LOOK FOR GOOD

WE SEE THE THINGS WE LOOK FOR, SO LET US LOOK FOR GOOD AND BEAUTIFUL

"Two men looked out through prison bars— One saw the mud, the other the stars."

How true it is that in this world we see to a large extent the things we look for. How much our mental attitude influences our physical vision. The spirit with which we approach any experience determines largely its effect upon us. Our good or evil impressions to a certain extent are the result of the frame of mind in which we faced the object of these impressions. With few exceptions, there are good and evil in everything and it devolves upon us poor mortals to bring out all the good possible in everything and everybody.

An interesting example of this different point of vision in looking at the same object may be found in the way people regard the charm of Southern California. Two people come here for the first time from the same place, but they see entirely different things. One comes determined to love this land of sunshine and flowers about which he has heard and read so much. The other is as fully determined that all he has heard about this fair land is false and what is the result? The first learns to love the sunshine and the flowers; he rejoices in the majesty of the mountains and the wonder of the sea, while the other sees only the drawbacks and imperfections and no place this side of Paradise is exempt from these. Two people can walk together through the streets of Glendale and one can see the wide, paved streets, the beautiful trees, the pretty lawns and flowers and all the other good things there are to see. He realizes that Glendale is a pretty and a progressive city and a good place to live. The other sees only the imperfections, the weeds growing on the vacant lots, the unimproved street, the unkempt lawn, and can convince himself that there is no good here.

The same thing is true in our attitude toward people. What man or woman have you ever met in which the good and the evil are not mingled? It is true it is hard to see the good in some and as difficult to see the evil in others, yet our own attitude of mind has much to do in bringing out the best or the worst in those with whom we come in contact.

The same is true of books or plays, the very common moving pictures of today not being exempt. Many of the best books ever written have dealt with the mistakes and the sins of humanity, but they have been great in that they drew a lesson and emphasized the good in one or more of the characters. It is the lot of some to be unable to draw any inspiration from such books. They see only the sordidness and meanness with which the author has endowed one of his characters in order to better bring out the contrast between the good and the bad. Some have even seen evil in the inspired Book of Books and have given as an excuse when conscience pricks have demanded excuse for ignoring this means of enlightenment that there were things in the Bible not fit to read. Such an attitude of mind is deplorable in the extreme. The man that sees only the mud is indeed to be pitied for he gets small joy out of living.

It would be folly to deny the existence of evil in the world. There are those who make mistakes and who do wrong and such will ever be the case. It is useless to try to make ourselves believe that by ignoring evil we wipe it out of existence. If ignorance were innocence we could easily train our children to be good. If we could only see the evil and at the same time recognize the good, this would be a better world.

TROPICO

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Wilde, the latter the sister of Mr. C. H. Henry, who have been occupying apartments in the Henry block, have purchased a residence on Tenth street and will occupy the new home at once.

Wednesday afternoon was most delightfully spent at the pleasant home of Mrs. Nina Richards, 306 Paloma avenue, when this charming woman entertained the Kensington club of N. P. Banks Woman's Relief Corps. Many needles in as many nimble fingers fashioned various articles of fancy needlework. A number of pretty aprons were fashioned to be presented to the bazaar and country store to be given by the auxiliary of the Florence Crittenton home Saturday, December 19th, in Los Angeles.

ADVENTIST CONFERENCE

CONSIDER MAKING TERMS OF OFFICERS OF PACIFIC CONFERENCE FOUR YEARS

Propositions to make the terms of all officers of the Pacific Union Conference of Seventh Day Adventists four years instead of two, and to make the regular meetings of the conference delegates in "this field quadrennial instead of biennial, as at present, were submitted Wednesday to the union conference committee in session here. Included in this union conference are the states of California, Nevada, Arizona and Utah.

E. E. Andross, president of the union, said that at the recent North American division conference committee session in Washington, D. C., seven of the twelve union conferences in North America decided to hold only four-year sessions, if the other unions agree to this, making the meetings uniform throughout the country. The plan of holding conference sessions only once every four years has been proposed as a means of saving expense. It was decided to submit the question to the constituency for decision.

The national educational and young people's missionary volunteer convention, slated for College View, Neb., three miles from Lincoln, late in February, has been invited by the Pacific Union Conference committee to hold its sessions on the coast, either at Oakland or at Pacific Union college, St. Helena. As the Panama-Pacific exposition will be open at the time, it is thought the invitation will be accepted.

The union conference voted on Wednesday to have an exhibit at the San Francisco fair. A representative of the Seventh Day Adventists from the national headquarters at Washington, D. C., probably will assist in maintaining it. Every publication issued by the denomination will be on exhibit, these being in more than eighty languages. Russian, Serbian, Turkish, Bulgarian, Laplandic, Icelandic, Fijian, Bengali, Samoan, Tongan, Zulu and Estonian, besides English, German and other widely-spoken languages, are among the tongues in which these books and periodicals will be found. A scheme will be devised for showing the location of every Seventh Day Adventist sanitarium, college, publishing house and mission station the world over.

A committee was appointed on Wednesday to establish a denominational academy in Nevada at once. A fund of $150,000 for this school and other educational institutions in the union territory, is now being raised, about $59,000 having been subscribed and contributed thus far. The denomination has fifty-one colleges and academies in North America, and nineteen in foreign fields, besides a large number of church schools, teaching the first eight grades of regular school work, and adding to this a systematic and thorough course in Bible study.

A uniform system of conference accounting was adopted, in harmony with a recommendation of the national auditors' convention of the denomination held at Washington, D. C., last month. The action of the auditors of the denomination corresponds to that of the interstate commerce commission in unifying the accounting systems of all the railroads in the country, thus facilitating the keeping of books and compiling reports. It was decided that the fiscal year of all the conferences shall end uniformly December 31, and that of all institutions of the Adventists either December 31 or June 30.

A convention of all Seventh Day Adventists tract society secretaries and bookmen west of the Mississippi river will be held at Mountain View, the publishing headquarters of the denomination on the Pacific coast, March 5 to 14. Present methods of distributing Adventist publications is to be studied and plans laid for more aggressive effort in this line. Many of the local conference presidents also probably will attend this meeting.

WHAT DID HE EXPECT

"Jones," said a hotel manager to a waiter, "what did that gent from table No. 7 leave so suddenly for?" "Well, sir," said the waiter, "he sat down and asked for sausage and I told him we were out of them, but if he would care to wait a few minutes I could get the cook to make some."

"Well," said the manager, "what then?"

"I went to the kitchen," resumed the waiter, "and accidentally trod upon the dog's tail, and of course it yelped; and suddenly the gent got up and left."—London Hit-Bits.

INFORMATION BUREAU

FREE INSTITUTION, MUCH NEEDED IN THIS CITY, IS TO BE ESTABLISHED BY NEWS

Because of the need of a central place in Glendale for the giving out of information to tourists and strangers who visit our city, the management of the Glendale Evening News has decided to conduct an information bureau in the office of The News at 920 West Broadway.

Chairs and writing tables, with stationery, pens and ink, will be provided, as well as maps showing location of streets and residences in Glendale, and time tables showing hours of arrival and departure of all cars, etc. All questions possible to be answered will be answered by those conducting the office. All free of charge.

In the past it has been customary for strangers to visit The News office to learn concerning properties listed for sale and for rent and also for the purpose of making inquiries in regard to advantages and facilities of Glendale. There will be no effort made whatever to work in the interest of any real estate firm or firms. The Evening News, containing the listings of property and the advertisements of reliable real estate men will be placed in the hands of those making inquiry concerning property for sale.

Open from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. Telephone—Sunset 132, Home 2401.

TO FORM ASSOCIATED CHARITIES

On the evening of Dec. 17, the Federated Brotherhood of Glendale will hold an open meeting in the auditorium of the Glendale Union high school. The meeting will be held with the purpose of securing an organization of the charitable undertakings of our city and community into an "associated charities." The hope is to have all who are interested in work of this kind present to assist by suggestion and counsel.

Invitations will be issued to all organizations known to be engaged in this kind of work, and if anyone is overlooked, you are urged to come and feel that this is an earnest invitation to participate.

PUBLICITY AID TO HYGIENE AND PUBLIC HEALTH MEASURES

Hygienists and sanitarians regard the newspaper press of this country as a very faithful and helpful ally in efforts to promote individual and public health. Through the medium of newspapers that, in the aggregate, are read by many millions of persons, simple rules of hygiene, sanitation and disease prevention have been impressed upon readers and a vast deal of good has been accomplished in combatting disease through preventing it. This is particularly true with reference to tuberculosis, typhoid and other dreadful communicable maladies. The newspaper press in general is willing and eager to assist in whatever promotes the good of the individual or the community. The wide and frequent dissemination of information and simple hygienic rules puts multitudes of persons on the qui vive of carefulness to observe the laws of health. Constant iteration and reiteration along this line obviates many a disastrous experience with epidemics and throttles deadly infection in its lair.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The sophomore and the senior girls' basketball teams met last evening and as a result the sophomore girls came out of the fray with a victory of 6-4.

The senior American history classes under the direction of Prof. Harry Howe are studying the constitution of the United States at the present time. Instead of a regular lesson today, Mr. Howe read the president's message to congress.

Debating try-outs for the mid-winter debate with Long Beach and Pomona will be held Tuesday evening of next week. Quite a number of the pupils are planning in entering the preliminary contest.

On Tuesday evening of this week the two upper English classes met for the formation of a club in which English work will be discussed and made entertaining. Miss Knepper, head of the English department, is taking an active interest in the club and at Tuesday's meeting a committee on constitution was appointed.

WEATHER REPORT

Mr. H. E. Bartlett, Glendale's weather man, reports that the rainfall for this storm is .60 of an inch. Rainfall for the season to date is 2.27 inches.

IMPRESSION CORRECTED

SPORTS, CLUBS AND CONTESTS ESSENTIAL IN PRESENT SCHOOL LIFE

Editor News: A high school teacher has suggested that it would be quite proper for me to rectify an impression of our schools which one of your esteemed and interesting correspondents infers in one of the columns in a recent issue of The News.

The item was in regard to the examination of the "school notes" appearing in a country paper, that paper which we will presume to be The News, at least we will use it for an example. He states "in a dozen recently examined, nine items out of ten related to games and sports and clubs and contests, while possibly a 'measly' tenth may have made brief reference to some innocent line of study."

To the innocent outsider, especially one who was graduated from the old school where Latin, English and geometry was the menu served, it does seem as though study is forgotten in the chief and principal events of the high schools. But today one will find high schools are adopting many new and practical ideas and the enlarged curriculum now includes music, gymnasium work, art, oral English and expression, debating, manual training and the modern languages. In justice to the residents of the district, these new courses have been added to the curriculum of the local school, so that each student may have the opportunity of studying along the lines of personal aptitude. As a result, we find among the high school notes reported musical concerts, athletic contests, dramatic presentations, debates, exhibits of woodwork and club meetings like the La Tertulla (Spanish), the Deutschen Verein (German) or the Comitas (Latin). And we further find that these aforementioned things are accomplishing greater results in a practical way than the old method of teaching.

Just a few instances: Music as it is now taught develops accomplished people; "gym" work develops the body, as well as the brain; art gives the ordinary person a greater and more keen perspective and it graduates the "talented" pupils into "successful" artists, while for the practical student it gives an unlimited means of expression; oral English, expression and debating all work to give bearing, poise and ease of expression to the backward student; manual training instills the dignity and honor of manual labor, such as woodworking and shop work, and in the language clubs a great amount of knowledge is gained by all in the preparation of papers, singing of folk songs and presentation of plays in the "native" tongue. And then, too, there are many other departments, such as sewing, commercial, cooking and agriculture, all of which seemingly combine the novel with the practical, but which if thoroughly analyzed, are exactly that which is demanded of the high school graduate when he or she goes out into the world to make a living.

Having thus shown how these events are of importance in the school life, here is why they are important as "news" matter. Such events require special work on the part of the student, and that should be recognized; the community is interested in the affairs of its children and the interest of a local paper is identical with that of the community; and last, yet not least by any means, the students taking part in these school affairs are conducting themselves honorably and must be efficient in their studies before they are allowed to participate in any school event.

In a recent issue of The News there was an article headed "The News We Want," in which the editor exhorted the people to give the country newspaper the news about the good things of the community. It has been my endeavor to do that, in presenting high school notes or other news to a country paper.

Sincerely yours,

GILBERT COWAN,

High School Reporter of The News.

WHOLESONE ADVICE

The Evening News offers a suggestion that every merchant having in stock goods that are at all suitable for holiday trade should keep his store open evenings from now until Christmas.

This plan should have been adopted by the merchants early in December. Hundreds of people in Glendale have no other time than evenings to do their Christmas shopping. They are busy during the day attending to business duties—the evening is the only spare time they have. Decorate windows, turn on the electric lights and be ready to give callers a holiday greeting.

JOIN THIS STUDY CLASS

GRAND OPPORTUNITY OF AMBITIOUS SPANISH STUDENTS IN THIS COMMUNITY

A class for the study of Spanish will be organized in Glendale this evening. The lecture room of the local Baptist church will be used for the present and an invitation is extended all ambitious students of this important language. The question of expense need not be considered, as the class itself will control that matter. Beginners are just as welcome as advanced students.

Professor Smart, who for twenty years resided in South America, where he was connected with the publication of journals in Spanish and pastor in charge of mission stations, will be the instructor. To know him is to love and respect him.

There are many reasons why North Americans and especially Californians should make themselves acquainted with the language and customs of Latin America. The Spanish is a great world-language, used by at least seventy-five millions of people, of whom the greater part live in America. Only a few years ago California and Texas belonged to Mexico. Our cities, our streets, our mountains and our valleys and rivers have Spanish names.

Most of the Latin American countries are still undeveloped and offer almost boundless opportunities for North American capital and for business men. We have neglected these opportunities too long and have allowed the Germans and other Europeans to divert a stream of gold to their shores. We have much to learn from the Germans. They send out men familiar with the Spanish language and customs to study on the ground the needs of the people, and then they manufacture just the right kind of article. They have excellent steamship service to all South American ports, large banks in every city, and numerous German colonies all over the continent.

The opening of the Panama canal brings South America much nearer to us. It is a case of now or never. If we don't make a big effort right now to capture the trade, hitherto monopolized by Germany, it will soon be too late. But all indications are that Uncle Sam is fully alive to the situation and ere long there will be a great demand for young men and women who can speak Spanish.

MISSION OF BOARD OF TRADE

The Glendale Evening News would be pleased to have someone who can do so intelligently explain the mission of the Los Angeles Board of Trade.

This explanation is to be given by someone who is not in any way financially interested in the company.

Looking at it from the standpoint of a disinterested party, the Evening News is of the opinion that business in Glendale would run along just as smoothly and with greater justice to all concerned than the present way of closing out the man who has been unfortunate in business.

Honest and reliable information is desired on this subject.

NAME OF NEW THEATER TO BE ANNOUNCED TONIGHT

Hazel Dawn in "One of Our Girls" was the attraction at the new playhouse on Brand boulevard Wednesday evening and from the appreciative applause by the audience it was appreciated by all. This patriotic drama is full of patriotic and dramatic situations and Miss Dawn is beautifully portrayed in the leading role. Tonight is the last opportunity you will have to see this beautiful play.

The name for this new theater will be announced tonight at 8:30 and the prize of $25 in gold will be given to the winner of the competition. The name selected will be announced from the stage and the prize delivered at the same time. Be sure and be present and see if you are the lucky winner.

SHOWING THEM UP

Mr. Leslie Tarr, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Tarr of 861 Glendale avenue, has played a great joke on his class in the Glendale high school. Mr. Tarr was a member of the class of 1915, which will graduate in June of next year, but he wanted to finish high school at the mid-winter graduation, so has been attending L. A. high this fall and now has only a credit and a half to make before graduation, so he will finish for the February graduation. Mr. Tarr only attends school half a day, thus having the other half day for employment, and the fact that he is going to school in the city will be a great surprise to many of his Glendale school friends.

ALL-DAY P.E.O. MEETING

MRS. CHARLES HOMER TEMPLE HOSTESS TO PHILANTHROPIC SISTERHOOD CHAPTER

Wednesday was another bright day in the calendar of Chapter L. P. E. O. of Glendale, when the ladies of that organization held an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Homer Temple, 301 Orange street. As is their usual custom, the forenoon was devoted to business, the nature of this sisterhood being philanthropic, but they followed the scriptural injunction, "Let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth," hence the proceedings of the forenoon are a closed book to the public. At noon the business session was adjourned and the usual appetizing luncheon was disposed of.

The afternoon's program in charge of Mrs. Warren Roberts was both interesting and instructive, music being the theme of the afternoon. Each musical number was preceded by a brief but comprehensive biography of the composer, which added much to the enjoyment of the music.

The aria, "Come Unto Me," from Handel's "Messiah," was given by Mrs. Josephine Bryant. Mrs. Anne Bartlett rendered Mendelssohn's song without words and Schumann's Traumerel was Mrs. Jessie Mitchell's selection. A vocal solo by Miss Lorraine Mitchell and a reading by Mrs. Genevieve Goss were also enjoyable features of the program, which closed with Chopin's Valse Brillante by Mrs. Warren Roberts.

Bouquets of fragrant carnations, gorgeous poinsettias and Christmas bells added their charm and seemed to aid in instilling the Christmas spirit which dwells in the hearts of these ladies the year 'round. The hostesses who assisted Mrs. Temple were Mrs. Jessie Mitchell, Mrs. Mabel McFadden and Mrs. Charles Campbell.

FLOWERS FOR TOURNAMENT

The showing of flowers at the coming Tournament of Roses on New Year's day will be beyond comparison with any previous display. The warm fall months, followed by light rains and clearing weather, have been ideal for the production of mid-winter blossoms. Roses, which are given preference in judging tournament parade entries, are to be found this year in especial profusion. Early varieties of sweet peas are also beginning to come into bloom and will lend their perfume to the festival day. The poinsettia, most gorgeous of all flowers, is more wonderful this year than at any time in the twenty-six years of the tournament's history. And hundreds of homes in Pasadena boast one or more clumps of its scarlet magnificence.

Naturally enough, the men who are in charge of Pasadena's great festival are inordinately pleased with the outlook. The tournament means more to them this year than ever before, for it opens California's festival year and will give thousands of visitors their first glimpse of California's beauties.

But rich as Pasadena is in blossoms, it will be obliged to give its neighboring cities more credit than ever this year, for thirty of them are already at work on floats for the parade and each one will provide its own flowers. Alhambra, Monrovia, Santa Monica, Ocean Park, Venice, San Pedro and Long Beach have already let out a part of the secret of their elaborate plans to outdo their sister city at her own party. The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has offered a prize for the best design for its float; the Los Angeles city council will ride in a float decorated with the choicest flowers from its public parks, and a score of other cities are quietly preparing their entries. All of these cities have flowers in greater abundance than ever this year and Pasadena is preparing to look well to its laurels when they all sweep into the Crown City on New Year's day.

Glendale will likely be represented at the rose carnival by her municipal band, which will be sufficient proof that Glendale is on the map.

FIX THOSE SHARKS

A fellow arrived from Los Angeles yesterday and found that he had traded his store for some worthless lots in the mountains that are contained within the municipal limits to the southeast. The realty board should continue every effort to assist in running the sharks to cover who open up these worthless tracts.—Riverside Enterprise.

THE COST OF THE WAR

Many people judge an article or an event by what the cost is in dollars and cents. What the cost may be in morals or in loss of life is far too frequently a minor consideration. Those who like to know the cost in dollars will be interested in a statement of the estimated cost of the war in Europe. This total is placed at $40,225,000 a day. The bill for each nation is as follows: Russia, $14,000,000; Germany, $7,225,000; France, $7,000,000; England, $5,000,000; Austria, $4,000,000, and some others $3,000,000. These others are such countries as Switzerland, Italy, Roumania, Greece, Holland, Denmark, Belgium, etc., which have been put to big expense because of the war. Then added to the enormous cost must be placed the fact that 20,000,000 men have been taken from production and placed under arms. Then add the country that is laid waste and the wholesale slaughter of human lives. It is all too awful to contemplate. The expert statisticians can only estimate the monetary cost. No one has the ability to mathematically compute the loss in broken hearts and blighted lives of the non-combatants.

A TRUTHFUL CRITICISM

There is much bitterness in the land because Americans through societies, individuals and agencies are sending food and money to the war-stricken Belgians. The protest is that so many of our own people at home are in desperate need of the largess of their neighbors. You may have noticed that most persons who complain about giving to foreigners are the ones who do not give to anyone. If they were alive to the want of their brothers at home their hearts would be big enough to go out to those abroad. The giver seldom asks about localities, but only of the need. Every solicitor who has volunteered to help the buttsiders should be able to meet this common objection with an offer to accept funds for local charities. We fancy that the latter would not reap much of a harvest from this source, but it would serve to put an end to much hypocrisy.—Exchange.

MALADY NOT SERIOUS

Christmas time is upon us. A good many people are beginning to realize it with a vengeance, and to realize that the time is growing very short in which gifts may be finished and made ready for their friends. Society seems to have lost all attraction for the ladies this week, and everyone is staying at home and industriously plying the needle. Such a rainy day as this is really a boon, because no one is expected to go out, and there is a whole long day to sit by the fire and spin. We would be worried about this sudden determination on the part of people to stay at home these days if we did not feel reasonably sure that the malady is not serious and will pass when the holidays are over.

Announcements

There will be an all-day meeting of Chapter A-H, P. E. O., at the home of Mrs. Mabry, 115 East Acacia street, tomorrow.

Election of officers of the N. P. Banks Post, No. 170, will take place at the meeting Saturday afternoon at G. A. R. hall. It is requested that all members of the Post be present.

There will be a business meeting of the alumni section of the Deutschen Verein to be held at the home of Frances Payne, 325 Central avenue, this evening.

There will be a business meeting of the Baraca class of the First Methodist church this evening, December 10th, in the social hall of the church. All members are requested to be present. Come without fail.

MUSICALE AND CARD PARTY

The people of the Holy Family Catholic parish of Glendale will celebrate the seventh anniversary of the organization of the church with a musicale and card party at Masonic temple Friday evening, December 11, to which everyone is invited. The admission is only twenty-five cents, which includes refreshments. 9813*

YOU ARE MISSING SOMETHING

The week's rally at the Christian church is proving a splendid success. The evangelist, Rev. Bruce Brown, is a chautauqua lecturer, original, most interesting and presents the gospel in a way which is reaching the hearts of his hearers. His lecture last Sunday evening on "The Second Mile" was a masterpiece, and gave an insight into a passage of scripture which was altogether undreamed of.

The meeting tomorrow night—men's night—is in charge of the men of the church, who will lead the music and occupy the platform. Mr. Brown's subject is taken from that epic of Burns' "A Man's a Man for a' That," and as the speaker is himself a Scotchman, it requires little imagination to perceive that a rare treat is in sight.

All are invited, both men and women—and if you don't arrange to be there, you will surely miss something which you can have for nothing and which you wouldn't take a great deal for.

WHAT THEY WOULD DO

The captain of a certain pleasure steamer relates an amusing yarn of one of his stokers, who was not given to wasting words:

On a sultry afternoon the stoker had popped up on deck for a breath of fresh air, when he was buttonholed by an inquisitive old lady, and the subsequent conversation was carried on in this fashion:

Old Lady—"Are you the stoker, my man?"

Stoker nods.

"Aren't you afraid of an accident, leaving your boilers to look after themselves?"

"No."

"But I—I thought there was grave danger. If the boilers get overheated what would they do?"

"Bust!"

"Yes; but—but what would you do? What would we all do?"

"Die!"

Spread a little Christmas cheer. Don't forget the poor and needy and make your daily actions at this time as nearly Christ-like as possible.

JAMES W. MARSHALL

James W. Marshall, the discoverer of gold in California, was born in New Jersey in 1812. He came to California in 1846, where in company with John A. Sutter, started a sawmill, which is still in existence.

Gold was discovered by Marshall in 1848. Due to his excessive generosity, Marshall died a pauper in the year 1885 at the town of Kelsey, Cal., near Coloma. A beautiful bronze monument marks the last resting place of the man who discovered California's greatest asset.

The following is Marshall's own story of the famous discovery that set the world aflame with excitement and caused the greatest stampede in history:

"On a cold, clear morning, Jan. 24th, 1848, I was taking my usual walk along the mill race. After shutting off the water, my eye was caught with a glimpse of something shining in the bottom of the ditch. There was about a foot of water running there. I reached my hand down and picked it up. It made my heart thump, for I was certain it was gold. After taking it out, I sat down and began to think right hard and wondered how I could prove my find. I happened to think of Mrs. Wimmer, wife of one of my men, who was from the placer mines in Georgia, and I took it to her and asked her to boil it in her soap kettle, which crude test proved to my satisfaction that it was truly gold."

QUEER TANGLE CONCERNING JUDGESHIP

An irrepressible conflict appears unfortunately to have risen between Presiding Justice Conroy of the court of appeal, who at the recent election was chosen by the people to hold his position for the twelve-year term beginning in January, 1915, and who was appointed to the post upon the death of Judge M. T. Allen by Governor Johnson, and W. W. Middlecoff, who claims he was elected to the office to fill out Judge Allen's unexpired term. It is indisputably the case that Mr. Middlecoff received all the votes cast for the unexpired term, whatever said term may consist of, and it seems plain enough that if the votes cast for him mean anything at all, he was elected to some office, presumably the one he was a candidate for. Justice Conroy contends that he is duty bound to hold the position to which he was both appointed and elected until some one with better credentials than his claims the office.

Now thus far Mr. Middlecoff has received no commission from the governor and although he has taken the oath of office, his claim of right to a seat on the bench is, it is asserted, imperfect and unproven for the want of the aforesaid commission. The situation is both painful and humiliating. If Judge Conroy is right in his view of the law governing the matter, then it is his duty to stay where he is; and, on the other hand, if Mr. Middlecoff was elected to the office, as he seems to have been, no one can blame him for attempting to enjoy its honors and privileges.

The controversy has, however, assumed rather unseemly proportions. The high office of presiding judge of the court of appeal is not to be made a bone of contention. The gentlemen involved cannot both be right. There ought to be some quiet, unobtrusive way of adjusting a controversy which has passed from a funny mix-up to an unseemly wrangle.—Santa Monica Outlook.

UNCLE JOE'S GOLDEN SLIPPER

In remembrance of a promise made four years and more ago, the Illinois Society of the Golden State will send a solid gold slipper to "Uncle Joe" Cannon of Illinois. On May 6, 1910, "Uncle Joe" told a group of senators and representatives that if he was living in 1915, he would come to the Panama-Pacific international exposition in San Francisco and dance the Virginia Reel in the Illinois state building. The building is ready now and the Illinois society of California will insist that "Uncle Joe" make good his word.

FOREST NOTES

The timber industry represents 37 per cent of the annual production of wealth in British Columbia.

Boxmakers in the United States use more than four and a half billion board feet of lumber each year, or more than one-tenth of the entire lumber cut of the country.

Of two million sheep annually grazed in the state of Utah, more than a million are on the national forests, or, including lambs which are fattening for market on the forest ranges, over a million and three-quarters.

In addition to his own fire detection system, the supervisor of the Palisade national forest, Idaho, was notified of each fire by from five to ten different local settlers, who thus showed their co-operation in working for fire suppression.

The Uinta mountains of Utah, included within the Wasatch, Uinta and Ashley national forests, should become a favorite recreation region, because of the many small lakes within depressions scooped out by glacial drifts. Seventy such lakes can be counted from Reid's peak and one particular township, 36 miles square, contains more than a hundred.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. C. Moore, Mr. Franklin Moore and Mrs. William Knapp visited Mr. Melville Powell at Corona on Sunday. The trip was by automobile and was greatly enjoyed by all members of the party.

The Dutch tea of the Tuesday Afternoon club, which was to have been given at the home of Mrs. McElroy on the 16th of December, has been postponed until after the holidays on account of this season being such a busy time with everyone.

The Christmas holidays for the Glendale schools will begin Friday, December 18th, and will last until Monday, January 11th, thus giving the children three weeks of vacation. During this time there will be teachers' institute of one week, which all the teachers are required to attend.

Mrs. R. W. Meeker of 300 East Colorado boulevard was in Los Angeles on Tuesday, where she visited Miss Belle Hall, a former Glendale high school teacher. Miss Hall had just returned to her home from the hospital, where she had been ill for some time, and is now convalescing.

Mrs. A. C. Oliver of 124 Howard street will leave in a few days to spend Christmas with her daughter, Mrs. M. M. Hadsell of Hesperia. It gets quite cold at Hesperia in spite of the name, and just now there is every prospect of being almost an old-fashioned eastern Christmas, possibly with snow, and certainly with frost and ice.

Members of the Holy Family church are making preparations for the musical and card party to be given on Friday evening of this week, commensurate with the importance of the event they celebrate, which is the seventh anniversary of the founding of the church. All friends of the congregation will aid by their attendance in making this an event of note in the history of the church.

Mrs. S. Braden of 1384 Arden avenue entertained a number of friends at auction bridge on Monday evening. The house was prettily decorated with roses and ferns and a dainty luncheon was served. Those present besides the hostess were Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Sherer and Mr. W. Ryon of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. R. Holland and Mr. and Mrs. Worley of Glendale. Prizes were won by Mrs. Holland and Mr. Sherer, and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

FOR A WORTHY CAUSE

Mrs. Tressider at Kimlin's Sweet Shop on Broadway and Mrs. Sinclair at the Irish Linen Store on Brand boulevard will have charge of the selling of tickets on Friday afternoon for the Christmas musicale to be given by the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club on Tuesday evening at the Masonic hall. The proceeds of this musicale will be given to the poor of Glendale and to the Children's hospital. It is for a worthy cause and everyone should make an effort to be there, as they are assured a musical treat. The price of the tickets is only 25c, so as to enable all to attend, and tickets will be on sale at the different Glendale stores from now until Tuesday evening, as well as at the door.

NOWHERE ELSE

Again we have that wonderful setting—snow-capped mountains close at hand and down here in the valley roses and the green sward of an eastern June, with men in shirt sleeves and women in thin dresses. Where else in the world can such a combination be found?—South Pasadena Record.

EDISON'S FIRE LOSS

Fire destroyed virtually the entire main plant of the Edison company at West Orange, New York, Wednesday night, causing damage estimated at nearly $7,000,000, with insurance that it is estimated will reduce the loss to approximately $5,000,000.

An entire square block of modern reinforced concrete buildings, which were supposed to be fireproof, was burned out by the flames. The only building saved in the block was the laboratory containing valuable scientific machinery. Under the immediate superintendence of the inventor, Thomas A. Edison, special efforts made to save this structure were successful.

It is estimated that 3000 men and women will be temporarily thrown out of work by the fire. In all about 7000 persons were employed at the plant, but as the storage battery building across the street from the main plant was saved, with other buildings near by, it will be possible to keep something more than half the force employed.

Four firemen were injured in fighting the blaze and were taken to a hospital, but are not thought to be seriously hurt.

"Although I am more than 67 years of age, I'll start all over again tomorrow," said Mr. Edison. "I am pretty well burned out tonight, but tomorrow there will be a mobilization here and I will go right to work to reconstruct the plant."

The fire started, it is thought, probably by an explosion in the inspection building, one of the smaller frame structures. Employees who were at work in the various departments about the plant all escaped safely.

In all, eleven buildings in the main plant went down with the fire. The buildings destroyed included those occupied by the new Diamond Disc company, the one occupied by the Kinetophone company and the building which housed the Bates numbering machines, together with the primary Edison battery building, the talking machine building and the administration building.

Mr. Edison assumed personal charge of directing the forces combating the flames, which were sweeping away the buildings that represented the work of years of his brain.

The burned buildings, the inventor said, were supposed to be the finest examples of modern fireproof construction and pictures of them as such had been exhibited all over the country.

FORCING INDIANS TO BE TEMPERATE

Indian Commissioner Cato Sells had not been long in office before agents of businesses hostile to the sobriety and thrift of the Indians on the reservations discovered that a man had come to power who would not be party to connivance and collusion by his subordinates with law-breakers and traders in "firewater." In deciding to grapple with this problem and to clean it up, Mr. Sells found that he had politicians to fight as well as faithless subordinates to chasten, and that the ramifications of the alliance between politics and illegal sale to Indians were wide and high. Coming from a region of the country where the prohibitory theory of state suppression of traffic in such wares has its roots deep in the popular conscience and will, Mr. Sells did not balk because he discovered that he was fighting a creature with many social tentacles. He still believed in the theory on which he was acting; and as for the practical results of bringing liquor and the Indian together, did not every reservation, where law was not enforced, tell the same tale?

Usually the wiser and older men of the reservations use their influence to exclude liquors and to conform to the law. Usually the bureau of Indian affairs finds its controversy to be with white men living adjacent to the reservations. But on the Osage reservation in Oklahoma it has become necessary recently for the bureau to stand for law enforcement against the chiefs of the tribe as well as against whites resident on the reservation; and in this contest Commissioner Sells has not hesitated to use rigorous measures. Thus he has made future payment to the tribal treasury of amounts due it from the national government conditional on strict enforcement of the law. Since the appeal to regard for law and for the best moral interests of the tribe has failed, resort is now had to an argument that may be better understood. The commissioner has law as well as right on his side. The power he is using is conceded him by congress. The difference in the situation is that he is using power that other men have not cared or dared to use.—Christian Science Monitor.

NORTH GLENDALE

Mrs. I. C. Rice of 1632 Ruth street entertained friends at luncheon on Wednesday from Glendale and Los Angeles.

Mr. E. C. Williamson of North Louise street and Mr. Freeman of Fairview avenue have established an auto bus service between North Glendale and Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clements of 1321 North Pacific avenue are entertaining as their guests Mrs. Clements' niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Chaney of Lindsay, Cal., who are spending their honeymoon in the Southland and who are now stopping at the Hotel Lankershim. Wednesday the party were dinner guests of Mrs. Chaney's aunt, Mrs. H. B. Caldwell of the Faust apartments, Los Angeles, and expect to leave for a few days' visit in San Diego, the trip being made by boat, and a delightful time is anticipated by these charming people, who later will be extensively entertained by relatives in this vicinity.

BOY SCOUTS A MORAL FACTOR

A movement was recently started in Philadelphia which had for its object a very material widening of the influences exerted by the Boy Scouts. As the first step in that direction it was decided to draw in at least ten thousand new members and to raise a fund of $50,000 to meet the expenses for the next three years. In order that the boys might miss no opportunity for practical training the work of securing these new members and of raising the money needed for the work was entrusted to them. A band of one hundred and forty of the brightest and most energetic among their number was selected and divided into teams of three each to make the canvass.

A number of the most prominent of the philanthropic citizens of Philadelphia backed the project from the first and they had the endorsement of the leaders in all sections of the Union. Prominent among the latter class was Judge Lindsay of Denver, who has come to be recognized authority on all matters pertaining to the little fellows in this effort to take on new strength, the judge gave expression to the unequivocal opinion that the Boy Scouts would yet be a most potent factor in the conservation of the youth of the land. Along this line Judge Lindsay said:

"Courts and jails will never do away with the gangs of lawless youths that infest cities. It is absolutely futile for any community to stand the terrific expense of police departments, prisons, criminal courts, or even juvenile courts, if it does not at the same time wholeheartedly support every effort to conserve and prevent."

"The Boy Scout movement is our greatest hope, the greatest single activity in this country promising a solution, not only of the boy problem, but the girl problem, for the best protector of girls is the youth who lives up to the laws and ideals of the Boy Scouts."

"After fifteen years of juvenile work, I say without question that if you will give the Boy Scout movement the moral and financial support it rightfully demands, the juvenile court will soon no longer be needed."

Demoralizing home conditions are, of course, the chief causes which bring most boys into the juvenile court. Next to that, however, is the fact that the congested sections of the city afford the youth no opportunity for healthy, normal play. Deprived of this opportunity, he is bound to come in conflict with the many laws and ordinances. The Boy Scout movement is a systematized, almost scientific solution of the play problem. Its development is bound in time to relieve the congestion of the juvenile court.

DOGS ENJOY AUTO RIDES

The dogs love autos, too. There is no picture of happiness quite so impressive as when a dog is standing with its forefeet on the side of the auto bed and is looking out at the passing scenes. It is the happiest occupant of the vehicle. There is not an animal, not even a man, that enjoys a ride in an auto as much as a dog does. Note the bright gleam of its eyes, the smile on its whole visage as the machine sweeps down the street. A dog is very like a man—it likes to be going somewhere, and likes to be going fast. It doesn't care for any speed law, and therein, again, it is very like a man. If an auto is filled with people and even with dazzling damsels and there is a dog standing on his hind feet and looking out upon the fleeting world, the canine gets all the attention. The women are hardly noticed, as it is in the street where a woman is carrying or leading a dog—she is eclipsed by the canine.—Columbus Journal.

FEAR FOR KAISER

GERMAN EMPEROR REPORTED ILL—RUSSIANS ADMIT FALL OF LODZ

LONDON, Dec. 10, 12:31 a. m.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Amsterdam says: "The latest bulletin issued in Berlin says that Emperor William's condition is unchanged and he has been unable to leave his bed. His fever has not decreased. "The emperor received a report of his military situation, but was too weak to give any instructions."

LONDON, Dec. 9, 11:15 p. m.—The victory off the Falkland islands, where the British squadron sank the German cruisers Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Leipzig, and the success of the Indian troops on the Gulf of Persia, where they compelled the surrender of a Turkish army, have for the moment overshadowed so far as England is concerned, at any rate, the larger events which have taken place on the continent of Europe.

The sinking of the German cruisers materially lessens the menace to British shipping, while the success of the Indian forces has given Great Britain control of the Persian gulf, the delta of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers and threatens that part of Turkey on which German railway builders have had their eyes set for many years.

With this good news for the allies comes what is considered here as a favorable French communication of the operations in Flanders and France. There is also a somewhat clearer view of what is taking place along the Russo-German front.

The withdrawal of German troops from the west to strengthen their armies in the east has enabled the allies to resume the initiative along the front reaching from the Swiss border to the North sea, and while they have not made any marked advance, they have been able, according to official announcement, to organize and consolidate the positions won in the last few days. This naturally has not been done without opposition from the Germans, who claim to have inflicted heavy losses on the French, particularly in the Argonne and north of Nancy.

Flanders is at present considered fairly safe from German attacks, which, when they do materialize, it is believed here, will be directed more at the French center.

The Russians have at last admitted the occupation of Lodz by the Germans, but in the official statements issued today say they evacuated the city fifteen hours before the Germans occupation, and that they changed their positions without the loss of a single man.

It is apparent from the various official reports that there are converging German movements on Warsaw from the north and the center, combined with outflanking movements to the southeast of Cracow. The success of any of these movements would require the Russians to turn back from Cracow, which they have not done thus far. As a matter of fact, the Russians assert that they have inflicted a "grave defeat" on an Austro-German force which tried to get around their left wing, although a later Austrian report indicates partial success in this region.

Reports of the serious illness of the German emperor coming through Amsterdam have not been confirmed. It is known that Emperor William is suffering from bronchial catarrh, to which he is subject, and that he is compelled to remain in bed. He is able, however, to receive reports of the situation from the general staff.

As the result of the Sultan's proclamation of a holy war, a serious rising is threatened against the Italians in Tripoli and the Turkish ambassador at Rome has hastened to assure the Italian government that the Sublime Porte is trying to avert it. The new Servian cabinet, which is composed of all parties, at the opening of parliament today, assured the members of its intention to carry on the war to the end, in the belief that the sacrifices the country has made will be recognized by the allies when the war is ended.

The reorganized Servian army, under King Peter, is now making a stubborn stand against the further advance of the Austrians and, according to Nish reports, has inflicted heavy losses on the invaders.

REMARKABLE MILEAGE OF TRACK-WALKERS

The real travelers of this country are the track-walkers, who care for the tracks of the Southern Pacific railroad. According to estimates of the S. P. company, its track-walkers cover two million miles a year in patrolling the right-of-way of that company alone. Every day each one of the 7000 miles is gone over. Everything from roadbeds and tracks to switches, bridges, culverts and signals are carefully scrutinized in order that the trains may go quickly and with safety. The inspector carries with him a supply of lanterns, flags, torpedoes, spikes, mauls, tacks and other necessary equipment, so he can meet any emergency arising.

Unselfishness is letting the selfish have everything.

CONCERNING THE PLUGGER

In school and college and club, and in the world of affairs, the plugger is a man marked for admiration. His tribute, however, does not come in the shape of a hearty slap on the back, nor is he proclaimed a social lion and sought after as a source of entertainment. It is he to whom men come for advice, and it is he who serves on committees and gets behind movements for the common good. Often he is imposed upon. Take the school play, for instance. A few brilliant persons conceive the intention of parading their histrionic talents for the honor of their class or society or the school. In the rush of enthusiasm the plugger is overlooked. Something in his stolid ways disqualifies him for consideration. But a play without a theater and lights and an audience is no play. In this dilemma, the plugger finds himself a very necessary person. He is called upon for help and great emphasis is laid on the distinction of being a party to a project of such magnitude. After due consideration, he accepts, and then his die is cast. Of course, he succeeds. That was taken for granted when his name was first mentioned; and thereafter he becomes known as the owner of a secret trick by means of which projects of a rather visionary nature are consummated. In his studies he never shines or flashes. Rather, he glows steadily and can always be depended on for a spark to light the skyrockets which his fellows send up at examination time. This reputation he carries through the next few years. His employers or teachers come to regard him as dependable, but hardly promising. In time, however, he forges ahead by the indirect process of suffering less persistent men to lag behind. Those who once looked upon his friendship as merely an incident now come to regard it as a rather agreeable habit; and once it is cultivated a little, they find the ground beneath the surface rich in those things which contribute to a substantial understanding of life. And as the years accumulate about the plugger, he takes his place among those stolid men who, though they remain amenable to persuasion and are not averse to what is new, are nevertheless firm in the knowledge that they form the link by which the present is suspended from the past, and that the link must not be imperiled by the strains of impetuous radicalism.—Indianapolis News.

GOOD BREEDING THAT TELLS

Recently a lady entered the post-office in a city and approached the money order window. The clerk within told the story later to a friend:

"I instinctively formed an ill opinion of her, as she came in noisily and was dressed somewhat loudly, it seemed. Glancing again, I recognized her as a member of a troupe then billed to show in the city this week. An old, gray-haired laborer, with his dinner pail in his hand, was just ahead of her. He stepped back, removing his battered old cap:

"Madam, did you want to git hyar?"

"When you are through," she replied pleasantly.

"He shuffled aside, however, and remarked: 'Takes me a long time, madam; I can't hardly write nohow.'

"Thank you; and when I am through, if I can be of any assistance to you, I'll gladly do so," she said as she stepped up to the window.

"I came very near begging the woman's pardon for forming the hasty ill opinion of her that I had at first sight. For, I tell you a woman who'd stop in a busy postoffice, in all that jam and rush, and help a common, ragged old laborer whom she had never seen before, is fine, and no mistake. I just wanted to shake hands with her right there. After all, good breeding will reveal itself, regardless of time or environment, if occasion requires it."

SEVERE TASK

A good story is going the rounds at a certain university regarding one of the sarcastic professors, who was recently conducting an oral examination in a very scientific way.

There was one student, handsome, easy and self-possessed, who appeared to be utterly ignorant of the simplest phases of the subject.

Professor W. put question after question to him, without receiving one intelligent reply. Finally, the student said, naively:

"I'm very unfortunate, professor; you never ask me anything I know."

The professor said nothing, but gravely tore off a tiny piece of paper from a convenient pad.

"Here, Mr. B.," he said, handing it to the student, "write all you know. Take plenty of time—there's no hurry."

GETTING BACK AT HIM

If you see a mass of bundles moving along the highway these days, you will find, by burrowing down underneath or into the midst of it, that a parcel-post carrier is concealed there.
