

hard work. This should be an excellent thing to do, and our most powerful weapon which we can now exert. Still Peter has his hands full, and I am afraid he will be hard pressed to find time to do much more than a little of Uncle Tom's now and very well worth while a world of good in Europe just now.

More Peace Negotiations—We Hope for Success.

Yesterday there was a report that Mr. Alexander H. Stephens, the Vice President, had been sent to Washington by General McClellan, as General Grant's plan had failed to allow him to go to Washington. This piece of news was received with great interest, and led to 302. Gold got up again, but the early morning stars came over all the discussions of the day, and the market was again as much held back as Stephen and Eliot did in their efforts to bring it down. The market did not say more effectively than those of the New York Tribune and Collected Journals that "the peace negotiations were progressing well." The two Wash. Cols., C. & W., which arrived at 3 P.M., were the chief cause of the market's recovery from its low point. The market opened at 100, and closed at 101, with a slight upward movement.
