CHARLES C. MOORE ANSWERS ALL QUESTIONS FRANKLY AT GREAT RALLY IN LOS ANGELES

Contrasts Strikingly With Attitude of Hiram Johnson in Direct Replies to All Interrogations on All Subjects Presented for Consideration

CANDIDATE MAKES FRANK STATEMENTS
Greatest Meeting of Campaign Closes Work of Candidate in So. California With Ovation in Response to His Manner of Handling Opposition

In striking contrast to the attitude of Hiram Johnson, his opponent, who refused to answer pertinent questions on campaign issues, Charles C. Moore last night delivered frank replies from the platform of Trinity auditorium to the list of questions propounded to him by the Los Angeles Record yesterday afternoon.

In large type on its front page the Record asked Mr. Moore to clearly define his position on (1) the Esch-Cummins law, (2) Senator Newberry, (3) the ship subsidy bill now before congress, (4) child labor and (5) organized labor, or the right of collective bargaining.

Here are Mr. Moore's answers:

(1)—The Esch-Cummins Bill

This is basic legislation and though labor opposed its final passage a great many leaders, both of labor or capital were for the bill because of its constructive attempt to settle a grave economic question which confronted the country as a result of the war. Had I been in the senate I believe I would have voted for it because of its constructive attempt to help even though many of the results secured under its operation have been most unsatisfactory. I am therefore in favor of such amendments as will correct the evils of this bill.

(2)—The Newberry Case

I did not see the evidence in the Newberry case, which was presented to the members of the senate, and have gained my information only from the press and magazines. However, this much I do know: If Newberry or any other United States senator were elected through violation of the purity of election laws I would vote to unseat such a member.

(3)—Ship Subsidy

I am in favor of a ship subsidy because the United States must permit itself to be in a position in which it was found with reference to maritime activities at the opening of the World War. The American flag cannot be kept on the high seas without governmental assistance to ship operators, because of our high standard of living and consequently higher wages for seamen and higher operating cost.

(4)—Child Labor

That there should be any debate in an enlightened community as to the advisability of employing children of tender years before they have reached an age where their health will not be affected by such labor, is most astonishing. As a man, and as a father, and as a good citizen, I favor legislation which will effectively restrain the exploitation of children commercially.

(5)—Organized Labor

In my own business I have had twenty-eight years of experience with labor, both organized and unorganized. I feel that the right of men to secure better conditions for themselves, through organization or any other proper means, is a birthright, for I have been a working man myself. So long as the means employed and so long as the methods used to obtain better living and working conditions are legitimate, there can be no quarrel with collective bargaining or organization to work for their individual and collective betterment.

The Challenge

The Record in all of its editions yesterday printed its questions under this large heading: "WHAT KIND OF A MAN IS MOORE?" And Mr. Moore answered that question, too.

Here is the Record's communication: "To Charles C. Moore, candidate for United States Senator from California: "Your opponent, Senator Hiram Johnson, declined to give the

CHARLES C. MOORE
Who is sweeping the State in closing campaign for U. S. Senate

Record his reasons for dodging a vote on the Cummins-Esch bill and the seating of Senator Newberry. He declined to state his present position on these matters. He has stumped Southern California thoroughly and the people do not know his position on the iniquitous ship subsidy bill.

"Now we're told, Candidate Moore, that you're different than Hiram. Nothing evasive about you. You're 'clean cut.' You answer questions. The 'progressives' who have flocked to your camp have hinted darkly that there's a reason, have implied that you're going to surprise the nation by your aggressive stand for the people. But nothing you've ever said or done so far justifies their position."

"Out with it tonight, In your Trinity Auditorium address clearly define your position on: (1) The Cummins-Esch law, (2) Senator Newberry, (3) the ship subsidy bill now before congress, (4) child labor, and (5) organized labor, or the right of collective bargaining."

"Tell us whether you're a labor union hater and believe in labor union baiting, like some of your powerful supporters."

"Your supporters have been assailing Senator Johnson for his silence. What right have you to silence?"

It should be remembered that before Mr. Moore's opponent, Hiram Johnson, came to Southern California with his "hymn of hate," Mr. Johnson promised to "meet every issue and answer every question," and that a list of sixteen questions were submitted to Mr. Johnson, not by a newspaper, but by nine of the most influential republican men and women of California, and that despite the fact that this list of questions was submitted to him day after day, with a guarantee that his replies would be printed, he dodged and dodged and dodged, and finally dodged back to San Francisco.

Hydrophobia Talk Is Pure Bunk Says Henry James Today

With the attempt to revive hydrophobia scare, Henry James says in his comment that the average so-called mad-dog is suffering from lack of water and from food or else is being abused. "The hydrophobia talk may be classed as pure bunk," says Mr. James, and then further down in his comment on the day's names, cites that England has banned the Pasteur treatment.

Dr. Frank Crane this evening writes about the passport and classes it as a nuisance. He writes that they are of no use whatsoever, now that the war is over, and that they do positive harm.

Red Letter days, what they mean on the calendar, and what they ought to mean in the life of each individual, are the theme for "The Listening Post" this evening. James W. Foley advises us to look at the red letter days on the calendar, "note what they mean and add some of your own by your own effort for your own glory."

In addition to these splendid features you will find on the editorial page an article by John Pilgrim, able editorials on events of the world, poetry, truths in epigram, eastern point of view, and scientific articles.

MARSHALL STIMSON TO ADDRESS MOORE RALLY SATURDAY

Largest Rally Ever Staged for Candidate to Be Organized

Before 3500 people at Ocean Park last night, Marshall Stimson, who will speak in Glendale tomorrow night, told how he was compelled to break with Senator Johnson.

From 1910 until 1918, Mr. Stimson, one of the leading attorneys of Los Angeles, was the right-hand advisor of Senator Johnson.

In 1910 he was his campaign manager. He knows the most intimate details of the old Johnson organization.

Some of this story he told to the big Moore gathering at Ocean Park.

It is expected he will review this intimate history of the rise and fall of Senator Johnson tomorrow night in Glendale.

The largest rally ever staged for a candidate will be held Saturday night at 8 o'clock, for Charles C. Moore, republican candidate for the United States senate at the Glendale high school auditorium. The Sawtelle fife and drum corps of veterans will be there.

Two particularly strong speakers have been secured to address the meeting. They are Marshall Stimson, a leader in business and political circles in Southern California, and Florence Collins Porter, prominent in the women's clubs of the state.

Mary C. DeMund will wield the baton, and all will join in the community singing, during which Moore campaign songs will be featured. Harry A. James, noted both as an actor and writer, is slated for an original monologue. He has won favor in this community for his clever readings.

A real jazz band will be imported from Los Angeles for the great occasion.

As this is the closing meeting in his campaign, all loyal supporters of Charles C. Moore will come out and join in this, the greatest rally ever held.

SPECIAL SERVICE FOR CARRIERS' PICNIC

Big Event of Saturday Is Benefit Fund for Sick Benefit Fund

With a flock of extra cars to accommodate the crowd, with all plans for the races, the guessing contest, the dancing and the numerous special features, with the price of admission set at the comparatively small sum of 50 cents, one-half century the stage is set for the letter carriers' picnic at the new Glendale-Verdugo park, tomorrow afternoon and evening.

There will be adequate, yes, comfortable, car service, for P. L. Hatch, manager of the Glendale-Montrose railway, has arranged a new schedule for picnic day. Cars bound for the pleasure grounds will leave Broadway and Maryland at 30, 40 and 50 minutes past the hour. The Tujunga bus line also offers another means of transportation via Glendale avenue and Verdugo road.

COMMUNITY'S BABIES ARE AWAKENING TO CHALLENGE OF BEST BABY CONTEST

Parents Are Filing Claims With Greater Volume Every Day, Until It Seems Every Young Couple Has at Least One Best Ever

PREVIEW OF PHOTOGRAPHS SHOWS CHARMS
Local Prizes Are Well Worth Trying for Irrespective of the Great Grand Prizes of the Big Southern California Sweepstake of All 'Tots

The community is just waking up to the best baby contest. That is evident by the spontaneity of the response. It is not to be wondered at, considering the quality of Glendale babies. The preview of the photographs which artists have already taken proves the quality. They are charming enough to tempt every woman who has the money to follow the example of Helen Gould and establish an orphanage for kiddies who have not the fond parents that Glendale youngsters are endowed with.

What treasure could compare with a baby whose future offers infinite possibilities!

What parents of beautiful children with any degree of pride in their offspring or their community could be content to have a best baby contest staged in a town with the national reputation of Glendale, and have their children left out of it! It is the aim of the Press to make it a complete record of "our very best people," and of the "younger set," and if the mothers and fathers of best babies will properly cooperate, we can show the world why Glendale is what she is, and why nothing can stop the pace her present citizens have set.

Photographic order blanks are now being mailed and we advise the recipients of orders to secure early appointments with the four photographers who are to honor these orders, viz., Mr. Ostrom, 206 East Broadway; Ralph W. Brown, 215 North Brand; Glen R. Dolberg, 206 1/2 West Broadway, and E. B. Elias, 104 West Cypress.

All these artists are good. In due time these pictures will appear in the Press, and there will also be a display in Pendroy's window.

For every child there is the possibility of winning the $100 cash prize offered by the Press, the $100 merchandise prize offered by Pendroy's, and the many other trophies in the list, which will be published in the near future. Besides this, every baby who wins a prize will be automatically entered as a competitor for prizes representing a value of over $3000, and numbering 700, which are being offered in Los Angeles. All this can be secured at absolutely no expense and for the slight trouble of signing a subscription blank for three months, if you are not already a subscriber to the Press, and filling out a coupon, giving the name and age of the baby.

EAST GLENDALE FOLKS HOLD MEETING

Committees Report Progress and Membership Awaits Fruition

Not quite so many members were present at the meeting of the Glendale Advancement association Thursday noon as the week before, yet it was, nevertheless, a big meeting, at which four new members were reported by Charles Stanley, as chairman of the membership committee.

The majority of committees are marking time until the fruition of certain work and therefore had little or nothing to report, but the postoffice committee was an exception. Its report was also submitted by Mr. Stanley, who stated he had two propositions for sites for a brick postoffice. One, which he read, was from Mr. Ambrosini, offering to build on a lot which he owns on North Glendale avenue, 91 feet from the corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway, a building with a 25-foot frontage and depth of 79.6 feet, in accordance with the suggestions of Postmaster Jackson.

The proposed building calls for brick construction and pressed brick front with iron grill at the windows for protection against theft, a rear entrance, and private room for the postmaster. On this building he would be willing to give a five-year lease at a monthly rental of $150, with light, heat and water, the furniture and fixtures to be extra.

The other proposition had not been reduced to writing, but was made by Mr. Heacock who was present, and said he would erect on a lot he owns on the east side of Glendale avenue, 133 feet from Broadway, a brick building to cover the 50-foot frontage of the lot, of a character that would be satisfactory to Postmaster Jackson, and make it conform to the requirements of Mr. Jackson. The matter had gone far enough, he said, for him to prepare any written proposition or specifications.

After some discussion the association referred the matter back to the postoffice committee with instructions to submit all the propositions to Mr. Heacock, who was present, and in such a manner that the interests of all concerned would be amply protected. Attorney D. W. Stephenson, he said, was representing the Glendale stockholders and looking after their interests. He closed with a plea to be patient.

MRS. A. A. TERRY'S PEKINGESE DOGS CAPTURE PRIZES

Glendale Dogs Bear Off Honors in Pasadena Dog Bench Show

Mrs. A. A. Terry of 815 South Central avenue, who has fine kennels of Pekingese dogs, captured a number of worth-while prizes at the recent show in Pasadena, in which she showed five dogs. In her kennels at the present time are 20 dogs, including puppies. Her winnings show that "Faraline" Sha-Mi took the prize for the best Pekingese in the show, winning a silver trophy worth $50.

Shamus of Perie took first prize for reserve winner, and Shunshi of Perie took best puppy award.

Besides these, a number of specials and blue ribbons were captured.

BURNED ON TRUCK

LOAN ANGELES, Aug. 25.—C. P. Hoover and Fred Thomas, employees of the Sperry Flour company, were probably fatally burned today when the gasoline tank on the rear of their truck exploded and enveloped the entire vehicle in flames.

PACIFIC FLEET HELD

SEATTLE, Aug. 25.—Departure of the Pacific fleet, scheduled to sail Saturday for San Francisco, has been delayed by new orders from Admiral Edward W. Eberle.

berger as very friendly to the proposition and disposed to push it with the postoffice department. He expressed entire confidence in regard to securing it on the recommendations he would make, though it would take time to put through the many channels of postoffice routine. As the sentiment of the association was equally favorable to the sites, it is now a matter for Messrs. Ambrosini and Heacock to thresh out with Postmaster Jackson and the department.

Relative to the hotel proposition, Mr. Nelson reported he had postponed his vacation to attend conferences relative to the escrow. He said it was progressing entirely to his satisfaction and was certain to be completed in the near future, and in such a manner that the interests of all concerned would be amply protected.

Mr. Heacock made a most heartening speech, in which he congratulated the East Glendale Advancement association on having more accomplishments to its credit than any other organization in Glendale. He urged all present to emulate the stubborn patience and perseverance of General Grant, saying: "We don't lay down now or ever. We will stay with the job and everything we are working for will come out right."

Mr. Ingledue's comment was: "I don't think General Grant had anything on us."

Conqueror of Ouray County Is Exiled Now

OURAY, Colo., Aug. 25.—Ouray county was back "in the union" today, following its "secession," proclaimed by Gustave Adolph Bauer.

When "King Gustave" posted a notice on the courthouse here, advising all citizens that he had taken over the sovereignty of the leading metal mining county of the state, there was considerable excitement among the "subjects."

Then the head of the "free state" sent notices of the "secession" to Gov. Shoup, to the ambassador of Japan and the consuls of France and England.

Recently the county court decided that Bauer was claiming too much land in the one-acre tract he owned near Ouray. So, to call the attention of foreign nations to the injustice he had been doing, Bauer issued the proclamation. A lunacy commission took a hand in the affairs of the self-styled "author of the world's league of nations."

Gustave was adjudged insane and "exiled" to the state hospital at Pueblo.

And Colorado's peaceful "civil war" was over, with the "union" victorious.

MERCHANTS' TEAM TO CROSS BATS WITH STARS

Joe Pirrone's Outfit Is Due Sunday to Play Game

The Glendale Merchants' ball team will cross bats on Sunday with Joe Pirrone's All-Stars. The meeting will be held at the home grounds, San Fernando road and Park avenue. Pirrone is the local scout for the Chicago Cubs, and always gathers together a crack team each season.

The All-Stars claim the semi-professional championship for Southern California, and a win by the Merchants over this organization will transfer that title to Glendale.

Boss Cobb is leaving nothing undone that will assist the locals in hanging the All-Star scamps on the Merchants' shoulders Sunday afternoon. A meeting of the Merchants has been called for tonight, at which time the lineup for the game will be decided on, and other plans for the conduct of the team will be discussed.

City Manager William H. Reeves, who is an ardent baseball fan, will attend this meeting and address the players.

The people of Glendale are beginning to realize that in the Glendale Merchants' ball team the city has a baseball nine to be proud of. The fact that the organization has won 17 out of 19 games played this season is bringing Glendale to the fore in Southern California baseball annals.

Some of these games have been won from teams that are recognized throughout the Southland as hard to beat. The hard played together for several years and number some of the stars of intercollegiate baseball among the players.

The batting average of the Merchants for the season to date shows that the boys are there when it is a matter of connecting with the ball. The batting averages follow:

VERDUGO WOODLANDS WIN PROTEST AGAINST TAX FOR SYCAMORE CANYON

Two Hundred and Fifty Swarm the Meeting of City Council and Declare They Would Get No Benefit From Improvements Planned

PREACHERS, RANCHMEN AND BUSINESS MEN
City Council Hears Speeches and Retires to Consider Matter With the Result That Proceedings Are Abandoned and New Papers Ordered

By GERTRUDE GIBBS
Long before the hands of the big clock in the council chamber at the city hall marked the hour of 7 on Thursday evening, protestants against the expensive pavement of Sycamore Canyon road gathered to voice their objection to being assessed for an improvement which was too far away from the residence districts of the majority to be of any immediate personal benefit. They came and came until at least 250 were packed into the small space back of the council railing, many women standing. When the hearing came on, some of the speakers were "just a wandering voice," because they could not be seen. A few others in the rear of the room secured a point of vantage by mounting the window sill where they could see over the heads of the crowd. There were preachers, ranchmen, business men, newcomers and old residents, and so united were they in sympathy that when any word of defense or explanation was uttered to which they were unwilling to subscribe, as one voice they united in a sullen roar. But they were equally responsive with applause when one of their number expressed the sentiments of all. It was effective, however, for when the hearing was declared closed the council members took a brief recess, and, on returning to the chamber, on motion of Councilman Lapham voted to abandon the present proceedings and to instruct the city attorney and city engineer to prepare the necessary papers for another proceeding, leaving out Verdugo Woodlands and assessing the major portion of the cost against the property abutting.

Councilman Stephenson was elected chairman of the evening in the absence of Mayor Robinson, and made a statement preliminary to the hearing, setting forth the other major improvements—Los Feliz road, West Broadway and Patterson avenue, for each of which a large assessment district had been made, as a reason for including the balance of the city in the proposed improvement of Sycamore Canyon road to relieve the residents thereon of the excess over and above the ordinary cost of street improvement. Only in this way, he declared, could such an improvement so vital to the welfare of the city, be made. He pointed out that it was more than a street—a storm drain, and, in order to carry the water would require a five-inch Wilhite pavement, in the opinion of the five engineers consulted; that the cost would be from $200 to $300 for each 50-foot lot, making the cost of the entire improvement, running for about a mile, in the neighborhood of $50,000. These were the figures given by Engineer Hill. The assessments on lots within a block of the improvement, it was estimated, would be $75 per 50-foot lot; two blocks away, $50; three blocks, $25; four blocks, $15, and the remainder of the district, $10 or less.

The speakers were limited to three minutes and to speak but once, but several got in extra clips by asking questions which were equivalent to arguments. The list of speakers included Mrs. Lukens of Verdugo road, Mr. Peterson, Mr. Kirby, Mr. Twining, Mr. Bolen, Mr. Sherer, Mr. Gibbs, who said he could not understand how it could cost so much and asked for itemized figures, being referred to the city engineer's office; Mr. Heacock and Dr. Preston Kellogg, who pointed out the effect of such a boulevard in doubling the value of the abutting property, which for that reason, in their opinion, should bear the expense. The council members were in unanimous agreement that it was unfair to saddle Verdugo Woodlands, which has always paid its own bills, with an assessment for this improvement. Charles L. Chandler said he would be willing to donate the $45 it would cost him, on the basis of $3 a lot, as a matter of philanthropy, but objected to paying it as a legitimate assessment.

Mr. Sherer showed that residents on Verdugo road and other parts of the assessment district had already paid $24,000 for the land condemned for this boulevard, yet they were to be assessed on the same basis as others, as though they had paid nothing and, if it would mean more than $75 a lot, it would be in excess of what he could stand.

Councilman Davis said something had to be done with this 100 feet of weedy ditch, and he was there to see that something was done which would not be an eye-sore and damage to the city.

KARR IS SWIFT SHIRTMAKER OF GLENDALE

Rotarians See Him En- case Art Dibbern in 45 Minutes

A treat was in store for the Glendale Rotary club members when they responded on Thursday to the luncheon invitation of Geo. B. Karr, of the Baldwin Shirt company, who is vice-president of the club.

They assembled at "George's" shirt factory where the shirt making business from beginning to end was explained and where Art Dibbern was measured for a shirt which was cut out and made in 45 minutes, so that "Art" could wear it at the luncheon, which was served at the Gateway Market restaurant.

"George" also made an interesting talk on the motives which had induced him to establish his business in Glendale and build the Gateway block, in that connection introducing all the men present who are conducting businesses in that block.

Employees of the Baldwin Shirt factory were also guests at the dinner and appeared to enjoy the program immensely.

"George" Henry led the singing and did it very well notwithstanding the lack of a piano accompaniment.

Including the guests there were 37 gathered around the tables on which shirting material served as tablecloths, and which were prettily decorated with flowers.

The meeting attracted considerable attention, passers-by stopping to look in and listen to the music. The meal was excellent and members voted the luncheon one of the best the club has ever held.

President Roy Kent conducted the session and announced a new plan for maintaining attendance, viz., to divide the club into groups each having a chairman responsible for the attendance of members of his group.

Announcement was also made that the club would entertain Rotarians of Monrovia next Thursday in the banquet hall of the chamber of commerce, and that the program would include several surprise features.

INSIDIOUS ATTACK ON STEPHENS IS ANSWERED

Attempt to Line Up 700,000 Motor Vehicle Owners Reported

Printing and distributing to 700,000 motor vehicle owners in California a last-minute, malicious and false attack on the state highways and the Stephens administration; the Richardson-for-Governor headquarters in Los Angeles has betrayed the fact already known to many that the millions of the corporations are at his disposal.

This completely unfounded, mendacious statement, designed as a blow in the last hours of the campaign, when it would be well-nigh impossible to nail it as a lie before the primaries, contains a statement that the state highways to date have cost $103,000,000, when the sworn statement of the highway commission to the people gives the figures as $71,000,000.

The Richardson crew of corporation hatred and jealousy has deliberately added $32,000,000 to the actual amount expended, in an attempt to create prejudice at a time when they hoped it would not be refuted in the same pamphlet.

More money by far has been spent in printing and mailing this one Richardson pamphlet than has been spent for all purposes by the Stephens committee. Can there be any possible doubt as to this man Richardson's complete domination and direction by the corporations?

The people are asked to stand firm; to rebuke the allied corporate interests of this state who have picked and financed a tool in order to wrest the state government from the hands of the people and place it again where it was in the days of Southern Pacific rule.

Let the corporations pour out their money for Richardson. The people will respond with a deluge of votes for Governor Stephens.

ACACIA MOTHERS ARE ENTERTAINED

Mrs. O. W. Esselman of 1721 South Gardena avenue was hostess Thursday afternoon to the Acacia Avenue Mothers' club, or mothers or pupils of the Acacia avenue school.

This club has been meeting once a week to sew on curtains and pillow tops to help furnish the teachers' new rest room, but as the sewing has been completed, the ladies spent the afternoon socially. Mrs. Esselman served delicious home-made pineapple sherbet and sponge cake.

Guests included Mrs. E. W. Evans, president of the Acacia P. T. A.; Mrs. Bullis and Miss May Cornwall, teachers at the school; Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Sudlow, Mrs. Hellman, Mrs. Seiger and Mrs. Ostranger.

At the close of the afternoon a silver offering was taken to be used to buy additional equipment for the office, other than is allowed by the board.

CIVICS COMMITTEE HOLDS MEETING

Dr. Jessie Russell, chairman of the civics committee of the Chamber of Commerce, reports that its members met this week to tentatively consider the propositions referred to it by the chamber, viz., the advisability of laying sewer pipes before paving and other street improvements are made.

The committee will have another meeting immediately following the primary election.

POULTRY CULLING HINTS

Systematic culling—that is, the handling and examining of every bird in the flock—should start about the middle of July of first of August and continue periodically about once a month until the middle of October. Generally speaking, systematic culling is not practical at other seasons of the year.

PROSPERITY NOW CENTERS IN SO. CAL.

So Declared Internal Revenue Collector Rex B. Goodcell

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—"Southern California is right now the center of the country's prosperity," declared Collector of Internal Revenue Rex B. Goodcell today.

"Internal revenue collections on the Pacific coast for the last year indicate that business conditions in Southern California not only lead the entire west coast, but that the showing made will not be equaled by any other section of the United States.

"While the San Francisco district collections show a decrease of 3.2 per cent for 1922 as compared with 1921, Seattle 34.2 per cent and Portland 35.9 per cent, Los Angeles shot to the front with a nominal decrease of only 12 per cent, due in most part to that certain war taxes have been annulled.

"The banner place occupied by Southern California is due mainly to splendid business conditions, increase in population and the unusually large number of citizens with steady incomes. In fact, there is a steady flow of wealth into Southern California.

"An increase of half a million dollars in capital stock tax collections proves that new industries are constantly coming here and our old concerns rapidly expanding. For instance, more than $2,500,000 in admission taxes were paid by theatres, showing that approximately 30,000,000 persons visited theatres in Southern California during the past year. This is a remarkable showing.

"Another indication of the constant flow of wealth into Southern California is the fact that we have added 41,802 new income taxpayers to the rolls. In fact, the record shows that few persons who have no fixed incomes are moving into Southern California.

"Internal revenue collections are an infallible business barometer and the Southern California barometer is certainly riding high just now.

"When a district like Los Angeles pays $50,000,000 into the national treasury in one year, it means big business."

DROVE MACHINE WHILE DRUNK

Volney Enoch of Tropic was found guilty of reckless driving this morning in Police Judge F. H. Lowe's court and sentenced to pay a fine of $300 and in addition spend 90 days in the county jail.

According to the complaint of arresting officers, Enoch was driving in a manner that was a menace to himself and others. At the police station he was pronounced intoxicated. He was searched and a bottle of moonshine liquor found in his possession.

He was held under $500 bail until his hearing this morning. He could not furnish the bail and spent the night in jail.

THE FARMER AND THE "RADIO WAVE"

No craze ever swept America as the radio wave. It is a wave of intense interest, of constant surprises, of untamed possibilities.

It is a craze in that everybody is "crazy about it," but there is nothing crazy about its future. Wireless telephony has become established as a definite, potent force affecting every phase of modern life.

But its greatest practical application is yet to come. Thomas A. Edison, in a recent statement, hit the nail on the head.

"Radio will be a fad in the cities," said the great inventor, "and will soon die out, but in the country it will last. (People in the cities get tired of everything in a little while. But in the country it is different. Life in the country is likely to be more or less dull, especially on winter evenings. The radio phone therefore will be welcomed on farms and villages, and will do much to brighten rural life."

But even Mr. Edison failed to mention the most valuable application of wireless telephony, the broadcasting of market and weather reports. No longer need the isolated rancher sell his produce by guesswork or upon information furnished by profit-seeking dealers.

With the installation by farmers of efficient receiving sets, not only entertainment from distant stations, but also the daily official government reports, are at his command. Here lies the greatest value of this wonderful discovery. Are you a "radio fan?"

Truths in Epigram

Be wise with speed; a fool at forty is a fool indeed. — Young (1681-1765).
The march of the human mind is slow. — Burke (1729-1797).
I was never less alone than when by myself. — Gibbon (1737-1794).
Avoid shame, but do not seek glory,—nothing so expensive as glory.—Smith (1769-1845).

PICTURING THE FUTURE WAR

Before the world war there was a noticeable practice of explaining that such a conflict was impossible. So horribly effective had become the instrumentalities of destruction, that the world, shuddering, would draw back from the chance of employing them. This made a pretty enough theory, impaired only by the fact that it was all wrong. The world has had its lesson, without learning much, apparently. There is now to be observed a continuation of the old habit. Once more war is being set forth as so cataclysmic in its potencies, that instead of killing some soldiers, and the incidental bystander, it would wipe out the lives of millions of non-combatants. In a few hours all the life of a metropolis could be effaced by poisonous gas. Therefore the conclusion is drawn, most illogically, that the hands equipped to loose wholesale death would be stayed by pity.

If the peoples of the earth should become so mad as to launch another war, almost anything but pity might be reckoned as among their attributes. When they have gone into the business of slaughtering the aim has been to slay as many as possible. If the victory of a foe were dependent upon the annihilation of New York or London or Paris, there is not in all history a glimmer of basis for a belief that the city standing in the way of triumph would be spared. The one way in which civilization may avoid the consequences of war is to avoid war. If it lacks the intelligence to do this, it will be signing the warrant for its own obliteration. Society, far from perfect, in a general way is believed to be struggling upwards. Another world war would mean that it had scored nothing but failure, stupendous, unspeakable and final, and had ceased to exist because unworthy to exist.

ONE MARKED JOHNSON FAILURE

Women of California who lived here at the time of the campaign for suffrage, know that they got neither aid nor sympathy from Hiram Johnson. They got no help of any sort from Johnson's present political guide, Hearst. Both of these were in position to be of material assistance. Both held aloof. They did not commit themselves until there was virtual assurance that the women were to win the fight. Then they assumed a place among the victors, seeking to pose as belonging there. The pair, not then acting as a unit, did not fool the women. Their evasions were recognized, their hostility fully registered in the minds of the real campaigners. The attempt to fool them now since the two have openly taken common cause, must be futile. So plain is the uselessness of it, that one marvels at the effrontery of the effort. The women of this state are against Senator Johnson. Their declarations are all the stronger because to be against Johnson is to be against Hearst. They hold Hearst in contempt regardless of any political belief, believing his influence to be vicious. They do not believe that as a democratic candidate for office in New York he has any right to frame the policy, or finance the travels of a candidate for republican office in California. They resent the insolence of the dictation. Hearst, in attaching himself to Johnson, has given the latter a load, under which a stronger man would stagger to defeat.

Women favor peace. They favored the peace treaty that Johnson, despite the pleas of his constituency, fought with bitterness. They look upon him as the proponent of hatred. They do not want him. They would not want him were he alone. With Hearst on his back, he becomes, in their judgment, an impossibility.

ON FRIVOLOUS JUDGMENTS

A writer in Life has followed the familiar habit of compiling a list of persons and things that, if abolished, would come under the heading: "They Never Will Be Missed." This is about as common, and is a far less intellectual pursuit than making out a questionnaire. It is usually a labored effort to be funny, in which the labor is apparent and the fun obscure.

On Life's list appear, among others, the names of Bryan and Harold Bell Wright. They do not belong there. Either one would be missed. In the absence of Bryan unrighteous scientists might go right on bolstering up the theory of evolution to the great scandal of morals. With Wright away, the field of letters which he so abundantly flowers, would be invaded by weeds.

The abolition of Dr. Frank Crane is suggested in the same paragraph with that of effacement of the Eskimo pie. Ridiculous as to the good doctor. As to the frigid pie, argument is waived. It is fair to say that Doctor Crane is read by more, and influences more, than are edified and instructed by Life, taking the publication from cover to cover. He happens to be one of the small group of citizens who are useful, and whose efforts are effective over a wide range.

The list includes also flappers, Hearst and chop suey. No dissent.

UNIFORM LEGISLATION.

There are human tendencies that must be regulated and directed. From this circumstance arises the necessity for statutory law, and for social conventions hardly less binding than the provisions of the written code.

As the citizens of one state are much the same as the citizens of another, it follows that everywhere that circumstances suggest legislation, the response to this should be similar in form and effect. In other words, there is manifest absurdity in forbidding in one state, conduct that in another, is considered correct. It is ridiculous that a couple may live together in one state, but crossing the line be subject to arrest as bigamists. As divorce laws now stand, a man traveling from one coast to the other after having had a divorce, is still firmly married part of the time, this depending upon the place across which the hurrying train may be carrying him. In one state children may be legitimate, but sent to another state, at once lose this standing. Boys and girls in one state may be sacrificed to greed, giving their youth and almost their babyhood to toil in mill and factory. Against such abominable practice the other states seem to have no protection, yet the offense is against all society.

If the various states continue to neglect the duty of enacting uniform laws, the drift to federal control is inevitable.

Opposition to a republican candidate as attorney general of Massachusetts is based on the fact that as a prohibition officer he once caused a raid on a drinking bout in which politicians were engaging. He confiscated the liquor, designed to be the inspiration of eloquence, and the remarks of the speakers fell flat. No wonder they are sore.

Under the impression that they were getting real beer the people of Johnstown, Penn., swallowed many gallons of the imitation stuff, and never knew the difference until the kick failed to arrive. So it was the kick, and not the beverage, they were after.

A fireman's taste seldom runs to burnt wood work.

Blood will tell, but sometimes we hate to listen to it.

The Passport Nuisance

By DR. FRANK CRANE

One of the most striking freaks of injustice in government is the fact that a consummate nuisance can continue to exist simply because a small number of the people are interested in perpetuating it and a vast body of the people are not interested enough to stop it.

Passports are still required of travellers who go from one country to another. These may have had their place in time of war as one means of checking up dangerous citizens.

They are of no use whatever now. But that is not the worst of it. They do positive harm.

One of the greatest essentials to any nation is freedom of travel. Travellers not only bring money into a country, but it is travellers who do more than any other class of people to alleviate the dangers, narrowness and provincialism of a country.

Instead of absurdly hindering travel it should be encouraged. No better move could be made than to provide for fifty thousand workmen to visit Europe each summer and to encourage fifty thousand Europeans to visit the United States.

Passports make bad blood by the surest of all methods, which is petty irritation. The English Speaking Union, for instance, is doing its level best to encourage good feeling between Great Britain and the United States. The passport system undoes in a day all the good this union can do in a month.

France, Belgium and Luxembourg have abolished passports between their nations. The United States is one of the worst offenders in this respect. Because this country charges so much for a visa other countries retaliate and travelling in Europe is thus made an unnecessary burden on Americans.

The whole business is petty, vicious and irritating. I have talked with fifty persons inside and outside of officialdom and I have never been able to discover one valid reason for passports. The only reason they continue to exist is because nobody will take the trouble to stop them.

It is a singular thing that all the countries of earth keep in employment thousands of officials whose sole business is to annoy foreigners, to interfere with travel and to do their best by red tape and nonsensical details to interfere with the friendship of nations in the prosperity of the world.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON
(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers)
QUERIES.

(Find the error in this article)
When a Clause Begins With "There"
Miss L. Ruzicka: "I would greatly appreciate hearing from you which one of the following sentences is correct: 'He further informs me that there have been detectives around the place,' or, 'He further informs me that there has been detectives around the place.'" Answer: The right verb is have been to agree with the subject detectives. When a clause begins with the word there the subject follows the verb. There is not a noun; it is never the subject; it never controls the number of the verb.

Affect vs. Effect
H. B. Hoye: "Will you please give me the right definition of the words affecting and effecting and an example of the two. This is the sentence I want explained. 'Items affecting (effecting) the combined reports only.'" Answer: It is apparent that the report, therefore, the right word is affecting, which means changing. Effect means to bring about; to accomplish. Examples: This will affect your relation with your firm; I will try to effect his release.

"Described"
W. J. K.: "Please give us your opinion on the following: 'The man said he was John Smith, 23 years old, of 1234 Broadway'; or, 'The man described himself as John Smith, 23 years old, of 1234 Broadway.'" Which is proper, said or described? Answer: The inference is that the man simply told his name. Therefore the expression 'The man said he was John Smith' is correct. The Century Dictionary—Describes: "To write down; inscribe. 'His name was described in the book of life.' (Jer. Taylor)." But the Century gives this use as obsolete, as does also the New Standard.

Yesterday's Error
"Further discussion on other points raised by Mr. Mackay shall be conducted by 'The Right Word' within a few days."
The right word is will. Use will in the third person to imply simple futurity.

THE LISTENING POST

Sometime look at the calendar. You may have one on the wall. Marking the days of the week and the month and the year. And the marks are mostly in black letters. Or blue.

But if you look through the days of the month as they are printed you will see some printed in red. That is what we mean by Red Letter Days. You may have heard the expression. But it is possible you never associated it with the printed calendar.

Red Letter Days, of course, are those printed in red. Different from the other days printed in just black or blue. And there is a reason. The Red Letter Days mark some significant event.

Not in your life necessarily. But in the life of the world.

There are national holidays. And religious festivals. Days that have a special significance to a great number of people. Red Letter Days.

Christmas Day. The day that has the greatest significance for us all. Truly a Red Letter Day. And Thanksgiving Day and New Year Day and the Fourth of July.

A lot of Red Letter Days when we come to set them apart.

Days marking some step in the progress of the world. Days that signify something of moment for us all.

And as there are national Red Letter Days so there are individual Red Letter Days.

Although they may not be marked on the calendar.

In your life, for instance. There are Red Letter Days. And there may be more of them. Depending upon you. Your birthday, for instance. Surely that is a Red Letter Day.

Then there is every day when you make distinct progress. When you achieve something. When you overcome something. When you gain something of worth and importance.

When you prove to the Boss that you are worth while.

When you earn everything you get and a little more. When you do a little more than was really necessary.

When you went out of your way to help someone in need.

When you held back the hasty word. When you made more than good in some particular.

When you made somebody happy. When you justified your existence in the world of working men and women.

Red Letter Days. Look over your individual calendar. See how many Red Letter Days there are. And then add some more. By making good, doing good, being useful, overcoming obstacle, achieving.

Look again at the calendar. See the Red Letter Days. Note what they mean. And add some of your own. By your own effort. For your own glory.

JAMES W. FOLEY.

SONGS OF THE POETS

A Rose to the Living—By Nixon Waterman (1850)

A rose to the living is more than sumptuous wreaths to the dead; In filling love's infinite store, A rose to the living is more—

If graciously given before The hungry spirit is fled, A rose to the living is more Than sumptuous wreaths to the dead.

"BAD MEN'S" CEMETERY

The "wild" west is of a past day, and the "bad men" of those frontier days have long been dead and buried. But in these restful, fitful times, we hear, they do not sleep well.

The Boot Hill cemetery, near Sidney, Neb., where many are said to have found their resting place, though not the last, is now vacant. They who slept there have been inclined elsewhere to cast their lot with eternity. For besides a great many notorious frontier characters who came to their deaths violently when Sidney was one of the wildest of frontier stage stations, were buried a number of soldiers. Through respect to them, the bodies of all in the Boot Hill burial place, since it was impossible to separate soldiers from civilians, were removed by the government to the national cemetery at Fort McPherson in Nebraska.

There is some cause to lament that almost all that remained of the earlier west was not allowed to be perpetuated. But not all will look regretfully upon the change. Anyone living in the vicinity of Sidney who may be inclined to superstition or affected by a feeling of timidity when face to face with post-mortem phenomena, real or imaginary, will be relieved to hear that Boot Hill is now deserted. For it was a place that must have been extraordinarily ghostlike and gruesome. Those to whom space was

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

WHEN BLAINE SMASHED HIS HAT

(New York Tribune)
In the summer of 1890 James G. Blaine appeared at his own request before the senate finance committee. The McKinley tariff bill had passed the house and was being reshaped in the senate.

Mr. Blaine, in accordance with the traditions of that period, wore a statesman's silk hat. This he recklessly smashed on the table in the senate finance committee's room, while he earnestly demonstrated that the house bill would not make a new market for a single American bushel of wheat or barrel of flour.

The secretary's picturesque demonstration bore fruit. Mr. Aldrich introduced a series of reciprocity amendments, which were afterward attached to the McKinley bill. Mr. McKinley cordially accepted them, for he and Mr. Blaine were enlightened protectionists, who didn't lose sight of the importance of creating markets for exports as well as for guarding the home markets.

The Fordney and McCumber bills repeat the error of the original McKinley bill. Our export trade has multiplied many times since 1890. Our economic relations have become world-wide. We have undertaken to build up an American merchant marine of the first rank, intended to handle our exports overseas. We have become a creditor nation instead of a debtor nation.

But what statesman is there in Washington today who has Blaine's vision and courage and his ability to recognize that protection is not a mere doctrine of repression? Mr. Fordney and Mr. McCumber are victims of narrow views. It is not enough to say that every American producer must have the field to himself, regardless of the effect of such monopolization on the country.

It is high time for someone to smash a hat, and to smash it hard, in the presence of Chairman McCumber and his associates.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

An attempt to revive the hydrophobia scare suggests that the demand for muzzles has fallen off.

The average "mad dog" is suffering from lack of water and food, or from terror at being lost, or from abuse. Doubtless there have been serious results from the bite of a dog. Strong men have died of convulsions after a scratch from a pin. One may be killed by the prick of a thorn on a rose bush.

A statement in a Los Angeles paper is that there are 3000 homeless dogs in that city. This condition should not be permitted to exist, if it does. To collect the strays, and mercifully put them out of their distress—for a homeless dog is distressed—would be altogether proper.

Men accustomed to the handling of dogs are bitten times without number. They do not fear the result, for there never is any result. Healing follows as promptly as the healing of any other small wound. The hydrophobia talk may be classed as pure bunk.

The paper continues by stating that in July seventy persons there were bitten by dogs, and of the dogs, thirty were suffering from hydrophobia. Arrant nonsense, no more, no less. According to favored theories the thirty victims are due to froth at the mouth, curl up and expire with a final snarl. Unless, of course, they take Pasteur treatment. As a matter of fact, nothing of the kind will happen, although some may take the treatment and be injured by it. The Pasteur process has been banned by England, having been found dangerous and harmful, its immediate effect being to scare the patient, perhaps fatally, when the bite that occasioned the treatment, would have been forgotten in a day.

Long Beach police seem to have a new problem. Having arrested certain gay young males for their conduct at dance halls, they find the prisoners to be carrying powder puffs, lip-sticks and rouge. They really don't know what to do about it.

Are there, then, in this great state, no retreats for the feeble-minded? No chance for segregation of morons?

The government is about to establish a large hospital in this state. Probably Los Angeles would be chosen as the site save that San Diego wants it, and offers to give the land. It was in this way San Diego got Camp Kearney. Los Angeles had a most attractive location, but there was no mood to donate it. On the contrary, when representatives of the war department took the first squint at it, the price began to soar.

Land in the vicinity of Los Angeles is valuable, but there is a vast amount of it, and some people have more than they ever will be possible for them to use to advantage.

Why should so much of the wealth of the nation be concentrated in three states? New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey have the distinction to be the seats of three-fourths of total income, as indicated by tax returns. If the returns were honest, which nobody pretends they are, the proportion of the trio would be greater.

Production is carried on over a vast area. The fruits of production go to a section where, by contrast with the whole, very little is produced.

There are few human traits more singular than that indicated by faith in fabulous fortunes that await the taking. Hopeful heirs ever coming forward with claims to reality in the heart of great cities. They may have the tenuous ghost of a claim, but they haven't a ghost of a chance.

Then there is the notion that great funds are kept in banking institutions generation after generation ready for somebody to call for them. Nothing to it. No such funds exist.

Woolwine had a chance at Sacramento to tell what he thought of the ku klux. Immediately there was an uproar and almost a riot. Apparently some of the k. k. k. persons were among the present. Not having their sheets along, naturally they were embarrassed as to any real activities, but they showed that they could bray without their sheets.

It is to be regretted that cheap politicians have been permitted to make capital out of a bonus bill in which they had otherwise no interest. The country witnessed the spectacle of a democratic candidate for office in New York, engaged in rolling up signatures to a bonus petition that he was aware meant not a thing but notoriety for himself.

Added to this was a slight even more humiliating. When the petition reached Washington, on the front steps of the capitol stood a republican senator, hopeful of continuing in office. He received the petition and launched into a panegyric of the democrat. The senator's name was Hiram Johnson.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Last night I heard a man lecture for $125 and his railroad expenses on Americanizing the immigrant. I'll say our Community Center did not get the worth of its money. He gave a good lecture and won plenty of giggles and applause. But his idea of Americanizing the immigrant seemed to be to lecture to him.

"Let us gather them in halls," he said—"this is a painfully free interpretation—"and tell them what wonderful guys we are and what a fine country this is we are letting 'em live in."

It was a toss-up whether I would stamp out of the room or rise up where I sat and holler at him. The man was a fish-head, a fool. The process of being Americanized would be conducted by the immigrants under great difficulties if they had to put up with lectures about us.

I have worked with my hands myself. I know what it is to stumble home, dead-tired, after a long day's work, foul with perspiration, covered with dirt, to food that was no doubt sustaining and wholesome, but was mainly filling. I know what it is to bathe only once a week because it was a half day's job to a tired man to get a bath. I know what it is to lie in sun-baked rooms under the rafters, where blue bottle flies buzz by day and mosquitoes hum by night. I know what I felt in those days about the luckier devils who had more. I have no shame that I used to stumble home from the saloon at midnight, half stupefied with beer. If I had been an immigrant in those days I would be an anarchist now—and I tell you straight.

How could I develop along any other lines, brutalized, sodden, wearing, eating coarse stuff, unable to understand more than the few words needed to obey a boss? Of course, I would have been an anarchist. So would any other man who had free blood behind him and no education and little intelligence in him.

There is a town somewhere out west, and I've forgotten the name, which is Americanizing its immigrants. They can rent big, comfortable houses with gardens and bathrooms and trees around them. They do not live in sties on mud streets. The process of Americanization has been successful there, not only culturally but in money. It has actually paid.

Out there the immigrants listen to Americanization lectures of their own will. They want to know something about "our" country.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

SUNBURN

All day the sun streamed down on the beach.

All day the little children played on the sand.

And frequently during the day they stumbled, crying, to the woman they called mother.

She was a good mother, too. She cared for those little children of hers and she fed them and clothed them properly and moved from her pleasant small town home each summer to the seashore that her children might spend the summer in the sunshine.

That was the comfort of her children when they played in the sun.

She forgot, or perhaps had never realized, how delicate is the skin of a small child.

She forgot salt water irritates the skin and that when children play bareheaded in the sun they frequently develop headache and eye-strain and become irritated and cross. They are only little children and they do not know what ails them.

Mother Doing Her Best

"Bring them back from the shore looking like Indians, with a coffee-berry coat of tan on their faces and I will be satisfied," their father had said when he said good-by at the depot to his family, a trifle wistfully.

And the mother was doing her best.

It happened that the summer was one of the warmest on record.

Bobbie, the youngest of the trio, went reluctantly out to play one morning, and his mother thought he must be sick, so she brought him in and gave him a dose of medicine which made him feel a great deal worse.

Meanwhile the children had acquired coats of tan that made them look like Indians. Between salt water and sunshine their faces were screwed up in a mass of wrinkles most of the time.

Then came a solitary little child to play on the sand. He had a bright tin pail and a spade and he dug ditches and made friends with the other children, who thought he must be a very delicate little boy, because his face was so pale.

He had to wear a hat.

Offers Remedy for Sunburn

If he took it off his mother ran and put it on again. She said it protected his eyes and his skin and that he must wear it as long as the sun beat down so dazzlingly. It was a cool linen hat lined with green. The child was never cross, nor did he run crying to his mother with burning cheeks and dizzy feelings in his head.

One morning the two mothers exchanged confidences.

"I have such a splendid remedy for sunburn if you would care to try it," suggested the newcomer.

"Sunburn is so painful and unnecessary. And I think it helps to make the children cross and irritable in hot weather."

The solitary child was so seldom unhappy that the other mother began to wonder if there might not

MAY MAINTAIN BIG ELECTRIC SIGN JOINTLY

Cities of Burbank and Glendale Considering New Scheme

The cities of Burbank and Glendale are considering a joint maintenance of a large electric sign above San Fernando boulevard at the dividing point between the two cities.

At present the Burbank sign is over the boulevard in front of the Moreland plant, the Glendale sign being located at San Fernando boulevard and West Broadway, nearly two miles from the Burbank sign, although the city limits of the two cities are only 150 feet apart at San Fernando boulevard and Alameda street.

Many motorists are misled while passing between the two signs, thinking that they are outside of the city limits of either city.

The plan is to have the sign to be located at San Fernando boulevard and Alameda street, with the words "Burbank" on one side and "Glendale" on the other, or to have the signs of both cities located near each other at the point mentioned.

The city officials and the chamber of commerce officials of both cities are interested in the movement.

A young man was wheeling a perambulator to and fro in front of the house. He looked hot but contented. "My dear," came a voice from the upper window of the house. "Now let me alone," he called back. "We are all right." An hour later the same voice called in earnest pleading tones: "Arthur, dear!"

"Well, what do you want?" he responded. "Anything wrong in the house?"

"No, dear; but you have been wheeling Dora's doll all the afternoon. Isn't it time for the baby to have a turn?"

MORELAND MOTOR TRUCK FIRM IS AWARDED LARGE CONTRACT BY LOS ANGELES CITY COUNCIL

Local Company Given Contract for Twenty Trucks at Aggregate Cost of $81,647.28; Other Concerns Also Share in Contract

MORELAND'S TO RECEIVE LARGEST SHARE

Company Will Hold Open-House Affair Tonight at Their Big Burbank Plant, to Which Public Invited; Candidates to Attend

Preference to the trucks made by the Moreland Motor Truck company of Burbank, noted for its excellent products throughout the world, was shown by the members of the Los Angeles city council, who awarded the local firm the largest share of a fund of $207,831.17, to be used in the purchase of trucks for the city of Los Angeles.

The Moreland company was awarded the contract for seventeen 2½-ton trucks and three 5-ton trucks, the aggregate price of the twenty trucks being $81,647.28.

The same number of trucks will be purchased from two other companies, but in either case the sum to be expended will be less than that awarded Moreland's.

The General Motors company will furnish 20 trucks at an aggregate price of $70,500.90 and the Garford Motor Truck company will furnish 20 trucks for $55,672.99.

The actions of the Los Angeles councilmen means a stimulation of activities at the Moreland plant in Burbank, the big order coming at one of the three dull periods of the truck manufacturing season.

Several employees who have been on vacations have been ordered back to work and new employees have been added, it is reported.

The granting of the contracts occurred Wednesday, following an alleged mix-up between two firms seeking contracts. However, the Moreland company was not involved either directly or indirectly in the trouble that arose.

The charges were made by John A. Stoner, vice-president and general manager of the Mack Truck company, who is alleged to have been approached by a lobbyist and asked, "How much it was worth to the Mack company to secure part of the contract?"

When the truck purchase proposition came before the city council, President Criswell opened the proceedings by saying:

"There has been a great deal of talk about money being spent in connection with the truck contract, and it has been said among other things, that the Mack company has a 'slush fund' of $75,000 to be distributed on behalf of that company. For myself, and I believe that I am speaking for all other members of the city council, I welcome an investigation by the grand jury into this or any other matter concerning the council."

The 60 motor trucks purchased under the contract will be used by the Los Angeles city engineering department.

Seven of the nine members of the council were present and all voted in favor of granting the contract as follows:

MORELAND MOTOR TRUCK CO.
17 2½-ton dump trucks,	$66,738.60
3 5-ton dump trucks,	$14,908.68
Total	$81,647.28
GENERAL MOTORS CO.
17 2½-ton dump trucks,	$32,500.80
3 5-ton dump trucks,	$5,248.19
Total	$37,748.99
GARFORD MOTOR TRUCK CO.
17 2½-ton dump trucks,	$4681.35
3 5-ton dump trucks,	$4681.35
Total	$9362.70
Grand total	$207,831.17

An open house affair will be held at the Moreland plant in Burbank tonight, the company having issued a special invitation to all persons of the city and vicinity to attend.

The program starts at 8 o'clock and the entire entertainment is free to the public.

Following an inspection of the factory, the visitors will gather in the assembly hall on the second floor of the office building, where dancing and a general good time will be enjoyed. Refreshments will be served.

Governor Stephens, Supervisor Wright and Sheriff Traeger, undoubtedly three Burbank favorites in the present political campaign, are expected to visit the plant tonight, as well as several other notables.

A pleasing entertainment is assured all who attend.

GETTING ON MEANS SACRIFICE AND CONCENTRATION

Real Achievement Is Not Possible If You Just Play Around

There appears to be plenty of examples to prove the declaration that, given ambition, other things being equal, any one can achieve or attain what they honestly desire and will work for.

We do not find so many discontented women as we used to see, sighing because bound down by the chains of circumstance or convention. They have been freed in so many ways besides suffrage that society occasionally is agitated at what they do. But they have found if they do not secure what they want it is because they haven't gone after it. So we find the stenographer who does not find her job satisfying, studying on the side to fit herself either for a better class of work in the field of commerce, or making plans to break away and get into something more congenial. Teachers are especially prone to this, and when one would think the classroom environment of eight months would have so gotten on their nerves that they would want to forget it entirely, we find them rushing off as soon as school closes to some university for summer work which will help them up the advanced grade they are trying to make.

It all means sacrifice and concentration. We often wonder how persons who seem mediocre achieve riches, but if we examine their lives we generally find they have concentrated on that thing, have employed their brains almost exclusively on ways and means of making a profit along some line. They have sacrificed almost everything else to it.

The student who does not value money and who has pursued other gods, cannot expect riches, but must take his pay in his own coin.

When two people have cast their lot together, it becomes a question of the family getting ahead. If properly mated they will seriously consider what their goal is to be and how they can get started on the road. It may mean scrimping economy to accumulate cash for a necessary investment, but they will be sustained by the fires of ambition and the reward will far exceed the pleasure they would have had from spending everything as they went along with no future in sight.

Glendale has more than one young business man who has risen from the ranks of a clerkship to a business of his own because he had an ambitious wife who was willing to sacrifice her own pleasure and possibly her comfort to help him to independence.

We hear a lot about the irresponsibility of the present generation and it is true that the flapper of today and her complement of the male sex are pretty light weight, but are we not living faster? The flapper has a hard case while she is at it, but isn't her silliness less mushily sentimental than the old fashioned girl, and doesn't she get over it sooner and settle down to the real business of life with more sense and initiative than the romantic idealist of the past?

The young woman of today demands more than the old fashioned girl, and is less patient when she falls to get it, is more inclined to go after it herself. So it is that the clinging vine seems to be fast disappearing. Woman is becoming the true helpmeet of man, working side by side with him up the ladder of life, not shirking her share of the material responsibilities of life.

FASHION PLATES SAY GRANDMA IS GROWING TO BE BIG GIRL NOW

Fall Will Mark End of Flapper Stage of Last Generation of Women Who Have Been Enjoying Frivolous Prankish Skirts

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Grandma is going to grow up again. Not much, perhaps, but some.

Women are the chameleons of the human race. Men have looked like wholesale job-lots since the days when they left off white wigs and baby blue silk breeches. But women are the privileged sex who are entitled to change their mode of dressing as often as they change their minds.

This fall will mark the finish of the flapper era. We will pass from a kittenish age where women of maturity pranced out in swaddling clothes into an age of dignity and poise. The apparent age of the average American woman will raise from a batting average of 18 years to one of 25. Baby stares will no longer hob-nob with galoshes.

Already the girl who displays perfectly good gauge stockings on perfectly dimpled knees is being passed up for the girl whose long satin skirts leave something to the imagination. The new girl is rather a vampish looking little thing lacking the boyishness of the campus type of last year, for long skirts are strictly feminine affairs.

Like Haley's comet the flapper will pass to a beyond that few of us will see again. Certainly few of us will ever be intimately engaged in flapping again. The flapper may return, but when she does we will have reached that stage where we are casting stitches on knitting, needles and casting slurs on young womanhood in general.

But "Hush, little flapper, don't you cry. You'll be a lady bye and bye." And it certainly will be a "grand and glorious feeling" to grow up again, into tall, willowy ladies with high heels and dignity. As for flapping, who says we can't flap in the long skirts? Just watch us. They can't take the flap out of flapper. Cleopatra, Helen of Troy and a few of these girls of the leg-concealing age seemed to have buzzed along pretty well with the men folk, so why should we worry?

PHILOSOPHY OF THE BARGAIN SALE COUNTER

Compensations to Merchant and Buyer When Stock Are Slaughtered

We all acknowledge with the Socialists that the wholesale destruction of property means loss for all, and that is why war is such a drain on the wealth of the world. Apart from appalling loss of life among the young, producing class, who cannot be immediately replaced, there is the obliteration of the products of labor, with nothing to show for it.

In a lesser degree it would seem that the must be loss for all in the bargain counter wherein articles are sold below what they cost, but there are compensations which atone for the sacrifice.

Take the merchant, for example, who is ambitious to have his store thoroughly up-to-date. At the close, of, say, the summer season he must close out his stocks of ready-to-wear women's clothing because he cannot afford, for the reputation of his establishment, to have last year's modes seen in his stock next summer. So he makes it an occasion for getting all the advertising he can, thus making up, in part, at least, his loss in the sales of other goods to the crowds who throng his store at such times.

To the buyer it is a great opportunity because she knows the later summer models are certain to be worn next year by persons who cannot afford to discard one year, everything they bought the year before in favor of fashion's latest whim. At a bargain sale she can secure pretty garments at prices she could not have afforded at the beginning of the season, and if they are becoming to her, she will be well dressed and need not worry if they are not the latest creations from Paris.

The cost of the garment when first introduced represents the cost of the material, of the making, the merchant's profit and the novel style or the creative art that has gone into it. In the last price the creator's return goes into the discard and the garment descends to bedrock value or below.

So it is that we hear a merchant sigh when he sells a customer a $50 dress for $15. He hopes and

Surprises the Gas Company

An American invention invades Europe, becoming the fastest selling range in the world.

The Direct Action Range Co.,
Gentlemen—

In Nov. 1920, on one of my frequent trips to the U. S. A. I bought one of your Direct Action Stoves (gas) fitted with a Lorain-Oven Heat Regulator, which I took to my home in England, and I thought that it might interest you to learn that after twelve months operation the Gas Company removed our meter for testing purposes as our gas consumption has shown such a great decrease. Needless to say the meter was found to be registering correctly.

I tested the Regulator by placing a thermometer in oven and although the stove has been transported six thousand miles was delighted to find that the heat was under perfect control to within a degree.

My wife is delighted with the stove and is the envy of her friends and neighbors. A failure is next to impossible with such a stove, and such appliances are one of the best methods of solving the problem of retaining the services of domestic servants, which at present are very scarce in England.

Yours truly,
(Signed) V. ALCOCK.

BURBANK WOMAN'S BROTHER GETS PATENT

Discovers New Process for Designs on Ice Cream Bricks

John Willard, brother of Mrs. J. A. Barrett, 405 Providence avenue, has been granted a patent for his invention, which is a process by which he can put ornamental designs, lodge emblems and other designs in the center of bricks of ice cream in short order.

The process is a big improvement over the old manner of work of that kind, requiring only a short time instead of a day or two as was required by the old way.

Any color or emblem can be designed on the ice cream bricks by the tools that are now offered for sale by Mr. Willard. His address is Robinson Ice Cream company, Fairbury, Neb.

PATRIOTIC UNIT INVITES VETERANS

Special arrangements have been made with the society Sons of the Revolution, whereby the initiation fee of all members of the G. A. R. will be cared for during 1922 without calling upon the old veterans to pay it, they only being required to pay the dues.

This courtesy has been arranged for by interested members in recognition of the part the veterans took in responding to the call of their country in time of need. It will be greatly appreciated by many who would otherwise find it impossible to become members of the society and thus have their family record and the part their ancestors took in the war of this country preserved for posterity.

The little draped turbans of silver or gold cloth which are so popular in Paris at present are being pressed into prominence by many of the Fifth avenue shops. They are designed for evening wear and are suitable for any color combination with which they are worn.

BOOTLEGGING BY AIRPLANE: Bootleggers are using airplanes to smuggle goods over the Canadian Club border.

Only the other day a bootlegging plane fell to earth in north York state and crashed into a farmer's house.

He can get enough money from the sale of one of the quarts to build him a new farmhouse.

All over the country farmers now are taking down the old-fashioned lightning conductors and putting up rye and Scotch conductors.

Stunt flying is bound to be a natural development of the booze-plane business.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. HARWOOD ON SATURDAY

Victim of Speeding Auto to Be Laid to Rest on Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha Jane Harwood, wife of Palmer Sibley Harwood and mother of E. E. Harwood of Cypress avenue this city, will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Little Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn Memorial park, conducted by Rev. V. Hunter Brink, pastor of the Central Avenue Methodist church, of which deceased was a member.

Her death, which was a tragedy and terrible shock to her family, occurred Monday evening. About 7 p. m. as Mrs. Harwood, her husband and daughter, Myrtle, were returning from a trip to Mount Lowe, at the corner of Willow and Hawthorne boulevard, she was struck by a passing auto going at a high rate of speed. She never recovered consciousness and died an hour later in the Inglewood hospital. She leaves two daughters, Myrtle Harwood, who was with her and who is employed in the Southern California hospital; Matilda Harwood, who completed work in the Glendale high school this year, and the son mentioned, E. E. Harwood, who is superintendent of schools in Eagle Rock.

The services were delayed by the inquest which did not take place until Friday afternoon. Will Marple and his sister, Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts, are to sing in duet several selections which were favorites with Mrs. Harwood, including "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," and "The Way of the Cross Leads Home."

While Mr. Harwood's parents have not been residents of Glendale all the time they have lived in California, they have been here so much they have made many friends who will mourn the untimely passing of this good woman and share the grief of her husband and children.

COAL RATION IS DETERMINED UPON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The administration is gravely concerned over the problem of supplying the country's fuel needs this winter. Privately, administration officials today admitted that a critical situation confronts the country.

To an already difficult situation, caused by the coal strike and the exhaustion of coal reserves during the suspension of coal production, is added the deadlock in the railroad strike.

Even if the railroad strike were settled today the country could not avoid rationing coal this winter, it was admitted. The problem is not coal production, but how much coal the carriers can haul, Secretary of Commerce Hoover stated.

A mass of far-reaching bills and resolutions demanding government intervention to effect a prompt settlement of the rail and anthracite coal strikes, confronted the senate today. Foremost was the Walsh resolution authorizing the President to take over the mines immediately.

DAME FASHION WALKS BOARDS AT T. D. & L.

Train of Fads and Fancies Mingle With Array of Allurements

Fashions, Fads and Fancies! Yes, indeed! All of these and more too were shown last night in the beautiful pageant of fall fashions at the T. D. & L. theatre. Eleven living, graceful models displayed with talent many charming gowns, for the dinner-dance, ball or street wear, some for sport wear and some for the athletic girl.

It would seem that the predominant color for fall is black, either plain or with some contrasting trimming. Black and white combination is very good. Other shades to be used are henna and navy blue.

The irregular skirt line is most used, caused either by a drape or by panels. The graceful drape seems to be favored this season. Sleeves are good either long or short, but if short, usually have a longer drape. Bell sleeves seem to be favored greatly.

One especially attractive dinner gown was black silk crepe trimmed with Spanish lace. The long waist line was used, with full side panels of the lace and lace flowing sleeves. The boat line neck was used.

For the slender miss, dresses may be worn over the hips and flat in front and back. An attractive sports outfit consisted of a red dress, with white collar and cuffs, worn with a black and white hat. The color combination was exceptionally good for the dark-haired miss. The sport suit of skirt and cape jacket, worn with a smart tailored blouse seemed to win favor for the girl who likes golf.

Many beautiful, warm winter coats were shown. Of course, weather conditions at the present time are not very favorable toward these luxurious wraps, but just wait until old Jack Frost arrives and they will be welcomed with open arms. Fur collars and cuffs will be used extensively, but the plain coat or wrap with the separate fur neckpiece is very good. Each of these coats of gowns was accompanied by a suitable hat. The hats did not match in every case, but the contrast is what added to their attractiveness.

During the course of the display, "Bill" Bode rendered several beautiful saxophone solos. Another special number was a garden dance by Miss Lillian Gunther. She also gave an Egyptian dance. Both of these numbers displayed to advantage her charming grace. Miss Gunther appears in all of Miss Hamilton's fashion shows.

Miss Patricia Pfeiffer, one of the models, gave a beautiful toe dance in a clever costume. Antonio Ronaldo, recently from South America, gave a clever whistling number. Mr. Ronaldo will fill an engagement soon at the Ambassador, Los Angeles.

Lloyd McKennon and Margaret McCribbon gave a pleasing number. They appeared on the stage dressed in riding habits and gave a very good dance. Another of their numbers was an Irish jig in costume.

At the close, Miss Peggy Hamilton, leader, appeared in a beautiful costume of burnt orange, silk crepe and lace, with velvet hat to match. She greeted the audience in her charming manner, and met with a great deal of applause for her beautiful show.

SOCIAL IS BILLED AT OWL NEST TONIGHT

Open House Affair Booked as Extra Feature on Program

A box social will be the special feature of the meeting of the Burbank Owls at their nest in the I. O. O. F. hall tonight.

The meeting will be an open one and many friends of the members have been invited. A good time and plenty to eat has been promised those who attend.

One of the Japanese delegates to the Washington conference said that the present mutually suspicious attitude of nation to nation reminded him of the ignorant Japanese peasant who was taking his first journey by rail. "Give me a ticket to Wawa," he told the station agent.

"Single or return?" he was asked. The traveler looked suspicious and the agent explained. "Now, do you want a ticket that will take you there and bring you back or not?" But the green traveler thought it a poor arrangement.

"Why should I want to be brought back when I am here now?" he demanded.

BURBANK ARTISTS TAKE RADIO THIS EVENING

Mrs. Zefer Algots Sparrow to Manage Program of Press-Newton

The program slated for this evening will, no doubt, reveal to the citizens of the surrounding country the talent obtainable in the city of Burbank.

The first radio concert of Burbank artists exclusively proved very popular, and congratulations on its success were received from all parts of Southern California and Burbank.

Mrs. Zefer Algots Sparrow, who has charge of the entire program, will render several piano selections which will, no doubt, cause the many compliments to once again shower in. She is exceptionally gifted and plays many difficult pieces with an ease to be admired.

Vern Isom, noted teacher of Burbank, whose gifted talent on the violin is well known, will also take part in the program. Mr. Isom was formerly a member of the Portland Symphony orchestra.

Mrs. Phillip McKellar, soprano, whose splendid singing has often pleased at the Burbank Presbyterian church and other places, and Mrs. Hale Kirkpatrick, who is also an exceptional singer, will take part in the program.

Charles L. Munro, baritone, widely known as a music leader, and who has also featured on the Press-Newton program before, is scheduled for this evening, to aid the success of the concert.

Miss Frances Colburn and Mrs. Myrtle Radcliff Hart, both first-class musicians, will do the accompanying.

Will you be able to look back over the past and say to yourself that you have consistently put a part of your savings in the bank?
It is much easier to save while you are young and earning the fruits of youth.
There comes a time in almost every person's life when a bank account represents the difference between happiness and misery. Prepare for this time now by saving at least 10 per cent of your income and depositing it in this strong bank.

Your account need not be large to be welcome.

SHOPMEN'S STRIKE CRISIS IN MEETING

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Negotiations for settlement of the railroad shopmen's strike reached a crisis today. Before night, it is expected, the road to peace will be cleared, or the effort of the "big four" brotherhoods to end the strike will have failed.

DE VALERA APPEARS

DUBLIN, Aug. 25.—Eamonn de Valera today dramatically emerged from his hiding place and is rallying an army in County Louth in preparation for an attack on Dublin, according to persistent rumors here.

Every man approves the strict enforcement of all laws that don't effect him.

OPPOSITION TO JOHNSON IS EXPLAINED

Ray A. Laswell, Prominent Elk, Sums Up the Primary Election

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—"When a business man finds one of his employees flagrantly disloyal to the firm, or 'working on the outside,' when he finds him making mistake after mistake, when he finds him entirely inefficient, or claiming to be the 'whole thing' when he is but a cog in the machine, he 'fires' him. Usually he gives him plenty of chance, but when he fails to improve or rectify his mistakes, he is replaced with another man, a man with a clean reputation for loyalty and efficiency.

Just this plain, fair, business procedure will take place in California when the voters in the state decide on whether Charles C. Moore or Hiram Johnson is to be the republican candidate for United States senator.

Johnson went into the employ of the people of California like a "world beater," said Mr. Laswell. "He seemed to know his job. He delegated the necessary authority to the proper assistants. His reports, as represented by his official acts, were OK'd by the populace.

This efficiency was rewarded in a business-like way, and Johnson was promoted from governor to senator. And it was in his new post that Johnson showed that he "wouldn't do."

That, to me, is the reason why the 'firm,' the people of California, will decide that Johnson has failed. In his former position, as governor, he was an undoubted success. In his present higher place, as United States senator, he is not up to the job.

A BEAUTIFUL THOUGHT Misery loves company, but "company" does not love your kind of misery.

Giving your hair a welcome rest! That is the reason for extra pieces of hair. Beautiful and restful.

Burbank recently gave an address by radio to the crowds assembled to celebrate the egg festival at Petaluma.

Burbank talked on the importance of the egg industry, and of the fitness of the celebration. When he got through he admitted that he got a great "kick" out of the innovation—only, being a bit old-fashioned, he didn't call it a "kick," but a "thrill."

The Barton Bedtime Stories

FRISK SQUIRREL HAS AN IDEA

Tad Coon and Doctor Muskrat both pricked their ears at little Frisk Squirrel. He wasn't scrouched down any more on that stone over the mouth of the tunnel where the Mink was hiding.

"Well, itth—" he waved a paw and snickered. Tad Coon looked up. Then he gave a jump and a squirm.

"It's a bright idea," said he. "It would certainly take that Mink's mind off her digging. But I wouldn't touch 'em if I were you, Stripes Skunk's the fellow to manage 'em."

Doctor Muskrat looked at Tad, and Tad looked back at him. "It's worth trying," said the Doctor. "Very well worth trying. You better go and watch Stripes' hole and send him up here. We'll see what he and Frisk can do between 'em."

apples on it. It had a fine fat wasps' nest. Stripes grabbed it, carried it to the mouth of the tunnel, and stuffed it in. Then he blocked up the hole behind it, and scraped earth in all the cracks so nary a bug could squeeze out again.

Next Story: THE WASPS ATTACK THE MINK. WHEN THIS KIND OF WEATHER COMES It has not been reported whether the Henry-Brown company on North Isabel and Wilson arranged for this weather or not, but we do know it is the kind of weather in which a fan and a Sierra club cocktail is about the acme of human desire.

'MIDNIGHT' IS DRAMA OF FOLLY

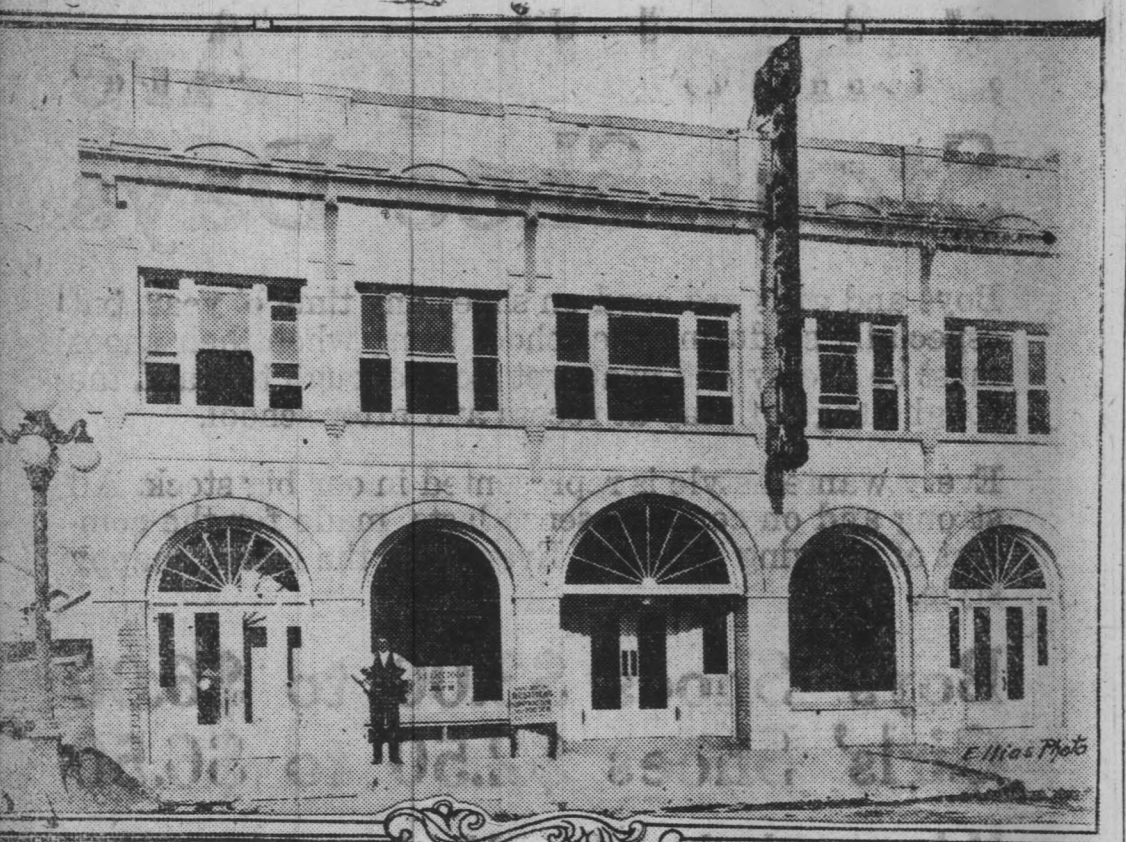

Constance Binney in the Best Show of Recent Months

More than a touch of mystery, a tender vein of youthful romance and situations dynamically powerful in the sheer force of climatic drama—all of these elements have been admirably intermixed to make "Midnight," a Constance Binney picture which opens at the Glendale theatre this evening, one of the best pictures seen in recent months.

This offering reveals still further the emotional talent displayed by Constance Binney in her recent productions as "The Case of Becky" and "First Love." Miss Binney is seen as a trusting, too romantic girl whom an early marriage almost wrecks. Later happiness comes again, but is menaced by the past, a past that is obliterated in a way most satisfying from both the entertainment and dramatic point of view.

Her "wandering boy tonight" probably is listening to a radio-phony. NOTICE ALL CONTRACTORS CARPENTERS BUILDERS PLASTERERS and CEMENT WORKERS are invited to leave their names and addresses at the WM. J. BETTINGEN LUMBER CO.

SHRINE CLUB TO STAGE BIG TIME

Pasadena Club to Pull on the Tug of War

Glendale Shrine club picnic, to be held at Glendale's new city park on Wednesday afternoon and evening, August 30, promises to be an event among Shrinedom of Southern California long to be remembered. Secretary Charles Hahn, after a brief interview with some of the officials of the Pasadena Shrine club, says that the Pasadena Shrine club contemplates coming over in large numbers as our guests. The sports committee have been busy as bees planning events that will amuse all those that attend. The tug of war between the various clubs sure will be a screen.

there will be plenty of coffee at supper time, served by our Worthy Noble Poppy Jones and his co-workers. The baseball game is late in the afternoon, and there is going to be plenty of sport during the early evening and dancing until midnight. Now, nobles, don't miss this big treat, but be one of the crowd. Come and bring that big smile with you. Wear your fez.

MISS EVA DANIELS ENTERTAINS COUSIN

Miss Eva Daniels entertained at dinner Thursday evening in honor of a cousin from Chicago, Ralph Desky, who is visiting Southern California for the first time. He will be here for only a few weeks. His parents, who have been here many times, are at the Ansonia hotel in Los Angeles. Covers will be laid for Salo Desky, Mr. and Mrs. G. Phillips, their son Harold and daughter Reba Phillips, and Miss Daniels. Miss Daniels' brother, Victor Daniels, writes from Chicago that there is no weather like Southern California weather; that when he first arrived in the Windy city it was rainy and now it is hot and sticky.

'ONE CLEAR CALL' AT T. D. & L.

One of the Best Films of the Year Is Shown

Containing every element that goes to make up a really worthwhile picture and having an all-star cast, "One Clear Call," the First National attraction that opened yesterday at the T. D. and L. theatre, is one of the best all-around entertainments offered by the screen in some time. The story runs smoothly, sustains interest, builds to a strong climax and ends at just the right moment. Here and there, through little human touches, the action excites mirth or starts a tear; and in the clamsmen and operation episodes it holds with a grip so tense that one is almost breathless with anxiety. Much of the credit for these merits is due the director, John M. Stahl, a man whose name and efforts are gradually becoming synonymous with good pictures.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

A HUMAN SORT OF MAN

JAMES W. FOLEY

Just a human kind of fellow with a lot of human ways; Fighting out his human struggle through the progress of the days. Just a human kind of fellow, and not always understood; With his share of human weakness and his share of human good. In his heart sometimes a sorrow, in his soul sometimes a song. Sometimes doubtful and uncertain, sometimes sure, serene and strong; With his joys and with his sorrows, with his hopes and with his fears, Just a human kind of fellow struggling onward through the years. Just a human kind of fellow, with his human heart and soul. Going down the way of living with his eye set on a goal; And the way not always easy, and the path not always clear; And an eye lit now with smiling and now misted with a tear. Always striving, always hoping, sometimes winning, sometimes not. Finding getting not so easy, nor the keeping what you've got. But the game is worth the struggle, and he plays the best he can. Taking what comes to him bravely—just a human kind of man.

Just a human kind of fellow, sometimes cheerful, sometimes glum. Sometimes running smooth and easy, sometimes wholly out of plumb; He's no plaster paris image, he's high up and then down low. But the human nature in him is what makes me like him so. He is far from being perfect, but the tear of him and smile. And the hope and fear and strength and fault all make him much worth while. Just a human kind of fellow, human as a man can be. Hoping, fearing, winning, losing—yes, a mighty lot like me.

PRESIDENT SENDS HI Y YOUTHS ARE TO CAMP AT CATALINA

D. Ripley Jackson Also Receives Will Hays' Photograph

Postmaster Jackson was made happy Thursday morning by the receipt of the presidential commission for his office from July 12, 1922, until 1926. It is signed by President Harding and by Postmaster-general Work. In the same mail he received an autograph photo of Will Hays, president of the moving picture corporation and former postmaster-general, under whom he received his first appointment. He plans to have both of these treasured things framed and hung in his private office. He hopes to receive before long an autograph photo of President Harding. Yesterday morning he received word that the letter box equipment ordered in May had been delayed, but he might expect an early delivery.

One of Largest Contingents to Go From Here on Sept. 1

Glendale will send one of the largest contingents to the Hi Y training camp to be held at Catalina from September 1 to 8, where representatives from 20 of the high schools of Southern California will gather for instruction and recreation. Policies for the coming year will be shaped at this time. The boys chosen to go from Glendale and vicinity are Paul Edmonds, Niel McIver, Cecil Wilson, Lee Payne, Arlin McCormack, Leslie Hatch, Glenn Perkins, Carlisle Bailey of Eagle Rock, and Leland Darrell and Karl Burnette, of Burbank.

Over 100 of the leading older high school boys will gather for the 8 days of training. The camp will be a forum for the exchange of ideas, the discussion of problems, and a source of help in finding each member's life work. Big men from all over the country will attend, thus giving the boys the opportunity of meeting prominent men. Beside this phase of the camp, there will be the recreational angle, typical beach sports and athletic events. In fact, the boys of the Hi Y will have all of the advantages afforded by the usual Y. M. C. A. camp.

Fifteen leading Y. M. C. A. and the biggest laymen and ministers of the state are to be present. Religious education will be under the direction of Roy C. Dickerson, a member of the International committee, coming from Denver. Mr. Dickerson has been at the camp all summer, for it has been continuous there.

This will be the third camp attended by boys from Glendale. Howard Butterfield, athletic coach at the Glendale high school, will have charge of that department. Glendale is justly proud of the fact that she has one of the largest Hi Y's in the state.

The world is pretty well divided between those who kick about paying income tax and those who kick because they haven't an income big enough to pay a tax upon.

Hold your tongue almost everywhere, but not in praise.

WORKERS ASKED ON BOOTHS FOR FESTIVAL

To Gather Tomorrow Morning at the Garden of the Moon

TUJUNGA, Aug. 25.—Tomorrow, Saturday, it is desired that every able bodied man and woman in Tujunga be at the Garden of the Moon to aid in the erection of booths for the Moon festival. This is the first aid that the Legion has asked of the community as a whole, and it is believed that a large number will turn out tomorrow and make the somewhat formidable task of preparing the booths comparatively easy. Mrs. Mary Begue Smith is in charge of the grounds, and maps and drawings have been prepared so that everything will be ready to go forward as quickly as possible. Millionaires' Admit Members. Already letters are beginning to come in from the newly elected members of the Millionaires' Club of Happiness and Contentment of the Green Verdugo hills. The club and its principles are known to thousands through the writings of John Steven McGroarty, and it is considered an honor, indeed, to be admitted to its membership. The club is actively engaged just now in booming the Moon festival and is admitting new members in order to carry on its work more thoroughly.

As the time before the festival is too short for the club to personally find out the many who desire to become members, applications for membership are being received by Wilmot Parcher, president of the club, to be voted on by the members.

Following is a letter from James M. Rhoades, secretary of the Glendale chamber of commerce, who was recently elected a member: "Mr. Wilmot Parcher, President, Millionaires' Club, Tujunga, Calif.

"I thank you very kindly for your good letter of the 15th, advising me of my election to the Millionaires' Club of Happiness and Contentment. I consider this a very great compliment, as it is the nearest I have ever come to being a millionaire.

"I shall make every effort to be with you on the postoffice steps, and do anything possible to assist you. Sincerely yours, James M. Rhoades, Secretary, Glendale Chamber of Commerce."

KIWANIS MARKS BROADWAY INN

The Kiwanis club members from far and near are taking note of the fact that the Broadway inn is headquarters for Kiwanians and feel thoroughly at home when they see the emblem of the order displayed prominently at the inn. Mr. Hersel, the genial proprietor, said yesterday that a party came down from San Francisco and when they saw the Kiwanis emblem they were very much at home and promised to return and bring others with them.

When a man says he is worth a million dollars he really means that he has that much money. Not many who have a million are worth a million.

Also nobody's business is everybody's business.

JUDGE M'LUCAS IS VISITING IN CITY

Receiving Highest Endorsement of L. A. Bar Association

Judge Victor R. McLucas, candidate to succeed himself on the superior court bench in Los Angeles county, was in Glendale yesterday visiting friends and working in the interest of his candidacy. Judge McLucas was appointed judge of the superior court on August 8, 1921, after receiving the endorsement of the Los Angeles county bar.

His service on the bench has proven that he has the keen judicial temperament so necessary to the position. Combined with this temperament he has ability in a marked degree.

Before his appointment to the bench he was engaged in active law practice for 16 years. He has been a member of the law faculty of the University of Southern California for ten years and was city attorney in Santa Monica for five years.

While holding this position he conducted the legal affairs of that city. Judge McLucas has received the endorsement of the county bar in his race to succeed himself. He is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, with the degree of A. B., and the law school of the University of Michigan, with the degree of LL. B. He is a member of the Masonic and Elk fraternal organizations, the college fraternities Beta Theta Pi and Phi Alpha Delta, and of the Union League and Bretwood Country clubs.

If you look into the life of the man who is fearful that he will not be properly respected, you will frequently find that the reason is that he doesn't deserve respect.
