For the Nulional Anth-Slavery Stand NEW JERSEY SLAVERY.

New Jersey boasts of equal laws Of love for Freedom's cause: Yet binds her sons with Slavery's of And sells their souls for gain.

Four thousand slaves still wear the c Their fetters still remain ; How can we call this Freedom's soil, Where bleeding hrethren toil?

How can we gather round, the board, With dainty winds stored, When every sweet which we receive Has made our brother grieve?

Ye: men will live on sweat and blood And tears by woman shed; And daily rob the starwing poor Of what their hands secure.

Why should our flag forever wave Above the plundered slave? Why should those silken folds be s With blood from Afric's veins ?

Those stars have changed to meteor No pleasant light they shed, To marky clouds they should retire To hide their baleful fire.

Why should our savage Eagle prey On human hearts each day? Are these the dainties we must give On such food must he live? st eive:

Far better let that ogly bird Scream for his food unheard, par beiter ict toat ogy bird Seream for his food unbeard, Than let him tear from off men's boues His méat, 'mid shrieks and groans. WM. LARISON.
