TO THE PUBLIC.

In presenting to his patrons the New City Directory, the publisher desires to say that he has given his personal attention, not only to the canvass but to the compilation of the whole work—in other words he has done his best to give a correct list of names, and as far as possible correct numbers of stores and residences. The canvass has been conducted with great care, visiting every domicile; and the census shows a population of 28,373, of this 14,887 are whites and 13,486 are colored, showing an increase of 2,924 over 1885. The absence of vacant houses, notwithstanding the activity in building, is further proof of Macon's rapid growth

To those who kindly gave us information, and the business and professional community for encouragement and support of a home directory over other publications, and the publishing house of J. W. Burke & Co., for its excellent typographical work, the publisher returns sincere thanks, and asks fair criticism.

Respectfully,

WASHINGTON POE.
