Run Wikipedia workshops so that more people know how to edit.

16. What are your overall comments and suggestions regarding EduWiki 2012?
Some answers included:

The event full of useful presentations showing the breath of the Education Programme and explaining the context.

Informative, especially for a newcomer into the Wikimedia movement. Immensely helpful to get to know the community of volunteers, and to bring so many likeminded people together.

Really enjoyable event, but would benefit from being more interactive and engaging.

The event would benefit from more focus (e.g. around a specific audience) and from having more practical tips on how to involve with Wikipedia in an University setting. It would also be good for newcomers to have more background information before attending.

Very worthwhile conference, with lots of useful resources that can be used in the future.
