NAME THE STREETS

"CITIZEN" TAKES ADMINISTRATION TO TASK—WANTS BETTER SIGNS

Mr. Editor. The marking of Glendale's mixed-up streets is certainly most sadly neglected. At some crossings no names are to be seen and at very few are there adequate directions to guide the stranger. Autoists, especially, must have a very poor opinion of our city when they are compelled to stop pedestrians to ask the location of prominent streets. There should be at least two posts at every crossing and these should be at diagonal corners. Those who engineered our present nonsensical system of marking seemed to have the idea that all the travel would be one way and consequently the fellow going in the opposite direction has to pass the post before he can tell what street he is crossing. With plainly marked posts at diagonal corners, passers either way could tell at a glance the name of the street they are about to cross.

CITIZEN.

The above communication comes from a business man residing in the western part of the city, and is an instance as mentioned in Friday's issue that such a question should be taken up personally with the proper city officials.

As the management of the Evening News understands it, Glendale is in the process of "making." Every year marked improvements are being made in giving our little city a metropolitan dress. It costs money to procure this dress, and there are those of our citizens who are objecting to the expenditure of money now.

A kindly suggestion about an improvement in the naming of streets should be made, but it is the opinion of the Evening News that severe criticism is not in place. The Evening News editor had not up to the present noticed the carelessness in naming the streets.

LACK OF BUSINESS SYSTEM

A person should know more about the business in which he is engaged than any other business. The writer being a publisher and a printer, will say that there is a lack of business system in the management of country print shops. Every well regulated shop should so thoroughly understand the cost of producing a job of work that there could be no chance of losing money on the output of the shop. The reliable shop pays stipulated salaries to employees. The salary must be paid regardless of the output of work. Too many shops fail to charge even a price that will pay the salary of the employee. There are forces at work from so many directions asking that printing be done at a low price. The man who would succeed must be level-headed and he must count the cost that goes into every part of a job of printing. Paper stock, ink, composition, make-up, make-ready, cutting paper stock and press-work all must be considered.

Whoever gets a job of printing for less than it costs to produce it, is taking money from the printer in an unfair manner. Nobody is to blame only the printer who lacks business management. The writer has to smile or cough when a person of apparently good intentions will insist upon having printing done for less than it can be produced.

The management of the Evening News estimates cost of stock, ink, composition, press-work, etc., and a charge is made for a job of work accordingly. It is the only honest way to do business, and the only way a man can do business every working day in the year. In fact, it is the only way a man can do business and meet his own obligations. In the long run you will save money by patronizing the business concern that does business in a business-like manner.

TROPICO

The Kensington club will meet on Friday, February 5th, with Mrs. W. J. Hibbert. Mrs. Hobbert's home is at 204 South Brand boulevard.

Dr. R. T. Smith will preach Sabbath morning from "Religious Revivals and the Coming Brown and Curry Campaign." In the evening the Epworth League has charge of the service and Miss Turner of Los Angeles will speak.

The Sabbath school of the M. E. church is growing so that beginning with this Sabbath it will occupy both the church and the social hall.

The organization of a fine Methodist Brotherhood has just been completed in Tropico, with an enrollment of fifty-two members to start. Dates of the meetings will be announced later.

BUYS BIG TRACT

JOHN J. GRAF OF GLENDALE ENGINEERS A BIG DEAL FOR SESPE COMPANY

John J. Graf of 1219 Lomita avenue recently returned from Mexico, where on January 23 he closed a big deal for the Sespe Consolidated Oil company, of which he is vice-president and general manager. Mr. Graf left the latter part of December to inspect a tract of land in Chihuahua comprising 50,838 acres. He found this as represented, with the result that the company made the purchase, 1280 acres of oil land in Ventura county figuring in the deal, which amounted to more than $330,000.

This land lies six miles south of the boundary line of New Mexico. Mr. Graf leaves today for Mexico for the purpose of locating the boundary lines of the property. The entire tract is fenced and cross fenced, there being about fifty-five miles of fencing and four good wells on the property. The tract of land lies in a valley about twenty-five miles wide and eighty-five miles in length, located similar to the Glendale valley, with mountains on both sides and flanked on another side by the Casas Grandes river, just as the Los Angeles river is located in the San Fernando valley.

Several Glendale and Tropico people are connected with the Sespe Consolidated Oil company and hence are interested in this big deal.

"THE INVISIBLE POWER" AT THE PALACE GRAND

The feature which will be offered at the Palace Grand for Saturday matinee and night will be the four-act feature drama of the Glendale Kalem studio entitled "The Invisible Power." This story deals with the great question of mental telepathy and the star, Wm. Herman West, as Major Dean, an elderly army surgeon, portrays the role in a most effective manner. The cast of characters includes all the stars of the Kalem company located in Glendale, including the following:

Wm. Herman West, as Major Dean, an elderly army surgeon; Jane — as Emily, his wife; Knute Rahm, as John, his brother; Frank Jonasson, as Sergeant Whitney, an old soldier; Cleo Ridgeley, as Mabel, his daughter; Paul C. Hurst, as Lorenzo, a dance hall proprietor, and Douglas Gerrard, as Lieut. Sibley.

This drama was produced under the direction of Geo. H. Melford. Remember, this picture will be shown on Saturday only and all should avail themselves of this opportunity to see this star feature.

The attraction for Sunday, January 31st, will be the renowned comedian, Digby Bell, in "The Education of Mr. Pipp." This is a high-class American comedy taken from the famous pen and ink stories of Charles Dana Gibson.

The story of "The Education of Mr. Pipp" is a comedy drama written around a Pittsburgh family whose members are trying to break into society through the million dollars obtained by their father selling his iron business to the steel trust. They move to New York and endeavor to break into society. One of the daughters falls in love with one Fitzgerald, a riding master, who is in reality Lord Fitz-Maurice, son of an old English family. The younger daughter is desperately fond of John Willing, who has been her father's manager in his Pittsburgh business, and who has been established in the bank that her father has become head of in New York.

In the trip to England and other places, including Monte Carlo, occasion arises where Mr. Bell in the leading role has ample opportunity to clearly portray his ability as leading American comedian. After all the time spent in Europe and the many adventures which they go through, Mrs. Pipp finally decides that society is not for her and begs Mr. Pipp to return to America. The love affairs of the young people are successfully carried out and end in happy marriages.

ARMS AT SAN DIEGO

Federal authorities at the port of San Diego Friday were ordered by John B. Elliott, collector of customs, to prevent exportation pending further investigation of a cargo of arms and ammunition recently shipped there from New York. The shipment consists of 561 cases of rifles, 3759 cases of ammunition and ten bales of belts. It was consigned to John Bowen.

The federal authorities believe the arms are intended for either the Carranza faction in Mexico or for some foreign warship off the Mexican coast.

Overearing and overtalking are often trouble makers.

ORIENTAL TOURS

INTERESTING TOURIST NOTES FROM THE DIARY OF MRS. M. E. HAGIN

After spending some time in the Orient with the pigtailed and shirt-tails of the Chinese, the stiff black hats and white gowns of the Koreans and sandals, silken kimonos and no hats of the Japanese, all three kinds with their yellow skin and more or less slanting eyes, strange tongues and manners, it was a relief to get on board the good old American steamship "Korea" and head for American soil.

When we had been out from Yokohama, Japan, ten days, we awoke to find ourselves in sight of the Hawaiian Islands. It was not long before "Diamond Head," an extinct volcano jutting out into the sea, could be seen quite distinctly. All was excitement over seeing land and that a bit of Uncle Sam's land.

We soon saw the mail boat and ship doctor's boat coming out to meet us, and felt the machinery of our own boat slowing down to a final standstill, for we were at the quarantine station. Quarantine station is a big sounding name, but it is inhabited only by sharks and other fishes, so no houses are necessary, not even land. It is a place where the steamers must stop for inspection that cholera, plague, smallpox, scarlet fever or any such disease may not be taken onto those beautiful islands. It was a sight worth seeing to witness those finely built, white American officers with "U. S." on their coat collars, come onto the boat. More than one homesick passenger had to choke back the tears of joy.

The first-class passengers were seated in the dining saloon for inspection and we had to take off our gloves so the inspector could see between our fingers that there were no cases of itch. The Chinese help and second and third class passengers were lined up on deck for inspection, and all Chinese carefully counted, for none are allowed to go ashore and none must be missing when counted just before the boat sails.

What a beautiful sight it is to look upon the island on which Honolulu is situated. The mountains are very picturesque, and in the valleys or lowlands may be seen sugar plantations and refineries, banana and pineapple plantations, coconut trees, bread-fruit and many other trees growing. These we appreciated the more after we got on land and had a closer view. But we must not forget to speak of our approach to the wharf and the beautiful color of the water. There is only one other place in the world which can be compared to it and that is Venice. Mingled with the feeling of joy, is one of slight suspense, as there is a coral formation in the sea which is often dangerous for the boats.

When we were yet some little distance from land, natives in small boats came out to meet us. As they neared us they jumped into the water and began asking for money. The passengers would drop coins overboard and those men with their shining dark brown bodies would dive and most skillfully bring the coin up, put it between their teeth, for they had left their pockets at home, and be ready for another dive. Thus they followed us to the dock.

It was a pretty sight again at the wharf to see the many people to meet the steamer. It is always summer there and most people, men as well as women, wear white. It looked like some gala day as they waved their handkerchiefs and called to different friends on board the boat.

Nineteen of us had planned to be together for the twenty-four hours we were to spend. We hired a tallah with six white horses and a darkey driver and thus we saw the sights. We might have taken either auto or carriage. We visited a very fine museum where perhaps the most interesting things were those that showed us customs that had become matters of history, since under the care of the United States the people had learned better ways. These people even had cannibal tribes among them at one time, and we were also shown the utensils and implements used at such feasts. Of course, the thatched huts and some crude ways of doing things still remain, but not to any extent.

We drove by the home of the one-time queen of the islands. It is a beautiful property, well kept up.

We visited the aquarium, which is a wonder. One would never imagine such beautiful colorings among the fish kind. The most delicate tints and again the most dazzling hues may be seen. In this aquarium is to be found the greatest variety of fish of any aquarium in the world.

We saw people surf coasting, which must take the place of toboggan slides in sunny Honolulu. A board is carted over and overtalking are often trouble makers.

NORTH GLENDALE

J. E. ECKLES ONE OF THE CLASS TO RECEIVE THEIR DIPLOMAS

Dr. J. E. Eckles of 920 North Central avenue was one of a class of forty-three students who graduated from the Los Angeles School of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgery last Thursday evening, Jan. 28, at Columbus auditorium, 612 South Flower street. The class members were costumed in regular doctors' gowns with caps and hoods and made a fine appearance. Superintendent Francis of the public school system of Los Angeles gave the address of the evening and there was also good music and other speakers, and for the first time in the history of the college, the whole class received their diplomas. Dr. Eckles is receiving the congratulations of his many friends in this community and elsewhere. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Eckles, recently came to California from their home in Strousburg, Neb., also Mrs. Eckles' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dorsey, from Arborville, Neb., and both families enjoyed the pleasure of attending the exercises.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Stagner and Mrs. Stagner's sister, Miss Elizabeth Lange of 904 Dryden street, with a party of friends from Whittier, formed a motor party filling three machines who motored to Elizabeth lake very recently, having a delightful and intensely interesting trip.

Miss Idelle Pittman of Redlands is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Pittman, of 1001 North Pacific avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Webb of 1321 Valley View road leave Monday for a month's stay at Hermosa Beach, where they have rented a cottage for the benefit of Mrs. Webb's health.

The many friends of Mrs. J. E. Eckles of 920 North Central avenue will be glad to hear that she is slowly recovering from the serious operation she underwent last Sunday. Dr. Clark of Los Angeles was in attendance and she will soon be able to see her friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Fryer of 1424 North Pacific avenue were the luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thompson of 129 South Jackson street Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Young and sons, Edison and Lawrence, of 810 North Brand boulevard, with Miss Ethel Parkes of Los Angeles, enjoyed a motor trip to Palmdale the first of the week, going via Soledad canyon. They were guests of Mr. Young's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Nestor A. Young, Jr., who reside on a ranch near Palmdale. They covered 141 miles on the trip and encountered severe rains which interfered with their progress. Nevertheless, they report a good time.

WILL GREET PRESIDENT

Just to show the world that they can ride, a group of equestriennes of Southern California met at the chamber of commerce, Los Angeles, recently, and inspired by the enthusiasm of Capt. E. J. Deane of the men's brigade, sowed the seed for a great "women's brigade." When President Wilson enters the city this feminine aggregation of skillful riders will act as his body guard, five hundred strong.

SEASON'S PRECIPITATION

Whether the rain is over for this time or not is a matter of conjecture, but at any rate the sun has been out a part of the day and the clouds seem to be leaving. The rainfall for this storm has been 5.61 inches and the total for the season to date is 11.84 inches.

Following is the rainfall for this season in Glendale, according to Mr. H. E. Bartlett's report:

EVANS CAR LOCATED

CAR STOLEN LAST CHRISTMAS EVENING IS LOCATED IN FILMORE

Attorney W. E. Evans, who on Christmas evening had his Overland touring car stolen from near the corner of Broadway and Fifth street, Los Angeles, learned of its whereabouts Friday afternoon.

The story goes about like this: A description of the stolen car had been widely advertised in all parts of California. A constable in Filmore, who conducts a garage, having been given a description of the car, observed one answering the description in the possession of a ranchman whose name is J. M. Buckner. Upon questioning Mr. Buckner it was learned that he had purchased the car for $500 from W. H. Spillman. The car in every particular answered the description of the one stolen. The initials of the owner had been removed from the doors of the car and the engine number had been chiseled from the casting upon which it had been moulded in the factory.

Spillman was arrested, Deputy Sheriff Sepulveda of Los Angeles was sent for, and the suspected auto thief was brought to Los Angeles Friday morning. The car was taken to a garage in Filmore for safe keeping, and will be brought to Glendale and turned over to its owner as soon as possible. Friends of Mr. Evans are congratulating him upon his good luck in finding his car.

AN INTERNATIONAL MOTOR BELT LINE

Four great motor roads are at present under construction on the American continent. Beginning at the north, the first is the King Edward highway, extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific through the Dominion of Canada. The second is the Lincoln highway, running parallel to the first across the United States. The third is the Atlantic coast highway, intended eventually to extend from the maritime provinces to Southern Florida. The fourth is the Pacific coast highway, beginning at the Mexican border in California, running through that state, through Oregon, Washington, British Columbia and Yukon, and eventually skirting the southern coast of Alaska. And now a fifth is projected. This, it is intended, shall form a mighty arc swinging across the continent and connecting in its course all the others. Considered in connection with the coast lines it will have the shape of a stupendous horseshoe, and from this semblance it has already taken its name.

Substituting the practical for the romantic, the Horseshoe motor highway will perform the functions of a trunk belt line. Pendant from it, of course, will hang many north and south lines. These in turn, it has been planned, shall be crossed by a large number of east and west lines. Completed, the system should enable the motor tourist of the future to travel up and down and across the continent, north of the Mexican frontier at least, as easily as he now travels up and down and across a state, a county or a city.

The scheme is so gigantic in proportions that one unacquainted with the progress already made would be justified in pronouncing it fanciful. As a matter of fact, the King Edward and the Lincoln highways are nearing completion. It is confidently expected that the remaining gaps will be closed early in the present year. On the Atlantic coast the principal requisite seems to be the construction of connections between existing road systems. On the Pacific side California has spent large sums of money in recent years on state highways skirting the coast, while Oregon, Washington and British Columbia are working harmoniously in pushing the road toward the territory of Yukon. There is nothing to prevent the carrying out of the Horseshoe highway project within the next few years. It is largely a matter of co-ordinating highway systems already in existence. The greatest item of expense involved is that of putting these existing systems in condition for motor traffic, and this, in the main, will be cared for by local governmental bodies or associations.

RACES POSTPONED

On account of the three days' rain, which continued up until this morning with a total rainfall of 5.61 inches, the Glendale auto road races have been postponed to Wednesday, Feb. 3, at 2 p. m. At that time the program arranged for today's races will be carried out. Tell your friends to tell their friends.

BANQUET BARACAS

WINNERS OF QUARTERLY POINT CONTEST ARE ROYALLY ENTERTAINED

A very happy social event which the rain of Friday evening failed to have any effect on occurred at the First Methodist church when the entire intermediate department of the Sunday school gave a banquet in honor of the junior Baraca class, which won the highest number of points of any class in the department in the quarterly record. About fifty enthusiastic Sunday school students entered heartily into the spirit of the evening and made it one to be long remembered.

A short program was given in the intermediate room, Frank Butterfield in charge. Short addresses were made by T. W. Watson, superintendent of the Sunday schools; L. C. Leeds, superintendent of the intermediate department, and Rev. B. A. Johnson, the pastor. Then all adjourned to the social hall, where the banquet was spread, and after this had been partaken of in the same hearty manner that characterized the other exercises of the evening, Mr. Butterfield acted as toastmaster while the following responded: Mr. C. D. Lushy, Rev. Marsh, Wm. Johnson and Dr. C. R. Lushy.

Adjournment was again made to the intermediate room, where a musical program of the following numbers was given:

Piano solo, Lena Mai Brice.
Reading, Margaret Lushy.
Vocal duet, Eva Thede, Helen Reynolds; Pear Hunchberger, accompanist.
Vocal solo, Marfan Addison; Mrs. Starkey, accompanist.
Violin solo, Elwood Ingledue.
Reading, Leoni Brice.
Charade, Mr. Sherman's class.

MINNESOTANS ENTERTAINED

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Freeman of 262 West Fifth street entertained as dinner guests Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Dawes and Mrs. P. S. Pope of Minneapolis, Minn. Cecil Brunner buds and dark red roses added to the charm of a table made beautiful with hand-painted china and cut glass, and a chicken dinner in real old southern style was beautifully served.

The evening was spent in music. Sir Francis Booth giving as special numbers "Mona" and "Pickaninny Mine," which received unlimited applause and appreciation. Mr. Booth was accompanied by Miss Winifred Taylor, who also rendered some beautiful instrumental numbers.

Other guests for the evening were Mrs. Booth, Mrs. R. M. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Bales. Before leaving the guests insisted in Mrs. Freeman singing "A Perfect Day," as a most suitable ending to a very enjoyable time.

A LION SHOT

A mountain lion measuring six feet from tip to tip and weighing seventy-five pounds was taken to the hall of records by Dan Huffman of 1115 Kirkwood avenue, Pasadena, Friday. Mr. Huffman shot the animal with a revolver about four miles from Ovid's camp on Mount Wilson. The lion had been prowling about that neighborhood for the last two years and was sighted by Mr. Huffman last Thursday on a ledge watching a deer in the canyon below. Three shots were fired, one of which broke the animal's back.

LET THE HEATHEN RAGE

On the very spot where last Christmas day a bloody riot occurred, because an agitator was haranguing a crowd without license, and was pulled down by the police, the city council of Los Angeles has now ordered the building of two platforms as public forums, and this on the recommendation of the chief of police himself. A wise, commendable and foresighted action. The public forum is the municipal safety valve. Mere talk seldom hurts. The attempt to stop it often results in disaster.—California Outlook.

PLENTY OF ENERGY

Mr. Leslie Tarr, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Tarr of 861 South Glendale avenue, graduated from the Los Angeles high school Friday evening. Young Tarr was to have graduated from Glendale high next June, but instead he has made up his credit by extra work, so that he could finish now. He will continue in the college preparatory at L. A. high the balance of this year and will enter one of the larger colleges next fall, but not fully decided which one as yet.

Order your copy now.)

CHRISTIAN CHURCH
The contest of the men's class with the Broadway church is drawing to a close and while we are in the lead, we must not relax our efforts, but be sure to make the lead enough to win out. Don't forget that "on time" counts. This is a point that ought to be impressed on the entire Bible school.

Usual services tomorrow, with preaching by the pastor. The new phone is a fine thing, people thus being able to reach the pastor when otherwise it would be impossible to do so. The entertainment by the Baraca-Philathea classes, which was to have been given Friday evening at the high school, will be all the better for having been postponed to Tuesday evening of next week. Don't forget the date.

Endowment Insurance

Whenever a man tells me he doesn't believe in Endowment Insurance, but wants only straight "Life" protection, I ask him whether he would care much for that form if its "endowment" features should be taken away, viz., "paid-up" cash loan and "extended" values. He knows that one of its best features is the fact that these values are in the policy, so that if he has to stop payments he will still have proportionate protection.

Very few men who reach 55, 60 or 65 years want to continue payments on life insurance. In fact, only 3% of men and women are self-supporting at 65, so that if they have protected their families up to that time, and have a policy which matures to take care of themselves in their old age, it is an ideal form of policy.

The Provident Life and Trust Co. sells Endowment Policies maturing at 60, 65 and 70 at "Life" rates in other companies. This company is the only one in America which pays more in Endowments than in death claims, and which returns annually to its living policy-holders in dividends, only about 10 per cent less than the total it pays for death claims.

Digest these facts and ask me to further elucidate them. If you learn what the "Provident" really has, we can't keep you out if the company will accept you.

Phone, write or see me and I will prove all I have said.

BOSTON CHILDREN'S MUSEUM

The mayor of Boston is urging that the city park department evacuate the Parkman house on Beacon street and set up its headquarters in the remote Pinebank region of the park system near Jamaica Plain, which is now set apart for the admirable uses of the children's museum. If economy, as the finance commission insists, makes removal from the Parkman house necessary, the park department can, we understand, find quarters in the city hall that have just been vacated by removal of officials to the new annex. Such a move evidently would facilitate transaction of business of the department, and, in addition, enable it to work readily with affiliated agencies of the government; whereas removal to Pinebank would prevent a maximum of operating efficiency and also inconvenience nearly all citizens doing business with the department and likewise all employees. Considered simply as a detail of effective urban government, we believe the mayor's plan is faulty.

As for the children's museum, it is difficult to see where it could find a new site equally suited for its unique work, were it to be evicted. Its pioneer service as an affiliated but not formally related part of the city's educational plant is steadily drawing to it from other lands and from all parts of the United States educators, library and museum officials and civic reformers, who realize the merit of its practice. In the year and a half of its existence it has had 150,000 children and youth come to it for instruction and recreation of a high sort. The testimony of persons who know the district in which the museum is situated is that it is raising standards of conduct among youth who frequent the adjacent parks. Through supervised study of nature and opening up of new meanings in regard to plants, insects, birds and animals, lads previously destructive and lawless change their manners and morals as well as their pastimes. So that any estimate of the service of the museum has to include this phase of its influence.

It seems fair to expect that when it is made clear to the mayor how well suited for its present purposes the Pinebank property is, and how unsuited it is for park department headquarters, he will cease pressing his plan of substitution.—Christian Science Monitor.

SLOW CHANGES IN REAL CHINA

A keen discernor of Chinese life who has spent a considerable portion of his days in the Middle Kingdom remarks, "The problem of China is one of economics." For the past few years we have been optimistically stating our beliefs relative to the transformed China. Behold a new republic in an old empire! Sweeping changes in every department of Chinese life, young men in European hats and frock coats, women with unbound feet becoming interested in western dressmaking and society, a new constitution and a new set of politicians, closely resembling those made in America! In place of the old literati examination stalls, we have read and viewed pictures of modern school buildings, similar to those found in Europe and in the United States, while the press has sent far and wide the news of the new president of the republic, a Confucianist, appointing a day of Christian prayer for China.

Yet those who knew China most intimately and who were acquainted with the treachery and the piracy of the Kwang-tung coast, the assassinations and ineffectual delays of the new parliament; those who came into daily contact with these half occidentalized young politicians, realized the artificiality of much of this conquest of the east by the west. They knew that China had been accustomed to upheavals, political as well as social, and that this century-old land regarded not the change of clothes, nor the vicissitudes of rulers, as she went on unheedingly throughout her vast secluded provinces, engrossed with the all-important and eternal economic question of daily rice.

He who knows China appreciates that a nation, which has seen un-moved a Taiping rebellion devastating nine provinces, a country which underwent four famines in the first half of the nineteenth century, is not easily and rapidly stirred out of its age-long passivity of habit and temper. In the shadow of all this uprising and seeming renaissance, the groundwork of the rural, ancestor worshipping Chinese millions is inherently the same as it was yesterday and indeed a century ago. Some of the deepest students of the Middle Kingdom believe that these tendencies will be more than difficult to change. The view would seem to have proof in the recent Chinese happenings. Yuan Shi-kai, dismissing many of the young republicans, ignoring his foreign advisers, working in behalf of the re-establishment of the native Confucianist societies, is rapidly becoming, in everything save in name, that which the China of the past generations has expected of her rulers.

Here, as in India and Egypt, one finds increasingly the promise of new and better conditions wrought by modern scientific and social machinery. But new constitutions and new building crumble beneath the steady and regular motions of centuries of habits and hereditary thought. China may take on the glad garments of the west, she may assume the language of the present, but her thought and her motive rist out of a vast repressive past. The changes in the real China are amazingly slow.

GLENDALE HEIGHTS

General and Mrs. Whipple have leased Mr. Cleveland's place on Wabasso way. They will be quite an acquisition to the neighborhood.

Mrs. Mohler is visiting in San Diego at present.

Mrs. John A. Pirtle, daughter and little grandson returned Wednesday from a week's stay at Long Beach, where they had gone for the benefit of Mrs. Pirtle and Rogers, who had both been quite ill with bronchitis.

Though the rain of the past few days was quite heavy, it did no damage to the Heights or vicinity, except to delay work on the bridges.

The Glendale Heights branch of the county library, which was installed last spring with Mrs. J. V. Gibbs as custodian, is now in the care of Mrs. Owen. Mrs. Gibbs had moved to Los Angeles some months ago and the books were not in circulation for some time. Miss Gleason, the county librarian, being very desirous of continuing the branch, Mrs. Owen consented to become custodian. The library seems to be much enjoyed by the residents of the locality.

BUSY PRESIDENT

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones of 106 Orange street, president of the Tuesday Afternoon club, was present Wednesday afternoon at a presidents' council at Cummock hall. The Averill Study club entertained the various presidents of the district. There were about three hundred present.

On Thursday there was a joint meeting of the district and state Boards of Woman's clubs, the district board entertaining the state board with a lunch at Christopher's. The boards met separately in the forenoon and jointly in the afternoon. Plans were discussed for the convention to be held at Hotel Virginia, Long Beach, in March.

BEAUTIFYING COUNTY PAYS

The lining of the county boulevards with rose trellises and general plan of making beautiful the highways was the subject of an interesting address before the Ad club's last meeting in Los Angeles. J. L. Matthews, chairman of the Los Angeles county forestry commission and also chairman of the sub-committee on beautifying Los Angeles county, was the speaker.

"Within a few years now Los Angeles county will spend $500,000 or possibly $750,000 in beautification of the county boulevard system," Mr. Matthews said. "Our midwinter flowers are our greatest asset, as they are not duplicated in other places as are most other things we have."

Mr. Matthews said that the lovely climate had become such an old story that the people who lived here grew tired of hearing it, while the fact remained that this feature of life in the Southland was the one that appealed chiefly to people from other sections.

He prophesied that the county highways soon would be under a practical system of floriculture; that the county will own an irrigating system and that a large force of landscape gardeners would be employed to keep the roadside flowers in condition. "This is the best advertising we can have," he told the ad men, "and it will bring tangible results."

SIERRA MADRE'S SONGSTERS

John Boyd, owner of ten musical burros in Sierra Madre, Friday appealed to the superior court to prevent the peace officers of the little city at the foot of Mt. Lowe from eliminating the songs of his animals by compelling the removal of the singers.

Boyd filed an injunction suit against the officials to prevent them from enforcing the provisions of a recently adopted ordinance making it a misdemeanor to keep a burro within the limits of a restricted district. Mr. Boyd complained that he has been threatened with arrest. His burros, he said, are used as means of transportation along mountain routes where the automobile and the wagon are impossible.

Presiding Judge Wood issued an order to show cause and the Sierra Madre officials will be required to appear in Judge Shenk's court February 8 to oppose the issuance of an injunction.

IGNORANCE DOOMED

It is the piece-meal peace which has prevailed throughout the world that is not convincing as to the benefits of universal peace. The permanent pacification of the world is not impracticable. It may not come for generations, but it is coming, just as surely as the permanent enlightenment of the world, through popular education, is coming to realization. Ignorance and warfare are doomed to ultimate banishment from the earth. Let us believe this strongly and strive for it, and we thereby will bring it nearer.—Pasadena Star.

"Manholes Hurling Into the Air" is a headline quoted derisively by the Chicago Tribune's mirthsmith. What is the matter with it? A hole might go into the air if the area immediately surrounding it went along. Toss up a doughnut and observe the hole accompany it.
