AIR RIVALRY OF BRITAIN, FRANCE IS MENACE

Entente Further Strained by Military Strength Being Displayed

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service
LONDON, April 9.—A new danger is creeping into the European muddle.

The already complicated affairs of Europe may be further complicated by Anglo-French air rivalry.

The Anglo-French entente, which has been one of the few steady factors in the European situation, is being further strained by the tremendous air supremacy of France over Great Britain.

The British people are becoming aroused to the speed with which France is arming itself and the tower of military strength which it is building. With this knowledge comes a hint of fear, followed by clouds of suspicion.

Against whom is France arming? Lord Birkenhead asked this question. It is being re-echoed throughout the British Isles. In the house of lords, in commons, and in the press, there are rapidly growing indications that the British people are becoming aroused over French endeavors to create an impregnable air force.

Remotest Air Raids

Already charges are being bandied about that the Bonar Law government has been intimidated by this French aerial supremacy. George Lansbury, labor M. P., declared the European policy is controlled by "military strength."

These charges have not fallen upon unsympathetic ears. The population of Great Britain has not forgotten the German air raids during the war. Therefore, they have become duly alarmed when they are told by aerial experts that the French air forces are strong enough to wipe out London and other great cities within a short time.

When the element of fear enters it is generally accompanied by suspicion. That is what is happening in the British Isles today. The people are being told they have need to fear the preponderant supremacy of the French forces, and, with their fear, comes glimmerings of suspicion. These glimmerings of suspicion may grow to a proportion where they will have a telling effect upon European affairs.

Amendment No. 1 On Ballot Calls For Serious Thought On Part Of Glendale Voters

CHARTER AMENDMENT NO. 1 on tomorrow's ballot presents to the voters of Glendale a question that calls for serious consideration on the part of every taxpayer of the city, dealing, as it does, with the proposal to grant to the city authorities the right to engage in construction and re-construction of public work and improvements and the payment cost thereof by the proceeds of special assessments to be levied by the city.

It is stated by the proponents of the measure that it would allow the city to undertake the street paving, pipe laying and the installation of street lights on the same basis as other contractors and that it would result in a very appreciable saving to the taxpayers because of the ability of the city to finance such jobs directly through its own agency, without paying a profit to any contractor or paying a bonus to any bonding company for advancing money to carry on the work.

The saving to the property owners of Glendale against whose property the cost of any improvements might be assessed is declared, on small contracts, to run as high as 40 per cent, which is, in itself, sufficient to cause the owners of real estate and other property against which improvement bonds might be issued, to consider the question very seriously.

On the other hand, it is maintained by the men who are fighting the adoption of the amendment that it places the city directly in the contracting business and that it is merely the entering wedge of a system that would sooner or later permit the city authorities to engage in all manner of contracts, to the exclusion of men engaged in this line of business, and with the threat of an organization that would eventually control the contracting end of the city's business and that would be superior to any supervision on the part of the people.

Irrespective of any argument that might possibly be based on self-interest on the part of either the supporters or the foes of the measure, it is placed squarely before the voters to decide whether they desire to authorize their duly elected representatives on the City Council to establish a revolving fund, to be fixed at $100,000, to be expended on street work direct instead of being forced to submit to the delays that are now inevitable under the laws of the state, and whether they believe that an effectual system of economy on street contracts can be effected by adopting a system that will, it is claimed, save the construction profits, the attorneys' fees, and the commissions to the bond houses that finance the contractors in carrying out the jobs that have been awarded to them.

PRESIDENT'S DAUGHTER OF KING WEDS WAR VETERAN

Great Amount of Work on Desk to Greet Harding Upon His Return

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, April 9.—Back at his desk in the White House after five weeks of strenuous vacationing in the southland, President Harding rolled up his sleeves today and plunged headlong into a series of tasks, which will keep him busily engaged until he is ready to leave Washington again for his trip to the Pacific coast.

The amount of administrative work that awaited his consideration was monumental in its proportion, but the president, refreshed by hot Florida suns and breezed by hundreds of rounds of golf, waded into it with a determination to speed things up to the limit until he sees his way clear once more.

Rush to White House

There was a grand rush to the White House this morning from all parts of the capital and cabinet officials vied with one another in being the first to get their various problems formally before the president. All of them were given an opportunity during the day to "talk things over" with Mr. Harding; and there will be a general discussion of governmental affairs, both domestic and foreign, when the cabinet meets tomorrow for the first time in six weeks.

Secretary Hughes was at the White House bright and early. He called at the executive offices at 9:30 o'clock and was received immediately by the president.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover followed Hughes in the president's office with a report on the sugar situation.

First Royal Marriage in Italy for 27 Years Is Celebrated Today

By GUGLIELMO EMMANUEL
For International News Service
ROME, April 9.—A tall, slender, olive-skinned girl, who in the legends of Italy, was "born to be a soldier's bride," fulfilled the prophecy here today when the Princess Yolinda, eldest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena, was married to Count Calvi di Bergolo, war veteran and a captain in the Italian army.

There were two services, one civil and the second religious, in accordance with the ritual of the Roman Catholic church. It was the first time a religious nuptial ceremony had taken place in the royal hall of the quirinal palace, formerly the throne hall of the popes.

First in 27 Years

This was the first royal marriage in Italy in twenty-seven years and the first in Europe since the Princess Mary, daughter of King George of England, was married fourteen months ago.

The Princess Yolinda, a beautiful girl of 22, had been reported engaged to scions of two royal families—first the prince of Wales, and later to the crown prince of Belgium. Such a marriage contract would have had a large element of international politics and diplomacy involved in it.

The wedding today was the culmination of a genuine love match, for the bridegroom is not a member of the Piedmontese petty nobility. Serious obstacles arose when Count di Bergolo came to pay court to the pretty princess. The king and queen objected. But then Yolinda solicited the aid of her grandmother, the former Queen Milena of Montenegro. She proved an excellent diplomat and parental objections were put away.

U. S. Supreme Court Rules Against Fixing of Wages by Statute; Affects Many States

BULLETIN

SACRAMENTO, April 9.—The decision of the Supreme Court, handed down today, declaring unconstitutional the District of Columbia minimum wage law, fixing $16.50 per week as the minimum wage for women, will, in all probability, render invalid the California minimum wage for women, according to Judge E. C. Hart of the third district court of appeals. Judge Hart stated that the effect upon the decision could not be determined, however, until the full text of the ruling is considered.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The United States supreme court this afternoon handed down a decision disapproving of the fixing of wages by statute and declared that the District of Columbia minimum wage law, a statute similar to those in effect in a number of states, is unconstitutional and invalid.

The case was held to be of national significance because of the important precedent thus established by the court. Before the decision was rendered attorneys-general of a number of states, including New York, took part in the argument.

The District of Columbia wage law was passed by congress in 1918. It fixes a minimum wage of $16.50 a week for women workers in mercantile establishments, hotels, boarding houses and laundries.

A board was established to administer the law, but the District of Columbia court of appeals enjoined the board from putting its orders into effect.

The question involved is far-reaching and the decision affects similar laws in thirteen states, some of which are in operation and are being administered. The attorneys-general of several western states joined with the attorney-general of New York in an effort to have the supreme court uphold the measure as constitutional. The validity of the law was attacked on the ground that if the principle is sustained the door will be opened to price fixing by congress and the states. If congress is permitted to regulate the amount of wages to be paid to women, according to this argument, there is no reason why it should not as well fix prices for commodities and services everywhere. It also was insisted that the law is an interference with the right of private contract.

Woman Ends Life After Quarrel With Father

SANTA ANA, Calif., April 9.—"You can't follow me where I'm going," Mrs. Margaret D. Moon, 22, and the mother of two little children, said to her father, Samuel Woodruff, former Colorado superior court judge, on the lawn of his home here today, and then swallowed the poison contents from a vial, hidden in the pocket of her gymnasium suit, according to a report to the police.

"I've been saving that for some time," she declared, and then hurried the empty container at her father, Judge Woodruff, said.

Efforts were made to save her life, but the young woman died within an hour. Mrs. Moon, in her gymnasium suit, had been romping with her two little children, one 4 years old, and the other 18 months, in the orange grove of her father's place, where she lived since the disappearance of her husband, George Moon, in 1922, according to the police.

BOARD CONFIRMS C. C. COMMITTEES

Meeting Planned Shortly to Formulate Plans for Year's Work

Compilation of the list of committees of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce to function for the coming year, has been completed by the secretary and the board of directors, and the members have been notified of the confirmation of their appointments. It is planned to hold a meeting, or a series of meetings, with the various committees in the near future when the year's program will be outlined and when arrangements will be made for periodical reports from each of the committees that have been appointed. The full list of the committees will be published in tomorrow's issue of The Glendale Evening News.

The board of directors, at the request of the county board of supervisors, were on record, at their last meeting, in favor of the proposed 7,000,000 bond issue for a new county jail, hospital, county farm and the Olive View sanatorium.

A representative of the National Automobile Camp Grounds association appeared before the board and gave an instructive talk on the best methods to be followed in laying out and conducting a camp ground in ways that have been proven successful in many other instances.

Back from Meeting

E. F. Sanders, secretary, returned yesterday from Ontario, where he had been attending the meeting of the Commercial Secretaries of Southern California, and where a number of matters of vital importance to Chamber of Commerce executives were discussed. Chief among these, he reports, is the view that is taken by many of the publication of the annual report of such organizations, many contending that such reports fall short of giving the proper amount of publicity that should be given to accomplishments of the organizations, as failing to keep the membership posted on what is actually taking place, and in resulting, at the end of the year, in a crowded document that few persons ever read and digest thoroughly.

The directors approved the advertisement in favor of the airport and water bond that appeared in The News of Saturday.

Glendale Dentists Reorganize Society

Two meetings a month will be held, at dates to be announced later, and once a month the society will attend the meeting of the Los Angeles County Dental Society. The next meeting of the local organization is given as April 26, but the place has not yet been selected.

She intended to put the record up to forty-four hours at 3:10 this afternoon, and if she is still feeling good, to shove it up to fifty hours at 9:10 tonight and call it a record.

As she wore out her sixth partner, Miss Cummings said: "I am out to discourage these attempts to take my honors. I believe a fifty hour, non-stop stretch will keep the pickers out."

Mayor Spencer Robinson Makes Statement Relative To Propositions On Ballot

SPENCER ROBINSON, mayor of the city of Glendale, today requested The Glendale Evening News to publish a statement prepared by him relative to the various propositions appearing on the ballot up for decision of the voters tomorrow. The mayor's statement follows in full:

Editor The Evening News: It has been suggested that a few words in plain, ordinary English as to the effect of the various propositions on the ballot might be of help to our voters at this time. Accordingly, I beg to submit the following for their information:

Amendment No. 1.—This amendment attempts to make effective the present charter provisions which allow the street department of the city to install public improvements, such as street work, direct, if desired and creating a revolving fund proposed to be fixed at $100,000 for this purpose. If the voters believe that the city can save time and money by doing street work direct instead of enduring the long delays now required by the provisions of the state law and also if they think that could be saved money by this method over the prices now charged by our street contractors, they will probably vote for this amendment; otherwise not.

Amendment No. 2.—This permits the city to do just what any private corporation can do, namely, fix a maximum salary for employees without requiring that the employee be paid this maximum until he has shown the ability to earn it. In other words, an employee is started at a salary lower than the maximum and raised according to his ability. No objection has been made to this amendment so far as we know.

Amendment No. 3.—This allows the city to establish two petty cash funds of $500 each—one for the general budget so-called, and the other for the public service department. This is done in order to facilitate the business of the city. Glendale has grown to a point where something of this sort has become necessary.

Amendment No. 4.—This cuts down the time required to pass an ordinance after its introduction from five days to two days. This will naturally facilitate and speed up the city's business, particularly with regard to street work, and no fundamental rights of the taxpayers will be jeopardized thereby.

Amendment No. 5.—This is to remedy a defect in our present charter by providing that the council may fill vacancies in elective offices. No objection has been raised to this amendment.

Amendment No. 6.—This amendment allows the city attorney to be selected from among the practicing attorneys of Glendale without requiring two years' residence, simply providing that he must be a qualified elector of the city. This gives a wider range of choice in the selection of city attorney.

Proposition No. 7.—This provides for turning over to trustees of the American Legion two acres of ground formerly used by the city as a reservoir site at Campbell and Mountain streets, with a view to providing a permanent home for veterans of the various wars in which our country has been engaged. No united opposition has developed to this amendment, and it will no doubt carry at the polls.

Proposition No. 8.—As stated upon the ballot, this proposition provides for the purchase of thirty-three acres of water bearing land adjoining the city's present pumping plant. Further land is imperatively needed by the water department for wells, pumping plants, settling basins, reservoirs, etc. The price is right; the property is badly needed. The cost has been carefully figured by the city controller to be about 14c per year on each thousand dollars of assessed valuation. The revenue to be derived from its use as an airport will ultimately pay every dollar of cost, and in no event will the taxpayers be called upon to pay one penny for this purchase inasmuch as any additional money necessary to pay for the same will be taken from water revenues only.

NOT FROM TAXES.

The other proposition on the ballot requests the decision of the voters as to whether the cost of lighting ornamental street lighting systems should be borne by the abutting property owners or should be paid out of general taxation after due allowance has been made for the amount of street lighting which would ordinarily be used upon a street of that character. It is fair to state that at the rate ornamental street lighting is being installed in the city of Glendale, a large amount of revenue will have to be provided from other taxes to take care of this, should our voters so decide.

SPENCER ROBINSON, Mayor.

RECOGNITION OF PEKING RULE MAY BE ENDED

U. S. Government Is Not at All Satisfied With Anti-American Acts

By HARRY L. ROGERS
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, April 9.—Withdrawal of recognition of the Peking government loomed today as a possible sequel to the refusal of China to give a satisfactory answer to the American demands for amends in the case of the American merchant, Charles Coltman, murdered by Chinese soldiers last December.

None of the six drastic demands of the American government, according to officials, has been complied to date, despite the most vigorous representations by the American minister at Peking. On the contrary, the Chinese government, it is asserted, is building up an anti-American propaganda with such energy that officials are convinced nothing short of a threat to withdraw recognition will bring the Peking authorities to an understanding.

Losing Patience

This condition, already critical, is rendered more so by the fact that Great Britain and Japan have lost patience with the Peking government, and strongly favor some sort of joint administrative control of the affairs of China, to be instituted in connection with the proposed tariff conference which, under the terms of the Washington agreements, is to convene in China three months after ratification of the treaties.

Secretary of State Hughes also is rapidly losing patience with the Peking government. His dissatisfaction has been conveyed to the Peking authorities through Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, American minister at Peking. He believes an American citizen was wantonly murdered by Chinese soldiers and that this murder, consummated in the granite of the American Consol Sokibin, constitutes an affront to the American government.

When he stopped on the street, he was struck by the front end of the automobile. Besides a cut across his upper lip, he is understood not to have been injured.

Mrs. H. P. Boice, who was coming east on Colorado street from her home in Pasadena, stopped her car at the intersection of Glendale avenue. A projection from the side of a truck, which was going south on Glendale avenue, damaged the front fender and automobile front lights on her automobile. The collision occurred about 4 p. m. Saturday.

SEVEN CANDIDATES SEEK PLACES ON CITY COUNCIL

Two Vacancies Will Be Filled by Voters at Glendale City Election Tomorrow; Who Is Who Is Briefly Outlined

VOTERS of Glendale will tomorrow fill two vacancies on the City Council. There are seven candidates for the two vacancies. Each candidate has his own opinion as to how the affairs of the municipality should be conducted. They have made their announcements. It is up to the voters of Glendale to make the selection of their representatives. The people have good judgment; they do not have to be told how to vote. The polls will open at 6 o'clock a. m. and close at 7 p. m. Following will be found, arranged in alphabetical order, brief "descriptions" of the seven candidates:

FRANK BOOTH of 111 South Kenwood street, who is a candidate for the City Council claims the distinction of being a "self-made man."

Mr. Booth was born in London, January 4, 1864. When a lad he sang before Queen Victoria in Westminster Abbey. After graduating from Oxford university, he served through the Boer war under Lord Roberts. His discharge from the British army brought with it a desire to come to America to make his fortune. One week after he had located in Detroit, where he obtained a position as chemist with the Parke-Davis company, he took out his first papers.

About twenty years ago, Mr. Booth came to California and after remaining in Los Angeles a couple of years came to Glendale. He peddled coffee and tea from a basket, then bought a bicycle on the installment plan. As his business expanded he bought a horse and buggy and then an automobile. Meanwhile, he had acquired a store at 318 East Broadway, which he sold last June after becoming well known locally as "The Coffee King." Mr. Booth is a Mason, an Eastern Star and a member of St. Mark's Episcopal church.

SIDNEY S. GILGILY resides at 342 El Bonita avenue. Mr. Gilgily was born August 18, 1880, in Ontario, Canada. He came to California from St. Louis in 1912 and almost six years ago moved from Los Angeles to Glendale.

Mr. Gilgily now has a real estate office at 1501 South Brand boulevard. About two years ago he retired from railroad work, which had occupied his attention for twenty years. During the last half of this period he was connected with the Santa Fe railway company, holding several important positions including that of passenger traffic manager. For this reason he takes an unusual interest in transportation.

As the father of two daughters, Marjorie Gilgily and Rosemary, both of whom are in local schools, Mr. Gilgily takes a personal interest in education. The Chamber of Commerce claims Mr. Gilgily as an active member. Last year he was a member of the city sewer committee. He is an Elk and a Knight Templar.

ASA HALL of 636 North Louise street was born near Toronto, Canada. After living in Chicago for a number of years, he came to Los Angeles in 1889 or thirty-four years ago. Three years later he bought an orange ranch near Azusa and organized the first orange growers' association, which built two packing houses before the Pacific Electric railway came through Covina. For a number of years he was president of the Glendora citrus association and a director in the Azusa, Covina, Glendora Fruit Exchange.

When about to become a certified public accountant in 1907, Mr. Hall was invited to become a special investigator in the auditor's office of Los Angeles. Here he investigated the expenditure of money in a number of the municipal departments. Later he took a civil service examination and became head bookkeeper and accountant. In this capacity he made

Sermon Excerpts And News Notes From Local Churches

CHURCHES of Glendale held solemn, impressive services yesterday, attended by large crowds. Pastors preached on varied topics and special music was provided by soloists and choirs. Herewith are presented brief excerpts from sermons and, too, other church news:

Old Gospel Only Way To Save, Says Pastor

Can man be saved through philosophy and moral law? This was the question asked by Rev. Henry O. Kringel at the Sunday morning services of the Redeemer Evangelical Lutheran church. "No, indeed," he continued, "he must cling to and believe the gospel message that Jesus died for him on the cross, and washed away his sins with His precious blood. "We see, therefore, that to a poor sinner, who wants to be saved, the gospel has retained the same value that it had when Christ preached it himself upon earth. We can readily deduce therefrom that the old, old gospel has withstood the test of all ages. It is the only true way unto salvation that man knows of. The gospel is not changeable like the things thought of and created by man. It is the rock that lasts forever, that challenges the billows of the times and the earthquakes of the ages."

"This is the gospel contained in the Bible, of which St. Paul says that it makes man wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus. All scripture is given by inspiration of God and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

Divinity Within Man Shown by Knowledge

"The Divine in Man" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at the Congregational church. "Man's knowledge of God is a proof that there is divinity within him," remarked Rev. C. M. Calderwood. "God speaks to man and man speaks to God. The radio will not respond if it is not in tune."

"For some unknown reason men have cried mankind down while our Bible, with its great prophets and apostles, exalts man to the skies. Many times we read that man is an heir of God or a son of God. "Jesus laid great emphasis upon the value of the soul. We are created in God's spiritual image. His life is breathed into us. We are only a little lower than the angels. There are capacities and potentialities within us of which many of us have never dreamed."

"Man is allowed to co-operate with God and this seems to be an evidence of his divinity. God supplies the treasures and man uses them."

KENWOOD STREET, who is the youngest candidate for the City Council, was born July 3, 1893, in Galva, Iowa. He graduated from the Storm Lake high school. With his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Webb of 127 West Chestnut street, Don Webb "landed" in Glendale, October 15, 1912. Mr. Webb has been business manager of the Glendale Hardware Company's store at 601 East Broadway for the past five years. During this time the value of the stock of this establishment has been increased from $3,000 to $60,000. Experience in the management of this business Mr. Webb believes has fitted him to assist in giving the city a business administration.

Mr. Webb is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, and the Glendale Credit Association. He is known as "Don" by local Elks and Kiwanians.

Pastor Directs Talk To Board of Deacons

At the Presbyterian church Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, following the installation of recently elected deacons, preached a sermon dedicated to the Board of Deacons, on the subject "The Search for God" from the words "O that I knew where I might find Him!"

A resume follows: "These words come out of the deep inner experience of Job in bereavement, and they have been the painful cry of ages. But we know God is nearer than hands or feet or breathing. As we face the new year, let the past be past, we press forward to the mark, not only to see God but to know Him."

"Sometimes there seems a dimness about Him.—Him that we need most. Here in nature you will find Him; the heavens declare the glory of God; but when I need Him that is so far. It is not enough to feel the God of nature. Nature has no mercy; the child wants the father. I want my father's gifts, but first I want Him; then I have His gifts too. No, nature will not do, nature has no mercy."

"But we are not left in the dark. We come here to the Word and we have the photograph of Him as in a mirror. Look here to find Him with His help and His saving, 'God is love.' We find here what we cannot find in nature."

"And we find God in His providences. Why does He deal thus with me? He deals with His children only in mercy. If you are in trial, remember we can trust in Him, and never be afraid. Nothing is too great for Him to undertake, nothing too little for Him to care about."

"But there are things we must remember: we have to pay a price to find God. The place to find Him is in His house. We ought to make everything of the church which He has purchased with His blood. Make much of the service of the Lord's day, and of the prayer meeting. You friendly people that are stopped at home with company, how about your Lord? or will you find Him on a joy-ride?"

"If you are to find Him in His reality you must have the open face, with open face beholding as in a glass, the glory of God. So many have their vision blurred with the things that are a little questionable. Let never had vision down there in the plain of Sodom. Telescopes are put on the mountain where the seeing is good."

"And we need the open ear. God wants to speak to us, and we have ears for everything else. And the open heart. Jesus knocking—let Him in! Behold, I stand at the door and knock. And an open will, an obedient and responsive will. 'Give me a will like Thine.'"

Disciples of Christ Must Take Up Cross

"The Cross Bearer" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at the Central Christian church. "There are two kinds of cross-bearers," said Rev. C. A. Cook. "There are the voluntary and the drafted. With the first class, the cross is assumed, taken up by themselves. With the second the burden is imposed by others without regard to the desire or choice of the bearer. Just as in the army there are those who know the dangers, but, prompted by a sense of duty or a love of country of their own voluntary choice, offer themselves. There are others who would not have been found in the ranks if they had not been drafted into service."

"Those who deliberately turn from sin to live for Christ are voluntary. They accept all that is implied in the Master's call: 'Whosoever doth not bear his cross and come after Me cannot be my disciple.' Let us not forget that it depends on the spirit in which we bear our cross whether it becomes an agony or a glory. It takes not only our voluntary taking up of the cross, but our patient submission and resignation under its burdens to make a disciple."

Church Should Have First Place, Declared

Sunday being the second year of Dr. James P. Winnard's work with the Tropico Presbyterian church he spoke from the text, "We are laborers together with God."

"The conception too many church members have is that they are a flock to be fed rather than a force to be wielded. But Paul's idea of Christian life was that of service to God and man. And we can best serve God through man," remarked Dr. Winnard. "Our work must be done not as men pleasers but as those who serve the Lord Christ. It must be done in harmony as with the moving parts of a machine and each in its place. It should be done in the spirit of song and let that song be 'Onward, Christian Soldiers.' 'Forward' is our watchword for the year. Our goals are high and worthy of our best efforts. Henceforth let the church have the first place in your thoughts and activities. Remember it is God whom we serve. It is both an honor and a privilege to serve Him. The success of the work for the year will be measured by the loyalty and devotion we show to Him."

Christian Lives Must Be Temples to God

"We must make our lives temples reared to God," declared Rev. Philip K. Kemp yesterday morning at St. Mark's Episcopal church.

"The history of the return of the children of Israel from the exile of Babylon is one of the fascinating episodes in history because it takes us into the midst of a drama of people dreaming dreams and seeing visions of a bright future. They were going to rebuild the temple which had been destroyed years before."

"We make little of life because life means little to us. We aim for our own ends and not those of God. "The Christian life is founded on the proposition that we are here to build temples to God on the shrine of the human heart. When we fail, it is only because we have not set God and His work in the center of our life. We have built for self and not for God. Most of us get little from God because we give little of our lives to Him. Attempt great things from God and expect great things from God. It is the slogan of the builder for God."

Fr. O'Neill Preaches His Farewell Sermon

Rev. Father James S. O'Neill, in charge of the Holy Family parish for the past sixteen years, yesterday morning preached his farewell sermon. He has received an ecclesiastical promotion in the form of an appointment to St. Claire parish, Oxnard, and leaves next week to take up his new duties.

Rev. Father Michael Galvin, pastor of the Holy Family parish in South Pasadena, will move into the parish house at 218 East Elk avenue in the near future. Rev. Patrick Curran remains here as assistant pastor.

Lecturer Tells of Mysteries of the Sea

"Mysteries of the Sea" was the subject of a lecture by Alfred Cookman of 326 Pioneer drive last night at the Casa Verdugo Methodist church.

Rev. J. C. Livingston preached in the morning on "The Bruised Reed and the Smoking Flax." The morning solo, which was sung by Mrs. J. W. Cotton, of 137 San Rafael road, was "Come Unto Me," by Hawley. The anthem was "Be On Thy Guard," by Williams.

Whistling Solos Are On Church Program

Whistling solos by Mrs. I. B. Carlock of 415 South Lincoln avenue were features of the music last night at the Central Christian church. They were entitled "Mother Marches" and "Springtime of Youth." Mrs. C. C. Stoker of 1262 Justin street sang "I Sought the Lord," as a soprano solo.

At the morning service Mrs. W. H. Warriner of 442 Vine street sang "Leave It With Him."

COUNCILMAN SAM DAVIS TELLS OF AMENDMENT 1

City Official Advances Reasons Why Voters Should Support Proposition; Predicts Measure Would Save Much Money

DECLARING that the adoption of Amendment No. 1 on tomorrow's ballot will be a good thing for the city and the means of saving money for the taxpayers of Glendale, Councilman Sam Davis, in a communication to The Glendale Evening News, advocates the measure, as follows:

On September 15, 1922, you ran in your paper a two-column article and with it a photograph of the writer. I simply mention the photograph as it might call to the minds of some the subject matter of the article. The subject was the revolving fund to enable the city to do street work, which amendment to the charter appears on tomorrow's ballot under No. 1. Let me first tell you again what it means.

It is an amendment to the city charter which permits the city to bid on street paving, the laying of water pipe, and the installation of street lights, along with other contractors, and allows the city to take the bonds issued against the property and sell them and turn the money back into the revolving fund. This will eliminate the cost of inspection, the discount of 10 per cent paid to bond houses by contractors to get them to finance the job, also the contractors' profits and the attorneys' fees. On small jobs, where the overhead runs heavier in proportion, it would reduce the cost to the property owners forty per cent.

Fake, for instance, the laying of water pipe. The city now lays it for the contractor for a certain price. The contractor adds his profit and a discount to the bond houses on the price the city charges him. He takes his profit and the bond houses take theirs, and neither one ever touches the job, until the job is completed, but that is the only way the city can do it. Don't you think it is fine business?

City Saved $800
Take the street lights on Isabel street. The city did the work $800 cheaper than the lowest public bid and then made over 10 per cent profit. Amendment No. 1, if carried, will create the machinery to remedy the few things mentioned above and many more. The passage of this amendment does not take from the people the right of protest that now exists, nor does it put one dollar in the hands of the city council. It simply gives the people the right to do their own business at a big saving in money and time. All charter amendments have to be ratified

It's Election Day Tuesday Good Work By Legionnaires Remember Family Picnics? Meeting Those From Home

TOMORROW Glendale citizens will go to the polls and cast their ballots for two members of the City Council, as well as register their approval or disapproval of eight propositions.

There is no need to go into the matter of merits of the candidates, or charter amendments, or bond issues, for undoubtedly each and everyone has made up his or her mind already, but the big thing to say to you, all is contained in one word of four letters: "Vote!"

By voting you give your own personal expression of opinion, which collectively represents that which a democratic form of government desires. It is good business to vote, but it is greater patriotism. The right of the ballot should not alone be cherished, but exercised.

Throughout the United States there is hue and cry that our government is not representative; that it is not the will of the people—who vote. And those who do not vote should be blamed, rather than vindicated as many are prone to do with respect to themselves, saying: "Well, I didn't vote because it wouldn't do any good."

Every vote, affirmative or negative, does some good. We might paraphrase a line from the Bible, "Ballots cast upon any subject shall return 100 fold in results."

In the columns of The Glendale Evening News we note the good work being done by the American Legion, not alone here but elsewhere. Being a Legionnaire it may not seem appropriate to laud the organization, but certainly we think the boys are deserving of the club home site which they are asking of the people of Glendale.

Only those members of the local legion who worked long and faithfully to have it otherwise—the Glendale post planned to finance its own home—would it seem only fair and just that the citizens of this prospering town do something that costs them nothing. Proposition No. 7 deserves support tomorrow.

The first auto party of Community Service is scheduled for this evening. There's a great idea for strangers to get acquainted under favorable circumstances.

In this age of jazz and speed and restlessness it is good to see some method presented whereby neighbors can be neighborly once again and families thrown in contact with others and new friendships formed.

Well does the writer remember how family picnics were events of consequence before the heyday of the automobile.

May Community Service revive this custom in Glendale, a city of homes.

How good it is to meet "The Man from Home," especially when one is islanded way off in Sacramento and cannot know just what is going on in Glendale, although The Glendale Evening News does tolerable well in telling the story daily.

W. F. Martin of the Pacific Union Conference, Superintendent Mark Keppel of Los Angeles County Schools, Glenn D. Willaman of the California Real Estate Association, are among the many visiting the capital, but M. J. Brennan of Glendale, who is in the north on a business trip for Marshall Field Company, was one of the most welcome.

You know he could tell me how Jesse Smith's baby was getting along; how the candidates stood in the councilmanic race and all of that intimate information "I wuz jes dying to know" the town tongue wagger might say. And so we sat in the hotel lobby and talked until midnight.

And then he told me how he missed The Glendale Evening News on his travels and so on and so forth.

I woke up this morning feeling as though I had hung over the back fence all day yesterday, if you get what I mean.

If you don't, ask your wife to explain.

Sincerely yours,
W. A. HORN.

Reception and Banquet for Rev. J. S. O'Neill to Be Held Wednesday

Arrangements have almost been completed for the banquet and reception to be tendered on Wednesday evening at the Tuesday Afternoon Club to the Rev. James S. O'Neill, for sixteen years pastor of the Holy Family Catholic church of Glendale, who will leave this week to assume the pastorate of St. Clara's church at Oxnard.

In honor of the promotion that has come to Father O'Neill and in recognition of his long service here, his friends are planning to make the event of Wednesday night one of the most notable in the history of Glendale. Religious and civic organizations and many of the most prominent individuals in the city irrespective of creed are uniting in the movement to show the esteem in which Father O'Neill has been held in this community. His non-Catholic friends are taking an especially active part in the preliminary details of the big testimonial and hundreds of them will attend the farewell reception.

Owing to the limited accommodations for the banquet which will precede the public reception, the committee is desirous that all who plan to attend the dinner make early reservations. There will be accommodations for only 350 at the dinner and the first applicants will get the reservations.

The committee in charge of the tickets to the banquet includes Mrs. Bray, Mrs. Zimmer, Mrs. C. E. Norton, Mrs. Ratigan, Mrs. Jacob Hartman and Mrs. William Smith, nearly all of whom can be reached by telephone. Reservations also can be made at Salamanca's Music Store, Brand boulevard near Broadway.

W. A. Horn Says He Has Made No Promises

Editor The Evening News—I do not want "Andy Gump's" result off to stand for some of his principles. "I want to wear no man's collar" fits my case exactly, for if I am elected, it will be with no promises or pledges to any one. I shall stand for a good clean government, and as directed by the vote of the citizens of our city.

I am very strongly in favor of making the city dollar by just as much, and many times, just a little more than the dollar of the individual citizen.

I am out for good parks and playgrounds, where out community can spend its leisure hours in play and recreation. I have always been very active in baseball, tennis, volley ball, bowling, billiards, etc., as a General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and realize their rightful place in the life of the individual, to drive "dull care away" and re-create physical force in these days of our strenuous living.

My slogan is Progress, Efficiency, Economy. If my platform has merited your confidence, I shall appreciate your vote and those of your friends.

Sincerely yours,
W. A. HORN.

Association Indorses Legion Proposition

The executive committee of the South Glendale Improvement association recommends that each of its 300 members vote "yes" on the American Legion's proposition, No. 7, on the ballot of April 10.

This recommendation comes from President Stewart M. Street and Secretary Emma V. Bacon, in the absence of a regular meeting of the association prior to election.

By voting in favor of this proposition, they feel, the members can show their appreciation for the service the veterans have rendered the community and provide a nucleus for a permanent home for all patriotic societies in Glendale.

DEFEAT THE BONDS VOTE AGAINST NO. 8

A Great Moral Question Involved

VOTERS! Five Councilmanic Candidates have publicly expressed the opinion that the Methods of Glendale Officials in the purchase of the 33 acres were Improper or Illegal. We think so, too!

The Court has enjoined the purchase and if Bonds are Voted they Cannot be used till injunction is dissolved.

The calling of the Bond Election is a desperate attempt to have you Ratify Law-defying Acts.

In the recent Suit of John J. Seeman it was Alleged that Glendale Officials Unlawfully Colonized Voters to Carry the Lake Street Annexation Election. Glendale Failed to Defend these Charges and Judgment was rendered against the city. Were our Officials afraid to Appear in Court?

The stench of these illegal Practices Offends the High Moral Sense of Honorable Glendalians, just as the proposed

FERTILIZER FACTORY

Is beginning to Alarm property Owners near enough to catch its Nauseating Fumes and Smells. A prominent Realtor is advertising Lots in that district at about One-Half Former Prices.

The Spoilers Are On the Run—Don't Indorse Their Illegal Acts by Voting These Bonds

Don't Encourage Future Violations of Law. The Round Table Combine of Self - Constituted Dictators, misled by official propoganda and is spending much money in printers' ink to tell you the purpose of voting bonds is to acquire an Airport. Others say the 33 acres are for an Industrial Center. The Ballots say No. 8 is a Proposition to obtain more water.

The bunch is badly rattled. In their desperation to carry through their schemes they are daily inventing new reasons to catch votes. But, remember, if you attempt to mix waterworks, fertilizer factories and industrial plants, you ruin all of them.

Let's roll up a big Majority Against these bonds, and rebuke those who are trying to induce us to approve unlawful acts, which forever impeach the honor of Glendale.

Our city's reputation is worth more than promised but doubtful financial gain.

GLENDALE POST No. 127
Glendale California

TO THE VOTERS OF GLENDALE:

— Tomorrow Is Legion Day —

DOES GLENDALE POST, NO. 127, WIN OR LOSE?

Vote "YES" on Number 7

For three years Glendale's soldiers sent into the inferno of the Great War, or at least those who came back, have striven faithfully to "carry on." They have done their "bit" in every walk of life and believe sincerely that their efforts both as individuals and as an organization have made Glendale some happier and better. They hope to do even more in service in the future than they have in the past.

The Post needs a home—a foundation upon which it may grow in numbers and strength and which can be made a patriotic center.

The old reservoir site in the hills at Campbell and Mountain streets, now owned but unused by the City of Glendale, which acquired it practically without cost several years ago, offers the Post the chance to get a start towards a real home.

The Post asks the voters tomorrow to authorize the council to sell this lot to the Legion at a nominal price, to be used by the Post either as a site upon which to build a club and home for the Legion, Auxiliary and their Scout Troops, and to house all other veteran and patriotic societies, including the National Guard which may desire to use it, or, as a means to purchase or in exchange for a more centrally located site outside a residential zone if conditions warrant such a move.

Glendale Post asks the voters to authorize the Council to sell this lot to the Legion by voting "YES" on Proposition No. 7 in Tuesday's ballot.

"I will build a car for the multitude"

Said Henry Ford in 1903—Read how the fulfillment of that prophecy is now made possible through the

Ford Weekly Purchase Plan

For many years it has been Henry Ford's personal ambition to make the Ford the universal family car—to put it within the reach of the millions of people who have never been privileged to enjoy the benefits of motor car ownership.

During the past fifteen years over 7,500,000 Ford cars have been placed in the hands of retail customers—more than a million and a half of them within the past twelve months—and yet there are still millions of families who are hopefully looking forward to the day when they can own a Ford.

And now the way is open.

Under the terms of this plan you can select your Ford Car, set aside a small amount each week and you will be surprised how soon you will own it. In the meantime your money will be safely deposited to your credit in one of the local banks where it will draw interest.

Think it over. Five dollars will start an account. The whole family can participate in it—father, mother, brothers and sisters each doing a little.

Why not start today? Stop in and talk it over with your local Ford dealer. He will be glad to fully explain the details of the plan and help you to get started toward the ownership of a Ford car.

TODAY—David M. Church writes of the controversy raging over whether a college education is a bar to matrimony; about Mrs. George Harvey "dodging" the London climate and other items. TOMORROW—Paul H. Egoft, Philadelphia correspondent, tells of the extensive airplane flying field under construction there.

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service

LONDON, April 9.—Does a woman endanger her chances of marriage when she gains high education?

This question is being widely discussed in England, and there are those who claim that men are afraid to woo "highbrows." Dean Inge, known as "The Gloomy Dean," started all the rumpus. He quoted figures which seemed to indicate that a university degree was almost a complete bar to matrimony. "I am astonished," said the Dean, "to find that out of 12,607 women students who have passed out of Oxford only 957 have married. I hope that more of them will marry in the future and that they will not be so hard-hearted as to take vows of perpetual maidenhood."

The Archbishop of York joined in and declared that university women do not lose their charm. "All opposition with regard to the presence of women at Oxford has been overcome," said the Archbishop, "and female undergraduates are now a picturesque and familiar feature of the streets. "Years ago some people thought that female undergraduates would lose some of their charm and graces. That is not so. When women received the M. A. degree for the first time I noticed that every one of them instinctively adjusted her new hood."

So the controversy runs on. When a champion becomes an ex-champion, then his troubles begin. Ted ("Kid") Lewis lost the British middleweight championship to Roland Todd, and "then the fun began." Twice within a month the "Kid" was hailed into court in connection with contracts and bills. He was committed for eight days at Southwell upon a charge of non-payment.

ment of a bill for automobile tires, but sentence was suspended. "It is most disgraceful. A man receiving such large sums should certainly pay such small bills," Judge Crawford said. Things might have been different if the "Kid" were still champion.

Mrs. George Harvey, wife of the American Ambassador, is dodging the London climate. Having spent several weeks in Madeira recovering from a heavy cold, Mrs. Harvey proceeded to Rome, where she will sojourn under sunny Italian skies until the London climate warms up a little and the rains fall with less frequency. Meanwhile the Ambassador remains in London and struggles with colds and asthma and kindred ailments.

Willie Hunter, British golfer, who is well known in America, denies reports that he is seeking to become a naturalized American citizen so that he may play against the country of his birth in the forthcoming British championships.

"I will never renounce Scotland, and I am prepared to cross over and play for her in the international championship," Hunter declared.

This ends a series of rumors that Hunter was peevish because of the treatment he received at the hands of those who have selected the British team to oppose the American team in the forthcoming international competition. Meanwhile there is a gay little controversy going on over the selection of the British team. Anthony Spaulding, a sports writer, charged that the best British players were not selected. The match is still to come off, but it has caused a great deal of talk in the various clubhouses.

HINTS FOR THE MOTORIST

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

SECURITY BETWEEN POWER-PLANT UNITS
In many cars of the unit power-plant type, the sole support of the clutch, the transmission and the forward end of the drive shaft is the series of bolts which hold the clutch enclosure to the flywheel housing. Very little is ever said as to the possibility of trouble at this point, but experience shows that these bolts sometimes loosen up, under the vibration and heavy racking stresses to which they are constantly subjected. On the geared speeds, when starting the car especially, these bolts are called upon to resist a considerable turning force and the fact that the brake and clutch shaft is usually supported in the clutch housing makes it perfect rigidity very desirable. In case these clutch bolts become appreciably loose, there is usually a dull pound noticeable, when the car is started from rest, and when bad jolts are sustained, and sometimes there is a thump when a lower gear is engaged. The bolts being subject to slight movement, wear rapidly and the possible freedom of movement is thus increased, and if loosening up goes too far, there is abnormal wear suffered by the clutch shaft bearings. It is especially necessary, in the case of a new car, after it has been run say a thousand miles, to go over these bolts and insure their tightness, after which the likelihood of their working loose is not very great.

IS YOUR CAR A POOR HILL CLIMBER?
L. W. writes: "My car has never been nearly as good a hill climber as a car of the same make and model, owned by a neighbor of mine. Can you suggest what causes this difference?"
Answer: So many things may be contributory to this condition that we can enumerate only a few.

One of them, for any defect which reduces the car's effective power makes its hill climbing ability less. Your engine may have poor compression, its valves or ignition may be incorrectly timed, the carburetor may furnish an improper mixture or the spark may not be sufficiently powerful. The lubrication of some part of the mechanism may be insufficient or there may be some abnormal resistance to motion, such as dragging brake bands, misaligned wheels or too tightly adjusted bearings. Probably a number of these defects exist simultaneously and cut down the power delivered at the wheels. A general "timing up," by some one who thoroughly understands cars, would probably result in a marked improvement.

TIRE DAMAGED BY CROSS CHAINS
C. W. writes: "On looking over my tires, I find that the tread of one of the rear ones has been injured by the cross-chains, which seem to have dug into the rubber and left their marks there. Some of the raised parts of the tread have become torn quite a little. The other chain has not injured the tread of its tire. Why is this?"
Answer: You will probably find that the chain on the damaged tire is adjusted much more tightly than that on the other, so tightly indeed that it has remained in the same position relatively to the tire instead of gradually creeping around upon it, as it is intended to do. This proves to be the case, you can readily see that the denting effect of each cross-chain has been localized upon one part of the tread, instead of being distributed evenly over the entire tread surface, which explains the definite marks which you find upon it. The side chains should be adjusted only as tightly as they can readily be made with the hands and a distinct amount of looseness permitted, in order to prevent definite tread injuries resulting.

VARIABLE GRID LEAK
One of the most delicate adjustments of a detector tube circuit is the grid leak or high resistance shunted the grid condenser. Remler has developed an extremely practical and economical grid leak having a variable resistance of from 1/2 to 5 megohms. This grid leak used with Remler's 97 fixed grid condenser will enable you to adjust your grid circuit for maximum efficiency.

VACUUM TUBES
In the three electrode tube by inserting a grid between the filament and the plate, as stated before, in the form of several small wires the grid is placed in the path of the stream of electrons which constitute the plate current. When this grid is charged positively the space charge will be neutralized, as it is of a negative character, it will thus a greater plate current will result. Also if the grid is charged negatively the space charge will be increased and a greater number of electrons be driven back into the filament, with a lessening of the plate current.

Thus it will be seen that the value of the plate current can be controlled by the third element or grid in the vacuum tube. This control is accomplished in a variety of ways, depending upon the use for which the set is designed, also upon the characteristics of the particular vacuum tube used. Different tubes have a variance of characteristics. Tubes made by a certain manufacturer will as a whole possess certain characteristics. Yet each individual tube will in turn differ slightly from the others. It should therefore be borne in mind that should you happen to run across a tube not specially suited to your present needs, do not entirely condemn it or the type it represents; you may have selected a tube that is not possess the characteristics required, and if put to some other use may be very desirable. Certain tubes with a given amount of gas remaining in the bulb, known as "soft tubes," make good detectors, but a "hard tube" is required for amplifying purposes.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S MUD PUDDLE

Uncle Wiggily one day crept very, very softly out of his hollow stump bungalow. The rabbit gentleman twinkled his pink nose and closed the door without making the least sound. Then he stood on the back stoop and breathed a long breath. "I don't believe she heard me come out," whispered Uncle Wiggily to himself. "No, I don't believe Nurse Jane heard any sound at all. So far I am safe!" If you had seen, as you might if you had been there, if you had seen Uncle Wiggily coming thus carefully from his bungalow and shutting the door so gently, you might have thought he was running away from Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, his good muskrat lady housekeeper. But Uncle Wiggily was not exactly running away.

He wanted to do something he knew Nurse Jane would not want him to do if she saw him, and that is why he went out so easy like. And what Uncle Wiggily wanted to do was this: He wanted to go without his shoes and stockings on, in a mud puddle! Think of that! Yes, my dear, the old rabbit gentleman, with a pink nose that twinkled, wanted to wade in a mud puddle. It had been raining in Woodland where the bunny gentleman lived. The soft, warm April showers had made many mud puddles, and there was one back of the hollow stump bungalow. Some of the animal boys and girls had gone wading in this mud puddle, splashing about and letting the squiggie-squodgie mud squeeze up between their toes. When Uncle Wiggily said to himself, "I can't help it! Seeing them makes me feel young again! I'm going to wade in that mud puddle!"

Watching his chance and seeing the animal boys and girls skip away to play other games, Uncle Wiggily sneaked out and now he was ready to go wading. "If Nurse Jane saw me she'd laugh and make me stop," thought Mr. Longears. "But she won't see me." Off came his shoes. Off came his stockings. Rolling up his red trousers so they wouldn't get splashed, Uncle Wiggily stepped into the mud puddle. His pink nose twinkled faster than ever and a look of joy came over his face.

"Oh, how jolly this is!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily out loud, for he was far enough away from the hollow stump bungalow, now, so Nurse Jane would not hear him. "It is very jolly! I feel like a boy rabbit again. If I had a top I'd spin it. If I had a kite I'd fly it!" If he had a kite, he would have been a very happy rabbit. But just then there sounded a rustling in the bushes at the edge of the mud puddle and out popped the Bob Cat.

"Well, you haven't a top or a kite," snarled the Bob Cat, "but you have ears to nibble and I am going to nibble them." "Oh," exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, standing in the middle of the mud puddle, "so you are going to nibble my ears, are you?" "I am!" growled the snarling Bob Cat. "Come out of that silly mud puddle and let me nibble your ears!" "No!" boldly and bravely cried Uncle Wiggily. "If you are going to be so mean as to nibble my ears you'll have to come in this mud puddle after me! I'm not coming out to be nibbled!" "Oh, I'll come in and get you all right!" snarled the Bob Cat. He did not have to stop and take off his shoes and stockings, for he did not wear any. He went bare-pawed and thus he waded into the mud puddle. Straight toward Uncle Wiggily waded the Bob Cat, but he had not taken more than five steps before all of a sudden a queer look came over his face. His whiskers jiggled up and down and he cried: "Oh, this is a trap! Oh, I'm caught by my leg! Something is nipping me! Ouchie! Wouchie! Wow! Oh, this is a trap!" Out of the mud puddle rushed the Bob Cat and clinging to one hind leg was a big, snapping mud turtle.

"Ouch! Wow! Wouchie!" howled the Bob Cat, and, with a flip of his leg he threw off the clinging mud turtle and away he ran. "Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "You did me a good turn then, Mr. Mud Turtle. Thank you!" "Yes," said the turtle as he slowly crawled back into the mud puddle. "I don't mind you wading here, but I won't have Bob Cats!" And then Uncle Wiggily waded in the mud until Nurse Jane caught him and made him come out. But he had a lot of fun, anyhow. And if the hair brush does not tickle the cake of soap and make it jump over the bath tub I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the custard.

TUJUNGA CANYON IS FINE SPOT FOR HOMES

Almost Unknown About 3 Months Ago, Now Nearly Every Lot Is Sold

Blanchard canyon, at the end of Hill Crest drive, has taken on the aspects of a thriving village.

Three months ago this was a practically unknown spot. Today every lot is reported to be sold out and five cottages are being finished, with foundations being laid for five more and a filling station is under construction.

Several quick profits are said to have been registered. Ten children can be seen playing in the yard at 720 Hill Crest drive, all healthy and all under 12.

This is strong evidence that the Rooseveltian age has not departed. Residents report that the only kick they have to register against the "Gumps" is that they have not yet located in this section.

Mr. McGroarty says he has one lot left near the new Mission site, that he has been reserving for a noted character. At that rate, residents feel they can look for the celebrated congressional aspirant before long—taxes free for five years.

Tujunga's post office, feel the people of the district, can't much longer accommodate the growing line calling for mail, supplemented with the rural delivery. With 200 private boxes, the post office is attempting to take care of the families living permanently in the district, when 1000 boxes wouldn't last very long.

Tujunga has more than 1000 homes, and multiplied by the census average of two and one-half persons per home, the population is seen to be well over 3000 at the present time. All indications point to the doubling of this figure within the next three years.

Tujunga Personals
M. H. Bloodgood, of the Tujunga Supply Company, is finishing a neat four room and bath bungalow on Summit and Tinker streets, from which location the view of Mount McGroarty is very fine.

A Michigan woman settled in Tujunga three years ago with $300. To date, her real estate holdings have brought her an income sufficient to build two houses, to the total value of $5000, and the property is not for sale. This is the way it is with residents of this district, claims an "old timer." They don't go away, once they come.

Tujunga seems to need, more stores, in the opinion of many, particularly a small department store with a good location and a willingness to serve.

The Southern California Edison Company's new office, which opened last week, started with an import revenue of $200. It is estimated this will run into over $1000 as soon as all local users take advantage of this nearness to the station.

Owens Water Supply
There is one man in Tujunga who will not be worried about the Los Angeles aqueduct, even in 1950. His name is R. B. Fitzgerald, of music store fame, whose magnificent estate on the foothills of the Sierras overlooks Tujunga.

His acres crowd off all approach for a mile on either side and his privately owned water supply is sufficient to serve fifty homes, and keeps his groves and lawn always a veritable sheen of verdant delight. The early bird adage was observed by Mr. Fitzgerald, who

MONTROSE IMPROVEMENT OF ROADS IS URGED

Committee to Confer With County Supervisors About Highway

An attempt to get the county of Los Angeles to expend its appropriation of road funds for the Montrose and La Crescenta valleys where it will do the most good, is being made by the La Crescenta Improvement association.

Dr. C. N. Nettleton and Mark S. Collins, both prominent in the up-country, expect to confer in the near future with Supervisor Henry Wright. They are members of a committee which is getting the sentiment of the property holders in the district on this subject.

C. E. Culbertson presided recently at a meeting in the La Crescenta school house in which street improvement was the principal topic of discussion. Opinion seemed to be divided as to just which streets should receive attention first. The committee is hopeful that public opinion will crystallize upon one particular street.

Urge Danger Signal
The placing of a blinking danger signal at the Montrose crossing was suggested recently by M. V. Cook, representative of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The topography and the fact that traffic at this intersection is increasing constantly make this very dangerous crossing, according to residents of Montrose. The possibility is being considered of getting the county to bear the cost of maintaining this signal.

Andrew M. Brown, whose home is perched upon the top of a knoll directly north of the center of Montrose, is making plans to subdivide the hillside to the south of his property, according to an announcement from the Howard Merwin company. It is understood that Mr. Brown is making plans to place about thirty-two acres on the market in the near future. He is a retired banker, and was formerly connected with the First National Bank of Los Angeles.

He saw possibilities in Tujunga before the place even had a name. Auguste Faure, for thirty-five years private secretary to the B. & O. railway presidents, and now retired, has lived in Tujunga for three years and has this to say: "I lived in Florida and other sections where climate was one of the chief topics of conversation, but none of these places can compare with California. Why, in Florida there's not a hill in the whole state so much as 400 feet high!"

"Being a Frenchman and having served as a linguist in the great war, my last avoird shall still be from California—and from Tujunga.

A total of eight new homes are going up on Walnut drive. The Tujunga Valley Realty Company is breaking ground for a new office on Michigan boulevard near Cedar street.

Four old eastern friends met again in Tujunga and plan a reunion over a big chicken dinner, followed by music, this coming Saturday night, April 14, when Mr. and Mrs. George O. Huff celebrate their thirtieth anniversary and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burnheim their twenty-ninth anniversary.

Benzine is coming into use as a partial substitute for gasoline in motor engines.

TUJUNGA PLAN TO BAPTIZE CHURCH MEMBERS

Growth of Community Church to Force an Enlargement of Buildings

Thirty-one new members have joined the Tujunga Community church by transfer or confession and will be baptized as soon as suitable arrangements can be made for this rite. Both the congregation and Sunday school are growing so fast that additional room is imperative.

The Sunday school attendance record was broken last month when 186 attended class on Sunday, March 25.

The Sunland Baptist church is holding special services every evening at 7:30 from April 6 to April 15. Two young men from the Redlands university, one a soloist and the other a speaker, are assisting at these meetings.

In order to incite interest in the garden making among the juvenile citizens the local merchants are co-operating with Principal Fred Axe of the grammar school by offering prizes for the best results. The plan is having the desired results and the pupils are all planning to raise prize winning vegetables this spring.

The gardens will be judged in eight or nine weeks and prizes will be awarded for and by the following: $1 in trade for the best girls' vegetable garden, given by Gray & Gray, grocers; a scout knife for the best vegetable garden grown by a boy, given by Myers Hardware Co.; $1 in trade for the best flower garden, donated by the Tujunga Lumber & Supply Co.; $1 in trade for the best ten-foot square plot of vegetables, to be given by Caldwell Feed & Supply Co.

Organize Patrol
Plans are being made to organize a merchants' fire dispatch and police patrol to protect Tujunga and Sunland. Something of the kind has been needed for some time and the business men are favorable to such a plan. The territory will be covered by automobile.

The Valley Garage on Michigan avenue has just finished installing a new gasoline pump and building an addition to the repair shop. The addition nearly doubles the floor space and will greatly expedite the repair work.

The Barritt Land Co. has moved from the office on Michigan avenue and Marshall streets to a building on Michigan near Haynes Canyon road.

Boxing Bout Planned
The newly formed Sunland Athletic club announces the card of bouts for their first show to be held Friday evening, April 13, at Twin Pines pavilion, Sunland.

Charlie Kimpel, ex-manager of the Tujunga Valley baseball team, is promoting the new enterprise and promises there will be some high-class fights. A. M. Clinton is matchmaker and has lined up an attractive card for the opening date. More than usual interest is centered in the main event. Orvil Carter, who fights under the alias of Canadian Carter, is booked to swap fistic compliments with Kid Calhoun at 148 lbs. Carter is the son of a Sunland man and all the boys are pulling for him.

Carter claims a draw with the Canadian middle weight champion and also claims the middleweight championship by right of his defeat of Battling Leidle. Kid Calhoun says nothing and looks wise, which is as it should be.

The curtain raiser is also attracting much interest. This bout will be the first of a series of elimination affairs for the local juvenile championship. Buster Kane and Pete Morago, both of Sunland, will show what home grown talent can do. The complete card:

Bus Kane vs. Pete Morago, 119 lbs. Eddie Myers vs. Battling Matthews, catch-weights. Lem Carter vs. Earl King, 130 lbs. Walter Dodge vs. Bob Kelly, 135 lbs. Canadian Carter vs. Kid Calhoun, 148 lbs.

A family reunion was held last week by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Randall of Los Angeles at the home of one of their daughters, Mrs. Haarer, 1107 South Berendo street, Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Bloore of Tujunga were among those present. Mrs. Bloore and Mrs. Haarer are sisters.

Leave for Chicago
Mr. and Mrs. C. Carlson, winter visitors from Chicago, have returned to their home in the Windy City. They spent the past few months at Tujunga with their son, E. Carlson, 110 West Los Angeles street.

Mrs. D. M. Franco has moved from her cottage at 140 Cedar street to 1321 West 71st street, Los Angeles, where she will make her home in the future.

Miss James, assistant to G. H. Smedley in the local Edison offices, is making her home at 126 South Cedar street. Miss James is a niece of Mrs. John S. McGroarty and recently came here from the east.

BURBANK RAISE FUNDS TO ADVERTISE TOWN

War Chest Contains Huge Sum of Money, Says Chairman of Drive

In excess of $5000 has already been subscribed to Burbank's advertising fund, announces Chairman Spauld of the publicity committee, and the drive will be continued until every citizen has had an opportunity to contribute.

Present plans call for the first advertising to appear about the first of June, continuing on through the summer, but opening up strongest in September.

John Nielson, city trustee, speaks for the entrepreneurs, saying they are solidly back of the movement, with cash and influence, and that the other trades can be expected to join them, at a meeting to be held in the near future.

Among those who have already contributed are M. Spauld, E. L. White, Security Trust & Savings Bank, Blanchard Lumber company, Viney-Miliken Lumber Company, H. C. Boorse, J. S. King, State Bank, S. S. Jones, A. R. Graham, W. A. Thompson, Community Investment Company, J. C. Crawford, Frank Meline company, J. D. Radcliff, C. E. Hough, J. R. Binford, R. S. Dodge, Story & Son, Burbank Hardware Company, J. O. Stumbo, DeMoss & Hollomon, J. L. Cochran, A. C. Filbach, E. H. Christensen, Wilson Drug Company, J. B. Cameron, Burbank Theatre, R. W. Colburn, Victory Review, W. P. Coffman, Harry Sinclair, Clarence Thompson, Leon F. Lester, T. B. Young, L. D. Davidson, Harry L. Klein, P. Romeo, James McDowell, T. G. King, A. C. Ritter.

The Burbank Radio club announces that henceforth a concert will be given each Tuesday night, admission free, at the Palais Majestic, through the courtesy of Manager L. B. Evans, who has donated his beautiful hall for the purpose.

As a consequence, the club extends an invitation to all to attend and listen in next Tuesday night, April 10, to some of the excellent talent broadcasted from the various stations. Plenty of comfortable seats are assured, together with the guarantee of a splendid program.

The club has the further ambition of organizing local talent into a group that can periodically go before some of the big broadcasting stations and "tell the world" what Burbank is and can do.

The members of the Burbank chapter of the Eastern Star have formed a social and philanthropic club, with the following officers: Mrs. Claire Woods, president; Mrs. J. E. Anders, secretary; and Mrs. C. Anders, treasurer. The object of the organization is to sew for the children's hospitals. It will meet the first Monday of each month, at 10 o'clock in the morning, the next meeting to be May 7, with Mrs. C. Anders.

$100 Gift to Club
The Southern California corporation, under whose direction the Belmar Hills tract is being developed, has made a donation of $100 to the Choral club of Burbank, placing no restriction on the manner in which the money is to be used.

As a result of this donation, plans long under way for a civic program are made possible. The program will take the form of a Choral Community concert, to be given on Mothers' day, May 13, and will be an effort to make this the first of a series of annual Mothers' day concerts by the Choral club.

Announcement is made of a return engagement to be given in Burbank by the Fine Arts club of Pasadena, on April 17 has been set as the date. A high-class musical is promised.

Changes in the list of Choral club officials are announced, as follows: Mrs. Helen Allen has resigned as chairman of the promotion committee. Mrs. Mattie Calhoun, 148 lbs. Mrs. Mattie Calhoun has been appointed to fill Mrs. Allen's place on the social committee to do so. Mrs. Valentine has been appointed chairman of the hospitality and reception committee.

Miss Mary Gibbs is the winner of the art department contest, sponsored by the Choral club. The winning emblem is a partially unrolled scroll, bearing several bars of music and above this the club letters, "B. C. C.," with balancing designs on either side.

It is expected that practical use will soon be made of the insignia.

She Talks Ten Days; Called Strange Malady

COLUMBUS, April 9.—Physicians at the Sawyer sanitarium at Worthington, near here, today were puzzled over the strange malady of Mrs. W. Montgomery, 22, of Logan, Ohio, admitted to the sanitarium, after an attack of "talking sickness," following influenza.

According to her physician, who accompanied her here, Mrs. Montgomery talked almost incessantly for ten days. She had a high temperature and is extremely restless.

EAGLE ROCK CHURCH SALE IS LARGE SUCCESS

Women of Episcopal Guild Operate Store to Aid Building Fund

The Eagle Rock office of The Glendale Evening News, 113 East Colorado boulevard, presented a gala appearance last Saturday, April 7, when, through the courtesy of the publisher, A. T. Cowan, the women of St. Barnabas held the Episcopal church held an all-day cooked, fancy-work and flower sale.

The windows were decked with flags and in them were displayed attractive samples of the food, candy, jams, jellies, preserves, flowers and other articles on sale within.

Several booths were in operation, among them a candy booth, "yard stick" booth where fancy-work and cretonnes were sold, food and vegetable booth, and basket booth.

The proceeds of the sale will go into the building fund of the church, states Mrs. J. B. Squire, president of the guild. An announcement of the total profits derived from the sale will be made later, she states.

Among those assisting Mrs. Squire in making this sale the success it was, were Mrs. C. A. McClintic, secretary, and Miss M. Nash, treasurer of the guild.

Glee Club Concert
The Occidental College Women's Glee club gave a delightful concert at the Presbyterian church Friday night, April 6. No admission was charged but a silver offering taken. An announcement of the total profits derived from the sale will be made later, she states.

The entertainment is one of a series given each year, throughout southern California, by the Occidental College Women's Glee club, and was much appreciated, drawing a fine audience.

The regular meeting of the Women's Twentieth Century club, to be held at the clubhouse, the afternoon of Thursday, April 12, there will be two excellent speakers, it is announced. One of them, Mrs. Johnston, will talk at the 1 o'clock luncheon, on the topic, "The Bible in Literature."

A Double Ringer

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

To the older men of Minden, Colonel Cummings was regarded with respect as a financier and a quip player. The young men looked upon him as the father of Nan and a terror.

"It doesn't seem right to me" it was Nan who nerved herself for the protest, "that you should act like a father out of the story books of a generation or two ago. Why cannot any of my boy friends call on me here? Why do you delight in frightening them?"

The colonel pulled on his goat and smiled.

"Scare 'em, do I? In my days young men were not so easily frightened." His tone softened.

"The truth is it is hard for me to realize my girl is growing up and—well, most of these young sprigs in Minden don't amount to anything. Let young Powers call once a week if you like. He seems to have the right stuff in him."

That is how Ned Powers became the envy of young Minden and why Leroy Henderson took to strategy to further his suit.

"My dad's got more money than Ned's," Henderson said to himself, "I wear better clothes and some folks say I'm better looking. What I've got to do is get on the right side of the colonel. And I think I know how."

While Powers was working in his father's office Henderson carried out his scheme. It meant work, lots of it, for it entailed becoming an expert at quips. Behind the barn the youth pitched quips by himself, giving his full attention to the task. Then he took to hanging around the lot where the older men had their games. He was waiting the opportunity.

One day it came. Cal Upwing, the colonel's partner, had what he called a jumping tooth and stayed at home. It meant the other three must play singles, something which the colonel said was little better than nothing at all. Leroy Henderson showed signs of interest.

"Young feller," the colonel asked, "did you ever play a game of quots?"

Leroy assumed modesty. "I am afraid I am not in your class," he answered, "but if you wish me to fill in, I'll try."

It was a close game and, try as he could, the youth was able to do no more than hold his own. One side won and then the other and at last came the deciding game of the series.

"It is now or never," the lad thought.

Perhaps it was because he was overanxious or because the colonel was put out at having to play with a substitute. The other side drew ahead 19 to 11 and the game was 21.

Alph Matthews, playing against Leroy, smiled as he took position and grinned broadly when the quip fell with a slap over the stake. It was a ringer and counted five. The game was all but over. The colonel put on his coat keeping an eye on Leroy.

The lad concentrated his attention on the stake sticking up through the center of Alph's quip and sent another disc toward it. Then the dignified colonel whooped for joy. Leroy's quip had landed on the stake on top of the other. A double ringer counted ten for the man who throws the second quip and nothing for the opponent who hurls the first.

"That's game, son," the colonel said, slapping the elated youth on the back. "Twenty-one to nineteen and the series. You'll have to play with me again. Put her here," and the two shook hands. Men take their quots seriously in Minden.

A week later Nan Cummings sat silent and star-eyed at the dinner table. She had a secret and she wondered if she dared tell her father.

"Look here, Nan," the colonel said. "A young fellow named Leroy Henderson has asked me if he can call on you." The colonel paused for effect and Nan eyed him questioning.

"Who?" she asked, "what you said about my not letting the boys call and I tried to do the best I could," the colonel stumbled over his words, then raised his voice—

"But I told the young galoot no feller what hangs around pitching quots games when he oughta be working can call on my girl."

Afraid to meet the distress he feared would appear in Nan's eyes the colonel looked hard at his plate. But Nan was smiling. This would make it easier to tell him her secret—hers and Ned's.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

ELEMENTS NEEDED BY THE SYSTEM

We often liken the human body to a machine, especially to a steam engine, because it has to be given fuel to produce its power. Sherman has pointed out that a gas engine is a better comparison, because the energy comes from the chemical reaction of the fuel rather than from the heat itself, in both the gas engine and the body.

There are, of course, some essential differences between the human machine and gas engines or any other machines it might be compared with. It is interesting to think a little about them.

First: The human machine is a living vital machine with high physical, intellectual and spiritual qualities—or possibilities of them—which the man-made engine or other machines do not possess.

Second: The fuel of the human body machine is converted into the human body machine itself, in addition to giving energy and heat.

Third: The human machine can consume its own material for fuel. It does this when insufficient food is taken. Here's where we willingly reduce if we are too fat and where we willingly get thin if we are too ill to eat, or don't take sufficient food for other reasons.

Fourth: The human machine is self-building, self-repairing and self-regulating. See if you can say them.

Inasmuch as the fuel (food) for the human machine must build, repair and regulate, as well as furnish heat and energy, it is of supreme importance that it shall contain the same elements that the body contains and in sufficient proportions to do the work.

BEAUTY CHATS

EDNA KENT FORBES

THE INVALUABLE LEMON

There is little new to be said about the virtues of lemon as a beautifier. I can only hope now and then to recapitulate its uses, in case my readers may have forgotten. But there is one way of using it that few know about.

Run the lemon through a food chopper. For an oily skin take two or three lemons, cut them in quarters and run them through an ordinary meat mincing machine—food chopper—with the smallest blade attached. Be sure the machine is clean, scald it with hot water and soap suds, and let it soak in boiling hot water some time, so not a trace nor an odor of food remains. Otherwise the lemon will take it up.

Run the squashed lemon through several times until the rind and seeds have been thoroughly ground. Strain through a sieve so the large lumps are taken out and only a soft, pulpy substance remains. This is a marvelous bleach for the hands and finger nails and for the face and neck. However, if the complexion is sensitive, it will not stand this full strength. In that case, dilute with rose water until it ceases to sting.

This makes a liquid, rather than a cream. But this first lemon liquid, strained through a fine sieve (I mean the pure juice and pulp, no rose water) can be used instead of the plain rose water called for in the cold cream formula, to make a soothing, bleaching lemon cream.

One new idea for today is to take the lemon juice and pulp and add almond milk and a little glycerine. Such a combination is excellent for tanned and slightly dry skins. The proportions are not important—as much milk as juice—and one-third that amount of glycerine. But you can vary this. More milk is better for very dry complexions.

A. H. X. and Mrs. B. B. S.—An oily skin usually denotes a sluggish digestion system, or an inability of the organs of elimination to relieve such a condition. In other words, the skin is taxed unnecessarily to keep the system cleared of waste. Sometimes by drinking more water, the kidneys will take care of such a condition.

Lemon Juice Is Bleaching and Astringent

all the while the effect upon the skin.

Rose Bud.—There are braces that may be purchased for helping to straighten a child's legs while he is growing. Drink plenty of milk to add to your weight.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE INELASTICITY OF TIME

There are some lessons in life for each of us that we cannot seem to learn by one experience. We have to learn them over and over and over again.

And then we don't know them. One of mine is the inelasticity of time. I am always planning to do more things in any given space of time than could possibly be crowded into said space unless it were elastic. And I am perennially surprised when I find myself at the end of that time with not more than half of them done.

Take last night. I had an hour before it was time to start. I was dressed except for changing my frock and doing over my hair. So I thought to myself: For once I've got plenty of time to dress and can do it leisurely. And I'll be able to look fresh so I think I'll lie down a few minutes. But first I'll just put away the clean clothes. Then I'll lie down and read for fifteen minutes and then I'll dress.

You Know What Happened

You know what happened. Clothes to be sorted, stockings to be mated and looked over, a couple of buttons to be sewed on. An interruption at the telephone. Telephone hung up, heavens, what time is it? Why twenty minutes left. Nap goes overboard. Start to dress, simply cannot find the collar that goes on that dress, hair goes up wrong. I tear it down, masculine voice at the door. "Well, are you about ready?" "Almost." I feverishly do my hair over again. Not a success but not time to change. Wrangle into number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use your full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

Educators Claim Victory in Battle to Halt Bill's Enactment

SACRAMENTO, April 9.—Advocates of the Pomeroeny bill, No. 1200, which was directed against private education, were defeated last night in their attempt to pass the measure.

The education committee tabled the bill by a vote of nine to three. The Scandinavian scheme of justice is suggested in a constitutional amendment introduced yesterday by Senator MacDonald, his bill providing no civil case can go to trial prior to its presentation to a mediation board. The measure is designed to relieve congestion in California courts.

The custom of dressing the two sides of the body in garments of absolutely different designs and colors was during the fifteenth century.

"Living on twenty-four hours a day is the problem of the average person. And one of the first things to do when attacking that problem is to get some sense about what can and what can't be done in any given amount of time."

FULL RECOVERY AFTER THE "FLU"

(Weekly Health Talk No. 25)
(By Drs. Eble & Eble, D.S.C.)

Many who have the vitality to get well of an attack of influenza are frequently left with some form of weakness that is stubborn and unless given chiropractic attention will most certainly become chronic. One of the frequent discoveries is that "flu" has left its victim with heart trouble.

UNCLE BEN SAYS:
"Stinking good, Nevy, is largely a matter of feeling good—health can't be bought at a discount."

All life functions of the body are transmitted over the nerve lines of the body, and the only place where this transmission meets interference is at the spinal nerve openings when spinal joints are slightly or seriously displaced. The chiropractor by his adjustments restores the mechanical alignment of spinal bones and thus the cause of the weakness is removed. Health follows as a natural result.

Heart Ailment Has Disappeared

"I had heart trouble for a number of years, according to various physicians whom I sought out for treatment. There was a low whistling sound, said to be due to leakage of the heart valves. Under chiropractic spinal adjustments this whistling sound disappeared and the difficult breathing and other weaknesses that went with the ailment also have cleared up."—Albert Kutz, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1093-H.

SPORTS CHATTER By BILL UNMACK PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

White no official date has been set for the closing of the racing season at Tijuana. Manager James W. Coffroth stated recently that it probably would be on or about April 15.

The Olympic club of San Francisco not only is a believer in team work among players in the field, but holds to the theory that the membership itself can participate in this team work.

The Pacific Coast baseball league opened the 1923 season officially on April 3 and, as usual, is the first of the country's professional circuits to get under way.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Olympic club of San Francisco has one of the strongest basketball teams it has had since it won the national championship some years ago, the athletic committee voted not to send it in competition.

Richard is somewhat aghast to learn that Floyd Johnson co-star of his big charity show, is to take on Frederick, April 16. The promoter has no reason to fear that Fulton will win a perfectly good headliner but he recognizes that Joschic is taking a needless chance in more ways than one.

He therefore has bought Fulton and Johnson to agree to a later date. He found them consider for a minute interfering with Richard's plans for the charity show. In fact, they suggested, provided he gave Fulton a "spot" on the milk fund program.

Leonard would be. He, therefore, talked in threatening terms about himself into a match with Lew Tender, who knocked him out with unseemly haste. Pappin hadn't the slightest conception of prodding his body, but he went down talking, the sense of his condition being that he was a badly fouled individual.

It was so with Charley Ledoux, the bantam, who probably was a test of the hot. Ledoux managed to hold his own with most of the American second raters, but a sock in the stomach by Kid Williams ironed him out flat in the fifteenth round at Tom McCarey's Vernon arena.

Another fairly good one was Louis de Ponthieu, the lightweight, who was the pioneer of all French invaders. He came on here about ten or twelve years ago and proved a clever boxer against some of our best.

Paul Journe, his sparring partner, was a push-over for Charley Weinert in his lone appearance in an American ring. Paul didn't like them in the body or elsewhere. Neither did one Georges Pappin, another sharp for whom Descamps, the arch-sharpshooter, was responsible.

Pappin came here as the lightweight champion of France. He had a snappy left and a semi-accurate impression of what the loser's end of a bout with Benny Leonard was like.

Paul Journe, his sparring partner, was a push-over for Charley Weinert in his lone appearance in an American ring.

BOXERS KEEN TO ASSIST CHARITY GLENDALE SQUAD

Husky Pugs Willing to Make Any Sacrifice to Box At Benefit Show

NEW YORK, April 9.—Charity being ordinarily understood as a cause in which one gives something for nothing, it is quite singular that so many members of the boxing profession have expressed a desire to appear on Tex Rickard's program of May 12 for the benefit of the local milk fund.

These purely disinterested intervals is Jack Renault, managed by Leo "Pop" Flynn. Renault has been offered a certain percentage to box Tom Gibbons here May 3 at the earnest behest of William Muldoon.

A parallel case is that of Frederick Platon, who can play them off with a pop gun at 500 yards.

Postpone Bout Rickard is somewhat aghast to learn that Floyd Johnson co-star of his big charity show, is to take on Frederick, April 16.

McGraw Disciplines Hurlers Who Violated Rules at San Antonio

By DAVIS J. WALSH For International News Service NEW YORK, April 9.—The iron hand of John McGraw is responsible for the commendable pitching of Hugh McGraw and Jess Barnes in recent games against the Chicago White Sox.

Just why McGraw countenanced the delinquencies of McQuillan and Barnes and not those of Scott and Smith is not known, but he probably has his own very good reasons.

That is his first contemplated step by way of reprisal for the flouting of his stern discipline. His next is said to be a proposal to "shoot on the spot" are prolong the streets in the residence district hoping to lure the "monkey man" who has attacked at least fourteen women recently, to his ruin.

MAYOR ROBINSON RAPS BOND FOES

Refutes Claim That Chemical Factory Will Cause Offensive Odor

Editor, The Evening News:—It has come to my notice that the claim is being made by a small group of opponents of the airport and water bonds to be voted on as proposition No. 8 in tomorrow's election, that the liquid chemical fertilizer to be made by the proposed Pep Chemical Company plant will have an extremely offensive odor and thereby prove a serious detriment to the adjacent community.

I wish personally and also as mayor of Glendale, to absolutely refute such assertion or intimation as I have thoroughly investigated the matter and am assured there is no offensive odor either in its manufacture or use, and that, furthermore, the city council's tentative arrangement with Mr. Rasimus of the "Pep" company, specifically stipulates that the manufacture in question shall entail no offensive odor. The lease would be positive in this respect.

I have personally seen the direct beneficial results on plant life from the use of the "Pep" product and believe the city will gain a fine industry if proposition No. 8 carries.

SPENCER ROBINSON.

Gilhuly Says South Needs Representation

In a whirlwind finish to his campaign for election to the Glendale City Council, Sidney S. Gilhuly is busy today interviewing the voters and laying before them his final appeal for support at the polls tomorrow. In addition to his other qualifications, Mr. Gilhuly is stressing the importance of the need that exists for the part of Glendale that lies south of Broadway to have its own representative on the City Council. All of the other candidates, he declares, come from north of Broadway, and the interests of those to the south of that thoroughfare are equally as important as those of the people to the north.

That Mr. Gilhuly is intimately posted on the needs of the southern part of the city is shown by his residence there for the past six years, and his business interests lie mainly in and around that part of the city where he makes his home. For some time past, as a member of a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce, he has been investigating highway improvement questions as they relate to better connections for Glendale with the boulevards running to the sea, and affording a relief from the traffic congestion that is so appalling at times on the roads running through the southern part of Glendale, and he has been able to reach a number of conclusions that are said to present a feasible solution of many of these difficulties and that will work out to the benefit of the entire city.

His campaign has been meeting with warm endorsement from his many friends in his own section of Glendale, as well as from those in every other section of the city. His election is predicted by those who are in closest touch with the situation, his friends say.

SELF-MASTERY IS SPEAKER'S TOPIC

Dr. Fared Gives Lecture at New Thought Center Sunday Morning

"No subject is of greater interest and importance to thoughtful men and thinking women than that of self-mastery, and its psychology," asserted Dr. Ameen U. Fared yesterday morning at the New Thought Center, conducted in the Masonic temple.

"To master the forces of the natural world may lead to conveniences in the life of man," he remarked, "but to master the inner forces of man and to render the naturally unruly nature of the human subservient, leads directly to man's happiness and progress."

"Therefore, the conquest of land, air and sea, in the estimation of the wise, is secondary in importance when compared to the conquest of self and the direction of government and the direction of self. He who exercises rule over his spirit, is greater than he who rules the city, is one of the emphasized teachings of the Master.

"The spiritual dominion, so often spoken of by great teachers, can be gained only through this mastery. This attainment is possible by the understanding of its psychology. There are steps in the great work that must be intelligently comprehended and followed in action; to know is incomplete until it attains expression in being.

Psychological Steps To know, to do, to become and to be are psychological steps in the operation.

Firstly: You must know how good and great it is, to gain mastery over self, its powers, moods and possibilities.

Secondly: You must patiently do the things outlined; the class instruction given to the psychology class, carried out in everyday life will fulfill the second requirement.

Thirdly: You must visualize the state of the coming or approaching or nearing the goal of being, and, lastly, when a state of being is reached, you must consciously exercise and continue the great attainment to the spiritual dominion of being.

Oh! Son of Spirit: I have created thee rich; Why dost thou make thyself poor? Noble have I made thee, Why dost thou degrade thyself? Of the essence of knowledge, Have I kneaded thee, Why seeketh thou other than Me? Turn thy sight into thyself, That thou mayest find Me Standing within thee, Power, Might, Supreme.
