THE GLENDALE EVENING NEWS

HIGHWAY BANDITS OPERATE NEAR GLENDALE

Eagle Rock Man Escapes the Robbers Through Nerve In Encounter

Two auto bandits in a large touring car attempted to hold up L. C. Wilson of Eagle Rock early this morning on West Colorado boulevard, near the Glendale-Eagle Rock boundary line. Shortly after 1 a. m. a Ford hurriedly drove up before the city hall. The driver rushed in and told the night sergeant on duty that auto bandits were operating on Colorado boulevard.

The intended victim of the bandits stated that he had noticed a big car following him for fifteen minutes. His suspicion that they were hold-up men were justified when he heard the vicinity of Delaware avenue. It was dark at this point and there were no other cars on the street.

Forced to Curb
Suddenly the car that had been following him increased its speed, passed, and cut right in front of Mr. Wilson's car, forcing him to the curb.

A gruff command to "stop and stick up your hands" was received, and a big blue-steel automatic pistol was flourished at Wilson.

Instead of complying with the order and submitting to the hold-up, Wilson "stepped on the gas," turned his car sharply to the right, cut right over the curb and sidewalk and sped down Delaware avenue.

"Didn't even turn around to see if they were still following me," he stated to the police. "I'll bet I did fifty miles an hour getting away," he added grimly.

The police rushed to the scene of the attempted hold-up and searched the entire neighborhood, but no trace of the bandits could be found. A good description of the hold-up men was obtained by Wilson and further investigation is being carried on by the police.

H. L. MILLER HOST AT FAMILY PICNIC

Verdugo Park Scene Happy Outing Enjoyed by Real- tor's Relatives

H. L. Miller, local realtor at 101 South Brand boulevard, arranged a most enjoyable picnic outing Sunday for members of his immediate family and relatives in Verdugo park, Glendale's new playground. The picnic had been planned last week and tentative plans were for holding it in Griffith park. However, when the company met Mr. Miller was allowed to make the choice of the picnic ground and he led the way to Verdugo park.

There the picnicers parked their cars and gathered about two long tables. The dinner menu included baked, stewed and fried chicken, various kinds of sandwiches, cakes, pies and fruits and the favors were powder puffs for the ladies and cigars for the men. Those enjoying the affair were Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Miller and Mrs. Cora Kienick of Alhambra; Mr. and Mrs. John R. Miller and Angus Miller of Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Miller of Hollywood; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Green of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Webster and two sons of Highland Park; Mr. and Mrs. Vin Bonnick and daughters Margaret and Muriel of Owensmouth; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Miller; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. Myrtle McNamara and son, Edward, Jr., Mrs. Lucile Clark and Miss Marjorie Romer of Los Angeles; Mrs. Dottie Wagstaff and sons, Edward and Jack of Clifton, Ariz., and Bob Wagstaff of Palos Verdes.

Two Glendale Men Boost City at Ventura Banquet

Glendale was boosted up a few more notches in the opinion of Venturers last Friday night when Secretary Sanders of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce spoke before a membership meeting of the Ventura chamber in the latter city.

"What Glendale is doing, Ventura can do," was the subject of Mr. Rhoades' talk, in which he told of the organized progress of this city. Mr. Sanders' talk was also along the lines of subtle boost for Glendale by way of comparisons with other communities.

Mr. Rhoades declares that the Venturers surprised their visitors with their knowledge of Glendale and its products. The president of the Ventura Chamber during the course of the meeting, said: "I have never known another chamber of commerce to function so efficiently in doing good work for its city's upbuilding as the Glendale chamber has been doing."

Messrs. Rhoades and Sanders did not get home until the wee hours Saturday morning.

Did You Know Law Forbids Any Pistols In Autos?

Do you carry an auto-high-wayman "gun" in your automobile? If so, and you are found with it in the city of Glendale, you will find yourself talking to Judge F. H. Lowe, for a city ordinance passed July 13, and which became effective August 13, expressly forbids carrying weapons in any automobile or vehicle.

Many motorists who, since the recent number of auto hold-ups, have acquired the habit of having a revolver in their cars had better beware of the law, the purpose of which is to eliminate the carrying of fire-arms in any fashion and thus take away from highway-men the means of committing hold-ups.

On police officers and persons having a proper permit, unexpired, may be armed. Even unloaded firearms are specifically forbidden. The ordinance is the same as forbidding carrying concealed weapons.

WAR HERO HERE FINDS NEW CITY

R. P. Bethel Remembers He Worked In Nursery, but Where Is It Now?

Mr. and Mrs. Roy P. Bethel of San Luis Obispo county were the week-end guests of R. S. Person at 212 East California avenue, this city, which recalls an interesting story. Here 'tis: A few years ago, when Mr. Bethel was a mere lad, he came to southern California from Idaho to learn horticulture "from the ground up."

At least, that was his asserted ambition. He found early employment in a propagating-nursery plant in Glendale, the exact location of which is now a puzzle which he would like to solve. The metropolitan growth of the city to the westward has obliterated all trace of the former nursery, and Mr. Bethel found it difficult to adjust himself geographically to the new conditions.

When the Great War cast its shadow athwart this country young Bethel was employed by Mr. Person in the development of a large almond property in San Luis Obispo county.

By virtue of his occupation he might have claimed exemption from military service, but he did not wait for the routine selection of the country's eligible fighting men. Early he enlisted in the marines.

He was soon overseas and engaged in the bloody contest in the Argonne. He was badly wounded, but survived to engage in fighting until the end of the contest, which took him to the Rhine. Although "shot" west on Mr. Bethel was nevertheless full of pluck. He was tendered and accepted by cable the position of superintendent of the famous Yankee Ranch—the "picture orchard" of the almond district of San Luis Obispo county—which was developed by Mr. Person with the before-the-war assistance of young Bethel, who has acquired an enviable reputation as a thorough-going horticulturist and is now a recognized authority on the almond industry.

After visiting and motoring through the foothills and the orchards of the San Fernando valley a few days ago, Mr. and Mrs. Bethel, who were recently married, returned yesterday to look after the almond grove on Yankee Ranch now owned by E. G. Lewis of Atascadero and Palos Verdes.

Valuation Experts May Apply for Jobs at Postoffice Here

Figuring the income tax of a wage earner isn't so complicated a matter, according to Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson of the Glendale postoffice.

However, when one begins to estimate the amount of tax which should be paid by a large industry, the job is not so simple. Experts are needed who are versed in the peculiarities of each kind of industry.

Because of the need for trained men to estimate and compile the data, the civil service is asking for applications from valuation engineers in general mining, coal mining, oil and gas, and the forest industries. Applications for governmental positions by such engineers are to be received until October 1.

No written examination will be given, according to the postmaster. Ratings will be based upon the applicant's education, training, experience and physical ability. The duties will consist of the estimation of quantities, market values, valuation of equipment, cost of development, etc. Pay will range from $3,600 to $4,800 per year.

Any Glendale persons who are qualified and wish to try for one of these positions may obtain application blanks at the postoffice, it is announced.

200 GUARDS HERE QUALIFIED AS MARKSMEN

Members of Third Battalion Practice on Range in Sycamore Canyon

Members of the Third Battalion, One Hundred Sixtieth Infantry of the California National Guards, yesterday practiced long and short range firing on the rifle range east of Glendale in Sycamore canyon. About 200 men qualified as marksmen.

The Third battalion includes Headquarters company and Company M of Glendale, Company I of Burbank and Companies K and L of Los Angeles. The range practice was held under the supervision of Battalion Commander Major W. B. Heinecke, who is himself a marksman, having attended several national army rifle meets.

On every third Sunday of the month, the battalion goes to the range. The War department requires that 80 per cent of each National Guard organization qualify as marksmen. First Lieutenant Harold L. Alexander, commanding the headquarters company, is eager to have a 100 per cent marksmen organization, and until that point is achieved, he intends to take members of his company to the range every Sunday. Eventually he hopes to be in a position to challenge the crack Company H of Pasadena to a rifle meet.

Practices on Machine Gun
Company M of Glendale, being a machine gun company, will devote most of its time to machine gun firing, rather than rifle practice.

Local men have recently been transferred between the two Glendale companies. From Company M to the Headquarters company, the transferred men are: Sergeant Roy W. Westman, who will act as first sergeant; Corporal Walter McMann and Burdette Rockhold, and Privates Edson H. Brainard and Philip Bradley.

From Headquarters company to Company M, Corporal Glen D. Hurd and Privates Francis Dryer, Henry Dryer, Earl Hammond, Thomas Melver and Walter Melver were transferred.

It is the hope of Lieutenant Alexander that the local companies may be built up and trained so that they will be among the crack organizations of the regiment.

Reeves and Mabry Attending Spanish War Vets' Reunion

The annual re-union of the United Spanish War Veterans, which is being held this year in Los Angeles, is being attended by Captain W. H. Reeves and Captain W. C. Mabry, representatives of the Glendale camp.

During the Spanish-American war, Captain Reeves was a member of the first signal corps, which was stationed in the Philippines, and Dr. Mabry was in charge of the medical work in one of the provinces. Both of them were kept quite busy.

In order to be able to attend the convention without neglecting city duties, Mr. Reeves is taking half of his vacation this week. However, he expects to keep in touch with the city hall daily.

The value of this convention to southern California cannot be overestimated in the opinion of Mr. Reeves, because of the fact that all of its delegates are mature men, many of whom have made places for themselves already in the business and political spheres, of their home communities. Mr. Reeves knows that, if they are pleased with their reception, they will become excellent boosters for Los Angeles.

Chamber Meeting Will Be Held In Evening Tomorrow

Tomorrow's chamber of commerce directors' meeting will be held at 7:30 in the evening instead of the usual noon luncheon-meeting. Secretary R. Rhoades has announced.

The reason for this is that several chamber of commerce directors are scheduled to accompany the Rotarians, as such, on the Rotary club's excursion to Monrovia tomorrow for the purpose of representing and boosting Glendale at an important gathering in Monrovia.

All Registered May Vote on City Ballot

Citizens who did not express party affiliations when registering, may not vote at the primary election on August 29, but they may vote at the municipal election which will be held in Glendale on the same date. Attention to this fact was called this morning by Judge F. H. Lowe, who feels that the importance of the bond issues cannot be over estimated.

Today's World News in Brief

By International News Service Leased Wire

FRUIT AND POTATO GROWERS FACE RUIN BY STRIKE
WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Hundreds of fruit and potato growers in the west will be utterly ruined by the continuation of the railway strike for another twenty days and this situation is intolerable, both railroads and strikers were told today by Senator William E. Borah, Republican, of Idaho, in a peace plea.

SALOONS STILL SELLING REAL BEER IN JOHNSTON
JOHNSTON, Pa., Aug. 21.—Saloons here were still selling "good beer" with a kick today. Business was first rate during the morning hours. The sale of beer will continue until government agents close the saloons. Prohibition enforcement agents were "rarin' to go" early in the day but were awaiting definite instructions from Washington before they acted.

N. Y. SEA FRONT SEARCHES FOR MISSING AIRPLANE
NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Ships, seaplane and wireless were all utilized this morning in a vigorous search for a missing flying boat of the Aero Marine company, which vanished during a flight with an out-of-town passenger from Eighty-first street to Fire Island and return. The missing seaplane left Eighty-first street at 7 o'clock Sunday morning. It was to have circled the island and then return to its anchorage by 9 o'clock.

TWO MOTORISTS KILLED BY PENNSYLVANIA TRAIN
BALTIMORE, Aug. 21.—Two men were instantly killed this afternoon at Harmon station, near Odenton, Maryland, when the automobile truck in which they were riding was struck by a Pennsylvania railroad express from Washington to Baltimore, running at a rate of, it is said, nearly 60 miles an hour. The bodies of the men—James Burkett and Edward Deaver—were mangled and thrown under a freight car on a siding.

NEW EFFORT TO AID BOARD IN KEEPING PEACE
WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—A move to end the recurrence of railroad strikes by amending the transportation act was made in the house this afternoon by Representative Dickinson, Republican, Iowa. Dickinson introduced an amendment which would prevent wage decisions of the labor board from becoming effective until seven months after being handed down. The amendment, if adopted, he said, would eliminate the chief cause of rail walkouts.

INVESTIGATING CAUSE OF MARTINEZ FERRY MISHAP
MARTINEZ, Cal., Aug. 21.—A searching investigation was under way today to determine responsibility for the accident Sunday which cost the life of Mrs. C. D. Whiting, wife of the chief deputy sheriff of Jackson county, Missouri. C. D. Whiting and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Jones were rescued with difficulty. The automobile in which the party was riding was half way on the gang plank of the Benicia-Martinez auto ferry when the boat pulled out, precipitating the car into the water. Mrs. Whiting went down with the car. Her body was recovered.

TWO ARE ARRESTED IN ROSEVILLE BOMB OUTRAGE
ROSEVILLE, Cal., Aug. 21.—It became known today that Carl Moore, secretary of the Federated Railway Shop Craftsmen here, has been arrested in connection with the recent bombings of the Southern Pacific railroad yards here. The arrest was made by Deputy United States Marshal Robert Long but no information was given out as to evidence in the hands of officers. It is understood Moore is charged with aiding in the manufacture of bombs. Another man whose name was not made public, is also under arrest. Moore is held in jail in default of $3000 bail.

SEARCH MADE FOR ROUND WORLD FLIERS IN INDIA
CALCUTTA, Aug. 21.—Search was being made today for Captain Norman MacMillan and Captain Mallins, round-the-world fliers, who have not been heard from since they left here Friday for Rangoon. Shortly after their departure a terrific cyclone came up and it is feared they were compelled to land in some isolated part of the coast. The round-the-world flight was formerly in charge of Major W. T. Blake, a British aviator, who set out from London with MacMillan and Mallins on May 24. Blake was taken down with appendicitis at Calcutta and had to undergo an operation. He expects to cross the Pacific by steamship and rejoin the party at Vancouver.

HARDING SENDS PREPAREDNESS CALL TO OFFICERS
WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—President Harding today sounded a call for military preparedness, not that war can be expected, but "solely for American preservation and the continuity of the American republic." Twelve hundred students of the summer training period at Camp Meade, Md., were reviewed by the president, Secretary of War Weeks and members of committees as they marched by the White House. "If I had my way," the president declared to 1000 student officers from Camp Meade, "instead of 28,000 in training camps now, there would be more than 100,000 annually studying and preparing for military service, not that they would be expected to be called upon for such service, but to keep the nation prepared." The president added that the United States today did not contemplate an armed campaign in any direction.

INDUSTRIAL SKIES CLEARING AS STRIKES NEAR END
WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Clearing industrial skies ushered in the new week today, in the opinion of government officials in close touch with both rail and coal situations. Production of coal will begin this week in mines that have been idle for four months, and with the improved outlook for peace in the railway shopmen's strike, officials generally were confident that the end of this week will see industrial peace once more established. Those who talked with President Harding over the week-end said Mr. Harding was most optimistic over the industrial outlook and was well pleased with the manner in which his message to congress was received, despite the volley of criticism shot at it by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. The government plans no further step in the railroad situation until Wednesday's conference between railway executives and strike leaders in New York reveals whether a basis of adjustment has been reached.

OPEN BREACH OVER SOLDIER BONUS BILL FEARED
WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Republican leaders are fearful today that President Harding and congress are on the verge of an "open breach" on the soldiers' bonus. The president has again served notice that he will veto any bonus bill that does not provide specifically for the raising of revenue to finance the ex-service men's adjusted compensation. He has reiterated that he would prefer to have a sales tax written into the bill if one must be enacted. The president has been informed that congress will pass over his veto whatever bill the senate and house agree upon finally if he decides to withhold his approval of it. The president emphasized his stand on the bonus as "final and decisive" at a week-end conference he had at the White House with Senator Lodge, the Republican leader of the senate, and other administration spokesmen. He was just as frankly informed that a canvass of congress showed clearly and unmistakably that there would not be enough votes to sustain his veto once a bonus bill was passed.

THEFTS OF AUTOS AND COLLISIONS ARE REPORTED

Several Wheels Smashed on Sunday; Los Angeles Is Scene of Stealing

Collisions of minor importance and the theft of two cars featured the police news in Glendale and vicinity over the week-end.

Miss Dorothy Dawson of Tujunga, who was driving a sedan belonging to George Bartells of Tujunga, asserted that the car she was driving had been struck by a car driven by F. E. Sweet of Los Angeles. The collision occurred at the intersection of Los Feliz road and Central avenue. Damage was slight.

Automobiles driven by W. R. Woodside of 324 Cameron Place and G. E. Murphy of 509 West Lexington Drive collided about 5:30 yesterday morning at the intersection of Kenwood street and Lexington Drive. One of the rear wheels of Mr. Murphy's car was smashed while the bumper of Mr. Woodside's car was knocked off and the radiator punctured.

Cars driven by F. E. Howard of Los Angeles and L. A. Thomas of 314 South Brand boulevard came together near Colorado and Central avenue. Both cars were going the same direction.

Cigar Costs Him Car
Fifteen minutes' absence on the part of J. E. Peters from his Chandler touring car yesterday afternoon at Bimil was long enough for some auto thief to make off with it.

Mr. and Mrs. Peters and their three children, Miss Garnet Peters, Miss Fern Peters and Howard Peters, motored to Los Angeles yesterday afternoon and all went in swimming at Bimil except Mr. Peters who sat in the car to wait for their return. About 3:30 he stepped out of the machine for a few minutes and walked into the bath house to buy a cigar, intending to return to the car and smoke it. He returned all right, but when he got back the car was gone. With it were gone also a number of coats and wraps.

The party was obliged to return via street cars to their home at 209 North Orange street. So far no trace has been obtained of the machine.

Neil Cronin of 401 Milford street reports that his Ford car was stolen yesterday in Los Angeles. Its license number is 494418.

$300 Loot Taken In One of 4 Burglaries Reported in 2 Days

Four robberies were reported over the week-end to the local police department. In each case the home was entered through a window, which was pried open, leading investigators to believe that all four jobs were done by the same housebreaker. The homes molested belong to John R. Bentley, 1561 North Columbus avenue; J. V. Baldwin, 1313 North Columbus avenue; H. N. Lennox, 231 Lorain street, and Dr. B. J. Holland, 614 Geneva street.

A number of finger prints were left on a jewel box in the Bentley home. Mrs. Bentley's watch was stolen and several rings. Fortunately Mrs. Bentley was wearing her most valuable rings. Several small banks were taken. The loss will amount to between $200 and $300, according to Mr. Bentley.

Elks Band Given Vote of Thanks by Local Merchants

Resolutions of appreciation to the Elks' band, the Elks' lodge, and Bandmaster C. M. Burke for the donated services of the band at the community picnic last Wednesday evening in Verdugo park, were adopted by the Merchants' Credit association at its noonday luncheon-meeting held today.

The forty-piece band which played in the evening was probably the biggest attraction of the evening program at the picnic, and Secretary Pilling of the Merchants' association particularly compliments the musical organization upon its civic patriotism in participating as it did.

Girls Enjoy Week Camping at Baldy

A party of Glendale young people who enjoyed a week at Camp Baldy included Misses Edith and Lois Schuyler, Miss Ruth Sprowle, Miss Louise Wimmer, Miss Margaret Frazer, Miss Beulah Warren of Eagle Rock and Miss Ernestine Kinney of Eagle Rock as chaperone. On Sunday the young women were joined by Miss Bess Wadley, Miss Grace Judd, Thurston Harshman and Herbert Brown of Los Angeles, Robert Howlett, Lloyd Culver, Ed Schockley, Roland Percy, Hoyt Schuyler and Ernest Schuyler, and a picnic dinner was enjoyed. They returned to Glendale last night.

Music Feature of Jones' Rally at G. H. S. Tonight

Glendaleans are to have the opportunity tonight to welcome home Mattison B. Jones, candidate for Democratic nomination for governor from his campaign trip north. The gathering is to be held in the Glendale Union high school auditorium, where a community sing, directed by Hugo Kirchofer of Hollywood, will precede Mr. Jones' talk.

Mr. Jones arrived home last night and reports an enthusiastic reception in the north and encouraging prospects.

Mayor Spencer Robinson, who accompanied Mr. Jones, also will sing tonight and Messrs. Albright and Berry will furnish special numbers, while an orchestra will play. The community sing will begin at 7:45 o'clock and Mr. Jones will speak at 8 o'clock.

The steamship City of Montgomery is standing by the burning steamer.

Arrest Police
CORBIN, Ky., Aug. 21.—Friction between local and federal officials in this strike-tense town resulted today in the arrest of Chief of Police John Manning, City Patrolman William Patterson and two deputy sheriffs, W. H. Baker and J. B. Sutton. They were charged with interfering with federal officers.

Pershing Retiring
WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The house this afternoon passed a bill making Major General James G. Harbord eligible to succeed General Pershing as chief of staff of the army for a four-year term. The measure was requested by Secretary of War Weeks and gives credence to reports that General Pershing contemplates retirement.

Mrs. Eleanor Collins Suffers Stroke, Dies

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.—Mrs. Eleanor Collins, mother of E. R. Collins, managing editor of the Los Angeles Evening Herald, died late last night while visiting friends at Sawtelle, following a stroke of paralysis. She had been in apparently good health within the last few days.

Mrs. Collins suffered a paralytic stroke just after 9 o'clock. Word was sent to her son who reached her bedside before the end.

Mrs. Collins, who was 66 years old, failed to regain consciousness up to the time of her death, at 11 o'clock.

MYSTERY IN WRECK
Who was the Pasadena woman driving a beautifully-appointed Lincoln roadster that dived off the Los Feliz boulevard bridge near here early today? The police of Glendale, Los Angeles and Pasadena are trying to find out who the wrecking crew removed all telltale license tags from the machine before towing it in and no formal report on the accident has been made.

DOZEN DROWNINGS TONIGHT WILL BE AVERTED

Life-Saving Demonstrations at Municipal Plunge on Boy Scout Program

The stage is all set for tonight's demonstration of life saving and the prevention of water accidents, to be given at the Patterson avenue swimming pool under the auspices of the Boy Scouts, according to Harold F. Benner, local scout executive.

Fred H. Killick, experienced swimmer and life saver employed by the Los Angeles Examiner, who is to be in charge of the demonstration, was the pool warden. Benner and six Scouts early this morning, making preparations for the affair. Seats for 200 have been provided, and an invitation is extended to the general public to come, free of charge, and view the instructive and interesting program. The show will start at 8 o'clock, with Boy Scouts acting as ushers and directing automobiles to free parking space.

Talks Will Be Made
Charles L. Chandler, president of the Verdugo Hills District Council, will make an address of welcome, and L. R. James, superintendent of the municipal pool, will give a brief talk on the benefits and pleasure the institution offers to the public. Mr. Benner is also trying to arrange for music for the entertainment of the guests.

Demonstration of a number of lifesaving and resuscitation methods will be given by Mr. Killick, assisted by from three to six Boy Scouts. Mr. Killick, who is an experienced traveler and woodsman, also will show how a suspension bridge may be stretched across a stream or canyon, making same out of two parallel ropes, a number of blankets or other bedclothes, folded in thirds. A searchlight will play on the water, showing clearly Mr. Killick's movements both above and in the water of the pool.

Performs Difficult Feats
A number of interesting feats were performed by the boys in the practice which Mr. Killick and six scouts held in preparation for tonight's demonstration. Mr. Killick trained the boys in several methods of conveying lifelines through rip tides, and with the use of the line, bringing six persons to shore. (Continued on Page 10)

EXCHANGE CLUB ON BEACH PARTY

Dr. Henry R. Harrower Host to Members at His Sea- side Home

A housewarming was held yesterday by Dr. Henry R. Harrower, new eight-room bungalow at 707 Palisade Beach, Santa Monica.

Guests of the occasion were members of the Glendale Exchange club and their families. Picnic lunches were spread in the large living room which overlooks the Pacific ocean and the supply of food was most plentiful. The afternoon was spent in bathing and sociability. Prizes for various activities were given to some of the younger and older children.

The trip was made from Glendale in automobiles which met at 10:30 yesterday morning in front of the Broadway Pharmacy at 400 East Broadway. Most of the machines reached their destination in record time. Dr. Ripley Jackson's bright yellow Lexington was seen traveling over the hill in the opposite direction from the cabin and it was reported that he was hunting around for a site for a branch postoffice. W. C. Waring also drove almost over to the Pacific Union conference grounds of the Methodist church and he was accused of looking for another site for a branch Army and Navy store.

Among those present were the following: Mr. and Mrs. James Horwath and their two daughters, Ruth and Barbara; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sutton and their two sons, Robert and Wallie; Mr. and Mrs. Clemen Hamer, Mrs. C. L. Cypriote, Mrs. H. W. Armstrong, Miss Verma Harrower, Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hasty of Atascadero, Mr. and Mrs. Ed N. Radke and son, Junior, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Waring and daughter, Miss Mabel Waring; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McConnell, Attorney and Mrs. George H. King and their three children, James, Audrey and Mabel; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Jackson, Kenneth Jackson and Grace Anna Jackson, Miss Ruth Waterman, Mr. and Mrs. W. Q. Widdows, Maurice Widdows and Worth Widdows, W. H. Block, Miss Ethel Mondon, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hoyt, Lucille and Edwin Smith and Herman Psenner.

ONLY "DEPUTY" SHERIFF
W. E. Palmer, well-known trucking contractor, was seen driving his flivver about yesterday with a burro in the back seat. He was advertising Sheriff "Bill" Traeger who is out for re-election. "This isn't the sheriff," said Palmer. "Only a deputy."

THEY WILL BE DONE —THOUGHT GIVEN —BY DR. CRIST

Such Is Victory of Today, He Tells Methodists In Plea for Godliness

"The history of civilization is the story of man's pressing on toward the light, overcoming the opposing forces of darkness," declared Rev. C. M. Crist yesterday morning at the First Methodist church.

"The ascent up the hill of progress is beset by many obstacles," he continued, "but Getsemane experience must not upset the faith of the church. We are not surprised that Jesus took with Him Peter, James and John. He needed the spur of human sympathy. But His victory came when He could say: 'Thy will—not mine—be done.' This is our victory today."

"When Jesus taught His disciples the Lord's prayer and included the petitions 'Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is done in Heaven,' he knew what He was teaching. It was God putting His own thought into the mind and heart of humanity."

"Miracle Voice of God" "The modern miracle is not wrought by a bolt from a clear sky. It is not a voice from heaven; it is the voice of God through men. This voice speaks not so much in the extraordinary as through the ordinary. Occasionally God calls a man to do the spectacular, but most of life is worked out in 'humdrum' experiences. But everything becomes great when there is back of it a great purpose."

"It is a greater thing to be a member of an organization to come men than to have a miraculous power to say to an individual 'Thy sins be forgiven thee.' It is a greater thing to help in the support of medical missions than to be able to say 'Take up thy bed and walk.' It is a greater thing to enter constructively into a city's life than to help a lost boy back to morality."

"Truth Always Progresses" "Too often our energies are exercised in trying to reclaim, whereas there should be an adequate preventative program. The greater things of the kingdom are always constructive. "Truth may progress slowly but it progresses surely. As certainly as Christ did His part, which led up to Calvary and culminated in the cross, so the world through the various steps of Christian civilization is climbing toward the summit of crucifixion. It is a long incline but it is on toward the top of the high hill."

INGATHERING OF SOULS NECESSARY

Rev. Louis Tinning Preaches to Presbyterians on Topic of Saving Others

Rev. Louis Tinning, assistant pastor, preached yesterday morning at the Presbyterian church.

"Always it is of interest to note the attitude of a newly saved soul," he remarked. "Saul of Tarsus, on the road to seize Christ's followers in Damascus, met Christ. There was an instant transformation and he cried, 'Lord, what wilt thou have me do?'"

"His set plans and purposes in a moment were upset and from his innermost soul he sought Christ's plans and purposes and he became Paul. After that he never faltered. He recognized immediately what was the highest work and never looked back to the old."

"It is well for people to receive such a jolt that they forget the old and grasp the new. When God comes in, His new purpose must be first. The highest work given to mortal man is that of saving souls. There was but one Saviour. He now goes only in the persons of His disciples and He is depending on them."

"What is the real test of the value of our work? Is it bank account, fine home or clothes? No! Look in the Word to find it: 'Ye shall know them by their fruits.' The foliage and the lovely spring bloom are not enough—it is the fruit. It is the ingathering of precious souls—that is the test."

"Not only the minister is responsible. There was a man sent from God whose name was—any of our names. We must be sent men and women. "Not so long ago all the young men were drafted. Notwithstanding the sorrow the going was with pride. But for the few, who tried to evade, we coined the new word 'slacker.' What is one, who evades duty for Christ, but a slacker? One says, 'I have no place in the work of the Kingdom.' Usefulness of a machine depends on every single one of its parts. "A young man returning from the war said, 'Things don't look the same to me now. In the churches I feel a note missing. Out there on the front line, if a wounded buddy was left, every one wanted to go to the rescue. 'Let's go get him.' I've been listening in vain to hear this note."

DIME IN 140 CITIES

According to a compilation just made by the American Electric Railway Association, the average rate of fare charged by electric street railways of the United States, based on rates in effect in 275 cities of more than 25,000 population, was 7.37 cents on March 1st of this year. Ten-cent cash fares are now charged in 140 cities, while five-cent fares are charged in only 28 cities. The other cities range in fares from five to nine-cent with an additional charge of transfers.

Church Most Appropriate

Precedent and custom and good sense have taught us that a place dedicated to the worship of God and especially set apart the gathering of His people is most appropriate. "Ever since man began to offer sacrifices on altars there has been and always will be a special place of worship outside the home where we can assemble ourselves together and worship in the beauty of holiness, in communion with Jesus Christ."

Rev. Cole outlined briefly the history of worship from the lonely altar to the massive temple or synagogue. He said that the purpose of worship was four-fold: First, to keep man's mind on God; second, to lessen man's hold on earthly things; third, to bring to man's mind the goodness of God; and fourth, to promote the spirit of fellowship and communion.

'WORSHIP' THEME OF REV. C. A. COLE

Outward Act Least Part In Christian Communion, Declares Pastor

"Christian Worship" was the theme of the sermon yesterday morning at the Central Christian church.

"Divine worship was established in the very beginning of men's existence," declared Rev. C. A. Cole. "The thought of worship runs through the Bible from beginning to end. Worship is recognition of God. The attitude of worship is the attitude of the child yielding all its love to its father, of the sheep willing to follow the shepherd, of saying 'Yes' to everything that God says. "The outward act is the least important part of worship. If I have not worshipped God in the last six days, I am not prepared to worship Him this morning. If there has been no song in my life, I am not prepared to sing his praise. "A man worships God when he is what God meant him to be. I may sing every song in the hymn book and never worship. I may recite creed and ritual and scripture and never worship. I may kneel in lonely stillness of the night and never worship. The song and creed and prayer sacrifice are nothing unless I am in this one lonely individual life of mine trying to be what my God meant me to be. When I am that, then my whole life worships."

Brilliant Streak of Color In Garden Here

Travelers along North Cedar street are attracted to the brilliant streak of color in the garden of the Charles Newhouse home at 202 North Cedar avenue where there is a 100-foot hedge of old-fashioned "cock's comb" growing.

Mrs. Newhouse got the seed from her sister in Shelby county, Iowa, and planted it last spring. California soil seemed just right for the development of the seed and a high hedge topped with brilliant cerise-colored bunches of flowers now lines the Newhouse garden.

Cock's comb is something unusual to Californians, but to Iowans and other middle westerners it is a familiar "flower" and they are used to combining it with cat tails for "winter bouquets."

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Placidly Progressive California Needs Prestige Return Johnson, Lineberger Remember Richardson

By Gil A. Cowan

GLENDALE might well be termed placidly progressive. It goes ahead without furor. It assimilates more population in less time than other cities with little or no blare of trumpets.

If a hundred homeseekers arrived in certain communities during a week they would be a brass band out to meet them, and it would be the talk of the town for a year.

But here people come by the scores daily, settle down and become a part of the city's life with only a passing note in list of water or electric high installations. It takes the public service department, or the merchants' association or some other official or semi-official agency dealing with the people to recognize the rapidly with which the city is growing in population.

The postoffice is another place where this great increase in population is noted. Always there is need for more help. But it is hard to make the outside world understand why Glendale is the fastest growing city in America.

A congressional investigation might apprise the country of the fact.

Will Mr. Lineberger please take note!

If California desires to maintain her prestige at Washington, if she desires to obtain without delay the things in which she is vitally interested and for which she is now fighting, she must realize conditions as they are and see to it that there is no letting down in the character or force of her representation there. She must not by her own act impede the progress of the legislation in which she is interested.

The Boulder canyon dam project is of as much, probably of more importance to California than the Panama canal. The new tariff rates are of inestimable importance to the almond, bean, and walnut growers of the state and to our agricultural and manufacturing interests generally. The child labor amendment to the constitution is a humanitarian measure which concerns the whole nation, carrying out as it does on a national scale the established policy of this state. These are some of the measures to which Senator Johnson has devoted himself and his success depends on his work.

The above considerations point inexorably to the necessity of returning him to the senate by an overwhelming majority.

The same arguments hold true in the case of Congressman Walter F. Lineberger. He should be returned to Washington to carry out the program of construction now before congress which will particularly benefit the southwest.

But, if any change is to be made, California could well replace Governor William D. Stephens with Friend Richardson, the efficient state treasurer, who pledges economy in state administration.

Remember, Richardson is the candidate who can withstand the attacks of the Democratic nominee.

General Wood Will Remain at Helm of Philippine's Ship

MANILA, Aug. 21.—Governor General Leonard Wood will remain at the head of the Philippine administration until the four-year program which is considered essential for the rehabilitation of Philippines affairs is assured of being carried out.

Despite reports from the United States that he will return to assume his duties as provost of the University of Pennsylvania in January, it seemed apparent to day that he would be unable to leave Manila until the close of the legislative session early in February or perhaps later if an extra session of the legislature should develop.

General Wood has not commented on the matter other than to say that he has not yet arranged to leave the Philippines.

FRANKLIN D. MATHER

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for State Senator

He has served two terms in the state legislature, as Assemblyman from the 67th District, having received the Republican nomination four years ago, thereby defeating the incumbent, who is now the opposing candidate for State Senator. Two years later he was nominated without opposition and was elected by an exceptionally large vote.

As a member of the Legislature, he stood for the ratification of the Eighteenth Amendment; for the Harris and Wright Enforcement Acts for the conservation and development of the resources of the state in the interests of the people; for the great educational program of the legislature, and for its just and generous provisions for the war veterans.

He stood firmly for the King Equalization of Taxation which against the desperate endeavors of public utility corporations, aided and abetted by the "Better America Federation" alias the "Association for the Retirement of Public Servants" to defeat a bill that they might thereby evade their equitable share of taxation.

HIS PLATFORM

He stands for all necessary constructive legislation. He regards the public welfare as paramount always to special interests.

He is in favor of the most rigid economy of administration consistent with efficiency.

He is opposed to the "Better America Federation," the "Association for Retirement of Public Servants," and all other organizations which would destroy the Primary and the Initiative and return to the old system of party caucuses and conventions and political bosses.

He is a PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICAN.

He has been a resident of Southern California thirty-five years. He will be grateful for your support and if elected will render faithful and efficient service.

She raised her face suddenly and her eyes met his. There was a haunted look in them that made him draw closer, his own face anxious.

"What is it, dear?" he said in a low, worried tone.

"Only—Dacre Wynne. Always Dacre Wynne these days," she replied unsteadily. "Do you know, Nigel, I am a silly girl, I know, but somehow I dare not think of marriage with you until—every thing is finally cleared up, and death or disappearance, or whatever the dreadful affair was, discovered. I feel in some inexplicable way responsible. It is as if his spirit were standing between me and our happiness. Tell me I am foolish, please."

"You are more than foolish," said Nigel obediently, and laughed carelessly to show her how he treated the thing. But in his heart he knew her feelings, knew them and fully understood. It was exactly as he had felt about it also. The bond that bound Dacre Wynne's life to his had not yet been snapped, the mystery of his disappearance seemed only to strengthen it. He wondered dully when he would ever feel free himself, and then laughed inwardly at himself for making a farce of the whole thing, for building a mountain out of a stupid little molehill. And Toimette was helping him. They were both unutterably foolish. Anyhow, Cleek was coming soon to clear matters up. He wished with all his heart that he might tell Toimette, and thus relieve the tension of her mind, but he had given his word to Cleek, and with a man of his type his word was sacred.

So he kissed her good-bye and laughed, and went back to Merriton Towers to prepare for their coming. But the cloud had dropped across his horizon again, and the sun was once more obscured. There was no smile upon his lips as he changed the great front door to behind him.

CHAPTER XI

The Secret of the Flames

Fetchworth, as everybody knows, lies in that part of the Fen district of Lincolnshire that borders on the coast, and in the curve of its motherlike arm Saltfleet Bay, a tiny shipping center with miniature harbor, drowns its days in pleasant idleness.

And so it was that upon the morning of Cleek's and Mr. Narkom's arrival at Merriton Towers. They came disguised as two idlers interested in the surrounding country, after having satiated themselves at the famous London's gaieties, and bore the pseudonyms of "George Headland" and "Mr. Gregory Lake," respectively. Cleek himself was primed, so to speak, on every point of the landscape. He knew all about Fetchworth that there was to know—saving the secret of the Frozen Flames, and that he was expected to know very soon—and the traffic of Saltfleet Bay and its tiny harbor was an open book to him.

Even Withersby Hall and its environs had had the same close intensive study, and everything that was to be learnt from guide books, tourists' enquiry offices and the like, was hidden away in the innermost recesses of his remarkable brain.

Borkins, standing at the smoking room window—a favourite haunt of his from which he was able to see without too ostensibly being seen—noted their coming up the broad driveway, with something of distaste in his look. Merriton had given him certain directions only the night before, and Borkins was a keen-eyed man. Also, the little fat Johnny at any rate, didn't quite look the type of man that the Merriton's were in the habit of entertaining at the Towers.

However, he opened the door with a flourish, and told the gentlemen that "Sir Nigel is in the dining room" whether he led them with much pomp.

Cleek took in the place at a glance. Noted the wide, deep hallway; the old-fashioned outlines of the house, smartened up freshly by the hands of modern workmen; the set of each door and window that seemed to have stood away these impressions in the pigeon-holes of his mind. As he proceeded to the drawing room he set out in his mind's eye the whole scene of that night's occurrence as had been related to him by Sir Nigel. There was the smoking-room door, open and showing the type of room behind it; there the hall-stand from which Dacre Wynne had fatefully wrenched his coat and hat, to go lurching out into oblivion, half-drunken and maddened with something more than intoxication—if Merriton had told his story truly, and Cleek believed he had. It was, in fact, in that very smoking-room that the legend which had led up to the tragedy had been told. Hmm! There certainly was much to be cleared up here while he was waiting for that other business at the War Office to adjust itself. He wouldn't find time hanging heavily upon his hands, there was no doubt of that, and the thought that this man who had come to him for help was a one-time friend of Ailsa Lorne's, the one dear woman in the world, added fuel to the fire of his already awakened interest.

He greeted Merriton with all the bored ennui of the part he had adopted, during such time as he was under Borkins' watchful eye. Even Mr. Narkom played his part creditably, and won a glance of approval from his justly celebrated ally.

"Hello, old chap," said Cleek, extending a hand, and screwing a monocle still farther into his left eye. "Awfully pleased to see you, doncherknow. Devilish long journey, what? Beastly fine place you've got here, I must say. What you thing, Lake?"

Merriton gasped, bit his lip, and then suddenly realizing who the gentleman thus addressing him was, made an attempt at the right sort of reply.

"Er—yes, yes, of course," he responded, though somewhat at random, for this absolutely new creature that Cleek had become rather took his breath away. "Afraid you're very tired and all that. Cold, Mr.—er Headland?"

Cleek frowned at the slight hesitation before the name. He didn't want to take chances on any one guessing his identity and Borkins was still half-way within the room, and probably had sharp ears. His sort of man had!

"Not very," he responded, as the door closed behind the butler. "At least that is, Sir Nigel,"—speaking in his natural voice—

"It really was pretty chilly coming down. Winter's setting in fast, you know. That your man?"

He jerked his head in the direction of the closed door, and twitching an enquiring eyebrow. Merriton nodded.

"Yes," he said, "that's Borkins. Looks a trustworthy specimen, doesn't he? For my part I don't trust him farther than I can see him, Mr.—er—Headland (awfully sorry but I keep forgetting your name somehow). He's too shifty-eyed for me. What do you think?"

"Tell you better when I've had a good look at him," responded Cleek, guardedly. "And lots of honest men are shifty-eyed, Sir Nigel, and vice versa. That doesn't count for anything, you know. Well, my dear Mr. Lake, finding your part a bit too much for you?" he added, with a laugh, turning to Mr. Narkom, who was sitting on the extreme edge of his chair, mournfully fingering his collar, which was higher and tighter than the somewhat careless affair which he usually adopted. "Never mind. As the poet sings, 'All the world's a stage, and all the men and women, etc.' You're simply one of 'em now. Try to remember that. And remember, also, that the eyes of the gallery are not always upon you, Sir Nigel. I ask you, isn't our friend's make-up the perfection of the—er—elderly man-about-town?"

Sir Nigel laughingly had to admit that was upon him, and Borkins blushed exceedingly, and the ice was broken as Cleek had intended it should be.

They adjourned to the smoking-room, where a huge log-fire burnt in the grate, and easy chairs invited. They discussed the topics of the day with evident relish during such time as Borkins was in the room, and smoked their cigars with the air of men to whom the hours were as naught, and life simply a chess-board to move their little pieces upon as they willed. But how soon they were to cry checkmate upon this case which they were all investigating, even Cleek did not know. There of a sudden he looked up from his task of studying the fire, with knitted brows.

"By the way," he said off-handedly, "I hope you don't mind. My man will be coming down by the next train with our traps. I never travel without him, he's such a useful neggar. You can manage to put him up somewhere, I suppose? I was a fool not to have mentioned it before, but the lad entirely slipped my memory. He helps me, too, in other things, and there is always a good deal to be learned from the servants' hall, you know, Sir Nigel. . . . You can manage with Dollops, can't you? Otherwise he can put up at the village inn."

Merriton shook his head decisively.

"Of course not, Mr. Headland. Wouldn't hear of such a thing. Anybody who is going to be useful to you in this case is, as you know, absolutely welcome to Merriton Towers. He won't get much out of Borkins though, I don't mind telling you."

"Hmm. Well, that remains to be seen, doesn't it, Mr. Narkom?" returned Cleek, with a smile. Dollops has a way. And he knows it. I'll warrant there won't be much that Borkins can keep from the sharp little devil! Well, it seems to be getting dusk rapidly, Sir Nigel, what about those flames now, eh? I'd like to have a look at 'em if it's possible."

Merriton screwed his head round to the window, and noted the gathering gloom which the fire and the electric lights within had managed to neutralize. Then he got to his feet. There was a trace of excitement in his manner. Here was the moment he had been waiting for, and here the master-mind which, if anything ever could, must unravel this fiendish mystery that surrounded two men's disappearances and a group of silly, flickering little flames.

He turned to the window with his eyes bright.

"Look here," he said, rapidly. "They're just beginnin' to appear. See 'em? Mr. Cleek, see 'em? Now tell me what the dickens they are and how they are connected with Dacre Wynne's disappearance."

VACUUM TUBES IN TRANSMISSION

Having in the previous instalment dealt with the two element tube or Fleming valve and shown its action, we now arrive at a point where the discussion of the modern vacuum tube is possible. The great improvement upon a two element tube for radio purposes consisted in the addition of a third electrode or element, inside the tube in the form of a metallic gauze, or as it is known, "grid." This grid consists of an electrode of fine wires between the filament and plate of the vacuum tube. This makes it possible to increase or decrease the current between the plate and filament through wide limits. In order to understand how this result is obtained it will be necessary to consider what happens in a two electrode tube having a good vacuum, when either the voltage of the B battery or the temperature of the filament is varied.

Suppose that the filament temperature is kept constant, then a definite number of electrons will be sent out per second. The number of electrons that travel across the tube and reach the plate per second determines the magnitude of the current through the plate circuit. The number of electrons that reach the plate increases as the voltage of the B battery increases. If this voltage is continuously increased a value will be reached at which all the electrons sent out from the filament will arrive at the plate. Therefore, we arrive at what is termed the "saturation" current, as no further increase of the electron flow can be obtained by increasing the voltage.

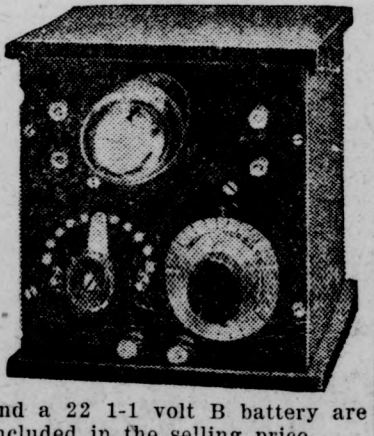

Now, suppose that the voltage of the B battery is kept at a constant value and the filament temperature gradually raised by increasing the current from the heating battery, known also as the A battery. The number of electrons sent out will continue to increase as the temperature rises.

DETECTOR CABINET THAT IS SIMPLY OPERATED

Simplicity in operation combined with efficient tuning is constantly being sought for. These features in conjunction with a very reasonable price are the outstanding points in this tuner detector cabinet. Non-regenerative type with a tapped antennae inductance and a very effective filament rheostat make up the single circuit of this tuner. Wave range is from 150 to 600 meters. Provision is made to put the B battery in the cabinet. Panel is of polished bakelite, all metal parts nickel-plated. Cabinet is finished in mahogany. One hundred and fifty feet of aerial wire with insulators and a 22 1-1 volt B battery are included in the selling price.

They Say That

The American home is defaulting in the control and discipline that it formerly gave children, and it is this lack of parental guidance of boys and girls that is the chief cause of the prevailing "crime wave" in America. This is the opinion expressed by Arthur P. Will of Los Angeles, in reply to a questionnaire from the American Bar Association. For a quarter of a century this laxity in home control and discipline has persisted, says Mr. Will. "We have sown the wind and we are reaping the whirlwind." Discussing remedies for this deplorable state of moral laxity, Mr. Will says that a complete cure "will be a slow and laborious process." He adds: "There must be brought home to our citizens an appreciation of the necessity of discipline and self-control, and of the fact that the chief business of life is not the pursuit of pleasure but the performance of duty—duty to one's self, to one's neighbor and to the state. Unless these things are impressed upon the parents, how will the children get them?"

The decline of home life frequently is lamented by those who studiously observe social conditions throughout the United States. There are so many pleasures—so many distractions, to draw the boys and girls away from the family fireside. And there are so many fathers and mothers who, themselves madly bent upon pleasure, are only too glad to have their children roam at will and not be a care as to training in the home. This con-

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGLY AND THE TREE TOAD

Once upon a time, in the early evening, when Uncle Wiggily was hopping around his hollow stump bungalow, the bunny rabbit gentleman heard a jolly little voice singing a song that went:

"Thr-r-r-r-rump! Thr-r-r-r-rump! Thr-r-r-r-rump!"

It was a sort of trilling, and sounded cheerful—so very cheerful, in fact. Uncle Wiggily said: "What a jolly fine song that cricket is singing."

"If you please, I am not a cricket," spoke a voice.

"Well, whoever you are you seem to be happy," laughed Uncle Wiggily with an extra funny twinkle of his pink nose.

"I would be much happier if I were not in trouble," said the little creature who had sung the trilling song.

"Who are you and what trouble are you in?" asked the bunny.

"I am a tree toad," was the answer, "and the trouble I am in is this: I am caught by one leg in a crack of this tree and I can't get myself loose, though I can still sing."

And again sounded the jolly song of: "Thr-r-r-rump! Thr-r-r-rump! Thr-r-r-rump!"

"You must be quite a funny toad to climb trees," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "All the toads I ever saw hopped along on the ground. But, no matter of that. I shall try to help you."

So saying, the bunny gentleman hopped over to the tree whence came the jolly song. There he saw a tiny grayish-green chap, shaped like a hop toad but much smaller. The tree toad was so nearly the color of the bark on the branch where he was caught that at first Uncle Wiggily could hardly see the poor fellow, and had to look twice before he could make him out.

"But, now that I see you, I shall help you," spoke the bunny and, using a little stick, Uncle Wiggily soon pried open the crack where the tree toad's leg was caught fast. Then the jolly singer was free and could move around on the tree.

"Can you hop on the ground as well as in a tree?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, yes," answered the tree toad. "Here, I'll show you," and he climbed to the ground. Uncle Wiggily noticed that the paws of the little grayish-green toad were shaped almost like the hands of a very tiny baby, with fingers and thumbs, so the toad could hold on to the rough spots of the bark and thus climb up or down.

"Now I'll hop on the ground for you," said the tree toad, and he did so, singing the white his pleasant little song of:

"Thr-r-r-rump! Thr-r-r-rump! Thr-r-r-rump!"

"You certainly are smarter than I am," said Uncle Wiggily. "In the first place you can sing, which I cannot do very well. In fact, whenever I sing Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy always asks me to stop. And, though I can hop along the ground faster than you do, perhaps, I cannot climb a tree as you can."

"Oh, well, we can't all do the same things!" said the tree toad, cheerfully, as he sat down on the ground beside Uncle Wiggily.

"Well, there is one thing I can do!" suddenly growled a most unpleasant and harsh voice close behind the bunny gentleman. "I can nibble your ears—that's what I can do, and I'm going to do it right now!"

"You can't nibble my ears, for I haven't any that you can see! Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed the jolly tree toad.

"I don't want to nibble your ears! I want to nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears!" roared the voice, and out of the underbrush sprang the bad Bushy Bear.

"Oh, dear!" sighed the tree toad, not so jolly now.

"You needn't be afraid, little hop toad boy!" growled the bear, for he thought the tree toad was a little hop toad. "You needn't be afraid. I'm not going to nibble your ears. I'm after Uncle Wiggily's."

"Oh, please let me alone!" begged the bunny.

"No! No!" roared the Bear. "Here I come for your ears."

"Just a minute!" chirped the tree toad. "Before you nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears, Mr. Bear, see if you can catch me. I don't believe you can, smart as you are! Let's see you catch me!"

"Pooh! I can easily catch a little hop toad boy!" sneered the dition is a deadly peril to the nation. It does breed crime and vice, and it will continue to do so, until the home becomes the center of family interest and affection.

Supervisor Wright Makes Statement to Glendale People:

One year ago I was appointed Supervisor of the Fifth District, to fill the office of Supervisor Dodge. I am now a candidate for election for the remainder of that term.

I believe I am not entirely unknown to the people of Los Angeles County. I have served for four consecutive terms in the State Legislature, two terms as Speaker of the Assembly. During that time it has been my privilege and good fortune to assist in promoting many important measures making for the advancement and prosperity of California, including ratification of National Woman Suffrage, National Prohibition, Soldier Land Settlement, Good Road Bonds, State Aid for Flood Control and Water Conservation in Southern California, Law Enforcement, Anti-Alien Land Law, Better State Support for Schools, and for orphaned children, and a Southern Branch University.

During the world war I served for eighteen months as a member of the Southern California District Draft Board, and my oldest son served as a soldier overseas.

During the past year I have become somewhat familiar with the needs and condition of my district and of this great county.

I have always advocated clean and efficient government at the very least cost.

I am content to submit my record to the voters of the district. I have no political ambitions other than to render faithful and conscientious service in any position to which I may be called.

Very Truly Yours,
HENRY W. WRIGHT.

Straight lines persist, with longer skirts. The length, the ampleness, the extreme simplicity and the artful drapes that go to make the mode are shown at their best in these graceful types.

A sumptuous representation like this is worth paying a visit to, not necessarily with the idea of purchasing, though selecting now means receiving a full measure of stylish service. Adapted from the French mode by Peggy Paige of New York.

DAY BY DAY, IN EVERY WAY, I AM GETTING BETTER AND BETTER

We have heard a great deal of late about a French psychologist, Emile Coue, of Nancy, France, who has been termed a "miracle man" because of his numerous instantaneous cures. He claims, however, that he does not cure people, that miracles do not exist, and that all he does is to teach the afflicted to cure themselves by auto-suggestion.

In his book on the subject, he makes the following assertions: "Our unconscious self or imagination, not only controls the function of our organism, but also controls all of our actions whatever they are."

"We can control consciously our unconscious self and make it do what we desire it to do if we give the proper suggestions to ourselves (auto-suggestions.) We have within ourselves a force of marvelous and incalculable power, which can produce the best on the worst results."

"This force residing in auto-suggestion can bring physical health to the sick, moral health to the neurotic and erring, and will guide into the right path those who had a tendency to take a wrong one."

Coue claims that no matter what our troubles are, if we repeat 20 times night and morning (using a knotted string to count on) the suggestion: "Day by day, in every way, I am getting better and better." This suggestion will resist in our unconscious self and direct the forces to bring about what we desire.

Do I believe this? Yes, 100 per cent—if there is nothing the matter with us. Yes, if there is something the matter with us, also to a helpful degree.

At Coue and other so-called "miracle men" have made us realize more than ever the powerful effects of the mental state upon the physical state.

When I say mental state, I mean to include that larger part of our mental state, or the unconscious, as well as the smaller part, of the conscious, mental state.

It has been our habit to think that many maladies, especially those of others, could be cured by the exercise of a little will power. M. Coue, however, gives the sole mastery of our fate to our imagination or our unconscious state. (He uses at times the terms imagination and unconscious self as meaning the same.)

In order to show that it is not the will but the imagination which controls actions, he uses this illustration: If you place on the ground a plank thirty feet long by one foot wide, you could go from one end of the plank to the other without stepping over the edge; but now change the conditions of the experiment and imagine the plank placed at the height of a cathedral tower—could you then advance on this plank without falling? No. You couldn't because you imagine you cannot.

In other words, your will is powerless to make you advance if you imagine you cannot. "Let's not test this. I will give you an experiment that I have modified from one of Coue's, so that you can do it by yourself. And if you do it correctly, it will demonstrate very interestingly the fact that by imagining you cannot do a thing, your will is powerless to force you to do it."

Fold your hands as tightly as possible, until your fingers tremble slightly. Now try to unclasp them, saying to yourself and concentrating on it: "I cannot do it. I cannot do it." Now, while you are saying that, try to unclasp them. You will find that if you have properly concentrated on the thought, "I cannot do it," it is impossible for you to do it.

Coue says that this is because the imagination is always victor over the will if there is a conflict between them. I say you cannot make your muscles obey the commands of your will BECAUSE YOU ARE ACTUALLY GIVING THEM ANOTHER AND STRONGER COMMAND WHEN YOU ARE SAYING, "I CANNOT DO IT." This gives you a striking, concrete example which is well for you to remember.

No, dear reader, not a costume for a pajama party, but a beach costume seen at Italy's popular seaside resort. The bathing suit is worn underneath, and after a plunge in the briny, this two-piece pajama like affair is adopted.

It's a Fact

FEDERAL TRADE RELENTS
The federal trade commission announces the dismissal of nearly forty cases wherein the issues in force resale price maintenance. These were cases that were suspended by the commission to await the determination of the Beechnut packing case, which was selected and advanced by the commission as a test case. In the Beechnut case the supreme court upheld the position of the commission with respect to resale price maintenance.

After the Beechnut decision the commission considered its suspense calendar and concluded, in view of the Beechnut decision and the age of the cases on suspense, that the cases suspended should be dismissed without prejudice, as it appeared to the commission that the supreme court had settled the law with respect to price maintenance, and to bring these forty cases to a conclusion would involve a large expenditure of time and money and would require the amendment of the complaints, which would require reinvestigation, so the commission dismissed them without prejudice.

LUXURIES INCREASING
Luxuries are the one class of articles among those imported into the United States which fail to show a big fall off in value in the fiscal year just ended. Manufacturing material as a whole shows a fall off of 17 per cent in the fiscal year 1922 as compared with the fiscal year 1921; manufactures as a whole a fall of 22 per cent, and foodstuffs a fall of over 50 per cent when we compare the import values of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, with those of the fiscal year immediately preceding, but luxuries show an increase.

While a statement by the Trade Record of the National City Bank of New York at the end of 1921 showed a material decline in the importation of luxuries, the figures at the end of the fiscal year 1922 show a slight increase in the value, and a big increase in the quantity of luxuries imported.

COUNCIL TABLE

Q. Will you kindly give the amount of chicken and veal required to make a salad for 100 people?
A. If the salad is carefully served, equally portioned, forty-five pounds of chicken and eleven pounds of veal will be sufficient.

Q. I desire to give a chafing dish supper and am uncertain as to the number that can be conveniently served at one time?
A. To be successful a chafing dish affair should not include more than ten guests; in fact six is a more convenient number.

Q. Is grape juice a healthful drink?
A. Grape juice contains potassium, tartaric acid, and iron, and is particularly high in ability to cleanse the blood and to keep the body temperature low.

Q. Where are the salts and peppers placed, between guests or near the host and hostess?
A. Salts and peppers are usually set near the four corners of the table or at four equidistant points, the assumption being that the food is so perfectly seasoned that their use will not be required. Small salts and peppers may be used individually, if desired, at home, although it is considered preferable to place one set for two persons.

Q. What is the right temperature for baking white and yeast bread?
A. The dough should have risen to double its bulk then put into a hot oven. I like my oven heated to 400 F. and maintained at that temperature throughout the baking process. Time required for medium-sized loaves, 45 to 50 minutes.

Q. Would you please, kindly describe how to make candied grapefruit and how to get rid of the bitter taste?
A. Wipe three grape fruits and remove peel in six sections lengthwise of fruit. Soak in a brine strong enough to float a potato, for three days, then put in saucpan, cover with cold water and bring to boiling point, repeat 5 or 6 times, to make the peel more delicate, and cook in the last water until soft. Drain for several hours; then cut into strips one-fourth inch wide. Weigh peel and put with an equal weight of sugar in sauce pan and add one-half cup cold water. Bring to the boiling point, add one-half of the strips, cover and cook until pieces are clear. Remove to plate, taking up a little syrup as possible. Cool, roll each piece separately in powdered sugar and spread on plates to dry. Proceed with remaining half. Store in glass jars.

Q. Please give recipe for a large three-layer plain cake and chocolate cream filling?
A. A very good three-layer plain cake recipe is as follows: 3-4 cup butter; 1-2 cups granulated sugar; four eggs; 3-4 cup water or milk; 3 cups pastry flour, sifted with 2 teaspoons baking powder and 1-4 teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon flavoring extract.

Chocolate Cream Filling—Add one-third cup cold milk to one-third cup flour, stir to a smooth paste then add one cup of scalded milk, stirring constantly. Turn into double boiler and cook 20 minutes. Add 1 egg beaten with 1-3 cup sugar and stir until egg is set. Remove from fire, cool and add 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Use as filling and spread top cake with chocolate frosting.

Q. When serving a thin soup should croutons or wafers be served with it?
A. Croutons are served with cream soups and wafers with the consommé or bouillon.

Q. What is meant by "blanching" when applied to blanching nuts, etc?
A. To blanch is to scald with boiling water so that skins of fruits, nuts, or sweetbreads, etc., may be removed with greater ease.

Q. We like a rich brown gravy; is it necessary to brown the flour as well as the fat to obtain the desired results?
A. Yes, browning the flour gives gravies a better color and also a more delicious flavor than when the flour is used plain. To brown flour for soups and gravies, put a few spoonfuls evenly on the bottom of a baking pan, or on a baking sheet, and stir occasionally until it has become a fine amber brown in a moderate oven. Bottle and keep for use.

Q. Sophie—There is nothing that will make straight hair permanently curly. There are fluids that draw the hair up into waves, but they are also supposed to coat the hair, which is not good for its health.

In a recent Chat there was a formula for a curling fluid made from quince seed and gum tragacanth. I would advise you to try this. With it one forms the curls herself, after having moistened the hair with a muscelage made from these gums. The hair is allowed to dry into the forms, after which all the muscelage may be broken up into particles and shaken out. This treatment will in no way injure the health of the hair.

The conjurer was performing in a room adjoining a gunpowder factory. A sailor and his parrot were enjoying the show. The conjurer changed half a crown into a penny.

"Now that's a fine trick," said the sailor, lighting his pipe. "I wonder what he'll do next?" The sailor then threw away his match. A minute later there was no sailor, no factory, no room, no village. On a stepple a mile away the parrot, with one feather remaining, said, "Now that's a fine trick... I wonder what he'll do next?"

Grace is a young lady of five years and also of a very difficult disposition. The other day a visitor to her father's home found her weeping in a corner.

"Why, what are you crying about?" she asked.
"Cause all my brothers and sisters have a vacation and I don't have any."
"And why don't you have any vacation?"
"Cause I don't go to school yet."

WHY TRAVEL?
"You've been to Bangkok?"
"Yes."
"It must be a quaint city. What did you see there?"
"Well, there was a pretty good Chaplin film at one of the movie houses."

BROOMS AND BEAUTY
Has the advent of the vacuum cleaner displaced the broom, and with it, the healthful exercises of sweeping? Such a fact may easily be assumed from the number of inquiries I receive regarding special reduction. Many of them state: "I am not overweight, but I must reduce the size of my hips."

Others ask help for thick shoulders, or full abdomens, and again come complaints and longings to be rid of extra flesh over the top of the corset and around the waistline.

Of course, if a woman is not overweight, but too large in certain parts of the body, exercise or massage should be her method of gaining symmetry. Most women, who do their housework, will argue that their having to move about many hours of the day affords them sufficient exercise. This is often true, but while they move they continue to grow stout, since they are not taking any exercise vigorous enough to help them reduce.

Every home should have all the labor saving equipment possible. This is no argument against modern methods of work. However, this saving of labor sometimes means a loss of valuable exercise. It may be pleasant to join a gymnasium, or make a sport of such exercise such as playing golf, or tennis; but if none of these opportunities are available there is always the broom and some part of the house, or outdoors, for the exercise in sweeping.

Book Reviews

Louis, hereditary Prince of Monaco, evidently, does not possess his late father's indifference to the source of his plutocratic revenues. Monte Carlo's gambling tables, and it is reported that he may try to force it out of existence. E. Phillips Oppenheim may sigh "But oh, the difference for me!" foreboding the disappearance of a prolific source of melodramatic material, with which he so often has satisfied the suppressed desires of lawn-mowing stay-at-homes, and so, has increased the sales of his books. He seems to be schooling himself against its loss, however, for he has foregone any mention of Monte Carlo in his latest novel, "The Great Prince Shan," and the same is true of his "The Evil Shepherd," which is now in the hands of the publishers. This latter book is described as an English mystery story, with a judicious admixture of the fantastic and weird to make it properly thrilling.

One of the most thrilling episodes in Edson Marshall's latest novel, "The Sky Line of Spruce" which has just been published, is a fight between the hero and a gigantic grizzly, in which brain is killed. Marshall knows what it is like to meet the onslaught of a grizzly, as he had that experience on a recent hunting trip in the columns in "England and the maddened animal," which he had mortally wounded, reached to within a few feet of him before falling, in its last rush.

The autobiography of Maurice Baring, "The Puppet Show of Memory," which critics claim to be one of the best autobiographies of recent years and an important contribution to this class of literature, is soon to make its appearance in America. Mr. Baring went to school in England and Germany, served in the foreign office, and was connected with diplomatic life in Paris, Copenhagen and Rome. He was student of Russian life, was a war correspondent in Manchuria and visited Turkey during two critical periods. His autobiography is carried up to the beginning of hostilities in 1914.

In the large metropolitan banks one naturally expects to find financial experts in various specialized lines, but the banks of smaller communities scarcely be expected to meet the expense necessary to retain such men, although customers of such banks are probably in as great a need of such services and equally entitled to them.

The Glendale officers of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank have, through years of study of this vicinity, acquired an intimate knowledge of the business conditions, and, through these officers, a customer may receive for his personal business problems the advantage of this experience.

The Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank also has placed at the command of the people of Glendale a corps of experts—experts whose services are now available throughout the entire portion of the Pacific-Southwest served by the merged institutions, and branch officers can readily call upon the financial experts who have been retained in the Los Angeles offices, because of their broad knowledge of special phases of the business.

Elaborate research and statistical departments of The First National Bank of Los Angeles, the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank and the First Securities Company are constantly on the search for information to guide the officers in giving constructive advice, assistance or information to customers. Through the combination of these three sources of knowledge, the customers of this bank may command an exceedingly advantageous service not otherwise available. Figuratively, the bank has its hand on the pulse of business. Like the trained physician, the financial specialist is able to diagnose a situation and his word of disapproval from entering into saved many from entering into unprofitable or even disastrous investments.

This bank is able to offer its customers not only the services of Glendale officers, but, in addition, the advice and counsel of such men as Wm. Rhodes Hervey and Bruce H. Grigsby, two of the best known trust officers in the United States, as well as such men as John P. Burke, member of General Daves' National Budget Committee; Austin O. Martin, who for years has devoted much of his time to the development of co-operative marketing associations in California; J. Dabney Day, probably the greatest cotton financial expert in the west; and E. S. Pauly, whose knowledge of the credit situation in California places him very close to the head of his profession. These men, and many others, are giving their attention to the problems of the customers of this bank.

The Brand Boulevard and Glendale Avenue Branches of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank invite its customers and friends to confer freely with its officers in financial matters. Application has been made to the courts to change the name of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank to that of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank—in order that the merged banks may operate upon a basis which will be entirely fair to all cities concerned in the recent merger. The date upon which this change becomes effective is not yet known.

ENDORSED by William H. Reeves, city manager of Glendale, and by Ray Morrow, deputy city attorney, Judge John Perry Wood, candidate for re-election to the superior court of Los Angeles county, will receive a heavy Glendale vote, according to predictions of his friends.

Judge Wood has served on the superior court bench for twelve years, is 43 years of age, and is widely known, not only as a jurist, but as a man broadly interested in civic and moral development of city, county and state.

Among the many endorsements which have poured in to Judge Wood during the last week is one from Judge Louis Myers of Los Angeles, now sitting as judge pro tem of the Supreme court in San Francisco. Judge Myers urges a universal vote for Judge Wood "in the interest of public welfare."

In the letter of endorsement received by Judge Wood from City Manager Reeves, the latter says:

"I surely desire to do all in my power to secure your re-election, realizing as I do better than most people, your great ability and real value to the community, in the high position which you occupy."

Attorneys working for Judge Wood's re-election emphasize the importance of a heavy vote at the primary election as they fear that the over-confidence of Judge Wood's friends may result in a small vote, and, to preserve the integrity and efficiency of the courts, they declare, Judge Wood must be returned to office.

WOODMEN TO HAVE ANOTHER LARGE BOXING SHOW

Ralph Myers and Kendig of Burbank Will Meet for Sure This Time

Local sport fans are promised a real scrap when Ralph Myers, Johnny's kid brother, meets Howard Kendig of Burbank at the I. O. O. F. hall, Orange and Broadway, Wednesday evening. The affair will be one of the numbers on the card of a boxing contest, benefit Glendale Camp 12886 M. W. A., which is to start at 8:15 o'clock.

At the last Woodmen show two weeks ago Wednesday Ralph and Kendig were booked for a gloved argument, but Kendig suffered a broken hand a short time before the date of the fight and it was necessary to substitute someone for him. Now, however, Kendig is said to have regained his usual good form, and Ralph is all set for the business of settling the dispute which has already caused two battles.

Big Brother to Fight

Johnny Myers is also on for a bout. At the last affair, when challenges were hurled broadcast by what seemed half the populace of Burbank, the Arizona Wildcat, who hibernates in Burbank, dared Johnny to fight him. Being a man of few words but lots of action, Johnny merely nodded his head. Wednesday night they will mix.

The Wildcat is a husky boy. His weight has not been announced, but at a guess he has it on Johnny. However, Glendale's fireman-fighter takes all comers, and a scrap worthy of the name is promised.

Another feature of the evening, presenting some of the smaller but no less ferocious boxers in this vicinity, is the Rex Hampton versus Kid Essick bout. Hampton is another of those rough boys from Burbank, and has the support of a lot of those who claim to know in this affair. Kid Essick has made a big place for himself in local boxing affairs, and can be expected to take care of himself "most anywhere."

The Kid's scrap with Burbank King two weeks ago was one of the main events of the evening, and Wednesday will undoubtedly be as good or better, it is predicted. The Kid's defeat of the King raised him even higher among the local celebrities, and his next bout is being featured.

Inglewood on Bill

Burbank King, the smiling boy who lost to Essick two weeks ago, is on the card again, and is said to have promised not to smile at the ladies and gents while dealing out wallops. The King is lined up to take on Bill Dunson of Inglewood. Just what Dunson expects to do with King is not known, but what the Burbank boy wants to do to Bill is plenty.

The fifth event to be a bout between Walter Dodge and Chick Watson of Glendale. Dodge, who specializes in both boxing and wrestling, is due for a real work-out when he meets Chick, and the management of the affair promises some snappy stuff.

The benefit program will start promptly at 8:15, according to Carroll Hare, and the events will be run off in regular fashion. It is the hope of the Woodmen that the bi-weekly boxing events will be accepted by the local sport fans as a regular thing, and a number of classic contests are being tentatively arranged for future bouts.

Sport High Spots

Bill Essick's Vernon Tigers threw the biggest surprise of the week into the San Francisco Seals yesterday by winning both ends of a doubleheader and copping the series with the league leaders from the Bay City. Vernon is playing great ball and is unquestionably the team which will have to beat out Frisco for the pennant if that seemingly impossible feat is to be accomplished. Yesterday's scores were 2 to 0 and 4 to 0, each being a walk several starts. Jackie May bested George and McWeeny in the opener, while Wheeler Dell went the whole route in the seventeen inning aftermath.

Ira Caffey, former Covina high school star athlete, appeared in the Oakland line-up in the second game yesterday with the An-drew playing center field and batting in the leadoff position. The ranky youngster got "off on the right foot" with the fans by playing an errorless game in the field and getting a safe hit. Caffey, who has appeared in various athletic events in Glendale while attending the Covina High school, has the real earmarks of a great baseball player. With several years of seasoning in the minor leagues, he should be ready to hold his own with any of the boys in the big show.

Los Angeles's list of cripples now includes Manager Killifer, Buster McCabe, Art Griggs and Red Baldwin, all of whom had been playing on the regular line-up prior to their injuries. Ordinarily, such bad luck as that would completely wreck a team's morale, playing ability and would mean a disastrous tumble in the percentage column.

ALONZO, KING OF THE SPANISH COURTS

By WOOD COWAN

The player Spain pinned her hope on was Manuel Alonzo, one of the greatest tennis shooters in Europe. Competing often in England and France, this young Spaniard has proved that he can cover more court than any other player in the world. No one possesses greater speed or a quicker eye. He is very versatile, having mastered every stroke. His backhand, ground strokes and forehand are top spin drives with remarkable speed. Alonzo's volleying is remarkable for its angles, being equally good either straight or cross court. He has mastered the American twist service to a remarkable degree although it could be improved upon. His over-

GLENDALE LOOSE, BUT LYNWOOD IS LOOSER

Sixteenth Game Won by 14 to 12 Score After Ageegson Gets Relief

At the close of a nine-inning baffest staged yesterday afternoon on the Glendale baseball park, the Glendale Merchants chalked up their sixteenth win out of nineteen games, when they stepped on Lynwood for a 14 to 12 score. The Merchants' average now stands at the enviable figure of .842.

In the first and second innings Lynwood rolled up two scores and in the fourth and fifth were more. For the first few innings it looked like a pretty close game, the Merchants catching up with Lynwood's lead, and adding one to theirs in the third. Then the batting bee started, and continued on one side or the other for the rest of the game.

Ageegson started the game on the mound for the Merchants, and pitched a good brand of ball until in the seventh, when Lynwood began to find him with a vengeance. Until the seventh began the Merchants had a six-run lead, but Lynwood went through "Aggie" for five runs in a hurry.

Harris Relieves Him
Cobb sent Harris to relieve Ageegson, when five runs were allowed and the bases full. The three on bases got in after Harris took the mound, making a total of eight runs for the inning, but after that the tall Glendale hurler sent them steadily down the strike line for the rest of the game.

After Lynwood had achieved the two-run lead, Glendale tightened up, allowing no more runs, and rolling up four more for themselves.

On account of the absence of Bell, "Ty" Cobb held down first base, and although his position this season has been principally in the field, he occupied the difficult first sack position without making an error. Griffin, the hard-hitting little outfielder, distinguished himself both in fielding the ball, and in driving out four hits in six times up. Jensen, also of the Glendale outfield, did some spectacular fielding, and collared four hits in five times up. Acosta made the only two-base hit of the game.

Official Present

President Weirich of the Greater Southern California Baseball association was a visitor at the game yesterday, being anxious to see the team which is making the entire association sit up and take notice.

The World Over

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE

PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Now they are propounding a new question. It used to be can the wrestler get the better of the boxer in a rough and tumble match? The latest query is: Can the football player at his best, hold his own with the wrestler first question is concerned, champion wrestler Stranger Lewis still has his forfeit up to prove that he can put Dempsey hors de combat. How the latter question will be settled is another matter.

The boys are all predicting that the next world's baseball series will be between New York Nationals and New York Americans. Doubtless the St. Louis folks consider this premature in view of their present standing at the head of the American league.

The Short Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh

International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. — The business of proving that self-defense is not only a plea but an art, as one writer put it, seems to have struck a period of unwonted depression in this hitherto lucrative field. There has not been a bout of any consequence hereabouts since Leonard and Tender said it with uppercuts. There does not appear to be one in immediate prospect.

Semi-Pro Pitchers Set Air Tight Mark

AKRON, O., Aug. 21. — A new pitching record for the current year is believed to have been established yesterday when the General Tires and Firestones of the Industrial league, a semi-pro organization, played twenty innings to a scoreless tie, the game being called on account of darkness.

Sports Chatter

PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

On Friday, September 1, at Forest Hills, N. Y., the thirteenth competition for the Davis Cup will be started. From 1915 to 1918 inclusive there was no competition for the trophy owing to the war, and when the competition was resumed in 1919 Australia retained the cup defeating England, the challenging nation. The next year, America represented by Bill Tilden, Bill Johnston, Watson Washburn and Samuel Hardy invaded Australia, defeated the antipodeans and brought the trophy back to this country after an absence of seven years.

On September first, next, the U. S. Davis cup team composed of Johnston, Tilden, Williams and Richards will defend its place in the trophy against the country's right to the trophy against their Australian contenders.

In 1899, Dwight F. Davis conceived the idea of presenting a trophy for international competition in tennis. It was first played in 1900 between Great Britain and this country. Davis himself being one of the American team that defeated the invaders. Since that time the Davis Cup has become world famous, and takes its place with the America's yachting cup as one of the two most sought after trophies on the field of sport in the world. The winning of the trophy today means more to the nation gaining it than does the winning of the so-called world tennis championship played for each year at Wimbledon, England.

During its life of twenty-two years the Davis Cup has traveled from one country to another more than 100,000 miles. It has become cluttered with the names of winning teams and nations that there was no more room to engrave future winners, and last year it was mounted on a silver tray of the same design as the pedestal of the same design as the cup and future winners will be engraved on this new base. With the new addition, the cup and tray of solid silver now weighs a total of 517 ounces and is the most valuable, intrinsically, of any international trophy now being competed for.

During the years it has been competed for, Australia to date holds the record number of wins with seven to its credit, the United States has won it six times and the British Isles five times. Australia holds the record for the longest consecutive number of victories having won it in 1907 from the British Isles and up to 1911 it was mounted on the same design as the cup and future winners will be engraved on this new base. In 1912 the British Isles defeated Australia and regained the cup.

The next year, 1913, the United States with a team of McLoughlin, R. Norris Williams and H. Hackett challenged and wrested it from the British Isles winning three out of the five matches. In 1914 six nations challenged this country and Australia won the right to play for it and defeated the American team. This was right at the beginning of the war and rather than take a chance of having the Germans capture the cup it was left in a safe deposit vault in New

Deaths and Funerals

WILLIAM L. SHERWOOD William L. Sherwood passed away yesterday morning, Sunday, August 20, 1922, at his home, 217 Hawthorne street at the age of 63. Mr. Sherwood had been engaged in the real estate business in Glendale for the past two years. His office was located at 205 East Broadway. He had lived in California for the past 29 years. He was born in Canton, Ill. Mrs. Harriet P. Sherwood survives her husband. There is one daughter, Mrs. Marie S. Wyman of Glendale. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow in the Little Church of the Flowers, interment to be made in Forest Lawn cemetery. Arrangements are in charge of Pulliam-Kiefer and Eyerick.

ROBERT S. MILLIGAN Funeral services for Comrade Robert S. Milligan, who passed away Saturday afternoon, August 19, 1922, at the family home, 114 East Park avenue, are being held at 3 o'clock this afternoon, Monday, August 21, 1922, in the chapel of L. G. Scovern, under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. and the G. A. R. Rev. C. R. Norton, chaplain of the local post of the Grand Army, is officiating. Interment will be in Grand View Memorial Park.

Mr. Milligan was 75 years of age and was born in Ohio. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary F. Milligan. They have five children: C. A. Milligan, Pittsburg, Tex.; A. L. Milligan, Los Angeles; T. F. Milligan, Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. I. N. Jensen of Mississippi; and Mrs. O. M. Carpenter of Pomona.

MRS. MARY BELLE JAACKS The end to the beautiful life of Mrs. Mary Belle Jaacks, wife of Henry C. Jaacks, came Tuesday, August 15, 1922, at 1:25 a. m. The Glendale Evening News is in receipt of the following tribute from a friend of the deceased: "Her sun set while it was yet day" and her hands rested from the manifold duties she was accustomed to perform for her loved ones, neighbors, friends and those who needed her help or cheer.

"Mrs. Jaacks was born in Nebraska City, Neb., March 12, 1871, her early life being spent there. She was married to Henry C. Jaacks in 1896 and resided in Nebraska until her removal to Glendale four years ago, where they re-established their home of peace and harmony.

"Mrs. Jaacks was a member of the Christian Science church and of Vesta Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, of Omaha, Neb. Funeral services were held at the Little Church of the Flowers Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Pulliam, Kiefer and Eyerick in charge. The magnificent floral pieces and bower of flowers gave silent testimony of the love and esteem of a beautiful character and a life well lived. The many tributes paid to the deceased were truly an inspiration to the living to do good work.

"Mrs. Jaacks is survived by her husband, Henry C. Jaacks, her sisters, Mrs. E. A. Donecken of Glendale and Mrs. L. M. Hale of Everett, Wash., and a niece and nephew, Miss Georgina Donecken and Charles Hallbrook of Los Angeles." -Contributed.

Federal Officials Go Fishing for Red Leaders' Literature CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—The raid upon the offices of William Z. Foster, noted labor agitator for the "one big union" idea, was characterized today as a "fishing expedition" more than anything else, by Assistant State's Attorney William F. McLaughlin, under whom the raid was carried out.

McLaughlin stated that there was no truth to the reports that they had carried away tons of red literature. "We took a couple of files," said the attorney-general, "and we are looking them over now. I do not expect anything startling as a result of our find in connection with the wreck because I think the fellow (Foster) is too clever to put anything on paper if he were connected with it, which I doubt."

Walter Taylor and Daughters Leaving Walter E. Taylor, of Lubbock, Texas, who has been enjoying a reunion of his family here for the past two weeks, will leave today by motor for his home in the Lone Star state. He will be accompanied by two of his daughters, Mrs. John Snyder of Amarillo, Texas, and Miss Cymbel Taylor of 715 South Louise street. His son, Victor H. Taylor, with his wife and son William, of Cisco, Texas, will leave today by railway, going north to San Francisco before continuing their journey to their southern home. One daughter, Mrs. J. M. Jones of College Station, Texas, left last week. Two daughters, Miss Katherine Taylor of 715 South Louise street, and Mrs. Allie Anderson of the Golden West Sanitarium, are residents of Glendale.

Narcotic King Again In U. S. a Prisoner LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.—With the arrival here today of the liner West Farolan and the taking ashore of David Lightner, declared to be the narcotic king of the Pacific coast, the end of a man hunt for the captive that covered more than 20,000 miles will be brought to an end.

JOYFUL SCENES THAT OFFEND EXCLUSIVE NAHUNT

Photo shows a bunch of kiddies having a really good time on the lawn of the Mike Di Carlos home at Nahunt, a suburb of Lynn, Mass. Di Carlos was accused by some of his more exclusive neighbors of keeping a disorderly house, largely because of the fact that he permitted, and invited, the youngsters to romp about his grounds and generally enjoy themselves. The exclusive neighbors brought the case to court, but Di Carlos was the victor.

TROTSKY'S ARMY IS

JUST BIG BLUFF EXPERTS SAY

Troops Pose on Polish Line As Diplomatic Trick, Americans Assert

By HARRY L. ROGERS For International News Service, WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Trotsky's Red army, the bugaboo of European statesmen, and one of the chief reasons advanced by France for maintaining her huge military establishment, is a colossal bluff, at least so far as foreign conquest is concerned, according to American military experts.

Organized for the purpose of thrusting communism down the throats of the bourgeois nations of the world, the Soviet legions, according to American experts, have not even been able to preserve the old Russian empire from partial disintegration and have been really effective only in the well known role of awing the Russian peasant.

Soviet leaders have proved themselves thoroughgoing adherents of the doctrine of fear, it is pointed out. In advance of every overt move by Moscow diplomats toward the so-called capitalistic chancelleries, there has been a warlike demonstration, if not by the Red army itself, then at least in the form of a spasm of verbal pyrotechnics by War Secretary Trotsky.

Nevertheless, it remains a fact that only a small percentage of the Red army are actually communists, official information here indicates, and the greater number of those doing "squad right" for War Lord Trotsky are there merely because better food is to be obtained in the army than elsewhere.

Used for Diplomacy The present steady concentration of soviet troops on the Polish and Rumanian frontiers is regarded here as another exemplification of the tendency of soviet diplomacy to use the Red army as a trump card whenever diplomatic negotiations are in progress.

The movement of the troops began shortly before the Genoa conference, convened and has continued throughout the negotiations at The Hague, with the result that no less than 350,000 men are now concentrated on those frontiers.

Of these nearly one-half are on the Polish or so-called "Western front," while approximately 125,000 are on the Rumanian border, and the remainder are concentrated in the Karloff area. The entire strength of the Red armies, including 121,000 of the so-called Cheka, or secret service troops, is estimated at approximately 1,500,000.

This movement of troops toward the frontier has occasioned considerable alarm both in Poland and Rumania, but those here most competent to speak say all information indicates merely a gesture toward Europe, originally undertaken for moral effect upon the Genoa conference and continued to guarantee soviet Russia a more impressive role in The Hague deliberations.

Many Rifles Available The total combatant strength of the Red army is estimated as in the neighborhood of 630,000 rifles, of which approximately 210,000 are included in the forces concentrated on the Polish and Rumanian frontiers. In addition Trotsky has no less than 850 pieces of artillery with these forces.

The alarm naturally felt in Poland—which was manifested in efforts of the Polish government to conclude a military alliance with Finland and other Baltic states—was increased by warlike preparations included:

1. Comprehensive improvements in railway facilities and highways leading to the Polish border.

2. Unusual activity in the development of artillery not only on the Polish frontier, but in the Moscow area as well, including the organization of more than fifty battalions of artillery of various types and calibres.

3. The establishment of approximately 300 new field hospitals.

4. Mobilization of many officers and surgeons who previously had been discharged from the army, as well as an organized and systematic effort to recall to the colors all officers with experience in the old czarist armies.

5. Orders for a decrease in the time of preparation for action on the western front, ranging from nine days to seven days. Experts on the ground, who are studying the situation with keenest interest are convinced that this movement is another bluff on the part of the soviet authorities. They point out that the forces on the frontier would not be sufficient for an offensive campaign either in Poland or Rumania, especially in view of the probable action of the great powers of Europe. Such a force, they assert, would be of no account as a means of holding the frontier pending a general mobilization of the manpower of Russia.

OLDEST FLAPPER'S

HEART SET ON HOME HERE

Edna Wallace Hopper, 61, Says Glendale Is Ideal Spot to Live

"I have traveled over the United States and have visited most of the countries of Europe, but I never saw a more ideal spot for living purposes than this little city of Glendale—and it's not so very little at that."

Edna Wallace Hopper, "Little Edna," who has the distinction of being 61 years young, and beautiful, gave her impressions of southern California, gave them with much enthusiasm and voiced the belief that since being young is her job, this is the very best place to be young in. This was in a confidential chat at the T. D. & L. Theatre Saturday night. She is four feet, ten inches tall and weighs about 95 pounds, and is as supple and graceful as any flapper could wish to be. And she is pretty, pretty at close range and behind the footlights. The reporter watched her in a good deal of a daze, remembering that her father bragged that he had met the bewitching person in 1890 something, and mused on the fact that there is not much chance for the young girl of today if her grandmother can be renovated till she is just as pretty and has all the wisdom of her years to boot.

Wears Mother's Picture "It's uncanny," was her final verdict. "She isn't real." Yet she seemed very real, indeed, as she sat talking, making little enigmatic motions with her very pretty hands. Around her neck among several strands of pearls hung a quaint little ivory miniature. "My mother's picture," explained Miss Hopper. "I always wear it." And the picture showed a young woman, almost as pretty as Edna, dressed as they did in the early fifties.

"I am working so hard that I don't have time to go sightseeing, but I love the mountains and the great variety of scenery that one can have without going out to look for it. How could anyone help loving life that lives here in Glendale, with all those lovely hills right at your doorway?"

Acting for 40 Years Miss Hopper has been an actress all her life. For forty years she has held leading roles in high comedy drama and musical comedy. Now she is going to star in several films, in order to round out her life as an actress. And by touring from city to city she is having the opportunity of meeting "all the people" as she expressed it. "No one can call themselves 'well known' when they only meet one class of people."

There was one more question, asked with some hesitancy, perhaps. Miss Hopper smiled. "Do you want to know, yes, once was one of his wives, but that was many years ago." Years don't mean much to Edna Wallace Hopper, one of the truly big people of the dramatic world today, and, after all, why should they?

She hopes to come back to Glendale, and be young here for the winter.

Investigate Wreck to Determine If Plotters Took Lives

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Careful investigation was in progress today in an effort to determine whether the "million dollar express" of the Michigan Central railroad was wrecked yesterday near Gary, Ind., as the result of a plot or if a defective locomotive was responsible for the crash. Two were killed and two seriously hurt.

Officials of the railroad said today that 37 spikes had been pulled from the inside of one of the rails, thus allowing the track to spread and throw the train into the ditch. A reward of $1,000 was issued for the arrest and conviction of the wreckers.

Woman He Married Enjoyable Picture at T. D. L. Theatre

"Enjoyed every moment of 'The Woman He Married,' the new feature at the T. D. & L. Theatre," said one who was there. It began a two-day run yesterday.

The inimitable Anita Stewart is the star of this First National attraction, and it has been directed by Fred Niblo, the genius who made "The Three Musketeers." Their combined talents have turned an excellent story into one of the best motion pictures it has been our good fortune to see in many months.

The theme is undying love—the love a wife holds for her husband and which inspires her to make every sacrifice possible for his sake. Miss Stewart as the wife of the young millionaire, who sticks to him loyally through the storms that break soon after their marriage, makes an appealing figure. Darrel Foss is cast as the young husband, and none could have portrayed the difficult role better than he.

The story contains some sharp contrasts between the "classes," and has been developed with such suspense and dramatic incidents that it holds one rapt until the end.

DOZEN DROWNINGS TONIGHT WILL BE AVERTED

Life-Saving Demonstrations at Municipal Plunge on Boy Scout Program

may be employed, he says, to bring in drowning persons from as far as 100 yards from shore, through breakers, rip tides and undertow, and all by one person. It proves, he says, that the resistance of the water is more than sufficient to keep the face of an un-moving person above water so that he can breathe.

The lifesaver also showed the Scouts how, by dipping his head under water, one may escape the violence of heavy surf, since the water immediately below the broken water is calm.

Shows Ease of Rescue
Another demonstration was shown this morning to prove the ease with which a person in the water may be saved from drowning, even if he himself is unable to move. A five-year-old child

UNSPIRITUAL MAN MAY BE RE-BORN

Heaven Would Be Hell to Ungodly, Class Learns From Rev. Brooks

"Heaven is a spiritual place for spiritual people," declared Rev. Keith L. Brooks yesterday morning in the council chamber at the city hall before the Men's Bible class of the Presbyterian church. "To be happy," he continued, "man must be in correspondence with his surroundings. Unsaved men, though moral men, cannot stand the atmosphere of a prayer meeting nor relish spiritual discourse. They cannot endure the praises of God and the things of the Spirit are foolishness to them. They are out of their element. If they could get into heaven in their unregenerate state, heaven would be hell to them."

"Nicodemus, one of the great teachers of Israel, comes to Jesus by night and pays Him a great compliment as to His teaching ability and His miracles. He has no conscious need of Christ's salvation. Jesus immediately says to Nicodemus: 'You need to be born again.'"

"It is just as possible today to intellectually acknowledge Christ as a great teacher and a God-sent man and yet have no sense of the need of His salvation. Nicodemus needed something more than a teacher—he needed a life giver. His conception was inadequate. Christ's entire discourse was to bring Nicodemus to see himself as a sinner and when he saw that he was pointed to the cross."

"Ye must be born again." No where in all the Bible is a single statement put so strongly or so emphatically repeated. This teacher of Israel with all his attainments, knowledge and virtue comes short in God's estimate and requires a radical change in his nature—a new nature from above. This new nature is not the repairing of the old nature but the infusion of a new.

"Man is an unspiritual creature. He may be religious at times, but he is not spiritual. He has a corrupt nature."

Thursday Club Reaps Good Sum at Show

A fine attendance and gratifying proceeds are reported from the benefit given Saturday night at the Yeoman hall on San Fernando road by the Thursday Afternoon club.

As entertainment a picture film, "Keeping Up with Lizzie" was shown and selections given by pupils of the Emerson School of Self Expression. Those appearing on the program were Bill and Jim Rhodes and Evelyn Peebles. Anna Berman and Joan Parfield served as usherettes and sold candy, also.

'HOPEFUL HEART' DR. FUNK'S TOPIC

Most Troubles Imaginary, He Tells Congregation at Lutheran Church

"A 'Hopeful Heart' was the topic of the sermon yesterday morning at the First Lutheran church. "The hopeful spirit is largely the result of education," declared Dr. H. C. Funk. "This is one of the sermons yesterday morning our holy religion for 'We are saved by hope.'"

"A colored man, while hunting in a cornfield, pulled up his gun and fired at a bunny. A neighbor passing along called out, 'Did you get him, Uncle?' The reply was, 'No, but I'll get him the next time.' A crude illustration of the philosophy of hope."

"Although the road may be rough and very rugged, remember that you have no right to carry a great, long woe-begone face around with you making everybody else miserable just because you feel that way. If you are determined to wine and growl, be-take yourself to the woods or to some lone spot where you will not exert a baneful influence over others."

"Most of your troubles are imaginary. And, if you have real ones, the best thing you can do is to keep sweet and make the best of them. It is foolish to borrow trouble and pay a high rate of interest in addition. Indeed, the difficulty with many of us is that we are too self-centered. Move out of self into Christ and let Him have His way."

"In times of great difficulties or even in the midst of disaster let hope assert her sway and it is wonderful how wireless messages seem to go out with subduing and compelling power. And to the brave, patient soul the worst of times turns out to be a blessing in disguise."

"Ah, yes, more valuable than piles of silver or of gold is the asset of a hopeful heart. Let us find these hopeful chords and strike them with a certain sound. Then shall the air be filled with sweetest melody and every difficulty will disappear like some receding storm."

West Virginia Woman Owns a Singing Chick

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Levett, re-children that sing. The chick was caught in a trap and had its leg broken. The fracture was splinted, and the chicken was kept by itself. During this period of separation the chick was very attentive of the birds around it, with the result that it had acquired a sweet little trill, with distinctive bird notes.

Coast Fighting for Cars to Carry Crops

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—With G. H. Hecke, director of the California state department of agriculture, en route to Washington to lay before the interstate commerce commission the necessity of quick action to save the fruit and vegetable crops of the west by prompt return from the east of all available refrigerator cars, five other states were expected to send similar representatives to the national capital.

Gun Battle Ends Old Feud at Ukiah

UKIAH, Cal., Aug. 21.—Mendocino county authorities today endeavored to unravel the details of a gun battle in which Isaac Crespin, 79, and John Haynes, 60, ranch neighbors, ended a long feud by "shooting it out." The two pioneer settlers met, it is believed, by arrangement, at Mountain View schoolhouse, in a remote section of the county. Both were armed with rifles. Haynes, according to reports to the sheriff, succeeded in fatally wounding Crespin, whereupon the feud was taken up by Leo Bart, Crespin's son-in-law, who is alleged to have killed Haynes. Mrs. Bart witnessed the battle and is reported to have endeavored to stop it. The feud started over a gate erected by Haynes across a road used by the Crespins in gaining access to their ranch.
