DEMOBILIZATION OF R. A. F. IN CANADA

Toronto, Nov. 23.—The demobilization of the Royal Air Force will get under way almost immediately, it is announced here, and the first men to be affected by the order will be 2,000 cadets who are stationed at the cadet wing at Long Branch at the school of aeronautics at the University of Toronto and the armament school at Hamilton. The cadets will be placed on a reserve for six months, which is in effect a discharge.

TROOPS IN SASKATCHEWAN.

Regina, Nov. 23.—Saskatchewan soldiers will remain on harvest leave until ordered to report at the demobilization centres for discharge, it was announced yesterday by Col. J. A. Cross, D. S. O. Leave, which was to have expired December 1, has been extended indefinitely.

TROOPS MOVE ON IN ALSACE-LORRAINE

French Forces of Occupation Welcomed With Enthusiasm by People

Paris, Nov. 23.—Progress by the French army of occupation in Alsace and Lorraine was reported officially as follows last night:

"The occupation of successively delivered localities in Lorraine and Alsace continued to-day amid the magnificent enthusiasm of the people. Colmar was solemnly entered by Gen. de Castelneau, who was greeted by the acclamation of the whole people, which gave evidence in most touching manner of its attachment to France.

"From the Moselle as far south as the Vosges, the line reached to-day comprised—Thionville, Bouzonville, Wolckingen, Sarreguey Mines and Bitche.

"In Alsace our advance guards have reached Reispertweiler, Rosrach, Dandorf, Gendertheim and Gendenheim, after having entered Ingelmliller, Rouxviller and Brumath, where they were given a touching reception.

"The flag of the 20th Colonial Regiment which was buried at Villers-sur-Semois in 1914 has been recovered and returned with military honors to the colonial army by the 204th Infantry Regiment."

W. HOHENZOLLERN'S HOLDINGS SAID TO BE ABOUT $5,000,000

Toronto, Nov. 23.—A dispatch to the Toronto Mail and Empire from London says that a dispatch to The Daily Mail from The Hague, quoting The Westphalian Gazette, says that the ex-Kaiser's private fortune, mostly in cash and deposited in various banks, is estimated at $5,000,000, and his income from this is said to be $25,000. The revolutionary Government has declared that the ex-Kaiser's lands and property will not be seized, though the crown domains will pass to the treasury. Of ninety forests, farms, parks and other estates and castles, only seven are crown domains.

MORE SUBMARINES WERE HANDED OVER

Germans Surrendered Twenty More Undersea Craft at Harwich Yesterday

London, Nov. 23.—Twenty more German submarines were surrendered to Admiral Tyrwhitt of Harwich yesterday morning. This makes a total of fifty-nine submarines thus far handed over. There would have been sixty surrendered, but one sank.

"The correspondent of the wireless service with the British naval forces says that just before noon a cruiser came into sight followed by the German submarines and a German transport. The transfer took place in the harbor on account of the heavy sea running. The majority of the submarines were large, and nearly all were fitted with wireless.

"When the Germans arrived it was notable that the revolutionary element was decidedly present. Some of the officers had removed the Prussian eagles from their caps and replaced them with a sort of red badge in recognition of the authority of the Salford and Solent Council. There seemed to be little discipline among the lot. The men took very little notice of anything their officers said to them. One shouted: "No officers; no Kaiser!"

Aired Their English.

Some of the Germans were exceedingly anxious to air such English as they possessed, while others suppressed their accomplishments in that direction with equal care. One German officer, who was inclined to be communicative, attached himself to the correspondent and said he worked in London before the war. He added: "I had no intimation, as many of us had, that we should be wanted in the summer of 1918, so I went back to Germany a month before the war. I was not in the submarine service at first, but volunteered for it and had a fair share of luck.

"You British say it was not fair fighting, but we Germans believe that the end justifies the means. Then you complain that we shot your men while they were in the water. Why not? The men might have been saved and fought us another day. We would have been fools to let them."

"The crew of one submarine, with the exception of an officer, were all intoxicated."

One Afraid to Come.

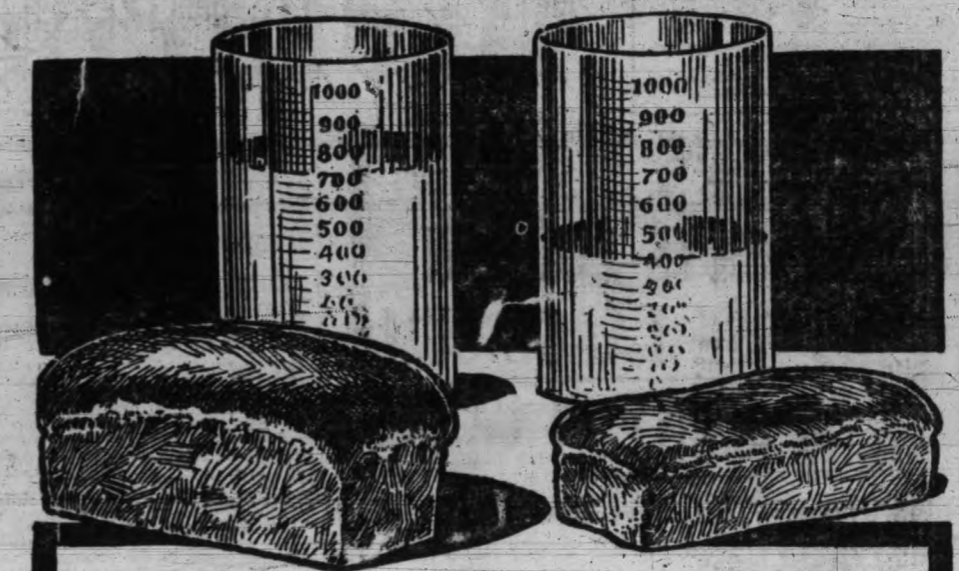

Harwich, Nov. 23.—Most of the submarines which surrendered yesterday were commanded by submarine lieutenants. One of them said that his senior officer had not come because he had been mentioned in the British press as a marked man.

"The U boat which sank while on the way to Harwich was a victim of rough weather."

BEATTY PRAISES MEN OF THE GRAND FLEET

London, Nov. 23.—After the surrender of the main installment of the German fleet off the Firth of Forth Thursday, Admiral Sir David Beatty, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Fleet, issued the following message to the men of his command:

"I wish to express to the flag officers, captains, officers and men of the Grand Fleet my appreciation of the victory which has been gained over the seapower of our enemy. The greatness of this achievement is in no way lessened by the fact that the final episode did not take the form of a fleet action. THE E. C. MEMBERS.

The policy formulated by the British Columbia members of Parliament at the conference in Vancouver on Thursday contains many features of first importance to this Province. The provision of adequate shipping facilities for the Pacific Coast, the establishment of steamship communication between British Columbia and the East by way of the Panama Canal in pursuance of the pledges given by the Hon. J. D. Reid two years ago, the development of the natural resources of the Province, the inauguration of a programme of public works with special reference to the employment of returned soldiers, land settlement and the conservation of our fisheries, are all matters demanding early attention and action.

But the formulation of a British Columbia programme by the British Columbia members, and its adoption and application by Ottawa, are two different things. The public is no longer impressed by announcements of policy. It wants action, prompt, sound and energetic. One of the easiest things in the world, although a very necessary thing, is to frame a policy, and one of the hardest things is to get that policy carried into effect. Nevertheless, we are confident that if the British Columbia members will stand together behind their representations, not only in pressing them upon the Cabinet but on the floor of Parliament, they will gain satisfactory results.

If the Administration is disposed to take an unfavorable attitude, let it understand that it must reckon on the opposition of the whole British Columbia representation if it should persist in that course, and it will alter its decision. There is not a single recommendation on the list which should not fairly be accepted and the acceptance of which would not be in the public interest.

RED CROSS NEEDS HELP.

The managers of the local branch of the Canadian Red Cross report an alarming decline in the contributions to that organization since the armistice was signed. This, we are sure, is due to a misapprehension in the public mind concerning the relation of the armistice to the conditions the Red Cross has to deal with.

The armistice has not obviated the need of comforts and the various other supplies required by the soldiers overseas. Very few, if any, of our troops, will be removed from the front before the coming winter is over, and while there may not be any fighting during the next few months the fuel scarcely alone, which cannot be remedied for a long time, will make conditions very uncomfortable, to say the least.

We might point out, also, that it is the duty of the public of all the other Allied countries to assist in relieving the inhabitants of the devastated regions of northern France, Belgium, Italy and Serbia. For four years these people have borne a burden of privation and misery beyond the capacity of the public on this continent to picture. Millions of them have starved to death or died from pestilence. In France alone more than 350,000 homes have been destroyed.

These people have suffered in a cause that was as much ours as theirs, but apart from that their pitiable condition should make an irresistible appeal to the sympathy of the world, particularly to that part of the world which has suffered the least. There is, besides, the demand for Red Cross supplies which arises from the dispatch of an expeditionary force to Siberia.

The Victoria branch of the Red Cross must meet obligations aggregating $15,000 in thirty days and so far has less than one-fifth of that sum available for this purpose. It is appealing for help and we cannot believe that an appeal by an organization which has done so much for suffering humanity in the last four years will be in vain.

ALBERT RE-ENTERS HIS CAPITAL.

In 1914 Belgium had to choose between sacrifice and dishonor. She chose sacrifice and if it had not been for that choice the world would not now be contemplating the wreck of the Central Alliance. Belgium was at a disadvantage. Twenty-four hours before von Emmich's guns opened their fire against the forts of Liege she had been solemnly assured by von Jagow, German Foreign Secretary, that her neutrality would be respected by Germany. She was only partially mobilized. Yet, with her heroic sovereign at her head, she threw herself into the path of the mighty German machine, delaying and harassing it and dislocating its schedule to such an extent that Germany never regained the time lost.

But Belgium paid a price for her intervention that never can be forgotten. Yet it was Belgium that ruined Germany, for apart from her military contribution in those vital opening days, it was through her that the British Empire became involved and Germany's case was damned in the eyes of the world.

Yesterday the Belgian army, led by its heroic soldier-king, entered its beautiful capital which for more than four years has been under the Prussian heel, with its inhabitants murdered, black-mailed and robbed on the slightest pretext. The democratic world in spirit should have been in that historical procession, proud to honor the little country which preferred destruction to dishonor and to march behind a leader who has shown himself to be many times more than king.

PREFERENCE FOR DOMINIONS.

In the platform on which the British Government is appealing to the country is a plank of tariff preference for the overseas Dominions. So far the cable dispatches defining Mr. Lloyd George's policy give no details of what this particular phase of it implies, but we may be sure it will be vigorously discussed. It is impossible for Great Britain to give the Dominions a preference worth while without increasing the price of food as well as the price of a considerable range of staple commodities to the British people, for food and raw materials comprise two-thirds of Britain's imports. Obviously, giving the Dominions a preference must call for the imposition of duties on similar goods imported from other countries.

In view of the abnormally high prices the British people have had to pay for everything during the last four years the effect of a small tariff on foodstuffs might not be very noticeable at first, inasmuch as in spite of its prices are bound to fall for a considerable period. But the time is likely to come when it will be noticed. And the six million women voters in the United Kingdom will be the first to notice it.

STILL IN THE CLOUDS.

If, in the midst of the great German offensive last spring, anybody of public importance had predicted that before winter fighting would be over on the principal fronts, with Austria-Hungary off the map, the German Empire in ruins, the Hohenzollern fugitives in Holland, and republics springing up right and left among the debris of what once was the Central Alliance, he would have been dubbed a lunatic and driven into obscurity.

It was clear enough that this was what eventually would happen but what was not clear was that it would happen so soon. Nor would it have happened in 1918 had it not been for the German victories last spring. Those victories actually were disastrous defeats for they caused Marshal Foch to be made commander-in-chief of a united battlefront and guaranteed for him the millions of fresh reserves which enabled him to launch his decisive blow without fear of consequences if it were unsuccessful.

Many eminent military men declared a decisive victory on the West Front was impossible. Many eminent statesmen and publicists agreed with them and advocated the threat of economic war against Germany as an auxiliary to military effort. The resolutions of the Paris economic conference were based upon the assumption that the end of the war would find Germany still in the clutches of Prussianism and the Hohenzollerns.

All of these men were mistaken and it would be well to remember that those who now advocate hard-and-fast international policies on their interpretation of the signs of this time are likely to be just as much mistaken.

A new world will arise out of the peace conference and this fact will influence international relationships and the political conditions of every country under the sun. If the foundation is laid aright it will be a better world, an orderly world, with wider opportunities for public development and the pursuit of contentment and happiness. The world must mark time for some months until it knows with some degree of certainty just what future conditions are likely to be. But in one important respect nations can make no mistake, and that is in adopting wise reconstruction policies in accordance with their respective requirements. Such policies are purely domestic and cannot be vitally affected by any changes of international relations or policies which may rise out of the peace conference, whether they be involved in a League of Nations or any similar arrangement.

Talaat Pasha and Enver Bey are reported to have fled to Berlin. The authors of the attempt to annihilate the entire Armenian race—an attempt which almost succeeded—must be made to answer for their crimes.

Henry Ford is turning over his automobile business to his son and is going to publish a newspaper. In two years Henry will be back in the automobile business very much lighter in pocket but richer in experience.

Deserters from the Austro-Hungarian army have organized themselves into "green guards." This is a refreshing change in the color scheme of revolutionary movements, red having been brought into disrepute by the Bolsheviks. But if the apostles of the new Austrian movement issue any literature they should watch out for typographical errors, or they might be horrified one day by reading that they are "green goods" instead of "green guards."

ARRESTS ARE TO BE MADE IN QUEBEC IN CONNECTION WITH EXEMPTIONS GIVEN

Pion at Montmagny station. Addressing Proulx, Pion had offered to secure a complete exemption for the witness for the sum of $1,500, he said. As the witness seemed to consider the amount too high, Mr. Pion asked him to call at his office the following day. The next day the witness said, he went to Mr. Pion's office and accepted the notary's offer. Then they came to Quebec by automobile and at the Neptune Inn they met Omer Guay and some time later Captain Goulet came with an exemption card which he filled in after taking a description of the witness and his measurements. The card was given to witness, who returned home, according to his testimony. A few days later, while he was staying at the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. Pion called.

Pressure Alleged.
 Continuing, the witness said: "Together, we went to my mother's home at St. Francis, where Mr. Pion wanted her to guarantee the payment of $1,500, while he said I had to pay $500 personally. As my mother had not any ready cash and would have to borrow to pay, it was agreed to put off the settlement until later. I returned to Montmagny with Mr. Pion and there he made me sign a note for $500 on account. I met him the following day and he upbraided me for not having paid him the $1,000, as he said he had learned that I had $1,000 in the bank. I saw him again later, and he threatened to have my card taken away if I did not settle up."

Under cross-examination the witness said he had seen Detective Garand, of the Thiel Agency, at Montmagny. The detective had not influenced him in any way but advised him to tell the truth frankly when called to testify.

SCENE AT BRUSSELS AN HISTORIC ONE

Great Procession.
 "The Royal Family stood for the return of peace. The King was at the head of the army which has won that peace by its sacrifice. Two divisions of the Belgian army, occupying something like fifteen miles of road, marched in the procession, accompanied by battalions of British, French and American troops with artillery. This procession was far down the Ghent road while the front was passing down the Rue Royale.

"The day was like one in midsummer. Many aeroplanes turned a silver lining to the sun as they played fantastic tricks high in the blue. Others let drop streamers on the roads. Every window, balcony, roof and street was packed over the whole route. The people on the balconies had provided themselves with numerous miniature flags and floats that rained down continuously.

Roads Blocked.
 Thousands could not even approach the route of the parade. All the roads leading to the Rue Royale and the Boulevard Anspach were blocked with folk. The crowd was impassable and at the Porte de Flandres hours before the King's arrival all thoroughfares were blocked. I found three British dragons enveloped by an ardent crowd off the line of the route and afraid to move either way. Musically inclined people burst into the Belgian national song at any prompting, or at none at all. At one place 500 young women, in soprano chorus, sang the Belgian song. Near this gay company stood a pathetic group of as many wounded men."

 Saskatoon, Nov. 23.—At a special meeting of the City Council last night it was decided that the ban on public meetings, churches, theatres, dance halls and poolrooms should be lifted. Places of amusement in this city have been closed for five weeks owing to the Spanish influenza epidemic.

Is Your Boy's Education Guaranteed?

WE hear much of men who, though poorly educated, made a success of life. These are exceptions! Don't be deceived by them!

How many uneducated men fail? How many educated men succeed? Statistics collected by the United States Bureau of Education show that education increases, enormously, a person's chances of success in life. Here are the facts:

"Uneducated laborers earn on an average $500 per year for forty years, a total of $20,000. High school graduates earn on an average $1,000 per year for forty years, a total of $40,000. This education required twelve years of school of 180 days each, that is 2,160 days in school. Now if 2,160 days in school add $20,000 to the income for life, then each day at school adds $9.02. Therefore a child that stays out of school to earn less than nine dollars a day is losing money."

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY
 Victoria Times, November 23, 1893.

Captain Clive Phillip-Wolley is back from England where he went to direct the publication of writings on big game and his novel "Gold in Cariboo." While in England he contributed a number of articles on British Columbia to the press.

The snowstorm scored a signal victory over the soldiers yesterday, the order for parade being countermanded when the time for assembly arrived. There was a rumor in circulation yesterday that it had been decided to commence work upon the new Post Office, Customs House and Inland Revenue Building at an early date, and to press it to completion as rapidly as possible.

MESSAGE TO M'ADOO FROM SIR T. WHITE

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—Sir Thomas White, Acting Prime Minister, has sent a message to Hon. W. G. McAdoo, the retiring Secretary of the United States Treasury, running in part as follows:

"It is with deep regret that I learn from the morning's press of your resignation as Secretary of the Treasury of the United States. I feel I should not be fulfilling the obligation of personal and national duty if I did not at this time express to you my sincere appreciation of the most friendly relationship which we have had in connection with the many serious problems of the war in which both our countries have been interested, and with which we have had to deal from time to time. Particularly I desire to make public acknowledgment of your extremely friendly attitude to Canada in all our negotiations. I assure you this has been greatly appreciated by the Dominion."

AMUSING COMEDY
Will Delight Victoria Audiences Next Week for Red-Cross Funds.
Judging by the sale of tickets for the next production of the Red-Cross Stock Company, the play-goers of Victoria, after having been denied the sparkle of the footlights for so many weeks, are determined to make the most of that theatrical tit-bit, the amusing comedy—"All-of-a-Sudden Peggy," which will commence a week's run on Tuesday.

Need Canary Cages.—The Superfluities at present has six canaries, and consequently needs six cages. The donation of such articles would be much appreciated by those in charge.
Thanksgiving Service.—A committee meeting in connection with the proposed Thanksgiving Service to-morrow week was held this morning, and an adjournment taken until next week, when it is hoped to complete the details of the programme.

SHORTAGE OF OPERATORS
Managers Says Volunteer Experiences Operators May Be Necessary.
For weeks the Spanish influenza has had its effect on the staff of operators in the Telephone Office, but instead of the condition improving it is becoming more serious. Twenty-one operators are off duty to-day. If this situation does not improve it will be necessary to do as was done in Vancouver—call for volunteer experienced operators. To this request made there it was a matter of great appreciation to see many come forward who had at some time been experienced as operators and willingly offer their services to maintain the service.

Miss Francis Reid will lead the service to-morrow. A cordial invitation is extended to all old and new friends of the Association to be present at half-past four o'clock.

FOUR TENDERS FOR CEMETERY GROUNDS
Situation for Second Time This Year Approaches By-law Stage.
Four tenders have been received to date at the City Clerk's office in response to the advertisement published by the Inter-Municipal Committee for cemetery sites suitable for the use of the joint municipalities of Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.
This is the second time this year that tenders have been called. The first step toward securing a common site for the use of the several districts was taken when an option was taken to purchase the Scott property on Richmond Road. This proposition, however, was thrown out, the option being withdrawn.

SENDS PROTEST
Board of Trade Deprecates Discrimination Between Army and Navy.
In protest against discrimination between the Army and Navy, the Victoria Board of Trade yesterday despatched the following telegram to Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of the Naval Service:
" Sailors upon discharge here are receiving order for only $12 each for clothing allowance. Discharged soldiers receive $25, judged to be minimum required, and the sailors cannot be outfitted for less. We protest against such discrimination between land and sea forces and urge payment of difference to all sailors who have been discharged, and also to those hereafter discharged. Victoria Board of Trade, Joshua Kingham, President."
MOVE ON TUESDAY
Y. W. C. A. Will Change Scene of Activities Early in Week.
After occupying the Old Union Club premises for some years, the Young Woman's Christian Association will move its headquarters, residence and public dining room to the Stewart Peace Building on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Three Special Offers
If you have decided to buy a Columbia Grafonola for Christmas, it is a decision you are not likely to regret, for among musical families the has always proved the most permanently satisfactory of instruments. There remains the selection of the right Columbia model for your family. Here, we believe, we can give you one comforting assurance. You will get full money's worth, whatever Columbia you choose.
The models mentioned below are the three lowest priced in the Columbia list, but they are all PERFECT MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, and guaranteed to give entire satisfaction.
Columbia Grafonola, Type "A" —$35.40

NORTHERN LIGHTS WERE OBSERVED LAST NIGHT
A beautiful display of northern lights was observed in the heavens early this morning in the northeastern heavens; F. Napier Denison, superintendent of Gonzales Observatory, describes the display as consisting of a giant pillar of purple light in the north, mounting high up into the skies and remaining for several hours. The aurora was observed by a number of people at 4 o'clock this morning.

SUGGESTIONS FOR AVOIDING ACCIDENT

Two Ways to Avoid Crisis; Hints on Steering and Braking

Most accidents are avoidable and may be avoided if the danger is recognized or realized in time, says Harold F. Blanchard in The Motor Age. Few motorists are careless, but many there are who do not possess that sixth sense which enables them to see the crisis far enough ahead to elude it.

Motoring is a splendid game in which the object is to drive the car from day to day without even a close shave, let alone a damaged mudguard or possibly a wrecked car. Plotted against the driver and his mount are constantly changing currents of traffic which combine in various ways. To make it more difficult the direction and contour of the road and the quality of the surface vary in unexpected fashion. Obstacles such as ditches, telegraph poles, steep hills, stone fences and trees have a hand in making the game harder. Therefore it is only natural in the give and take of traffic movement that emergencies should arise, and the driver must be trained to see the danger while it is still a potential one and not simply taught how to be able to wiggle out of it after it becomes a reality.

Car Without Brakes.
Give the average man a car without any brakes on it, but with the steering gear in perfect condition, to operate over a stretch of level country, and he will drive so slowly that the chances of an accident are very small. But give the same man a car with both brakes and steering in good shape and he will cheerfully enter a situation in which his brakes may not be available, without even slowing down. Why? Because he has failed to realize the seriousness of the situation. Take the brakes off entirely and he will be careful, but allow him to enter a situation in which his brakes are of no use and the chances are that he will not become cautious until the unexpected happens and he is abreast of the danger. Conversely, give him a car with brakes O. K. but with steering gear so deranged that it may stick temporarily at any moment, with the wheels pointed straight ahead, and he will drive very slowly except perhaps when the road is clear. Yet he thinks nothing of dashing into a situation where it is impossible to steer to one side or the other, where the only way of preventing a mishap is by using the brake.

Whenever it is seen that there is a possibility of either brakes or steering becoming useless it is advisable to proceed more carefully—so carefully that when an emergency arises, either one, whichever is available, will be sufficient for the exigency.

There is an element of surprise in every accident, and the motorist should be able to foretell a situation far enough in advance so that he rarely will be surprised. Suppose he is overtaking an open street car, when alongside a man jumps off without warning directly in front of the car. There is no time to stop—brakes ineffective—but he pulls sharply to the right—steering effective—and avoids the man.

When he was approaching the car he should have had in mind the possibility of a man jumping off. In which case he would have left a comfortable margin of roadway between the motor car and the street car, or at least, if passing close to the car, he would watch vigilantly for any indication that a passenger was suddenly going to jump headlong in the way of his car. The road might have been too narrow to avoid accident, or he might have been passing another machine. Then steering as well as brakes would have been useless. Therefore, in passing the street car he should have proceeded as slowly as seemed prudent considering that the steering was temporarily useless.

Where Cars Are Parked.
In passing along a congested street with several lines of traffic from curb to curb, there is great danger when close to vehicles parked along the curb that someone will dart out directly in front of the car. Steering is out of the question, and the time is so short that the brakes will not arrest the machine unless it is moving slowly. Hence it is advisable to watch the movement of pedestrians carefully to prevent accidents of this sort.

When two or three persons are crossing the roadway together it is necessary to proceed with more caution than when one is crossing. No matter how badly confused a single person may become it is almost invariably possible to steer the car around him if there is not time to slow down. But with more than one there is danger that in their confusion they will scatter so that whatever path is chosen for the car there is the certainty of hitting one of them.

The point is that there are only two ways of avoiding accident, by using the brakes and by steering. Most road mishaps are due to failure to realize the approach of a crisis which may render one or both ineffective, and it is not until both are useless that the smash takes place.

At Intersections.

If one car is traveling along the highway and another car, crossing on an intersecting roadway, suddenly blocks the path, the brakes may be used to avoid collision, if there is time. In this case the brakes may be considered effective in that the crisis was of such a nature that it was possible to avoid it by using them.

If the time was too short to stop the car, the crash might still be prevented by swinging the car around in the direction that the second car was running. Then they might be considered ineffective but the steering effective.

If the intersecting road were too narrow for both cars to run abreast, then both brakes and steering must be considered ineffective and an accident must take place. Either the two cars come together or the first car must crash into whatever is at the side of the road.

If a car is running along a road just wide enough for two cars and there is a steady stream of traffic in the opposite direction, obviously the steering cannot be used to avoid accident. If a pedestrian should dart out from behind one of these cars, the brakes might be applied successfully if time permitted, but otherwise it would be a case of hitting the man with small damage to the car, mixing it up with the cars on the left, or whatever was at the side of the road on the right, probably a ditch.

In Useless Steering.

In this example steering becomes useless, due to traffic conditions and brakes are rendered ineffective when the man appears too suddenly for the machine to be halted. In the first illustration the converse was true. Thus it is seen that under certain conditions the brakes may be the first to become ineffective, and under others it may be the steering.

Driving a car over a knoll or around a bend in the road at high speed is unsafe because it is impossible to see what is beyond. The speed makes the brakes useless in case, say, two cars are stopped or passing abreast, and the road may not be wide enough to allow steering around them.

These few illustrations show the importance of constantly bearing in mind that there are only two ways of avoiding a crisis, by steering and by braking, and if these methods cannot be used then there is no way of preventing an accident. Hence, it is imperative always to keep on the lookout for circumstances which may make it impossible to use one or even both. There are many other situations which offer possibilities for accident, so many, that lack of space prevents describing them all, but sufficient examples have been given to show how to be careful.

In this analysis it has been assumed that brakes and steering gear are in good condition. Defects due to neglect are innumerable, defects caused by flaws or faulty design or workmanship are unavoidable as far as the owner is concerned and, therefore, must be ignored.

LABOR MEN DISCUSS PUTTING SOLDIERS IN CIVILIAN LIFE

Call Upon Government to Take Immediate Steps in the Matter

The much discussed question of the re-establishment of the returned men and the thousands of soldiers who are expected to be on their way to Canada was debated at length at a meeting of the Metal Trades Council held at the Knights of Pythias Hall last night. Appreciation of the work of the men who have gone overseas and interest in their future welfare were embodied in the following resolution, which was passed by the Council.

"Whereas, there are now a considerable number of our soldiers and sailors who have returned from active service totally and partially disabled from following their pre-war occupations, owing to injuries received in the war whilst fighting for the cause of democracy.

"And whereas, the number of these will be very considerably augmented in the near future as the demobilization proceeds.

"And whereas, the Metal Trades Council, in addition to going on record in expressing its grateful appreciation of the spirit which prompted such sacrifices, realizes that the time has arrived when active steps should be taken to impress upon the Governments of the Dominion and the Province the extreme necessity of immediately making some satisfactory arrangements for the caring of these returned men.

"Therefore be it resolved, that the Governments of the Dominion of Canada and the Province of British Columbia be urged to take such immediate public steps for the welfare of the above mentioned returned men as will clearly show that everything possible is being done to carry out the spirit of this resolution.

"And be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Premier of Canada and the Premier of British Columbia.

"And be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Central Labor Body for their active support."

Wage Question.
A report from the Pacific Coast District Metal Trades conference held in Seattle was read making recommendations regarding the wage scale, and after lengthy discussion a decision was arrived at that a conference should be held with the Metal Trades Council in Vancouver before any definite action is taken.

BOUQUETS!

Dr. H. E. Young Congratulated by the Victoria Board of Trade.

That the premier business organization in the city of Victoria is appreciative of the stand given by the Provincial Board of Health during the recent Spanish Influenza epidemic is evidenced by the following letter addressed to Dr. H. E. Young, Secretary of the Board, from the Victoria Board of Trade:

"At a meeting of the Council of this Board of Trade held on Thursday evening last, the president congratulated those present upon the lifting of the ban prohibiting assemblies.

"Discussion followed upon the manner in which the difficult situation has been controlled by you, and the general favorable remarks finally found expression in the adoption of a resolution that you be congratulated and tendered the thanks of this Board of Trade for the firm stand you maintained during the prevalence of influenza in this Province."

FISH NOW SCARCE ON LOCAL MARKET

Eggs Pass Dollar Mark; First of Orange Crop Arrives

The most noticeable features about the local retail market at present seem to be the scarcity of all kinds of fish and the price of eggs.

The scarcity of fish is being felt in all varieties, largely, it is thought, on account of the prevalent storms which have to a considerable degree curtailed fishing operations. There is very few flat fish to be had, and salmon is also scarce.

The last few weeks have seen the price of eggs steadily soaring upward until now fresh eggs are selling on the local retail market for $1.10 per dozen. It would not surprise dealers if they would presently be worth ten cents apiece. The high cost of feed, say the dealers, is responsible for these conditions and the situation is being felt more acutely now on account of an added consumption of eggs during the influenza epidemic. Large quantities are being imported from the prairies and other places where poultry farms are not suffering in such a marked degree. Local dealers cannot recollect a time when eggs reached the dollar mark, and previous to 1917 the highest price asked was seventy-five cents a dozen.

Oranges Scarce.

The supplies of local fruit on the market this year are of a very high quality. Oranges remain very high in price, the first of the new crop having just arrived. Japanese oranges, too, are expensive, and small quantities only have been received by the local dealers, though a large cargo of the fruit was landed here this week. A great part of it, however, is being dispatched to other points. It is thought that the price will fall about the first of next month.

TWO SETTLEMENTS ASK FOR QUARANTINE BAN

Kootenay Section Still in the Throes of Spanish Influenza Epidemic

A telegraphic request reached Dr. H. E. Young, Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, this morning asking that the necessary steps be taken by way of Order-in-Council proclaiming quarantine restrictions in effect at the Crawford Bay settlement in the Kootenay section. The period mentioned in the wire is three weeks and the necessary formula has been duly carried out by the Provincial Executive this morning.

At a public meeting of the residents of the Lardo and Duncan Valleys a similar decision was agreed upon and a request reached the Provincial Board for similar quarantine regulations without, however, setting a time limit. From the information contained in the wires above mentioned it appears that the Spanish Influenza epidemic has become gradually worse in the whole of the Kootenay section, penetrating to the more or less scattered settlements.

The situation at Sidney has been aggravated by the sudden indisposition, by contracting the malady, of Dr. Bavis, who has for the past few weeks made a daily visit to the vicinity from James Island. Dr. Young was able yesterday to arrange for Dr. Chalmers to visit Sidney with a view to giving the necessary medical assistance. Several new cases have made their appearance during the past few days.

DR. KING STRICKEN WITH SPANISH "FLU"

After Working Against It Night and Day for Three Weeks at Cranbrook

When the Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, reached the city yesterday afternoon after three weeks' virtual night and day work amongst influenza cases in Cranbrook, he was obliged to go straight to bed suffering himself from the malady.

On inquiry at his residence at Oak Bay early this afternoon it was learned that there was very little likelihood of complications setting in. Medical opinion has it that he has practically worn himself out ministering to the people of Cranbrook during the trying times from which they are gradually emerging.

It will be remembered that a special request was wired to Premier Oliver from the residents of Dr. King's constituency asking that he (Dr. King) be relieved from his Ministerial duties for the time being in order that the benefit of his medical science might be put to good use again.

The Premier readily assented, and Dr. King was naturally glad to be of some service in the community in which he is so well known, not only personally, but also for his outstanding ability as a medical practitioner.

His many friends in Victoria and the Mainland will look for better news of the Minister during the next few days. At any rate it will be at least a week or ten days before Dr. King will be able to resume his official duties at the Parliament Buildings.

Sam, the chore man, returned from the city with a scarf pin that contained a "diamond" of no usual size. It was the pride of his heart, and the envy of his village companions, relates the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph. He treated all inquiries from them as to its value and its authenticity with high scorn. His employer, after a week of basking in its radiance, asked Sam about its history. "Sam," he said, "is it a real diamond?" "Well," said Sam, "if it ain't, I've been skun out of a half-dollar."

Time was when some merchants vied with each other in extravagance of statement in their ads. The wise merchants of today vie with each other in the ACCURACY of their statements about goods and values. Nowadays deliberate misrepresentation in advertising would surely and quickly kill any store indulging in it.

A Little Sugar Goes a Long Way

THE Canada Food Board has put the homes on their honour to save sugar. But a little sugar goes a long way when you use Corn Syrup for cooking, preserving and on cereals. It makes it easy to obey the War Order!

CROWN BRAND AND LILY WHITE CORN SYRUP

Corn Syrup, is corn starch converted into its "sugar" form, making it even more digestible and palatable. It is therefore made from the most nutritious and wholesome part of the corn.

And as corn is grown in North America, and does not require for its transportation the ships still needed so urgently for carrying food and supplies to Europe, you can use all you wish of Corn Syrup.

Write to the Canada Food Board for Bulletin on Corn Syrup, and in the meantime, get a tin of CROWN BRAND Corn Syrup or LILY WHITE Corn Syrup and try it in your favorite recipes in place of sugar.

Sold by Grocers everywhere in 2, 5, 10 and 20 lb. tins.

Mother had hauled Willie up before her on the carpet, and was giving him a wiggling about his behavior when she were out.

"I was ashamed of you, Willie," said mother, "to see you dust the chair you sat on at Mrs. Huffy's. I saw her little boy watching you."

"Yes, and I saw him, too," replied Willie indignantly. "I'm too old to be caught with a bent pin." — London Answers.

NEW QUARTERS FOR PILOTS AT OGDEN PT.

New quarters have been allocated to the Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo pilots on the Dallas Road waterfront.

An office formerly occupied by the contracting firm of Sir John Jackson, Ltd., builders of the Ogden Point breakwater, has been turned over to the pilots where they can more conveniently await the arrival and departure of vessels.

A new mooring has also been placed inside the shelter of the breakwater where the pilot boats are now stationed.

BLOCKADE RUNNER WAR SKEENA AWAITS MODERATION OF GALE NOW AT ESQUIMALT

British Steamer Hesleyside Made Brilliant Dash Into North Sea From Battic

SEVERAL COMPANION SHIPS WERE SUNK

Moored in Esquimalt is a camouflaged British freighter which can boast of some remarkable war experiences. She is the British steamer Hesleyside and is commanded by Capt. H. N. Hosking, a typical British son of the sea who, were he so disposed, could relate a thrilling narrative concerning his experiences since he took over the bridge of the Hesleyside. At the outbreak of the war the Hesleyside happened to be in the Gulf of Finland, and as the Germans effectively blocked the passage leading from the Baltic Sea to the North Sea she was compelled to remain in Russian waters.

Capt. Hosking finally got tired of his enforced idleness and after witnessing the first stages of the revolution he arrived at the conclusion that it was about time to test the effectiveness of the German blockade in the Baltic.

Dash Through Cattegat.

The brilliant idea of running the blockade was no sooner conceived than it was put into execution.

One of the fleet of five British freight ships the Hesleyside made a dash for the Cattegat. Capt. Hosking is a very modest man and the fact that he had a thrilling dash for freedom are therefore lacking.

The Germans had got wind of the daring escapade and they accounted for three of the British ships as they were steaming at full speed for the Skagerrack. The Hesleyside and another vessel managed to get through despite the fact that submarines were all around and doing their best to sink the blockade runners.

Torpedo Under Counter.

One torpedo fired at the Hesleyside passed under her counter and the vessel narrowly missed ramming a submarine which passed her bows. It was one of those daring adventures which the British seafarers have always been ready to take. In the British skipper's mind to run the blockade or sink in the attempt. Three of the vessels were down but the Hesleyside and another vessel managed to escape and reach their home ports.

The Hesleyside has been here for several days past and is now discharging a full cargo of Welsh steam coal at Esquimalt.

CASCO WAS BUILT FORTY YEARS AGO

Famous Craft Was Designed by Dr. Samuel Merritt, Oakland Millionaire, for Own Use

Famous as Robert Louis Stevenson's yacht aboard which he conceived many of his greatest literary triumphs, the schooner Casco, which is reported to have arrived at San Francisco from Suva in an almost sinking condition, was designed and built forty years ago by Dr. Samuel Merritt, millionaire of Oakland, Cal.

The Casco was built in 1878 on Oakland Creek, the construction work being personally supervised by her designer and owner. She made her first cruise in 1879, cruising to San Francisco, California ports and Puget Sound. In 1880 the Casco made a cruise to the South Pacific with a large party, the guests of Dr. Merritt. The Casco had the distinction of being the first pleasure boat from an American port to sail into the harbor of Honolulu, and the party were entertained with royal hospitality. This cruise to the South Seas occupied four months, and Dr. Merritt is said to have expended $10,000 on the trip. Thirty-three years ago the Casco was chartered by Robert Louis Stevenson for his cruise to Samoa, and when the proposition was made to Dr. Merritt to lease his yacht, he asked, "Who is this man Stevenson. Has he any money?"

Capt. Folger Sailed Her.

Some time after the death of Dr. Merritt the Casco was sold to a syndicate of Victorians and brought to this port from San Francisco by Capt. A. C. Folger, a well-known sealing skipper, who is still a prominent figure on the local waterfront. The price paid for the vessel that cost Dr. Merritt $40,000, was about $7,000. Following her arrival at this port the Casco was fitted out as a sealing schooner, and the historic vessel brought in many cargoes of pelts from the Northern sealing waters.

In recent years she has changed hands many times. The Casco is now owned by T. O. Wicks, of Seattle.

NEW OFFICERS OF PACIFIC S. S. COMPANY

H. F. Alexander Re-Elected President, and A. F. Haines Promoted to Vice-President

Seattle, Nov. 22.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pacific Steamship Company held at Tacoma yesterday, in addition to re-electing President H. F. Alexander and practically the same officials as comprised the board during the past year, A. F. Haines, General Manager of the Company, was elevated to the position of Vice-President combined with his present office.

The promotion of Mr. Haines to the office of Vice-President of the company, which is the largest concern operating vessels under the American flag on the Pacific coast, follows the system of the Pacific steamship in rewarding merit wherever displayed in its interests. Vice-President and General Manager Haines is rated as one of the most authoritative shipping men on the Pacific Coast, and enjoyed a long career in railroad service before he engaged in water borne transportation.

Formerly With Dadwell Co.

He came to Puget sound in 1891. He joined the staff of Dadwell & Company, agents for the Blue Funnel line, in 1897, and in 1907 he was promoted to the position of manager of the Seattle office for that concern. In 1916 he became manager of the Pacific Alaska Navigation Company, the original Admiral line, and when that concern was merged with the Pacific Coast Steamship Company the latter part of 1916, he was selected by President Alexander and his associates as General Manager for the consolidated interests now the Pacific Steamship Company.

As General Manager of the company Haines has assisted materially in the upbuilding of the business of the Pacific Steamship Company, which from a small shipping concern operating coastwise vessels, is now an active competitor in the field of Oriental trade.

The officers chosen by the big steamship concern yesterday were: H. F. Alexander, President; E. A. Stuart, Vice-President; Chester Thorne, Vice-President; A. F. Haines, Vice-President; William Jones, Treasurer, and E. H. Rogers, Secretary and Assistant Treasurer. E. C. Ward, a retiring vice-president, was elected to the board of directors.

SEVERE STORM IS NOW SWEEPING WHOLE COAST

A severe storm is at present sweeping the Pacific Coast, according to F. Napier Denison, Superintendent of the Genoa's Observatory. The storm extends from Alaska to California all the way along the Coast. The gale is blowing from the southeast and east and, having passed into the Strait of Juan de Fuca, is now affecting the Gulf.

Storm warnings were displayed in Victoria, Nanaimo and Vancouver at half-past eight last night, and San Francisco Weather Bureau also this morning issued signals.

LEEBRO SAILS MONDAY.
