P R E F A C E .

THE Library of the Cambridge High School owes its origin partly to the liberality of a private individual, and partly to encouragement afforded by the Legislature of the State of Massachusetts. The nature of this encouragement may be learned from the following Resolve, which was approved March 7, 1843.

“Resolved, That the provisions of the Resolve of March third, eighteen hundred and forty-two, concerning school-district libraries, be, and the same are hereby, extended to every city and town in the Commonwealth, not heretofore divided into school districts, in such manner as to give as many times fifteen dollars to every such city or town as the number sixty is contained, exclusive of fractions, in the number of children between the ages of four and sixteen years in said city or town; provided evidence be produced to the Treasurer, in behalf of said city or town, of its having raised and appropriated, for the establishment of libraries, a sum equal to that which, by the provision of this Resolve, it is entitled to receive from the school fund.”

The School Committee of Cambridge, in their Report for the year 1843, recommended to the town to raise the sum necessary to authorize it to draw an equal amount from the State Treasury. This recommendation was not adopted. But, in the spring of 1850, the present Master of the High School, Mr. Elbridge Smith, generously offered to place at the disposal of the City Council a number of suitable books, selected from his private library, of sufficient value to enable the city to avail itself of the patronage of the State. The offer was accepted. The books presented to the City Council were appropriated to the High School, and an order was drawn by the Mayor on the State Treasurer to the amount of $ 825. This money was expended for the purchase of books, under the direction of the School Committee.*

The value of the Library at its commencement, it thus appears, was $ 1,650. Since that time, considerable additions have been made. Several hundred volumes have been given by Mr. Smith, and valuable donations of books have been received from other individuals, among whom may be mentioned the Hon. Edward Everett, George Livermore, Esq., Prof. Benjamin Peirce, Prof. C. C. Felton, Prof. Henry W. Longfellow, the Rev. George R. Noyes, D.D., John Sargent, Esq., Charles Folsom, Esq., John E. Horr, Esq., Zelotes Hosmer, Esq., and Master William Everett. The city has appropriated $ 75 for the purchase of books and for binding, and has procured a book-case at an expense of $ 115. The present value of the Library, which now contains about sixteen hundred volumes, may be estimated at not far from $ 2,400.

* For a list of the books presented and purchased, see the Report of the School Committee of Cambridge for 1850.

A GOOD alphabetical catalogue of a library will be entirely satisfactory to one who knows all the books which may be useful or interesting to him, and who, accordingly, wishes simply to ascertain whether certain works are to be found in it. But, as such extensive bibliographical knowledge was hardly to be presupposed in the members of the Cambridge High School, I could not doubt that for them, at least, a classed catalogue, one which should guide them to the sources of information on particular subjects, would be far more valuable. It is hoped that the use of such a catalogue may promote the formation of those habits of investigation and research, which are essential to success in the pursuit of truth, — without which even genius may only mislead and bewilder its possessor. When the curiosity of the student is excited, it is most desirable that he should have every facility for pursuing the inquiries to which he is led, that he may thus be encouraged to examine and think for himself.

One who has become acquainted with the books of a well-selected library of one or two thousand volumes, and has learned how to turn them to account, will find this knowledge and experience of very great service to him, should he afterwards have access to larger collections. And if the classification adopted be not unnatural and arbitrary, the use of a classed catalogue, and the habit to which it leads of referring books to their proper place in a systematic arrangement of the different departments of literature, cannot be without value as a means of mental discipline. It may be, also, that, to those who are just beginning to traverse the vast fields of literature and science, a survey, as if from some eminence, of the territory that lies before them, will enable them to understand better the relations of its different parts to each other, will give them new conceptions of the varied objects of interest which it presents, and animate them to press cheerfully through the somewhat tangled and thorny paths by which it is to be entered.

THE Classification here adopted may be seen in the synopsis prefixed to the Catalogue. It is necessarily imperfect. The different branches of human knowledge are so intimately connected, that no scheme of classification can be devised, in which the several classes will not run into each other; and in the practical application of any system it will be found that some books belong equally to two or more different divisions. When such is the case with respect to any work, its title has usually been recorded in full under only one of these divisions, and briefly noticed under the others, with a reference to the complete entry. The affinities between different classes have often been pointed out by notes, which will also, it is hoped, aid the student who wishes to find what the library contains on a particular subject.

The Alphabetical Index at the end of the volume will show at once whether a particular work belongs to the library.

IN each Class, the titles of the works belonging to it are entered alphabetically under their authors' names, when these are known; or, in the case of anonymous publications whose authors are not ascertained, under the first word of the title, not an article or a preposition. (See INTRODUCTION, p. 39.) Pseudonymous works, if the true name of the author is not known, are entered under the assumed name. (See BROWN, p. 202.) Care has been taken to make such references from the most important words in the title, and from the assumed name, as will enable one readily to find the entry of any anonymous or pseudonymous work which is placed under the name of its author. (See PENITENTIAL, p. 28; PARLEY, p. 2.) — There is one important exception to the rule given above. In Class XXIV. Part II. (INDIVIDUAL BIOGRAPHY) the names of the subjects, not the authors, of the works contained in it are prefixed to their titles; and, as the authors' names all appear in the Index, it has not been thought necessary to make cross-references from them in this Part.

Works published by any organized society, using the term in its most comprehensive sense, if the production of its officers or agents in their official capacity, and also if anonymous, or polyonymous (that is, bearing the names of several authors), are entered under the name of the society. The first word of that name, not an article, is made the leading word in the heading. This rule is intended to include documents published by national, municipal, and other governments. (See CENTRAL SOCIETY, etc., p. 21; MASSACHUSETTS, p. 26; CAMBRIDGE, p. 11.) In cases not comprehended in the preceding statement, if the author's name is prefixed to a work published by a society, the work is entered under his name. (See MALKIN, p. 168.) All the works, however, published by a society are noticed under its name in the Index.

Periodical publications, except those issued by societies, are entered under the first word of their titles, not an article, with cross-references from the names of editors, and from other words under which they might naturally be looked for. (See AMERICAN Annals of Education, p. 16; COMMON SCHOOL Journal, p. 22.)

Collections embracing the works of several authors under a general title, except such as may be included in the two preceding rules, are entered under the name of the editor. (See SPARKS, p. 125; BRANDE, p. 199.)* If the editor's name does not appear, such a collection is treated as an anonymous work, unless the authors' names are given on the title-page, in which case it is catalogued under the first of these. (See SMALL Books, p. 208; CRABBE, p. 99.)

When any work forming part of a collection has an independent title-page and pagination, it is also catalogued separately under the class to which it belongs, its place in the collection, however, being indicated by a reference, within parentheses, at the end of the title. (See BARLOW, p. 1; DE MORGAN, p. 33.)

In accordance with the spirit of this rule, though it is not strictly required by its letter, the tracts composing Chambers's "Miscellany," "Papers for the People," and "Repository of Instructive and Amusing Papers," have all been classed and entered as distinct works. There was a special reason for doing this in the present Catalogue, as these tracts are admirably adapted to the wants of those for whose use it is chiefly intended. They were all, it is also to be observed, originally printed and paged independently. (See p. 202.)

In like manner, the titles of the various treatises contained in the first thirteen volumes of the Encyclopædia Metropolitana, with the exception of some anonymous portions of the first volume, have been inserted in their proper places in the Catalogue under the names of their authors. The articles in these volumes are not arranged alphabetically, as they are in the remainder of the work, and many of them have been published independently. (See SMEDLEY, p. 200.)

A similar course has been pursued in respect to the different works which are comprised in the four volumes entitled "Natural Philosophy," published by the Society for the Diffusion of Useful Knowledge. (See SOCIETY, etc., p. 42.)

In some instances, a reference has been made under the proper Class to a particular treatise of especial interest or importance included in the collected writings of an author, which are entered under a different Class. (See MILTON, p. 13; CHANNING, p. 22.)

All the more important biographical collections, not alphabetical, which belong to the library, have been analyzed; that is to say, in Class XXIV. Part II. references are made to the biographical sketches contained in them, under the names of those to whom they relate. (See p. 126.) This course has been pursued with the thirty-one volumes of Lardner's "Cabinet Cyclopædia" which are devoted to biography, Sparks's "Library of American Biography," twenty-five volumes, Belknap's "American Biography," Brougham's "Historical Sketches of Statesmen" and his "Lives of Men of Letters and Science," Mrs. Jameson's "Memoirs of Celebrated Female Sovereigns," "St. John's Lives of Celebrated Travellers," and many other collections.

In some cases it has appeared advisable to specify the contents of particular works. For the mode in which this has been done in the case of biographical collections not analyzed, see FÉNELON, p. 121; PLUTARCHUS, p. 124. For examples of another kind, see PALEY, p. 8; AMERICAN INSTITUTE, etc., p. 17; MACAULAY, p. 207.

* According to this rule, the second entry under PHÆDRUS, p. 91, should have been placed under CAREY.

SOME explanations may now be given respecting the headings of the titles, or the words which determine their place in the alphabetical arrangement.

These consist, for the most part, of the surnames of authors, which, as well as their Christian names, appear in their vernacular form.

There are a few exceptions to this rule. The works and biographies of canonized persons, as Thomas Aquinas, are entered under their Christian names. Sovereigns are also designated by their Christian names, in the form in which they are commonly written in English. The names of ancient Greek authors, of the Fathers of the Church, and of authors of the Middle Ages who wrote wholly in Latin, with a few others, as Confucius, Copernicus, Grotius, are given in their Latin form.

In respect to surnames with prefixes, the following rules have been observed. In English names, the prefix is treated as a part of the surname. Accordingly, in the alphabetical series, De Morgan and D'Israeli are placed under D. — In all other languages except the French, surnames are entered under the letter following the prefix; as Von Humboldt, under H; Las Casas under C; Della Valle, under V. In French, also, this rule applies to names preceded by the preposition de; thus De Monts is placed under M. — French surnames preceded by Le, La, L', are entered under L, as Le Vaillant, La Fontaine, L'Épée; if preceded by Du or Des, under D, as Du Bois, Des Cartes, more commonly written Dubois, Descartes.

Compound surnames, except English, are generally entered under the first part of the name, as Calderon de la Barca, Cubi i Soler, Merle d'Aubigné, Simonde de Sismondi. But it has not been thought expedient to put Fénelon under Salignac, though the rule has been carried to this extent by Lelong, in that monument of bibliographical industry and skill, the "Bibliothèque Historique de la France."

The works and biographies of English noblemen and ecclesiastical dignitaries are catalogued under their family names, not their titles, even though they may be more generally known by the latter. The Duke of Marlborough accordingly appears under Churchill, Lord Chatham under Pitt, and Lord Mahon under Stanhope. There can be little doubt that this is the best rule for English names, and perhaps it should be made universal, as it is in the new Catalogue of the British Museum and by Professor Jewett of the Smithsonian Institution. But partly from a doubt of the expediency of putting Buffon under Leclerc, Condorcet under Caritat, Lacépède under La Ville, Mirabeau under Riquetti, Richelieu under Du Plessis, Madame de Genlis under Ducrest de Saint-Aubin, and, as would seem to be required, Lafayette under Motier, to give no more examples, — and partly from the impossibility of determining with confidence, in some cases, whether a particular name is to be regarded as a family name or only as part of a title, — I have enrolled all noblemen except British under their titular appellations. This accords with the general usage in French and German biographical and bibliographical works. The necessary cross-references have been made from name to title, and vice versa.

Family names and prefixes to them, which, for any reason, do not stand in the heading of the title as a part of the surname, but are placed after it in a parenthesis with the Christian name, are printed in small capitals. This rule includes the case of names changed by the assumption of a new surname, when the original name is also retained; as, SIGOURNEY (Mrs. Lydia HUNTLEY); TOOKE (John HORNE). The maiden name of a married woman, if not known to be retained, is likewise printed in small capitals, but in brackets. (See LOWELL, p. 25; HALL, p. 107.) The works of an author whose name has been changed are all entered under his last-adopted name, with the necessary cross-references.

Some persons who have two or more Christian names are generally designated by only one of them, and no more than this may appear on the title-pages of their works.

In such instances, this name is distinguished by being printed in spaced letters. When the initial only is used, as in cross-references and in the Index, it is italicized. (See SCHLEGEL, p. 2; VILLAGE Mayor, p. 110.)*

The heading of a title is inclosed in brackets when it does not appear in any form on the title-page.

In transcribing titles, no alteration has been intentionally made in the language of the author, and even the orthography and punctuation have been scrupulously preserved. The following abbreviations have, however, been used: "Ed." for "Edition"; "1st," "2d," "3d," etc. for "first," "second," "third," in designating the number of the edition; and, not unfrequently, the initial only of a name is given in the title, when that name appears in full in the heading. I now, however, doubt the expediency of this use of initials.

In works consisting of several volumes, it occasionally happens that their titles differ. Such differences are sometimes pointed out in a note. More frequently, after giving the title of the first volume, it has been found convenient to add the peculiarities in the titles of others, indicating the transition from the title of one volume to another by the sign | . For examples, see ARNOLD, pp. 6, 7; AMERICAN Annals, etc., p. 16; AMERICAN Almanac, p. 111; BANCROFT, p. 183.

For illustrations of the course which has been pursued in the case of volumes with double titles, one general and the other special, or one engraved and the other printed, differing from each other, see BUTLER, CHALMERS, p. 3; WARE, p. 9; EWBANK, p. 192.

Additions to a title are inclosed in brackets; any omission, except of the mere designation of the author's name when that appears in the heading, is denoted by three dots.

The abbreviation N. D. is used for "No date." It must be mentioned, that no reliance can be placed on the date of stereotyped books printed in this country, as affording evidence of the time of their publication. The common booksellers' trick of affixing false dates to the works which they issue, with the view of promoting their sale, and, especially, of postdating them by three or four months, if published so near the end of the year, is to be reprobated as a falsification of literary history, with which all other history is so intimately connected.

In accordance with general usage, the terms folio, quarto, octavo, etc., or rather their abbreviations, have been used in designating the form of books. They denote, as every one knows, the number of leaves into which the printed sheet is folded. But this is what the best bibliographer cannot always determine, without knowing the size of the sheet. The signatures often fail him, because they may be the same in several different forms; for example, they are eight leaves apart in an ordinary octavo and in a 16mo printed in half-sheets; six leaves apart in a duodecimo printed in half-sheets and in a common 18mo. All that can be stated with certainty is the number of leaves intervening between the successive signatures. In the more doubtful cases, I have added this, within parentheses, after the ordinary designation of form, which, in general, is only given as probable.

It must be distinctly understood that the terms folio, quarto, etc. afford very little indication of the actual size of a book. A large duodecimo may be twice the size of a post octavo. If it is the purpose of the cataloguer to state the size, the only satisfactory mode is that recommended by Professor Jewett, namely, to give the measurement of the full printed page in inches and tenths of inches.

Another point must be noticed. Many stereotyped books have two sets of signatures, one usually consisting of letters, the other of Arabic figures, — in order that they may be printed in different forms at the pleasure of the publisher. Thus there happen to be in the High School Library two copies of Keightley's History of Rome, one printed at Boston in 1839 as an octavo, the other printed at New York in 1848, from the same stereotype plates, as a duodecimo. It has, accordingly, two sets of signatures, in one of which they occur at intervals of four, in the other of six leaves. Examples of a similar kind are numerous. They are noted in the Catalogue by the abbreviations "4. and 6.," "8. and 6.," and the like, within parentheses, immediately following the designation of form. (See [GOODRICH], p. 2.)

* For other examples, see ARAGO, p. 47; HUMBOLDT, p. 53; SMITH, p. 59; FOLLEN, p. 72; BUTTMANN, p. 73; GOETTLING, HERMANN, JACOBS, p. 74; MATTHIÆ, p. 75; SPITZNER, PASSOW, p. 76; GROTEFEND, p. 77; DOEDERLEIN, RAMSHORN, p. 81; HEMANS, p. 101; GUARINI, p. 141; LULLI, p. 147; THIERRY, p. 173; SCHILLER, p. 174; GEIZOT, p. 175; RANKE, p. 183; BOJESEN, p. 189; WACHSMUTH, p. 191. I refer to a considerable number of examples, though by no means all which the Catalogue affords, because this is a matter which has been seldom attended to in works of this kind. It is evident, however, that error and confusion may arise from neglecting it.

In other cases the signatures succeed each other at intervals, it may be, of eight and four, or twelve and six leaves, alternately. This is indicated in the Catalogue by the abbreviations "8. 4.," "12. 6.," etc. (See BARLOW, p. 1.)

In works consisting of but a single volume, the number of pages is stated as it is noted in the book, if less than 100, or more than 600. The sign + is added when the volume contains several pages not numbered, and therefore not taken into account.

SOME explanation is necessary respecting the titles of the volumes belonging to Lardner's "Cabinet Cyclopædia." The late re-issue of that work having been ordered for the library, though not yet actually received, it was thought desirable to catalogue it. But the titles given cannot be relied on as perfectly accurate, having been taken, not from the books themselves, but from the publishers' advertisement. A blank space has been left for the date. The references to the different volumes are adapted to the set in the library of Harvard College. As the work is stereotyped, they will probably suit the new impression.

One accidental omission, of considerable importance, under Class XXIV. Part I. must be noticed. The first three volumes of the "Cabinet Library" (see p. 203) should have been there entered under [GOODRICH].—Though much pains has been taken to secure completeness and accuracy, other oversights and inconsistencies will doubtless be detected. It is hoped, however, that they will not be found numerous.

In two or three Classes a different course would have been pursued had not the number of volumes belonging to them been so small as to make it hardly expedient. In a classed catalogue of a more extensive library, it would be of great advantage, if, under the heads of "Voyages and Travels," and of "Geography," the names of the countries, etc. to which the works contained in these Classes relate should appear in their alphabetical order, as in a geographical dictionary, with references to the works in the library descriptive of each. Thus, in the present Catalogue, under Class XXIII. we might have the entry:—"Italy. See GOETHE (J. W. VON);—MORGAN (Lady S. [O.])." In such a case, it would be well to have the names of countries, etc. printed in a different type from that of the headings of the titles.

THE List of Apparatus appended to this volume was prepared by Mr. John Emory Horr, the present Sub-master of the High School.

IN compiling this Catalogue, I have derived useful hints and information from sources too numerous to be here specified. I wish, however, to express my particular obligations to the much-abused "Catalogue of Printed Books in the British Museum" (Volume I.), published under the superintendence of Mr. Panizzi, and to the Rules of Professor Jewett, whose enlightened zeal is doing so much for the extension of bibliographical knowledge and for the interest of public libraries in this country.

ALPHABETICAL INDEX.

Note. The following Index is principally intended to show at once where each work is entered in the Catalogue. It contains the names of authors, including translators, editors, and commentators, followed by a very brief indication of their literary labors. The titles of anonymous publications are also referred to, except the anonymous tracts in Chambers's "Miscellany," "Papers for the People," and "Repository," which belong to Class XXI. (PROSE FICTION) and to Class XXIV. Part II. (INDIVIDUAL BIOGRAPHY). For the description of different editions, and other particulars, the Catalogue itself must be consulted.

The abbreviation "trans." is used for "translator"; "edit." for "editor"; "annot." for "annotator"; and "biogr." for "biographer." When the initial of a Christian name is followed by a period in the Index, the full name will be found in the Catalogue; when the full name is not known, two dots are placed after the initial. Italicized initials belong to names printed in spaced letters (for a reason explained in the Preface) in the preceding part of the Catalogue. When a word is printed in small capitals, that is the word to be sought on the page referred to.
