The VICE-PRESIDENT presented the following

LETTER FROM THE SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE, TRANSMITTING REPORT OF THE BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDED JUNE 30, 1896.

---

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Washington, D. C., December 18, 1896.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith the report of the operations of the Bureau of Animal Industry for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, in compliance with the requirements of section 11 of the act approved May 29, 1884, for the establishment of that Bureau.

Very respectfully,

J. STERLING MORTON, Secretary.

The PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE.

OPERATIONS OF THE BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDED JUNE 30, 1896.

---

WORK OF THE INSPECTION DIVISION.

MEAT INSPECTION.

The inspection of all the animals slaughtered in the United States for human food, the meat of which is to be shipped in the channels of interstate or foreign commerce, is a task of such magnitude and necessitates a service of such proportions that it requires years to build up and train a sufficient force and extend its operations over our entire territory, as contemplated by the law. The work of this division has therefore been progressive, and the meat inspection at the abattoirs, which in 1892 included but 3,800,000 head of animals, and in 1893 but 4,885,000, has in 1896 been applied to the enormous number of 23,275,000. In addition to this abattoir inspection, there has been an inspection in the stock yards of animals going to abattoirs in other cities, or which have been purchased by various buyers not having other inspection, to the number of 12,641,000. The inspection force of the Bureau has consequently made an ante-mortem inspection during the year of a total of 35,917,000 meat-producing animals. This has been an increase of more than 50 per cent over the preceding year. The number of abattoirs and cities at which inspection is conducted has nearly doubled within the year.

There must be a still further increase of the inspection service, for, although by far the greater part of the meat shipped from State to State or to foreign countries is inspected, there is still a considerable quantity which is not reached. The consumer of our meats in other countries may be easily protected from that which is uninspected by a regulation of his government requiring all imported meats to bear inspection marks, but our own citizens do not yet receive such an absolute protection, as the inspection is not sufficiently extended to warrant a prohibition of the interstate shipment of all meat that has not been inspected. American consumers may, however, demand of the retailers of meats that only the inspected article be sold to them, and they can satisfy themselves that this is done by examining the tags and stamps which are put upon it for identification.

The meat-inspection force is now a very efficient one. A large proportion of its members are able and experienced men, and the additions made by appointment from the eligible list upon certification by the Civil Service Commission have been notably superior to the men obtained before this force was brought within the classified service. The discipline has also greatly improved since the merit system was adopted.

With this efficient force at our command, it has been possible to greatly extend the system of ante-mortem inspections in the stock yards, and to embrace all of the important centers of the live-stock trade. The animals entering these yards are inspected, and those found to be diseased or in a condition unfitting them for the production of wholesome meat are marked with a condemnation tag, showing that they have failed to pass the inspection. Such animals are held for future disposition, and as a large proportion of them have been rejected on account of pregnancy, they and their young are allowed to be shipped to the country, in order that they may be fed until in a suitable condition for slaughter. Of the condemned animals which are not returned to the country, some die in the pens, others are released after they have been held until their condition has improved, but the greater part is slaughtered, and if the post-mortem examination confirms the diagnosis that the animals are in a diseased or unwholesome condition, the carcasses are disposed of in such a manner that they can not be utilized for human food.

Following is a statement of the ante-mortem work at the abattoirs and stock yards. The figures in the first column approximate the actual number of animals inspected for abattoirs having Government inspection, and include those inspected in the yards for such local abattoirs and those inspected at the abattoirs in cities where there is no yard inspection. The second column gives the additional number of inspections in the yards on animals not purchased for the official abattoirs in those cities, and does not represent the actual number inspected, for the reason that, as the inspection is made at the scales and the animals may change hands several times—being weighed on each occasion—the same animal may pass the inspector more than once. The number of animals rejected as unfit for food at the time of the ante-mortem inspection is given under the heading, "Animals condemned."

While the exact number of individual live animals inspected can not be told, the number finally condemned as unfit for food may be ascertained by adding the number condemned at the abattoirs, both ante-mortem and post-mortem, and the number condemned post-mortem in the stock yards inspection.

Ante-mortem inspection.

	Number of inspections.			Animals condemned.
	For official abattoirs in cities where the inspection was made.	For abattoirs in other cities and miscellaneous buyers.	Total.	At abattoirs.	In stock yards.	Total.

Total .....	23,275,739	12,641,740	35,917,479	12,861	76,538	89,399

Last year the number of animals inspected for abattoirs having official inspection was 18,783,000, and the total number of ante-mortem inspections made was 23,885,721. There has been an increase, therefore, in the number of animals inspected for abattoirs, where inspection was maintained, of 4,492,739, or nearly 24 per cent, which is due principally to the extension of the inspection of sheep to abattoirs where it had not been possible to inspect them before. The increase in the total number of inspections is 12,031,758, or over 50 per cent.

Following is a table showing the number of animals inspected at time of slaughter, and number of carcasses and parts condemned:

	Number of inspections.			Carcasses condemned.			Parts of carcasses condemned at abattoirs.
	At abattoirs.	On animals condemned in stock yards.	Total.	At abattoirs.	Stock yards in inspection.	Total.

Hogs .....	14,250,191	28,028	14,278,219	31,178	15,011	46,189	33,930
Total.....	23,122,376	42,482	23,164,858	39,134	21,184	60,318	41,003

Last year the number of post-mortem inspections reported was 18,883,275.

There were 13,289,680 quarters and pieces of beef, 328,589 carcasses of hogs, 151,959 sacks of pork, 3,516,896 carcasses of sheep, and 183,685 carcasses of calves tagged or otherwise marked as inspected meat. Of these, there were exported 1,030,334 quarters and 16,818 smaller pieces of beef (equivalent to nearly 260,000 cattle), 349 carcasses of sheep, and 3,281 carcasses of hogs.

The meat-inspection stamp was affixed to 3,697,701 packages of beef and 6,034,165 packages of hog products; 63,313 of the latter contained microscopically examined pork. There were issued 15,211 certificates of inspection for meat products, of which 3,481 were for microscopically examined pork.

There were sealed 11,855 cars containing inspected meat in bulk for shipment to establishments having Government inspection and to other places.

The cost of this work was \$341,456.24, or 0.95 cent for each ante-mortem inspection, and covers the expense of all the subsequent work of post-mortem inspection, tagging, stamping, and issuance of certificates of inspection. In 1895 it was 1.1 cents, in 1894 it was 1 $\frac{3}{4}$  cents, and in 1893 it was 4 $\frac{3}{4}$  cents.

Number of abattoirs and cities where inspection was maintained during the fiscal years given.

Fiscal year.	Abattoirs.	Cities.	Fiscal year.	Abattoirs.	Cities.
1892.....	28	12	1895.....	55	19
1893.....	37	16	1896.....	102	26
1894.....	46	17

MICROSCOPIC INSPECTION OF PORK.

The following table shows the exports of microscopically inspected pork, 1892-1896:

Fiscal year.	To countries requiring inspection.	To countries not requiring inspection.	Total.
	Pounds.	Pounds.	Pounds.
1892.....	22,025,698	16,127,176	38,152,874
1893.....	8,059,758	12,617,652	20,677,410
1894.....	18,845,119	16,592,818	35,437,937
1895.....	39,355,230	5,739,368	45,094,598
1896.....	21,497,321	1,403,559	22,900,880

The great decrease in the exports this year as compared with last year is probably due to less favorable conditions. The exports for 1895 were unusually heavy, but if we compare with other years, it will be seen that the shipments to countries requiring the inspection were greater than in 1893 and 1894, and not materially different from 1892. The shipment of microscopically inspected pork to countries not requiring this inspection has been intentionally discouraged, as the expense in such case is not warranted.

There were 469,025 carcasses and 510,355 pieces examined, making a total of 979,380 specimens inspected by the microscopical force; 11,100 samples contained trichinæ. The cost of this inspection was \$60,485.93, an average cost per specimen of 6.18 cents. Last year the number of specimens examined was 1,910,415 (almost double the number this year), and consequently the average cost was less, being 4.9 cents; in 1894 it was 6 $\frac{1}{2}$  cents, and in 1893 it was 8 $\frac{1}{4}$  cents.

The cost of the microscopical inspection per pound of inspected meat exported was 0.264 cent. In 1895 it was 0.2 cent, and in 1894 0.248 cent.<sup>1</sup>

INSPECTION OF VESSELS AND EXPORT ANIMALS.

There were 819 clearances of vessels carrying cattle and sheep. All of these vessels were carefully inspected as to fittings, space, and other accommodations for live stock before a clearance would be authorized. The number of certificates of inspection of export animals issued was 1,393.

Below is a statement showing the inspection of domestic cattle and sheep for export, and the number exported for 1896 and previous years:

Fiscal year.	Cattle.				Sheep.
	Number of inspections.	Number rejected.	Number tagged.	Number exported.	Number of inspections.	Number rejected.	Number exported.
1896.....	815,882	1,303	377,639	365,345	733,657	893	422,603
1895.....	657,756	1,060	324,339	324,299	704,044	179	350,808
1894.....	725,243	184	360,580	363,535	135,780	-----	85,809
1893.....	611,542	292	280,570	289,240	-----	-----	-----

During the year the number of Canadian cattle exported from American ports was 1,482; number of Canadian sheep, 10,512. Last year there were 1,834 cattle and 38,873 sheep from Canada.

The percentage of loss in the shipments of cattle and sheep to London, Liverpool, and Glasgow, where inspectors of this Department are stationed, is about half that of last year. The number of cattle inspected after landing was 348,833; the number lost in transit was 1,107, or 0.32 per cent, against 0.62 per cent last year and 0.37 per cent in 1894. The number of sheep inspected was 389,534, and 4,587 were lost on the voyage, a percentage of 1.16, compared to 2.7 in 1895 and 1.29 in 1894.

<sup>1</sup>The cost per pound, as given above, was obtained, as heretofore, by dividing the cost of the work during the year by the number of pounds exported. This method is objectionable because the true average cost per pound can not be found by it, for the reason that the meat examined during one month may not be exported for several months. To illustrate this point: During the first six months the cost was $19,848.92; pounds exported, 10,492,180; last six months, cost, $40,637.01; pounds exported, 12,408,700; making an average of 0.19 cent for the first period and 0.33 cent for the last. From this it would seem that the meat examined during the latter part of the fiscal year was intended for shipment during the next year.

The cost of the export inspection and the Texas-fever work, which includes the inspection of live stock imported from Mexico, was $107,273.07. Taking half of this sum as the amount chargeable against the inspection of animals for export, the cost of inspecting the 787,948 cattle and sheep exported would be $53,636.54, or 6.8 cents per head. Last year the average was 7.74 cents, and in 1894 it was 10.75 cents per head. The number of individual inspections made on these animals was 1,549,539 in this country and 738,367 in Great Britain, a total of 2,287,906. This gives an average cost of 2.34 cents for each inspection, against 2.66 last year.

SOUTHERN CATTLE INSPECTION.

During the quarantine season, from February 15 to December 1, 1895, 47,082 cars, containing 1,224,715 cattle from the infected district, were received and inspected at the quarantine pens in the various stock yards, and 45,390 cars were cleaned and disinfected under supervision of the inspectors.

Orders issued by the Secretary of Agriculture modifying the regulations governing the importation of live stock admitted cattle from Mexico after inspection for immediate slaughter or for grazing below the quarantine line, subject to the regulations applying to the native cattle of the infected district. Under these orders there were 219,814 Mexican cattle imported and inspected during the year.

INSPECTION AND QUARANTINE OF IMPORTED ANIMALS.

The number of animals imported and quarantined during the year was as follows:

Quarantine station.	Cattle.	Sheep.	Swine.
St. Denis, Md.....	-----	45	-----

Port Huron, Mich.....	10	-----	-----
Total.....	455	317	30

There were also at the Garfield station 12 camels, 1 goat, and 1 deer, making a total of 816 imported animals held in quarantine for the prescribed period.

The number of animals imported from Canada and inspected, not subject to quarantine, was 317,038 sheep, 216 swine, 151 cattle, and 2 deer. There were also inspected 2,168 sheep, 42 hogs, and 3 goats imported from Mexico.

For the purpose of comparison, the following tables are given:

The effect of placing the force of this Bureau within the classified service has been very marked in increasing its efficiency and improving its discipline. This is particularly apparent with employees stationed at other cities than Washington. The decreased expense of the inspection work is largely due to this improvement in the force. Every person feels now that his standing, retention in the service, and chance of promotion depends upon the interest which he shows and the care and fidelity with which his duties are performed.

WORK OF PATHOLOGICAL DIVISION.

The most important work of this division during the year has been an experimental study of Texas fever, with a view to discover a method of making animals which are shipped to the infected district immune to the disease. A number of animals have been treated by placing ticks upon them at a season of the year when the disease develops in a mild form, and others have been inoculated with blood from affected animals. The cattle so treated were shipped to the infected district early in the summer, together with other animals that were not made immune, and they have shown a very marked power of resisting the contagion. It is hoped that by treating animals according to this plan it will be possible to take them to the infected district for the improvement of the herds, and that the serious losses which have occurred in the past under such circumstances will be avoided.

Experiments have been continued during the year in the hope of securing a mixture that could be used as a dip for the destruction of the ticks which disseminate the contagion of this disease. No mixture has been found which gave complete satisfaction but there is reason to believe that by continuing the investigations, a plan will be developed by which the cattle can be freed from these parasites before they are shipped from the infected district. A successful method for accomplishing this would be of such great importance to cattle raisers in the infected district that the experiments should be continued until definite results are reached.

Investigations have also been made of the disease known as rabies, particularly as it is discovered in the District of Columbia and its vicinity. These investigations show the disease to be more prevalent than is usually supposed, and indicate the necessity of giving information which will enable those interested to identify the disease when it exists, and adopt proper preventive measures.

An investigation has also been made of the peculiar disease of Florida and adjacent sections, popularly known as "leeches," and interesting results have been obtained.

WORK OF DAIRY DIVISION.

The dairy division was established July 1, 1895. Its work has consisted during the year in making a survey of the dairy industry of the United States and collecting such information as was needed for forming an intelligent idea of the magnitude, condition, and needs of the dairy industry. A number of bulletins have been issued, for which there has been a great demand, and much satisfaction has been expressed by those interested in dairy matters that the Department of Agriculture has established this division.

There is undoubtedly a great opportunity to assist those engaged in dairying by the collection and dissemination of information relating to this important industry. During recent years there has been a great development in dairy matters, many valuable discoveries have been made and methods radically changed. This development is still in progress, and it is essential to the prosperity of the dairy industry in this country that those engaged in it should have early and reliable information of the devices for reducing the cost of production which have been successfully adopted here or elsewhere. It is the purpose of the dairy division to collect such valuable information, to bring it properly to the attention of our dairymen, and to bring those engaged in dairying in closer and more helpful relations with each other.
