GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

Gentlemen of the Senate and

House of Commons:

The reasons for my calling you together at such an unreasonable time, and so soon after your adjournment, will be found in the accompanying able and interesting report of the Public Treasurer. The gravity of the question, whether considered in reference to its probable effects upon the finances and credit of the State, or upon the interests of the people and the success of our common cause, will, I trust, constitute an ample apology for my action in calling you together, in which I need not say I was unanimously sustained by the Council of State.

By a recent act of Congress, all non-interest bearing Confederate Treasury notes were classsified, and a limitation put on the time of funding them, as set forth in the accompanying report of the Public Treasurer.

By this action, intended to reduce the great volume of paper money in circulation by causing it to be funded, the notes of two issues referred to were rendered of less value than those of later issues, and though to that extent it was a repudiation of them, no action would have been necessary on the part of the Legislature, had the matter ended here. But the Legislature of the State of Virginia, being then in session, immediately provided against these issues being received in payment of taxes, with a view, as was said, to aid the operation of the act of Congress, by hastening the funding process. And soon thereafter the Banks of the City of Richmond, actuated no doubt by the same patriotic but unfortunate motives, declining to receive them, it at once became a matter of serious concern with the Treasurer and myself, whether some legislative action would not be required in self-defence. And if any were required it must be had soon, as the collection of taxes begins in July.

The Ordinance of the Convention, No. 35, February session, makes it the duty of the Treasurer to receive these issues; but if he were invested with power to reject them, it evidently would not become him to exercise it under circumstances so different from any contemplated by the framers of the ordinance. To continue to receive them after this partial repudiation of Congress, and after the Legislature and the Metropolitan Banks of Virginia had refused them, would, of course, have subjected that officer to the danger of filling the Treasury with notes greatly depreciated it might be, or perhaps entirely uncurrent. There was no telling how soon the other banks of the country might follow the example of those of Richmond, nor what action other States might take. And of course it being impossible to fund it all, and inconvenient to fund any, so long as it would pass, it might be rushed into this State and paid into our Treasury; such a result would be ruinous alike to her creditors, her officers, and her soldiers. This created a responsibility too great to be borne by the Treasurer without legislative sanction, and the matter is therefore submitted to you.

After a careful survey of the situation, I confidently recommend you to provide for the continued reception of these notes, as the safer and more honorable course. So far no State has followed the example of Virginia, and no banks outside of Richmond in the whole Confederacy have refused them. Our example may have a most happy influence upon the contemplated action of others. No more deadly blow could be stricken our cause than the repudiation of our currency, and that the honest, old-fashioned, debt-paying State of North-Carolina should be among the first to dishonor the money paid her citizens for their substance, and her soldiers for their blood, is something I should regret living to see. If one issue of Confederate notes be good, then all are good, since the same honor is pledged for their ultimate redemption. It is exceedingly dangerous to take the first step towards dishonoring, in the slightest degree, our enormous volume of paper currency. The action of one forces the action of another, when, if all stood firm, the public credit might be saved. A refusal to receive those notes, from whatever cause, and however weighty the reason, would create among the non-commercial classes the most general alarm, and even distress; and the want of confidence would become universal. The danger can now be stopped; if we fail to check it, in my opinion it will be beyond remedy. The suggestions of the Treasurer in regard to the manner of providing against any probable loss are well worthy of your consideration, and I have no doubt, will have great weight in your deliberations.

Desiring to detain you but a few days at this busy and inconvenient season, I refrain from bringing before you various other matters which might well claim your attention at a regular session. I will therefore only call to your notice one more subject. The President of the Confederate States having called upon me for seven thousand militia, it becomes important to amend the existing militia laws in certain particulars, both to facilitate their raising and equipment with all possible speed, and to enlarge the list of exemptions for the proper protection of the State. In regard to these amendments, I will take pleasure in consulting with and assisting your military committees.

Permit me to thank you for your prompt assembling at my call, and to congratulate you upon the improved condition of our affairs, State and National. Since your adjournment our gallant armies have again won great victories, and driven back, with slaughter and confusion, the vast forces of the enemy. The danger of suffering for lack of food has happily passed away, and the goodness and mercy of God has visited us with a harvest almost unparalleled, while the growing crops every where promise equal bounteousness. Let us gather fresh courage from these Divine blessings, and struggle with renewed strength for the honor and independence of the country.

Z. B. VANCE.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Raleigh, June 29th, 1863.

To his Excellency, Governor Vance :

Soon after the passage of the act of Congress, providing for the funding and further issue of treasury notes, approved 23d March last, and the act of the Legislature of Virginia, making only "the Confederate States' non-interest bearing notes of the denomination of or over five dollars, dated and issued on and after the 1st April, 1863, receivable in payment of taxes and other public dues to the State," I addressed to your Excellency a communication suggesting the propriety of convening the Council of State, and submitting to them the question whether the General Assembly ought not to be called to consider what legislation, on the part of this State, the aforesaid acts had rendered necessary.

The Confederate treasury notes not bearing interest, issued prior to the passage of this act, were made fundable, at the pleasure of the holder, in the bonds of the government, bearing interest at the rate of 8 per cent. for the issues dated prior to December, 1862, and 7 per cent. for the subsequent issues.

The acts under which these issues were made, made no limitations as to the time within which these notes were to be presented by the holder, for funding.

The act of the 23d March last, in effect, classified these notes and others which the act authorized to be issued; and put a limitation on the time of funding them, as follows:

1. The holders of the issues, dated prior to December 1st, 1862, were allowed to fund them in 8 per cent. bonds at any time prior to April 23d, 1863; in 7 per cent. bonds, at any time after 22d April, 1863, to and including August 1st, 1863; and after August 1st, 1863, they were not to be fundable at all.

2. Notes dated after 1st December, 1862, and before 6th April, 1863, were to be fundable on or before 1st August, 1863, in 7 per cent. bonds; and afterwards in 4 per cent. bonds.

3. The act provided for a new issue of treasury notes, to be dated on and after 6th April, 1863, the issues not to exceed fifty millions in any one month, which were to have the month of their issue printed in large characters, across the face of them, and were to be fundable for one year from the 1st day of the month printed across the face of them, in 6 per cent. bonds, and afterwards in 4 per cent. bonds.

The primary quality of these issues, making them fundable at the pleasure of the holder, without limitation of time, in bonds bearing a high rate of interest, had tended much to give them currency, but the vast amount of issues had already greatly depreciated that value, so that supplies could only be bought with them at extravagant prices, and these prices were likely to be greatly augmented as the redundancy of currency increased, whereby the issues would soon become so great that it would be impossible that the government could pay them; and consequently public confidence in them would be lost. The evil was the redundancy of the currency and the high rate of interest, and consequently if any remedy could be devised, it must necessarily be sought in a diminution of the currency and a reduction of the rate of interest.

The policy of Congress was to bring about this diminution:

1st. By inducing the holders to fund the currency promptly, by limiting the time within which the funding would be allowed at the rate of interest originally fixed; and by making the first class not fundable at all, and consequently uncurrent, if not funded by the 1st August, 1863—and the second class of less value, and consequently less current than the third class; thus operating on the holders to fund and diminish the currency, both by motives of interest and fear of loss.

2d. By absorbing a very large amount of the currency by a heavy money tax.

3d. By furnishing the army with much of its supplies by a tax in kind, and thus avoiding in future excessive issues of currency.

While your Excellency was considering the expediency of convening the Council of State, and the matter had become the subject of public discussion, many distinguished individuals maintained, on various grounds, that the occasion did not warrant the expense and inconvenience of convening the General Assembly: some insisting that the 2d section of the ordinance No 35, February session of the Convention, conferred on the Public Treasurer the power of prohibiting the sheriffs from receiving the Confederate currency, depreciated in value by the act of Congress, and passed subsequently to the ordinance, and that he ought to exercise this power. Others maintained that the acts of Congress and of the Legislature of Virginia would not materially affect the currency of the old issues, and many urged that I could make an arrangement with the Secretary of the Treasury to exchange the old for the new issues.

I did not concur in any of these views, but with your approbation, I addressed a letter to each of the Presidents of the banks of this State, inviting them to meet me here on the 14th of May last, to consider the question whether, after the 1st August next, they would receive as currency Confederate non-interest bearing notes, dated prior to April 6th, 1863. I also wrote to the Secretary of the Treasury, asking him whether he would make the exchange proposed—whether, in his opinion the currency of the old issues would be injuriously affected by the aforesaid legislation, and what amount of the issues, dated prior to December 1st, 1862, were funded prior to April 23d, 1863. I also wrote to the Treasurers of the other States of the Confederacy, excepting Virginia, asking them whether the same difficulty existed in their States, and how they proposed to remedy it.

Most of the bank Presidents met me on the day proposed. At that time I had not received the answer of the Secretary of the Treasury, which afterwards came to hand and which I hereto append.

After a full discussion of the subject, the bank Presidents decided unanimously that, at that time, it was inexpedient and premature for them to decide whether they would receive the old issues or not, after the 1st August next.

There was this difference as to the condition of the public and county Treasurers and the banks. The banks could fund any of the old issues they might have on hand on the 1st August, while the State and county revenue would not be paid in by the sheriffs till after the 1st August, and besides they have no authority to fund.

I have received no answer from any of the State Treasurers, excepting from the Treasurer of Georgia, whose answer accompanies this communication. From this answer it appears that the taxes in Georgia, are collected in September, and that Gov. Brown, at that time, was disposed to take no action in the matter.

The banks of Richmond, some time after the act of the Legislature of that State, gave notice that they would not receive on deposit, after the 10th of June, Confederate non-interest bearing notes, dated prior to December, 1862; and of course, I suppose, they will not receive them in payment of debts due to them. The banks of Richmond have not gone as far as the Legislature of Virginia. These banks reject only the first class of issues, while the Legislature rejects for dues to the State, both the first and second class of issues. The other banks of the Confederacy, so far as I know, still receive all the issues; but whether they will continue to do so, I have been unable to ascertain.

The Secretary of the Treasury does not answer my inquiry as to what amount of the issues, dated prior to December 1st, 1862, had been funded prior to April 23d, 1863.

I have been unable to obtain, from official sources, any knowledge as to the amount of issues, of the first, or of the second class, but from the best information I have been able to get, I think the issues of the first class, somewhat exceed $250,000,000—of which about $50,000,000 were funded on and before 22d April, 1863, leaving, of this class, about $200,000,000 in circulation; and I suppose that about $200,000,000 of the second class has been issued—and of this, I presume, no great amount has been funded. If the States and the banks continue to receive the old issues as currency, it is not probable that a larger amount than $50,000,000 will be funded between the 22d April, and 1st August; and presuming that the Confederate money tax will retire $125,000,- 000, the largest estimate I have heard, the new issues to the 1st August will probably exceed the amount retired.

The object of the act of Congress—of the Legislature of Virginia and of the banks of Richmond, was to sustain and improve the Confederate currency, and such, I have no doubt, is the wish of every bank in the Confederacy, all of which, so far as I have heard, have hitherto unselfishly and patriotically sustained the government. The difficulty is, as to the most effectual way to do it. I regard so much of the plan as leaves afloat, after the 1st August, several issues of currency of unequal value, as very badly adapted to effect the end desired.

When the holders of notes which have been paid to them by the State and Confederate officers, and by the banks, as money, find one class of it rendered uncurrent by an act of the authority which issued it; when they find the compact, under which they received it, to wit: the privilege to demand in exchange for it, the bonds of the government, bearing a stipulated rate of interest, changed by the government without their assent, in my opinion, it will greatly damage the whole currency, instead of improving it. Distrust will arise, which will more than overbalance any benefits which will spring from a diminution of the currency, produced by legislation which forces the holder to fund, under the penalty of having his money rendered uncurrent.

In view of all these difficulties I am greatly at a loss to recommend what is best to be done.

I do not doubt that an act such as that of Virginia, and which, I think, conforms to the policy of Congress, would cause a vast amount to be funded, but it seems to me to savor of bad faith, and in my opinion would be oppressive to the tax-payers, and do more hurt than good.

While the act of Congress remains in force, and the metropolitan State and city continue their policy, I have no idea that any action of the Legislature and banks of this State can make the issues dated prior to December, 1862, generally current; and if received into the County and State Treasuries, will be the source of infinite difficulties, if not entirely unavailable. If the Public Treasurer be required to receive the old issues, I know no equitable rule by which he can disburse them.

No better plan has occurred to me, than to suspend the collection of the County and State taxes to some definite time after the meeting of the next Congress, and the collection of the Confederate tax; and in the mean time to forbid all the revenue officers of the State and counties to receive the old issues, and to address a remonstrance to Congress asking for a repeal or modification of the law, or a provision to exchange the new issues for the old, or such other provision as may protect our State and County Treasuries from loss.

Time will thus be obtained to see whether the absorption by funding, and the collection of the Confederate tax, will not so reduce the currency as to make legislation on the subject unimportant.

If the General Assembly shall not approve this suggestion, which I make with great diffidence, and shall decide to receive one or both classes of the old issues in payment of the public dues, I hope they will prescribe some rule by which the Treasurer shall be governed in disbursing the different classes of Confederate money. Is each claimant to be entitled to demand any class of Confederate currency in the Treasury which he may prefer; or is he to pay out the poorest, or the best, first?

If the General Assembly conclude to receive the issues of the second class, and to reject the first, or to postpone the collection of the taxes, what is the Treasurer to do with the issues of the first class now on hand, and which he must hereafter receive from Sheriffs and others who now hold such money for the State?

I further recommend, whatever the General Assembly may do in the premises, that the Sheriffs be required, on or before the 1st day of August, to pay into the Treasury the amount they may have collected, and that the Treasurer may be authorized to fund all the old issues in the Treasury on the 1st day of August, with power to sell or use said bonds afterwards, as the exigencies of the Treasury may require.

In January last I made a contract with J. T. Patterson & Co., of Columbia, S. C., for supplying the blank bonds and treasury notes authorized by law to be issued. Owing to difficulties which they allege they could not overcome, the blanks, until lately, have been tardily supplied; but they are now coming forward rapidly. Most of them have been received.

In the early part of the year I was compelled to sell State bonds, and issue our treasury notes to meet the demands on the Treasury. I sold bonds to individuals to the amount of $110,500, at an average premium exceeding 5 per cent., and to the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, at par, to the amount of $971,500. On the 19th of Feb. last I received from the Confederate Government $1,289,495 28 due the State for our advances in clothing our troops for the 1st and 2d quarters of 1862; and at other times since, I have received from the Confederate Government, for like advances for the 4th quarter of 1862, and the 1st quarter of 1863, $1,631,777 25. From these and other sources of less magnitude, I have been able to meet promptly all demands on the Treasury, and I now have in the Treasury $913,570 in Confederate currency, and if the Confederate government shall re-pay promptly the advances of the State for the clothing of our troops, which I have no occasion to doubt, I do not foresee any demands on the Treasury likely to require within a few months a further sale of State bonds, or the issue of any of our treasury notes, except fractional parts of a dollar for change, and excepting the amount due to counties within the lines of the enemy, under the act making an appropriation of one million of dollars for the relief of the wives and families of soldiers in the army.

The Treasury was not in condition to pay the whole of this appropriation at once, without an unnecessary increase of the State debt; and I determined to pay it in four equal instalments—one on demand, and one on the 1st May, August and

November, believing it would, in this way, accomplish the object as well as if all paid at once.

Since the Treasury, by collections from the Confederate government and other sources, has been supplied with Confederate money, sufficient to meet all demands on it, I have refused to pay out our treasury notes excepting fractional parts of a dollar, and to counties within the lines of the enemy, because the issue of our notes would have been equivalent to borrowing money when the Treasury was amply supplied. Many of the county courts have urgently pressed me to pay in our notes, the quota due them for the support of the wives and families of soldiers in the army, but as the act specially provides that the counties within the lines of the enemy shall be paid in our notes, I have construed it that the others were to be paid as other claims.

The commissioner for the county of Jones, has presented to me an order passed by the county court of that county, which accompanies this communication. This order directs "that the funds received from the State Treasurer at Raleigh, by Thos. J. Whitaker, commissioner and treasurer for the county of Jones, for the relief of indigent soldiers' families in said county, be returned by said commissioner to the Treasurer of the State, and request that the funds due the said county of Jones, be paid in the treasury notes or current funds of the State as provided by the terms of said act of the General Assembly. The funds, now in the hands of the commissioner, received from the Treasury of the dates prior to April 1863, being uncurrent and not to be received in the payment of taxes, as per circular from the Treasurer of the State."

The first instalment to the county of Jones, was paid 30th March, and the second the 15th of May. These payments were made in Confederate currency, (of what issue I do not know, because I then understood, as I do now, that that county was not within the lines of the enemy. I declined to comply with either of the requests made in this order, but promised to bring the matter to the attention of the General Assembly.

The circular referred to was issued at the suggestion of the Council of State, and was not intended, and by no fair interpretation, as I believe, can be construed as claiming any power to forbid the Sheriffs to receive the old issues. It was intended only as a recommendation to the Sheriffs, to abstain from receiving the old issues, as far as they could legally do so, until the pleasure of the General Assembly should be known.

I have made this general statement as to the condition and management of the Treasury to enable the General Assembly to see that the ways and means provided for the supply of the Treasury are ample, and to enable them to apply the proper corrective, if they shall disapprove any course in any of the matters referred to.

If the General assembly shall approve my suggestion as to postponing the collecting of the taxes, I think I shall be able to meet the demands on the Treasury for several months without making any increase of the State debt, by the sale of State bonds, or the issue of our treasury notes to any considerable amount.

Very respectfully,

JONATHAN WORTH,
Public Treasurer.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, C. S. A.,
Richmond, May 18th, 1863.

Jona. Worth, Esq., Public Treasurer, Raleigh, N. C.:

DEAR SIR:—You have doubtless ere this, received the reply which I gave your Representative in Congress Mr. Thomas S. Ashe, to some inquiry which is made in your letter of the 9th inst. I stated that your interpretation of the law as to my authority to exchange treasury notes was quite correct. I have no power to exchange the notes now to be issued for those issued prior to the 2d December, 1862; or for any others.

In your letter of the 9th inst., you request, also, my opinion whether the old issues of treasury notes will become uncurrent after 1st August.

Under the existing laws there are now three classes of current treasury notes :

1. Those issued prior to 1st December, 1862.
2. Those issued between 1st December, 1862, and 6th April, 1863.
3. Those issued since 6th April, 1863.

All the classes are receivable without discrimination at the treasury, for Confederate dues; and for the payment of each the faith and revenues of the Confederacy are solemnly pledged. There is, therefore, no difference as to the ultimate payment of each class, the difference between them is a collateral advantage.

The first class is fundable in 7 per cent. bonds until 1st August, after which they are no longer fundable at all.

The second class are also fundable in 7 per cent. bonds until 1st August, after which they are fundable in 4 per cents.

The third class are fundable for one year from their issue, in 6 per cent. bonds, after which they are fundable in 4 per cents.

The currency of neither class is affected by the legislation of Congress further than by making a difference in their relative value. The third class will be the most valuable after the 1st August; but the difference of two per cent. in favor of the bonds in which they can be invested will not be sufficient to throw the second class out of circulation—more especially as the third class will not be sufficiently redundant to supply the demands of the community.

It seems to me, therefore, that you may dismiss all concern except as to the first class. The loss to this class, of the advantage of funding, abates somewhat from their value, and may lead the banks to decline receiving them on deposit, as notes of less value than the general currency. But notwithstanding this their actual circulation in some form will continue for several reasons: first, because they are available to pay the heavy taxes due by every person to the Confederate government; secondly, because the notes themselves have the same security for their payment as any other debt of the Confederate government, the difference between them and other notes being only relative; and thirdly, because of this difference, every holder will be disposed to part with and put in circulation that which he deems less valuable.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

C. G. MEMMINGER,

Secretary of Treasury.

TREASURY OF GEORGIA,

Milledgeville, May 28, 1863.

Hon. Jonathan Worth, Pub. Treasurer, Raleigh, N. C.:

DEAR SIR:—On receipt of yours of the 14th inst., I took the earliest occasion to submit to the consideration of the Governor, whose province it is by our Code to decide such questions as you have done me the favor to propose.

Gov. Brown feels that, in a time like this, while the cardinal principles and integrity of the Constitution and government are to be guarded with sleepless vigilance and obstinate will, questions merely pecuniary having a tendency to damage the credit or depreciate the currency of the Confederate States, should not be entertained.

The collection of our revenue begins about the first of September, and unless some greater revulsion and depreciation than we now apprehend shall appear, and the issue you speak of be utterly worthless, (to which event the Governor is determined no act of Georgia shall contribute,) our collectors will not be prohibited receiving at par any issue of the Confederacy intended for currency.

Our people are receiving in good faith for their produce and in payment of debts all Confederate notes with but little apprehension of loss, and I earnestly believe without other expectation than to share the fortunes good and ill of the Confederate States, at least until it shall come to pass, (which God forbid) that the same aggressions on our constitutional rights shall be attempted in the new, which we are so earnestly resisting in the old government.

With much respect, I am, sir,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN JONES,

Treas. of Georgia.

REPORT OF JOINT SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE CURRENCY.

The Joint Select Committee, to whom is referred that portion of the message of his Excellency, the Governor, relating to the question of the currency, has considered the matter embraced in the reference, and submit the following report :

It is well known to the General Assembly, that the Convention of this State, by an ordinance passed in February, 1862, No. 35, declared that the treasury notes issued by the government of the Confederate States should be received by public officers in the payment of all dues for State and county purposes. Since the passing of that ordinance, the provisions of which have been faithfully kept and cheerfully observed by the officers and people of this State, the Confederate Congress, by the act of March 23d, and the Congress of the General Assembly of Virginia, by an act of later date, has adopted a policy which, in the judgment of many, has tended to depreciate all of the said treasury notes issued previous to the 6th of April last. The committee do not propose now to discuss this policy, nor to express any dissent from the views of those by whom it was introduced, further than to declare the conviction of the General Assembly of North-Carolina, that all the treasury notes issued by the Confederate States, whether fundable or not after the first of August next, should be received by our officers in payment of all dues, both for State and county uses. For the purpose of reducing as far as it may be practicable the large amount of paper money now in circulation, without a breach of duty to the holders of such money, the committee recommend that the public officers proceed forthwith to the collection of taxes, receiving in payment of the same all Confederate treasury notes, and pay the amount thus collected into the office of the Public Treasurer or into such office of deposit as he may fix, on or before the 28th day of July, in order that the same may be funded in the seven per cent. bonds of the Confederate government before the first day of August. Inasmuch as a large portion of the public revenue cannot be paid within this time, the public officers will afterwards proceed to collect the amount that is unsettled, still receiving all issues of Confederate treasury notes, and account for the same to the Treasurer as now required by law. It is believed that a policy such as the committee indicates will be approved by the people of the State, and that the effect of it will be wholesome and beneficent in its results. To save the currency from all depreciation and disparagement by legislative acts—to fill the public mind with confidence and favor towards it, should be regarded as a matter both of interest and duty, if this may be done with justice to our State and to the people whom we represent.

The position of our State for deliberation of purpose, her character for integrity, for faithful, patient and inflexible devotion to the great cause in which we are struggling now is so well known, so highly appreciated and so justly the pride of her children everywhere, that from the policy which is here adopted great good or evil may come to the public credit.

Let us not then venture upon a course of legislation which shall produce alarm, distrust and discontent among our people—leaving them in unhappy and depressing doubt as to the future—let us bear in mind the duties which we owe to our sister States of the Confederacy, to whom we are united in sympathy and interest, and forbear even to suggest any extreme measure unless the case be so strong that the act should be done at any cost whatever. If we shall leave the Confederate treasury notes uncondemned, they will answer as they now do all the purposes of trade and business—and the patriotic feeling of our people will arrest whatever may be the confusing and mischievous tendency of legislation elsewhere, and uphold with steadiness and unshrinking devotion the great cause to which we have pledged “our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.”

A bill is herewith reported, to embrace the matter recommended.

Received from His Excellency the Governor, by his Private Secretary, Mr. R. H. Battle, a message which was read as follows :

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

To the Honorable,

The General Assembly of North-Carolina :

The rapidity and importance of the passing events render your frequent assembling both necessary and appropriate. Various matters demand legislative action, and will, I hope, receive your speedy consideration.

By the call of the President for all men under the age of forty-five years—beyond which none were subject to militia duty—and the exemption act of your late session, the militia of the State was virtually absorbed. In lieu thereof you created a "Guard for Home Defence," embracing all men not subject to conscription from eighteen to fifty years of age. Only a very few persons were exempted, and power was given to the Governor to excuse others at his discretion. I found that by refusing to exercise this discretion, and by executing the law strictly, I would seriously interfere with many of the most vital industrial pursuits of the country; and yet it has appeared evident to me that your intention was only to give me the power to grant exemptions in particular cases of necessity or great hardship, and not to excuse whole classes of the community. I therefore respectfully recommend that the list of exemptions be extended to such classes as may appear to you to be indispensable.

Doubts have arisen as to whether it was your intention to permit the Guard for Home Defence to be used for the purpose of arresting deserters from the army, and aiding in the execution of the conscript law; and one of our Judges has decided that the Executive has not the power to use them for this purpose. I would therefore recommend that the act organizing the Guard be amended, so as to invest the Governor with the same power over this recent organization as was given him over the militia, and so that there may be no doubts as to the rightful powers of the Executive.

In this connection, I also beg leave to remark that I am frequently embarrassed by cases of apparent conflict between the Executive and Judicial Departments of the State, from which nothing less than an authoritative decision of the Supreme Court can relieve me. As that body sits but once a year—time being now often of the greatest moment—it happens that many important questions, principally concerning the liability of parties to render military service, remain long undecided, the public service in consequence suffers, and the Executive is at a loss to know what is his duty and the law. I recommend, therefore, that, in such special cases, the Governor and Council, or the Chief Justice, upon the request of the Governor, be authorized to convene the Supreme Court, in extra session, in order to obtain from our highest judicial tribunal, a speedy solution of doubtful questions, and to give uniformity to the decisions of the Judges.

I also recommend, gentlemen, most earnestly, the restoration of the Spring Term of the Superior Courts. After careful observation for the past twelve months, I am fully convinced that the good of society positively demands this—that the abolition of this term has been productive of evil—and that greater evil still will result if it is not restored. When increasing crime, and a growing disregard of law are rife, and at a time when the virtuous and the wise are everywhere fearful that law and order are in danger of overthrow, that we should remove the law further from the people, sounds strangely. It should not be!

But to restore the courts will involve the necessity of increasing the salary of the Judges. It is notoriously so inadequate now, that I presume no one can object to its increase. This may be effected by taxing suitors, &c., without increasing perceptibly the burthens of the people.

Your attention is also invited to so much of the legislation of Congress as provides for the disposal by sequestration, &c., of real estate in North-Carolina. Very serious doubts are widely entertained as to the power of Congress to dispose of lands lying within the limits of this State. It need not be denied that the power to declare war confers upon the Confederate government the right of declaring lands held by alien enemies to be vacant. It is thought, however, that upon such vacancy the right of the State, as original grantor, or representative of such grantor, necessarily intervenes—a breach of the condition annexed to such grant having occurred. Very high authorities consider that it is not competent for Congress to control the direction in which land lying within North-Carolina shall go, in case a vacancy occur, from any cause. The importance of this question cannot well be exaggerated. Considerations as to the person in whom is vested the ultimate right to the soil are of vital importance in every society. It is plain that grave contests between the States and the Confederate States will turn upon this point; and that the whole theory of the relations of the two governments is to be greatly affected by its decision. Whilst I do not suppose that any action on your part can settle directly this question, I submit whether some proceedings may not be set on foot, by which it shall reach an early solution. It is important, upon all accounts, that it shall be settled; and it will tend to the suppression of litigation, and the quieting of valuable titles, that it be settled early.

Mr. Wiley, the energetic and faithful Superintendent of Common Schools again comes forward, through the Literary Board, with an important recommendation for the establishment of a system of graded schools: one or more in each county, of which one-half the expenses are to be defrayed from the Literary Fund, the other by the county. The plan is set forth in a bill submitted to and approved by the Literary Board, and sent in to the Committee on Education. The idea meets my hearty approbation; and in urging it upon your favorable notice, I hope you will consider me neither impracticable nor untimely. It is, in fact, a favorable time to act in this matter. It is exceedingly important to make every possible arrangement for the future support and comfort of our mutilated and disabled soldiers, and their children. By qualifying them for teachers, which cannot be done in schools of no higher grade than our Common Schools, many can be provided for. In the great plenteousness of money, the counties and individuals will now give liberally for such a noble object.

Lastly, it is not immodest for us to claim that North-Carolina occupies a high position among her sisters in regard to public education; and by exerting ourselves now, that position may be so improved and raised as to enable our educated men and industrious publishers to exercise no little influence in the formation, in happier times, of Southern sentiment—a means of power at once enduring and glorious. By the judicious management of the Fund, in consequence of the greatly increased value of its securities, the Board hopes to so add to it, that no decrease in the semi-annual distributions shall occur.

Some action is also required on your part to protect the Fund against the course now pursued by the holders of drafts upon it in the various counties in refusing to present them for payment—the intention of course being to demand a different currency from that which the Treasurer now receives and pays out. The duties and responsibilities of the Treasurer of the Fund should also be more fully defined, and set forth with greater particularity.

The very important subject of feeding the poor, whose supporters and protectors are in the army, again demands our attention. The results of the past year's operations are most encouraging, and should serve to give our people confidence in the resources of their State. Great anxiety was felt last Fall, as you know, on the subject of food, and fears were entertained, that suffering, if not actual starvation, would be witnessed in many quarters. Under the authority conferred upon me by your body, I purchased and stored away about 50,000 bushels of corn, 250,000 pounds of bacon, a quantity of rice, &c., which I expected would go but little way in supplying the general wants. When the season closed and the new crop came in, however, to my surprise and gratification, I found that Major Hogg, Commissary of Subsistence, had only issued to the County Commissioners about one-third of the bacon, less than one-half the corn, and but very little of the rice. He reports still on hand some 70,000 pounds of bacon, having fed a number of negroes engaged on the public works, and sold to the army 100,000 pounds, with 20,000 bushels of corn. I have reason to believe that, from various causes, the crops this year have not been so abundant as usual, and that the public will be call on to do more than last season. But still I see no cause for alarm, and my last year's experience has encouraged me to believe that all can be fed from our own resources by proper prudence and economy. I respectfully recommend a liberal appropriation among the several counties, according to population, for this purpose, at least double that of last year, and that I be allowed to buy and store away corn, flour and bacon as heretofore.

The earnings of the steamer Advance, which has been employed in running the blockade, may be applied to this purpose, as they cannot be made to meet our debt abroad. They will be amply sufficient without taxing the people a dollar. The method of distributing these articles of food, the duties of the sub-agents and the proper recipients should be more definitely set forth; and provision should be made for those families of soldiers who, according to present arrangements forfeit their claim to assistance by removing from one county to another, which is frequently almost unavoidable.

Reports are submitted herewith of the operations of the Ordnance, Subsistence, and Quartermaster's Departments, which I trust you will find satisfactory. The enterprise of running the blockade and importing army supplies from abroad has proven a most complete success. You will see from the report that large quantities of clothing, leather and shoes, lubricating oils, factory findings, sheet-iron and tin, arms and ammunition, medicines, dye-stuffs, blankets, cotton-bagging and rope, spirits, coffee, &c., have been safely brought in, besides considerable freight for the Confederacy. Two thousand and ten bales of cotton have been sent to Liverpool, the proceeds of which are deposited to the credit of the State, less the amount of expenses of the vessel. With what we have imported and the purchases in our home markets, I think I can safely say that the North-Carolina troops will be comfortably clothed to January, 1865, should God, in His Providence, so long see fit to afflict us with a continuance of the war, except as to shoes and blankets. Neither the Ordnance nor Quartermaster's Departments placed too much reliance on foreign importations, but every effort has been made to stimulate home production. But the quality and quantity of arms and munitions manufactured have been improved in the past twelve months. After the fall of Vicksburg cut us off from the wool of Texas, every exertion has been made to secure for the State the small lots in the hands of our farmers, and with such success as to keep our mills all running, and here I would beg your assistance in the protection and growth of sheep, by such enactments as will best tend to promote the object. Certainly there is no branch of farming industry of greater importance now, nor one to which a more beneficial stimulus can be applied by judicious legislation. Our midland and western hills are admirably adapted to sheep culture, and could we once get it started under such auspices as are now presented, it would grow into an important element of wealth and national strength. I am unable, at present, to furnish you with a statement of our indebtedness, purchases, &c., in Europe, not having received as yet the necessary information from our agent.

I herewith send you a communication from a committee of the Legislature of Virginia, in relation to the currency. This important subject, upon which so greatly depends the successful prosecution of the war for our independence, I commend to your wisest deliberations. Although the remedy for its great depreciation lies with the Confederate Congress, rather than with your body, yet there might be much done by the State in aid of the efforts of Congress. I confess my inability to suggest any remedy for redundant paper issues, other than to take them up by loans and taxations and by the exhibition of the most rigid good faith in regard to their redemption. With nations as with individuals, this often constitutes capital. The poor should be especially cautious to preserve it.

I have to thank you, gentlemen, for the cordial and confiding support which I have heretofore received at your hands, and to earnestly ask its continuance. Surely no Executive can boast of more zealous and warmer co-operation of a co-ordinate branch of government than I have experienced from your body. I shall need your sustaining arm still more in the future. The most dangerous crisis of the war is upon us, that crisis which is incident to all revolutions, and which is most difficult for public officers to surmount. The novelty, confusion and enthusiasm which filled our armies and exhilarated our people, having long since passed away, the winnowing-fan of want and privation and suffering begins to separate the particles. The noisy are silent—the faint of heart begin to despair, and the disloyal, though few, to grow bold in the presence of national ills. The restless and the discontented strive of course to imbue all others with their own gloomy forebodings. The great mass, thank God, continue hopeful and earnest. Let us all labor with one accord to sustain the nation's hope, and to show that we are worthy of independence, by being willing to pay for it the price which every people has had to pay since Liberty was known among the sons of men—suffering and sacrifice. The hope, which animated many of our people, that our enemy was coming to the sober second thought, and that many of them were favorable to pacific overtures, has been dashed to the ground, and the originators of that hope at the North are trampled under the feet of reckless and blood thirsty majorities.—So far from treating with us on the basis of our independence, or even reconstruction, the arrogant people of the North are tauntingly proclaiming on the hustings that no peace can be made with us—no peace talked of till the last rebel has laid down his arms! An insulted and outraged people will yet make them regret this haughty language which wrongs humanity and outrages civilization. The lion which has crouched in their path to Southern conquest for near three years, is still there, and though driven back a little, he has grown more watchful, and will fight more fiercely as he approaches his lair. We know at last precisely what we would get by submission, and therein has our enemy done us good service—abolition of slavery, confiscation of property and territorial vassalage! These are the terms to win us back. Now, when our brothers bleed and mothers and little ones cry for bread, we can point them back to the brick-kilns of Egypt—thanks to Mr. Seward!—plainly in view, and show them the beautiful clusters of Eschol, which grow in the land of Independence, whither we go to possess it. And we can remind them, too, how the pillar of fire and the cloud, the vouchsafed guidon of Jehovah, went ever before the hungering multitude, leading away, with apparent cruelty, from the fullness of servitude. With such a prospect before them, our people will, as heretofore, come firmly up to the full measure of their duty, if their trusted servants do not fail them; they will not crucify afresh their own sons slain in their behalf, or put their gallant shades to open shame, by stopping short of full and complete national independence.

WHEREAS, All political power is vested in and derived from the people. And, whereas, it is an inalienable right guaranteed to freemen to assemble in public meeting and consult for the common good, and give public expression to their honest sentiments upon questions of policy pertaining to the good of their common country. And, whereas, the freedom of speech and of the press is the great bulwark of civil liberty, the suppression of the same should never be tolerated by a republican and free people. And, whereas, we are at this time, and have been, for nearly three years, engaged in deadly conflict of arms with the federal government. And, whereas, our arms have been crowned with the most brilliant victories that the annals of history record in any age or country, and still the breach between us appears to get wider and yet wider. And, whereas, as yet there has been no formal proposition for negotiations and settlement of the questions in dispute between us. And, whereas, it is the wish of a large majority of the freemen of North-Carolina as expressed at the ballot box for representatives to the Confederate Congress, that all honorable means should be used to stop the strife, desolation and horrible slaughter of human life that must follow a continuance of this dreadful war: Therefore,

Resolved, That the freemen of North-Carolina have the constitutional right to hold public meetings and consult together for the good of their common country; and that when the freedom of speech and of the press of this State is trampled under foot, and suppressed by mob violence or military force with impunity, the people cease to be freemen and become vassals and slaves to military despotism, which will never be tolerated in North-Carolina.

Resolved, That the wise and independent decisions of the judiciary of the State cannot be too highly prized by all lovers of republican liberty, and North-Carolina as a sovereign State will ever maintain and defend its loyal decisions, assailed from whence they may; and that all true North-Carolinians should be justly proud of the name of our patriotic Governor Vance, for his noble defence and maintenance of the decisions of the judiciary and the laws of the State.

Resolved, That formal negotiations for an amicable and honorable settlement of our present national troubles upon the basis of separation with commercial treaties offensive and defensive, should at the earliest day possible be commenced with our enemy, by the legal treaty making power of the Confederate States of America; and we do hereby most respectfully request and instruct our Senators and Representatives in Congress to make an effort to bring about negotiations by instructing the President to at once appoint ambassadors, whose duty it shall be to make and receive propositions from our enemy pointing to a settlement and peace, and to propose to the Federal Congress to make an effort to bring about negotiations by instructing the President to at once appoint ambassadors, whose duty it shall be to make and receive propositions from our enemy pointing to a settlement and peace, and to propose to the Federal Congress the calling of a peace convention of the people, by both sections, to be represented by delegates to be selected by the people of the sovereign States, to make an honest, patriotic, Christian effort, as brethren, to put a stop to the present cruel, savage and unchristian war, with power to ratify (subject to a vote of the people) any treaty or compromise they may make.

Resolved, That we are justly proud of the chivalry and heroic valor of our brave soldiers who have so nobly battled in the defence of our rights upon every battle field of this bloody war, and we exhort them to stand firmly by their colors, as we cannot and must not relax any constitutional effort for a vigorous prosecution of the war to an honorable peace, until an armistice and cessation of hostilities are declared for negotiation of a treaty of peace, as we can but hold the olive branch of peace in one hand and the sword in the other, until we can make a settlement by negotiations or are recognized as a free and independent people.

Resolved by the General Assembly of North Carolina, That the repeal of the Confederate States' Congress of the laws by which persons skilled in certain trades or professions are exempt from military service, and the substituting therefor a system of details to meet the wants of the country, would be, in the judgment of this General Assembly, exceedingly unwise and improper, because of the danger that the persons entrusted with the power of making such details, would often execute the duty injudiciously, and with partiality.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this General Assembly, the privilege granted to conscripts and soldiers in service by the Congress of the Confederate States to furnish substitutes, after such substitutes have been furnished and accepted, became a contract which the government cannot constitutionally, or in good conscience, violate.

Resolved, That any plan for restoring the currency, so far as it contemplates compulsory funding, and repudiates the contract of the government with the holders of its notes, that they should be receivable in payment of public dues, is impolitic, because a breach of contract cannot restore, but tends to destroy all confidence in the government.

So the resolutions were adopted.

Mr. Warren, from the joint select committee on so much of the Governor's message as relates to "habeas corpus," made a report, and recommended certain resolutions.

The report was read and received, and is as follows, to wit:

"The joint select committee to whom were referred so much of the Governor's message as relates to the act of Congress suspending the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, and certain resolutions introduced in the House of Commons upon the same subject, have had the same under consideration. The undersigned, a majority of the committee, entertain the opinion that the act is unconstitutional, unnecessary, and dangerous to liberty, and believe it to be the duty of the General Assembly to protest against it, and to urge its repeal. They think also, that it is eminently proper to consider in this connection the leading features of the "act to organize forces to serve during the war." The former act leaves the personal liberty of the citizen without guarantee or protection, while the latter asserts a general power in Congress which affects the freedom and sovereignty of the collective body of the people, and the very existence of the State government.

The undersigned, therefore, ask leave to report the accompanying resolutions as a substitute for the resolutions referred to the committee, and recommend their passage,

E. J. WARREN, Chm'n,

EUGENE GRISSOM,

E. F. WATSON.

The resolutions were read, and are as follows, to wit:

Resolved, That while the people of North-Carolina have ever been and still are anxious to strengthen the administration of the Confederate government in every legitimate way, and to promote the success of the common cause, in order that we may have a speedy and honorable peace, they view with deep concern and alarm the repeated and manifest infractions of the Constitution by the Congress of the Confederate States, and this General Assembly doth, in their name, protest against such infractions as of pernicious example and fatal tendency.

Resolved, That the act of the late Congress, entitled "An act to suspend the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus in certain cases," violates the fundamental maxim of republican government which requires a separation of the departments of power, clothes the Executive with judicial functions which Congress cannot constitutionally confer even on the judiciary itself, and sets at naught the most emphatic and solemn guarantees of the Constitution.

Resolved, That this General Assembly, representing the people of North-Carolina, doth not consent to the sacrifice of the vital principles of free government, in a war carried on solely to secure and perpetuate them, and doth declare that no "conditions of public danger," present or prospective, probable or possible, can render the liberties of the people incompatible with the public safety.

Resolved, That the act of the same Congress, entitled "An act to organize forces to serve during the war," declaring all white men residents of the Confederate States between the ages of seventeen and fifty to be in the military service, embracing in its provisions every State officer in all the departments, Executive, Legislative and Judicial, and subjecting all the industrial pursuits of the country to military supervision and control, reduces the State governments to mere provincial administrations, dependent on the grace and favor of Congress and the Executive, is destructive of State sovereignty, and imports an assertion of the power on the part of Congress to convert the Confederate government into a consolidated military despotism.

Resolved, That this General Assembly doth therefore request our Senators and Representatives in Congress to use their best endeavors to procure a repeal of the first mentioned act, and such modifications of the second as shall secure the rights, and preserve the integrity of the States of the Confederacy.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress."■

Mr. Hall presented a minority report, which was read and received, and is as follows, to wit:

"The undersigned, one of the committee on the part of the Senate, to whom was referred that portion of the Governor's message touching the repeal of the act of Congress suspending the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, not concurring in the views embodied in the resolutions submitted by the chairman of that committee, begs leave to submit the following report:

In this, the very crisis of our destiny, when our fate as a free people hangs trembling in the balance, when every energy, every resource, and entire unanimity among our people is indispensably requisite to hurl back the present gigantic, and, as we trust, final assault of the enemy, I deem that the paramount duty of this Legislature, with a view to our speedy independence, is to strengthen the Executive arm, to provide for supplies and reinforcements to the army, and to care for the wants of the families of our soldiers; and that the introduction of other subjects of legislation at this time, tending to question the patriotism and ability of our Confederate rulers and legislators, leading to debates of a party and political character, and enuring to distractions and divisions of sentiment among our people, is unwise, ill-timed, impolitic, and fraught with danger to our cause. Nor does he accept as true, facts stated in the resolutions. He denies the repeated and manifest infractions of the Constitution by the Congress of the Confederate States, and has yet to be pointed to a single instance. If reference be made to the acts for conscription, the anti-substitute law, and the law for impressments, the answer is, that the Courts of the country are the only competent tribunals to decide upon the unconstitutionality of these measures; and that by every supreme judicial tribunal in the States of the Confederacy, in which this question has been tested, these laws have been declared to be constitutional. Neither does he admit, as stated in the second resolution, that the act to suspend the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus "clothes the Executive with judicial functions which Congress cannot constitutionally confer even on the judiciary itself, and set at naught the most emphatic and solemn guarantees of the Constitution."

The power in Congress to suspend the privilege of the writ when in cases of invasion or rebellion the public safety may, in its opinion, require it, is indisputable. If it be contended that the act in question is unconstitutional for the reason that it justifies arrests other than upon judicial warrants supported by oath or affirmation, and is in derogation of some of the other safeguards of personal liberty as engrafted upon our Bill of Rights and Constitution from the English Magna Charta and Bill of Rights, the answer is to be found in the fact that these provisions were meant to apply to a nation at peace with foreign powers, and in the enjoyment of domestic tranquility; and the very grant in the same instrument, the Constitution, of the power of Congress to suspend the privilege of the great writ, carries with it necessarily, and to make such suspension effectual, the suspension for the time being of these personal privileges. In times of imminent deadly peril to the nation, when its very existence is jeopardized, these ordinary personal privileges must be sacrificed, and are made subservient and subordinate to the safety and existence of the nation and government. The Executive must be authorized to act promptly; and the imperative necessities of the case, the good of the whole, demand that the ordinary formalities of the law, with its inevitable delay should, for the crisis, be dispensed with. The suspension of the privilege of the writ is an extraordinary measure—extra-judicial in its character, and to be resorted to only in cases of dire emergency. Its exercise is incompatible with the personal privileges vouchsafed to the individual in other sections of the Constitution, and when the emergency arises these personal privileges must be suspended.

It is indisputable that in England, from whence mainly we derive our ideas of personal liberty, as embodied in her Bill of Rights and Magna Charta, during the many and different periods in which the privilege of the writ has been suspended, in the large majority of cases, where arrests were made, they were made by military authority, or by warrants issuing from the Home Secretary or other departments of State by order of the Executive branch of the government, and not by virtue of judicial warrants supported by oath or affirmation. The undersigned further construes the 3d section of the act referred to by which the President "shall cause proper officers to investigate the cases of all persons arrested," as a provision for their benefit, and to ensure them more speedy discharge if improperly detained, than they could otherwise obtain in due course of law.

The undersigned submits that if the third resolution means anything, it means that in no event, nor under any possible circumstances, can the suspension of the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus be necessary or justifiable. This impugns the wisdom of the very framers of our Constitution, for if such be the case, whence the propriety or necessity of making an express provision for its suspension, by conferring upon Congress the power in certain cases to suspend it?

The undersigned understanding that only such portions of the Governor's message as referred to the act suspending the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, was referred to the committee of which he constituted a part, does not feel at liberty to consider and report upon the subject matter of the 4th Resolution, especially as another committee has been appointed to whom that subject was specially referred. But in order that his position may not be misunderstood, he takes occasion to deny that the act "to organize forces to serve during the war" "embraces every State officer in all the departments, Executive, Legislative and Judicial," for Congress expressly exempts from its provisions these very officials, besides all others whom the Governor of any State may certify to be necessary in the administration of the State government. While the constitutionality of the conscription acts has been affirmed by the Supreme Courts of almost every State in the Confederacy, it has been denied by no single one, and he is of opinion that at this time, while our enemies are seeking to subjugate and ruin us by sheer force of numbers, that the organization of a reserve force, composed of those between 17 and 18, and 45 and 50 years of age, was eminently necessary, wise and expedient.

He therefore respectfully submits that, in any event, the constitutionality of the act to suspend the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus is a question purely for the Courts. We sit here as Legislators, not as Judges. Let our Supreme Court decide, it is its province, not ours; and any formal judgment of this Legislature upon that point is an assumption of power upon its part, is a departure from the exercise of its legitimate functions, and in the words of one of the resolutions, "violates the fundamental maxim of republican government, which requires a separation of the departments of power." Nor does he deem it incumbent upon this body, especially at a time like the present, to express by legislative action any opinion as to the propriety or expediency of the passage of this act. It was passed by our representatives in Congress, who were the sole judges of its necessity, and it was passed by them, as they stated, upon information laid before them of conditions of public danger, which rendered their action eminently necessary and proper. If its operation were confined to our own State only, we might be justified in the expression of an opinion as to its expediency. But its operation is co-extensive with the limits of the Confederacy. How are we to know what conditions of danger existed in Louisiana, Tennessee, or elsewhere? Do we even know the condition of danger in our own State, upon which Congress may have been thoroughly and accurately informed? How then can we, in ignorance of the facts and causes upon which this legislation was based, declare it to have been inexpedient and improper?

Finally, the undersigned, though favoring the doctrine of a strict construction of the Constitution, and zealous in his devotion to the rights and sovereignty of the States, is unable, under present circumstances, to foresee the manifold dangers and perils attending a temporary suspension of the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, so graphically portrayed in the resolutions referred to. He has entire confidence in the ability, wisdom, moderation and patriotism of our Executive, the President of the Confederate States, and does not believe that the power conferred upon him by the act in question will be wielded by him to individual oppression, or otherwise than for the internal peace, safety and honor of these Confederate States.

He therefore respectfully recommends the adoption of the following resolution.

All of which is respectfully submitted :

ELI W. HALL.

Mr. Boyden, from the joint select committee on the Governor's message, as it relates to conscription and exemptions, presented a majority report and resolution recommended, and a minority report recommending resolutions.

The reports and resolutions were read and ordered to be printed, on his motion. The same, together with engrossed resolutions exempting State and other officers from conscription, which was read a second time and postponed for then, were made the special order for Thursday next, at 11 o'clock, on motion of Mr. Outlaw.

The majority report is as follows:

"The select committee to whom was referred so much of the Governor's message as relates to conscription and exemption, have had the same under consideration, and respectfully submit the following report:

The Congress of the Confederate States, by an act passed on the 11th day of October, 1862, and by a subsequent act passed on the 1st day of May, 1863, exempted certain persons from the discharge of military duty, and conferred upon the Executives of the several States the power to claim the exemption of all such persons as may be necessary to carry on the operations of the State governments. The present General Assembly, at the adjourned session of 1863, passed an act claiming the exemption of persons and classes of persons enumerated in an act entitled "An act to exempt certain persons and employees of the State from conscription."

Your committee most sincerely lament the necessity of conscribing persons between seventeen and eighteen, and forty five and fifty years of age, but do not consider the present to be the proper time or place to decide upon the constitutionality of that measure. It is believed that if the gross abuses of privilege on the part of the various departments and by railroad and express companies could be corrected, this painful necessity would probably cease to exist. Your committee are utterly unable to assign any valid reason for the exemption of militia or any kind of military officers who have no men to command, or of Justices of the Peace who have no judicial duties to discharge. Our mode of appointing magistrates is somewhat peculiar, and our practice under the existing law has almost, if not quite, produced a nuisance.

The employment of so many able-bodied men by the various Railroad and Express Companies, and State and War Departments is a gross injustice to the brave and devoted men in the field, who are daily calling for aid to repel the aggressions of a gigantic and vindictive foe. Shall the noble-hearted men be suffered to call and to die in vain, while a man is left at home who can or ought to render aid? They have been often told that these various safe and easy positions were to be filled by disabled soldiers or men unfit for field duty. This was a measure alike due and complimentary to these our defenders, but daily observation forces on us the conviction that it was a promise made, not to be fulfilled. The committee do not feel themselves required by their instructions to report a bill or resolution at this time in regard to railroads and other corporations, although it is believed that the passage of an act declaring the employment of able-bodied men, in many of their departments, a criminal offence, when disabled soldiers and others not liable to conscription can be procured, would be neither ill-timed nor improper. His Excellency, the Governor, no doubt believing that unanimity of sentiment and action, at this all-important crisis, is highly necessary and expedient, has respectfully asked for an expression of the opinion of the Legislature. In compliance with this request, the committee beg leave to present the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That in the opinion of this Legislature, Militia and Home Guard officers and Justices of the Peace, within the conscript age, are not proper subjects of exemption from military duty.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

PITCHFORD, }
AYCOCK, and } Com."
HOLEMAN, }

The minority report is as follows:

"The minority of the committee upon so much of the Governor's message as relates to conscription and exemption, beg leave to submit the following report:

The act of Congress of the 8.h May, 1792, providing for the organization of the militia, exempts the President, Vice President, members of the Senate and of the House of Representatives, and all other necessary officers and employees of the General Government, and all such other persons as the several States shall exempt; and an act of 1794 proceeds to declare and enact who shall be exempt from military service in the State; and from that day to this it has been the uniform practice of the State to declare and enact what officers and other persons should be exempted from military service.

The militia is an institution of the States, and an important and necessary State institution, and cannot, at any period, with safety, be dispensed with, and more especially at such a time as this, when bands of armed men, pretending to be Confederate State troops, are traversing large sections of our State, robbing and plundering the quiet and peaceable citizens of all they possess.

Without a militia, and a well organized militia, the State authorities are wholly at the mercy of the lawless, and these lawless bands, which now infest the State; and no proposition is plainer than this: that if the Confederate States can demand and place in the regular army of the Confederate States every citizen in the State capable of bearing arms, and thus deprive the State of the entire militia force, the States must exist at the mere grace and favor of the Confederate government. The minority of the committee maintain that the General Government does not possess this gigantic power of conscribing the whole militia of a sovereign State, and placing them in the regular army of the Confederate States, and sending them to distant lands to fight the battles of the Confederacy. Such an assumption of power is wholly inconsistent with the vital and fundamental principles of our system of government, and utterly subversive of all State authority. In the judgment of the minority of the committee there is no State institution more strictly and emphatically guarded against the encroachments of the Confederate government, than the militia.

Congress may provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws, to suppress insurrections and to repel invasions. For this, and for no other purpose, can the Confederate government call them forth; and in no other service can the Confederate government require the aid of the militia.

It is true that Congress may "provide organizing, arming and disciplining the militia, and for governing such parts of them as may be in the service of the Confederate States, reserving to the States respectively the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress." All this is true, and is admitted by those who contend that the several acts of conscription are constitutional; but it is said that this power of Congress to conscribe the whole militia of the State, notwithstanding the strict manner in which the authority of the State over the militia is guarded, is derived from the power "to raise and support armies." Congress can only call forth the militia in the cases specified, and then they must be under the State officers; but yet Congress could not demand, without the consent of the State, every officer and private belonging to the militia in the State, and place them in the regular army, and send them to distant places beyond the limits of the State.

The minority of the committee deny the power so destructive of all State dignity and all State authority. But the absurdity of this doctrine does not stop here. In the very clause in which the words "to raise and support armies" are found, there is also these words, "but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years." How absurd to suppose that the Convention that framed the Constitution, should have been so extremely cautious as to declare that so far as our property was concerned, that Congress should not make an appropriation for the support of the army for a longer period than two years; and yet, that they vested in that same Congress the power to seize every man capable of bearing arms in a State, for life, or for any term of years they might see fit, and send them to distant parts to prosecute a war of conquest. Again, if Congress possesses this gigantic power, she can call all her forces from one or more States, and leave all the militia in other States to pursue their usual avocations; for there is nothing in the Constitution, as in the case of taxes, to require the conscription to be uniform throughout the Confederate States, or to be in proportion to their representation.

Such, in the opinion of the minority of your committee, cannot be the true and proper interpretation of the Constitution; and the minority of the committee hold, that to ascertain what power is granted by the phrases "to raise and support armies," we must look to that nation from whom we have borrowed most of our notions of law, and see what power the King and Parliament of England claimed and exercised in raising and supporting armies; and also to the practice of the States during the Revolution, and previous to the adoption of the federal Constitution, and not to what power these words would confer upon the French Emperor or the authorities of Russia, had they been used in their fundamental laws where armies had been raised by conscription.

In England, Parliament could vote supplies, and authorize the King to offer such bounties as to induce his subjects to enter the regular army, but they could not compel them by conscription to enter the regular army. The King could call forth the militia to execute the laws, to suppress a rebellion, or to repel an invasion, as may be done here, but this must be as militia, and in the manner as provided in the Constitution, and under the command of State officers, and not under Confederate officers; this is another means of raising armies in addition to voluntary enlistment. But neither the King nor the Parliament claimed or exercised the power to compel any subject to enter the regular army otherwise than by voluntary enlistment; and this had always been the practice here previous to the adoption of the federal Constitution, and consequently the words to raise and support armies in that instrument must necessarily be interpreted to raise and support them in the way and manner they had been raised in England and in this country, with this important limitation --that no appropriation could be made for their support for a longer period than two years.

In declaring these views of constitutional law, the minority state that it is with no view, in any manner, to thwart or retard the operations of the General Government, in prosecuting to a successful termination the terrible struggle in which we are now involved, but for the single purpose of preserving constitutional principles, which lay at the very foundation of our system of government, and which cannot be abandoned without converting this Confederacy of free States into a consolidated military despotism. The minority of the committee recommend the passage of the following resolutions, and likewise the passage of an act making liberal exemptions of persons engaged in necessary mechanical trades, and in the production of supplies for the army and for the people at home, and also a bill agreeing to the acts of conscription as to persons between the ages of 18 and 45.

All which is respectfully submitted:

NATHANIEL BOYDEN,
MONT. PATTON.

Resolved, That acts of conscription of the Confederate Congress, without the consent of the State, are unconstitutional; for the reason that they assert and exercise the power, without the consent of the State or individuals, to conscribe and place in the regular army, without even the ceremony of enrollment, every man in the State of proper age for military duty, and subject them to military law, even before being enrolled and mustered into service of the Confederate States.

Resolved, That it is not only the right, but that it is the imperative duty of the Legislature, to exempt from military service all constitutional officers of the State government, but likewise to exempt other necessary civil and military officers, and all such other persons whose services in the several employments and mechanical trades the Legislature may deem more for the advantage of the State and General Government, than they could be in the military service of the State, or of the Confederacy."

A. Paschall of Granville, Thomas B. Hill of Orange, Wm. S. Webster, Orpheus S. Hanner and Samuel H. Crutchfield of Chatham, to which the Senate also agreed.

Also, a message that they agree to the amendments made by the Senate to the bills entitled "A bill to protect cattle," and "A bill to incorporate the Trustees of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the Confederate States of America;" and said bills are ordered to be enrolled.

Mr. McCormick moves to amend by inserting the word “constitutional” before the word “liberties,” in the 6th line (printed copy) of the third resolution; which is not agreed to.

The question then recurs upon the passage of the resolutions as reported by Mr. Grissom, from the joint select committee, as amended, and which are as follows, to wit :

“ Resolutions concerning certain acts of the late Congress of the Confederate States :

“ Resolved, That while the people of North-Carolina have ever been and still are anxious to strengthen the administration of the Confederate government in every legitimate way, and to promote the success of the common cause, in order that we may have a speedy and honorable peace, they view with deep concern and alarm every infraction of the constitution by the Congress of the Confederate States, and this General Assembly doth, in their name, protest against such infractions as of pernicious example and fatal tendency.

“ Resolved, That the act of the late Congress entitled ‘ An act to suspend the privilege of the writ of Habeas Corpus in certain cases,’ violates the fundamental maxim of republican government, which requires a separation of the departments of power, clothes the Executive with judicial functions, which Congress cannot constitutionally confer even on the judiciary itself, and sets at naught the most emphatic and solemn guarantees of the constitution.

“ Resolved, That this General Assembly, representing the people of North-Carolina, doth not consent to the sacrifice of the vital principles of free government in a war carried on solely to secure and perpetuate them, and doth declare that no condition of public danger, present or prospective, probable or possible, can render the liberties of the people incompatible with the public safety.

“ Resolved, That the act of the same Congress entitled ‘ An act to organize forces to serve during the war,’ declaring all white men, residents of the Confederate States, between the ages of seventeen and fifty to be in the military service, embracing in its provisions every State officer in all the departments, Executive, Legislative and Judicial, and subjecting all the industrial pursuits of the country to military supervision and control, reduces the State governments to mere provincial administrations, dependent on the grace and favor of Congress and the Executive, is destructive of State sovereignty, and imports an assertion of the power on the part of Congress to convert the Confederate government into a consolidated military despotism.

Resolved, That this General Assembly doth therefore request our Senators and Representatives in Congress to use their best endeavors to procure a repeal of the first mentioned act, and such modification of the second as shall secure the rights and preserve the integrity of the States of the Confederacy.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress."

And upon this question Mr. Person asks for, and the House orders the yeas and nays, which are taken as follows, viz:

Allison, Albritton, Alford, Amis, Avera, Bernhardt, Barringer, Benbury, Best, Bond, Burgin, Carpenter, Carson, Carter, Cowles, Craig, Dunn, Flynt, Foy, Gentry, Glenn, Greene, Grissom, Hampton, Harris of Chatham, Harrison, Henry of Bertie, Henry of Henderson, Headen, Hollingsworth, Howard, Horton, Ingram, Jenkins, Joyner, Laws, Long, Lyle, Leathers, Mann of Hyde, Mann of Pasquotank, McAden, McCormick, McKay, McNeill, McRae, Nissen, Patterson, Pearce, Perkins, Riddick, Ritter, Robins, Rogers, Russ, Russell of Brunswick, Sherwood, Shober, Smith of Guilford, Waddell, Wallen, Walser, Watson, Wellborn, Woodall, Young of Iredell, and Young of Yancey—67.

“Resolved, That the representatives of the people of North-Carolina, convened in the General Assembly of the State, gratefully acknowledging the goodness of Almighty God at the present, and in the past, and humbly imploring His help and deliverance in the days to come, anxiously, yet patiently, and faithfully look forward to that happy season when there shall be an end of bloodshed and carnage; when peace purchased as it will be with the most precious of human blood, and established on the basis of honor and independence, shall dwell once more within our borders.

“Resolved, That negotiations for peace by the separate action of any one of the Confederate States of America, whether in a convention of the people or otherwise, is without any sanction in our form of government, and directly against the provisions of our constitution, is full of the most serious mischief, apart from its treasonable tendency, in producing divisions among ourselves, in bringing reproach and dishonor upon the name and character of the State, and in stimulating to further efforts of conquest the spirit and temper of our hateful and brutal foes.

“Resolved, That the history of North-Carolina throughout the present war, the readiness with which her authorities have responded to all the calls of the country, her large sacrifices in men and money, the fixed determination of her people never to submit to conquest and subjugation, nor to a reconstruction of the Union, (which is subjugation tolerated with imbecile and unmanly forbearance) all attest the sincerity and the earnestness of our devotion to the cause of independence, and the establishing of our government on the most honorable basis.

“Resolved, That the people of North-Carolina do not desire and will never ask for any peace but that which shall guarantee to the Confederate States of America entire separation from the United States, and the right to determine at their own pleasure terms set forth in these resolutions, yet having full confidence in the patriotism and the fidelity of the President and of the Senate of the Confederate States, we abide by their judgment as to the mode and time of tendering negotiations to the authorities of the United States, believing that a common feeling of honor, interest and safety will accomplish the most happy results for us and our posterity.

“Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted by his Excellency, the Governor, to the President of the Confederate States, and to our Senators in Congress.” Which is agreed to by the House.

Mr. McAden then offers as a substitute for the resolutions the following :

“ Resolutions in reference to a basis of peace :

“ Resolved by the General Assembly of the State of North-Carolina, That whilst we regard the present war between the Confederate States and the United States as a war of self-defence on the part of the Confederate States, yet we do not hesitate to declare that for the sake of humanity, it becomes our government, through its appropriate constitutional departments, to use its earnest efforts to put an end to this unnatural and unchristian work of carnage ; and to this end we earnestly recommend that our government, after signal successes of our arms, and on other occasions when none can impute its actions to alarm instead of a sincere desire for peace, shall make the government of our enemy an official offer of peace, on the basis of independence and nationality, with the proposition that the doubtful border States shall settle the question for themselves by conventions to be elected for that purpose, after the withdrawal of all military forces of both sides from their limits.

“ Resolved, That we believe that this course on the part of our government would be hailed by our people and soldiery as an assurance that peace will not be unnecessarily delayed, nor their sufferings unnecessarily prolonged.

“ Resolved, That while the foregoing is an expression of the sentiments of this General Assembly, respecting the manner in which peace should be sought, we renew our pledges of the resources and powers of this State to the prosecution of the war (defensive on our part) until peace is obtained upon just and honorable terms, and until the independence and nationality of the Confederate States is established."

Upon this, Mr. Person calls for a division of the question, and the yeas and nays having been ordered, the House proceeded to vote upon the question of striking out the original resolutions as amended as follows:
