DEVELOPING THE CZECH WIKI COMMUNITY

Programs For Community:
» Editathons (thematic editing marathons), competitions,
» community-led or community-organized events such as workshops, photo events in Czechia.

Thanks to these programs we:
» gain photos and articles that enrich Wikipedia,
» support photographers and editors in their activities,
» expand the numbers of Wikipedians, photographers and Wikidatists.

Programs for photographers and editors
Do you know what Wikipedia would look like without volunteer editors and photographers? There would be no Wikipedia. That's why we train, support and motivate them.

Czech Wiki Photo
Annual competition for the best Czech free photo on Wikimedia Commons.

EDUCATING

Educational programs for:
» Seniors,
» librarians,
» university and high school students,
» teachers and youth workers,
» the general public.

Seniors write Wikipedia
We organize courses for seniors so that their acquired life wisdom can find its place on Wikipedia.

Programs for libraries
Through our courses and workshops, librarians learn how to work with Wikipedia and pass this skill on.

Programs for schools
Wiki belongs to schools - come edit and work with information alongside students.

Students write Wikipedia
No more term papers that no one ever sees after they are handed in. The future belongs to open and shared knowledge.

BUILDING PARTNERSHIPS WITH INSTITUTIONS

Partnership programs
» Establishing and developing partnerships and collaborations with strategic institutions,
» acquiring free databases,
» linking data to Wikipedia articles.

GLAM (Galleries, Libraries, Archives & Museums)
Institutions have valuable digital content and information, and Wikipedia can get it to many more people. Let's do it together!

Defending free information
Wikimedia needs advocacy too. Whenever legislative changes affect the freedoms of the projects, we defend them.

Supporting the tech community
We organize workshops, talks and hackathons, especially for Wikidata volunteers.

Negotiating with database operators
Czech institutions have valuable data. We work with dozens of them and strive to improve wiki projects by linking their databases to Wikidata.
