D. Robinson's 1742/33. An. d. d.

The AUTHOR to the friendly READER, wisheth Grace and Peace.

He sacred Bookes of the old Testament (vnto which this present worke hath its speciall and peculiar reference) hauing such a diuine Maiestie and bright splendor shining therein, as being rightly vnderstood and wisely applyed, are able to convert the soule, to make wise the simple, to reioyce the heart, and to inlighten the eyes &c. ought to be of so high esteeme with vs, as that we should preferre them farre before our necessary food, account them the very ioy and reioycing of our heart, yea, to be more delightfull to vs than the hony and the hony-comb, and more profitable for vs than thousands of gold and siluer. Thus it is, or should be with all such as haue tasted

how gracious the Lord hath this way beene vnto them. But forasmuch as our narrow vnderstandings haue not roomth enough to containe all diuine truths therein deliuered, nor our shallow memories abilitie, still to retaine what is there remembered; we are often forced to wish we had so sufficient a guide as might with some small labour direct vs vnto such Texts in the said Bookes, which wee haue neither quite forgot, nor for the present can speedily remember. Now it is probable enough, that such a guide, according to thy wish, is here prepared for thee. But because haply some may not as yet bee altogether acquainted with the order therof: * they are therefore first of all to take knowledge, by these few directions following, how to bring it into vse and practise. If it be enquired then to what purpose those capitall Letters serue, which runne along at the head of euerie page, throughout the Booke? The answer is, They are of such vse, as no good vse could bee made of the Booke without them. For Example. Suppose this bee the place which you would faine take a full view of, but can not presently turn vnto it, viz. Vnlesse thy Law had been my Delights, I should now haue Perished in mine Affliction: you haue in this diuine sentence, these foure principall words, Law, Delights, Perished, and Affliction. Now if you would finde it out by the last word of the sentence, then turne in your Concordance vntill you come to these three Capitals A F F. and thereunder you shall see the word Affliction placed by it selfe: and if from thence you examin all the quotations, you shall finde the said sentence (by as much as the line will affoord) to be in Psal. 119. verse 92. If by the first, viz. Law, then turn to L A W. If by the second, then to D E L. If by the third, then turn vnto these three letters, P E R. And vnder all these, or any of these words, you will finde this sentence to be in Psal. 119. 92.

* For whose better helpe, it shall not bee amisse, briefly to premeditate, whether the place or places sought for, do fall within the compasse of the Historiall, Poeticall, or Propheticall Bookes: Those of the first rank, extending frō Genesis vnto Esther; Those of the second frō Iob to Salomons Song; & the third from Isaiab vnto Malachie; the last of the Prophets. otherwise it will aske more expence of time, as also a much longer and laborious search.

As touching the quotations to any materiall word, perhaps it may begin from Genesis, and so continue on therewith till it come to Malachy; As in the word, Give. And if the word want any booke quoted with the chapter and verse, thereby you may perceiue that word for the present to be vacant; as in the word, Measure. Concerning the figures which you see placed on the left or right hand in euery colume, the first points to the chapter, the other to the verse. As thus in the word Measure. Ier. 30. 11. I will correct thee in measure. If after your first quotation your figures be double, then it is still the chapter and verse of the same booke, as in the said place of Ieremiah: If the figures be single, then it signifies that those be verses still pertaining to the said chapter; as you may evidently see in the word Decree, &c. Where you meet with these words, See chapter, or, See vers. it signifies that there is some some affinitie with those and the precedent words. Where you finde So chapter, and So vers. it is as much as if it were said, they are the same with the former, word for word. Sometimes you shall meet with some words, which albeit they agree in sound, yet doe differ in sense, such haue, or should haue an ¶ betweene one word and another, to shew that there ought to be distinction made of the one from the other. Where you haue a word that hath onely two syllables, as in the word Depart: doe not thinke when you haue passed that, that then you haue all belonging thereto; but you are to goe on to the residue of the words thereupon depending: as namely, to Departed, Departeth, Departing, Departure, before you shall, it may be, meet with that you seeke for. And yet they are thus distinguished into so many heads, that when you precisely know to which of them your word is to be referred, you may stay your selfe in that without any further labour. You are also to obserue that you haue no word standing as a Title, but the same word in euery line following, is still distinguished by a feuerall sort of character, to make it more perspicuous. Sometimes you haue one or moe lines standing in, without any figures placed before them: there you are to conceiue that they are members of that verse, vnder which they are placed, be they few or many. In many places after a quotation, you shall finde these words inserted, See the Geneva Bible, or Gen. Trans. The meaning is, lest in missing the word you seeke for, you might impute it vnto the Authors negligence; when it is rather in the differing translations. As for other directions, let the vnskilfull Reader view the Prefaces placed before the Concordance of the New Testament, printed in Ann. 1622. a Booke well approued of by the godly learned.

Concerning which, seeing it is occasionally mentioned, all such whom it may or doth concerne, are to be intreated, not to take offence that both Concordances (as were to be wished) doe not here consort together in one: For were it conuenient but by the way to intimate vnto them, how many wayes we haue bene straitened, in these straites of times, to furnish out euen this one; they would, I doubt not, hold themselues somewhat the better satisfied with that already extant, and for the present take this now newly added thereto in good part.

Againe, whereas it will be generally expected, that a constant truth should be obserued in all the allegations throughout the whole Worke, as being the maine matter therein principally intended: for my own part, I may with some comfort truly affirme, That there hath not bin wanting a constant purpose and endeouour to see, that in euery respect it should be found so qualified. Howbeit, forasmuch as the allegations therein contained, are in a manner infinite, and therefore is not to bee esteemed a light or easie task, well to passe thorow such a world of difficulties; it shall be thy part (good Reader) friendly to correct, or with the mantle of Loue to couer what blemishes or escapes haue any where escaped the pen or presse: the rather, seeing the most of them, we hope, are by vs here already acknowledged and amended vnto thy hand. And so crauing the helpe of thy feruent prayers, I commend thee, together with this poore labour, vnto the gracious blessing of God onely wise, who is wont to doe exceeding abundantly aboue all we can aske or thinke: To him therefore be all the glory ascribed, in all the Churches of the Saints by Christ Iesus, throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.

He vnworthiest of all her sonnes, whom she hath brought forth, borne vpon her sides, nursed with the breasts of her diuine consolations, and dandled vpon her knees; doth here with a free and thankfull heart, for all her labour of loue expressed towards him, humbly deuote and consecrate (according to a vow long since made) these vntimely fruits of his weake and worthlesse endeouours: Alwayes praying, that her peace may not cease vnder the peaceable gouernment of our deare and dread soueraigne Lord King CHARLES, to be extended ouer her as a floud, that she may long continue to looke forth as the Morning, faire as the Moone, cleere as the Sunne, terrible as an Army with Banners; that she may euen to old age grow into thousands of millions, and that her seed may receiue strength from on high to possesse the gate of their enemies.

O pray for the peace of Ierusalem: they shall prosper that loue thee. Peace be within thy walls, and prosperitie within thy palaces. Amen and Amen.

But Sion said, The Lord hath forsaken me, my Lord hath forgotten me.

Can a woman forget her sucking childe, that she should not haue compassion on the sonne of her womb? yea, they may forget; yet will I not forget thee.

Behold, I haue grauen thee vpon the palmes of my hands: thy walls are continually before me.

He was the chief of all her loves, whom she hath brought forth born upon her side, nurtured in the bosom of her divine consolation, and dandled upon her knees; dear love with a face and cherished heart, for all her labour of love expressed towards him, humbly devout and confident (according to a very long time made) these various fruits of his grace and merciful ends ours: Always praying that her grace may not cease under the peaceable government of our dear and great Sovereign Lord King CHARLES the second, that she may continue to look forth as the morning fair as the Moon, clear as the Sun, terrible as an Army with banners; that she may even to old age grow into thousands of millions, and that her seed may receive the right from on high to possess the gate of all our enemies.

O pray for the peace of Jerusalem: they shall prosper that love her. Peace be within
