the work, could pianos be placed in the Frost and Sargent Schools.

May I say in closing, how thoroughly I am sensible of the earnest efforts of the teachers, and how grateful I am for their words of appreciation, as well as the kindly expressions of approval from officers and parents.

With faith in the ability and purpose of the children which cannot but be productive of rich fruitage in later life, I am,

Yours sincerely,
EDWIN N. C. BARNES,
Supervisor of Music.

REPORT OF MEDICAL INSPECTOR.

Gentlemen of the School Committee:

I respectfully submit the following report concerning the schools of Westford for the year ending Feb. 1st, 1909.

I have visited the schools and have made one general examination of all the children to see if any were suffering from disease that would interfere with their or others school work by being affected with a contagious or infectious disorder or one detrimental to their own mental and physical development. I also have made various calls to the different schools either at the call of the teacher, superintendent or one of the committee.

During my inspections I have found three cases of ringworm of the body, two of ringworm of the scalp, one case of ear trouble, fifteen of adenoids, one of chorea, six of scabies, twenty-one of chicken pox, four of the measles, and a great many of pediculosis capilis (head lice).

Those that were afflicted with contagious or infectious diseases, were excluded from the school in accordance with Chapter 502 of the Acts of 1906, until they could return with safety to the other children.

The parents have co-operated with the school physician by having their children receive medical attendance after receiving the notices of their afflictions by the school physician; but some have neglected to do so to the detriment of their children both as to physical as well as to mental development.

NOTE.

All persons are respectfully requested to examine the foregoing reports of births, marriages and deaths, and report to the Town Clerk any errors or omissions that may be discerned therein, so that the records may be corrected. An error in the record, other than a mistake in copying a certificate or return, can be corrected only in accordance with a deposition under oath, made by one who was required by law to furnish the information for the original record or by three or more creditable persons having knowledge of the case. (See Revised Laws, Chapter 29, Sections 9 and 16.)

Births occurring late in the year are sometimes returned without the Christian name. In such cases parents should return the name to the Town Clerk as soon as selected, as incompleteness of the record may occasion trouble in the future.

The Town Clerk hereby gives notice that he is prepared to furnish parents, householders, physicians and midwives applying therefor with blanks for return of births, as required by law.

EDWARD FISHER,

Town Clerk.

Board of Health.

The Selectmen, as in years past, have acted under the law as the Board of Health, and respectfully submit the following report.

The board organized as follows: Chairman, Andrew Johnson; Agent, Albert A. Hildreth.

The board appointed Dr. W. H. Sherman physician.

During the past year our Town has been afflicted with an epidemic of measles; most cases were of a mild form. A few cases of scarlet fever, typhoid fever and diphtheria. The board has endeavored to do all in its power to prevent the spreading of contagious diseases by quarantining homes, and a thorough fumigation of the same after the disease has left the patient. Our physicians have been very prompt in reporting to the board all cases of contagious diseases, and we are under obligation to them for their support.

Library Report.

The Trustees of the J. V. Fletcher Public Library respectfully submit the following report for the year ending February 1, 1910:

In order to display the current numbers of the periodicals in the reading room to the best advantage, and also to furnish shelves for holding the file for the year, the Trustees have purchased a rack which has been placed against one of the side walls of the room and is a great improvement over the old method of placing the magazines upon the table. The back numbers of most of the magazines are now allowed to be taken from the Library, to be kept one week.

Since the last supplement to the catalogue of books was printed five years ago, 1,635 volumes have been added to the Library. There is no record of these books excepting the card catalogue in the Library; therefore the people in the outlying districts, and any others who are unable to visit the Library have no means of knowing what new books have been added during the past five years. It seemed best to the Trustees that the citizens should decide in regard to the advisability of printing a supplement to the catalogue which shall contain a list of the books added since 1905, and an article to that effect has been placed in the warrant.

It has been the custom to close the Library each year for a period of two weeks during the month of March, for the purpose of enumerating the books and cleaning the building. The Librarian thinks, however, that this work can be done without closing the building and the experiment will be tried this year, thus enabling the patrons of the Library to continue their reading without interruption.

The Trustees take pleasure in announcing two gifts of money to the Library during the past year. A gift of $150.00 left by the will of Mrs. Martha J. Wilkins of Milford, N. H., in memory of her mother, Mrs. Sarah S. Reed. This money has been invested and the income will be used for the benefit of the Children's Room. Also a gift of $1,000.00 left by the will of John M. Osgood of Racine, Wis., the income of which is to be used for the purchase of books, and each book is to be marked "Purchased from the John M. Osgood Bequest."

The Trustees recommend that the sum of one thousand ($1,000.00) dollars be raised and appropriated in addition to the sum received for dog licenses in 1910 to meet the current expenses of the Library and to purchase books and periodicals during the ensuing year.

Report of Engineers of Fire Department.

The Board of Fire Engineers submit the following report: During the past year several fires have occurred which would have entailed serious loss of valuable property if it had not been for the promptness and efficiency of the Fire Department.

April 13th a grass fire started from a spark from an engine on the Boston & Maine R. R., near the Town Farm, which threatened the village of Graniteville; fortunately it was extinguished before it reached any dwelling house in the village, although the freight house at West Graniteville on the Nashua & Acton R. R., was damaged to the extent of about one hundred and fifty ($150) dollars.

July 14th an alarm was rung in in the centre of Westford for a fire in a tenement of Abiel J. Abbot, caused by an overturned lighted lamp, which fortunately was extinguished by a hand chemical fire extinguisher. Loss $30—insured.

November 1st the stable of John A. Healy caught fire about 9 o'clock P. M. The A. R. Choate Hose Company No. 2 reported promptly and did excellent work; but on account of the danger of the nearby dwellings the other two hose companies were ordered out and did much in preventing a serious conflagration. Loss on building and contents seven thousand ($7000) dollars—insured. A most unfortunate accident occurred at this fire. Lieut. Daniel W. Harrington, of the A. R. Choate Hose Company No. 2, was struck by a stream of water from one of the fire hose and knocked down. He was taken at once to his home where he lingered for a few days and died on November 7th. His death was not only a loss to the Fire Department, but to the community in which he lived.

The duties of a fireman are hazardous. He is obliged many times to take risks that may entail the loss of life or serious injury to himself, resulting in loss in the support of his family. One of the wise and beneficient laws passed by the Legislature is the Massachusetts Fireman Relief Fund, wherein, in case of the death of a fireman or injury in his line of duty, pecuniary aid is given to his family or himself.

One thousand ($1000) dollars is allowed in case of loss of life to the dependent relatives. Under this provision, Mrs. Harrington received the above sum.

November 22d the barn of Mrs. Rachael W. Reed in Graniteville was discovered on fire about 9 p. m. A general alarm was sent out and all three of the hose companies responded. Fortunately there was but little wind blowing, and the fire was confined to the building which was occupied by tenants for storage and provisions. Loss estimated on building and contents thirty-five hundred ($3500) dollars—insured.

An expense unlooked for during the past year was in purchasing new fire hose for the A. R. Choate Hose Company No. 2.

At the grass fire of April 13th, which threatened the Village of Graniteville, it was necessary to use the hand chemical fire extinguisher very freely, and it is supposed that in recharging the extinguishers the sulphuric acid was scattered on the fire hose, which destroyed the cotton covering, and rendered the hose useless. There was no alternative but to purchase new hose, otherwise the department would have been crippled and it would have also affected the insurance rates in the three villages. Fortunately this damage was discovered before the fires in the buildings in Graniteville; otherwise there might have been a serious loss.

We still recommend as we did last year, that the Town purchase 400 feet of linen hose to be kept at the Town Farm, for in case of a fire it could be used at once by the Master of the Almshouse before the arrival of the hose companies, thereby preventing a fire getting much headway; 200 feet would be kept at the house and 200 at the barn.

With the extension of the Westford Water Co. mains and new buildings erected since the establishment of the public hydrants, considerable property does not come under adequate fire protection. We recommend in Westford Centre, one hydrant opposite the house of Charles W. Hildreth, and one opposite the William E. Frost Schoolhouse. In Forge Village, one hydrant on Bradford street and one opposite the Cameron Schoolhouse.

The Fire Department is under obligations to Mrs. Henry H. Samuels of the Grant Jewelry Co., of Lowell, who has presented a valuable silver loving cup to be given to the hose company making the best showing in any try out that the Engineers may suggest; the winners to hold the cup subject to challenge from other Westford Hose Companies; the cup to become the property of the hose company winning and holding the same for three successive years. A try out took place in Graniteville between the A. R. Choate Hose Company No. 2 and the John Edwards Hose Company No. 3, and was won by the A. R. Choate Hose Company No. 2. Mrs. Samuels presented the cup and it was accepted by the Chief Engineer in behalf of the Fire Department.

Attention is called to the law regulating the manufacturing, storage, keeping, sale and use of explosives other than fireworks or firecrackers. Any person or firm using explosives are required in the first instance to apply for a license from the Selectmen and then apply for a permit from the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department. Persons or firms desirious of transporting explosives must apply to the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department for a permit. Any violation of these regulations subjects the person or firm to a fine of not more than one hundred ($100) dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one month or by both such fine and imprisonment.

We can assure the Town that the Fire Department is in an excellent condition. The members are active and prompt in their duties and the equipment is good, excepting some extra parts needed for fire purposes and we recommend that the sum of four hundred and fifty ($450) dollars be raised and appropriated.

CHARLES O. PRESCOTT,

Treasurer.

MIDDLESEX, SS.

Westford, Mass., January 25, 1910.

Then personally appeared Charles O. Prescott and made oath that the above is a true statement of the cost of construction of the Westford Water Supply System to January 1, 1910, and of the receipts and expenditures of the Westford Water Company from January 1, 1909 to January 1, 1910, before me.

JOHN M. FLETCHER,

Notary Public.

Report of Commissioners of Public Burial Grounds.

The Commissioners report as follows:

The past year eight burial lots have been placed under Perpetual Care. We find a tax was deducted from the amount left by will of John M. Osgood of Racine, Wis., making the sum received $95.25 instead of $100.

The serious drouth of the past season, in addition to that of the previous year has made the lack of water at the several Cemeteries felt more than ever, as no amount of care can take the place of that important factor in keeping the lots in good condition. We can only hope the coming summer may not be like that of 1908 and 1909.

The six gravestones furnished by the U. S. Government for soldiers of the Civil War, have been placed in position.

The several Cemeteries will be under the same care as in the past year.

The Commissioners would respectfully recommend that the sum of $100 be raised and appropriated for the care and improvement of the Cemeteries the coming year.

Finance Committee Report.

To the Voters and Taxpayers of Westford:

The Finance Committee elected at the last Annual Meeting to report its recommendations relative to appropriations to be acted upon at the next Annual Meeting for the proper and economical maintenance of the several departments of the Town, submit the following recommendations. In making up this estimate, we have placed in separate columns the amounts asked for and the amounts recommended.

On account of the generous offer of Mrs. M. Elizabeth Whitney to grade and prepare the land adjacent to the Wm. E. Frost School for a park and playground, at an expense amounting to many thousand dollars, and also to maintain the same, thus relieving the Town forever from any cost of construction or maintenance of this playground, we find it is absolutely necessary that the streets be graded and drained at the time this work is done, as the surface water and drainage of the street must be conveyed into drains that will be required to be laid through these grounds for this purpose. These repairs on the roads are ordered by the County Commissioners, and as the time expires this year, we, therefore, believing it is the wisest and most economical method to pursue, recommend that the sum of three thousand ($3,000) dollars be borrowed by the Town, with yearly payments on the principal, under Article 15, to be expended for this purpose.

The amount recommended will make a tax rate of $16.50 on $1,000.

This statement we submit to you for your careful consideration.

GEORGE T. DAY,
JULIAN A. CAMERON,
SHERMAN H. FLETCHER,
WESLEY O. HAWKES,
ELBERT H. FLAGG,

Report of the School Board.

To the Citizens of Westford:-

The School Board herewith submits its annual report, together with the reports of the Superintendent of Schools, the Principal of the High School, Supervisor of Music, Supervisor of Drawing, Medical Inspector and Truant Officers.

We feel that the schools have made excellent progress during the year under the supervision of Mr. A. B. Webber, Superintendent of Schools, and we wish to thank the teachers for their hearty co-operation with him in making the year successful.

In behalf of the children attending the W. E. Frost School and their parents, the Committee again desires to express its sincere appreciation of the interest and kindness of Mrs. John C. Abbot, Miss Ella Hildreth and Mrs. Julian A. Cameron in so generously providing hot soup and cocoa for the children of the school, at the noon recess, during the cold weather.

Many of these children come from a distance, which necessitates their leaving their homes at a comparatively early hour, and as they do not return to their homes until well towards the close of the day, it will be readily understood how great a benefit these hot lunches are to them. It stimulates their school work and helps in their mental and physical development. The success of experiment during the past two winters fully convinces the Committee that it is a good thing for the Town to continue and it feels greatly indebted to these ladies who have so generously undertaken and supported the movement, and to the teachers for their hearty co-operation in the work.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

Gentlemen of the Committee:

I have the honor of submitting to you, as Superintendent of Schools of this Town, my fourth annual report, it being the eighteenth in the series of such reports.

Our teaching force has experienced less change than usual, except in the Academy. Miss Genevieve E. Jantzen, a graduate of the Lowell Normal School, succeeds Mr. Charles Edwards at Nabnasset and has been notably successful. Miss Addie Burnham, a teacher of several years successful experience in Essex, Mass., has been added to the corps at the William E. Frost School and is doing good work.

The corps of teachers at the Academy has materially changed. Miss Bartlett resigned in June to accept a more lucrative position and her place was filled by the appointment of of Miss Bertha M. Lawrence, of Campello, Mass. In December, Miss Babbitt resigned for personal reasons and the Trustees appointed Miss Bertha Norris, formerly a teacher in Bennington, Vt.

The spirit of the pupils has decidedly advanced in some cases, but many seem to regard attendance as purely voluntary, and work quite optional. This attitude has led to some criticism. There are those who take little satisfaction in the increased enrolment and feel that there has been a lowering of ancient scholarly standards; that the unfit are admitted and retained in the school. They say, "Raise the requirements for admission. Require the graduates of the grammer school to pass a rigid examination in order to be admitted. In this way you will weed out the unfit at the very beginning."

Easy and simple as this plan seems the best educational opinion is against it. In the first place it is absolutely impossible to separate the so-called "fit" from the "unfit" by means of written examination. Such a plan rigidly enforced would have robbed the world of many of its most useful and most famous men. The plodder, who, with the greatest effort cannot do more than passing work if he even succeeds in doing that, will gain far more, and will in many cases prove himself a far more useful member of society than will the brilliant but lazy boy, who fritters away his time and his opportunities.

The consensus of opinion at the National Superintendents' Association held in Chicago, where this topic received careful consideration, was that, in general, even the most unpromising pupils derive immense benefit from their connection with a good high school; that the most valuable result of any course of study is not a definite quantity of knowledge gained, but the uplift, the outlook and the inspiration which the school puts into the life of the pupil.

I firmly believe that a pupil who, after faithful and conscientious work, has gotten out of the grammar school course all that there is in it for him, should be admitted to the Academy. No pupil, however, should be allowed to remain in the Academy who habitually fails to improve the opportunities offered him. On the other hand, I believe that the most stupid pupil should be allowed to remain so long as he earnestly desires to learn, and puts forth an honest effort. Work should be found for him which he can do with satisfaction to his teachers, and profit to himself.

The home must co-operate with the school in seeing that attendance is punctual and unbroken. The statistics show a gain, but condition far from satisfactory. This phase of the matter rests primarily with the parents, and to them we look for the fullest support.

A number of foreign born children between twelve and sixteen years of age who cannot speak English are attending school in Forge Village and Graniteville. The interests of such children are very poorly served by placing them in primary rooms. They need instruction in speaking English as well as in reading. The ordinary day school methods of instruction presuppose a speaking knowledge of English and in justice to the majority cannot be materially modified for the benefit of the few non-English speaking pupils in the class. There are also other reasons why the presence of these pupils in primary class rooms is undesirable; a large share of the primary work does not appeal to them, for they justly regard it as beneath their dignity; they are embarrassed, awkward, and not out of place among the younger children, and do not progress as rapidly as they would under more favorable circumstances. There are other pupils who through lack of ability or by reason of unfortunate circumstances are so much behind children of their own age that they need individual attention and would do better school work if they were under the care of a special teacher.

The primary rooms at the Cameron School are very full, and if more foreign children come to us there seems a sufficient reason for opening a special room at that school for the above class of pupils in which the methods of the evening school may be carried out.

In this connection a class might be arranged by the co-operation of the Abbott Worsted Company and the State Authorities which should be open to the boys in the mill, and their places be taken by the older boys attending the morning session. This half time system would seem to offer advantages upon both sides and work toward the solution of a vexatious problem.

The attendance at the Cameron School deserves special mention. It has steadily increased, and in no room did it fall below 97 per cent. in December, reaching 99.2 per cent. in the grammar room. In the other schools the percentage is decidedly less satisfactory. In the primary grades children are allowed to remain at home for apparently trifling reasons. All parents should realize that regular attendance is essential to satisfactory progress.

MEDICAL INSPECTION.

Acting upon the suggestion that some definite rules be drawn governing the Medical Inspection the following was passed by the School Committee at their meeting February 2d.

Rules Governing the Medical Inspection of the Public Schools of the Town of Westford, Mass.:

- 1. A school physician shall be appointed by the School Committee at its regular meeting in May.
- 2. The school physician shall serve for the term of one year, or until his successor is appointed.
- 3. The school physician shall at least once in the school year separately and carefully examine every child to ascertain whether he is suffering from any disability or defect tending to prevent his receiving the full benefit of his school work, or requiring a modification thereof in order to prevent injury to the child or to secure the best educational results. Notice of such conditions shall be sent to the parent.
- 4. Teachers shall co-operate with the physician and shall refer to him for examination and diagnosis every child returning to school without a certificate from the Board of Health, after absence on account of illness or from an unknown cause, and every child in school who shows signs of being in ill health or suffering from infectious or contagious disease (unless the cause is such as to call for exclusion before the arrival of the physician).
- 5. The school physician shall keep a record of the dates and results of his examinations.
- 6. The following infectious diseases shall be excluded from school without delay either by the teacher or the school physician, and the children sent to their homes; the parents, the Board of Health and the School Committee should be notified at once: Smallpox, scarlet fever, measles, chickenpox, tuberculosis, diptheria, tonsilitis, whooping cough, mumps, scabies, or trachoma.
- 7. The following contagious affections are to be temporarily excluded by the school physician until under treatment: Pediculosis, ringworm, impetigo, acute coryza, acute conjunctivitis. In such cases the pupils should be instructed to report at school after three days, and if then found to be under satisfactory treatment may be allowed to attend; but if still excluded for failure to begin treatment, and the pupil continues to stay away the case shall be reported to the Truant Officer and if necessary taken to court for judgment.

- 8. When the school physician finds a child to be suffering from any disease or defect, he shall make out a card containing the pupil's name, school, grade and his diagnosis and advice. This shall be kept by the teacher and a copy sent to the parent or guardian in a sealed envelope.
- 9. If any infectious disease of the nose or throat is suspected, the school physician shall take a swab to be sent to the Board of Health for examination.
- 10. The school physician shall make whatever inspections, in addition to the above, as he decrees necessary to secure the proper condition of health in his schools, and shall have authority to close any school where, in his judgment, an epidemic is threatened. Notice of such action shall be sent to the Committee and Superintendent.
- 11. A report shall be made by the school physician in February of each year, of the number of pupils examined; the number of negatives; the number excluded; the number recommended for treatment or special adjustment of work and the diagnosis of such cases.
- 12. Under no conditions shall any controversy be carried on among teachers, physician or parents. Wherever the necessity for the continued exclusion of the child is brought into question, the case shall be referred to the Superintendent or Committee.
- 13. Each teacher shall at least once in every school year separately and carefully test every child in her room, to ascertain whether he is suffering from defective sight or hearing; and in case of defects of sight or hearing requiring treatment, notice shall be sent to the parent or guardian. A record of all defectives shall be sent to the Superintendent.
- 14. No child shall attend school who has not either been vaccinated or furnished a certificate of exemption signed by the school or family physician. In case of exclusion for failure to comply with the law, the Truant Officer shall proceed against the parent after three days' absence.

The compulsory eye and ear tests conducted throughout Massachusetts in accordance with the State law, show that 23 per cent. of the children have defective vision, and 6.3 per cent. have defective hearing. The last tests for this Town show the following results:

Number of pupils examined, 460.

Number with defective sight, 51, or 11 per cent.

Number with defective hearing, 31, or 7 per cent.

The response to the notices sent to parents has not been as good as it should be. That defective eyesight, enlarged tonsils, or adenoids are responsible for much of the retardation of pupils is an established fact. To require a child to do what he is unable to do by reason of physical defects is cruelty. The results in those places where proper examinations have been made, show most alarming conditions. In New York City in a school for so-called incorrigibles—the truants, the idle, the stupid, the troublesome—150 in number, all were found on examination to be defective physically. One hundred thirty-seven had adenoids or enlarged tonsils, or both. These were operated upon, and in six months 76 of the 81 operated upon first were re-examined and without exception it was found that they had been promoted and were doing well in their advanced grades.

Parents should give immediate attention to the physical condition of their children, and give all possible aid to the schools in following the suggestions of the teachers and the medical inspector. In cases where parents feel unable to bear the expense of operations for adenoids or enlarged tonsils, or for careful examination by an oculist, the town should attend to the case under the appropriation for medical inspection.

The common drinking cup still exists with us. This should not continue. A drinking glass used in a school for nine days was recently examined under a microscope and here is the report: "The human cells scraped from the lips of the drinkers were so numerous on the upper third of the glass, that the head of a pin could not be placed anywhere without touching several of these bits of skin. The saliva by running down on the inside of the glass had carried cells and bacteria to the bottom. By counting the cells on fifty different areas on the glass it was estimated that the cup contained over 20,000 human cells or bits of dead skin. As many as 150 germs were seen clinging to a single cell and very few cells showed less than 10 germs. Between the cells were thousands of germs left there by the smear of saliva deposited by the drinkers. Not less than 100,000 bacteria were present on every square inch of the glass." Many towns are now supplying individual paper cups and paper towels. This would seem economy in the long run, as the absence due to contagious disease is costly.

The common towel is perhaps as undesirable as the common drinking cup. The cost of furnishing paper towels is so small that towns are finding this more economical than laundry bills.

For some time objections to the present system of marking have been urged. At the last meeting of the Massachusetts Superintendents' Association the matter was freely discussed, and the result was a strong plea in favor of a change in the system. The present system presents several objectionable features:

- 1. No teacher can hope to mark all her pupils with absolute accuracy. The teacher who depends upon her general impressions, and records the marks of each pupil once a week, will frequently be deceived. A pupil who makes a poor recitation just before the time for the marks to be recorded, will be apt to receive a mark lower than he deserves; on the other hand, the pupil who is generally poor, but who makes a good recitation just before the marks are recorded, will be apt to be marked higher than he deserves. Teachers who, in the effort to avoid the possibilities of such errors, record their marks after each recitation. place an impassable barrier between themselves and their pupils. This habit of noting critically every imperfection, marking coldly every error, may tend to make an accurate marking machine, but it precludes the teachers' doing the kind of work our best teachers desire to do; it cuts off all chance of her giving hope, encouragement or inspiration to her pupils.
- 2. A pupil's success in his studies depends upon two factors:
 (a) Natural ability and (b) effort. A pupil fortunate enough to be born with a superior mind, should not have the conviction forced upon him by the marking system, that is he better and more worthy than his less gifted associates. Nor, on the other hand, should a pupil of medium ability be made to feel that he is less highly esteemed because of conditions wholly beyond his control. Both should be taught in every way possible that to use one's powers faithfully, be they great or small, for worthy ends, is the only honor; and to fail to use them is the only disgrace. The present system of marking makes it extremely difficult, if not impossible, to make these truths clear to the child-mind.

- 3. The present system opens wide the door to petty jealousies among children, leads to misunderstandings between children and teachers, and between parents and teachers. It is probable that more than half of all the friction between pupils and teachers, and between parents and teachers can be traced to the report card. Many a pupil has lost interest in his work and left school, because he has felt that he has not received the mark which he deserved.
- 4. The mark is far too often made so prominent in the child's mind, that the real thing for which it stands is entirely shut out from view, and the pupil comes to work for marks, rather than for an education. The "A" becomes the only conscious aim of the child's endeavor. Accumulation of facts, rather than power to do, then becomes sole object of his effort. No worthy work can be done in pursuit of an end so unworthy. To use a mark either as a threat or as a bribe is to do an injustice. To appeal to pride and fear, so largely during the formative years of a child's life, is to cut off all chance of instilling in the minds of the future citizens of our republic, the high sense of duty which our schools should engender.
- 5. Experience has shown very clearly that children, whose natural and wholesome appetites have never been perverted by a false taste for marks, do not need them. Nowhere in the school course do we find such eager, enthusiastic workers as in the grades where marks are unknown; and nowhere do we find the lack of these qualities in so marked a degree as in the upper grades, where marks have been longest in use.
- 6. The last objection to the present system is not urged primarily out of consideration for the teachers, but out of consideration for the pupils. The mere mechanical labor of posting up marks and making out reports consumes an enormous amount of valuable time and strength, which might better be used directly for the benefit of the children.

For the past year a new system of marking has been tried at the Frost School. This system is essentially as follows:

- 1. Marks in scholarship are recorded by the teacher once a month. This record is to be kept as entirely private and should not be shown the pupil.
- 2. Once a month a report card showing: (a) Statistics of attendance—sessions absent, times tardy, times dismissed; (b) List of studies pursued; (c) A plain simple statement by the teacher in regard to the work of the pupil for the month is sent to the parent.
- 3. In addition to the regular report sent home once a month, a special report is sent home the moment a pupil falls below a proper standard in any subject. In this way, the parent is kept informed immediately of any deficiency.
- 4. Much of the written work in all subjects is kept on file and may be sent home frequently for inspection, or parents may see upon visiting the school the character of the work done and note the improvement month by month.

The new system has worked so well that I would recommend that it be adopted for all the schools. The essential part of the system, which is producing the best results, is the sending home of work and the special reports. To be most effective these should lead to a personal interview between the parent and teacher.

The problem of a closer union between the home and the school is an important one. Very few parents have visited the schools to see what their children are doing, and still fewer have sought to establish friendly relations with the teachers, thus aiding them in a better understanding of the children. Every parent should make strenuous effort to come into personal touch with the teacher, and should lend the heartiest support to our efforts to lead the child to appreciate the value of school work.

Our aim is to train our pupils to study for themselves, to look up material connected with their lessons from other sources than the regular text-books. The teacher is not in school to carry the children along in their work, but to train them to right habits of thought and to establish power to observe, reason and work effectively. The chief aim is not mere acquisition of knowledge, but the power to think and act along right lines. Thus, by forming good habits, we seek to build up a strong character to make citizens who shall be worthy of the name of Americans

Obedience is the first essential in all school life. It is not for the pupil to question what the teacher says. His business is to act promptly and cheerfully. If having given prompt obedience, he feels aggrieved, no teacher will refuse to explain the necessity for the command when such explanation is sought in a polite manner. In this matter the home can come to the teacher's aid most effectively. Let the parents instill in the child the idea that the teacher's word is law and must be obeyed. Let the parents get in close touch with the teacher and this attitude will become the easier.

The problem of training for future citizenship will seem to be best met by the development of organized play. This line of work is especially essential in such a community as ours, because so many of our children have no opportunity at home for real play. Joseph Lee, "the father of public playgrounds," writes very tersely but instructively on this matter as follows:

"Why have playgrounds? Why? Why does a flower need the light? The child needs a playground because his growth is through activity, through those specific forms of activity, which his nature has prescribed; and because, accordingly, he will never grow up—or will grow up stunted and perverted—if he is denied those opportunities and objects to which his vital, instinctive, and formative activities relate."

The thing that most needs to be understood about play is that it is not a luxury, but a necessity. It is not simply something that a child likes to have; it is something that he must have if he is ever to grow up. It is more than an essential part of his education. It is a part of the law of his growth, of the process by which he becomes a man at all.

Is play a necessity? Yes, if the boy lives and is whole boy. If he is above ground, and the best part of him has not been starved quite out of him, play there is certain to be, if not in one form, then in another.

Does it pay? Volumes of testimony could be cited to show that playgrounds greatly cut down the amount of juvenile law breaking. Doctors will testify to the necessity of play to health and growth, and to its essential importance as a means of fighting the great white plague.

These are pecuniary benefits of no mean order, even if we confine ourselves to the money side of the question.

And then besides, children are worth something in themselves. That attention to school yard play may aid in the discipline of the school is unquestioned. In one school the record for the year showed 281 cases of truancy and 99 cases of corporal punishment. The school yard had been covered with loam which made it unfit for play in damp weather. The chief rôle of the principal under such conditions quite naturally and easily fell into that of policeman. By covering the yard, used for play, with a mixture of broken stones and sand it was made fit for use. A wooden frame containing four pairs of rings and two horizontal bars was errected. From time to time other pieces of apparatus were added until the equipment included punching bags, medicine and basket balls, shot, skittles, a jumping and vaulting pole, and a race track.

The results secured were remarkable. Truancy dropped to 33 cases. Corporal punishment was essentially discarded. The tone of the school was raised; teachers were brought into closer touch with the children and by increasing their knowledge of them, strengthened their influence over them.

The effect of play upon school work in general is worthy of mention. There is a close interdependence of the muscular and nervous systems. In the development of the race, the nervous system has advanced as the muscular system has advanced, and the same has apparently been true of the individual. There can be no well balanced development of the nervous system without a development of the muscular system.

Teachers who have regularly made use of games in the middle of the session are unanimous in saying that the games revived the children, gave an added zest to their study and made them more quiet and responsive. Tests of the amount and accuracy of work done after the afternoon games show a decided gain in favor of the use of games.

In view of such testimony is it not wise to plan for the equipment of our school grounds, and the instituting of organized play under the direction of the teachers?

In a small hamlet in Ohio, of 250 inhabitants, the committee has voted $160 to equip the school grounds for play. Can we not do as much for our children?

The work of the Supervisors of Music and Drawing is progressing very encouragingly and I call your attention to the reports of the supervisors appended hereto.

In conclusion I wish to acknowledge the faithful co-operation of the teachers, and the helpful support of the committee.

Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR B. WEBBER.

February 2, 1910.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF DRAWING.

Mr. A. B. Webber, Superintendent of Schools.

Dear Sir:-

I herewith submit the report of the Supervisor of Drawing for the Town of Westford, Mass.

I entered upon the work in September, 1909, after serving under Mr. W. L. Adams, from February to June, 1909, as his assistant.

Number of visits to each school, to date of the present school year,—9.

Number of teachers' meetings held for special instruction,—1. In the primary grades little has been undertaken in the way of design or pictoral drawing. Here the work has been chiefly that of training the motor muscles.

- 1. To train the hand to work with the mind; by mastering the most simple problems.
- 2. To train the eye to observe and then to record its observations through the hand.
- 3. To stimulate the mind and the imagination, and to be resourceful; the ideas developed to be worked out through the fingers with pencil; and paper construction with twigs, bits of cloth, clay, etc.

The work in the intermediate and grammar grades has been as follows. Three weeks were given to the study of color harmony:

1. That the pupils may appreciate and know how to put together, good and pleasing combinations of color. In the hope that such knowledge would in some degree improve their tastes, influence their choice in the use of colors about them; in their home, in their school and in their dress.

Two weeks were given to nature drawing:

- 1. In an analytical study of the main parts of the plant; for their application and value in design.
- 2. In pictorial representation,—involving the principles of good spacing in the disposition of forms within an enclosed space. This requires forethought and study on the part of the pupil and so, should increase the habit of planning a piece of work as well as the appreciation of the beautiful in design.

Four weeks were given to mechanical drawing:

- 1. For a finer degree of accuracy in workmanship.
- 2. To construct and understand working drawings of simple objects.
- 3. For the ability to put upon paper, the accurate plans, or working drawings of their own original models to be constructed later.

The last weeks before the Christmas vacation were given over to construction of the above forms in metal and cardboard, involving some skill of hand, as well as the previous careful planning.

I feel that the work as a whole has moved forward as well as could be wished. The greatest difficulty in the way of obtaining the best work, and consequently the greatest problem to be overcome, is that of carelessness on the part of the pupil.

The pupil will NOT do his best if that best requires special effort on his part. This is especially noticeable in mechanical drawing, where exactness is possible. It is also found in the other branches where it is more difficult to contend with.

This fault seems to be quite general above the fourth grade; but, where the teacher has taken a positive stand, refusing to accept any but the most careful work, it has been overcome almost entirely. The problem of how to do away with this defect entirely and still cover the required amount of subject matter in the time allotted to the drawing is one that is still before us, and to my mind it is a great one.

The high school division deserves special mention for the fine quality of its work and much credit is due its teacher.

At the Cameron and Sargent Schools some very good work has been done in overcoming carelessness. The work at Parker Village is marked by its excellency; while at Nabnasset there is a very marked improvement over last year's work and it is still advancing. The work in some of the grades, part at Graniteville and part at Westford Centre, has been due to the lack of effort on the part of those teachers. This, however, I feel will be overcome and as I previously stated, the work as a whole has moved forward and its success is due in a large part to the efforts of the teachers.

Respectfully submitted,

F. WARD BRACKETT.

REPORT OF WESTFORD ACADEMY.

Mr. A. B. Webber, Superintendent of Schools, Westford, Mass.

I have the honor to submit the annual report of Westford Academy. The enrollment for the year ending June 25, 1909, was 54: boys 29, girls 25. The average membership was 49.49, the average attendance 45.55, the per cent. of attendance 93.89.

The enrollment since September of the present year is 55, the average membership 53.07, the average attendance 50.42, the per cent. of attendance 94.8.

Once more I must call the attention of the parents of a small number of pupils to the matter of absences and tardiness. Pupils frequently absent soon lose all connection between one day's work and the next and fall hopelessly to the rear.

There should be more co-operation between the home and the school, more visits on the part of the parents to see what their children are doing in school.

The result of practically a single session of the school is the lack of preparation at home. Each pupil has an average of four recitations per day. Since there are only seven recitation periods, that leaves only three periods, or about two hours for study at school. It is evident that some of the work ought to be done at home, and parents should see that their children spend at least two hours in faithful study at home each day. Pupils in the upper classes need even more time. The pupils who entered the school in September are doing good work except in a few individual cases.

As to these individual cases, I may say that the one great need of the Academy is a more unyielding insistence upon a thorough preparation for its entering pupils. Pupils who do not have a fair comprehension of the English language or cannot reason out fair problems in arithmetic cannot do the work in the Academy, except at a great disadvantage to themselves and a handicap to the rest of the class.

In June 1909 a class of two boys and two girls was graduated.

One boy of this class has continued his work at a higher institution, the Massachusetts Agricultural College, and is doing good work.

The following programme was presented.

At the close of last year Miss Bartlett resigned to accept a better position and Miss Edith M. Lawrence was chosen to take her place.

At Christmas of the present year Miss Babbitt withdrew and Miss Bertha E. Norris was elected to the position. Both of these new teachers are doing good work.

The pupils as a whole are doing good work and the year has been one of progress.

The following table showing the increase in enrollment and attendance for the last four and one-half years is of interest.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF MUSIC.

Mr. A. B. Webber, Superintendent of Schools:

Dear Sir:

It has been so short a time since I was assigned to the supervision of music in the Public Schools of Westford, that my report covers only a small amount of work.

I feel, however, that we are making advancement, although the progress seems rather slow. It will be my aim to teach thoroughly all the fundamental principles of the art, and give to the pupils the ability to read and to sing music of ordinary difficulty at sight and to render it with expression and a good quality of tone.

I have spent a good deal of time in teaching the children what may seem two very simple principles, but what I consider of great importance. First, the way I want them to sing, which is softly, for if the children's singing is soft, it is always sweet. Second, a good singing position, which will assist the quality of tone and insure attention, without which I might say nothing can be accomplished. In this I hope to see more of an improvement soon. It is also of the utmost importance to have them feel the rhythm, the swing of their songs and exercises.

The same educational principles govern the proper presentation and development of this study that apply in any other.

In the presentation of the subject, the methods have been changed somewhat. These changes were adopted only after careful consideration.

I am a firm believer in individual singing, which we have by no means given up. I like the individual slip system to test the pupils' ability in individual work, but for general practice I prefer to place the same material in every child's hands, when everyone can follow and receive the benefit of corrections in pitch, time, etc.

We have spent considerable time in chorus work and in developing two and three-part singing. In the latter, I have been much pleased with their advancement.

As much time as possible has been spent on oral and written dictation. As soon as the work will permit, it is my purpose to introduce in the schools more elementary harmony, musical history and biography.

In literature the different authors are studied; in music why should we not take up the lines of the famous composers?

In the Academy, the time allowance of only one music period a week, and the material allowed is very inadequate for accomplishing what is usually required in a high school music course.

In some of the graded schools, the old books have been replaced by a later edition and I sincerely hope it may be provided for the remaining schools during the coming year.

In closing, I wish to thank the Superintendent for his cooperation and the teachers for their efforts in seconding my endeavors.

Respectfully submitted,
MARY B. RAYNES,
Supervisor of Music.

REPORT OF MEDICAL INSPECTOR.

Gentlemen of the School Committee:-

I respectfully submit the following report concerning the schools of Westford, for the year ending February 1, 1910.

I have visited the several schools and have made one general examination of all the children to determine what ones, if any, were suffering from disease that would interfere with their or other children's school work by being affected with a contagious or infectious disorder, or one detrimental to their own mental and physical development.

The general condition of the children was found more improved than the previous year, although there is great chance for improvement as yet, especially in the quick response to treatment of the various disorders necessarily sent out, and a more co-operative spirit, shown by some of the parents and the children, would not have lost so long a time from the school work.

I also made a great many calls for inspection at the various schools, by the notification of either the teacher, superintendent or local committee.

During these inspections I have found three cases of ringworm of the scalp, two of ringworm of the body, eight of adenoids, one of chorea, twenty-four of scabies, ten of impetego contagiosa, and many cases of head lice.

In this year we had diptheria at the Frost School sending home two children, and also one of the teachers contracted the disease; but by careful inspection and fumigation and the closing of the school for a short time, we averted a possible epidemic.

I trust another year the parents will keep a strict watch on their children and after receiving notices of their afflictions, by the school physician, will promptly have them attended to at once and it will greatly simplify matters and be a help to the child and all the children as well.

> DR. C. A. BLANEY, School Physician.

NOTE.

All persons are respectfully requested to examine the foregoing reports of births, marriages and deaths, and report to the Town Clerk any errors or omissions that may be discerned therein, so that the records may be corrected. An error in the record, other than a mistake in copying a certificate or return, can be corrected only in accordance with a deposition under oath, made by one who was required by law to furnish the information for the original record or by three or more creditable persons having knowledge of the case. (See Revised Laws, Chapter 29, Sections 9 and 16.)

Births occurring late in the year are sometimes returned without the Christian name. In such cases parents should return the name to the Town Clerk as soon as selected, as incompleteness of the record may occasion trouble in the future.

The Town Clerk hereby gives notice that he is prepared to furnish parents, householders, physicians and midwives applying therefor with blanks for return of births, as required by law.

Tree Warden's Report.

The Tree Warden submits the following report:

During the past year, my work has consisted of thinning and trimming trees along the roadside, also cutting brush on the sides of the roads.

I would recommend that some of the white oaks along the roadside be removed, and that on the wood roads, the owner should try and leave standing any nice young tree instead of tall trees with only branches on top, as this would prevent the brush from growing freely.

H. L. NESMITH,

Tree Warden

Library Report.

The Trustees of the J. V. Fletcher Public Library respectfully submit the following report for the year ending February 1, 1911:

In order to extend the usefulness of the Library, it has been for some time the desire of the Librarian to send collections of books to the different schools of the town, that children living at a distance who can not have access to the Library building need not be deprived of its privileges. This year through the cordial and sympathetic co-operation of the Superintendent of Schools, as well as of the teachers, books are now sent to the schools at the Centre, Forge Village, Parkerville and Graniteville with very gratifying results. In this way the children are not only supplied with reading matter, but this reading matter is under the supervision of the different teachers and in many cases can be used to supplement the studies. Although this plan has been in operation only a part of the year, the circulation as shown by the Librarian's report is already 1,219.

The new books which were formerly scattered about upon the large table in the Conversation Room have been placed upon the shelves of a new bookcase which has been added to the room. By this arrangement the books present a more orderly appearance and the Librarian is able to offer a larger number of books for the choice of the reader.

A list of the books added during the past year will be found following the Librarian's report.

The Trustees ask for the following appropriations, viz.:

- 1. The unexpended balances as shown by the financial statement.
- 2. The sum of eight hundred ($800.00) dollars to meet current expenses.
 - 3. The receipts from the dog licenses.

Report of Engineers of Fire Department.

The Board of Fire Engineers submit the following report:
During the past year the most serious fires have occurred outside of the water district; but members of the Fire Department have responded quickly with Hand Chemical Fire Extinguishers and have done good service.

March 24, 1910, the house of Eugene A. Tallant in the Stony Brook district was burned down and the barn partially scorched. The origin of the fire was a defective chimney. The property was occupied by William A. Parfitt and family. Loss on dwelling, $2,000; barn, $200—insured.

May 13. Fire in Passenger Station at Forge Village caused by spontaneous combustion from oil. Extinguished by Hand Chemical Fire Extinguishers. Loss, $15.00.

June 2. Dwelling house of Hon. Herbert E. Fletcher in northeast part of town. Dwelling a total loss, $10,000. Furniture, partial loss—insured.

- July 4. Fire on roof of horse shed at Orthodox Church, caused by boys firing firecrackers. Loss slight.
- Oct. 23. Grass fire in woods opposite the dwelling of Miss Grace Lawrence, Forge Village. Extinguished by members John Edwards Hose Co., No. 3.
- Dec. 13. Automobile of J. H. Mills of Lowell on Chelmsford Road extinguished by members of Edward M. Abbot Hose Co., No. 1, with Hand Chemical Fire Extinguishers.
- Dec. 13. Boathouse and boats of John Sullivan, Forge Village. Loss, $400—insured. Cause of fire unknown.

Jan. 13, 1911. Chimney in house occupied by James Wilson and family, Forge Village. Damage slight.

Permits have been granted to transport explosives to Charles A. Couture, Charles M. Cummings, Harvey W. Tarbell, Thomas Rafferty and Lewis P. Palmer and son.

Permits to use explosives: H. E. Fletcher & Co., H. V. Hildreth, Hammett D. Wright and Lewis P. Palmer and son.

The annual try out for the Samuels' Trophy was held at Graniteville in the fall, 1910. The three hose companies competed for the prize, and it was won by the John Edwards Hose Co., No. 3, Forge Village. The department was under obligations to the Officers of the Lowell Fire Department, who acted as Judges, which did much to make the try out a success. At the close of the trial the Albert R. Choate Co., No. 2, of Graniteville, provided a banquet to the other hose companies and guests.

400 feet of linen hose has been purchased and installed at the Town Farm, to be attached, in case of fire, to the public hydrant opposite the buildings, which will make a much needed fire protection to the property.

A great many fires start from defective chimneys. Chimneys should be looked over occasionally and see that they are sound and in good condition. Soot should be removed from the base of the chimney every spring or before a fire is started in the fall.

For the purpose of reaching a fire quickly, and for light work and practice drills, each hose Company should be equipped with a Hand Hose Reel holding 300 to 400 feet of hose. The first few minutes at a fire is what does effective work and the Department is handicapped in the delay in providing horses to haul the hose wagon. With a Hand Hose Reel the members could rush to a fire at once and the hose wagon could follow afterwards.

We would recommend that the Town raise and appropriate four hundred ($400) dollars.

SHERMAN H. FLETCHER, Chief, JOHN EDWARDS, Clerk, ALBERT R. CHOATE,

Fire Engineers.

Then personally appeared Charles O. Prescott and made oath that the above is a true statement of the cost of construction of the Westford Water Supply System to January 1, 1911, and of the receipts and expenditures of the Westford Water Company from January 1, 1910 to January 1, 1911, before me.

Report of Commissioners of Public Burial Grounds.

The Commissioners report as follows:

The burial lots placed under Perpetual Care continue to increase in number—seven having been added the past year—a fact which we are pleased to report, as no better act can be performed by the living than to put under such care the graves of relatives who have passed on. It is especially to be commended when the party placing the family lot under such care is the only one left who has any interest in having the lot permanently cared for. The Perpetual Care Fund shows a very creditable increase since 1893, when it was $200, it now being $5,395.25, and we trust it will continue.

The hope expressed in our last report that the summer of 1910 might not be like that of 1908 and 1909 was not realized, as the extreme drouth continued, again making it difficult to keep the several Cemeteries in the condition we desire. Water being such a very important factor in the proper care of a cemetery, the lack of it is a serious handicap. We hope the time may come when plenty of water can be furnished each Cemetery, even in a dry summer, although we must confess we cannot now say how it will be done.

The Commissioners would respectfully recommend that the sum of $100 be raised and appropriated for the care and improvement of the Cemeteries the coming year.

GEORGE T. DAY, Chairman, W. H. H. BURBECK, DAVID L. GREIG,

Commissioners of Public Burial Grounds.

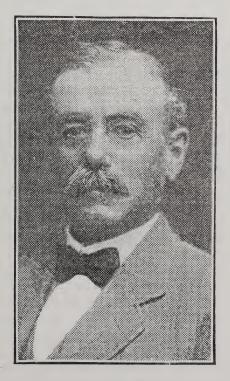

DEDICATION OF SOLDIERS' MONUMENT AND MEMORIAL EXERCISES, MAY 30, 1910.

Through the generosity of Col. Edwin D. Metcalf, of Auburn, N. Y., a former resident of Westford, in presenting to the Town a granite monument mounted with a bronze statue of a Marching Soldier, to commemorate the services of Westford's volunteers in the Civil War, the Town appropriated the sum of Five Hundred ($500) Dollars to fittingly dedicate this munificent gift. The square opposite the common was decided upon as the most appropriate place to erect it. Col. Metcalf paid for the grading and curbing of the lot.

A committee consisting of Oscar R. Spalding, Edward M. Abbot, Andrew Johnson of the Board of Selectmen, with addition of Sherman H. Fletcher, George T. Day, Edward Fisher, Julian A. Cameron and Wesley O. Hawkes was selected to take charge of the work and the exercises on Memorial Day. Invitation was extended to all Veterans that served for the quota of Westford and other resident Veterans as well as to the Veterans of the Town of Chelmsford and many were present with a large number of people of this and the surrounding towns.

Col. EDWIN D. METCALF

The exercises of unveiling the monument began promptly at 10.30 o'clock. The Veterans of the Westford and Chelmsford Associations were drawn up on two sides, with the Nashua Military Band in position, and hundreds of people packed closely about the enclosure.

Of the 172 men who went to the war from Westford there were just 23 in line: And to these 23 old men, in faded uniforms and old Grand Army hats the exercises were of solemn significance.

After a selection by the band, the dedicatory prayer was made by Rev. Benjamin H. Bailey of Westford.

THE PRESENTATION.

Col. Edwin D. Metcalf—he served upon the staff of Gov. Robinson and was once assistant quartermaster general of Massachusetts—then presented the monument to the Town in the following speech, which was received with loud applause:

"In response to the ringing of the church bells, some of those present, with others, gathered in yonder schoolhouse in the evening of April 22, 1861. The motive that brought them together sprang from events momentous in the history of this Town, State and Nation, and it is exceedingly appropriate that the location selected by your committee for this monument, is almost in the shadow of the place where your citizens were first face to face with what war really meant.

"It was there that President Lincoln's first proclamation calling for 75,000 volunteers was read by Hon. J. W. P. Abbott, and my father, with others, stepped forward and signed the roll, pledging their effort and lives, if necessary, to the preservation of the Union. I remember it well. As a boy I sat on one of the front seats with Capt. S. H. Fletcher and watched with interest the men who were willing to leave their homes and all that they loved best in response to their Country's call.

"As there have been but few changes around this square in the past half century, little needs to be left to my imagination since I was a boy going to school here. Some faces that I would like to see, have gone to join the great majority, and upon other faces time has left its mark, but the surroundings and the memories which they awaken and recall, are far more eloquent than anything I can say to you.

"History accords to the men who volunteered to preserve the national honor, a more enduring monument than this of stone and bronze, but I am thankful that you have given me the privilege of presenting your Town this slight testimonial, in commemoration of those soldiers and sailors that voluntarily left their homes and families to participate in the great struggle which should decide whether the United States would stand united, as our forefathers intended, or be divided. And now, sir, to you, as representative of the Town of Westford, I hereby present a deed of gift of this memorial and entrust its keeping to you, hoping that another generation, when they see it, will be inspired to do their part in the affairs of their day to preserve their liberty and the Union of this nation."

Miss Hazel B. Hartford, an attractive miss of the Town, then pulled the cords releasing the flags that covered the monument, and the handsome bronze figure of a soldier upon a large granite base stood revealed. The band played a patriotic number and there was loud applause.

THE GIFT ACCEPTED.

The gift was accepted by Oscar B. Spaulding, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, who spoke as follows:

"The Town of Westford greatly appreciates this generous gift. Its artistic beauty and suggestive lessons will have an educative influence over this and all coming generations. It will teach true patriotism. By day and by night this marching soldier, halted here, will unceasingly and steadfastly declare that devotion to Country, to State, to Town, to one's own community, is the crowning glory of every true citizen.

"In the name of the citizens of Westford, proud of the sons who have gone out from its borders, in the name of these Veterans who today so tenderly remember their old comrades, for the living and for the coming generations we thank you for your free-hearted generosity, and accept at your hands this munificent gift."

The Weber Quartet of Boston sang, then the band played again, and the Veterans moved forward in column of twos, encircling the monument and then marched away to the Town Hall.

The exercises were barely over when a sharp shower broke over the Town. There was a scamper to the Library and the Town Hall, where for nearly an hour there was a regular oldhome day reunion.

The weather had cleared at 1.15 o'clock, when 500 people formed a procession in front of the Town Hall, and headed by the band and the Veterans, marched to a great tent upon the common, where a dinner was served by the D. L. Page Co., of Lowell. Every one of the 501 seats was soon occupied, and an excellent menu was enjoyed, following grace said by Rev. Louis F. Havermale of Graniteville.

THE SPEAKING.

There was an unusually fine program of after-dinner speaking. There was likewise excellent music given by the band and the quartet.

Captain Sherman H. Fletcher presided, and made an address of welcome. He said:

"I extend to you, in behalf of the committee, a most cordial welcome, and a greeting from the Town of Westford. Forty-nine years ago this month, an event took place on these grounds that stirred the patriotism of our townspeople. It was at the opening of the Civil War, when meetings for recruiting were being held in every northern village, and Westford had taken up her part in the cause. The event to which I refer was the erection and dedication of the flagstaff which you see nearby. In loyalty to their country and the cause, the citizens had inscribed upon the cross-trees the words 'Liberty and Union,' and among those who participated in the services of dedication was Company C, 16th Regiment Mass. Volunteers, which was quartered at Groton Junction, now the town of Ayer, and in which some 20 young men of this Town had enlisted for service. Leander G. King of Groton, who fell at Gettysburg, was captain, and William Metcalf of Westford, lieutenant. Over yonder is the building in which our young men were recruited and received their first military instruction from Lieut. Metcalf. A few of these men are here today, with comrades from other companies, some never returned and others are at rest in their native towns, where their surviving comrades place upon their graves a token of love and remembrance each Memorial Day. This seems a most fitting place for us to meet in honor of those who gave their lives that this nation mightlive, and also to honor those Veterans of Westford who are here with their comrades from the mother town of Chelmsford. What better place to honor and thank the donor of the beautiful gift which we dedicated this morning, coming as it does from the son of the first man to enlist from this Town. silent soldier, cast in bronze, stands like a sentinel watching these grounds as if he could see his comrades of old, marching forth in defense of their country, bearing aloft the inscription our fathers placed upon the flagstaff,—'Liberty and Union.' On this occasion the pleasant duty falls upon me to introduce to you one who lived here in his boyhood days, who left this Town when a young man and by his own energy and ability has made a successful career in the business world. I have the pleasure of introducing to you Col. Edwin D. Metcalf of Auburn, N. Y., the donor of our monument."

MR. METCALF'S ADDRESS.

"How well those of us who have been spared during these years and have been permitted to come to this reunion, can remember the meeting referred to by Captain Fletcher, when President Lincoln's first proclamation calling for volunteers, was read in yonder schoolhouse. You will remember that after reading the call, the remarks of Hon. J. W. P. Abbott, calling particular attention to the term of service, 'three years unless sooner discharged,' and that after once enlisted it meant faithful devotion to duty in the service of the United States. This had rather a sobering effect on the enthusiasm of some of those present as they had supposed that the war would only last a few months at the most. My father then arose and made a patriotic speech and at the close stepped forward and signed the roll and his example was immediately followed by others. He then suggested that there was no time like the present to begin, and formed a squad and put them through several movements that evening.

"None of us then could foresee, the desperate fighting, the long marches and sacrifices that was to be the lot of the Northern soldiers in the next four years. It was better possibly for the history of this nation that they did not know. Nothing said can ever adequately pay tribute to the living and dead for what they gave, in the years 1861 to 1865, to shape the destiny of this nation, that their children might grow up to enjoy the fruits of the greatest country in the world, the United States of America.

"What a magnificent heritage the men who helped to preserve this Union left to their families; what a change has taken place in this country since the church bells called together your citizens on that April evening. We often hear the remark, that there are no such opportunities for young men to succeed now as during our fathers' time, but this is a mistake, as there are many more opportunities and greater possibilities now than ever before. And many of these opportunities are at our door, if we look for them and improve them when they come. cannot recall all the wonderful developments between then and now that go to make up much that is pleasant in life. Since then the world has made its greatest progress in all directions. In science, art, medicine, education, literature, and electricity. Many of these developments unknown then are no longer luxuries, but necessities to the business world, such as the adding and multiplying machine, typewriter, elevator, electric lights, telephone, bicycle, electric car service and more recently the automobile.

"In the great development of this period, the farmers' interests have not been overlooked. The time of some of our best inventors has been spent in the development of tools and implements to lighten the labor of the farmer and increase the productiveness of his land. When President Lincoln issued his first call for volunteers, the farmer tilled his soil with old-fashioned plows. He cut his hay with a scythe, his grain with a sickle and hand reaper. Since then there has been developed the gang plow, both with disc and mold board, the disc and spring harrow, horse cultivator, planter and check rower, seeder, mower, horse rake, tedder, hay loader and carrier, corn planter, husker and sheller, reaper, manure spreader, cream separator, gasoline engine and both grain and corn harvester, those wonderful implements that cut, put into bundles, ties a band around them and after accumulating four or five bundles throws them off into piles convenient for stacking. All these implements have enabled the enterprising farmer to more than triple the producing capacity of each man and make farming lucrative and pleasant, compared with what it was in the days of the men whose memory you have met to commemorate today. In this particular field the United States has led the world and many of our best inventors have been men who took an active part in the events of 1861 to 1865.

"The city where I am now making my home, sends greetings to you, but in view of the prominent part which some of their citizens took during the Civil War, feel that they should have a soldiers' and sailors' monument, and I have been asked several times, why, not being a native of this Town, I was led to present Westford with a soldiers' monument instead of the City of When I came here to bury my father, I was met at the railroad station by a delegation of old soldiers. They were strangers to me, they came without any solicitation, they came without any previous knowledge on my part, but I was so much pleased and so much touched at the spirit of devotion and loyalty of those who had stood shoulder to shoulder during the Civil War, that I then and there resolved that I would do something in Westford to the memory of the Veterans, and I hope this monument will stand and serve as an inspiration to the younger generation to take their part in matters of vital interest of their day, and to keep and preserve intact the good name of this great country, as the soldiers of Westford were ready to do 49 years ago.

"There comes a time in all our lives when we are apt to look back and review the past and judge whether we have made the best possible use of our time and opportunities. changes we make in life are not anticipated, but are the result of circumstances. When I left this town to try my fortune in other places, I fully intended to return and pass the closing days of my life here. I have always loved to come back to Westford with its good air, good water, good land, good schools and economical government. Happiness consists of a contented mind and congenial friends, and what can possibly be better for a home than to live in a town abounding in happy, industrious and self-respecting intelligent people, like you have here. I should indeed be ungrateful if I did not acknowledge, that any success in life that I may have had since, was due to those early influences that go so far to form our character in after life, and although not to the 'manor born,' the Town of Westford is associated with so many pleasant recollections and ties, that while I live, I expect to continue to be just as much interested in your prosperity and progress as any of your native born citizens."

DEED OF CONVEYANCE TO THE TOWN.

Know all men by these presents, that I, Edwin D. Metcalf, of the City of Auburn, County of Cayuga, State of New York, in consideration of the natural love and affection which I have for my old friends and schoolmates in the Town of Westford, Middlesex County, State of Massachusetts, by these presents do give, grant and convey unto the said Town of Westford, to be its absolutely and forever, a monument in bronze and granite.

This monument is given in commemoration of those soldiers, of which my father was one, and sailors "Who knew no glory but their country's good," that voluntarily left their homes and families and went forth from the Town of Westford to participate in the great struggle which solved the momentous question whether this nation should united, stand, or divided, fall; and of their devotion and distinguished services to the said Town of Westford, to the State and to the Nation.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 30th day of May, 1910.

EDWIN D. METCALF. (Seal)

(Witness) Edwin F. Metcalf.

GOVERNOR LONG THE ORATOR.

Hon. John D. Long, who holds a unique place in the hearts of Westford people, in whose academy he once taught in the days of his youth, was the orator of the day. He was given an enthusiastic reception, and responded with the following eloquent address:

"I greatly appreciate the honor you do me, a civilian, in asking me to address you who fought the battle, and to join you in the tender memorial service you pay, this sweetest day of the year, to our patriots dead, your comrades in arms with whom you stood shoulder to shoulder under the flag and bivouacked on the tented field. Some of them who were with you but a few years ago are with you no more. But this memorial statue which we now dedicate will stand for years to come a lifelike and speaking figure of their patriotic youth. And they will all still live in the works that do follow them-in a civilization purified by the fire of war from the dross of human slavery and political inequality. They will live too in history pictured in pages more graphic than those of Plutarch, in the songs of poets singing a nobler than Virgil's man and an epic loftier than the Iliad. They will live too in these monuments of stone and bronze which we erect not more to their memory, than to the incitement of coming generations.

"It may be said that we are in our monumental age. The towering obelisk at Bunker Hill, the homely pillar on Lexington Green are no longer the only columns that write in granite the glory of patriotism. At Plymouth the colossal figure of Faith looking out over the sea, catching from its horizon the first tints of the morning and guarding the graves of the Pilgrims. proclaims to the world the story of the Mayflower and its precious freight of civil and religious liberty. Across the bay rises the shaft that marks her first anchorage at Provincetown, and still nearer is the lofty tower that recalls the home of Miles Standish, that type of sturdy independence which has been multiplied in every phase of our thought and culture. In Boston around the State House are Webster, defender of the Constitution; Mann. promoter of public education; Generals Devens and Fighting Joe Hooker, and Governor Banks. Before its City Hall, Franklin, the most prolific and comprehensive brain in American history, and Ouincy, a noble name in Massachusetts. In its public squares Winthrop, the Puritan founder, Sam Adams, leader of the people. Abraham Lincoln, emancipator of the grateful race that kneels enfranchised at his feet, and O'Reilly and Collins, types of the eloquence, wit and poetry of the Irish tongue. In its Public Garden the equestrian statue of Father Washington, the figure of Charles Sumner and the uplifted arm of Everett, and in its avenues Hamilton, the youthful founder of our national finance, John Glover, Colonel of the Marblehead Regiment, whose lusty arms and oars rescued Washington from Long Island; Garrison, the indomitable, and the Norwegian Lief, who antedated Columbus. At Mount Auburn, James Otis, that flame of fire. At Worcester, the embodied conscience of George F. Hoar. At North Adams and Springfield, the beloved McKinley. At Concord, the embattled farmer. Hingham, in marble pure as his heroic instincts, that war governor, John A. Andrew, who in the heart of Massachusetts soldiers can never be disassociated from the sympathies and martyrdom of the service which he shared with them. In Chelsea, the national flag, floating out its bright and rippling cheer from the year's beginning to its end, waves over the Soldiers' Home where, if haply there be one stricken Veteran whom the unparalleled provision of Massachusetts fails, as all general laws in some rare cases must fail, to reach him, he finds a shelter that shall not dishonor him.

"Time and your patience deny an enumeration of the monuments which within recent years have dotted Massachusetts and which in their massive handwriting have recorded for centuries hence her story of heroism so plain, so legible that though a new Babel should arise and the English tongue be lost, the human heart and eye will read it at a glance. Scarce a town is there from Boston with its commanding Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, at the dedication of which even the victoryless Southron came to pay honor, to the humblest burying ground in rural villages—in which these monuments in whatever form do not rise summer and winter, in snow and sun, day and night, to tell how universal was the response of Massachusetts to the call of the patriot's duty, whether it rang above the city's din or broke the quiet of the farm. On city square and village green stand the graceful figures of mechanic, farmer, student, clerk, in that endeared and never-to-be-forgotten war uniform reproduced in the statue here before us—of the soldier or the sailor, their stern young faces to the front, still on guard, watching now the work they wrought in the flesh, and teaching in eloquent silence the lesson of the citizen's duty to the State. How our children will study them! How they will search and read their names! How quaint and antique to them will seem the arms and costume! How they will gather and store up in their minds the fine, insensibly filtering percolation of the sentiments of valor, of fight for right, of resistance against wrong, just as we inherited all these from the Revolutionary Era, so that when some crisis in the future shall come to them as it came to us, they will spring to the rescue, as sprang our youth in the beauty and chivalry of the consciousness of a noble descent.

"Especially fitting it is that in Westford this memorial figure should stand facing her village green. Her history is from first to last an illustration of patriotism. Her old family names are on every shining page of our country's achievement. Her sons have always been of the true blue Lexington-Concord-Bunker Hill stock. Nearly two centuries ago they were in the romantic Lovell's fight. In 1739 they served under the British flag in the unfortunate campaign in Cuba, as only twelve years ago they were in the victorious campaign in which under the Stars and Stripes we redeemed that gem of the Antilles from oppression and with a generosity unparalleled in international annals, fought its battles and without money and without price freely gave it independence and set it in the pathway of republics. They were in the memorable siege and capture of Louisburg. They shared the dangers and glories of the French and Indian Wars which culminated in Wolfe's brilliant capture of Quebec, the embodiment of Canada into the British Empire, and thenceforth immunity for New England from the French and Indian raids that had tormented it. In the great argument for colonial rights and parliamentary representation which preceded the Revolution no voices were clearer, no statement of grievances was more emphatic than were heard in the town meetings of the farmers and mechanics of Westford. And when the hoofbeats of Paul Revere's steed broke the stillness of the night before April 19, 1775, they woke the echoes of her hills. minutemen, led by the brave Col. Robinson, were on the march at break of dawn and met the fire of the British grenadiers at Concord Bridge and drove them back. Again with Robinson, and under Prescott—also a Westford name—their rifle barrels gleamed over the ramparts of Bunker Hill. More than two hundred men out of her small population they were in the campaigns of the Revolutionary War even to the crowning surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. They served in the War of 1812.

"And in the War for the Union, so recent that it is in the memory and very life of us who are here, again more than two hundred of her brave young men rallied to the call, enlisting in the various regiments of the service, and loyal on every battlefield, thirty-five of them giving their lives, and still more of them scarred with wounds and enfeebled by disease. Nor did Westford rest with her contribution of men. Her treasury was thrown open. Her private citizens gave of their means. Her women, God bless them, their hearts full of tenderness, never forgot the boys in the field and with unbounded generosity, with swift needle and helpful hand, supplied them with every comfort of food and clothing and medicine, bound up their wounds, and nursed them in hospitals.

"What an era it was! When I came to Westford in 1857 to teach in the academy, it was a typical New England village of the first half of the 19th century. It was an embodiment of peace. Riding from Cambridge in the previous May through the Middlesex fields beautiful with apple blossoms, I recall that I seemed to breathe not only their fragrance, but a tranquil spirit of the untroubled serenity and charm of rural life into which the storm of the war cloud could never break. The population was then far more homogeneous than now, almost entirely of Anglo-Saxon stock. As I read the history of Westford I find in the list of those who had from its beginning been active and influential in civil and military lines, the same familiar names which I found in 1857. I dare not repeat any of them, though dear to you and to me, lest I omit some. My residence here was just before the great upheaval of 1860 and 1861. But the awakening was already astir. The tranquillity of the previous half century was already rippling with the agitation of the popular conscience.

"Ah! those old anti-slavery days which, so swift is time, many of you here do not recall! Not even the lustre of the Revolutionary period bursting into national independence shone with such beauty of holiness, such moral effulgence, such ardor for the enfranchisement, not of a nation conscious of only mild subjection to laws in the making of which it did not have direct representation, but of a proletariat of poor, despised, enslaved fellow human beings. It is this which makes the anti-slavery crusade the era of our New England chivalry. Then its rue knight couched his lance, and its minstrel sang. It brought not peace, but a sword. It nerved the iron will of Garrison, who would not equivocate and would be heard. It rang from the lips of Phillips, that Puritan Apollo more beautiful than the son of Latona, and higher-bred, whose tongue was his lute and whose swift shaft was winged with the immortal fire of liberty. pointed the rhyme of Lowell and transformed him, a Boston Brahmin, into a Down East Bird of Freedom. It made Whittier the expression in verse of New England's intense and passionate impulse for freedom and for breaking all chains that bind the limb or mind of any brother man—Whittier, an unplumed knight in Quaker garb. It throbbed with magnetic fervor in the soul of Andrew. It inspired the pen of Mrs. Stowe. Electrified by her genius the great popular heart thrilled with veneration and sympathy for the meek and lowly Christian in bondage, Uncle Tom. Its heroism fired the student; and Harvard and her sisters and our dear old academy here were the mothers of heroes. Its passions culminated in the immortal hymn of Mrs. Howe and cried aloud:

" 'Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord.'

"But why name these and not also the dwellers in unnumbered homes of plain living and high thinking all over the land, under the shadows of Plymouth Rock, and among the farms and workshops of Middlesex as well as in the abodes of academic culture and commercial wealth. For the humblest were peers of the exaltation of their leaders, all kindled with equal enthusiasm for equal rights, all fired with the reformer's zeal, and later giving themselves and sons a sacrifice upon the altar of their faith on the field of battle and of blood. As Christ died to make men holy, so they died to make men free. All honor to them and to you their Veteran surviving comrades here today!

"It was indeed the era of the tumultuous upheaval of the moral sense. It was the burst of the thundercloud, and its lightnings fell and its rains descended and its floods poured, and the house built upon the sand of human slavery fell, and great was the fall thereof.

"For then came the election of Lincoln, the firing on Sumter, the call to arms, the war. The response of Westford was instantaneous. It was the 19th of April, 1775 over again. The flag staff was raised on the common and the flag of the Union challenged the breezes of union and liberty. On that day, 1861, the Sixth Regiment from this vicinity was dyeing the streets of Baltimore with its blood. The news of that memorable event came like an electric thrill. A day or two later Mr. John W. P. Abbot presided at a citizens' meeting in response to Lincoln's call for 75,000 men, and twenty-one residents of the town then and there signed the enlistment roll. It is said that the first to volunteer was William Metcalf, who made a patriotic speech and then made his patriotic word a still more patriotic deed. Of a spirited and leading nature, it was in keeping that he was chosen second lieutenant in Company C, of the 16th Regiment of the Massachusetts troops, in which he and the others then enlisted were enrolled. Of that rank, and soon promoted to higher, he saw eventful service in the terrible Peninsula campaign and the second battle of Bull Run, a typically gallant and devoted soldier, worthy of the straps that decorated his shoulders and that were riddled by a minie rifle ball at the latter battle.

"And now in filial remembrance of him and in veneration for his comrades from Westford, his son, Edwin D. Metcalf, gives this soldiers' monument. As his father was the one commissioned officer from Westford, the statue might have been of official rank, but the donor has disinterestedly preferred that it should represent the private, and thus do special honor to the two or three hundred soldiers enlisted from the Town. The gift is only one feature in a career of a worthy son of a worthy father. remember the boy's honest face and bright eyes and sturdy bearing when he sat a pupil under me at the academy. I have since followed with gratification, as you have also done, his onward and upward course, plucking the flower of honor and success out of the nettle of adversity, industrious, efficient, honest, brave, with a genius for large enterprise, helping his mother to maintain the home while the father was at the battlefront, engaging in business, winning fortune by his own unaided exertions, mayor and legislative representative from the city of Springfield, senator from Hampden county, colonel on the staff of Governor Robinson, vice-president of a national bank, and now at the head of a very large manufacturing establishment in New York state, which have brought him prosperity and enabled him to make this gift and effect this happy occasion.

"Ah! how full his heart must be today. The father's memory! The memory of him who, remembering his own boyhood, determined that ours should lack no help that he could give it; who stood to our youth, the soul of honor and manliness; who led us by the hand; who taught us our first lessons; whose heart, as now so well we know, yearned towards us with so much hope and pride and longing; the greeting welcome of whose face and the brooding of whose watchful care come back to us in dreams; and whom death even takes not from us but only the more clearly reveals to us his devotion and anxiety for our repute and welfare! We each of us erect to our father's memory our monument, though not like this. With most of us it is a modest headstone or the green turf over which we bend with moistened eyes and grateful hearts. But we can all share in the feelings that have given birth to this impressive memorial, and join in a tribute of honor alike to him whom it commemorates and to him who has set it here. Henceforth the names of William and Edwin D. Metcalf, father and son, will be joined as household words in Westford, where the father had his home and where the son spent his boyhood, to the scene of which his heart turns again in his later years with lively and grateful affection.

"But he would not forgive me if I here and now forgot that this occasion is a memorial not to one of its Westford soldiers of the Union War, but to them all. Veterans, into the struggle for the nation's integrity and life you put your youth, your fortunes, your sacred honor and your lives. At that cost victory was won, union preserved, slavery abolished and our country put upon a new and marvelous growth and expansion in territory, in industrial development, in wealth more fabulous than that of the grottoes of oriental magic, in more widely diffused education and knowledge, and in the whole range of the world's civilization and humanity. Your service and sacrifice are a glorious memory now; they were a hard, sharp, exacting though inspiring reality then. As I think of the brilliant growth of the Republic it is yet a pathetic reflection that with you, survivors of the Grand Army of the Republic who saved it and gave it this wondrous development, the reverse of the picture is true. The ardor and vigor of youth have gone, the almond tree flourishes, and the grasshopper is beginning to be a burden; the silver cord is lax, and the pitcher must needs be very carefully handled lest it be broken at the fountain. But that is true only of the framework.

mortal spirit, which inspired you and your comrades who sleep under the turf which you so tenderly decorate today, lives in the eternal youth and sunshine of historic heroism and glory.

"Not that the period of our Civil War was without its shadows. At the court there were divided councils and weak and faithless servants. In the camp were blunders and incompetency and mean jealousies and honey-combing frictions and lack of loyal co-operation in times of urgent need. Battles were lost by officers unequal to command. Unwarranted slaughters followed the mistakes of a campaign. And there were personal faults. Desertion, drunkenness at the top and at the bottom, cowardice, sinister intrigues have been the incident of all wars, and in our own they were the shadows on the brilliantly contrasted bright record of the great body of our patriots who fought the good fight and were loyal to the high standards of the soldier and the gentleman. Owing to the sudden enormous inflation of all expenditures and employments of every sort and of the temptations that follow these, there probably has never been a time in our history when, side by side with the magnificent contributions of the people, the patriotic enlistment of chivalrous youth, the holy work of Christian and sanitary commissions, the never-to-be-forgotten service of women as nurses in the field or with devoted hearts and fingers at home, there was so much political wire pulling, so much plundering and spoils, so much dishonesty and fraud upon the government in contracts for its supplies, so much rot and stealing, as during our Civil War. But these, too, were the outcroppings of the temptations of the hour and not the expression of the general spirit which animated the heart of the people. There are some chemical tablets which, dissolved in clear water, make a cloudy mass; but a little later they settle out of sight and the water is pellucid as crystal. So at this later date we wisely and well point these our children of a younger generation to those radiant features of the Civil War which alone survive, to the pure gold and not to the dross, and to the heroisms which still live and of which you are the surviving exponents and which found some of their best examples in the rank and file represented here today. Many a private had capacity for high command. Out of that murky cloud, which has faded into the dim background, stand out clear and distinct, brighter and more glorious with advancing time, the pure white figures of patriotism, of loyal service, of generous sacrifice, of ministering angels, of tender compassion, and of heroic champions of freedom and union, whether wearing the officer's shoulder strap or the private's blouse. In what a halo of immortality is framed the glorified face of Abraham Lincoln!

"Let us also take heart in the assurance that so it will be with the clouds and storms of today. They will demand the exercise of all our courage, patriotism and good sense. There must be the unflinching and generous contribution of these to the testing problems that are upon us. In the years from '61 to '65 it seemed as if the only questions affecting the future welfare and destiny of the country were the engrossing questions of that time,—union, freedom, equal rights. Slavery abolished and the union restored, what then was there to cause anxiety, what other problem to solve, what else to do but eat, drink and be merry and bask in the sunshine of tranquillity? And yet it was only the opening into new arenas of conflict, or rather it was one more step in that unceasing conflict of contending forces which is only another name for human progress. There has been no year since your service in the field when the battle has not been on, not of shot and shell but of the clashing activities of peace—the struggle of clashing interests, out of the very selfishness of which, however, springs that human endeavor which in the long run works, though at the time the mills grind hard and harsh, the ultimate steady, average betterment of all.

"This is civilization. This is the world's march onward and upward. It is not the immediate event, striking and historic as that may be. It is the steadily culminating march of the human soul towards better things, of which the event is only the expression. It is the steady, ceaseless widening of the thoughts of men with the process of the suns. Glorious as were Gettysburg and Appomattox, the great glory was that we had reached that degree of the widening of our thoughts, that point in moral conviction and devotion in which those great victories were only the incident of the greater moral victories of freedom over slavery, of right over wrong-victories just as much for our Southern brethren as for ourselves. So today each sore and its exposure however mortifying and disheartening in itself, each financial dishonesty, each corrupt prostitution of the trust of office or of property, taken in connection with the scrutiny and attack that unearth it, with the outraged public sentiment that pursues it, and with the reform that follows it, is a step forward. the problem you solved was not the final one, so the problems which we are now working out are only those of the immediate day. We solve them; we discover and correct the evil; we reform the method in this or that department. But tomorrow and so long as human nature is human nature the plagues of Egypt will be always with us, and there is no safety but in eternal vigilance, eternal patriotism, eternal service and sacrifice. is civilization; that is human progress. Let the young men of the generation of today fight the good fight for righteousness, which is now calling them to battle, as you in your day fought the good fight for union and freedom."

ADDRESS BY MR. HAMLIN.

Hon. Charles S. Hamlin of Boston, former assistant secretary of the U. S. treasury, and a director of the Westford Academy, was the last speaker. In the course of a brief but spirited address he said: "Almost every summer of my life for twenty-one years was spent in this Town, and the memory of them is very dear. I remember the swimming pool and the fishing in Stony Brook; the good old games of baseball; and singing in the church choir. There were many interesting men here in those days. I remember so well the letters I used to write here to my grand-mother; and I still have one of them in which I promised to drive the cows for her if she would only let me visit her for the summer. I had a princely allowance then of thirty-five cents a week, and my first financial contract was an agreement by which I paid fifteen cents to Henry Hutchins to drive the cows for me that year. How well I remember the railroad in those days. A ticket to Boston was then an affair a yard long, and the conductor was a kindly man who once stopped the train because a little girl had injured her finger. Troop F Cavalry in those days seemed to me the most inspiring body of mounted men in the whole world."

The exercises closed late in the day with the singing of "America" by the company.

Finance Committee Report.

To the Voters and Taxpayers of Westford:

The Finance Committee elected at the last Annual Meeting, having carefully considered the estimated appropriations asked for by the officers of the different departments, as necessary to carry on the work of the departments in a satisfactory manner, recommend, for each department, a sum which is, in their judgment, sufficient to carry out all requirements, and at the same time keep the tax rate at a point as near as possible to the rate of last year.

With this consideration, the Committee recommend the following appropriations to be acted upon by the Town, at the next Annual Meeting.

Report of the Committee in charge of the Whitney Playground

In accordance with the vote passed at the last Annual Town Meeting, Mrs. Whitney appointed Oscar R. Spalding and Edward Fisher two members of this committee, they in turn choosing Herbert V. Hildreth the third member.

The work of transforming the rough, wet and unsightly field into a playground was intrusted to Harvey W. Tarbell of Lowell, who will have succeeded in making of the premises when finished a recreation ground of which the citizens of Westford may well be proud.

The committee found as the work progressed that additional land was needed in order to provide sufficient room for a baseball field, upon this thing being brought to the attention of Donald M. Cameron, he offered to give sufficient land for this purpose and has since conveyed to the Town a tract in the rear of the Academy containing about three-fifths of an acre.

Oscar R. Spalding also donated a triangular parcel of land containing about fifteen hundred square feet and later William L. Woods contributed a strip at the southerly end of the playground containing about four thousand square feet which straightened the line of the premises and also added to the grove. The committee takes the opportunity in behalf of the Town to thank these men for the generous gifts by means of which the usefulness and efficiency of the playground has been greatly enlarged.

By reason of the acquisition of this additional land the cost of the work increased to a considerable extent, but the committee is very glad indeed to report that Mrs. Whitney has throughout encouraged them in providing everything that would make the grounds more attractive and serviceable regardless of expenses.

It was deemed advisable to have a stone-marker placed upon the grounds, and after some search Mr. Tarbell located a large boulder on the westward side of the Boston road, southerly of Mr. McDougal's house, which has been transferred to the playground, and upon which an appropriate inscription is to be cut. The grounds are provided with a baseball field, tennis court and playground apparatus, consisting of a row of swings, eight in number, a seesaw with six boards, and a giant swing and in addition several flower beds have been provided which are to be planted and maintained by the school children.

The shrubbery which it was thought best not to set out in the fall will be planted in the spring, at which time the work upon the grounds will be completed.

Mrs. Whitney very generously delivered to the committee in the fall her check for $5,000, which under the vote of the Town is designated as the Hiram Whitney Playground Fund, so that the same could be invested at once and thereby provide an income to be used in caring for the grounds during the present year. This fund has been invested as follows:

Two $1000 Bonds, American Telephone 4's, 1929 and interest	$1,832	44
One $1000 Bond, Nipe Bay 6's, 1914 and interest	1,031	83
Two $1000 Bonds, Spencer Gas Co. 5's and interest	2,028	33
	$4,892	60
Balance of check deposited in Lowell Institution for Savings	107	40
	$5,000	00

The committee has had occasion at various times to ask favors of and contributions from their fellow townsmen and is glad to report that in every instance the requests made have met with a prompt and generous response whereby their labors have been lessened and for which they extend to all those thus assisting, their sincere thanks.

Report of the School Board.

To the Citizens of the Town of Westford:-

The School Board herewith submits its annual report, together with the reports of the Superintendent of Schools, the Principal of the High School, Supervisor of Music, Supervisor of Drawing, Medical Inspector and Truant Officers.

Under the able supervision of Mr. Frank H. Hill, Superintendent of Schools, and with an excellent corps of teachers, we feel that the schools have made good progress during the past year. For a detailed account of the condition of the schools, we refer you to the Superintendent's report.

We wish to extend our thanks to Mrs. John C. Abbot, through whose generosity hot soup and cocoa are still furnished during the winter months, at the William E. Frost School. This kindness is greatly appreciated by the ninety or more children who take their luncheons at the school.

We can not let this opportunity pass by without expressing our gratitude in behalf of the children, for the fine and spacious playground so generously provided by one of our townswomen. Nothing connected with our schools will contribute more towards the future physical and moral development of our school children than the Whitney playground, and one has only to see the enthusiasm of the children in their play, to realize how much this gift is appreciated.

Superintendent's Report.

Gentlemen of the Committee:

I herewith submit my first annual report, it being the nineteenth in the series of such reports.

School progress is not always to be measured by radical changes in courses of study, text-books, etc.; nor by overturning previous policies of administration; nor by the introduction of new subjects or departments. One or all of those changes may be made, but only when the demand for them becomes insistent. or conditions in the schools become such that the schools would profit by such changes. My predecessor left me a course of study adapted to the needs of the pupils, and text-books which I have had no occasion to attempt to improve upon; the administration of the schools of Massachusetts is practically the same in all sections, crystallizing each year into greater uniformity and more definite proportions through the influence of the State Board of Education, Superintendents' and Teachers' Conventions, Normal Schools, Round Tables and Superintendents' Reports; while the introduction of new subjects into the smaller towns usually comes only after they have been thoroughly tested in the larger places. All these are but changes in outward conditions which react favorably upon the inner life of the school only when teacher, pupil and community are ready for them. The real work of the school is done in the quiet of the schoolroom, without ostentation; requiring, not volumes for its expression, but the simple phrase: Our Today has prepared us for a better Tomorrow.

WORKING FOR THOROUGHNESS.

That I might be better able to advise and assist the teachers in their work, and to bring to their attention some of the things I consider of importance in a pupil's equipment if the work is to be well done and quickly done, I have personally conducted ten-minute tests in grades three, four, five and six for proficiency in the fundamental processes in arithmetic, with the result that systematic work in the four operations is now being done in every school, orally, with quick, snappy, businesslike precision that will rob the problem work of later grades of many of its terrors. Later I tested the pupils of grades seven and eight in the vocabulary of mathematics, the terms peculiar to the subject and without a knowledge of which pupils express themselves with difficulty, and sent tabulated results to all the principals for their consideration. I shall extend this work to the other subjects of the curriculum. I believe that if a thing is worth teaching it is worth retaining, and shall expect to find that not alone is the work of a certain grade well done, but that the work of the previous grades is remembered and that their terms are constantly in use. Only in this way can the work of one grade be preserved and utilized in succeeding grades; and no teacher should blame another for what a pupil has forgotten, when five minutes each day devoted to systematic review of the work of previous years will go far toward correcting the condition.

KEEPING PUPILS AFTER SCHOOL.

The custom has been and now is prevalent in Massachusetts' towns and cities to keep pupils after school for periods varying from fifteen minutes to an hour and a half for one reason or another. At a recent teachers' meeting in Graniteville I suggested that it would be well to abolish this custom, and gave my reasons for my suggestion. Later I invited the teachers to express themselves in writing upon this subject, to which they responded with characteristic promptness. From the answers I find that tardiness, slovenly work in the schoolroom, the need of individual help, and naughtiness is one form or another are considered good reasons for keeping a pupil after school. There are, however, in my opinion, real objections to this custom, and I will briefly state them.

1. Tardiness, in more than 75 cases out of 100, is due to the fault of the mother. I eliminate the father, because he is usually away from the house at work when the child prepares for school, and because the teacher herself has got into the habit of addressing all communications concerning the pupil to the mother. Why punish the pupil for the parent's fault? The teacher, as the executive schoolroom officer, records the tardiness in her register as a matter of permanent record. She is justified in admonishing the pupil against a repetition of the tardiness inasmuch as the habit of being always late at an appointment is one of the meanest of habits, and one of the most insidious and menacing, as it invariably leads to carelessness and disregard of all obligations. But the mother, who is usually at fault, should have as keen an interest in her child's welfare as the teacher who deals with all pupils alike, not from personal motives or individual motives, but for the welfare of the community in which the child is later to be obsorbed with all his faults and virtues to be an influence for good or ill, to uplift or to pull down—yes, a keener interest, for it is the parents who are to be honored or disgraced by the child whose habits good or bad. they are encouraging, by deliberately teaching him to disrespect the school laws and incidentally the teacher's authority, or carelessly allowing him to have his own way, trusting to luck that it will not lead him into serious difficulties. In this connection I suggest that it is as wrong to send a child off to school a half-hour too early, in which case the opportunity to loiter and play and acquire the habit of saying "time enough" is given, as to give him scant time to get there before school opens. parent should allow for a few minutes more than sufficient time to reach the schoolhouse, thus furnishing the child from his earlier years a compelling motive to keep moving, furnishing him a purpose which he can accomplish without hurry or fear but which nevertheless admits of no interruption from any cause.

2. Slovenly Work in School, in at least 75 cases out of 100, may be traced directly or indirectly to some teacher, usually the present one. I have seen many schools where slovenly work has been done, entirely transformed in a single term by another teacher. I have seen the opposite result; a school of careful, precise workers degenerated into indifferent and slovenly drones.

It is another matter when the pupil is a mental or physical defective; but such a pupil should not be punished for what he has no power to correct. As for other children the correction of the habit of slovenly work lies within the teacher's power. For the fault of the teacher no pupil should be punished.

- 3. Occasional naughtiness can never be permanently corrected by keeping after school. Cases of incorrigibility should be dealt with more severely than by retaining after school, and then only to save the school from the bad influences of one or two pupils. A word of kindly caution, at the time any disordiliness occurs, usually suffices to bring the pupil into working attitude, all in the correct spirit. The teacher who begins keeping pupils after school usually finds more and more in the room after school hours as the year progresses. This is proof, to my mind, that the custom has no permanently good results.
- 4. Some pupils ask to stay after school for help. They early learn to depend upon others and never experience the strong exhilaration that comes from self-reliance. Later on they either lose interest altogether in the work or join the army of those who know how to "work" their teachers for good marks.
- The most serious objection, however, to keeping children after school is, that parents never know when to expect them The schools, standing in the relation of parents to the child from the time he leaves school until he arrives home, should recognize the possibility of danger, from a moral standpoint, in the child's dallying along over country roads with another child or other children. The parent should know, to a minute, almost, when to expect the child home. The child could not then offer the excuse, if he came home late, that the teacher kept him after school-for some indefinite time. I have known children to dally along and offer this excuse, falsely. opportunity for wrong doing is added the enormity of falsehood, and the child is soon on the downward road where it will be difficult to check him. The one moral function of the school that predominates over all others is to eliminate the opportunity to do wrong, and it should be held responsible for immoral acts only when it gives the opportunity for them.

I have been thus explicit in my presentation of this matter because I think that the parents as well as the committee and teachers should know how I feel concerning certain phases of school work and my reasons therefor. No hard and fast rules can be allowed to govern any case, however; each should be settled on its own merits and with all reasonableness, holding the ultimate good of the child in mind at all times.

PROMOTIONS.

Many pupils who are now not likely to be promoted or who will be promoted with a very low rating were recently reported to me by the teachers in response to my request for this information. I believe this information belongs to you, and insert the following table for this purpose, showing the distribution of these backward pupils through the grades:

Grade '	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
No.	29	5	1	14	5	6	6	2	4	1	2	1

More than one-third of the number reported, as you will see, are in grade one. I believe this is due to the fact that children enter as early as five years of age and are very irregular in attendance. At this age we cannot compel them to attend school and we cannot reasonably expect them to get out in severe weather. Besides, many are mentally so immature that the first year's work is accomplished with painful slowness and generally unsatisfactory results.

I recommend that the age of entrance into the schools be set at six years, exceptions being made only in the case of children whose sixth birthday shall occur before the end of the fall term of school.

In order to reduce the number of non-promotable pupils in June, I am sending to the parents of such pupils a special report showing the situation clearly and asking for their co-operation. I realize that about the only help the parents of first grade children who are likely not to be promoted can give is in the matter of regularity in attendance. But in the intermediate and higher grades the parents may assist very materially. They may see that a little home study is done, that no other interests are allowed to interfere with the school work, that the teacher is supported in every endeavor to help the child, and that the child attends regularly. One result of such special notice will be to save us from the charge that the parents have not known the situation and therefore could not prepare for it. With the hearty co-operation of the parents many of the higher grade pupils may yet get through with credit who might otherwise fail.

I rather favor a system of partial promotion, where a child advances as rapidly as he is able in such subjects as he understands readily, taking as much time for the difficult subjects as will assure their being done thoroughly. This would necessitate work in two rooms in some cases, but so few pupils in a building would be taking the work in this way that no inconvenience would result. Pupils would thus advance by subjects rather than by grades, and when certain required work was finished admission to the academy would be allowed. There would then not be the temptation to pass a pupil on before he were thoroughly prepared for promotion. For instance, relying upon a system of averages, a pupil might drag a failure in arithmetic into the next higher grade through the sheer force of high marks in all his other subjects. The proper thing for such a pupil to do is to go on in all subjects except arithmetic, and take that subject with the grade below.

Where a pupil is manifestly below grade it is a wrong to him, to teacher, superintendent and school committee to let him go on. He should repeat the work. To do otherwise is to menace the confidence of the community in the school. The community wish the standards of the schools to be kept up and the only way to keep high standards is to have them and adhere to them. A grammar school graduate, who is deficient in the common branches, advertises to the community the lowering of the standards to let him by. It might have been the last year of his school life, or the sixth or the fourth that the wrong against him was permitted—but the wrong against the school and against us, its executive officers, did not appear until his deficiencies advertised it. We who are directly responsible for the schools to the community must be very careful not to risk our professional reputations by letting the lazy and the deficient through.

A request for a double promotion after the completion of the work of grade four should be granted only after the most careful investigation. The pupil's age, health, past record, present application and even his future plans should be carefully considered. Important principles underlie the structure of each grade and in the logical sequence of the grades cannot be omitted without serious consequences unless in the case of an exceptionally strong, able child, mentally and physically. Grades two or four might be omitted by many pupils who have been faithful and efficient in grades one or three without serious loss of either material or power; but the average pupil requires all the grades in order to complete the work at the top satisfactorily.

THIRTY-EIGHT WEEKS FOR COMMON SCHOOLS.

The average length of the school year in this state is thirty-eight weeks. In an eight-year course we are trying to do, in 288 weeks, what other towns are doing in 304 weeks. When we consider that in many places the course is a nine year one we begin to appreciate our handicap, and to realize the urgent necessity for a longer school year. I recommend that the spring term close June 16th, instead of June 9th, as per the school calendar, and that, beginning September, 1911, the year be lengthened to thirty-eight weeks.

ONE SESSION FOR NABNASSET SCHOOL.

Inquiry reveals the fact that only four pupils at Nabnasset habitually go home to dinner. The hour and a quarter intermission at noon is filled with the disorderly, boisterous and sometimes malicious pranks common to school children not under immediate restraint. Should school open at 8.45 and close at 1.45, with an intermission of twenty minutes for lunch at noon, no time would be lost from regular school work, and the opportunity for mischief would be eliminated. I recommend that such a change be authorized.

AGE AND SCHOOLING CERTIFICATES.

Between November 1, 1909 and November 1, 1910, twentysix of these certificates have been issued in this Town—sixteen to children fourteen years old, and ten to children fifteen years old.

We are using a transfer card system containing all the information necessary to be known about the child during the time he is in school, on one side of which it is designed to have the school physician's report of the physical condition of the child each year, with the further certification, after the child has reached the fourteenth year, that he is physically able to work, or not able, as the case may be. Upon this report which is a part of the record of the school the superintendent or one appointed by him to issue the certificates may base his opinion as to whether or not it is best to issue them; except when illness has intervened between the last school record and the demand for a certificate, when a special examination should be required. I recommend that this record be made a part of the school physician's duties.

THRIFT.

One of the subjects authorized to be taught in the public schools (Acts of 1910) is "Thrift."

The child should be taught, by doing it, how difficult it is to earn a dollar; by saving it, how it may be made to grow; or, spending it, the relative merits of the different things it will purchase. The opportunity for earning it, a cent at a time perhaps, may be furnished by the home or the community; for saving it, by the institution of the School Savings Bank, either under the direction of the School Committee or some local organization; while instruction in the relative values of the things a child needs and the things he can get along without may be provided in the schools. And I herewith invite your attention to the matter of a School Savings Bank, ask you to investigate its merits, and if convinced of its value, authorize its introduction into your schools, either through the necessary expenditure of seven or eight dollars per year of the Town's money, or through some local organization which will cause the schools to be visited by an authorized agent at stated periods for the purpose of collecting the children's cents or nickles or dimes, as the case may be, without solicitation further than a reasonable explanation of the purpose of the visit from time to time. The money so collected will be deposited to the individual pupil's credit in some Savings Bank, and the child will be given stamps as evidence of the money brought in, until enough has been brought to entitle him to a bank book.

WESTFORD ACADEMY.

I ask you to carefully read Mr. D. E. Coggeshall's report of Westford Academy, as its Principal since September, 1910. I heartily commend the attitude he has taken in the several matters therein discussed. The only change that has been made in the curriculum is the introduction of an agricultural course; but this is an important change if we may accept the activity in educational circles and legislative halls looking toward agricultural education as evidence. Athletics in Westford Academy have advanced rapidly under Mr. Coggeshall's enthusiastic direction, and a school paper is surely coming to give expression to the intellectual and literary life of the school. With the present efficient corps of teachers the Academy should expand in new features and inwardly yield stronger work.

MUSIC AND DRAWING.

The purpose of music and drawing is not primarily to make artists or professionals of our children; and only a small proportion will ever use either for commercial purposes. They are to train ultimately to a better appreciation of the beautiful and ennobling in art and music, and in a practical way to a more universal demand for the beautiful in home surroundings and in the appearance of public grounds and highways. The schoolhouse should be the most attractive spot in the Town. A surrounding lawn of sufficient width to give the schoolhouse a charming setting, with walks bordered by shrubbery or small garden plots is an essential feature in any plan to improve the appearance of the building. The schools at Westford Centre are specially favored in this particular. If children come to be accustomed to the beautiful and the ennobling they seldom fail to find satisfaction in the best when they go out into the world, and for them the unlovely and the low have no attractions. They naturally, or rather habitually, gravitate toward the highest expressions of art, music, literature and character, in whatever situations of life they may find themselves and are quick to detect the true and the false, the real and the sham. The greater the interest the teachers take in these special departments of music and drawing, the better the results obtained. necessity much of the real hard work in these subjects must be done by the regular teachers, and it must be done regularly and faithfully and as laid out by the supervisors, or the best planned work will result in failure. In most cases the results obtained are most commendable. For a detailed report I refer you to the reports of the Supervisors of Music and Drawing which follow mine.

SCHOOL AND LIBRARY.

This year the plan of sending books to the school from the Public Library in large lots has been extended to Forge Village and arrangements have been made to include Graniteville. I wish publicly to express my appreciation of this great service in the interest of our school children. The influence of the Library upon the Town is greatly increased, for children who otherwise might see few books other than school books have now all the advantages of children more favorably situated or conditioned.

The actual circulation of library books in the schools is shown by the report of Miss Bunce, recently submitted:

William E. Frost School, Sept. to Feb. 1, 1911 Parkerville School, May to Feb. 1, 1911	424 509
Forge Village School, Nov. to Feb. 1, 1911	286 —— 1.219

The pupils of the Wm. E. Frost School living at Westford Centre are not included in this list, for they take books directly from the Library.

THE PALMER METHOD OF WRITING.

The introduction of the Palmer Method of Writing into the Wm. E. Frost School is proving a decided success, not only from the standpoint of increased skill in writing, but from the extremely interesting possibilities of team work under the spur of interest. There has been demonstrated, in this school, through this one subject, what may be reasonably attempted in all the subjects of the curriculum, and how it may be done.

CONCLUSION.

In conclusion, let me thank the teachers for their kindly spirit of co-operation, and you for the helpful attitude you have taken toward the schools and my work in them.

Respectfully submitted,

Westford, February 9, 1911.

FRANK H. HILL.

REPORT OF WESTFORD ACADEMY.

Mr. Frank H. Hill, Superintendent of Schools:

My dear Mr. Hill:—I hereby present the report of Westford Academy for 1910–11.

We have registered sixty pupils this year in Westford Academy. The attendance has averaged a little less than 97%. This is a good showing in comparison with the attendance of most Massachusetts High Schools, but it is much too low, when we consider that a majority of absent marks are unnecessary. The continued absences of many of the pupils of the Academy will very likely lead to non-promotions.

We are asking the parents of the Academy students to send us written excuses for absences, and we wish to thank the parents for co-operating with us in this matter.

The school is now run on a two course plan, an English course and a Latin course. The Latin course is designed for students who expect to take an academic course in college, while the English course is designed for students preparing for technical schools and commercial schools.

It is hoped that parents and citizens generally will visit the school and know by personal inspection what the pupils are doing. It would be a source of encouragement to both teachers and pupils.

The teachers of the Academy would like to have it understood more thoroughly than it seems to be at present, that students of this school are recommended for the diploma of the school according to a graded ranking system, and not by any system requiring a certain number of years of attendance.

The boys of the school have organized themselves for all athletic interests into an Academy Athletic Association. The association is well conducted by the boys, and exerts complete control over the various teams.

The lady teachers have organized a gymnasium class which is open to all the young ladies of the school. It is hoped that this will be continued.

Arrangements have been made with the publishers of The Westford Wardsman, to publish semi-monthly a school paper for the Academy, as a part of the regular issues of The Wardsman. The Alumni should help us to continue this paper, and to make it of real literary value.

The spirit of the school is good, and the writer has never taught in a school where as large a percentage of the pupils could be placed on their honor, as in this school.

If anything has been done this year to improve the condition of the Academy due credit should be given the lady teachers of the school. Miss Norris and Miss Lawrence have been untiring in their efforts for improvement.

Respectfully submitted,

DEXTER E. COGGESHALL, Principal.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF DRAWING.

Mr. F. H. Hill, Superintendent of Schools:

Dear Sir:

I herewith submit the report of the Supervisor of Drawing for the Town of Westford.

In the primary grades, the work has been the same as last year; the drawing of simple forms, to gain control of the hand, and make it do as the mind dictates. A child writes poorly, not because he does not know a good letter when he sees it, but because he cannot make his hand form a good letter. Therefore, control of the hand is necessary, and much time has been spent, in drawing straight lines in various positions, circles, ellipses, and ovals, to gain control of that hand. These various forms were reviewed, and a new interest obtained, by drawing various natural forms which involve them. The straight lines were reviewed in drawing the background and the border-lines for the above drawings. Other work has been done to stimulate the imagination, and teach the pupil to be resourceful.

In the intermediate and grammar grades, the study of color has been taken up; and, after working it out, applying it to a color scheme for dress and also for room furnishings. Some very good work was done along these lines.

Nature drawing was taken up, both for the accurate representation of the parts of the plant, and for the artistic disposition of the plant forms within a given space. More time was spent in the study of the common geometric solids. Various forms were developed in the various grades, after a study of pattern development, and then working-drawings were made, each pupil using his own model.

The work before Christmas was composed of various forms to be made of cardboard and of cover-paper. These forms were planned by the pupils and worked out by them. Each problem was to be original and of some practical value; this tends to strengthen and develop resourcefulness in the pupil.

Much time and energy has been spent in trying to overcome the natural tendency towards inaccuracy and carelessness. This is one of the greatest difficulties in the way of getting good results and I feel that a great deal has been done in the way of improvement along these lines.

In the various schools the work has gone ahead remarkably well; for which fact, much credit is due the Superintendent, the Committee, and the teachers.

Respectfully submitted,

January 24, 1911.

F. W. BRACKETT.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF MUSIC.

Mr. F. H. Hill, Superintendent of Schools:

Dear Sir:

In this my second report of the music department of the schools of Westford, I am glad to say I feel much encouraged by the gain we have made in the year past. We have been working for a better quality of tone and I am gratified with the result secured in most of the rooms. An old pedagogical saying I find very true, "As is the teacher, so is the class."

In the first grade care is taken to help the monotone voices. These children are seated in such a way during the music lesson that they may hear the pure tones of the other children and are taught to listen carefully before attempting to sing. There are very few voices that will not yield to this treatment during the first year. Much time is devoted to rote singing, simple exercises, and oral dictation, to insure purity of tone. In the second term a start is made in reading from the staff, which is developed in the second grade with exercises and scales. In this grade we have added a little book, "Individual Sight Singing Melodies," which is working very well and is much enjoyed by both teachers and pupils. It paves the way for the more difficult material which the regular books of the music course used in Westford contain. Right here I want to say, I should strongly recommend a series of charts being adopted, especially through the intermediate and upper grades. The material found in the books in use is not sufficient unless the school is fortunate enough to have grade teachers having a thorough musical education, and this is not often the case. My experience has been that the usual normal school training does not enable a teacher to properly illustrate at the board the different chromatic progressions, the different rhythms, etc., that every child must know before he can open a music book and read at sight, in time and tune the page he sees before him. It is not to be expected that every grade teacher should be able to do this. I should be glad to meet the teachers and help them, but scattered as the schools are, this is impossible. I have in mind a series of such charts where a teacher can turn to a certain page and feel she can show the class just the illustration she needs, correctly presented.

The music in the Academy progresses very slowly. Under the present arrangement we have but one music period a week. In the case of choirs, where there are trained musicians, no director thinks of having less than one rehearsal, which consumes at least two hours. If this is necessary for trained singers, how, then, can artistic results be expected from children in the Academy with the forty-minute allowance. What we need is to sing a little every day, or at least two or three times a week. However, most of the pupils have worked faithfully, and I feel they have done well in the time given.

I wish to thank the Superintendent for his co-operation, and the grade teachers for their assistance in advancing the work to the end we would all see.

Respectfully submitted,

February 4, 1911.

MARY B. RAYNES, Supervisor of Music.

REPORT OF MEDICAL INSPECTOR.

Gentlemen of the School Committee:

I respectfully submit the following report concerning the schools of Westford, for the year ending February 1, 1911.

I have visited the various schools and have made the usual general examination of all the pupils to determine their condition as to their fitness to attend school, as to any disease tending to interfere with their or others' school work. I have also made various calls to the different schools either at the call of the teacher, Superintendent or the teachers. During these inspections I examined six hundred pupils and found the general health and condition of the schools as a whole showing improvement. I found the following cases of contagious or infectious diseases:

Three cases of ringworm of the body.

Two cases of ringworm of the scalp.

Six cases of adenoids.

One case of chorea.

One case of Fuedrick's disease.

Twelve cases of scabies (itch).

Numerous cases of pediculosis capitis (head lice).

In two different parts of the Town cases of whooping cough appeared, but it was kept in control by prompt measures of inspection and supervision of the schools in the localities where it made its appearance.

The parents have co-operated with the school physician in this work with few exceptions, those neglecting to do so to the detriment of their children, both as to physical as well as to mental development.

Respectfully submitted,

NOTE.

All persons are respectfully requested to examine the foregoing reports of births, marriages and deaths, and report to the Town Clerk any errors or omissions that may be discerned therein, so that the records may be corrected. An error in the record, other than a mistake in copying a certificate or return, can be corrected only in accordance with a deposition under oath, made by one who was required by law to furnish the information for the original record or by three or more creditable persons having knowledge of the case. (See Revised Laws, Chapter 29, Sections 9 and 16.)

Births occurring late in the year are sometimes returned without the Christian name. In such cases parents should return the name to the Town Clerk as soon as selected, as incompleteness of the record may occasion trouble in the future.

The Town Clerk hereby gives notice that he is prepared to furnish parents, householders, physicians and midwives applying therefor with blanks for return of births, as required by law.

Tree Warden's Report.

The Tree Warden submits the following report:

During the past year, my work has consisted of thinning and trimming trees along the roadside, also cutting brush on the sides of the roads.

I would recommend that some of the white oaks along the roadside be removed, and that on the wood roads, the owner should try and leave standing any nice young tree instead of tall trees with only branches on top, as this would prevent the brush from growing freely.

H. L. NESMITH,

Tree Warden.

Library Report.

The Trustees of the J. V. Fletcher Public Library respectfully submit the following report for the year ending February 1, 1912.

The general work of the Library has been carried on much as usual during the past year. We are pleased to note an increase in the circulation over that of last year, thus showing a growing appreciation of the Library by our townspeople.

Among the books added during the year, the most noteworthy is the last revised edition of the Century Dictionary. This, consisting of twelve volumes of convenient size for handling, has been placed in the reading room in a separate bookcase made for the purpose by the Century Company.

Mr. Edward M. Raymond, whose active interest in our Library continues from year to year, has made several valuable gifts to the Library during the past year. Among these are a number of ornamental and interesting vases of Japanese and Chinese workmanship, as well as others of English and German manufacture. These vases add much in the way of decoration to the reading and conversation rooms.

The Trustees ask for the following appropriations, viz:

- 1. The unexpended balances as shown by the financial statement.
- 2. The sum of one thousand ($1,000.00) dollars to meet current expenses.
 - 3. The receipts from the dog licenses in 1912.

Report of Engineers of Fire Department.

The Board of Fire Engineers submit this report.

Fires have occurred as follows:

Feb. 21, 1911, the dwelling and store of Albert Reeves in Graniteville was partially burned, caused by a defective chimney. The A. R. Choate Hose Co., No. 2, did good work in fighting the fire and saving adjoining property.

June 4, 1911, the barn of Ferdinand Le Duc in Graniteville was burned. A total loss. Value $800. Insurance, $600. Supposed incendiary.

Sept. 16, 1911, the dwelling of John Anctil in the north part of the town was burned down. Total loss. Value $1,500. Insurance $1,100. Cause, a defective chimney.

Numerous chimney fires have occurred caused by accumulation of soot with no serious damage.

We called attention in last year's report in regard to defective chimneys and repeat it again this year; that they ought to be thoroughly examined occasionally. Many houses have what is called a blind attic; that is, there is no access to the chimney between the ceiling of a chamber and the roof.

A scuttle hole should be cut so as to give room for a person to pass through. The insurance companies require it, as many fires start from these inaccessible places. A hand hose reel has been purchased for each hose company and is an effective addition to their equipment.

The annual try-out for the Samuels Trophy was held at Forge Village. After a spirited contest the Trophy was won by the A. R. Choate Hose Co., No 2, of Graniteville. The Judges were officers of the Lowell Fire Department, whose services this department much appreciate as well as their many suggestions and help in years past.

Owing to the very dry summer, the members of the department have worked in unison with the Forest Warden in helping to subdue the numerous forest fires that have occurred. We would recommend that the Town raise and appropriate four hundred ($400) dollars.

SHERMAN H. FLETCHER, Chief, JOHN EDWARDS, Clerk, ALBERT R. CHOATE.

CHARLES O. PRESCOTT,

Treasurer.

MIDDLESEX, SS.

Westford, Mass., February 17, 1912.

Then personally appeared Charles O. Prescott and made oath that the above is a true statement of the cost of construction of the Westford Water Supply System to January 1, 1912, and of the receipts and expenditures of the Westford Water Company from January 1, 1911 to January 1, 1912, before me.

JOHN M. FLETCHER, Notary Public.

Report of Commissioners of Public Burial Grounds.

The Commissioners present the following report:

The several Cemeteries have received the usual care—but the same condition of drought has existed during the summer, as has prevailed the last three years, making it impossible to keep the lots looking fresh and green, as they otherwise would had there been plenty of rain.

The Perpetual Care Funds show an increase, six having been added since our last report.

The Commissioners would respectfully recommend that the sum of $100 be raised and appropriated for the care and improvement of the Cemeteries the coming year.

Finance Committee Report.

To the Voters and Taxpayers of Westford:

The Finance Committee elected at the March meeting, 1911, have conferred with the officers of the Town representing the different departments, and after carefully considering the amounts asked for to carry on the work of each department in a satisfactory manner, recommend a sum for each which, in their opinion, will be sufficient to meet all necessary requirements and keep the rate of taxation as low as possible.

The Committee recommend the following sums to be acted upon by the Town at the Annual Meeting.

Report of the Committee in Charge of the Whitney Playground.

The work of completing the playground was taken up in the spring, and with the planting of the trees and shrubbery, has now been finished.

Through the further generosity of Mrs. Whitney, and upon her own suggestion, nine large concrete settees, which add materially both to the usefulness and beauty of the field, have been placed thereon, and also twelve movable settees supplied.

There has also been installed a concrete drinking fountain, which has already proven that the playground would not have been complete without it.

Your committee, after giving the matter consideration, and consulting with the teachers, decided that the most appropriate manner in which to dedicate the grounds would be through exercises participated in by the school children, and Saturday, May twenty-seventh, the following exercises were held with that purpose.

PROGRAMME.

Report of the School Board.

To the Citizens of the Town of Westford:-

The School Board herewith submits its annual report, together with the reports of the Superintendent of Schools, the Principal of the High School, Supervisors of Music and Drawing, Medical Inspector and Truant Officers.

Owing to the insistent demands of the State Inspector of Buildings, it was found necessary to make a change in the sanitary arrangements at the Sargent School. As the request of the inspector was that water-closets should be installed in the basement, this made it necessary to construct another staircase and make an additional cesspool, together with other alterations.

The work was done during the summer vacation and we now have three good four-room buildings with up-to-date heating, ventilating and sanitary arrangements.

The Trustees' room in the Academy, being no longer used by the Trustees, has been given up to the School Committee, who have fitted up the room as an office for the Superintendent, and Mr. Hill may be found there by any who may wish to consult with him on every Tuesday afternoon, from two to four o'clock, during the time the schools are in session.

At the request of the State Board of Education, a new superintendency union has been formed during the past year, by which the Town of Carlisle has been added to the former union of the three towns of Acton, Littleton and Westford. This new arrangement has some disadvantages, but after considerable discussion with an agent of the state board, the joint committee of our former union finally decided that the present arrangement is the best that the state could make in order to provide supervision for the Town of Carlisle.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

Gentlemen of the Committee:

Following is my second report, it being the twentieth in the series of such annual reports.

A survey of the work accomplished in Westford schools during the year leads me to affirm that it has been, on the whole, very satisfactory. This is due largely to the fact that competent teachers have been employed and that few changes in the teaching force have been made. It is to be regretted that Miss Fisher was obliged to take a leave of absence on account of illness, but the work has been carried on with little friction by Miss Clara Smith, with the assistance of Miss Edith Forster. Miss Fisher's devotion to the William E. Frost School, her enthusiasm for the professional side of the work, and her energy in planning and carrying out large projects for the good of the school led to her breakdown. I take this opportunity to express my appreciation of her devotion to the school, my sympathy in her present illness, and my hope of a speedy recovery and return to the work that she loves. The vacancy caused by Miss Jantzen's resignation at Graniteville was filled by transferring Miss Stinson from Nabnasset, and the vacancy thus caused at Nabnasset was filled by the election of Miss Marietta O'Neil, a graduate of the Lowell Normal School and a teacher of a year's experience.

The work at Graniteville was strengthened by giving Miss Dunn grades one and two, thus allowing each teacher in the grades above to have no more than two grades. In Nabnasset the only pupil in grade five was transferred to the William E. Frost School, reducing the Nabnasset School to a four-grade school, an arrangement which secures much more efficient service there.

In Parkerville several causes have operated to reduce the efficiency of the school. Twice last year whooping cough attacked the school and this year chicken-pox broke into the attendance very seriously. This in itself would demoralize the best attempts to keep the school up to any standards set in other parts of the town; and when to this is added the fact that two teachers were required during the last school year, and three thus far this school year, the effect is not difficult to see. Parkerville is remote from railroad stations; in its normal condition it is a mixed school of eight grades, and teachers of experience and normal training are reluctant to go to such a school. At the present time it is almost impossible to secure such a teacher for this school, especially for any extended period. If the children of the grammar grades could be conveyed to the William E. Frost School, leaving the Parkerville School a primary school, the matter of securing a teacher would not be so difficult. There are now eleven pupils in the grades above the fifth, and next year the number will be the same. I hope the committee and the parents of the Parkerville pupils will give this problem careful consideration.

TEXT-BOOKS.

Many of the geography text-books were in a really dilapidated condition and a new edition of the Tarr & McMurry text was introduced in several grades, releasing some of the better books for use in corresponding grades in other parts of the town. It is not economy for children to use text-books that are dirty and dropping to pieces, for the constant handling of such books leads to carelessness toward other books; and the habit, thus acquired, is pernicious in its influence upon the children's attitude toward all forms of public property. In the final analysis in any feature of school activity it is the child's training for future trustworthiness and efficiency that engages our attention every moment of the time.

COURSE OF STUDY.

We are using the work accomplished in the several subjects last year as the basis of the work this year. It is pretty definitely understood by the teachers and is followed as closely as individual classes and pupils permit. The work is consecutive, hangs together well, and provides a series of steps by which a child may advance from position to position with ever widening intelligence and ever extending horizon. Each year ought to make more plain the interdependence of the several subjects and their necessity and adaptability to the actual life of the child. The busy wheels of the school mill must turn; the hum of the machinery of arithmetic drills, etc., must go on; but in the midst of apparent confusion the teacher must stand unconfused, knowing the material she is weaving and the purposes to which the finished product is to be put. It is indeed only the real teacher who can use a course of study as it should be used; that is, as a chart to guide her in preparing and sending out into various walks of life capable, self-confident, efficient, clean-minded and trustworthy young men and young women.

EXERCISES RECOMMENDED TO VITALIZE COURSE.

I shall enumerate a few of the things that may be worked into the course of study in order to work out such products:

- 1. Exercises to make children acquainted with the use of their several senses. Hearing, sight, touch, taste, smell, must be quickened, that children may recognize, locate, identify, compare, and finally approve and reject accurately.
- 2. Exercises to give children better control of the muscles of speech, of standing and sitting positions, of writing and simple manual work, of breathing; and of the relaxation of the muscles.
- 3. Exercises to give children control of the memory, the power of concentration, the ability to get the thought of the paragraph and to express that thought in their own words.
- 4. Exercises to teach the child the place he occupies in the world, his duties and his opportunities. In other words, his ethical and moral relations to the members of his family, the school, the social life of the community and the civic life of his town.

- 5. Patriotic exercises: Study of men and periods of national history with the animating and underlying moral motives involved.
 - 6. Exercises for developing responsibility and leadership.
- 7. Exercises in which recognition shall be given for real things, worth-while things, done in the home or anywhere outside the school.
- 8. Exercises leading to the desire to be thrifty and the way to accomplish the purposes of thrift.
 - 9. Exercises to develop an inquiring mind.
 - 10. Exercises to develop habits of personal cleanliness.

THE TEACHER'S PLACE IN THE COURSE.

When the teacher shall be filled with the spirit of these needs she will read into the course of study the truly vitalizing principles whose absence is so universally deplored and so justly. She will see that it is possible to learn many things from the efficient men and women of the community, and the school and home will co-operate to a degree heretofore thought impossible. There is no such thing as an elastic course of study; but children are truly elastic. Note the fact that a dozen children having the same teacher for years, the same text-books, the same school environment and following the same course of study will develop a dozen individualities and a dozen different degrees of proficiency and efficiency.

CHANGES THAT MAY BE EXPECTED.

That the course of study may be remodelled to give definite direction to the demand for industrial and vocational activities, not only in Westford but all over Massachusetts, seems to be an assured fact. But at this writing it is too early to say just what will be recommended along these lines. It is safe to say that nothing will be proposed to narrow a child's selection of such opportunities as may be suited to his natural abilities. In a way, it is the hand, and the intelligent use of it, that differentiates the human from other animals and has made possible the tremendous progress of the human race. The brain alone may conceive, but the hand must execute. It may be that the school has done its duty but partially toward the training of the hand. The school of the near future will demonstrate whether the school of the past has neglected an important duty.

DUTY OF PARENTS.

It is said that America means opportunity; but it is no less true that America is full of failures. Not to take the opportunity for self-improvement is to invite failure. school, in spite of its shortcomings, has, in the past, proven to be the surest road to success. Parents who are indifferent to their children's attendance at school are morally responsible if those children prove dull and disinterested pupils and later fail of promotion; and that they become indifferent citizens is, in general, true; while they who obey the law through fear of it. are scarcely less accountable to the community for acts of recklessness and violence that occasionally shock even our quietest and most peaceful towns. Parents share with school officials the responsibility of supervision to the extent that co-operation, cheerful and whole-souled, may reasonably be expected of them in the enforcement of all school laws.

SCHOOL SAVINGS BANKS.

It is a gratification to me to report that the W. C. T. U. has assumed the responsibility of collecting money from the pupils for deposit in a savings bank. The first collection was made February 8th in the William E. Frost School. I look to see the system a success in this school, and later to see it extended to the other schools of the town.

THE ACADEMY.

This institution is doing commendable work under the direction of Principal D. E. Coggeshall and his assistants, Misses Norris and Lawrence. A careful canvass of the parents of the pupils of this schoool and of the seventh and eighth grades has disclosed the fact that a business course would be welcomed in the school. It was thought that an agricultural department would be the proper department for the school, but there seems to be no demand for it. A business course of four years' length, with a strong cultural foundation is what we propose, and we are now working on such a course with the idea that everything will be in readiness to begin in September, 1912. A specially trained teacher will be necessary, for if this course is to be a success it must enable our pupils to compete successfully with the pupils of the best commercial schools hereabouts. To satisfy me, it must do more than prepare for clerkships; it must create a spirit of business keenness, accuracy and integrity that may be applicable to the demands of any vocation whatsoever. This will be a severe test for any proposed business course, and will insure its proper correlation with the other cultural courses of this institution.

CAUSE OF LEAVING SCHOOL.

From reports submitted to me thirty-one pupils left the Westford schools last year. Of these, seventeen left on account of a change of residence, three by reason of illness, two because of failure to do the work, two to attend private schools, and seven to go to work. In other words, less than 1½ percent of the pupils left school to go to work. It seems to be the intent in Westford to stay in school throughout the entire course, including the academy. This is in every way to be commended.

SPECIAL EXERCISE DAYS AND HOLIDAYS.

Teachers are expected to devote a reasonable amount of time in preparation for all patriotic exercises. Other Special Exercise periods are for study and explanations suitable to the occasion. Each teacher above grade four should devote a full hour each term to an investigation of local history, local interests and local improvement plans. The English division of the academy should visit, by consent of the owners, the mills located in town; the civil government class should attend town meeting; the normal school preparatory students should visit the Lowell Normal School; and the class in chemistry should inspect the Lowell Textile School. Once a year the seniors might arrange to attend a good Shakespeare play in Boston with one or more of the teachers. Other trips could profitably be taken, in groups, for the purpose of widening the outlook of boys and girls whose futures are to be spent in activities now either unknown or but dimly comprehended. Especially should those who take the business course in the academy be encouraged to study the business methods and the equipment of nearby industrial and commercial plants and make their reports a feature of the course.

MISCELLANEOUS.

In the spring, by courtesy of Gilchrist & Co. of Boston, several hundred catalpa trees were furnished the pupils of Westford free. Your Superintendent distributed these trees in season for planting Arbor Day. I express the hope that each Arbor Day may see the planting of a tree by every pupil in the public schools of Westford. It is a most unselfish act—the planting of a tree to furnish grateful shade to future generations.

At Forge Village the grounds used by the Cameron School have been shaped and leveled and seeded. In addition, the Abbot Worsted Company has put in a splendid base ball field back of the building, and installed swings, teeter-board, and a merry-go-round. The delight of the school children in using these pieces of apparatus expresses their appreciation, to which I add mine, of the generosity of the Abbot Worsted Company.

CONCLUSION.

I call your attention to tables appearing elsewhere in this report pertaining to matters that may better be summarized than described.

Thanking you for your helpfulness during the year, I ask for its continuance; and promise, for myself, as close attention to the needs of your schools as the time given to them will permit.

Respectfully submitted.

FRANK H. HILL.

Westford, Feb. 12, 1912.

Superintendent of Schools.

REPORT OF WESTFORD ACADEMY.

Mr. Frank H. Hill, Superintendent of Schools:

My dear Mr. Hill:—I hereby present the report of Westford Academy for 1911-12.

We have enrolled fifty-two pupils in Westford Academy this year. The attendance has averaged 92.5 percent. I think that you will agree with me that the attendance ought to be much better. Regular attendance is absolutely necessary if the best results are to be obtained, and young men and young women should be taught to realize the value of faithful attendance to duty.

The progress made in the scholastic activities of Westford Academy has been particularly good this year; due very largely, I think, to the fact that the school has retained all three of last year's teachers. At the beginning of the year the teachers and pupils understood the methods used by the present administration and no time was lost in getting into the condition to work. Again, the discipline of the school has been much better this year than last; due also, to the fact that there has been no change in the teaching force.

The ability of the pupils of the school to express themselves well before an audience has been noticeably lacking. With this in mind, it was thought wise to require work of each pupil in public speaking. The last period, Friday afternoons, is being devoted to rhetoricals. The work done has been fair. The debates have proved most satisfactory and beneficial.

In athletics the boys' efforts this year have been in base ball and basket ball only. A committee of young men appointed by the chairman of the Athletic Association met with a similar committee from Littleton High School and arranged for a joint Littleton and Westford Base Ball Team. This ought to give a fairly strong team and may prove to be a good solution of the difficulty found in all of the smaller high schools to get a base ball team that is worthy of the name. For basket ball a league has been formed. The league consists of an Academy Team, a Boy Scout Team, and a team made up of other young men of the town. The league promises to be a source of sport for the winter months.

The prospects for a change in the efforts of the academy are now good. A course in commercial work in all probability will be offered next year. This course will be a four-year course of thorough business training. Westford Academy will then, in my judgment, be much better fitted to the needs of the community which it serves.

When this change is made other slight changes ought to be made. The high school should be essentially a school of developing and training, where young men and women are to be taught the dignity of self-government, self-control and self-direction, and this cannot be done with short periods of recitations and a crowded curriculum. I believe a plan can be worked out that will include the commercial course and a college preparatory course that will rectify some slight mistakes that are now in use. This plan will, I believe, better meet the newer college requirements, and, at the same time, make the school better adapted to its environment. There is a wider difference in high schools today than existed a few years ago; for that high school is now counted the best which best serves the particular needs of its own locality.

The high school is designed for the many, for all the boys and girls who have completed the grammar school. When the high school draws to it all such pupils, and holds them and stimulates them to put forth their best efforts and helps them to find themselves—all of which is possible—then it fulfils its mission.

In closing this report, I desire to express my appreciation of the good work of the teachers and their loyalty and tireless labor for the good of the school and the pupils. Also, I wish to thank the Superintendent and School Committee for their co-operation and constant support.

Respectfully submitted,

DEXTER E. COGGESHALL, Principal.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF DRAWING.

Superintendent F. H. Hill:

Dear Sir:

I herewith submit the report for the Supervisor of Drawing for the Town of Westford, Mass.

During the past year time has been spent on Nature Study as a means of creating a love for the beauties of nature, and as a step towards design. This work has been followed through in designs which have been applied to various useful articles, planned and executed by the pupils themselves. In the application of the designs to the various articles, the principles of color harmony, taught in the fall term, were brought into play and used in the practical working out of the problem. The above was the burden of the work for the spring term of last year, following my last report.

For some unknown reason, teachers as a whole have come to look upon drawing as an easy subject; upon the drawing period as a time in which to make pretty things which will do to hang upon the wall at exhibition time, and which do not require a great amount of preparation. Teachers like the subject when it is of this character. The pupils like it because they get a result that it pleasing to them, easily and without any expenditure of mental energy. For this reason it is easy to teach, thereby pleasing the teacher. Such work as, tricks of folding, cutting, or washing in color upon a wet paper and then dabbing in other colors, before the first is dry, and letting the whole mix as fate may decide, has produced, when mounted upon an appropriate mat, many pretty results. But, what good are these results? Have they a market value? Has the pupil acquired a knowledge which will be of any practical use to him? Has the pupil even been required to think for himself? If we must have that kind of drawing in our schools, I for one say, "Out with it." The time might better be spent on some other study.

However, I believe that the subject has a very sound and practical educational value, when taught properly, and with the right point of view, or aim in mind. Drawing should and can be taught so as to stimulate the pupils to higher ideals, so as to create in the minds of the pupils a preference for all that is good in color and design, together with the power to discriminate understandingly, between that which is good and that which is not, in these things. This applies, not only to pictures and vases, but more practically to the furnishing of the home, with its carpets, rugs, draperies, pictures, and furniture; to the choice of colors, material, and design of an entire costume. This does not mean a desire to ape the rich, but instead, it means the wish and power to make the best of what one has. Good taste in these things is not necessarily costly. To continue; drawing should and can be taught so as to give the pupils skill of hand, or the power to make things. In the making of any one thing, if the work is properly taught, the pupils plan and reason out the construction of the object, thereby gaining the power to think and reason for themselves. In other words, they become resourceful.

What kind of employees do business men want in their employ? The kind that must be told just how and when to do a thing, and more than that, be told it each time it is done, or each time the problem is in the slightest degree different? or do they want the kind that is resourceful, and once understanding the principles governing the problem, or work, are able to go ahead on all problems that involve these or similar principles? To develop in the pupils the power to do these things, are some of the aims of the drawing course as planned for your schools, and if there is no pretty work to hang upon the wall at exhibition time, or to take home, we have done something at least for the future welfare of the pupils.

The establishing of a vocabulary of terms and forms, and the drawing of simple objects for control of the hand, are the first steps toward these aims, and are taken up in the lower grades. This, I believe, when properly done, forms the best possible foundation for the pupils' future work. Naturally, discipline of any kind is not particularly interesting for pupils of the age which we find in these grades. Since the subject as outlined for these grades, is no more interesting to the pupils than the reading, writing, or number work, it is just as hard to teach, and requires, on the part of the teacher, just as much and as careful preparation as any other subject, a most potent reason why teachers do not like drawing.

The work for the fall term in the lower grades has been, and will continue to be throughout the remainder of the school year, the establishing of a working vocabulary of terms and forms and gaining control of the hand.

In the intermediate grades the work becomes more difficult as the pupils' ability and knowledge advance. The vocabulary is gradually enlarged and the reasoning power increased, until, when the grammar grades are reached, the work is quite difficult and may involve many principles of color, design, representation, construction, and technique or the method of working out the problem. With the foregoing aims in mind, the pupils of the grammar grades have, besides other things, worked out problems in costume design, and interior decoration. The various color harmonies are taken up in the grades, suiting the difficulty of the problem to the acquired knowledge of the grade. All grades have done some construction work and will do more. In the upper grades, working drawings have been studied for an understanding of their use, value, and construction.

At the present time the subject is free-hand printing, and in connection with this the pupils will study the principles governing page design, or spacing. They will discriminate between good and poorly arranged advertisements and pages of printed matter. It is to be hoped that they will apply these principles of good spacing to all their written work, and in so doing, improve greatly the tone of the written work.

Following the work in printing will come the study of the various forms of perspective, according to the grade. This work, besides giving the pupils the power to represent various objects, and in doing so, gaining a new form of expression, offers an excellent opportunity for the training of the eye to judge distances and proportions. Here is where the early training in control of the hand shows, in proving the ability of the pupil to make the hand do what the mind dictates, i. e., draw a line of a certain length. For the spring term, nature study will be taken up for its bearing on design and decoration.

For the present school year I feel that I can justly say that some advance has been made. The advance has not been as strongly marked as I had wished, but it gives good grounds for expecting better work to follow.

In closing, I wish to thank all those who have helped to advance the work.

Respectfully submitted,

Jan. 17. 1912.

F. W. BRACKETT.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF MUSIC.

Mr. F. Hill, Superintendent of Schools:

Dear Sir:

I herewith submit my third music report for the Westford schools.

As a whole I am gratified with the gain we are making. In some rooms I presume I am the only one who can detect any improvement. Very often conditions change and then, of necessity, the room makes quite a stride ahead, or the reverse may be the case. These conditions are due to one of two causes. We may change a teacher, or it may be that all our best voices in one room leave by promotion or otherwise, and a great many of the poorer voices will arrive in one room, poor often through lack of proper training in the lower grades, good also thanks to proper training.

The supervisor can do nothing without a competent grade teacher, the importance of this is not always appreciated by the school committees or superintendent. She need not of necessity be a musician, but she must be capable of taking directions and following them. Sometimes a grade teacher cannot see far enough ahead to take in the supervisor's aim. Because of this, directions are omitted and failure to accomplish the work is wondered at, by the grade teacher only.

In two rooms where the work in music is the poorest, are examples of the two greatest faults in grade teachers. Lack of ear training and failure in demanding attention from the class, the one unavoidable, I cannot say the same for the other.

The training in music that the normal school graduate received has been very superficial, but I am glad to say that each year more is being done with this branch.

Music is nearly if not the only subject taught in the public schools in which a thorough training may not be had free of expense in this country. The question of founding such a school where a thorough musical training may be obtained without cost has been agitated. Until such a school is established, the greatest care should be exercised to give to the child the best within our power in one of the important subjects in the school curriculum of the present day.

In Westford as everywhere else we have schools that are doing splendid work in music, and others which are not satisfactory. On the whole I feel that we have made a gain this year in tone quality and the work of each grade is of a more advanced standard than last year.

I thank the superintendent for his co-operation in the work and the teachers who work so faithfully to accomplish the desired results.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY B. RAYNES,

Supervisor of Music.

REPORT OF MEDICAL INSPECTOR.

Gentlemen of the Committee:

I have the honor of submitting to you as Medical Inspector my annual report for the past year.

I have visited the several schools and have made one general examination of all the children, and various other examinations and inspections at either the notification of teacher, superintendent, or local committee, these various examinations making a total of about 450 single inspections.

During these inspections I have encountered:

Two cases of ringworm of scalp.

One case of ringworm of body.

Twelve cases of adenoids.

Two of chorea.

Eighteen of scabies.

Numerous cases of head-lice.

In this year we had an invasion of pertussis (whooping-cough), at two different intervals at the Parkerville school-house which necessitated considerable absence in that district.

The general physical and hygienic aspect of the pupils as a whole has shown an improvement from year to year. This year shows quite a favorable change for the better in the parents' co-operation with the school physician for the general advantage and welfare of all the school children.

Respectfully submitted,

DR. CYRIL A. BLANEY.

Note.

All persons are respectfully requested to examine the foregoing reports of births, marriages and deaths, and report to the Town Clerk any errors or omissions that may be discerned therein, so that the records may be corrected. An error in the record, other than a mistake in copying a certificate or return, can be corrected only in accordance with a deposition under oath, made by one who was required by law to furnish the information for the original record or by three or more creditable persons having knowledge of the case. (See Revised Laws, Chapter 29, Sections 9 and 16.)

Births occurring late in the year are sometimes returned without the Christian name. In such cases parents should return the name to the Town Clerk as soon as selected, as incompleteness of the record may occasion trouble in the future.

The Town Clerk hereby gives notice that he is prepared to furnish parents, householders, physicians and midwives applying therefor with blanks for return of births, as required by law.

Tree Warden's Report.

The Tree Warden submits the following report:

During the past year, my work has consisted of thinning and trimming trees along the roadside, also cutting brush on the sides of the roads.

I would recommend that some of the white oaks along the roadside be removed, and that on the wood roads, the owner should try and leave standing any nice young tree instead of tall trees with only branches on top, as this would prevent the brush from growing freely.

H. L. NESMITH,

Tree Warden.

CHARLES O. PRESCOTT,

Treasurer.

MIDDLESEX, SS.

WESTFORD, Mass., February 12, 1913.

Then personally appeared Charles O. Prescott and made oath that the above is a true statement of the cost of construction of the Westford Water Supply System to January 1, 1913, and of the receipts and expenditures of the Westford Water Company from January 1, 1912 to January 1, 1913, before me.

JOHN M. FLETCHER, Notary Public.

Report of the Committee in Charge of the Whitney Playground.

It was found in the spring that considerable damage had been occasioned to the grounds by reason of the loose earth which had not become sufficiently sodded, being washed, in several places, into the drains. For that reason, it was necessary to incur considerable expense in order to restore the premises to their former condition. This work was completed and the grounds were rolled, with the result that the same have been kept in a very satisfactory condition during the past season.

The arms on the giant stride had to be replaced, and it will be necessary, during the coming season, to make some changes in the shrubbery, and to supply the swings with new ropes.

Your committee is very much pleased to note an increased use of the grounds during the passed year, and the usefulness of the same seems to become more and more apparent as time goes on.

The investments made of the funds remain unchanged.

Library Report.

The Trustees of the J. V. Fletcher Public Library respectfully submit the following report for the year ending February 1, 1913.

There has been no especial change in the affairs of the Library during the past year.

As will be seen from the Librarian's report, the circulation remains about the same as in previous years. It is interesting, however, to note that the books taken from the children's department form more than one-third of the entire circulation.

Among the books added during the year, we would call attention to a number on farming, fruit culture and poultry raising.

Owing to the removal from Town of Mr. Dexter E. Coggeshall, during the past summer, a vacancy was caused in the Board of Trustees. At a joint meeting of the Selectmen and the Trustees, Mr. John P. Wright was chosen to fill this vacancy for the remainder of the year.

The Trustees ask for the following appropriations, viz:

- 1. The unexpended balances as shown by the financial statement.
- 2. The sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000) to meet current expenses.
 - 3. The receipts from the dog licenses in 1913.

JOHN P. WRIGHT,
CHARLES O. PRESCOTT, Secretary.

Report of Engineers of the Fire Department.

The Board of Fire Engineers submit this report.

At the first meeting of the Board of Engineers, held May 17, 1912, the Board organized as follows:

Edward M. Abbot, Chief.

John Edwards, Clerk.

Alonzo J. Sutherland was appointed Assistant Engineer. The following fires have occurred:

June 15, 1912. The dwelling and barn of William H. Pollock, Cold Spring Road, was totally destroyed with contents. The fire started at 11.45 p. m. from cause unknown. Value, $3,100. Insurance, $2,675.

July 6, 1912. House owned by Frank C. Hildreth, Concord Road, occupied by Mrs. T. H. Murray, was entirely destroyed. Value, $1,800. Insurance, $1,000. Cause unknown.

July 9, 1912. Chimney fire in Abbot Worsted Co.'s tenement, Forge Village. Occupied by Mike Matrick. No damage.

October 4, 1912. Chimney fire in tenement of Abbot Worsted Co.'s, Bradford St., Forge Village. No damage.

October 6, 1912. Fire started at 12.15 in double tenement, owned by Abbot Worsted Co. on Bridge Street, Graniteville, and occupied by George Leyland and a Polish family. This fire occurred as church was just ending. Choate Hose Co., No. 2, responded and did fine service. They were badly handicapped because the house was outside the water district and 900 feet away from a hydrant. Extra hose was secured from Abbot Worsted Co.'s Mill to fill out the required length. Value of building, $2,000. Insurance, $1,200. Damage, $850.

October 31, 1912. Barn, henhouse, tool house and lumber on shore of Long-Sought-For Pond, owned by Mrs. J. W. Brooks, was destroyed. House and nearby buildings were saved. Value of property destroyed, $1,600. Insurance, $700. Fire probably started from spontaneous combustion of corn stocks.

November 3, 1912. Fire starting in coat pocket at J. A. Healy's house. In putting this out Edward Riney's hands were badly burned and he was laid up for twenty-two days. He received compensation of $33 from the Massachusetts Firemen's Relief Association.

At this time the Engineers wish to call attention to the inadequate salaries and recompense of the Firemen.

In the case of the fire at the house occupied by George Leyland many members of the fire company were dressed in their best clothes and just coming from church. Six suits were wholly or partially ruined. The salary of $1.00 a year in addition to time for drills and fires at 25 cents per hour is not sufficient to allow a fair return for the time spent and the possible damage to clothing.

Your Engineers recommend that as a fair return each hose company shall consist of ten members who shall each receive $10 a year, except the steward who shall receive $25 a year. Each member who is not present at roll call at any monthly meeting, drill or fire shall be fined $1.00, which fine shall be payable into the Town Treasury and cannot be remitted except by action of the Engineers. The time for fires shall be paid for at the rate of 25 cents an hour as now.

During the summer months each company drills once a month which makes them familiar with the location of hydrants and use of equipment.

By paying these small salaries the Engineers feel that the Firemen would take more interest in their practice drills and as a result the Town would have a better organized and more efficient department.

The Engineers also recommend the installation of two new hydrants, one at Forge Village on Pine Street, near the five new houses recently built, and the second in Graniteville on Graniteville Road, near the two houses built by Thomas Monahan and Charles Brooks.

Few of our Firemen realize the good work done by the Massachusetts Firemen's Relief Association, and as all Firemen will receive compensation if wholly or partially injured at a fire or on the way to or from a fire, so all Firemen should feel it their duty to join this Association. The cost of this is very nominal, being but $1.00 a year. Last year Edward Riney was badly burned on his hands and arms, at a fire, and received compensation of $33 for the twenty-two days that he was unable to work. Two of our companies do not show the membership in this Association that they should.

With three organized fire companies in our Town, that at Forge Village is the only one suitably housed. In Westford Centre a building which is fairly satisfactory is hired, but the Town could better afford the erection of a new building in a more central location.

However in Graniteville there is great need for a building where the entire equipment can be suitably housed instead of being in two or more places as at present.

The Town should own a suitable fire house centrally located in Graniteville where the equipment could be kept up as it should be.

Buildings outside the water district are not suitably protected. If there was a quick method of reaching these outside fires many might be quickly put out and others confined to one building instead of an entire group being destroyed.

Within a few years Westford will see the need of a double tank chemical engine mounted on a light automobile truck to protect farmers' property.

The Engineers recommend that the sum of $550 be appropriated for fire department purposes.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD M. ABBOT, Chief, JOHN EDWARDS, Clerk, ALBERT R. CHOATE,

Fire Engineers.

REPORT OF THE FOREST WARDEN.

A list of the Deputies appointed will be found in the first part of the Town Report under the heading, "Officers of the Town of Westford, 1912."

By reason of the great damage occasioned in the past by forest fires it seems desirable to call attention to the following provisions governing the setting of fires so that any person desiring to do so shall have a full knowledge of the limitations and penalties provided by law.

There were 170 permits issued for the setting of fires during the past year.

A list of persons with whom hand fire extinguishers have been placed and a list of the fires in town during the year are also submitted herewith

JOHN A. HEALY,

Westford, Mass., March 1, 1913.

Report of Commissioners of Public Burial Grounds.

The Commissioners of Public Burial Grounds for 1912 present the following report:

The usual care has been given the Fairview, Westlawn and Hillside Cemeteries, but we regret to say the Perpetual Care Fund has not increased during the past year, as much as formerly. Every lot placed under such care makes it more certain that the future condition of the cemetery containing such lot will continue to improve. Those lots for which no annual fee is paid for care, of necessity, do not add to the general good appearance of the cemetery, as the small sum appropriated by the Town is only enough for the general care of the grounds.

The expense this last year has increased, as, contrary to the prevailing condition of drought the past three years, the rain fell abundantly, causing the grass to grow very fast, so that the first part needed to be mowed again before the whole yard could be cared for.

The Commissioners would respectfully recommend that the sum of $150 be raised and appropriated for the care and improvement of the cemeteries the coming year.

Commissioners of Public Burial Grounds.

Finance Committee Report.

To the Voters and Taxpayers of Westford:

The Finance Committee elected at the Town Meeting of March 18, 1912, have conferred with the officers who are in charge of the different departments of the Town Government and have carefully considered the requests of each for appropriations to carry on the work of the coming year.

It is the general desire of our taxpayers that the rate of taxation be kept as low as possible, and with this idea in view the committee recommends for each request made a sum, which in their opinion, will be sufficient to meet all necessary requirements.

The committee recommends the following sums to be acted upon by the Town at the Annual Meeting:

T

Basing the valuation of the Town same as that of last year, namely, $2,148,492.00, the rate of taxation will be $15.61 per thousand, provided you raise the amount recommended.

The foregoing statement does not include any appropriation for the erection of a building at Graniteville for the use of the Fire Department.

The Board of Fire Engineers has advocated the need of a suitable building for housing the fire apparatus in Graniteville, and state that one can be built at an expense of about $1,500.00, same to be located on land which can be leased for a nominal figure. While the committee is convinced of the need of such a building, it does not at this time recommend the raising of the necessary sum for its erection. The matter is to be acted upon at the Town Meeting under Article No. 25, and if the above sum mentioned is raised, it will increase the rate of taxation by about seventy (70) cents per thousand, making the total rate $16.31.

The foregoing report we submit to you for your careful consideration.

To the Citizens of Westford:

We herewith submit the following report for 1912-1913:— During the past summer, some needed repairs were made on the exterior of the Parkerville School building, and the appearance of the interior was much improved by fresh paint and whitewash and the addition of new blackboards and curtains.

We would suggest that the Cameron, Sargent, and Nabnasset School buildings need painting, and it is hoped that at least two of these buildings can be painted during the coming year.

For a report of the condition of the schools, we refer you to the Superintendent's report. We call especial attention to his report of the Academy, together with that of Principal Roudenbush, and also to the printed course of study in the Academy. We feel that the new English-Business course may appeal to many who were not attracted by the Academic course.

It has been the desire of the School Committee for some time to make the Academy more accessible to pupils living in the outlying districts of the Town, and we expect during the coming year to provide transportation, wholly or in part, for these pupils.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

Gentlemen of the Committee:—

Following is my third report, it being the twenty-first in the series of such annual reports.

THE ACADEMY.

This school finished a very successful year with the graduation on June 28, 1912 of a splendid class of seven young women and four young men.

Then, in rapid succession, the three popular teachers resigned to go into other educational fields that seemed to offer greater opportunities. They had done a good work in the Academy, and though their work was not finished we can only rejoice in their good fortune, and wish them success in their new endeavors.

The opening in the fall was with three new teachers and a schedule of subjects somewhat different from that offered the previous year. These courses are printed elsewhere. The Academic is practically as it has been for several years and is designed to fit for college and normal school. Mr. Roudenbush and Miss Smith have this course well in hand. The English-Business is an experiment. It must conform to all the needs of the school so far as possible and as they arise, ever holding to its distinctive character. It is under the charge of an experienced and thoroughly competent teacher, whose grasp of the situation is exact and strong, so that the work goes on as though it had been established for years.

There is the same happy spirit in the school that has characterized it since my acquaintance with it. It is no infrequent thing to find groups of pupils working in a room without a teacher, silently and independently. In thus showing their respect for others they are laying the foundations of self-respect that in after years will mean fully as much to them as the contents of the volumes they are studying.

So many have passed through the door of the college into state and national prominence and usefulness that I feel very strongly the need of keeping before our boys and girls the possibilities that can come only by way of the college preparatory course. We must not lose sight of the old-fashioned ideals.

TRANSPORTATION.

Many pupils on the trolley front are unable to attend the Academy on account of the distance if they walk and the expense if they ride. These pupils need the work and need to feel the influence of the Academy to a degree equal to, if not greater than those whose homes are under the shadow of this institution. Open the door of the Academy wide to every boy and girl in Westford by providing free transportation to all. It will cost money, but it will be money well invested; for it will not only be an incentive of great value to Forge Village and Graniteville schools, but it will yearly attract more and more support to the highest institution of education in Town. I earnestly recommend that immediate steps be taken to accomplish this end.

LOWELL FREE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

I am glad to note that several pupils from various parts of Westford are attending the day and evening sessions of the Lowell Free Industrial School. This is partly at the expense of the State and partly at the Town's expense. There, opportunities are offered that Westford cannot possibly expect to give in its own schools. I am led to say, however, that, inasmuch as state and town provide these opportunities free of expense to pupils, they should attend regularly and for the full time, in order that the state and town, as well as themselves, may get full value for the money expended for tuition. Personally, too, I feel that the age limit at the state's and town's expense should be 21 years instead of 25 years.

PALMER METHOD OF WRITING.

A full year with this method has convinced me that it is well worth following closely. The results have not been uniformly good; but where the teachers have been alert and sympathetic the results have been surprisingly good. Teachers will be furnished charts for standardizing the work and grading it, and special efforts well be made to get more uniform results.

SEWING AND BASKETRY.

I hope to give elsewhere a full report of what has been done in these lines by the teachers having the work in charge. I am satisfied that the introduction of these courses was a move in the right direction.

SCHOOL SAVINGS.

I call your attention to the report of the Lowell Savings Bank on its collections in the Sargent, Cameron and William E. Frost Schools. It is one of the best things in my report. I hope the good work will go on until Nabnasset and Parkerville schools are included.

HOME GARDEN COMMITTEE.

Several pupils in Forge Village competed for prizes at the Chelmsford Fair last fall. Eva Mountain won a prize of $2 and Mildred Parrott a prize of 25 cents in this competition. The purpose is to quicken interest in vegetable and flower production, poultry raising, faneywork, cooking, etc. I recommend the appointment of a committee of three to have charge of this work, look after it while it is being carried on, provide transportation of articles to the hall and see that they are returned to the participants when requested. The exhibition last fall in Chelmsford Town Hall was a remarkable one. Pupils sending exhibits should be allowed a half day to attend the fair without loss of attendance.

TEACHERS' COURSES.

The Massachusetts State Agricultural College offers exceptionally strong correspondence courses to teachers at a nominal cost of books and stationery. Teachers should be required to take one of these courses each year, preferably, the first year, the course in gardening.

PROFESSIONAL WORK.

It is no more than reasonable to condition a teacher's employment upon a certain amount of professional work to be done during the year. I feel that this is coming in Massachusetts. The teachers who need this most are the teachers of our rural schools upon whom devolves all the work that in larger places is done by special supervisors. This means superior planning as well as prompt and energetic execution, and only those teachers broadly equipped with professional knowledge and spirit can respond efficiently to the many demands made upon them outside the requirements of the old-line subjects. I have this year furnished all teachers with weekly plan books, and have explained to them collectively and individually just what I hope to accomplish through these books. I wish them to record, in the briefest possible way, the progress of the grades through the books furnished in the several subjects; the collateral material used to enrich a lesson or a subject; new ideas and how they are worked out; every effort made to incorporate the requirements of the tentative course offered by the State Board of Education for the first six grades; and, finally, the specific exercises used to carry out the purposes outlined in my 1912 report under the heading, "Exercises recommended to vitalize Course." The least of the reasons for keeping this plan book I enumerated first above; but thus far it occupies the largest space. The growth of professional spirt will change this, and the plan book will record the evidence of the progression of the teacher instead of the progression of the pupil, merely.

CONCLUSION.

Forty per cent. of the teachers of the Town are new teachers in Westford, replacing teachers who have resigned since June 1912. Notwithstanding these changes, and in spite of the fact that whooping-cough has operated locally to keep down the attendance, the schools have shown progress. This is largely due to your cooperation and good will, for which I thank you.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK H. HILL,

Superintendent of Schools.

Westford, February 18, 1913.

REPORT OF WESTFORD ACADEMY.

Mr. F. H. Hill, Superintendent of Schools:

Dear Mr. Hill:—Following is the report of Westford Academy for the year 1912-13.

The total number of pupils enrolled at the Academy this year has been fifty-five, with an average enrollment of fifty-two. The average attendance has been forty-nine, or 94 per cent. Three boys and one girl have left school after coming more or less irregularly for varying periods of time. It is the policy of the school not to let a pupil leave without a protest and an endeavor to show him that it is for his interest to remain. Circumstances may compel some boys and girls to go to work, but the future career of none will be seriously impaired by an honest effort to win from the school whatever it has to offer in mental discipline and equipment.

Absence from school and tardiness, too, frequently interfere with the progress and consequent interest of pupils. Recognizing the fact that long distances and bad weather may account somewhat for lax attendance, we would none the less urge upon parent and pupil alike the necessity of prompt and constant attendance which is one great factor in success. If a pupil forms habits of careless attendance upon school he is very likely to be irresponsible outside. Even if he makes up the lessons missed, he has nevertheless lost a link in the day's work which the class recitation alone can furnish. We therefore, in particular, ask the parents to co-operate heartily toward helping us secure a much higher average of attendance. The absence of pupils from school not only affects the particular absentees, but has a demoralizing effect upon the whole school, especially one the size of ours.

Owing to the introduction of the new business course into the curriculum this year, without increasing the number of teachers, certain arrangements and adjustments of the program of recitations were necessary which we have not felt to be beneficial. We can report interest and progress under an efficient commercial teacher, but circumstances compel her to teach classes outside her special department which of course is not an ideal condition. The Superintendent has a plan of simplification and unification which will preserve the essential features of the classical, scientific, English, and business courses, and this plan will become operative another year.

The social activities of the school have found expression in dances, a Hallowee'n party, and a comedy, "The Elopement of Ellen," which was given Feb. 3rd, and called forth favorable comment though the financial return was small. To present a play with proper force and interest requires long and hard work on the part of everyone concerned. It calls for an exercise of wit, ingenuity, and perserverance and has its place in showing the public what its boys and girls can do.

An entertainment and lecture course was given under Academy auspices. Included in this course were a long and dramatic recital by Mr. Edward Brigham of New York; an illustrated lecture on the White Mountains by Principal N. C. Hamblin of Andover, Mass.; and a lecture by Principal H. S. Cowell of Cushing Academy, on the subject: "If I Were a Boy Again."

The expenses of these entertainments were over $75, and as they a little more than paid for themselves, they may be repeated another year. We would like to make such a course a regular feature of the activities of the school. This would be easy to do if we could acquire a fund to meet contingencies which always arise in these matters. We thank the public for the measure of support accorded our endeavors to present popular entertainments which shall be both interesting and profitable.

In athletics the boys have shown an interest in basket ball which deserved better success. With one exception they have played heavier teams against whom there was little chance of doing more than put up a plucky fight.

The time devoted last year to Rhetoricals has been continued this year: viz: the last period, Friday afternoons. The program is varied with recitations, readings, and debates, the object being to teach pupils to speak before an audience. We would like to have public prize-speaking contests become a feature of the Commencement exercises of the Academy, and if we could offer a money reward for skill and efficiency, we believe, the interest in this important department of school activity would increase.

We believe that one of the most valuable things for a pupil to learn in school is a taste for good reading. If he acquires nothing else but the habit of turning to the best there is in the great field of literature, he is laying the foundation of a liberal education which will be an increasing source of pleasure and satisfaction. As a guide toward this, we have referred the classes in English to a carefully chosen list of books of literary vent requiring pupils to read at least one book per month and report upon its contents in writing. We have hopes that persistent application of this work will accomplish the desired results.

The courses taken by the Academy pupils are as follows:

CLASSES	Academic Course	English-Business Course
Freshmen	5 pupils	11 pupils
Sophomores	5 "	9 "
Juniors	4 "	8 ".
Seniors	2 "	5 "

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF DRAWING.

Mr. Frank H. Hill, Superintendent of Schools:

Dear Sir:—I herewith submit the report of the Supervisor of Drawing for the Town of Westford, Mass.

I entered upon this work in September, 1912. All the schools except Parkerville and Nabnasset, which I visit once in two weeks, have been visited by me once a week. A half hour has been spent in each room where I take up the work with the pupils. Every other week the work is criticised by me, and the teachers receive any help they may need for the next week's work. The first part of the year's work has been the same as the previous year's work, but from now on a few changes will be made.

The primary grade's work has been more for training the muscles of the hand and arm, than for decorative drawing. The pupil must learn to make his hand work with his mind.

Freehand paper-cutting of different forms has been carried out for the first time in all the schools, and some classes have done some very nice work. This work teaches the pupil to observe the shapes of objects about him, in school, along the wayside, at home or any place he may be. Stories have been illustrated by paper-cuttings and mounted on cover paper.

Design work will be taken up the last of this month. An attempt will be made to make a tile design by cutting papers of two colors into squares, circles, etc., and arrange the figures to form a tile design.

The spring nature work will be done with the water-color brush and ink, or water-color representing the mass instead of detail.

The intermediate and grammar grades spent two weeks in the fall studying color and they applied the harmonizing colors to designs and fashion plates.

A knowledge of pleasing combinations of color is necessary, if we wish to make our homes attractive, or our school and garments pleasant to look upon.

Nature drawing has been taken up for the artistic arrangement of plant forms within a given space, and for accurate representation of the parts of plants.

Two weeks were spent in the study of geometric solids, developing various forms in the different grades. After a study of pattern developement working drawings were made of the model they developed.

Various shapes of boxes were made at Christmas time of white paper and tinted with water-color paints.

Freehand printing has been very successful this year; mottoes of various descriptions have been made, and book-marks and posters. This work is taken up to teach one to space well, design pages, and it will help a great deal in all their written work.

Object drawing and various perspective forms will follow printing. This work trains the eye to judge distances and proportions.

Nature work and color follow the object drawing, and then historic ornament will be studied for its decorative value in architecture and home furnishings.

A mechanical course has been taken up in the Academy. The pupils have been taught how to use the drawing kit, and have made some simple working drawings of a square pyramid cut by a horizontal, vertical and oblique plane. Freehand printing has been studied but has not been very successful. The work is done very slowly, and not as much interest is shown in the work as I would like to see.

Working drawings of various models will be taken up later and possibly a little freehand drawing and color work. Carelessness prevails in the class, but much time is being spent in trying to overcome this fault. I feel that from now on there will be an improvement in their work along that line.

I wish to thank all the teachers, the Superintendent and Committee for their kind support.

Respectfully submitted,

MARIAN C. TAYLOR.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF MUSIC.

Westford, Massachusetts.

Mr. F. H. Hill, Superintendent of Schools:

Dear Sir:

I herewith submit my report for the music department of the Westford schools.

I am glad to be able to report a gain in the work done by the grade schools this year. As a whole, the tone quality is much improved, which is of the first importance. In order to aid this, a portion of the time allotted to music is given to the practice of vocalizing, the importance of which is being realized by the teachers.

Each year our aim has little variation, but the methods of achieving the same must, of necessity, vary. The supervisor must always be working to improve the method, then assist the grade teachers in carrying it out. With the consent of the Superintendent, several changes in our method of presenting this important subject have been made, the results of which are very gratifying. Space will not permit of a detailed account of these changes, but our methods will gladly be shown to any interested visitors.

I cannot name the method we use, for after a careful study of several, I have picked from each what seems best suited to our needs. Let it not be understood, however, that we have found a cure-all for every woe in vocal instruction, far from it. Vocal instruction will remain as it ever has been, a most difficult subject to handle, and one in which the personality of the teacher is of utmost importance. As has been said, "good results may be had from any method in the hands of a good teacher."

It is unfortunate that the schools are so scattered as to make the holding of teachers' meetings for the study of some of the radical changes impracticable. The teachers labor at a disadvantage as does the supervisor. Every lesson should have a definite object, definitely planned. When vocal instruction is conducted in so light a way that the time spent upon it is looked upon as a recreation period, it is time wasted. When the instruction is presented in a clear, interesting manner, the mountains become mole-hills and the music period, without suffering, becomes recreation.

The four essentials of music instruction in the public schools are these:—conceptions of good music, voice training, sight singing, and musical interpretation. These go side by side and are the lines upon which we are working.

I feel the Westford teachers have made a gain this year in teaching this subject, and I wish to thank them for the interest they have shown in the changes we have made, and for their able assistance in carrying them out.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY B. RAYNES,

Supervisor of Music.

REPORT OF MEDICAL INSPECTOR.

Gentlemen of the School Committee:

I respectfully submit the following report concerning the schools of Westford for the year ending February 1, 1913.

I have visited all the schools and made general examinations to determine the fitness of each pupil to attend school. I have also made various examinations of the different schools at the call, either of the teacher, Superintendent, or one of the committee. At these inspections, I have examined over eight hundred pupils, and found the general health and condition of the schools, as a whole, showing an improvement over the previous year. There is, however, a chance for improvement, especially in the quick response of the parents in the treatment of the various disorders for which the children are necessarily sent out. A more willing co-operation on the part of the parents would have saved the children in several cases much time lost from their school work.

In this last year, the Sargent School was fumigated for a case of diphtheria, also the Cameron School for the same cause.

I should like to suggest to the School Committee, that they introduce throughout the schools, five or ten minute periods of calisthenics during the long sessions.

I hope, during the coming year, the parents will still keep a strict watch on their children, and after receiving the required notices of their afflictions from the School Physician, will act promptly in having them attended to, thus greatly helping the child and the school as a whole.

Respectfully submitted,

DR. C. A. BLANEY.

Academic Course:—College or Normal School preparatory requirements may be met by pupils who begin this course in season and who make judicious selections from the subjects offered. No time may be lost in selecting subjects, and only the most faithful work will avail. Catalogues of higher institutions should be at hand and there should be frequent conferences with the principal and assistant teachers, who will familiarize themselves with the ever shifting requirements of these institutions.

Combinations of classes will be effected wherever possible in order to reduce the number of daily recitations. Third and fourth year classes will be offered physics and chemistry on alternating years, for instance.

Music is required of all pupils throughout the course.

Note.

All persons are respectfully requested to examine the foregoing reports of births, marriages and deaths, and report to the Town Clerk any errors or omissions that may be discerned therein, so that the records may be corrected. An error in the record, other than a mistake in copying a certificate or return, can be corrected only in accordance with a deposition under oath, made by one who was required by law to furnish the information for the original record or by three or more creditable persons having knowledge of the case. (See Revised Laws, Chapter 29, Sections 9 and 16.)

Births occurring late in the year are sometimes returned without the Christian name. In such cases parents should return the name to the Town Clerk as soon as selected, as incompleteness of the record may occasion trouble in the future.

The Town Clerk hereby gives notice that he is prepared to furnish parents, householders, physicians and midwives applying therefor with blanks for return of births, as required by law.

Tree Warden's Report.

The Tree Warden submits the following report:

During the past year, my work has consisted of thinning and trimming trees along the roadside, also cutting brush on corners and curves of roads.

I would recommend that some of the white oaks along the roadside be removed, and that on the wood roads, the owner should try and leave standing any nice young tree instead of tall trees with only branches on top, as this would prevent the brush from growing freely.

H. L. NESMITH,

Tree Warden.

Board of Health.

To the citizens of Westford, we herewith submit the following report for the year ending February 28, 1914:

The Town has been fortunate in the past year in not having any very severe cases of contagious diseases. Measles seem to be the most prevalent. Owing to the negligence on the part of some people, several cases of Scarlet Fever were brought into town, which might have been avoided had due care been used. Some criticism has been made in regard to presumptuous people going into homes where a quarantine card was on. We believe it is the duty of every citizen to co-operate with the Board of Health in doing all they possibly can in helping to stamp out contagious diseases.

Number of contagious and infectious diseases for the year:

Then personally appeared Charles O. Prescott and made oath that the above is a true statement of the cost of construction of the Westford Water Supply System to January 1, 1914, and of the receipts and expenditures of the Westford Water Company from January 1, 1913 to January 1, 1914, before me.

Library Report.

The Trustees of the J. V. Fletcher Public Library respectfully submit the following report for the year ending February 1, 1914.

With the exception of some small changes the general work of the Library has been carried on as usual.

It will be seen by the Librarian's report that the circulation has increased about two thousand over last year.

The magazine list has been changed somewhat, as it was thought that the addition of some of the magazines might increase the circulation of this class of reading matter.

The library has been very fortunate in regard to the number of books presented during the year. Over seventy-five books have been given, all of them being current literature.

After a long term of faithful and efficient service as janitor of the library building, Mr. Ai Bicknell resigned on January 1st of the present year, and Mr. Chas. H. Pickering was engaged in his place.

The Trustees ask for the following appropriations, viz.:

- 1. The unexpended balances as shown by the financial statement.
- 2. The sum of twelve hundred dollars ($1,200) to meet current expenses.
 - 3. The receipts from the dog licenses in 1914.

The additional two hundred dollars ($200) is asked for at this time for the purpose of rearranging and remodeling the catalogue system. On account of the increase in circulation during the past few years, it seems almost necessary that this work should be done.

JULIAN A. CAMERON, CHARLES O. PRESCOTT, JOHN P. WRIGHT, Secretary.

We regret that it was necessary for us to run over our appropriation this year; an unexpectedly heavy crop of corn made it seem advisable to erect a new silo to store it in; the old one had never been large enough to hold sufficient ensilage to last through the winter. The appraisal of ensilage shows a gain in value of $284.00 over that of last year.

The net expense at the Town Farm this year was $709, and the number of inmates increased from three to five. The appraisal of the property at the Town Farm shows a gain in value of $670.35 over last year.

March 18, 1913. Fire started in the roof of shed belonging to J. A. & F. S. Haley, Broadway, Graniteville. The fire was set by passing locomotive. Damage, $5.00. Insured.

June 11, 1913. A severe fire occurred at 12.45 P. M., burning some $11,000 worth of lumber piled near Westford Depot belonging to Oscar R. Spalding, and also destroying considerable standing timber and sprout land.

June 16, 1913. Fire started at 5.50 P. M. in house of Lewellyn F. Gates at Parker Village, totally destroying the house and two barns. The fire was started by a child playing with matches. Value of buildings and contents destroyed, $6,100. Insurance carried, $2,800.

August 4, 1913. Fire started at 6.30 A. M. in closet of house occupied by Thomas Rafferty, owned by Mrs. Katherine Gagnon of Lowell, located on West Street, Graniteville. Amount of damage to house, $150; to contents, $200.

Sept. 19, 1913. Fire started in attic of house occupied by Oliver Byron, Forge Village. Damage done to building and contents, $175. Fully covered by insurance.

Oct. 6, 1913. Fire started at 12.20 A. M. in the ell of C. G. Sargent Sons Corporation boarding house on Broadway, Granite-ville. By very effective work the Choate Hose Co. confined the fire to the ell of the building, which was almost totally destroyed. Damage to building and contents, $1,150. Fully covered by insurance.

Nov. 12, 1913. A fire due to back firing in the carburetor partially destroyed the motor truck owned by Wm. E. Wright. The damage was $500. Fully covered by insurance.

At this time the Fire Engineers wish to call attention to the misuse of the telephone service in time of fire.

Under present conditions there is no quick method of ringing in a fire alarm in time of fire. It is necessary for the chief operator of the telephone exchange to call up many of the firemen and neighbors by telephone before the church bell is rung. The operator has in the past been greatly hindered by people calling up from idle curiosity to inquire the location and possible damage of the fire and holding the line for long periods for unnecessary gossip. This often prevents those acting under instruction from the fire engineers or forest warden getting Central to ask for additional assistance or prevents the Central operator, engineers or forest warden calling up other parties on these lines to require extra help. The rules of the telephone company give fire calls the right of way over all other calls and all women and girls who are by far the worst offenders should keep off the lines with unnecessary calls during a fire.

The engineers believe that a suitable alarm system should be installed. By having an electric whistle or siren located at Westford Centre which would be operated automatically from one box located at the telephone exchange, fire alarms could come in by telephone to the chief operator who would simply put a disk of the required district number on a peg in the alarm box and ring in the alarm as in the city. The whole town would then be notified. This in the case of a serious building or forest fire would mean a great saving in time.

As the life of fire hose is only about nine years under the best conditions, the fire engineers believe that a yearly sum should be appropriated to purchase fire hose to replace that worn out.

They therefore recommend that the town appropriate $270 to purchase 450 feet of new hose.

The fire engineers recommend that a new hydrant be installed at Forge Village opposite the Station to take care of any fires that may occur on the new street or at the Square.

During the year at a special town meeting, the Town voted to buy land and build a building suitable to house the Choate Hose Co. of Graniteville. This building has just been completed and makes a very satisfactory fire house centrally located.

The fire engineers ask that the sum of $600 be appropriated for fire department purposes.

JOHN EDWARDS, Clerk,
ALBERT R. CHOATE,

Fire Engineers.

REPORT OF THE FOREST WARDEN.

The Forest Warden submits the following report:

By order of the Selectmen, every extinguisher in the Town has been examined and recharged. I found them all in very good condition and left a supply of soda and acid whenever it was needed.

One hundred boxes were bought for acid and soda, being much easier to handle, making less breakage.

Being a dry summer the expense of watching the fire would be more than in average years.

There were 150 fire permits issued for setting fires the past year.

A list of persons with whom hand fire extinguishers have been placed, and a list of the fires are submitted herewith.

I would recommend that the appropriation for fire extinguishers for the coming year be the same as last year.

H. L. NESMITH,

Forest Warden.

Report of the Committee in Charge of the Whitney Playground.

Your committee are very glad to report that, in spite of the dry season of the past year, the grounds have been nevertheless maintained in a very attractive appearance and neither the grass nor the shrubbery seem to have suffered any severe damage by reason of the drought. This is occasioned in part by the fact that considerable time was expended in watering the same.

The arms of the Giant Stride have had to be again replaced, as well as the ropes on the swings, all of which gives evidence of the great amount of use made of these means of enjoyment.

The investment made of the funds remained unchanged, and the following is a statement of the receipts and expenditures:

HARWOOD L. WRIGHT,

Treasurer of Westford.

Auditor's Report.

Having made the usual examination of the accounts of the Town Officers for the year ending February 1, 1914, I beg to report that I have found the Cash Books and Ledgers correctly footed and proper vouchers on file for the payments.

Furthermore, I wish to suggest the following recommendations: That the Assessors when abating taxes, render a statement of same to the Tax Collector, as it is customary at the present time, and a duplicate statement to the Treasurer. Also when assessing additional taxes that they render to the Tax Collector, Treasurer and Auditor separate statements covering same.

I also think it advisable that any Town Officer in any department when rendering a bill (excepting tax bills), for which the Town is to receive money, should give a statement of same to the Treasurer and Auditor. An inquiry could then be made if payment is not received in due course.

These suggestions are offered merely in the interest of establishing a more satisfactory and businesslike check on the transactions of the Town.

I wish to thank the Officers for their hearty co-operation with me in making this audit.

I submit herewith a report, the result of my examinations, and a statement of the financial condition of the Town on February 1, 1914.

Report of Commissioners of Public Burial Grounds

The following report for 1913 is presented by the Commissioners of Public Burial Grounds:

Fairview, Westlawn and Hillside Cemeteries have received the usual care and we are pleased to say that five lots in Fairview, three in Westlawn, and one in Hillside Cemetery have been placed under the perpetual care of the Town, the sum of $650 being added to the Perpetual Care Fund, making the whole amount $6,595.25.

We very much regret to announce the resignation of Charles N. Richardson, who has so long given Fairview Cemetery most faithful care, and also regret to say that after many years of very efficient service in keeping the records of burials and collecting the money from residents and non-residents for yearly care of lots in Fairview, Mrs. Alma M. Richardson has also resigned. Fairview Cemetery, the coming year, will be under the care of D. L. Greig and son. Westlawn and Hillside Cemeteries will be cared for by W. H. H. Burbeck, who has had charge for several years.

The Commissioners would respectfully recommend that the sum of $150 be raised and appropriated for the care and improvement of the cemeteries the coming year.

GEORGE T. DAY, Chairman and Secretary, DAVID L. GREIG, JOHN A. HEALY, Commissioners of Public Burial Grounds.

Finance Committee Report.

Westford, Mass., February 28, 1914.

To the Voters and Taxpayers of Westford:

The Finance Committee, elected at the Annual Meeting held March 17, 1913, have conferred with the officers who are in charge of the different boards directing the affairs of the Town and have carefully considered the requests of each as to the amounts of money wanted for carrying on the work for the coming year.

They have also considered other articles which have been placed in the Annual Warrant and which ask for an appropriation of money.

The endeavor of the Committee has been to recommend such appropriations as in their judgment will be sufficient to meet all necessary requirements and still keep the rate of taxation as low as possible.

While the Town has paid off during the past year some of its indebtedness, it has been compelled to pay a considerably larger state tax and it has also lost a considerable sum in the way of corporation tax; therefore, in order to keep the tax rate within a figure desired, it has been found necessary to reduce some of the amounts asked for.

The Committee recommends the following sums to be acted upon by the Town at the Annual Meeting:

Art.	8	Public Library	3 1,000	00
6.6		Public Burial Grounds	150	00
	12	Roads and Bridges	4,000	00
4.6	13	Work on North St., Graniteville.	300	00

Poll	Ta	xes	1,350	00
					$12,094	00
	Am	ount to be raised			$35,826	00

With reference to Article 29, the installation of a Fire Alarm System; Article 38, Electric Lights at Town Farm railroad crossing, and Article 39, installation of electric lights in Town Farm buildings, your committee recommends that in each case they be left to some committee for further investigation as to definite plans and information together with costs, report of said committee to be made at the next Town Meeting.

If the Town should vote to raise the sum of $35,826.00, as recommended, the rate of taxation should be about $16.00, provided the valuation of the Town increases in the same ratio as in the past few years, and the corporation tax does not decrease further; also that the State and County tax does not increase. We would say, however, that in case of the State tax, it is quite probable this will be increased. If such be the case, the rate must necessarily be somewhat higher than the figure above mentioned.

It is recommended by the Committee that the Board of Assessors be more particular in ascertaining from the residents of the Town the shares of stock in Massachusetts Corporations held by them. Also make search for same at the State House. Then make a return to the State,—this to be done in order that the Town may receive all the corporation tax that is due it.

The foregoing report we submit to you for your careful consideration.

GEORGE T. DAY,
JULIAN A. CAMERON,
HERBERT V. HILDRETH,
WESLEY O. HAWKES,
ELBERT H. FLAGG,
Finance Committee.

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

TO THE CITIZENS OF WESTFORD:

We herewith submit the following report for 1913-1914:

In accordance with our suggestion last year, the Sargent and Nabnasset School buildings were painted, and the necessary repairs were made on the exterior and interior of the buildings during the past summer. We recommend that the Cameron School building be painted during the coming summer.

After due consideration it seemed best to the committee to provide transportation as far as possible, for those High School pupils who live in the outlying districts, during the winter term; that is, from December 1st to about the middle of March.

In order to comply with the requirements of the Teachers' Retirement Law, passed during the last session of the Legislature, it becomes necessary to change in some respects the contract made in 1905 between the Trustees of Westford Academy and the Town in regard to maintaining a High School. As this contract would expire next year, it seems best that a new contract, with the necessary changes, should be made this year in order that those teachers who desire may lose no time in joining the Retirement Association. We therefore recommend that the School Committee be authorized to enter into a new agreement with the Trustees of the Academy, in which agreement the above-mentioned changes may be made.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

GENTLEMEN OF THE COMMITTEE:

Following is my fourth report, it being the twenty-second in the series of such annual reports.

- 1. I shall endeavor to make this report of informational value, essentially, and to embody in it such recommendations as shall seem to me to be of immediate importance to the welfare of the schools.
- 2. I shall not take up the work of individual teachers in detail, and will say only that we are fortunate to retain so good a corps of teachers through periods of service long enough to make them of real value to us, and that I appreciate their cheerful and efficient handling of the unusual burdens I have placed upon them through the readjustment of the course of study since September of the present school year. The school day is short, the school week is short, and the school year is short, and there is much to be done. Our record has been one of trial, but we have tried together and have accomplished much, even if we have failed in part.

AIMS OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

Some of the purposes that have prodded the superintendent into activity this year are as follows:

1. To place in the hands of each teacher in the grades at more or less regular intervals definite instructions as to the work to be done and the manner of doing it. Also, to check up this work according to a definite plan and with considerable accuracy. He has sent out four such outlines to each grade below the seventh, and two to the seventh and eighth grades, since September. He has carefully checked the work twice. The result has been to put him in possession of definite information as to the progress of the work, and to stimulate the teacher to more painstaking efforts along the lines which the superintendent deems essential.

- 2. To bring about a balanced program wherein the moral, patriotic, physical, social, mental (intellectual and æsthetic) qualities of the children shall be developed in harmony with the highest modern aspirations. To this end memory gems, patriotic exercises, physical exercises, inspection for cleanliness, instruction in hygiene, picture study, directed outside reading, local history, study of the weather map, fire drills, etc., have been made an essential part of all the outlines.
- 3. To emphasize the essentials. Daily drills are required in the four fundamental processes in arithmetic, and to secure uniform thoroughness Thompson's Minimum Essentials have been provided for all the schools. Through the same medium drills in language fix the proper use of words and expressions so often mutilated by the children in school and out. Palmer Method drills in writing—sometimes twice a day to get correct position, penholding, and movement—are resulting in much permanent good and a definite advance in the skill of penmanship. Children are planning to send in their papers to the Palmer Company for correction with a view to getting a Palmer Method Certificate. When such a purpose becomes apparent the child is on the right road to skill and efficiency in penmanship.
- 4. To visit no school without a definite purpose—regarding inspection as incidental—relating to the work of the school or to some problem affecting its welfare. These purposes are too numerous to mention, too numerous to be classified, even. Only occasionally, I am happy to state, have they been required to settle differences between teachers and parents.
- 5. To know as much as possible about those departments of the schools not directly under his care. For instance, I have collected a few interesting and important facts from the barge drivers in the four towns under my supervision. From the ten drivers sending answers to my questions I have compiled the following:

Average cost per pupil for transportation $.75 Highest cost """ 1.00 Lowest cost """ 45 In answer to the estimated number of cases where pupils have been detained after school, thus delaying the barge or compelling pupils to walk, one reports that there have been 25 such cases, and the aggregate of all the other cases is 7.

The average distance from school to the point where the barges transport the pupils is $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles. Two take on children $\frac{1}{2}$ mile from the schoolhouse. Two report this distance as exceeding 3 miles.

The average time of the barges on the road after leaving the home of the most distant pupil is 53.5 minutes. The shortest time is 35 minutes, the longest 90 minutes.

- 6. To keep such records as may be necessary to enable him to do the work without waste of time and energy. In all well regulated offices sufficient records should be kept to enable the superintendent to answer almost any question relating to the schools and the pupils in them without delay. At the present time mine are too few and incomplete. An extension of this work is begun, whereby there shall be available the complete record of every pupil from the time he enters school until he is 21 years of age, showing the kind of work he does after leaving school, and, if possible, his compensation. Out of such a record as this might well grow a complete reorganization of the school system adapted to the needs of the community. Any reorganization not based on such information would be purely theoretical and futile.
- 7. To keep his correspondence up to date. I have received 91 communications from the State Board of Education, 54 from the Department of the Interior and public institutions of Massachusetts, besides uncounted letters from teachers, agencies, book and supply concerns, etc. Many of these communications have asked for information that has taken hours to collect, classify, and forward. I have written 1,023 letters in the performance of this work alone.
- 8. To know with some degree of accuracy what is being done in other school systems, through conventions, visitations, town reports, professional reading, etc. I have attended six conferences, or conventions, and visited three school systems since September.

9. To visit the schools often enough to keep in sympathetic touch with the progress of the work. In the school year ending February 1st, he has, for this purpose, visited:

Forge Village, a four-room building, 24 times. Graniteville, a four-room building, 26 times. The William E. Frost School, four rooms, 34 times. Westford Academy, three rooms, 11 times. Parkerville, a one-room building, 14 times. Nabnasset, a one-room building, 14 times. Carlisle Highlands, a three-room building, 17 times. South Acton, a four-room building, 31 times. West Acton, a three-room building, 31 times. Acton Center, a three-room building, 21 times.

The Acton High Achool, one room, 15 times.

This school was discontinued in June, 1913.

West Littleton, a two-room building, 39 times.

Littleton Town Hall, a one-room building, 20 times.

The Union (Littleton) School, three rooms, 30 times. The Littleton High School, a three-teacher school, 26 times.

The total number of visits to 40 teachers, 978.

Total cost of travelling, approximate, $115, distributed as follows:

Westford, $60; Carlisle, $25; Acton, $25; Littleton, $5.

The schools visited oftenest receive the shortest time per visit. In most schools a half hour visit has to suffice.

WESTFORD ACADEMY.

This school is administered in a businesslike and energetic manner by the same teachers as last year. The report of the principal, a reprint of the course of study, and the special tables of statistics I have collected and which appear elsewhere make it unnecessary for lengthy comment here concerning this school. The large number of recitation periods is necessitated in part by large classes which cannot recite in a single division. If a teacher could be employed for a portion of each day in addition to those already employed it would be greatly to the advantage of the school. I recommend that an effort be made to secure such a teacher and that the town be asked for an appropriation of $100 to bring about this result. I believe it would be possible to adjust the program beginning next September so that there would be no necessity for an extra teacher.

TEXT-BOOKS AND SUPPLIES.

The appropriation available for these items is inadequate. with the result that many text-books, especially readers, are now unfit for use. From time to time changing numbers in classes have compelled additions to the sets in use, and these have been furnished as far as possible by the purchase of new books, but too often by transferring the excess in one school to supply the deficiency in another. Many books have been thus used that were discarded as useless several years ago. In fact, last year all the available old books—that is, those not then in use but in fair condition—were placed in schools where they were needed, and no new books purchased until these were exhausted. But while it is clear that this is economy it is also clear that this process cannot be continued indefinitely. Below I am giving some figures relating to these items, compiled from the last printed report of the State Board of Education. I have selected for comparison the seven towns in the State in the same class with Westford in population. They are compared in population, valuation, average membership and per capita cost for books and supplies.

	Pop.	Val.	Per Capit Av. Mem. Boo	ta Cost for oks and Supplies
Barre	2,957	2,277,399	443	$4.32
Pepperell	2,953	2,309,486	502	2.24
Westport	2,928	2,162,925	384	1.31
Westford	2,851	2,073,405	423	1.59
Holbrook	2,816	1,495,564	499	2.39
Somerset	2,798	1,508,256	478	1.59
Ayer	2,797	2,227,483	468	2.01
Billerica	2,789	2,564,934	464	2.66
Average for	these eight	towns,		2.26

In view of the present condition of the books in Westford I feel, that, for one or two years, at least, the Town should raise and appropriate at least $200 more for text-books and supplies in order to place in the hands of all the pupils whole and wholesome books. For several years thereafter it would probably be found unnecessary to appropriate so large a sum yearly. The value of clean and whole books in the hands of children just learning to use books cannot be overestimated.

THE RELIEF OF PARKERVILLE.

I commend the action of the committee in providing for the transfer and transportation of the seventh and eighth grade pupils from Parkerville to the William E. Frost School. I believe the plan inaugurated for the winter term of the present year should be extended throughout the year. It speaks well for the Parkerville school that the pupils transferred fit readily into corresponding grades at the William E. Frost school.

CONCLUSION.

Not because it has become a formal custom to do so, but because the circumstances warrant it, I wish to close this report with my appreciation of your co-operation during the year.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK H. HILL,

Superintendent of Schools.

Westford, February 9, 1914.

REPORT OF WESTFORD ACADEMY!

MR. F. H. HILL,

Superintendent of Schools.

DEAR MR. HILL:

Following is the annual report of Westford Academy for 1913-14.

I have already informed you concerning our enrollment, attendance, etc., beginning with September, 1912, and as these figures are given under "Statistics for the School Year 1912–13," printed on another page of the town report, they need not be repeated here. However, it may be of interest to record that we had an enrollment of sixty in September, 1913, which from one cause or another has been reduced at the present writing (February 2, 1914) to fifty-three, twenty-seven boys, and twenty-six girls.

My report for 1912–13 was published a year ago this February, and there is nothing of particular consequence to mention between that time and the graduation exercises in June. The graduating class consisted of six girls and one boy. The latter's modesty, which kept him from publicly delivering his essay, was rewarded by the printing of the essay verbatim in the Lowell Courier-Citizen.

All the girl graduates took their parts very satisfactorily, and received special commendation for the clearness and distinctness with which they spoke.

It was a pleasure to have so many of the alumni present in a body at graduation and we hope they will consider that they have a standing invitation to march in with the school on like occasions. We were especially fortunate in having as our guest of honor, Hon. John D. Long, who spoke briefly, following the address of Rev. Lyman B. Weeks.

We have continued the plan of giving public entertainments, and this year have tried the scheme of popular amusements offered by the character artist and magician. Financially, at least, these entertainments have proved more successful than those given last year, and we hope in time to establish a permanent fund which may be used to meet deficiencies if a particular entertainment fails to pay for itself.

The Senior Class are planning to give a play entitled, "The Teaser," on the night of February 13th. The proceeds will be used toward defraying the expenses incident upon graduation. The class have also undertaken to sell the James Whitcomb Riley souvenir pins, and thus obtain recognition for the Academy among the schools throughout the country which are contributing toward a fund to erect a heroic statue in honor of the poet. This statue will be erected in Riley's birthplace, Greenfield, Indiana. Incidentally, by the sale of these pins, the class will receive an oil painting of the "Old Swimmin' Hole," and a bust of Riley, which will be placed in the Academy.

I think I can best inform the general public about the present courses of study, and our aims and standards, by here reprinting the subject matter of a leaflet published for distribution among the pupils. I would call particular attention to the fact that there are thirty-three periods per week for the ordinary class recitations. To show how crowded the teachers are in this program, the principal teaches thirty-one periods, Miss Hickey the same number, and Miss Smith thirty periods, besides added work in the science laboratory. Extra time is required for drilling pupils in rhetoricals.

The principal wishes to commend the faithful and conscientious work of his assistants who have uncomplainingly given of their time and strength to keep this heavy program going.

I think the English-Business Course is beyond the experimental stage, and I consider that it fills an important place in the program. The credit for the success of this course lies with Miss Hickey who has set high standards of work before her classes.

In so far as the time and energy of the teaching force allow, the Academy strives to meet the demands of the college, the normal school and the industrial world. It is a heavy task for a small school, but we are doing what we can to meet our obligations.

Following is the special information, to which reference was made, concerning courses of study, etc.

Period VII	1.02— 1.40 P. M.

NOTE. Of these periods, one each week is given to music and rhetoricals, making a total of thirty-three per week for the usual recitations. A pupil is expected to have sixteen full recitation periods per week exclusive of music and rhetoricals.

THE ACADEMIC COURSE.

The Academic Course is designed to prepare students for college or normal school, and to lay the foundation for a liberal culture in the arts and sciences.

THE ENGLISH-BUSINESS COURSE.

The English-Business Course is designed to prepare students for the more immediate demands of the vocational sort, and at the same time provide an element of cultural study to balance the strictly practical.

SCHOLARSHIP.

Scholarship records are kept in five grades indicated by the letters A, B, C, D, E. "A" indicates a rank from 90 to 100 per cent.; "B" from 80 to 89 per cent.; "C" from 70 to 79 per cent.; "D" from 50 to 69 per cent.; "E" any rank below 50 per cent. A final mark of "D" or "E" means failure. If the failure is in a required subject, the subject must be repeated; if in an elective, an equivalent subject may be substituted.

EXAMINATIONS.

Formal examinations are given at the end of each term. No pupil is excused from these examinations except Seniors, and then only in subjects with a grade of "B." Mid-term tests are given at the discretion of the teachers.

Tests or examinations looking toward college or normal school preparation, must, as a rule, attain a grade of "C."

In general, a pupil must attain a final grade of "B" in any given subject for recommendation to take the college or normal school entrance examinations. A final grade of "B" is required for the certificate privilege.

The term examinations count one-third, the daily work two-thirds, in final term averages. Mid-term tests are ranked at the teacher's discretion.

DIPLOMA.

To secure the diploma of the Academy a pupil must receive credit for sixty-eight points. Ordinarily this would mean an average of four subjects per year for four years exclusive of music, drawing and rhetoricals. There is nothing to prevent a pupil from taking more than the prescribed number of subjects, but sixty-eight points is the minimum requirement for diploma.

GRADUATION HONORS.

The Senior attaining the highest rank is the Valedictorian, the second rank the Salutatorian. These students take their proper parts at graduation. Other class parts such as historian, prophet, etc., are taken by those duly elected by the class. No student is eligible to first or second honors unless he has been a member of the class the two years next preceding graduation.

GRADING OF PUPILS.

Pupils who have completed eleven, seven, or three full subjects are classed respectively as fourth year, third year, and second year pupils. Those who have completed a less number for each year are classed respectively as third year, second year, and first year pupils.

RHETORICALS.

Rhetoricals are a required part of the school work and count one-half point each year, or two points in four years. Each pupil takes part in these exercises at least twice a term.

MUSIC AND DRAWING.

Satisfactory attention to Music and Drawing is rewarded by allowing two points for Music and one point for Drawing in a period of four years.

TYPEWRITING.

Typewriting, requiring no preparation outside the class-room, receives one-half credit in reckoning points.

ABSENCES.

Work lost through absence for any cause must be made up satisfactorily to the teachers, otherwise no credit is allowed.

SPECIAL COURSES.

When necessity demands special courses will be given in so far as it is possible to arrange them.

DEPORTMENT.

Satisfactory behavior is expected of all pupils who have attained high school grade, and only the pupil suffers who abuses the confidence reposed in him. No record is made of deportment unless it is unsatisfactory.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM C. ROUDENBUSH,

Principal Westford Academy.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF MUSIC.

Mr. F. H. Hill, Superintendent of Schools.

DEAR SIR:

I herewith submit my report for the music department of the Westford schools.

In my report for last year, I said that we were making a few changes in the method of presenting this subject. These changes have been worked out until they have become familiar and are moving along very satisfactorily.

The principal subject matter taught in the grades is as follows:

- Grade I—Rote Songs. Major Scale. Staff reading from check mark placed on any staff degree. Simple melody at board using Quarter and Half notes.
- Grade II—Review of first year's work. Rote singing. Oral and written dictation. More difficult interval drill. Dotted Half and Whole notes and Quarter rest in melody, classwise and individually.
- Grade III—Extension of the second year's work with the addition of the divided beat. In the spring term, locating the key note from a given key signature.
- Grade IV—The Normal Minor Scale. First step in chromatic progression, down a half step and back, up a half step and back without skips. The Dotted Quarter and Eighth note in melody. Compound Time Three Eighth notes, Quarter and Eighth, and Dotted Quarter as the beat units.

- Grade V—Harmonic Minor Scale. Second step in chromatic progression, from chromatic tone to remote scale tone, also with skip on both sides of chromatic tone. Four Sixteenth notes to the beat in melody. Two part singing, often begun in the fourth year. The Arithmetic of music. Naming Keys. Theory of Common Time.
- Grade VI—Melodic Minor Scale. More difficult chromatic progressions. Theory of Compound Time. Two and three part singing. Syncopation. Written work carrying out the principals taught in singing.
- Grades VII—VIII—Review and extensions of the previous years' work. In the Eighth grade the use of and reading from the F Clef.
- In the Academy time permits only chorus work. We are just establishing a glee club here which I hope will be of profit and pleasure to the members and friends. Time for this we are obliged to take out of school hours.

I wish to thank the teachers and superintendent for their interest and assistance, for upon their interest largely depends the interest of the children.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY B. RAYNES,

Supervisor of Music.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF DRAWING.

Mr. F. H. HILL, Superintendent of Schools.

DEAR SIR:

I herewith submit my second report of the supervisor of drawing for the Town of Westford.

In the primary grades the work has been very much like that of last year, but the work has been very much better. Very simple forms were taught the first of the year to gain control of the hand. These forms were used in borders for different purposes.

Paper folding and cutting has been done in all the schools with very good results. Booklets will be made in the spring including paper cut forms which tell stories. In this work the children learn the shapes of forms about them and are taught to do accurate, neat work. A little paper construction work has been done in Westford Centre with good success. The color work in the whole district is very much better than last year. A measured system of color has been taught called the "Munsell Color System," which teaches the children to name colors clearly, arrange colors by three qualities, and to group them so as to produce harmony.

The work in the intermediate grades has not gained as much as I would like to have it, but there is interest in the work.

Nature work was taken up in the fall with pencil and color, object drawing from solids, flower pots, bottles, vases and fruit forms, compass practice for accuracy, working drawings of solids, paper construction, and development, designing with color, center work and lettering. The aim in this work is to train children to observe form, be accurate, neat, and form mental pictures of objects about them.

The work in the grammar grades has been successful in nearly every subject taught this year. At Forge Village especially, the work is very good. All the classes show an interest in the work, and are overcoming the inaccuracy shown in the work last year.

Nature work, with brush and pencil, was mastered very well in the fall; object drawing from models in the schoolroom has been done well throughout the year. Other subjects taken up were illustrative drawing, telling some experience the child had during vacation, historic ornaments in the form of tiles and borders, still-life grouping of objects, compass practice to teach accuracy and neatness, working drawings of solids and development, paper construction of Christmas boxes, designing, color work, centre work and lettering.

The mechanical drawing at the Westford Academy has been very well done this year. The work in the fall was compass practice for accuracy, and teaching the use of triangles and T squares on the drawing board. Development of many different solids, showing cut sections, also machine drawing and lettering, were then taken up.

In speaking of the work as a whole I can say there has been an improvement over last year's work in almost every school.

Each school is supposed to spend an hour and a half a week on drawing and I visit all schools once a week, except Nabnasset and Parkerville and spend a half hour in each room. Every other week I visit Nabnasset and Parkerville and spend three-quarters of an hour with them.

I wish to thank the superintendent, the committee and teachers for their support throughout the year.

Respectfully submitted,

MARION CELESTE TAYLOR,

Supervisor of Drawing.

REPORT OF MEDICAL INSPECTOR.

GENTLEMEN OF THE COMMITTEE:

I respectfully submit the following report concerning the medical inspection of the schools of Westford for the year ending February 1, 1914.

I have visited the schools and made general examinations to determine the general condition and fitness of the pupils to attend school. I have also made examinations of various pupils at each school at the request of either the teacher or one of the committee. During these examinations I found a general improvement over previous years in the general health and conditions of the pupils; also in the response of the parents in their co-operation with the school physician in his duties.

During this last year the Sargent and Cameron schools were fumigated for cases of scarlet fever and various cases of the mumps were sent home from school.

I trust that the parents will still keep a strict watch on their children and after receiving the required notices of their afflictions from the school physician will act promptly in having these conditions remedied, thus greatly helping the child and the whole school.

Respectfully submitted,
DR. C. A. BLANEY,
School Physician.
