MOTHERS TO ASK CITY FOR POOL

P. T. A. Members Urged to Visit City Hall
With Question

BONDS WERE VOTED

Stirs Federation With Report of Delay in Construction

The demand of the children of the city for their swimming pool will be presented in a bombardment of mothers directed at the city hall and its officials in a barrage of questions beginning "When?" if the suggestion made Wednesday afternoon at a meeting of the Glendale Federation of Parent-Teachers' association by Mrs. H. A. McPherson, is carried out. The mothers were reminded of the long months that have passed since the $17,000 bond issue for a swimming pool was voted and of the propaganda to put over a big bond issue which was made to include this item in order to interest parents and children in the matter, and of the street parades staged by children of the public schools at that time, bearing banners and transparencies declaring their desire for a swimming pool.

At the meeting of the federation Wednesday afternoon at Intermediate, the chief business was the reception of reports from officers and department chairmen. Mrs. McPherson, who has been the organization's delegate to investigate the cause of the long delay, in providing a pool, assured the mothers it was no nearer realization than two months ago when city officials had assured her that work was to begin immediately. She told them she had become very pessimistic and discouraged and there seemed to her little prospect that it would be constructed in time to be enjoyed by the children this summer. It was then that she made the suggestion for organized campaigning on the part of the women of the organization to show their good faith to their children.

The reports of the afternoon furnished material which will be embodied in the report to be made by Mrs. John Robert White, president of the Glendale Federation, at the District P. T. A. Conference to be held in the First Methodist church of this city, April 4.

In that connection Mrs. John Robert White, the president, stated:

AMERICAN LEGION POST 127 SEEKS MORE FRIENDS

Chalmer D. Day of Social Committee Urges Attendance at Dances

"The American Legion is recognized by the whole world in general and the United States in particular as being the ex-service men's organization most representative of all those who served during the world war, and who received an honorable discharge from the army, navy or marine corps," said Chalmer D. Day, chairman of the social committee of Post No. 127. "Few organizations there are whose purposes of association, as set forth in the preamble of its national constitution, are so unselfish. One of the chief of these is to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation."

"Glendale Post 127 is extremely interested and anxious that it do its full share in the brilliant progress of its beloved and esteemed community. The members of this post believe that no more efficient way can this effectively be accomplished than through the immediate and constant acquaintance of its many friends. To this end it is the Post conducting its regular dances at the American Legion club rooms, at 610-A East Broadway, the next of which is Saturday evening, March 10 at 8:30. Number 127 appreciates truly the financial support of one dollar per couple of its members and friends, this they earnestly solicit, but LET'S GO that we may become better acquainted, and together promote Glendale."

Attempt to Harness Tides of the Ocean Is Now Being Made

Taking as his subject "Blue Coal" Dr. Frank Crane states that the essential of all industry is force. Then in a comprehensive manner he tells of the first and most primitive force, and follows it to the point where effort is made to harness the force that exists in the tides of the ocean and writes interestingly of an experiment to be tried near Brest where the tide is to be used to turn turbine wheels.

James W. Foley in "The Listening Post" writes of advanced thinking and the ideal place to live, where everybody was a boss, where there were no workmen and where perfect freedom, equality and freedom from bondage merely resulted in famine, disease, murder, crime and license run mad.

In the comment on the day's news there is something about returning prosperity, the daily toll of human life that automobiles claim, community singing, and other subjects of every day interest.

Editorials full of snap and force, features by John Pilgrim and Della Stewart, wise sayings, scientific facts and other matter of interest will be found on the editorial page this evening.

SPANISH WAR VETS GET NEW FLAG

Arrives at Office of City
Manager Reeves, First Commander

The new flag for the Glendale camp, United Spanish War Veterans, has arrived and is in the office of City Manager W. H. Reeves, first commander of the local camp. This flag was purchased with the funds contributed at the first meeting of the organization, when the local camp was formed. The flag will be displayed at the next meeting of Glendale camp.

There will be no meeting of the local camp of the organization until the charter is returned from headquarters of the order. The charter is expected to arrive in time for the regular meeting night on next Wednesday.

Membership in the newly organized camp is growing by leaps and bounds. Mr. Reeves and others who were instrumental in forming the camp here, say that they did not know that Glendale and the surrounding towns under the jurisdiction of the local camp had so many veterans of the Spanish-American war. The organization has been the cause of several reunions of old-time buddies.

One of the veterans who served in the war and had not met since their discharge. They have met old friends at the meeting who have been living for several years in adjoining towns in ignorance that their former "buddy" lived in Glendale.

CHICKEN IS CHICKEN
JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 9.—Heartless cruelty, a Good Samaritan and love at first sight have combined to present state game prosecutors here with a problem. A farmer last year baited a fox trap with a live hen. A kind-hearted passerby cut the tether. The hen took to the woods and met a gentleman pheasant. Now the woods are full of strange fowls. Pheasants are protected by law. Hens, so far as is known, are not.

DEVIL URKS IN JAZZ SAYS PREACHER

Dr. John A. Straton of Big
Calvary Baptist Church
Causes Sensation

CALLS FOR DEFENSE

Modern Methods Must Be Used to Defeat Satan
He Declares

NEW YORK, March 9.—Here's how the Devil has changed since the time Dante wrote his memorable "Inferno," according to analysis of Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church:

In Dante's time—
Horns, hoofs, forked tail.
Headquarters in Hell.
Fired up with brimstone.
In 1922—
Fashionably dressed.
Sometimes in pulpit.
Fired up with jazz, bridge whist, movies, theaters.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Modern methods must be used in fighting the 1922 model shimmy-shaking devil. You can't combat the up-to-date Satan who shakes a wicked knee on the dance floor with the weapons our grandfathers used against the old-fashioned, brimstone-breathing Mephisto.

This is the answer of Dr. John Roach Straton, famous reformer, to Dr. Robert Stuart McArthur, who quit Calvary Baptist church, which he founded, because he couldn't stand Straton's sensational style.

Dr. Straton will preach next Sunday on the subject of Dr. McArthur's resignation from the church.

No longer does the Devil wiggle a wicked, forked tail, but now he shakes a shimmying shoulder, Straton declared.

"The Devil of today is no longer the bold, brazen Devil of years ago. The new model has arrayed himself like an angel of light."

Nor does the new Devil care where he goes, in Straton's belief, for he says, "The Devil often sits in the seats of theologians and sometimes enters the pulpit."

Brimstone of Dante's time has turned to jazz, movies and the theaters of 1922, Straton said.

"The 1922 Devil is an advocate of jazz and a regular attendant of movies and theaters."

Supreme efforts of the new Devil, according to Straton's analysis, are:

To undermine virtue of women.
To destroy masculine honor.
To wreck the marriage vow.
To check-mate the church.
To overthrow the old-fashioned home.

"These things are the 1922 model Devil, and these are some of his works," Straton declared.

'NEIGHBORS' TO FEATURE HIGH CLASS PLAYS

Senior Dramatic Students
Will Give Three One-
Act Plays

A big local event in spoken drama will be pulled off next week, Thursday and Friday evenings, when members of the Senior dramatic class of Glendale High in the department of which Miss Gardner is the head, will present three one-act plays.

The first and most ambitious will be Zona Gale's famous "Neighbors" which is full of human interest and homely comedy. The cast is as follows:

"Grandma," Miss Hazel Linkogel, the fine violinist who will make her maiden bow on the dramatic stage, though she is experienced in concert work.

Miss Liantha Abel, Miss Freeda Potts, the singer.

Ezra Williams, the gruff storekeeper, Benjamin Robison.

"Peter," the bashful country boy, Fred Terzo, athletic star, who is making his first appearance before the footlights and who swears as well there as on the field.

"Inez," Evelyn Gregg, the girl with whom Peter is in love.

Miss Elmira Merin, Lucy Strothers, president of the school student body.

Miss Troy, Mary Florence Pate, who played in quite a wonderful way the part of San Shi, the Chinese boy in the "Sweetmeat Game." In this so different role she displays her versatility.

Miss Carrie Ellsworth, Anna Studinski.

The second play—"Hearts to Mend" is a fantasy by Harry A. Overstreet and is a "Pierrot-Pierrette" play. The part of "Pier-

Glendale Fast Becoming Notable Musical Center

By JOHN H. GERRIE
Prosperity Editor Glendale Daily Press

There's music in the air. In Glendale the citizens are so prosperous and contented and happy that they just naturally sing. And because they are happy and sing they like good music of all kinds. For that reason Glendale is fast becoming a notable musical center.

Even the atmosphere here seems to be conducive to the best musical expression, while the scenic surroundings are congenial to artistic effort. You have a singing mayor and good voices are found in the city council, in the Chamber of Commerce and in fraternal and business clubs.

It is not to be wondered at, therefore, that musical artists, many of international reputation, have begun to flock to Glendale as a permanent abiding place, nor that a May musical festival, a children's choral crusade and community singing upon an elaborate scale are now under discussion.

It's a fine thing that marvelous Glendale, in its sprint for population and wealth, can devote time to music and it's a splendid augury for the future place of this community among the cities of California, when population shall have reached physical limits and prestige will depend upon some quality other than civic growth.

Where there's music there's happiness and where there's happiness there's good work. Music brings the people together, gets them thinking together and working together. It is an important agent in co-operation. If Glendale would be a city of distinction and accomplishments, therefore, encourage your musical festivals, your children's choruses and your community sings. Get all the people singing and you'll have here the happiest and most thriving city in the country.

To the Glendale Music club with its 600 members, of which Mrs. Mattison B. Jones is president, much credit is due for maintaining a high standard of musical expression locally. Concerts are put on twice a month in the high school auditorium at which both local and outside talent are heard. The Junior Auxiliary Music club, of which Mrs. Spencer Robinson, wife of the singing mayor, is an enthusiastic director, and the Juvenile Auxiliary Music club, carry along the same high standard among the younger singers.

Then there's the Madrigal club, of which Mrs. John Totten is president and Mrs. Charles A. Parker, musical director, with its weekly rehearsals of women's choruses and two public presentations a year. Also the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club, guided by Mrs. C. L. Marlenee, with its study courses of music and composers and its frequent recitals at club functions. Besides which are Glee clubs and orchestras in connection with the Union High school and the city schools, choirs in all the city churches and orchestras in some and a community sing under the direction of Mrs. H. B. Brown and Mrs. Widows twice a month in the First Methodist church.

Among noted musical artists who now make Glendale their home and contribute to Glendale as a musical center may be mentioned Brahm van den Berg, famous Belgian pianist and composer; John Marquardt, violin virtuoso, and his wife a clever harpist; Mrs. Enona Hopkins, also a harpist; Miss Gertrude Cleophas, Miss Alma Geiger and Miss Elsa Breidt, all professional pianists; Wesley Kuhnle and Paul Carson, organists, and such favorably known vocalists as Mrs. Catherine Shank, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Girard, Mrs. Virginia Freeman and Mrs. H. E. MacMullin. Of course there are many more but these occur to mind because of recent prominence in various musical activities.

Besides the attractions of Glendale for persons of artistic temperament and the natural conditions that make people here want to sing, there is another strong underlying cause of the love of good music in this favored spot of California. This is the general use of phonographs in the homes of Glendale. Perhaps no city of its size on this coast has more of these modern musical instruments in its homes. During the year there was delivered in this city phonographs exceeding $100,000 in wholesale value. And the number of deliveries is steadily increasing.

Even the local schools are equipped with phonographs to the music of which the classes march in and out and from room to room while records are played for folk dancing, gymnastic exercises and even for lessons in penmanship. The development of educational records, such as bird calls, whistling tunes, story-telling, history exercises and foreign languages is further popularizing these instruments in both homes and educational institutions.

In the Glendale musical movement, therefore, the phonograph plays an important part and in encouraging this movement encouragement ought to be given even wider use of phonographs of the best makes and of records reproducing the best that has been done in music, vocal, instrumental or orchestral. When the most famous makes of phonographs can be bought most famous makes of phonographs can be bought in Glendale for a small payment down and weekly payments on balance there no longer can be any excuse for any home to be without a musical instrument.

Speed Glendale, center of good music.

That Swimming Pool

The demand of the mothers of the P. T. A. for news of the progress of the swimming pool construction will probably be answered by the city council and city manager with a statement that will set apprehensions at rest.

Work is being done on the pool. The work is directed toward the beautification of the grounds, which showed originally only a sand heap. The pool will be finished in plenty of time for the splashing days of summer. And it will be surrounded by a transformed park and be a beauty spot in Glendale.

A DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S DEPUTY LOST

Enroute to Glendale Mosses
Way and Phones SOS
From Gardena

ASKS FOR GUIDE

Judge Lowe's Court Suspends Action Until Attorney Is Secured

Lost, Strayed or Stolen—One Deputy District Attorney, property of Los Angeles County. Was expected in Glendale this morning at 10 a. m. Last heard of in Gardena.

This is a good joke but no one has been able to figure out just whom the joke is on.

A jury trial was scheduled for the Glendale police court this morning at 10 a. m. A deputy district attorney was expected to represent the people in the case. The hour of the trial approached, the defendants were in court, venire of prospective jurors were there and the witnesses for both the prosecution and the defense were waiting in Judge Lowe's court.

All that was lacking to make the stage setting for the jury trial complete was one deputy district attorney.

The hour of the trial arrived and passed and conditions were the same with the exception that those present were becoming impatient.

Finally Judge Lowe's telephone rang and a voice wailed, "Judge Lowe, is there a jury trial being held in your court this morning?"

Judge Lowe said that there would be a jury trial if a deputy district attorney arrived, otherwise not.

Came the voice in reply: "I am the deputy district attorney and I am in Gardena. I thought the trial was to be held here. Will you postpone the hearing until I can get to Glendale?"

Judge Lowe announced to the witnesses and principles of the trial that there would be a recess until 11 p. m. or until the deputy district attorney could arrive.

Some of the people present in court blamed the losing of the deputy attorney on prejudiced map makers who neglected, several years ago to put the city of Glendale on the map.

Others say that the deputy district attorney naturally thought that Glendale was such a peaceful town that the necessity of a jury trial here was out of the question and had made the mistake.

SHRINE CLUB HAS SOCIAL EVENT SCHEDULED

Best Talent Available to Give Program Wednesday Night

Plans have just been announced for the next social event of the Shrine club of Glendale. The announcement was made this morning by C. E. Neale, president of the organization.

On next Wednesday night the meeting will be devoted to an entertainment for the members of the club and their families. After an entertainment for which the best talent available will be provided the remainder of the evening will be devoted to cards, other games and dancing.

The Shrine club, which is one of Glendale's latest organizations, is made up of Shriners, members of temples in various parts of the country who are living in Glendale. It is for the most part a social organization for the promotion of friendliness and welcome among the members of the order. The motto of the business meetings is "Short and Snappy." This motto is carried out to the letter.

GOAT ISLAND TO BE TRAINING CAMP

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The navy expects to train 12,000 men at Goat Island and San Diego, Calif., and a smaller number at Great Lakes, near Chicago. Secretary of the Navy Denby told the house naval affairs committee today. The statement followed his argument that his decision to close the Newport, R. I., training station was dictated by economy.

MISSED HIS VOCATION
CHICAGO, March 9.—Mark Nyland, bellboy at the University club, was arrested after he rented a hall and sold $500 worth of tickets for a recital. He plays the mouth organ, he told police.

FOR CELTIC TONGUES
CHICAGO, March 9.—A box labeled "Irish literature" reached the port of Chicago. Two quarts of Celtic whiskey were confiscated.

ODD JUST GOOD NEWS

BRITISH AMBASSADOR TO SPEAK AT UNIVERSITY
BERKELEY, March 9.—Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States, will be the charter day speaker March 23 at the University of California, it was announced today.

CHEBOYGAN FIRE
COSTS HALF MILLION
CHEBOYGAN, Mich., March 9.—The business section of Cheboygan was a pile of charred wood and bricks today, following the $500,000 fire which destroyed four business blocks and took the lives of three persons.

SHASTA COURTHOUSE
NOW MEMORIAL
REDDING, Calif., March 9.—The historic old courthouse at Shasta, Calif., erected in 1865 at a cost of $30,000, was sold today to the Native Sons of the Golden West for $1. It is to be held by the lodge as an old California landmark.

BOY LIFER
GETS LONG PANTS
MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., March 9.—John Mollick, 16-year-old boy in knee pants, was given his first pair of long trousers today.

John started to serve a life term in prison for the murder of his stepmother.

WILSON APPEARS IN PACT FIGHT

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The democratic split over the four-power Pacific treaty grew worse today as the result of careful efforts by treaty opponents to bring Woodrow Wilson into the fight. Big guns on both sides were ready today to continue the treaty fight.

SHIPS CHASE OCEAN SMUGGLERS

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Seven naval sub chasers now are cruising south Atlantic waters in search of rum smugglers, it was learned at the treasury today. These boats are loaded with prohibition agents in search of smugglers' nests, hidden in the small bays and harbors along the Florida coast.

ILLINOIS MINERS WIDEN BREACH

ST. LOUIS, March 9.—Split between the Illinois coal miners and the international union on the question of a strike April 1, widened today. Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois miners, declared the reply of the international officials to telegrams he sent yesterday threatening to hold a separate conference was unsatisfactory.

STRIKE SETTLEMENT IS POSSIBILITY

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Illinois miners today guarded the only loophole through which a settlement of the nationwide coal strike may be found, according to general belief of government officials here. It is estimated by responsible authorities that at least 75 per cent of the workers will be willing to sign separate district agreements if the Illinois "experiment" is proven successful.

RAILROADS ARE VERY POOR NOW

CHICAGO, March 9.—Railroads, because of paying high wages, are able to maintain equipment for immediate requirements only.

When business resumes, they will have an accumulation of locomotives and cars out of order which will have to be placed in serviceable condition.

The claims were made before the United States railroad labor board today by James G. Walber, representing eastern lines, in supporting the application of roads for permission to reduce wages.

THIEVES VISIT HIGH SCHOOL

Burglars Get Nothing for Their Trouble; Other
Robberies Reported

The high school has been broken into for the second time within the past month. Yesterday, Geo. U. Moyle, principal of the high school notified the police that some time during the previous night the high school had been entered and several desks broken open. Other damage was done to school property, but nothing had been found missing at the time of the report.

E. Coker reported to the police department last night that some one had taken his Ford car from in front of the Coker & Taylor plumbing establishment on South Brand some time during yesterday. The report was turned over to the officers and a search for the missing car started.

HE PREFERRED HORSE

DENVER, March 9.—For the first time in ten years a horse thief was arraigned in court today. Pedro Fernandez pleaded guilty and was sentenced to a short term in the reformatory. Thirty years ago he would have been hanged.

WORTH INVESTIGATING

SAN DIEGO, March 9.—A workman running a pneumatic chisel on San Diego's busiest street corner to put up a traffic signal, felt something give away underneath. He'd burrowed into the safety deposit vault of a downtown bank.

CITY'S NEW BUILDING CODE READY

Compilation of All Ordinances As Revised
Is Available

COVERS STEEL WORK

Limited Number of Copies of Regulations Can Be Had Now

Builders and contractors are being advised today that they can secure copies of the latest building code of the city of Glendale at the office of the building inspector of the city. The book is on sale for enough to cover the cost of printing.

This new building code contains the revised building ordinance of the city, adopted in January by the city council. This ordinance is a revision of the old ordinance with a clause in it to cover the erection of class A buildings for construction of reinforced concrete and steel.

When the old original ordinance was drafted there was no thought in the minds of those drafting it that in only a few years the city would grow to such an extent that the erection of class A buildings would be necessary for the business houses of the city. This need has been felt for some time and the ordinance was amended to care for it.

Aside from the new clause in it and several minor changes as regards the set back line of the city, the ordinance is unchanged. The fees for permits to build are practically the same as under the old ordinance. Contractors are urged to get their copies of the new ordinance at once as there is only a limited supply on hand.

BUS LINE AGAIN TO BE PRESSED ON BOARD

City Officials Plan Call on Board of Public Utilities for Answer

A delegation of city officials are planning an unscheduled visit to the board of public utilities of Los Angeles today when the body meets. They will make the trip hoping to secure an answer to the application of the city of Glendale for a permit to operate a motor bus line between Glendale and Los Angeles. The officials who will make the trip this afternoon are Mayor Spencer Robinson, Councilmen Kimlin and Davis, City Manager W. H. Reeves and Transportation Manager C. D. Gulick.

While the officials are making the trip to Los Angeles and will appear before the board at 2:30 p. m., in hopes that an answer to the application can be secured, it was intimated at the city hall this morning that little hope is held by the officials that an answer will be given today. At the last interview with the board Mr. Gulick was led to believe that before any action could be taken on Glendale's application, more proof that the citizens of Glendale are dissatisfied with the service being given this city by the Pacific Electric would have to be submitted to the board.

After the last meeting of the board with Mr. Gulick, that official, through the Glendale Daily Press, asked the people of Glendale who were dissatisfied with the Pacific Electric service, to rates in this city to communicate with him and either file the complaint in writing or make a verbal report of their complaint and be prepared to make a similar complaint to the board of public utilities.

Action on this request, several of Glendale's most substantial citizens have talked with Mr. Gulick and stated they were willing to testify to the fact that service on the Pacific Electric cars, operating between this city and Los Angeles, is inadequate; they will testify, it is intimated, that the service is not sufficient to provide seats for all of the passengers and that the cars do not run often enough to handle the traffic from and to this city, necessitating long waits between cars and in some cases these waits are made on corners that have no protection from the elements.

While city officials indicate that they believe the board of public utilities will eventually grant the city of Glendale a permit to operate a municipal bus line, this permission will be delayed for some time, as the board has indicated that granting of such a permit will establish a precedent and will require considerable study of the question before action is taken.

The Barton Bedtime Stories

THE WORST OF ITNOAH'S SON SHEM GETS

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

"And what happened then?" asked Ripple Beaver, for Dr. Monkrat seemed to have finished talking. "What happened after Mister Noah's Ark was wrecked on the rock and Fluke-slasher the whale showed him and Shem that our great-grandparents had gone through the Big Flood on that oak-tree ark of their very own?"

"Oh, nothing much," he answered. "Some of Mister Noah's passengers were jealous and the rest of them were envious. Only a few, like Nibble Rabbit's folks and the dove, were really proud of what had been done even if they hadn't had a share in doing it. And they didn't dare speak up for fear of Shem."

"That man Shem was a terrible rage. I don't know what-all he did say, but the old lady squirrel on the hip-toppest branch did. And she answered, too. She sassed him back just as squirrels do today."

"Oh, yes, and Ham nearly busted his sides with laughing. So Shem tried to take out his mad on Ham, and Mister Noah and Japhet, the youngest boy, had to interfere. I reckon Shem had the worst of it all round. He stomped off into the cabin where he couldn't see Fluke-slasher grinning his ten-foot-long grin at him. Said he'd had his fill of critters for a lifetime, and he'd have no more to do with any of them, saying only the cows and sheep who never laugh at any one and would stand his bullying. "Then Fluke-slasher shoved us

"But Come, on, Chips. We Must be going."

out into the biggest current he could find, where the Flood was running out to sea. We floated half way round the world before it stuck in a stream and made the first dam. The beavers kept it, so it really belonged to them, but we all lived in a pond behind it for ages and all before any of the creatures of the ark came and found us. And the squirrels took to the trees about that time, so they could keep a look out for us. And—here Dr. Squirrel suddenly broke off. "My whiskers; don't tell me I smell the dawn!"

"I guess you do," said the Widow Squirrel. "We've been here all night long just tongue-wagging."

"But think of all we've learned," sighed Ripple Beaver in an awed voice. "Wasn't it interesting? But come on, Chips. We must be going."

"Me, too," remarked the Red Dog, who had been listening with his head cocked thoughtfully on one side. "Louis Thomson'll think I've run away from him." But as he set off he was saying to himself, "I've got to find Tommy Feele's old growler, Watch, as soon as I can and see if ever he heard tell of such doings. What did they use to tell me about the ark when I was a pup? I do wish I'd paid attention."

NEXT STORY: WHAT WAS PUZZLING THE RED DOG.

GRAND OPERA FOR DENVER DENVER, Colo., March 8.—Articles incorporation have been filed for the Denver Grand Opera association. The company will give a series of productions next summer. Denver's first summer grand opera season. The objects of the organization include "encouragement of dancing, dramatics and singing." Directors of the company include persons prominent in musical circles in Denver.

"Flying Parson" Who Hurries Back to Pulpit

Here is a new photograph of Hal Cutbush, of the Boston A. A., celebrated as the "flying parson." He has been a consistent runner in the east this season. This photograph was made after he had won a mile event in Brooklyn, N. Y., on a Friday night, in the excellent time of 4:19.15. He had to hurry back to Boston to occupy his pulpit.

NEW MERCHANTS OPEN ON SATURDAY

I. B. Carlock and Edward Nisle have jointly rented the store room at 135 1/2 South Brand boulevard and will hold the grand opening of their establishment next Saturday. The two sections of this store will be distinct and separate. Mr. Carlock is putting in a full line of men's furnishings, including hats, caps, shirts, ties, etc., everything in the stock to be strictly up-to-the-minute in style and material and "down-to-the-minute" in price. Mr. Carlock for the past six years was manager of the National suit company of Los Angeles, and knows the men's furnishing business thoroughly.

For the past twelve years Mr. Nisle has been general manager of the Taylor-Ready company of Seattle. In this store Mr. Nisle will handle clothing for men, young men and boys. He will specialize on the Hirschwickwile brand of clothes, which are well-known the country over and are the very latest work in the clothing line.

Both of these young men are residents of Glendale. For three years Mr. Carlock has been a resident of Glendale, his home being at 415 Lincoln avenue. The home of Mr. Nisle is the intersection of Broadway and Central.

Corncob Pipe Is Given to President

There are pipes and pipes, but a Missouri delegation knew that the corncob pipe it presented to President Harding had them all beat. It was made of real old Missouri corncob. The delegation was headed by Mrs. T. Ziske of Hillsboro, Mo., who said that she hoped that the President would find peace and comfort in its moderate use.

Keep Interested

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE
(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.)
Nobody likes to admit that he is growing old. Despite the passage of the years, which cannot be denied, all would cling to the buoyant feeling of youth.

To this end nothing is more serviceable than to keep ardently interested in one's work, one's recreations, and the life of the world about one.

Among your own acquaintances there must be several old persons who, as the phrase is, are "remarkably well preserved." They think alertly; they act alertly, they stand out in sharp contrast to the great majority of the aged.

With scarcely an exception, you will find that these remarkable old men and women have a variety of personal interests and take as much delight in these as they did when they were younger.

They have refused, that is to say, to surrender to the advancing lethargy of age. Of necessity moderating their physical activities, in some degree, they have yet remained enthusiasts mentally.

And because of the energizing power of interest the fires of life have continued to burn in them brightly. It is indeed a saying worthy of remembrance by all that when a man's interests begin to fade his life begins to wane.

Often with the fading of interest the end of life comes surprisingly soon. Again and again one reads in the newspapers of the unexpected death of this or that prominent man of business soon after his retirement from active business endeavor.

Nearly always inquiry would show that with business retirement there had been taken from that man his one real interest. Having nothing else to keep his mind pleasantly occupied, having imprudently neglected to cultivate some "hobby" to which he could turn when he withdrew from business, he at once began to stagnate mentally.

He might have saved himself—as many men have actually done—by once more engaging in business activities, once more taking up the work which alone afforded him a zestful satisfaction. Failing to do this, continuing to live a wholly uninterested life, the end soon came.

Be warned by his sad fate.

Develop outside interests, hobbies, avocations, while you still are young. Cultivate a keen interest in your work itself. And don't let the years shunt your interest either in your work or in your avocations.

Don't cease to soon from work, even though that work may have brought you a fortune making all further work unnecessary. Don't cease from work at all, if your work is your sole source of genuine interest, as their work is for multitudes of people.

For always a vacant leisure means an aching leisure, a leisure of rapidly progressing decay. Remember this, and keep interestedly employed in some way, if only to insure a prolonged and youthful old age.

INDIA GOVERNMENT ASKS RECOGNITION OF THE SULTAN

Seeks Evacuation and Restoration of Ottoman Empire

LONDON, March 9.—Edwin S. Montagu, secretary of state for India, has resigned as a result of recommendations of the Indian government relative to Turkey, it was announced today.

LONDON, March 9.—The house of commons will probably adjourn this evening to debate the situation created by unprecedented public recommendations on the part of the government of India, relating to Turkey and revision of the Sevres treaty.

The Indian government has urged:

1.—British evacuation of Constantinople.

2.—Suzerainty of the Sultan over the holy places.

3.—Restoration of the Ottoman empire of Thrace, including Adrianople and Smyrna.

The object of these recommendations, which were made in a dispatch from Lord Reading, viceroy of India, to Edwin S. Montagu, secretary of state for India, is to mollify Mohammedan feeling in the Near East.

The dispatch, which was made public over the head of the home government, declares fulfillment of these points is of gravest importance in India.

The Indian demands have already caused the greatest embarrassment to the British government and will do so in view of the allied conference on Near East matters, which is to meet in Paris March 22.

Today's press makes a sensation of the demands. It is felt that Lord Reading has taken a grave and serious step—in most quarters it is held to be an improper one—in making recommendations for revision of the Sevres treaty at this time.

The British administration in India, however, has not taken this step except after consultation with native leaders and it constitutes official recognition of growing disaffection among the Mohammedan elements of India's population and the restlessness which has spread to state troops.

Lord Reading's note says that this action is taken on the eve of the Near East conference with a purpose of emphasizing the intensity of feeling in India regarding necessity for revision of the Sevres treaty, in which Turkey was severely treated.

The viceroy points out that Moslem troops fought under the British flag against Turkey with the understanding that Great Britain would keep her promise not to weaken the Sultan's position when peace was made. This promise, the Moslems declared, had been broken and their supreme ruler reduced to an ignominious position.

The message adds that India's services in the war, in which the British flag against Turkey was so largely participated, entitle her to claim to the utmost her just and equitable aspirations.

Adjournment of the house of commons must be moved by a member before the scheduled business of parliament can be suspended and an unexpected development debated.

PURE FOOD SHOW AT SMITH'S STORE

One of the biggest pure food shows ever to be put on in Glendale will be the Glendale Pure Food Show, that will start today at the grocery establishment of the Smiths, 523-57 South Brand boulevard. The show will start this morning and will be continued over Friday and Saturday.

"Every one in Glendale is invited to attend this pure food show and demonstrations," said Mr. Smith. "We want every resident to call during these demonstrations and sample the many delicious articles of food that will be the different lines shown. Everything to be demonstrated will be of the very highest order and will be exhibited by courteous and efficient demonstrators. We want to see hundreds of new faces, as well as the old ones, in our store during the three days of this demonstration. We are sure you can make every one glad that they called at our store."

Among the different kinds of foods to be demonstrated at this show are:

Craig's brand salad dressing and coffee, to be demonstrated by Mrs. March; the Phospho Nut Brown Meal, the ideal breakfast food for both young and old, will be shown by Mrs. Martin; Mrs. Smith will pass out samples of High Noon maple syrup, while Mrs. Swartz will demonstrate Glass Jar brand fruits and vegetables. Snowflake soda crackers, which, it is claimed, are "best by every test," will be distributed by Mrs. Clark, and Miss Sue will inform the public as to the many qualities of the Triangle brand Chinese noodles, which, according to this capable demonstrator, have no equal.

Mr. Smith has been in Glendale for the past ten years and during that time has built up an enviable grocery business. The proprietor of this establishment claims that his home-made bread and pastry are the best sold in Glendale.

Two men were having a talk at dinner time one day and the health of a fellow workman's daughter was the subject of the conversation.

"Well," said Jack, "if Tom would send his girl up to the hospital on the hill she would be cured in a month."

"Ah, but," says Bob, "is that a comfortable hospital?"

"Oh, no," replied Jack, "it's a corrugated iron one."

WOUNDED VETS URGE PRESIDENT TO HELP THEM FIRST

Wounded veterans of the World War protested to President Harding against a soldiers' bonus taking precedence over funds for wounded and disabled veterans. Here is shown a committee from Watter Reed hospital, Washington, appointed by a vote of patients to register the protest. The President in a message to congress said that a sales tax is the only plan to finance a veterans' bonus.

KU KLUX KLAN REPUDIATES WORK OF NIGHT RIDERS

3000 Members in Kern County to Be Aligned Against Terrorists

LOS ANGELES, March 9.—William S. Coburn, grand goblin of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, announced today that he was leaving for the Kern county oil fields to investigate the "night riders" disturbances.

Coburn denied that the Ku Klux Klan had anything to do with the riding and terror reign. He said it was another band of men hiding under the identity of his order.

"We have 3,000 members in Kern county," Coburn said, "and I am going there to swing this powerful agency into line against the terrorists."

State After Terrorists
MARIPOSA, Cal., March 9.—A posse of deputy sheriffs headed by under-sheriff Roy Newell was serving grand jury subpoenas right and left in Maricopa and throughout the surrounding district today.

Officials, citizens and suspected members of the "night riders" themselves were ordered to appear tomorrow before the county grand jury for an investigation into the raids and activities of the "night riders."

"We have 300 subpoenas and we'll have them all served by night-fall," one of the deputies said.

The mayors and police forces of Maricopa, Taft and Fellows were said to have been among those subpoenaed.

Night Riders Evict Landlady
TAFT, Cal., March 9.—Mrs. May N. Barnes, rooming house proprietor, was run out of Taft by the "night riders," it was reported to government investigators in the field today.

According to neighborhood reports, a band of white-robed figures surrounded Mrs. Barnes' home late Friday night. The spokesman tersely told her to "close up and get out."

BONUS BILL HAUNTS HARDING

President Goes on Vacation While Senators Seek His Views

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The ever troublesome soldier bonus dogged President Harding today as he went into the south for a seashore vacation.

Having been unable to reach the president yesterday while he was making arrangements for his departure, several republican members of the house ways and means committee today decided to either send one of their number south to talk with President Harding or write a joint letter, in an effort to get complete and final expression from the executive as to whether he will veto the loan-certificate bonus bill now before the house.

Congressmen considering this move are Representative Bacharach, New Jersey, and other sales tax advocates.

If the president would come out definitely against the certificate plan, the house will have to go back to a sales tax or drop the bonus altogether, they believe. They point out the President's represented declaration that if a bonus bill has to be financed it must be through a sales tax.

"Mother," said George as he presented an office chum who had come to spend Saturday afternoon with him, "this is my friend, Mr. Specknoodel."

"I'm sorry," she said, "but I didn't quite catch the name."

"My friend, Mr. Specknoodel!" shouted George.

"I'm sorry," said his mother, "but I can't hear distinctly."

"Specknoodel," George fairly bellowed.

"I'm afraid it's no use," said the old lady, as she shook her head. "It sounds just like 'Specknoodel' to me."

MOTHERS TO ASK CITY FOR POOL

ed that the musical program for the conference would include organ numbers by Wesley Kuhnle and vocal solos by Mrs. Frank Arnold and by Harry Girard, who would lead a community sing; that Mrs. Milton F. Higgins, of Worcester, Mass., president of the National Mothers' Congress and P. T. A., would be the guest of honor. It was suggested that the song she composed be sung at the district meeting.

Mrs. White also announced a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Higgins to be given April 5, by the Pasadena Federation.

The report of Mrs. Percy Priaux, treasurer, showed a balance on hand of $320.53.

Mrs. White stated that Mrs. Cline, chairman of emblems, had purchased $10 worth of emblems to be sold to members who might desire them.

Mrs. White also announced that the first week in April a drive would be made for the Near East relief, and asked whether the organization wished to make a donation. On motion of Mrs. Bolus, president of the Broadway P. T. A., the federation voted an appropriation of $10.

The proposition for organized amusement under a plan urged by Mr. Arbury of the Community Service corporation, was mentioned by Mrs. White who said she had not given it her endorsement because she felt the work to be carried on was already pretty well covered by the Boy Scouts, Y. M. C. A. and organized church activities.

She announced a proposition made to her by Mrs. Margaret Biggs to allow the Federation to use for a children's matinee March 24 at the Chamber of Commerce, the talent consisting of the Cadman Trio which is to give the same program that evening as a benefit for the Business and Professional Women's club, the Federation to pay for the hall and the talent for that particular performance and charge a nominal price.

After some discussion the organization voted to accept the proposition and give a matinee for children at a charge of about 15 cents each.

A plea from Mrs. Priscilla Houdy-shel for assistance in selling tickets for a moving picture show for the benefit of the Women's Relief Corps under an offer from the manager of the Glendale Theatre was referred to the organization and on motion of Mrs. W. R. Kulp it voted to give what assistance it could individually.

On motion of Mrs. Kulp the association also voted to donate $10 of its scholarship fund to the district association inasmuch as it has many calls and Glendale few.

The resignation of Mrs. Campbell as chairman of the committee was accepted with deep regret and the president announced that a new chairman would be named at the next meeting.

Reports of presidents were called for and the responses will yield plenty of material for the report which Mrs. White will be called upon to render at the district meeting.

Ladies who resounded were Mrs. Alexander of Acacia avenue school, Mrs. Adams of Cervinas avenue school, Mrs. Bolus of Broadway school, Mrs. McKee of Colgado school, Mrs. Thompson of Columbus avenue, Mrs. A. H. Brown of Doran street, Mrs. Wyman of the high school, Mrs. Kulp of Intermediate, Mrs. Crawford of Central avenue, Mrs. Rosenberg of Pacific avenue.

Mrs. Crawford reported a great shortage of library books and books for supplementary reading at the Central avenue school, due to failure of the state to provide them, and asked what if anything could be done about the matter.

Mrs. Eustace B. Moore reported concerning the music memory contest being conducted under the auspices of the Glendale Music club, in which many school children are participating.

Mrs. White called upon presidents to select members of a nominating committee, to be composed of a representative from each association, before the next meeting of the federation and also invited present to come to her home next Wednesday to help in an all-day Red Cross sewing bee for the manufacture of layettes for babies of Russia and Poland.

PRE-WAR PRICES IN SHEET METAL WORK HERE

Increased Volume Enables Glendale Company to Cut Costs

Pre-war prices for all kinds of sheet metal work are prevailing at the Glendale Sheet Metal Works, 127 North Glendale avenue, according to a statement issued by this company. There are two reasons that make these lower prices possible.

In the first place the business of the firm is increasing daily and this larger volume of business results in a lower overhead expense. Then, again, the cost of raw materials is decreasing constantly, and this reduction is being passed by this firm over to the home-builder and the person using any kind of sheet metal work.

Although the cost of all kinds of work is being lowered constantly, the efficiency of the labor employed by this firm remains of the same high class character. The reduction of prices is general and in some instances runs as high as 20 per cent.

RUSSIAN HOPES CENTER AT GENOA

Believe Economic Conference Will Bring Recognition and Relief

MOSCOW, March 9.—All classes in Russia except the great masses of ignorant peasantry, look forward to the Genoa conference as the first step towards reunion with the outside world.

Merchants, college professors, army men, newspaper men—all see in the approaching convulsive release from the isolation which has been imposed upon this country since 1917.

To official Russia—the Kremlin and the community party, about 300,000 strong—Genoa means achievement of a long-cherished ambition, official recognition by the world at large. It means an opportunity to lay a real foundation of government. It is a mixed blessing, because it means abandonment, for the time being at least, of the great idea of world revolution and a return to the principle of nationalism.

The rest of Russia will benefit more than the politicians.

"It will at least give us some idea as to what to expect," a merchant said.

"Genoa will show us whether commerce with the rest of the world may be expected on a large scale immediately."

"It is the beginning, I think, of better times," a college professor said. "It is trag that obtaining credits will give the communist administration a new lease on life. But better a communist administration for a few years more and a return to world trade and chance to begin rebuilding Russia, than things as they are today."

"It will mean the selling of our country to foreigners," a former cadet remarked bitterly, "but there is not enough capital in Russia, so I do not see what else can be done. It hurts, but we must have outside help."

"A change in our government will follow the Genoa conference," said a newspaper man. "The allies will insist upon inclusion of a strong non-communist element in the administration."

"It cannot be worse," a barber said, and the aged droshky driver outside cracked his whip and echoed the sentiment, adding one of his own: "Nichevo ny znayou! (I know nothing whatever about it.)"

Two women were arguing about thrift. "D'ye see that purse?" demanded one with a triumphant air. "It's the one I bought when I was first married, 20 years ago."

"That's nothing!" sneered her friend. "You know my husband, John?"

"Of course I do. What about him?"

"Well, he's my first husband, and you've had three. Don't you preach thrift to me!"

SECOND UNIT OF ORANGE MANOR IS WELCOMED

Homesites Rapidly Being Secured by Local and Visiting Investors

The second big unit of Meeker's Orange Manor has just been placed on the market, and the latest reports are that the many good-sized homesites are being rapidly snapped up by local and visiting investors. This new unit of this tract was placed on the market Monday morning and already many of the lots have been disposed of.

The romance of the first unit of this tract is well worth rehearsing. For years before the selling firm of Ruddick and Driver came to Glendale Meeker's ranch, which was a land mark to all of the old settlers of the valley, stood silent and unimproved. The other sections of the valley were being cut up, but this eastern section was content to remain in the condition in which it had been lying for twenty-five years. Then the firm of Ruddick and Driver came to Glendale from the east. These men immediately realized the real worth of this almost unappreciated eastern section, and they at once laid steps toward opening this extremely valuable piece of property. Almost before it was realized the engineers were on the ground and in short order this grand old piece of property, the attractions of which are many, was cut into building lots. Following this came the street improvers. Teams, Fresno, scrapers were soon at work and the dust was flying in earnest. It took just a few days for the street to be cut through, after which the cement men were promptly on the job. Sidewalks and curbs were soon on the job and almost as a dream this ranch was converted into one of the finest subdivisions in Glendale.

Local and visiting investors were not long in seeing the real worth of this property. In fact, local buyers literally swarmed to this subdivision with the result that within two weeks more than 40 of the 70 ideal homesites were disposed of. The remaining lots, the frequent rains, the remainder of the lots were sold in short order.

These lots, except in very rare instances, were not purchased with the intention of being held for a rise in price. They were bought strictly for homestead purposes. In securing the lots a big majority of the buyers had in mind the erection of homes on their new acquisitions. They realized the value of the Orange Manor lots as actual locations for their homes and as a result, a number of dwellings of unusually high class have been started, and several are about finished. Before it is generally realized what is going on the first unit of Orange Manor will be built up and will be occupied by boosters of this wonderful piece of property.

But now comes the second unit of this tract. It is just as desirable in every way as Unit No. 1, and in some ways it has an "edge" on the first section to be opened. It is ideal in location and that it is generally considered high class property is shown by the way it is being bought up by prospective home owners. Water, gas and electricity have already been put on this property and the street work will be completed by June 1.

The lots in this tract will not last long for they are among the best in Glendale today. All of the trees are covered with fruit—oranges, lemons, etc., and each is a little mansion site in itself.

Roy L. Kent, head of the Roy L. Kent Co., architects and builders, stated this morning that this firm's building at the corner of Harvard and Brand for the Pendroy Dry Goods company, will be finished about the middle of April. This building is going up like a mushroom. It seems just a day or so when the corner on which this structure is being erected was vacant and unused, but now it resembles one of a veritable beehive, with workmen busily hurrying here and there, each intent on doing his particular job well and in the shortest length of time. With this $75,000 building finished about the middle of April Glendale will have another business structure of which it may justly feel proud.

Plans are now being drawn by the architectural department of this firm for a hotel to cost $40,000 and to be erected on Orange street between Broadway and Orange. This hotel will contain 40 rooms and in every particular will be right up to the minute. Although the party for whom this hotel will be constructed cannot be quoted, it is known that actual work on the building will be started within 60 days.

The Kent company is also preparing plans for a two-story garage building to cost about $25,000 and to be erected close in to the busi-

WESLEY McLAREN HAGUE HONOR MAN AT ANNAPOLIS

Works Way From Mast to Commission

Enlisting at San Diego in the United States navy on February 18, 1915, as an apprentice seaman, Wesley McLaren Hague of Glendale has set a record to be proud of and the navy department, showing its appreciation for the record made by Mr. Hague, has used his record and picture in posters telling of the advantages to be gained by enlisting in the navy.

This gratitude and appreciation is also shown in a story printed not so very long ago in the Saturday Evening Post. Hague has recently graduated from the naval academy at Annapolis as the honor man of his class.

Hague enlisted in the navy as an apprentice seaman in 1915. In August, 1916, he passed the entrance examinations and entered the academy as a midshipman. When he graduated with a class of 601 students he stood at the head of the class as honor man.

There is a rule at the Annapolis academy that when a newly commissioned ensign graduates from the academy he must not disclose what ship to which he is first assigned. A story is told by former Secretary of the Navy Daniels about Hague and his obedience to this order. On the day that Hague graduated, in company with the superintendent of the naval academy and the chief of bureau of navigation who is charged with making all assignments of newly graduated officers to their various ships was being congratulated by the former secretary of the navy. After talking to the young man for a few minutes the chief of the bureau of navigation said: "By the way, Mr. Hague, to what ship are you assigned?" Hague replied: "I am not permitted to tell you, sir."

This instance was cited by Mr. Daniels where an enlisted man declined to tell the secretary of the navy, the superintendent of the naval academy and the chief of the bureau of navigation where his duty was to take him. The officials congratulated the ensign on his fine obedience to orders.

A wealthy Irish farmer, intending to send his son to college, wrote Ford University, in which he had been a student, "Please say what are your terms for a year, and will it cost anything extra if my son learns to write a good hand and spell proper, as well as to row a boat?"

Money would go farther did it not travel so fast.

The exact location and the name of the owner are being withheld for the present.

Also, this firm is just finishing construction work on a beautiful Spanish style home in San Fernando for Fred Prince, president of the First National Bank of San Fernando. The cost of this home is about $17,000.

Big Demand in South Glendale
"There is something doing every minute in South Glendale real estate," said Mrs. Elrod of the firm of Elrod & Elrod, 1651 Gardena avenue, this morning. "Ever since we started in business several months ago things have been humming along nicely for us. There is considerable call at this time for vacant lots in Southern Glendale, although we have inquiries also for homes of different sizes and styles.

For many years the southern section of the city was asleep, but now it is wide awake and humming along. Just watch this section grow."

COUNCILMEN VIEW ASPHALT CONCRETE

Visit Fullerton and Huntington Park Under Auspices of Standard Oil

The inspection of asphalt pavements made Tuesday by Mayor Spencer Robinson, Councilmen Kimlin and Davis and City Manager Reeves in company with a representative of the Standard Oil company, who is selling a preparation known as asphalt concrete for paving purposes, took the party to Fullerton and Huntington Park where pavements of this material have been installed.

City Manager W. H. Reeves stated on the party's return that in Fullerton the sidewalks made of this preparation have been in use for seven years and are in excellent condition today. Those at Huntington Park are also proving satisfactory.

The representative of the Standard Oil company explained to the officials that asphalt concrete differs from asphalt macadam in that while both preparations are a combination of rock and oil, the first mentioned is prepared at the factory and mixed in equal proportions, while the other is mixed on the job, where the rock is laid and the hot macadam spread over it. Added resilience is said to be secured from the first method of mixing. Another feature to be considered, according to the representative, is the fact that the asphalt concrete does not break so easily as other materials, wears longer and is slightly cheaper to lay.

MOTHER OF STAR IS MOTHER IN PICTURES

Very rarely indeed does the real mother of a famous motion picture star play the part of the star's mother on the screen with her, but that is what Pauline Starke's mother did in "Flower of the North," the James Oliver Curwood special production, which will be shown at the Glendale theatre today.

The picture required that Miss Starke, in the title role, dream and conjure visions of her dead mother. There is a striking personal resemblance between the youthful star and her mother.

Mrs. Starke was sitting in the studio one day, watching her daughter being directed in a scene with Henry B. Walthall, who plays the male lead, when Director David Smith noting the startling resemblance between mother and daughter, suggested that Mrs. Starke play in the visional part.

visions, while the other is mixed on the job, where the rock is laid and the hot macadam spread over it. Added resilience is said to be secured from the first method of mixing. Truths in Epigram

Example is the school of mankind, and they will learn at no other. —Burke (1729-1797).

To know, to esteem, to love, and then to part; Makes up life's tale to many a feeling heart! —Coleridge (1772-1834).

PREHISTORIC MONSTERS

A scientist and naturalist reports having discovered the trail of a prehistoric monster down in Patagonia. He thinks it was a pleiosaurus. Many of us are un-informed as to the pleiosaurus, which is a monster of prehistoric kind, with the head of a snake, the neck of a swan and the body of a rhinoceros.

That is an unusual animal to be sure, one from which most any person but an ardent naturalist would run in fear. The scientist who thinks he has discovered this unusual creature followed its trail through trampled vegetation and thinks he saw it swimming in the water. We do not know what the feet were like, but probably like those of a duck. And perhaps the tail was a paddle wheel, like one of the old-fashioned river steamboats.

All this would be interesting, if the naturalist had only completed his description which we shall do for him. The kind of monster he describes has a red head, a blue body and a yellow neck and tail. Its habitat is home-brew bottles. It cannot be killed with bullets or captured with snares. It can only be killed by the shutting off of its favorite beverage.

We do not know the kind of home-brew they have in Patagonia, but we feel sure it is powerful stuff. For the red, blue and yellow pleiosaurus is not often seen except where the stuff is potent and plentiful.

BRYAN AND THE TREATIES

Every once in a while William J. Bryan puts in an appearance and takes his party to task for its sins of commission or omission, as the case may be. Mr. Bryan might be fairly termed the step-mother of the democratic party in that he does not believe in spoiling the child with too much coddling. And with all his twenty-five or thirty years of party service, and with his many defeats and rejections, Mr. Bryan seems to be still active, still healthy and still eloquent of speech.

Mr. Bryan, it may or may not be remembered, was the man who brought about the nomination of Woodrow Wilson at Baltimore. Had it not been for the orator of the Platte, the nominee would have been, in all probability, Champ Clark of Missouri. Mr. Bryan served for a time with more or less distinction, as secretary of state and then resigned, perhaps by suggestion.

Mr. Bryan is perhaps not the most thoughtful and discerning statesman in the world. Neither is he the best example of the successful and rational economist. Mr. Bryan is above all else an apostle and evangelist, in matters of the national health and morals. Many men dislike him. Many persons defend him. He is not to be altogether disliked or altogether defended. He is an influence in American life, not always perhaps infallibly right, but gifted with as much sincerity and earnestness as any of our public men.

He is entitled to cold his party, for he has fought, bled and sometimes died with it. He believes in peace and the treaties recently agreed to. Because he thinks they will make measurably for peace. His voice in their defense will not be without influence. And his attitude in putting aside party lines and accepting what comes from the opposition party leaders and diplomats is bigger than that of many party men who hold themselves bigger than he is.

TRUTH AND FICTION

Truth is stranger than fiction, according to the old saying. It may not be any stranger than fiction, but at least it is as strange in some instances. The things that happen in real life are as unusual, unbelievable and weird as the things set forth in flights of pure imagination.

A month or so ago one of the well-known directors of the moving picture world, according to the testimony of persons as to the circumstances, escorted a woman to the walk in front of his house, returned to the house, was shot and killed and his body found the following morning.

A negro valet had left the house a short time before the victim was last seen except by the murderer. A man described as wearing a cap and muffer, as distinctive garments, was seen leaving the house at about the time a shot was heard fired.

Exhaustive inquiries into the past life and activities of the dead man revealed many things, but nothing to throw light upon the cause for his murder. He was not robbed. No feud was discovered that might have led to murder. A former valet, said to be a forger and petty thief, had disappeared. Many mysterious letters and notes have been received, probably from cranks and half wits or drug addicts.

Detectives and investigators were early on the ground. No detail of inquiry was omitted. Dozens of persons suspected of knowing something of the killing were "grilled," as the saying is. All of the departments of investigation of police and district attorney were called into the investigation.

In the residential heart of a great city, with friends living near, with possible observation of all the movements of cars and persons in the early morning, in a home surrounded by homes of persons of wealth, culture and refinement, a man was shot dead. And at this time, six weeks or so after the murder, investigation is blocked and there is not, so far as the general public knows, the slightest clue to the murderer or to the cause for the murder.

Murders are due to a few well defined motives. There is a bitter hatred which becomes an obsession, due to real or imagined wrongs; there is jealousy that becomes frenzy; there is robbery, to which murder is the incident; there is mania and insanity. Motives for murder are deep and intense stirrings of evil in the human heart. The trail is usually clear from victim to murderer, although the proof is not always equally sufficient.

If you read a book in which these facts were set forth you would declare the thing was hardly reasonable—that such a crime could be committed, that no motive was discoverable, and that there was no trail leading in the direction of the murderer. But here we have the facts in real life.

Many murders have for long periods remained shrouded in mystery, to be made clear sometime. It may be so in the present instance. In the meantime, we may declare again that truth is fully as strange as fiction. It is such a thing as might with reasonableness have occurred in a desert cabin, in some mountain fastness, away from life with its urbanity and culture and refinement of living.

The simple facts seem to be that some one entered a home, killed, walked away and disappeared without leaving a clue or trace. That is strange enough.

Nearly nine hundred persons were killed in motor car accidents in the last statistical year, according to the reports, in the state of California. That is the population of a good sized community. Nine hundred persons. This does not include persons killed while crossing railroad tracks. It covers only those killed on the streets and highways. Most of the accidents were due to carelessness. Not many accident occur from imperfections in motor cars. It is the imperfection or worse of drivers. The moral is plain. But few persons take heed of statistics until some pertinent personal happening brings home what the statistics mean.

An organization in our sister city of Los Angeles has for one of its expressed purposes "forcing respect for the law." It is difficult to force anything in this world. Respect for the law comes from education and training and a knowledge of the fact that by respect for the law governments survive, by the lack of it governments perish. A difficulty of popular training is that we respect laws we believe in and flout those we do not believe in. Insofar as the particular law is concerned, that is just a mild degree of anarchy.

Success has no time to stop and offer an apology.

Practice makes perfect—and it often makes the neighbors feel like smashing the piano.

The way some people have of being good is worse than the way others have of being bad.

BLUE COAL

The essential of all industry is force. The first and most primitive force used to work was human power.

Then came the use of animals, as the horse and the ox; then the power of running or falling water, utilized in water-wheels; also the air, used in windmills.

The most tremendous step forward was due to the discovery of the steam engine. Then followed the gas engine and the electric motor.

The material basis of steam and electricity is coal; of the gas engine, petroleum. Industry, however, increases faster than its supply of coal and oil; and the cost of these is a shackle upon industrial expansion.

Hence much attention is now being given to the harnessing of water power—that is to say, of streams and falls.

There is still a greater and more omnipresent power, roaring to attract our attention, in the eternal motion of the ocean waves, and in the rise and fall of the tides.

The few "tide-mills," in which power is generated by the current to and fro of the tides, are not very considerable.

But it is now proposed seriously to undertake getting industrial power out of the tides. Under the direction of the minister of public works, in France, what is called a "blue coal" commission of experts has been working for two years at the problem of utilizing tidal force.

Coming out of the region of speculation into that of practicality, the commission has recently submitted a report in which a plan is worked out in all its details for the first sea-power station.

The experiment will be tried at a point on the coast near Brest, chosen because the tide runs strongly there, and its proximity to an industrial center permits the practical utilization of the realized power.

A huge dam will be constructed to control the waters. Upon this will be set the turbine wheels and the dynamos.

When the tide runs up and when it goes back it will turn the turbine wheels. An auxiliary dam will furnish power for that period of time when the tide is stationary.

The whole machinery, it is estimated, will furnish a continuous flow of force equal to 1600 horsepower.

The annual production of power will be equivalent to that produced by the consumption of 16,500 tons of coal.

The expense of the project is calculated to be 20 million francs.

It is thus hoped by using the "blue coal" (sea power) to supply those portions of the country where there is no "black coal" or "white coal" (power from running water).

If this enterprise is successful it will go a long way toward the realization of a project which up till now has been considered Utopian. Meanwhile a group of American engineers, backed by American financiers, has submitted to the chamber of commerce of Granville (Manche) a vast project for the exploitation of the hydraulic force of the tide in the Bay of Mont Saint-Michel. The sum necessary to put the project into effect (it will be done entirely without state subsidy) is estimated at more than two billion francs. The plan foresees the construction of a barrier about twenty kilometers long, stretching from the Point du Roc on the Granville side of the bay, to Le Ligouet, which is the point of the Island of Landes on the Cancale side. The technical elements of the hydraulic installations appear to be the same as those planned by the government for Brest. The Americans expect to develop six billion kilowatt-hours annually from the installation, which they calculate to be worth 500 million francs of annual revenue. (Copyrighted by Dr. Frank Crane)

THE LISTENING POST

One time there was a body of advanced thinking persons living on an island. It was an ideal place to live. And they resolved to live in an ideal state. Where everybody was equal to everybody else.

No one man should stand in any position of subservience to another. Why should one obey another? Or work for another? When everybody was intended to be equal? Why indeed?

So the body of advanced thinking men resolved that the present state of civilized society was all wrong. There were too many inequalities.

Some worked hard with hands and some only sat in offices and at desks and planned.

Some sweated in the field and raised corn and cattle. Others ate the corn and cattle. Others who never turned a furrow or drove a plow or sowed seed. The state of society must be corrected.

Obedience of one man to another meant subservience. The setting up of arrogant authority. The giving and taking of orders. Which made some men rulers and others slaves.

Plainly enough it was all wrong. It was not to be permitted. On this particular island it should never be permitted. None should be servants.

They were to be, every man, the equal in station and authority and riches, of every other man.

So they decided they should have an army. An army was necessary. For the defense of their ideals. And the repelling of possible enemies to the new idea.

And as an army needed a general they had a general. Which made every other man at once a general.

They were all generals. Every man being the equal of every other. And they made a remarkable sight when they paraded. For every man made his own uniform out of whatever materials he found.

There was no planting or sowing or reaping. Because no man would plant or reap or sow for another. And there were no houses. Because no man would build for another.

So they lived in the open and roosted or rested where they could and enjoyed perfect equality. Freedom in the highest sense of the term. Freedom from the bondage of service. The army had no arms. And the uniforms wore out.

After while they had eaten up all the fruits and berries and the food supply ran short. Fields had been neglected. Machinery had gone to pieces. Because nobody would repair it.

Everybody was a boss. And the island was one solid and compact mass of bosses. Without any workmen. Because it was not right that any man should serve another. And they still had perfect freedom and equality. But were a little short of food.

A lot of them died of famine. And disease. Many were killed that their share of food might be stolen. All with perfect freedom and equality.

It was an ideal state. But something was the matter with it. Perfect freedom. Perfect equality. Freedom from bondage. A highly advanced state in the matter of thinking. But it perished from famine and disease and murder and crime and license-run mad.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

That prosperity is returning, not by leaps and bounds, but steadily, is the opinion of eastern observers. Here in the west where there has been such great development we have not experienced the depression except in small measure as it has been reflected across the continent. Now come the leaders of finance and business and assert that times are getting better, that the period of readjustment is about over and that every indication points to a revival in trade.

This can mean only redoubled prosperity for the west. With building active on every side, with thousands of persons seeking homes in the west, with the outlook in the orient one of future promise, peace on the Pacific and the eastern depression clearing, this section of the country is assured a growth and prosperity that should make the past development fade into insignificance.

California has been honestly advertised—and consistently. With impetus behind the boosting, with the constant hammering away on the wonders of the climate, good roads and all the other advantages of the west, California has become known as the land of sunshine, fruit and flowers, an expression we do not hear used much of late, but an expression that has sound advertising value.

Automobiles are daily taking their toll of human life. The automobile is here to stay so it cannot be eliminated and the problem solved in that way. Safe and sane laws have been enacted to regulate automobile traffic and were these laws enforced there would be few accidents and the number of deaths would be negligible. Only by a proper observance of traffic laws can there be any degree of safety. No method will ever be devised to prevent the fool from attempting to beat a railroad train to a crossing except the elimination of grade crossings. The paragrapher was right who said that the fool used to turn on the gas but now he steps on it.

There is one heritage of the war that appears to have become a permanent feature—community singing. Wherever men gather these days you will find them singing. Attend a luncheon and oftentimes the men stand and sing a verse of America. During the luncheon they sing "Smiles," or a parody on "Smiles." You will hear them singing "The Long, Long Trail" and songs of that kind.

Did you ever stop to reason that men who sing in this manner are good, upbuilding, red-blooded men, that they represent a better and cleaner citizenship, that they are more patriotic and law-abiding? It's a fact. The next time you attend a luncheon where a goodly number of men congregate stop and think what it all means—the good fellowship, the earnestness and the whole hearted manner in which they respond to music. It's good for them, for their indignation, their country and their manhood.

John N. Willys, head of the Willys-Overland Automobile company, stated at a gathering recently that he represented the second greatest industry in the country, "the first," he said, "being bootlegging." He said it in fun, of course, but he said something at that. If the automobile industry was conducted like the whisky business it would be put out of business in short order. What's the matter with putting the whisky bootleggers out of business and spending the millions for automobiles and better roads?

It is interesting to note that California is second in the list of states in the number of homes that are served with electricity for lighting purposes. New York is third. This is at once gratifying and wonderful. Here in the west the people enjoy more modern methods and looking at it from that viewpoint it is not so remarkable. The increase for 1921 in California was 102,000, which shows how we are growing in population. Frank Higgins, secretary of the chamber of commerce in Los Angeles, said recently that Los Angeles was increasing in population at the rate of 100,000 per year and these figures would appear to bear him out in his estimate.

In Chicago a girl of 19 years has been punished for vamping. The punishment meted out by the judge compels the girl for a period of six months to attend regularly church services at a designated church. Possibly the imposition of this sentence may have a distressing effect upon members of the congregation if the girl fails to observe the evident spirit of the punishment.

Did it ever occur to you that men comment on women's dress to a far greater extent than women comment on men's attire. You hear threats of invoking the law to regulate the length of women's skirts or the cut of their hair, but never do you hear a woman suggesting that the statutes be changed in order to alter the cut of the clothes that men wear, although there is nothing more foolish than a full-dress suit. Men wear, although there is nothing more foolish than a full-dress suit. Men wear, although there is nothing more foolish than a full-dress suit. Men wear, although there is nothing more foolish than a full-dress suit.

Now comes the news that Petrograd, formerly St. Petersburg, named in honor of the Czar, Peter the Great, is to be renamed Leningrad, in honor of Lenin. Comment on this is unnecessary.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

If this sort of thing had not happened it would be regarded as incredible. I'm not sure but it is incredible anyhow. But the astounding part of it is that it happened.

John and James—well, call 'em Jones, in deference to their feelings—are brothers and plasterers. They have worked in the same town in the same way the same hours for the same wages and a good part of the time for the same boss ever since they began to get lime in their hair. They have been equally industrious and economical and admirable. One is now sixty-seven years old. The other is sixty-five.

"It is just terrible," said James to me this morning, "the way a fellow is stuck nowadays for clothes and groceries and meat and roofing shingles and theater tickets—"

James, you'll understand, is the married one. He has a neat, comfortable, well-rounded wife, and a little house with brick walls and vines and a garden behind in which there is a minute garage in which an infinitesimal flivver is kept. All that is completely paid for. I happen to know that James' life insurance policies are all paid up and that he has a very decent sum in the savings bank.

James began life by getting into debt and matrimony at the same time. He had never made a penny more than John, who is just as saving and just as industrious and just as thoroughly admirable.

John galloped down to the police this morning with a wild howl that he had been robbed of his life's savings—every sou markee he had been able to put away and keep during a long and toilsome life. And, if you'll believe me, that sum only amounted to a little more than seven thousand dollars and—

Here's the finally incomprehensible item— He had kept that money all these years in a steel box hidden in the bottom of the wardrobe in the boarding house in which he lived. No interest, no accretion, none of those growths of goods that somehow come to married men and do not come to bachelors.

What's the answer? Does matrimony pay?

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

The bureau of agricultural defense of Uruguay has made the destruction of the large, thistle obligatory under penalty of fines. Recent research seemingly shows conclusively that endemic goller is due to deficient supply of iodine in drinking water. SONGS OF THE POETS

The Old Familiar Faces—By Charles Lamb (1775-1834)

I have had playmates, I have had companions. In my days of childhood, in my joyful school-days— All, all are gone, the old familiar faces.

I have been laughing, I have been carousing. Drinking late, sitting late, with my bosom cronies— All, all are gone, the old familiar faces.

I loved a Love once, fairest among women: Closed are her doors on me, I must not see her— All, all are gone, the old familiar faces.

I have a friend, a kinder friend has no man:

Like an ingrate, I left my friend abruptly; Left him, to muse on the old familiar faces.

Ghost-like, I paced round the haunts of my childhood. Earth seemed a desert I was bound to traverse. Seeking to find the old familiar faces.

Friend of my bosom, thou more than a brother, Why wert not thou born in my father's dwelling? So might we talk of the old familiar faces—

How some they have died, and some they have left me. And some are taken from me; all are departed— All, all are gone, the old familiar faces.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

Spring and income tax payments are approaching. Warfare in Belfast, revolt in Limerick and peace in Ireland. Hurray!

With gladness we observe that William Randolph Hearst is a loyal supporter of George Washington.

Why not use the dreadnaughts we are to scrap as bootleg runners?

Now the voice of the orator of the Platte comes via Florida.

The Volstead law seems to be giving us as many new words as the war.

Chicago sociological authorities are debating how much money a girl must spend annually for dress. How high is up?

Would Secretary Mellon be the admiral of the proposed rum-running fleet?

What happened to the crop of rumors of immediate war with Japan?

As to the arrest of men with bottles on their hips, what is a hip pocket for anyway?

It used to be men died with their boots on and now they die with their bootleg.

We suggest that the streets of our sister city be given the names of great battlefields, instead of the names of the muses.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

NOW ITS KING DAVID'S TURN [Cincinnati Enquirer]

Religious England is watching with interest what shall befall the vicar of St. John's church in Leeds, who has taken it upon himself to expurgate from the service the use of the One Hundred and Ninth Psalm. His explanation that the chapter is "un-Christian and anti-Christian" is the cause of much speculative interpretation, with his criticism as a guide. The vicar declares that no one has been able to explain the curses contained in the Psalm named or in the Thirty-fifth and Sixty-ninth Psalms, nor yet the appeals to the Almighty for the punish-

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

There was once an ancient king who wanted a motto for his life. He called to him all his courtiers and wise men and told them to prepare as many as they could for him to choose from. Wise sentiments flowed in by the hundreds, for all wanted the special favor of the king. The motto which was his final choice was: "This, too, shall pass away."

Why wouldn't this be just as good a slogan for today as it was for an ancient king? "This, too, shall pass away." There's a world of warning and a world of comfort in its five words. No matter what gifts good fortune has laid at our door we need not be overproud, overboastful, overmiserly with sharing them. "This, too, shall pass away." No matter how dark the clouds gathering about our lives, no matter what the pain, trouble or loss, it cannot linger in all its freshness of disappointment or misery. "This, too, shall pass away."

The thing that makes life so hard for us so many times is the fact that we overemphasize both the good and the bad. If the trying days come, we think that never has any one else had such trials as do we. We indulge in a whole orgy of self-pity and self-regrets. If the days are prosperous and care-free we at once jump to the conclusion that so they will always remain. But they won't—and don't. So again we indulge in fretfulness and become as the midges of life to those about us.

There's no one harder to live with than the one who is in the clouds one day, soaring about in the illimitable blue, and the next is groping about in the blackness of misery, assured that there will never again be light.

Why not cultivate an even poise?

ment of personal enemies. These, he asserts, represent human nature at its very worst. Modern psychologists are teaching that altruism is a distinctive element of the instinct of the human herd and not, as many suppose, an evidence of the weakness called pacifism during the war. Accepting this as true, the question remaining for determination is whether theological authorities of the British Kingdom are ready to adopt this theory and whether they will permit individual exclusions of canon and rubric by ministers and teachers at will.

It is to be feared that the vicar of St. John's at Leeds is in a fair way to be summoned before the ecclesiastical courts for discipline. Meanwhile the world will continue to sympathize with David's entirely human conduct in time of trouble and secretly to admire his talent for denunciation.

MUTUAL BENEFIT READING CIRCLE

The Mutual Benefit Reading Circle met Wednesday afternoon at the public library and was very well attended. Mrs. A. A. Barton, president, presided over the meeting.

The review for the day was given by Mrs. Sinclair Whytock on an article from the Century magazine by Abbott Wiggam, entitled "The New Decalogue of Science." Many present did not agree with the article and for this reason there was much discussion of the subject.

A report of the nominating committee reported the following officers elected unanimously: Mrs. A. A. Barton, president; Mrs. H. V. Henry, first vice-president; Mrs. E. B. Moore, second vice-president; Mrs. C. L. Peckham, secretary; Mrs. C. F. Hoyt, purchasing committee; Mrs. Sinclair Whytock, publicity chairman; Mrs. E. Johnson, recorder; Mrs. H. V. Henry, committee in charge of parent education; Mrs. A. P. Wintergill, and Mrs. Pomeroy, follow-up committee; Mrs. A. H. Brown, Mrs. F. G. Hartman, Mrs. Ed Evans and Mrs. H. H. Harris, committee. These new officers will take their offices at the next meeting, Wednesday, March 15.

The reading of the book, "Moral Education," was continued by Mrs. A. A. Barton, president, which was also followed by discussion.

CHAPTER L OF P. E. O. ENTERTAINED

Chapter L, P. E. O., was very charmingly entertained Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Dan Campbell, North Highland avenue, Glendale.

During the morning hours a business meeting was held at which time reports for the year were given by the retiring officers. The new officers elected were: Mrs. Nell Maxwell, president; Mrs. Genevieve Goss, vice-president; Mrs. Ann P. Bartlett, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Flora Temple, recording secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Weller, treasurer; Mrs. Elizabeth Reed, chaplain; Mrs. Josephine Farnham, guard.

AT NOON A DELICIOUS LUNCHEON was served with decorations carrying out the St. Patrick idea. Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Margaret Campbell, Mrs. Genevieve Goss, Mrs. Harriett Randall and Mrs. Esther Pearce.

Guests for the day were Mrs. W. W. Worley and Mrs. Law of Denver. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in sewing for charity.

MRS. SANDERS IS CLUB HOSTESS

Mrs. Charles H. Sanders of 1320 North Brand boulevard was hostess Wednesday afternoon to the Wednesday club. The table decorations were carried out in pink and white stocks and after the delightful luncheon had been served, the ladies spent a pleasant afternoon sewing on lamp shades and fancy embroidery work.

Those who enjoyed Mrs. Sanders' hospitality were Mrs. J. F. Hearnshaw, Mrs. Frank Hester, Mrs. Alfred Muhleman, Mrs. William A. Gibson, Mrs. H. Lee Clotworthy, Mrs. William A. Nash, Mrs. Julia Perkins, Mrs. Charles Clover, Mrs. Freshman of Los Angeles, Mrs. George E. Roach and a guest, Mrs. Parker from Los Angeles.

WAR MOTHERS HOLD MEETING

Members of the Lester Meyer chapter of War Mothers held an interesting and profitable meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ella Richardson on North Brand boulevard. It was a silver tea at which delicious home-made cake and tea were served, and from which the chapter realized about $19.

MRS. LAURA PARKER HONORS MR. GRANT

Mrs. Laura Parker of 345 West Lomia avenue entertained at a delightful dinner party Tuesday evening in honor of her cousin, Mrs. Grant who is visiting here from the east. The other guests were Mrs. Julia Perkins and Mrs. J. F. Hearnshaw. An enjoyable evening was spent in playing cards.

WEDNESDAY BRIDGE CLUB MEETING

Members of the Wednesday Afternoon Bridge club were charmingly entertained at a one o'clock luncheon and for the afternoon on Wednesday at Miss Elma Miss at her home at 340 North Central avenue.

Jonquils and lavender hyacinths were used in the decorations of her table, these colors being repeated in the hon. bon baskets and other appointments.

Covers were laid for Mrs. Claud Putman, Mrs. Charles Carroll, Mrs. Frank George, Mrs. Wallace Walker, Mrs. George Robinson, Mrs. Robert Pease, Mrs. E. E. East and the hostess.

High score was made by Mrs. Carroll who received a beautiful vase as a prize.

MISS DANIELS' PLAY IS REHEARSED

The Parliamentary Law section of the Tuesday Afternoon club met Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. A. Perry, 111 North Louise street. Mrs. Harry Greenwalt, curator, was unable to be present on account of illness. After two hours rehearsal of the play written by Miss Eva Daniels and which is to be presented before the full club, dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next rehearsal will be held at the home of Mrs. Colin Cable, 505 South Columbus avenue, Monday evening at 7:30.

THE SMITHS GIVE PRETTY DINNER PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Doris Smith entertained at a very pretty dinner party last Thursday night at their home, 123 South Belmont street. Chinese lilies were used in decorating the house, and a color scheme of yellow and white was carried out in the favor baskets of yellow and the yellow and white flowers in the center of the table.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goudie, Jr. and Mrs. David Hanson, and the host and hostess.

DINNER GUESTS TONIGHT AT THE HOME OF MR. AND MRS. E. L. ADAMS

of 1225 South Maryland avenue will be Mr. and Mrs. Probst and Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Jones of South Pasadena. The table decorations will be rather unusual, as they are to be yellow wild currant blossoms which Mr. Adams brought down from the mountains.

FELLOWSHIP DINNER

A fellowship dinner for all the men of the Glendale Presbyterian church will be given tonight at 6:30 in the church parlors for which a charge of 50 cents a plate will be made. C. A. Gummers, manager of the Cleveland Discount company will be the speaker, his theme being "The old gospel for the present day men." Special musical numbers will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Keith L. Brooks and by the Dynamis orchestra.

MISS PANKHURST IS INVITED TO TAKE TEA

Suffragette to Be Guest of Business Women's Club at 5 o'clock

The committee of which Miss Ethel Preston is chairman, which has had charge of arrangements for the series of three entertainments which are being given to raise money for financing the rest room established by the Business and Professional Women's Club, has invited Miss Christabel Pankhurst, who is to give the opening lecture in the course Friday night in the auditorium of the chamber of commerce, to be the guest of honor at a five o'clock tea that same evening in the club rooms of the organization. Officers and members of the club have been invited to meet Miss Pankhurst at that time, and invitations have also been sent to the heads of all the women's organizations in the city.

Members of the entertainment committee are to constitute the reception committee. Mrs. Jack Thomas and Mrs. Mabel S. Judd will motor to Los Angeles Friday afternoon to bring Miss Pankhurst to Glendale and to the club headquarters at 209 1/2 South Brand at 4:30 p. m.

Miss Pankhurst, who has been an outstanding figure in English politics and in the woman movement in the British Isles, has a most interesting personality and it will be a privilege to meet her informally.

The lecture, as stated will begin at 7:45. It will be preceded by piano numbers by Miss Alma Geigen of the Cadman Trio, who will be one of the artists at the next entertainment given by the club March 24.

Tickets for the course of three are $2 or 75 cents each entertainment.

Purely Personal

Mrs. Jennie Risdon of Los Angeles was Tuesday night dinner guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gardner, 339 West Doran street.

Dinner guests Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Browne, 215 North Brand boulevard, were Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Cavalt of Omaha, Nebraska.

Mrs. Harry Gardner of 339 West Doran street had as her overnight guest Tuesday night Mrs. Arthur Karr from Los Angeles.

Harry Chinn of Minneapolis, Minn., who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marble, 718 South Louise street, will leave Saturday for his home, via San Francisco, Portland and Salt Lake. He has spent two enjoyable months in California and expects to come back in the fall and engage in business, probably in Glendale.

THE EVENING STORY

A WREATH OF MEMORIES

(Copyright, 1921, by W. Werner)

"I'm afraid"—the caller after a hasty glance at her watch rose to go—"that I shall delay your preparations for dinner if I remain longer. I can come again to finish our discussion."

"No, indeed," returned Mrs. Gray, casually. "I never waste any time fussing about meals. Between my great grief and my devotion to my boy I have no leisure left for culinary affairs. Plain living and high thinking is my motto."

"Pardon my saying so, but your conception of life sounds bleak to me. Devotion is very nice, but a satisfying, well-cooked meal goes a long way. Isn't Roy robust?"

Mrs. Gray, drawing a wreath on the card she held, looked up absent. "Oh, I think so. He doesn't eat much. Do you like that design for a wreath for Memorial Day? Dear Bruno loved flowers." Her black-bordered handkerchief was lifted to her moist eyes, and the guest opened the front door determinedly.

"My goodness," she murmured to a silent companion, "that woman is certainly depressing. A minute more and she would have been off in another crying-fit. Was she so crazy about her husband?"

Mollie Kent shook her curly yellow hair. "I expect she thinks now that she was," she said conservatively, "but she has always been different from the rest of her family. She dreams a great deal and I guess she thinks that she does lots of things that she has only thought of."

And Roy, returning hot and tired from an extra hard day, wondered how his mother had spent the hours since breakfast. There was no sign of dinner and the living room was still strewn with the newspapers of the evening before. In the most comfortable chair, her black sleeves resting disconsolately upon the undusted arms, sat his mother, sobbing bitterly as she stared down at her wreath design.

"See this, dearest, I plan to have this wreath put in white flowers, with a touch of purple."

"Hadn't you better put it away until after dinner, mother? You only make yourself ill brooding, and dad—"

"I never spare myself, Roy." Her dreary tone was tinged with a gentle pride. "You and your father filled my world. To show respect to him and to devote the weary remnant of my life to you is all I crave."

The young man regarded her hopefully. He was very hungry and he had a business appointment after dinner that he knew would displease her and cause argument. He saw, from well-known signs, that she contemplated an evening devoted to memories of the departed.

"Can I have something now? I have to see Dell about the new office equipment and—"

"Of course, don't just live for my boy!" Sighing bleakly, Mrs. Gray left the room.

Roy ate the toast and poached eggs, washed down with tepid tea, and made his escape as quickly as he could.

Mrs. Gray waved farewell to him from the front steps and went slowly back to the living room. Presently the telephone rang and the girl who had accompanied the caller of the afternoon invited her to go to a concert with her.

"Why, Mollie," Mrs. Gray replied with an amazing acidity, "what in the world would Roy think if I went to a place of amusement? It is only one year since I lost my dear one."

"I think he would be delighted. You can hardly be expected to shut yourself up for the rest of your life, and don't you see that it is hard for Roy? He doesn't feel like going anywhere without you, and he is young."

"Roy wouldn't dream of going out for pleasure. He was obliged to go on business. Who is singing tonight?"

Mollie caught the wistful note in the tired voice, and did her best to ret her to go.

Mrs. Gray refused. "You can tell me about it to-morrow," was all she would concede.

The following night Roy was twenty-five minutes late. This happened almost regularly, and finally his mother began to worry. Roy's appetite flagged until he barely

ADVICE GIVEN TO FLAPPERS

NEW YORK, March 9.—If one could presume to give advice to the flapper it would be, "Flap out of it, flapper!"

Buck up and get a little individuality. You are alike as two dandelions and are becoming as uninteresting as the morning mists—tan sport coats with hands jammed low in the pockets, Piping Rock hats perched on one ear with a bit of bobbed hair protruding on one side, muffers flowing, snuffy of speech and a glint to the eye that last year was cowlike.

Why not all your own style, lay off the hook-worm designed sport hose and be yourself?

Tessies and Tillies of the East Side and Marjories and Phyllises of Fifth Avenue all become just flippant flappers by wearing the same clothes, hose, walking, stalking and talking alike. The only noticeable difference in the two types being, perhaps, a wad of gum. Of course, it's sporty to wear sport clothes and the tossing of the head when dancing goes a long way, but why not try something new and all your own?

Effect a stunner, perhaps, or button up your galoshes. There are more interesting sights than a broom handle skidding about in a coal scuttle, you know.

Here are a few hints for the young girl who wants to start something new this spring.

Try to get away from being one of a type. It is such an old idea. Flappers are the same today as they were in the days when they all wore blue pleated skirts with midly blouses and had red ribbon bows dangling on the ends of their braids. The war rafter did away with the uniform idea and the flapper who wants to express her individuality should know that "She who flaps furthest flaps alone."

WHITE SHRINE IS NEW FRATERNITY ORGANIZED HERE

New Body Holds Enthusiastic Meeting at the Phillips Place

Glendale again gave evidence of being very much up to the minute Wednesday evening when a chapter of the White Shrine of Jerusalem was organized, with a membership larger than is required to secure a charter.

The organization was effected at the place of business of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Phillips, and the following were enrolled as members: Mrs. Evelyn G. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. W. Q. Roberts, Mrs. Kate Delgado, Mrs. Maude A. Smith, Mrs. Nanna King Custer, Mrs. Margaret Tennant, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vesper, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. E. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bourne, Mrs. Carolyn Kretschmer, Mrs. Nellie Squier, Mr. and Mrs. Amya Carroll, Mrs. Carrie G. Baird, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Worley, Mrs. Gertrude McMillan, Mrs. Valencia K. Watson, Mrs. Alice M. Hogue, Mrs. Mae Warwick, Mrs. Priscilla Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Marek, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Cutting, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Wright, Mrs. Mattie Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Leland, Mrs. Anna Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Mark T. Lee, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Orma Naudain. The charter list will remain open until the charter is issued in May, and it is expected that many new names will be added to it.

The White Shrine of Jerusalem is an organization composed of men and women affiliated with Masonry. The requirements for admission are that each woman applicant shall be a member of the Eastern Star in good standing, and each man a Mason in good standing.

This chapter will be the sixth that has been organized in Southern California, there being but nine in the entire state, and its number as the youngest in the sisterhood will be No. 9.

The order originated in Chicago in 1894. It has ritualistic work as does the Eastern Star. Its teachings are all scriptural, taken from the New Testament and related to the birth of Christ. Its mission is to herald the glad tidings of the coming of "the king," the redemption of the world, and to bring peace on earth, good will toward men.

Its list of officers numbers 20, as follows: Worthy high priestess, watchman of the shepherds, noble prophetess, worthy scribe, worthy treasurer, worthy chaplain, worthy shepherdess, the three wise men, worthy guide, worthy herald, the first, second and third handmaidens, the king, the queen, the organist and the worthy guardian.

The organization meeting was addressed by Mr. Wisner, supreme watchman of the shepherds, who took charge of the organization work, and was assisted by Mrs. Belle Cutler, past high priestess of Metho Shrine No. 1 of Los Angeles.

The chapter will meet twice a month on Wednesday evenings, and a committee of three was appointed to suggest a name.

The order is stronger in the east, where it originated, than on the Pacific coast, but it is growing here with considerable rapidity.

Officers elected were: Worthy high priestess, Mrs. Orma Naudain; watchman of the shepherds, E. M. Cutting; noble prophetess, Mrs. Evelyn Pierce. Other officers are to be filled by appointment.

GIRL SCOUTS TO TAKE TESTS

Five members of the troop of girl scouts of which Miss Gladys Sharpe is leader, girls who have the highest records in the organization, will accompany her on a week-end camping trip to a cabin in the Arroyo Seco, where they will take tests for the rank of first class scout. They will leave here Friday afternoon.

VETERANS TO BE GUESTS

Three auto loads of veterans of the world war from Thornycroft will be guests at the entertainment which has been arranged to celebrate the opening of the new home for veterans which has been opened by Post No. 1 at 428 South Hill street, Los Angeles, Friday evening.

COMMUNITY IDEA IS APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

Formal Call for Service Is Signed by Temporary Organization

An invitation to Community Service to send special demonstrators to this city to assist in starting a community service program was prepared Tuesday at a special meeting of representative citizens at the chamber of commerce, called for the purpose of discussing and deciding whether or not Glendale should take advantage of the offer of Community Service made by H. W. Arbury, representing that organization. The invitation was made by the temporary community service committee, made up of L. T. Rowley, chairman; Dr. Jesse A. Russell, Richardson D. White, Clarence E. Kimlin, A. R. Eastman, secretary, Mrs. Walter D. Widdows and A. C. Cowan. The Community Service work in Glendale will start, it is planned, about April 1.

The official invitation to the Community Service as it was given Mr. Arbury is as follows:

Appreciating the advantages to all the citizens of an adequate program for the constructive use of leisure time, realizing the benefits which will accrue to our city from the inauguration of a program which will develop existing resources and create new ones as needed, and feeling that through leisure time activities new social bonds are created and strengthened and a stronger citizenship secured, we desire to take advantage of the opportunity to obtain the assistance of Community Service (Incorporated), a national organization having for its object the promotion of community citizenship through leisure-time organization and activities.

Therefore, in order to avail ourselves of the opportunity to become a part of this national movement and bring to Glendale expert advice and assistance in providing for the leisure-time needs of our citizens, we, the undersigned temporary Community Service committee of Glendale, California, request the national Community Service (Incorporated) to assist us in setting up our local Community Service program by:

- (1) The assignment of a community organizer, who for a period not to exceed three months will advise and plan with a properly constituted Community Service committee of Glendale, an organization and a program to be determined by the conditions and needs of our community, and who will assist in outlining an adequate budget and will advise in raising funds to carry on the proposed program with competent directors in charge.
- (2) The assignment of special workers to assist the community organizer in special phases of the program where there is a definite need for such workers and where such features as can be promoted by this method are to be a permanent part of the program.

We, as a temporary Community Service committee of Glendale, Cal. in order to avail ourselves of the opportunity to secure the assistance of the national Community Service (Incorporated) for our part as consideration for the above, agree, if this invitation is accepted by Community Service (Incorporated), that, with the assistance of the workers sent from national headquarters when such workers are available for assignment here we will:

- (1) Form a permanent Community Service organization that will be truly and democratically representative of the whole community, its needs and desires.
- (2) Prepare a full year community-wide leisure-time program suited to the needs and conditions of our community, including in this program provision for children, young people and adults.
- (3) Furnish to the workers assigned from national headquarters an office or office space, this to include telephone, incidental expenses, and stenographic help.
- (4) Provide funds to pay such minimum incidental expenses as may be necessary to give a demonstration, by such national workers as may be assigned, of the activities which are to be determined by the executive committee in view of the local situation.

We hereby guarantee to raise, within three months, a minimum budget of $4000, covering the program for a period of one year under the direction of a paid full-time director (said funds to be administered and expended by a local committee).

We further request the national organization to extend its services to the local organization following the inauguration of a program on the basis of local support in order that Glendale may have the benefit of the cumulative experience of other cities throughout the country to which Community Service (Incorporated) is serving in an advisory capacity, and acting as a clearing house; and further that we may have the advantage of special assistance and broadening our program, this service to include:

- (1) Visits from the district representative from time to time to keep the community organizer and the Community Service committee closely in touch with current development in this field throughout the country.
- (2) The assignment of specialists where this is desirable and practicable to assist in

HOWDY, FOLKS! SPRING'S HERE! HAVE YOU HAD YOUR YAWN TO-DAY?

Ho, hum! Spring has come! Yawns again are the vogue. With the melting of the snows and the passing of bleak, biting winds, animals in the Bronx Zoo, at New York, knowingly blink their eyes. These pictures were taken February 23, when the thermometer reached 65, the hottest February day in fifty-one years. The animals felt balminess of Spring weather in their bones. From this collection of animated yawns, as snapped by the camera man, you may take your choice. Perhaps you feel as listless and lazy as the ingratiating Mr. Hippo.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK REALTY NEW FACTORY UNIT BOARD HAS FINE MEETING UNDER WAY AT BURBANK

The realty board had a fine meeting Monday night, with several prominent guests present; a banquet and the memorable occasion of affiliation with the state real estate association.

C. C. Tatum, state president of the realtors, and others of the state organization were present and gave short addresses which were helpful and inspiring to further good efforts. There were also present the heads of the factories of Burbank and these were heard relative to their plans and hopes.

The affiliation of the local board with the state association was marked by an unusual feature. Not only did the board join as a body but every member paid his dues and affiliated as an individual, thus it went in 100 per cent strong, for which it was much complimented by the state officials, who said there were but few who did so well.

The banquet was an elaborate one and served by the Women's club in its rooms. The spirit of the meeting was fine and tended to an unselfish attitude in the matter of forwarding the city's interests. It was decided that all possible assistance would be given toward securing desirable industries for Burbank and in doing this, there would be no commission charged.

BURBANK NOTES

James G. Wilson and wife of Pasadena have purchased property at 143 Valencia avenue and built a temporary residence on the rear which they will occupy until a nice house is built.

Mrs. E. D. Music of 245 Tujunga avenue is quite sick. She had the flu some time ago and is now down again.

Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Leavitt of Hollywood were Sunday guests at the home of C. J. Peurrung of 569 Palm avenue.

Ehler Thalman of Owensmouth is seriously ill at the Cottage hospital, a victim of double pneumonia.

Mrs. Jewett and son, Wesley, of Bakersfield, are expected to be guests over Sunday at the home of C. H. Pomeroy of 226 Palm avenue.

Mrs. C. K. Bowen, who recently moved with Mr. Bowen to Mexico, is in Burbank and Los Angeles on a short business trip. Mr. Bowen is chief engineer for the Southern Pacific in Mexico. He has been very sick since moving to the southern country.

Mrs. Ruth Broome, well-known nurse, is now ill at the Cottage hospital. Mrs. Wheelless, who is a patient there also, is improving from an attack of influenza.

Another industry is scheduled for Burbank. In fact, it is not only scheduled for the future, but is actually here, for work began Monday on the foundation. The plant is one for the manufacture of ice and the builders are Ch. A. Pipes, Ward Shelton and Harry Dunning.

The location of the new plant is at Angeleno avenue and First street, where the Burbank Ice & Cold Storage has a site, 50 by 150 feet. The new building will not occupy all of this at present, as the dimensions of the structure, exclusive of the office, will be 42 by 80 feet, but in all the plans the idea has been held in mind that additions would be made as Burbank continues to grow and the demand calls for increased output. The freezing tank and the cold storage section are so arranged that they may easily be enlarged, and the ammonia condensers and cooling towers will be supported above the roof instead of being built on the side, as they sometimes are, in order that, when the demand requires greater capacity, it may be built on without moving these parts. The building will be of frame construction with flat roof and straight walls. The expense, including equipment, will be about $30,000. It is hoped that the plant will be ready for operation May 1. A month will be required for installing the machinery and another one for the erection of the building.

The capacity of the plant will be 24 tons of ice, and the ultimate capacity will be 100 tons, while the capacity of the cold storage, as may be made in the future, will be 15,000 tons. The machinery will be the direct electric power system and modern on the last detail. The high air pressure system will be installed, of which, it is said, there are as yet but one or two others on the Pacific coast.

LITTLE FOLKS HAVE PRETTY PARTIES

On Monday night Mrs. Ashabraner entertained a number of children in celebration of the fifth birthday anniversary of her little son, Cas Delmar, Jr. An elaborate five-course dinner was served, with a fine birthday cake on the table as a centerpiece. After the dinner the youngsters were taken to Los Angeles to enjoy a theater, which was the climax to a delightful time.

Elsie Louise Dort, six years old, was the pretty little hostess to eight girl friends from 3 to 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Entertainment games were played and Mrs. Dort served dainty and pleasing refreshments. The rooms were bright and cheery with flowery decorations.

Mrs. Williams of Palm avenue will give a pretty party Friday afternoon in honor of her daughter, Viola Elaine, who is six years old. Twelve little folks will be entertained from 3 to 5 o'clock.

L. A. CONTRACTOR GOES TO BURBANK

A transfer of real estate of considerable importance has just about been consummated through the agency of the Frank Meline company. The deal is for the transfer of the 20-acre tract belonging to Mr. Copeland and located on Alameda avenue about one and one-half miles out of the city, for an extensive bungalow court in Los Angeles owned by Mr. Schu-

MARTINUSSEN IS BADLY INJURED

Walter Martinussen, 26 years old, nephew of Mr. Martinussen, proprietor of the Danish dairy, was severely injured Sunday evening near Universal City when he was run over by a truck. His chest was crushed and he suffered internal injuries. He was taken to the Receiving hospital and the following day brought here and placed in the Burbank hospital. It is not known just how the accident happened, as he was riding on the back of the truck when he met with the misfortune. He is still in a dangerous condition.

Mr. Schuler is a contractor and builder and will move to this city.

CULVER OF CULVER CITY SPEAKS AT REALTY LUNCH

Tells Board Value of Satisfied Customers Backed by Salesmanship

One of the speakers at the semi-monthly meeting and luncheon of the Glendale Realty Board, held yesterday in the Chamber of Commerce banquet hall was Harry Culver, father of Culver City and state chairman of the "New Year Home" campaign to be launched in this state about March 19. Mr. Culver chose as his subject, "Satisfied Customers Backed by Work and Salesmanship." The theme of his talk was that co-operation, study, workmanship and resourcefulness were the requirements for the successful conduct of a business of any kind and most particularly of the real estate business. He said that courage and determination were the requirements when a business battle pends. Mr. Culver said, "A city or a man with the courage of his or its own convictions can overcome all obstacles."

When the meeting was called to order Cameron D. Thom, president of the Realty Board introduced City Manager W. H. Reeves, who spoke on "Civic matters." He touched upon the close co-operation of the civic committee of the realty board and the present city administration in regards to matters of civic betterment. At the conclusion of the talk he complimented the board on the number of members that were present at the meeting yesterday. He said that it indicated that the board members had an interest in the workings of the organization.

In Mr. Reeves talk he explained to the members of the board the legal side to the proposed ordinance that is being discussed whereby a tax would be levied on all real estate dealers in business in Glendale. He stated that under the law this license could be charged by a municipality and would tend to stabilize the real estate business by keeping out the outside dealer who comes into a city for the purpose of making one deal and leaving after the deal is completed. The tax would be such in the event that the ordinance was adopted by the city of Glendale that only the reliable real estate man who intends doing a permanent business in the city would pay it and be allowed to do business. The tax as interpreted by Mr. Reeves would serve as a protection to the real estate dealer in the city from the fly-by-night operators.

"SILENT CALL" LAST SHOWING AT T. D. L.

Today is the last day of the showing of the wonderful picture, "The Silent Call" at the T. D. and L. theatre—and this is a warning to those who may not have seen it. "The Silent Call" is really tremendous. It is perhaps the greatest outdoor-animal picture ever produced. With the High Sierra mountains for a background there is woven a story of adventure, thrill and romance that teems with the adjective "big" as a production. For real entertainment it offers all that could be desired—and more, because it is unusual as well. The dog of this picture is marvelous—almost human.

"What are you studying now?" asked Mrs. Johnson.

"We have taken up the subject of molecules," answered her son.

"I hope you will be very attentive and practice constantly," said the mother. "I tried to get your father to wear one once, but he couldn't keep it in his eye."

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

MRS. HORTENSE M. LUND
Mrs. Hortense M. Lund, wife of C. R. Lund of 13 South Glendale avenue, passed away Wednesday at a hospital.

Mrs. Lund is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Rand. She attended the local high school and was a noted artist. She was a member of the Carnation Rebekah lodge of Glendale. She leaves to mourn her death besides her husband and parents, two children in Glendale, and a sister and brother in Los Angeles.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon from the parlors of L. G. Scovren company, with interment at Forest Lawn cemetery.

Stiff and Lame From Rheumatism

Don't drug kidneys but get a bottle of old reliable St. Jacobs Oil

St. Jacobs Oil stops any pain and rheumatism is pain only. Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop drugging! Rub soothing, penetrating St. Jacobs Oil right into your sore, stiff, aching joints and relief comes instantly. St. Jacobs Oil is a harmless rheumatism liniment which never disappoints and can not burn the skin. Linger up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest St. Jacobs Oil at any drug store, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pain, soreness and stiffness. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. St. Jacobs Oil is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains—Adv.

INDIAN WARFARE AT THE GLENDALE

There is an exciting battle with Indians in Vitagraph's special production, "Flower of the North," which will be shown at the Glendale Theatre today. The picture was made by David Smith in the northern part of Oregon. The combat is not at all like the old Indian fights shown in the earlier motion pictures. Instead of showing the pesky redskins biting the dust in the conventional manner of old, the fight is staged in a most logical manner. They are Twentieth century Indians who, as a usual thing, are orderly and law abiding, but who in this case have been goaded into anger and silliness by the greed of a band of white men.

KENSINGTON CLUB CELEBRATES BIRTH

An all day meeting of the Kensington club was held Wednesday at the G. A. R. hall, South Glendale avenue. The meeting was in honor of the eighth birthday of the club, the dining table being centered with a large birthday cake.

At a short business session the incumbent officers were re-elected. They are Mrs. Julia Hayes, president; Mrs. Gertrude Tisdale, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Emma Kortz, press correspondent.

After the dinner had been served to 33 members, the afternoon was spent in tying comforters and a special hour was enjoyed.

HARDWOOD GIVES FINISHING TOUCH

"Hardwood floors are among the most valuable features that can be placed in any home, and there is hardly a home owner in the country that is not aware of this fact," said the manager of the Glendale Hardwood Flooring company, 304 East Broadway. "They add greatly to the comfort of the inhabitants of the home, save rugs and add materially to the re-selling quality of the structure."

This company claims that the number of hardwood floors going in in Glendale is growing every day, and those who have floors of this kind that have been in use for years are having them refinished. This firm puts on oak, maple and birch floors of all kinds.

TUJUNGA HAS QUITE A WIND

TUJUNGA, March 8.—In spite of the wind storm of unusual velocity on Wednesday, comparatively little damage was done in and about Tujunga. Several small houses and sheds were blown from their foundations, and a good many signs changed their locations, but no permanent damage was apparent. Old residents here are glad to see the winds come so early in the year, as when this happens the spring and summer months are usually free from storms.

The chamber of commerce will present on March 16 and 17 an "Evening With the Irish." Clever numbers have been secured, and it is planned to make the whole program one of fun.

The Tujunga Women's club is growing so rapidly that new quarters are found to be necessary. Several good sites for a building are under consideration, and it is expected that a new home will soon be built.

Missionary Society Meets.—The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of Central Avenue Methodist church will meet on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. George Martin, Casitas avenue, Atwater Park. Miss Amalia Achard, editor of "German Woman's Friend" will be the speaker. All ladies interested in missionary work are invited to be present.

FRIENDSHIP'S SONG

This little day is not for long,
Now comes the sorrow, now the song,
And sometimes right and sometimes wrong
It goes;

We say, declare and thus-and-so,
We make much speech of what we know,
But whence we come and where we go
Who knows?

Like some unquiet stream we keep
Our current toward the boundless deep—
Twixt banks now low, now rough, now steep
It flows,

But for how long the time may be,
Or of the when we reach the sea,
Or if the first for you or me,
Who knows?

Tomorrow—yes, it lies somewhere,
And may be stormy, may be fair,
The sun may gild it or the air
With snows

Be chill and cold, or there may fall
Oblivion's dark and sunless pall,
Or if Tomorrow comes at all
Who knows?

Oh, near and dear old friend of mine,
Come, let me link my arm with thine,
And let our eyes with gladness shine—
This rose

Of friendship wear for me, for then
We part and go our ways and when
The two of us shall meet again
Who knows?
